

*"One who never turned his back,
But marched breast forward,
Never doubted clouds would break..."*

Adding sparkle and verve to the "Story of Mankind" are the chapters that tell of the men who were born to lead. The tale might be of a general marshaling his forces with successful strategy on the battle front, of a great maestro welding an orchestra into one unit for the perfect harmony of a beautiful symphony, or of a civic leader who possesses the energy, the optimism and the intelligence to dream of community progress and to make those dreams come true.

Prepared to add another chapter to Sanford's history, KARL LEHMANN brings with him the subtle alchemy of harmony, confidence, and achievement, so necessary for the complete co-operation of any unit of multiple parts. He creates an atmosphere of substantial optimism, not the vacuous false gaiety of one who fiddles while Rome burns, but the sane intelligent cheerfulness which is based on the indestructible knowledge that Florida has a golden guerdon for those who believe in it and work together.

The genial humanizing elements of KARL LEHMANN'S personality, alone, prevent his comparison to the tremendous force and dependability of the locomotive, the great power and capacity of the steamship, the distance-annihilating speed of the aeroplane. In its new Secretary the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce has a rare combination of those qualities which are the Alpha and Omega of leadership.

Sanford is glad to have this man among its citizenship. We take this opportunity to welcome him and to pledge to him our unfailing loyalty and support. We are prepared to back him to the limit in his work for Seminole County.

NOT MEAT AND DRINK—For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.—Rom. 14:17.

PRAYER—May we not be consoled, our heavenly Father, in seeking life's best gifts.

MERELY HEARSAY

Some people do not go to bed at night, but stay awake instead. They feel the darkest hours to be the choicest in eternity. They think quite wonderful and deep thoughts when the world has gone to sleep.

At one or quarter past they can highly approve their fellow-man. They grow articulate and do say very witty things at two. At three their powers are at such height they sing together, and recite. This sometimes lasts till after four.

At five, when dawn is at the door, a number of them still are able to play tag around a table. At six, when daylight's really there, they wash their faces, brush their hair, and, with reluctance, go to bed. Or so I've heard, and so I've read.—Miriam Vaddor.

It isn't the spinach that children object to so much, it's having to eat it.

Now that Jack Sharkey has defeated Primo Carners, that makes him next to the worst heavyweight fighter in the world.

A vagrant is a person without visible means of support. There ought to be a law prohibiting vagrants from running for office.

Indications are that football crowds this fall are bigger than ever before. Reckon the fans hadn't heard about the depression.

Overheard on the street the other day: "We don't see how The Herald manages to keep going. We sometimes wonder ourselves."

A huge body of water near Lake City, known as Alligator Lake, suddenly disappeared, leaving only a few small pools here and there, proving, we suppose that Florida is going dry.

Marshal Petain upon the eve of his departure for America says he laments the flood of propaganda against the French which has been circulated in this country. And is it the French, or the Swedes, who so often refer to this country as Uncle Shylock?

A Texas man who married five different women within twelve months is arrested for swindling them out of their jewelry. Any man who marries five women in twelve months deserves their jewelry. He ought to be pensioned, not arrested.

Tampa's regular semi-annual drive against slot machines is getting under way with the usual belligerence of the sheriff's office that the gamblers have got to get out of Hillsborough county for good. These slot machine drives in Tampa are getting to be just as regular as the Spring and Fall clearance sales.

The Hollywood Herald came to us the other day in sixteen pages full of magnificent looking ads and lots of live reading matter. The Hollywood paper is published by Hesse Combs, one time editor of The Sanford Herald, which, together with many Sanford people will recall, was with admirably long arms within him the best of luck.

They do things with a bang up in Indiana. There a couple of admirable looking ads had been placed in the paper the other day. Some of them were of the "I'm in trouble and need help" type, and after hearing of a bank one of the number of these "I'm in trouble" ads was placed in the paper. It was in the paper the other day.

Back To Nature

The old gray mare ain't what she used to be; and neither are a lot of other things. "Wild Bill" Belvin found that out when he listened to the call of the wild and decided to return to nature. Twelve months ago he discarded all the customs and conveniences of civilization, except a pair of spectacles and a set of false teeth, and as naked as the most confirmed Nudist could desire, directed his steps toward the depths of the woods.

Just how badly blistered his feet became before he had journeyed far, or what he used to keep the mosquitoes from using his tender hide for pin cushions are not recorded. It is said by one who knows that the red bugs, fleas, and sandflies, not to mention such other little annoyances as rattlesnakes, moccasins, alligators, and land crabs, can be very numerous in almost any Florida swamp or hammock.

"Wild Bill" survived all these. A couple of cold spells last winter, which found him without clothes or blankets, and with very little shelter, he also survived. His food consisted of fish, wild game, which he killed with spears made from shells and bones, as well as wild berries, honey, and practically anything else he found in the woods including, to his undoing, birds' eggs.

Now in the good old days when Cococoches tramped along the banks of the Withlacoochee, birds' eggs provided a very convenient and stimulating form of nourishment. But it seems as time went by, and eggs eating reached a more commercialized basis, laws were passed by the white man, which make it illegal to eat certain kinds of eggs, particularly pelican eggs, which Mr. Belvin, unfortunately, was most apt to run across.

So the other day, after he had been in the woods a year, long enough, it seems, to satisfy himself that Robinson Crusoe didn't have anything on him, he trudged back into Fort Myers, and descended with his crude gear skirt as his only raiment, upon Fort Myers' most exclusive tonorial artist, to obtain his first shave and haircut in twelve months, in preparation for a great dinner of official welcome which was to have been given him that night by his friends.

He was no sooner seated comfortably in the chair than a deputy sheriff arrived upon the scene and arrested him for violating the "no pelican egg law". So Mr. Belvin ate his first civilization meal within the safe confines of a Fort Myers jail, probably wishing he was back in the woods where men are men and pelican eggs are food.

The Lesson Of The Day

It is a gloomy moment in history. Not for many years—not in the lifetime of most men who read this paper—has there been so much grave and deep apprehension; never has the future seemed so incalculable as at this time. In our own country there is universal commercial prostration and panic, and thousands of our poorest fellow-citizens are turned out against the approaching winter without employment, and without the prospect of it.

In France the political caldron seethes and bubbles with uncertainty; Russia hangs, as usual, like a cloud, dark and silent upon the horizon of Europe; while all the energies, resources and influences of the British Empire are sorely tried, and are yet to be tried more solely in coping with the vast and deadly Indian insurrection, and with its disturbed relations in China.

It is a solemn moment, and no man can feel an indifference (which, happily, no man pretends to feel) in the issue of events.

Of our own troubles no man can see the end. They are, fortunately, as yet mainly commercial; and if we are only to lose money, and by painful poverty to be taught wisdom—the wisdom of honor, of faith, of sympathy and of charity—no man need seriously despair. And yet the very haste to be rich, which is the occasion of this widespread calamity, has also tended to destroy the moral forces with which we are to resist and subdue the calamity.

Good Friends—Let our conduct prove that the call comes to men who have large hearts, however narrowed their homes may be; who have open hands, however empty their purses. In time of peril we have nothing but manhood, strong in its faith in God, to rely upon; and whoever shows himself truly a God-fearing man now, by helping wherever and however he can, will be as blessed and beloved as a great light in the darkness.—Harper's Weekly, Vol. 1, Page 462, October 10, 1887.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Little Miss Elizabeth Whitner, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Whitner, entertained a number of her young friends recently at a "chick dinner" at her home on Oak Avenue, the occasion being her twelfth birthday anniversary.

Among many constructive plans of the Chamber of Commerce is the planning of a City Beautiful as well as a City Substantial and under the chairmanship of Deane Turner the "City Planning Committee" has inaugurated a very ambitious program and one that will be carried out. It is nothing more or less than the beautifying of the lake front, the prettiest spot in the city, and the spot that has been badly neglected in the past. The committee, in the report of the chairman at the board of governors meeting yesterday, gave out the information that they were to build a pavilion at the foot of Park Avenue and a boulevard on the lake front from Park Avenue to Palmetta Avenue joining these two avenues with a White Way beautified with palms, flowers and shrubbery.

October 12 being her 11th birthday anniversary, little Miss Elizabeth Knight invited a few of her friends to help her celebrate the occasion. Games of all kinds were played during the afternoon and saint refreshments of chocolate ice cream, cake, candy and cookies were served.

The stamp in the German market is beginning to affect the former German emperor who is endeavoring to combat unfavorable financial conditions by reducing his household and other national measures. Today 15 members of the staff were dismissed including the chief steward, whose place was taken by Wilhelm Koenig. Gardeners now have to be paid with 100 marks who previously have been paid with 100 francs.

Washing vegetables is usually postponed and eating a hot pepper is the result. Handle the produce especially to prevent frost and when possible wash them with cold water and refrigerate all vegetables that will be in transit over a day or two, as the article.

LIQUIDATING ASSETS

NEW YORK TRIBUNE

As the last week has seen the psychological effect of President Hoover's step about the banking situation, so the coming week may see the effect of the new National Credit Corporation's concrete actions in the form of relief actually extended or loans actually made. The place where the ultimate effect will appear, and for which the step is mainly intended, is at the outer periphery of the credit structure, namely, upon depositors in banks and business borrowers from banks all over the country, especially in smaller communities.

Already, without doubt, the beginning has taken place in the form of greater readiness of a small-town banker in Oklahoma or Idaho to make a loan to a farmer on his wheat of the sort which in normal times is extended by the local bank as a matter of course. The concrete transactions of the new credit corporation at the point where its functions come in direct contact with the public can be illustrated by a supposititious example. A bank in Iowa or Illinois, or any other state, has two varieties of assets, both sound. One variety consists of promissory notes "growing out of business, industrial or agricultural operations," and maturing in "not over ninety days." "Agricultural" also means "rural," and the local bank can take to the Federal Reserve system and get for them the currency familiar in every pocketbook as "Federal Reserve notes." This part of the bank's assets is, in short, absolutely liquid. It is "self-liquidating." It is "quick assets," instantly convertible into currency.

The bank, however, has another variety of assets, equally sound. It may consist of promissory notes secured, for example, by a mortgage on a farm, or by a gilt-edged stock bond, or by an equally gilt-edged stock of the strongest railroad in the country. These latter promissory notes the Federal Reserve system will not handle. The notes may be signed by the very same man as the first variety. They may be actually sounder. Nevertheless, the bank holding them cannot, under the statutes and rules of currency for them, from the Federal Reserve system. The Federal Reserve system, under the law, discriminates against this latter kind of security solely for the reason that it is less "liquid," which means that it may take more than ninety days to foreclose a mortgage and turn it into cash. It is this latter kind of "slow" notes and securities which are now causing difficulty to banks all over the country, because the bank cannot discount them with the Federal Reserve system, nor, under recent conditions, anywhere else. It is this class of notes and securities which, speaking broadly, the new credit corporation will take care of. So soon as the new corporation is functioning, every bank in the country will know that for every sound security it has it can get cash either through the Federal Reserve system or through the new credit corporation. Every borrower from such a bank will benefit by the bank's greater readiness to make new loans to business men or to extend old ones. Every depositor in a bank will be assured by the fact that every sound security in the bank is convertible into cash.

Thousands of banks, of course, will have no need of recourse to the new credit corporation. Possibly ninety-nine banks out of a hundred may not make use of it. However, soon the new credit corporation may begin to pass cash across its counters, the speed with which it has advanced so far is probably unparalleled in American business history. It was on Sunday, October 4, at about a quarter after 9 in the evening, that President Hoover laid before the New York bankers what he spoke of as a "definite program of action," in which their part was to initiate the formation of the billion-dollar corporation which, in less than a week, is a reality.

At that meeting at the home of Secretary Mellon in Washington, was the bankers' first acquaintance with what necessarily struck them as both novel and portentous, their speed in first endorsing the program and then executing it is remarkable. It will be worth observing, just as a sporting matter of noting a speed record, on what day and hour the new corporation functions in the making of a loan to a local bank somewhere in the country.

SANFORD FORUM

Oct. 10, 31

Sanford Forum, Sanford Herald, City, Dear Readers:

The writer begs space to list an indignant protest. Evidently Sanford is afflicted with "Stop Sign Fever," that is not only foolish but very provoking to drivers. In the course of a few minutes drive through our fair city one encounters no less than 60 to 40 stop signs, so that a driver is employed constantly changing gears. If he is extremely fortunate he gets into high before he rolls over the next stop sign.

What's the matter with the authorities here, anyway, do they think they have the traffic of a metropolitan city to contend with, that one must be continually stopping—stopping—stopping—

Why the average citizen of Sanford runs over at least 3 or 4 stop signs a day, he is obliged to it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to remember which streets have them and those that don't. What some of us would like to know is why can't they be abolished altogether, only those which are absolutely necessary, such as the ones at arterial highways, retained.

Then introduce into the Police Rules and Regulations a law allowing north and south through traffic, or as most of the big cities, give the man on the right of the one nearest the center of street intersection the right of way. We believe this would save truckups and smashups for as anyone well knows a Ham driver will stop at a stop sign, and then unloading all responsibility onto the stop sign, will unobtrusively roll out in front of a passing vehicle. Everyone has seen it done dozens of times. If stop signs were abolished and the driver on the right always allowed the preference, roads would be much safer.

In closing please let me stress the fact that stop signs on cross streets are very provoking and as there is no advantage in their existence we hope the local police will see fit to relegate them to the Municipal Trash Can.

Sincerely,
HAROLD F. DAVIS.

POISON IVY REMEDIES

AND PREVENTIVES ARE SIMPLE AND EFFECIVE

GAINESVILLE, Fla.—There are ways to cure as well as prevent the itchy rashes caused by poison ivy, sometimes called poison sumac, and poison oak, and related plants, says Dr. J. R. Finkle, plant pathologist with the Florida Experiment Station.

One of the best remedies known is described by Dr. J. F. Couch in the October Scientific Monthly. It is based upon the principle of oxidizing the poison in the system. The patient should be broken with a sterile needle and treated with a 2 percent solution of potassium permanganate.

A good preventive measure, explained by Dr. Couch, is to bathe the hands and arms in a 10 percent solution of glycerin or a 3 percent solution of copperas before going into the woods. If one has come in contact with ivy,

Literature Group In Discussion Of Books

The Book of the Month Club, Its Aim, Its Selection and Its Judges," with Dr. Virginia Spencer in charge, was the theme of the first meeting of the season of the Literature Department of the Woman's Club held on Wednesday afternoon in the club rooms on Oak Avenue, with Mrs. S. O. Shiholzer, Mrs. Stella P. Arrington and Mrs. H. J. Lehman as hostesses.

During the business session Mrs. C. W. Baker was elected chairman of the finance committee and Dr. Elizabeth Tracy was chosen as secretary to fill the place formerly occupied by Mrs. S. O. Shiholzer, who has been elected club parliamentarian.

As a feature of the afternoon's program, Dr. Spencer gave an outline of the far reaching aim of the Book of the Month Club and depicted the type of citizen represented by its judges both foreign and American, dwelling largely on the American judges, two of whom, William Allen White and Dorothy Canfield Fisher, were among her early schoolmates. She reviewed, "Shadows on the Rock," by Willa Cather, the book selected by the judges for September, "Living Philosophies," the book for August, was reviewed by Mrs. C. R. Mason, while Dr. Elizabeth Tracy gave an account of "The New Russian Primer" by M. Ilin.

The hostesses then exhibited for inspection all of the books selected by the club since Jan. 1, 1931. Before the close of the meeting it was noted with pleasure that a large number of the teachers of English in the schools of the city had accepted the invitation extended to them to attend the meeting.

Friends of the young vocalists who are singing in the Central Florida Competition in Orlando tonight for the honor of representing this section in the State Audition of the 1931 National Atwater Kent Radio Audition will have the opportunity to attend this interesting musical event of the early Fall.

The Committee has announced that they will be glad to have all come who can be present as there will be ample and comfortable seating accommodations in the main Auditorium of the Sunday School building of the First Presbyterian Church where the contest will be conducted. There will be no admission charge but a collection will be taken to help defray the expenses of sending the two winners, one young man and one young lady, to Miami where they will compete for State honors with winners of the other Florida District Auditions.

Contestants are reminded that applications to enter the local trials must be filed on a special enrollment blank not later than Thursday noon. These blanks and complete information may be secured at the office of the Recreation Department at the City Hall in Orlando.

Entries are already coming in and include several who have sung in former auditions among whom are some of our most promising young voices.

The Committee in charge of the local Audition consists of Mrs. Roberta Branch Beacham, Mrs. Francis Klaxay, Freymark, S. Kendrick Gurnsey, W. G. McBride and D. A. Cheney.

"None so good as LUCKIES"

"I've tried all cigarettes and there's none so good as LUCKIES. And incidentally I'm careful in my choice of cigarettes. I have to be because of my throat. Put me down as one who always reaches for a LUCKY. It's a real delight to find a Cellophane wrapper that opens without an ice pick."

Jean Harlow

Jean Harlow first set the screen ablaze in "Hell's Angels," the great air film, and she almost stole the show from a fleet of fifty planes. See her "Goldie," a Fox film and Columbia's "Platinum Blonde."

Made of the finest tobaccos—The Cream of many Crops—LUCKY STRIKE alone offers the throat protection of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays—the process that expels certain harsh, biting irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. These expelled irritants are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.
