HAROLD SUNDVALL

Herald Staff Writer

Alarmed by what they claimed would be obiectionable smoke, visual pollution and encroaching idustrial development, residents of the Silver Lake area in southeast Sanford converged upon the Sanford City Commission Monday night to protest the building of an aluminum smelting plant. The plant is to be built by Keller Industries Inc., near Cornwall Road west of the railroad tracks and north of the Cobia Boat Works.

Evening Herald

City commissioners said since the four-acre site was properly zoned and that site plans had already been approved, there was little for them to decide in the way of permitting or prohibiting the

And Keller officials pledged to build a plant that will comply with all federal, state and city environmental requirements and to be "an acceptable industrial neighbor." "If there ever is a violation of noise, odor or smoke regulations, we will not cook another dime's worth of aluminum, said Kenneth McIntosh, Keller Industries attorney. "I don't see what these citizens have a legitimate complaint for," said Ron Richards, a representative of Hunt Oil Co., Dallas, Tx., which owns the property Keller is buying.

If the Keller plant goes up, further development "will just snowball," complained Harold Sundvall. "I'm a family man, I want a nice life and I have a lot invested in my home," he said. "I hate to sound cynical, but I'm tired of being kicked and pushed around," Sundvall said.

Mayor Lee Moore explained at one point that the property in uestion had been zoned industrial for 15 years, even before the ilver Lake-Sanora area was developed.

The hearing was called after strong objections to the $750,000 hearing was not required by law.

Moore said he would delay any "decision" about the matter

Survey Paints New Modern Man

Whatever Happened To The 'Male Chauvinist Pig?'

NEW YORK (UPI) - Most American men prefer marriage to promiscuity, are bored by female nudity, and sexually passive women turn them off, not on.

That's hardly a portrait of the ruthless "male chauvinist pig," the demon of women's lib, but it's the one hat emerges in the most detailed sexuality survey since he Kinsey Report of 1948.

The new survey, compiled in a nationwide study of 4,066 men, is contained in "Beyond the Male Myth," to be published Dec. 3, and in it, authors Anthony Pietropinto and Jacqueline Simenauer pop the macho mystique like a

"Modern man has been depicted in a variety of ways, plistic," they write. "The TV situation comedies portray him as an emasculated, uninspired bungler, while the adventure shows cast him as a coldblooded, violent hunter of men and cynical predator of women.

"The feminists accuse him of being exploitative, egotistical and obsessed with indiscriminate sexual gratification. Writers of popular psychology books describe him as uncommunicative, insensitive and driven

In the survey, the man emerges as nothing of the sort, turning out to be at least as sympathetic and sensitive a human being as his female counterpart.

Pietropinto, a psychiatrist, and Simenauer, a science

The commission Monday postponed arguments from Dec. 6 to Jan. 24 on a rate increase for the Winter Park Telephone Co. Other new business pending on the commission before Jan. 1 is less important, the PSC said.

Mysterious Signal Sought

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - Space agency officials are still looking for the source of a mysterious radio signal that twice has led them to scrub the launch of a European weather satellite.

Kennedy Space Center Director Lee Scherer announced Monday the launch of Meteosat 1 aboard a Delta rocket, scheduled for later in the day, was postponed and that no new date had been set.

The launch was first scrubbed Sunday night because officials couldn't locate the signal that was noticed four days earlier on the same frequency as the rocket's command-destruct system — the system built into every rocket to destroy the vehicle if it veers off course or malfunctions after liftoff.

'Sunshine' For Judiciary?

* TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A committee of the Constitution Revision Commission has recommended that Florida's open government and public records laws be put into the constitution and extended to the judiciary.

The full commission, facing heated debate today on whether to include the Public Service Commission in the state's basic law and make it an appointed rather than elected body, won't debate the government-in-the-sunshine issues until December.

Co-Defendant On Bond

MIAMI (UPI) - A 14-year-old youth charged in the same slaying for which teenager Ronny Zamora was convicted last month is free on bond today, a grand jury's first-degree murder indictment against him dismissed by Circuit Judge Paul Baker.

After finding "invidious discrimination in the make up of the Dade grand jury" which returned the indictment against Darrell Agrella, Baker set bond for the youth at $2,500 and released him into the custody of his sister.

Meetings Can Be Taped

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Attorney General Robert Shevin says local governments cannot keep citizens from tape recording proceedings at public meetings. Shevin, in an advisory opinion for Dennis Hedge, attorney for the Lee County Commission, said Monday the Fort Myers Beach Fire Control District cannot ban the taping of its monthly meetings.

Calf, Heifer Are Stolen In Longwood

By SCOTT ABRAHAMS Herald Staff Writer

Calvin Collins, 38, 139 Tarrytown Rd, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies the theft of three black angus cattle from a pasture on the east side of Lake Harney Road. Collins reported the cattle were last seen Sunday evening and were valued at $1,330. Missing from the pasture were a cow, a two-day-old calf and a yearling heifer, according to reports. Some $1,500 worth of track topping was reported missing by Dan Flynn at the Motocross track on Charlotte Street in ongwood, according to police

Included in the haul were a 35-foot flagpole and several roof supports. The theft was reported over the weekend, although Flynn told deputies the missing material could have been taken as early as

MOTOR STOLEN Barbara Stanley reported the heft of an $800 outboard motor from the boat of John Bill, 112 Robin Rd., Altamonte Springs, at a stall at the Wekiya Marina, Longwood.

The theft was reported to sheriff's deputes on Nov. 19, although the incident reportedly took place during the evening hours of Nov. 11-12. In what deputies said may be a related case, various power tools valued at $510 were reported stolen from a storage shed at the marina sometime between Oct. 20-30.

The owner of the tools was listed as Cliff Freeman, of SHED ROBBERY Police said equipment ex-ceeding $2,000 in value was reported stolen from a tool shed on the north side of the Baird-Ray Datsun dealership on State Road 436. The theft took place during the night time hours of Nov. 19-20, reports said. tools, a paint spray gun and an

Envoy: Peace Beginning

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) - Simcha Dinitz, Israeli ambassador o the United States, says Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's historic visit to Israel is the beginning of peace in the Middle East.

Dinitz, speaking Monday night to 4,000 delegates to Reform

"The Egyptian president did not leave Israel a frustrated man. There will be continuity. It is not a one-time event. It is a breakthrough followed by dialogue and we will not stop the dialogue until we bring peace. This is the beginning of peace in the Middle East.

Jobs For All Still Intact

The goal of full employment remains intact in the reshaped version of the Humphrey-Hawkins bill, which still has not been revealed officially to

But that may be all that remains of the measure that stirred controversy before and during last year's presidential campaign. Federal guarantee of a job, even if it meant that the government itself must be the employer, has been wiped out in a compromise designed to win the endorsement of President Carter. Even the definition of "full employment" remains vague in the legislation being rewritten in acknowledgment of the bill's potential impact on inflation.

It is just as well that the advocates of a government-managed job market have been compelled to settle for symbolism.

The president made the point clear. "You always have that inherent conflict." he said, in considering the incompatible goals of higher employment and reduced inflation. Reducing the jobless rate, he emphasized, is going to be "a tedious, slow process."

Carter can produce support for his firm stand against pouring more funds than already authorized into job-incentive programs.

Sweden, long the envy of global economic advisers, has seen its managed economy shattered in a collision with the stonewall of reality. Employment artificially induced through government subsidies, combined with the country's massive program of social services, has forced taxes into a spiral. Wages and prices have followed. The productivity that stimulated economic growth has been eroded in a wave of frustration and apathy. Growth has halted in Sweden - inflation has not.

There is no reason to believe that the president fails to share the idealism that inspired the original Humphrey-Hawkins bill. His idealism, however, is tempered with realism.

that plans for economic management and targets for job expansion be made public, a mandate generally acceded to voluntarily.

The President, Congress and the American people will be, in effect, partners in the search for economic health. They may not produce miracles, but neither should they induce shock.

And Amtrak officials, like Postal Service officials, are using the lever in an effort to pry more money from Congress. Sure, it's the taxpayers' money.

But the taxpayers, through their representatives, can determine the level of subsidy to the semi-independent agencies simply by establishing the scope of services they demand.

Sadat's unheralded absence from his King David As gleaned from bits and pieces received from Evening Herald sources in Israel, here's President Sadat's trip, it turns out, had just as much to do with culinary matters as with diplomatic maneuverings. For years, he had confided to associates that - as most other Egyptians and Arabs - he had craved just one delicacy to supplement their daily servings of kibbi (cracked wheat with meat): a kosher hot corned beef sandwich on rye bread with Russian But where to get it? His first thought through the years, of course, was the obvious place: the United States. So, from time to time, he had toyed with the idea of flying into New York City to satisfy his craving. But he recognized he would have a difficult time justifying such a trip. Then, one day recently, the idea hit him. Why not Israel? And why not combine it with a peace mission of some kind? So it was off to Israel. But there was a catch. The timing presented a problem. After be had decided on his mission, he made initial contacts with Israeli officials only to learn that the corned beef stock was rated low That was the bad news. But the good news was that a fresh shipment was due in momen-

That's when Sadat pushed up his trip. But that's also when the turmoil and discontent started among his Arab neighbors.

They had been harboring similar culinary thoughts themselves, it was learned at the recent Arab ministers meeting - talking more and more about sampling that food they had heard so much about - kosher corned beef. And, while they were at it, other tempting delicacies, too.

The Arab ministers spent most of the time at their meeting preparing a shopping list for Sadat to carry to Israel. Included was not only corned beef, but gefilte fish, kreplach, matzoh balls,

The ministers were still working on and olishing their list when Sadat crossed them up advancing his trip by a week. So, instead of holding a corned beef on rye, the ministers were eft holding an empty bag. Result: Sadat left the Arab world without the list and with growing enmity of his neighbors. That's when the name-calling started and continued from the time he left Cairo to the time Sadat, however, was satisfied. He snuck out of his hotel suite and got his corned beef on rye but, for political reasons, without the Russian dressing. And he loved it.

Meanwhile, his Arab cohorts, their dreams for new culinary delights smashed, continued to stuff themselves with kibbi.

Seven Central Florida counties, including Seminole, have joined in a united effort to obtain $250,000 initially from the state for research into the control of the blind mosquito, plaguing citizens and businessmen throughout the area. At a meeting held Tuesday at the Squires Hope Restaurant in Mt. Dora, representatives of the counties surrounding Seminole agreed with the Task Force of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce that the eventual control of the midge is dependent on research program. The research program to be headed by Dr. Donald Hall. assistant medical entomologist at the University of Florida (UofF) is to be conducted by the university at its Sanford Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, Agricultural Research and Education Center. State Rep. Vince Fechtel (R-Leesburg), chairman of the Seminole County Legislative delegation, pledged all possible support in having the necessary funding included in next year's

He said that inclusion of the item within the University's budget would be the best method of gaining approval, adding that once the university's budget is submitted the representatives appeal to Gov. Reubin Askew to retain the item in his budget recom-

Dr. Fowden Maxwell, chairman of the Uoff Department of Entomology and Nematology, said the university budget is currently under preparation and the budget for the Sanford research program is also being prepared. Dr. Maxwell at Fechtel's request said the university extension system would gather together estimates of cost to the counties involved in attempting to control the insects and costs and losses in business to the business community because of the blind

Dr. John Darby, head of the Sanford center, said the cost of the research program would total about $250,000 the first year and $125,000 each succeeding year.

The group agreed state funding for the entire project should be sought since the problem with the insect is so widespread, rather than seeking any part of the funding at the local level. "A point emphasized in the proposal is that it would not be said Dr. Darby. "The goal would be to manage the pest in such way that the population of the blind mosquito would be reduced to an acceptable non-nuisance level.

"The reasons for this goal are twofold: one is that it would be virtually impossible to eradicate the blind mosquito, and the other is that the larval stages of the blind mosquito are an essential food for maintaining healthy fish populations," Darby said.

Dr. Hall said that research in the past indicates that an increase in the blind mosquito population is related to the amount of nutrients or pollution in bodies of water. The nutrients encourage the growth of algae and midge larvae

> "...it would not be possible practical or desirable to feed on the algae, he said.

Dr. Hall said that research done in the past shows modifying conditions under which the midge survives can make the insect easier to control. He said a hedge barrier could be planted on Lake Monroe water's edge to be used as traps for the midges and the hedges sprayed with a residual (long-lasting) chemical. He said other methods of control might be to identify and in troduce natural enemies of the midge to the area.

Dr. Maxwell noted that the blind mosquito is not only a nuisance, but also has become an economic problem. Crescent City resort owner Bill Hollis said customers are refusing to stay at his motel because they can neither enter nor leave their rooms without being swarmed by the insect. He noted that at times dead mosquitos lying along his motel hallways are as much as five inches deep. Dr. Darby reported that the Holiday Inn on Lake Monroe is spending $50,000 annually attempting to control the pests. He said that the blind mosquito cannot be satisfactorily and economically controlled by larvacides or insecticides because of the delicate chemical balance that would have to be maintained to prevent fish kills and adversely affect the environment. John Krider, head of the chamber task force, said that State Rep. Robert Hattaway (D-Altamonte Springs) has also pledged

The Seminole County Legislative delegation is gearing up to battle the proposed closing of the juvenile detention center at Five Points and newly elected chairman of the group, Rep. The delegation will also be enlisting the support of Seminole's circuit judges in channelling information pinpointing the need to retain the local facilities, it was decided.

Fechtel said the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) had been asked, but declined, to send a representative to Tuesday's meeting to hear from local law enorcement units on the need to retain the local detention center.
