U.S. Jobless Rate Holds; State Rate Rises To 9.9%

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The U.S. unemployment rate held steady at 10.8 percent in December, remaining at its highest since the Great Depression, with sagging Christmas employment wiping out improvement for factory workers, the Labor Department said today.

In addition to the 12 million Americans looking for work, the department said the number of people who need jobs but are too discouraged to keep looking totaled 1.8 million, the highest number of discouraged jobless in 18 months.

Seminole County's unemployment rate climbed to 6.7 percent in November but the county's jobless rate remained lower than the state average.

Florida's jobless rate rose last month to 9.9 percent.

Seminole's jobless rate has remained relatively steady, climbing only 1.1 percent since July despite the poor economic times that have gripped the nation.

An analyst for the state employment service said the county's electronics and construction industry have kept unemployment low.

The unemployment rates for teenagers and adult women reached new highs, the department said, and the amount of time spent off the job for the typical unemployed person lengthened to a post-World War II high.

The department made a number of revisions in its procedures in December, revising November's unemployment rate downward slightly to 10.7 percent from 10.8 percent. If the old procedures had been used in December the rate would have climbed to 11 percent, the department said.

The department said the Christmas season increase in retail sales employment "was less than expected for this time of year." After seasonal adjustment the number of jobs in retail sales dropped by 65,000, a huge setback for this segment of the economy.

It offset a marked improvement in the unemployment picture for manufacturing employees. While 50,000 factory jobs were eliminated during the month, it was a substantial improvement over the 140,000 jobs lost in factories in November. Job losses in the steel industry were largely offset by increased employment in the auto industry, the department said.

The moderation in factory unemployment also was a sign that factory production figures to be published later this month will not show the severe deterioration typical of earlier months of the recession, government analysts said.

The unemployment rate for teenagers climbed to 24.5 percent, a four-decade high in December, as did the rate for adult women, at 9.1 percent. The rates for other major categories of workers remained at their post-Depression high set in November, with adult men at 10.1 percent; white workers, 9.7 percent; black workers, 20.8 percent and Hispanics, 15.3 percent.

The rate of unemployment for farm workers soared in December, climbing nearly a full percentage point to 16.5 percent from November's 15.6 percent to reflect 305,000 farm employees looking for jobs. In May the rate for farm workers reached its 1982 high at 18.1 percent.

The rate of unemployment among construction workers climbed to 22 percent from November's revised 21.8 percent but was still slightly under the year's peak set in October. The department said 1,159,000 construction workers were unemployed during the month.

Factory workers had an unemployment rate of 14.8 percent, the same as in November, showing 3,340,000 factory workers were jobless.

Total employment during the month was unchanged at 99.1 million after seasonal adjustment. Since the beginning of the recession late in the summer of 1981 total employment has dropped by 1.7 million, the department said, with adult men and teenagers those that were less employed.

The number of unemployed persons seeking work for 27 weeks or longer continued to increase and in December accounted for more than one-fifth of the jobless total. The average length of time spent unemployed lengthened to 18 weeks, the department said, the longest period since World War II.

Florida's unemployment rate rose slightly last month to 9.9 percent and a new five-year high.

The Department of Labor reported today an increase in the jobless figure for the third straight month, following declines throughout most of 1982.

The rate for December was 9.9 percent, up from November's 9.5 percent and the highest since the 9.6 percent recorded in June 1977.

Florida's rate remains below the national rate, which was 10.8 percent for December, but while the national rate leveled off last month, staying where it was the previous month, the state figures continued to climb.

In December, 486,000 Floridians were jobless out of a total work force of 4,892,000.

Pay Plan

Lake Mary Employees Not Paid For Work

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary's most dedicated city employees are putting in the longest hours and are not getting paid for overtime nor getting full compensatory time, a consultant has told the City Commission.

Carolyn Long of Long & Associates, consultants from Ft. Lauderdale, which recently completed a job classification and pay plan for the city, Thursday night urged the commission review its policies. She noted the city is currently indebted to police department personnel some $9,000 by its policy of "enforced overtime" on holidays for police officers.

Mrs. Long said current policy provides that the officers collect the value of the holiday time when they retire or leave the city's employ. "You are building up a tremendous bank of holiday time," she said, adding that the value of the time builds up as the officer gets paid at a higher rate once he leaves city employ.

Of other city employees' overtime, Mrs. Long said the current policy allows employees to carry over only 80 hours, while losing the rest at year-end. She said one city employee lost 79 hours at the end of the last fiscal year. Employees have already clocked 232 hours of compensatory time since Oct. 1, the first day of the new fiscal year.

She suggested a new policy be considered whereby the city would "buy down" all compensatory time over 40 hours each year from each employee so the most dedicated ones would not be penalized.

Commissioner Ray Fox pleaded ignorance of the department policy on holiday work. He said the purported police department policy is "borderline idiocy."

"When you've got a policy that can cost that kind of dough, it should be locked in concrete," Fox said.

Mrs. Long said some police department employees routinely put in 56 hours weekly and are compensated at straight time.

Fox said if the employees were punching a time clock and recording that much overtime, he could understand. At the same time, he said he would dislike the regimentation of a time clock, adding that is the only accurate way to record employee time.

Carolyn Long of Long & Associates uses charts to explain to Lake Mary City Commissioners the job classification and pay plan for city employees completed by her Ft. Lauderdale firm.

Commissioner Russ Megonegal asked Mrs. Long to supply the raw data she said she gathered from other cities and used as a basis for the salary ranges in the plan. He noted the salary ranges were based on the report's assumptions that advice on organization of the city staff would be taken.

The Long report urged that Carol Spotts, who currently serves as city hall secretary, assistant bookkeeper and deputy city clerk, be named administrative assistant to the city manager and that the city clerk and city treasurer be accountable on a daily basis to the city manager. The city charter calls for the clerk and treasurer to work under the direction of the city commission and the mayor. Since the proposed organization is not in effect in the city, Megonegal said the data collected from other cities and used to compile the report therefore might be inaccurate. "Without the raw data, I feel hampered in making a decision," Megonegal said.

Mrs. Long said she would send her "worksheets" to the city. She said she will return to the city on Jan. 20 or 21 for further discussions on the plan.

Long & Associates is also to set up a job performance review and analysis system for the city. The total fee for both studies is $2,140.

County May Split Costs Of Road Work

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

A plan to split the cost of paving high maintenance dirt roads has been recommended to Seminole County commissioners by Public Works Director Jack Schuder.

Schuder submitted the proposal to split the costs between the county and the homeowners for paving of dirt roads which are currently costly to maintain.

Some county roads must be graded after every heavy rain, Schuder said. The cost of paving those roads would be cheaper than maintenance costs over a period of years.

The county already has a program which allows residents to pay for paving of their roads. But the program has been used only twice since 1978 because of the high costs involved, Schuder said.

Schuder recommended some form of splitting the costs, with the county paying a third to a half of the costs and the residents paying the remainder.

Under his proposal, commissioners could establish special taxing districts, levying an additional tax upon residents of the roads to be paved. The county would pay the rest.

But there are other alternatives. Schuder said the county could levy the labor and materials costs on the residents while paying administrative and engineering costs or assess homeowners on a percentage basis.

But the key to the program is the county's desire to reduce the high maintenance cost of repairing roads which wash out every time it rains.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said several dirt roads in her district are costly to maintain because they must be graded frequently.

She said paving those roads would pay for itself over 10 years if the county pays one-third of the paving costs and the residents pick up the other two-thirds.

"It could be a way of beginning to correct problems in Rolling Hills and other areas," she said. Rolling Hills is one area of the county that has severe drainage problems. Those drainage problems also have caused the roads to deteriorate.

The special taxing districts, if approved, would have a board of directors which would set up long-range goals, construction projects and the tax rate for the district.

But there are questions about the legality of the plan. And County Engineer William Bush Jr. said the county must be aware of double taxation complaints from city residents "unless you can show that paving substantially reduces maintenance costs."

Another question that looms is how to implement the ordinance. Commissioners could choose to set up the districts on their own or could require residents to submit petitions for the taxing district.

Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather said he's "not in favor of creating taxing districts without petitions. They should ask to be taxed."

Commissioners have given approval to examine the proposal further. Schuder will develop the program and present it to commissioners for future consideration.

Carbon Monoxide Kills Woman

Sanford police reported today a 28-year-old Seminole County Sheriff's Department employee was found dead in a car parked in a Sanford restaurant parking lot.

Vicki Petticrew, died as a result of carbon monoxide poisoning, an autopsy performed late this morning determined.

Herb Shea, assistant to police Chief Ben Butler, said the SPD was investigating the case, but that Ms. Petticrew's death had been ruled an accident.

Ms. Petticrew was a dispatcher in the sheriff's department, having worked there since May 11, 1981.

Police reported Ms. Petticrew lived at 583 Blue Springs Court in Orange City.

Police said she had borrowed a car from a friend while repairs were being made on her car. Police believe she turned on the friend's car to keep warm, fell asleep and was overcome by carbon monoxide.

Authorities said she last worked Wednesday. County Medical Examiner Dr. G.V. Garay also ruled the death an accident and said an autopsy this morning revealed the woman died of combined alcohol-carbon monoxide poisoning. Dr. Garay indicated the car in which she sat may have had a faulty exhaust system and when she apparently put on the heater, the carbon monoxide fumes entered the inside of the car. He said the carbon monoxide combined with the alcohol content in the woman's blood poisoned her.

Police said Ms. Petticrew was divorced and the mother of two children.

INCREDIBLE

Chips, a 2-year-old miniature pony, takes to the water this easier than many humans. The pony, owned by Forge Valley Fun Park of Horse Shoe, N.C., was trained by Chuck Best, 112 A Elder Road in Sanford. Best, who became nationally known for training the squirrel Twiggy to water ski, was retained to train several ponies to ski. The ponies will be returned to the fun park to perform in shows. The ponies are expected to be nationally televised on the TV show, "That's Incredible."

Skip Meal

County Jail Prisoners Go Sour On Sauerkraut

About 30 Seminole County jail prisoners who apparently were sour about sauerkraut did not eat Thursday night's meal.

Jail Administrator Steve Saunders said today the inmates complained about the food prepared for dinner Thursday and asked for something else.

Saunders told the inmates no alternative would be offered to the meal of hot dogs, sauerkraut, salad and gelatin.

He said prisoners often refuse to eat.

"This is not unusual," Saunders said. "They are not required to eat. We are required to offer them food."

The jail's menus are approved by a dietitian, he said.

"I was at the jail Thursday evening and I ate the meal. I liked it. It's one of my favorites."

This morning, only three of the jail's 250 inmates refused breakfast, he said.

Amtrak May Revive Auto-Train

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

A proposed car-train service between Sanford and Lorton, Va., similar to a service operated for 10 years by Auto-Train is being considered by Amtrak.

The plan is still in its early stages, according to Joan Corbett of Amtrak's New York communications office.

The plan will be proposed by Amtrak management to the board of directors.

If the proposal does not come up at the Jan. 19 board meeting, it probably will come up in the near future, she said.

The most likely area for the car-train service, which would transport passengers and their autos, is between Washington, D.C., and Florida, Ms. Corbett said.

If approved it would not go into service before September, she said.

Amtrak, a government-subsidized passenger rail service, received a $735 million federal subsidy during the year ending Sept. 30, 1982, and suffered a $555 million loss in the same period.

Auto-Train, which began carrying passengers and their cars on the 1,300-mile Sanford-Lorton run on Dec. 1, 1971, made its last run on April 30, 1981, after going bankrupt.

Auto-Train, which was a private firm, had approximately 400 employees, about two-thirds of whom were headquartered in Sanford.

The company filed for bankruptcy in September 1980.

The Auto-Train Corporation's assets were auctioned off in December 1981. Auto-Train was $24 million in debt when it filed under federal bankruptcy laws. Contributing to its downfall were undercapitalization, a decline in ridership, a series of derailments, and a subsidiary which lost money.

NATION IN BRIEF

Dow Hits New High In Buying Stampede

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones and other stockmarket averages surged to all-time highs Thursday in a Wall Street rally many analysts say may reflect an upturn in the economy.

Many observers, noting the broad-based moves in recent sessions, believe the list will shoot to new heights today if institutions continue to jump on the bandwagon of the bull market of the 1980s.

The Dow Jones industrial average surged 26.03 points to an all-time high of 1,970.92 Thursday after slipping 1.19 the day before.

Through Thursday, the Dow had climbed 294 points since hitting a 27-month low of 776.92 on Aug. 12 last year. Many experts believe the average will climb above 1,100 in the near future.

Gas Tank Blast Kills 1

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — An explosion ripped through three gasoline storage tanks at a Texaco plant early today, killing one person, injuring 21 others and shooting bright orange flames hundreds of feet high. The blast blew out windows 4 miles away.

More than 100 Newark firefighters were at the scene and Fire Chief Stanley Kossup said the explosion may have been caused by overfilled tanks, which each hold a maximum of 450,000 barrels.

"The tanks have floating roofs and if overfilled, vapors could stream out and become ignited," Kossup said.

Soviets: Satellite Fine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The last days of a crippled nuclear-powered Soviet spy satellite, at the mercy of inflexible natural laws of space and gravity, ticked away today to a seemingly inevitable crash to Earth.

American officials, and others throughout the world, were not reassured by Moscow's statements that all is well aboard the Cosmos 1402 satellite carrying a nuclear reactor powered by more than 100 pounds of Uranium 235.

No Cyanide In Anacin-3

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A bottle of Anacin-3 in the home of a woman who died of cyanide poisoning contained cyanide gas but the capsules were not tainted with the poison and there is not enough evidence to issue a recall, officials say.

State Medical Examiner Dr. William Brady said no evidence indicates the death of Patricia F. Bennett, 31, of the Portland suburb of Hillsboro was anything more than an "isolated tragedy," unlike recent deaths from cyanide-laced Tylenol in Chicago.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Snow and freezing rain carved a path from Oregon to northern New England as up to 10 inches of snow coated the northern Great Lakes. Winds up to 100 mph howled out of the Colorado Rockies and a 375-foot mudslide crept across U.S. 101 on Oregon's northern coast. By late evening, heavy snow covered most of the area around Lake Superior. At least 10 inches of snow fell in extreme northwestern Wisconsin. Six inches of snow covered Park Falls and Wausau, Wis., as well as Duluth, Minn. Winds up to 99 mph blasted the Rockies near Fort Collins, Colo. Winds reached 99 mph at Buckhorn Mountain, and gusts to 94 mph were recorded at Waverly before the winds knocked down measuring equipment. Winds of 75 mph were reported at noon around Brookings, S.D. Louisiana Agriculture Commissioner Bob Odom said floods which drove nearly 10,000 people from their homes have destroyed $11.5 million of winter wheat in the state and caused the deaths of 1,200 farm animals valued at $500,000. Up to 85,000 acres of wheat and 570,000 acres of pastureland are under water. A huge mudslide, loosed by rains that have pelted the Pacific Northwest all week, slid down a hill near Tillamook, Ore., closing U.S. 101 and forcing the residents of at least two homes to leave the area.

Anybody Lose A Lot Of Cash?

Sanford police have appealed for the owner of an envelope of what police describe as a "large amount" of cash to come forward and claim the money.

The envelope was found by police at Zayres Shopping Plaza, U.S. Highway 17-92, in Sanford on Tuesday at about noon. Police will not say how much cash is in the envelope, but they hint in the area of several hundred dollars.

There is a clue inside the envelope which will prove the identity of the true owner, according to Sgt. Bill Bernosky.

POT ARREST

Willie James Burnett, 29, of Orlando, was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana after he was seen sitting with a friend in a car smoking.

A police officer approached the car parked outside a 7-11 Convenience store at 401 State Road 436 on Thursday when he saw that the license bracket was damaged. As he approached, the two men sitting in the car "became nervous" and attempted to hide the cigarette that they appeared to be sharing, the officer's report said.

The inside of the car had a "strong odor of cannabis burning," the arrest report said, and when Burnett was searched, a small envelope of pot was found.

GAS ATTENDANT PUNCHED

A motorist became angry when given $2 change in quarters and punched the gas station attendant, Mansour Vahdatpour, at the Tenneco station at 1900 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park.

The incident occurred at about 2 p.m. Thursday after a motorist paid for his gas with a $20 bill. A police report says that Vahdatpour was short of $1 bills and handed the man $2 in quarters. The man told Vahdatpour to come out of the cash booth and when he did the man grabbed him by the front of the shirt, breaking a gold chain, spat in his face and then punched him on the side of the head, the report said.

The man then fled.

GAME ROOM RAIDED

Bandits forced open the front door of the Road Runner Arcade on State Road 419 and 4th Street, Chuluota, and rifled the coin boxes in seven video game machines, netting $340. Owner Randy Tyler of Chuluota, said the break-in occurred between 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and 6:45 a.m. Wednesday.

DRIVER STUCK IN FLOWERBED

A driver stuck in a flowerbed was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Kyle Dana Keogh, 19, of 123 Lake Mary Avenue, Lake Mary, was seen by a woman trying to get his car out of a flowerbed near 1904 Winnebago Trail, Fern Park at about 12:15 a.m. Thursday.

PURSE SNATCHED

A 74-year-old woman had her handbag snatched by a youth as she was leaving her apartment.

Cornelia Evelyn Kimmel, had just left her apartment at Redding Gardens at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday when a youth ran toward her saying "Hi" and then snatched her purse containing $35, a check book, Social Security card and a bottle of nitroglycerine pills.

FIRE AT JAIL

Sanford firefighters rushed to the Seminole County Jail at 9 p.m. on Thursday to answer a fire call. But when firemen arrived, they discovered that there had been an electrical fault in a panel box.

"There was really no fire. It was out on arrival," a fire department spokesman said.

DUI ARREST

The following person was arrested in Seminole County for driving under the influence (DUI) of alcoholic beverages:
 — Gerald Lee Roy, 36, of 174 Bristol Point, Longwood, was arrested for DUI and reckless driving at 1:37 a.m. Friday in the parking lot of the Altamonte Springs Inn on Douglas Road.

Some Winter Heating Bills Up 25 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Skyrocketing home heating bills will be even higher this winter than the government previously believed — a whopping 25 percent more than last year for people who use natural gas.

The Energy Department reported the bad news Thursday in its statistical Short-Term Energy Outlook.

Despite the current record gas glut, the department revised upward its natural gas price forecast, predicting the 25 percent jump. Its last estimate was for a 21 percent increase.

Unusually mild weather this fall and winter in parts of the nation — especially the East — has cushioned the blow. Consumer groups say the elderly, poor people and others on fixed incomes may be confronted by staggering monthly gas bills if the weather turns colder.

In addition, the 25 percent prediction is an average figure, and some regions may suffer through gas prices hikes as high as 60 to 70 percent over last winter, the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition warned.

The energy report immediately sparked renewed calls for Congress to impose tough new restrictions on natural gas pipeline contract provisions that are fueling the record prices.

"This shows how distorted the market really is and why Congress must act now," said Ed Rothschild of the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition.

Industry officials also reacted quickly, calling for decontrol of natural gas prices.

"Congress has an opportunity to erase the Natural Gas Policy Act's burdensome regulations that hurt consumers, producers, pipelines and utilities alike this year by enacting the total and phased decontrol of natural gas," argued Natural Gas Supply Association President Nicholas Bush.

Much of the blame for the staggering rise in natural gas costs focuses on controversial "take-or-pay" contracts that force pipelines to transport high-priced gas from the Southwest and foreign sources, instead of low-priced gas from areas such as Appalachia and Ohio.

Pipeline companies signed the long-term contracts during frantic bidding for supplies following the natural-gas shortage of 1975-77.

"This 25 percent increase reflects the change that has taken place because of high take-or-pay contracts," Rothschild said. "Now we find out it has really raised prices far more than the Energy Department expected."

Donate Blood

President Ronald Reagan has joined with the blood bank community proclaiming January as National Volunteer Blood Donor Month and is urging everyone who is healthy to donate blood.

"There is no real substitute for the blood or blood components needed on an ongoing and urgent basis by many people who are sick, injured, or afflicted with chronic diseases," said Reagan.

Volunteer Blood Donor Month was first instituted in 1971 to help alleviate the chronic blood shortages which occur after the holidays. The presidential declaration has been issued annually since that time. Bob Hope has made public service announcements and is encouraging the public to give so that others might live.

More than 250 pints of blood are required daily in the Central Florida area, and the need is constantly increasing to meet the demands of patients in 22 hospitals and four dialysis centers.

In conjunction with National Volunteer Blood Donor Month, each person who gives a pint of blood to the Central Florida Blood Bank between Jan. 3 and Feb. 28 will receive a free red rose from the Central Florida Florist Association.

Central Florida Blood Bank operates a main office in Orlando, 12 branch stations, and two mobile units. It fulfills patient requirements for whole blood and blood components throughout Brevard, Highlands, Lake, Orange, Osceola, Seminole and St. Lucie counties.

Literacy Test Headed To Court

TAMPA (UPI) — A federal judge has scheduled a non-jury trial to decide whether Florida's controversial Functional Literacy Test accurately measures what is taught to high school students across the state.

U.S. District Judge George Carr Thursday set the trial date for Feb. 28.

The test, formerly called the State Student Assessment Test Part II, is designed to gauge a student's abilities to apply basic skills to real-life situations, such as map reading and check-book balancing.

At the close of the 1982-1983 academic year, passing the test will be a requirement for a public high school diploma in Florida.

Five years ago, when the test was first created, it prompted a civil rights battle. A lawsuit was filed on behalf of ten students in the Tampa Bay area, alleging the test discriminated against blacks who had educational opportunities inferior to their white counterparts.

In 1979 Judge Carr ruled that the test was not inherently racist, but that blacks who had attended segregated schools were at a disadvantage in taking the test.

Carr ruled that the test could not be given as a requirement for high school diplomas until the end of the 1982-1983 school year, when all graduating students would have had 12 years of instruction under the integrated system.

In 1981, a federal appeals court ordered the state to prove that the material covered on the exam actually was taught before the state could require high school students to pass the test.

School officials have prepared a 32,000 page report of the state's 67 school systems which will attempt to do just that.

Dianna Pullin, leading the team of attorneys who will challenge the school board's findings, said Thursday she has evidence the exam does not reflect what is actually taught.

Polk, Commission To Discuss Double Taxation Problem

The Seminole County Commission will sit down with Sheriff John Polk in the next few days to determine what action can be taken to alleviate the problem of double taxation in the county.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff assured delegates at the Council of Local Governments in Seminole County meeting in Lake Mary Wednesday night that the commission is looking toward providing equity in county taxation for both the incorporated and unincorporated areas of Seminole.

A special committee named by the council completed a study several weeks ago declaring that city residents receive no "real and substantial" benefit from road patrols and the investigation unit of the sheriff's department.

The council and all the cities sent resolutions to the County Commission asking that the inequity whereby the city residents pay for the service which is not received in the incorporated areas be resolved.

The committee's recommendation was to seek County Commission cooperation rather than court action to settle the double taxation issue.

Kirchhoff noted the commission has a responsibility to all the citizens of the county, both those living in the city and in unincorporated areas.

"We are going to have our attorney tell us what is our liability to both sides at budget time," he said.

In other business, Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Lee Constantine was elected chairman of the council for 1983.

Named vice chairman was Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson, and Winter Springs City Commissioner Burley "Buck" Adkins was chosen treasurer.

The council is composed of representatives of all seven cities in the county and the County Commission.

Delegates in addition to Constantine, Sorenson, Adkins and Kirchhoff, who is replacing Sandra Glenn are: Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard, who is slated to be replaced in February by new Mayor Charles Glascock; Longwood Mayor June Lormann, who is the retiring chairman of the organization; Oviedo Councilman Gary Gotwalt and Sanford City Commissioner Eddie Keith.

Cerebral Palsy Telethon Slated For Jan. 22, 23

New State Representative Art Grindle (R-Altamonte Springs) will be local emcee for the upcoming 1983 United Cerebral Palsy Telethon to be telecast over WCPX-Channel 6. Grindle has long been an active supporter of Central Florida's Jack Holloway Jr. Memorial Cerebral Palsy Clinic at 930 S. Orange Ave., Orlando.

Paul Anka, Dennis James, and John Ritter will host the "Weekend with the Stars Telethon for Cerebral Palsy" live from Los Angeles and New York, Jan. 22-23 with taped segments from Las Vegas and Hawaii and local cutaways for 10 minutes every half hour for regional entertainment.

Seventy percent of the money raised by the telethon go to operate the local clinic and 30 percent goes to national research, local UCP officials said.

Members of Rollins College fraternities and sororities will hold benefit car washes 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Jan. 8 and 15 at area Popeye's restaurants.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Panel Suggests Subsidy For Malpractice Rates

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — An advisory group formed in the wake of last summer's work slowdown by south Florida doctors will recommend that malpractice insurance rates be subsidized with flat rate fees assessed against health care providers.

The group will also recommend that the hospital industry be the so-called "deep pocket," the group financially responsible if the fund for excess malpractice coverage runs short of money.

The recommendations adopted by the group call for actuarially sound rates but also provide for a subsidy through an annual $100 fee for physicians and an annual $5-per-bed charge on hospitals.

More Fire Deaths Possible

PENSACOLA (UPI) — A proposed change in state laws seeking to end inspection of construction projects by fire marshals may result in more deaths of people trapped in burning buildings, firefighters said.

A committee of 14 legislators and building trade experts prepared the report after the collapse of the Cay Condominium under construction in Cocoa Beach killed 11 workers and injured 23 in March 1981.

Committee member Charles King of West Palm Beach said inspection by fire marshals before the end of construction is an expensive duplication of inspection by county building departments. According to the committee's proposal, fire marshals still will inspect buildings after they are completed, he said.

Environmentalists See Pink

MIAMI (UPI) — Environmentalists enraged over a plan by controversial pop artist Christo to cover 10 uninhabited islands in Biscayne Bay in "silky-soft" pink fabric are going to do some covering of their own as a protest.

They are threatening to wrap the Dade County Courthouse with flamingo-pink garbage bags next week.

Jack Kassewitz Jr., head of the National Wildlife Rescue Team, is opposed to the "Surrounded Islands" project because he said it could harm manatees and other wildlife in the bay. Christo, as well as state and federal wildlife officials, said that isn't true.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Ghandi's Party Defeated In Three State Elections

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress Party lost control of two state assemblies today for the first time since independence in a major defeat for the leader of the world's biggest democracy.

In a stormy election Wednesday in which 10 people were killed in violent clashes, opposition candidates thrashed Mrs. Gandhi's chief allies in the key southern states of Andhra Pradesh and Karnataka, election results showed today.

Mrs. Gandhi, who returned to power three years ago for a five-year term, had been expected to watch the results of Wednesday's state elections closely to decide whether she has enough strength to call early national elections.

Apparent Coup Staged

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — El Salvador's military commanders went into an all-night meeting today as a disgruntled provincial commander seen as one of the nation's brightest young officers declared his forces in rebellion. Flanked by his high command, declared his province of Cabanas under "military alert" in a broadcast from San Salvador on one of about a dozen commercial stations in El Salvador at about 10 p.m.

His move was seen as an open attempt to gain support from other moderate officers in an apparent first move of a military coup.

Something To Think About

The many monolithic aspects of the Soviet state make it easy to forget that the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics encompasses an ethnic and cultural smorgasbord. And therein lies cause for worry among the ethnic Russians who hold most of the positions of real power in the Soviet Union.

The latest Soviet census, in 1979, reportedly showed that ethnic Russians composed barely half of the total Soviet population. The other half was made up of more than 100 nationalities, including such culturally diverse peoples as Ukrainians, Uzbeks, Kazakhs, Lithuanians, Georgians, Armenians, Turkmen, Persians, Kirghes, Tadzhiks, and Azerbaijanis.

Most of these ethnic groups have resisted or at least resented Russian rule since Moscow began to extend its reach in the 16th century. Many still do. The Baltic states, the Ukraine, and the predominantly Moslem republics of Soviet Central Asia have experienced a marked renewal of nationalist fervor in recent years.

All of this belies the official Soviet propaganda surrounding this month's 60th anniversary of the founding of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The 1917 Bolshevik Revolution established the communists in power but it was not until December of 1922 that the various republics were formally incorporated into the Soviet state.

Lenin's present-day heirs pay lip service to the notion of a voluntary union of Soviet republics, any one of which is theoretically free to secede if it chooses. In fact, of course, the 15 republics and the many minority nationalities are held in lock-step obedience by the political, military, and police power at the Kremlin command.

The late Soviet dissident and historian, Andrei Amalrik, predicted that "national animosities within a multinational state in which certain nations enjoy privileged status" could one day precipitate dissolution of the Soviet state. That possibility still seems remote.

But the Soviet Union's own census figures indicate that the minority nationalities will hold a collective majority in the Soviet population by the end of the 1980s. That fact, and the Kremlin's failure to suppress nationalist sentiment among the ethnic minorities during the last 60 years, should give Yuri Andropov and company something to think about.

Riot In Miami

The police shooting of a young man playing a video game has sparked street rioting in Miami. The policeman is Hispanic and the victim, who later died of his wounds, is black, lending racial overtones to the death and riots.

The incident brought back memories of riots in Miami in 1980. Then, blacks protesting the acquittal of a policeman charged with the slaying of a black man rampaged through the Liberty neighborhood. The 1980 death toll was 18. So far, two have died in the new cycle of violence, the second man shot dead by police while he was looting.

There are differing stories as to what occurred in the video arcade. Police say the victim was armed with a handgun, which he reached for when an officer told him to freeze. Friends of the victim say he was unarmed, made an abrupt movement when told to freeze and was shot in cold blood.

The officer involved in the shooting has a record of six citizen complaints since graduating from the police academy in 1981, The Miami Herald reports. The police department cleared him of two charges and four were ruled "inconclusive." He and a fellow policeman at the scene were both put on desk jobs pending police investigation. The city of Miami and the FBI are both conducting investigations of the shooting.

That is good. If police brutality was responsible for this killing, the officer must be punished, and police made more responsive to complaints.

There is no room for violence in the streets. Rioting and looting must be halted and punished—not rewarded.

But the deeper causes of despair which erupt in violence—joblessness, lack of education, poverty and hunger—must not be ignored. The federal government must make serious new efforts to create effective programs to give young blacks equal opportunity and to help them find jobs.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Don't tell me, let me guess! You haven't gotten into the Christmas spirit yet!"

By DONNA ESTES

A contingent from the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee attended Gov. Bob Graham and Lt. Gov. Wayne Mixson's inaugural ceremonies this week and were most impressed.

John Henry and Janice Morgan of Eastbrook said the events began Monday afternoon when a large barbecue, sponsored by the state party, was held at the Rauls estate in Tallahassee.

"It was chilly with the wind blowing briskly, but everyone was very sociable," Morgan said, noting his belief that all the events preceding the inaugural, the event itself and the party in the park across from the governor's mansion afterwards reflected Graham's personality of charm and ease.

At 9 a.m. inauguration day a non-denominational inaugural prayer service was held at Florida A&M University. "It was obviously an effort to dedicate the day and the new administration to the Lord," Morgan said.

He noted that all the major faiths were represented including the Jewish faith, Baptist, Episcopalian, Greek Orthodox, Methodist and Roman Catholic.

The service, which Morgan said was both reverent and inspiring, lasted 45 minutes. Since most state offices were opening and functioning just like any other day, parking was a problem, he said.

The inauguration ceremonies, held on the old Capitol steps on the west side, began at 11 a.m. "Former Gov. Reubin Askew, was master of ceremonies and did a superb job," Morgan said, estimating the crowd at 3,500 to 4,000. "The sun came around the old Capitol about 11:30 and sitting in the sun was very comfortable," he said.

U.S. Sen. Lawton Chiles was on the podium, but he and the other dignitaries kept low profiles, calling little attention to themselves," he said.

"Even though Askew only the day before had announced his prospective candidacy for president, Askew seemed to shift the center of attention to the governor and lieutenant governor," Morgan said.

Morgan said former Gov. Leroy Collins, who spoke on the history of past inaugurations was very eloquent.

The oath of office was administered at 12:02 p.m. The 19-gun cannon salute vibrated the whole setting, Morgan said. Then four jets flew in formation over the scene followed by six helicopters. "It was very moving, very inspiring," Morgan said.

"I felt the governor was speaking from the heart as he told the crowd that Florida was made by dreamers, but the dreamers were also practical people. He said our first priority should be education and that it is far better to invest money in education early on rather than in prisons later on.

"The governor kept comparing the personal growth of education and agricultural growth. He also said that we fought nature and the resources to develop Florida and now we must fight development to maintain the balance."

Morgan also talked of the "Wide-open" and hospitable atmosphere in the new Capitol with offices open for those who wanted to see. I could have sat in the governor's chair if I had wanted to," he said.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN Stalemate Dangers In Congress

The turbulent lameduck session of the 97th Congress suggests that worse is yet to come in the new session.

In shifting the political balance in the House of Representatives, the voters set up the conditions for a stalemate. That's what we saw emerging in the lameduck session. And the stalemate is likely to become more pronounced in the new Congress. The sufferers in this will be the American people who need strong, clearly defined national policies in a period of adversity.

The American governmental system has its strong points as compared to the parliamentary system in Great Britain. On the other hand, it is an adversarial system, with resulting checks on the formation and execution of policy. On many occasions in the past, the United States has been almost immobilized by a stalemate between the White House and Congress. We may be in for another such period between now and the next presidential election.

The nation's problems cry out for consensus solutions—on Social Security reform for example. Consensus solutions are almost impossible to achieve with the kind of political balance in effect because of the recent congressional elections.

The stalemate occurs at the worst possible moment for the United States. The nation's economy is in deep trouble. Abroad, the world financial system is in peril. The Soviet Union has made a swift change to a new leadership which seems likely to be more sophisticated and effective in advancing the interests of communism. In these circumstances, the U.S. government should be both sure and flexible in its responses. It is hard for it to be either because Congress is un dependable. In this critical juncture in foreign affairs, the lameduck Congress deleted production funds needed for the MX missile.

The country faces unprecedented deficits. Again, Congress seems unwilling to come to grips with the need for austerity and for reform of the Social Security system. The country needs an enlightened industrial policy to make it more productive and competitive, but Congress is determined to use band-aid, WPA-type jobs programs to deal with recession and industrial deterioration.

In this unfortunate period, the American people must make their voice heard. It is especially important that they remind the new Congress that legislative guerrilla war will cost the nation dearly, retarding economic recovery and endangering America's position abroad.

JACK ANDERSON Ways, Means Head Faces Challenge

WASHINGTON — Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., wears power like the infantry helmet he wore in Korea — and he's soon going to need all the protection he can get.

As chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, the big man from Chicago is responsible for legislation to keep Social Security solvent. He'll be the target of potshots from all sides — congressional colleagues, the White House and the public. Even a Solomon couldn't please everybody on this one, and nobody has ever accused Rostenkowski of being a Solomon.

If the prospect of impending battle daunts him, he didn't show it during a recent meeting with aides in his office a few steps from the House floor. Knowing that many, perhaps most, of his colleagues consider it the better part of political valor to avoid either tax hikes or benefit cuts, Rostenkowski realizes he's not going to be popular when he proposes one solution or the other — perhaps both. But he also recognizes necessity when it confronts him.

"I'm going to deal with this even if it means standing alone and being an S.O.B.," he said, jabbing a finger in the air for emphasis.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER Ignoring Soviet Outrages

NEW YORK (NEA)—Just what sort of conduct do you suppose it would take, on the part of the Soviet Union, to outrage liberal opinion in the Western world? Granted, bringing this outlaw nation to book for its crimes is something else again, for it is extremely powerful and therefore dangerous. But there is no risk involved, from the standpoint of liberals living in perfect freedom on this side of the Iron Curtain, in at least expressing an appropriate moral fury at the conduct of the despots who rule Russia. Yet they will apparently overlook any outrage, and keep on calling for a deeper "understanding" of these villains—as if we did not understand them very well already.

What kind of Soviet behavior, I repeat, would really get to such people? The Kremlin's total suppression of internal dissent is clearly not enough—that has been going on for 65 years, and everybody takes it for granted. The Soviet Union's systematic destabilization and subversion of other sovereign nations, from Cambodia and Mozambique to Nicaragua, is positively applauded—at any rate until the local liberals in such places, who typically helped the communists seize power in the first place, come bounding out and report breathlessly that things are actually worse than before.

Not even the outright Soviet invasion of another country, as in the case of Afghanistan, can rouse the world's liberals to more than a purely pro forma protest. To this very day the U.N. General Assembly has never been able to bring itself to identify by nationality the "foreign forces" for whose withdrawal from Afghanistan it has meekly called. Yet this sort of pusillanimity is scarcely so much as criticized in the West.

Very well, then; would Western opinion be deeply roused by a Soviet inspired attempt to assassinate the pope? Such an attempt was actually made, and nearly succeeded, and the would-be killer has now implicated a whole raft of Bulgarian intelligence agents, not one of whom would dream of tying his own shoelaces without the prior knowledge and permission of the KGB. What's more, the head of the KGB at the time has just taken over the chairmanship of the self-elected little committee that runs Russia—and we are invited to butter him up on the theory that he is a "closet liberal!"

What's left? How about waging highly sophisticated chemical warfare against the native populations of backward but refractory nations like Afghanistan and Cambodia? Would that at least if proved against the Russians, rouse the sluggish conscience of Western liberal opinion? Apparently not; the first American charges about Soviet use of "yellow rain" were attacked and dismissed by our liberal media as too insubstantial to credit. The most recent official State Department report on the subject, being far too detailed and well-documented to dismiss that way, has been given the absolute minimum of media attention.

And by the way, don't fall for the liberal excuse that they see no point in making heavy weather over misdeeds of foreign countries that "the United States can't do anything about." We couldn't "do anything about" Hitler in the 1930s either, but that didn't prevent the world's liberals from yelling bloody murder—and rightly—about his domestic persecution of Jews and his foreign aggressions. One can imagine just how lively their reaction would have been if there had been comparable evidence that Hitler had tried to assassinate the pope or had resorted in combat to "yellow rain!"

I conclude that there is absolutely nothing the Soviet Union can do—no outrage against the moral order that it can commit—that would tease from Western liberal opinion one-tenth of the anger that any decent person would normally feel. The reason, though obscure, is not altogether incomprehensible, what we call "liberal" opinion in the Western world is in fact essentially democratic socialist opinion. As such it has many of the same philosophical and rhetorical enemies as communism: capitalists, multinational corporations, the "upper classes," Big Business, exploitative colonial powers, etc. This common demonology prevents it from evaluating the Soviet Union altogether objectively. Whatever its "excesses" communism isn't—in pure theory liberals would stress (if they dared to be candid)—entirely wrong.

Fortunately liberals are becoming steadily less able to speak for the West. And that is why the Soviet Union may yet receive what it so richly deserves; the wholehearted moral condemnation of mankind.

JEFFREY HART Reagan's Finest Hour

Showing clear-sighted leadership, President Reagan has rejected the U.N.-generated Law of the Sea Treaty, and in so doing he led the rest of the industrialized world into opposition to this measure, which has the fingerprints of Third World socialism all over it. We would not have had any such leadership from a Carter or even a Ford administration.

Though 117 nations, or sort of nations, signed the treaty at a Turtle Bay ceremony, with sponsor Fiji signing first, 46 other nations, including Britain and West Germany did not. France and the Soviet Union signed, but are unlikely to ratify in the absence of United States participation.

That means the treaty is just a piece of paper, since the only nations with a significant capability of mining the resources are not part of the scheme.

The provision that sank the treaty from Reagan's point of view was based on the principle that the oceans are "the common heritage of mankind." That means that all nations would be entitled to a cut of the resources, whatever engineering capability they possess, or even whether they can invest anything in the projected mining enterprises. That, of course, is global socialism writ large. Presumably the principle, if accepted, would inevitably extend to the resources of outer space.

To put this global socialism into effect, the treaty would establish a new international bureaucracy to monitor mining operations. Any enterprise seeking to mine the nodules of copper, nickel, cobalt, zinc and other materials on the ocean floor would be subject to the politics of this bureaucracy.

The restrictive provisions set forth are complex. Priority in granting contracts would go to four groups of companies led by American mining corporations, a French consortium, and ventures controlled by Britain, the Soviet Union and Japan.

In addition, there would be some sort of global mining operation, under U.N. auspices—financed by guess who—which would be given one site equal in size or value to any mined by a national or private enterprise. Private corporations would be required to sell their technical expertise to the global group, which would become the largest enterprise of all, by treaty equal to all of the others combined.

It is hard to believe that the Sea Treaty reached the present stage, or that U.S. negotiators under previous administrations simply did not pack up their attache cases and walk out when it became clear in what direction things were moving.

One argument for the treaty is that the military leadership supports it because the treaty provides that strategic straits such as Gibraltar and Hormuz shall be kept open to all ships. This is supposed to ensure the military of safe passage in the event of war. But anyone who thinks that provision means anything probably believes fervently in the Easter Bunny. In the event of war, for example, it is the job of the British navy to close the Denmark Strait and bottle up the Soviet Baltic fleet.

a report prepared for the Senate Budget Committee by the Congressional Research Service. My associate Michael Binstein has seen a draft of the report.

"The public... seems to have lost a significant degree of confidence that the system will survive over the long haul," the report warns, "and it is not likely that recurring 'minimal measures' to restore financial soundness will remove these doubts."

With startling frankness, the report suggests that if the public really understood how Social Security is funded, it might well consider it "as a sort of 'Ponzi game' in which the cost of meeting today's benefit obligations is borne not by the recipients of those benefits but by today's workers — a sort of passing the buck to future generations."

The unflattering reference, of course, is to Charlie Ponzi, a con man who, in 1920, paid "dividends" to investors out of money he got from new investors instead of earnings — precisely the way Social Security operates, as the Senate report admits.

PENALTIES PIPELINE: One reason the Air Force keeps throwing billions into its much-criticized Maverick anti-tank missile may be that old Pentagon institution — the "revolving door" that leads former Defense Department employees to lucrative jobs with contractors whose weapons they worked on for the government. Hughes Aircraft of Tucson, Ariz., which makes the Maverick, has hired three ex-Air Force employees who dealt with the controversial missile at the Pentagon: Ronald Decosmo, now a project engineer at Hughes, Wayne Mattson, a senior staff engineer, and Lochlan Macleay, assistant manager of programs.

The Armed Forces Professional Entertainment Program, which arranges performances for American troops overseas, has been caught with its male chauvinism showing. A new brochure contains several pictures of pretty women, and demands: "Touring groups must include at least one female." The brochure explains that servicemen "welcome the opportunity to talk with young people their own age (especially the girls!)..." A Pentagon official confessed that the brochure was "embarrassing." The people who edited it have been reassigned to Korea.

More Tax Revenue, Storm Top List

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The most important happening in the Sanford city government in 1982 was the Florida Legislature's raising of the sales tax which should result in nearly $500,000 in new money being pumped into the city's coffers in the 1982-83 fiscal year. This anticipated new revenue enabled Sanford to reduce property taxes by $1.58 per $1,000 assessed valuation for city residents.

At least this is the view of City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles from a purely governmental standpoint.

Knowles said the funds from sales tax receipts helped relieve the tax burden on property owners.

"The Florida tax structure has been so manipulated by the State Legislature with the high rate of exemptions that property taxes are no longer a viable means of supporting local government services," Knowles said.

Mayor Lee P. Moore, however, believes the April 8 twin hail storms interspersed with what may have been a tornado and the damage left in its aftermath was the most important event of the year.

"The storm certainly had a lot of effect on the people — some devastating and some good," Moore said. He noted homeowners who lost the roofs to their houses, others who saw their automobile bodies damaged with numerous pits from huge hail stones and business people who suffered the loss of plate glass windows and the resulting water damage saw the storms as a disaster.

However, independent roofers around the city, automobile body repairmen and glass people may have seen the storm as a financial boon, he said.

The medical community and those who had used the old Seminole Memorial Hospital over the 26 years it had furnished medical treatment to the area were delighted when the new $26 million Central Florida Regional Hospital opened its doors to patients on June 2.

And the Seminole Memorial Hospital was padlocked forever as a medical facility.

The three-story brick Central Florida Regional Hospital is located off U.S. Highway 17-92 facing Lake Monroe. The 226-bed facility includes 138 private rooms, 36 semi-private rooms, a nursery, a cardiac care and intensive care units. The new hospital, owned and operated by the Hospital Corporation of America, is furnished with the latest medical equipment.

The facility's annual payroll is about $6 million and hospital administrator James D. Tesar has estimated 30-to-35 new employees will eventually be added.

He also foresees an expansion of the hospital, possibly within two years, noting the hospital is designed to take five floors if necessary.

While half of the 1 cent increase in sales tax was slated to come back to local governments — cities and counties — Moore at public hearings on the city's 1982-83 budget said Sanford may not receive all of the $500,000 it has been promised in revenue from that source. He pointed to cuts in state government ordered by Gov. Bob Graham because state revenues, including those from sales taxes, are not coming in as expected.

The city took the safer route in its budget and noted an expectation of $467,762 from that source.

The city adopted an $8.5 million budget for this fiscal year with a tax rate of $4.37 per $1,000 assessed valuation. Despite the reduction in the tax rate, property owners saw little difference in their tax bills from last year because Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber completed a countywide reappraisal of real property.

Countywide, property values were boosted by 15 to 35 percent for an average of 20 percent per property. Sanford property owners received slight reductions in city and county taxes, but generally saw increases in School Board taxes. Actual savings were slight.

For months after the April 8 hail storm that showered the Sanford area with stones as large as golf balls, clean up and repair to city government facilities and vehicles took place.

Damage to city property, facilities and vehicles was estimated at $300,000.

The list of damage to city property and equipment filled six legal-sized sheets. The civic center had to be reroofed and repaired to the tune of nearly $90,000; the city sewer plant's sewage sludge bed covers had to be replaced; broken plate-glass windows at city hall and the civic center had to be replaced along with the civic center's sun shades; 16 traffic lights were replaced with new ones; some 64 traffic signs were missing and had to be replaced.

Thirty-nine city-owned vehicles received damage ranging from body dents caused by the hail stones to cracked or broken windshields and broken headlights and mirrors.

City merchants spent days cleaning up and assessing their losses. Seminole Memorial Hospital, then still in operation, had $5,000 in damage to broken glass, $2,000 in its print shop, $3,000 to the emergency tower; antenna and $3,000 structural damage inside.

Considerable damage was done to boats anchored at Monroe Harbor when a tornado came across Lake Monroe, hitting the marina and the Holiday Inn. The metal roof was blown off the Monroe Harbour building and the aluminum canopy was ruined. Water damage to the office and showroom and to the roof was estimated at $50,000.

During the year, the city spent some $100,000 to resurface portions of 36 streets in the city.

New sodium vapor street lights cast a yellowish glow over many thoroughfares in the community as the new more intense lights were replacing the old mercury vapor street lights.

By mid-November, 383 new high pressure sodium vapor lights owned by the city were installed.

Meanwhile, Florida Power and Light Co. in a cooperative effort had converted 900 of the 1,500 street lights it owns in the city to the new sodium vapor.

The new more intense lights brighten larger areas than the old-fashioned ones and they cost less to operate. While the mercury vapor lights give off 4,500 lumens of light, the sodium vapor lamps give off 5,800 lumens.

The cost to the city for the company-owned lights is about $6.17 per month for the old style plus fuel adjustment charge and about $5.98 per month plus fuel adjustment charge for the new sodium lights.

S.S. Benefits May Be Taxed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The presidential commission seeking solutions to Social Security's financial troubles is considering a plan to tax half the benefits received by a recipient with an income above $12,000, it was reported today.

The Washington Post quoted sources as saying the extra income would be pumped back into the nation's retirement plan. Social Security benefits currently are exempt from federal income taxes.

The newspaper said an allowance of $15,000 in income — benefits plus other sources of income also was being considered by the bipartisan panel. It said the proposal would tax benefits of married couples who file joint income-tax returns with a total income of over $18,000.

Raiders Hammer Humber, 92-45, For 10th Victory

What's the best tonic for an injury-riddled basketball team? How about a little dose of Humber College.

Seminole Community College's Raiders, depleted with injuries to three starters, got well in a hurry Thursday night with a 92-45 victory at SCC over Humber, a small school from Toronto, Canada.

"We got up 9-0 and pretty much coasted from there," said SCC coach Bill Payne who substituted liberally throughout the game.

The Raiders, 10-6, rolled to an insurmountable 55-13 bulge at halftime over the over-matched Canadians.

SCC hit 40 of 66 shots from the field for a sharp 61 percent. Humber connected on just 18-of-85 shots for 28 percent. The taller Raiders outrebounded Humber, 48-27.

Sanford's Keith Whitney popped in 18 points to lead all scorers. Whitney hit 8 of 11 from the field and 2 of 3 free throws. Luis Phelps was next with 15 points while Jimmy Payton added 13 and Apopka's Delvin Everett notched 10.

Reserve forward Jim Maher led the domination of the backboards with eight.

Phelps and Everett grabbed seven each and Sanford's Bernard Merthie collected six. Payton handed out six assists and David Gallagher passed out five.

Gallagher, however, injured his thumb and his status is listed as "doubtful" by Payne for Saturday's encounter with St. John's Junior College of Palatka.

Gallagher joins 4-10 Rudy Kulper, swingman Ricky Sutton and forward

Kevin Jerry Smith among the walking wounded. Kulper is still bothered by a badly sprained ankle as is Sutton. Smith is still troubled by problems in his lower back.

"We're going to sit them out Saturday and hopefully get everybody ready for Lake City," said Payne. The Raiders meet the nationally-ranked Timberwolves next Wednesday at Lake City. Tipoff Saturday night is 7:30 p.m.

8 p.m. Spruce Creek at Seminole Bays
The Tribe will try to rebound after its loss to DeLand by taking on Spruce Creek's Hawks. Seminole, 8-4 overall and 3-1 in the Five Star Conference, lost its first conference game to DeLand on two last-second free throws by the Bulldogs' Chase Brown.

Seminole's top scorer is Calvin "Kiki" Bryant who came into this week averaging over 15 points per game and shooting better than 50 percent from the floor. The guards are Vernon Law who leads the 'Holes in assists and versatile Torie Hendricks or Bruce Franklin, a tough defensive player. Willie Mitchell starts at center and William Wynn is the other forward.

8 p.m. Lyman Boys at Daytona Beach Seabreeze

Coach Tom Lawrence's Greyhounds are steadily improving with a record of 5-3. It will be Lyman's first game since the 'Hounds won the Oviedo Outlook Tournament over the Christmas holidays. 7 p.m. Bluefield (West Va.) State at SCC Girls

The Lady Raiders go for their third straight victory against a team that UCF's Lady Knights routed, 94-57. Coach Sol Balcor's squad is led by sophomore point guard Mindy Patrick who has been impressive in the two games after the Christmas break. At the second guard spot is Sandord's Cathy Jones who has also been playing well lately. Forwards are Valerie Bessler and Karina Andersson while the center is Sue Winterheimer. SCC's best scorer off the bench is Evelyn Smith.

7 p.m. Lake Mary Girls at Winter Park

The Lady Rams are out to avenge an earlier loss to Winter Park's Lady Wildcats. Winter Park gave the Rams their first win since the year after Lake Mary won its first four games.

If they stay out of foul trouble, Laura and Peggy Glass should dominate the boards as they did against Lyman's Vikki McMurrer. Michelle Swartz and Andrea Johnson fill in at the other forward position while Kim Averill, an county assist leader Lisa Gregory are the guards.

6 p.m. Lyman Girls at Daytona Beach Seabreeze

The Lady Greyhounds would like to put more than 31 points on the board tonight. Tuesday night, Lyman dropped a 32-21 decision to Lake Mary.

Vikki McMurrer leads Lyman's inside game with help from Kim Lemon and Katie Rowland. Pam Jackson is deadly from outside while point guard Kim Goroum is a heads-up player.

Wrestling

8 p.m. Seminole at Boone

Coach Scott Sherman's grapplers take part in their first three-way match of the year tonight when they take on Lake Brantley and Boone in Orlando. Senior Ronnie Watson is undefeated at 115 pounds for the Seminoles in dual meets. Vince Clark (141) and Gary Goelzer (131) are other top performers for the 'Holes.

Kingdom Of The Sun: A Gamble Pays Off Big Dividends

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Jim Haley and H. Leon Rogers gambled once and won... so why not try it again?

Rogers, presently the superintendent of Marion County schools, but formerly principal of Ocala Vanguard High School, reached into Illinois in 1973 and grabbed a junior varsity basketball coach. All that coach — Haley — has done in the past 9½ years is win 216 games and three championships.

That's a pretty good return at anybody's trifecta window.

The next gamble, however, didn't depend on an individual, it depended on a lot of individuals. Would the Ocala area support a 16-team Christmas basketball tournament?

Haley thought it would, Rogers wasn't so sure.

"Back in Illinois, there are several 16-team tournaments at Christmas time," said Haley who grew up in Joliet and coached JV basketball at Aurora East. "There were none in Florida at the time (1974). But when I first approached Mr.

Rogers about it, he was a little worried about expenses and how much money we would make. Basketball was not that big in Florida at the time."

Rogers, nevertheless, put his trepidation behind him and Haley launched the first "Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic" in 1974.

He didn't have to wait too long for the cash register to ring. "It was a smashing success," Haley recalls. "We made $5,200 and the expenses were around $3,000."

One of the prime reasons for its success was Lake Weir High School. The tiny 2A cage power swept to the tournament title behind the stellar performances of Frank Johnson and Louis Faison. Johnson went on to a fine college career at Wake Forest and now holds down a backcourt position for the Washington Bullets.

"When Lake Weir won it that year it was the best thing that could happen," said Haley. "They had a lot of basketball tradition (Frank and brother Eddie (one year older, both are in the pros) and from that point on, the tournament has grown every year in gate receipts and expenses." And prestige.

Prep Basketball

"The Kingdom of the Sun has always been a class affair that is a fan's delight and a college coach's dream because of the college prospects that annually play in it," said Norman Sloan, Florida basketball coach.

"The Sun Holiday Class is the tournament of Florida. Coach Haley not only produces top notch players but runs one of the classiest tournaments in the country," said Glenn Wilkes, Stetson cage coach.

"The Kingdom of the Sun is the only tournament of its kind in the Sunshine State that matches the 'Little Davids' vs. the 'Goliaths' — Class A, Class AA, Class AAA and Class AAAA. It gives the top players in all classes a chance to battle in fierce, competitive action. It is a Christmas Preview of the State Tournament in Lakeland," said Joe Williams, Florida State basketball coach.

Sloan, Wilkes and Williams are all annual spectators at the Kingdom of the Sun. The feeling among the college coaches in Florida is that there is enough talent to win in the state and the Kingdom of the Sun puts the best of that talent on display.

Although the Kingdom of the Sun experienced great financial success the first few years, Haley said, "We just try to break even now. We're not out to make money. We operate the tournament as an exposure-type thing for the students to get scholarships."

It's also exposes a few state champions like Williams pointed out about the Christmas preview of the Lakeland affair in March.

After winning the Kingdom in '74, Lake Weir also won the AA title. In 1975, Edgewater won the AAAA and Tallahassee Rickards took the AAA. In 1978, Vanguard won the AAA and Miami Central captured the AAAA. In 1979, it was Vanguard again and Tallahassee McClay in the A. In 1980, West Palm Beach North Shore won the AAA and Warner Christian of Daytona Beach took the A. In 1981, Clearwater grabbed AAAA honors while Marianna cleaned up in

AAA. Vanguard took its third title in five years last year.

In Haley's first Kingdom, Bahamas St. John's participated. It was only the beginning of what he calls, "The out-of-state flavor. Now, he shoots for four of the better teams in the country to spice the field each year.

"It gives the Florida schools a chance to see how they can do against some of the better teams in the country," said Haley. "We invited six of the top 20 teams in the country this year and two (Decatur, Ga. and Washington D.C. St. John's) accepted."

"We're also talking with Baltimore Dunbar (currently the top team in the nation which loses just four seniors) about next year. That would be a great attraction," he added.

Haley uses an involved procedure to determine which teams qualify for the Kingdom. He works closely with recruiting and scouting services to see which teams will be powerful the next year.

"First, we look for teams which have the top players," Haley said. "The teams with the top players usually have good programs and good teams."

The second procedure is to find good, talented teams.

The third step is to add the traditional state powerhouses like Stuart Martin County, Clearwater and Vanguard.

To complete the field, Haley selects the teams which are predicted for top 10 status and adds four teams from either Georgia, Kentucky, New Jersey or Washington D.C.

While Haley is concerned about making the tournament better each year, he does feel that it is close to reaching the summit.

"We're very close to coming to the top of the ceiling," he said. "The only thing we need — and the only thing that's going to put us on top — is getting a national sponsor."

"If that happens, you can see us bringing in four national powerhouses and giving them their guarantee every year."

Looks like it's time to roll the dice, again.

(Sunday, Haley talks about his players and his future).

Minnesota Crushes Illini, Eyes Big 10 Championship

United Press International

Who will be the Big Ten champions this year?

Though the pre-season favorites were Indiana and Iowa, the Minnesota Gophers believe they have a chance at the title in 1983.

And with good reason — they are ranked No. 20, they are the defending Big Ten champions and they opened their conference schedule Thursday with their eighth straight victory, a 75-49 rout of Illinois.

"We played as well as we could for the first half," said Minnesota coach Jim Dutcher of his team's 41-23 halftime lead. "At halftime, I was worried we wouldn't keep that level for 40 minutes. We didn't really, but we were intense enough to win."

Randy Brewer, a 7-foot-3 senior center, scored 19 points along with guard Tommy Davis to lead 9-1 Minnesota, which shot 51 percent from the field.

Minnesota outscored Illinois, 15-6, to start the second half and built the margin to 56-27 with 12:30 left. The Illini, 10-4, could manage just two field goals in that span on two long baskets by Derek Harper.

"We're not experienced enough to play well on a consistent basis," said Illinois Coach Lou Henson, whose team was led by Anthony Welch's 10 points. "Our freshmen come in here and they're going against guys like Brewer who was all Big Ten last year. They've never been here before and naturally were a little intimidated."

In other Top 20 games, second-ranked and unbeaten Memphis State won its 11th game with a 78-44 decision over St. Louis, and No. 13 Nevada Las Vegas defeated Utah State in overtime 88-77.

At Memphis, Tenn., Memphis State, led by Andre Turner's 19 points, overcame a sluggish start to win. The Tigers, 11-6, outscored the Billikens to take a 43-29 lead at intermission. St. Louis, 3-10, was led by center Andre Craig's 21 points, 19 coming in the second half.

At Logan, Utah, Danny Tarkanian scored 20 points and had eight of the Rebels' 13 straight successful free throws in overtime as 13th-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas won its Pacific Coast Athletic Conference opener.

In some other top games, Russell Cross hit for 31 points as Purdue defeated Wisconsin, 80-64.

Lady Seminoles Rip Spruce Creek, 88-41

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

An old basketball proverb goes, "If you put it up—something's bound to happen."

Seminole High's Lady Seminoles launched 90 shots from the floor Thursday night and with Diedre Hillery and Patricia Campbell controlling the boards, plus Maxine Campbell, Mona Benton and Arlene Jones (running) the break, the Tribe made things happen their way in an 88-41 drubbing of the Lady Hawks of Spruce Creek at Seminole High.

Seminole, 8-4 overall and 5-3 in the Five Star Conference, saw five players score in double figures. Meanwhile the Lady Tribe outrebounded the Lady Hawks, 48-20.

Maxine Campbell led the way with a season-high of 20 points on an exceptional 10 of 12 from the field. Benton added 18 points, Patricia Campbell had a season-high of 13 points while Hillery and Jones added 10 points apiece.

Patricia Campbell pulled down a game-high 14 rebounds, Hillery snatched eight, Benton seven and Genevieve Stallworth collected six boards.

From the opening minutes it was evident that Seminole had too much firepower for the winless Hawks. The 'Holes built a 17-10 cushion after the first quarter then outscored Spruce Creek, 15-8, to take a 32-18 halftime lead.

The Tribe opened the second half by reeling off 14 straight points and about midway through the third quarter Seminole led by 30, 50-20. The Tribe outscored the Creek, 32-8, in the third quarter.

The runaway enabled coach Ron Merthie to clear his bench as every member of the Lady Seminoles entered the scoring column.

"I'm glad everyone got a chance to play," Merthie said. "It's important that everyone gets some experience to see if they will be able to respond. We got a chance to work on some things, like our fund-to-bank defense, that we don't usually get a chance to work on."

Seminole hit 39 of its 90 shots for 43 percent while Spruce Creek connected on 19 of 53 shots for 36 percent.

Seminole will play Lake Brantley next Monday at Lake Brantley, if the Patriots new gymnasium floor is ready. Junior varsity action starts at 6:15 with the varsity game tipping off at 8.

Pabon's 2 Goals Spark Hornets Past Seminoles

Luis Pabon booted two goals and John Mahoney added one as the Bishop Moore Hornets blanked Seminole, 3-0, in soccer action Thursday at Seminole High School.

"We ran into a very talented team," said Seminole coach Howard Hawkins. Seminole, which upset sixth-ranked Lyman Tuesday night, fell to 1-6 for the season.

Pabon broke up a scoreless battle 15 minutes into the first half with his first goal. Mahoney improved the lead to 2-0 with eight minutes left in the half with his score.

In the second half, Pabon got a breakaway goal with 10 minutes gone to sew up the 3-0 verdict for coach David Fall.

The Fighting Seminoles attempt to avenge a 2-1 loss to the Lake Mary Rams Tuesday night at Lake Mary. Game time is 8 p.m.

DeLand Nips Lake Brantley

DeLand's Bridgette Gordon and Karen Thomas each dropped in a free throw in overtime to lift the Lady Bulldogs to a 44-42 victory over Lake Brantley Thursday night at DeLand.

It was the eighth loss against four wins for coach Rennie Betris' girls. Lake Brantley fell to 3-4 in the Five Star Conference.

Behind the hot shooting of Rhonda Vazquez and Linda Trimble, the Patriots took a 31-27 halftime lead. Vazquez hit several jumpers from the right wing for 10 points while Trimble added eight.

Gordon, a 6-1 sophomore, was unstoppable in the first half for the Bulldogs, though. She tossed in 21 points and collected 15 rebounds.

Brantley, nevertheless, shut off Gordon to five second-half points and five rebounds, but Trimble missed a jump shot with five seconds left which could have sent the game into a second overtime.

Vazquez finished with 17 points and Trimble had 11. The Patriots host Seminole Monday if their new wooden floor is playable.

In other girls action Thursday, Lake Howell continued to roll as coach Dennis Coady's Silver Hawks blitzed Apopka, 66-43, for their 12th victory in 13 outings.

Chiquita Miller, who tossed in a career-high 31 points earlier this week against Bishop Moore, scored 21 points Thursday to lead all scorers. Mary Johnson added nine points and Tammy Johnson had eight for the Hawks.

Oviedo received 19 points from Fayette Robinson and 12 from Tanya Roland to edge Aulick, 57-53, in Orange Belt Conference action.

Coach Ed Bolton's Lady Lions roared to a 38-15 halftime lead and then held off Eustis in the second half.

Leafs Snap Road Streak, 3-1

The Toronto Maple Leafs figured they'd better snap their winless road streak before it reached its first anniversary.

After several close calls, the Maple Leafs registered a 3-1 victory over the Washington Capitals in Landover, Md., Thursday night.

The triumph, Toronto's first on the road since a 5-2 win over the Black Hawks at Chicago on Jan. 31, 1982, stopped the slide at 30 games. On the plus side, the victory extended the Leafs' unbeaten string to six games.

"It's been a long time coming," said Toronto goalie Mike Palmateer.

Palmateer turned back a number of good Washington scoring chances in the third period while the Capitals were trying to overcome deficits of 2-1 and 3-1.

Toronto's Rick Vaive, who scored his 11th goal in five games, broke a 1-1 tie in the second by knocking down a Dan Daoust pass and scoring on a breakaway.

Defenseman Jim Korn made it 3-1 at 12:43 of the third with an unassisted shorthanded goal.

Terry Martin put the Leafs ahead early in the second, but Bob Gould erased the lead a minute later.

In other game, Montreal trounced Los Angeles, 11-3, Calgary belted Winnipeg, 5-1, and Vancouver tripped Hartford, 6-4.

'King' Johnson Crowns Suns

Mickey Johnson played his part well Thursday night and was "King" for a day.

Starting for Nets' small forward Albert King, hobbled with a knee injury, Johnson shook off a missed free throw with 34 seconds remaining and hit two foul shots with seven seconds left, to lead the Nets to a team-record seventh straight victory, a 94-83 decision over the Phoenix Suns.

"You can't erase what you've done," Johnson said of his goal turned-hero night.

Phoenix guard Dennis Johnson will have to wait until tonight in Indiana for next time. He missed a jumper at the buzzer that would have given the Suns their fifth victory in six games.

"Len Elmore was about 3 feet away and it was a 16- or 17-footer," he said. "It was the play we called but it just didn't fall."

In other games, Atlanta nipped New York, 96-86, Los Angeles defeated Cleveland, 126-107, Golden State stopped Portland, 94-83, and Houston edged San Diego, 106-107.

Grether Eyes World Tour

The 1983 Putt-Putt season opened Wednesday at Fern Park and Sanford's Dave Grether, who has aspirations of competing on the world Putt-Putt tour, ended up with a three-round total of 89 (19 under par) for a fourth place finish.

This year's first tournament came two weeks after 1982's final tournament in which Grether placed second.

1. Jim Harriotts 20-23-29 - 85 (-23)
2. Mike Pfeiffer 20-27-37 - 85 (-23)

Lake Mary, Lyman Battle For County Pride Tonight

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

The way Edgewater manhandled Lyman Thursday night, and the manner in which the Metro Conference Eagles disposed of Lake Mary last month, projects tonight's 8 o'clock wrestling battle between the Greyhounds and the Rams as a good one.

Edgewater, which captured the Lyman Christmas Tournament in a convincing manner, subdued Lyman Thursday night in Longwood, 49-22. On Dec. 15, the Eagles blitzed Lake Mary, 44-21.

"We didn't have a real good match," conceded Lyman coach Skip Pletzer. "But I did see a few bright spots."

The brightest continues to be the performance of senior Dirk Smith. The rugged 180-pounder moved up a class to 223 Thursday night and mauled Christmas Tournament champion Jim Taylor, 11-2.

Smith scored a takedown for a 2-0 lead after one period, then added a near fall and a stalling point for a 5-0 lead after four minutes. In the final period he added six more points while Taylor reversed Smith for two for the 11-2 final.

The victory improves Smith's record to a sparkling 10-0 with four pins.

Pletzer was also impressed with freshman Chris Waxler (141) who gave Ernesto Vega, who finished third in the Christmas Tournament, all he could handle before losing.

"Waxler had Vega on his back and almost pinned him in the first period, but then he made a freshman mistake and got pinned," said Pletzer. Waxler was losing, 7-3, before he was stuck at 2:55.

Joey Lockwood (123) also turned in a solid effort against James Aubrey who was also a Christmas champion. Aubrey pinned Lockwood in the tournament, but this time Lockwood put up a tough battle

Prep Wrestling

The Greyhounds rested 223-pounder Mike Hill Thursday to have him ready for tonight's match. Hill has been bothered by a back problem. The Hounds also lost one grappler Thursday. Jay Hunziker, a veteran 129-pounder, injured his elbow and won't wrestle tonight.

"The key for us tonight is not to give away any matches," said Pletzer. "We can't have anybody get pinned or lose if they're supposed to win in the lower weights."

Pletzer pointed to three pivotal matches which could decide the outcome. The first, and maybe the best pairing of the night, is Lake Mary's Jack Likens against Lyman's Pat Bell.

Likens took the Christmas Tournament championship at 106 pounds. Last year, he beat Bell twice, although both grapplers advanced to the state tournament. Likens is undefeated in his weight class while Bell started slowly because of an injury, but is now rounding into shape.

Another critical match is at 122 pounds where Juwan Lee of Lyman takes on Jeff Farmer, Joey Lockwood and Todd Beauchamp at 123 will also be important.

Ram coach Frank Schwartz, meanwhile, has his eye on the 115-pound weight class. "If we win 115, I think we can beat them," said Schwartz about the battle between Lake Mary's Tom Olson and Lyman's Scott Andrew, who is the freshman brother of ex-Lyman great Todd Andrew.

"It will be a very close match," continued Schwartz. "We have to get pins where we get wins to beat them."

"It'll be a very strategic match too," offered Ram assistant Doug Peters. "We

IVAN CARBIA ...rugged 101 pounder figured it up on paper and we have to get pins in the lower weights."

Tonight's pairings
Lake Mary Lyman
101 - Ivan Carbia vs. Chris Battle
108 - Jack Likens vs. Pat Bell
115 - Tom Olson vs. Scott Andrew
122 - Jeff Framer vs. Juwan Lee

Woodley Leads Dolphins Into Playoffs

MIAMI (UPI) - Young Miami Dolphins quarterback David Woodley had a big day - for him - against the Baltimore Colts Sunday.

But his critics still abound and Woodley still answers them by pointing out the score is the only number that really counts.

The third-year Louisiana State product completed 14 of 22 passes for 230 yards in the 24-7 victory at Baltimore and now has completed 84.7 percent of his passes for 1,068 yards this year for 10th in the AFC going into Saturday's first-round playoff game at home against New England (6-4). Last week he was last among the NFL's starting quarterbacks.

A general meeting of the newly organized Farmton Hunting and Sportsman's Association, which is being scheduled for 1 p.m., Sunday, at Bell Ridge in the Farmton Management area, announced Dan Pelham, president.

A board of director's meeting of the organization will be held at 7 p.m., Saturday, at Cecil Carlton's Camp at Bell Ridge.

Pelham said some 180 hunters and sportsmen from the six county Central Florida region, including Orange, Seminole, Lake, Osceola, Volusia and Brevard counties, have organized to work with the owners of the Farmton Management area, leased by the state for public use during the state hunting season, from mid-November to early January.

He said there is great concern that because of vandalism to the property during the hunting season, the Miami Land Corp., owners of the tract, might discontinue its lease with the state in favor of a more financially favorable lease with private interests.

"The landowner has notified area hunters about the amount of vandalism that has occurred as a result of the area being open to the public during the hunting season. The newly formed association will work towards reducing vandalism and repairing damage to gates and fences by hunters using the area," Pelham said.

Pro Football

"There have been about 10 or 15 things wrong with our passing attack, from bad passes on my part, to dropped balls, to wrong routes. You name it," says Woodley.

But he said the Dolphins did the same things against Baltimore they've been doing all season and, "it just worked."

Whatever his statistics, Woodley insists that winning is what really counts and he has done plenty of that this year. The Dolphins go into the playoffs seeded second in the AFC at 7-3 and Woodley has Essentially gone the distance in his last two starts.

Over the last three seasons, Woodley's won-lost record is 21-10, not including games won in relief by veteran backup Don Strock.

Asked if individual statistics really mean anything, Woodley says: "They don't really. I think if we were losing, that would be something you could point to as the reason for it. But when you're (winning), the personal stats don't really mean anything."

"They concern me insofar as I think they could be better. But I'm not really worried about how many yards I have or the rest of that," Woodley said.

Take An Activity Break; Don't Sit

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read in your column that you think bed rest can be bad. You said it can rob your bones of calcium and cause your circulation to deteriorate. I agree with you that people in nursing homes who can walk should be out of bed and active and that people staying at home should be more active than many are.

My question concerns the millions of us who must go to an office and work all day sitting. I don't think man was designed to just sit all day but was intended to be more active. Is sitting all day harmful to you? What do you recommend for us?

DEAR READER — Yes, if sitting is all you do it can cause loss of normal body functions. It is just one more example of the harmful effects of inactivity.

My colleagues and I did a study of this for the space program. We studied young men who spent the entire daytime sitting in overstuffed chairs. The inactivity gradually leads to loss of blood volume and progressive muscular weakness. The capacity to exercise diminished. We also saw this when people were confined to small spaces to simulate the space vehicles used there.

A lot of office workers, even top executives, who sit all day get "stale." By evening they are fatigued. The same applies to students sitting for hour after hour of lectures. That fatigue is chemical and is caused from disuse of muscles.

The fatigue that office workers experience is often eliminated by some enjoyable physical activity, a swim, a jog, a tennis match or a nice walk. The exercise activates the system and gives you a new surge of energy.

Anyone who must sit a lot needs an activity break, not a coffee break. The Russians have used this for years. And if nothing else, get up and walk around a bit every hour. Most companies would get more production from employees if they planned regular activity breaks, meaning physical activity — not coffee and gossip.

To give you a more complete picture of the effects of inactivity, I am sending you The Health Letter 6-6, Effects of Inactivity, Including Bed Rest. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10101.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have an 8-year-old boy, almost 9, who is five feet tall. He is the tallest in his third grade class and many children make remarks about it as well as some other crude people we are acquainted with.

What I would like to know is if you think there is a possibility of hyperthyroidism. If so, what can I do to treat it? If treated too soon, what is the possibility of brain damage? How does a person go about checking for hyperthyroidism?

DEAR READER — Your son is at the upper range of distribution curves for height for his age. Hyperthyroidism is not a cause for increased height. If he has any problem at all it is more likely to be from an excess production of growth hormone from the pituitary gland.

Should that be the case there is nothing you personally can do but your son does need to see a doctor. He may need an evaluation by an endocrinologist if there is excessive growth. He could be just maturing more rapidly than usual but I would suggest having him see your doctor for a first hand look.

For Saturday, January 8, 1983

YOUR BIRTHDAY January 8, 1983

It's to your advantage this coming year to seek office or committee work in clubs or organizations to which you belong. These involvements could develop contacts for you who can help in other areas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Going out on the town with friends today could turn out to be a bit more expensive than you anticipate. Better have some extra cash with you. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Capricorn Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to give birthdate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Goals can be achieved today without your having to be too pushy or overly assertive. Don't use more force than is necessary.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) When socializing today, let your hair down and let the real you emerge. If you tend to withdraw it may cause others to back off from you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be selective regarding those with whom you team up today in joint ventures. Try not to associate with persons who look out only for their own self-interests.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's important to clarify your objectives today. If you don't know what you want you're likely to just spin your wheels. Be purposeful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you are rendering services today, spell out what you expect to be paid for your work or there could be a misunderstanding.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Once you make a commitment or an agreement today don't look for ways to back out of it, even if it becomes inconvenient to keep your word.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This could be a very productive day today, provided you don't let persons not directly involved interfere with what you hope to accomplish.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Either schedule your day so that you can participate in fun involvements or work on tasks that need doing. Don't try to mix both.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Funds you earmark for family and household needs will be well spent. However, you might not be equally as ahead about frivolous interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Persons who come in contact with social situations today will be impressed by your warmth, wit and humor, but family members might not sing your praises.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your basic inclination today will be to treat others generously. However, don't grumble later about having done those kind deeds.

may prove right costly.

South finds himself in a very normal four-spade contract. It would probably be reached by almost any two bridge players from beginner to world champion.

The king of hearts is opened and South ducks. Sometimes there is a shift, but this West continues with the queen that South wins.

South leads a trump to dummy's ace and East drops the king. At this time South has a problem. If that king were from king-queen doubleton South should play a second trump, concede a heart and win the rubber.

If that king happened to be a singleton the play of a second trump would cost South his contract. But assuming clubs would break 3-3 South could run four clubs, discard his last heart and be home.

We aren't going into the mathematical percentages here except to say that each line of play is about as good as the other.

When we watched the hand, East opened his mouth and remarked, "I guess I should hold my hand back."

Now declarer had no problem. He knew that king had been a singleton so he ran clubs and won the rubber.

Prune And Train Grapevines To Establish Framework

YOUNG VINES
Regardless of the training system, training and pruning of muscadine grapevines during the first years of growth have the same object—to establish as rapidly as possible the main framework, which consists of the trunk and fruiting arms.

If the vines receive good care during this formative period and if growing conditions are favorable, they will bear some fruit the third summer. Neglecting pruning and training during the formative period may delay full bearing for as long as five years.

During the first two years, pruning and training are the same for an overhead arbor as for a trellis. During the second summer, four canes are trained on four wires of an overhead arbor for future arms. All other shoots are removed during the summer. In the dormant season January-February, the vine is pruned to a trunk and four radiating arms. During the third summer, four additional arms are developed on the other four wires, for a total of eight arms. Other growth may be removed during the summer.

The year after the vines are set out, get as much length growth as possible on canes being trained for fruiting arms. They will bear fruit the following year, and that will slow down length growth. If growth is slow or weak during the formative period, cut back to vigorous wood during the dormant season.

BEARING VINES

After the framework has been established, prune each year during the dormant season January-February. Cutting back shoot growth is the principal pruning needed during the first few years. Remove all shoots not needed for spurs and fruiting arms. Cut other shoots back to short spurs, each with three or four buds.

As the vines get older, they develop clusters of spurs or spur systems. Eventually, overcrowding will result unless some of the spurs, or entire clusters of spurs, are removed. Overcrowding causes weak shoot growth, reduced fruit-bud formation and poor fruit set after flowering. Removing some of the spurs will induce the growth of strong new shoots from the arm. These can then be developed into new spurs to replace older ones.

Shoots should grow to at least three-sixteenths of an inch in diameter and 1½ feet long. If they do not attain this size, it is usually an indication that the vine needs severe pruning, such as thinning the number of spurs per arm, shortening the length of the arm, or removing one or more arms.

Too many vigorous spurs frequently are left at the top of the trunk with both the trellis and overhead arbor systems of training. Prevent this condition by removing most of the spur systems at the top of the trunk.

With the vertical trellis system of training, renew only arms that are no longer vigorous. After a vine on an overhead arbor is 4 or 5 years old and in full bearing, renew one arm each year by cutting off an old arm and training a new cane that arises from the top of the main trunk. To prevent death by girdling, remove all tendrils that encircle the trunk or arms. Tendrils will also girdle and kill spurs, but the loss of a spur is comparatively unimportant.

Vines may be pruned at any time during the dormant season, but if they are pruned soon after leaf fall, less bleeding will occur. Late pruning may cause the vine to bleed heavily in mild weather, but there is no evidence that the bleeding injures the vine. The possibility of bleeding should not keep one from pruning.

All Extension Programs are open to anyone regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

DeMattio-Robinson Wedding

Julie Ann DeMattio and James Robinson were united in Holy Matrimony Dec. 18, 1982, at 2 p.m., at the First United Methodist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Michael T. Shirley of Venice performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. DeMattio, 1515 Douglas Ave., Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Blackburn of Venice.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a chapel length organza and Chantilly lace gown. The fitted lace bodice featured a scooped neckline and full bishop sleeves. Lace insets highlighted the slim skirt that cascaded into a graceful chapel train. A lace cap secured her veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white roses and daisies.

Mrs. Arlene Dudley attended her sister as matron of honor. She wore a wine-colored soft knit gown fashioned with spaghetti straps and topped with a lace jacket. She carried a crimson long-stemmed rose and wore a spray of wine-tinted baby's breath in her hair.

Bridesmaids were Melissa DeMattio, sister of the bride, Marcia Siskind and Helene Ritchie. Their frothy rose gowns were similar to the honor attendant's and each carried a single long-stemmed rose.

Junior bridesmaids were Dori Sapp and Bethany Buffington, nieces of the bride. They wore frothy rose taffeta gowns and each carried a nosegay of pink roses and white carnations.

Jim Schooley of Venice served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Brian These, Todd Klevit and John Rathburn of Venice.

Flower girls were Heather Dudley and Sabreena Sapp nieces of the bride.

Following a reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall, Sanford, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to Daytona Beach. They are making their home in San Diego, Calif. where both are electronic technicians in the United States Navy.

Family And Friends Visit To Herald The New Year

Many Geneva folks have had company or family visiting during and since the Holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Henson have been having a grand time with Belinda's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Bays from Culloden, W. Va.

The Bays arrived the week before Christmas and have been doing with grandchildren Amy, Shawn and Katie. They have also been stealing away to Mullet Lake Park to get in a little fishing (something you definitely can't do this time of year "up North").

Another family having an influx of relatives are the Bob Browns of Chuluota. Three of Lois' sisters, Vertran Seay and Edna Haines of Mableton, Ga., and Arlene Hayden and son Robby Fender of Montgomery, Ala., arrived to swell the family dinner table to an even dozen.

When mom and pop, Bill and Louise Crowder of Austell, Ga., got here a day later, the Browns only had to find beds

The entire family, including Rhonda and David, left Larry to batch it while they drove to Winter Haven and West Palm Beach visiting more of Jackie's side of the family.

Larry said he wasn't minding the solitude one little bit — except it was a bit quiet at times.

for 14 people.

Lois says, "The only members of my family missing were our sisters, Ann Gonzalez and Joan Jordan — and they missed the Christmas gathering because Ann's daughter had a baby Dec. 28."

After Lois' family left, her daughter, Debbie McConnell moved to Montgomery with her Aunt Arlene. Debbie is a hairdresser and has worked at the Ponytail in Oviedo.

Jackie and Larry Herman's holidays were made a little brighter when their son, Doug Tindall, and Jackie's mom, Gladys Merritt, came in from Greenville, S.C.

Don't know exactly what is going on early in the morning on Lake Geneva Drive. But it looks like the beginnings of a Physical Fitness Club.

If you venture out between 6:30 and 7:00 a.m., you may see two or three enthusiasts doing early morning calisthenics at the side of the road just before they take off jogging or bicycling.

The reason for all this inside information is that these "fitness freaks" give me a bird's eye view from my bedroom window.

Now that the secret's out, if you have been looking for a few "birds of a feather" to work out with, you can find them just east of the elementary school almost seven days a week.

Birthday Observed

Mrs. Victoria Burton, 115 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, celebrated her 75th birthday Dec. 18, 1982 at the home of her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson.

Friends and family gathered to honor Mrs. Burton at this gala event. A birthday dinner was served to the guests and a special "Happy Birthday" was sung by her grands and great grands.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Leo Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Steward, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Johnny B. Miller and daughter Melodie, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Steward, Sr., Thelma Watson, Connie Sutton, Almeda Singleton,

VICTORIA BURTON
Melinda Ballard, Rhonda Hankerson Carswell, Clarence Hankerson and daughter Valencia, Tashara and Zakiya.

Writers' Seminar

Three Central Florida authors and an editor will be featured at the Florida Freelance Writers Association's (FFWA) all-day seminar to be held Saturday, Feb. 19, at the Best Western Catalina Inn, Orlando.

Dr. M. Timothy O'Keefe, instructor in communication law at UCF and established outdoor writer, will discuss "How to Avoid Legal Problems," including libel, plagiarism, copyright, and contracts.

Bill Belleville, a full-time freelancer from Altamonte Springs, will discuss "Writing for Men's Magazines." Belleville's credits include Out, Chic, Saga, Cavalier, etc.; and he says this is an extremely lucrative market — for both men and women.

Dianne Selditch, editor of the Orlando Sentinel's "Florida Magazine," will tell attendees how to write for and sell to the vast "Sunday Magazine Section Market."

FFWA executive director Dana Cassell, a full-time freelance writer in Port St. Lucie, will discuss "The Non-Fiction Book Proposal," covering how to sell your book idea to a publisher, from initial query through outline and sample chapters.

For further information, contact Dana Cassell, FFWA, 214 Solaz Ave., Port St. Lucie 33452; 305-878-2328.

Money To Preacher Will Not Ensure Miracle Cure

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is eating my insides out. I started writing to a TV evangelist because I have multiple sclerosis. I know he is well-respected, in touch with God and does many good things. The problem is that he always wants more money. I sent him $100. Then he wrote to me personally and told me that something great was going to happen to me, but I had to send him another $100 first — even if I had to save my pennies and get the money any way I could!

I believe in God with all my heart and strive to be a good person, but, Abby, I can't take food from my children's mouths because this man says God will do something good for me if I do. That comes very close to saying that God can be bought.

My husband is very angry with me because I sent as much as I did. I would like to be free of my disease, but I will not deny my family the necessities in order to send this man money. Please tell me something positive about these TV evangelists. I'm beginning to believe that all they want is my money — money that I don't have.

God understands. Why can't they?

GOT TO KNOW

DEAR GOT TO KNOW: It's unfair to tar all evangelists with the same brush. Many inspire their followers to be better people — to be kinder to their fellow men and have faith in the Lord.

God cannot be bought nor does he reserve his blessings for those who send money to a TV evangelist.

DEAR ABBY: I am being married in the near future. My father is living, but my mother is deceased. However, my mother is with me in spirit all the time.

Is there any way I can tactfully acknowledge my mother on my wedding invitations?

REMEMBERING MAMA

DEAR REMEMBERING: You might identify yourself as the daughter of "Mr. () and the late Mrs. ()." It is not usually done, but if it will give you pleasure, I see no reason why you shouldn't do it.

DEAR ABBY: About the business of writing a thank-you note on the reverse of a canceled check: What is this world coming to? Anyone who can't find the time to write a decent thank-you note for a check doesn't deserve the gift. If it's just an added gesture while endorsing the check, I take it back, but I dash off a "thanks" on the back of the check and consider that adequate thanks is the pits.

In my case, I don't even receive canceled checks. All I get is a statement from the credit union, and I imagine that the day is coming when all checks will be handled in that fashion. Thanks for letting me have my say.

CHECK-WRITING GRANDMA

Every teen-ager should know the truth about drugs, sex and hot to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P. O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90633.

DEAR ABBY: I am a married woman (mid-30s), wife and mother, who has always been overly modest. I just hate going to my doctor for a physical — the kind where you have to take off everything, get up on the examining table, etc.

If I could do it myself, I certainly would. But, Abby, I can check my own breasts for lumps, and I do.

Would it be obnoxious of me to tell my doctor I'd rather do it myself? (Check my breasts.) I think he enjoys doing this, as I am oversized.

MODEST TO A FAULT

DEAR MODEST: It would be more foolish than obnoxious. In the first place, don't assume that your doctor "enjoys" checking for lumps. He gets as much enjoyment from it as a grocer checking for an overripe cantaloupe. You are paying for his professional expertise; use it to the fullest.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old and just finished 11th grade. I flunked one semester of social studies, so now my dad has to pay $80 for me to go to night school to make it up. I don't want to go to night school in the first place, but he says if I don't go, I can't drive, and you know how important driving is to a kid my age.

Anyway, get this, Abby, my dad is making me pay back the $80. Do you think he is being fair?

MAD

DEAR MAD: Yes. And wise, too.

Decorating Class

Two noncredit short courses in Housing and Home Decoration (Interior Decorating) will begin in late January at Seminole Community College. These classes will meet in the fully equipped Interior Design facilities for 8 weeks. The cost of each class is $10.00.

This is a beginning class where the student will learn some basic skills of a decorator. Furniture groupings and arrangements, color coordination and selections, scale drawing and period furniture styles are some of the items to be covered.

The 8-week day class will meet Tuesday mornings, beginning Jan. 25 from 9 to 12.

The 8-week evening class will meet Thursday evenings, beginning Jan. 27 from 7 to 10.

Capitol Hill Drug Use Probe On Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An investigation of alleged drug use on Capitol Hill, including charges of cocaine use just off the floor of the House of Representatives, has resumed, NBC News reports.

The network quoted a police detective initially involved in the case as saying the investigation once could have involved a dozen or more members of Congress. But he said it probably will not because it was hampered at the start by a lack of prosecutors' aggressiveness.

In a nationally televised report Thursday, NBC said a grand jury resumed the investigation this week at the federal courthouse just a few blocks from the Capitol.

Justice Department sources contacted Thursday night confirmed the investigation remains open but declined to comment further.

"Federal investigators have been told that cocaine has been brought into this room just off the House floor — the Democratic cloakroom — a members-only lounge for Democrats in the House," NBC reporter Brian Ross said. "A number of employees here have been subpoenaed before the grand jury, which has already heard testimony from about 60 witnesses."

"Federal authorities say the grand jury investigation also involves a Republican — former Congressman Barry Goldwater Jr. of California," Ross said. Michael Hubbard, a District of Columbia police detective initially involved in the investigation who is now off the case, said the investigation "perhaps could have gone as far as a dozen or more members" of Congress.

Hubbard told NBC he has doubts the case will continue much further because prosecutors at first did not want to bring charges against congressmen for simply using small amounts of drugs.

"Time was very crucial in this investigation as in any other investigation," Hubbard said, "and timing was of critical importance and we've lost a great deal of it in this investigation."

Asked if cocaine still is being sold on Capitol Hill, Hubbard said, "There's no question."

In December, the House Ethics Committee said there was no evidence of narcotics or homosexual activity among members of Congress, but that two investigations were continuing — one a drug case involving a House employee, and the other about a sex matter.

Last year, Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., who is no longer in Congress, let undercover agents work in his office to investigate alleged drug use on Capitol Hill and said nine members were being investigated. Goldwater's name was one that came up, but he denied involvement.

PSC Staff Recommends Southern Bell Get $87.5 Million Rate Hike

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Public Service Commission staff recommended today that Southern Bell Telephone Co. get an $87.5 million interim rate increase.

Southern Bell is seeking a $404 million annual permanent rate hike for its Florida operations, including $178.5 million of that on a temporary basis.

The PSC will meet Jan. 18 to decide whether to give the utility any interim rate hike.

The PSC staff not only recommended that half of the company's interim rate hike be rejected, it also took issue with Southern Bell plans to boost residential charges more than business charges.

Staffers submitted a plan that would have less impact on residential customers than Southern Bell had proposed.

Southern Bell got a $140 million rate hike from the PSC about a year ago, but it had sought a much larger boost, so the new rate hike request it filed with the PSC in November was expected.

The $404 million rate increase, if granted, would be the biggest ever for Southern Bell's Florida operations.

Southern Bell has proposed a 42 percent boost in the monthly fee for basic residential telephone services to generate most of the money for its interim rate hike. The basic rate for business services would go up 27 percent.

The PSC staff recommended, instead, an 8.6 percent increase for nearly all of Southern Bell's services.

"The proposed spread of revenues places a disproportionate amount of the interim revenue increase on flat-rate residential customers," the staff said.

Produce Label Collecting Is Mmmm Mmmm Good! But The Fad Hasn't Caught On Locally

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Some people collect stamps. Others prefer butterflies or baseball cards. And many people find coin collecting a rewarding pastime.

But a Seminole County woman has a unique hobby which she hopes to turn into a money-making venture.

Elaine Welson of 7315 Cook Lane near Casselberry, collects vegetable labels. These aren't your everyday garden variety vegetable labels, these are vintage labels, real rare stuff.

Mrs. Welson's collection is from the 1930s and 40s when produce companies shipped their wares in crates rather than cans.

Her interest in vegetable labels comes from her grandfather, James Flood, who moved the produce shipping firm his father started in the late 1800s from Chicago to the Imperial Valley of California.

The Imperial Valley is a boom area for fruit and vegetables production. Its warm climate and available water for irrigation made it to vegetables what Texas is to oil.

Farming became big business and the men involved with it were proud of their products. They displayed this pride in the distinctive labels which were attached to every crate shipped to the eastern markets.

"They paid lots of money to have artists design their labels," Mrs. Welson says. The labels were usually a reflection of the owners' character. Her grandfather's Flood label had the word FLOOD in large three-dimensional letters, denoting strength amidst a downpour of rain.

"He never liked that one much," Mrs. Welson confides.

Other producers chose to use celebrities for their labels. Ginger Rogers posed for the label of Dancing Lady lettuce. Olympic skating star Sonja Henie was the model for the Kreme de Koke label. And actress Maureen O'Sullivan modeled for the Irish Beauty label.

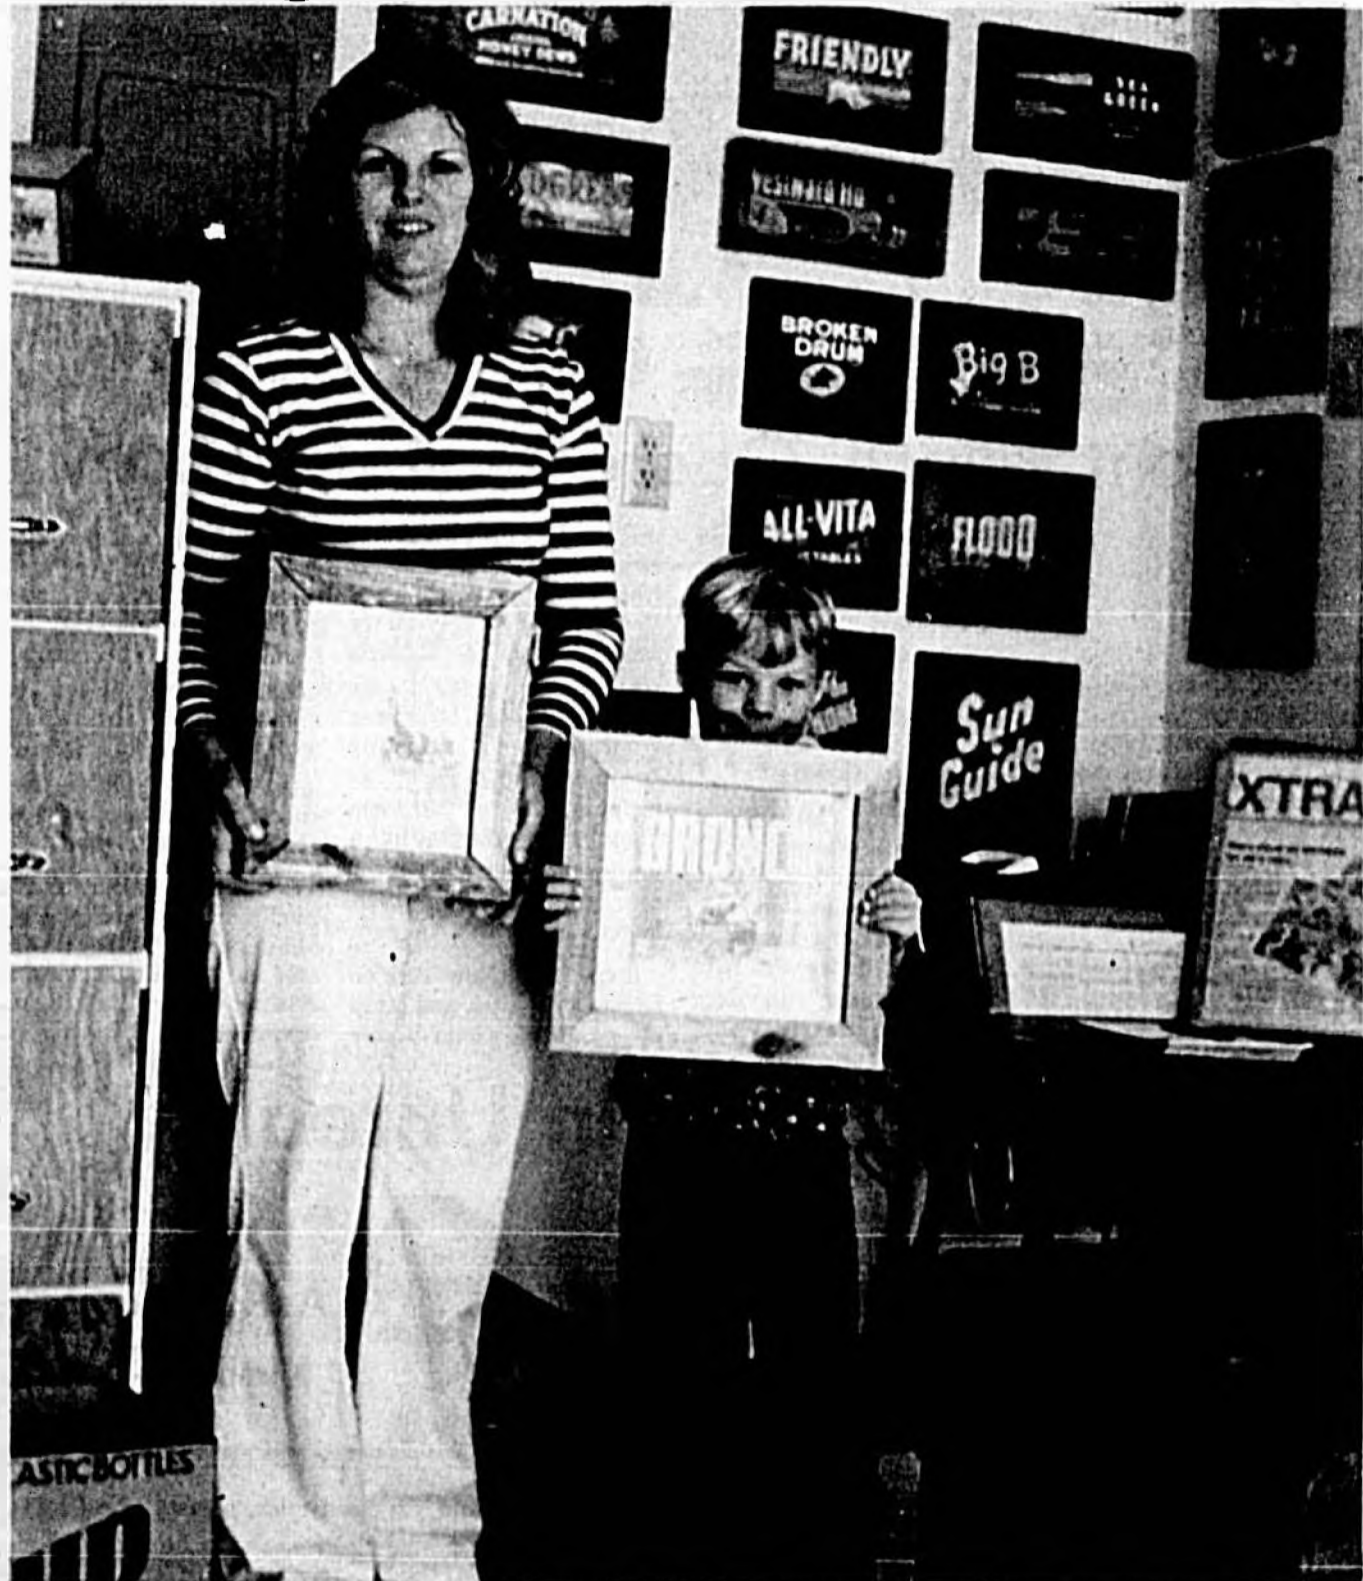

Another producer chose risqué names and illustrations for his labels. Buxom Melons, for example, used drawings that amply illustrated what the names implied.

Other labels from the same producer were Mexicall Rose, which featured a Mexican girl in a provocative pose, and Foot High, which had a leggy blonde lying on her back with her foot high in the air.

"There was a lot of complaining about his labels from church groups," Mrs. Welson says.

Mrs. Welson's family stumbled into the unusual hobby after vegetable label collecting became popular in California. Her grandfather had a storehouse full of old labels that had been kept since the company closed down in the early 1950s.

Bad but lucky

According to TV critic David Handler, the only thing keeping 'Gloria' from getting the ax is the fact that it's situated in CBS' strong Sunday night lineup. On its own, the show "wouldn't make it." Page 5.

It's Fred Travena's business to be funny; he's one of the hottest impressionists around. But when it comes to the subject of Vietnam veterans, Travena is serious and dedicated. Find out why on Page 7.

Up from obscurity

From utter theatrical obscurity to a co-starring role in a major motion picture doing love scenes with Sean Connery was a giant, but rather quick, leap for rising star Betsy Brantley. Her story is on Page 8.

A touch of old Germany brings excitement to the operetta "The Student Prince" which will be staged at Ormond Beach's Peabody Auditorium Jan. 15.

'Student Prince' Operetta At Peabody

"The Student Prince," the most frequently performed operetta in the world since its premiere in 1924, is coming to Ormond Beach's Peabody Auditorium at 8 p.m. January 15.

"The Student Prince" includes at least eight melodies which have given theatre-goers more reasons for humming and whistling than songs from any other Broadway show. Most unforgettable of these is "Deep In My Heart, Dear," but there are also such perennial favorites as

"Serenade," "Golden Days," and "Just We Two," plus rousing male chorus numbers, like "The Drinking Song," and "The Student's March."

The musical tells the story of a young prince attending Heidelberg University incognito, and a beer garden waitress with whom he falls in love. It is based on a short story published in Germany in 1899, and two years later dramatized under the title "Old Heidelberg." In 1902, an English version was presented by the Shuberts in New York, under the title "When All the World Was Young." It was only mildly successful, but the Shuberts retained the rights to the play, and 15 years later, they commissioned Dorothy Donnelly, author of the highly successful "Blossom Time," to turn the play into a musical, with music by their own contract composer, Sigmund Romberg.

It opened in New York on December 2, 1924, and broke all existing records for Broadway musicals, with a 76-week run of 608 performances. But even more remarkable was the aftermath of that record-breaking run. For the following two years, there were nine road companies simultaneously touring the country, one of which played Chicago for a full year.

Tickets for the single performance are $12.75, $10.75 and $8.75. They are on sale at the Altamonte and Fashion Square Mall ticket agencies.

Hollywood Deals In Unreality

DEAR DICK: I hope you can help me find out about the adorable little dolls that are always on "Laverne and Shirley." For years I have wanted to find out who they belong to. I collect dolls and love seeing them. Do they belong to one of the girls? L.S., Angelus Oaks, Calif.

DEAR DICK: We are trying to find the house blueprints that were used to build the Waltons' house. Can you help us? P.M., Nixa, Mo.

The class will now be in session: We will learn today that Hollywood deals in unreality, and we must never believe that what we see on the screen is the truth. The "Laverne and Shirley" dolls were simply assembled by the prop department, who went out and bought dolls, as ordered by the set designer. As for the Waltons' house, there never was one. There is a facade, on the back lot of the Burbank studio, where they shot the exterior scenes on the porch and around the property. The interiors were on Stage 26 at the studio, where they built living room and kitchen sets, as needed. Hollywood is a land of total make-believe.

DEAR DICK: My question is about the TV show "Dynasty." The opening shots show a large estate. Could you please identify it for me? My husband says it is the Cherry Creek Country Club in Denver. I say it is somewhere around Evergreen, Colo. Also, are the interiors filmed in Hollywood or in this building? J.A.N., Bordentown, N.J.

The estate is the Filoli Mansion, in San Mateo, Calif. All the interiors are filmed on a Hollywood sound stage.

DEAR DICK: My husband (who always thinks he's right) and I have been arguing about who starred in the movie "Silent Partner." I say it was George Segal. He says it was

Ask Dick
Kleiner

Elliott Gould. Could you clarify this, please? UNSIGNED, Lethbridge, Alberta, Canada

The reason your husband thinks he's always right is probably because he is. The movie starred Gould, with Christopher Plummer and Susannah York.

DEAR DICK: On the show "Knight Rider," what kind of car does Michael drive? G.A., Bloomington, Ind.

According to the NBC people, on whose network that car tootles along, they started with an '82 Pontiac Trans-Am Firebird, then modified the front, rear and put in a totally new dashboard. The modifications were done by a car designer named Michael Scheffe. They have several of the cars, incidentally, just in case.

DEAR DICK: Are Charo and Eva Gabor sisters? It seems to me Charo was on "The Mike Douglas Show" and claimed that was so. Please let me know. WAITING, Chatham, N.B., Canada

Maybe sisters in the great sorority of ladies in show biz, but that's all. Certainly not blood relatives — Charo is Spanish and Eva is Hungarian.

Greene, Henson, Guinness On PBS SATURDAY

January 8

There's a whole lot brewing on PBS this week:

For film buffs, there's Jim Henson kicking off the week with a behind-the-scenes look at his new, long-awaited, Muppet-less feature film, "The Dark Crystal."

Called "The World of Dark Crystal," the PBS program, airing Sunday, Jan. 9, takes viewers into the world of the Gelflings, the two childlike heroes of the story; the Skeksis, the villains; and the Urru, philosophers and mystics who spur on the Gelflings to save the world from the Skeksis.

It's a complex, intricate, many-layered world that is at once beautiful and frightening — and well worth a look.

A truly frightening subject is covered in "Hitler's Night of the Humming Bird," playing Wednesday, Jan. 12. Sir Hugh Greene, former director of the BBC, traces the events that led to Hitler's reign, through the eyewitness accounts of survivors.

Operation Humming Bird was the code name given to the murders of hundreds of Hitler's former followers suspected of opposing his rule. It began on June 30, 1934 when Hitler raided the Bavarian hotel where Ernst Roehm, the leader of 4 million brown-shirts, was sleeping.

Two reprisals worth mentioning: "Ian McKellen Acting Shakespeare," to be rebroadcast Saturday, Jan. 15, is the one-man celebration of the bard's works. The 90-minute special stars McKellen performing from the plays of his favorite playwright. The play originally ran on Broadway, after presentations in Scotland, Israel, Norway, Denmark, Sweden and Britain.

And, in the final two-hour episode of "Tinker, Tailor, Soldier, Spy," airing Monday, Jan. 10, the identity of the double agent is finally revealed. Sir Alec Guinness stars in the acclaimed "Great Performances" presentation.

(Local times may vary for all of the above presentations; check listings.)

SUNDAY

January 9

'Gloria' Is A Real Stinker

By DAVID HANDLER
 "Gloria" isn't a very good show, but it is a lucky one. CBS has given it a spot in its all-powerful Sunday night lineup. Such slotting has kept even as terminal a case as "Trapper John, M.D." alive and well.

New York with 8-year-old son, Joey (Christian Jacobs), to find herself. And, we must hope, finally grow up. Unfortunately, our setting is too insulated and our subsidiary characters too sketchily drawn for any of this to happen.

Gloria lands a job scrubbing cages for a genial small-town veterinarian, Dr. Willard Adams (Burgess Meredith). Since she and Joey move into Adams' cozy old house, he's put in the position of being a substitute Archie Bunker. Though he is somewhat fatherly, he exerts no particular influence over Gloria.

How about some humorous domestic feuding? Nope. Everybody gets along fine. She: "I won't wash your shorts." He: "I don't wear any."

On its own, "Gloria" probably wouldn't make it. It's a meager, poorly thought-out spin-off of the Sally Struthers character from "All in the Family." The whole setup feels like it was thrown together in the parking lot five minutes before the producers pitched it to the network.

You have to wonder if "Gloria" would work even with a sound structure. You'd still be stuck with a whiny, unpleasant brat for a lead character, and a star who isn't strong enough to hold our interest.

Our other regular is Clark (Lou Richards), the nerdy vet's assistant and resident would-be swinger. He has no command over animals or women. A jerk. Useless.

But we'll never know. The lineup is simply going to carry "Gloria."

This is a single-mom-starting-over show. After 12 years of marriage, the Meathead has moved into a commune with his college homecoming queen. Little Gloria runs away to upstate New York with 8-year-old son, Joey (Christian Jacobs), to find herself. And, we must hope, finally grow up.

The stories are designed to put Gloria to the test as a new single and as a parent. Since "Gloria" offers us such anemic writing and blah subsidiary characters, we have no choice but to demand that Miss Struthers carry the show. She can't. She isn't likeable or funny enough, to put it bluntly. Still, "Gloria" is going to stick. Maybe I'll tune in again in 1994 for Joey's wedding.

'Buffalo Bill'

Also in production for NBC, a comedy series called "Buffalo Bill," starring Dabney Coleman, John Fiedler and Joanna Cassidy. Coleman stars as Bill Bittinger, the overbearing star of "The Buffalo Bill Show," which is produced by the timid Woody (Fiedler) and directed by Joanna White (Miss Cassidy), with whom Bittinger was once romantically linked. Coleman is a film veteran, most recently appearing in "On Golden Pond" and "9 to 5."

NEW YORK (UPI) — An interview with Fred Travelena is an interview with a crowd. Ask him a question and Richard Nixon is likely to answer. Provide the peg and Lyndon Johnson will hang his hat on it — if he can get there ahead of Frank Sinatra or Jake LaMotta.

Travelena, impressionist star of nightclub and television game and talk show circuits, is a very funny man — until the subject of Vietnam veterans is raised. On that subject, Travelena mimicks no man. He is himself — serious, dedicated and impassioned.

"President Reagan is working on this, or at least he's trying to," Travelena said. "He's the only president who's ever done it. Everyone else just puts it on the back burner."

Travelena's activism doesn't fit the mold poured by some of his more combative colleagues. He is neither a Jane Fonda nor an Ed Asner, but he works on his cause as hard as they do on theirs.

"I'm not in politics," he said. "I don't go out and march in the streets or campaign. I'm a family man with two kids and I'm in show business ... But if someone's drowning in the river, you don't just walk away."

Travelena first became aware that someone might be drowning when the Air Force saw his act at President Reagan's inaugural ball and asked him to stage its annual Washington concert.

Two days later, Iran announced the release of the American hostages, and from that point on, Travelena was just one step ahead of an avalanche.

He decided to dedicate the Air Force show to the hostages and found everyone else trying to climb aboard his bandwagon. First it was the Vietnam vets, then it was the disabled vets, then it was the POW families.

Travelena put all of them in the show, but in the course of juggling all their interests, he met Ann Mills Griffin of the National League of Families of the POWs who showed him evidence indicating several American soldiers still are being held captive by the Vietnamese.

"She said there were still POWs believed to be alive in Vietnam and she sent me some documentation and testimony which I read and found I couldn't sleep for worrying about it," he said. "I started doing television shows and I went to the National League convention where I met the families of

'It was people watching bodies being loaded on helicopters and not knowing if it was their boy. The reality that war is insanity finally struck home...'

— John Travelena

these men and then I was really hooked. It really became real to me. Those families had been sitting very somberly for ten years, trying to figure out some way to get the machinery of this world to help them."

They found a good mechanic in Travelena.

His Air Force show is history now, and he still does devastating impressions of just about everyone in the Celebrity Register, all the while trying to sell the networks or the syndicates a pilot he has developed for his own comedy show, "Just for Laughs."

Now, however, Travelena spends his spare time on the phone, recruiting fellow celebrities — Bob Hope, William Shatner, Jiyne Kennedy, Donna Dixon among them — to his cause.

It hasn't been easy. The Vietnam war still brings a flush of shame to most Americans — to the detriment of those who were forced to fight it.

"Things were done there that were not something American soldiers did," Travelena said. "We saw it on television — little children lying all over ... old people. It wasn't a John Wayne movie any more."

"It was people watching bodies being loaded on helicopters and not knowing if it was their boy. The reality that war is insanity finally struck home ... People didn't want to deal with that. It caused riots ... it caused dissention."

"It was not a good time for America."

Nor will it be, in Travelena's view, until the last living American, if any truly are left, is home from the war.

"I just feel that with the spirit of forgiveness that is now in us for the Vietnam war, it is time for us to explore the possibilities that there are men still over there," he said.

"If it's one, it's too many."
