Shuttle Explodes

Disaster On Lift-Off; All Aboard Killed

Exploded shuttle Challenger leaves streaks in sky as seen just before 11:45 a.m. today from Sanford.

From Staff and Wire Reports

CAPE CANAVERAL — The space shuttle Challenger exploded two minutes after take off today from Kennedy Space Center. The explosion was not survivable, NASA officials said.

According to reports from the scene, where the craft was launched at 11:38 a.m., everything was normal with the launch until two minutes after liftoff there was a sudden explosion. The craft veered wildly out of control and fell into the Atlantic Ocean, followed by a massive trail of fire.

Officials said it would be impossible for the crew, including the first civilian in space, teacher Christa McAuliffe, to survive the explosion.

There has been no official confirmation that the entire seven person crew perished with the craft, but officials said there was no way for them to escape the shuttle.

Dan Rather, CBS anchorman, said one theory is that iceicles due to Florida's hard freeze this morning may have caused one of the solid rocket boosters to explode.

A brilliant ball of incandescent flame erupted when the $1.1 billion shuttle exploded. A piece of the spaceship — possibly a solid rocket booster — twisted away as the main body of the orbiter careened through a blue sky, out of control from the unbalanced thrust.

Multiple contrails could be seen streaking through the sky as Challenger arced out over the Atlantic and debris fell into the sea.

The crew included commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, co-pilot Michael Smith, Judith Resnik, Ellison Onizuka, Ronald McNair, commercial engineer Gregory Jarvis and New Hampshire teacher McAuliffe, who received an apple from ground crews before boarding the spaceship today.

The explosion occurred as the Challenger approached the speed of sound, considered the period of maximum stress on the spacecraft, and was located directly over the beaches of the Atlantic Ocean. The craft impacted water 18 miles downrange, NASA officials said.

Freeze Milder, Than Expected

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

"It looks like we came out very well. It didn't get as low as we had expected," Seminole County Cooperative Extension Manager Uday Yadav said this morning after an anxious night of below freezing temperatures for citrus and vegetable growers.

There were few cold related incidents in Seminole, but the increased demand for electricity caused a major power outage west of Sanford along the Longwood-Markham Road, Florida Power and Light District Engineer Bruce Stephenson said.

Stephenson reported that 300-400 households, or 750-1,000 people, were without power for up to 20 minutes. The power company also experienced blown fuses at transformers and minor wind related outages until 9 p.m. Monday.

Yadav said it got down to around 22 degrees in Seminole County, but because it was down for less than four hours before starting to rise the ornamentals and citrus have probably escaped severe damage this time. He said the coldest spot he had found in the area was a 19 degrees at Apopka. "It is the low-lying areas we're concerned about," he said.

In Seminole County there is also concern about the vegetable crops. Yadav said crops such as cabbage and carrots are tender and now being harvested. He said, "We'll have the real picture on the vegetable crops after tomorrow."

Yadav said cold temperatures are expected again tonight but should not get down as low as last night.

Purple Martins Due In Town

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

While Sanford City Crews were busy Monday cleaning out purple martin houses along the lakefront in anticipation of the arrival of these harbingers of spring, local experts were at odds over the ETA (estimated time of arrival) of the birds.

Although they may disagree over the date, the purple martin fans agree on how much they are looking forward to their return.

Parks and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan said he expects the birds to begin arriving at least by mid-February. He said the houses were first put up five years ago to entice the purple martins to nest along Lake Monroe in an effort to eliminate the blind mosquito (midge) problem in Sanford.

Jernigan said the houses have apparently done the trick as there is 90 percent occupancy by Purple Martins each spring. Since they were purchased by various groups and individuals and erected by the city, but he said, some have been lost, stolen, or damaged by storms and have had to be replaced.

The idea of recruiting Purple Martins to fight blind mosquitoes here originated with Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce member Vic Arnett after he read a story in the Evening Herald about the town of Griggsville, Ill., building martin houses to attract the birds, which would in turn eat mosquitoes (the biting kind).

Arnett, who lives at 122 Crystal View South, put up a

Paulucci Sues Sanford

By Karen Talley
and

The Yankee Lake legal battle heated up once again Monday as entrepreneur Jenio Paulucci's Heathrow Land Development Corp. filed suit against Sanford, the city's five commissioners and its manager, Frank Falson. The suit claims the city interfered in the corporation's contractual agreement with Seminole County regarding its purchase of Yankee Lake and the sewage treatment it was to provide Heathrow.

Just hours after being served with the suit, Sanford commissioners voted unanimously to invite former Yankee Lake owner Paulucci, the county and the DER to meet with them before the land dispute returns to court on Feb. 3.

Today, the DER district manager Steve Fox said his agency will "cautiously" step into the Yankee Lake land fracas by sending three of its department heads to meet with representatives of Seminole County, Sanford and Paulucci.

However, according to Fox, the DER "is uncertain" whether its personnel will be able to attend a convening this week. The DER "will try, but we can't make any guarantees," he said.

The Sanford invitation was extended during Monday night's city commission meeting. According to Mayor Bettye Smith, the request to meet with the county and Paulucci during this week stands, regardless of the Paulucci suit and whether the DER will be able to attend.

The mayor said "it is imperative" that discussions be held "before we go back to court."

Harriett: Police Got Bum Rap In Writing Skills Story

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Although he didn't enroll in the writing class 12 of his men voluntarily utilized to improve their crime reporting skills, Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett says the offering provided him with a valuable lesson nonetheless.

"It's incredible how things can get blown way out of proportion," he said of the undertaking that garnered his department national — and derogatory — attention in the media last week.

What began three months ago as a free offer from Seminole Community College, "to help our men enhance and refine their writing skills," was "erroneously" described by area media as being "something we were looking for to improve our 'sub-standard' reports," Harriett said.

This "misinformation" then went national, after one medium gave its story to a news service "and we ended up getting a pretty bad deal," he said.

The department, according to Harriett, "would certainly have a real problem," if its officers were handing in reports that recounted criminal activity the way the press handled information regarding the writing course.

Otherwise, what the men are doing "is nothing more than taking advantage of a free program to improve on an important area of their work," he said.

"I never said our reports were 'criminal,' or that the men were required to take the course," Harriett said. "But that's what they had me saying and it ended up souring a good situation."

Harriett, however, said he still views the program in a favorable light. Once a week, Seminole College English professor Glenda McClure comes to the Sanford police station and works with the men for an hour on their writing skills.

"Through exercises," they sharpen their abilities," said Harriett, who termed the men's efforts "appreciated, but not at all mandatory. If they want to take it, that's fine. If not, that's fine too."

For the 12 men who did enroll, Harriett said the reports they hand in now "are pretty much the same" as those they turned in before taking the course.

"If anything, the reports are more concise. It's more of a time

A Night With The SWAT Team

Undercover Cop Shot, But We're Out Of The Woods

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer
(Final of three parts)

At last, the bad guy's vehicle rumbles in the distance. We see headlights approaching. What a relief! We'll soon be out of this mess. But, wait. He drives past the tent site. He's coming on down the road.

I can't believe it, the clown has turned off the road and is headed through the woods right at us. We scurry like rats deeper into the brush. This can't be for real, but this guy isn't stopping.

Seminole SWAT deputy Tom Rajchel gives me a push further into the thicket and I'm face to face with the tree I was longing to meet just minutes before.

The bad guy stops about eight feet from me. He parks right beside some of the guys, before he backs out, altering the shape of the mud holes making them easier to cross later.

I can't believe it. I just didn't take it seriously that this guy was really going to try to run right over us. After all this is only a practice.

We stand again to wait in the dark and cold. The bad guy arrives at the tent, meets his cohorts, the agent is proven to be a cop and "shot."

It's the worst possible situation.

The bad guys start taunting the "pigs." They've killed one, they'll kill them all, unless they come out of the woods to "talk." They know we're out there and the good guys begin to taunt back.

The "talk" turns into an exchange of verbal abuse and then gunfire. Though they're shooting blanks, the bang and flashes are for real. It feels like it could be the real thing and I'm leaning against and behind my tree, not knowing who is out there or where they might be.

Flares light the sky and colors emitted from special weapons cut across the trees to mark the bad guys for death.

The bad guys boast they've killed another pig. That means Seminole's John E. Negri, who had gone to the front as a SWAT sniper, is "dead."

I don't know how the "situation" ended. Since it wasn't for real I didn't bother with a body count. When the guns stop blazing we walk out of the woods and onto the road where the top bad guy's vehicle is.

It's about 3:30 a.m. Looking at an hour's hike back out of the woods, Negri approaches the Orange County sheriff's deputy Eric Dahl (not a SWAT team member) who is driving the vehicle and asks him to give me a ride back.

Dahl, who if he wasn't east as the major bad guy should have been, says the space is filled, but I could be tied to the top of the vehicle if I want to ride there.

I tell him I can't believe he could make such a dumb suggestion.

We start back. I fall behind Negri and Rajchel and then lose them to follow another guy who has a flashlight. The worn trail no longer shines and much of the bank has crumbled into the canal.

The trudge back is the hardest part of the night, but finally we see the cross rope spanning the canal.

We fall in line behind others waiting to cross

Mayor Smith has also requested the joint meeting be held at city hall "at the county's convenience."

This morning, city staff hand-delivered the proposal to each of the county's five elected officials, in time for them consider the matter at today's county commission meeting.

County commissioners indicated Monday they would take a wait and see attitude concerning the specifics of Sanford's invitation before committing themselves to a joint meeting with the city. They said they had not been contacted by the city. Although the Yankee Lake issue was not an item on the agenda for today's meeting, it could be brought up during reports by the county commission chairman, district commissioners or county administrator, County Administrator Ken Hooper said.

Hooper said neither his nor County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm's office had received a request from Sanford, which is the usual procedure for placing an item on the county commission agenda for discussion.

Two of the commissioners, Sandra Glenn and Barbara Christensen, said they would be willing to bring the matter up at the county's meeting.

When polled by the Evening Herald, county commissioners unanimously agreed that any joint meeting between the city and the county should be open to the public.

Mrs. Glenn said she favors a meeting with Sanford "to find out what's fact and what's rumor."

"There's been a lot said and we need to know what's real and what's not," she said. "If Sanford asks for a meeting I believe all the county commissioners would want to hear what they have to say. I hope they would be interested in talking facts to us."

Mrs. Glenn said she preferred to know what decision Sanford made last night regarding a possible city/county meeting before the county commission met today.

Commissioner Sturm said he would not be in favor of a meeting with the city unless Sanford withdraws its lawsuit. He said, however, that he would "abide by" whatever decision the county commission makes regarding the city's invitation.

Commissioner Fred Streetman said he would reserve comment on Sanford's proposal "depending on what the context of the meetings is."

"I'm interested in seeing what the parameters of the meeting are and will evaluate the request once I hear what Sanford has done," he said. "I would have to know the nature of the request."

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said he would "be glad" to meet with the city "depending on what the proposal is and what their invitation says."

"I'm always in favor of sitting down and talking," he said.

Mrs. Christensen said she is "very interested" in having Sturm meet with Mayor Smith and "continue to hammer things out to make a joint meeting even better."

"We need to continue negotiating and should try to meet with them," she said, adding that a meeting between the mayor and Sturm would "be beneficial and speed things up."

Such a meeting between the two officials would be open to the public, although Mrs. Christensen said she feels they would "accomplish more" if the press was not in attendance.

"They can do better without having everything printed," she said. "It's hard to try to negotiate with the press printing everything."

Fox said the DER's meeting with the county and the city, whether conducted this week or next, will address the possibility of a joint-venture agreement that could accommodate the sewage treatment and disposal needs of northwest Seminole County.

The DER will be represented by district manager Alex Alexander, deputy general counsel Deborah Getzoff and bureau of wastewater management and grants director Richard Smith.

Fox said they will be prepared to address the county's possible inclusion in an undertaking that heretofore mandated only that Sanford remove its wastewater from Lake Monroe.

That both governments are battling in court for Yankee Lake as a site for their sewage programs "is a complication we want to resolve by having all the players sit down and discuss their respective interests," Fox said.

He also said that such a meeting would serve to ascertain whether or not the litigants are sincere in wanting to achieve an out-of-court settlement.

"It's been my experience that if the parties really want to solve their differences, a meeting like this is a useful way to work things out," he said. "If they don't, we'll pull out back and they can battle in court. One thing is certain, although we're more than willing to help, we're not going to let ourselves get sucked into a lawsuit."

Sanford targeted Yankee Lake to comply with the DER mandate, but the county obtained the land for its own waste management project.

The DER, as prelude to its anticipated city-county meeting, is deciphering the complex mandates it has imposed for the multi-faceted Sanford project.

A parachute was seen in the sky following the explosion, but officials said there were no parachutes on board the shuttle.

Mrs. McAuliffe a Concord, New Hampshire social studies teacher was selected from 1,100 teachers to take the first shuttle ride as a civilian. Some of her pupils were at the Kennedy Space Center to watch the liftoff, which was followed by the explosion.

Mrs. McAuliffe's two children, ages 6 and 9, her husband and parents were watching the launch. The explosion is the first in-space, American spacecraft tragedy. Three Apollo spaceprogram crewmen died during an on-ground spacecraft fire in 1967 at Kennedy Space Center. Monday was the 19th anniversary of that Apollo fire.

Karen Coleman, Seminole County schools spokesman, said, "We were so excited that a teacher representing all students in America was on the Shuttle. Like all Americans we feel a great sense of numbness and sadness."

"This is truly a great tragedy," Twelve teachers from Seminole County had applied to be the first teacher in space after President Reagan announced the program.

One of the applicants, Desta Horner of Lake Mary High School, said she was "shocked and stunned."

"This is the biggest nightmare come true." She said she feels akin a Mrs. McAuliffe because she is also a high school social studies teacher. Students at Lake Mary High School were clustered around television monitors, sitting in silence.

Ms. Horner said, however, if the opportunity presented itself again, she would again apply. It was the 56th manned U.S. space mission. It was the 25th shuttle flight and 10th for Challenger. The explosion occurred at a time of maximum stress for the craft.

At 1 minute, 15 seconds after launch the shuttle had accelerated to a speed of 1,977 mph, three times the speed of sound. It was 10.4 miles up and 8 miles out over the ocean.

Forty-five seconds later, a bright orange ball of fire engulfed the shuttle. The craft's engines continued to fire, carrying most of the ship above the fireball but one piece — apparently one of Challenger's two strap-on solid rockets — veered to the right and began spiraling through the sky.

Television monitors at the spaceport showed paramedics parachuting into the sea near the shuttle's impact point, a NASA spokesman said.

"There were no anomalous indications of problems with the engines or the solid rocket boosters ... at the point where we lost data," he said.

Challenger took off from launch pad 39B, a refurbished moon rocket facility at 11:38 a.m. EST after two last-minute snags caused by computer problems with ground equipment and concern about ice on the launch pad.

A bitter cold front moved through the spaceport overnight, dropping temperatures to 24 degrees and producing sub-zero wind chills at the windy launch pad, but the ship was cleared for blastoff.

The first seconds after takeoff looked like another NASA triumph.

"Liftoff" called NASA spokesman Hugh Harris at 11:38 a.m. "Liftoff of the 25th shuttle mission and it has cleared the tower!"

Challenger climbed normally away from the launch pad on a tail of orange flame and a white cloud of smoke, rolling over on its back as it arched out over the Atlantic against a clear blue sky.

"Three engines running normally," reported mission control. "Three good fuel cells. Three good [auxiliary power units]."

The spacecraft was 4.9 miles up at that point and 3.5 miles out over the Atlantic. It was streaking through the sky at more than 1,538 miles per hour.

"Challenger, go at throttle up." Mission Control told the spacecraft 52 seconds after launch and Commander "Dick" Scobee increased power to the main engines as planned.

At 1 minute, 15 seconds after launch the shuttle had accelerated to a speed of 1,977 mph, three times the speed of sound. It was 10.4 miles up and 8 miles out over the ocean.

Forty-five seconds later, a bright orange ball of fire engulfed the shuttle. The craft's engines continued to fire, carrying most of the ship above the fireball but one piece — apparently one of Challenger's two strap-on solid rockets — veered to the right and began spiraling through the sky.

Scobee's final words to mission control were: "Roger, go at throttle up."

Television replays showed closeups of the speeding ship when suddenly it erupted in a ball of fire.

McAuliffe's parents, Edward and Grace Corrigan, watching from the VIP site 3/4 miles from the launch pad, hugged each other and sobbed, watching the fireball overhead.

The space shuttle burns liquid oxygen and explosive liquid hydrogen fuel in its powerhouse three main engines, built by Rocketdyne. But the 375,000-pound push from those engines is not enough to boost the spaceship to orbit.

protect their tender plants. Virginia Lommerse of Dutch Mill Nursery on Upsala Road, which grows flowers, vegetables, bedding plants and foliage, said at 9 a.m. today that LP gas heaters in their greenhouse were just being turned off after 12 hours during which the thermometer registered a low of 20 degrees. She said they began heating at 9 p.m. when the temperature dropped to 32 degrees and were up several times during the night to make sure the power had not gone off. After last year's devastating cold weather, a generator was installed as an emergency precaution, she said. "What we didn't have inside, we brought in," she said.

Florida citrus growers reveled in warmer-than-expected early morning temperatures today but were still prepared for any sudden chills that could ruin vulnerable fruit crops, said a spokesman for an all-night freeze watch.

Wind gusts of up to 45 mph downed trees on power lines and caused spotty, localized power outages in Deltona and Winter Park, Florida Power Corporation spokesman David Waldrop said.

Between 800 and 1,000 customers were affected from mid afternoon to early evening Monday, but the company had no problems supplying electricity, Waldrop said.

Police in all the seven local cities reported no overnight weather related emergencies. In Lake Mary firemen keep the trucks running during the night so they would have no trouble starting them in case of a fire.

None of the local hospitals, Central Florida Regional Hospital, South Seminole Community Hospital or Florida Hospital at Altamonte, reported any weather related emergencies.

Ernie Neff of Florida Citrus Mutual, the cooperative in Lakeland, said crop damage will begin to occur with temperatures of 27 or below for four or more hours. Neff said this morning farmers report they are optimistic about the warmer-than-expected temperatures.

"Things are looking good at this point," Neff said this morning. "It doesn't look like the cold will ravage us tonight. Some individual farms in the north (of Florida) may get some damage, but looking at the industry as a whole it doesn't look like we'll have much damage."

At 3 a.m., the National Weather Service said Tallahassee had 15 degree temperatures, Jacksonville was 24, Orlando was 29, Miami was 31 and Key West was 58.

purple martin house in his yard five years ago and has kept records on his fine feathered tenants each year. He said the scouts who arrive early to check things out, have been seen as early as the last day in January with the rest of the flock arriving Feb. 10 or 11.

"They sure are a joy, we get a lot of pleasure watching them," Arnett said. "They mate for life. In 1982 we had five pairs and two years later it increased to seven pairs. The first pair, dubbed Adam and Eve, was identifiable by a white patch on the wing of the male, so we recognized them when they returned the next year."

As to eliminating the blind mosquitoes, Arnett said, there are other factors as well, but "every little bit helps and the purple martins did their part. They are reported to consume 2,000 mosquitoes per day."

Bob Daehn, chairman of the chamber's Blind Mosquito committee, disagrees with Arnett and Jerigan on the ETA. He predicts a Feb. 25 arrival of the purple martins this year. Daehn bases his prediction on the fact that the martins winter in Columbia, South America, and fly non-stop day and night eating on the fly. To navigate, they fly on a full moon, he said, and there is a full moon scheduled for Feb. 24.

"Everything will be in good shape," Daehn who lives at 114 N. Shirley Ave., said. "They will not tolerate a dirty house. I cleaned out my two-story martin house the other day and I was amazed at the amount of twigs and other nesting material in it. I don't know how the birds get in the nest. The martins are very clean birds however as they toss out their waste. There are 12 apartments in the house."

Among the other Sanford residents who have put martin houses in their yards, are Ina and J.Q. "Slim" Golloway of 119 Poplar Ave., who have put up two of the boxes. "We're looking forward to them," she said. "Last year they came earlier and stayed later than usual."

According to the Nature Society in Purple Martin Junction, Griggsville, which keeps tabs on small migratory bird, the martin flock, have already been spotted in some Gulf coastal regions.

The first scouts often disappear and "permanent" arrivals may not appear for another 7-10 days. Nesting may not begin for another 30 days. Nesting birds continue to arrive for another two months, with yearling nesters almost always arriving later than the older birds.

Purple martins are a sign of spring because they eat only flying insects and can live only 3-4 days without food.

The purple martins stay in Sanford until August or September, which is the end of winter in their home south of the equator.

The society continues to solicit scout reports. To report your first purple martin sighting of the season, send a postcard to The Nature Society, Purple Martin Junction, Griggsville, Fl. 623-40, or call (217)-833-2323.

Home Sales And Income Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Resales of single-family homes reached their highest level in six years, increasing 12.1 percent in 1985 while personal income for the entire nation increased 5.6 percent higher than during the same period in 1984 according to data released Monday by the Commerce Department and the National Association of Realtors.

The Southeast increased 1.2 percent, with better than average gains in South Carolina, Georgia, Tennessee, Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina and Arkansas — everywhere but Mississippi.

The Commerce Department said personal income for the entire nation grew 1.1 percent or $3.015 trillion in the third period — 5.6 percent higher than the same period of 1984.

Growth in high-tech industries pushed New England above the national average for a 1.3 percent income gain — 6.7 percent higher than a year ago.

The most reasonable regions for home buyers were the Midwest, where homes resold for an average $58,800 in 1985, about 3 percent more than in 1984, and the South, where the average price was $74,400, a 4.4 percent rise.

The West showed a 0.6 percent decline from last year, but the average home cost $95,200.

Total sales nationwide for 1985 were the largest since 1979, when 3,827 million homes were sold. The gain from 1983 to 1984 was 5.48 percent.

In December, the association said, 3.2 percent more homes were sold than the month before, pushing the seasonally adjusted annual rate of sales to 3.53 million and putting it 23 percent higher than December 1984.

The average price of the resold homes increased $200 in December to $74,800, the same level as October. The December average was 3.7 percent above the $72,000 median in December 1984, and for the entire year home prices rose 3.87 percent, the biggest rise since a 6.75 percent jump in 1981.

saying device than anything else," he said. "There were no major problems before. Their reports weren't careless or missing facts."

Unfortunately, according to Harriett, the same doesn't hold true for reports that circulated last week.

"We took advantage of an opportunity to improve an integral part of our work and it got turned into something else," he said. "I think we certainly would have been unappreciative to taxpayers if we hadn't used a free program to benefit the department."

"We weren't doing anything wrong before," he said, "and I still say we were right to agree to the program."

and someone comes back to bring me to the front, amid protests of "linebreaking."

Seminole County SWAT Commander Marty LaBrusciano, who had promised to take me into the woods and back out, crossing the canal without getting dunked, but who had abandoned me to watch for bad guys behind us once we got to our station, is there to hook me to the ropes. Again I am lifted to be linked up.

I'm positioned better on the cross rope than I was the first time. I hold myself higher up and my feet and legs have a more steady grip. The cross almost seems easy and someone on the other side is telling them not to pull my safety rope to help me across, but to let me do it myself.

I feel the tips of my hair, which falls free, skim the surface of the water. Then I'm off the rope and on the other side, without having gone for a swim.

"You did okay, for a white girl," Terry Huffman says. Others say any of the guys who cross after me who don't do as well will be shown to be real wimps.

LaBrusciano walks back to the range station with me and I tell him I'm getting out of there. More than two hours of fast paced hiking, a double cross of the canal, crawling climbs over several berms, and an endless, motionless wait in the cold — almost six hours of torture is more than enough for me. It's after 4:30 a.m. and he says the SWAT teams will go through a debriefing and then just when they get comfortable and are about to fall asleep, they will be ordered to go through the shooting exercises, to compare their performance with how they did before they dealt with the ordeal in the woods. The whole idea he says is to push them to the limit and then see how they perform.

It will be about noon before they leave. As I leave I'm told I "did good."

It was hell, but it was great. I may not yet understand these guys, but I have some idea what they go through just to be ready to SWAT the baddies. And knowing that, I also know, you guys are CRAZY, but kind of nice and dependable.

NATION IN BRIEF

Court Refuses To Hear Appeal In Lindbergh Kidnapping Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anna Hauptmann, widow of the man executed 50 years ago for the kidnap-murder of Charles Lindbergh's baby, vows to continue her fight to vindicate her husband, despite losing a Supreme Court appeal on his behalf, her lawyer says.

The justices Monday refused to hear Hauptmann's appeal of a lower-court decision dismissing her $100 million wrongful death suit against the state of New Jersey, the Hearst Corp. and a retired FBI agent.

Her lawyer, Robert Bryan, said the 87-year-old widow plans to file another lawsuit aimed at exonerating Bruno Richard Hauptmann.

Bryan said he would base the new lawsuit on 23,000 pages of investigative documents recently discovered in the garage of former New Jersey Gov. Harold Hoffman, who died in 1954. He had used the files to conduct his own research into the case.

Reagan To Hail Proud America

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan appears before a joint session of Congress and a huge television audience tonight to report that America stands proud and prosperous as he starts a year filled with political challenges.

One week into the sixth year of his presidency and nine days shy of his 75th birthday, Reagan was expected to sound a theme of optimism and stress prospects for an almost limitless future in his fifth State of the Union address.

Reagan invited Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to the White House for a preview of the speech, which will depart from tradition in both its duration — 20 minutes rather than 40 or 50 minutes — and tone.

Uranus 'Bewilders' Scientists

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Tapes of radio signals from Uranus flown from Australia in a diplomatic pouch reveal the objects in the brightest ring around the planet range in size from 3 to 30 or 45 feet across.

"It is really a remarkably different kind of ring," said chief Voyager scientist Edward Stone, comparing it to Saturn's great rings, which are largely made up of much smaller particles.

The information on the rings, believed to consist largely of ice, only added to the growing number of puzzles scientists are finding in the rapidly accumulating information received from the Voyager 2 planetary probe.

Union Blasts Firing Threats

AUSTIN, Minn. (UPI) — Striking meatpackers at the Geo. A. Hormel Co. plant are urging fellow union members to ignore company threats of dismissal and honor their pickets at Hormel plants in three other states.

Local P-9 of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, which has been on strike in Austin since Aug. 17, sent the roving pickets Monday to Hormel plants in Iowa, Nebraska and Texas.

Nearly A Decade Of Sexual Assaults Reported By Girl

A 17-year-old Oviedo girl has reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that over the past eight years she has been sexually assaulted by a 39-year-old Chuluota man on different occasions, the last being Oct. 5.

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect, who lives with a relative of the girl. The allegations, which were reported Sunday, are under investigation. No arrest has been made, according to a sheriff's report.

CASH THEFT

About $3,650 cash is missing from the service station of Kenneth Keith, 43, located at 1999 W State Road 434, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report.

- ★ Police

A sheriff's deputy reported finding the building unlocked and no clerk in sight early Sunday. The day-clerk arrived and opened the cash register and found all of the paper money missing. About $2,150 had been taken from a safe, which the owner later said was "inaccessible." There was also cash missing from other areas of the station bringing the total loss to $3,650, a sheriff's report said. Deputies have the name of a possible suspect in the case, the report said.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Raymond Gregory James, 21, of 1209 W. Thunder Trail, Maitland, was arrested at 4 a.m. Sunday after his vehicle backed over some cement poles on private property on Summerwood Trail, Fern Park, and became lodged there. He was also charged with improper backing.

—Louis George Lamose, 53, of 2411 S. Elm St., Sanford, at 5:58 p.m. Sunday, after Sanford police were alerted to a possible drunk driver at the Lil' Champ, 2900 S. Sanford Ave.

—Ramona Lee Summers, 18, of 546 Orange Drive 322, Altamonte Springs, at 6:45 p.m. Saturday, on Hattaway Drive at State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, after her vehicle reportedly ran a red light. She was also charged with driving without a license.

—Frank William Rodgers, 31, of 181 Lakeshore Drive, Altamonte Springs, at 2:29 a.m. Sunday, on Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary, after Lake Mary police reportedly saw his pickup truck weaving on the roadway. He was also charged with having an unassigned license tag and carrying a concealed weapon.

Meeting Set For Wednesday Evening

School Board To Hear From Lobbyist

A proposed legislative program for the Seminole County School Board will be presented to the board at its regular meeting Wednesday night by Carey E. Ferrell, assistant superintendent for business and finance and official lobbyist for the schools of Seminole County.

Carey will present the 1986 legislative program, a 13-page document, as a guideline for lobbying efforts before the Florida legislature this year.

Also expected to be submitted for review will be an interim report on food service operations at county schools. Additionally, the board is expected to schedule a date for a public work session for further discussion on the middle school attendance boundary re-zoning.

The legislative program addresses the board's concern with teacher pay, and says in part, "The School Board (of Seminole County) applauds the goal of the Legislature and the State Board of Education to move Florida into the top quartile of states. However, if we are to meet that goal, the legislature must... provide sufficient funds to enable school districts to increase the level of instructional salaries to that of the upper quartile of states..."

The statement of the board's opinion also discusses their view of state certification of instructional and administrative staff. It says that while the board supports the efforts to upgrade the standards, the legislature should also bear the responsibility for seeing that the higher standards do not contribute to a teacher shortage, and should be responsible "for upgrading salaries of instructional personnel, commensurate with the establishment of higher standards for certification."

A report on school food service will show that in the latest 80 serving day reporting period, which ended Dec. 20, 1985, a net gain of more than $70,000 reflected. The report says that revenues have increased by more than 22.5 percent over the same period last year. Based on the results from the most recent reporting period, the report projects a net gain of $100,000 by the end of the school year.

According to a memo from Ferrell accompanying the report, the profits are "in substantial contrast to past years in which the program operated at a deficit of approximately $250,000. The report continues that total school meals served have increased in excess of 24,000 per day, or about 9 percent over the same 80-day period last year and that should be increased to 10 percent in the end of year totals.

Reasons for increased student participation in the school lunch program include increasing numbers of full service cafeterias in the schools, the use of student surveys and taste tests to find out what they desire in school lunches, and an expanding variety of foods available.

In February, the board will consider if it will retain control of the food service operation, or initiate a bidding process to contract an outside company to run the county's school food service.

The recommendation will be made that the board set a date for a public work session, which will give parents an opportunity to express opinions on the rezoning of the district's middle schools. Marton T. Giannini, assistant superintendent for instructional services, and Jack Heisler, director of secondary education, will suggest Tuesday, February 25 in the evening for the work session, so most of the concerned parents will be able to attend.

Wednesday's 7:30 p.m. meeting will be held in the County Office Board Room of the Board of Education Building, 1211 Mellonville Avenue, Sanford.

Ex-Probation Officer Faces Added Charge

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

At least one more charge has been logged against an already accused former Seminole County probation officer charged with the grand theft of probationers' fine money.

Arrested Friday and released on $1,000 bond was Orestes Cobb, 33, of 207 Randlewood, Sanford. In the arrest warrant served Friday, Cobb was accused of keeping $740 in fine money from two of his probationers.

"We have filed on another charge," said Donna Haerich, director of the county's probation office which handles DUI and misdemeanor probationers. She said Monday more charges could be forthcoming depending up the officer's investigation. She declined to say how the alleged misappropriations were uncovered but she said the office is auditing all of the cases Cobb handled during his tenure as probation officer. She did say all alleged discrepancies would be reported.

Cobb, who joined the office in October 1984, left Aug. 16 to enter private business. At the time, he was earning $18,500 annually.

Ms. Haerich said the auditing and filing procedure is slow

"because you don't want to accuse anyone without evidence," she said.

According to court records made public Friday, Ms. Haerich filed a formal charge against Cobb Nov. 21 accusing him of taking $965 in fine money from three probationers and using it for his own personal use. The purportedly stolen payments were $200, $225 and $540. Those cases were audited in October.

The State Attorney's office filed charges on the alleged misuse of a $200 supervision fine paid by an Altamonte Springs woman in February and a $540 court-ordered fine paid by a Casselberry man in May.

Ms. Haerich said there are so many checks and balances in finance between her office and the clerk of court that discrepancies, if they exist, will eventually be uncovered.

"It's just a matter of time," she said.

The office handles several hundred cases a year of people ordered to serve probation for driving under the influence convictions or misdemeanors. The office collects fine money, supervises the probation and places people in jobs where they can work off their court-ordered community service hours.

Supreme Court Highlights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Highlights of Monday's Supreme Court action:

—In a unanimous decision, ruled the Constitution does not prevent state financial aid to Larry Witters of Spokane, Wash., just because his rehabilitation program was the study of religion. Justice Thurgood Marshall wrote the opinion (Witters vs. Washington, 84-1070).

—Splitting 5-4 in cases from New York and New Jersey, ruled the trustee of a hazardous waste dump cannot abandon the site under bankruptcy law in violation of local health laws. Justice Lewis Powell wrote the opinion. Chief Justice Warren Burger and Justices William Rehnquist, Byron White and Sandra Day O'Connor dissented (Midlantic National Bank vs. New Jersey Department of Environmental Protection, 84-801; Thomas O'Neill vs. City of New York, 84-805).

—Reversed a ruling that ordered a new trial for James C. Lane and Dennis R. Lane, who were charged with mail fraud, conspiracy and perjury as a result of fires in Amarillo and Lubbock, Texas. Chief Justice Warren Burger wrote the opinion. Justices William Brennan, Harry Blackmun, John Paul Stevens and Thurgood Marshall concurred in part and dissented in part (United States vs. Lane, 84-744; Lane vs. United States, 84-963).

—Ruled unanimously in a case from Alabama that the Full Faith and Credit Act requires federal courts to give preclusive effect to state court judgments involving the same issues. Justice William Rehnquist wrote the opinion (Parsons Steel vs. First Alabama Bank, 84-1616).

—Agreed to decide whether a woman could bring a $2 million lawsuit alleging her federal rights were violated by a Buick dealer who filed criminal charges against her after she stopped payment on a check (Vincent Cerbone and Bank Buick vs. Lynn Conway.

Benefit Reserves Protect Pensions

A change in the Pentagon's accounting system has made possible reform of the military pension system. Just what the reform will be is as yet undetermined, but you can bet it will save the taxpayers money.

Dave Stockman, when he still held the title of budget director in the Reagan administration, expressed frustration with the cost of the military pension system.

"I haven't been able to get anything done on military retirement downtown," he said. "When push comes to shove, they (the Pentagon brass) will give up on security before they give up on retirement."

That statement helped lead to his resignation. He had to issue a clarification saying he had not meant to impugn the patriotism of high-ranking military officers but was only expressing personal frustration with bureaucratic resistance.

Stockman got the headlines but it was Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, working quietly behind the scenes, who found the key to reform.

The answer was accrual accounting. Aspin slipped a provision into law in 1983, requiring that Congress each year appropriate enough money to fund retirement benefits accruing in that year. The Pentagon must deposit each year enough in a Treasury-held trust fund to cover all military retirement obligations incurred in that year. The trust fund then pays current benefits.

Thus there is current accounting of retirement benefits earned each year, even though they are not paid until years later. It is no longer possible to promise large pension benefits when a recruit enlists and pay nothing toward those benefits until 20 years later, when he retires.

The promise-now, pay-later plan was a great incentive to pension extravagance. It was a financial escape hatch which has now been closed.

The fiscal 1986 defense authorization bill cut the appropriation into the trust fund for future benefits by 16 percent. It was left to the Pentagon to propose options to achieve the saving. Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger has proposed either to trim annual COLAs or change the benefits base. Congress will now decide which option to choose.

But neither option will affect any military retiree or anyone now in the armed services. We are talking about savings that will not be realized for 20 years, until the new recruits signed up after the pension plans are changed begin retiring.

And part of the saving in retirement costs will go for instant goodies to active military people — earlier payment of pay raises, more generous travel allowances and so on. That's better than having to wait 20 years for benefits.

All this is tinkering. What is needed is a comprehensive look at the military retirement system. Objectives should be clearly stated. Methods to achieve those objectives should then be considered.

The present military retirement system bears little relationship to any rational manpower objectives. It just grew like Topsy and was graven in stone. Vested interests defended it from any change for fear of opening the entire system to revision. That defense has now been breached and thoroughgoing reform is possible, always taking care to preserve all existing benefits to retirees and active-duty personnel, based on the prior commitments of the government.

Some Similarities Are Very Frightening

Some Americans found parallels between yesterday's Southern movement for U.S. civil rights and today's freedom struggle in South Africa.

Here's another confluence of interests to examine and compare: It's the similarity between the U.S. policies on Central America and Southern Africa.

The likenesses are frightening. In each instance, the present-day fighters for freedom are labeled terrorists and Marxists — the Sandinistas in Central America, SWAPO and the African National Congress in Southern Africa.

In each region, the native population has long suffered the exploitation of its resources and the enslavement of its people.

On both continents, successful revolution has overthrown the tyranny supported by the United States — in Angola, Mozambique, Cuba and Nicaragua. Undaunted, this country has continued overt and covert attempts to destabilize and destroy the new governments.

Last year, at the same time Congress was voting to approve $27 million in aid to

"contras" attempting to overthrow the government of Nicaragua, it was also voting to permit the CIA to overthrow the government of Angola.

And as the administration resisted imposing sanctions against South Africa, it was eagerly applying sanctions and an embargo against Nicaragua.

Today, the United States is at war — secretly — in Central America, and the covert American military involvement in Africa threatens to increase as well.

The U.S. military is at the front lines in Honduras and Costa Rica and is directing an air war in El Salvador. Against the principles of international law, the United States staged an invasion of tiny Grenada in 1983.

These recent actions follow 28 other military interventions by the United States in Central America and the Caribbean in the first 30 years of this century.

Now President Reagan wants to play a larger role in aiding the South Africa-supported terrorists who've failed, so far, in their 10-year attempt to topple the government of Angola. And he wants four times as much money —

$100 million — to assist the hated contras in their attempts to restore torture and terror in Nicaragua.

Congress, in a rare display of independence in 1984, cut off aid to the contras, complaining that their leadership was drawn almost entirely from the brutal National Guard of ousted dictator Anastasio Somoza, and that the administration was undercutting the Contadora group, the negotiations sponsored for Central American states. The group — Colombia, Mexico, Venezuela and Panama — recently asked for an end to outside military forces in Central America and a regional solution to the military conflicts.

But last year, Congress approved $27 million in non-lethal aid for the contras, used to free other funds for military material. That aid expires on March 31.

The president's success last year in reversing congressional opposition to aiding the contras has apparently made the administration confident it can overcome strong congressional hostility to aiding UNITA.

DON GRAFF

Shultz Is Welcome ..Sort Of

George Shultz is not one to duck an issue.

Of late, the secretary of state has been telling the president where to go with lie detector tests and banging tables in Belgrade because the Yugoslav foreign minister doesn't see the threat of terrorism quite the way Shultz does.

So it is no surprise that he should have turned up at a gathering where he was not entirely welcome.

The gathering was the International PEN Congress in New York. PEN is a worldwide association of writers with chapters in most free countries and even in some that aren't. Shultz had been invited to give the opening address to the distress of some delegates who think the commitment to freedom of the government he represents isn't as firm as theirs.

Unfazed, Shultz said PEN had struck a blow for free speech by inviting him.

"America is proud to have you here," he said. "Diversity, debate, contrast, argumentativeness are what we as a people thrive on."

Well, yes. That's the way we like to think of ourselves. But in practice we often put limits on the debate — particularly on who is allowed to participate. Shultz could have gotten a firsthand account of some of the problems in that area from a PEN member in attendance — Gabriel Garcia Marquez.

The Colombian novelist and Nobel laureate has long been on the "undesirable" list of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service because of his left-wing views. He has consequently been denied an ordinary visa good for repeated visits. He has been allowed to enter the United States only on special waiver good for one entry and one exit.

His is far from the only such case. There is Hortensia Allende, the widow of the Chilean president overthrown in 1973. She was initially denied entry to the United States for a speaking tour on grounds that her visit would be "prejudicial to the public interest."

The American Civil Liberties Union took the matter to court, and on her next application she was admitted. But, as with Garcia Marquez, only for a single visit.

McCarran-Walter, as it so happens, was one of the subjects discussed at the PEN Congress, with sentiment overwhelmingly in favor of repeal. Even Secretary Shultz took an implied swipe at it.

As we said, he is not one to duck an issue.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Our Beloved Media

Rumors to the contrary notwithstanding, the members of the press are just as human as the rest of us, and the poll recently conducted by Gallup for the Times-Mirror Company is sure to enhance their own already inflated opinion of themselves and make them even more insufferable than many of them already are.

The Times-Mirror Company paid Gallup a quarter of a million dollars for the survey, and from the media's standpoint it certainly got its money's worth. "If credibility is defined as believability," Gallup declared cautiously (though it is a little hard to imagine what else it might be defined as), "then credibility is, in fact, one of the media's strongest suits." On this score, all three major news magazines, as well as the Wall Street Journal, rated 85 to 87 percent, with the rest of the major media strung out close behind. Individual network anchor-men did even better, ranging from 88 to 90 percent, with ABC's Peter Jennings on top and the venerable (and retired) Walter Cronkite all alone up there in the empyrean at 92 percent.

To give a little added oomph to these figures, Gallup invited those polled to rate President Reagan on believability as well, and it must gratefully be noted that the media's opinion of him in fact was all at a mere 68 percent. This particular piece of hocus-pocus appears to have made even Gallup slightly queasy, however, for it admitted that comparing a president to TV anchor-men might be regarded as "comparing incomparables," since "the news media sell believability foremost, presidents do not." True enough, presidents, unlike anchor-men, have a lot of things on their mind besides looking good, and are forced every day to make decisions that are bound to be unpopular with many people — something Jennings, Rather and Brokaw carefully never do. To its credit, The Washington Post's story on the poll omitted mentioning the sleek Reagan question altogether.

Gallup, in fact, itself planted plenty of qualifiers around its central finding. Those questioned, for example, were for some reason far more smitten with the press's "believability" than with its "accuracy," only 55 percent crediting it with the latter attribute (vs. 34 percent who refused to do so). Moreover, those who criticized the press most severely were, on the average, better educated and better informed than those who praised it.

We are also entitled to wonder just how Gallup squares the figures in this poll with the many polls taken by itself and others across the years which suggest that the American people have, in fact, a much lower opinion of the media. In 1982, for example, the National Opinion Research Center at the University of Chicago asked 1,506 people to rate 11 major American institutions in terms of the confidence they had in them, and the press came in eighth — behind doctors, scientists, education, organized religion, the military, the Supreme Court and major companies. Television ranked even lower, 10th — between the federal executive branch and Congress.

Gallup itself, reporting on a somewhat similar poll it conducted for Lord knows whom in 1983, credited newspapers with an "approval rating" of only 38 percent, trailed by television with 25 percent. A year later, polling for Newsweek, Gallup put the respective figures at 34 and 26 percent. A Harris Poll in November 1984 credited just 18 percent of those questioned with having "a great deal of confidence" in "the people running" the press.

So maybe Dan Rather (whom Gallup identifies as the public's favorite anchor-man) had better make sure his moral vote is all in before he decides to take on Ronald Reagan. Not that I wouldn't like to see him try.

SCIENCE WORLD

Lunatic Theory Refuted

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Contrary to legends and werewolves, nothing in particular happens to the psyche of man or beast when the moon is full, according to three scientists.

The scientists reported in the Skeptical Inquirer — a journal that likes to debunk the stuff campfire stories are made of — that after reviewing over 40 studies of the effect of the moon on human behavior, they could find no effect at all.

"The majority of the studies said that anyway," said I. W. Kelly, a professor of statistics at the University of Saskatchewan in Canada who wrote the report with two other scientists. "The ones that did find a correlation either had glaring errors or the correlations were so minor they were statistically insignificant."

Some of these studies, conducted by other researchers over several years, suggested the full moon is responsible for increased incidence of alcoholism, automobile accidents, madness, arson, suicide and homicide, said Kelly.

This correlation is widely believed by most people, he said. And it is backed up by police, emergency room workers and bartenders who swear they are busier when the moon is at its fullest than when it is waxing and waning.

"Once the initial belief is there, then perceptions conform to it," explained Kelly. "It's easy to remember the night the emergency room was full and the moon full. But what about the night the moon was full and the emergency room empty?"

"No one remembers those nights because they don't fit the pattern they believe in," he said.

Most who hold by the correlation theory argue the gravitational pull of the moon affects humans, who are mostly made of water, just as it affects the tides of the oceans.

But Kelly argues there is too little water in the human body for the moon to have much of an impact.

The scientists predict the physical tug of a mother to a child is 12 million times greater than the tug of the moon on the child.

"So in terms of both physics and statistics the full moon theory doesn't wash," said Kelly.

But he said he believed people will go on believing that werewolves and night stalkers are on the prowl when the moon is full.

"The words 'lunatic' and 'lunacy' are both derived from the Roman word 'luna,' which means moon," he said.

Company's Target Was Young Smokers

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Tobacco companies do a slow burn whenever they're accused of trying to sell their hazardous products to young people through alluring advertisements. Industry lobbyists have now been hit with this charge by a prestigious opponent, the American Medical Association, which wants Congress to ban all cigarette advertising.

The ensuing controversy could shed belated light on a collection of secret industry documents that have been in the Federal Trade Commission's possession since 1979. The documents undermine the contention of a leading tobacco company, Brown & Williamson, that its ads had not been aimed at potential customers under the age of 21.

The internal Brown & Williamson documents were recently introduced as court exhibits in a libel suit the company brought against a Chicago television commentator.

Company officials declined to say whether the marketing strategies laid out in the documents — which date to the mid-1970s — are still being followed. Instead, they described "our policy" in this sensitive area as: "Brown & Williamson believes that smoking is an adult custom. Advertising and promotion activities for our products are aimed at adult smokers, 21 years of age and over."

Apparently that wasn't always the case. A "Strategic Positioning Statement," prepared by Brown & Williamson's ad agency in 1974, included young smokers among the crucial targets of a promotional campaign intended to boost the sagging sales of Viceroy cigarettes.

The document listed male smokers 16 to 25 years old as among the "Best Prospects" for increased sales, explaining: "Fifty-five percent of young males 16-25 smoke full-taste cigarettes. Twenty-seven percent of all full-taste 84mm smokers are 16-25. Only 15 percent of Viceroy smokers are 16-25. Therefore, there is ample opportunity for growth in Viceroy coming into alignment with the category."

The strategy paper said the "primary objective" of the upcoming ad campaign was to "position Viceroy as to attract young males from competitive brands" while hanging onto the cigarette's own customers.

The two other groups listed as "prime prospects for Viceroy" were "Females 18-49" and "Blacks 18-49."

The ad agency's report played down the importance of "starters" (first-time smokers) and "re-starters" (those who had quit smoking for more than a year), explaining that "starter and re-starter groups together account for only 8 percent of all smokers."

A January 1976, "Marketing Strategy" paper, approved by Brown & Williamson, noted "problems (that) the marketing plans must solve." One listed solution:

"Efforts must also be made to increase the brand's appeal to smokers 18-40."

The strategy paper identified the "Target Audience" for each of three Viceroy ads to be tested as either "Full-flavor smokers and starters, aged 18-40," or "Full-flavor smokers and starters, aged 18-40, specifically who think they smoke too much and would like to smoke less."

Finally, after the four-month ad campaign was dropped as ineffective, an internal memo dated November 1976, sought approval of Brown & Williamson's vice president for marketing for more research "to determine the reason for Viceroy's inability to attract starters and competitive smokers."

Footnote: A Brown & Williamson spokesman told our associate Tony Capaccio: "Cigarette advertising is inherently public. Judgments about the advertising can be made only on the basis of the published advertisements."

Seminole's 36-3 Blitz Buries Lady Sand Crabs

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Mass confusion would be a good way to describe the way Seminole High's Lady Seminoles played defense in most of their five losses this season. Monday night, though, the Lady Tribe underwent a great transformation in the span of just 12 minutes.

With four minutes left in the third quarter, Seabreeze's Lady Sand Crabs had built a 33-21 lead. Seminole then put on full-court, man-to-man pressure and its defense became its best offensive weapon.

In the last 12 minutes of play, the hard-pressing Lady Tribe outscored Seabreeze by an incredible 36-3 margin and coasted to a 57-36 victory before 51 fans at Seminole's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

"We weren't playing any defense in the first half," Seminole senior Catherine "Kitty" Anderson said.

"We finally woke up and started pressing them in the third quarter. It was a good comeback, but we have to get our minds on the game from the start."

Anderson poured in 14 of her game-high 18 points in the second half and also yanked down 14 rebounds and collected four steals. Senior guard Temika Alexander pumped in 12 points and came up with five steals. Junior center Yolanda Robinson contributed nine points and eight rebounds while freshman guard Adrian Hillsman, in just her second game, added nine points, six assists and eight steals.

"Adrian (Hillsman) made a big difference on the press," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "We were getting lackadaisical in the zone so I went to man-to-man and the girls did a good job on it."

Seminole, which ran its overall record to 11-5, returns to action

Basketball

Wednesday at Winter Park, then goes to Spruce Creek on Thursday. The Lady Tribe does not have a Seminole Athletic Conference game this week.

With Jennifer Toliver and sophomore sensation Kenya Robinson doing most of the damage, Seabreeze raced to a 14-2 lead after one quarter. Robinson had eight of her 12 points in the quarter and Toliver six of her 16.

Seminole started working its way back in the second quarter behind the play of Anderson and Hillsman. The Lady Noles chopped the lead to 19-17 with two minutes left in the first half, but Seabreeze put on a late spurt to go up by 10, 27-17, at halftime.

Toliver and Robinson dominated on the defensive end in the early going of the second half as the twin timbers combined to block five straight Seminole shots. The Lady Sand Crabs went on to take a 33-21 lead with four minutes left in the quarter on a layup by Melissa Firestone.

Alexander launched in a jumper from long range to get Seminole back within 10, 33-23, and the Tribe then put on the pressure and forced five straight turnovers. Seminole converted after each one of the turnovers as it ran off 10 straight points to tie it at 33-33 with 50 seconds left in the quarter.

Seminole got the ball back and set up for a last shot, but Alexander couldn't find anyone open underneath. With no one open, the 5-3 guard jacked one up from 30 feet and it hit nothing but net at the buzzer for a 35-33 Seminole lead.

Hillsman came up with a steal and sailed downcourt for a layup to open the fourth quarter and she then picked another Seabreeze pocket and fed Anderson for a short jumper that made it 39-33.

Seabreeze stayed within six points, 42-36, before the Lady Tribe put on an all-out assault in the last five and a half minutes, outscoring the Lady Crabs, 15-0.

"I was really pleased with the defensive effort tonight," Steele said. "But the big people are still not boxing out and rebounding. We have to get more intensity on the boards. If the big people play like they should, I'll be a little more comfortable."

Roberts Sparks Raiders To Win

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

John "Duke" Wayne, who took his last ride into the sunset several years ago, would have been proud of Tony Roberts Monday night.

Like the grizzled ex-movie hero, Roberts, a freshman guard for Seminole Community College, wouldn't let the enemy get him down. Whereas, Wayne was continually dodging bullets, Roberts fought off painful tendinitis of the knee to deliver coach Bill Payne his 20th victory — a 50-43 victory over Central Florida Community College — before 116 fans at the SCC Health Center Monday night.

The victory upped the SCC mark to 20-5 and enabled Payne to accomplish the 20-victory plateau for his fourth consecutive year as Raider coach. SCC improved to 6-2 in the Mid-Florida Conference and move into sole possession of second place. Santa Fe upended Daytona Beach, 68-67, to drop the Scots to 5-3.

"Tony turned in an outstanding game," Payne said about his 6-1 guard. "It was our defense that turned the game around. Tony and (Efram) Brooks showed the way."

Roberts scored 16 points, pulled down five rebounds, collected three steals, drew two charges, handed out three assists and blocked one shot. Four of his 16 came via sparkling breakaway dunks where he went over the top of the defender both times.

"I knew I had to pick up the slack since David (Gallagher, sprained ankle) was out," Roberts said. "That gave me a little more incentive."

Central Florida, which fell to 10-14 and 3-5, came out in its deliberate style, trying to exploit 6-8 Trent Johnson inside. Johnson, though, was held in check by 6-8 Vance Hall and 6-7 Greg "Slim" Johnson. He finished with just two points and attempted just four field goals.

SCC's Johnson, despite limping throughout the game due to a hip injury, continually denied CFCC its inside attack. Johnson finished with six rebounds and Hall, who scored 11 points, yanked off seven boards.

Hall had nine of his points in the first half when the Raiders took a 22-20 lead.

Roberts was limited to two points in the first half but he wasted no time getting his game in gear for the final 20 minutes.

During the surge, Roberts and Brooks corroborated on several steals, which Roberts turned into dunks or Brooks into layups. "We were in our attack defense," Brooks, a Lake Howell High product, said. "We just tried to turn our man or make him reverse his dribble. That way he can't see the other guy and dribbles right into the steal."

Basketball

Brooks and Roberts worked their double team to perfection and when Mike Landell forced another turnover and followed up with a bucket with 5:41 to play, the Raiders' lead zoomed to 42-35.

Central Florida coach Benny Gabbard immediately signaled a timeout and used the lull to voice his displeasure with an official. "(Official) Tony McDonald won't allow us to get into our offense," Gabbard said of the 11-2 foul difference in SCC's favor at that point. "They (Brooks and Roberts) were draped all over us. We cannot play our game when they're all over our guards."

After the timeout, Central Florida again turned the ball over and when reserve forward Jeff Day hit the first of three short jumpers, SCC's bulge grew to 10 — 44-35 — with five minutes left.

Gabbard then sent his Saints into a gambling defense but it didn't pay off.

The Raiders return to action Wednesday against Santa Fe at Gainesville.

MURPHY LEADS JU

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Ronnie Murphy scored 26 points Monday night to lead Jacksonville to a 64-61 victory over South Alabama 64-61 in Sun Belt Conference action.

Jacksonville, 12-8 overall and 3-4 in the conference, snapped a three-game losing streak.

GATORS ROUT MIAMI

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Vernon Maxwell scored 20 points and grabbed 7 rebounds Monday night to lead Florida to a 75-53 victory over Miami.

Florida jumped to 10-2 lead and went up 42-28 at the half.

SCC's Tony Roberts, above, goes high in the air to pass inside against Central Florida's Ed Ray. Teammate Vance Hall, left, was on the receiving end of Roberts' pass and he turned it into two points as Trent Johnson attempts to stop him. Roberts turned in a sparkling all-around game as the Raiders won, 50-43.

Philpott Shoots Darters

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

LONGWOOD — Ralph Philpott sank a clutch jump shot from the right side of the paint with eight seconds remaining to allow the Lyman Greyhounds to squeak past the Apopka Blue Darters, 72-70, in one of the most heated basketball games of the season Monday night at Lyman High School in front of 301 fans.

The Greyhounds improved to 14-3 on the season with the heart-stopping victory. The 'Hounds are 3-1 in the Seminole Athletic Conference and will travel to Colonial on Wednesday to face the Grenadiers. The Greyhounds will then play at home on Friday to try and improve their SAC record against the Lake Mary Rams.

Philpott's shot came after teammate Matt Fitzpatrick missed the front end of a one and one with 12 seconds remaining and the score tied 70-70. The shot was released by Philpott and the crowd hushed as it sailed in the air and finally swished in for the game winner.

"I knew it was going to fall in for me," Philpott said after the game. "I've been practicing that shot every day at practice and I finally got a chance to shoot it."

The battle for control of the ballgame was all in the fourth period's closing minutes. With the score, 55-51, in favor of the Blue Darters, Apopka's Robert Hardwick hit two free throws after being fouled by Brett Marshall to put the Darters up by six points.

Marshall redeemed himself with a nice hook shot with 6:24 left in the game. James Williams answered for Apopka, though, with an easy layup and Philpott was fouled on the other end by Clint Boyd.

Philpott, who scored 20 points on the evening and crashed the boards for a game-high nine rebounds, went to the line to shoot two but only hit the front end of the deuce to make the score, 59-54, in Apopka's favor.

That's when the Greyhounds took over. After being charged with 16 fouls in the first half and 17 in the second, the 'Hounds took their frustration out on the net.

"Our kids were down by a lot," Lyman coach Tom Lawrence said. "They could have packed up their tents and headed home, but they didn't."

After the Darters' Keith Johnson ripped in two free throws, Lyman's T.J. Scaletta drove the lane for two after a nice pick-pocket of Johnson to make the score, 63-58.

Johnson answered with a top of the key jumper with 4:30 remaining and once again the ever present Philpott was fouled at the offensive side of the court.

He went to the line and sank the bookends of a one and one with 4:14 remaining. The Darters' Hardwick followed a Johnson missed shot at the other end and the score remained a five-point difference.

The Greyhounds' Vince Florence took a nice feed from Scaletta and sank two of his own with 2:40 remaining to make the score, 67-64. Thirty seconds later, Apopka's Earl Clayton

Bears Celebrate — Drug Abuse Plagues Pats

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The differences between the Chicago Bears and New England Patriots are even more apparent one day after the Super Bowl.

The Bears returned home in triumph to a ticker-tape parade; the Patriots admitted a drug problem involving about a dozen players, including four starters.

New England announced Monday night it would become the first NFL club to undergo voluntary drug testing.

"The players took the initiative and decided to do it," coach Raymond Berry said one day after the Patriots' 46-10 drubbing in the Super Bowl. "The bottom line is that it's good. It's positive. It's a major step forward."

Super Bowl

The names of the players with drug problems were not released.

The AFC champions met for nearly two hours in a New Orleans hotel Monday morning. Berry discussed the extent of the problem — particularly cocaine abuse — and possible consequences and solution.

Of the 59 players on the roster, only seven voted against voluntary drug testing, and several abstained. Details of the plan have not been worked out.

FREEZE CAN'T KEEP AWAY FANS

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Super Bowl XX champion Chicago Bears were welcomed home by hundreds of thousands of victory-starved, pennant-waving fans who braved biting cold and frosty winds to celebrate the city's first professional sports championship in 23 years.

An estimated 500,000 fans, clad in Arctic weather gear, patiently waited after a 90-minute delay for the start of Monday's ticker-tape parade down LaSalle Street through the financial district. A rally was held at Daley Plaza, which was renamed "Bear Plaza" during the Bears' championship season.

The festivities were delayed because the Bears' plane from New Orleans landed was late in arriving.

Even the 5-degree temperature and biting winds that dropped the wind-chill factor to 31 below couldn't keep Bears' fans from celebrating. The last time the city had such a celebration was 1963 when the Bears won the National Football League title over the New York Giants.

Signs saying "We're warm. Go Bears" could be seen on signposts along the parade route. Fans barked their approval of the team that made barking famous after the Bears' defensive players revealed they sometimes wooled at their opponents to psyche themselves up.

Dolphins Breeze Past 25 Teams In Swim Classic

This past weekend at the Justus Aquatic Center in Orlando, the Justus Dolphins of Orlando held their first ever Winter Classic Swimming Invitational.

Over 600 swimmers representing over 25 teams competed in the season opening meet in Orlando. The host team walked, or rather ran away with the team title easily outdistancing the second place Central Florida Stars and third place Holmes Lumber Gators from Gainesville.

"The meet was a huge success," Dolphins head coach John Woods said. "I was really pleased with the team's performance. We had some good swimmers and I was happy to see our kids improving so early in the season."

Once again, the few swimmers from Sanford were the stars of the early season invitational.

Seminole sophomore Jaime Bojanowski keeps on rolling as he chalked up another personal best time in the 500-yard freestyle with a time of 5:04. Bojanowski placed 25 at the Class 4A State meet this past November in the same event.

"I was very impressed with Jaime's (Bojanowski) swims," Woods said. "He was a little down after the state meet, but he's starting to get untracked now and his swimming is really improving."

Bojanowski also had some season best times in the 200-yard free (1:52), the 100 free (51.0), and the 50 free (24.0).

Another Sanford swimmer who Woods picked out as having a superior weekend was Shannon "Cissy" Burgess. (Yes, she is my sister, but she's good.)

Burgess swam a lifetime best time of 1:06 in the 100-yard butterfly and also qualified for the Winter Eastern Classic in Atlanta in two weeks.

"Cissy is really putting it together," Woods said. "She's a very hard worker and a dedicated athlete. She's doing better at every meet and should do well at Atlanta."

Other outstanding swimmers that were noted for their performances included Robbin McMichael, Jenny Huggins and 13-year old Austin Lindsey, Lindsey, who is considered one of the premier swimmers in the nation, swam his first meet in a new age group this past weekend and the result was just as good as always.

"Austin is right at or under his lifetime bests," Woods said. "He's doing even better as he's getting older."

"At that point, the official wouldn't give us the timeout because he said we couldn't call a timeout after the ball came through the rim on Lawson's shot," Moore explained. "Eustis then inbounded the ball and ran out the clock."

For Lake Mary, Lawson was high with 16 points while Patterson scored just two points Monday night, but they were the biggest two of her young prep career. Hughes, an Oviedo High freshman, hit two free throws that gave the Lady Lions the lead in the late going and she also made some key defensive plays down the stretch as Oviedo pulled out a 30-27 victory over St. Cloud's Lady Bulldogs in Orange Belt Conference action at St. Cloud.

"There should be a lot of spirit in that meet," Woods said. "They're going to have 10 people in the finals instead of eight because the pool has 10 lanes. That should make it really interesting."

CHUCK'S TIP — For those swimmers who hate Monday and early week workouts, try to make practice fun.

For sets like 10 200's, break each 200 into a game. Descend the first three, ascend the next three and negative split the last four.

For long distance sets, singing a favorite song or thinking about a boyfriend or girlfriend will make the time and yardage fly.

Hall Of Fame Selects Hornung

CANTON, Ohio (UPI) — Flamboyant running back Paul Hornung, whose career was tainted by a gambling suspension, was elected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame along with four others, it was announced Tuesday.

Joining Hornung as 1986 inductees are defensive back Ken Houston, linebacker Willie Lanier, record-setting quarterback Fran Tarkenton and running back Doak Walker.

Football

Each new member received a minimum of 23 votes from the Hall's Board of Selectors, which met during Super Bowl XX weekend in New Orleans.

All but one of the 28 members — representing the 28 NFL teams plus a designated member from the Pro Football Writers Association of America — cast ballots.

The five electees will bring to 133 the number of Hall of Fame members.

Two finalists, quarterback Len Dawson and wide receiver Don Maynard, were not elected but automatically solidified the image when he admitted to betting on his own team.

In contrast, Houston reached the Hall in his first year of eligibility. After a collegiate career at Prairie View A&M, Houston played 191 games over 14 seasons with Houston from 1967-72 and Washington until 1980.

The speedy, hard-hitting Houston intercepted 49 passes for 898 yards and a record nine TD's. The 41-year-old from Lutkin, Texas was traded to the Redskins for five players in 1973.

The delay has been attributed to Hornung's suspension by Commissioner Pete Rozelle for the 1963 season after the Green Bay Packer admitted to gambling.

Hornung, the 1956 Heisman Trophy from Notre Dame, rushed 893 times for 3,711 yards and 50 touchdowns in nine seasons with Green Bay, from 1957-62 and 1964-68.

Hornung led the NFL in scoring three straight years, culminating with a record 176-point season in 1961.

The 50-year-old Hornung, who lives in his native Louisville, Ky., had a reputation as a playboy — and probably became finalists for 1987.

Hornung, who retired after the 1966 season, has been eligible for 15 years. A player must wait five years after retirement before being considered for the Hall.

The 40-year-old from Clover, Va., spurred the Chiefs' defense over favored Minnesota in Super Bowl IV. He became the starting middle linebacker in his fourth game and did not relinquish that spot until the last three weeks of his career.

Tarkenton completed 3,686 of 6,467 passes for 47,003 yards and 342 touchdowns — all career records — in 18 seasons with Minnesota (1961-68, 1972-74) and the New York Giants (1967-71).

Famous as a scrambler, the nine-time Pro Bowler also rushed 675 times for 3,674 yards for another 32 TD's.

Tarkenton, 45, guided the Vikings to three unsuccessful Super Bowl appearances.

Walker, who won the 1948 Heisman trophy at Southern Methodist, played six seasons (1950-55) with the Detroit Lions.

He rushed 309 times for 1,520 yards, caught 152 passes for 2,539 yards and kicked 49 field goals and 183 conversions.

The 58-year-old from Dallas, who won scoring titles in 1950 and 1955, was nominated by the Hall's Old-Timers Committee.

The 1986 class of enshrinees will meet at the Pro Bowl in Honolulu on Feb. 1-2, and will be formally inducted at the Hall of Fame on Aug. 2.

'Road Blues' Intensify For Lady Rams, 57-53

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Lady Rams are experiencing a case of the nonconference on-the-road blues.

Last Wednesday, Lake Mary dropped a 58-46 decision at the gloom-dome in Apopka as the Lady Darters continued a four-year hex over the Lady Rams. Monday night, Lake Mary journeyed to Eustis where, despite a furious last-minute comeback, it came out on the short end of the stick again, 57-53.

The Lady Rams, 13-4 overall, return to Seminole Athletic Conference action Friday night at Lyman. Lake Mary, 4-0 in the conference, has not experienced the same woes in SAC away games as it has come through with big wins at Seminole and Lake Brantley.

Lake Mary built a six-point lead, 30-24, at halftime Monday night but saw the lead dwindle to one, 41-40, after three quarters. Eustis then went on a 17-7 spurt to grab a 57-46 lead with 1:03 left to play.

Tonya Lawson then came up with a steal and scored for the Rams and Cynthia Patterson followed with a steal and a layup to make it 57-50. Patterson was then fouled and went to the free throw line with 59 seconds left.

She made the first to make the score 57-51 and coach Bill Moore said he instructed Patterson to miss the second — which she did.

"Then the official stepped in and said it was illegal to purposely miss a free throw," Moore said. "I've never heard of anything like that before."

Lawson, though, came up with another steal on the inbound pass and made the layup to pull the Rams within 57-53 with 20 seconds left. Lake Mary immediately tried to call timeout after Lawson's hoop.

"At that point, the official wouldn't give us the timeout because he said we couldn't call a timeout after the ball came through the rim on Lawson's shot," Moore explained. "Eustis then inbounded the ball and ran out the clock."

For Lake Mary, Lawson was high with 16 points while Patterson scored just two points Monday night, but they were the biggest two of her young prep career.

The win boosted Oviedo's OBC record to 5-1 which is tied for first place with Leesburg. The Lady Lions, 5-12 overall and Leesburg will battle for first place Thursday night at Oviedo High.

Basketball

terson and Karen DeShetler had 13 each. For DeShetler, it was her top performance of the season as she also pulled down nine rebounds and handed out three assists.

Teri Whyte, a 6-4 sophomore center, was called for three fouls in the first four minutes of the game and sat out until the fourth quarter. When she went back in, she immediately picked up her fourth foul. Whyte, who averages over 10 points per game, finished with just one point.

"The real story was Whyte got in foul trouble and made us awful short against their big people," Moore said. "Eustis has three girls 5-11 or better. Still, we should have gone out after them a little earlier."

For Eustis, Teresa Newman tossed in a game-high 26 points while Casey Bunn popped in 16.

JV LADY RAMS WIN

Lara Splatt poured in a career-high 20 points Monday night as Lake Mary's junior varsity Lady Rams claimed a 43-27 victory over Eustis. The JV Lady Rams have won five straight and now stand at 6-4 for the season.

LONGWOOD — The Lyman Lady Greyhounds used 23 points from senior forward Kim Forsyth and 19 from LaYuna Johnson to roll past the Apopka Blue Darters, 61-56, despite a 33-point performance from the Blue Darters' Jackie Paramore in girls prep basketball action Monday night in front of 201 fans at Lyman High School.

The score was 44-43 in favor of the Lady Greyhounds with 4:47 remaining in the game when Johnson went to work. Johnson hit a short jumper from the foul line to pull the lead to three.

Apopka's Michelle McKinney went to the line to shoot a one and one after being fouled by Forsyth, but couldn't hit the front end. Johnson pulled down the rebound and passed the ball to DeLeonarda Bouey who took the ball down the court for another short jumper to extend the lead to five points.

The Lady Greyhounds improved to 10-3 on the year with the win and will travel to face the Lady Braves of Boone on Tuesday and host the Lady Rams of Lake Mary on Friday.

Bouey popped a short shot from just inside the point to make it 50-45 after Paramore ripped the net with a swisher from the baseline with 4:17 left in regulation.

"It seemed we played as hard as we could just to stay in the game," Lady Hound coach Dick Copeland said. "It was one of those games that the weekend lacyoff really affected us. We're still struggling and we kind of look like we're out of shape." Forsyth may have been out of shape, but she was in top season form in the closing seconds of the game. She scored two key free throws after she was fouled by Paramore with 3:40 remaining and sank two more after being fouled by Apopka's Dionne Collier.

"Those free throws by Kim (Forsyth) were really crucial," Copeland said after the game. "She is a very composed player and knows what she's doing on the court. She runs the offense on the court when she's out there."

Johnson was also tough shooting on the night as she amassed 11 points in the second half to pace the Lady Hounds.

Hughes' Free Throws Turn Back St. Cloud

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Suzanne Hughes scored just two points Monday night, but they were the biggest two of her young prep career. Hughes, an Oviedo High freshman, hit two free throws that gave the Lady Lions the lead in the late going and she also made some key defensive plays down the stretch as Oviedo pulled out a 30-27 victory over St. Cloud's Lady Bulldogs in Orange Belt Conference action at St. Cloud.

The win boosted Oviedo's OBC record to 5-1 which is tied for first place with Leesburg. The Lady Lions, 5-12 overall and Leesburg will battle for first place Thursday night at Oviedo High.

Basketball

Hughes has not melted the nets with her scoring average this season, but her free throw percentage is impressive — especially considering her freshman status. After sinking the two crucial free tosses Monday, Hughes ran her county-leading percentage to 80 percent (20 of 25).

"She did an excellent job in the late going," Oviedo coach John Thomas said of Hughes. "She stole two balls, got fouled on one and hit the free throws, then came up with the last rebound to stop St. Cloud from getting a second shot."

Michelle Eck with the high scorer for the Lady Lions with 10 points while Stephanie Nelson added seven and Jodie Switzer six. Rachel Diggins had nine points for St. Cloud.

OVIDEO JV WINS

Arienne Wood scored 18 of her game-high 20 points in the second half Monday night as Oviedo's junior varsity Lady Lions claimed a 35-27 victory over St. Cloud.

It was the second straight victory for Oviedo which now stands at 5-6. On Friday,

Holmes' Strong Second Half Helps Tigers Rout Virginia Tech

United Press International

Baskerville Holmes took his time but he finally helped Memphis State put Virginia Tech away.

Holmes scored 17 of his 19 points in the second half Tuesday night to lead No. 2 Memphis State to an 83-61 rout of the No. 19 Hokies in a Metro Conference game.

"I thought we were going to get shut out tonight," Tigers head coach Dana Kirk said. "We did a couple of things wrong right off the bat. But our board work got better, and Baskerville Holmes got going in the second half."

"We kept going to him although he was 1-of-7 in the first half. You can't give up on him. All in all, I think we played as well in one 15-minute streak as we have played this year."

Holmes hit his first shot of the second half and followed with a 3-point play and a pair of free throws, giving the Tigers a 41-28 advantage. Two more baskets by Holmes and two field goals each by William Bedford and Dwight Boyd gave Memphis State a 53-32 lead.

The victory was the undefeated Tigers' 21st straight. Andre Turner had 16 points and 9 steals, and Bedford added 12 points and 11 rebounds.

Basketball

Memphis State, 5-0 in the conference, led 32-26 at halftime, and increased the lead to 53-32 in the next seven minutes.

Virginia Tech, 16-4, was led by Dave Burgess and Bobby Beecher with points each. Dell Curry, a guard averaging 24 points a game, was held to 12 points, his lowest total of the season.

"We came out of the blocks strong," Virginia Tech coach Charlie Moir said,

"but Holmes and Bedford caused us a lot of problems. We shot the ball poorly in the first half, but you have to attribute that to some of Memphis State's defense. In the second half, we lost our poise against the press."

The Hokies had 22 turnovers in the game.

Memphis State outrebounded Tech 47-36 despite 12 rebounds from Beecher and 11 from Curry.

In other games, No. 4 Duke crushed Harvard 89-52, and No. 12 Georgetown whipped Providence 69-54.

At Durham, N.C., David Henderson scored 14 points to lead five Blue Devils in double figures. Billy King scored 12 points, Jay Bilas added 11 and 10 rebounds, and All-America guard Johnny Dawkins and Mark Alarie each added 10 points. The Blue Devils made 22 of 32 field goal attempts in second half.

At Providence, R.I., David Wingate scored a game-high 20 points, and shot 7-for-7 from the floor Monday night to lead the Hoyas past the Friars in a Big East matchup. Reggie Williams added 13 points, and Michael Jackson 12.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Lake Mary Kickers Fall Behind Early, Tumble To West Orange

On a night when most soccer was being played on home video units, Lake Mary's Rams and West Orange's Warriors battled in the bitter cold at Winter Garden. It took the Rams 73 minutes before they could get their offense warmed up but, despite a number of late scoring threats, they couldn't erase an early deficit as West Orange claimed a 2-1 victory.

Scott Schmitt

Lake Mary, 14-4-2 and ranked third in the state (4A), returns to action Wednesday at home against Oviedo.

West Orange took a 1-0 halftime lead on a goal by Cedric Jobson and another goal by Jobson gave the Warriors a 2-0 lead with 16 minutes left to play. "On the second goal, our keeper didn't see the ball," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "A West Orange player went up and headed it away and nobody covered up the goal and Jobson stuck it in."

Lake Mary came back within 2-1 with seven minutes left to play when Scott Schmitt fired in a goal from 35 yards out. McCorkle said the Rams had plenty of chances to tie it but couldn't convert.

"In the last seven minutes, we had two shots hit the post and another that hit a player who was on the line. We had one shot inside of six feet that went over the goal."

The Rams outshot the Warriors, 18-12, but West Orange's keeper had to make just six saves. "That's a sign of how bad our shooting was," McCorkle said.

Kohlberg, Van Patten Survive

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Andy Kohlberg and Vince Van Patten are the only survivors among six players who fought through the qualifiers to enter the second round of the 25th U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships.

Kohlberg, ranked No. 143, laces 8th-seeded Tim Mayotte today after suprising 46th ranked John Sadri 3-6, 6-1, 6-4 Monday, winning on a break in the final game.

Van Patten defeated fellow qualifier Shahar Perkiss of Israel 7-6 (7-5), 6-4. Perkiss fought off four set points to force the first set tiebreaker. Van Patten won the second set on the third match point and will meet No. 9 seeded Andres Gomez of Ecuador today.

No. 1 seed Ivan Lendl, who was runner-up to four-time champion John McEnroe in 1983 and 1984, is idle until Wednesday as is No. 2 and four-time champion Jimmy Connors, and No. 5 Anders Jarryd. McEnroe pulled out of the tournament last week, citing the need to take time off from the tour.

Lady Hawks Second Nationally

Coach Tom Hammon's Lake Howell Lady Hawks, the second best 4A cross country team in the state, picked up another honor recently when they were honored for their performance in the County Postal Run.

The Cross-Country Journal ranked the Lady Hawks second behind Pearl River, N.Y., with a time of 60 minutes, 57.2 seconds. Pearl River was clocked in 58 minutes, 9.2 seconds.

The postal run is a nationwide competition in which the sum total of the first five runners in accumulated for two miles. The times are run on the track and not a cross country course for similarity.

Lisa Samocki was named a Second Team All-American and Martha Fonseca was a Fourth Team All-American.

'Families' Golf On Feb. 10

The first Families Together, Inc., golf tournament will be held on Feb. 10 at 1 p.m. at the Sweetwater Country Club in Longwood, spokesperson Barbara Dean announced.

Families Together Inc. is a community organization with goals to diminish drug and alcohol use among youth through the encouragement of positive alternative activities.

Registration fee for the golf tournament is $100, tax deductible. Coordinator of the event is Longwood resident David White.

An awards ceremony will follow the tournament with a host of prizes including a round trip for two anywhere in the Trans World Airlines system presented by Rep. Bill McCollum, honorary chairman of the event.

Boating Skill Classes Offered

Those who enjoy boating can now improve their boating knowledge and skills by enrolling in the Safe Boating Course, sponsored by the Seminole Power Squadron in cooperation with the Office of Community Instructional Services of Seminole Community College.

The class will be held at Longwood Elementary School for six weeks on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7-9, beginning Jan. 28. Registration will take place the first class meeting at 6:45.

Instruction is free, but there is an $8 charge for each set of instructional materials.

For further information, call the Office of Community Instructional Services at the college (323-1450, ext. 304).

Seminole Frosh Squeeze Rams

Jarod and the "Cheese" combined to help Seminole High's freshman put the squeeze on Lake Mary's Rams Monday night in prep basketball.

Jarod Jones poured in a game-high 22 points and Reggie "Cheese" Bellamy pumped in 19 as the Seminole frosh came away with a 70-58 victory over the Rams to avenge Seminole's only loss. Dwight Brinson joined Jones and Bellamy in double figures with 13 points.

For Lake Mary, Burnett Washington was high with 16 points, Carlos Hartsfield tossed in 13 and Tarrance Carr added 10. All three live in Sanford.

Minnesota To Resume Schedule

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — The University of Minnesota, rocked by the arrest of three of its basketball players on rape charges and close to cancelling its last 11 games, will finish the season with eight players and an interim coach.

University President Kenneth Keller said Monday night he considered ending Minnesota's Big Ten season, but decided that would be "an abuse of the rights of the young people" remaining on the team.

He had forfeited Minnesota's Sunday game at Northwestern to allow time for disciplinary action.

Hawthorne Turns Up The Heat

Sanford Thundercar Driver Wins End-Of-Month Championship

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Traditionally, during the few weeks preceding the World Series at New Smyrna Speedway, the racing action heats up considerably, and this year is no exception.

Casey Hawthorne, a 20-year-old Sanford driver, turned up the heat considerably Saturday night. Climbing in a race car he'd never seen before, Hawthorne turned fast time and went on to win the 30-lap End of the Month event for the thundercar division.

The early laps were marked by a crowd-pleasing duel between Hawthorne and very tough 25-year veteran Harry Brazee, who led for the first six times around.

Running wheel to wheel at that point, the flying lead pair split to go on each side of the lapped car, and when they met again, Hawthorne was ahead. But Hawthorne wasn't out of the woods yet as he got the unfamiliar Busch car sideways several times because he oversteered.

At the finish, Hawthorne bested Brazee, Doug Latham, Bill Kinley and Ed Eastabrook.

Last season, as a street stocker, Hawthorne won 23 regular features, the 1985 Armed Forces 50 and the prestigious

Auto Racing

100-lap Florida State Street Stock Championship. He was also voted The Most Improved Street Stock driver in Florida by a panel of experts.

After skipping a few weeks, spent working on the race car, David Rogers came back to win the 50-lap End of the Month Late Model Championship on Saturday night at the high banked, half-mile, paved oval.

Rogers was followed by fastest qualifier LeRoy Porter and Daniel Keene whose race car's front end had to be rebuilt following a violent hot laps wall banger. Fourth and fifth were Joe Middleton and a very aggressive Lee Faulk who will be in a brand new Champton TV Rentals race car this coming Saturday.

Much improved A.J. Rinehart won his second roadrunner feature in a row, with Gene Van Altstine running the high groove to score a popular victory over a strong field of four-cylinder machines.

This coming Saturday, a Demolition Derby, The Great American Sack Race and a 100-lap Enduro will be added to the regular program, as a major Japanese TV network will be taping the action.

Milwaukee Overpowers Utah, 127-103

United Press International The Milwaukee Bucks used the same technique to control the backboard Monday night that the Chicago Bears used in the Super Bowl to take over the line of scrimmage — they pushed the other team out of their way.

The matchups with Milwaukee are difficult — their big guards to our small guards, Utah coach Frank Layden said after the Bucks defeated the Jazz 127-103.

"They were a very physical team and they pushed us around like the Bears did to the Patriots. They were just too tough for us tonight."

In the first half, Milwaukee enjoyed a 35-15 rebounding edge and Sidney Moncrief scored 20 of his 35 points to give the Bucks a 70-43 lead at intermission.

"We were able to rebound well and get into our transition game," said Milwaukee's Paul Pressey, who finished with 14 points.

"Utah has a very good fast break but we were able to execute ours so well that I don't think that they were as effective."

The Bucks took control of the game with a first quarter surge of 10 straight points for a 34-20 lead with 2:12 left in the period. They never let Utah get close the rest of the way.

"We tried to contain them but they blew right by us," Utah's Carey Scurry said. "It's hard to match up with them. They are all 6-6, they are all quick and they were jettin' by us."

Jerry Reynolds scored 16 points for the Bucks, while Terry Cummings, Kenny Fields and Ricky Pierce scored 13 points apiece.

Utah was led by Adrian Dantley with 31 points, while Carl Malone added 20 and pulled down a game-high 11 rebounds.

Elsewhere, Detroit edged San Antonio 118-117, Dallas defeated Chicago 124-116, Denver routed Cleveland 124-103 and the LA Clippers downed New Jersey 103-98.

...Philpott

popped a jumper from the weak side to build the Blue Darter lead once again.

Fortunately for the Greyhounds, fouling down the homestretch was the answer to all of their problems. Scaletta fouled Johnson to send him to the line to shoot a one and one with 1:53 remaining. Johnson could only hit the front end and Philpott crashed in for another rebound.

With the score now, 70-64, in favor of the visiting Blue Darters and 1:50 remaining in the game, 6-3 reserve center Shawn Newton hit the bucket of his life and started a spark that the Darters couldn't extinguish.

The Greyhounds put together a full-court press and a man to man defense in the final minute of play that the Darters couldn't control. During the final minute, Scaletta had three steals that set up four points.

The first steal went to Fitzpatrick who sank a fast break layup and the second went to Marshall who dished it off to Philpott who in turn scored with 57 seconds left to tie the game.

After going 18 for 23 from the line in the first half, the Darters seemed that if they were fouled, they would put the game away. That wasn't the case, however, as Scaletta once again fouled Johnson to send him to the line.

The result was the same and Marshall grabbed the rebound to give the possession to the 'Hounds with 45 seconds remaining in the game. Having the ball and the clock, the Greyhounds decided to eat away at the latter and go for one shot.

That strategy was foiled by the Blue Darters and they fouled Marshall to send him to the line. He missed the shot, but an alert Fitzpatrick picked off the rebound to secure possession once again. Right away the 6-2 senior was fouled to send him to the free throw line to shoot the winning pair.

Once again the 'Hounds missed from the line and a determined Philpott snatched the bound and put up the game winner.

"My kids just wouldn't quit," Lawrence said. "It was a very physical type game and they hung in there and wouldn't give up. It was a great win for us."

The Blue Darters led at the half, 40-32, and appeared they were going to turn a good ballgame into a rout. However, Marshall and Philpott hit 20 points for Lyman. Florence tossed in 12 and Scaletta added 10 as the Greyhounds were too much for the bigger and more physical Blue Darters in the latter stages of the game.

Apokpa's hotshot guard Mike Lowman reportedly missed the bus and didn't play.

In the junior varsity game, the Lyman Greyhounds used a game-high 26 points from Darrell Starks and a superior defense to overcome the Apokpa Blue Darters, 59-53.

Starks split his scoring in 13 in each half and teammate Jason McElhinney came off of the bench to dish out a game high nine assists. Willie Brown added eight points in the second half to bring the 'Hounds back from a 32-31 halftime deficit.

The Great American Chili Cookoff Central Florida Zoo Sets Contest To Raise Funds

The Central Florida Zoological Society just west of Sanford has scheduled its first annual chili cookoff for Saturday at the zoo with proceeds going to support the zoo.

"Now is the time to round up a team of cooks for the Central Florida Zoo Chili Cookoff set for Saturday, Feb. 1, 1986. Everyone has a chili recipe they think is number one. Well, enter in the cookoff and find out if that fiery concoction is truly up to chili cookoff standards," challenged zoo public relations director Susan Hamburg.

"Cooks should begin arriving at the zoo by 9 a.m. the cookoff activities will continue until 5 p.m., with judging based on booth decoration, showmanship and, of course, the chili flavor," Ms. Hamburg said.

Florida Chili Historian Glenn Graves will be chief judge and will conduct judging under Sunshine State Society of Chilliheads rules.

Trophies and cash prizes will be awarded for first, second and third place. A $20 entry fee is all that is required to participate in the open cookoff.

"This means that the cooks are allowed to bring already prepared chili in crock pots and advance prepared ingredients will be permitted," Ms. Hamburg said.

For more information about the chili cookoff and how to enter, call the Central Florida Zoo at 843-2341 or 323-4450.

So, some chili to me, says Geraldine, the Central Florida Zoo's attractive hippo. Geraldine won't test any of the chili cooks will produce for the zoo's Saturday chili cookoff, but zoo officials aren't sure they'll be able to keep it all away from her.

More Of Those Who Have Succeeded Against The Odds

DEAR READERS: Yesterday's column was filled with names (submitted by my readers) of those who managed to succeed against the odds. Today's is a continuance of that list:

Have a thalidomide child born with a dwarfed, twisted body without arms, and you have a Terry Wiles, who, with the aid of mechanical devices, learned to play the electric organ, steer a motorboat and paint.

Amputate the cancer-ridden leg of a handsome young Canadian, and you have a Terry Fox, who vowed to run on one leg across the whole of Canada to raise a million dollars for cancer research. (Terry was forced to quit halfway when cancer invaded his lungs, but managed to raise about $20 million.)

Let a British fighter pilot who lost both legs in an air crash fly again with the RAF, and you have a Douglas Bader, who, with two artificial limbs, was captured by the Germans three times during World War II — and escaped three times!

Blind him and you have a Ray Charles. George Shearing, Stevie Wonder, Tom Sullivan, Alec Templeton or Hal Krents.

Label him "too stupid to learn," and you have a Thomas Edison.

Make him a "hopeless" alcoholic, and you have a Bill Wilson, founder of Alcoholics Anonymous.

Tell her she's too old to start painting at 80, and you have a Grandma Moses.

Afflict him with periods of depression so severe that he cuts off his own ear, and you have a Vincent Van Gogh.

Your list would not be complete without a smiling Max Cleland, who lost both legs and an arm in Vietnam and formerly headed the Veterans Administration in Washington, D.C.

Dear Abby

Don't forget Patricia Neal, the fine actress who suffered a severe stroke, but rehabilitated herself against overwhelming odds.

Blind him at age 44, and you have John Milton, who, 16 years later, wrote "Paradise Lost."

Call him dull and hopeless and flunk him in the sixth grade, and you have a Winston Churchill.

Punish her with poverty and prejudice, and she may survive to become another Golda Meir.

Pit her against sexual discrimination, and you have a Madame Curie.

Tell a young boy who loved to sketch and draw that he has no talent, and you have a Walt Disney.

Take a crippled child whose only home he ever knew was an orphanage, and you have a James E. West, who became the first chief executive of the Boy Scouts of America.

Rate him as "medecre" in chemistry, and you have Louis Pasteur.

Make him a homosexual, and you have a Michaelangelo and a million other talented people.

Deny a child the ability to see, hear and speak, and you have a Helen Keller.

Make him second fiddle in an obscure South American orchestra, and you have a Toscanini.

Not all disabilities are physical and visible. And not all who have won against the odds are well-known celebrities.

Every family has its own heroes and heroines for whom there is no medal distinguished enough to reward them for their accomplishments.

It is to you, whose names do not appear here but deserve to, that I dedicate this column.

Suber President Of Property Appraiser's Group

By Sarah Nunn
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Property Appraiser Bill Suber has assumed the presidency of the Property Appraiser's Association of Florida.

Suber, who was elected first vice president of the state association in October, has taken over the top post following the recent death of Association President Ray Daniel.

As first vice president Suber said he is required by the association's bylaws to serve out

Daniel's one-year term, called the responsibility of being the state association "challenging."

The purpose of the organization, made up of property appraisers from each county in Florida, is to lobby or the people in issues involving property tax legislation Suber said.

"There are a lot of intelligent minds among the members and I want to attempt to get those minds together so we're all thinking alike," he said.

Suber said he would consider servicing for another term when the association's nominating committee presents its slate of officers next October.

"If we accomplish things this year I would like to be able to continue what we start and see it through to completion," he said.

Suber has served Seminole County as property appraiser since 1980. He was assistant property appraiser from 1972 to 1980.

Suber has been a member of the state property appraiser's association for 15 years.

UCF Nurse Associations St AIDS Seminar

The University of Central Florida Nursing Students Association, the Florida Nursing Students Association, and the Florida Nurses Association "realizing the desperate need for education" on AIDS, has scheduled a seminar on the subject.

On Monday, at the University of Central Florida student Center Auditorium, the seminar, A.I.D.S.: A Caring Challenge will be offered.

The program is from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. with registration from 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. The seminar is free to anyone.

Anyone wishing information on the seminar may contact UCF's Nursing Department at 275-2744.

Hospital Sets Education Programs

January brings two free community education programs to South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood.

On Thursday, learn how to put those New Year's resolutions into effect by learning the facts behind achieving a healthier lifestyle.

"Promoting a Healthy You" will be presented by Ronald S. Hoffman, M.D., P.A., internal medicine specialist. Dr. Hoffman's discussion will include diet, exercise, weight control, heart disease risk factors, and "preventative maintenance."

The program will run from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the South Seminole Community Hospital Cafeteria.

Today is the date for "Rape Prevention: How to Say No and Survive."

Don't wait until trouble strikes! Attend this special Rape Prevention seminar and learn how to protect yours! Sandy Clark, director of publications for the hospital, said.

The speaker will be Doris Hundley, victim advocate coordinator for the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

She will discuss the rape, how to prevent rape, and what to do if you are attacked. This program will be offered twice in South Seminole Community Hospital's Cafeteria: once from 1 to 2:30 p.m., and then again from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

Both programs are free, but pre-registration is necessary. Call 767-5892 for more information or to register.

The Furniture House, located at 1740 N. Highway 17-92, Longwood, is featuring such special items as an antique mahogany bedroom suite made in England in the 1800s, a marble fireplace, a ball and claw foot Governor Winthrop desk, sofas, love seats, chairs, Hide-a-Beds, coffee and end tables, china and curio cabinets, and oak furniture.

Owner Norma Mingo, who has been in business at the "Five Points" location for more than three years, has antiques, modern pieces and reproductions. She has patio furniture, bric-a-brac, wash stands, marble top tables, glass top tables and matching chairs, nursery furniture, dishes, bedding, pictures, lamps, quilts — you name it.

"I look for merchandise for people if I don't have what they want in stock," Norma said. "If you have furniture — one piece or a house full, call me, give me a chance to buy it or I will sell it in my store for you on consignment. Don't discard anything that's clean and in good condition. The old saying is 'one man's junk is another man's treasure.'"

You will find great prices on name brands such as Ethan Allen, Thomsville, Broyhill, American of Martinsville, Simmons and others at The Furniture House.

It's impossible to name everything so come in and browse, shop and tell your friends. Layaway is available. Master Charge or Visa credit cards are accepted.

They deliver for a nominal fee. The Furniture House is open 8 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. seven days a week so come in and say "Hi" to Norma and her assistants Joe Hope and Rinda Seither.

The Furniture House is located 2½ miles north of State Road 434 at the intersection of State Road 419, County Road 417 and U.S. Highway 17-92 near Longwood. Call 321-2063 for information.

No Plans To Cutback North Sea Oil

LONDON, Jan. 26 (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has indicated she has no plans to order a cutback in North Sea oil production to counter the recent fall in world crude prices and possible damage to the British economy.

Asked on Tyne Tees Television's "Meet the Press" Sunday about a statement by Saudi Oil

Minister Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani that Saudi Arabia was prepared to set prices for oil at $15 a barrel or lower if there was no agreement to curb over-production, Thatcher said it was up to individual North Sea producers to decide how much they would pump.

The British government "does have powers to stipulate depletion rates, but I think those would only be used in very, very, very rare circumstances," she said.

Thatcher said the recent 30 percent fall in oil prices has not been as disastrous for Britain as analysts predicted.

The oil element in the British economy was "only 6 percent" of Gross Domestic Product — "much smaller than people think," she said, and oil and oil-related products accounted for 8 percent of exports and 8 percent of revenue.

"It's quite absurd to look at Britain really as one of those economies which depend wholly on oil," she said.

FREE HEARING TESTS SET FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

SANFORD — A free Electronic hearing test will be given at the Beltone Hearing Aid Center office this week from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

June Dunwald a factory trained hearing aid specialist will be at our office to perform the tests. A FREE gift will be given to anyone who has his hearing tested.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have a test using modern electronic equipment to determine if his loss is one which may be helped. Some of the causes for hearing loss will be explained, and diagrams of how the ear works will be shown.

Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year if there is any trouble at all hearing clearly. Even people now wearing a hearing aid or those who have been told nothing could be done for them should have a hearing test and find out if they are one of the many a hearing aid can help.

The FREE hearing test will be given from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. or by appointment.

Mexican Debt Repayment Hit By Oil Price Drop

LONDON (UPI) — Mexican Finance Minister Jesus Silva Herzog warned Monday that recent "drastic" falls in oil prices might ultimately make Mexico's current foreign debt servicing scheme impossible.

Speaking at a conference on Latin American debt, Silva Herzog said the "emergency" situation could be improved by lower interest rates, more freedom for Latin American exports and new financing.

Silva Herzog outlined to the some 350 specialists the austerity measures that Mexico has taken since the debt crisis broke in 1982.

Then he said, "But how do you explain to a society that has endured this adjustment process so admirably, almost stoically, that you need even more sacrifices in order to compensate for falling oil prices so that we can continue to pay historically high real rates of interest to our creditors?"

"The limit of the responsibility to our creditors is the responsibility to our people."

In reaction to a question from the floor at the conference sponsored by the International Herald Tribune and the Inter-American Development Bank, Silva Herzog declined to be more specific about when responsibility to creditors would be canceled out.

"We are going through an emergency, a very real one which, if not acted upon with speed and wisdom, could make the summer of 1982 look like a relatively calm and quiet period," he said. "Events can overtake us very easily. In the case of Mexico, the general situation described for Latin America is exacerbated by the recent drastic drop in oil prices which could easily add up to $2.5 billion to $3 billion in loss of export income."

He said Mexico was analyzing the oil situation with care and "must be prudent." Silva Herzog said it was likely that the situation will probably mean more frequent conversations with creditors in the coming weeks.

Both Silva Herzog and Inter-American Development Bank President Antonio Ortiz Mena insisted that only with real, sustained growth will any proposed solution to the debt problem be acceptable politically to debtor countries.

Warning of possible revolutions, Ortiz Mena said, "Unless our representative governments can rekindle the flame of hope in the hearts of our populations — the hope of a better, more dignified and economically more secure future — the task of coping with today's burdens may well be taken away from them."

Silva Herzog said he was encouraged by a third world debt plan advanced in October by U.S. Treasury Secretary James A. Baker.

"We were encouraged to hear its emphasis on growth, but we believe it to be insufficient to tackle the goal of resuming growth while continuing to service the debt regularly," he said. "It can obtain the latter, but not the former, and without growth, the debt problem will not disappear."

Juice No Real Benefit But It Tastes So Good

DEAR DR. GOTT — Will drinking cranberry juice help my kidneys?

DEAR READER — Your question raises an issue that is sometimes considered to be a sacred cow in the medical world. The answer is "no," and here's why:

Before the advent of antibiotics, urinary infections were troublesome ailments that could lead to serious kidney diseases. In the course of trying first one thing, then another, early doctors eventually discovered that cranberry juice seemed to make a difference in the duration of urinary infections. Somewhere, someone recorded that cranberry juice was useful in this way, and the concept snowballed to the point where the juice achieved a reputation for being just plain good for the kidneys. Years passed before scientists identified a compound, called hippuric acid, that is present in small quantities in cranberries. Hippuric acid acts as a mild antiseptic in the urinary tract, but it is nowhere near as powerful and effective as antibiotics.

Cranberry juice does not benefit the kidneys or any other bodily organ, but it tastes good, contains vitamin C and is manufactured from a product grown in a lovely part of the world: Cape Cod and Nantucket. Cranberry juice is a healthful drink, but it doesn't contain any magical properties. Bottoms up!

DEAR DR. GOTT — Will it hurt to take Restoril at night so I can sleep? I am 83 and my nerves are real bad. It helps me get a good night's sleep, but I am weak. Is that the cause?

DEAR READER — Restoril is a safe drug, and for a person your age, I doubt that any harm will befall you if you use it for the purpose you describe. Weakness normally accompanies the aging process as we become less active and muscle tissue loses its bulk. To be on the safe side, ask your doctor if the amount of your weakness is in keeping with your general health.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My

husband, age 56, is concerned about the fact that during the past year, his penis had acquired a definite curve to the right. Can you give him some idea why this has occurred?

DEAR READER — Based on your observations, I conclude that your husband is developing Peyronie's disease. This is due to malfunction of one of the erection chambers on either side of the penis; so, during sexual arousal, he lists to port or starboard. In a mild form, the condition requires no treatment. However, I recommend that your husband see a urologist for an expert opinion.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Even though his side had all the aces and kings, and he had a good six-card suit of his own, South wisely settled for six no-trump. The game was rubber bridge, and he did not want to risk the game and the small-slam bonus by bidding seven. Careful and conservative in his bidding, South was careless in his play. I won't call him greedy; more likely, he was oblivious to the safe way of guaranteeing his contract. Remember the Jacoby rule — when the contract looks easy, ask yourself how you can be set. Then look for a way to avoid it.

Declarer won the ace of clubs and immediately cashed the ace of hearts. When West showed out, discarding a diamond, South could not avoid losing two tricks, try as he might. South was certainly unlucky (five outstanding cards in a suit divide 5-0 only four times out of 100), but a conservative bidder should also be able to play conservatively. If there was a way to assure 12 tricks in no-trump, declarer should have done so. Have you worked out the answer?

After winning the club ace, declarer should lead a low heart toward the 10 in dummy. If West wins with the jack, dummy will play low, and declarer can easily take the remaining tricks. When West shows out, the 10 will lose to East's jack, but declarer can get to dummy and play through East's holding so that the rest of his heart suit will run. The sound rubber bridge principle is that you sacrifice a potential and probable overtrick to assure your contract.

In the year ahead you will establish two helpful sets of friends. One group will be just for social purposes, the other will aid you in furthering your worldly ambitions.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's important today that you place demands on yourself and raise your expectations. You won't fall short. Major changes are ahead for Aquarians in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Take all the time you feel you need today to formulate a major decision. If you study every aspect carefully, you won't have any regrets later.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

You'll be in a better frame of mind today to handle two nuisance chores that you've been putting on the back burners. Wrap them up while you're in the mood.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Owing to unusual events today, you may learn an object lesson from someone younger than yourself. You won't resent the educational experience.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your feelings of self-worth will be enhanced today if you spend your time and efforts in unselfish ways. Do something for others as well as for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) This is one of those days when business and pleasure will mix favorably. Where you can, conduct your deals in a convivial, social atmosphere.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your financial aspects continue to look promising, so matters that should increase your holdings or provide you with additional income should be given most of your attention.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Even though you are apt to be a trifle more talkative than usual today, listeners will find what you have to say educational as well as colorful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A pleasant surprise is in store for you and you're going to unexpectedly receive something of value. If you don't get it today, you will very soon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Listen attentively today if a successful friend of yours tries to give you a moneymaking tip. With slight modifications, what worked for him will work for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It won't be necessary for you to keep close friends posted regarding your present accomplishments. You have a booster who's already broadcasting the details.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Apprehensions you have regarding something important in which you're now involved are groundless. Things will work out better than you think.
