CHAPTER 33

"THE champagne did seem to put Mrs. Featherstone into a better humor. As she dressed, Val could hear her employer chattering gaily to Dirk through the slightly open door communicating door of the bathroom.

"If it wasn't for that man, I might even come to the ball myself tonight. As an onlooker, of course. I don't suppose anyone would want to dance with an old woman like me."

"Nonsense, Aunt May, I shouldn't mind showing you around the floor once or twice," Dirk laughed easily back at her.

She bridled and said, "I must say your costume is original, what there is of it. How ever did you think it up?"

"Simple, my dear. I merely took the curtains down—"

"You tied the cord of my dressing gown about my middle, combed my hair down, put a band about it, and presto—a brilliant reproduction of a Roman slave."

"You'd better hurry and come in for that drink, Val," Dirk called. "Or Aunt May will have polished off the whole bottle."

"Now Dirk, you old boy, you know I've had only one tiny glass, well, maybe one and a half."

"Oh, one and three quarters, or at least four," Dirk interrupted, laughing. "For heaven's sake hurry, Val."

"I'm coming."

Mrs. Featherstone was raising a glass of champagne to her lips, but the glass never reached her lips.

"What on earth do you think you're going in that costume, Nurse?" she rapped out sharply.

"Dirk—Mr. Hanson loaned me his dress suit."

"Well, of all the—"

"Come now, Aunt May, don't spoil it," Dirk interrupted easily. "It was I who unseated Val borrow my tails. I said she'd look wonderful in them, and she does, doesn't she?"

There was a pause. Dirk's hand rested on Mrs. Featherstone's shoulder. "The a good sport, Aunt May. Say Val looks nice."

"I scarcely think it a ladylike costume—and especially not suitable for a nurse to wear," she said finally.

Val flushed. "I'm sorry, Mrs. Featherstone. I'll change. And if you'd prefer I didn't go to the dance tonight—"

"Nonsense," Dirk broke in. "And when Mrs. Featherstone merely grunted, he laughed and added, "Come along, Val, or they'll have stopped serving."

As they neared the dining room she was thinking suddenly, Bruce, what will he think? Will he think the costume "unladylike," or even brazen?

A small round of applause greeted Dirk's and Val's appearance, the same spontaneous applause which had greeted other passengers whose costumes had been striking or unusual. As they entered, Bruce had turned and looked at them; then abruptly he had turned his back on them. He didn't join in the friendly laughter or the applause.

Dirk pushed her forward toward their table. "What's the matter, my dear? You look as though you'd seen a ghost. Smile nicely at the ladies and gentlemen."

Val forced a smile, but she was trembling as she sank down into the chair the steward was holding out for her. "I'm—I suppose I'm self-conscious."

"You haven't any need to be. I don't matter myself. I wanted that applause. It's obvious our fellow-passengers approve of you."

There was a pause. "I think I understand," he said quietly.

"I—I suppose I was silly to wear your suit. Perhaps it does make me a little conspicuous."

"Nonsense! Look around at some of the others. Does it matter what one person thinks? And then it may be because they're jealous."

She tried to misinterpret his remark.

"But why should Mrs. Featherstone be jealous of me?"

He smiled. "Of course we're talking of Aunt May, aren't we? It's only human nature to resent the beauty one no longer possesses. Poor dear Aunt May, I can understand just how she feels."

"I do wish she'd get out of bed. I'm sure if she lay in a deck chair, the change and the air would do her good. She can't seriously think Bruce would do her any harm after all this time."

He smiled. "Of course she doesn't. But she's a stubborn old dear and once she's said a thing she'll stick to it if it kills her."

"I suppose she was like that about her daughter and Bruce," she said slowly.

He nodded. "But I think she would have come round in the end. It was only a question of keeping her appeased."

She didn't know what to think of that remark of his, but she reminded herself it was none of her business.

Directly after dinner she went up to see how Mrs. Featherstone was, but the door was locked. She knocked and called, "May I come in, Mrs. Featherstone? Are you all right?"

"Of course I'm all right," her employer's voice answered irritably. "Go away, Nurse. Run along and dance, dance, dance."

Val rattled the doorknob. "Please let me come in, Mrs. Featherstone. There may be something I can do for you."

"No, no, go away! And don't come near me again tonight. I don't want to see you."

Val was still standing there, worried and undecided, when the cabin steward came down the passage and rapped.

"I shouldn't worry about her any more tonight, Miss Alison. I've just taken her in a second bottle of champagne. That should keep her happy for the time being anyhow. He lowered one eyelid in a wink.

F. Herbert Seeking Brothers, Sister

NEW ORLEANS (U)—More people bustle through an airport than a butcher shop. So, at a loss in pay, silver-haired Francis Herbert has quit his butcher shop and moved behind the snack counter of an airport. He is searching.

"I figure the job at the airport would put me in contact with many travelers," said Herbert. "And who knows, one of them may have met one of my brothers or sister."

Herbert lost track of his brothers and sister in 1912. Born William Kevan, he was taken from the New York Foundling Home that year by Mr. and Mrs. Elyse Herbert, a Parisian couple who migrated to New Orleans.

After the death of his foster parents, who had renamed him, Herbert began the quest that has consumed his energies since 1936.

"I started the search for my relatives, something I didn't want to do while the old folks were still alive," he said.

"I learned that my father was Scottish and my mother Irish and that they met and married in New York. I secured the copy of my birth certificate which indicated I was the fifth child of Mr. and Mrs. James Joseph Kevan."

"I learned that two brothers were named George and James, but could find no record of the third brother. I also learned that my sister's name was Martha Frances. I also learned that my brothers and sister were placed in the Irish Immigrants' Home, which no longer exists."

In his search, Herbert's best clue came from a cousin, who turned up in Houston.

"He has reason to believe that one of my brothers is in Canada," said Herbert. "He also believes that another brother lives in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil."

The fruitless quest caused Herbert, married and the father of three, to switch jobs in desperation, to stand in a big airport and peer hopefully into faces.

"I'm getting myself a big metal pin with the name Kevan printed on it," said Herbert. "I'll wear it just in case some of the people coming into the airport will spot it and have some association with the name. You never can tell."

Official Says Citrus Mutual 'Too Optimistic'

LAKELAND (U)—An official of a major processing firm says Florida Citrus Mutual has been "too optimistic" in price and use forecasts for this season.

Herbert S. Massey of Dade City cited the estimate of the U. S. Department of Agriculture that this season's orange crop will be four million boxes greater than last season's 91 million boxes, and a larger carryover of processed citrus juices.

"I can't conceive of that additional amount of fruit selling for the same price," Massey said at a meeting of Mutual's directors and its advisory committee. "I don't want to see growers holding back for $1.75 or $2 per box, and have it break back to a dollar."

Massey, a director, is a vice president of Pasco Packing Co. Mutual had predicted growers should get good prices for their

MRS. D. B. MCKAY DIES

TAMPA (U)—Mrs. D. B. McKay, whose husband is a former publisher of the Tampa Times and was a four-time mayor of Tampa, died yesterday.

Mrs. McKay was the eldest daughter of Yavino Gutierrez, an engineer who plotted Tampa's Ybor City section and was a leader in bringing the cigar industry to Tampa.

She died of cancer of the stomach this season and the industry should dispose of the larger crop without difficulty.

Robert White, mutual economist, said an estimated increase in national income played a big part in the cooperative's optimistic forecast.

Meanwhile J. C. Strickland of the American National Growers said Florida grapefruit is selling in Rotterdam for between $3.47 and $3.95 a half box, compared to a top of $3.15 for a full box of West Indian grapefruit.

Powerful Electron Microscope Finds New Substance

ST. LOUIS (U)—The powerful electron microscope has thrown new light on construction of the nervous system—knowledge that could eventually help solve the mystery of multiple sclerosis and similar diseases.

The discovery concerns a substance known as myelin, found in the protective coating around nerves in the brain and spinal cord. Myelin is attacked and destroyed by degenerative diseases of the nervous system.

Dr. Sarah A. Luse, assistant professor of pathology at the Washington University Medical School, reporting on a two-year study, said it revealed myelin in the central nervous system actually is formed by and is a part of the nerve-protecting cells.

Until recent years myelin was regarded as inert matter of unknown origin deposited around the nerves.

Dr. Edward W. Dempsey, head of the anatomy department at the school and a member of the search review panel of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, explained the significance of Dr. Luse's findings.

"The information on the origin and nature of myelin is a first-rate scientific discovery, not necessarily because of its relation to any disease, but because of the light it throws on the way the nervous system is constructed," Dr. Dempsey said.

"Every piece of information adds one more clue which finally could be used in unravelling the entire progress of multiple sclerosis and similar diseases of the central nervous system."

Some 60 scientists attended a conference here, sponsored by the multiple sclerosis society, at which Dr. Luse presented electron microscope pictures. Magnified up to 100,000 times, they showed how myelin is formed. Her studies were on animal tissue.

The Multiple Sclerosis Society called her discovery the most important advance in the fight against the disease in 125 years.

Iron Makes Care Of Ruffles Easy

Tucks, pleats, ruffles, and puffed sleeves are no very feminine. And these trimmings on pretty cotton dresses and blouses no longer present an ironing problem.

A new electric ruffle iron helps do the trick easily and in no time at all. The iron has a tall stand which fits over the edge of the ironing board and a fabric dial which can be set for the correct temperature. The fabric can be eased over the heated aluminum iron head and smoothed with two hands when necessary.

Tree Is Born

By ALBERT LUNDAY — FARM FORESTER

Condensed from an article by L. T. Pendarvis, Marketing Specialist

What could be more majestic, more serene than a mature tree, standing silently in the forest; grown and ripened by God's kind hand, awaiting the axe and man's thousand needs? Yet, equally lovely is a tender young tree, free with promise, adding certainly to man's hopes and dreams throughout the coming years.

This story is about pine trees—young, baby pine trees and how these trees will make you money.

The standard nursery practice in a Florida State Pine Tree Nursery is to plant pine seed on beds four feet apart with water furrows between beds. The seeds are sown on the beds in rows 3 inches apart, 20 seeds to each 12 inches of row space.

After the seed is sown in the drill they are mulched with a thin layer of pine straw; thin enough that the bed can be seen through the straw.

An overhead sprinkler-irrigation system controls moisture conditions and insures maximum seed germination.

Pine seed are planted in the nursery in March, harvested in December, January, and February. One acre of nursery produces 600,000 to 800,000 seedlings.

An ideal pine seed tree is one standing out in the open to itself so that its later branching is heavy and its height not too great. A pine so situated, receiving an abundance of sunlight, is a heavy seed producer.

The period for harvesting cones is during the last half of September through the first week in October.

Although there are approximately 122 million trees grown each year, 75 million of these are produced in Florida Forest Service nurseries and 47 million by private industry, there seems to be rarely ever enough to fill all orders.

Several of our pulp mills furnish free trees to farmers under certain stipulations.

Trees are planted usually 8x8 feet or 6x10 feet, requiring 600 and 750 trees to the acre respectively.

When trees are purchased outright from the State Nursery they cost $4.00 per 1,000 f. o. b. the nursery.

The woman beat the bear with a stick and tried to distract him with sugar until a neighbor shot the bear. Lemery died on the way to the hospital.

Trend In Fashion Is To Elegance

International accord hits a new high this fall when it comes to fashion, if nothing else.

On both sides of the Atlantic designers agree that ladies should look like ladies once more, that femininity and elegance should go hand in hand and that costumes for after dark should be important and elaborate.

The trend is toward rich satins and brocades, delicate embroidery, jeweled and beaded trimmings, in the manner of the "mauve decade," currently recalled to high fashion by universal interest in the modes and manners of 1912.

From Paris to Los Angeles the feeling is the same. It's a time to be feminine and dress to the teeth.

It costs each American only 42 pennies a year for the United Nations—

World War II cost each American almost 1000 times that much a year!

- This is the 11th Anniversary of the UN—the 11th Anniversary of man's first completely organized search for peace
- Nobody has ever said that he was sure the United Nations will prevent a war.
- But then, nobody ever said he was sure a cure for cancer could be found.
- The fight for a cure for war must go on, just as the fight for a cure for cancer must go on.
- The United Nations is now 11 years old. With each passing year it has gained the support of more and more people. In fact, a recent survey shows that only 7% of the American people are for quitting the United Nations. The rest believe, and rightfully so, that we can never find lasting peace unless we look for it... unless we work for it.
- Above, you counted 42 pennies. That's what the UN costs each American per year. Look at just a few of the things that your 42¢ is buying.
- The UN Children's Fund (UNICEF) has helped organize health campaigns that examined 400,000,000 children in 95 countries, and vaccinated 75,000,000 children against tuberculosis.
  - Membership in the ten Specialized Agencies is helping to provide more food, better health and education for millions of people, and to bring about world cooperation on such matters as aviation, communications, weather, and the peaceful uses of atomic energy.
  - The UN has helped to produce peaceful settlements in Iran, Indonesia, Kashmir and Palestine, any one of which could have led to World War III.
  - The United Nations provides technical assistance to 78 countries. It works to eliminate sickness, irrigate deserts, and increase food production, thereby taking constructive action for peace.
  - The United Nations is the greatest loud-speaker in the world. We and other free nations can use this loud-speaker constantly, to tell the truth, to show up and probe Communist fallacies, and ultimately help develop a common worldwide sense of justice, the only basis for true and enduring peace.
- By attacking some of the underlying causes of war—hunger, poverty and disease—the United Nations is helping prevent war. At every opportunity, support the United Nations. You support it best by knowing what it's doing—and by letting others know what it's doing. A better understanding of the United Nations means a better chance of peace for the world!

Herlong's Visit Recalls To Writer Similar Incident

By MRS. MARIAN JONES
OVIDEO—Have you ever taken dictation from a Congress man? I was reminded of the fact Monday afternoon as I looked up into the smiling face of our imminent congressman, Syd A. Herlong, as he came in to shake hands and say hello. He was accompanied on his rounds of our community by J. H. Lee.

We thought back to our first encounter with the prominent official from Leesburg. He had not been a Congressman very long. He was scheduled to speak before the Ovidio Woman's Club and I was delegated to cover that speech.

Never having taken dictation from a congressman, I admit that I was very nervous. I sat there with my precious notebook and pencil held tight to my side.

Selecting a comfortable chair to sit in, I commenced with our Greg eulogies and shakily wondered if we would be able to decipher them when we had finished.

Upon our return, we heard the phone ringing. It was the paper wanting the speech—and we had not even had a chance to take our hat off much less glance over the notes.

"Please read them to us from your notes," his was quite a job—the speech being quite lengthy—and we secretly gloated over the fact that we were not on the paying end of the bill.

Having accomplished such a feat we were not quite so dubious over our next assignment—that of covering Claude Pepper's talk—then Senator Pepper.

We traipsed into the Ovidio Drug Store to purchase a new notebook and pencil. We glimpsed at a rear table at two rival reporters but did not say anything.

We found the Senator a little difficult to follow with ease but managed the task nevertheless. We even included in our notes one of the funny episodes of the evening.

Everyone was doing their best to eat fried chicken with the use of knives and forks. That is a very unsatisfactory way to eat fried chicken in my estimation.

Shortly one of the officials of the Lions Club fixed a member for using his knife and fork. Immediately a loud clatter was heard—the dropping of the knives.

DeBary Says No To Incorporation

DE BARY—Roads are usually connecting lines between towns. In DeBary roads could split the town in two, should the C of C adopt the proposal of its roads committee which stated, "We are firmly convinced that our road problems can be equitably solved only by incorporation."

Last night, at a closed meeting in the civic auditorium, written questions from William Lutz, F. R. Ballantyne, R. R. Page and others requested information as to the amount of a bond (or mortgage) against the town of DeBary which would be primarily required; who would be assessed for drainage along roads already built; the upkeep of existing but faulty roadways in the village; the cost of this to those who have already paid out hundreds of dollars during the last six years for betterment of their streets but who have received nothing "where is that money now? Who has it? Will we get it back if we incorporate?" and finally, how much added burden would it mean to those who have paid $125 or more for the streets in a great part of the town.

Robert Hofstetter spoke of the $7 tax on a thousand which has just been levied on all homeowners in the DeBary district and stated, "This is a tax for paving our roads and will be used for that purpose. That tax must be paid. Why go to the expense of incorporation now?" Later, Hofstetter added, "If as the roads committee tells us, there are 47 miles of road in DeBary, with only 10 acceptable to the county, that means we must shoulder the burden, as an incorporated town, of building 36 miles of road according to specifications, so that everyone here will have an equal deal. How much will that cost us a mile?"

Chairman Hunter said he didn't know, but being pressed, he estimated from $7,500 up. It was then established that one street in DeBary was known to cost $10,000 per mile rate. "Then, if the new roads will average from $7,500 to $10,000 a mile we must immediately assume a village debt of over $300,000 plus the costs of incorporation," queried Hofstetter.

Harry Krug stated that he and others worked for zoning last year, under the firm assumption that if they did so, the C of C would not push incorporation as their next project. He reminded the audience

Simplicity Speed, Accuracy Voting Machine Features

Simplicity, speed and accuracy—both in operation and tabulation of results—are outstanding features of the newly installed Shoup Voting Machines that are to be used in some of the Seminole County precincts for the first time in this year's general elections.

Voting machines were used in larger Seminole County precincts in the May primary.

Even at first use, voters will find the machines easier to operate than a dial telegraph. Not only will voters be able to cast their ballots in quick order, but election returns will be available soon after the polls close. No longer will election officials wear-tired count individual paper ballot votes far into the night and the following day, or even longer if recounts are required.

On the Shoup Voting Machines, the vote total cast for each candidate is automatically tabulated on counters immediately beneath his name. Final results can be read by officials directly from the face of the machine as soon as the polls close. The counters on which the votes are tabulated are covered by metal while the election is in progress. When voting is completed, the totals are brought into view by raising a single slide.

No voter need worry about his

Raceway Heads Set Open House For Residents

The renovated, charming club house at Seminole Raceway will be the scene Thursday evening of gay festivities as officials of the Raceway hold open house and stage a free movie show for residents of Seminole County.

William R. Kemp, president of the Raceway, has extended a cordial invitation to the public to attend this affair which will take place beginning at 8 p. m.

"We want the people of Seminole County to see what is taking place out at this community center, where in addition to racing programs and harness horse training, there will be year-round activities in a spectacular fashion such as rallies, concerts, grand ole operas, and other events of Central Florida interest," Kemp told The Herald.

On Thursday's agenda are two showings of a full color, sound movie of the fabulous Hambletonian Stakes race at Goshen, N. Y., and the equally famous Little Brown Jug racing event at Delaware, Ohio. Kemp said there would be two showings of the half-hour long film, one at 8 and another at 9. This film was produced and loaned to Seminole Raceway by the U. S. Trotting Association.

Guests of the Raceway will be fed to refreshments and will get a first hand look at the grounds and hear about plans for the future of this great sports and recreational center.

This film, which has won high commendation from groups which have already seen it, portrays the color and thrill surrounding afternoon harness racing in settings similar to that in which the sport will take place at the Seminole track.

Berkowitz To Attend Session

The possibilities of solving the sewage treatment plant issue grows more imminent as an adjourned meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners was called for tonight at 8 o'clock.

The issue exploded Monday night when Wilson Holt, the city's fiscal agent, reported to the Board of Commissioners on the present financial situation of the Water and Sewer program bonds in relation to the revenue being derived from the facilities.

Apparently dropping as a surprise was the remark by Sanford's Mayor F. D. Scott, when, at the completion of Holt's report he said "About all we can say now is 'thank you' and we'll see you in about six months."

Holt had suggested to the Board of Commissioners that a "commitment" be signed authorizing his company, Goodbody and Co. to start a survey to "dig out the finances" of the Utility Department.

Outcome of the survey and study would, in all possibility, give the approximate date when a sewage treatment plant could be put under construction for the city.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles said this morning that Ed Berkowitz, representing the State Board of Health, would also attend tonight's meeting.

Berkowitz spoke briefly to the Board of Commissioners Monday night relative to the State Board of Health's position on the matter of complying with a resolution by the City of Sanford made in 1934 incorporating the sewage treatment plant construction within three years.

It is expected that a full five-man board will attend tonight's session of City Commissioners in an effort to work out the details toward gaining approval and co-operation of the State Board of Health and in getting a financial study and survey underway preparatory to the issuance of bonds for the sewage treatment plant construction.

3 Public Hearings Scheduled For First Commission Meet

Three public hearings were scheduled for the first meeting of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners' meeting in November according to action taken at Monday night's session of the Board.

A rezoning recommendation by the Zoning and Planning Commission of the City was accepted with the rezoning of an area in which the First Christian Church is now located. In order to comply with present zoning ordinances, it was recommended that Lots 1, 2, 3 and 4 of Block 5 San Lanta; lots 1 through 9 of Block 7, San Lanta; and Lots 1, 2, and 3 of Block 13, San Lanta; be rezoned from an R-1A to an R-1 District.

In addition, the Board of Commissioners threw into a public hearing the recommended rezoning the east one-half of Block 8, Tier A, and the West one-half of Block 8, Tier B, from an R-3 to a C-1 District. This is in the area where the Elks' Club is now located and where expansion is contemplated. The rezoning would create a conforming use of the property.

Other items included in the public hearing will be the vacating of an east-west alley from Cypress to French Ave. and the vacating an easement in Grove Manor and relocating it 20 feet to the north.

VAH-5 Savage Sons Return To Home Port

Heavy Attack Squadron Five this week returned to Sanford. The locally based unit has completed a five month overseas deployment to the Mediterranean.

Believed by VAH-5, the "Savage Sons" were based at Port Lyautey, Morocco and operated continuously with the operating forces of the United States Sixth Fleet. The squadron maintained aircraft aboard task force carriers at all times.

During the tour VAH-5 participated in various fleet and NATO exercises the largest of these being "Operation Whipsaw" which saw land, sea and air units of many nations simulate strikes and maneuvers.

When not at sea, the ships visited many Mediterranean ports which offered the crew opportunities to visit such places as Barcelona, Valencia, Naples, Genoa, Cannes, Pisa, Athens and Istanbul.

VAH-5 Commanding Officer, Comdr. Paul H. Speltz termed the deployment successful but felt that everyone was certainly glad to be back.

The squadron is now undergoing a well deserved leave period before resuming intensive training for the time when it will again be called upon to deploy overseas.

Widening Of First St. Gets Underway This Morning

Work was started this morning on the widening of First St. from Myrtle to French Ave. according to City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

Already, workmen are on the job moving gutters as well as trees.

This afternoon, a dragline will be put into operation along Sanford's main street leading from the business district to the French Ave. thoroughfare.

White Construction Co., said Knowles, is expected to be in Sanford for the repaving of Park Ave. and West First St. on or about Nov. 12. The contracts were let by the State Road Board.

Meanwhile, said the Sanford City Manager, there are possibilities that a commitment from White Construction Co. may be obtained for the widening of Park Ave. from 2nd St. to French Ave. prior to the resurfacing project.

Cleveland Named Sanford Chairman For Law Breakfast

Mack N. Cleveland Jr., a member of Stetson University, has been named chairman for Sanford of the annual Homecoming Law Breakfast Nov. 3 in DeLand, according to Francis P. Whitehair, president of the newly-formed Stetson Lawyers Association.

The law breakfast this year will be a victory celebration in the campaign for the $500,000 law library building at St. Petersburg which is now in the hands of architects. The library building is designed as the central unit of a law center.

While speeches at the breakfast, if any, are traditionally "off the record", the master of ceremonies will introduce prominent guests. Those at the speakers table are expected to include Dr. J. Oliver Edmonds, president of the university; Dean H. L. "Tur" Turrill; Chief Justice of the Florida Supreme Court E. Harris Greer; J. Lance Lacey, president of the Florida Bar; Kenneth B. Sherouse, executive director of the Florida Bar; Former Governor Doyle E. Carlton, II, H. H. Blyden, Clearwater; Paul Raymond and Lewis H. Tribble, former deans of the College of Law; Judge A. O. Kanner, Stuart; Carroll Runyon, St. Petersburg; and Earl G. Nicholson, Palatka.

Out-of-state early reservations include Horace Culbertson, Lewiston, Pa.; John Frederick Stone, Montpelier, Vt., and J. Tom Smith of Detroit.

Students at the College of Law in St. Petersburg are expected to be represented by a large delegation.

Homecoming activities at Stetson open with an alumni dinner Friday and continue through Saturday with a parade, alumni convocation, football game and series of open houses.

PRESIDENT ASKED TO DESIGNATE DIMITED AREA TALLAHASSEE (AP)—President Eisenhower has been asked to designate as a disaster area six Central and South Florida counties flooded by a recent storm.

Gov. Collins made the request yesterday in an effort to qualify cattlemen to receive loans to feed their livestock.

Assistance was recommended for Martin, St. Lucie, Indian River, Orange, Ocala, and Brevard. Collins said he had been advised veterinarians in those counties were using water and were not expected to drain off before cold weather.

DEATHS TOTAL 112
MIAMI (AP)—Dade County's automobile accident deaths today totaled 112—equal that of all last year—with the death of a four-year-old child who was killed in a head-on collision.

Suzanne Bennett was thrown from the car by the impact. Her father, who was driving, was seriously injured. Driver of the other car, 17-year-old Bruce Bollenbach, was charged with reckless driving.

An accident investigator said the boy's car veered into the path of the other machine.

Simplicity

ability to operate the Shoup Voting Machine. Its vertical type ballot duplicates the traditional form in which voters are accustomed. Instead of using a pencil, the voter merely presses a lever to mark an "X" along side the candidate of his choice.

The voting machine is literally nothing more than a voting booth powered by electricity. The voter simply enters and flips a small red switch to close the curtains and activate the machine. He is now ready to vote.

The face of the machine, which holds the ballot, is lighted for maximum readability. After pulling down the party preferential lever on the right side of the machine the voter casts his ballot by turning levers next to the names of the candidates and issues.

In order to prevent any unintentional error on the part of the voter and to assure him that he has accurately operated the correct levers, a large "X" appears beside the name of each candidate as the voter operates.

Returning the red switch to its original position registers the vote and then opens the curtains. The voting levers and "X" symbols turn back before the curtain opens, so no one but the person voting can see how he has cast his ballot.

Other features of the machine which make it extremely easy to operate are mechanical checks which prevent the voter from voting for more candidates than are to be elected to any one office, and the ability to correct errors before the vote is recorded.

The use of the Shoup Voting Machine assures the voter that his ballot is accurately recorded and that his selection of candidates is known only to him.

600 Greyhounds Are In Pre-Season Schooling Races

LONGWOOD—A total of 600 greyhounds are slated to take part in pre-season schooling races opening Monday, Oct. 23, at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club.

The school events will be held nightly, except Sunday, for two weeks prior to the start of the regular season on Tuesday, Nov. 13. Racing Secretary H. C. Williamson will have a record 50 topflight kennels to pick from as he selects greyhounds for competition during what promises to be the finest racing meet in track history.

The veteran race-maker will classify scores of fleet greyhounds in the various grades, A to E, according to their performance in the schooling events.

Schooling will start at 7:30 p. m. nightly with between 25 and 25 qualifying sprints scheduled to be run off in rapid fire order on each pre-season card. The public is invited to watch these schooling races free of charge.

Williamson reminds fans that the qualifying tests will be run off under official racing conditions and that championship greyhounds will see action as well as young dogs and other experienced running stock.

The track's fabulous new club house won't be open for schooling, but General Manager Jerry Collins says that the grand opening will be staged on schedule opening night, Nov. 13.

Rev. Stone Gives Talk At District Church Session

Meeting at the Christian Church at DeLand yesterday, the annual Orlando District of the Christian Church selected the following officers to serve the coming year: president the Rev. William E. Moore, minister of the Ocala Christian Church; vice-president M. J. (Al) Wiggins of the East Orlando Christian Church; and secretary-treasurer Mrs. William Peoples of DeLand. Melbourne was chosen as the place of the convention next year.

To the fall eight churches responded and reported their progress and future plans. "The Year of the Ministry" theme was followed, and local Pastor Perry L. Stone made a talk on "Educating the Ministry." A fellowship supper was enjoyed by 154 delegates. The Ocala Christian Church choir, which has been on television, sang "Send Out Thy Light." T. Howard Eden, Ocala, told of plans to establish 20 new churches in Florida in a three year period.

Sanford representatives at the meeting included: Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Landress, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Young, Mrs. O. T. Pearson, Mrs. V. H. Grantham, Mrs. F. L. Elliott, Mrs. W. D. Thornton, Mrs. George Ewan, Mrs. Charles R. Grieme, Mrs. W. P. Vesley, Mrs. Lester Tharp, and Mr. and Mrs. Perry L. Stone.

and forks by the others. Then they enjoyed the banquet, eating fried chicken in the best style—with the fingers. We admit that Emily Post may not agree with us there. Who cares?

As we started to leave the Senator asked us which paper we represented. Here was where our fun came in. After revealing our identity, we turned and introduced him to our competitors, who were right behind us in line.

Were they amazed? They did not even know I knew their identity, and was I liked!

Our Senator now, Spencer L. Holland, was next on our schedule of events. He was also a speaker at the Lions Club.

Imagine our surprise when he came in to say hello prior to the time for the banquet.

After we were all seated Senator Holland changed his topic for the evening. I certainly admitted him to be able to speak so fluently after changing his topic. After we had studied and drilled for days on end for such an occasion, we would have been ready to collapse if we had had change—much less of his own volition.

He was very easy to follow and to take down my dictation. He told us many interesting events of the social life in Washington.

One such incident dealt with his daughter. Suffering with a headache, she begged to be excused during a social function and fled to an anteroom to rest.

There she found a similar companion. She completely forgot to seek the identity of her companion and called forth into a discussion of her opinion of some of the evening's events.

Imagine her consternation and surprise when her father, seeking her to know of her welfare, entered, saying: "Good Evening, Admiral Nimitz."

The Admiral was a very good sport. After explanation all the way around a good laugh was had by all.

Now we consider we are well experienced in the Congressional language and will not fear our next encounter.

COAST GUARD FREES BOAT KEY WEST (AP)—The Coast Guard has freed the 21-foot ketch of Fort Myers yachtsman Frank Hartmann who sat contentedly on Content Key for five days.

The only man aboard, Hartmann at first refused offers of aid and tried to free the boat himself. Yesterday he signalled for aid and a Coast Guard boat pulled his yacht 500 yards over the sand bottom to float it. It had blown on Content Key during high winds last week.

that the Property Owners Assn. which had worked on road improvement for years had studied the situation for a long time and advised against zoning in that if the people working on it were successful it might lead to the next step of incorporation.

Several members said that they had signatures of many of the residents who wanted their opinions known in a statement reading: "We do not want incorporation in DeBary" and that they would vigorously fight any such movement by the Roads Committee or the Chamber of Commerce.

At this point Arthur Lambert was asked to give his opinion of a solution of the problem. Lambert stated that it would be possible, with the blessing of the commissioners, to divide the two into three types of road situations; paved roads acceptable to the county, streets already built by the owners and those with dirt or sand only. The latter could group themselves into a district and with the vote of the majority of qualified homeowners, annex their district for their own streets, with no burden of further street taxes. This met with unanimous approval.

Only 48 Hours Left For Registering

Sanford citizens, qualified to vote in the Nov. 6 local election, have only 48 more hours in which to register.

City Clerk H. N. Sayer said this morning that Friday is the last day on which new voters may register.

Three seats are open for the Board of Sanford City Commissioners with two of them contested with two candidates for each post.

Sayer also announced this morning that absentee ballots for the local election are now available with the last day for absentee voting set for Nov. 2.

T. V. Morton said that he had been here only nine months but that we must all assume our duty as citizens and if we should need further enlightenment on our civic problems he would gladly "be a missionary." Wesley Saatkamp urged moderation and discretion in dealing with our town's problems.

At the conclusion of the evening the roads committee was thanked for its efforts but firmly instructed that their recommendation be not adopted at this time.

ADLAI E. STEVENSON, Democratic Presidential nominee, is presented with a peace pipe on his arrival in Tulsa, Okla. At left is Solomon Fish, a Seminole Indian, and at right, Jimmie Burton, a Cherokee. Stevenson said that peace was the "overriding issue" of the day. He also said that if it is to be achieved an end must be put to the Eisenhower-Dulles policy of "bluffing our enemies, boasting to our friends and intimidating people here at home." (International)

School Trustees Are Important To Our Educational System

Among the constitutional amendments which voters are called upon to ratify or disapprove in the coming General Election November 6 are two local option amendments.

One of them, Number Seven calls upon counties throughout the State to assist others in their attempt to disband or do away with the County School District Trustees.

In Seminole County, these men work in harmony with the Board of Public Instruction and with the Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The three man Board of School Trustees are an investigative group of citizens, elected to their office to handle problems in our school system especially in personnel—working with teachers—advise on school housing—and recommendations on any school situation. And, above all, the Board of Public Instruction—a five man body—acts on all recommendations by the three-man Board of Trustees.

Apparently, from all that we can gather, the cooperation between the Board of Trustees, the Board of Public Instruction, and the Superintendent of Public Instruction, has been excellent.

It seems to us that there are some counties which have not been so fortunate to have such cooperation between the various educational supervisory organizations—so they are apparently asking their surrounding counties to support them in their efforts to eliminate dead wood from their organizations.

Frankly—the Board of Trustees and the Board of Public Instruction are all together different and distinctive boards. And—as we have learned—the Board of Public Instruction actually appreciates and values the work of the Board of Trustees.

The work of the Board of Public Instruction (School Board) is already established by law and is especially heavy in order to take care of the increasing housing problems and educational standards.

Should additional duties be assigned to the School Board their present work and their important duties would be hampered in order that they might take care of details now assigned to the School District Trustees.

The School District Trustees (Board of Trustees) fill an important slot in our county educational system. They serve without remuneration because of their loyalty.

No question should arise in their not being necessary or over the value of their duties in the position to which they are elected by the voters of our County.

Evidently other counties are not so well satisfied with their officials.

We think that both the Board of Public Instruction and the School District Trustees should be commended for the work they accomplish.

Because of the excellence of the system that is now being used—the School District Trustees and the Board of Public Instruction should be maintained.

Voters of Seminole County should—we believe—vote against this amendment—Number Seven—on November 6.

Interest Rates Going Up

The demand for funds by borrowers—business and private individuals—is outstripping the loanable supply. Inevitably, interest rates have been trending upward.

This is as it should be if we are to strike a middle ground without further inflation.

To prevent further depreciation of the purchasing power of the dollar, and to forestall costly inflation, slightly higher interest rates appear to be a cheap price to pay.

Nevertheless there still is a great demand for tremendous amounts of capital for expansion of plants, equipment and markets if we were to continue to provide an ever-increasing number of jobs for our growing labor force.

The best way toward continued growth and development of the nation is through personal savings of all Americans. We cannot depend forever upon inflationary bank credit for maintenance of a stable economy and growing purchasing power.

Not so long ago, in the depression of the 1930's, we were told that our economy had reached a point of stagnation because of over-savings. The "urge to save" was outmoded and undesirable. Even the government promoted that trend, attempting to stimulate the spending habit. This was the result of the false philosophy of the "mature economy."

Now we have discarded this philosophy and it's time for Americans to return to the habit of thrift and saving.

To encourage this, the first step is to maintain confidence in the stability of the dollar.

Second, provide an interest rate which rewards those who are thrifty and save.

Other rewards, it should go without saying, are those such as providing one's self with funds for retirement, education, emergencies, personal independence, as well as participation in the national development.

In the accumulated savings of all—those of thrifty individuals, those amassed by government through elimination of waste and inefficiency, and those of business and industry—there is the capital to keep our economy and nation in a continued state of dynamic growth and achievement.

It's better to get somewhere safely a little late than it is to try to save time by driving too fast. Tardiness is easier to justify than absence.

Fuel Competition Grows Keener

NEW YORK (U.S.)—With a smaller market for home heater units this year, competition between the various kinds of fuel grows keener today. So does the race between hot water; hot air and various radiation devices.

Fuel oil and natural gas are fighting harder for first place. Coal is trying for a comeback. Electricity is making an all-out effort to capture more of the heating market.

For the householder the outlook—given normal winter weather—is for adequate supplies in most sections, but with fuel oil prices a little higher and coal prices tending that way because of wage increases at the mines.

Some burning matters report sales of new equipment slowing down this year—blaming the slower pace of home building. Others claim higher sales this year, either through relative price changes among the fuels or through advances in equipment performance. New types that can be switched from heating to cooling as the seasons change are also racking up sales gains in both the home and the apartment house fields.

The Better Heating—Cooling Council reports fluid heating and cooling equipment sales this year will reach $33 million dollars, a gain of 10 per cent over a year ago. Hot water heating lost favor shortly after World War II, but the council says it's coming back now, thanks to new radiators or convectors that both heat and cool.

The race between the fuel types also is clear. Oilmen say they should sell about 10 per cent more fuel this year than last—a rate of gain that has been fairly steady since the war.

The American Gas Assn. claims that 22 million American families are warmed by gas in their homes and apartments. A little more than half of these use gas space heaters, floor or wall furnaces.

The National Electrical Manufacturers Assn. reports gains in electrical heater sales. For one thing, it says that 112 rural electrification cooperatives now serve 12,074 electrically heated farm homes.

The Bituminous Coal Institute plugging hard for a comeback, is using its 12 regional offices to demonstrate "modern, labor-free automatic burning equipment."

New Type Reverse Radar Developed

LONDON (U.S.)—A new type of "reverse radar" which allows the skipper of a ship or plane to see himself as others see him has been developed by a British firm.

The manufacturers of the Decca True Motion Radar said their instrument made the reading of radar pictures simpler.

In conventional radar the transmitting ship is represented at the center of the screen. In the new system the transmitting ship is shown moving across its own screen at the correct speed and bearing with other vessels moving at their true course and speed and stationary objects, such as buoys and light ships, clearly shown to be stationary.

The manufacturers said the device seeks to reduce the human error in using radar and eliminate the need for course plotting.

Campaign Looks Bright, Gloomy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (U.S.)—This presidential campaign—as it happens every four years—looks like a contest between Sunny Jim and Gloomy Gus.

President Eisenhower, head of the party which has been running things and must stand on its record, thinks things are pretty dandy and getting better.

Adlai Stevenson, head of the outcasts who want in, sees dark spots all around.

Time may show the most important question of the campaign—foreign policy and how to improve it—was not really much of a campaign issue.

Stevenson said early in the campaign it should be debated. And he's discussed it far more than Eisenhower.

The President has dwelt on foreign policy at length only twice: at the Republican convention in August and in his opening campaign speech Sept. 19.

Stevenson has accused the Eisenhower administration of lacking new ideas in foreign policy. Basically, he's right. Eisenhower is following the Truman-Acheson foreign policy: military alliances and foreign aid.

Whether that's right or wrong now that the Russians have shifted their tactics, remains to be seen. But when it comes to new programs, Stevenson so far has not been very productive either.

When you cut through all Stevenson has said, the difference he seems to see between himself and Eisenhower on foreign policy is not so much a difference in programs, or the lack of them, but in attitude.

He suggests the Eisenhower administration has alienated other peoples by bluster, and he says he would show them respect as individuals to win them over.

Both men agree disarmament—when it can be worked out with safeguards—is a key to peace. Both agree this country is in a "cold war" with Russia and the minds of men and that they must be helped with American aid.

Both use almost identical words in saying other peoples must be respected. Eisenhower: "We respect fully the right of all peoples, able and ready to govern themselves." Stevenson: "A decent respect for the opinions of others is still a basic requirement of a good foreign policy."

Both men mention identical objectives. Eisenhower: "There are three imperatives of peace... moral... economic... military." Stevenson: "...The struggle for peace must be waged on three fronts... military... economic... moral."

Stevenson proposes—as Eisenhower did, long before this campaign—helping other countries with peaceful atomic development.

Some may think Stevenson has suggested something brand new regarding H-bomb tests. It can hardly be called a solid proposal until Stevenson has made it clear whether he thinks such tests should be stopped whether or not Russia agrees to do the same.

On the problem of colonialism, both men have been blank. Eisenhower hasn't mentioned the word in this campaign. Stevenson has mentioned it a couple of times but without conveying any understandable meaning.

Cocktail Parties Becoming Boring

By HAI ROYLE
NEW YORK (U.S.)—Everybody talks about how terrible the average cocktail party is, but nobody does anything about it—except maybe throw a worse one himself later.

It's reached a point where, when a host invites you to a cocktail party, you wonder whether it's because he really wants to see you, or merely is seeking revenge because you had him over to your last house party.

After attending some 3,000 of these social marathons—I have the same morbid interest in them that old women have in attending funerals—I believe I've figured out a way cocktail parties can not only be made endurable but enjoyable.

First, let us examine what is wrong with most cocktail parties. Connoisseurs of the napkin circuit agree that while the canapes may make a party indigestible, it is the conversation that actually makes it insufferable.

Many complain that the talk at cocktail parties sounds more like screaming than conversation. This is true. People start screaming because they are so bored with the person they are talking to they can't stand to hear him say another word.

That's the crux of the whole trouble. You rarely get to pick the people you talk to. It is a kind of verbal lottery, and the odds are against your getting a likely number, someone interested in the same things you are.

"I know you'll be enchanted with Miss Wambouit..." She's so intellectual... and also with Mr. Froshingham... He's a real dear..." says the hostess and gallops off fast.

Two hours later you know the Jeddly resident, Miss Wambouit, who wears Clara Bow bangs, is hipped on reincarnation and is sure she remembers you from a previous life in Nineveh—or was it Tyre?—when she was a princess and you were her pre-Christian slave. Mr. Froshingham, a distinguished codger with a silver mustache, has only two words—"Oh" and "uh-huh." His main interest in life is in dipping his mustache into a martini and then squeezing it dry with his lower lip.

How can we avoid these situations? By taking a tip from business conventions, at which delegates wear identity tags bearing their names and business firms.

Here is my idea. Every cocktail party guest should be made to wear, not merely an identity tag, but a printed biography card listing his interests and prejudices—in large clear type.

For example, a card like this: "My name is Elbert Stitcheh, I manufacture ladies' undergarments. Yes, I find it interesting. "My income is upward of $30,000 a year."

"I have a wife and three children—all grown. If you don't show me pictures of your family, I won't show you mine."

"I am intermittent Presbyterian and a registered Democrat. Yes, I know I should probably vote Republican, but my father told me with his dying breath that if I ever did he would roll over in his grave."

"Subjects I don't want to talk about: Politics, religion, flying saucers, the opera, interplanetary flights, the possibility of life on Mars, and John Foster Dulles."

"Subjects I do like to talk about: Sex—if you're a girl under 40, golf—if you know a sure way to shoot under 100, any new income tax deductions you've heard of, the unreasonable demands of labor, and why the government will do anything for the farmer but nothing for the small businessman."

"My pet peeves are: Jazz record collectors, suburbanites, do-it-yourself fans, mothers who tell the cute sayings of their children, Brooklyn Dodger rooters, and people who think it's funny to ask me, what's new in brassieres these days besides foam rubber?"

"Special warning: No matter how many martinis I drink, I never lend money to strangers at a party, so save your breath."

"Special request: If you know any atom bomb secrets, don't tell me. I talk in my sleep."

Let everyone wear biography cards like that and no cocktail party could be dull. If Mr. Stitcheh didn't appeal to you, all you'd have to do is move on murmuring, "sorry, I'm afraid I'm one of your pet peeves."

And Mr. Stitcheh would be as grateful to see you walk off as you'd be to leave him. No hurt feelings, no little white lies.

No one would have an excuse for getting stuck in a boring conversation unless he simply could not read. And whatever else you say about cocktail parties, you have to admit most of the people who go to them can read.

Well, until the third martini, anyway.

Your Help Needed To Stamp Out TB

By HERMAN H. BOWEN, M.D.

THE only thing that prevents us from eradicating tuberculosis, however, may be fatal. The least you can expect in such a situation is several months recuperation in a sanatorium.

TB is not confined solely to the lungs, despite popular belief that it is. The disease also may attack the glands, skin, eyes, bones and coverings of the brain.

Since there may not be any noticeable symptoms of TB at the outset, a person may have the disease for quite a while without even knowing it.

By the simple means of a chest X-ray and a tuberculin test you can find out whether you are free from TB.

Free X-rays

In many of our cities, X-rays are offered free to anyone who will spend the minute or two it requires to take them. It seems like a small price to pay.

An annual physical check-up, including a chest X-ray, is the best way to make sure that you do not have TB.

Cooperate with your local health officials. After all, they're trying to keep you alive.

Impressive Candlelight Service Unites June Vance, J. H. Brodie

In a beautiful and impressive candlelight service, Miss Billie June Vance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis Vance, became the bride of Mrs. James H. Brodie Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Brodie Sr., on Saturday, Oct. 20. The wedding took place at 4 p. m. in the First Baptist Church.

The lovely double-ring ceremony was performed by Dr. W. P. Brooks Jr. against a background of white magnolia leaves, ferns, pumpkins, palms and 11 burning tapers.

Soloist Gerald Covington sang "Because" and "Oh Promise Me" and Mrs. Marvin Milam, organist played several appropriate selections prior to the wedding and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor-length gown of late over nylon tulle and slipper satin, fashioned on the long torso line, with short sleeves. She wore white mits and her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom's mother. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

The Matron of Honor, Mrs. Richard Barreux, sister of the bride, chose a gown of gold silk-crepe, also of the long torso line, the skirt of which was gathered into a bow on one side. She carried a nosegay of blue carnations.

Best man was Mrs. Henry Kujawa, of Pensacola, and ushers were Lt. Lee Jira U. S. M. C., Pensacola, and Gene Estridge Sr., of Jacksonville.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vance chose a teal blue crepe dress worn with gray accessories and complimented with a corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Brodie, mother of the groom, wore a dress of beige cotton silk, set off by black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the Educational Building of the Church. White pumpkins, ferns and baskets of pumpkins were used throughout the room. The bride's table was overlaid with a linen runner and cloth, with garlands of fern draped all around it. The table was set with small nosegays of pumpkins and sweetheart roses.

Oviedo Beauty Spot Still Maintained

By MARIAN R. JONES
OVIDO—Talking with some of the members of the Oviedo Garden Club the other day reminded us that the Oviedo Garden Club would be minus the services of that popular lover of flowers—Mrs. Augusta D. Covington. Such thoughts made us very sad, indeed.

Mrs. Covington passed away a few months ago. She was the widow of Henry L. Covington, the family being quite well known in many parts of the state, especially Jacksonville, Pensacola and vicinity. She was also the former Augusta Denmark, of Valdosta, Ga.

Her brother, Dan Denmark, who visited her here on numerous occasions still lives in Valdosta when he passed away. Her sister, Mrs. Oregon Burnett, still lives here and is endeavoring to carry on the good work she and her sister have always done in this community.

Mrs. Covington, a member of the Sanford Woman's Club for many years, transferred to the Oviedo Garden Club when it was organized. Knowing so much about the flowers she loved, she was very beneficial to that society.

I will never forget when I learned of her lovely garden. I had lived in Oviedo a long time before I did. How that garden had never floured out. I since learned that the school children had observed them each year as one of their field trips.

This occasion took place shortly after World War II. The local Woman's Club had been turned over to the Red Cross for use. Mrs. Covington had graciously loaned her guest house for the club luncheons and meetings each month.

I carefully followed directions, rounding the house to get to the guest house.

There before me was one of the most beautiful spots I had ever had the experience to witness. I had seen Cypress Gardens, the Living Gardens. True, they were much larger—but could not surpass in beauty this garden spot.

The garden, perfectly landscaped, with the overhanging branches of the orange trees with their glimmering golden fruit made me catch my breath with wonderment.

Apologizing for my tardiness, I readily admitted that I was tempted to skip the luncheon and meeting just to sit and admire that lovely garden.

Mrs. Covington was also noted for her good work with all civic, church and social affairs. She particularly liked doing deeds of kindness for others, especially with her darlings—as she spoke of them.

She may be gone but her memory will linger in the minds of those of us who remember so well her pleasing personality, sweetness and graciousness. We deem it a privilege to have been counted among those who knew her so well. She was ever thoughtful of everyone.

444 Fed Per Day During First Month At Primary School

The Southside Primary School Lunch Department began the new school year with pleasure and enthusiasm. Four of the seven who work in the Department attended a short course during the summer and returned to school with new ideas and information that will aid them in performing their duties with more skill and better results.

Now at the end of a month's operation, the records show that they have served lunches to over 95 per cent of all the children in attendance in the second, third, and fourth grades of Southside Primary School, or an average of 444 children per day.

The first graders have done themselves proud the way they have followed instructions with no confusion, and without spilling or wasting food.

MRS. FRED McMURRAY'S new Brownie Troop, in its entirety, was invested in an impressive service held yesterday at Holy Cross Episcopal Church, sponsor of the Troop.

New Brownie Troop Is Invested Tuesday

In an impressive service held yesterday afternoon at Holy Cross Church, an entire Brownie Scout Troop was invested. The service began with the Flag Ceremony featuring the Salute to the Flag, followed by the singing of "America" and a prayer.

Then a representative from the American Legion presented the new Brownie Troop with an American Flag. Color bearer was Sue Davidson and guards were Connie David and Georgia Dickson.

Mrs. Fred McMurray, leader of the troop, said a word of welcome to the mothers of the girls and other guests, after which each of the girls said a few words about scouting. The girls then all joined in the singing of "Brownie Smile" and the repeating of the Brownie Promise, after which they were pinned by the assistant leaders, Mrs. Carlyle Housholder and Mrs. Job Vezwiechin.

The service was concluded when the new Brownies sang their friendship circle and sang "Where'er You Make A Promise".

Refreshments were served by the mothers of Sue Davidson, Connie David and Georgia Dickson.

The members of the new Brownie Troop are Donna Ruth Ashby, Susan Bolton, Donna Joan Vezwiechin, Heribeth Ann Collier, Connie David, Sue Davidson, Georgia Dickson, Toni Echols, Melissa Housholder, Nancy Leigon, Susan McMurray, Kathleen Moore, Beth Morgan, Carlin Murray, Linda Perkins, Cassie Lou Pinkerton, Patty Prescott, Connie Stewart, Carolyn Hiss, Brenda Black, Patsy Owen and Maureen Scott.

Mrs. Joseph Stewart, Mrs. B. L. Perkins Jr., and Fred McMurray will serve on the Troop Committee.

Southside School Slates Fun For All At Annual Carnival

Everything will be in readiness for young and old alike when the Southside School has its Halloween Carnival on Oct. 23.

For the young there will be three different kinds of rides—snapping turtle, pony and the forty and eight train, as well as a fish pond, and boats on a pond. For the "old" they have a cake booth, matted plates and pair tree, handcraft, post office, clothing, Jack-o'-bean-bunch, hoop board, country store, and dart board.

And everyone will enjoy the supper that is to be served as well as the cake and coffee booth, popcorn, sundaes, and cold drinks. There are some real goodies on sale—only don't tell Bob Conn!

W. W. Rawls, in the guise of a clown, will sell balloons on the grounds throughout the evening.

'Integrity' Is Theme Of Story League Meeting

Members from the Church and Carol Choirs of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church sang at Monday's meeting of the Sanford Story League, which was held at the Episcopal Parish House.

The choirs, presented by Mrs. Guy Bishop, program chairman, sang, "The Beauty of Jesus" after which Mrs. H. L. Moore read to the group the heart-warming story "I'll Be Seeing You" by Fulton Oursler.

Ruthie Carlton delighted the audience with a piano selection "Marche Militaire" by Schubert, followed by another story "The Inner Light" also by Oursler, presented by Mrs. W. L. Roche.

Mrs. Guy Bishop, who won national recognition as a writer of poetry, gave one of her original poems entitled "My Creed", which was a challenge to each of the members. The program was then closed with the choir's singing of "I Would Be True".

Hostesses for the social period which followed were Mrs. H. L. Moore, Mrs. C. L. Koves and Mrs. Gretchen Crewell. They used as decoration for the refreshment table an arrangement of coral vines, candles and hand-painted scrolls, depicting the theme of the program, Integrity.

"The Thing That Self He Teeds", which was quite original. Refreshments were homemade cookies, Russian tea and nuts.

A short business session was held after the social hour. Service chairman Mrs. R. E. Moulie read a letter of thanks from Mrs. O. E. Clause for stories told at Brownie Camp, and reported that Mrs. C. B. Jones and W. L. Hohe told stories at the Geneva School during the month of October.

The president announced that year books were ready, and the meeting was adjourned with the Mizpah.

Conning The News

There's not much news today, but I'm sure it isn't because nothing has happened. The golf course was too alluring and Louise Parker and Heryl Swinson too persuasive, so instead of gathering news, your reporter galloped around the fairways, or should I mention the sand traps?

Mrs. Oliver Clause has asked me to announce that she has several openings for five year olds in her kindergarten. The hours are nine to twelve, and are in the lovely kindergarten room of the Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Clause has an interesting program for the children, and her experience is most impressive. She may be reached at 466 J.

Dropped into the Station library today to return some long overdue books. In case you have not been out there lately, let me bring you up on the latest. In addition to all the latest novels, chronicles, etc. that the library has always been noted for, the atmosphere has completely changed. The rooms have been literally rebuilt, there is fresh aqua paint on the walls and gay draperies at the window. The furniture is arranged in small groupings, and plants and flowers are placed throughout to give a homelike atmosphere.

The person largely responsible for this transformation is the charming librarian, Mrs. Catherine Stewart. With excellent taste and good judgment she has amassed a selection of children's books, a portion of the library which until recently was very small. Now the stories of such heroes as Knute Rockne and Robert E. Lee are available to boys and girls in abundance. There are books on parakeets, dogs, Indians—more than I could ever mention. I say nothing of the stories for tiny children. A new project for Mrs. Stewart is the furnishing of the music room. The curtains are up and there is a large selection of records, and I'm sure that before very long, Mrs. Stewart's library will have that room as pleasant as the rest. Go out and browse around, and you will see why a visiting V. I. P. called the N. A. S. station 11.

You can eliminate dish washing, make a lighter task of dish washing, and clean your small fry into their healthiest appetites all with one plastic tableware designed especially for them. Included are tumblers, cups, and partitioned plates designed in the Mother Goose manner. For sanitary reasons, of course, they can be washed in hot suds and rinsed after each use.

St. Luke's School Slates Carnival For Friday Evening

By MARIAN JONES
SLAVIA—If you have lived in this community for any length of time, I do not have to tell you that you really have a treat in store for you Friday evening if you go to the Halloween Carnival given by the St. Luke's Christian Day School.

The affair, scheduled for 7:00 p. m. that evening, will have a grand treat in store for you. The highlight will be the costume parade. Prizes will be awarded for all ages and groups. So dig down in your wardrobe and see what fancy "riggings" you can come up with to be eligible for that prize in your group.

The teachers have planned a special program of entertainment for all ages for that evening. Mrs. Paul Tesinsky, P. E. A. representative, is in charge of refreshments for the occasion. I haven't lived in this neighborhood for twenty-six years without knowing the reputation the ladies of this community have for cooking—and their special delicacies.

Each year I have planned on attending one of their carnivals but something always prevented. This year I plan on being there. Hope to see you there as Mrs. Bellhorn tells me that in addition to all of Slavia we (Ovidos) and others are more than welcome.

CHAPTER 21

VAL TRIED the communicating bathroom door, but that too was locked. Still feeling worried, she went about the house, trying to find the main door where they were dancing. Dirk was waiting for her and she told him about being unable to get into Mrs. Featherstone's cabin.

"For heaven's sake, Val, don't look so concerned about it," he said, laughing. "Aunt May is very partial to a drop of champagne."

"But is it good for her? What does Doctor Mangin say?"

"He goes on the principle that anything that will cheer her up is good for her, and there's a lot to be said for that theory. She wouldn't let you in because she didn't want you to find her timpling. Come on, Val, smile, be gay. Let's dance. This is a gala night."

Dirk's explanation of Mrs. Featherstone's behavior sounded reasonable, but she reminded herself that the physical welfare of the older woman was her responsibility—and Bruce's. Bruce had insisted that the health of everyone on this ship was his sole responsibility. But surely there was no need to run to a ship's doctor because your patient was over-indulging herself by drinking champagne?

But she would mention it to Bruce, if he asked her to dance. If he asked her to dance . . . she found herself glancing about the floor for him.

"Haven't you heard you should concentrate on your dancing?" Dirk reproved her smilingly.

"I've told you I wasn't a good dancer. Why do you dance with me?" Her voice was suddenly ragged.

"It wouldn't occur to you that when you're a good dancer or not, I would like to hold you in my arms even in this conventional way?"

She looked quickly toward him, but he wasn't laughing at her. Her sense of embarrassment increased. She tried to make a joke of it.

"You do say the nicest things."

Metts In Battle For Best Rushing Yard Average

TALLAHASSEE Sanford's Buck Metts, Bobby Renn, Lee Corso, and Billy Weaver are having a nip and tuck battle for the best rushing yardage average on the Florida State University football team as the 1956 season passes the half-way mark.

Renn, the lithe left halfback from Henderson, North Carolina, is leading the pack with a rushing average of 5.4 per carry, totalling 186 yards in 34 carries.

Corso, the brilliant Miami half-back turned quarterback, is pushing Renn with a close 4.7 mark, gaining a net 283 yards in 60 runs with the football. Close behind Corso is right halfback Buck Metts, the solid senior from Sanford, with a rushing average of 4.4 yards. Metts has garnered 219 yards in 49 trips.

Weaver, the second unit left halfback behind Renn, has put on a fine running show all season, and has an average carry of 4.3 yards with 118 yards in 27 trips with the pigskin.

End Bob Nellums, Junior from Pensacola, is leading the Seminole line in two departments — scoring and pass receiving. Nellums has tallied 24 points by being on the receiving end of four TD losses, and has caught 11 passes in all for a total of 153 yards, or 13.9 yards per catch.

Corso's still the Seminole's ace aerial attacker. He has completed 17 out of 33 tosses to date, good for 190 yards and two TD's.

Vic Prinzl and Ted Rodrigue, reserve quarterbacks behind Corso, have identical completion records, 7 out of 12. Prinzl has picked up 86 yards passing, while Rodrigue has amassed 81 yards. Both have thrown one touchdown pass.

Buck Metts is the leading Seminole punter, averaging 33.7 yards in 16 kicks, and Metts also leads the Tribe in kickoff returns with an average of 21.3 yards in three returns.

The Seminoles have "out first downed" their opponents, 69-48, and lead in total yardage gained, 1327 to 936. The Tribe also has the dubious honor of leading their opposition in yards penalized, 288 to 239.

Florida State's Seminoles will play the first of two consecutive road games this coming Saturday night against Villanova in a contest that may find 100,000 customers in the stands.

The host Wildcats and the visiting Seminoles will participate in an "Olympic Fund" football game, with a portion of the proceeds going to the U. S. Olympic team.

Following the Villanova game, the Seminoles will play before another large crowd when they meet the University of Miami Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl.

In meeting Villanova, the Tribe will be facing a team that has come out the winner in three of its first four games this season. Following a 19-0 loss to powerful Texas A. & M. in the season opener, Villanova has vanquished three straight foes — Detroit, 8-7; Dayton, 13-0; and Boston College, 27-7.

Florida State has two wins, two losses, and last week's 14-14 Homecoming deadlock with Wake Forest in the first five games of the year.

With left halfback Bobby Renn back in full harness, the Seminoles should go against Villanova at full strength. There were no serious injuries in the rugged encounter with Wake Forest, and the Tribe appears to be in good shape.

The Seminoles will face the largest team they will see all season. Villanova's line averages 213 pounds, and the Tribe will be outweighed approximately 13 pounds to the man.

Reports coming in from Philadelphia state that advance ticket distribution to the game is moving well. The Olympic Fund contest is being promoted by Philadelphia merchants in conjunction with Villanova University, and all indications point to a good possibility of almost 100,000 persons being on hand.

Florida State's fabulous student circus, "Flying High," will perform before the game, and the fine Marching Chiefs Band will also accompany the football team to Philadelphia.

Peanut Bowl Planning Group Meets Tomorrow

Jim Buckler, chairman of the Grammar School Peanut Bowl Planning committee, announced today that there would be a meeting of the committee members in the auditorium of Grammar School Thursday night at 7:30.

In announcing the meeting Buckler said that all committee workers and all interested members were expected to attend.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the work that has been done so far, and to discuss the plans to materialize in the future.

According to Buckler, the half-time show for the Peanut Bowl, to be held in the new Memorial Stadium, will be discussed at length by the group.

Junior High To Get Football Outfits Soon

Sanford Junior High School will have outfits for football team within the next three weeks, it was revealed at the bi-monthly meeting of the Seminole Chiefs Club last night in the auditorium of Pinecrest School.

W. W. Tyre, chairman of the Junior High Football Project Committee, reported that the committee had received 100% cooperation from all school officials in the handling of the instigation of the program.

Hugh Carlton, principal of Junior High, reported to the committee that bids had been advertised to the local merchants of Sanford and had been awarded to Hill Implement Co. "Bobby Newman, of Hill Implement Company bent over backwards to give us all the help he could," Carlton stated.

The liberal terms and the enthusiasm shown made it possible for us to get the program underway before the end of the season," Carlton continued.

30 complete uniforms, including shoes, have been ordered, and the total will be some $2,000. All local merchants had the opportunity to make a bid for the outfitting.

Carlton stated that the uniforms were due to arrive not later than three weeks, and the season will get underway in the meantime. Monday the boys will begin getting in shape, and fundamentals will be stressed.

"This will help our boys," Carlton declared, "not only in athletics, but in every other phase of the educational function."

Carlton said that there would be no games outside the county this year, but that the fans would get a chance to see the new addition to the athletic program in action during inner-school games.

Tyre, in reporting the complete activities of the committee, said that at the present time it was not the recommendation of the

Seminole Coach Says Team Still Looks Ragged

After a rough day of workouts yesterday, head Sanford Seminole mentor, Bill Fleming summed up the progress of his team this week by saying, "They still look ragged."

But two major changes have come about in the squad. The injury list has dwindled to two members, Al Stanley and Tom Brown; and the spirit of the team has shown considerable improvement.

Fleming's major concern for the week is the weakness of the defensive ends. "We know we were scouted last Friday night," Fleming said, "I even chatted with the scout. He saw our weakness at its worst, and Winter Park will be running outside all night long."

Jim Warner, senior halfback that donned a football uniform for the first time last week is showing impressive progress. Before the season comes to an end, Warner will probably help the Seminoles considerably.

UofM Freshman, Varsity Teams Face Big Games

CORA GABLES — There's double feverish activity out on the University of Miami football practice fields this week for both the varsity and freshman teams have crucial games on tap.

The varsity of course heads to Ft. Worth, Texas for a Saturday night date with an aroused and rebounding Texas Christian Horned Frog aggregation.

The yearlings meet their traditional foe, the freshmen from the University of Florida in the Orange Bowl Friday night and as always, these games are hard fought encounters with both clubs going all out for victory. Last year, Florida's freshman won in Gainesville and the year before that, a heavy rain storm turned Orange Bowl meeting into a scoreless tie.

Charley Tule, former Miami Se-For High coach and now freshman coach at Florida, will be staging a sort of homecoming of his own as he brings his undefeat-

JVs Invade Daland In Shirne Benefit

The Sanford Seminole JVs invade Daland tonight to take on the Bulldog JVs in a Shrine Benefit game, game time is 7:30 in the DeLand Stadium.

DeLand and Sanford have met previously this season, and the junior warriors came out of the fracas with a 20-0 victory. But Dick Silvers, JV mentor, anticipates a lot more opposition tonight.

"The Bulldog JVs are a vastly improved club," Silvers said, "and will be especially trying for a win tonight. I'm confident the boys will come through again, but it's going to be a close game."

The two boys have been particularly showing well in the last few days of practice. Jim Peterson is looking good at tackle, and Ed Thomas has been shifted from end to guard. Thomas has a lot of speed, his reactions are quick and his blockin aggression is good.

When asked if he would continue his policy of free substitution even if the game was close, Silvers said, "Every boy will see plenty of action. The purpose of the JV squad is to give the members experience, and that's what I intend to do, win or lose."

Kickoff time is 7:30 tonight in DeLand.

Teach Your Children How To Brush Teeth

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

BRUSHING the teeth regularly and properly is one of the most important methods of maintaining good, strong teeth. There's a lot you can teach your youngster about brushing his teeth. You may even pick up a few tips for yourself from the following:

Give your tot his own toothbrush and fold-up metal tube of toothpaste or tooth powder. These provide him with a pleasant sense of ownership.

Small Size Brush
A junior toothbrush is best for a youngster. This type of brush should contain two rows of medium stiff bristles with six tufts in each row.

It's a good idea for your youngster to have two such brushes. In fact, you should have two yourself, in this way you can be sure of always having a brush with dry and firm bristles ready for use. And that's important.

The brushes should be dried in a clean, sterile container. They should not come in contact with other brushes. Incidentally, there's a toothbrush available now with an antibacterial impregnated in the bristles and plastic head.

Proper Method

As for the actual brushing, the brush in the upper arch should be guided from the gum "tissue" downwards to the biting surface of the teeth. In the lower arch it is guided from the gum tissue upwards. Then the biting surfaces are brushed with a scrubbing stroke. Be sure to rinse your mouth with water after the brushing. Brushing not only helps keep your teeth clean, it also helps promote circulation of the blood in the tissue around the teeth.

You can get a free chart and free pamphlet illustrating the proper technique for brushing teeth by writing the American Dental Association, 222 East Superior Street, Chicago, Illinois.

After Every Meal

Most of you know, I'm sure, that you should brush your teeth after every meal. Let me explain why this is so important.

Bacteria begin acting on sugars within a few minutes after the sugars are eaten to form acids capable of dissolving tooth enamel. The greatest damage takes place within the first 30 minutes after eating refined carbohydrates.

So you see it's essential that fermentable food particles be removed as quickly as possible. If you can't brush your teeth after each meal, at least rinse your mouth with water.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Mrs. Y. B.: What causes nephritis?

Answer: Nephritis is an inflammation of the kidney. It often follows a throat infection and is believed to be due to an allergy to the streptococcus germ.

Usually, there are red blood cells in the urine as well as albumin, and the body becomes swollen.

Radio-TV Highlights

NEW YORK — In 1933 Laurence Stallings published a photographic history which he entitled, with grim prophecy, "The First World War." It's title, as well as its grisly pictures of war as it really is, shocked many readers of the 1930's; in those days nearly all Americans believed there would be no more war.

Recently NBC — TV presented the first of this season's filmed documentaries on various aspects of modern life. "The Great War" was the title Project 20 program.

It was absorbing television entertainment. Old film clips revived vividly such historic figures as the Kaiser, Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, Newton D. Baker. There were the Liberty Bond rallies, the sinking of the Lusitania, the taxied army which dashed out of Paris to save the city. There were many marching men of many armies.

"The Great War" was, essentially, a romantic view of war. So it was, inevitably, popular with those who saw it. Its musical background and narration by Alexander Scourby combined to induce a mood of nostalgia and the popular American theory that this country saved civilization — for another 20 years.

I do not know this for a fact, but I strongly suspect that besides using many excellent and authentic old film clips "The Great War" incorporated clips from such movies as "The Big Parade," "All Quiet on the Western Front" and "Wings." At least one sequence, purporting to show men attacking from front — line trenches, was shot at a high, advanced angle which only could have been from a movie lot tower.

Probably this, if it is true, is legitimate. But the result was curiously romantic. There was much running and shooting. But there were only a few dead bodies. There was no view of the staying millions in Belgium, no hint of such military debacles as that per-

Patient's Ribs Can Now Be Used To Rebuild Skull

MIAMI BEACH — Two surgeons described how a patient's ribs can be used to rebuild his skull without leaving him short of ribs.

Dr. Jacob J. Longacre and G. A. de Stefano addressed the American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery on "split rib grafts" which they have developed at Christ and Children's hospitals, Cincinnati, Ohio.

They told of successfully transferring 60 such grafts to the skulls of 11 patients to close wounds which involved as much as half the skull area.

The grafts, they said, form a scaffold for living cells which quickly lay down new bone tissue. The surgeons said that if the rib used is removed carefully, a new rib forms in as little as 31 days and it too can be used for grafting with assurance another will replace it.

Dr. Longacre said the split rib graft entails splitting the rib lengthwise. Two advantages result, he said. The malleable split sections lend themselves to bending and shaping to fit the wound being closed and the surfaces foster development of new cells which penetrated by stupid tactical leadership on the Somme.

An accurate picture of the slaughter, starvation and pestilence of war, such as Laurence Stallings presented back in 1933, is perhaps too strong for the television audience. Yet any portrait of any war that totally ignores its agency is imbalanced history.

No one knows better than Henry Salomon, an excellent historian who has personally experienced war, who is the executive producer of the excellent Project 20 series, and who, with Richard Hasser, wrote the script for "The Great War." My minority opinion is that in this program he tried too hard to entertain to the detriment of his equally important function of instructing.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND By JOSEPH WHITNEY

Do some people have a telephone complex?

Answer: Yes, there are individuals who automatically reach for a telephone wherever they see one, and start calling people. Such persons often phone acquaintances in distant cities for no other purpose than to ask how they are; usually calling from places where they are observed by others. Such individuals are basically insecure, and to them the telephone is an unconscious symbol of power and prestige. Its free-wheeling use relieves their general state of restless anxiety.

their own at that age, overlook the differences between their own present attitudes and those of their parents. They themselves may have been trusting innocents when 10 years old, but it was due to their relatively innocent environment, not to any innate virtue which they profess to and lack in their own offspring.

Does economic security usually bring happiness?

Answer: Economic security is a desirable goal that often brings contentment and happiness, but there is no direct relationship between the two. Happiness is a state of emotional maturity, of good adjustment to life. A dissatisfied person who wants to achieve this would do better to work toward improving himself, rather than his bank account. A determined study of the happiness and unhealthiness of one's fixed emotional reactions will usually help greatly in bringing this about.

Are modern children cynical?
Answer: Those who have cynical parents usually are. Many parents who express surprise at the worldliness and cynicism of their children, as compared with

Sociologist Says Florida Great Land Magnet

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A University of Florida sociologist told the citizens conference on conservation this state was "one of the great land magnets of the world" because of its attractiveness as a place to live.

The speaker, John MacLachlan, said best estimates were that by 1970 Florida would be one of the top 12 states in population and would be a key state in politics, finance, education and health. "As one of these first 12 states in the nation we would have a profound effect on the leadership of the nation," MacLachlan said. "Public institutions of the state should prepare now to fit themselves for a role of national leadership such as is now supplied by such larger states as New York and Pennsylvania."

The statewide meeting of conservation minded citizens was called by Gov. Collins.

State Health Officer Wilton T. Sower said Florida should put more emphasis on attracting young people, as well as retaining people, to the state.

One of the problems arising out of the state's growth, Dr. Sower said, is to find suitable land around cities for further development. Low land and a high water table in some areas, he said, are creating increasingly great water supply and sewage disposal problems.

As the state grows, he said, it must provide more medical and dental hospitals and step up considerably its program of medical research.

Sanitary Condition In Barber Shops To Be Improved

MIAMI—At a meeting held here the Barber's Sanitary Commission took action to improve sanitary conditions in barber shops and provide better protection for the public.

Under a recent ruling, barbers may no longer use the old neck-duster, seen in the hip pockets of barbers from time immemorial. This provision, approved by the State Board of Health, was made to prevent the possible transmission of a contagious or communicable disease from one person to another.

The commission points out that many barbers in the state have either forgotten or overlooked the law enacted in 1933, requiring the sterilization of tools by submerging them in an approved antiseptic.

The same law makes it illegal to use hair brushes or double shaving mugs or to even have them in a barber's possession in such use.

Stricter enforcement of these and all laws affecting barbers is planned by the commission and provision was made at the meeting for a statewide program of education beamed at both the barber and the public.

An application was received from the Tampa Barber College, Inc. for commission approval of a school for barbering. Milton Wasmann, attorney for the applicant, represented that the school had complied with all requirements of state laws and regulations of the commission and was financially responsible and equipped with the most modern equipment. The application was accepted with assurance it would have prompt consideration.

The commission enacted a rule setting up a curriculum for a post-graduate course which is aimed to aid the barber colleges of the state to more effectively administer post-graduate courses and better qualify and educate students to become better barbers at the same time giving the commission better control over both students and colleges.

In connection with its meeting the commission administered examinations to applicants for certification.

PIRATES FIGURE TO IMPROVE IN 1957

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP)—I expect further improvement in the Pittsburgh Pirates for 1957," says General Manager Joe Brown following his first season in that post.

"We learned this year that Ronnie Kline is a major league pitcher and that Bill Mazeroski can do the job for us at second base. The acquisition of Bill Virdon for center field was another thing that helped us."

"We need a little more depth all around and we'll make a real battle of it next year," says Manager Bobby Bragan. The Pirates finished seventh after four years in the National League cellar.

Frank Sinatra Is Taking First Crack At Film Biography

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Frank Sinatra, to whom nothing seems impossible, is taking a crack at his first film biography — that of comedian Joe E. Lewis. The film's title will be "The Joker is Wild."

No attempt is being made for a physical resemblance to Lewis, but Sinatra said he will use the comic's singing and joke delivery style.

"I do a couple of numbers in the early part of Joe's career," Sinatra explained. "They'll be done straight, but with the delivery of the 1920-30 era when every singer was making with the sax like Tolson. Also, I sing the songs a little higher than I usually do."

"Later in the picture, I'll do some of Joe's parody songs, and I'll have a gravelly effect on the high notes, the way Joe does when he can't reach them. I'll also do some standup comedy routines, and I've done a pile of research on these."

Sinatra's next picture is "Pal Joey." He said it is all ready to go. "They had some trouble with the script, but that is all fixed now," he explained. "They didn't

Japanese People Facing Catastrophe

TOKYO, (AP)—The Japanese people, whose industry and ingenuity welded a chain of tiny, mountainous islands into a great nation, today face a national catastrophe because of a vast and expanding population.

This California size nation might support 60 million people. A few weeks ago the population topped 90 million, a figure which experts in years past have warned would be the explosion point. And government experts say the number will increase every year until 1990 when it will hit a peak of 108,475,000.

Experts around the world are watching Japan's efforts to trim its population to its geographic and economic limits while feeding and housing millions of "surplus" people. This country may be providing a test tube picture of what some scientists believe the whole world must ultimately face.

When the war ended in 1945 Japan counted 72 million people, about two million more than pre-war. In the following 10 years its population increased 17,300,000.

The birth rate, low in 1945, jumped to 34.3 a 1,000 population by 1947. At the same time the death rate began a sharp decline to less than half the prewar rate of 17 a 1,000.

Last year both birth and death rates hit all time lows. Births totaled 1,730,000 or 17.3 a 1,000 compared with about 25 a 1,000 in the United States. Deaths totaled 690,000 or 7.8 a 1,000, well below America's 1954 average of 9.2.

Although there is a birth control movement, Dr. Ayanori Okasaki, director of the welfare ministry's institute of population problems, says "the sharp decline in the birth rate is due almost wholly to induced abortion permitted under Japan's eugenic protection law."

The ministry calculates that last year the number of abortions exceeded live births. Records list 1,700,000 abortions and Dr. Okasaki says the figure would top two million if all were reported. Births totaled 1,727,000.

The eugenics protection law, adopted in 1948, legalizes the sale of contraception devices and authorizes physicians to perform abortions: 1 When either parent suffers from a malignant hereditary disease; 2 When continued pregnancy or childbirth would seriously impair the health of the mother for physical or economic reasons; or 3 When pregnancy is due to rape or coercion.

Most Japanese involved with population problems are more concerned with the immediate future than a long range solution. Their main worry is finding jobs and food.

There are plans to bring more land under cultivation through a government-backed reclamation program but progress has been slow.

The economic planning board has a five year support plan to strengthen the industrial base, expand foreign trade and increase domestically produced food supplies.

The agriculture-forestry ministry is working on new food sources, but no extensive program is under way.

One plan discussed by Dr. Okasaki and other government sources calls for an Asiatic regional association to seek a solution to population problems on a regional rather than national basis.

With United Nations technical and financial backing, they contend, an association would be able to tackle the multiple problems on a broad long range basis.

Two arguments are cited for the past wars; and 2 If the whole world must some day face the problems created by too many people and too little space the experience gained today might prove of inestimable value a few generations hence.
