Passing Of Buck To Board Said To Be The Usual Thing

City Commissioners talked about the Chattanooga baseball case for a few minutes at their meeting last night, but Mayor S. O. Shinholser suggested that the matter "be passed over" unless some Commissioner had a motion to offer. No motion was offered and therefore no action was taken.

Commissioner W. A. Leffler broached the subject, asking if the Commission wished to take official cognizance of the situation. Asked as to what he had in mind, Commissioner Leffler said that Commissioner W. A. Dupree had called him on the phone about the matter.

"All I know is what I read in the paper," replied Commissioner Dupree. "It seems that someone wants to put the blame on the

Tragic Victims

Distressing as is the havoc wrought among the unemployed during periods of hard times by the ravages of hunger, cold, and the general inability to secure adequately the necessities of life, there is another class who do not suffer particularly for want of food and clothing, but who are none the less pathetic victims of the depression. There is no more tragic toll of economic adversity than those whose heaviest loss is in their power of mind.

Strangely enough, it is not always those whose incomes shrink from ten or fifteen dollars a week to five or three whose minds are most upset. The man who still has five or ten thousand a year after seeing his income drop from twenty-five or fifty thousand is often in the most serious mental straits. It is not the loss of income which disturbs him, but the loss of income which is not worried about finding enough to eat, or a place to sleep; he is distracted because he sees himself going down hill, falling to get ahead in this world.

Such people often have all the material things of life they want, or certainly all they need, but when they find themselves restricted to two automobiles when they formerly had three or four, when they are suddenly confronted with the necessity of reducing their staff of servants from ten to three, when they have to sell their town house and move to their twenty room summer cottage, when they have to give up their annual trip to Europe and satisfy themselves with a mere one week vacating stay at the seashore, they become simply miserable.

They are far more depressed mentally than a colored boy who hasn't had a lamb chop in his years and who gets his daily repast from nearby fishing or restaurant garbage cans. They worry and fret about their plight by day and have difficulty sleeping at night. They become irritable and cross, and sooner or later quarrel. The little trials of children get on their nerves, and ordinary domestic problems drive them frantic. The pleasures which people normally get from eating, sleeping, and the simple things of life become just one more problem for their weary minds to solve.

The easiest way around such a serious stumbling block as deciding which of last year's dresses to wear to this year's principal social function, or finding a way to forget a note which can't be paid, is for many unfortunately, to drown their troubles in drink, and, for some, to take dope. How many do we know who have suffered reverses but who in no wise are in desperate circumstances, that have thus tried to solve their problems.

This is the way which leads inevitably to more and more reverses, to scandals and divorces, to ill health and disease, to complete demoralization and disintegration, and often to suicide. Such people have simply lost their perspective, the normal functioning of their minds. Often they are simply making mountains out of molehills. And yet the mountain, to them, is no less real, silly? Yes. Crazy? Yes. But none the less pathetic and deplorable.

If people could only take losses and grin; if they could only forget their misfortunes and remember their blessings; if they could be in desperate circumstances without becoming desperate; if they could only learn to take things as easily when going down hill as when going up; if they could only keep their peace of mind when things are going wrong; much of the tragedy and distress of life would be overcome.

Preventing Baldness

It is never too late to prevent baldness until after one becomes bald. Then, apparently, there is very little one can do about it. But if a person will give his scalp the proper attention as soon as he first notices that his hair is falling out, he can usually prevent further falling, and sometimes get more hair to grow back.

This, at least, is the conclusion to be gained from an article in Time News Magazine which says that people grow bald because follicles from which hair grows die or become stunted. "A dead follicle can never be revived," says Time. "But a stunted one may be." It is very seldom that hair follicles die because of dandruff or exterior germs coming in contact with the scalp, but rather for other reasons.

"Hormones of the endocrine glands control the growth of hair," Time reveals. "The adrenals stimulate growth. Precisely what hormone causes baldness is unknown. But in man the male sex hormone is definitely the ringleader. Wiry, energetic men are apt to be bald. Dumpy, cunning men are apt to be bald. Food or drugs may restore hair to a glandular baldhead if the follicles are nourished before they die. Repeated scours or fits of anger may cause baldness by causing hardening of the scalp to constrict. Such hypersensitive constriction prevents blood from getting to the hair follicles and nourishing them. Rages and scares also affect the growth of hair by exhausting the adrenals. High fevers have a like effect."

At a National Beauty Congress in Seattle, one Norman Hillier of Manhattan boasted that he had 100 women who are getting bald to stand on their heads. Time article continues: "Bald is 'bleeding'—brings blood to the scalp."

A better way to overcome baldness was shown last week from a more scientific source. Time, citing Dr. Arthur H. Allen, of Chicago, offered the medical profession a new way to grow the hair. He says that hair follows the same growth cycle as the hair on the head. It grows in the follicle, then it moves up the shaft, and finally it falls out. He says that the hair on the head is in the growing stage.

Women Burn To Death In Car On Federal Highway

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 14. (AP)—Flaring gasoline ignited by an automobile collision burned two women to death near here Friday and seriously injured three other persons, one of whom was expected to die.

Mrs. C. D. Matteson of St. Paul was fatally burned before she could be extricated from the blazing wreckage of an expensive sedan and five-ton truck which sideswiped one another.

Also injured were Mrs. Matteson's husband, and Sidney S. Porter of Evanston, Ill., who suffered third degree burns, and Mrs. Porter.

Sheriff Walter Clark of Broward county arrested two truckmen, listed as Thomas Tennant, 31, of Detroit, and Harold Hochwater, 37.

The crash, taking place on Federal Highway No. 1 near the Dade-Broward county line, broke open a 100 gallon reserve gasoline tank on the truck. Spraying upon the occupants of the sedan, the fuel caught fire, apparently from a motor spark, and immediately enveloped the car. It was virtually demolished.

Rescuers fought to rescue Mrs. Matteson but were driven back by the intense heat. The gasoline-soaked fire raged on both sides of the highway, and stopped all traffic for half an hour. It took the Hollywood fire department an hour to extinguish the flames.

Daytona Beach Records Taken To County Seat

DELAND, Mar. 14.—Coincident with the arraignment today of Mayor E. H. Armstrong, City Manager M. S. Crouch and Howard Armstrong, son of the mayor, of the town of Daytona and embezzlement of municipal funds, municipal records of Daytona were brought to the county seat here by Circuit Court Clerk I. Walter Hawkins.

After City Clerk Francis Mills had halted examination of them by state auditors, Hawkins has constant custody of the records by court order and was ordered to transport them to Deland by J. C. Adkins, special state attorney sent here by Gov. Dave Sholtz to investigate county and municipal affairs.

An audit of city records had been ordered by Gov. Dave Sholtz through Comptroller J. M. Lee. Mills said the auditors were not continuing their audit but were acting as "inspectors" for Adkins, who has filed information against the Beach officials.

Daytona Beach has applied for an injunction to restrain the audit on the ground that the records were delaying municipal business. Circuit Judge Herbert Friedman turned down application and set Mar. 18 for a hearing on an appeal from his decision.

Every Individual Is Asked To Join Drive For Safety

ORLANDO, Mar. 14.—Plan to every individual of Florida to join the drive now being conducted by various civic and educational organizations for greater highway safety has been issued here by Walter L. Hays, leader in the state movement to bar livestock which he termed "wandering death-traps" from state highways.

Hays is a member of Governor Sholtz's 1934 Safety Commission and is chairman of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce and Florida Junior Chamber of Commerce Safety committee. He has long been an advocate of the plan to drive livestock from Florida roads to reduce motorist accidents and fatalities.

"Our movement received material assistance last week when the state settlement's association, representing the men who are interested in cutting down the livestock habits of their neighbors to breed better stock, voted to give assistance in keeping their stock from the roads," Hays said.

"Reports of progress of the movement are coming to me daily, and while each of them is gratifying, it is nevertheless necessary that we have more co-operation of effort than we have now if we are to prevent further Florida highway accidents as a means of reducing traffic fatalities and accidents."

Town That Put A Ban On Monkey Teaching Is Not Going Modern

DAYTON, Tenn., Mar. 14.—The prohibition against teaching evolution, instituted in the Tennessee case in 1925, has not otherwise balked "progress" in Dayton.

Those who thought the town for the Dayton Sunday school would hardly progress in order with the new school, and with the demolition of several old buildings and erection of others.

'Anything Goes' With Bing Crosby At The Ritz Theater Sunday
 "Anything Goes," which has its premiere Sunday at the Ritz Theater, is a jolly, tuneful, entertaining picture. Bing Crosby is the featured player in this song-studded Paramount musical comedy which broke records during its New York run. He is assisted by such favorites as Ethel Merman, Charlie Ruggles, Ida Lupino and Grace Bradley.

All the famous Cole Porter songs which were universally popular are heard in this musical picture. He has provided a number of others which are equally as good as "You're the Top," "Anything Goes," and "I Get a Kick Out of You." Additional songs by other music makers are included.

Outstanding in the lyric line are the parodies on "You're the Top" which Crosby and Miss Merman sing. These took the audience by storm with their unexpected lines, and proved the high spot in the entertainment. Nearly everything under the sun is introduced by these parodies, from Ethiopia to stratospheric flights.

The bright dance routines by LeRoy Prinz deserve mention, as does the fast-paced direction of Lewis Milestone. The audience is captivated by diverting songs, and from spectacular night club scenes to madcap comedy.

Crosby is a knight errant aboard a trans-Atlantic liner. He borrowed passport gets him into trouble. That passport forces him to tumble in and out of sundry disguises with hilarious consequences. The whole ship becomes a madhouse of fun, when Crosby stops at nothing to divest passengers of their costumes. In the end, he gets his reward with an elusive romance.

"Anything Goes" is amusing entertainment through and through. It is heartily recommended to one and all.

New President Of NBC Friend Of Florida

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

"If Mr. Lohr could just be to help ease tensions and pour oil on troubled waters. He made many friends for Florida and did a fine job there and has here in New York, too. I have heard many favorable comments on the Exhibit and we, your neighbors at NBC and other New Yorkers, enjoy slipping across the ice and snow into your Florida atmosphere."

"Mr. Brown told me that you go hunting every year down in Alabama at the Tumbigbee Club near Mobile. I wonder if you happened to notice our quail shooting diorama at the Exhibit?"

"Yes, I did, and it made me think about the trip I missed. I didn't go South this year. I was going to do another sort of hunting." His eyes twinkled, and I knew he meant "hunting" information on radio for his new job. He is a completely thorough person, Mr. Lohr, and I have heard people say that one of his chief characteristics is the way he asks questions about things in which he is interested and keeps right on hammering away at it until he finds out everything he wants to know. I have heard, too, that he always looks ahead to see what's coming and prepares for it. There is a story that Mr. Lohr and some friends were on a thirty-two foot boat on the Potomac River. He was very quiet and somebody offered him a penny for his thoughts. He replied that he was just figuring how to manage if they should happen to run into another boat that was on fire! He planned it all, down to the details of controlling possible panic. Oddly enough, soon after this, Mr. Lohr and some friends were out in the boat and they did run into another boat that was not on fire but sinking. They carried out Mr. Lohr's prearranged plan and saved not only all passengers but even their belongings. I believe that this story is characteristic of the man and the way he does his work.

"Will you tell me something about your work as president of NBC, Mr. Lohr?" I asked.

"The work naturally falls into three categories, the sales division, the maintaining of a network of stations, and the actual question of putting things on the air. This last, the problem of safeguarding the air, is a difficult one. I picture radio as a visitor to the home and try to remember that its appeal is to all the members of the family from the children to the grandmother. I think of my business in those terms."

"Mr. Lohr, you love the woods, and outdoors, don't you?" This, remembering he had a 300-acre farm near Chicago.

"Yes, I do. Problems can be solved there—One can think there, without the confines of an office."

It made an appealing picture to me—this "invisible control man of NBC" planning the future of the radio cut in the woods!

I thought of Mr. Lohr down in the woods of Alabama and had a strange feeling of kinship with him, a bond made of the good brown earth, and I wondered if he, too, ever felt as I did and as the ex-patriated Missalippi post, Will Percy, wrote in New York.

"Too much is said too loudly—I have a need of silence and of stars. I must go home."

Tragic Victims

Distressing as is the havoc wrought among the unemployed during periods of hard times by the ravages of hunger, cold, and the general inability to secure adequately the necessities of life, there is another class who do not suffer particularly for want of food and clothing, but who are none the less pathetic victims of the depression. There is no more tragic toll of economic adversity than those whose heaviest loss is in their peace of mind.

Strangely enough, it is not always those whose incomes shrink from ten or fifteen dollars a week to five or three whose minds are most upset. The man who still has five or ten thousand a year after seeing his income drop from twenty-five or fifty thousand is often in the most serious mental straits. It is not the low income which disturbs him, but the loss of income. He is not worried about finding enough to eat, or a place to sleep; he is distracted because he sees himself going down hill, falling to get ahead in this world.

Such people often have all the material things of life they want, or certainly all they need. But when they find themselves restricted to two automobiles when they formerly had three or four, when they are suddenly confronted with the necessity of reducing their list of servants from ten to three, when they have to sell their town house and move to their twenty room summer cottage, when they have to give up their annual trip to Europe and satisfy themselves with a more or less unexciting stay at the seashore, they become simply miserable.

They are far more depressed mentally than a colored boy who hasn't had a lamb chop in six years and who gets his daily repast from nearby fishing or poultry-rant garbage cans. They worry and fret about their plight by day and have difficulty sleeping at night. They become irritable and cross, and sooner or later symptoms of the little trials of children get on their nerves, and ordinary domestic problems drive them frantic. The pressures which people normally get from eating, sleeping, and the simple things of life become just one more problem for their weary minds to solve.

The easiest way around such a serious stumbling block as deciding which of last year's dresses to wear to this year's principal social function, or finding a way to forget a note which can't be paid, is, for many unfortunately, to drown their troubles in drink, and, for some, to take dope. How many do we know who have suffered reverses but who in no wise are in desperate circumstances, that have thus tried to solve their problems.

This is the way which leads inevitably to more and more reverses, to scandals and divorce, to ill health and disease, to complete demoralization and disintegration, and often to suicide. Such people have simply lost their perspective, the normal functioning of their minds. Often they are simply making mountains out of molehills. And yet the mountain, to them, is no less real. Silly? Yes. Crazy? Yes. But none the less pathetic and deplorable.

If people could only take losses and grin, if they could only forget their misfortunes and remember their blessings; if they could be in desperate circumstances without becoming desperate; if they could only learn to take things as easily when going down hill as when going up; if they could only keep their peace of mind when things are going wrong; much of the tragedy and distress of life would be overcome.

Preventing Baldness

It is never too late to prevent baldness until after one becomes bald. Then, apparently, there is very little one can do about it. But if a person will give his scalp the proper attention as soon as he first notices that his hair is falling out, he can usually prevent further falling, and sometimes get more hair to grow back.

This, at least, is the conclusion to be gained from an article in Time News Magazine which says that people grow bald because follicles from which hair grows die or become stunted. "A dead follicle can never be revived," says Time. "But a stunted one may be." It is very seldom that hair follicles die because of dandruff or exterior germs coming in contact with the scalp, but rather for other reasons.

"Hormones of endocrine glands control the growth of hair," Time reveals. "The adrenals stimulate growth. Precisely what hormone causes baldness is unknown. But in man the male sex hormone is definitely the ringleader. Wiry, energetic men are apt to be oblong. Dumpy, cunning men are apt to be bald. Food or drugs may restore hair to a glandular bald-head if the follicles are nourished before they die. Repeated scares or fits of anger may cause baldness by causing capillaries of the scalp to constrict. Such hypersensitive constriction prevents blood from getting to the hair follicles and nourishing them. Rages and scares also affect the growth of hair by exhausting the adrenals. High fevers have a like effect."

At a National Beauty Congress in Seattle last week one Norman Hillier of Manhattan bluntly advised women who are getting bald to stand on their heads. The Times article continues. Bald he: "Standing on his head brings blood to the scalp."

A better way to overcome baldness was advanced last week from a more scientific source, according to Time, when Dr. Andrew Abrahm, Chief of Clinics, offered the medical profession a machine to grow hair on heads where hair follicles are not altogether dead. The machine consists of a head which fits over the scalp. By means of an air pump Dr. Abrahm creates an abundant vacuum and pressure upon the scalp. This causes the capillaries of the scalp to become hyperactive, forcing the follicles to the surface and causing the hair to grow. Dr. Abrahm has had good results in the satisfactory growth of hair.

Women Burn To Death In Car On Federal Highway

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 14.—(AP)—Flaring gasoline ignited by an automobile collision burned one woman to death near here today and seriously injured three other persons, one of whom was expected to die.

Mrs. C. D. Matteson of St. Paul was fatally burned before she could be extricated from the blazing wreckage of an expensive sedan and five-ton truck which sidetracked one another. Also injured were Mrs. Matteson's husband, and Sidney S. Porter of Bradenton, Fla., who suffered third degree burns.

Sheriff Walter Clark of Howard county arrested two truckmen, listed as Thomas Tennant, 31, of Detroit, and Harold Hochwater, 37.

The crash, taking place on Federal Highway No. 1 near the Dade-Bradford county line, broke open a 100 gallon reserve gasoline tank on the truck. Spraying upon the occupants of the sedan, the fuel caught fire, apparently from a motor spark, and immediately enveloped the car. It was virtually demolished.

Rescues fought to rescue Mrs. Matteson but were driven back by the intense heat. The gasoline set fire to fields on both sides of the highway, and stopped all traffic for half an hour. It took the Hollywood fire department an hour to extinguish the flames.

Chosen to form a new government for Japan in the wake of the total army revolt, Kato Hirota (shown) immediately announced the opposition of militarists who disliked some of his liberal cabinet nominations. (Associated Press Photo)

Every Individual Is Asked To Join Drive For Safety

ORLANDO, Mar. 14.—Plan to every individual of Florida to join the drive now being conducted by various civic and state-wide organizations for greater highway safety has been issued here by Walter L. Hays, leader in the state movement to ban "wandering death-traps" from state highways.

Hays is a member of Governor Sholtz's 1936 Safety Committee and is chairman of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce and Florida Junior Chamber of Commerce safety committees. He has long been an advocate of the plan to drive livestock from Florida roads to reduce motorist accidents and fatalities.

"Our movement received material assistance last week when the state businessmen's association, representing the men who are interested in cutting down the motorist's habit of driving in order to breed better stock, voted to give assistance in keeping their stock from the roads," Hays said.

"Reports of progress of the movement are coming to me daily, and while each of them is gratifying, it is nevertheless necessary that we have more co-operation of effort than we have now if we are to ban livestock from Florida highways as a means of reducing traffic fatalities and accidents."

Mr. Hays said the auditors were not continuing their audit but were acting as "inspeers" for Adkins, who has filed information against the Beach officials.

Daytona Beach has applied for an injunction to restrain the audit on the ground that municipal business, Circuit Judge Herbert Frederick turned down application and set Mar. 15 for a hearing on an appeal from his decision.

CHURCHMAN SCIENCE CHURCH "Substance" is the subject of the lecture program in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Mar. 15.

The Golden Text is from Proverbs 2:9, "Honor the Lord with thy substance, and with the first fruits of all thine increase."

Among the offerings which comprise the income account in the following from the Bible: "The Lord is the portion of them that fear him; he will be rich in blessing."

The Lord is the portion of them that fear him; he will be rich in blessing. The Lord is the portion of them that fear him; he will be rich in blessing.

Daytona Beach Records Taken To County Seat

DELAND, Mar. 14.—Coincident with the arraignment today of Mayor E. H. Armstrong, City Manager M. S. Crouch and Howard Armstrong, son of the mayor, of the town of Daytona, an embroilment of municipal funds, municipal records and other matters, municipal records of Daytona were brought to the county seat here by Circuit Court Clerk I. Walter Hawkins.

Hawkins has constant custody of the records by court order and was ordered to transport them to Deland by J. C. Adkins, special state attorney sent here by Gov. Dave Sholtz to investigate county and municipal affairs.

An audit of city records had been ordered by Gov. Dave Sholtz through Comptroller J. M. Lee.

Mr. Lee said the auditors were not continuing their audit but were acting as "inspeers" for Adkins, who has filed information against the Beach officials.

Daytona Beach has applied for an injunction to restrain the audit on the ground that municipal business, Circuit Judge Herbert Frederick turned down application and set Mar. 15 for a hearing on an appeal from his decision.

'Anything Goes' With Bing Crosby At The Ritz Theater Sunday

"Anything Goes," which has its premiere Sunday at the Ritz Theater, is a jolly, tuneful, entertaining picture. Bing Crosby is the featured player in this song-studded Paramount musical comedy which broke records during its New York run. He is assisted by such favorites as Ethel Merman, Charlie Ruggles, Ida Lupino and Grace Bradley.

All the famous Cole Porter songs which were universally popular are heard in this musical picture. He has provided a number of others which are equally as good as "You're the Top," "Anything Goes," and "I Get a Kick Out of You." Additional songs by other music makers are included.

Outstanding in the lyric line are the parodies on "You're the Top" which Crosby and Miss Merman sing. These took the audience by storm with their unexpected lines, and proved the high spot in the entertainment. Nearly everything under the sun is introduced in these parodies, from Ethiopia to stratospheric flights.

The bright dance routines by LaRoy Prins deserve mention, as does the fast-paced direction of Lewis Milestone. The audience is carried headlong from amusing escapades to diverting songs, and from spectacular night club scenes to madcap comedy.

Crosby is a knight errant aboard a trans-Atlantic liner. His borrowed passport gets him into trouble, for it belongs to a public enemy. That passport forces him to tumble in and out of sundry disguises with hilarious consequences. The whole ship becomes a madhouse of fun, when Crosby steps to nothing to divert passengers of their costumes. In the end, he gets his reward with an elusive romance.

"Anything Goes" is amusing entertainment through and through. It is heartily recommended to one and all.

of pink formed the centerpiece. At the conclusion of luncheon bridge games were enjoyed in the card room. High score prize, a white purse, was awarded to Mrs. George Herbst while second high score prize—a cut glass pate, was given to Mrs. Julia Ludwig. Mrs. Peter Thurston was the recipient of a large bouquet of gladioli as cut prize. The honor guests, Mrs. Zerrenner and Mrs. Pirage, received linen handkerchiefs, while the other honor guest, Mrs. Fred Bender, was presented with white gloves.

Those present were: Mrs. Fred Bender, Mrs. Margaret Zerrenner, Mrs. August Pirage, Mrs. Charles Wilks, Mrs. John Bender, Mrs. Bea Wilks, Mrs. George Earls, Mrs. John Ludwig, Mrs. George Herbst, Mrs. William Ludwig, Mrs. John Ludwig, Mrs. Frank Meisch, Sr., Mrs. Peter Thurston, Mrs. Joe Meisch, Mrs. Francis Moriwether, Mrs. William Stockerhoff, Mrs. Henry Schumacher, Mrs. John Zerrenner, Mrs. Fred Zerrenner, and Miss Marian Zerrenner.

New President Of NBC Friend Of Florida

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

"If Mr. Lohr could just be to help ease tensions and pour oil on troubled waters. He made many friends for Florida and did a fine job there and has here in New York, too. I have heard many favorable comments on the Exhibit and we, your neighbors at NBC and other New Yorkers, enjoy slipping across the ice and snow into your Florida atmosphere."

"Mr. Brown told me that you go hunting every year down in Alabama at the Tombigbee Club near Mobile. I wonder if you happened to notice our quail shooting diorama at the Exhibit?"

"Yes, I did, and it made me think about the trip I missed. I didn't go South this year. I was going to do another sort of hunting." His eyes twinkled, and I knew he meant "hunting" information on radio for his new job. He is a completely thorough person, Mr. Lohr, and I have heard people say that one of his chief characteristics is the way he asks questions about things in which he is interested and keeps right on hammering away at it until he knows. I have heard, too, that he always looks ahead to see what's coming and prepares for it. There is a story that Mr. Lohr and some friends were on a thirty-two foot boat on the Potomac River. He was very quiet and somebody offered him a penny for his thoughts. He replied that he was just figuring how to manage if he should happen to run into another boat that was on fire! He planned it all, down to the details of controlling possible panic. Oddly enough, soon after this, Mr. Lohr and some friends were out in the boat and they did run into another boat that was not on fire but sinking. They carried out Mr. Lohr's pre-arranged plan and saved not only all passengers but even their belongings. I believe that this story is characteristic of the man and the way he does his work.

"Will you tell me something about your work as president of NBC, Mr. Lohr?" I asked.

"The work naturally falls into three categories, the sales division, the maintaining of a network of stations, and the actual question of putting things on the air. This last, the problem of safeguarding the air, is a difficult one. I picture radio as a visitor to the home and try to remember that its appeal is to all the members of the family from the children to the grandmother. I think of my business in these terms."

"Mr. Lohr, you love the woods, and outdoors, don't you?" This, remembering he had a 300-acre farm near Chicago.

"Yes, I do. Problems can be solved there—One can think there, without the confines of an office." It made an appealing picture to me—this "invisible control man of NBC" planning the future of the radio out in the woods!

I thought of Mr. Lohr down in the woods of Alabama and had a strange feeling of kinship with him, a bond made of the good brown earth, and I wondered if he, too, ever felt as I did and as the ex-patriated Mississippi poet, Will Percy, wrote in New York.

"Too much is said too loudly—I have a need of silence and of stars. I must go home."

Little NRA Is Invalidated By Supreme Court

Price-Fixing Barber Control Law Held As Unconstitutional By 4-2 Decision

Similar Control Acts Unaffected

Court Rule Is That Barber Has Right To Make Contract

TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 16. (AP)—Florida's price fixing barber control law, passed by the 1935 Legislature, was declared invalid by the Supreme Court today. It was a four to two decision, with Justices Buford and Terrell dissenting. Other price fixing statutes, such as milk control and dyers and cleaners control acts were not involved.

The barber law, which opponents called the "NRA act," attempted to extend powers already held by state board examiners to include those of fixing prices for barber work in each of the state's 67 counties. Such authority, a majority of the court held, would withdraw the barber's constitutional right to make contract for his services.

"The people of Seminole County hold South Florida have not withdrawn their objections to the construction of the Cross State Canal and if you support this project it will be wholly against our combined interests, and if such is constructed it simply means disaster to us."

Robber Taken On Third Trip To Same House

Stole Beck's Trousers And Money On Three Occasions, Negro Tells Police

Three strikes and out. Willie Jones, negro, according to his confession to the police as reported by Chief Roy Williams today, broke into B. R. Beck's home on the night of Mar. 8 and stole Mr. Beck's trousers and $55.

Two nights later Willie returned to the Beck home, broke in again, stole another pair of Mr. Beck's trousers and $15.

The second haul was not quite so good so he went back again a couple of nights ago, and again stole another pair of trousers. But there was no money in the trousers the last time.

In each instance, according to both Mr. Beck and the negro, the robber broke into the house in the dead of night and entered the bedroom in which Mr. Beck was asleep. The last time Mr. Beck awoke, and the negro ran. However, he was able to identify him, and the police soon had Willie behind the bars.

Willie is the negro who a few weeks ago tried to steal some chickens from another negro by the name of Frazier. Frazier heard the commotion in his chicken yard, saw Willie up a tree, and held him there at the point of a gun until the police arrived. Willie was clutching three fat hens when he came down out of the tree after the police arrived. He was sentenced to 30 days, and began his raids on the Beck residence soon after his release.

Elevator Strike Ends In New York With Compromise

Points Won And Concessions Made By Owners, Operators

NEW YORK, Mar. 16. (AP)—Thousands of union elevator operators and other building services employes have tossed away their picket signs and begun returning to work after a spectacular two weeks' strike that disrupted the operation of 2400 apartments and business structures.

A compromise settlement providing for immediate reemployment of the strikers along with arbitration of wages and hours was announced yesterday after a 15-hour conference.

James J. Bambrick, head of the New York local of the International Building Service Employers' Union, hailed the settlement as a "great victory."

He said 33,000 workers, including porters, janitors, boiler stokers, and chambermaids in addition to elevator operators, would be back on their jobs by today.

Arbitration of wages will begin within the next few days under the supervision of Ferdinand A. Silcox, chief of the United States Forestry Division. At the end of the first and second years of the three year agreement both wages and hours are to be arbitrated.

In signing a three-year contract with the Realty Advisory Board, representing the employers, the union leaders abandoned their demand for a closed or preferential shop.

The building operators, in their turn, agreed to reinstate all of the strikers instead of insisting on the retention of 15 percent of the replacement workers hired during the strike.

Insists On Equality Of His Delegate To London Conference On Locarno Breach

Britain Said To Oppose Condition

England May Be Compelled To Drop Its Conciliatory Stand

By The Associated Press
The European crisis born of Nazi Germany's remilitarization of the Rhineland heightened today while Great Britain tried to mollify indignant France and pacify the militant Reich.

Some quarters believed the life of the League of Nations rested in its council called into session in London to consider Germany's breach of the Versailles treaty and the Locarno pact. France threatened to bolt the League in preference to complying with terms by which Hitler agreed to participate in the London discussions. Informal League quarters believed Britain also would reject the conditions and would be forced to drop its conciliatory role in favor of League condemnation of Germany.

Hitler insisted on his representative having full equality at the London conference and prompt consideration of any treaty he proposed to insure peace in western Europe. Britain backed the French stance. Germany today celebrated its first anniversary of the declaration of the new army, and the German leader declared "never be conquered."

General tension was eased somewhat by an announcement that the League Council, in secret session, had agreed to give Germany's representative equal standing at the conference, but refused to consider Hitler's proposals.

The five-paragraph German reply, signed by Konstantin von Neurath, foreign minister, was made public by the League last night.

Flandin said he had not read Hitler's reply, addressed to Dr. Joseph A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the League, but understood Hitler demanded that his substitute peace proposals must be discussed at the same time with Germany's "League guilt." Hitler also was understood to insist that Germany must be treated on a footing of absolute equality.

Germany has sent a stern warning to Premier Benito Mussolini that she will cut off all exports to Italy if the fascist state adopts an unfriendly attitude toward Germany regarding the Rhineland crisis. The Daily Telegraph said it learned an official authority yesterday.

Italy, it was believed, would suffer greatly by such a move as her imports from Germany have helped considerably in fighting League of Nations economic penalties imposed for the Ethiopian campaign.
