'Thou Shalt Not Pray... Drink... Or Cogitate'

By Rick Brunson
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary City Commissioners and Planning and Zoning Board members shouldn't pray about, discuss over a drink or even think about issues in groups of two or more to avoid conflict with Florida's government in the sunshine laws. That warning from City Attorney Robert Petree who gave an hour-long lecture on local government and the law during an informational workshop Wednesday.

Florida law requires government meetings to be adequately advertised and held in public. That includes meetings between two city officials who discuss public business in an otherwise private situation.

Petree said the law discouraged decisions from being railroaded past the public.

"Decisions used to be made by cigar smokers in back rooms ... and the public never knew what hit them," he said.

Such discussions "poisons" the decision-making process with prejudice, according to Petree.

But recent court cases have made the law too complicated, Petree said, requiring city officials to be over cautious about how, when and with whom they discuss public business. In the current legal atmosphere, even memos between commissioners may be subject to scrutiny, he said.

"Every person sitting here in this room has violated the sunshine law," he said.

So to avoid litigation, Petree urged the commissioners and board members to refrain from discussing any public issue they are dealing with outside a public forum.

"Thou shalt not call one another and talk about the poodle shop that's going in down by the school — if it's coming up for site review.

"Thou shalt not pray on it, drink on it or cogitate about it," Petree said.

On another issue, Petree told the commissioners and board members that property rights are one of the most volatile areas of the law and that they need to take strict steps to ensure they keep the city out of court.

"You are dealing with rights in this country which have historically been as important as life and death," he said.

Candidates Grilled By Sanford Voters

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Some 200 persons attended a candidate's forum at the Sanford Civic Center Thursday night to hear the three mayoral candidates and five city commission candidates cite their positions on local issues.

Although the forum, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Sanford in conjunction with the Sanford Kiwanis Club, was slated to take two hours, it adjourned in less than 75 minutes. Moderators for the event were members of the League of Women Voters of Seminole County. The election is Tuesday.

The audience seemed to enjoy the event, chuckling at several humorous responses and showing their good humor and enthusiasm by applauding each candidate equally.

Bettye Smith, running for mayor, said she and her husband adopted Sanford as their home 26 years ago, rather than inheriting it by accident of birth. She said she has been preparing for her bid for public office in Sanford for the past 1 1/2 years and looks forward to serving as mayor.

Mayoral candidate Thomas Speer gazed out over the audience, saying he saw a school teacher, a family doctor and others who have helped him along the way since his birth in Sanford.

"I want to repay in kind. I want to give the best for Sanford and to protect the city against growth that is not managed and protect the quality of life here," he said.

Ned Yancey, also a candidate for mayor, said he moved to Sanford "as a little fellow." As a city commissioner for four years, he said he has worked on the city's growth problems and wants to continue working to control growth.

John Mercer said the greatest opportunity anyone has is to be of service to others and cited his experience outside of government in banking and in civic work, saying this experience and service qualifies him for the city commission. He is running for the District 1 commission seat.

A.A. "Mac" McClanahan, his opponent, pointed to his broad experience in government with seven years from 1972-1979 on the city commission as well as his experience in business. "In those years we were faced with growth and handled it well," he said.

C.B. Franklin, one of three seeking the District 2 seat, said he has been

Health Dept. Set To Begin Fee System

Those who have received a variety of free services from the Seminole County Public Health Department over the years, ranging from immunizations to water tests, may have to pay for them beginning Jan. 1, 1985.

The county's Health and Human Services director, Dr. Jorge Deju, asked for the fees for two reasons. The first to gain approval for the addition of a well-baby clinic at the Longwood Health Department Clinic and secondarily to comply with an agreement the county executed with the state Division of Health and Rehabilitative Services some years ago.

The agreement said the county would charge fees for use of the clinic to offset some of the costs of selected services rendered to citizens capable of paying a fee, such as premarital blood tests, septic tank and well approvals and food processing plan reviews and approvals.

Deju has already received tentative approval for his fee plans from the county commissioners and final approval is expected at Tuesday's regular commission meeting beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Despite the fee schedule which calls for charges ranging from $3 for an immunization shot to $25 for restaurant plan review and approval, Deju said, "No person will be refused service due to inability to pay. And no charges will be made to Medicaid patients since the health department directly bills Medicaid for payment of those services."

The fees will give those being served "the opportunity to participate in sharing the cost of their own care and thereby permit the expansion of service to all who are in need," Deju said.

Patients will benefit psychologically by participating in paying for the service, he added.

Deju estimates the county health department will receive some $73,350 from the fees over the nine months remaining in the 1984-85 fiscal year.

Certain of the fees will "primarily impact the business community," he said, such as those for water and percolation tests, variance applications for building sites, etc. Some of the fees, he said, will provide funding for enhanced service at the new public health unit on Airport Boulevard when it opens for business soon.

The people who use the facilities for clinic and other related services will be charged $3 per visit and up to $7 per family.

The tuberculosis testing will include a $15 charge for x-rays and $3 charge for skin tests. Clients receiving immunizations will pay a $3 fee and those seeking blood tests for marriage licenses will be charged $10.

While no fees are being charged now by the department for chemical and bacteriological tests on water used for drinking purposes or pools, a $5 fee per test is included in the new schedule.

Additionally, persons seeking testing of microwave ovens and air samples will have to pay a $5 fee.

Prison Sentence Asked For Dead Man

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Prosecutors want a dead man sentenced to life in prison so his heirs cannot collect any of the $920,000 insurance money he was after when he hired two hit men to kill his wife and 9-year-old son.

Deputy District Attorney Jeff Jonas asked a judge Wednesday to sentence Clifford Lee Morgan, who died in June of bone cancer, to a posthumous term of life in prison without possibility of parole in order to disqualify his estate from receiving any of the insurance money.

Jonas said he believes it is the first time in the nation that prosecutors have sought to have a deceased person sentenced.

Jonas asked Superior Court Judge Robert Fratianne to order that a jury's

'If this injustice were permitted to occur a person could benefit his estate by murdering his spouse...'

guilty verdict convicting Morgan of two counts of first-degree murder be entered into court records as "a final judgment."

If it is necessary for a final judgment to be pronounced, Jonas said in his motion, the judge should also sentence Morgan to life in prison without parole.

Morgan, 57, died before he could be sentenced for hiring two men to kill his wife, Nancy, 44, and the couple's son, Mitchell. The mother and son were found in May 1981, locked in a "death grip" and stabbed a total of 60 times.

Jonas said the money should go to the survivors of Morgan's wife — her sister and mother — not the survivors of the man who ordered her death. He said Morgan's four children by a previous marriage should not receive "blood money."

"If this injustice were permitted to occur," Jonas wrote in his motion, "a person could benefit his estate by murdering his spouse and thereafter died by natural causes or suicide before judgment is pronounced against him."

The California probate code says a person or estate cannot recover a life insurance policy if the person murdered the insured victim, Jonas said. Morgan was convicted in September 1983, and died in June 1984 in the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center.

He had taken out insurance policies on his wife and son two months before hiring the two hit men, who were subsequently convicted of the murders and given death sentences.

According to court testimony, one of the killers knied the 8-year-old boy on the forehead, told him he was sorry, then stabbed him more than 20 times.

Police found the boy and his mother in the bedroom of their suburban home in what Jonas called a "death grip" — clinging together so tightly that their hands had to be pried apart.

The mother had been stabbed more than 40 times.

Weinberger: U.S. Will Go To War When...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger has outlined conditions in which U.S. forces may be committed to combat, emphasizing they should be used only as a last resort and with a "reasonable assurance" of support from Congress and the people.

"Let no one entertain any illusions — if our vital interests are involved, we are prepared to fight," the Pentagon chief said Wednesday. "And we are resolved that if we must fight, we must win."

Weinberger, in a speech that Pentagon sources said was months in the making and was approved by President Reagan, set forth six "major tests" for going to war and pledged that U.S. troops will not be drawn slowly into Vietnam-style combat in Central America.

At the same time, he charged that Congress, through the war powers act, "actively interferes" with the power of the president to decide whether to use military force. But he stopped short of saying the law should be repealed.

He endorsed Grenada-style actions with appropriately sized American forces seeking "clearly defined" objectives.

In a largely philosophical address to the National Press Club that Pentagon sources said was as much a message to the State Department as to the American people, Weinberger for the first time publicly enunciated the cautionary stance the Pentagon has taken toward the use of U.S. troops in Central America and Marine and Army peace keepers in the Middle East.

The sources said Weinberger served notice to the State Department that U.S. forces will not be deployed to achieve diplomatic ends, as hinted by Secretary of State George Shultz when he said a year ago that military force and diplomatic objectives are tied together.

Weinberger listed six tests for going to war, saying they "can be helpful in deciding whether or not we should commit our troops" in the future:

— Forces should not be committed unless it is "deemed vital to our national interest or that of our allies."

— There must be a "clear intention of winning" and there should be no hesitation to commit limited force "sized accordingly," such as in the U.S.-led invasion of the Caribbean island of Grenada Oct.

25, 1983.

— Political and military objectives should be "clearly defined."

— The relationship between the size of the force and the objectives "must be continually reassessed and adjusted if necessary."

— "Before the U.S. commits combat forces abroad, there must be some reasonable assurance" of support from the people and Congress. "We cannot fight a battle with the Congress at home while asking our troops to win a war overseas or, as in the case of Vietnam ... ask our troops not to win, but just to be there."

— "Finally, the commitment of U.S. forces to combat should be a last resort, to be used only when other means have failed or have no prospects of succeeding."

Man With The Bionic Heart Making Amazing Progress

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — William Schroeder is doing so well with his bionic heart that doctors said he may be able to get out of bed today.

Dr. Robert I. Goodin, head of cardiology at Humana Hospital Audubon, said he was amazed at Schroeder's strength and progress so soon after the implant of the pulsing artificial heart in his chest.

Schroeder's wife, Margaret, was quoted by the cardiologist Wednesday as saying her husband had been more comfortable in the past 24 hours with the $15,500 artificial heart "than he had been for months prior to the surgery."

Goodin said Schroeder should be past the risk of complications from Sunday's surgery by the middle of next week. The major threats are infection, and the development of blood clots that might lodge in the lungs.

But the doctor said the mechanical heart has so many unknowns, the medical team never would be able to relax completely.

DES Increases Risk Of Cancer

BOSTON (UPI) — DES, an anti-miscarriage drug popular during the Baby Boom and already known to cause cancer in the daughters of women who used it, increases the risk of breast cancer by 50 percent in the mothers themselves, a new study says.

"For now, it would be prudent to notify women who have been exposed to DES during pregnancy and to advise them to consider, with their doctors, a program of breast self-examination and periodic physician examination or mammography or both," said the study by researchers at Dartmouth Medical School.

DES, or Diethylstilbestrol, is already known to cause a rare form of vaginal cancer in women whose mothers took the drug during pregnancy. This is the first conclusive evidence that the mothers who took DES are at a higher risk of developing breast cancer.

DES was the first easily available synthetic estrogen. It was prescribed for as many as 3 million women during the 1940s and 1950s to prevent miscarriages.

Woman FBI Informant, Not Spy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — An accused Soviet spy was actually an informant for the U.S. government who had affairs with two FBI agents she worked with, her attorney says.

Brad Brian, attorney for Svetlana Ugorodnikova, filed papers in federal court Wednesday saying the woman became sexually involved with Special Agent John Hunt, with whom she had contact for four years as an FBI informant.

Only later did she begin an affair with Richard Miller, 47, her co-defendant and the only FBI agent ever charged with espionage, the lawyer claimed.

Miller, Ugorodnikova and her husband, Nikolai, were indicted last month on espionage and conspiracy charges and remain in custody. Prosecutors said Miller passed classified documents to the immigrant couple.

4 Divers Head Home After Ordeal At Sea

KEY LARGO (UPI) — It started as an innocent Thanksgiving Day diving excursion but ended as a six-day ordeal spent adrift at sea.

Although the Coast Guard lost hope and gave up the search, the four boaters were found aboard their 19-foot rental boat Wednesday safe and sound — but tired and hungry — by lobster fishermen.

After spending the night in dry, warm hotel beds, the four Orange County residents were to head home today.

Lydia Kispfer, Beth Wright, Greg Cobb — all of Orlando — and Greg Kourts of Winter Park, were in good condition although dehydrated and ... from exposure to the salt water.

The four planned to go diving off Little Torch Key for a few hours Thanksgiving Day but lost their bearings and then were hit by a nasty storm that battered the Florida coast for three days.

Cop-Killer Gets 24-Hour Stay

STARKE (UPI) — Convicted killer Jesse Joseph Tafero, originally scheduled to die in Florida's electric chair today, was granted a 24-hour reprieve to give lawyers time to present his case to a federal appeals court in Atlanta.

Tafero, 38, had been scheduled to die at 7 a.m. today for the murders of Florida Highway Patrol officer Phillip A. Black and Donald Robert Irwin, a visiting Canadian policeman, in 1976.

The temporary stay expires at 7 a.m. Friday. Tafero's death warrant remains valid through noon Friday, so the execution could still be carried out if the Atlanta court refuses to grant a stay.

In a two-hour hearing Wednesday in Miami, U.S. District Judge Lenore Neabitt rejected the argument of defense lawyer Mark Cooper that Tafero's trial lawyer ineffectively represented Tafero.

Lewis: Quash 'Non-Bank Banks'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Comptroller Gerald Lewis, hoping to keep "non-bank banks" out of Florida, wants the legislature to pass an emergency bill next week declaring a two-year moratorium on charters for such institutions.

A "non-bank bank" is an institution that takes deposits, but does not make commercial loans. The legal definition of a bank involves an institution that does both, but Lewis said at a news conference Wednesday some institutions want to collect money in Florida and lend it out in other states.

Bullet Train

No Government Funds Needed: Consultant

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A "bullet" train system can thrive in Florida without direct government subsidies, a consulting firm has concluded after a yearlong study.

Barton-Aschman Associates Inc., in a report made public Wednesday, concluded that passenger fares and "innovative application" of incentives given private developers by the state could finance the high-speed system.

"While current intercity rail ridership levels are low, there appears to be a considerable market for high speed rail among Florida's major urban centers for trips over 85 miles in length and additional potential to attract urban commuter trips in some areas," the consulting firm said.

The $500,000 study was released by the Department of Transportation.

Gov. Bob Graham has set the state's 150th birthday in 1995 as the target date for a bullet train to be in operation in Florida. He wants the high technology system to come from private sector investment as much as possible.

The consulting firm concluded that both goals are feasible but said a "considerable implementation effort" is needed to begin as soon as possible.

The cost of a bullet train system has been projected at between $2.3 billion and $4.7 billion.

Proponents say a bullet train would help the state both with its economic growth and with tourism.

The study did not recommend any specific technology or route but endorsed earlier assessments that a Miami-Orlando-Tampa route represents "the foremost long-distance intercity travel market."

The consultants estimated that ridership for trips of more than 95 miles in the primary corridor, including connections among Tampa, Orlando and Cocoa-Melbourne, could reach 20,000 passengers daily.

The figure was described as "very conservative."

Fares should cover annual operating costs but would fall between $100 million and $200 million short of covering both operating and capital costs, the consultants said.

The report said this shortfall could be made up through a variety of incentives, such as development rights around train stations.

The consultants estimated the state could expect a $3.8 billion increase in tourism spending between 1990 and 2020 because of the train and 30,000 jobs would be created yearly for a 30-year period.

Graham is expected to appoint a seven-member Florida High Speed Rail Transportation Commission next week to accept proposals for the system.

With EPA On Track, Ruckelshaus Leaving Environmental Agency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William Ruckelshaus, who rode in from the West 20 months ago to rescue the agency he helped establish to protect the environment, told President Reagan he was resigning now that "the ship called EPA is righted."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, "Ruckelshaus came to do a job and do it well. He has decided he's done his job. He's done all we've asked him to do."

Speakes said a new Environmental Protection Agency administrator would be named in a few days.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee, said Ruckelshaus' decision may not have been entirely his own.

"The situation is developing and the first appearance may not be reliable," he said, adding that the resignation "probably is not solely of Ruckelshaus' choice."

A spokesman for Ruckelshaus said Dingell's comment "absolutely is not true. It was a personal decision (to leave)."

Dingell said, "My concern is the administration might be seeking, very unwisely, the kind of administrative, legislative chaos they were beset with ... up until the time Ruckelshaus took over."

Dingell said Al Alm, Ruckelshaus' deputy administrator, also was leaving. Ruckelshaus' spokesman confirmed Alm would leave.

Reagan accepted the resignation, effective Jan. 5, "with great regret" and noted that Ruckelshaus had made "an extraordinary personal sacrifice" to leave his job with the Weyerhaeuser lumber concern in Washington state to return to government service.

Environmental groups who praised Ruckelshaus' selection as first EPA chief when the agency was created in 1970 and his reappointment in 1983, expressed concern about what the resignation meant for the future of the agency.

Friends of the Earth said in a statement it "feared Reagan 'may be nostalgic' for Anne Burford, the EPA administrator who resigned in March 1983 under fire, and may want 'to head in that direction now that a moderate facade is no longer needed for re-election.'"

Ruckelshaus, 52, was called back to Washington to replace Burford, who was one of Reagan's most controversial appointees and was forced to resign because of allegations of mismanagement, political shenanigans and sweetheart deals with industries whose toxic waste dumps the agency regulated.

Helms Ignores Plum, Stays On At Agriculture

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conservative Republican Jesse Helms has passed up one of the Senate's plums and, rather than heeding New Right calls that he run the Foreign Relations Committee, will stay on as chairman of the Agriculture Committee.

"If I can't keep my word I don't belong here. If there's one job I'd like to have around here it's Foreign Relations," Helms said somewhat ruefully after assignments of the committee chairmen were announced.

"There it was. All I had to do was bend a principle."

The Foreign Relations job became vacant with the defeat of Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., earlier this month. The post will be taken by Richard Lugar of Indiana.

The Agriculture Committee oversees government tobacco programs, including subsidies and limits on the number of people who grow tobacco. Helms was senior to Lugar on both panels. Had Helms taken the Foreign Relations post, Lugar — no friend of the tobacco programs dear to Helms' rural constituents — would have become Agriculture Committee chairman.

Child Abuse Probe Goes On Despite Hoax

JORDAN, Minn. (UPI) — The investigation into allegations of a child sex abuse ring involving 25 residents has taken a new twist since the key witness has admitted he fabricated stories about the affair.

Authorities declined comment Wednesday on the latest turn of events in the affair but said the investigation was continuing.

Local residents appeared divided over the latest development. Some said they knew all along that the sex ring never existed, but others said they thought some children had been molested.

County officials had charged two dozen adults and a juvenile with 400 counts of child sexual abuse involving 40 children, based primarily on statements by James Rud.

Only one couple was brought to trial and they were acquitted. Charges were dropped against the other defendants.

Some of the defendants' children, placed in foster homes during the ordeal, still have not been returned to their families.

Rud, the key witness, admitted in an interview with a Minneapolis television station Tuesday that he had lied about the sex ring to receive a lighter sentence in his case.

Attorney General Hubert H. Humphrey III declined comment on Rud's statements but said the investigation was continuing.

"We have interviewed Mr. Rud and many others during this investigation," a statement from Humphrey said. "We are and have been well aware of what those witnesses are saying."

Humphrey's office took over the investigation in October at the request of Scott County Attorney Kathleen Morris.

Morris also declined comment on Rud's statements.

Rud originally was charged with 108 counts of first- and second-degree criminal sexual conduct. In a plea bargain arrangement, he pleaded guilty to 10 counts of first-degree criminal sexual abuse in return for his testimony.

Rud testified in the trial of Robert and Lois Bentz, who were later acquitted. Although he testified the Bentzes participated in parties in which adults used children as sex partners, Rud could not identify Robert Bentz from the stand.

Dole Will Draw Laughter, Blood As Senate Leader

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In choosing Robert Dole as their new leader, Senate Republicans have traded in the gentle humor of the Tennessee's Howard Baker for an acid wit who will have the chamber rocking with laughter — and some colleagues bleeding.

Dole, 61, the new Senate Republican leader, is renowned for his quick, sharp one-liners, many of them harmless, some of them swift darts that can hit and hurt.

But there is more to Dole than the satiric looks and acid tongue that gave rise to his portrayal as the Republicans' hatchet man when he ran as the GOP vice presidential candidate in 1976.

He is, as a high-ranking Senate official puts it, articulate, experienced and fully capable of guiding legislation to passage.

If Dole has a technical weakness, the official said, he is not "well-versed" in the rules of the Senate, a flaw, if not corrected, that could hurt him in dealings with the wily leader of the Democrats, Sen. Robert Byrd.

"He cannot be the old Dole and be an effective leader," this official said. "He is going to have to mellow."

As chairman of the Senate Finance Committee for the past four years, Dole has shown an encompassing knowledge of the most complex tax, deficit and economic issues and an ability to hammer out compromises.

Sen. Malcolm Wallop of Wyoming noted that Baker was a "great conciliator" in the four Mitchell N. Drew, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), said today that citrus growers who wish to be considered for emergency loan assistance under pending rule changes should apply before the December 3 deadline.

The pending rule changes apply to farmers who suffered qualifying losses due to the Christmas 1983 freeze.

Potential applicants should contact the local FmHA County Office and apply before the deadline for receiving applications.

years the Tennessee served as Republican leader.

He managed to keep Senate Republicans more or less united — more in the first two years — through a low-key approach, liberally peppered with down-home humor and rare flashes of anger. He was genuinely liked.

Dole may have a tougher time. He will "on occasion run a few rough roads," Wallop said. "There may even be some things that he would rather see lost than come out with a compromise that he finds unacceptable."

"I hope he stays hitched as a team player," Wallop said. "I hope whatever disagreements he has with the White House, he keeps down there."

One of the concerns fellow Republicans had with Dole's candidacy was a fear that he

Jarvik-8 Heart Will Help Even More Patients

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — While the Jarvik-7 artificial heart keeps William J. Schroeder alive, the inventor of the plastic and metal device was already at work developing a new model to help a wider range of heart patients.

Dr. Robert Jarvik, who designed the heart implanted in Schroeder and the one Dr. Barney Clark received two years ago, said the Jarvik-8 is still on the drawing boards, but he hopes it will be ready for production within one year.

"It is only in the development stage," he said. "I have not done a major redesign."

Jarvik, 38, president of Symbion Inc., the Salt Lake City-based firm that manufactures the artificial hearts and their drive units, said the new design will come in three sizes.

"The rationale there is we want to have a small size heart available for humans," Jarvik said. Symbion's research of the heart — except for Schroeder and Clark — has been restricted to animal experiments.

So far, restrictions on who could receive artificial heart implants have eliminated anyone weighing below 150 pounds, because the chest cavity had to be large enough to fit the Jarvik-7. But the Jarvik-8 would allow smaller people — especially women — to get the mechanical device.

Jarvik said the Jarvik-8 also could be produced in larger quantities.

"We hope to bring the production costs down," Jarvik said.

Other improvements to the Jarvik-7 design include a reduction of the risk of blood clots in the device, and a durability to enable it to last seven to 10 years. The current Jarvik-7 is predicted to be able to continue pumping for five years, Jarvik said.

Dr. William DeVries, who implanted the Jarvik-7 in Clark and Schroeder, is approved by the Food and Drug Administration for five more implants using the device. Jarvik and Symbion would have to apply to the FDA for federal approval for the Jarvik-8 to be implanted in humans, but Jarvik said he would wait until after the Jarvik-7 implants do so.

"We would really have to show what the differences are and give the data to support the reasonableness (of using the Jarvik-8 in future implants)," he said.

Another Implant Soon?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — If William J. Schroeder continues to improve with an artificial heart in his chest, doctors say they soon will be ready to proceed with an implant in another critically ill patient.

Dr. Allan Lansing, director of the Humana Heart Institute International, said doctors already are evaluating two potential candidates — one from Tennessee and one from Minnesota. Their hometowns were not revealed to protect their privacy.

Schroeder received his mechanical heart Sunday and Lansing said it would be later this week or early next week before the medical team would be able to proceed with a second implant in Louisville.

"A tremendous amount of attention is given to the patient — an enormous resource of personnel," Lansing said. "While we have space for it, it would be stretching our personnel at this particular time and it wouldn't be fair to either patient."

The Humana Hospital Audubon has the facilities to maintain two artificial heart implants, with two specially equipped cardiac care units with the ability to support the drive units necessary to power the plastic and titanium heart.

Lansing said the two possible candidates for an artificial heart were admitted to the hospital for testing Sunday and Monday.

"The only possibility of another implant within the next week would be if a patient was critically ill, and would not come off the heart-lung bypass machine and if we had already discussed it with the patient and his family before he went to the operating room."

Lansing said he did not see any patients like that in the immediate future.

Dr. William DeVries, the surgeon who performed the world's first such implant on Barney Clark Dec. 2, 1982, has federal permission to implant a total of seven artificial hearts on an experimental basis. These include the units implanted in Clark and Schroeder.

Before Schroeder was selected, DeVries said he had a "handful or two handfuls" of possible mechanical heart recipients. Schroeder was selected from that group because "there was no choice," Lansing said Tuesday.

To be qualified, a person must have irreversible heart disease with a projected lifespan of no more than six months. He or she must be over 18, large enough to hold the mechanical heart and not be a candidate for a heart transplant.

Game Of Golf In The Park Leads To Unlawful Arrest Lawsuit Against Longwood

A Longwood man arrested for trespass after warning is suing the city of Longwood and its mayor for unlawful arrest.

Robert Noble Daves, of 748 E. Jeasup Ave., filed suit Tuesday against J. Russel Grant, mayor of Longwood, and the city. In the seven-count suit, Daves is suing in each count for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

According to court records, Daves was given a trespass warning by Longwood police (or hitting golf balls in Candyland Park, a public park on North Grant Street, on Oct. 27, 1983. On Feb. 7, 1984, someone called the police and told them Daves was in the park again. The following day, police arrested Daves with his golf equipment in the park.

On March 26, the state decided not to prosecute the case, according to the suit, because there was no city ordinance or state statute outlawing the activity.

Daves states that police arrested him "with malicious intent and with no probable cause whatsoever." He further states the arrest was unlawful.

As a result of the arrest, Daves said his good name has been soiled and his reputation tarnished. He states he has suffered embarrassment, humiliation, emotional pain, mental anguish and ridicule.

He claims a city ordinance which purportedly gave the officer authority to arrest him was never lawfully enacted and thus invalid.

The case has been assigned to Seminole Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor. No trial date has been set.

A Call To Arms

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Carol Kuhler would like to reach out and touch someone, namely the phantom callers who have been using her telephone credit card to run up a $33,533 bill dialing across the United States and seven other countries.

The callers placed hours of calls the first week of October to Indonesia, Bangladesh, Italy, Sweden, Egypt, Kuwait and Jordan.

"The phone company called about Oct. 3 and asked me why I had been using my calling card so much in the past 24 hours on overseas calls," Kuhler said. "And I told them I didn't even have a card."

"My mother is the only one I ever call and she lives in Dallas." The phone company said they would cancel the card that day, but more calls were made for four or five days, she said.

Kuhler, 19, a University of Texas-Arlington sophomore, speculated the telephone card she had applied for was either stolen from her mailbox or mailed to the wrong person.

About two weeks ago Kuhler received a 254-page bill from Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. totalling $33,533.52. She said the bill weighed so much, it required $2.52 in postage.

All the calls were made from pay phones, making them almost impossible to trace.

Khadafy Linked To Gandhi Slaying

Libya's Moammar Khadafy was in top rhetorical form the other day as he capped one of his anti-American tirades by calling President Reagan "mad, mad."

This particular outburst from Mr. Khadafy got more media attention than it might otherwise have because of the Libyan leader's bizarre sense of timing. Egypt's President Hosni Mubarak had just given the world further evidence that if anyone is mad, it is Mr. Khadafy.

President Mubarak — who, unlike Mr. Khadafy, usually has a solid basis for his remarks — charged that the Libyan strongman may have been involved in the assassination of India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

Mr. Mubarak said that more than a half dozen other world leaders also were targeted for assassination by Col. Khadafy.

The Egyptian president based his statements on information obtained from Khadafy-commissioned "hit men" arrested by Egyptian security authorities.

The hit men, who slipped into Egypt to kill a former Libyan prime minister who opposes Khadafy, were duped and captured by Egyptian agents.

In an effective ploy to expose Mr. Khadafy, the Egyptians tricked him into thinking that the hit team had been successful in killing former Prime Minister Abdel Hamid El-Bakouh. Falling for the ruse, Libya announced with great satisfaction that El-Bakouh had been executed by a "suicide squad" of the type so widely utilized by Mr. Khadafy and his fellow madmen running the outlaw state of Libya.

Col. Khadafy has been caught in full sponsorship of terrorism and murder a number of times. Mindful of this, Mr. Mubarak labeled him an "international terrorist."

"They (the nations of the world) should think ... how to stop him and make him realize his limitations," President Mubarak said of Mr. Khadafy.

Col. Khadafy, according to Egyptian officials, had financed a plot to kill Prime Minister Gandhi before she ordered Indian troops to storm dissident Sikhs in their Golden Temple shrine in Amritsar. The Indian leader was shot to death by Sikh members of her personal security force, supposedly in retaliation for the attack on the Sikh temple.

According to President Mubarak, Col. Khadafy also has financed terrorist organizations planning to assassinate British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, French President Francois Mitterand, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl and the chiefs of state of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates and Pakistan.

Mr. Mubarak is correct when he says that Col. Khadafy must be stopped. The sooner the better.

Ultimate Junket

NASA has invited Sen. Jake Garn of Utah to go on a space mission. If he goes, other senators and congressmen will soon be donning gravity suits to go on the ultimate junket.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration will have to design a new space-ship for congressional junkets.

Unless Garn can find a way to use weightlessness to float the deficit, he should stay on Earth.

By Susan Loden

Girls who are five years old or who are in kindergarten may now join the Girl Scouts. The Citrus Council of Girl Scouts is registering girls in this age group for a new group called Daisy Girl Scouts.

Until now the youngest Girl Scouts were six years old or in the first grade. The new age level was named for the founder of Girl Scouting, Juliette Gordon Low whose childhood nickname was Daisy.

This represents the first change in the minimum age for girl members since 1973 and the first major revision of Girl Scout age levels in 21 years.

"The decision to serve younger girls was reached after years of extensive study and nationwide pilot projects, president of the Citrus Council Phyllis L. Smith said.

In Central Florida Daisy Girl Scouting is well underway with 39 troops registered. The Council is seeking adult volunteers to extend the program to more girls. Women wishing to work directly with Daisy Girl Scouts are welcome as are groups and organizations interested in sponsoring a troop.

Respite In Taipei

TAIPEI, Taiwan (NEA) — With the election behind us and the second Reagan administration not yet begun, this seemed like an excellent time for a trip to the Far East. My journalistic objective is to take a close look at developments in Hong Kong — first from the cozy vantage point of Taiwan, and then from Hong Kong itself. But I never visit Taiwan without making a pilgrimage to the National Palace Museum in the hills just outside Taipei, and I think you will appreciate a description of what I saw there on this occasion.

The National Palace Museum is, of course, the splendid museum built by the Nationalist Chinese to house the art treasures of China, virtually all of which they brought with them from the mainland in 1949. (That's why the Chinese communists are limited to showing off things they have discovered in tombs that were still unopened in 1949.) Here is the art collection of the Chinese emperors — fit for an emperor indeed, and unparalleled anywhere in the world.

The world's largest and best collection of Chinese scroll paintings is on permanent display. Most often the subject is a landscape, in which the eye is led from the bottom of the scroll — a woodland valley, perhaps — upward along pine-clad slopes, past foaming waterfalls, through mist-shrouded gorges to misty mountain peaks, looming over the scene in an empty sky. The celebration, obviously, is of nature.

But look again: Somewhere near the bottom of the painting there will be one or more small human figures — two scholars conversing in an airy pavilion, perhaps, or an elderly monk approaching a temple. They seem tiny in relation to the mountains, and indeed they are. But in another sense the whole point of the painting is their consciousness of nature's majesty.

When the subject is a human being, or an individual animal or plant, a great Chinese artist can accomplish more with a single line than most painters achieve with a whole rainbow of colors. I saw one black and white painting of bamboo leaves bending before the wind as it blew briskly through a grove. One could almost hear and feel that wind, though it spent itself on a Chinese hillside during the Ming dynasty five centuries ago.

One special exhibition is a roomful of miniature curio cabinets designed for the Chinese emperors to house their favorite small objects of art.

Then there's the permanent porcelain exhibit: a thousand years of Imperial porcelain, in such magical colors as ruby red, "fleece white," lilac purple and "tea dust." And don't forget the incredible jade carvings, including a yellowish-gray cabbage with dark green leaves amid which hide two green locusts — all carved from a single lustrous piece of jade.

Who cares what Chairman Mao thought?

U.S. Steel Industry Beyond Hope?

WASHINGTON — A confidential government diagnosis warns that the proud American steel industry will never recover from the deep depression in which it has been wallowing for several years.

The death knell for the once-powerful steel companies may have been President Reagan's refusal earlier this year to impose quotas on imported steel.

Though he promised to negotiate voluntary quotas patterned after those for the auto industry, the results of any effort now will probably be too little and too late to save the steel companies and their thousands of workers.

Some administration economists harbored the quaint notion that the recovery — like others in the past — would prove to be the salvation of steel. But conditions aren't the same as in earlier cycles, and two years

JEFFREY HART

Ethos Is Dominant

It would be a disservice to readers of this column if I failed to call attention to an important book merely because it was written by the son of this columnist.

Benjamin Hart graduated from Dartmouth College in the class of 1981 and he has just published an account of his four years in the Ivy League titled Poisoned Ivy (Stein and Day). The book is a sort of combination of Scott Fitzgerald's This Side of Paradise and William F. Buckley's God and Man at Yale, and, indeed, Buckley has written a discerning forward to the book.

Despite its title, Poisoned Ivy, the book is a sort of Valentine card to Dartmouth College. In love with its history and alive to its daily texture, the cold New England evenings, the sunlight on the white Georgian buildings, the sound of singing in the distance.

It is also an account of everyone's college experience, not just in the Ivy League, and it has a universal quality: "When I arrived in the fall of 1977 with my bags at South Fayerweather dormitory, I was conscious of the pale September sunlight on the bare walls of my room. All my friends were going to other colleges, so today was a beginning as horrifying as the first day of first grade..."

But for all of its love for Dartmouth and the richness of its account of student life in the 1980s, Poisoned Ivy is also an indictment, and it coins a term that deserves to pass into common usage: The Ethos.

The Ethos is dominant, and perhaps even increasingly dominant, in the faculty and administration of much of our higher education. In the opinion of Benjamin Hart, the Ethos amounts to a corruption of the soul of his college, and, more widely, of the American educational elite. It is in this aspect that the book is a descendant of Buckley's God and Man at Yale. But whereas God and Man at Yale represented a kind of lawyer's brief, quoting Yale textbooks and citing the opinions of Yale professors and so forth, what we have here is a narrative indictment, a sort of Candide among the Liberals.

What The Ethos desires is to make what is central to American culture and Western culture marginal — and to make what is marginal central.

The Ethos is ga-ga about militant minorities of all kinds, and while it would not tolerate racial discrimination in the ordinary fraternities — in fact, it does not much like fraternities — it has created segregated black fraternities and even financed them.

The Ethos is deeply committed to "affirmative action," that is, reverse discrimination.

The Ethos is hospitable to militant feminism and affirms the symbols of gay legitimacy.

The Ethos supports a nuclear freeze, and disarmament buffs earn fat fees on the campus circuit.

And, above all, The Ethos will endure no challenge to its moral imperialism.

When Dartmouth students started up an independent conservative newspaper called The Dartmouth Review, The Ethos did everything it could think of to crush it, and failed.

Poisoned Ivy opens with a revealing incident. A student distributing that newspaper in a college building was physically attacked and actually bitten by a black college administrator, who was subsequently convicted and fined. The Ethos, that is, the faculty, voted 113-5 to censure, not the assailant but the newspaper. That just about says it all, but you can get the delicious details in Poisoned Ivy.

half during the next two decades."

Many of the steel industry's wounds, of course, have been self-inflicted. Despite generous tax breaks for plant modernization over the last 20 years, big U.S. companies have lost their competitive edge to Japanese and European steel makers, and even to "mini-mills" in this country, which use modern technology to produce specialty steel.

Adequate modernization could cost $6.5 billion, according to internal government estimates, yet only about $2 billion a year is currently being spent to make the plants competitive. Crippled by poor earnings, the steel companies just don't have the large sums needed for research and development.

Some other problems raised in the government report: — Labor costs: Though recent

Secret Shuttle Missions

By William HARWOOD
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The space agency keeps few secrets from the citizenry, but increasing Defense Department involvement with the shuttle program will drop a cloak of secrecy over dozens of future missions.

Workers at the Kennedy Space Center are readying the shuttle Discovery for launch in late January in what will be the first fully classified manned space flight in NASA history.

Discovery is tentatively scheduled to blast off Jan. 23 with a "national security" payload managed by the Air Force nestled in the spaceship's cargo bay for delivery into orbit.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration typically goes to great lengths to publicize its manned space flights, but the Air Force has insisted on secrecy for its missions, forcing NASA into an unfamiliar — and uncomfortable — role.

The only other major aspects of the shuttle program that are kept secret are the results of proprietary research sponsored by private industry and details of Defense Department launches with unmanned expendable rockets.

The role of the military in the shuttle program will increase with Discovery's mission and the completion of a shuttle launch complex at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., later this year that will be used for secret flights.

So far, nearly 40 military payloads are scheduled for launch from space shuttles through 1989.

The crew members for Discovery's flight are commander Thomas Mattingly, pilot Loren Shriver, Ellison Sizuka, James Buchi and Gary Payton, the first of 25 Defense Manned Space Flight Engineer shuttle fliers.

Challenger originally was scheduled to make the flight Dec. 8 but it was grounded for extensive repairs of its heat-shield tile system and Discovery was pressed into service in its place.

Under a preliminary agreement between NASA and the Defense Department, the space agency will not announce Discovery's exact launch time to prevent Soviet tracking stations from being able to monitor the flight and determine the orbit of the secret satellite.

Instead, reporters will be told only that the shuttle will blast off within a three-hour period on the specified launch day. The actual launch time will not be known until Discovery's three main engines fire up six seconds prior to liftoff.

Military planners originally wanted to bar reporters from the Kennedy Space Center to conduct the mission in absolute secrecy but NASA officials fought for a compromise to allow at least minimal coverage.

The landing date will not be announced until about 16 hours before touchdown. Discovery is scheduled to end the mission at the Kennedy Space Center.

union contracts have provided some relief. It is expected that the American steel industry's labor costs will reach $25 an hour by 1986. When this is compared to the $12 an hour in Japan, $8 in Britain and $3 in South Korea, it's obvious where the cost advantage lies.

— Mini-mill competition: The capacity of the generally non-union smaller mills is expected to more than double by the end of the century.

— Increasing imports: Over the past 10 years, imported steel captured about 15 percent of the U.S. market. This share will climb to 40 percent in the next 10 years. While most of the competition now comes from Europe and Japan, in the future the fiercest competition will be offered by lesser-developed countries like Brazil, Mexico, Argentina and South Korea.

Man, Teen Nabbed After Gas Station Holdup

A Jacksonville man charged with armed robbery shortly after Casselberry gas station holdup Wednesday was being held today in lieu of $2,500 bond and the 17-year-old accused of driving the getaway car was being held by juvenile authorities.

The pair were captured at about 2 a.m. Wednesday by Seminole County sheriff's Sgt. David Lhor after Lhor heard a Casselberry police radio report that the occupants of a 1974 silver AMC Hornet were being sought in connection with the 1:50 a.m. robbery.

The suspects were picked up at a service station on U.S. Highway 17-92 at state Road 436, Casselberry. Casselberry police responded to the scene and a clerk from the Tenneco station at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Dogtrack Road, the station that was robbed, reportedly identified the passenger in the Hornet as the suspect who entered that business, claimed to have a gun in his pocket and took $160 from the clerk, police report.

A bag of money was found under the seat of the suspects' car, but no gun was discovered. Alphonso Clarence Nixon Jr., 25, was charged with armed robbery. The youth is also being held on a Brevard County warrant for burglary and grand theft.

KICKERS CHARGED
Two men who reportedly fought with four Sanford policemen and then kicked a patrol car, bending a window frame, have been charged with criminal mischief in addition to charges related to resisting the officers.

A third occupant of the vehicle was determined to be wanted in Lake County on $10,000 bond. Calvin Pendleton, no address given, was taken into custody for Lake County authorities.

Police stopped the men's car for a traffic violation and determined the driver was driving with an expired license at about 3 a.m. Monday on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

A passenger in the car resisted and fought the officers, a police report said. When he and the other men were placed in a police car he and the driver kicked the vehicle, causing $200 in damage.

LeRoy Pendleton, 23, no address given, was charged with assault on a police officer, resisting arrest with violence and criminal mischief. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

The driver, James Edward Durham, 20, no address given, was charged with driving without a valid license, obstructing a police officer and criminal mischief. He was released on $500 bond.

OFFICER INJURED IN CRASH
A Sanford police officer responding to an emergency was injured early Wednesday when a Jeep pulled into his path, causing a collision.

Patrolman David Semones, 33, was treated and released from Central Florida Regional Hospital for injuries to his face, legs and arms. The accident occurred at 3 a.m. at the intersection of S. French Avenue and 25th Street. The driver of the vehicle, Stephen K. Abbott, 35, of Boynton Beach, was not injured nor was a passenger.

According to Assistant Police Chief Herb Shea, Semones was northbound on French Avenue in pursuit of a subject on the north side of town. Semones had a green light as he entered the intersection and had his emergency lights flashing, Shea said. When the southbound Jeep turned to its left to head east on 25th Street, the cruiser ran into it, causing it to overturn, Shea said. The patrol car will probably have to be replaced.

Shea said the Florida Highway Patrol cited Abbott with an alcohol related charge, either driving under the influence of alcohol or having an unlawful blood alcohol level. He said was not sure which charge was cited.

Eating Veggies Can Help Prevent Cancer

ATLANTA (UPI) — Nearly 1,000 people a day die from lung cancer and other diseases caused by cigarette smoking, but a medical expert says some cancers may be prevented if people ate their vegetables.

Dr. Richard Rothenberg — who earlier warned Americans that smoking, drinking, eating, work and sex cause cancer — said the fatality rate could be cut if people modified their diets, eating vegetables instead of fatty foods.

"There are measures you can take," said Rothenberg, director of the New York state Bureau of Chronic Disease Prevention. "That includes eating things like broccoli, lettuce and cauliflower."

"These are cruciferous vegetables — vegetables high in vitamin A. They tend to be the kinds of things your mother told you to eat," he said.

But Rothenberg, who is attending a forum on premature death chaired by former President Jimmy Carter, warned that eating vegetables will not protect those who smoke or drink to excess.

Rothenberg said doctors believe a person who has smoked for 20 pack years — the equivalent of one pack per day for 20 years — is in extreme danger of contracting cancer.

The exact death toll attributed to smoking is 316,000 a year, which represents 30 percent of the nation's preventable deaths that occur each year.

Carter, who lost a sister to cancer, agreed with Rothenberg's assessment of the health impact of cigarettes.

"It's the only legal substance that when used as directed can be fatal," Carter said. "There are 1,000 deaths each day from cigarette smoking — that's equivalent to the crash of three 747s filled to capacity with all the passengers aboard dying."

He said alcohol consumption is also a contributing cause in cancer and in cirrhosis, a fatal liver disorder.

Barnett's Senior Partners Package Is So Attractive A Lot Of People 55 And Over Will Want To Move To Florida.

Let's say you're 55 or older and you live out of state. In a big white house in Washington, for example. Your economic advisors are probably telling you it's time to move to Florida. You see, Floridians 55 or over can now take advantage of Barnett's Senior Partners package. As a Senior Partner, you'll receive free checking, as well as personalized checks, traveler's checks, cashier's checks, financial newsletters, a financial planning guide, a $100,000 common carrier accidental death insurance policy and a lot more—all at no charge. All you need to qualify is one of Barnett's many investment plans and a Barnett checking account. To top it all off, the money in your investment plan will earn market rates every day it's on deposit. And because it's a Barnett account, it's insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC. So you don't take chances. Come see us this week. We'll show you exactly why Barnett is Florida's bank. But don't worry, we won't make a federal case out of it.

Barnett Is Florida's Bank.
All Barnett Banks are members of FDIC.

Isaac's Appraisal: Gators Are Great But So Are 'Noles

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Sanford's Isaac Williams plans on a career appraising real estate. This week, however, the 6-2, 260-pound Florida State defensive tackle has been evaluating the worth of the Florida Gators.

"They're the favorite, no doubt about it," said Williams, who was a first-team, all-state offensive tackle for coach Jerry Posey's Seminoles three years ago. "We're the underdogs. Everybody (the oddsmakers) thinks we're going to lose."

"But that thinking is all right with us. It will work to our advantage. We'll be just that much more psyched up."

Not that the former Junior Olympic Weightlifting Champion needs an incentive. "I have never been on a team that beat Florida," said the articulate junior. "We lost, 13-10, two years ago in a game we should have won. Last year, it wasn't close (53-14)."

Although Florida is favored, Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Sports Book has the spread at three points. Florida, 8-1-1, could easily be unbeaten. The Gators were beaten by a Bernie Kosar-engineered miracle in the season opener and tied Louisiana State.

Since then, though, the Pell-Hall Gators have been unbeatable. They blew out Tulane and Mississippi State. They shut out a Syracuse club which whipped Nebraska the week before.

Victories over Tennessee, Auburn, Georgia and Kentucky followed. The last three sewed up the Southeastern Conference when LSU was beaten, but we've all heard enough about the legal entanglements going on.

So, this Saturday at Doak Campbell Field in Tallahassee, the No-Bowl-Bound Gators will have their bowl game. They would like nothing better than to tack on their ninth straight win over the 7-2-1 Seminoles and proudly proclaim themselves as the best college team in the world.

Which, they very well may be. "Florida has had a great year," confirmed Williams, who will be returning to Central Florida Dec. 22 when the Seminoles take on Georgia in the Citrus Bowl. "And they have a great team. They deserve the SEC championship. A lot of those guys are my friends and I'm happy for them."

At least until Saturday at 3:50 p.m. The game will be carried on national television. Locally, Orlando's WFTV, Channel 9 will carry the broadcast. It will be the last time viewers can tune in the Gators for awhile since the three-year probation begins next year.

Which is another reason the Florida would like to make a lasting impression by using the Seminoles for Gator Bait. And, with Florida's explosive trio of running backs — Lorenzo Hampton, John L. Williams and Neal Anderson — that might just happen.

This trio was christened the "Rural Delivery" before the season opened but it never stuck. All are from rustic areas of Florida. Anderson is from Graceville, Hampton from Lake Wales and John L. from Palatka.

But the trio has more going for it than a nickname. Anderson, Hampton and John L. own both the career and single-season rushing records for a trio at Florida. Anderson, a junior, ranks fourth on the all-time list with 2,103 yards. With a decent day (84 yards) Saturday, he can

Jump past Jimmy DuBose and Larry Smith into second place behind Tony Green. Next year, Green (2,590) falls.

That is, if John L. doesn't run him down. Williams, also a junior, is ninth with 1,685 yards. Hampton, a senior who is also a fine receiver, is seventh with 1,889 yards.

All of which makes the nation's only unbeaten college coach — Galen Hall (6-0) — a very happy man. "Imagine having three running backs out of the same backfield finish among the top five career rushers at any school," said Hall. "I doubt if that has been done many times anywhere in college football." Hall should know something about running backs. While spending 18 years as an assistant at Oklahoma, Billy Sims, Kenny King, Greg Pruitt, Joe Washington and Elvis Peacock ran through the tires for Hall.

All of which is nice, admits Isaac, but he's faced good backfields before. "Just because they're in Florida's top 10 doesn't make them the greatest backfield we've ever faced," he said. "Louisiana State had a great one with Dalton Hilliard and Gene Lang."

Still, Williams appraises the trio as a good one. "I give them credit," he said. "All three run hard and have good moves."

But the appraisal Williams would most like to give is what an FSU victory would mean for the Seminoles. "That would be the ultimate. It would be like a whole new season," he said. "It's the most important game to us."

"And it would be a whole new recruiting season, too."

ISBAC IS ISBAC — It's amazing the things you learn in college. For most of his life, Isaac has been spelling Isaac like Isaac. "I went back and looked at my birth certificate," he said sheepishly. "I found out I was spelling it wrong all those years."

Raiders Take On Manatee

Seminole Community College didn't take its vans home from Fort Pierce — it came via emergency vehicle.

With two players already nursing ankle injuries, SCC cage coach Bill Payne saw two more of his 5-2 troops come down with knee injuries during Tuesday's setback to Indian River.

"We're the walking wounded," announced Payne Thursday morning. "But there will be no crying. That's why we have so much depth. We'll just have a different look."

It will be different. Shannon Greer, a freshman from Jamaica, N.Y., will team at guard with 6-4 Kenny Edwards. The front line of forwards Greg "Skywalker" Bates and Brent Baird along with 6-7 Slim Johnson remains the same.

Point guard Mike Tolbert and forward Artis Johnson had injured ankles prior to the Indian River contest. They were joined by all-star Lenny Grace and guard Mike Landell, who suffered the knee injuries.

"They're all nagging injuries," said Payne. "I'm sure all of them will be able to play, but they won't be 100 percent."

Which may hurt since tonight's 7:30 opponent at the SCC Health Center is Manatee Community College, probably the top JUCO on the west coast. There is no charge for admission. "Manatee has a very physical team," said Payne.

Manatee, which has won six straight games, relies on the outside scoring punch of 6-3 Charles Dunn. He is joined in the starting lineup by Hubert Thomas and Jeff Fullwood at guards along with 6-5 Robert Garst and 6-5 Larry Keys.

The Raiders are ranked fifth in the State Junior College Basketball Poll compiled by the Lake City Reporter. Manatee is ranked ninth. Pensacola is the top-ranked team.

Ricky Bell: 225 Pounds Of Kindness

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Ricky Bell, a former University of Southern California and NFL star running back who friends say was made of 225 pounds of kindness, has died of heart failure caused by a rare muscle disease.

Bell, 29, died at 11:06 a.m. Wednesday at Daniel Freeman Hospital, spokeswoman Christie Plank said.

The runnerup for the 1976 Heisman Trophy learned in November 1982 that he suffered from dermatomyositis, a rare inflammatory muscle disease that attacks the heart, muscles and skin, his physician, Dr. Allen Metzger, said.

The disease caused a major vessel to rupture, and subsequent bleeding into the left side of the chest caused the cardiac arrest, Plank said.

Bell's 10-year-old son, Ricky Jr., and his brother, Nathan, were with him when he died. Bell's wife did not reach the hospital before his death.

Bell's weight had dropped to 110 pounds recently.

While at USC from 1974-76, the graduate of Fremont High School in South Los Angeles carried on the tradition of outstanding Trojan tailbacks by rushing for 3,689 yards for a 5.20-yard average and 28 touchdowns.

The nation's leading rusher with 1,875 yards as a junior, Bell set a USC single season record later broken by Marcus Allen. He is currently third on the school single-season rushing list — behind Allen and Charles White and ahead of O.J. Simpson — and seventh on the NCAA list.

He was third in the Heisman Trophy voting in 1975 and as a senior in 1976, finished behind Tony Dorsett, although he was injured much of the year and gained only 1,433 yards.

He was an All-America both years.

Pro Football

John Robinson, now with the Los Angeles Rams, coached Bell at USC in 1976.

"He was a great player," remembered Robinson. "His senior year, the year I came back to USC, he was one of the really great players and he had two years when he was one of the best runners of all-time."

"He was a very strong human being. He exuded strength. Probably the thing that was most memorable to me was that somehow he was an aggressive football player and yet a very kind man. Everybody kind of loved him. He was just a marvelous leader to our first team. It's a terrible loss."

Bell was a first-round pick of Tampa Bay in 1977, where he played five years under his old USC coach, John McKay, and became the Bucs' all-time leading rusher with 3,057 yards.

"Ricky Bell was one of the finest football players I've ever had the pleasure of coaching," McKay said. "He was an even finer man. This is a great tragedy. Our hearts go out to his family."

Bell was a slashing runner who epitomized USC's "student body left-student body right" offense. He carried that into the pros, and for his entire career in Tampa Bay, the Bucs' offense was built around him.

He led the Bucs to their first NFC Central Division title in 1979, had 1,282 yards rushing and was the NFC's leading rusher.

Despite his good numbers, Bell never quite lived up to superstar expectations because of nagging injuries and often found himself criticized. He remained quiet, however, and never complained publicly.

PERKINS; BUC RUMOR HILARIOUS

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — With the traditional game against Auburn just a few days away, Alabama Coach Ray Perkins is trying to end talk that he'll be the new coach of the NFL's Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

"I think it's hilarious," Perkins said Wednesday. "Nope, there's no truth to it. I'll be here for a while."

Normally, the Crimson Tide's 4-6 record would end reports that the college coach may get a pro job, but because Perkins once coached the New York Giants to the playoffs, the rumor remains.

Perkins says he thinks the rumor was planted by someone out to sabotage Alabama's recruiting efforts. He said similar rumors that Bear Bryant was going to retire circulated years before the late coach gave up football.

Merthie Helps Eckerd Upset N.C. Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Sanford's Bernard Merthie scored 17 points and grabbed 15 rebounds as Eckerd College shocked North Carolina Charlotte, 64-61, in college basketball Wednesday night.

Merthie, who played at Seminole Community College the past two years, poured in 15 points during the final 20 minutes as Eckerd erased an eight-point lead to win its second game in three outings.

Mike Brummage dropped in four consecutive free throws in the final minute to nail down the victory. Brummage finished with 12 points and George Blake tossed in 16 for Division II Eckerd.

UNC-Charlotte, a Division I school, fell to 0-2.

In other cage action Wednesday, Daytona Beach Community College used 27 points by Charles Stevenson to top the Louisiana State junior varsity, 76-50. In Baton Rouge, La., Fred Miller had two points for the seventh-ranked Scots (7-1) and Willie Mitchell didn't score.

In women's play, Kristi Burns continued to hold the hot hand for coach Joe Sanchez' Central Florida Knights. Burns funneled in 28 points as UCF (3-0) toppled Mercer, 97-83, at Orlando.

Bernard Merthie dunks for SCC. Sanford cager helped Eckerd upset UNC-Charlotte Wednesday night.

Former SCC standout Val Roessler finished with 11 points as UCF connected on 27 of 33 free throws.

Rollins College picked up its first win of the season by knocking off Florida Memorial, 59-55, at Winter Park. Mary McDaniel led the way with 10 points. Former Lake Howell star Cindy Blocker chipped in eight while ex-Lake Brantley cager Rhonda Vasquez added seven.

Lady Greyhounds Build Around Forsyth

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

After losing such standouts as Pam Jackson and Kim Gorum to graduation, it might seem Lyman's Lady Greyhounds are looking at a rebuilding year in 1984-85.

But the Lady Greyhounds of coach Dick Copeland have three players returning who were starters by the end of last year and a number of young and promising performers so Lyman is looking to be competitive in the Five Star Conference this season.

"We're going to miss Pam and Kim, but we have some good young players returning," said Copeland.

The Lady Greyhounds open the season tonight at 8:15 as they host 2A power Eustis in the newly refurbished Lyman High gym.

Lyman actually lost four starters who were in the lineup the beginning of last season, but two of those, Kim Lemon and Schowonda Williams, didn't play the second half of the season. So, while Lyman was saying goodbye to its seniors at the end of the year, it was also giving important playing time to its younger players.

The 1984-85 boys prep basketball season tips off tonight with the Patriot Invitational Tipoff Tournament (junior varsity and varsity) at Lake Brantley High.

The tourney starts at 3:30 with the Lake Brantley junior varsity taking on Eatonton Wymore Tech's JV followed by Lake Howell's JV against St. Cloud's.

The main objective for Lyman in 1984-85 is finding someone to take up the scoring slack for guards Jackson (18.9 points per game) and Gorum (11.1 points per outing), who combined averaged 30 points per game.

Junior Kim Forsyth, a 5-9 forward, is coming off an outstanding season a year ago when she averaged 11 points and eight rebounds a game. Forsyth, also an excellent volleyball player, is the most experienced player on the team and will be counted on for more strong play inside.

Adding strength to the Greyhounds' inside game are junior forward Denise Stevens and senior center Kelly Carman.

Seminole takes on Titusville at 8:30.

In girls action Thursday night, Lake Howell, 1-2, hosts Orlando Luther at 7 while Lyman opens the season as it hosts Eustis at 8:15.

In other games Friday, Lyman's boys team hosts Oviedo at 8:15 while the girls team travels to Orlando Boone at 8. Lake Mary's Lady Rams, 1-1, host Oviedo's Lady Lions, 0-3, at 8 (JV 6:15).

In junior college action, Seminole Community College's Lady Raiders host the Raider Invitational Friday and Saturday night at the SCC Health Center. Coach Ileana Gallagher's women are off to a quick 2-0 start.

The Lady Raiders open the tournament against Brunswick, Ga. at 8 p.m. Friday. The first game pits Panola, Texas against South Georgia.

Robinson: Time For Hawks' Harvest

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Two years ago, Lake Howell coach Greg Robinson planted the seeds. He promoted Efrem Brooks, Jeron Evans and Crockett BoHannon to the varsity as sophomores.
Now, Robinson, the only basketball coach the school has ever had, figures it is time for the harvest.
"We've been building for this," Robinson said on the eve of tonight's Patriot Tip-Off Tournament opener against St. Cloud. "We took our lumps the first year but it's getting better." Lake Howell's harvest, however, may not come in December but in February. Injuries to his bumper crop may put a yearlong harvest on hold, but Robinson said he expects the Silver Hawks to be pretty tough around district time.

Evans, a tough 6-1 senior performer, suffered a broken wrist in the second to last football game and he won't be ready until Christmas. BoHannon, a physical 6-3 senior, has been slowed by what was first thought to be a broken ankle. It was not fractured, though, and he's been progressing well, said Robinson.

Brooks, probably the best player in Seminole County, hurt both his hands during the Winter Park game trying to corral all-stater Elroy Harris. He won't start tonight but will be available.
Robinson said the cat-quick senior has all the tools to lead Lake Howell to a super year.

"Efrem is a great passer and driver," said Robinson. "And this year, he's added something new — he can dunk."
Despite the injuries to the big three, Robinson said he will still field a strong starting lineup tonight against St. Cloud. Scott Anderson, a court-smart 6-1 senior, will open at guard along with hustling 5-8 junior John Lowe.
At forward will be 6-1 leaper Hayward Beasley and 6-0 senior Keith Woodridge.
Kevin Lienard, a 6-3½ junior, will start at center.

"Woodridge is our most improved player. He really worked hard on his shot and he's always been a good rebounder."
Backing up will be 6-2 sophomore Terry Gammons, 5-10 sophomore Chris Redding, 6-0 senior John Ziegler, 6-0 junior Mark Schnitker and 6-1 senior Hossein Sayyedd. Sayyedd is a transfer from Iran.
"Experience and attitude will be our strengths," said Robinson about the 1984-85 outlook. "This team wants to win badly. Sometimes, too badly and they get too tuned up."

Greg Robinson enters his 10th season as basketball coach for the Lake Howell Silver Hawks tonight.

Duke Fans Chant 'Georgetown' After Rout Of William & Mary

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — It is the year of great expectations at Duke.
Late in Wednesday night's game at Durham, N.C., in which the No. 6 Blue Devils routed William & Mary 92-70, the chant came from the crowd: "We want Georgetown."
Such is Duke's strength this season that there actually is talk along those lines. But with victories thus far over St. Louis and William & Mary — neither exactly a titan in college basketball — Coach Mike Krzyzewski dismisses such notions. Forget Georgetown and the NCAA title. Bring him his next opponent.
"I want St. Joseph's," he said.
Mark Alarie, a 6-foot-8 forward, was the heavy hitter against William & Mary with 25 points while Johnny Dawkins directed the fastbreak and finished with 17.
William & Mary was down 48-30 at the half and Duke ran the margin to 30 in the second half with the bench getting some work.
Elsewhere, No. 5 Illinois dropped Chicago State 81-63 and No. 12 Louisiana State downed Loyola (Ill.) 102-96.

Ueberroth To Confront Owners

NEW YORK (UPI) — Ever want to give your boss a good piece of your mind?
That's what Peter Ueberroth plans to do next week at the winter baseball meetings. The new commissioner appears ready to tell the men who picked him to get their collective act together.
"There are a lot of areas where they have to pull together," Ueberroth said Wednesday at a briefing called in preparation for the annual convention. It begins Monday in Houston.
Ueberroth has been on the job for only 58 days and he's already noticed a couple of things. One, professional baseball moves very slowly. Two, it could do a lot more than it has done to help itself.
"One of baseball's problems is ownership's relationship with themselves, and their inability to really be partners," said Ueberroth. "There will be times when you don't agree, but you've got to get together and say, 'this is what we're going to do.'"
Ueberroth cited TV "superstations" and the financial conditions of clubs as the other major problems facing baseball. He said as many as seven clubs could be for sale now.

Wilander Cuts Mustard In Open

MELBOURNE, Australia (UPI) — Mats Wilander was just able to cut the mustard while Chris Evert Lloyd easily advanced to the third round with victories today in the $1.5 million Australian Open.
Wilander, the defending men's champion, survived a first-set loss to qualifier David Mustard of New Zealand before battling to a 1-6, 6-3, 7-5, 6-3 victory.
Evert Lloyd defeated East German Miriam Schropp 6-1, 6-0.
Mustard, ranked No. 174 in the world, pressured the No. 4-ranked Swede at the net throughout the first set, forcing Wilander to miss a string of passing opportunities.
In the second set Wilander found his rhythm, only to find himself in trouble in the third set when Mustard led 5-2 and again in the fourth set when Mustard led 3-0. But the Swede reeled off six straight games to win the set.
"I just had an off-day," Wilander said. "I played very badly in the first set but as long as I win, it doesn't matter how I do it."
Evert Lloyd, who last won this title two years ago, had another breeze, winning in just 44 minutes. She can expect a tougher match in the next round when she faces rising French teenager Pascale Paradis. Paradis upset Britain's Jo Durie, seeded 13th, 5-7, 6-3, 6-4.

Hawks 'Depress' Nelson, Bucks

United Press International
Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson blamed the Bucks' 95-83 loss to the Atlanta Hawks Wednesday night on the press.
No, not the NBA media, but the second-half press that the Hawks used to limit Milwaukee's point total.
The game, which drew only 2,172 at the University of New Orleans, is one of 12 home games that Atlanta is playing in New Orleans this season.
"The press bothered us in the third quarter," said Nelson. "We handled it fairly well until then, but in the third quarter it took us out of rhythm."
Atlanta led at the half 42-41, but came out in the third period to outscore Milwaukee 11-1 and take control of the game.
The Bucks never got closer than five points after that and trailed several times by 20.
Elsewhere, Philadelphia bombed Indiana 122-101, New Jersey defeated New York 111-98, Detroit topped Portland 120-113, Boston beat Houston 110-100, the Los Angeles Lakers defeated Utah 114-109, and the Los Angeles Clippers beat Seattle 106-90.

Larry Wilcox Race Will Draw Crowd

This weekend, the Larry Wilcox Race will be held at Barnett Park in Pine Hills. The race is worth national points, and a large turnout is expected.
"We are going to start the races on Saturday, and finish the races on Sunday," said Track Director, Art Beeler. "This way, the racers won't have to finish up late Saturday night."
Besides the more experienced racers, this event hopes to attract a lot of beginners and novices, and get them really involved in BMX. The track has even gone so far as to provide helmets for beginners the day of racing. Mr. Beeler feels the novice and beginner classes are usually ignored at a large race, but not this time. "There are going to be super prizes for beginners and novices, not just for the experts," said Beeler.
"There are also going to be drawings for cases of soft drinks, bicycles, equipment and even for a Kawasaki 3-wheeler."
Here's how the race schedule will go this weekend:
On Saturday and Sunday, the track will open at 8:30 a.m. and practice will run from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. Staging of the motos will begin at 11:00 a.m. The track hopes to run ¾ of the race on Saturday and finish the other ¼ on Sunday and give out trophies and prizes.

Riders, there will be no registration the day of race.
Thursday and Friday night, there will be registration at the Hilton Inn on Colonial Drive, which is the host hotel.
Also happening on Thursday and Friday nights is a BMX Clinic. Taught by Bobby Encinas, it will help riders race better, take jumps easier, and give other important tips.
Of course, Larry Wilcox, of Chips fame, will be flying over from England to watch the races.
Good Luck Riders.
Here's how the races went last weekend at Barnett Park.
Jay Staley cruised into first place in the 7 expert class, and a second in the 8-9 open.
Eight expert Dusty Cummins placed third in his class.

Opposition Reassesses Plans After Military Crushes Protest

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Opposition leaders reassessed their strategy today after Gen. Augusto Pinochet's military regime used a massive display of force to crush two days of demonstrations demanding Chile's return to democracy.

Armored vehicles charged into a slum area, riot squads dispersed hundreds of demonstrators and police arrested 200 students and two Catholic priests Wednesday on the second day of protests called by opposition coalitions.

The government deployed troops in helicopters and armored vehicles in the capital against the first organized protests since Pinochet imposed a state of siege Nov. 6 to quell rising dissent against his 11-year-old military regime.

Unlike a similar anti-government protest on Oct. 20 in which bus services were crippled and most shops were closed, the military Wednesday forced most shops, businesses and schools to be kept open in the capital.

Murdered Diplomat Flown Home

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — The body of assassinated British diplomat Percy Norris was flown back to England today aboard a commercial jetliner for funeral ceremonies in London, officials said.

Norris, who had been in India only seven weeks, was assassinated near his office in Bombay Tuesday.

Bombay police stepped up their search for two "light-complexioned foreigners" who witnesses said killed Norris, the Deputy High Commissioner in Bombay.

The Revolutionary Organization of Socialist Moslems claimed responsibility for the murder, saying it executed Norris because of his ties with the CIA and because Britain held unnamed "fighters" in jail.

London newspaper reports linked the organization to a campaign against the detention of 19 Middle East terrorists held in Britain.

Leading Indicators Drop Again

Economic Slowdown Worsening

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The index of leading indicators fell a sizable 0.7 percent in October, the third decline in five months and another warning sign of a slumping economy, the Commerce Department said today.

The new number, together with some revisions in the last five months, brought to 2.8 percent the decline in the index since May and suggested the economic slowdown in the third quarter is worsening in the fourth quarter.

The last three recessions were all preceded by less deterioration in the index.

But interest rate declines of the past few weeks may help restart economic growth, administration analysts said.

Seven of the 10 available indicators were negative, led by an increase in new claims for unemployment compensation.

The index was up 0.6 percent in September and up a scant 0.1 percent in August, both revised figures. But the index dropped 1.8 percent in July and 1 percent in June, anticipating the much slower growth rate of the gross national product in the third quarter.

The GNP expanded at a 1.9 percent annual rate after steaming ahead at a much faster 7.1 percent inflation-adjusted rate in the second quarter.

Besides worsening unemployment compensation claims, the negative indicators included a slowdown in vendor deliveries — a sign of slackened demand — and fewer orders for factory equipment.

The length of the average work week got shorter, an average of 500 common stock prices declined from the month before, building permits slipped lower and orders for consumer goods weakened.

Left on the positive side were indicators showing raw materials prices going up, a hint that demand was strengthening at the beginning of the supply pipeline, and an expansion in the money supply for October.

The formation of new businesses, which helps employment, also picked up. There have been a number of other warning signs in the monthly economic statistics, notably a 9.8 percent drop in housing starts for October reported last week.

The months preceding the last recession, in 1981-1982, saw the composite index of leading indicators fall 2.1 percent.

Weinberger Resisting Military Budget Cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's top budget advisers presented him with proposed budget cuts, but Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger angrily resisted recommendations that growth in Pentagon spending be reduced.

Reagan, faced with tough decisions next year on reforming the tax system and reducing the federal deficit, called a meeting today with the new GOP congressional leadership to outline the problems and possible solutions.

The president also called a second meeting today with his budget-working group to discuss proposed cuts in domestic and military programs.

Reagan had planned to decide what cuts to propose to Congress after the first meeting Wednesday but put the decisions off.

The meeting apparently was dominated by a "very angry" Weinberger who was bucking attempts to slow the growth of the Pentagon's budget by as much as $10 billion next year and $30 billion over the next three years, an official said.

But other members of the fiscal team persisted in arguing in favor of the cuts, the source said.

In the Seminole County School system for the past 33 years, on the city's planning and zoning commission for the past 14 years. "I would appreciate all of you turning out election day," he said.

Robert Thomas, another District 2 candidate, said he was born in Sanford 50 years ago and his dream is a "new direction for all the people of Sanford. Growth is upon us and we must use it and carefully control it, concentrating on making Sanford a safer, cleaner and more prosperous community."

Also running for the District 2 seat, Larry Blair, said he is concerned with the needs of the citizens in District 2, but also the needs of the city as a whole. He said he is also concerned about environmental problems such as preserving water recharge areas.

During the question and answer sessions, with some questions posed by the League of Women Voters and some written questions from the audience directed to candidates by the League, the candidates answered as follows:

- Yancey, on why he believes he is more qualified than his opponents: "For the past four years I've been a city commissioner. I'm retired, owe no allegiance to anyone but Sanford and I am devoted to the job. I can give full time.

- Speer to the same question: "I have 20 years background working with the community as assistant public defender, assistant state attorney, giving free legal advice to indigents ... more than just being civic minded. I do my homework, am independent, am not afraid to speak out on issues and stand behind my word.

- Mrs. Smith: "I have the best combination of qualifications — proven leadership, a broad education and the ability to manage."

Asked whether she thought her past employment with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department would be of help to her in understanding city police department problems, she said, "I know what it's like to be out in the field without a two-way radio."

- Speer, asked what quality is necessary for a good public official, said he comes from a family where in his youth the happenings in government were the topic of active dinner conversations and slammed the city commission "for trying to give away the Mayfair Country Club."

- Yancey, asked what steps the city can take to improve housing for low income families, cited what Sanford is already doing. "There are 488 units of public housing in the county," he said, adding 30 exist in the Oviedo area and the rest in Sanford — in the western, eastern and southern sections of the city.

- Mrs. Smith, asked her position on the state pushing "unreasonable requirements on Sanford's sewer system," said, "I will oppose any state requirement that is unreasonable. I'm ready to go to court if the requirements are unreasonable and if Sanford is not polluting the lake (Lake Monroe)."

After Yancey, in answer to a question, said he would not only devote full time to being mayor, but would also have an office at city hall, Mrs. Smith was asked what the city charter says the mayor's function would be. She replied that the charter calls for the city manager to manage day to day affairs of the city and calls for the mayor to act as a sort of chairman of the board of directors (the commissioners) and to conduct the meetings plus represent the city at ceremonial functions. "The mayor is to create and project the image we want the city to have."

- Asked about an ordinance to protect the city's trees, Mrs. Smith said she supports such an ordinance. Yancey said that earlier this year the commission attempted to adopt an arbor ordinance, but there was disagreement among groups about the kind of law the city should have.

Yancey said, "I am challenging citizens to come forth with an arbor ordinance." Yancey said, adding it should be a proposal that all groups will be satisfied with.

- Mercer, asked how he would rationalize voting contrary to the desires of his district when something appears good for the entire city, said he hopes there is never a time when actions he takes will not be in the best interest of all the city.

- McClanahan, asked about drainage problems and whether the apartment development begun on the lakefront would be in danger of flooding if a hurricane like 1961's Donna strikes again, said drainage problems have always been with Sanford and probably always will be, especially in areas near Lake Monroe and as far as the apartment development is concerned it is not the city government's responsibility to ensure that every investor and builder makes a wise choice.

- Blair, asked if he feels the civic center should be improved and updated, said since the candidates were having difficulty hearing questions, it is obvious some improvements are needed.

- Thomas, asked what kind of industry Sanford should recruit, said high technology industry that provides jobs is needed.

- Franklin, when asked about the city's problems with the state Department of Environmental Regulation over the city sewer system, said he realizes there are problems, but he doesn't know enough about them to comment.

A charge of $25 will be levied for septic tank and well approvals, restaurant plan review and approval, food processing plan review and approval, food outlet plan review and approval. Fees for water sample bags are 25 cents each.

In addition, another set of fees, regulated by the Florida Administrative Code, is being increased, without any need for county approval.

These include percolation tests, $100, formerly no fee was charged; variance application for a multi-family or commercial building site, $100 and variance application for a single family residence building site, $80. In both of the latter, there was no charge in the past.

He emphasized that the United States and Lake Mary is run by a government of laws, not men. Therefore, facts must prevail when it comes to a land use decision, not personal preferences and prejudices.

"If you are going to deny an owner the use of his land ... you better be right; you better have the facts," he said, referring to the P & Z Board.

Board members, in their role as "quasi judges," must rule according to city ordinances, applying them with fairness and equity, Petree said. He cautioned members to rely on expert testimony when deciding on a site plan, not the influence of mobs who pack City Hall to fight or support it.

The meeting was an effort by Mayor Dick Peas to familiarize commissioners and the P & Z board members with each other's work so that site plan and zoning hearings can be conducted with more efficiency.

P & Z board member Jim Talmadge said lack of time and duplication of effort was the main problem that needs to be worked out with the commission.

A subdivision plan, for example, must currently go through a three-month process before it can be approved. During this time the site is inspected by numerous city officials and the plans go back and forth between the commission and the board.

Revival

Nancy Boyer Is Bringing Back Art Of Storytelling

The art of storytelling has been around since the beginning of man, but somehow it has gotten lost in a society entrenched in video, T.V. and the movies, according to Nancy West Boyer.

For years, storytelling was the only form of entertainment as families gathered around a toasty fire to spin a tale or relive some of the yesterdays gone by. Generations passed down these stories peculiar to a particular area or people. Where did they go? Nancy Boyer believes that they never left us. They were tucked away on a library shelf, or quietly hidden in the hearts and minds of people who have taken a back seat to modern forms of entertainment.

"Perhaps we are coming full circle," Mrs. Boyer says. "The people to whom I tell stories, young and older, seem to crave for more. It can be seen in their faces and eyes."

A teacher at Lake Mary Elementary School, Mrs. Boyer became interested in being a story teller when Jennifer Bausman presented a workshop for teachers in the value of storytelling. Since that time, she has spent time going from kindergarten to fifth grade, telling the loved Uncle Remus tales, folk tales of Florida, and fables of different countries. She also presented her art of storytelling at the November PTA meeting at Lake Mary.

"People see themselves in these stories — either as the victim or the hero. Human feelings of sadness, joy, empathy all come to the surface as one becomes involved in the story setting," Nancy continues. She also recommends a book written by Bruno Bettelheim entitled, The Uses of Enchantment, The Meaning and Importance of Fairy Tales. Mr. Bettelheim describes in his book the use of storytelling to help abused children, or those who have had traumatic experiences in their lives.

Nancy belongs to the National Association for the Preservation and Perpetuation of Storytelling. This organization was formed in 1973 by a group of storytellers in Jonesboro, Tenn. who wanted to save the age-old art of storytelling. The first weekend in October, storytellers from across the nation gather for the National Storytelling Festival. Considering the thousands who attended this year, it is obvious that there is a national revival in storytelling in America today.

Even though Mrs. Boyer is busy as a full time teacher at Lake Mary Elementary and an adjunct professor in computers at Seminole Community College, she hopes to teach a class in the art of storytelling as a part of the Leisure Time Program at Seminole Community College if interest is shown in this area.

"This would be a wonderful opportunity for teachers in the school system as well as Sunday School teachers to refine and learn the art of telling a better story. I hope this will materialize," Mrs. Boyer says.

Future plans also include engagements with senior citizens groups as well as other organizations that would enjoy bringing back the storyteller. This will include stories of humor, folktales, religious or holiday themes. For further information call 305-322-7117.

Nancy Boyer is the wife of the Rev. William J. Boyer and the mother of four teenagers.

Hypoglycemia, Diabetes Diets Are Very Similar

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — Four months ago I had a five-hour glucose tolerance test for hypoglycemia. I got very sick during these tests. I had the same symptoms while having the test that sent me to the doctor to start with.

Is this something I will always have? Also, the doctor didn't give me a special diet to follow. I've heard I'm supposed to eat high-protein, low-carbohydrate foods. Could you send me a diet or suggest foods I can have?

DEAR READER — Your letter doesn't say whether you actually were diagnosed as having hypoglycemia or not. The important point is what your blood glucose level was at the time you had the symptoms during your test. You should certainly clarify with your doctor what the diagnosis really is.

The diet for hypoglycemia is very similar to the diet for diabetes. In both instances, one wants to avoid causing a sharp rise in the blood glucose level. In the diabetic, that is because there is not enough insulin to handle it. In the patient with reactive hypoglycemia, it is because the peak glucose level will trigger the release of excess insulin, causing reactive hypoglycemia.

That means you should eat proteins and fats, such as those found in meat. However, it does not mean that you can't eat carbohydrates. You can still eat complex carbohydrates, which are found in vegetables, cereals and fruit. Studies have shown that eating a raw apple will not increase your blood glucose level. Why? Because of the bulk of the raw apple. It is digested slowly, preventing a sharp rise in blood glucose.

You particularly need to avoid sweet liquids, since these leave the stomach rapidly, which results in rapid absorption and a sharp rise in blood glucose. You should also avoid coffee, tea, colas, alcohol and cigarettes.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Many people have recurring cold sores which seem to break out during stress. Is the cold-sore herpes virus related to the herpes virus that causes genital outbreaks?

DEAR READER — That is an enlightened question. There is a difference in herpes simplex I, which causes oral herpes or cold sores, and herpes simplex II, now called genital herpes. At one time it was said that herpes simplex I was the above-the-belt virus and herpes virus II below the belt. Antibodies to oral herpes develop in early childhood and antibodies to genital herpes develop after puberty. However, you can get oral herpes in the genital area, and vice versa.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
If winning one out of two finesse will bring in a slam contract, then it's worth bidding. It's even better if you can improve those chances.

When South heard his partner bid four clubs, that was enough for him to try a slam, despite the lead-directing double from East. Because of that double, declarer did not even consider taking the club finesse on the opening lead. Instead, he rose with the club ace, played A-K of spades and led a heart to the king. Next he trumped a low spade in his hand, holding the spade queen. South then returned to dummy to discard his losing club on the established spade jack. If the diamond finesse had worked, there would have been an overtrick.

Even without the double of four clubs, declarer should refuse the club finesse. There is always the chance that the queen of spades may fall on the third round. Even if it does not, declarer will be able to ruff out the spades before exiting with a club. Then if West has the club king, he will be forced to lead diamonds into declarer's A-Q. If East has the club king, declarer has lost nothing, since he will still be able to fall back on the diamond finesse.

Preacher Fakes Purity With All Except His Wife

DEAR ABBY: I was raised in a good Christian home. There was no drinking, no smoking, no cursing and no dirty talk. I was brought up to avoid people with bad habits, but the man I married had me fooled with his sweet talk and the God-fearing act he put on.

Dear Abby

A year after we were wed, I learned that he was being unfaithful to me. I was already pregnant, so there was no leaving him. I forgave him and had four more children, and now, after 52 years of marriage, he is no better, he's worse. He drank a good bit, which put a stone wall so thick between us that I couldn't get over or through it. His foul mouth, vile temper and cheating ways were shown only in private.

He has never shown me one bit of tenderness or consideration. I am just a convenience for him, but I took a vow to stay with him till death do us part, and with God's help, I will.

I am starved for love, but I just get on my knees and ask the Lord to keep me strong enough to keep from killing him.

Abby, this man preaches the gospel of Christ! He sins all week and preaches on the Sabbath. He is well-respected in the community and is good at fooling people because he preaches the word of the Lord. How do I handle this mess? I'm 69 and he's 74.

ON MY KNEES IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ON: You seem able to handle "this mess" very well. If prayer and your faith in the Lord keep you strong, keep right on praying. Come Judgement Day, that gospel-preaching hypocrite will have to face his Creator and account for his actions.

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is an alcoholic, but he says he can't be because he doesn't drink "hard liquor" — only beer. Abby, that man puts away from five to 10 cans of beer at one sitting. He's been drinking beer at that rate for the last 20 years, and I can see him changing before my eyes.

Please ask your experts if a person who drinks only beer can be an alcoholic. And put your answer in the paper because I'm sure there are a lot of people who think drinking beer is harmless.

MRS. L. IN OLD BRIDGE, N.J.

DEAR MRS. L.: The alcoholic content of one 12-ounce can of beer (regular, not "light") is equal to the alcoholic content of one "shot" (1½ ounces) of 80-proof whiskey — or 5 ounces of table wine.

So one who drinks a six-pack of beer has consumed as much as he would have had he drunk six drinks of bourbon or vodka — or six cocktails, meaning martinis, old-fashioneds, margaritas or whatever.

And yes, a person who drinks only beer can be an alcoholic as surely as the person who drinks only whiskey.

DEAR ABBY: "Indiana Mason" asked you to reprint the letter about the wife who kept nagging her husband to tell her all the secrets of the Masonic lodge of which he was a new member.

You told him you couldn't accommodate him unless he could pinpoint the year and month that letter appeared in your column.

Well, I am the editor of the Aaron Lodge No. 49, Free and Accepted Masons, in Tucson, Ariz., and I would like permission to run that letter in our newsletter. And I can pinpoint the date it ran: It was Nov. 17, 1968. Gotcha!

How about it, Abby?

MORRIS SEGAL, TUCSON, ARIZ.

DEAR MORRIS: You win. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: My husband recently joined the Masonic lodge. Naturally I was very proud of him, but now it has presented a problem to us.

He tells me that this is a "secret organization" and he has given his word that he will tell no one about the secrets of the lodge.

Abby, in all the 18 years we have been married, we have not kept any secrets from each other. I have cried, begged, threatened and tried everything I could think of to make him tell me these "secrets" of his lodge, but he refuses.

How can an organization that is supposed to be dedicated to such high ideals create a barrier between a man and his wife? I'd appreciate your views.

WIFE OF A MASON

DEAR WIFE: Consider yourself fortunate to be married to a man whose word means something. And quit pestering him to reveal the lodge secrets or you'll lose your Mason by degrees.

BSP Chapter Explores Area Cultural Offerings

In keeping with the cultural and social aspects of Beta Sigma Phi, members of the Preceptor Delta Delta chapter are taking advantage of local cultural offerings and getting together for socializing with husbands and members.

Shortly after the season opened members and husbands met at the home of Susan and Rex Byrd for a cookout. Before meeting at the home of Kitty Corley for the regular meeting in October, members visited the Geneva Historical Museum.

The following members attended Seminole Community College's presentation of "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man-in-the-Moon Marigold," for an enjoyable and entertaining evening: Wanda Hubbard, Kitty Corley, Leslie Pauline, Evc Rogero, Susan Byrd, Marion Farella, Viola Frank, Helen Hamner, Betty Jack, Ellen Keefe and Phyllis Senkarik.

Viola and Dickie Frank hosted the Halloween party where members feasted on a three-foot long hero sandwich, salads, dessert, and had an exercise in memory and knowledge playing Trivial Pursuit.

For 47 years the National Organization has sponsored Miss Liberty's birthday with gifts.

Covering The White House Can Be A Bore: CBS' Stahl

NEW YORK (UPI) — Reporters all over the country daydream about being a White House correspondent, but Lesley Stahl warns the job can be dull.

Stahl has been covering the White House for longer than Ronald Reagan has been in it — she began the assignment for CBS News in January, 1979.

"Much of the time covering the president of the United States is boring," she said at a lunch held by the New York chapter of Women in Communications.

"Lack of access has become a way of life," she said.

She said White House correspondents spend most of their time waiting and praying that one of those top government officials who doesn't want to be quoted will return their telephone calls and tell them what's going on.

"It's a glorified stakeout," she said, "like Cagney & Lacey" waiting in their patrol car for a glimpse of a suspect."

Stahl, who moderates "Face the Nation" and is being talked about as Morton Dean's successor anchoring the Sunday edition of "CBS Evening News," spoke with clarity and self-assurance election night during those sections of CBS election coverage when she shared the screen with Dan Rather. It wasn't always that way.

In her early Washington days for CBS she was early morning stakeout reporter covering various Nixon aides during the Senate Watergate hearings.

Her big break came when she was offered a chance to participate in nighttime roundtables discussing the day's Watergate proceedings, joining Dan Rather and Daniel Schorr, who has since joined Ted Turner's Cable News Network.

The format called for New York based moderator John Hart to ask a question. Then the three Washington correspondents would kick around the answer. That was the setup on paper, but it didn't work out that way because Rather and Schorr never seemed to share the same views.

"The moderator would ask one question and the two Dans would start arguing," Stahl told a lunch meeting of the New York chapter of Women in Communications. She sat there, broadcast after broadcast, unable to break into their dialogue.

The CBS brass said, "Well, you ought to let her say something." They suggested it, they urged it, then they ordered it.

On the following roundtable, Stahl said, Hart's first question unfortunately concerned Washington gossip — something she was in no position to report. The two Dans, who had been told to let Stahl talk, sat there staring at her. She said she would pass on the question. They sat and stared some more.

She said Schorr, unable to tolerate empty air time, finally said, "Well, John, if it's gossip you want, that's why we have a woman here."

'Spencer,' NBC's Newest Sitcom, Has A Good Cast, But Bad Script

By Joan Hanner UPI TV Reporter

NEW YORK (UPI) — The best thing about NBC's new sitcom, "Spencer," is its cast.

The worst thing is the script, which is frequently silly, sometimes funny, occasionally thoughtful and always predictable.

"Spencer," the latest evidence that teenagers are taking over the world — at least on TV sitcoms — airs Saturday at 9:30 p.m.

In the title role of Spencer, Chad Lowe is 18, blond, lovable and innocent — a condition he would like to correct. His face has less fuzz than a peach, his normal expression is bland and guileless and he gets into trouble because he just can't go along to get along.

When his teacher tells the class that John Glenn looked out of one window of his Mercury spacecraft and saw God, Spencer has a question: "What did he see out the other one?"

Spencer is sent to see his guidance counselor, played by Richard Sanders, who was so funny as Les Nessman on "WKRP in Cincinnati." But Sanders' character is overdrawn and trite — he's too frantic as the uptight fellow who tells Spencer "we don't say br...asta" in his office. Spencer wants to know if we think about them.

The delight of the show is Mimi Kennedy as Spencer's off-beat mother.

"A girl would give her life to go out with you," she tells Spencer in her slightly raspy voice. "And if not, she's slime."

When Spencer gets into trouble for freeing 50 white mice threatened with extinction in the biology lab, she pleads, "Just give him another chance. He'll kill as many mice as you like."

The plot of the initial show has been around so long that it is not only stale but moldy. Spencer has no date for the school dance. He can't summon the nerve to ask a gorgeous blond so instead he asks ugly duckling Maureen.

The folks responsible for "Hot Pursuit" are off in hot pursuit of an audience. "Hot Pursuit" has a plotline that reads like a reworked "Fugitive," in which Kate Wyler is on the run after being unfairly convicted of murder. She and her husband are searching for the real killer, much to the dismay of the dead man's wife, Dina Merrill, who masterminded his murder.

NBC put the show on hiatus after it got dismal ratings in its initial time period, Saturdays, 10-11 p.m.

The show will get a last chance Fridays, Dec. 14, 21 and 28 at 10 p.m. Stars Kerrie Keane and Eric Pierpoint take off on a 10-city tour Dec. 5 in what the show's producers call "Operation Phoenix." In an effort to attract viewers.

The show also is being talked up in schools where the students are told about the real life relationships between the main character and her husband.

'Fatal Vision' Slays Opposition

NEW YORK (UPI) — The second half of "Fatal Vision" proved death to its competition, leading the Nielsen ratings list last week and giving NBC the lead for the week among the networks.

CBS placed third for the week, the first time since 1980 that has happened during the regular season.

With the November sweeps almost over, CBS leads in both the Arbitron and Nielsen ratings, with NBC in second place and ABC third.

The A.C. Nielsen prime time ratings for the week ending Nov. 25 gave NBC a 18.5 rating and a 27 percent share of the audience, ABC a 15.9 rating with a 26 share and CBS a 15.3 rating with a 25 share.

On the season to date, CBS still leads with a 16.8 rating and a 27 share, while NBC has a 16.6 rating and a 27 share and ABC a 15.2 rating and a 24 share.

In the November "sweeps," one of several during the year in which Nielsen and Arbitron survey viewing in individual local markets throughout the country, Arbitron gives CBS a 18.7 rating and a 27 share, NBC a 15.7 rating and a 25 share, and ABC a 15.3 rating and a 24 share. Arbitron measurements began on Oct. 31 and end Nov. 27.

The top 10 prime time shows for the week ending Nov. 25, according to the A.C. Nielsen Co., were:

1. NBC Monday Night Movie, Fatal Vision, Part 2
2. ABC Sunday Night Movie, The Ewok Adventure
3. Dynasty (ABC)
4. 60 Minutes (CBS)
5. Dallas (CBS)
6. Hotel (ABC)
7. The A Team (NBC)
8. (tie) TV Bloopers and Practical Jokes (NBC)
9. Murder, She Wrote (CBS)
10. Simon & Simon (CBS)
