Casselberry Senior Wins Essay Contest

Winners in the "Ability Center" essay contest held in this area for the first time this year were selected this week for Seminole County. The theme of the essays was "Awakening of the New Minority" referring to handicapped people.

First place was won by an essay submitted by Lisa Glabcock, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Glabcock of 223 Shady Hollow, Casselberry. Lisa is a senior at Bishop Moore High School in Orlando, where she is vice president of the band and plays several instruments.

Second place went to the essay written by Michael Ploch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ploch of Altamonte Springs. A Lyman High School senior, Michael received several awards because of illness, but was able to get credit in both social studies and journalism classes for writing the essay.

Third place went to Stacy Costler of 950 State Place, Apopka, a Lake Brantley High School senior.

Honorable mention went to Julie Ann Walker of 285 S. Wynora Road, Altamonte Springs, a Lake Brantley senior and Miriam Salinas of 105 Brown Drive, Sanford, a senior at Seminole High School.

Awards will be presented sometime in February. Local sponsors of the contest are the Sanford and South Seminole Field Clubs, the Seminole County Council of Parents-Teacher Association and OUTLOOK Central Florida. Winning essays will be sent to Tallahassee where they will be competing on a state level in a contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee on Employment of Handicapped Persons. The contest has been sponsored nationally for 20 years by the President's Committee on Employment of Handicapped Persons and $2,000 in cash prizes are offered for national winners.

Here are the first and second place winning entries.

By LISA GLABCOCK

In our complex world, consisting of hundreds of religions, classes and ideologies, people are viewed as belonging to numerous collective groups, comprising many majorities and minorities. An ever growing number of people, diverse in age, sex and religion are beginning to awaken to the fact that each man is alone unto himself, a minority in a majority.

LISA GLABCOCK

'Awakening Of The New Minority'

Every man becomes a minority, a glorious separate entity, at the moment of conception.

The awakened man of the world today is a very simple philosophy. Every man, woman and child has the right to worth, dignity, and a right to express his worth.

The realization of worth must begin with self, with each man understanding himself, his own faults and talents, as well as certain irremovable limitations. "Don't put your eye right toward" is the motto of the awakened man. He does not compare himself to others, but rather to his own potential.

The individual must then set a goal based upon his dreams and desires. Why? Because he believes that life must have direction. Without a course to follow, however loosely construed, man soon becomes dissatisfied with life and forgets what good things truly surround them.

William Butler Yeats aptly expresses the need for both concrete action and intangible dreams in our lives: "A wild and foolish laborer is a king to do and do and do and never dream."

A warning comes from these dreamers, dew-dabbled, the silly and rosy: "The wanderer loses the balance between work and play. In this case goals and dreams, or mental and physical, are essential to his life. With the acceptance of his own worth the awakened man quickly concludes that all men have an undeniable right to personal worth and dignity. Allowing himself to be oppressed his dignity and worth involves the use of compassion, understanding, patience and the unselfish desire of one endeavoring to help another reach the fruition of his goals, while still striving to attain his own.

The presence of the awakened minority in our community is evidenced by the many people who give their resources and participate in such-kind-of-activities as our schools, churches, governments and other vital associations. These people realize that the key to awakening man to himself is education. "Where there is education there is no distinction of class." (Confucius) Our children need to have the concepts of personal worth instilled in their minds, in the hopes that tomorrow's world will be more peaceful, loving and fair. Today's educators, most of them members of the awakened minority, are trying to teach children that each man has worth and dignity, but they cannot do it alone. It is necessary for parents and other responsible adults to be exemplary in their attitudes towards others to help complete the job of education of our young. Remember, that example, not rhetoric, is the most effective teacher.

MICHAEL PLOCH

Have you heard a whisper? A silent cry for help? The handicapped are making this cry! The disabled have long stood as an unnoticed minority and are now emerging into the open. Neither sympathy nor sorrow is wanted. Few people tend to notice the handicapped's true worth in the world without laughing, putting them down, or just turning away. People are the largest barriers to the handicapped, but they are not the only barriers.

The six inch high curb seems as a mountain to a person in a wheelchair and yet our society has only begun to excavate these mountains.

The ecological bond, Youth Conservation Corps, worked with nature to create parks, recreation areas, and a science center. These parks were built efficiently to accommodate both handicapped and non-handicapped. The center was built with ramps leading up to it so persons in wheelchairs are able to use the building. Thus the youth realize that are among us are the handicapped and that they must be involved into everyday life.

When one sees great walls of stairs leading to churches and buildings, there are now ramps for the disabled. The stairs are still there, but the handicapped facilities have been added or built into the architectural design. As in the case of St. Mary Magdalene church in Altamonte Springs, hearing aids have also been installed in the confessionals for those with hearing problems.

Project OUTLOOK itself has taken great steps to introduce the disabled into the world and their surroundings through dinners, meetings and involvement programs, which include this essay.

Seminole County sponsors a private, non-profit mental health center for persons. "The one" is true in any way, any one." The Mental Health Center extends help by having a counselor in five high schools, six middle schools, and eleven elementary schools. The majority of people that are not handicapped are afraid to face the problem. Since they are not handicapped themselves they are aware of what it is like to work with handicapped persons.

A seventeen-year-old student at Lyman High in Seminole County is deaf and has speech disabilities. This student has fit in well with the school system and his people. He reads like a professional and people are saying and when other students listen well, they can understand him. This student is also involved in Lyman's special program to improve speech. He attends weekend writing trips with many friends and is an excellent writer! The students of Lyman have accepted him as one of them.

After all, is he really different?

WORLD IN BRIEF

Kidnappers Send Fingertip, Demand Millions For Belgian

PARIS (UPI) — French police are taking prints of an amputated fingertip to see if it was sent by kidnapers demanding millions of dollars for the release of Baron Edouard Jean Empain.

Acting on instructions from an anonymous caller claiming to represent the captors of the 40-year-old Belgian industrialist, police found the fingertip wrapped in cotton wool in the locker of a Paris rail station Friday, spokesman Gerard Berger said.

Fprints will show whether the piece of flesh — cut from the little finger of a left hand — belonged to Empain, Berger said. The caller said it was sent as proof his gang was holding the baron, but police cautioned they had no way of knowing he was still alive.

40 Dead In Tunisia Riots

TUNIS, Tunisia (UPI) — Tunisian officials say nearly 40 people were shot or stabbed to death and 325 injured in this week's rioting and about 400 suspects, including two Parliament members, were arrested in a police sweep through two major cities.

Squads of soldiers patrolled the capital's deserted streets Friday night and early today to enforce an all-night curfew called under a state of emergency to prevent any new outbreaks of labor unrest.

The group called the strike to protest the economic policies of Prime Minister Hedi Nouris, who has been designated to succeed the 73-year-old president when Bourguiba dies.

Convicts Seize Hostages

PARIS (UPI) — Two convicts seized four hostages today at Clairvaux prison east of Paris, wounded and released one of them and demanded a getaway car, police said.

The convicts and their three remaining hostages, the deputy warden and two guards, were barricaded in one of the prison watchtowers.

The freed hostage, also a guard, was taken in serious condition to a nearby hospital.

Roy Rogers Recovering From Open Heart Surgery

TORRANCE, Calif. (UPI) — Cowboy singing star Roy Rogers Friday left Little Company of Mary Hospital where he underwent open heart surgery two weeks ago.

The 66-year-old Rogers walked to a car driven by his wife Dale Evans and the couple drove 100 miles to their desert home in Apple Valley.

A hospital spokesman said Rogers was in "good spirits" when he left and had been "walking comfortably" for several days in the facility's coronary care unit.

'That Dirty Old Lady'

MIAMI (UPI) — Wilhelmina Denhart spent two years browsing through drugstores for girls' magazines and bearing the stares of cashiers as she paid for her purchases. Now she is "disappointed" her work was forgotten.

The city commission has abolished the Miami Board of Review for Obscene Literature, Music and Prints, to the dismay of its former member.

"It was very embarrassing for a lady. The person who was selling it would have a look on his face that said, 'Uh-oh, dirty old lady,'" she recalled.

The board, inactive since the 1960s administration of the late Mayor Robert King High, was abolished last week because no one could find records to indicate it ever met or even had any active members.

Wallace 'Sorry' About Nixon

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George C. Wallace said Friday he hated to turn his back on Richard Nixon when he appealed for his help in overpowering liberals who were "going after him" in the 1974 impeachment hearings, but Wallace said he had no other choice.

"It was a difficult decision for me. It was a matter of agony to me," said Wallace, explaining he disliked having to turn down a presidential request. "I was sorry I was called. I did not think I could in proper conscience comply with the request."

Nixon was quoted in a diary book, "I Gave Them A Sword," by television personality David Frost, as saying Wallace's refusal to help him clenched his decision to resign.

Radioactive Fallout Reports 'Greatly Exaggerated'

OTTAWA (UPI) — Canada says a report of heavy nuclear fallout in the Atlantic northwest where a Soviet spy satellite landed probably was a false alarm set off by faulty reading of tracking devices.

President Carter said the Russians "could have given us more information" about the recovery operation, but conceded the United States would not have acted much differently had it been an American satellite base involved.

Chief of Defense Staff Adm. Robert H. Felt said Friday the Cosmos 16 could not have survived its fiery plummet through the atmosphere four days ago.

"I still believe that I don't believe there was the remotest possibility of anything landing on Earth," he said. "I still feel that it is unlikely that anything has landed."

Karler, after places searching for radiation from the uncontrolled satellite reported "a highly probable contact" in the tundra 20 miles west of Baker Lake in the Northwest Territories.

But, Felt said, "The contact which has been giving us some concern for the last two or three days probably is not a contact."

"We are now saying we don't think there is any dangerous radiation in that area. We think now that this is an observation — a false reading — of the equipment."

Felt said an area from Fort Reliance, at the eastern end of Great Slave Lake, to Baker Lake has been divided in to eight sections for search purposes.

"We now have four contacts that are being checked further by search planes" scanning the waters end of a 400-mile-long search corridor, he said.

In Washington, Carter said visiting editors the loss of the Cosmos diminished the lack of safety restrictions on nuclear space devices and said he intends to take the problem up with the Russians.

"We had no guarantee Moscow to provide information necessary to track the falling satellite and monitor the path of re-entry, partly by guessing "we would not try to capitulate on their mistakes in a propaganda way."

Then, Carter said, "we had it on radar" as it came down over Canada.

"In retrospect, it may be that the Soviets could have given us more information," he said. "I think they probably gave us more than we would have given them under the circumstances."

Defense Minister Barry Danson said Thursday scientists cannot yet say what the source of the contamination reported by search planes is. "We have to find out the nature of the heat we are dealing with," he said.

Twenty-five men, including six U.S. radiation specialists and the 11-member Nuclear Accident Support Team, remained on short at a base camp at Baker Lake, the nearest settlement to the site.

The Momentum Is Promising

We are encouraged that ongoing efforts to enhance and improve some of the conditions for living and doing business in Sanford are just getting started.

Two developments this past week point to the momentum of such efforts: plans for downtown development and for the eradication of that dreaded blind mosquito.

The two projects and programs, although separate in their planning, projections and implementation, cannot be separated in terms of the realistic needs of the city. They are irrevocably intertwined.

First last week we learned that, helped by a million-dollar loan pool established by Howard Hedges, chairman of the banking committee of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, it won't be long before work will begin restoring the turn-of-the-century look to buildings in Sanford's historic First Street area.

The restoration is part of the overall objective of the Greater Sanford Development Corp., now the Downtown Development Corp., to apply a facelift to the downtown area, core of business for so many of our residents.

Not much had been heard from the GSDC since last September when the Sanford City Commission wisely reaffirmed itself to the goals and objectives of GSDC by committing $38,000 for materials to be used in this first-phase beautification and alteration of downtown Sanford.

But we are gratified that the program is still in full gear and eagerly await hearing sounds of the first drills downtown.

While the chamber was establishing the dollar pool, several downtown property owners and businessmen were expressing their enthusiasm with the plan.

This is the most encouraging sign that something indeed is happening.

For without the merchants' outspoken, firm and continued support and backing of the beautification work, it will not attain the lofty goals envisioned.

We have said it before and will say it again: it is the downtown owners and merchants who will have the most to gain from the ambitious downtown beautification and restoration.

Toward the end of the week, we also learned that the war on the blind mosquito also is on target.

Within two weeks the statistics needed by the mosquito warriors for inclusion in their bid for $250,000 to set up a research program into the blind mosquito of Sanford will be completed. The data will be part of an impact statement to be submitted to the state.

Elimination of the blind mosquito, also known as the midge, will be a boon not only to the residents of the area who have to cope with the pest several times a year, but also to those same merchants whose properties are slated for improvement and revamping.

Again, the two projects are really one: the fewer mosquitoes, the more shoppers; the more pleasant the shopping environment, the more shoppers — and, finally, the more business and the greater growth of our economy.

So we are gratified that the wheels of change and progress are swiftly churning. Sanford will be all the better for them.

Symbol Of Spirit

The firm, even passionate resistance to the return of Hungary's Crown of St. Stephen to the Communist ruled nation is well known.

The United States, after all, had pledged to keep the crown, which holds religious as well as national significance, from Communist hands since the Army assumed its role in 1944 as Soviet troops advanced on Hungary.

But the return of the crown cannot be viewed as recognition or legitimization of the Communist government of Hungary. As was stressed in the restoration ceremony in Budapest, the crown has been returned to the Hungarian people not to a political system or regime.

The return of the crown will encourage the Hungarians people to remember that their greatest and ultimate allegiance is to a higher, more enduring authority than their Communist rulers.

It was a "wild" experience to be sitting at the Water Supply office building Wednesday night when the lightning struck again and the lights went out.

But, it was even wilder to stand at a door to the building with a chain of fire and watch a lightning strike to the north. Commission John Pinski, who opened the door to let in more light from the dark night, as members of the audience in motion, said, "Oh, it's a wild experience."

The lightning, an event so rare, was captured on film by the news team. The lightning struck the building, but did not injure or damage any property.

The commission had been trying to meet at the moment in the emergency department from 10 p.m. to 11 p.m. and it was only a few minutes past that hour when the lights went out, almost as though someone was making them keep to their place.

A meeting earlier in the month had gone on until nearly 1 a.m.

Florida's request was that the sheriff in handling that is to serve the city area equally, as that sheriff cannot do so. And, in addition, if the sheriff cannot do so, a provision should be made for the sheriff to hire a private security force to handle the city area.

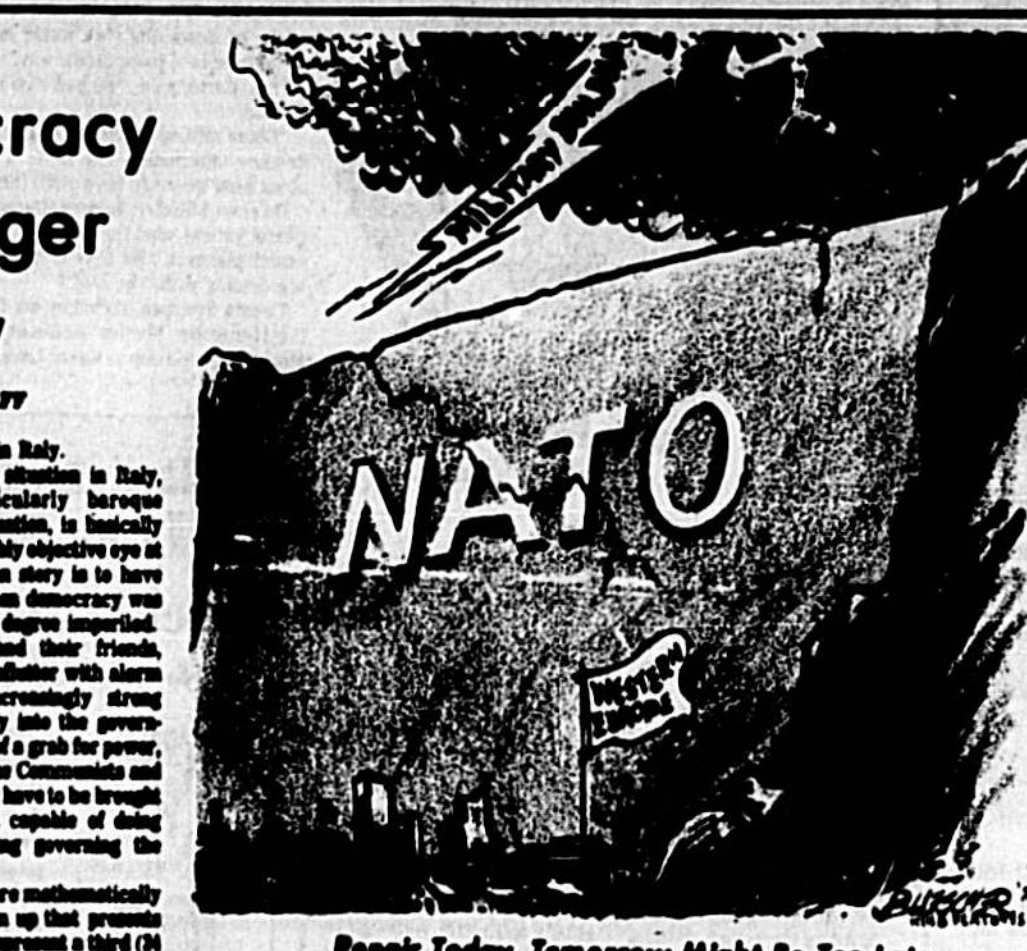

City Attorney Gary Hines, charged with the task of preparing the ordinance, Hines said that in a recent Board of County Commissioners meeting the sheriff and his staff were not to be considered as a city area "fully covered by city area."

Hines, noting that he and Hines had only begun on the ordinance, but also on a review of the state statute law which requires when development in an area to be assessed. Hines outlined the urban development requirement city ordinance to be considered as a city area "fully covered by city area."

"I suggest," said Hines, "that attorneys are brought into the room."

VIEWPOINT Democracy In Danger In Italy

By DON GRAY

Democracy is in danger in Italy. Which is to say that the situation in Italy, allowing for some particularly bizarre behavior in the present situation, is basically normal. For to cast a reasonably objective eye at the present situation in Italy, it is to have difficulty finding a period when democracy was not perceived to be in some degree imperiled.

What has the Italian and her friends, particularly in Washington, done with arms at the moment in the increasingly acute prospect of Communist entry into the government. It is not a simple case of a grab for power, but the recognition by both the Communists and their opponents that they may have to be brought in to achieve a government capable of doing anything remotely resembling governing the country.

The facts of the situation are mathematically very simple. It is a matter of how many percent of the vote in the last election of the Italian political spectrum. The Christian Democrats, who have dominated governments throughout the post-war era, are a fraction stronger (18 percent of the vote). The non-Communist Italian political spectrum is so fragmented among mid-party from extreme left to right as to deny finding sufficient common ground upon which to construct an effective coalition with either of the major parties.

As a pragmatic consequence, Italy has most recently been governed by a Christian Democrat minority cabinet with the open but non-participating support of the Communist Party. These have precipitated the present crisis by having a change of heart and now demanding participation because the party leaders face a crisis of their own.

Italy is approaching a state of social and economic chaos. Inflation is out of control, unemployment is rising, kidnappings and urban terrorism are facts of everyday life in most of the country. For the party to keep in office a government which cannot deal with such a situation is to risk serious defections from its own ranks.

Washington, concerned at the possible political collapse in the Western alliance, is in NATO's military effectiveness, has warned the Italian to watch their step, a warning which has drawn protests from the Italian left and right as unwarranted interference in internal affairs.

There is something very odd about the situation. Back in the 1960s there was anxiety in Washington over an Italian "opening to the left," the desire of a Christian Democrat faction led by Giovanni Gronchi to bring Socialists into the government for the twofold purpose of broadening its popular base and of detaching a non-Communist Socialist alliance. U.S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce warned with unmistakable bluntness of the comparison to Italy's Western connection if it brought Gronchi's opening, a warning that drew protests etc.

Well, the Italian made Gronchi president in 1964. Socialists entered the government, the Communist alliance ended, the Westerns to end NATO survived.

Lyman, Oviedo, Seminole Trinity Post Big Triumphs

Hot off to Lyman, Oviedo, Seminole and Trinity Prep following major high school basketball victories Friday night.

Combination are in order for Lyman, Oviedo and Lake Brantley.

Lyman continued along its merry way to the Five Star Conference championship with a 68-50 victory over Spruce Creek in a game which saw Spruce Creek finish with four starters on the bench via five personal fouls.

Michael Reed scored 17 points and Frankie Carter 16 to pace Lyman, 17-11 overall and 6-0 in league play. The Greyhounds made use of 11 free throws in the final quarter to seal the victory.

Kinsman was without four players, and the seven remaining performers outside Trinity Prep got a major boost from Frank Edson and scored 22 in Florida Central Academy, 51-45.

Edson scored a game-high 18 points. However the key for the Seals came on Edson's six rebounds in the last quarter, when Trinity was staging a come-from-behind rally and

SCC Travels To Lake City

Seminole Community College, 13th ranked in the nation, travels to Lake City tonight for a crucial Division 3 tester.

"It's down to the stretch," said coach Joe Sterling. "And we are not in perfect health, but pretty sound. We need to win at home and split on the road. That should put us in the tournament."

The object of Seminole's affection is a berth in the March 1-3 state tournament in DeLand.

Seminole is in a three-way tie for the Division 3 lead with one defeat in loop play. Overall the Raiders are 16-4.

He had just shot a 71, one-under par on the expansive Mayfair course. However, it was his first-day score of 69—the best when most of the rest of the field was having problems—that clearly won the tournament for him.

"Just good golf, consistent golf. That's all I'm thinking about. That's why we are down here. The money helps, but so one is going to get rich on this tour. But it certainly helps our game."

Dick Howell and Wally Kucher tied for second place, logging identical 76 Friday for a 143 aggregate score. They claimed $500 each. Ron Terry was in with a 78 Friday, good enough to give him fourth place and $200.

Bob Glase had a par 72 Friday for a 143 and 949 for his fifth place finish. In the next group at 144 were Steve Eichstain, Al Kelley Jr., Bob Erickson and Mal Goleto. They claimed $200 each.

Rounding out the top 10 were Bill Morgan, Steve Williams and Jim Thuyne with 146, worth $125 each.

Next stop on the state tour is at Cape Orlando next Wednesday with the following week providing Seminole County interest again with the DeLano Open.

Unser Jr. Learning

JACKSONVILLE (UPI)— Bobby Unser Jr., son of two-time Indianapolis 500 winner Bobby Unser Sr., has a magic name to prove his way in auto racing, but his father insists he'll learn his trade the hard way.

"Sure, I help him, but I make him work, too," said Unser Sr., 43, who was in Jacksonville Thursday to help promote his 22-year-old son's participation in the upcoming Florida sprint car racing series.

"He don't really put that much money into his racing. He pays his way. I had to race for everything I got when I was his age because my family was poor. I make Bobby Jr. run a little bit, too," he said.

The younger Unser has been racing sprint cars — specially built, one-man racing machines — for four years. This year he also plans to run Super-V cars (smaller versions of the Indy cars) in USAC preliminary races.

Before the present speculation, he raced go-karts and even motorcycles.

"Dad never encouraged or discouraged me to get into racing," said Unser Jr. "Dad, of course, I've been around it all my life with my dad and my uncle (Al Unser, also a two-time Indy 500 winner) and this is what I want to do."

DILLARD GOULD NABS REBOUND

College Basketball 87-Over Par A Record?

LAKE BUENA VISTA (UPI) — Mal Gray dragged off one of the worst rounds in the history of competitive golf, looked up at the clear Florida sky and said with a smile: "It's probably two degrees in St. Louis."

Gray, an All-Pro wide receiver with the St. Louis Cardinals, shot a 158 Friday. It strikes over par in the first round of the $50,000 Mike Douglas National Football League Players Association Golf Classic.

"I've only played golf twice and it showed," Gray said. Gray said he came down for the weather, not the golf. Temperatures here were in the 90s, nippy for Florida, but balmy compared to the midwest blizzard.

Gray said he volunteered for the tournament "because it's so cold in St. Louis."

Gray started the day with a 14 on the par-four first hole and finished with a 12 on No. 18. In between, he played six birdies and double bogey.

Twenty-six other players, out of the 84 in the tournament, were on the big side of the elusive 100 barrier on the par-72 Magnolia Course at Walt Disney World. J.D. Hill of Detroit shot a 150.

McTear, Jacobs Set World Track Records

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the 74th Millrose Games, which featured one record-shattering crescendo after another, nobody did it better than Franklin Jacobs.

Even before much of the capacity Madison Square Garden crowd of 18,118 track and field fans had reached their seats Friday night, Houston McTear had tipped in a world indoor best of 61.1 seconds in the 60-yard dash.

But still to come was the ballyhooed Wanamaker Mile in which Dick Burke reaffirmed his status as America's second best miler with a 2:54.1 triumph over Tennessee's Herbert Hoyt. And, there was the spectacular women's double performed by Jan Merrill, who easily captured the half mile in 2:18.1 and then came back a half hour later to overhaul her longtime rival Francie Larrieu in the final steps of a 1:17.7, 1,500 meters.

And all the while, Franklin Jacobs, the blind "mighty mite" from Fairleigh-Dickinson University was gradually inching toward what he knew would have to be a world indoor best leap to win the men's high jump.

"It was predicted to be a wonderful night and it was," said Jacobs.

In And Around Altamonte Free Trees Anyone?

The Forest Grove Nursery was a success in the real estate business last year - one of the reasons being that it was certainly shipping out a lot of trees. It is planning to do a similar thing this year.

For the past eight years or so, they have been giving away seedlings. Two thousand were given away last year and more of the great ones, like the Altamonte Green, are probably due to the January freeze of last year which wiped out a lot of nursery, Forest Grove. This is why they are now giving away more and more seedlings on Thursday, Feb. 8, starting at 7:30 a.m. at 301 Forest Ave.

You'll Be Sorry...

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for three years and have a really great marriage. We have no children because we don't want any. We discussed it before our marriage and agreed on it.

Dear Abby

We both work and enjoy taking off for a skiing weekend, or sleeping late whenever we feel like it. It's not that we don't want children - we do, but we just don't want a family.

Our problem: our parents. His keep saying, "You'll be sorry later. Children will be a marriage together."

Miss Abby: "Not wanting children is a personal, selfish and immature."

DEAR ABBY: Your son's ex-girlfriend becomes your ex-daughter-in-law. When introducing her, it's not necessary to mention your former relationship.

DEAR ABBY: I work for a large supermarket. I may offer you some valuable tips to your millions of readers.

1. Women, NEVER leave your purse in the top of your grocery cart and walk away - even for a minute. They can disappear before you turn around.

2. Don't ever bring large amounts of money into the store. I've seen thousands of dollars "lost."

3. Don't complain to the checkout person about high prices. It's not our fault.

CHILDLESS BY CHOICE
DEAR CHILDLESS: Tell your parents that you appreciate their concern and advice, but you don't feel the need to justify your decision or debate the pros and cons of parenthood with them. And the friends you become your future to baby, you are well rid of.

DEAR ABBY: When my married son gets a divorce, I'm sure he'll be glad to have me as a possible shopping center.

JUST AVERAGE
DEAR ABBY: In this day of competition, "catching up" is important. To quote my friend Edith Head, one of the leading authorities in the fashion world: "All women look alike in the bathroom. The only change a woman gets to show her individuality is when she puts her clothes on." I vote with Edith.
