World Awaits Meeting Of Pope, Patriarch

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI today devoted himself to prayer and preparation for his "journey of search and hope" to the Holy Land Saturday.

The 66-year-old pontiff, who began his reign little more than six months ago, will be making history in many ways on his three-day pilgrimage to the places Christ lived, in what is now Jordan and Israel.

He will be the first Pope to visit the Holy Land and the first to fly. He will be the first to leave Italy since 1812.

But since the Pope announced plans for the visit last month, world attention has focused on another first—the first meeting between a Pope and an Eastern Orthodox patriarch in 500 years.

Pope Paul will confer twice with Patriarch Athanasios I of Constantinople. Their aim is Christian unity, but no one looks for a quick or easy end to the differences that have divided the 500 million Roman Catholics and 157 million Orthodox for centuries.

Pope Paul's predecessor Pope John XXIII, began this drive for Christian unity with the Vatican Council.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An American Communist party plot to exploit what is described as a "drift toward the left" among the nation's youth was uncovered by the FBI in 1963.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told of the Red youth scheme in his year end report to Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, released Thursday. He also noted the FBI's investigation of the assassination of President Kennedy and of the murder of civil rights leader Medgar Evers in Mississippi.

Hoover said the last October delegates of the Communist Party (U.S.A.) met in Chicago "to lay the groundwork for a new national youth organization aimed at exploitation of what the party describes as a drift toward the left among young people."

He said the party's general secretary, Gus Hall, stipulated that the youth movement should avoid the appearance of a Soviet-style organization however it should not tolerate anti-Soviet or anti-Communist party thinking.

Hoover said that following the assassination of President Kennedy at Dallas Nov. 22 "the full resources of the FBI were marshalled and an intensive investigation was launched concerning all phases of the assassination itself and the subsequent shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald."

"A detailed special report on these matters was prepared and furnished to the attorney general for transmittal to the President's commission investigating the assassination," he said.

He staked out for special mention the arrest of Byron De La Beckwith on civil rights charges arising from the ambush slaying of Evers, the Mississippi field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. Beckwith, who was turned over to Mississippi authorities, is awaiting trial for murder.

Argentine Duel Is Postponed

BUNEOS AIRES (UPI)—A duel between Defense Minister Leopoldo Suarez and former Air Secretary Martin R. Cairo appeared early today to have been postponed for at least 24 hours.

Seconds for the two men met four times Wednesday night and early today, apparently without reaching agreement on arrangements for what had been expected to be a meeting with pistols at dawn today.

Attorney Luis Caggiano, a Suarez second, said the talks are "in the first stage."

"The discussions are continuing," said retired Col. Manuel Reimundes, a Cairo second. "We have not suspended them."

Although no further details were available immediately, it appeared the seconds were trying to determine whether there were sufficient grounds for a duel and whether it was proper for Cairo to challenge Suarez, his nominal superior in the cabinet.

If the duel takes place, Suarez presumably would resign temporarily before appearing on the "field of honor."

3 Die As Home For Aged Burns

COLUMBIA, Miss. (UPI)—Fire destroyed a nursing home for elderly men early today and trapped and killed three of the aged occupants in the ancient frame building.

Authorities said three bodies were found in the charred remains of the building that housed 17 or 18 men.

The occupants who escaped were either rescued by firemen or stumbled blindly out of the building and into the freezing weather.

Fire Chief Allen Dobson said the fire broke out at about 5:45 a.m. He said he believed the fire may have been caused by a faulty furnace.

The temperature was in the low 20's when the fire began. A hard layer of frozen snow about seven inches deep covered the ground following a violent winter storm that moved across southeast Mississippi New Year's Eve.

Fire officials identified the three victims as William H. Watkins, William S. Blackwell and Arthur Landouer.

savers and homeowners look ahead...get ahead

THE FIGURES HERE tell a story of growth, but there's another story behind that story. It's all about how people with an eye toward the future work in partnership to make plans become realities.

Many of those plans call for safe, profitable saving—the kind that ordinary people with ordinary incomes can do. Small amounts put away regularly for generous earnings and compounded growth. Or larger amounts invested in one lump sum for extra income and a fluctuation-free principal. Here saves find the profit, safety, and convenience they want in a savings program.

People with home-owning plans get low-cost, practical help here, too. Our home financing programs, made possible by savings funds, enable even families of modest means to enjoy the pleasures and security of home ownership. This worthwhile use of savings dollars generates earnings for savers... creates a better community for all of us.

If you're looking ahead to financial progress and home ownership, there's a place in our story for you. Why not stop in soon and get in on the happy ending?

Future Of Farming

A group of men recently had a peek at what could be a part of the U. S. farm scene 20 years hence. Among the things they "saw" were artificial lighting of entire fields making possible several harvests within a single growing season; devices to predict which eggs hatch pullets and which produce roosters; soil sterilized against plant disease and harmful weeds by mobile X-ray units.

Fantastic—but not impossible—were electronic vegetable harvesters capable of selecting only mature crops then cleaning, grading and packaging them as the machine travels over the field; processed milk weighing a fraction of raw milk, stored without refrigeration and transported to a common market; converted salt water piped from the ocean to areas having a shortage of fresh water; farmers taking week-end rocket trips to check up on agriculture in far away places; and scores of other seemingly unbelievable developments.

Who, two decades ago, envisioned the technological changes—the mechanical, chemical and biological developments that today make our agriculture the most efficient in the world; the efficiency which enables 92 per cent of our working force to choose non-farm occupations?

We can be reasonably assured that future developments will be products of the minds of young men and women presently on a farm, and who will leave the farm, but not agriculture, to find work. Many of these young people will carry to their jobs a solid background of specialized experience, skills and training gathered in the 4-H agricultural program supervised by the Extension service of land-grant universities and colleges.

But practical experience alone does not meet the expanding needs of the vast agri-business complex. Formal education is essential. And that education is costly.

Many boys and girls who proudly wear the green and white 4-H emblem need an assist to begin or continue college. Toward this end, far-sighted business enterprises have been providing 4-H scholarship funds for a long time.

College scholarships and fellowships valued at $145,000 have been presented to 275 of the nation's most outstanding 4-H youths and to young adults who once were 4-H Club members.

Presentations were made recently during the 42nd National 4-H Club Congress at Chicago. This annual event is the showcase of some 1,500 boys and girls representing the best of 4-H in all 50 states and Puerto Rico. Hosts were the business executives whose firms provide the trips, scholarships and other 4-H assistance.

If this far-reaching interest and support continues through the next four decades as it has in the last, the technological advances still on the drawing board, and many more not yet conceived will have a better chance to become realities. Thus investment in rural youth pays big dividends—dividends that keep the U. S. A. agri-business in the unique position it vigorously guards today.

Thought For Today

When she heard the name of Jesus, she came in the press behind, and touched His garment. —Mark 5:27.

This woman had been plagued with an illness for 12 years, but when she heard Jesus was passing by she determined in her heart to touch Him. May we have the same determination to touch Him by faith that we might be made whole. —Rev. Hubert M. Wilder, Pastor, Pinecrest Assembly of God, Sanford.

WISDOM FROM THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Mary offers a very common dilemma that is faced by nurses, widows and divorced women. So scrapbook this case, for it clears up one of the illogical attitudes of the average man. And it also exposes a common fallacy about sexy women. Study these crucial truths, for they will help prevent divorce.

CASE R-446: Mary L., aged 22, is an attractive nurse. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I have a problem that is very common among nurses. For example, when we nurses accept dates with boys, a boys seem to think we will permit more sexual liberties than is true of the average girl."

"So they quickly want to park and start petting parties. And when we rebuff their advances, they seem to act as if we are being hypocritical. Indeed, most fellows seem to think nurses permit illicit sexual liberties. Why do men have that notion?"

Illogical Men
Not only do nurses have this problem but so do widows and divorced women.

For men are often very illogical creatures. Thus, they figure that because nurses take care of male patients or because widows and divorcees have once been married, then such women are likely to be promiscuous.

"She knows more about sex," is their illogical idea, "so she must permit more sexual liberties."

But that is obviously a fallacious conclusion. It is no more logical than to argue that because a dietitian knows more about foods, then she eats more than the average woman. Wouldn't it be equally stupid

Peter Edson Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The one-man crusade by Edwin P. Neelan, U. S. Chamber of Commerce president, for greater morality in government is beginning to show results, but not many.

What he is particularly against are pork barrel spending, congressional vote buying and selling through federal tax fund subsidies for purely local projects.

The Wilmington, Del., banker has made about 75 speeches on these subjects since last March, when he took over as head of the country's biggest business organization.

"I sometimes feel that I've grown stale on this," he says now. "I'm talking too much and—I'm just talking to other businessmen. I may not be reaching the people who can do something to change these conditions."

But he has had good press support, particularly from the editorial writers.

"I'm getting a lot of letters telling me to keep it up," he says. "I'm planning another series of speeches in January."

Neelan has more requests for speeches than he can fill, from all over the country. So he is stirring up the voters, if not Washington.

It is the big money that he is talking about. His particular target is the more than $1 billion requested for Area Redevelopment Administration and Accelerated Public Works.

He feels that this money is being forced on local communities by government planners he blasted on his first day in office. He also criticizes congressmen who want to do something for their home states at government expense and "alleg businessmen who get fat on tax-supported subsidies."

This makes the Bobby Baker scandal in Washington look like petty larceny by comparison. Yet the Baker case is receiving full-scale Senate investigation.

Neelan's charges aren't being investigated by Congress. On the contrary, when he charged that the federal spoils system was as immoral as Britain's spy-sex scandals, congressional leaders chastised him in speeches on both Senate and House floors.

In spite of this, Neelan feels he has had a partial victory. He has been given credit for forcing the administration to postpone until next year appropriations of $455 million for ARA and $900 million for APW. But he has little doubt that this money will be appropriated later on.

Neelan came out of the White House the other day singing praises of President Johnson after their first meeting because he seemed to be economy-minded.

Now Neelan feels that he may have to take off on the Johnson budget for next year. He has learned that the administration may try to shift about $2 billion worth of spending from the new 1965 budget into the first half of 1964.

This would cause a bigger deficit in the current budget. But it might bring the 1965 budget total below the $100 billion mark and bring it closer to being balanced.

Neelan recognizes this as an old political trick used by both parties. President Eisenhower, for example, ran up a $13 billion budget deficit in 1959, but showed a $777 million surplus in 1960, which was also an election year.

Neelan points to a few cases where local communities have rebelled against unwanted federal projects.

In Bartow, Fla., the city council and community leaders rejected a deal to let the federal government pay half the cost of a municipal building project. The movement spread to 12 neighboring counties which decided to reject all accelerated public works money from the federal government.

Then in Congress, Rep. W. J. Bryan Dorn, D-S. C., led a fight to stop federal government development of a recreation area for Trotter Shoals. The local community wanted to make a $50 million industrial park out of the area, financing it with its own funds.

On Dorn's insistence, the federal recreation plan was killed.

Neelan makes clear he doesn't include all members of Congress in criticizing the national capital for "brazen political immorality that would almost embarrass the Cosa Nostra crime ring."

"In fact," he told a Baltimore audience, "there's a standing joke in Washington that the government's real motive is going after Cosa Nostra to eliminate competition."

Citrus Protection

A new method of protecting fruit trees, especially citrus and truck gardening plants, from freeze-frost damage has been developed by Dr. James A. Lasater, Brevard Engineering College scientist.

Dr. Lasater's new method of protection has resulted from research originally aimed at thermo-protection methods for lunar exploration.

The fundamental principles involved in the thermal protection of man on the surface of the moon have been adapted to plant systems in Florida. One of the important aspects of the adaptation of the lunar thermo-protection methods to plant systems was the utilization of readily available and inexpensive materials.

Freeze damage is a major concern to Florida since the state's whole economy is greatly affected by its citrus and winter vegetable production. There is ample evidence that cyclic variations occur in the climate. There was a general global warming trend from 1885 until at least 1940.

Since 1940 a cooling trend appears to have started. Climatological evidences indicate that Florida can expect an increased occurrence of severe freezing conditions throughout the next decade and perhaps for the next 50 years.

In the early 1950's qualified climatologists predicted that a trend to colder and stormier winters was developing. There is considerable evidence to support this prediction. First, the winter of 1957-58 brought the most critical freezing conditions to Florida in 60 years. Second, the winter of 1962-63 produced even more severe conditions than that of 1957-58.

Third, the winter of 1962-63 was the worst in Europe for 100 years. Fourth, unprecedented storms and record cold struck the whole of the United States during the winter of 1962-63. Fifth, the U. S.

Weather Bureau has found that the mean annual temperature has dropped in both the northern and southern hemispheres by 0.2 degrees F, and the mean winter temperatures by 0.4 degrees F since the early 1940's.

Even at this early stage, record cold weather has been experienced over a large portion of the United States this winter. Thus, the warming trend that has dominated the world climate since the 1880's appears to have come to an end.

Dr. David D. Woodbridge, Director of Research at Brevard Engineering College stated, "Experimental tests at the college have shown that the new technique affords considerable protection; for example, four to six hours protection were obtained with the ambient air 30 degrees below freezing. Much longer periods of protection were obtained when the ambient air temperature was only five to 10 degrees below freezing.

However, effective utilization of the new technique requires specific tailoring to individual plant systems to be protected. Current research efforts of Brevard Engineering College in this area are directed toward the application of this new technique to the principal agricultural systems. This research will be continued as rapidly as funds become available."

More in 1964 — seems to be the theme of the advertising and the general outlook early in the new year. And our local builders are certainly in tune with the idea, giving you the "most for your money" in the new homes they are building.

Items which formerly were "extras" or "options" are now standard equipment—part of the package! For instance, all the new homes in Ravenna Park have central duct heating. This makes every room in the house warm and comfortable, even during our chilly snaps this time of year. Another home was sold in Ravenna Park this past week, but models are open for your inspection at 411 and 416 Tangelo Drive. See them this weekend.

In nearby Idyllwild, another "Home of Distinction" is almost finished at 110 Idyllwild Drive. Our Seminole County builders all realize that the kitchen is a center of interest in the modern home, and feature completely equipped electric kitchens designed with imagination. In the homes open and on display in Kingswood Builders' Greenbriar of Loch Arbor, several kitchens have black walnut cabinets which put the final touch to a really beautiful kitchen. In quiet, tree-shaded Greenbriar, homes are available at 100, 107, 108, and 109 Highland Court.

Back with us this week is Cavalcade of Homes. They now have twelve model homes ready to show you. A salesman will be on the premises all this weekend, so see them on your tour of homes. They're located on SR 427 between Lake Mary and Longwood, on the old Dixie Highway.

See all these homes and select yours — you'll agree that for your dollar you're getting much more — in '64.

How To Fix Sticking Door

By Mr. Fix
 Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
 A sticking door is a type of trouble with which nearly everyone has to contend. Folks usually blame the trouble on swelling wood, but there are other causes, so go easy before you begin planing on a course of action.

Wood swells in summer, so if your door is sticking during the winter—when heat is on and the wood is dry—you can be certain that there are other causes.

Even in the summer, take it easy with the plane. Look for some other method of freeing the door or you'll find yourself with a door that breezes come right through during cooler weather.

Planing is seldom required, although it is resorted to, too often. Most trouble can be traced to hinge problems. Either the hinges is loose—or it wasn't mounted properly. Get yourself a screw driver, open the door wide and try each screw. Use a screw driver with a large blade and tighten any screw that seems to be loose. It doesn't take much sagging to make a door bind and tightening up the hinges may free the door.

Frequent tightening often leaves the wood so torn up that screws won't grip anymore. If a larger screw won't work or won't fit, fill the hole with a woden plug or plastic wood. If you use a plug, dip it in glue first. Allow plastic fillers to harden then drill a starter hole.

If tightening doesn't work, you will have to examine the door closely to determine the exact point of binding.

Binding at top can often be cured by shimming the hinge at top—inserting a thin layer of cardboard between the hinge and the wood of the door jamb. Binding that occurs at the bottom of the door can be cured with a shim behind the bottom hinge.

Remove the hinge pin and lift off the door. Then unscrew the leaf of the hinge that is on the door jamb. Insert a piece of thin cardboard behind and replace the screws. Hang the door. If one piece of cardboard isn't enough, try another.

Shimming will also take care of a door that won't close easily because the hinges has been mortised too deeply.

If all else fails, you will have to plane or sand the door. Do this cautiously. If binding occurs at the top, look for the point that makes contact and sand this spot lightly. If that doesn't work, plane the area.

When planing the top or bottom of a door, plane from the outside to the center to avoid splintering the edge.

If door is too wide, remove and do the planing on the hinge side so that the lock won't be affected. You may have to deepen the mortise for the hinge before hanging the door again.

In Colombian cities, house numbers tell how many meters the building is from the corner.

Lake Ada Site Test Shows Soil Suitable

(Ed Note: This is the first of two articles on Seminole County's two proposed state university sites. The second will discuss the Econlockhatchee River site and will appear in Tuesday's Herald.)

By Fred Van Pelt
Booming Seminole County will get a healthy "shot in the arm" Friday should the State Board of Control select the Lake Ada site or the Econlockhatchee River site for the proposed East Central Florida university.

Three sites continue in the running—Bluestone, 12 miles south of Orlando in Orange County, and Lake Ada and Econlockhatchee in this county. Board of Control members have promised a decision at their meeting Friday at Tallahassee. (This writer will be there to report the decision in The Herald.)

Local leaders who have been working long and hard in efforts to induce the State Board to select a Seminole site feel they hold several advantages over their Orange counterparts.

Dr. J. Broward Culpepper, executive director of the Board of Control, and Jack Sutton, Board research analyst, pointed out at the group's Dec. 23 meeting at the Mayfair Inn here that First Research Corporation, Miami, in its studies of the originally offered 23 sites in six counties, summed up its report with the statement "the university should be placed in Seminole County."

Local leaders stepped out ahead of the Orange people by having enabling legislation approved by the 1963 Legislature. This permitted the Seminole County Commission to present to all county electors last November a referendum asking approval for a special

A. B. PETERSON Sr., member of the Seminole County Hospital Board for more than 25 years and its chairman since 1955, has been reappointed to the board by Gov. Farris Bryant.

Vigilante Flies To Spain From Sanford Base

Two Navy airmen Friday flew on a twin-jet A-5A Vigilante attack bomber across the Atlantic Ocean from Sanford to Rota, Spain, placing the aircraft in position to support the United States Sixth Fleet nine hours and 42 minutes after take-off from Sanford.

The two airmen, Lt. Gerald M. Ryan, pilot, and his bombardier-navigator, Lt. (jg) George F. Schneider, flew to the attack carrier USS Independence Saturday morning, completing a successful ferry flight to replace an aircraft damaged in a deck handling incident aboard the Independence.

The Vigilante departed Sanford at 3:13 a.m., refueled from an A-3B Skywarrior aircraft of Sanford's Heavy Attack Squadron Eleven between Bermuda and the Azores Islands, stopped briefly at the Naval Air Facility in the Azores and arrived in Rota at 12:35 p.m. (EST).

Friday the Independence was in port at Cannes, France. Otherwise, the aircraft could have proceeded directly from the Azores to the carrier, completing the replacement journey in less than 10 hours.

The flight demonstrated the speed with which units of Heavy Attack Wing One can reinforce aircraft carriers deployed to the Mediterranean or elsewhere. It also demonstrates the versatility of these attack bombers which can operate either as bomber aircraft or as refueling tankers.

This refueling system is known as "Buddy" refueling. One attack aircraft refuels his "Buddy" to provide extra range. On the next flight the tanker could also serve as a bomber.

Approximately $200,000 has been allocated by the state for preliminary studies for the university construction when a site is selected.

Former Mayor Earl Higginbotham again will be seated on the City Commission in a special meeting Tuesday night. He defeated Mayor Thomas S. McDonald in the November election.

The five Commissioners then will elect one among themselves as mayor for the ensuing year.

Commission also will name an acting city manager for the balance of the week. City Manager W. E. Knowles will be in Tallahassee to attend the Board of Control meeting Friday, when a site is to be named for the new East Central Florida university.

Fire destroyed or damaged four homes in the Sanford area over the weekend.

A five-room frame residence at 2636 Magnolia Avenue, owned by Everett Craft, city employee, was destroyed. Lake Mary volunteer fire-

Firemen did save the residence next door at 1602 West 15th Street, owned by Eva Williams and occupied by Bertha Dixon. The blaze started from a kerosene heater.

Goldwater Gives His Position

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Barry Goldwater says that if he were president he would renounce the nuclear test ban treaty should it appear "to be to our advantage to test in the atmosphere."

Goldwater, who announced Friday his candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination, also says he would use the threat of breaking off diplomatic relations with Russia as a bargaining weapon in the cold war.

The Arizona conservative, still on crutches from an operation on his right heel, made the statements Sunday in a wide-ranging television interview.

Goldwater defended his Senate vote against the test ban treaty as "a sound one" and said he still thought the pact was "of no advantage to the United States." Asked if he, as president, would renounce it, he replied:

"If it appeared to be our advantage to test in the atmosphere, yes, I would do it."
