Weaker Gordon returns

Like a bad penny, Tropical Storm Gordon rolled back south toward Florida on Saturday, but forecasters say it is a shadow of its former hurricane self and will most likely die out before hitting the peninsula.

"It's continuing to weaken," said Max Mayfield, meteorologist with the National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables. "It could be downgraded soon to a tropical depression."

Gordon, born Nov. 8 off the tip of Nicaragua, zig-zagged as a tropical storm through the Caribbean — where it killed more than 500 in Haiti — before it snaked across Florida and emerged in the Atlantic.

There the storm developed into the third hurricane of the season and brushed by North Carolina before making an about-face on Friday and headed back toward Florida.

At 1 p.m. on Saturday, Gordon was 30.0 degrees north latitude and 74.8 degrees west longitude — or about 400 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla.

It was moving south at 6 mph and a gradual turn toward Florida was expected in the next 24 hours.

However, Gordon's power has greatly diminished since it toppled beach houses in North Carolina and flooded out Florida's winter vegetable crop earlier in the week. Its winds had dropped from 70 mph early Friday to near 40 mph.

It's drenching thunderstorms have been sheered off due to a strong wind from the northwest and its barometric pressure had increased. This means Florida may not even receive additional rainfall, forecasters say.

Only marine interests need to take note since waves are predicted between 9 and 13 feet.

Road closing

CASSELBERRY — The State Road 436 intersection at Lake Howell Road will be closed to traffic beginning today at 7 p.m. Work to widen S.R. 436 between Colonial Drive and Lake Howell Road will require the intersection to be fully closed for five to eight weeks, reports the Florida Department of Transportation. Right turn in and right turn out will be permitted for the following four weeks, according to FDOT spokesman Steven Homan. The widening project requires substantial road-height changes and drainage improvements, requiring the road closing. A detour will be available at Lake Howell Lane, located south of the closed intersection. The work is part of $30 million of S.R. 436 widening projects expected to be completed by late 1995. Enjoy.

Waterfront meeting

SANFORD — The November meeting of the Waterfront Master Plan Steering Committee, originally scheduled for this past Wednesday, was cancelled due to the pending problems expected from Tropical Storm Gordon. Sanford Director of Planning and Development Jay Marder said it's too late to reschedule the meeting for this month. As a result, the next Waterfront meeting will be held in early December.

Second sinkhole yawns

BY MARK BARFIELD and ROGER HARNACK Herald Staff Writers

LAKE MARY — County officials Saturday were wondering if the 40-foot-wide sinkhole that opened up Friday in Mandarin Estates subdivision west of Interstate 4 was bottomless, after dumping several loads of fill dirt into it.

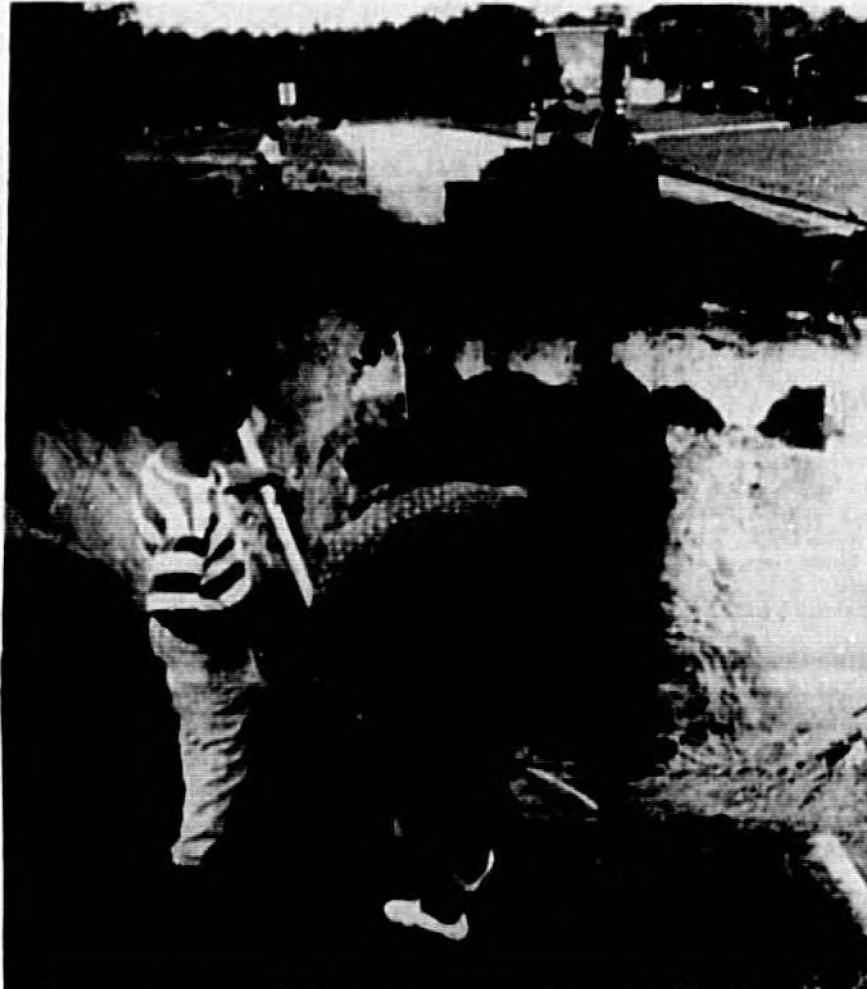

County crews arrived at the East Crowley Circle location of the sinkhole shortly after 8 a.m. to begin filling in the depression.

After more than 20 loads of fill and several hours worth of work, it appeared that the hole was just as large as when the work began.

According to Seminole County Engineer, Jerry McCollom, the hole, which was estimated to be approximately 56 feet deep, could take up to 1,500 yards (100 dumptruck loads) of material to fill in.

Victim died in stabbing frenzy

SANFORD — It could have taken a stabbing victim from 3 to 12 minutes to lose consciousness from internal and external blood loss, according to a medical examiner testifying at the sentencing of Merle Coffeld.

Four of the 27 stab wounds sustained by a fast food restaurant owner during a robbery six years ago could have been fatal.

Crowd fills Longwood festival

By VICKI DeBORNIER Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The cooler temperatures Saturday were enough to bring out the Christmas spirit in just about everyone at the Longwood Arts and Crafts Festival in the city's historic downtown district.

Starting well before the 10 a.m. scheduled opening of the event, hundreds of people crowded onto the brick streets and crowded alleyways of the district to start (or complete) their holiday shopping for handmade crafts and clothing.

"I just love this festival," said Denise Johnston of Sanford. "I come here every year and there is

Historic home tour Remodeling worth it, but it doesn't always go smoothly

By SHARI BRODIE Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Unlike the Mercer's, whose home was featured previously as an entry in the upcoming Sanford Historic Trust Holiday Tour of Homes, and whose remodeling project went smoothly, James and Trish Thomas tell a different story.

The Mercer's said they chose to hire help in their recent renovation project because of their age. The retired couple have done their share of manual labor, having remodeled or renovated 10 homes together. On the other hand, the Thomas', whose family expanded in May, with the birth of their first child, Annie, both work full time and felt that a contractor would be able to get the job done faster.

Such was not the case, for the entire project at 1210 Magnolia Ave. took almost a year and was fraught with frustration all along the way.

Trish was the first to see the house. She told Thomas, "I want you to go see it but you have to keep an open mind." The Craftsman-style bungalow had been rental property for some time and was in foreclosure. "It was bad, very bad," Trish said, but they saw the potential in the house and the spacious yard, and they liked the neighborhood.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Hate crimes decline in 1993

TALLAHASSEE — Florida recorded fewer hate crimes in 1993 but court rulings should encourage prosecutors to use the hate crime law more often. Attorney General Bob Butterworth said Friday.

The 245 incidents in 1993 were down from 336 the previous year, Butterworth's office said in an annual report on hate crimes. Incidents were reported in 26 of Florida's 67 counties. Orange County had the most reports, 56, and several counties reported only one. Seminole County reported two incidents.

Florida's 1989 hate crimes law allows stiffer penalties for offenses motivated by a victim's race, religion, sexual orientation or national origin.

Most of the 1993 cases involved racial motivations.

Butterworth said two court decisions should increase the use of the law.

In one, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in a Wisconsin case in 1993 that it was valid to base tougher penalties on the motive for a crime.

Then earlier this year, the Florida Supreme Court ruled there was no free-speech protection for those committing crimes because of race, religion or sexual orientation.

Nurse sued in alleged hospital attack

ST. AUGUSTINE — A 15-year-old psychiatric patient, drugged and unable to move, contends a male nurse fondled her and forced her to have sexual intercourse.

The woman, now 19, is one of four former patients at St. Augustine Psychiatric Center who allege in separate lawsuits they were fondled and molested in 1990 by a registered nurse now working in a Jacksonville hospital.

The alleged attacks at the mental hospital occurred before the recent wave of publicity about a male nurse charged in a series of rapes of anesthetized patients at Citrus Memorial Hospital in Inverness.

Industry officials and the Florida Nurses Association maintain that attacks on hospital patients are rare.

But the state has no requirement that nurses accused of improper activity be removed from contact with patients. Hospitals are not even required to report they are investigating an allegation of sexual assault by an employee against a patient.

The International Association for Healthcare Security and Safety in Lombard, Ill., said 312 sexual assaults were reported in 280 hospitals nationwide between 1987 and 1992. Forty-two sexual assaults were reported in 1992 alone.

The alleged attacks at the St. Augustine and Inverness hospitals underscore the need to change state law to require hospitals to let state regulators about any allegations, say some lawmakers and industry officials.

Classes given by nude cowgirls

MELBOURNE — Brenda Owens checked out the Silver Spurs Dance Studio in search of country dancing classes. What she found was a cowboy's dream but not her idea of a good time.

"I thought I'd stop and see what was going on. I opened the door and stopped in my tracks," Ms. Owens said. "There were six girls inside, wearing cowboy hats, boots — and that's all. They were naked. I turned around and left."

The studio bills itself as a dance studio, but what it really is a nude dancers' club.

Manager Dennis O'Neill says the club's clientele are the customers. Line dancing, made popular in country music clubs, features multiple dancers moving in unison to certain steps.

The girls actually were rehearsing when Ms. Owens walked in on them and that they actually wear more than cowboy boots and cowboy hats. When they start performing Monday at the new club they will also be wearing spurs, and garter belts for customers to put tips in, O'Neill said.

No alcohol or drugs will be allowed, O'Neill said, and no unruly behavior or physical contact with the instructors will be tolerated — except to place a tip in the garter.

Turkey drop irks animal rights activists

WEST PALM BEACH — A radio station's plans to drop a live turkey from a plane is ruffling the feathers of animal rights activists — one of whom suggested the station drop a disc jockey from the plane because he came up with the idea.

Radio Station Star 95.5 plans to drop the 40-pound turkey from an airplane Monday and then give a dressed turkey to the person who catches it.

Animal rights activists say they are flooding the station with calls to stop the stunt.

"If the DJ wants to be dropped out of the airplane and see who catches him, that would be OK," animal rights activist Elizabeth Johnson said.

Animal Care and Control officials called attorneys because cruelty to animals can be prosecuted as a misdemeanor or third-degree felony.

Gordon: How much damage?

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Crews from the Federal Emergency Management Agency toured Seminole County Friday establishing the amount of damage caused by Tropical Storm Gordon last week.

Meanwhile, area rivers and lakes were on the rise Friday and local emergency management officials feared they could crest and cause more flooding. A district water spokesman said Lake Monroe may continue to rise for several weeks, but was uncertain Friday whether the lake will top the seawall.

Three FEMA crews visited neighborhoods throughout the county Friday to determine if Gordon caused a disaster here.

Their assessment will determine whether Pres. Bill Clinton should declare the county a disaster area. With the declaration, homeowners, businessmen and local agencies will qualify for federal loans to help them recover from flooding caused by eight inches of rain.

Spring Oaks subdivision in west Altamonte Spring is still flooded Saturday.

What are you thankful for this Thanksgiving?

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Thanksgiving has always been a time of togetherness and sharing. Ever since the first time this day was celebrated, families have come together to partake of food and generously give to each other.

Numerous families have begun a tradition of counting their blessings. Some write what they're thankful for on paper and place their written thoughts in a bowl for their loved ones to read.

This joyous time normally shared with family and friends is a sweet time for some. Many contribute time to serve turkey and dressing meals to the homeless. Others crowd around the television to view Macy's parade and football games.

Residents were asked what they are thankful for this Thanksgiving.

Pete Campo rounded, "I'm happy because me and my girlfriend are having a kid. I'm thankful that I have a good job. Thanksgiving is a good time to bring families together."

Scott Lillie's response was similar. "I've still got a job. I'm thankful for that. I'm still living. That's about it."

Like Lillie, life is important to Jeremiah Sessions. "I'm thankful that the good Master let me live. I almost died six months ago. I was happily married and working for the State of Florida. I got a cold and ended up with a bad case of bronchitis. I almost didn't make it. I used to smoke 3 packs of cigarettes a day. I quit smoking."

Tom June had an optimistic viewpoint. "I'm thankful I'm not in jail."

"LAP," said. "I'm thankful to Miss Margaret Davis was mentioned as an early second floor tenant of the DeForest Block (now Touchton) when she taught piano in 1913. I remember Miss Margaret quite well as I took piano lessons from her approximately 1944-52. At that time, her studio was located in a garage apartment by the alley between Fifth and Sixth Streets near the Sanford Library now the Cultural Arts Building. My dad — was I right? — accompanied, but it wasn't so bad. He finally realized that I had limited talent when I was a high school sophomore. In the meantime, I went weekly to Miss Margaret Davis, at 75¢ per lesson. While a student at Sanford Grammar School and Sanford Junior High, I would take lessons during recess and Miss Margaret would chauffeur me back and forth in her ancient black Ford coupe. While at junior high, I would start walking toward her studio and she would pick me up on the way. I'd usually have to walk back to school.

Oh, how I dreaded yearly piano recitals! These were really big occasions and were held at the Sanford Womens Club. We dressed in evening attire and performed on the grand piano on the stage. Afterwards we took a bow and were presented with flowers and gifts from our well wishers. But oh, the agony of waiting backstage for our turn — I always tried to be placed near the first of the program so I could then enjoy the rest of the

No grant for Ritz restoration, but preservationists undaunted

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Local preservationists who flew to Tallahassee in an effort to obtain a state grant for the refurbishing of the historic Ritz Theatre in Sanford returned empty handed last week.

The application was unsuccessful when the state ran out of grant money, one official said.

According to Pat Shafer, vice president of the Ritz Community Theatre Board, "When they evaluated our request, we were placed as number ten, but then they ran out of grant money by the time they reached number seven, so we ended up out of luck."

Shafer, along with Suzanne Reynolds and Fred Rogers, were flown to Tallahassee Monday by Richard Colegrove. The group returned late that day but the decision was not to be made until the end of this past week.

The request was for $17,988, part of a matching grant of $33,811 which had been requested for the theater restoration project.

Shafer said one heartening advance was the $2,000 which has been approved for the project by the Historic Preservation Board during Monday's Sanford City Commission meeting.

"We are disappointed in not getting the grant," Shafer said, "but what it means is that we'll just have to work harder to get money through other sources and private donations."

The money allocated by the Historic Preservation Board was designated to be used in restoring the roof of the theater.

High speed chase

A Florida Highway Patrol trooper reportedly investigated what was described by a security guard as a suspicious vehicle, in the rest area of Interstate-4 on Thursday. The trooper said as he approached the car, it sped off onto the highway.

During the chase the trooper reported clocking the vehicle at speeds in excess of 110 miles per hour. The vehicle left the interstate at Lake Mary Boulevard, drove through several parking lots, and following a chase by other officers including Lake Mary police, was finally located in a parking lot at St. Croix Apartments on Lake Emma Road.

The driver of the vehicle, identified as Alan Blake Claffin, 30, of 1805 North Street, Longwood, was arrested on charges of fleeing and attempting to elude an officer, and reckless driving.

Medium speed chase

Joseph Leroy Francis, 31, 3700 Narcissus Road, Sanford, was arrested by sheriff's deputies at his residence Thursday. A deputy said he spotted Francis' vehicle near Narcissus and Kennel Road, and reportedly clocked it at traveling 70 miles per hour in a 25 mile zone. After a chase, the deputy said Francis drove to his home, ran from the vehicle, and was subsequently apprehended hiding under the side of his house.

He has been charged with reckless driving, and resisting an officer without violence.

Retail theft

Tameko Kacheyroy, 21, 1800 Lincoln Avenue, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at a retail store in the 1700 block of Airport Blvd. Thursday. Police said she was apprehended after reportedly trying to remove a pack of Pampers and a 12-pack of soft drinks from the store without paying for the items. She was charged with retail theft.

Traffic stop

Leon C. Willett, 35, of Winter Park, was stopped on CR-426 near Red Bug Road by Oviedo police early Friday. Police said they found he had some drugs in his pockets during a search. He was arrested on a charge of possession of cocaine.

His assailant is in jail, however, arrested Friday and charged with attempted murder and aggravated assault.

Elderly lady bilked

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — An 85-year-old Sanford woman was reportedly bilked out of money she paid to have the roof of her home repaired. The woman, who lives in the 1400 block of Bel Air Blvd. in Sanford, told police she was approached by a man driving a teal colored pickup truck, who offered to check the roof of her home.

She said after the man climbed up on the roof, he reportedly told her it was damaged and needed repairs. He is said to have estimated the cost at $450, and asked for the money in advance.

Police say the woman wrote the man a check for half the amount, $225, on Thursday, and the man left the area and has not been seen since.

On Nov. 4, Edward Louis Gordon, 25, 800W Bay Ave., Sanford, allegedly shot into the pickup truck driven by Leroy Ervin who was driving away from Gordon.

According to the Sanford Police Department arrest report, Gordon allegedly got a gun from a neighbor's house and fired several rounds into the driver side door of Ervin's truck.

Police said the round struck the door at a spot even with Ervin's torso. They said it denied the door and ricocheted upward just missing the victim. He wasn't hurt, police said.

They said he drove from the scene to the police department to report the alleged crime.

Police said Ervin selected Gordon's photo from a line up of 50 to 60 pictures.

Gordon was also charged with use of a firearm in the commission of a felony and with shooting into an occupied vehicle.

He is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility on $25,000 bond.

OVER 125 YEARS OF HELPING THE NEEDY

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE ADOPTION

The St. Johns River Water Management District proposes to adopt amendments to chapter 40C-2, Florida Administrative Code, Permitting of Consumptive Uses of Water, at its regularly scheduled Governing Board meeting at 9:00 A.M. on Wednesday, December 14, 1994, in Palatka, Florida. A public hearing will be held at this time if requested within 21 days of October 28, 1994.

The purpose of the proposed amendments is to achieve greater water conservation and to assure that all consumptive uses of water are consistent with the public interest and are reasonable beneficial. This will be accomplished by the creation of a direct permitting relationship between the District and persons with secondary uses, as defined in the draft rule. The effect of the proposed amendments includes: 1) establishing a new permitting threshold, 2) alleviating the burden currently placed on water suppliers during the application review process, and 3) achieving more water savings.

Any person interested in obtaining a copy of the proposed amendments should contact Norma Messer, District Rules Coordinator, at 1-800-451-7106 or 904-329-4459. Questions should be addressed to Hal Wilkening, Assistant Director, Department of Resource Management, at 904-329-4250 or to Jennifer Burdick, Assistant General Counsel, at 904-329-4199, or 1-800-451-7106.

Kerry Lyons for Sanford commissioner

It's been many years since a new face and name has joined the Sanford City Commission. The same commissioners have handled the business and made the decisions affecting the city and its people since January 1989.

Without a doubt, Sanford is progressing toward a bright future including a major mall, charming downtown, developed waterfront and a quaint historic district. But for the most part, these accomplishments have been driven by forward thinking citizens who push their ideas until the city finally notices, thinks about it, and then reacts.

It's time for a change. Sanford has very little property available for major industrial expansion to help the tax rolls. With many homes valued below home-stead exemption, the city realizes lower ad valorem tax income. Despite a picturesque lakefront, easy access by land, sea and air, visitors have only been prominent during such events as the Golden Age Games. We are still trying to overcome an image problem.

City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan has been involved in many major decisions the commission has had to make during his almost 14 years on the board. He has also been involved in many separate projects such as the annual bikes for Christmas project, Underprivileged Children's Committee, and various organizations, task forces and councils. We commend him for his involvement.

However, the time has come for the city to enter a new era of government. A proactive era where solutions to problems are explored and tested.

The Sanford Herald believes Kerry Lyons is the best choice for Sanford City Commission District 3. He offers a positive approach to some age-old problems heretofore unsolved by our current commissioners. He has ideas: Redeveloping a vacant shopping center as a support facility for the airport, creating high wage jobs, bike paths that would draw enthusiasts and make residents more visible, helping to deter crime, reinstating community policing similar to the sheriff's plan. Some of his ideas may work and some of them may not, but he is refreshingly full of ideas for the future. Mr. McClanahan is not.

We need to work on Sanford's future, led by a commission that looks ahead rather than continuing in the same direction taken in the past.

Although he actively participates in many civic projects, we know Mr. Lyons doesn't have the governmental experience of Mr. McClanahan. But neither did Mr. McClanahan when he first sought election to office in 1971.

On December 6, the Sanford Herald urges voters to elect Kerry Lyons to serve as Sanford City Commissioner for District 3.

The real reason for Thanksgiving

Americans will celebrate the 373rd Thanksgiving on Thursday - November 24, 1994. Thanksgiving is a truly American holiday, dating back to the Pilgrims. The Pilgrims, in search of religious freedom, landed in Plymouth Rock December 26, 1620. Their first winter in the new land was difficult, about half of them died. History tells us that the Indians were instrumental in helping the Pilgrims survive and taught them about planting crops.

During the autumn of 1621, Plymouth's Governor, William Bradford, decided to thank God for their bountiful harvest. He invited the Indians, who had befriended them, to share in three days of feasting and Thanksgiving.

The celebration in New England continued on an annual basis until 1863 when President Abraham Lincoln proclaimed it a national holiday. Turkey and pumpkin pie came to symbolize Thanksgiving feasting.

After Thanksgiving became a national holiday, it was observed the last Thursday in November. However, in 1941 Congress designated the fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving.

The lessons to be learned from the original Thanksgiving are to thank God and to acknowledge all of the people who have contributed to our well-being.

Thanksgiving to God for health and life is certainly in order. Another year has passed and the fact that Americans have survived earthquakes, floods, storms, fires, mudslides, unsettling turmoil world-wide and crime should be noted.

Thanksgiving has to encompass concern and active commitment to help those members of our community who find survival as tenuous as the Pilgrims did during their first winter. The homeless, the hungry, those without medical care.

Thanksgiving may be used as an opportunity to examine our lives and take time to thank the people who share their lives with us. There are individuals in this society whose professions bring them in contact with most of us. They are the people in helping professions: ministers, teachers, physicians, nurses, dentists, counselors, social workers and others. Throughout this nation there are thousands upon thousands of unsung heroes and heroines who perform acts of kindness that help someone. They perform basic chores, like cleaning a yard or shopping for an older neighbor. They supervise children whose parents can't afford to pay them. Then there is the army of volunteers at hospitals, nursing homes, Habitat for Humanity projects, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, the Red Cross and multiple other worthwhile endeavors. In essence these individuals share their time with others without expecting or receiving any monetary remuneration.

Thanksgiving heralds the beginning of the two most cherished holidays for families in America. Thanksgiving is the first, followed by Christmas a month later. God is central in both of these holidays, if one is a Christian. Emphasizing the real reason for Thanksgiving and Christmas is essential.

Families and friends gather on these holidays to bathe in the warmth of past experiences and engender feelings of mutual love and valuing. Like the first pilgrims, we are grateful to God for the people in our lives. We look with hope to the days ahead because we are convinced that God has a purpose for each life if we permit him to enter.

Remarkably, it still matters

BOSTON-It's remarkable how much it still matters.

Three years ago, Clarence Thomas ascended to the Supreme Court with charges of sexual harassment clinging to the hem of his black robe like tenacious mud.

Three years ago, Anita Hill went home to Oklahoma, passing a ganlet of fellow travelers in the Dallas airport, who hissed and yelled "shame" at her.

The man from Pin Point, Ga., became the Alfred Dreyfus of wronged conservatives. The woman from Lone Tree, Okla. became the Rosa Parks of sexual harassment. He is secluded and bitter. She describes her life as "dismal."

The confirmation hearings splintered Americans by race, gender, political persuasion. Candidates ran for public office on platforms that read "I Believe Anita." Whole careers and movements were invested in their chosen hero or victim.

Today, spines still stiffen and eyes still narrow at the question: Who do you believe? Friendships hang on the answer.

It still matters. So the controversy erupts again and again, pouring lava over the wounds. Last year David Brock's book trashed Hill as "a little nutty, a little slutty." Now Jane Mayer and Jill Abramson have published "Strange Justice," which says that "the preponderance of the evidence suggests that Judge Thomas" did lie under oath.

But the report by the two Wall Street Journal reporters is not just another entree in dueling He Wrote/She Wrote annals. They reveal the White House war, a search-and-destroy-Anita mission. They describe an "impartial" Senate Judiciary Committee that wanted nothing more than to get the hearings over with.

Most damning, they write about the "other women" who had "experienced, witnessed, or were told about behavior on his part that was strikingly similar" to Hill's story. Women who agreed to testify on her behalf. But were never called.

It's true that we may never know exactly what happened between Thomas and Hill. But her testimony not only fits the facts as they are carefully assembled in this book; it also fits the two characters.

One is Clarence Thomas, who remembers being called "ABC"—America's Blackest Child. Born to a line of illegitimate children, he was raised by the rules and rod of a stern grandfather and strict nuns in a South so segregated that blacks swore on separate Bibles in court.

Through college, law school and the years of his climb toward the court, friends knew of his enthusiasm for pornographic films and magazines, of hostility to women, of his sexual "wild talk." When they heard Hill's testimony about "public hair on the Coke can" and "long Dong Silver," they said in virtual unison, "That's my boy. That's him talking."

The other character was Anita Hill, the youngest and most sheltered of 13 children who grew up in a farm family where silence was better than argument and sex was taboo. At 25, she was both deeply ambitious and terribly naive.

In the early '80s, long before sexual harassment became a commonplace term, she asked a friend how to handle Thomas. All the friend suggested was that Hill try a different perfume.

Thomas was simultaneously the best and worst thing that had ever happened to her," write the authors. "both offering and threatening the career she had always wanted." She tried, perhaps too hard, to keep her boss at bay while keeping him on her side. She wanted, for too long, to use this connection. But nowhere except in the fantasies of her enemies was she a hater, a "erotomaniac," a femi-Nazi. Or a liar.

"Strange Justice" is not a polemic; it's an investigation. But I have no illusions that it will change minds that are already made up. The story will remain a litmus test of our time. It still matters.

Today, spines still stiffen and eyes still narrow at the question: Who do you believe?

It's time

"IT'S TIME" that we must take our nation, our states, our cities, our towns, our counties, our homes, our streets, our people back. I tell you it's time for changes to be made. We see, we hope, we pray and we wait for it to get done—and nothing. So what are you "NO" what are "WE" going to do about it. It's not your problem. "This is our problem." It's time we must all come together and unite (unity). We blame this one and that one. We (the people) need to care and come together.

We know, you know, I know, he knows, she knows, they know, everybody knows. To really solve "Our" problem, which is to get right with God and love (unconditionally) the way he wants us to love. But, everybody is not going to make this choice. Yet still, people have choices, decisions to make, if not choosing God which would solve our problem, then choose to live in peace and harmony.

I propose doing what has been tried and is necessary, to enforce a maximizing sentencing and fines (equal application for all). No probation, no early release. Chain gangs (jails and prison) should be reinstated work.

In order to do so, we must do away with the sentencing guidelines score sheet preparation manuals.

In all fairness sentences before change is instated, stays as is.

Amazing elections

The 1994 elections can be described in one word "amazing." The economy is relatively strong, unemployment is the lowest it has been in some time (under 6%), there are no major problems overseas and the budget deficit was actually reduced during the last fiscal year. Yet, not one Republican incumbent lost and the Democrats lost control of the House, the Senate and the Governorships.

The Republican party has had an easy job over the last forty years, being in the minority in the House all that time and in control of the Senate rarely. When you're the minority it's easy to complain and point out what should be done. Now, the Republican party must produce. The message from the voters is loud and clear. They want change, they want the government to be responsive to their needs, they are tired of continual talk, more taxes and more government. If the Republicans meet this challenge, 1996 will even be better. If they don't, the memory of the public is short and the Democrats can well be back in charge.

This election was also a referendum on Clinton and his policies. However, before anyone writes Clinton off, remember, months before President Bush's defeat he had an approval rating over 90%. President Clinton was pushed to the left by his wife Hillary and many White House advisors. Their influence now will be minimal. Clinton by nature is not comfortable with strong philosophical positions and has been prone to compromise. His background as a southern Governor has shown that if given a choice he will stay near the center. Clinton may be better able to work with the Republican Congress than with the previous Democrat Congress where he had to continually deal with the liberals in his own party. Clinton needs the Republican Congress to be effective if he has a chance for re-election. The Republicans need to get positive programs through if they are going to continue in control in '96 and elect a Republican President. It is an uneasy marriage of convenience, which could end up in either the worst legislative gridlock in years, or the most meaningful legislation being passed that we have ever seen. Let's hope for the country's sake the latter happens.

high fell between Tuesday and Wednesday.

Ken Roberts, Seminole County's emergency management coordinator, said Friday several subdivisions were still inundated with floodwater. Among them are the Mullet Lake area near Geneva and the Sage Spring Oaks subdivision in west Altamonte Springs. Roberts said portions of Goldsboro ceded during the storm, but rained quickly. FEMA and Sanford officials will tour the area, he said.

Roberts said the county will seek assistance in repairing damages to a washout of Hunt Club Road and the Orange Avenue bridge, struck by a four-foot wall of water rushing to the Wekiva River.

Roberts said while many neighborhoods were beginning to dry out by Friday, some areas may still face flooding. Roberts said Lake Monroe, Lake Jesup and the Wekiva River were still rising Friday and could crest.

Jeff Cole, spokesman for the St. Johns River Water Management District, said district crews were taking an aerial assessment of local rivers and lakes Friday. The only information available so far, Lake Jesup was recorded at 6.7 feet above mean sea level, far below the 10-year-high of eight feet. Cole said the primary feeder for Lake Jesup, the Howell Creek basin, is not expected to send "much" more water to the lake.

Cole said crews are watching

Lake Monroe closely and do expect it to continue rising during the next three to four weeks. More information about the speed and height of the rise will be known later this week, Cole said.

Area agriculturists appeared to have fared well, said county extension agent Catherine Neal. There were no reports of damages to horticultural crops, the primary agri-business in Seminole County, Neal said. Information on row crops were unavailable, she said.

In South Florida, field crop losses are estimated at more than $100 million and are expected to cause immediate store shelf price increases in winter fruit and vegetable crops.

evening. I remember very clearly that one time my mind went blank while playing my piece, so I just started over from the beginning and was able to complete it.

There was usually a guest artist during the program. I know that my dad was guest artist for several of her recitals through the years.

Miss Margaret was a colorful character, since she was giving lessons in 1913, she had already been teaching for at least 30 years when I started and she continued teaching for many more years. I remember her with white hair and exaggerated mannerisms. It was a sight to watch her play the piano and organ. She always had a handkerchief tucked in her bracelet which fluttered around as she gestured. During lessons, she didn't just count, she would sing the count.

Here is a list of performers in the 1950 piano recital of students of Miss Margaret Davis: Sandra and Sonja Monforton, Ann Thurston, Dora Bronson, Frances Lawson, Patsy Haught, Ernie Morris, Beverly Cooper, Lennie Rotundo, Diana Fleisher, Grace Marie Stineciper, Laura Phillips, Kaye Bryan, Allison Lee (five years old), Jean and Joan Wilke, Alice Williams, Tommy Wyatt, Jo Ann Strawder, Elizabeth Woodruff, Harriet Redding, Bobby Morris, Doris Partin, Phyllis Wyatt, Margaret Mortimer, Mrs. Wallace Phillips, Wallace Phillips, Jr., Arlene Jacobson, Jeanne Lane Miller, Margaret Malloy, Mary Ann Wilke, Shirley Middleton, and Jane Ford. Guest artist was Bill Jones, baritone, from Stetson University.

I also have a program from the 1938 recital at which my dad was guest soloist. Some of these budding pianists were: Louise Moughton, Elise Hutchinson, Stella Touchton, Florence Wells, Caroline Lee, Kenneth Leffer, Angela Meish, Shirley Eick, Clara Haskins, Mary Helen Tew, Audrey Bach, Elizabeth Fite, Ralph Wight, Zona Mathews, Louise Perkins, and Dorothy Marshall.

A few of these became excellent pianists such as Allison Lee, Joan Wilke, Tommy Wyatt, Jeanne Lane Miller, Shirley Middleton, Dorothy Marshall, and Stella Touchton, but the majority of us (like me) play only for our own enjoyment or perhaps can accompany a group if they sing what we can play.

All of us, though, gained an excellent basic music education and an appreciation for good music from Miss Margaret which was worth all the agony of practice, lessons and recitals.

More teachers remembered

Lou Temple remembers Mrs. Jacobs, his first grade teacher at Southside. He said that she had a wooden leg. One incident that he recalled was her punishing two misbehaving girls by tacking them to the wall.

Glenda Collins Emerson had Mrs. Sybil Routh as a sixth grade teacher at grammar school, and one memorable incident came to mind. Mrs. Routh went to the restroom during class, leaving a student in charge. When she returned, she went immediately to the blackboard and began writing. Unbeknownst to her, her dress was caught and her bloomers were showing. The class was shocked and didn't laugh or say a word. No one wanted to be the one to tell her.

Mona Mills Walker also had Miss Lucille Campbell in the sixth grade and remembers making papyrus paper that year. I also recall our class doing that, in fact we made it from reeds that grew by my family's backyard fish pond.

"We always get some great deals on some beautiful things here," he said. "We try to get here early and spend the day looking around," he said. "It's an event we look forward to for months."

By 10:30, the couple said they had already spent more than $250 and had bought Christmas presents for all the kids, the nieces and nephews and most of their friends.

Cab Calloway dead at 86

NEW YORK — Cab Calloway, the prancing, dancing band leader whose shouts of "hi-de-ho" resounded from the stage of Harlem's famed Cotton Club, has died. He was 86.

Calloway, who suffered a severe stroke on June 12 at his home in White Plains, died Friday night in a Delaware nursing home with his family at his side, said his wife, Nuffie.

Afterwards, she spent a quiet hour alone with him. "I put my head on his shoulder, and that was very healing," Mrs. Calloway said.

"He had two separate lives: His life onstage and his life with the family. When he closed the door on his dressing room, he came home as a husband, father and grandfather."

As a bandleader, singer, author, dancer and songwriter, Calloway performed for more than 60 years, from Chicago jazz joints to the Cotton Club on Broadway and in Hollywood movies. His influence in the music world was huge.

Calloway was the man who hired an unknown Dizzy Gillespie and promoted the careers of Pearl Bailey and Lena Horne. He later became known to a younger generation through the 1980 hit film "The Blues Brothers."

Wife of actor convicted of his death

NEWARK, N.J. — The estranged wife of actor Michael Guesse has been convicted of shooting him to death during an argument.

Christine Austin Guesse, 31, was found guilty of reckless manslaughter Friday. She faces up to 10 years in prison and is scheduled to be sentenced in January.

Prosecutors said Michael Guesse went to his estranged wife's condominium just before midnight last November and was shot to death with a .22-caliber handgun when the couple began arguing.

Guesse appeared in the movies "Glory," "Born on the Fourth of July" and "Sugar Hill," and the television series "Law and Order."

Gay man wins paternity rights

NEW YORK — A gay man who fathered a child for a lesbian couple through artificial insemination, then sued over visitation, has won paternity rights to the girl.

A state appeals panel ruled that Thomas Steel, 44, of San Francisco, can call himself the father of Ry Russo-Young, 13.

"The notion that a lesbian mother should enjoy a parental relationship with her, but a gay father should not, is so innately discriminatory as to be unworthy of comment," the state Supreme Court's Appellate Division said in a 3-2 decision made public Friday.

Ry lives in Manhattan with her mother, Robin Young, Young's partner, Sandra Russo, and Russo's daughter by another sperm donor, Cade.

By mutual agreement of her biological parents, Ry visited with her father from about ages 4 through 9. Steel said Ry sent him cards and letters, including one which called him "the best dad I ever loved," and wrote a song for his 40th birthday.

Gore pitches GATT as massive 'tax cut'

WASHINGTON — The world trade agreement that Congress will be asked to ratify contains the "biggest tax cut in history" in the form of lower tariffs and lower consumer prices, Vice President Al Gore said Saturday.

Gore, stepping in for the traveling President Clinton in his weekly radio address, said congressional critics who want to delay voting on the accord until the Republicans take control of Congress in January are actually out to kill it.

"It's hard to imagine ... they want to delay an agreement that creates hundreds of thousands of new jobs here in the United States and expands economic opportunity," Gore said.

"GATT contains the biggest tax cut in history — a record $744 billion reduction in tariffs, which will lower prices for consumers and spark economic growth around the globe, and, most importantly, here at home."

The accord negotiated under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade is opposed by some in both parties who say cheaper imports will put Americans out of work and that multinational regulation of the agreement will compromise U.S. sovereignty.

Gore said the World Trade Organization, which would oversee the 123-country accord, could not interfere with U.S. law.

"GATT does not force us to change any laws that we don't want to change. GATT will not require the United States to adopt lower international food safety standards or force us to accept any food imports that we consider to be unsafe. Those are myths."

Drawing on talent, strength of spirit Sanford artist's blindness doesn't stop creative flow

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Although Sanford artist Nicholas Serena has suffered several hardships and setbacks, he has found that his talent has remained to sustain him.

Serena was diagnosed in January, 1987 with multiple sclerosis and has been legally blind for two years now.

Once, this experienced right-handed artist drew and painted with comfort and ease. Now, his skill abides although his gift has been transferred to his left hand, amid periods of unsteadiness. Yet, through it all, his kind personality and cordial manner have not faltered.

Serena met his wife, Julia, at a multiple sclerosis support meeting. Together, and with the help of family and friends they have battled his disability with courage.

A former registered nurse, he spoke of his days in nursing. "I've worked in hospitals and institutions for the past 15 years," he said. "I would sometimes draw a picture on the patient's chart to help describe, for example, organs, instruments and hospital stuff."

Due to his condition, Serena was soon unable to continue in the medical field. He returned again to his love, his art. "Art has always been my love," he said. "I've been into art since I was knee-high to a grasshopper. There was a time in my life when I never went anywhere without a sketch pad. Art was always a part of my life. It's a part of me."

Throughout high school and college, Serena continued to take art classes as electives. For a time in high school he also worked in an art gallery. "I worked as a salesman in a gallery," he said. "I framed pictures and touched up oil paintings and other such art work that was damaged or needing to be restored."

Julia, Serena's wife, said her husband has endured along this rough road in life. "It got to a point where no one would hire him. We went to the state to get a grant so we could get him started with his art. We were denied. We then went to Jack Gordinio with the Division of Blind Services. Jack helped Nicholas get a grant to start the business. They helped when no one else would. They helped get him glasses and other items to help his hands. It was a small grant. That enabled me to get some small prints of his work and some frames."

She continued to share her hopes for his future art. "I wish work's been done. "One day to that they will find a cure for multiple sclerosis. I'd love to see his work go into a museum. He has had tremors but his work

Serb planes attack Bosnia again

ZAGREB, Croatia — Rebel Serb warplanes defying international outrage struck at government-held northwest Bosnia for a second day Saturday, the United Nations said. One of the planes was shot down.

Bosnia's U.N. ambassador, Muhamed Sacitbey, said in New York at least 15 people were seriously hurt in the attack on the town of Cazin.

"At least one apartment building was hit, one group of flats," said U.N. spokesman Paul Risley. One of the Yugoslav-made Orao fighter-bombers crashed against a building and the pilot was killed, he added.

"There are buildings on fire," Risley added, and four large craters left by bombs.

U.N. officials said one plane was seen hitting a building before it crashed, Sacitbey said the plane was shot down.

The raid came as the U.N. Security Council was preparing to decide on a measure that would allow NATO to strike at targets in Serb-held parts of Croatia, where the planes were based.

Victory for some Iran divorcees

NICOSIA, Cyprus — The head of Iran's judiciary said Friday that some women being divorced by their husbands were entitled to up to half the wealth accumulated during marriage.

Ayatollah Mohammad Yazdi said in a Friday prayers sermon in Tehran that this applied to women who had not initiated the divorce and had conducted themselves properly during their marriages.

Yazdi's sermon was broadcast by the state-run Tehran Radio and monitored in Nicotia.

He said that while around 98 percent of marriages in Iran were happy, he knew of cases where well-off men had left their wives for younger women.

"I know of — couples who have gone through poverty and hardship together and gradually their lot improves. Now the man has got a desk job or come into some money, and God forbid, made the acquaintance of a young woman at work or outside, and he wishes to divorce his wife and marry the other woman," Yazdi said.

"In such cases, if a man wishes to divorce his wife, the court can, or must, investigate the amount of wealth which they have accumulated during the period — (of) their marriage to the time of divorce, and that, at the discretion of the court, up to half of that wealth should be given unconditionally by the man to the woman."

Japan won't import as many auto parts

TOKYO — Japan's automakers probably won't import as many U.S. made auto parts this fiscal year as promised in a trade deal, a major financial daily said today.

The top 11 automakers in Japan are expected to have imported $3.27 billion worth of U.S. parts by March 31, missing a self-imposed goal written into a 1992 trade deal by $730 million, or almost one-fifth, according to the Nihon Keizai Shinbun.

ORLANDO — Darrin Hinshaw passed for 278 yards and three touchdowns, and wide receiver David Rhodes caught seven passes for 172 yards and two scores Saturday to lead Central Florida to a 48-0 victory over Buffalo.

Central Florida (7-4) racked up 510 total yards against Buffalo (3-8), which managed just 79. It was Central Florida's first shutout since a 12-0 victory over Valdosta State on Sept. 14, 1991.

Hinshaw completed 15 of 26 passes with two interceptions, including touchdown tosses of 12 and 5 yards to Rhodes. He also connected on a 60-yarder to senior Mark Whittemore, who finished with four receptions for 85 yards.

Freshman Todd Cleveland, from Lyman, returned the opening kickoff 99 yards for a touchdown to set the tone. It was his third kickoff return for a touchdown this season.

The Knights' other points came on a 4-yard run by Gerod Davis, a 1-yard plunge by fullback Bob Menello (Lake Mary), and field goals of 47 and 31 yards by Charlie Pierce.

Central Florida tailback Marquette Smith (Lake Howell) rushed for 118 yards on 17 carries, pushing his season total to 1,058 yards on 134 carries.

Pats march past Saints
Lake Brantley defense shuts down Sandalwood

By TONY DeBORNIER
Herald Sports Editor

JACKSONVILLE — You could make a case that the Lake Brantley High School football team plays defense with its offense, controlling the clock and field position with a running attack that averages nearly 300 yards a game.

But in Friday night's first-round state playoff game at Jacksonville-Sandalwood, the Patriot defense stepped forward and shut down the Saints as Lake Brantley posted a 21-7 victory.

The Patriots (10-1) will play at Niceville (which thrashed Orange Park 41-7 Friday) in a second-round matchup next Friday night.

Sandalwood ends its season 9-2. The Sandalwood Saints, the 6A-District 3 champions, came into Friday's contest averaging over 31 points a game. And when Sandalwood scored on its first series, tying the score at 7-7, Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon thought he and his Patriots were in for a long night.

"When they came right down and scored after we did, I thought, 'This is going to be a foot race. The last one to score is going to win this game,'" recalled Almon. "But our defense did an outstanding job."

After that 53-yard touchdown drive by the Saints, Lake Brantley limited Sandalwood to just 140 yards the rest of the game. Frankie Franklin, who carried the ball five times for 48 yards on the touchdown drive and scored for the Saints on a 9-yard run, was limited to 85 yards the rest of the way.

"We concentrated on taking him (Franklin) out of the game," said defensive tackle Steve Miller, one of the captains of the Patriot defense. "We clogged up the middle and took away any running room."

"We proved that we can stop anybody," defensive back Brian Whitman, the Patriots' other defensive captain, credited the Lake Brantley coaching staff for having the defense prepared to stop the Saints.

"The coaches gave us a great defensive scheme," said Whitman. "They (the Saints) tried to put it to us but we were ready."

After their first series, the Saints started their next two possessions in Lake Brantley territory. Both times the Patriots held, forcing a punt from their 39-yard line and taking over on downs on their own 17-yard line.

In the second half, three of Sandalwood's five series lasted just four plays. Of the other two, one ended with the Patriots taking over on downs on their own 23-yard line and the other was killed by Dee Brown's interception at the Lake Brantley 4-yard line.

The Patriots weren't having much more success on offense after opening the game with a 52-yard, nine-play touchdown drive capped by Brown's 6-yard touchdown run. John Berardi's kick on the point after gave Lake Brantley a 7-0 lead that lasted less than four minutes.

While Sandalwood enjoyed outstanding field position to open the rest of its series in the first half, Lake Brantley was bottled up in its end of the field, starting from its own 33, 3, and 13-yard

Kiep leads Raiders to third place

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Former Lyman High School star Felicia Kiep poured in 20 points for the second consecutive game as the Seminole Community College Raiders beat Brevard Community College, 61-51, for third place in the 1994 Lady Raiders Invitational Saturday afternoon at the SCC Health and Physical Education Center.

Kiep scored 16 of her 20 points in the second half as the Raiders moved away from a slim 29-23 halftime lead.

Also scoring in double figures for the winners were Jessica Ziegenfeld and Johanna Lautala with 11 points each.

Tee Bias and Demi Dombrose paced Brevard with 17 and 12 points, respectively.

"It was a good effort," said Seminole Community College head coach Heana Gallagher. "Even if you had not seen the scoreboard, it was still a good game for us. We finally got something to go in today. We've been playing well all season, but just have not been able to get anything to drop."

The Raiders had fallen into the lower bracket on Friday night after Tallahassee Community College used a 47-point second half to erase a 40-35 SCC lead and hand the Raiders an 84-77 setback. Brevard had lost to the Pensacola Junior College Pirates Friday night.

The once-beaten Pirates (6-1) met the undefeated Eagles from Tallahassee (4-0) in the finals late Saturday.

Kiep also scored 20 points in the loss to Tallahassee, but 12 of her counters were in the opening half on Friday.

Also having a big night for SCC were Jennifer Coble and Lautala with 19 points each and Nicole Lewis with nine points.

Hitting for double figures for the Eagles were Erika Nance and Jackie Hodnett with a co-game high 21 points and Becky Silva with 14. The SCC women will return to action Tuesday night as they travel to St. Petersburg to take on the St. Petersburg Community College at 7 p.m.

Olson leads Rams past 'Hounds in girls' soccer

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY — Angie Olson scored a pair of goals and Allison Robinson and Brooke Kent added one apiece as the Lake Mary Rams ended a long regular season winning streak by the Lyman Greyhounds, 4-2, in a girls' soccer match at Don T. Reynolds Stadium Friday night.

"I was a good all around effort for us, especially for a first game," said Lake Mary head coach Bill Eissele. "Being the opening game of the year, both teams were feeling each other out and play was tentative and a little sloppy at times. But it was an exciting game, the momentum swung several times and both teams played hard."

"I think both teams were just happy to finally be able to play a game, what with the way the weather has been."

The Rams junior varsity made it a clean sweep for the home squad as Lake Mary spun a shutout, 7-0, at the junior Greyhounds.

The loss was the first in a regular season game for Lyman since early last season at Orange Park.

The Greyhounds are coming off a pair of state championship season and are going through some growing pains.

Lake Mary took a 2-0 lead at intermission, but Lyman cut the lead to 2-1 early in the second half on the first of Danya Harris' two scores.

Also having a good game for Lake Mary were Allison Neri with an assist on one of Olson's goals and Michelle Revito, who had 11 saves in goal.

Fourth quarter outburst dooms Lake Mary boys

From Staff Reports

LEESBURG — Ryan Callahan scored 12 of his game-high 31 points in the fourth quarter Friday night to lead the Leesburg Yellow Jackets to a 75-59 win over the Lake Mary Rams in the Leesburg Boys' Basketball Tip-Off Classic.

Lake Mary (0-1) was to play Tavares at 6:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Rams trailed 18-16 after one quarter and 32-31 at halftime, but managed to take a 49-48 lead into the final period.

Behind Callahan, the Yellow Jackets outscored the Rams 27-10 over the final eight minutes.

"They just wore us down," said Lake Mary assistant coach Mike Gaudreau.

Shawn Newberry and Matt Townsley led the Rams with 13 points each. Jason Junker added 11 for Lake Mary.

Lake Mary's next game is Tuesday, when the Rams visit Deltona for a 6A-District 4 contest.

Perez stars again at Bowl America with second 300 game

Special to the Herald

SANFORD — Robert Perez has done it again. Competing in the Mens' 700 League on November 2nd, the Sanford bowler rolled his second perfect 300 game in three weeks to highlight play at Bowl America-Sanford. And it took perfection to post the best individual game of the week as a pair of other bowlers, Steve Makey and Norm Wilkinson, were one pin short of rolling perfect games, coming up with 299's on the same night as Perez.

But a perfect game was not enough to secure the highest series for the week, in fact it was not even good enough to top the league. Jason Everly rolled a 762 to better Perez' 756, but Tim Pete beat that score, rolling a 783 in the Mens' 700 on November 9th.

lines. Only the inspired play of the defense kept the Saints from exploiting the territorial advantage.

After making some changes at halftime, the Patriots began to move the ball with their accustomed efficiency in the second half, gathering over 170 yards rushing.

Heath Ritenour, who finished with 133 yards on 23 carries, put the Patriots ahead to stay with a 7-yard touchdown run with 1:55 left in the third quarter. Brown, who had 106 yards on 19 carries, led the game with a 23-yard touchdown dash through the heart of the Sandalwood defense with 2:08 left in the game.

"They (the Saints) had a good defensive scheme," said Brown. "The coaches gave us some changes at halftime and they worked. You have to take it to another level in the playoffs. Now we have to get ready for next week."

Even though they had to travel over two hours for the game, the Patriots appeared to be the stronger of the two teams as the game progressed.

"We've always been an outstanding second-half team," said Almon. "You could see we were winning the battles in the trenches, at the line of attack. I don't know if that's because of conditioning or the size of the heart in these kids. I want to believe it's their heart. They won't lose in the second half."

FGFWFC offering free hunter course

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission is offering free hunter education courses for anyone interested in wildlife conservation, hunting or the outdoors.

In your area, contact the nearest commission office.

The 16-hour course provides training in safe gun handling techniques, firearm and ammunition nomenclature, gun and hunting laws, wildlife identification and management, wilderness survival and first aid. In addition, instructors teach the basics of hunting with archery and muzzleloading equipment and hunter ethics and responsibility. Students also attend a range session and shoot a rifle, shotgun and bow.

"Anyone born on or after June 1, 1975, with plans to hunt in Florida must have passed an approved hunter safety course prior to going afield," Capt. Ed Tyer, the Commission's hunter education supervisor, said. "The course is required of all hunters who take wild animal life in Florida with the use of firearms, muzzleloaders, bows or crossbows."

Satisfactory completion of Florida's program meets the requirements of all other states and Canadian provinces where this type of training is required, Tyer said. Persons not required to possess a hunting license but born after June 1, 1975 must have a hunter safety card with them while hunting. License exemptions apply to persons hunting in their county of residence on their homestead or the homestead of their spouse or minor child, any minor child hunting on the homestead of his parents, persons possessing exemption certificates, and certain other individuals.

A separate bowhunting course is offered for those wishing to learn how to hunt with bow and arrow. For information on the next course

FISHING FORECAST
 Bass fishing in the river is almost impossible due to record high water. Fish local lakes where the bass have clearly defined boundaries for the best action.

Snook action at Sebastian Inlet will continue to be good until the first strong cold snap. Flounder, redfish, bluefish, jack crevalle, and ladyfish will be mixed in for good measure. Top baits are finger mullet and large live shrimp. One-ounce jigs continue to be the best artificial.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral has little to report in the way of offshore action due to high ground seas. The ocean is dirty, and fishing will be tough and go for several months. Inside the Port, snook, flounder, and sheepshead are biting regularly. Snook care hitting at night around the jetties. Trout and redfish are rated as good on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Ponce Inlet is featuring fast action with sheepshead and bluefish. Also expect good numbers of redfish, drum, redfish, flounder, and jack crevalle. The best bait is live or dead shrimp.

IN BRIEF

In praise of PIC

SANFORD — Local professionals have been invited to give presentations regarding the Private Industry Council of Seminole County's outstanding programs.

Local staff and a board member are expected to be on hand at two national conferences, one in Washington, D.C. and the other in Buffalo, N.Y., next month.

Among participants are Gary Earl, executive director of the council, Director of Operations Timothy Giamonti, and Larry Strickler, board member for both the Private Industry Council and the Seminole County Public School Board. They have been invited to the First National Conference on Urban Issues.

The title of the conference is "Crossing Boundaries: Collaborative Solutions to Urban Problems."

Food stamp fillings

During the third quarter of 1994, from July through September, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has penalized 96 grocers in the Southeastern states, 26 of them in Florida, for violations connected with the food stamp program.

In comparison, during the previous same time period in 1993, a total of 72 stores in the Southeastern states were penalized with 22 in Florida.

Investigations revealed that some grocers allowed the purchase of non-food items with food stamps, and some exchanged cash for food stamps.

According to William R. Mehr, officer in-charge of the USDA Food and Nutrition Service field office in Tallahassee, "Food stamps can be used legally only to buy food, garden seed and plants used in grow food."

At the present time, over 11,200 retail firms in Florida are authorized to participate in the food stamp program, which annually accounts for over $1.3 billion in food assistance to low income families and related administrative costs.

A disqualified store will not be allowed to accept food stamps during a certain time period, and must apply for reinstatement, as well as agree to post a bond.

The USDA is asking citizens to report any violations they find by phoning the USDA Inspector General in Washington, D.C., at 1-800-424-9121.

The phone number is also supposed to be posted in all stores participating in the food stamp program.

Help for storm victims

LONGWOOD — In the wake of the tornado unleashed in Brevard County by Tropical Storm Gordon, Hallmark Builders of Longwood is participating in an effort to help the victims.

"Hallmark has been building homes in Brevard County for more than a decade," said public relations representative Jane Brown. As a result, Brown says Hallmark is seeking donations of non-perishable food items or clothing.

The items may be dropped off at Hallmark Builders' administrative offices, 521 E. S.R. 434 in Longwood. From that point they will be sorted and sent by courier to Brevard County for distribution to those in need.

Antique shops continue to show their importance to the Central Florida and Seminole County Community. The Artistic Hand has observed its fourth anniversary in Oviedo, and Mainstreet Antiques has observed a first anniversary Holiday Open House in Sanford.

In addition, Sanford Floral & Antiques, 2911 S. Orlando Drive, in Sanford, has now opened for business.

Mainstreet Antiques, at 201 and 203 E. First Street in downtown Sanford, is owned and operated by Dorothy Daniels.

It features American Folk Art such as works by Trema Flanner, Jack Pachuta, Campbell Classics and many others.

Paralleling the historic flavor of the city, Daniels has collected Old World ornaments made from original molds and patterns including German Belanickles, Vintage 50s and earlier holiday decorations also abound.

The offering of collectible beers and Santes is also extensive.

In Oviedo, the four year old antique business on the block is The Artistic Hand. A visit to the store reportedly is designed to take a person back in history to Old Florida. Even the locale denotes antiquity, with shady oak trees and lush palms surrounding a cozy cottage.

Over 100 artists and craftsmen, 70 percent of which are Floridians, are represented in a collection of pottery, glass, paper and fiber art, sculpture, painting, photography, basketry, woodworking, jewelry, and wearable art.

Artistic Hand Art and Gift Gallery was founded in 1990 by Christie and John Ramshur, Barbara Walker-Seaman and Del Seaman.

It is located at 353 N. Central Ave., (SR-434) in Oviedo, and open Monday through Friday from noon until 5 p.m., and Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m.

Sanford Floral & Antiques held its grand opening this past Tuesday. It offers not only antiques but a large assortment of floral displays. Consignments are also welcome.

The store is owned by Mike Dixon and Carolyn Keatwright.

Highlights of the grand opening this week were the giving of free carnations to the first 150 customers entering the business, as well as another 150 carnations to people using the business' drive-in service.

The business offers 24 hour phone service as well, by calling 330-1212 or 1-800-330-1214.

SANFORD — Pennywise Corporation, a deep-discount retail/wholesale store, officially opened last week, on Highway 17-92 and 27th Street in Sanford. The event was topped with a ribbon cutting ceremony by Ambassadors with the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The 5,500 square foot store sells clothing, toys, electronics, housewares, health and beauty items, tools, and giftware.

The store's prices, according to President Ron Fowler, are below low pricing because he buys close-out merchandise, end-runs and stock liquidations, allowing him to sell first-quality merchandise at pennies on the dollar compared with retail prices.

Among items he has on display are Hallmark Greeting Cards, three for a dollar, 35mm cameras from $9.99, clothing starting at $2.99, and many other items.

The Pennywise store will be open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. until 6 p.m., and plans for extended hours during the upcoming holiday season.

More local citrus to go to Europe

LAKELAND — Expanded orange and grapefruit production in Florida could bring a 20 percent increase in juice exports to Europe, predicted state citrus officials.

Although the citrus industry in the Seminole County area is much smaller than during past decades, many farmers and business persons are nevertheless involved in the citrus growing and exportation business.

Export of the two juices could rise from last year's 34 million gallons to 41 million gallons, Joel Sellers, a marketing director for the Florida Department of Citrus, said Wednesday.

Florida held only 5 percent of European juice sales in 1990, but processing companies have been seeking new overseas customers for their products as Florida citrus crops swell with new plantings and good weather.

Sellers said the department's projection was based in part on declarations by individual brands that plan to participate in a department export promotion this season, when the state expects to harvest its second-highest crop on record.

Companies currently exporting juice to Europe include Citrus World, Lykes Pasco Inc., Dule, Berry Citrus, Winter Garden Citrus and Tropicana Products Inc.

"We expect orange juice and grapefruit juice exports to rise dramatically this year, with Germany emerging as a new, strong market," Sellers said.

As in the United States, not-from-concentrate juices are experiencing the strongest demand, he added.

Higher exports to Europe would mean the United States was making small inroads against a dominance on that continent by Brazil, the world's leading exporter of frozen orange juice concentrate.

"In 1994, we should see double-digit growth in Europe," said Terri McNorton, spokeswoman for Tropicana, which two weeks ago began processing fruit at its Bradenton plant for the 1994-95 season. She said the sales growth is particularly strong in Britain, France and Germany.

Analysts said that while Japan has received much of the attention as a future buyer of Florida orange juice, Western Europe actually represents a market with three times that potential.

Sellers said exporters need to be especially mindful about meeting needs in some European countries that could be less of a concern in the United States.

Germany, for example, prefers orange juice in bottles because they are easier to recycle and in keeping with that country's "green wave" of environmental awareness, he said.

Garden Club plans bazaar

Selma turns 75, bridal brunch honors Nancy

For a long time now members of the Garden Club of Sanford Inc. have been busy crafting lovely creations for their Christmas Bazaar. This annual event will be held on Dec. 2 and 3 at the clubhouse, U.S. Highway 17-92 at Fairmont Avenue, the north entrance to Sunland Estates.

According to Fran Moxton, the garden club will be transformed into a charming area that "looks like a department store." She said huge baskets of flowers and other props from Penney's in Sanford will add to the distinction of the delightful bazaar setting.

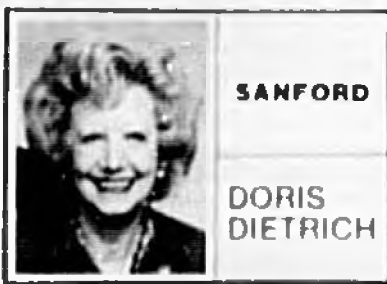

Grandma's Kitchen is expected to be a popular stop with loaves of freshly baked bread and other home baked goodies up for grabs.

"The crafts are beautiful," Fran said. "Every year, if the bazaar improves it is getting nicer."

Along with all the charming crafts, exquisite handmade items, clever Christmas ornaments, and appetizing home-made goodies, breakfast and lunch will be served both days. The breakfast menu includes sausage, biscuit, gravy and grits. Lunch consists of chicken pot pie, cake, coffee and tea. Tables will be set up outside to create a sidewalk cafe dining area. Hours are Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday, 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"Mock Congress," in which the scholars of this conference attempted to pass the crime legislation, a bill passed by Congress last year.

The group divided into Democrats and Republicans were further divided into committees. They formed caucuses and attempted amendments, lobbied, posted their agenda on their door, voted in committees, talked votes prior to the final congressional vote and then voted and found there were not enough votes to pass the legislation.

According to Michael, "after all that work and effort and pressure, nothing was accomplished, and we really understood how things work in the government."

The second of the three areas of learning included a day of, "If I were President..." whereby the students were assigned roles including that of the President, various foreign relations and Pentagon advisers, and ambassadors, and a situation involving an international crisis.

In Michael's group, the students were asked to solve the North Korean crisis involving the testing of nuclear weapons. Everyone has a role in this exercise, and the student's brainstorm for hours regarding possible solutions and their consequences.

The third area of learning involved the assimilation of the Supreme Court for a discussion of Lee vs. Weisman, prayer at a public school graduation. In this exercise, Michael portrayed the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. According to Michael, "all the exercises were timely and informative, as well as educational and inspiring."

Although the entire conference was a wonderful experience for Michael, he was particularly moved by an opportunity to participate in a Wreath Ceremony at "The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier." The following day, President Clinton was at the National Cemetery and there was a wreath, identical to the one used in the ceremony in which Michael participated.

Since Michael has aspirations to attend the United States Air Force Academy, his adviser thought that the ceremony at the National Cemetery might be especially meaningful to him and recommended that he be allowed to participate in it.

About future political aspirations, Michael confided that he was not at this time interested in a political office, but as an Air Force officer, a career as an adviser in Washington, D.C. seemed more in tune with his current focus on his future.

The selection process by which students may receive a nomination to participate in the National Young Leaders Conference may take any one of three routes. A student may receive an "Academic Nomination" from the National Research Center for College and University Admissions (NRCUA), a nonprofit organization that collects voluntarily provided academic information from students.

"Educator and Alumni Recognition Nominations" are made by teachers, guidance counselors, and program alumni working in conjunction with their school principals. "Achievement Nominations" are available to students who apply directly to the council by requesting an application for Achievement Nominations are received by an internal board of admissions.

Those interested in applying directly to the conference for admission may write to: Congressional Youth Leadership Council, 1511 K Street, N.W., Suite 843, Washington, D.C. 20005, or you call 202-638-0009 for an application.

Hartson's AP History teacher, Norma Storey, recommended that he attend the Conference and he is grateful for knowledge and dedication. According to Michael, "Anyone who is a leader, wants to be a leader, or has political aspirations, would greatly benefit from the experiences at the Conference. I highly recommend it. I have never been in a situation where I have made life long friends in six days."

As a senior at Lake Brantley High School, Michael is a 4.0 student, a member of the National Honor Society, Student Council representative, a member of the wrestling team, a member of the lacrosse team, among other club activities. He is also a youth group member of the Markham Woods Presbyterian Church, an Eagle Scout of Troop 830, and a pilot.

Nancy honored at bridal brunch

In a beautiful tropical setting, complete with waterfalls, and exotic plants, Nancy Terwilliger was honored at a bridal brunch. Site of the event was the terraced area at the Embassy Suites Hotel, Altamonte Springs. Hostesses were Sherry Kitter, her daughter, Deanna Futrell, and her daughter-in-law, Yvette Pond.

Nancy received the guests wearing a stunning red crepe dress with dainty red satin bows enhancing the fitted waistline. She wore black accessories and a corsage of white roses, a gift from the hostesses.

The tables were covered with colorful cloths and lighted candles. The guests were served grilled steak, scrambled eggs, skillet browned potatoes, biscuits, juice, coffee and tea.

Twenty-four guests attended the event. Many were high school cheerleaders who had not seen each other for a long time so it was a grand reunion.

The hostesses presented Nancy with a place setting of her fine China. One unique gift was a fireside basket containing many individually wrapped gifts which the newlyweds can open during a romantic evening in front of their fireplace.

'Puttin' on the Glitz' rescheduled Nov. 30

Tropical storm Gordon vented his furor throughout the community this week as he furiously raged to stop or slow down numerous activities.

The Sanford Woman's Club was all set Wednesday for the annual fashion show, "Puttin' on the Glitz," a scholarship benefit for a deserving woman to return to the classroom. But the weather was so miserably dismal and unpredictable that Pat Foster, chairman, and her committee called the event off for that day.

The good news is that the fashion show, coordinated by Gayfer's, has been rescheduled until Wednesday, Nov. 30, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Those who did not purchase tickets or make reservations may attend the Nov. 30 by contacting any woman's club member or Pat Foster, 323-1824.

In spite of love and support, some addicts can't be saved

DEAR ABBY: You have published letters from women who were involved with (or married to) men who had drug problems. Perhaps my story can be used to warn other women.

I, too, fell in love with a man who had a history of drug abuse. His choice of drug was heroin, and it nearly destroyed my life. I met him when I was 18. For the next four years, I tried to keep him off drugs. He went through a methadone program several times. I remember the nights I spent in hospital emergency rooms when he had OD'd. I begged him to stay away from heroin and his drug-addicted friends, but he wouldn't listen.

I spent time in jail for crimes committed trying to support his habit. Of course, he always left jail "clean" — but then he'd use drugs, and the cycle would begin again.

I married him when he was "clean" — or at least I thought he was. Money started to disappear from my purse. He would miss work and be gone for days with no explanation. Checks from our joint checking account began bouncing. Then one day when I was setting laundry, I found a needle and syringe in the pocket of his work jacket. That night we had the biggest fight we ever had, and I finally faced the fact that the love of his life was heroin.

So, Abby, please advise young women to run as fast as they can away from these men. They'll never change. Love is not enough to keep an addict clean.

I know. It has been 20 years since I fell in love with that hopelessly addicted man. He has been dead for seven years. He was found on a Detroit city street. The coroner said his body was full of drugs.

At his funeral, as I looked at the almost unrecognizable body of the man I had loved for so many years, I thought to myself, "Well, at least the monkey is off your back for good now!"

But even after seven years, I still jump when my telephone rings at night, thinking it's the hospital, the police or the morgue.

Sisters: Get away from these men. Don't let them ruin your lives. The longer you stay, the longer you enable them to be addicts, and the harder it will be for you to walk away. Heroin is the destroyer of lives — not just the life of the addict, it also destroys the lives of those who love them. Worse yet, many of these addicts carry the AIDS virus.

Seek support from friends and family, your church or a support group; but don't waste your life trying to save or help addicts. Run like hell in the opposite direction, and help yourself to a new life!

M. IN MICHIGAN

DEAR M: Thank you for a powerful letter. I hope women who are now in the same tragic situation you were in will take note — and get out.

DEAR READERS: A verse worth sharing — submitted by Maudie White, Erie, Pa. Whenever I walk by a church, I stop and make a visit.

So when I'm carried in some day, The Lord won't say, "Who is it?"

are so dramatic. You have to come in to these glamor sessions with little or no make-up on and light or no hairspray. It's easier for them to work if they start from scratch.

The amount of time it took for each make-over varied, but the method was the same. First, they apply make-up, a lot of it through, your skin will look almost perfect, no blemishes, no moles, no freckles and no uneven skin tone. It seemed to take a little more make-up for the moms than for the daughters. Hair was the second step.

It's amazing how much a hairdo can change your whole look. The final step was choosing the clothes to wear for the pictures. Most of the mothers and daughters had individual pictures taken and then pictures together.

Everyone had a great time. All the mothers and daughters were pleased with their make-overs. A couple of the moms were not as pleased with the daughters. Not because they didn't look good, but because they looked quite a bit older than their 11 years. This, of course, pleased the daughters tremendously.

No plans have been made for next year's mother/daughter, although a couple of girls had suggested a shopping trip.

employment for seniors who need it. Florida is the most successful state in the country for seniors job placement. Job retraining is sometimes part of the program. For instance, many retired secretaries trying to re-enter the job market find that they lack training in computers, an almost essential skill for many current jobs. SCSEP can provide that training. If you are a senior interested in job placement, you can stop by the Frank Evans Center any Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon or call Downey at 324-3060 or 324-8008.

In other AARP news, the Community Service Committee is still collecting toys for the Christmas Shop. The Christmas Shop offers underprivileged children an opportunity to pick out toys for family members. If you would like to donate a toy, you can drop it by the Frank Evans Center any weekday morning.

Seven Lake Mary AARP members won medals during the Golden Age Games, held Nov. 7-11 in Sanford. Congratulations to those AARP members. In place of their December meeting, the AARP will be having a Christmas luncheon, Tuesday, Dec. 20 at 1 p.m. at the Bistro Cappuccino in Lake Mary. With tax and gratuity, the cost will be $12.50. If you are interested in attending, please contact Ruth Dresser at 322-9760.

Just a reminder, the Frank Evans Center will be closed Nov. 23 to 25 for Thanksgiving. The Frank Evans Center will be open for its own version of a Thanksgiving celebration Tuesday, Nov. 22 from noon to 1 p.m. Seniors will be making and enjoying Stone Soup.

the biggest point losers in bridge.) South, Shuman, won with the ace, played a trump to dummy's queen and a second spade to her king and West's ace. He continued with his second club. Declarer won with her jack, played a trump to dummy's jack and called for the diamond 10. Thinking this was for a finesse, East played low.

Now Shuman cashed dummy's three club winners, discarding the diamond jack, queen and king. Finally she ran her trumps, coming down to the heart ace and diamond seven. Both defenders doggedly clung to their hearts, so the last trick was won by the diamond seven! Plus 480 was, of course, a cold top.

It is particularly pleasing to report that both East and West laughed after this debacle.

Thomas said he could have done the work they wanted to do to the house, but felt using the contractor would speed things up. The contractor estimated two to three months, which dragged out to almost a year.

Besides putting the house back into shape after years of neglect, the Thomas' needed an addition for Annie's room and a bathroom in the master bedroom.

Trish pointed out problems caused by the contractor's work, such as the kitchen walls being out of alignment so that the planned tile backplash could not be installed.

"That's what makes me mad, because they had everything down. They had the chance to do it right and they didn't," Trish said.

It was the Thomas' intent to blend the new with the old, which has been well accomplished on the exterior. For ever dressed for Christmas, the house's clapboards are painted a dark evergreen with berry-red trim. French doors, from the master bedroom look out from between the old kitchen wing and the new bedroom/bath wing, into the backyard. Trish said there will eventually be a deck running from those doors around to the kitchen door. The entire yard is carpeted with the spreading branches of an oak tree, draped with Spanish moss. The exposed roof rafters are ornamented with the false braces under the gables, typical of the Craftsman-era homes. Trish said there was a sloping (battered) foundation on the house but it was torn off almost immediately by the contractors. Trish referred to a robin's egg blue house, on the corner of Eleventh Street and Magnolia Avenue that has the same treatment.

"It would be interesting to see the original layout of the house, because the architect who built this house built several in the neighborhood," Trish said.

In the back corner of the yard is the garage/apartment combination where the Thomas' lived during the renovation. Trish said that it was in good shape and would eventually be remodeled to provide an office for Thomas, who teaches English at Valencis Community College.

The landscaping will be a project for Trish, who is the urban horticulturist extension agent for the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Agency. She said she will get help with the landscape design but will be choosing plants to fit the environment and her taste. She had plans to work outside after Annie was born but soon discovered that she demanded too much of her time.

Inside, Trish says the floor plan is very different from what it was when they bought the house and had probably been changed drastically from the original floorplan. There was nothing "original" left in the house except for a light fixture in the front room, and the doors and windows. There is a room that was closed in, probably a screened porch, which has the only new windows. Trish said they would eventually like to replace them with ones that they saved from the remodeling or turn the room into a sun room, similar to the one on the Mercer's house. She would also like to replace the fireplace in the front room. She said the massive brick construction that is the first thing you see when you walk in the front door, is not what was originally there. There are hardwood floors throughout the three bedrooms and two bath houses. They have furnished every room with antiques from Thomas' family. Most of them are at least 100 years old and some of the most interesting items are the rocker in the front room and the old radio in the guest room, which Trish said Thomas' grandfather used to listen to Braves games. Both Trish's and James' families came from Huntsville, Ala.

There is also a crocheted spread on the bed in the guest room that was a cooperative effort between Thomas' grandmother and great-grandmother.

sense of community.

He said he believes all commissioners should be more involved in the affairs of the community on a year-round basis. "Especially in the crime problem," he said. "I know there has been friction between some of the police department and the city, but I believe it's time to go to the front line and start seeking input from them. They are out in the community and know what is happening. They certainly should have some good ideas for improvements."

He also is suggesting more community policing. "Many other areas have community policing," he said. "and it has worked very well. I believe substations would also help to give our law enforcement more visibility."

Regarding the economy, he believes Sanford has too many empty stores. "We need to get some master list showing all of the vacant buildings, then do some marketing to help bring new businesses to town," he commented. In the same vein, he also is suggesting a re-examination of license fees. "We should help new people (in small businesses) to help us improve our community."

Lyons says he is tired of people saying things can't be done. "Anything can be done," he commented, "but not until we start looking into it."

presently showing what he considers the most positive action it has in the past 23 years and he wants to be a part of it.

"I'm glad to see the private interests such as Sanford Main Street, the waterfront committee and people in the private sector getting involved in Sanford," he said. "rather than in the past when the only response was 'let the government do it.'"

Regarding the downtown Sanford area, he sees the projected development of the present Touchton Drug Store building, at First Street and Magnolia Avenue... into housing... as a positive step in improving the downtown area. "With people living downtown, we may have things happening in the downtown area after 5 p.m., rather than as it is now," he said.

On the development of the "Citizens are telling me there hasn't been any progress by the commission," he said. "I believe it's time we started taking a more positive attitude."

"I am discouraged over the low turnout at city commission meetings," he said. "I believe I couldn't help bring about a different focus without becoming involved."

Lyons has only attended a few city commission meetings. "I've been involved in attending a master's class in public administration on Monday nights," he said, "which has prevented me from attending as many meetings as I would like, but this has changed now, so I can get totally involved."

Regarding city owned property, Lyons says he believes it's time to let some of it go, to help create a bigger tax base.

Lyons is an employee relations/training supervisor for United Parcel Service in Longwood. He is also a Coast Guard Reservist.

He holds a bachelor's degree in political science, and is working on a master's degree in public administration.

penalty in the case citing the nature of the attack in the alternative. Coffield could face life in prison.

Dr. Sarah Irrgang, who was the Seminole County medical examiner six years ago and conducted the autopsy on Vu, said stab wounds in Vu's heart, lungs, diaphragm or liver were potentially fatal. She testified Friday there is no way to determine when the wounds were inflicted during the attack. She estimated Vu could have remained conscious for four or five minutes after the heart wound and from five to eight minutes, perhaps 10 minutes, after the lung wound. As the result of the blood loss, Irrgang estimated it took Vu 10 to 12 minutes, at the most, to die from the wounds.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney John Galluzzo, Irrgang said the attack could possibly be described as a "frenzy stabbing."

"Like someone under the influence of drugs?" the attorney asked.

"Possibly," Irrgang answered. Police asserted at the time some of the $200 taken in the robbery was used to buy crack cocaine.

The Winter Springs man was found face down covered in blood on the restaurant floor by his sister who had been trying to contact Vu by telephone. She turned him over and attempted CPR.

Sanford Police Corporal Sharon Schaffer testified she discovered a bloody knife and empty cash drawer from the restaurant in a garbage can a few blocks away from the murder scene.

The knife and drawer were examined by the FBI. Coffield's palm print was on the blade and one of five fingerprints on the drawer was Coffield's. The other fingerprints were not positively identified, Schaffer said.

The defendant was arrested in North Carolina in 1993 and returned to Seminole County for trial. Coffield claimed in interviews with police a man named Roy had killed Vu during the robbery. He was not able to provide a last name for Roy, and police have been unable to identify or locate a second suspect in the case.

The defense began presenting its case just prior to the noon recess Friday and will continue Monday in a video taped interview. Coffield's aunt said he was raised by parents who drank heavily and grew up poor in a large family, working in the farm fields, going from house to house asking for food to eat.

She said Coffield's mother drank while she was pregnant with him and sometimes hit Coffield on the side of his head to discipline him when he was growing up.

Hole

ly 28 feet was underwater. However, at close to noon, county officials could not see any noticeable decrease in the size of the hole.

McCullom said that the sinkhole could be shaped like an hourglass, and be sitting atop a huge subterranean cavern.

"We don't know at this stage," McCullom said.

Since Friday, the hole stopped growing in size, leaving nearby homeowners with an uneasy feeling and hoping that it would not swallow up their homes.

Sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough said Donna Lubinskas arrived home at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and found a five-foot hole in her front yard at 1890 Crowley Circle. Within an hour, the hole had spread to more than 30 feet wide and about 40 feet deep, said McDonough, taking a portion of the street down into it.

At 4:30 p.m., Frank Lubinskas said the hole appeared to be increasing in size.

"It's pretty large right now," said the breathless Lubinskas. "I can see cracks in the driveway across the street."

Lubinskas said he and his wife were concerned about the safety of their home, but hoped trees in their front yard would somehow slow the progress of the cavity.

"I've been here 104 years and never had to deal with anything like this," said Lubinskas.

McCullom reassured them Saturday that the sinkhole appeared to have stopped growing.

"There are no homes in danger at this time," he said. However, after a few long moments, he conceded that with half of the sinkhole underwater, he couldn't be absolutely sure nearby homes were safe.

Work crews were expected to continue filling the sinkhole throughout the day Saturday, until it was completely filled in.

Another sinkhole in a vacant lot in the Wekiwa area stabilized Thursday night at 80 feet across and 55 feet deep.
