

Trouble With Government Owned Merchant Marine Is Too Much Easy Money

SEATTLE, July 1.—The main trouble with the government-owned merchant marine, which he discovered after he became president of the United States Fleet Corporation, was that it was suffering from too much easy money, Leigh C. Palmer told the National Foreign Trade convention recently.

"Instead of getting down to real business and trying to come somewhere near living within its income," he said, "it was depending unduly upon the national treasury. Therefore, it seemed best to reduce the appropriation covering operating losses from $43,000,000 to $30,000,000 for the present fiscal year, while doing the same amount of business as last year, and to cut it again to $24,000,000 for the fiscal year beginning next month. We are planning a further cut to $18,000,000 for the following fiscal year, and we will continue this policy of reducing operating losses with improvement of services while each other, or overlapping in the regions served, with the general result that fewer operators were retained, each with an increased fleet operating under conditions more nearly approximating the trade requirements. While the total number of vessels in the cargo fleet was reduced by these consolidations to about 300, the improvement in the handling of the vessels, reflected in their quicker turnaround, enabled us to make practically the same number of voyages as before, with a substantial increase of cargo and revenue, and a reduction of operating expense. At the same time we gradually reduced our overhead and in the elimination of unnecessary personnel alone effected savings at the rate of about $1,500,000 a year.

"We regard the improvement already made as merely a beginning. After a careful analysis of all the factors in the case, we feel that the loss per voyage of the government-owned cargo fleet can be reduced to about $8,500, even if the present unsatisfactory trade conditions continue, but a rise in freight rates or any other favoring condition would, of course, change that figure for the better. If and when this result is reached, the total operating loss of the cargo fleet may be expected to be only about $10,000,000 a year. This, however, does not include interest and depreciation charges, which must be included if proper comparison is to be made with private operating results, and these two items would increase the prospective voyage loss to about $13,500."

Discussing the question of replacements, which must be considered in any plan of continued government operation, Admiral Palmer declared that unless the government can find a way to transfer its fleet to private ownership, the corporation faces the definite prospect of having to spend about $30,000,000 a year continuously for replacements alone. After discussing the possibility of government aid to private shipping he said:

"To summarize, our country faces three alternatives in respect to the merchant marine in foreign trade; first, continued government operation costing ultimately around $40,000,000 a year second, government aid to private shipping amounting to about $15,000,000 a year; or third, the gradual but certain disappearance of our flag from the international trade routes, and a return to our pre-war condition when less than ten percent of our foreign commerce was carried in American vessels."

In conclusion, Admiral Palmer discussed a possible program for dealing with our shipping problem. So far as the government-owned fleet is concerned the program should, he believed, include the following:

(a) An aggressive and well thought-out plan to transfer the government fleet to private ownership on terms that protect the government interests and at the same time give the buyer an opportunity for profit that will insure his continuance indefinitely in the trade.

(b) Continuance of the operation of government lines on such of the trade routes as are considered economically essential to the national interests and which cannot be disposed of to private operators.

(c) Continued improvement of these lines until they show the best economic results obtainable under government operating conditions, thereby reducing the present operating loss by half.

(d) On the most heavily losing routes, the maintenance of only such services as may suffice to hold a position in the trade and to conserve our national trade interests; but, on the more promising routes an expansion of the services to meet the demands and prospects of the national trade.

(e) Where sales are impossible, the charter of the lines to private responsible operators, if practicable, on terms that will be advantageous to the government and that will give the operator an opportunity to become eventually an owner.

Seminole County Men And Women Hear Possibilities Of Bulb Growing In Future

By B. F. WHITNER, JR.

A well attended meeting of men and women interested in bulb growing was held in Sanford, Monday evening, June 29, in the interest of the industry on a large scale in this section of Florida.

The county agent was in charge of the meeting and introduced as the principal speaker, William Feller, representing the firm of F. Rynveld & Sons, one of the largest Holland and French bulb growers and importers who also operate bulb farms in America with offices and warehouses at 350 Greenwich street, New York City.

F. Rynveld & Sons have a bulb farm at South Jacksonville known as the Southern Bulb Company, where experiments have been carried on for several years to ascertain the adaptability of Florida soil and climate principally for the commercial growing of the narcissus bulbs. Their work has progressed beyond the experimental stage and this season they expect to plant over 5,000,000 bulbs.

The embargo placed by the government on the importation of foreign bulbs of several varieties, chiefly the narcissus, takes effect Jan. 1, 1926, and to meet the demand for this bulb it is essential that a greater number of growers enter the field. It is estimated that only about 25 per cent of the supply is now in prospect and Mr. Feller urged that as many as possible arrange to devote at least an acre to bulb culture as it will require about 1,000 acres to yield the supply for the American market that is normally imported each year.

In entering the bulb growing industry the initial outlay for bulbs is approximately $1,600 to the acre. Experts advise that one-half acre should be set to the planting stock and that a merchantable bulb will be forthcoming next Spring, and a half-acre set to the large bulb which will give the growers their planting stock by propagation.

Many questions were asked of Mr. Feller and each instance complete explanations were given, principally in regard to soil, drainage, disease, fertilizer, period for planting, harvesting, and marketing and storage. Florida is exceptionally well adapted to the growing of the narcissus, being the only state where they can best be grown commercially.

The soil best adapted to the bulb culture is a sandy loam, well drained. In fact, drainage is more essential than moisture. It was well stated that the sub-irrigation and drainage method used in the Sanford section is exceptionally good for bulb growing. There are no diseases known to attack the bulbs in this country and this is the reason for the embargo being placed on the foreign narcissus to keep out foreign diseases during the growing season.

London Gets Number Of Big Conferences

LONDON, July 1.—London has been the leading center of the world for international conferences this year. Nearly 700 American and Canadian doctors attended the recent convention. After that the next important gathering was the world railways conference, brought to London at the invitation of the Institute of Civil Engineers. Their sessions will end July 2.

An international conference of bankers will be held in August and will be attended by bankers from the principal cities of the world.

In addition to these conventions the year's schedule includes several important sporting events, including international tennis and polo matches.

They Must Be Girlish Now

Styles in beauty are changing. A year ago the boyish type of girl was most popular, and Miss Ruth Malcolmson (in the bathing suit) was chosen Miss America. But now the petite, ultra-feminine type, as represented by the other little miss, is in favor, according to averages computed at a Los Angeles contest. The comparative measurements of these two young women are given above.

Argentina Anxious To Send Students To United States

BUENOS AIRES, July 2.—At a recent meeting of the Argentine section of the International Institute, the exchange of graduates between American and Argentine universities was strongly advocated. It was resolved that this should be principally upon the basis of providing these students with chairs of their own language in the country where they intend continuing their studies, and thus give them opportunity, by teaching, to earn their living expenses. A knowledge of the language of the country was also established as a necessary qualification for obtaining these professorships.

The meeting also resolved to accept an offer of the American section of the institute to send to Buenos Aires a woman graduate of the School of Domestic Economy of Columbia University to give a course of lectures, and also commissioned Edward F. Feeley, the American commercial attaché here, to resume negotiations already started towards establishing a number of technical scholarships for Argentine students in some of the great industrial establishments in the United States.

Japan to China Air Route Being Planned

TOKYO, July 1.—Plans for a regular aerial service between Kagoshima and Shanghai are being considered here and probably will be introduced at the next session of the Diet. It is understood a private syndicate, aided by the government, would operate the air service and at the beginning only mail would be carried. Later, however, arrangements would be made for the transportation of passengers. The proposed route would be Tokyo-Osaka-Kagoshima-Dairen-Tsingtao-Shanghai, the trip requiring about eight hours flying time.

Mortality of German Infants Much Reduced

BERLIN, July 2.—Statistics recently published show that the mortality among infants is much less than in pre-war days. During the third quarter of last year the death rate was only about one-half the percentage during the years just prior to the World War.

The medical authorities attribute this improved condition to the cold weather during the latter part of 1924, which they state is always more beneficial than warm weather for infants during their first year.

German Republicans Still Honoring Ebert

HEIDELBERG, Germany, July 1.—The esteem in which large sections of the German people hold the late first president, Frederick Ebert, finds eloquent expression in the numerous pilgrimages to his tomb by republican organizations of various kinds. There are always fresh flowers on the grave, furnished by individuals or societies honoring his memory, and especially on Sundays there is a constant stream of visitors. Many workers' singing societies pay tribute to their late leader by singing a dirge at his tomb.

An experimenter in a balloon reports hearing a man's shout at 1,600 feet; the croaking of frogs in a marsh at 3,000 feet; the roll of drums and music of an orchestra at 4,500 feet; church bells tolling at 5,000 feet; a rifle report at 5,500 feet; the noise of a moving train at 8,200 feet, and the whistle of a locomotive at 10,000 feet.

Idaho Will Celebrate Dedication Of Huge Reservoir On July Thirteenth

POCATELLO, Idaho, July 2.—A celebration at American Falls, Idaho, on July 13 will mark the dedication of one of the largest storage reservoirs in the world. Constituting one of the most unusual arrangements in the history of irrigation, the reservoir will cause the submergence of an entire townsite, the buildings of which have been moved to a new location. A lake will be formed by water impounded from the Snake river.

The reservoir will contain a floor of more than 61,000 acres, breast by a dam about 75 feet high and a mile long. The capacity under the original construction, now completed, will be 1,700,000 acre feet, or sufficient water to cover that many acres to the depth of one foot.

While most of this storage water is to be used for supplemental purposes on tracts under cultivation, the government has 120,000 acres, known as the Minidoka extension, that will be brought under the reservoir. So important is the undertaking regarded by the people of Idaho in point of stabilizing values and bringing water rights in the great Snake river valley to a parity, its leading men and public officials hail the development as overshadowing all previous constructive enterprises in the state.

An elaborate celebration has been planned. The committee in charge anticipates an attendance of 40,000. A monster jubilee has been arranged, starting with the Pageant of Progress, in which hundreds of Indians, cowboys and pioneers will appear. The story of the growth of the country will be depicted.

Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work and Commissioner of Reclamation Elwood Mead will be the principal speakers. Governor Moore of Idaho has invited the governors of many state and other notables.

Chicagoans' Interest In Art Is On Increase

CHICAGO, July 2.—Interest in the treasures of the Art Institute of Chicago reached a new high mark in the past year, while the physical expansion of the institution kept pace with the construction of the city. Approximately $1,300,000 was spent in new buildings and installations at the institute, and 62,594 more persons were registered as visitors than attended the previous year.

Membership showed a similar gain. The total membership now is 14,132, an increase of 1,112 in the year. Special significance was attached to the fact that 4,930 of these were life members.

Eighty exhibitions were held during the year, which were observed by 1,059,242 visitors.

Social Service Costs English Immense Sum

LONDON, July 1.—The cost of social services in England is about $5,000,000 a day, said William Graham, financial secretary to the treasury in the Labor Government, addressing a meeting of local government officers.

Referring to the financial position of local authorities in relation to state finance, he said $800,000,000 was raised annually from local taxes, which was double the amount raised in 1914. In addition $1,000,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, out of a budget of $4,000,000,000, was handed over to local authorities for social services.

Singer Wants Free Schools of Music for Poor Children

Lillian Morton Hopes Some Day to Endow Such Institutions

New York City.—A plea for more and better free musical education for children with talent is voiced by Lillian Morton, well-known singer in vaudeville.

Miss Morton received her musical education at the Henry Street Settlement here. The instructors in this institution gave her all the training she ever had. And, says Miss Morton, it was entirely adequate. On the strength of it, she got her vaudeville job and kept it, winning notice almost at once.

and typing at vocational and technical schools for girls but do not usually bother with musical courses," says Miss Morton. "I think they should put in music. There is great talent among those who cannot pay large sums for lessons. Why should a girl who is able to sing well become an indifferent typist? The only reason is that typing is regarded as a practical occupation and music apparently is not."

Miss Morton, whose singing of "Pal of My Cradle Days" has won the favor of critics all over the country, hopes to be able some day to endow music departments in all industrial schools. She is trying to interest musicians in the plan.

Surplus At End Fiscal Year Is About 250 Million

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The surplus of the fiscal year 1935 was by the treasury last night in view of its operations during twelve months which ended today, showing total ordinary receipts of $3,780,148,684.42 and expenditures of $3,529,643,099 with the resulting surplus of $250,505,238.33.

A statement of the Treasury officials, issued late tonight, carries an expression of Secretary Clegg's conviction that, due to processes of reorganization in the last two years "it is believed as a result of its experience development, the Treasury is a better organized and equipped to make the Volstead act effective." This part of the statement declared that plans for reorganization of prohibition enforcement were rapidly approaching completion and told of the work done in his division in the Coast Guard and the Treasury.

The surplus for the year ended June 30, 1935, being almost four times the amount forecast last year and $50,000,000 higher than the figure President Coolidge gave in his address at the annual budget meeting only two weeks ago.

Officials offered no explanation of the unexpected rise in the amount, letting the figure speak for itself. Observers suggested, however, that better business conditions were reflected in the total and insisted that some of the increased revenue had resulted from the leasing of capital to productive enterprise through the lowering of war-taxes along with general revision of a year ago.

DOHENY TELLS WHY HE LEASED OIL RESERVES

Robison called to my mind the horrors of the invasion of Belgium," Mr. Doheny said, "with a force I shall not forget, he asked me to visualize the results of even a temporary Oriental invasion of the Pacific coast of the United States. He dwelt on how much worse, how much more horrible, how much more to be dreaded, was an Oriental invasion than even the worst horrors of the German invasion.

"He even startled me with information regarding orders which had been given to foreign war vessels and even to merchant merchant ships in the Pacific for their mobilization on incredibly short notice. He pointed out that modern warfare had reduced the efficiency of coast defenses so that they were no longer to be relied on. He told me that in an attack upon this country of ours by a navy in the Pacific, defeat was sure to come to our fleet unless there was an adequate naval oil reserve in Hawaii.

He said that every responsible officer of the navy in Washington had received confidential bulletins which disclosed that the oil reserves of a great naval power in the Pacific were adequate for war. He called my attention to the fact that there still existed a well known alliance between this great Pacific nation and the most powerful naval nation of the world."

Mr. Doheny said that every one who had been informed of this situation had been warned of its highly confidential and secret character because of the fear that the arms conference, then in session at Washington, might be wrecked by revelation of plans for a naval base in Hawaii.

Florida Cotton Crop Is 84 Per Cent Normal

There were in cultivation June 25, a total of 406,408,000 acres. The condition of the crop was then 75.9 normal and on that date 115,000 acres were under cultivation in Florida with the crop 84 per cent normal.

Kills Husband

Mary Skibo (above), and her mother, Miss Mary Skibo. Mrs. Mary Skibo, 39, has confessed that she killed her husband, Frank Skibo, at Michigan City, Ind., by beating him with a crow bar as he lay in a drunken stupor. She is held on a charge of murder.

But before confessing, she tried to fasten the blame on her daughter, Mary, 19, who she said had quarreled with Skibo over a loan of $5.

The girl professed her innocence, however, and police finally got Mrs. Skibo to admit the killing. She murdered Skibo, she said because he drank, squandered his money and made her take boarders.

After keeping his body in her room for 24 hours, Mrs. Skibo laid it in an alley, where passersby found it.

Peace Conditions To Be Offered Rifians

PARIS, July 2.—The French foreign office today received information that conditions of peace to be offered Abd El Krim, leader of the warring Rifians in Morocco, are being prepared by the Franco-Spanish conference at Madrid. There is little confidence here that Abd El Krim will accept the peace terms to be offered in the name of Spain although representing both French and Spanish governments. The purpose of the Madrid conference is to determine a joint program by which probably France and Spain may end the Moroccan warfare.
