Lawmaker Sees 'Planetary Russian Roulette' In Pollution Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — World governments are playing "planetary Russian roulette" by not curbing atmospheric pollution responsible for a global warming trend that likely will cause heat waves, coastal erosion and disease, lawmakers and scientists say.

They warned that the extra warmth likely will dry out large portions of farmland, and that the weakening of Earth's protective ozone layer could leave more people vulnerable to skin cancer and other diseases.

"It strikes me as a form of planetary Russian roulette," said Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., in opening the first of two days of hearings before his Senate Environment and Public Works subcommittee.

"Much of what has been predicted, while preliminary, is truly frightening," Andrew Maguire, vice president of the World Resources Institute, said Tuesday in testimony before the panel.

Scientists predicted rising temperatures will be the most obvious sign of the twin problems of the depleted ozone layer and the "greenhouse effect," in which carbon dioxide functions like glass in a greenhouse — allowing heat from the sun to reach Earth's surface, but interfering with the flow of heat back into space.

The greenhouse effect has been blamed largely on the burning of fossil fuels, which release carbon dioxide, nitrous oxides and methane into the atmosphere. Ozone depletion has been linked to use of substances known as chlorofluorocarbons, heavily used in refrigeration, air conditioning and food packaging materials.

Unless steps are taken to control the problem, temperatures in the United States in the next decade will range from 0.5 degrees Celsius to 2 degrees higher than they were in 1958, said James Hansen, director of NASA's Goddard Institute for Space Studies.

In 65 years, the extra warmth would translate into 20 days a year in which the temperature in Omaha, Neb., could be expected to pass 100 degrees, compared to three days a year now.

Rescue Mission Proposal Puts City On Spot

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners have endorsed measures to address the moral responsibility they feel towards the homeless, although by doing so they may be jeopardizing actions related to a moral outrage they feel towards certain transients.

Transients at downtown "tenements" are verbally harassing city residents, according to City Commissioner John Mercer, who wants the city to engage in optimum enforcement of all city codes and ordinances at these dwellings.

The effort is related to the commission's call last month for inspections at all downtown multi-family properties. Mercer said he brought the subject up during Monday night's commission meeting because he had been told the day before a woman and four children were verbally harassed while walking past a downtown rooming house while on their way home from church.

City commissioners were unanimous in their endorsement of Mercer's proposal for stringent enforcement of city codes at these properties. Several minutes later, however, Commissioner Dave Farr brought up the possibility of the commission's attempting to help the Rescue Church of God cut through some of the building department red tape hampering its efforts to establish a mission for the homeless at 1701 West 13th Street.

The two matters are in conflict, according to City Manager Frank Falson. He said building requirement leniency is exercised to help the mission open. Sanford could lose the legal battles it faces from downtown property owners who would fight against cited violations and the city's subsequent efforts to close their rooming houses.

Commissioners decided the city would combine documented evidence of building code violations and residents' reports of verbal abuse from rooming house tenants to make its cases against the property owners.

Commissioners also agreed that church representatives would meet with Falson and city staff in an attempt to work out a mutually acceptable solution for implementation of the mission project. If matters cannot be worked out at this session, commissioners said they would meet with the church members to discuss project difficulties.

"We desperately need a rescue mission for those who have

Residents Declare War On Crime

Sanford's anti-crime rally lived up to advance billing Tuesday night by enabling city residents and police to join in a collective show of strength at the Sanford Civic Center to declare war on criminals.

Although turnout for the event was admittedly less than hoped for, the approximately 80 citizens who did attend agreed the rally had broadened their knowledge of crime prevention tactics and bolstered their resolve to avoid victimization.

Shirley Allen came away from Tuesday's rally with plans to form a Neighborhood Watch Program. Judy Sanders said her two children had received "important and necessary" insights and Leo King lauded "the spirit of involvement the rally represents."

Sanford's City Commissioners attended the rally, as did City Manager Frank Falson and Seminole County Sheriff John Polk. Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett moderated discussion, with assistance from Sanford Crime Prevention Officer Mike Rotundo and Crime Commission Inc. representative Carol Pon-

Transplanted Heart Giving Baby Jesse Chance For Life

LOMA LINDA, Calif. (UPI) — The heart of a brain-dead infant from Michigan was transplanted into a 17-day-old baby who would have died without the rare operation, and doctors said today Baby Jesse's new heart was beating "strongly and steadily."

Frank Edward Clemenshaw, declared brain-dead shortly after his birth May 25 in Grand Rapids, was flown to Southern California Tuesday after his parents made the agonizing decision to donate his healthy heart to the dying Jesse Dean Sepulveda.

Less than 12 hours later, his heart was put into the chest of Baby Jesse, whose plight gained national attention when his young, unwed parents pleaded with doctors at Loma Linda University Medical Center to reverse their decision to reject their baby for the life-saving surgery.

"The heart continues to beat strongly and steadily," hospital spokesman Gus Cheatham said late Tuesday night. "This report is very positive."

Dr. Leonard Bailey, who has performed four successful baby-to-baby heart transplants as well as the controversial implantation of the heart of a baboon into Baby Fae in 1984, began the operation about 9 p.m. EDT. The surgery was finished at 12:31 a.m. EDT.

Bailey said he expected Baby Jesse to be released in about three weeks.

"He's warm and pink," a tired Bailey said early today. "He actually looks a lot better now than when we took him to the operating room."

After several minutes in which warm blood was pumped through Baby Jesse, the new heart began beating on its own at 140 beats per minute, normal for an infant, a hospital spokesman said.

A family spokeswoman said the baby's parents felt "absolutely fantastic."

"Remember, a week ago they were making funeral plans," said Susan Carpenter McMillan.

Baby Jesse, who was born with a fatal underdevelopment of his heart's left side, was originally rejected as a transplant candidate at Loma Linda on grounds that 26-year-old Jesse Sepulveda, and 17-year-old Dena Binkley could not be depended on to provide adequate post-operative care for their son.

Officials agreed to perform the operation after the father's parents assumed custody, and a nationwide search for a donor heart began.

After initially refusing to allow their son's organs to be

Farr, Carli Apply For Chamber Presidency

A pending vacancy in the presidency at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has generated a wide range of applications so far, including one from a Sanford city commissioner and one from a planning and zoning board member.

City Commissioner Dave Farr and P&Z board member Brent Carli are among the five applicants who have submitted resumes to the chamber's executive committee expressing an interest in the job to be vacated June 30 with the retirement of Jack Horner.

The other three candidates for the post are John Boyce of Orange City, Verlin "Vic" Arnett and David Chacey, both of Sanford.

Shirley Schilke, chairman of the chamber's board of directors, today confirmed that the five have applied for the job, and said she expects at least "a half dozen or so more applications" to come in before the executive committee meets later this month to review them. As chamber board chairman, Mrs. Schilke also serves as chairman of the executive committee, the panel that reviews applications and interviews applicants for the job.

Both Farr and Carli said they would devote full time to their work with the chamber if either is successful in getting the position. And both also indicated they would relinquish their private jobs for the chamber presidency, although Farr said he would have to determine if he could serve out his remaining time as a city commissioner before having to take over as chamber president if he's selected.

Said Farr: "I don't know whether or not it would be a conflict (holding a city commission position if he got the chamber presidency). I would like to discuss it with the chamber's executive committee. If I am chosen for the chamber's presidency, I would not accept if it meant giving up my city commission seat."

"I would not want to put the city in the position of having to call a special election to fill out my term. I'm hoping I would be allowed to finish out my term

High Court Affirms Right To Abortion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court reaffirmed today a woman's right to have an abortion, holding Pennsylvania's Abortion Control Act unconstitutional.

The court, in a 5-4 decision written by Justice Harry Blackmun, who also wrote the court's famous 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion, sharply criticized Pennsylvania's law for trying to intimidate women.

"The states are not free, under the guise of protecting maternal health or potential life, to intimidate women into continuing pregnancies," he said.

"Appellants (lawyers for Pennsylvania) claim that the statutory provisions before us today further legitimate compelling interests of the Commonwealth."

"Close analysis of those provisions, however, shows that they wholly subordinate constitutional privacy interests and concerns with maternal health in an effort to deter a woman from making a decision that, with her physician, is hers to make."

Sturm Picks Up Republican Challenge

By Sarah Fischer
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Republican Robert L. Desmond Jr. is the second candidate to challenge incumbent Bob Sturm for the county commission district two seat.

A former county employee, Desmond, 28, was critical of commission chairman Sturm.

Desmond charged that the county is "in serious financial trouble" and that continued bickering between the county and the cities which leads to lawsuits is a "clear example of bad government."

Democrat Bob French, of Casselberry, recently announced that he will also oppose Sturm in district two.

Desmond, although a newcomer to Seminole County politics, said his knowledge of the inner workings of county government have made him attuned to its problems and the concerns of its citizens.

"I feel that the people have the right to know," he said.

County personnel records show that Desmond submitted a letter of resignation from his position as senior systems analyst with the county's computer services department in January, but was fired before the effective resignation date.

"My past experience in Seminole County has provided me an inside

'The county is in serious financial trouble...my opponent's record of voting (shows) he is against the cities and for more county control.'

—Robert Desmond

opportunity to see how county government operates," he said. "Having witnessed the county government in action I decided to run for office because the citizens of this county need a commissioner who understands the details of government and a commissioner who will truly represent the people."

"In the most recent of times it seems too often that the consideration of government is for the ultra wealthy and just an exercise of political power for those in office," Desmond said.

He charged Sturm with having a "tax and spend philosophy," which Desmond said is "in direct conflict with the conservative image of a good commissioner and amounts to fiscal irresponsibility."

"The county is in serious financial trouble," he said. "All one needs to do is look at my opponent's record of voting and see that he is against the cities and for more county control. A good close look at his campaign contributors list will give a great indication of whom he really represents."

Responding to those charges, Sturm said today his opponent "doesn't understand the real problems the county is facing, but he is entitled to his opinions and they are just that."

"Due to our conservative nature, there has been no tax increase, that the board is responsible for, in the last seven years," Sturm said. "Even a good conservative must recognize that taxes must be raised to provide answers to our road problems."

The incumbent also said the county is "not in any, real or imagined, serious financial difficulty. Three out of the last four years the county has been awarded the national certificate of conformance, signifying complete financial responsibility."

Desmond said Sturm's hiring an outside consulting firm to help in his campaign is a move to "improve his image."

Suit Filed Against Abortion Foes' 'Domestic Terrorism'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Abortion foes, targeted by a NOW class-action suit accusing them of trying to close down abortion clinics across the country, say the legal action will only spur their cause.

Joseph Scheidter, an arch opponent of abortion, responded to the federal lawsuit filed by the National Organization for Women by saying, "We will simply increase our activities until every unborn child regains his right to life."

NOW President Eleanor Smeal announced Tuesday that the group had filed a federal class-action lawsuit against three leading anti-abortion foes, including Scheidter, accusing them of leading a criminal conspiracy of "domestic terrorism" at abortion clinics across the country.

Smeal said the suit, filed Monday in federal court in Wilmington, Del., is an attempt to focus attention on a national problem of harassment and often violent intimidation at abortion clinics.

Panel: Money Aids Genocide

NEW YORK (UPI) — Western relief agencies have become unwitting "accomplices of a genocide" by funding an Ethiopian resettlement program with funds raised by Live Aid and other benefits, a panel of French relief workers charged.

"The magnitude of the famine and human rights violations in Ethiopia can only be compared to the Khmer Rouge," said Dr. Rony Brauman, president of the French medical relief group Medecins Sans Frontieres.

The French group, which sends doctors and nurses to struggling nations, was expelled from Ethiopia in December when it objected to the resettlement program.

Brauman and two anthropologists who specialize in the problems of Africa charged the famine relief stations set up by UNICEF, Save the Children and other agencies are used as "bait" to draw starving Ethiopians away from their homes.

Compromise Sought On Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Budget Committee Chairman William Gray is ready to seek compromise with the Senate over next year's spending — with or without the White House — unless President Reagan signals soon that he will bargain.

Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M., the leading GOP member at the conference, has been meeting with White House officials in hopes of showing them that some new taxes are needed if Reagan is to have any hope of getting close to the amount he wants for the Pentagon next fiscal year.

But so far, Reagan has stuck to his guns, claiming that there must be lots of money for the military and no new taxes — even though both House and Senate budgets cut his defense request and call for $7 billion more in taxes than he wants.

Maine Defeats Pornography Law

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — A resounding vote against a stiff pornography law is being hailed by civil libertarians as a "remarkable defeat of censorship" in what is believed to be the nation's first statewide obscenity referendum.

The anti-pornography law, which carried penalties of up to five years in prison and a $10,000 fine, was voted down Tuesday by a margin of greater than 2-1 in heavy voter turnout.

Barry Lynn of the American Civil Liberties Union called the vote "a remarkable defeat for censorship."

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Court Holds Master Teacher, Merit Programs Constitutional

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The state's master teacher and merit schools programs are constitutional, a court ruled, rejecting claims from teachers' groups that the first policy is discriminatory and the second conflicts with collective bargaining rights.

The 1st District Court of Appeal ruled against the Florida Teaching Profession-National Education Association and the Pinellas Classroom Teachers Association Tuesday.

The teacher's unions said the master teacher program was unfair because tests allowing for bonuses do not exist for all teachers.

The court ruled unanimously it is "purely a practical imperfection resulting from the short time the program has existed."

Candidate: No Pass-No Play

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Rep. Larry Hawkins, rebuked by colleagues for his "no pass-no play" proposal, and said his candidacy for Commissioner of Education is a referendum on the issue.

Hawkins, a Democrat, said Tuesday he wants to forbid students who fall any course from participating in sports or other extracurricular activities until their grades improve.

Opponents said the rule would increase dropout rates and discourage students from enrolling in challenging courses, but Hawkins vowed to continue the fight.

Insurers Nix New Policies

MIAMI (UPI) — Four insurance companies have refused to write new commercial policies in Florida, charging recent legislation rolling back premiums by 40 percent will make it unprofitable for them to sell those policies.

"Those lines of business have been unprofitable for us in the past. We weren't in a position to lower rates," Jerry Freeland, a vice president for New York based Continental Insurance in Jacksonville, said Tuesday.

Continental, along with Cigna, announced its decision Monday, after the legislature passed the insurance reform package late Friday.

The two other companies, Aetna Life & Casualty Co., and U.S. Fidelity and Guarantee announced they would pull out of Florida commercial policies even before the bill was passed.

Feynman: NASA Misled Public

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — NASA officials may have misled both the public and Congress about the safety of the space shuttle and foolishly risked the lives of astronauts with an unrealistic launch schedule, a member of the Rogers Commission said.

Richard Feynman, a physicist and Nobel Prize winner who sat on the presidential panel investigating the Challenger disaster, also said he does not think shuttle flights can be resumed by July 1987 as some officials with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration have suggested.

"It's my theory that (NASA) conceivably misled the people and Congress," Feynman told reporters Tuesday. "The other theory is that they strongly believed in what they were doing and to that end I say they lacked common sense."

Feynman and Commission Chairman William Rogers reportedly clashed over a chapter the physicist wrote for the commission report that was more severe in its criticism of NASA than Rogers thought necessary.

Feynman confirmed that a strongly worded sentence — which was similar to the statement he made Tuesday to reporters — was deleted from a chapter he wrote in the commission's report. The sentence accused NASA managers of being either dissemblers or stupid.

The commission's report was issued Monday without the chapter, which is being added as an appendix.

In the 13-page chapter, Feynman said NASA exaggerated the reliability of the shuttle "to the point of fantasy."

He concluded: "For a successful technology, reality must take precedence over public relations, for nature cannot be fooled."

Incumbents Win Easy Victories

By Judi Hasson
United Press International

Incumbents swept to easy victory in four state primaries, and Maine voters crushed an obscenity referendum that pitted civil libertarians against conservative Christians. In New York City, the first black was elected from the borough of Queens.

In a game of musical chairs, Rep. John McKernan won the Republican nomination for governor in Maine and two-term Gov. Joseph Brennan picked up the Democratic nomination for McKernan's House seat.

In addition to Maine and a special election in New York City, voters went to the polls in South Carolina, North Dakota and Virginia to pick candidates in primary races.

In New York City, the Rev. Floyd Flake, running on an independent line with strong support from black ministers in southern Queens, was elected to fill the seat left vacant by the death of 25-year veteran Joseph Addabbo.

Flake, who beat the Democratic candidate by 41 votes, will become the first black congressman in the history of Queens borough and the 21st black in the House. His interim term runs until November.

In South Carolina, Rep. Carroll Campbell, running for governor, and Rep. Thomas Hartnett for lieutenant governor, teamed up without opposition for the GOP's "dream team."

Li. Gov. Mike Dantel, the pre-election favorite, took first place in the South Carolina Democratic primary for governor Tuesday, and second-place finisher, former college president Phil Lader, said he will concede the runoff to Dantel.

"I've made a decision not to run against Mike Dantel," Lader told supporters in Columbia. "The results today have been clear. There will be a runoff only because the law requires it." The runoff will be held June 24. The Democrats have controlled the governor's mansion in South Carolina for all but four years this century.

Sens. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., a 1984 presidential candidate seeking his fourth Senate term, and Mark Andrews, R-N.D., won their nominations without opposition. Most incumbent House members also were not challenged.

Andrews will face state tax commissioner Kent Conrad and Hollings is being challenged by former U.S. Attorney Henry McMaster.

Maine's anti-pornography referendum was resoundingly defeated in what experts said was the first statewide vote on the question of regulating pornography.

The measure, which would have jailed sellers of pornography, was criticized as dangerous censorship by civil libertarians.

Senators Question Tax Reform Bill's Effects On Middle Class

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New questions about whether the Senate's tax reform bill would cause widespread tax increases for the middle class are afloat, even as GOP leaders are trying to sidestep a fight over a key middle-income item — IRA deductions.

After three days of slow tax reform debate, Republican leaders hoped the Senate would vote today on a resolution that says the controversial individual retirement account provisions in the Finance Committee's bill should be open to change when it reaches a conference with the House tax measure.

But the resolution is non-binding and also contains conditions that would make it difficult to find a way to pay for restoring the IRA tax breaks mostly gutted by the bill.

When the resolution was proposed Tuesday night, several senators from both parties argued it was a ploy to escape from the sensitive problem without actually dealing with it.

They vowed to push actual amendments to restore the IRA by increasing the alternative minimum tax rate. That tax is paid only by the wealthiest individuals and companies.

Packwood said that was not acceptable. "Anything that increases the rates will not fly," he said.

For workers covered by another pension plan, the bill would drop the annual $2,000 maximum tax deduction they can take for contributing to an IRA. The tax break would be lost to about 20 million of the 28 million American households with IRAs.

Most of the plans to restore the deduction partially would allow all workers who make a $2,000 contribution to an IRA to get $300 back from the government, regardless of income.

In addition to most IRA deductions, the bill would curtail a host of other popular tax breaks in return for lower tax rates. Sponsors believe support for the measure is fragile and could break apart if any significant amendments are passed.

A number of senators want to change various provisions, although by Tuesday night all had refused to begin debate on their amendments.

The apparent gridlock occurred because no senator wanted to risk going first with an amendment and being defeated, and many lawmakers were having difficulty getting proper revenue estimates on the bill to allow them to draft amendments.

WEATHER

SANFORD REPORT: Temperatures were down slightly Tuesday after several days of hovering in the upper 90s in Sanford. A high of 93 degrees was recorded at the University of Florida Agriculture and Research Center at 2700 Celery Ave. and a low of 71 degrees F. In spite of threatening skies rainfall reported at the Center was only .01 inch and no rain was recorded at the Sanford Sewage Treatment Plant.

NATIONAL REPORT: Severe thunderstorms that hurled tornadoes and damaging winds across the Plains soaked Texas today, prompting flash flood watches in areas already saturated by a half foot of rain. The Plains storms reached from Iowa to Oklahoma and Texas, said the National Weather Service. A flash flood watch was issued for north-central and northeast Texas, including the Dallas-Fort Worth area. "We've had a lot of heavy rain over parts of northeast Texas, especially the Wichita Falls area," said NWS meteorologist Scott Tansey. On Tuesday, storms packing hail and 80-mph winds buffeted Wichita Falls, flooding streets with up to 6 inches of rain. No injuries were reported. "We have several flooding areas — trees falling on cars, a couple on houses — (and) lots of power lines down," said police officer Giselle Morgan. A tornado struck north of Pringhar in northwestern Iowa Tuesday, but no damage was reported. Cedar Rapids in east-central Iowa was strafed by 80-mph winds Tuesday night. A possible tornado skipped through Jefferson and Atchison counties in northeast Kansas Tuesday night, tearing siding and roofs off houses and overturning trailers.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 80; overnight low: 73; Tuesday's high: 94; barometric pressure: 30.07; relative humidity: 82 percent; winds: South at 6 mph; rain: .4 inch; sunrise: 6:27 a.m.; sunset 8:24 p.m.

IRAs Or Tax Reform?

The Senate Finance Committee hit a sensitive nerve with its tax-reform proposal to limit deductions for Individual Retirement Accounts, or IRAs, to workers not covered by pension plans.

A number of senators, among them California's Alan Cranston, have leaped to defend the popular deduction, as have the financial institutions — banks, brokers, thrifts — that court IRA investors.

IRAs, they say, are the average Joe's tax shelter and an important incentive for saving.

As politics, that message sells well.

In the four years since IRAs were thrown open to all workers, a quarter of the nation's households have taken advantage of the opportunity to put up to $2,000 a year per worker, tax free, into an account to be drawn on after age 59.

For many taxpayers without the wealth to enjoy the loopholes with which the tax code abounds, the IRA deduction has come to seem a matter of right.

But when one moves beyond politics to policy, the senators' defense of the IRA deduction hits shaky ground.

Though the amount in IRAs has grown to $250 billion since 1982, when the accounts were first made available to taxpayers covered by pension plans, there has been no overall increase in the rate of personal savings.

The age of IRA holders (a large majority of IRAs belong to workers over 44) and their income level (two-thirds of the dollars deducted for retirement accounts are claimed by the 20 percent of taxpayers with adjustable gross incomes of over $30,000) suggest to economists that the major effect of the IRA deductions has simply been to encourage people already saving for retirement to shift their savings from one form to another.

Even if some portion of the $70 billion added to IRAs in the last year represents savings that would not have occurred without the tax deduction, its value must be measured against the cost to the Treasury of securing it: In the current fiscal year, the IRA deduction will add $14.3 billion to the national debt.

That's hardly an efficient way to promote saving.

The senators championing IRAs have not said which deduction they would crimp or eliminate to save their favorite tax provision.

If they were willing to eliminate 401(k) plans, which are less universal and even less efficient at promoting saving than IRAs, the swap would be worth considering.

But there's little sign of interest in such swapping.

The campaign to preserve the popular IRA deduction so far looks less like a legitimate policy effort to perfect the Packwood bill than the opening wedge for special interests to tear it apart.

If the choice is between IRAs and the possibility of genuine tax reform, taxpayers and the Senate should not hesitate to bid farewell to their IRA deductions.

'Yo, God ... This Is Me, Booker ...'

A few days ago this columnist visited a friend, Booker Leroy Jackson, of Harlem, N.Y., who had written a long prayer.

I asked why he had done so. Jackson replied: "White folks think that only black women pray, and they give them Pulitzer Prizes when they write the prayers down. I ain't into no prizes, but just doin' my thing like my momma taught me."

I was able to convince him that his theological entreaty merited publication. Here it is:

"Yo, God: This is me, Booker. You know, Booker Leroy Jackson. Just in case you forgot, that's Booker as in Washington, Leroy as in Jones, Jackson as in Jesse."

"We ain't talked in a couple of days, God, cuz I've been out hustlin' tryin' to find a job."

"I been readin' about this dude, Pat Robertson. You know, that television preacher who been actin' cute like he be runnin' for president and talkin' outta both sides of his mouth."

"I watch all them television preachers. I dig Jimmy Swaggart. He do some powerful pre-achin'. Billy Graham ain't on much now. Jerry Falwell is the phoniest one of all. God, you must like that "tower of power" dude cuz none of them glass panes in his church never break. All of them sound like Phil Donahue. I like him, too."

"Anyway, God, I had to talk to you about Pat Robertson cuz my main squeeze, Sapphire, got right upset one night after he talk on "The 700 Club."

"She say he say that the husband is the head of the wife and that just be the way it is."

"Man, Sapphire commence yellin' how if he's a born-again Christian, how come he ain't born-again for women as equals?"

"Then Pat Robertson got mad and say he didn't say that. Paul the Apostle did. But, God, he don't deny he agree with Paul, a sneaky dude."

"When he preach about how evil government is, abortions and spendin' too much money, ain't that the same thing as sayin' that President Reagan, who is head of the government, is evil too?"

"Pat Robertson say he want more Christians in government."

"Now, God, I got a lot of Muslim friends here in Harlem. And on Sundays, I go over to Riverside Drive and play pick-up games with some Jewish dudes. They know I ain't got no gig and when we finish, they send out for sandwiches and soda and say, "Hey, Booker, when you get straight, OK?"

"And Pat Robertson don't want no Muslims or Jews in his government? That ain't too hip, God."

"Then, he say abortion is uncool and I ain't really into this one, but Sapphire started yellin' about how he should mind his own business and black women agree with her that what they do with they body is they business and white folks should help them get a job instead of worryin' about personal things."

"But Pat Robertson got a good hustle in this gray-haired old black dude, Ben, who takes his place sometimes. Ben ain't too bright, God, but he grin and pray and squeeze folks' hands real tight and try to act proper like he hope somebody will tell him the answers and not call his boss a racist. Check you later, God."

Next Year's Madness

The May madness of 1986 is over, and the consensus is that it was a qualified success. The time has come to think about 1987.

As I noted recently in this space, a good many high-minded Americans with nothing better to do have fallen into the habit of participating in some large outdoor event every spring when the weather turns warm. The sponsors of these extravaganzas usually contrive to give them a subtle leftist twist, but the throngs who take part in them either don't notice this or don't care. It is enough for them that the cause being promoted is always vaguely idealistic.

This year the idea was to have 6 million Americans join hands, from New York City to Long Beach, Calif., for 15 minutes on Sunday afternoon, May 25, to focus attention on "the problem of the hungry and the homeless in America." Just how this might play in the rest of the world, many of whose residents are doing their desperate best to immigrate to the United States and get a piece of the action, evidently was not deeply considered and perhaps didn't matter.

Still, the affair probably served its purpose (whatever that was). It is, however, in the nature of these spectacles that each must be topped by the next one. In 1971 it was enough for 100,000 people to trudge around the Washington Monument protesting the Vietnam War. By 1982 it had to be 500,000 people massing in New York's Central Park in support of a "nuclear freeze." This year it was several million people holding hands more or less across the country, in aid of America's alleged "millions" of hungry and homeless. But what shall we do for an encore?

Ladies and gentlemen, I have the answer. At exactly noon (Greenwich Mean Time) on Sunday, May 24, 1987, let 100 million people join hands for world peace. In a super-spectacular to be called HANDS AROUND THE WORLD!

You may think the Atlantic Ocean presents an insurmountable obstacle, but you're wrong. One anchor of the human chain will be President Reagan in Washington. The other, naturally, will be General Secretary Gorbachev in Moscow. The chain will extend northwest across the United States, Canada and Alaska to easternmost Siberia, then stretch westward across the Soviet Union (snaking its way through the Gulag Archipelago and carefully avoiding Gorky) to Moscow.

Gadhafi? Kaddafi?...

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Over the last few months readers of this column have seen many references to the Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi.

Over the same period, they might have read elsewhere about Libyan leader Gadhafi or Qadhafi or Gheddafi or Qadhafi or Kaddafi or any one of at least 30 spellings. At times his last name is preceded with an "al" or an "el."

This has undoubtedly left most of America confused. After all, it seems a simple matter. Why can't America's news media agree on how to spell the Libyan leader's name?

In reality the problem is both simple and complex.

Generally speaking, translating from languages using different written characters from Latin languages is a difficult proposition. Sometimes governments publish an official translation, as the government of China does. Early recently that official translation was changed, leading to extensive alterations in how Chinese names and place names are spelled in Latin characters — "Peking" becoming "Beijing," for example.

In other situations, nations with non-Latin alphabets have established semi-official Latin-alphabet versions of their languages simply through usage. Japan has done this.

But there is no official or even generally accepted semi-official translation of Arabic characters into the Latin alphabet. To make matters even worse, experts on the subject disagree sharply over how Arabic should be written in the Latin alphabet.

This has left people desperately trying to translate Arabic names, either people's names or place names, by coming up with what amount to phonetic spellings — spelling a name the way it sounds. Given how exotic most Arabic languages sound to Western ears, it's no surprise that phonetic spellings have so much variance.

Many countries and Middle Eastern figures have made the problem somewhat simpler by stating a preference as to how a name should be spelled in English.

Adding to the confusion is the fact that official Libyan sources can't agree on a Latin alphabet when they use it. JANA, the official Libyan news agency, uses Al-Gadhafi. The Libyan U.N. Mission uses Muammar Qadhafi. The official Libyan English language magazine, "Jamahiriyah Review," uses Qadhafi.

Is it really any wonder that U.S. news media can't come up with a uniform spelling?

But there is some hope on the horizon. For the first time the Libyan leader himself seems to be voicing a preference. In a recent series of letters to some American school children and others to American clergy, "what's his-name" wrote his signature in Arabic script over the typed name: "Colonel Moammar El-Gadhafi." Previously he had made an elaborate point of only signing in Arabic script, and he has never used a typed version in Latin characters.

So relying on these letters as the first "official" statement as to how he wants his name spelled, both the Associated Press and United Press International have changed their official stylebooks to make the spelling "Moammar Gadhafi."

ROBERT WALTERS

News Media's Failure

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Throughout the first 25 years of the U.S. space program, news coverage of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration was overwhelmingly sympathetic, if not downright sycophantic.

As newspaper readers and television viewers know, the tenor of the coverage changed dramatically on Jan. 28, when one of NASA's four space shuttles exploded, killing all seven people aboard.

The ensuing months have produced a torrent of critical reports about NASA's operations, including scores of news stories about alleged safety lapses, cost overruns, management blunders and assorted other inadequacies.

In every instance, however, those apparent NASA failures predate the shuttle accident, usually by many years. Thus, the news media are confronted with the difficult question: Why was their coverage prior to the catastrophe confined almost exclusively to obsequious, superficial reporting when tough, thoughtful probing clearly would have been preferable?

That, in effect, is the question posed about news coverage of the entire federal government in an important new book, "The Untapped Power of the Press: Explaining Government to the People," by Lewis W. Wolfson, a journalism professor at American University. He explains:

"The central thesis of this book is that the news media weaken government not because they are too critical but because they are too timid. They fail to set out independently to explain government's operation."

"They don't analyze political processes and institutional relationships behind 'the news.' They don't use their power consistently to counter government's power to shape news about itself. They lag in helping people better understand and cope with the system."

The schizophrenic coverage of NASA and its space program illustrates Wolfson's point that "most important is the need to break free of the infatuation with spot news."

Before the accident, the media produced larding coverage of the adventurous aspects of each space mission and the personalities of the astronauts. There was virtually no reporting between missions about substantive matters.

Since the accident, the media has concentrated on the inadequacies that went unreported and uncovered for so long — a frenzy that led NASA's administrator to complain.

JACK ANDERSON

U.S. Blamed For Gang Growth

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The infiltration of Japanese gangsters into the United States is a story we've been reporting for two years. Their success in terrorizing Japanese tourists and the Japanese-American community is causing increased concern among law enforcement authorities.

Two veteran reporters associated with the Center for Investigative Reporting, David Kaplan and Alec Dubro, have now written a book describing in ominous detail the origins and growth of the Japanese criminal gangs — and the serious threat they pose to our society. The book is titled "Yakuza," the name given to the underworld gangs from the simple card game they played to while away the hours between missions of murder, extortion and other crimes.

Our associate Donald Goldberg has reviewed an advance copy of the book, which is based on the largest file on Yakuza in this country. Here are some revelations of particular concern to Americans:

— After Japan's crushing defeat in World War II, the Yakuza gangs were in almost total disarray. One development that helped them survive was recruitment of gang members by U.S. intelligence officers. The American authorities used Yakuza members to spy on and disrupt the supposedly leftist labor movement in Japan.

Several incidents traced to Yakuza thugs in the pay of the U.S. government were aimed at union members in Japan in the late 1940s and 1950s. In one case, saboteurs derailed a Japanese National Railways train, killing three people and injuring scores. Twenty railway workers were convicted of the crime, despite evidence that their prosecution was a setup. They were finally exonerated in 1963.

— Yakuza gangsters working for the CIA kidnapped a well-known leftist writer, who was held by the agency for more than a year. Other intimidations of this sort are also described in the book.

— Congress is indirectly responsible for the arming of the Japanese underworld, by virtue of its relaxed gun-control legislation. Until recently, Japan's strict gun controls had made the country virtually free of handguns and extremely low in the incidence of shooting fatalities.

Recently, however, a multimillion-dollar gun trade between the United States and Japan has opened up, with thousands of American pistols flooding into Japan. The Yakuza are understandably in the vanguard of this lethal, lucrative and illegal trade. Handguns that cost $100 in this country fetch as much as $2,000 in Tokyo. The well-armed Yakuza gangs have been indulging in some of the bloodiest battles of their long history. Japanese Yakuza leaders told the authors they can no longer control their gang members.

— Roughly half the Yakuza's enormous illicit income is derived from drugs, with methamphetamine, or "speed," the drug of choice. As many as 600,000 Japanese are addicted to "shabu," as the drugs are called in Japan — a level proportionate to the number of heroin junkies in the United States. Thanks in large degree to the Yakuza, Japan's drug-abuse rate is now among the world's highest.

SCC Offers Career Choice Program

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County middle school students are the target of a college program designed to help them examine career choices.

Seminole Community College counselors Charles English and Dr. Lurlene Sweeting are coordinating the "Family Vocational Guidance Program" to give county seventh, eighth, and ninth graders and their parents a look into career choices.

The eight week program is offered free of charge, funded by a state vocational education grant.

"This is unique concept. It's a different kind of approach, with parent involvement," Sweeting said.

English added, "While we hope to help students plan and decide career issues, the main emphasis will be to help the students feel positive about themselves in making career decisions."

Middle school age isn't too early to start thinking about career choices, according to the two, who be the instructors.

"When students are about to graduate from high school, it is sometimes too late to look ahead," Sweeting said. "We want them to look at career goals, and make high school education plans to help reach those goals, so they are prepared for college and careers."

"Family support systems can enhance career decisions," English said. "Parents effect their children's success. We hope that by working together families will learn the realities of career decisions."

Students and parents will examine career choices together and break down into peer groups, for discussions and examinations of interests.

The program will be conducted in the SCC library from June 23-August 11. Eight sessions will be held on Monday evenings, from 6:30 until 9:15 p.m.

There is no fee for the classes, English said. "All we want is a commitment from the parents and students to attend every session."

The deadline for enrolling in the sessions has been extended to June 16. Registration by phone or further information may be obtained by calling English or Sweeting at SCC at 323-1450.

Orlando Builder Bids Lowest On Longwood Police Complex

An Orlando Builder's bid to construct the Longwood police complex for $732,997 was lowest of the seven bids were opened Monday night at a special meeting of the Longwood City Commission, according to City Clerk Don Terry.

Bids ranged from the low, by H&R Builders, Inc., of Orlando to a high bid of $867,000 submitted by Mark Construction of Longwood.

No action will be taken on hiring a contractor until the bids are reviewed by the architect. H&R Builders, Inc., also bid separately on two additional alternatives. On the first, a skylight over a corridor to match one included in the primary plan, the firm bid $23,166. On the second alternative, which includes millwork on cabinets, a glass wall between the muster room and the sergeant's office, and a canopy overhang to protect the gas pump their bid was $5,615.

The one-story police building is scheduled to have approximately 9,482 enclosed square feet. It will be constructed of exterior masonry walls with brick veneer and will have a drive through security vehicle sallyport and secure booking area. The bids do not include furniture or landscaping.

The building site is located at the end of Jessup Avenue, east of West Lake Street, south of Florida Avenue and North of Church Avenue adjacent to the Longwood Historical District.

The commission voted to turn the bids over to the architect Architects Design Group of Winter Park for review and recommendation. The architect is expected to report back to the commission at a special meeting 8 a.m. June 17 at city hall, 175 W. Warren Ave. Also scheduled for that meeting will be recommendations on bank proposals for funding of capital projects, and interviews with candidates for the position of full-time city attorney. —Jane Casselberry

Lake Mary, Builders To Discuss Moratorium

A proposed building permit moratorium will be the topic of a "special called" meeting of the Lake Mary city commission tonight. The meeting will be held at Lake Mary's city hall, 158 North Country Club Rd., beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Exempt from the proposed moratorium ordinance are those builders who pay "voluntary" interim impact fees to the city. The fees collected will be held in an escrow account, until the city establishes a permanent fee schedule later this year.

Builders have protested Lake Mary's interim impact fees since they were initially adopted by resolution May 1.

Ken Levitt, President of the Home Builders Association of Mid-Florida, demanded the commission repeal the resolution, calling it "inequitable and illegal" in a May 15 letter to the city fathers.

Levitt and other HBA officials have pointed out to commissioners that impact fees must be adopted by ordinance, backed by extensive research to show impact fees collected from new construction is calculated to the actual costs and impacts of new development.

The city has a growth fee committee developing fees, and a consultant will be hired to hasten the study.

The commission rescinded their May 1 resolution in response to Levitt's letter, after city attorney Robert Petree opined that the resolution was not defensible in court. He suggested the "modified moratorium", stopping the issuance of building permits in the city for six months, while impact fees are developed and adopted. Building permits would be issued for construction if the voluntary impact fees are paid.

The special session was originally scheduled for May 29, but was delayed so Petree could have more time to develop a draft of the moratorium-impact fee ordinance.

IN BRIEF

Broke Ex-GI Bumping In Europe Tries To Sell Military-Base Info

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — West German counterespies caught a jobless American ex-GI trying to sell what he knew about U.S. military bases in Europe to Eastern intelligence agents.

The unidentified ex-GI, who was arrested before he could betray any secrets to East bloc agents, was one of 13 suspected foreign agents nabbed by West German counterintelligence this year, the Interior Ministry said Tuesday.

The American, arrested earlier this year, has been released pending an investigation of his case. Foreign Ministry spokesman Hans-Guenter Kowalski said. He said no decision had been made on whether to prosecute the case. Officials did not name the country to which he allegedly tried to sell information.

Rebels Spring German Hostages

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — U.S.-backed rebels freed eight West German volunteer workers after holding them hostage in remote eastern Nicaragua for 25 days, government and rebel sources said.

Information Minister Manuel Espinoza, speaking over nationwide radio, said the Germans were released late Tuesday in Presillitas, 100 miles east of the capital, near where Contra rebels of the U.S.-backed Nicaraguan Democratic Force (FDN) captured them May 17.

The Nicaraguan Defense Ministry took credit for pressuring the rebels into freeing the Germans. It said soldiers captured two Contras who provided information on the Germans several hours before their release.

Marcos Bargaining For Amnesty

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Deposed ruler Ferdinand Marcos has offered to make a $2.1 billion settlement with the government of President Corason Aquino in exchange for amnesty, a newspaper reported today.

The Philippine Tribune quoted Attorney Juan T. David as saying he had met with Marcos, living in exile in Honolulu, and was seeking a meeting with Aquino to discuss possible negotiations to avert further court proceedings.

David said the offer represented what Marcos indicated was 70 percent of his holdings and was intended to help him "carve his niche in history" and "buy peace of mind."

IRA Bomber Guilty Of 5 Murders

LONDON (UPI) — A convicted Irish Republican Army member today awaited sentencing for the murder of five people in a hotel bombing that narrowly missed killing Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and members of her Cabinet.

A jury of six men and six women Tuesday convicted Patrick Magee, 35, of Belfast of planting the bomb that shattered the Grand Hotel in the coastal resort city of Brighton during a convention of Thatcher's ruling Conservative Party in October 1984.

The infant, born the same day as Baby Jesse, kept alive on a Baby Jesse was taken by ambulance from Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena about 75 miles to Loma Linda.

Bailey said he was confident of success based on the four previous infant-to-infant transplants he has performed in the past six months.

"Each has survived, and each is doing well," he said.

Hansen said. An increase of just a few degrees Celsius might not be disastrous, but the results of a continuing warming trend would be alarming, said Sherwood Rowland, a chemistry professor at the University of California in Irvine.

"I don't think there's anyone around who argues that an increase of 30 degrees centigrade would be good for us," Rowland said. "Steady increase in temperature leads to the extinction of biological life."

With even a slight increase in global temperature, polar glaciers would melt faster, ocean levels would rise and shorelines would recede, said Stephen Leatherman, director of the University of Maryland's Laboratory for Coastal Research.

The Atlantic Ocean along the U.S. coast already has risen one foot in the last century, and a 1971 study by the Army Corps of Engineers showed about 43 percent of the shoreline in the United States — outside Alaska — had suffered "significant erosion," Leatherman said.

Warmer weather might extend farmers' growing seasons, but many crops would be hurt by the temperature abnormalities, Maguire said, citing another study that blamed unusually warm weather for the dust bowl of the 1930s and warned that a more severe drought would accompany a worldwide warming trend.

"I see you all as a representative group," Harriett said. "And I challenge each of you to take the word to your neighbors: decisive action is going to replace all apathy toward fighting crime in Sanford."

Residents' questions focused on self-protection as well as assisting neighbors and the session ended up becoming a rather large round table discussion of the causes, effects and prevention of crime.

Harriett said it is "critical" that complacency be replaced with resolve.

Harriett also described citizens as "the police department's eyes and ears" and said "it doesn't matter how many times you call us to report something suspicious, it only matters that you do, and that you continue to do so."

"Is the job really that important to take these extra and costly steps, or is there something here that the public does not know?" he asked.

Sturm called his campaign "an open book subject to public inspection at any time." He said the hiring of a consultant will "help to insure victory, that my message gets across to all the people."

"It is not unusual to use outside campaign publicity people. It's done by candidates at all levels," Sturm said. "There are a lot of Bobs bobbin around, but incumbent Bob will be the one that's successful."

Desmond cited the need for county commissioners to solicit citizen input on issues such as roads and sewage treatment facilities.

He mentioned in particular the county's proposed northwest regional plant at Yankee Lake.

"The waste of money, as exemplified in the purchase of the Yankee Lake property for future sewer facilities, is a prime example of being 'out of touch' with the people," he said. "There is no present or near future need for the facility and as of yet, there has not been any regularly scheduled public hearings held to allow the people to have their input. This should have been done before the purchase and intended development of the project."

Desmond criticized the county's decision to purchase the Yankee Lake property. The issue led to litigation by the City of Sanford, which sought the land for its own wastewater management program.

"If we continue spending millions of dollars in the middle of the night without serious public input, then we are in more trouble than you can imagine. The money this county has wasted on lawsuits against the cities and the forcing of the cities to waste tax money on defending the suits is a clear example of bad government," he said. "We apparently are past the point where the public is allowed to see the tremendous amounts of money planned to be spent by this county on facilities that will have to be paid for by us, our children and our grandchildren."

The county must initiate a better relationship with the seven cities to avoid costly and needless lawsuits and should free up gas tax revenues needed for transportation improvements, Desmond said.

"The constant harassment of the cities must be stopped," he said. "At the present time the county is still delaying the distribution of the road tax money that has already been paid for by the taxpayers. If the county would let go of this money we could start doing something to relieve the traffic problems."

Desmond pledged, if elected, to "immediately investigate the financial condition of this county, bring the information to the people, let the 'sunshine' in and conduct the business of this county in the open as it should be."

Concerning Desmond's dismissal from county employ, County Personnel Director Lois Martin confirmed that Desmond submitted his letter of resignation last January, citing his disagreement with the management style of the department.

County Administrator Ken Hooper, however, instituted disciplinary action before the resignation date and fired Desmond based on accusations Desmond made by letter toward department director Montye Beamer, Ms. Martin said.

Hooper said Desmond violated the county code of conduct through the letter which contained "unfounded accusations against (the) department director" and was "a personal attack on (the) department director and questions (the) supervisor's motives and ability."

The county code states in part that "employees shall avoid conduct and speech which criticizes county departments, divisions, offices, its policies, programs, actions or officers, ridicules or interferes with the reasonable supervision or proper discipline of the county."

Hooper said he "found no basis" for the accusations and that Desmond "produced no facts or evidence" to support them.

"I can only conclude that this is the result of a personal attack on the assistant county administrator-computer services director," he said.

Hooper added that Desmond presented the letter to county commissioners and computer services employees, as well as to himself and Beamer.

Desmond served as a consultant to the county's office of management and budget for a little over a year prior to his two-year employment as a computer analyst, Ms. Martin said.

Desmond is president of Diversified Data Corporation in Deltona. He lived in Volusia County for two years and is a four-year resident of Central Florida.

nowhere to go at night," Farr said.

He said the church's problems in developing such a facility stem from Sanford's not having codes that specifically address building requirements for missions.

"They're not homes, they're not restaurants and they're not hotels, so building staff is understandably having difficulty with the proposal," Farr said.

The church has already submitted a site plan to the building department and received a two-page response which includes a requirement for 11 on-site parking spaces, church member Richard Burke said.

Burke said he had a problem with this "because homeless people don't have cars, so we don't need all that parking area."

The church is receiving assistance from Sanford architect Gerry Gross, who said the mission project demonstrates that "going strictly by the book doesn't always work. Things don't always come out black and white."

Gross said rather than requesting building waivers, the church was looking to commissioners "for assistance in working the problems out."

The mission would provide sleeping accommodations and food for up to 20 people and lengths of stay would be no more than three days, Burke said.

He also said Monday was the first time the mission proposal had been discussed at a public meeting.

The project is being funded entirely through contributions from church members who "have identified a need and want to do something to help," Burke said.

Inspections of all multi-family residences in the downtown area were called for by city commissioner last month. The area was rezoned from multi-family to single family residential in 1983, although existing rooming houses, hotels and apartments were allowed to continue operation. These homeowners were, however, given until last October to install safety improvements such as fire and smoke alarms and stairway lighting.

The rezoning was an effort to upgrade the area, according to Farr, who was a commissioner at the time.

However, some of the area's single family homeowners have contended that several of the multi-family dwellings have not received the required safety measures, and have also been allowed to deteriorate.

These reports prompted commissioners to call for the inspections. Mercer said on Monday he plans to monitor the results of these surveys and also follow subsequent code enforcement board actions on those properties found to be in violation of city building code requirements.

since there are only five months remaining, I had planned to run for re-election, but that decision will have to wait until I discuss it with the executive committee."

Farr said if he is hired, he will give up his real estate business.

Carl, a member of the Sanford P&Z board (an unsalaried position) and the board of directors of the chamber, is the owner of a card shop in the Seminole Centre. He said he regards the chamber presidency in terms of a career move that would extend over the next 10 to 15 years. Applying for the position is "a family decision," Carl said. He said it would be a full-time commitment, taking precedence over his present responsibilities with the P&Z board and his business. He said he would turn over the operation of the business to his wife.

Carl has started two businesses in Sanford and he said his experience as a small businessman and his work on the city's comprehensive plan are good background for managing the chamber. He credits the chamber with bringing he and his wife together — they met at the chamber during a membership drive, he said.

Boyce, who also has applied for the chamber job — which pays roughly $30,000 a year, plus a $2,500 car allowance, according to Mrs. Schilke — was manager of the Orange City Chamber of Commerce before the office there was closed. He helped out with the Greater Sanford Chamber's last membership drive.

Arnett recently was hired by the chamber as vice president and will fill in as president when Horner leaves until a permanent replacement is hired. A Navy veteran, he has a background in finance. He has been active in the chamber for 13 years and served as president in 1979 (when it was an elective position.) Arnett was the founder and first chairman of the Golden Age Games.

Chacey is a retired Air Force officer and a former city manager of Longwood. He has been active in the Longwood-Winter Springs Area Chamber.

Mrs. Schilke said the executive committee has placed ads in trade publications in Florida and expects to receive six or more applications before she convenes a meeting around June 23. "I will already have provided committee members with copies of the applications and at that meeting later this month we'll review them. After that, we'll set up interviews."

Informant's Tip Leads To Rock Cocaine Arrest

A confidential informant told Sanford police that a suspect would be selling "rock" cocaine from his pocket on 13th Street at about 10 p.m. Monday and that tip brought the arrest of a 35-year-old Sanford man. The suspect was also charged in connection with having brass knuckles in his possession.

Police reported spotting the suspect in his truck on 13th Street. He was searched and 11.3 grams of cocaine and the brass knuckles were reportedly found.

Ethlingor Wilzo Warren, 35, of 120 Cypress Ave., has been charged with possession of cocaine and possession with intent to distribute, as well as with carrying a concealed weapon and use of a weapon in commission of a felony. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

CLEAN OUT CASH CHARGES
A brother and sister house cleaning team who allegedly stole a wallet containing $300 from a home at 116 Bridgeview Court, Longwood, when they cleaned on May 26 have been charged with grand theft.

The two were questioned in connection with the theft by Seminole County sheriff's deputies and were arrested at the home where the theft occurred.

Catherine Virginia Larkin, 22, and Edward Lee Larkin, 26, were arrested at 12:30 p.m. Monday and were being held in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

DUI ARRESTS
The following people have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:
—Bruce A. Coblitz, 35, of 305 Red Wing Way, Casselberry, was arrested at 10:05 a.m. Monday after Altamonte Springs police spotted him driving erratically on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs. He was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia after a homemade smoking device was reportedly found in his car.

—Brian Keith Evans, 25, of Geneva, at 2:07 a.m. Monday, after his car was clocked traveling 57 mph in a 35 mph zone on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford. He was also charged with resisting arrest without violence.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
A gold chain and a gold and diamond heart with a combined value of $380 were stolen from the home of Beverly L. Kornegay, 30, of 312 Radebaugh Drive, Longwood, on June 3 or 4, a sheriff's report said.

Bulder Jack A. Taylor, 64, of Winter Park, reported to sheriff's deputies a $300 dishwasher was stolen between June 1 and Monday from a home being built at 4130 Aldergate lot 14, Winter Park.

Two watches with a combined value of $400 were stolen from the home of Wesley E. Lewton, of 56 San Jose Circle, Winter Park, Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Doris M. Johnson, Lake Mary, reported to sheriff's deputies that two microwave ovens with a combined value of about $2,000 were stolen from The Club at The Crossings, 951 Greenwood Blvd., Lake Mary, between May 21 and June 7.

A $540 lawnmower was stolen from the garage of Herbert L. Larson, 303 E. Crystal Drive, Sanford, on Sunday or Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Karen Lee Borum, 33, of 1235 Maryland St., Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies that two televisions and two video recorders valued at $2,400 were stolen from her home Monday, a sheriff's report said.

Siding and other building materials with a combined value of $375 were stolen from a General Home being built at 3727 Biscayne Drive, Winter Springs. Builder Jim H. Martin, of Winter Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies the theft occurred between June 7 and Monday.

Sheriff's deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen about $50 on Friday and about $160 Monday from Mae's Fabrics, 131 State Road 436, Fern Park. Celeste R. Balse of Casselberry reported the loss.

Jewelry valued at about $800 was stolen about three weeks ago from the home of Jacqueline A. Dougherty, 41, of 601 Springs Valley Drive, Altamonte Springs, according to a report she filed with sheriff's deputies June 8.

Charyl Epling, 23, of 932 Apt. 1, Destiny Springs, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies her purse containing a $150 gold necklace and a $200 ring, was stolen from her car while parked at the 7-Eleven on Fernwood Boulevard in Fern Park, Sunday.

STOLEN BIKE
A red Free Spirit bicycle valued at $130 was stolen from where it was parked on Weldon Blvd. early Saturday morning, according to a Lake Mary police report.

The report said a 14-year-old boy parked his bike near Weldon Blvd at midnight, and walked to the Seminole Community College campus. When he returned 40 minutes later, the bike was gone.

The report indicated the youth speculated a car seen in the area may have picked up the bike.

Child Sex Charges Net Probation

A 47-year-old Oviedo man charged with sexual battery and committing a lewd and lascivious act upon a child has been sentenced to three years probation.

Milton Eugene Quattlebaum, of 2477 Howard Ave., was also ordered by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler to pay $700 in restitution to the victim for counseling. Leffler also ordered that Quattlebaum is not to be in the presence of any child under 15-years-old unless there is another adult present.

According to court records, the mother of an 8-year-old girl told Seminole County Deputies that a man molested her daughter while she was at his home between Sept. 19 and 27.

The girl reportedly told her mother of the alleged assaults, and after both were questioned by sheriff's investigators, Quattlebaum was arrested.

In other court action: —Dennis Paul Costello, 27, of Route 2, Box 62A, Richmond St., Sanford, arrested in August after being accused of allegedly using his own check cashing card at a Winn-Dixie store to cash a stolen check. He was sentenced by Leffler to 60 days in jail, 6 months of probation, and ordered to pay a $200 fine, $50 to the Public Defenders Office and $117.82 to Winn Dixie, 25th Street, Sanford. According to court records, the check had been stolen from a Sanford business and the suspect was linked by Sanford police to the case through his own check cashing card, which was used when the check was cashed, a police report said. The suspect's finger print was also reportedly found on the check, a report said.

—Donald Eugene Herring, 24, of 2450 Center St., and 2321 Church St., Sanford, arrested in December on charges of attempted murder and arson. He was sentenced by Leffler to 2 years probation and a $100 fine. He was also ordered to pay court costs and the Public Defender's Office $350. According to an officer's report, the suspect drew a couch of Dorothy A. Perove, of 2450 Center St., Sanford, as well as the porch and the outside of her home with kerosene. The suspect apparently had been involved in a domestic dispute with Ms. Perove at which time the suspect reportedly said he was going to burn her out. He also reportedly had threatened to kill her and her children. Witnesses had extinguished the fire and thrown the suspect to the ground by the time police arrived.

—Johnny Lee Grubbs, 27, of Sanford, arrested in January after he pushed, then struggled with a sheriff's deputy as the deputy assisted an alleged spouse-abuse victim. Leffler sentenced Grubbs to a year of probation. According to court records, the deputy was assisting the alleged victim get some clothes when the man started yelling at the victim. The incident occurred Jan. 10. When the deputy told the man to settle down and be quiet, he became more irate and pushed the deputy on the shoulder and a struggle followed, a report said. The man was subdued by the deputy and his partner, arrested and taken to jail. Grubbs could have received up to a year in jail.

—Donna Jean McConachee, 24, of Deltona, arrested in January after reportedly buying clothes with a check drawn on a closed account. She was sentenced by Leffler to five weekends in jail and ordered to pay $156.16 in restitution to Pants U.S. at 3621 S. Orlando Dr., Sanford. According to court records, the woman reportedly paid for several articles of clothing at the Sanford shop using a check drawn on a closed account at Barnett Bank of Deland. She was located by the shop owner and police in a sandwich shop next door to the store after the owner called the bank and confirmed the account was closed. Leffler also ordered Ms. McConachee to maintain full-time employment.

Investigator Suspended

A State Attorney's Office investigator was suspended without pay Monday following his arrest Friday on a charge of driving under the influence.

Rodger Webb, 43, of Sanford, will stay suspended pending further investigation, according to Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Norman Wolfinger.

Library Site Plan Approved

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city commissioners have unanimously approved Seminole County's site plan for the Sanford library.

Construction of the $780,000 project will begin in October and its opening is anticipated the following fall. County Library Services Director Jean Rhein said.

The county will build the 12,000-square foot library at Commercial and Palmetto avenues, directly behind Sanford's First Street library.

The new Sanford library will be 7,000 square feet larger than the First Street library, with the additional space used in part to house an auditorium and a microfilm system. Ms. Rhein said. The building will also enable expanded programs for children, she said.

The 5,000-square-foot First Street library will be used as the county library services' book processing center once the new project is complete.

Library site plan approval had been recommended by city staff, although project shortcomings were cited by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Board. The P&Z, however, opted out of denying site plan approval last week by declining to rule on the project. The site plan was instead sent by the P&Z to the city commission for review.

After review and discussing the project with its architect, commissioners were satisfied on Monday that the proposal met all city building requirements.

Commissioners also said they were a bit confused about the P&Z's rationale for sending the site plan to them, as well as project shortcomings the board discussed.

The P&Z's action to submit the plan to commissioners was a first, and was deemed necessary in light of the project's "inadequacies" versus its benefits for the community, P&Z vice-chairman Brent Carl said.

The P&Z decision was made Thursday night on a motion from Carl. It was preceded by a motion for site plan approval, which failed by a 3-4 vote.

A P&Z decision against the project would have been appealable to the city commission, although the board preferred not to deny the project and formally cite its shortcomings, Carl said.

"There are problems with the site plan," Carl said, "but the board is also aware of how important the library is for Sanford. We felt it would be best for commissioners to decide this without our input."

Carl also said he had little doubt commissioners would approve the project due to their prior decisions in its favor. He said the opinion was based on commissioners' having overturned a Historic Preservation Board ruling against the project last winter and their having granted approval this spring for the county to install a drive-up book drop on Commercial Avenue. The county said a rehabilitation of the Commercial and Palmetto avenue sidewalks will accompany the book drop installation.

The historic board ruling against the library was based on the project's contemporary design. The board has jurisdiction over construction and external alterations of structures in the downtown historic district.

Give-Away Set For Replaced School Books

Several thousand used Seminole County school textbooks will be given away next week to anyone who wants them.

"We've got a room-full," said Textbook Director Harriett Hobbs. "There is quite a lot of surplus," she added.

The books will be given away Monday through June 19 at the system's Textbook Department, 911 Palmetto Avenue, Sanford. The office will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

The books cover a variety of subjects on levels from kindergarten through 12th grade. Those wishing to pick up books are should bring their own boxes, bags, and transportation, said school district spokesman Karen Coleman.

She said the books, which have been replaced with updated classroom material, are being offered for use in Seminole County homes as supplementary reading and study material for year-round use.

"Even though these books have been replaced in the classroom, two-plus-two still equals four," Ms. Hobbs said. "There is still plenty of good learning material to be used for additional reading and research."

In overturning the board's decision last spring, commissioners said the project's educational benefits outweighed its perceived incompatibility with nearby historic district structures.

Commissioners review on Monday included P&Z cited concerns regarding access space in the alley between the old and new libraries and provisions for parking.

Commissioners said the project had been granted a parking waiver enabling seven on-site spaces for staff and requiring patrons to use the city's nearby municipal lot. Although the P&Z acknowledged the waiver, it felt the municipal lot would be further overcrowded by library patrons, Carl said.

Carl also said the P&Z cited a book loading ramp between the old and new libraries as not being far enough from Palmetto Avenue to prevent trucks at the ramp from sticking out of the alley onto the Palmetto Avenue sidewalk and possibly its roadway.

Commissioners were told by the project architect that no trucks would protrude into the street and that once or twice a year, for between four to 20 minutes, large trucks would use the alley to drop off supplies and they might extend onto the Palmetto Avenue sidewalk.

The Sanford project is the first of five libraries Seminole County will build during the next three years with $7 million in library project bonds approved during a 1981 referendum, Ms. Rhein said.

In addition to the Sanford project, the county will build 12,000 square foot libraries of like design in Oviedo, Lake Mary and Forest City. The fifth new library will be a $3 million, 50,000 square foot project for Casselberry, Ms. Rhein said.

Sweethearts First Transplant Patients To Wed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A June 21 wedding may be the first ever between heart transplant recipients, and the future bride and groom expect their surgery will provide plenty of opportunities for heart-to-heart talks.

Gary Welp, 35, of south St. Louis, and Susan Steffy, 36, of Mount Vernon, Ill., said Monday in a telephone interview with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch they plan to be married in Mount Vernon.

Welp, a cab driver for St. Louis County Cab Co., proposed in January.

"I shed a few tears before I accepted," said Steffy, who has worked part-time as a reading tutor at a Mount Vernon grade school. "I was so happy."

"We both have that (heart transplants) in common, and

'We both have that (heart transplants) in common, and we can communicate about it... I hope that helps make for a good marriage.'

"We can communicate about it," Steffy said. "I hope that helps make for a good marriage."

"If somebody had told me about this a year ago, I'd have said they were crazy," Welp said. "But we just fell in love."

Steffy received her new heart in January 1983 and Welp received his in January 1984, both at the University Hospital in St. Louis, where they met through a heart transplant support group. John Schwent, a spokesman for the hospital, said he checked with other transplant centers throughout the nation to see whether any of their heart transplant patients had married each other.

"None of them had ever heard of anything like this before," Schwent said.

The couple said their life together will be ordinary, except for the special diets, exercise and medication each requires. Their transplanted hearts don't keep them from being active, they said.

Although each was married at the time of their operations, they both were divorced before their courtship began.

After the wedding, the couple plans to live in south St. Louis with Steffy's daughters, Tiffani, 11, and Jamie, 8.

TENNIS
ANYONE?

Pernfors' Second To Lendl Is Like Second To Celtics

Mike Pernfors is the talk of the tennis world after his great job in the French Open this past weekend.

Finishing second to Ivan Lendl is like finishing second to the Boston Celtics. Lendl is that much better than the rest of the field.

Mike, of course, just keeps getting better and better. His ranking zoomed to 15th in the world. Just six months ago, Mike was ranked 437th.

That high of a ranking will get him seeded at Wimbledon. Since John McEnroe is out, Mike could be seeded 14th.

"I felt no nervousness in any match except the first one," Mike said via telephone Saturday about his opening round French Open win. "After that I just went into a zone."

Mike is going to make tons of money this year. The second-place finish will probably mean more than $250,000 for him in endorsements the next two or three weeks. Right before the match with Boris Becker, Mike signed a new contract with Nike shoes.

Mike is going home to Sweden for some endorsements and a much-needed week's rest. Right before his Becker match, he signed a new contract with Nike shoes. Then, he is going to London next week to practice on grass for Wimbledon.

Yes, things are a little different now than just three years ago when he was scrounging around SCC for $5 to buy some racket strings.

Mike's rise to acclaim, although astronomical, hasn't been well documented by those who watch him closely. Pernfors was a semifinalist at the U.S. Pro Indoor at Memphis, a quarterfinalist at Atlanta where he beat Stefan Edberg, a quarterfinalist at La Quinta (California) and a quarterfinalist at Indianapolis.

Mother and father (Bengt and Hana) Pernfors were on hand for the finals along with brother Mats and sister Martina. Greg Miller, who played on both national championship teams with Mike, was also there. Greg just finished at the University of Nevada-Reno and is trying his hand at the European pro circuit.

Andy Castle, who also played on those two title teams, will be at Wimbledon. Wouldn't it be ironic if Mike drew Andy?

Florida has another national champion. Flagler College, located in St. Augustine, recently won the NAA national championship.

Flagler beat out defending champ Lander College of South Carolina. It's very, very hard to win a national championship in anything at anytime so I know the folks are feeling mighty proud about this time.

We are especially pleased that one of our own former Seminole Community College players, Tobias Svantesson, did such a great job in the nationals for Flagler. In fact, Tobias carried the whole team on his shoulders. Tobias won the singles title and the doubles title. He accounted for 17 of Flagler's 25 points.

He has proven this year that he is truly one of the top players in college tennis. Tobias will likely turn pro this summer, perhaps joining his buddy Pernfors on the tour.

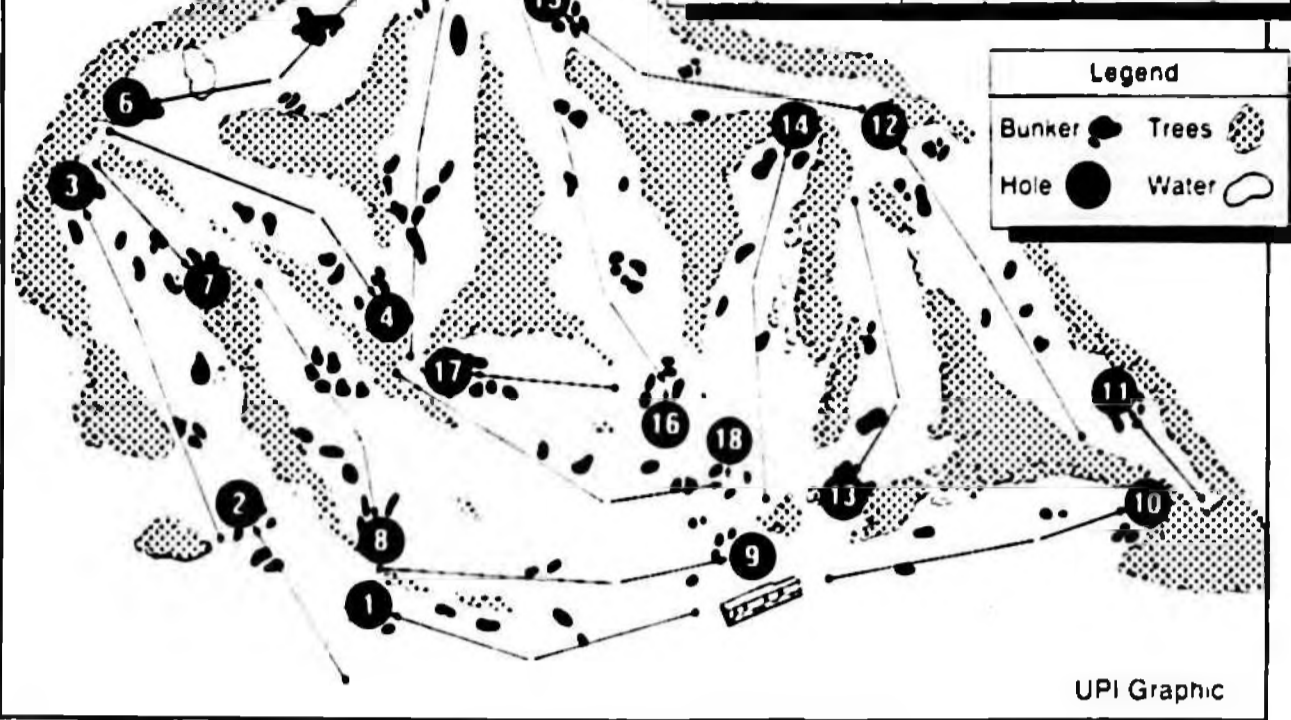

It was good to hear of the success of John and David Holt and their Jefferson State Junior College team. Jefferson State finished second in the nation and John made Junior College All-American. Anderson, S.C. Junior College won this year's national championship. John, by the way, will probably accept a scholarship at either North Florida or Jacksonville.

Rollins College and Coach Norm Copeland had another good year. The Tars were once again among the nation's Division II powers and finished in the top eight in the nationals. Things will only get better next year as many of Rollins' top players return for another year.

Shinnecock Hills: Wind, Sand, Tough

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Thirteen years ago a 21-year-old Ben Crenshaw played the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club on a typically windy afternoon and came away with a 5-under 65. When news of his score began to circulate in the clubhouse, Crenshaw was informed he had set the course record.

Crenshaw, 1984 Masters champion, is recognized as one of the sport's leading historians whose golfing library contains 450 volumes.

His comments are included in this hole-by-hole description of the 6,912-yard, par-70 Shinnecock Hills Golf Club course, site of the 86th U.S. Open:

No. 1, 394 yards, par 4 — Any great course should provide a vista from the first tee and Shinnecock Hills certainly does that. From an elevated tee the course stretches out below, in particular the opening fairway which bends slightly to the right. A player can bite off as much of the dogleg as he feels comfortable doing, but the ever-present rough awaits.

This course reminds me of Muirfield (the revered Scottish course which first hosted the British Open in 1892). There is tall grass well off the fairway, just like at Muirfield. But you really shouldn't be there. You have to hit a really wild shot to get there.

No. 2, 226 yards, par 3 — The longest of the short holes which plays over a valley to a green that is bunkered on both sides. "This is a key hole early in the round. The day I shot a 65 here it was the only hole I bogeyed. I hit a 2 iron there and it came up short. You need to hit the greens on this course, just like any other Open course."

No. 3, 453 yards, par 4 — When the prevailing wind blows the first three holes are played with the breeze at the players' back. The wind comes in handy on this hole because of its length. A string of bunkers runs down the right side in the final 50 yards. I set the record. I think I made about a 30-foot putt! You are going to have to make a few long ones to score well because you may not get too close to the hole."

No. 4, 408 yards, par 4 — A dogleg left right back into the wind. As with many of the holes at Shinnecock, the bunkering is chiefly in front of the green. "The third and fourth holes are sort of tandem holes. One (the third) is much longer than the other, but the fourth hole is into the wind and because of that they are equally tough."

No. 5, 535 yards, par 5 — One of two par 5s on the course and by far the easier of the two even though the USGA built a new tee that added 35 yards. "I think most players will reach this green in two. If there is some wind behind them they may get there with a middle iron. You don't want to knock it over this green, though, because there is a thick back there with some unplayable lies."

No. 6, 471 yards, par 4 — A severe test along the outer boundary of the course. The tee shot travels to a landing area that is not visible from the tee and then a long second shot must carry over sand, scrub like rough and the only water hazard on the course — a small pond about 80 yards short of the green and on the right side of the fairway. A large bunker also runs down the left side of the green and will see its share of action. "This is easily the toughest hole on the front side and maybe the toughest hole on the course. I birdied this hole when I shot 65 and they will be hard to come by."

No. 7, 188 yards, par 3 — Typical of the par 3s at Shinnecock are the long, narrow greens. This one is of the redan style architecture.

Open: Step Back In Time

Golf

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — The game's famous names gather next on the windswept hills which helped give birth to American golf with the most famous of them all — Jack Nicklaus — trying to build on what has already been a memorable year.

Tradition and modern-day drama will be united beginning Thursday at Shinnecock Hills for the playing of the 86th Open Championship of the United States Golf Association.

At perhaps no other golfing locale in the country can there be more of a feeling that one has stepped back in time.

When the sport was first taking root in America, the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club was in the forefront. It was the first site on which true golf architecture was attempted in the United States. The nation's first golf clubhouse was built there and still stands as a charming, but imposing link with the past.

And in 1896 the still new USGA conducted its second professional championship at Shinnecock. Thirty-five players entered, 29 of them completed 36 holes in one day and James Foulis — a Scotsman who helped bring the game to Chicago — was the winner with a shockingly low score of 152.

Now, for the first time in 90 years, the Open returns to Shinnecock and its wild beauty which so resembles the links courses on the other side of the sea.

"It's a British Open course," said Tom Watson, a five-time winner of that event. "It looks like it came out of England or Scotland."

The setting for a U.S. Open is usually the chief topic when tournament time rolls around and that would easily have been the case this year if somebody other than Jack Nicklaus had won the Masters.

The 46-year-old Nicklaus provided a welcome shock to the world of golf two months ago with his dramatic final nine holes at the Augusta National to beat Tom Kite and Greg Norman by a shot and win his 20th major championship. He made another splash last month when he birdied six straight holes during the final round of his own Memorial Tournament.

Now, despite the remote odds, Nicklaus is talking Grand Slam just as he used to when he was the automatic favorite at any major event.

"Nobody else has a chance (for the slam) this year," said Nicklaus. "Sure, I entertain thoughts of it."

Thoughts of winning the four major professional events — the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and PGA — so dominated the early phase of Nicklaus' career that he considered it a bitter failure whenever he did not win the first of the four.

"It used to be," he said, "that if I didn't win the Masters I would be depressed the rest of the year. I felt the rest of the year was gone. And some years I played that way, where if I didn't win the Masters I wouldn't play well in the Open."

"Finally I realized that was stupid. The chance of a Grand Slam was possible, but it was not a likely thing. I got back to thinking about playing one major championship at a time and doing them the right way."

Other than Nicklaus, the thing which makes this year's Open so intriguing is that the course is so much of a mystery.

Even though Shinnecock is one of the nation's original golfing sites, its remote location

Surprise Starter Huish Blanks Rotary

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Jason Huish wasn't exactly the top pitcher during the regular season of the Seminole Pony Baseball Division. In fact, he was the third pitcher on the Hughes Construction ballclub.

Tuesday night, however, Huish pitched as good a game as any hurler had during the regular season as he fired a two-hit shutout in Hughes Construction's 4-0 victory over Lake Mary Rotary in the Pony Division playoffs at the Seminole Pony Baseball complex.

The win puts Hughes Construction in the winners' bracket where it will play Friday night at 6 against the winner of tonight's game between Rotary and Seminole Suzuki. Tonight's game also starts at 6.

Huish allowed only base hits in the third and sixth innings, struck out four

and walked only one. Rotary had just three baserunners in the game as Hughes Construction played errorless defense.

Jason (Huish) has been our number three pitcher and he didn't do real well all season long. Hughes Construction manager Greg Twigg Sr. said, "I just had a gut feeling that he could do well tonight so I went with him and he pitched his best game yet. And it's the only shutout one of our pitchers have thrown all year."

Hughes Construction backed Huish with a seven-hit offensive attack and gave Huish the early lead with two runs in the second inning. With runners on first and third and one out, Greg Twigg

Jr. drilled a double to left center off Rotary starter Mike Senechek to score both runs.

Hughes Construction added single runs in the fourth and fifth frames. In the fourth, Todd Teixeira belted an RBI double and Twigg drove in his third run of the game with a single up the middle in the fifth off reliever John Connelly.

Along with Twigg and Teixeira, Andy Gaskley, Mike Boyd, Pete Arcomone and Huish had one hit apiece.

Senechek was the main offensive threat for Rotary as he had a single in the sixth inning and hit the hardest ball of the night off Huish in the seventh. Senechek drilled a line shot toward left center but Hughes Construction's Mark Goodearl made a diving catch of it for the final out of the game.

THURSDAY: SALVAGIO'S, GITTESS
Unbeaten Salvagio's Boys, winners of the Bronco Division American League title, will take on National League winner Dr. Gittess Thursday night at 6 at the Seminole Pony Baseball complex.

While Salvagio's won its league going away, Dr. Gittess and Sanford Scale battled Tuesday night to decide the American League champion and it was Dr. Gittess that came out on top, 7-3.

Salvagio's manager Dave Hudick said B.J. Calapa will be on the mound Thursday night.

The Bronco and Mustang Divisions will also compete in a Top Team Tournament against the West Seminole Pony Baseball Bronco and Mustangs. The tournament will begin Monday, June 16, and run through Saturday.

The Seminole Pinto Division will have a tournament on Monday, Wednesday and Friday between the Pinto American and National League all-stars.

Hughes To Attend Prestigious Camp

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Oviedo High basketball standout Robb Hughes, who will be a senior this fall, has been invited and will attend the B/C Basketball Camp in Carnesville, Ga., on June 15-20. Hughes will leave Sunday.

The B/C Camp is one of the most prestigious in the nation as many of the current top NBA players attended it in their high school days. It also draws some of the top coaches in college ball.

"This is the camp to go to if you're interested in a college scholarship," Oviedo High coach Dale Phillips said. "It's by invitation only and generally the top talent in the nation is there."

Novak To Montana

Righthanded pitcher Tommy Novak, who signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds, will leave for the Rookie League in Billings, Mont. Thursday. It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's Evening Herald that he would be going to the Sarasota Rookie League.

Novak, the University of Central Florida's Burger King most valuable player, posted an 11-4 record for the Knights. Novak played his prep ball at Lake Brantley.

Basketball

It will give Robb (Hughes) a chance to see how he stacks up against other players from around the country.

The camp is under the direction of Bill Cronauer, head of one of the largest scouting services in the country.

Among the current NBA stars who attended the camp are Larry Bird, Ralph Sampson, Akceem Olatuwon, Magie Johnson, Dominique Wilkins, Charles Barkley and Isiah Thomas. Recent college stars who attended include Steve Alford, Kenny Walker, Scott Skiles and Tom Hammonds.

College coaches who have been in attendance at the camp in the past include North Carolina's Dean Smith, Kentucky's Eddie Sutton, Florida's Norm Sloan, Georgetown's John Thompson, Notre Dame's Digger Phelps, Louisville's Denny Crum and Nevada-Las Vegas' Jerry Tarkanian.

Some of the top high school coaches from Florida will be on hand at this year's camp including Ed Kershner of Kissimmee Osceola and Jim Haley of Ocala Vanguard.

Connors Returns

Jimmy Connors has his hands full of rackets but Michiel Schapers had his hands full of Connors Tuesday. Connors returned from a 10-week suspension to stomp Schapers 6-2, 6-2 at the Queen's grass court tournament in London. Other winners were Boris Becker, Stefan Edberg, Kevin Curren and Paul McNamee.

Adcock, Cardinal Face Off Tonight

Adcock Roofing and Cardinal Industries will try again tonight in the Sanford Little American League playoff. Game time is 6 at Fort Mellon Park.

The game was originally scheduled for Monday but was postponed due to heavy rain. The winner of tonight's game, weather permitting, will advance to the Sanford City Series against National League champion Sunniland.

The City Series will begin Monday. It is a best 2 of 3 format.

Adcock and Cardinal Industries met one week ago today in the final regular season game and it was Adcock that rode the two-hit pitching of Mike Maples to a 2-0 victory, forcing the one-game playoff.

Maples will be on the mound again for Adcock tonight while Anthony "Redman" Roberts goes for Cardinal. In last week's loss, Roberts allowed just one hit and struck out 14.

Arthur "Jap" Polk was the offensive hero for Adcock in last Wednesday's game as he had the only hit and scored both runs. Adcock Roofing will look for additional offensive firepower from Al Holt, Tony Holly and Maples.

Roberts was the batting leader for Cardinal during the regular season along with Britt Henderson, Leroy Kitt and Willie Williams.

Library Site Plan Approved

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford city commissioners have unanimously approved Seminole County's site plan for the Sanford library.

Construction of the $780,000 project will begin in October and its opening is anticipated the following fall. County Library Services Director Jean Rhein said.

The county will build the 12,000-square foot library at Commercial and Palmetto avenues, directly behind Sanford's First Street library.

The new Sanford library will be 7,000 square feet larger than the First Street library, with the additional space used in part to house an auditorium and a microfilm system, Ms. Rhein said. The building will also enable expanded programs for children, she said.

The 5,000-square-foot First Street library will be used as the county library services' book processing center once the new project is complete.

Library site plan approval had been recommended by city staff, although project shortcomings were cited by the Sanford Planning and Zoning Board. The P&Z, however, opted out of denying site plan approval last week by declining to rule on the project. The site plan was instead sent by the P&Z to the city commission for review.

After review and discussing the project with its architect, commissioners were satisfied on Monday that the proposal met all city building requirements.

Commissioners also said they were a bit confused about the P&Z's rationale for sending the site plan to them, as well as project shortcomings the board discussed.

The P&Z's action to submit the plan to commissioners was a first, and was deemed necessary in light of the project's "inadequacies" versus its benefits for the community, P&Z vice-chairman Brent Carl said.

The P&Z decision was made Thursday night on a motion from Carl. It was preceded by a motion for site plan approval, which failed by a 3-4 vote.

A P&Z decision against the project would have been appealable to the city commission, although the board preferred not to deny the project and formally cite its shortcomings, Carl said.

"There are problems with the site plan," Carl said, "but the board is also aware of how important the library is for Sanford. We felt it would be best for commissioners to decide this without our input."

Carl also said he had little doubt commissioners would approve the project due to their prior decisions in its favor. He said the opinion was based on commissioners' having overturned a Historic Preservation Board ruling against the project last winter and their having granted approval this spring for the county to install a drive-up book drop on Commercial Avenue. The county said a rehabilitation of the Commercial and Palmetto avenue sidewalks will accompany the book drop installation.

The historic board ruling against the library was based on the project's contemporary design. The board has jurisdiction over construction and external alterations of structures in the downtown historic district.

Give-Away Set For Replaced School Books

Several thousand used Seminole County school textbooks will be given away next week to anyone who wants them.

"We've got a room-full," said Textbook Director Harriett Hobbs. "There is quite a lot of surplus," she added.

The books will be given away Monday through June 19 at the system's Textbook Department, 911 Palmetto Avenue, Sanford. The office will be open from 7:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. daily.

The books cover a variety of subjects on levels from kindergarten through 12th grade. Those wishing to pick up books are should bring their own boxes, bags, and transportation, said school district spokesman Karen Coleman.

She said the books, which have been replaced with updated classroom material, are being offered for use in Seminole County homes as supplementary reading and study material for year-round use.

"Even though these books have been replaced in the classroom, two-plus-two still equals four," Ms. Hobbs said. "There is still plenty of good learning material to be used for additional reading and research."

In overturning the board's decision last spring, commissioners said the project's educational benefits outweighed its perceived incompatibility with nearby historic district structures.

Commissioners review on Monday included P&Z cited concerns regarding access space in the alley between the old and new libraries and provisions for parking.

Commissioners said the project had been granted a parking waiver enabling seven on-site spaces for staff and requiring patrons to use the city's nearby municipal lot. Although the P&Z acknowledged the waiver, it felt the municipal lot would be further overcrowded by library patrons, Carl said.

Carl also said the P&Z cited a book loading ramp between the old and new libraries as not being far enough from Palmetto Avenue to prevent trucks at the ramp from sticking out of the alley onto the Palmetto Avenue sidewalk and possibly its roadway.

Commissioners were told by the project architect that no trucks would protrude into the street and that once or twice a year, for between four to 20 minutes, large trucks would use the alley to drop off supplies and they might extend onto the Palmetto Avenue sidewalk.

The Sanford project is the first of five libraries Seminole County will build during the next three years with $7 million in library project bonds approved during a 1981 referendum, Ms. Rhein said.

In addition to the Sanford project, the county will build 12,000 square foot libraries of like design in Oviedo, Lake Mary and Forest City. The fifth new library will be a $3 million, 50,000 square foot project for Casselberry, Ms. Rhein said.

Sweethearts

First Transplant Patients To Wed

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — A June 21 wedding may be the first ever between heart transplant recipients, and the future bride and groom expect their surgery will provide plenty of opportunities for heart-to-heart talks.

Gary Welp, 35, of south St. Louis, and Susan Steffy, 36, of Mount Vernon, Ill., said Monday in a telephone interview with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch they plan to be married in Mount Vernon.

Welp, a cab driver for St. Louis County Cab Co., proposed in January.

"I shed a few tears before I accepted," said Steffy, who has worked part-time as a reading tutor at a Mount Vernon grade school. "I was so happy."

"We both have that (heart transplants) in common, and we can communicate about it," Steffy said. "I hope that helps make for a good marriage."

'We both have that (heart transplants) in common, and we can communicate about it... I hope that helps make for a good marriage.'

"If somebody had told me about this a year ago, I'd have said they were crazy," Welp said. "But we just fell in love."

Steffy received her new heart in January 1983 and Welp received his in January 1984, both at the University Hospital in St. Louis, where they met through a heart transplant support group. John Schwent, a spokesman for the hospital, said he checked with other transplant centers throughout the nation to see whether any of their heart transplant patients had married each other.

"None of them had ever heard of anything like this before," Schwent said.

The couple said their life together will be ordinary, except for the special diets, exercise and medication each requires. Their transplanted hearts don't keep them from being active, they said.

Although each was married at the time of their operations, they both were divorced before their courtship began.

After the wedding, the couple plans to live in south St. Louis with Steffy's daughters, Tiffani, 11, and Jamie, 8.

TENNIS
ANYONE?

Pernfors' Second To Lendl Is Like Second To Celtics

Mike Pernfors is the talk of the tennis world after his great job in the French Open this past weekend.

Finishing second to Ivan Lendl is like finishing second to the Boston Celtics. Lendl is that much better than the rest of the field.

Mike, of course, just keeps getting better and better. His ranking zoomed to 15th in the world. Just six months ago, Mike was ranked 437th.

That high of a ranking will get him seeded at Wimbledon. Since John McEnroe is out, Mike could be seeded 14th.

"I felt no nervousness in any match except the first one," Mike said via telephone Saturday about his opening round French Open win. "After that I just went into a zone."

Mike is going to make tons of money this year. The second-place finish will probably mean more than $250,000 for him in endorsements the next two or three weeks. Right before the match with Boris Becker, Mike signed a new contract with Nike shoes.

Mike is going home to Sweden for some endorsements and a much-needed week's rest. Right before his Becker match, he signed a new contract with Nike shoes. Then, he is going to London next week to practice on grass for Wimbledon.

Yes, things are a little different now than just three years ago when he was scrounging around SCC for $5 to buy some racket strings.

Mike's rise to acclaim, although astronomical, hasn't been well documented by those who watch him closely. Pernfors was a semifinalist at the U.S. Pro Indoor at Memphis, a quarterfinalist at Atlanta where he beat Stefan Edberg, a quarterfinalist at La Quinta (California) and a quarterfinalist at Indianapolis.

Mother and father (Bengt and Hana) Pernfors were on hand for the finals along with brother Mats and sister Martina. Greg Miller, who played on both national championship teams with Mike, was also there. Greg just finished at the University of Nevada-Reno and is trying his hand at the European circuit.

Andy Castle, who also played on those two title teams, will be at Wimbledon. Wouldn't it be ironic if Mike drew Andy?

Florida has another national champion. Flagler College, located in St. Augustine, recently won the NAIA national championship.

Flagler beat out defending champ Lander College of South Carolina. It's very, very hard to win a national championship in anything at anytime so I know the folks are feeling mighty proud about this time.

We are especially pleased that one of our own former Seminole Community College players, Tobias Svantesson, did such a great job in the nationals for Flagler. In fact, Tobias carried the whole team on his shoulders. Tobias won the singles title and the doubles title. He accounted for 17 of Flagler's 25 points.

He has proven this year that he is truly one of the top players in college tennis. Tobias will likely turn pro this summer, perhaps joining his buddy Pernfors on the tour.

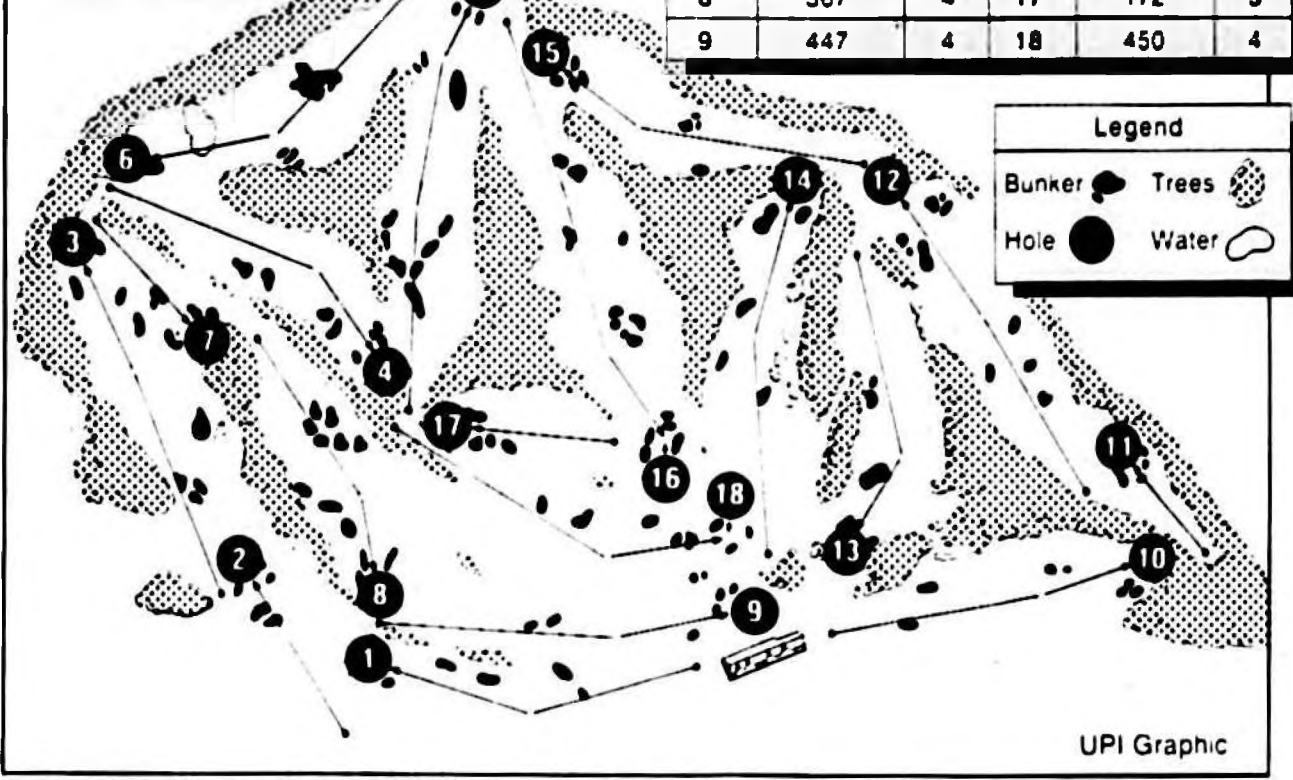

It was good to hear of the success of John and David Holt and their Jefferson State Junior College team. Jefferson State finished second in the nation and John made Junior College All-American. Anderson, S.C. Junior College won this year's national championship. John, by the way, will probably accept a scholarship at either North Florida or Jacksonville.

Rollins College and Coach Norm Copeland had another good year. The Tars were once again among the nation's Division II powers and finished in the top eight in the nationals. Things will only get better next year as many of Rollins' top players return for another year.

Shinnecock Hills: Wind, Sand, Tough

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — Thirteen years ago a 21-year-old Ben Crenshaw played the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club on a typically windy afternoon and came away with a 5-under 65. When news of his score began to circulate in the clubhouse, Crenshaw was informed he had set the course record.

Crenshaw, 1984 Masters champion, is recognized as one of the sport's leading historians whose golfing library contains 450 volumes.

His comments are included in this hole-by-hole description of the 6,912-yard, par-70 Shinnecock Hills Golf Club course, site of the 86th U.S. Open:

No. 1, 394 yards, par 4 — Any great course should provide a vista from the first tee and Shinnecock Hills certainly does that. From an elevated tee the course stretches out below, in particular the opening fairway which bends slightly to the right. A player can bite off as much of the dogleg as he feels comfortable doing, but the ever-present rough awaits.

"This course reminds me of Muirfield (the revered Scottish course which first hosted the British Open in 1892). There is tall grass well off the fairway, just like at Muirfield. But you really shouldn't be there. You have to hit a really wild shot to get there."

No. 2, 226 yards, par 3 — The longest of the short holes which plays over a valley to a green that is bunkered on both sides. "This is a key hole early in the round. The day I shot a 65 here it was the only hole I bogeyed. I hit a 2 iron there and it came up short! You need to hit the greens on this course, just like any other Open course."

No. 3, 453 yards, par 4 — When the prevailing wind blows the first three holes are played with the breeze at the players' back. The wind comes in handy on this hole because of its length. A string of bunkers runs down the right side in the final 50 yards. I set the record. I think I made about a 30 foot putt. You are going to have to make a few long ones to score well because you may not get too close to the hole."

No. 4, 408 yards, par 4 — A dogleg left right back into the wind. As with many of the holes at Shinnecock, the bunkering is chiefly in front of the green. "The third and fourth holes are sort of tandem holes. One (the third) is much longer than the other, but the fourth hole is into the wind and because of that they are equally tough."

No. 5, 535 yards, par 5 — One of two par 5s on the course and by far the easier of the two even though the USGA built a new tee that added 35 yards. "I think most players will reach this green in two. If there is some wind behind them they may get there with a middle iron. You don't want to knock it over this green, though, because there is a thicket back there with some unplayable lies."

No. 6, 471 yards, par 4 — A severe test along the outer boundary of the course. The tee shot travels to a landing area that is not visible from the tee and then a long second shot must carry over sand, scrub like rough and the only water hazard on the course — a small pond about 80 yards short of the green and on the right side of the fairway. A large bunker also runs down the left side of the green and will see its share of action. "This is easily the toughest hole on the front side and maybe the toughest hole on the course. I birdied this hole when I shot 65 and they will be hard to come by."

No. 7, 188 yards, par 3 — Typical of the par 3s at Shinnecock are the long, narrow greens. This one is of the redan style architecture.

Golf

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (UPI) — The game's famous names gather next on the windswept hills which helped give birth to American golf with the most famous of them all — Jack Nicklaus — trying to build on what has already been a memorable year.

Tradition and modern-day drama will be united beginning Thursday at Shinnecock Hills for the playing of the 86th Open Championship of the United States Golf Association.

At perhaps no other golfing locale in the country can there be more of a feeling that one has stepped back in time.

When the sport was first taking root in America, the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club was in the forefront. It was the first site on which true golf architecture was attempted in the United States. The nation's first golf clubhouse was built there and still stands as a charming, but imposing link with the past.

And in 1896 the still new USGA conducted its second professional championship at Shinnecock. Thirty-five players entered, 29 of them completed 36 holes in one day and James Foulis — a Scotsman who helped bring the game to Chicago — was the winner with a shockingly low score of 152.

Now, for the first time in 90 years, the Open returns to Shinnecock and its wild beauty which so resembles the links courses on the other side of the sea.

"It's a British Open course," said Tom Watson, a five-time winner of that event. "It looks like it came out of England or Scotland."

The setting for a U.S. Open is usually the chief topic when tournament time rolls around and that would easily have been the case this year if somebody other than Jack Nicklaus had won the Masters.

The 46-year-old Nicklaus provided a welcome shock to the world of golf two months ago with his dramatic final nine holes at the Augusta National to beat Tom Kite and Greg Norman by a shot and win his 20th major championship. He made another splash last month when he birdied six straight holes during the final round of his own Memorial Tournament.

Now, despite the remote odds, Nicklaus is talking Grand Slam just as he used to when he was the automatic favorite at any major event.

"Nobody else has a chance (for the slam) this year," said Nicklaus. "Sure, I entertain thoughts of it."

Thoughts of winning the four major professional events — the Masters, U.S. Open, British Open and PGA — so dominated the early phase of Nicklaus' career that he considered it a bitter failure whenever he did not win the first of the four.

"It used to be," he said, "that if I didn't win the Masters I would be depressed the rest of the year. I felt the rest of the year was gone. And some years I played that way, where if I didn't win the Masters I wouldn't play well in the Open."

"Finally I realized that was stupid. The chance of a Grand Slam was possible, but it was not a likely thing. I got back to thinking about playing one major championship at a time and doing them the right way."

Other than Nicklaus, the thing which makes this year's Open so intriguing is that the course is so much of a mystery.

Even though Shinnecock is one of the nation's original golfing sites, its remote location

Surprise Starter Huish Blanks Rotary

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Jason Huish wasn't exactly the top pitcher during the regular season of the Seminole Pony Baseball Pony Division. In fact, he was the third pitcher on the Hughes Construction ballclub.

Tuesday night, however, Huish pitched as good a game as any hurler had during the regular season as he fired a two-hit shutout in Hughes Construction's 4-0 victory over Lake Mary Rotary in the Pony Division playoffs at the Seminole Pony Baseball complex.

The win puts Hughes Construction in the winners' bracket where it will play Friday night at 6 against the winner of tonight's game between Rotary and Seminole Suzuki. Tonight's game also starts at 6.

Huish allowed only base hits in the third and sixth innings, struck out four

and walked only one. Rotary had just three baserunners in the game as Hughes Construction played errorless defense.

"Jason Huish has been our number three pitcher and he didn't do real well all season long," Hughes Construction manager Greg Twigg Sr. said. "I just had a gut feeling that he could do well tonight so I went with him and he pitched his best game yet. And it's the only shutout one of our pitchers have thrown all year."

Hughes Construction backed Huish with a seven-hit offensive attack and gave Huish the early lead with two runs in the second inning. With runners on first and third and one out, Greg Twigg

Jr. drilled a double to left center off Rotary starter Mike Senechek to score both runs.

Hughes Construction added single runs in the fourth and fifth frames. In the fourth, Todd Teixeira belted an RBI double and Twigg drove in his third run of the game with a single up the middle in the fifth off reliever John Connelly.

Along with Twigg and Teixeira, Andy Gastley, Mike Boyd, Pete Arcomone and Huish had one hit apiece.

Senechek was the main offensive threat for Rotary as he had a single in the sixth inning and hit the hardest ball of the night off Huish in the seventh. Senechek drilled a line shot toward left center but Hughes Construction's Mark Goodenard made a diving catch of it for the final out of the game.

THURSDAY: SALVAGIO'S, GITTESS
Unbeaten Salvagio's Boys, winners of

the Bronco Division American League title, will take on National League winner Dr. Gittess Thursday night at 6 at the Seminole Pony Baseball complex.

While Salvagio's won its league going away, Dr. Gittess and Sanford Seale battled Tuesday night to decide the American League champion and it was Dr. Gittess that came out on top, 7-3.

Salvagio's manager Dave Hudick said B.J. Calapa will be on the mound Thursday night.

The Bronco and Mustang Divisions will also compete in a Top Team Tournament against the West Seminole Pony Baseball Bronco and Mustangs. The tournament will begin Monday, June 16, and run through Saturday.

The Seminole Pinto Division will have a tournament on Monday, Wednesday and Friday between the Pinto American and National League all-stars.

Hughes To Attend Prestigious Camp

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Oviedo High basketball standout Robb Hughes, who will be a senior this fall, has been invited and will attend the B/C Basketball Camp in Carnesville, Ga., on June 15-20. Hughes will leave Sunday.

The B/C Camp is one of the most prestigious in the nation as many of the current top NBA players attended it in their high school days. It also draws some of the top coaches in college ball.

"This is the camp to go to if you're interested in a college scholarship," Oviedo High coach Dale Phillips said. "It's by invitation only and generally the top talent in the nation is there."

Novak To Montana

Righthanded pitcher Tommy Novak, who signed a contract with the Cincinnati Reds, will leave for the Rookie League in Billings, Mont. Thursday. It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's Evening Herald that he would be going to the Sarasota Rookie League.

Novak, the University of Central Florida's Burger King most valuable player, posted an 11-4 record for the Knights. Novak played his prep ball at Lake Brantley.

Basketball

It will give Robb (Hughes) a chance to see how he stacks up against other players from around the country."

The camp is under the direction of Bill Cronauer, head of one of the largest scouting services in the country.

Among the current NBA stars who attended the camp are Larry Bird, Ralph Sampson, Akeem Olatunwo, Magic Johnson, Dominique Wilkins, Charles Barkley and Isiah Thomas. Recent college stars who attended include Steve Alford, Kenny Walker, Scott Skiles and Tom Hammond.

College coaches who have been in attendance at the camp in the past include North Carolina's Dean Smith, Kentucky's Eddie Sutton, Florida's Norm Sloan, Georgetown's John Thompson, Notre Dame's Digger Phelps, Louisville's Denny Crum and Nevada-Las Vegas' Jerry Tarkenton.

Some of the top high school coaches from Florida will be on hand at this year's camp including Ed Kershner of Kissimmee Osceola and Jim Haley of Ocala Vanguard.

Connors Returns

Jimmy Connors has his hands full of rackets but Michiel Schapers had his hands full of Connors Tuesday. Connors returned from a 10-week suspension to stomp Schapers 6-2, 6-2 at the Queen's grass court tournament in London. Other winners were Boris Becker, Stefan Edberg, Kevin Curren and Paul McNamee.

Adcock, Cardinal Face Off Tonight

Adcock Roofing and Cardinal Industries will try again tonight in the Sanford Little American League playoff. Game time is 6 at Fort Mellon Park.

The game was originally scheduled for Monday but was postponed due to heavy rain. The winner of tonight's game, weather permitting, will advance to the Sanford City Series against National League champion Sumiland.

The City Series will begin Monday. It is a best 2 of 3 format.

Adcock and Cardinal Industries met one week ago today in the final regular season game and it was Adcock that rode the two-hit pitching of Mike Maples to a 2-0 victory, forcing the one-game playoff.

Maples will be on the mound again for Adcock tonight while Anthony "Redman" Roberts goes for Cardinal. In last week's loss, Roberts allowed just one hit and struck out 14.

Arthur "Jap" Polk was the offensive hero for Adcock in last Wednesday's game as he had the only hit and scored both runs. Adcock Roofing will look for additional offensive firepower from Al Holt, Tony Holly and Maples.

Roberts was the batting leader for Cardinal during the regular season along with Britt Henderson, Leroy Kitt and Willie Williams.

Groovy Knepper 4-Hits San Diego

United Press International
Pitchers are always trying to find that good groove. Houston's veteran left-hander Bob Knepper says he's in the best groove of his eight-year career.

"I can't remember pitching this many starts in a row where I felt this good," said Knepper, who pitched a four-hitter Tuesday night to lead the Astros to a 12-1 rout over San Diego and become the first 10-game winner in the National League this season. "This is the best groove I've been in since high school or Little League."

Knepper, 30, struck out five and walked none in pitching his sixth complete game of the season. And, according to him, he set the Padres down without his best breaking pitches.

"My fastball was working good but it's tough to judge just what kind of stuff I had," Knepper said. "I can't say I had a good curve or a good slider."

Hill Doran, who had three hits, including a home run, said Knepper inspires confidence in his teammates.

Mets 8, Phillies 4
At New York, pinch hitter Tim Teufel hit a grand slam with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning to lift New York. Teufel slammed a 2-0 pitch from reliever Tom Hume over the left-center field fence. It was Teufel's second homer of the season and first career grand slam. Randy Lerch, 0-1, was the loser and Roger McDowell, 6-0, pitched two innings of hitless relief to earn the victory.

Pirates 6, Cubs 4
At Pittsburgh, Sid Bream went 3-for-4 with a three-run homer, and Rafael Bellard drove in three more runs with two singles to lead Pittsburgh. Pirates starter Bob Kipper, 2-5, went seven innings for the victory. Starter Dennis Ekersley, 2-4, took the loss.

Expos 4, Cardinals 2
At St. Louis, Tim Lincecum drove in three runs and Hubie Brooks added three hits and three runs scored to lead Montreal. Expos starter Jay Tibbs, 4-2, gave up five hits before yielding to Tim Burke in the seventh. Jeff Reardon pitched ched two innings for his 14th save. Bob Forsch, 5-4, was the loser. Tim Lincecum singled and scored a run.

Dodgers 1, Reds 0

At Los Angeles, Mariano Duncan scored from second base on Bill Madlock's fielder's choice groundout in the bottom of the ninth inning. Duncan led off with a single off reliever John Franco, 0-2, advanced to second on a sacrifice and scored when the Reds failed to complete a double play on Madlock. Tom Niedenfur worked the ninth to improve his record to 5-2.

Giants 3, Braves 0

At San Francisco, Vida Blue and Jeff Robinson combined on a three-hitter and Jeffrey Leonard drove in two runs. Blue, 4-3, picked up his 202nd career victory by allowing two hits in seven innings.

N.L. PICKS GIAMATTI

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National League, increasingly faced with problems from the outside world like drug abuse and labor strife, ventured away from the world of baseball to find the league's next leader.

Baseball outsider A. Bartlett Giamatti, the retiring president of Yale University, was announced today as the league's 12th president. He replaces Charles "Club" Feeney, who will resign in December after 17 years with the league. Giamatti's term will be five years.

"The challenges and issues affecting baseball have a great deal to do with what goes on outside baseball," the 48-year-old Giamatti said.

Brett, Orta Batter Seattle

United Press International
The way George Brett and Jorge Orta were hitting Tuesday night, Kansas City would have had trouble not scoring runs.

Brett went 3-for-5 and Orta added four hits to pace an 18-hit attack as the Royals notched a 9-5 victory over the visiting Seattle Mariners in a game that was delayed one hour and 57 minutes by torrential rain and high winds.

I got five hits, scored some runs, threw and knocked in one," said Brett, who raked up his fifth career hit in game 1. "I batted, and it was a win."

Indians 8, A's 7
At Cleveland, Mel Hall's one-out single to center scored Joe Carter from second base to cap a two-run Indians rally in the ninth that extended Oakland's losing streak to seven games. Reliever Rich Yeti improved to 3-0, while Jose Rijo slipped to 2-4. Carter had five hits.

Brewers 6, Orioles 3
At Milwaukee, Bill Wegman threw a six-hitter and Ernest Riles hit a two-run homer to pace the Brewers. Wegman, 2-5, won his second consecutive game after making 11 winless starts. He struck out six and did not walk a batter in his second complete game of the season. The loss went to Scott McGregor, 5-5.

White Sox 7, Angels 3
At Chicago, Harold Baines had a two-run triple and Carlton

Fisk drove in two runs with a single to pace the White Sox. Neil Allen, 3-0, had a career high seven strikeouts in two walks in 5 2/3 innings. Bob James pitched 1 2/3 innings for his eighth save. Ron Romanick, 3-4, took the loss.

Yankees 6, Tigers 3
At Detroit, Mike Easter drilled a pair of run-scoring doubles and Don Mattingly added his third home run in two games to lead New York. Joe Niekro, 7-3, allowed five hits in 6 2/3 innings. Dave Righetti recorded the final two outs to earn his 13th save. Walt Terrell fell to 6-4.

Rangers 14, Twins 10
At Minneapolis, Gene Petrali went 4-for-5 with five RBI and Eric O'Brien homered and drove in three runs to lead Texas to its eighth victory in nine games. Jeff Russell was the winner in his first appearance of the season. Greg Harris earned his 11th save.

Red Sox 4, Blue Jays 3
At Toronto, pinch hitter Mike Stenhouse drew a bases-loaded walk with two out in the 10th inning to lift Boston. Reliever Bob Stanley, 3-2, went 1 1/3 innings for the victory. Mark Eichhorn fell to 6-3. Jim Rice and Don Baylor belted back-to-back homers in the fifth inning as Boston rallied from a 3-0 deficit.

Browne: No Settlement

NEW YORK (UPI) — Running back Herschel Walker Tuesday described his transition from a University of Georgia football player to a $3.25 million star with the USFL New Jersey Generals in testimony at the USFL's antitrust trial against the NFL.

Walker's signing by the USFL before he completed college and the NFL Dallas Cowboys' alleged attempts to lure the record-breaking runner away from the Generals have been issues in the USFL's $1.5 billion suit charging the NFL with monopolizing the sport.

The day's session in U.S. District Court in Manhattan lasted about an hour, cut short by the illness of USFL lead attorney Harvey Myerson, who is reported to be suffering from a potassium deficiency.

Myerson is expected to return to court Wednesday when the trial is slated to continue with the testimony of USFL Commissioner Harry Usher and ABC executive Roone Arledge.

Myerson's absence apparently fueled rumors that a settlement was imminent. Both football leagues Tuesday denied a published report that said the NFL had offered to settle the case by paying USFL teams $20 million each and awarding franchises to six of the eight USFL clubs.

The Orlando Sentinel reported in its Tuesday edition that a USFL owner and a ranking USFL official, both unidentified, had confirmed an NFL offer was on the table to settle the suit.

However, in the courtroom in New York, NFL spokesman Joe Browne dismissed the report.

"There is no settlement offer on the table. No settlement offer has been proposed, and no settlement offer is anticipated," Usher issued a statement for the USFL, calling the report of settlement discussions "absolutely unfounded and untrue."

During his testimony Walker denied he had been offered a position during his junior year at Georgia to play with the USFL's Chicago Blitz, though he acknowledged "there was a lot of rumors" about such an offer.

Walker was a junior when he met with Generals' executives in Athens, Ga., shortly before the USFL's first season in the spring 1983. He said he signed a three-year contract paying $1 million each year in 1983 and 1984 and $1.25 million in 1985.

Gretzky Wins 7th NHL MVP

TORONTO (UPI) — Edmonton Oilers captain Wayne Gretzky won the Hart Trophy as Most Valuable Player of the NHL for an unprecedented seventh time Tuesday night at the league's annual awards dinner.

Gretzky, who scored an NHL-record 215 points with 48 goals and 163 assists — also a league record — was not as assured of the award as his numbers would suggest because of the impact Pittsburgh Penguin Mario Lemieux had on his team.

Lemieux was a distant second in scoring with 141 points (48 goals, 93 assists) but his emergence brought an unstable franchise from the brink of a fold or move to record-breaking attendance and playoff contention.

Still, Gretzky's most productive season in NHL history allowed him to win the Hart and break the record for most MVP honors that he shared with his childhood idol, Gordie Howe. Howe's son, Mark, of the Philadelphia Flyers was the third finalist for the Hart Trophy.

Medco Pharmacy Rips 4 Homers To Snare Junior Softball Crown

Natasha Beasley, Tasha Wynn, Vicki Green and Ann Perry all belted home runs Tuesday as Medco Pharmacy claimed the Sanford Junior League softball title with a 19-10 victory over Kiwanis at Fort Mellon Field.

Medco concluded the season with a 5-1 record while Kiwanis is 2-2 and Rotary Breakfast 0-4.

Kiwanis jumped out to the early lead with six runs in the top of the first inning. Brenda Young's two-run triple was the big hit while Latesia Reddicks and Frances Brown added RBI singles.

Trailing, 6-1, Medco exploded for eight runs in the bottom of the third. Beasley's two-run homer got the rally started while Green later unloaded a three-run homer and Perry followed Green with a solo shot. Sara Klein contributed an RBI triple.

Kiwanis scored four times in the fourth to take a 10-9 lead with Louise Hicks' two-run triple leading the way but Medco scored 10 runs in the bottom of the fourth to sew up the win.

In the fourth for Medco, Wynn smashed a three-run homer, Patrice Brown had a three-run triple and Ladawn Irwin, Ruth Ann Williams and Beasley had RBI singles. Beasley had four hits in the game with Brown, Wynn and Green adding three apiece.

Altobelli's 3 Goals Lift Italy

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Italy has found its 1986 edition of Paolo Rossi.

In the last World Cup in Spain, the Italians captured the crown behind a six-goal outburst by Rossi. Three games into this World Cup the Italians answer with Alessandro Altobelli — with Rossi not even listed among the substitutes.

Altobelli scored three times Tuesday to give Italy a 3-2 triumph over South Korea and raise his goal total to five. He leads Preben Elkjaer of Denmark by a goal in the tournament scoring race.

In winning the Group A game at Puebla, Italy advanced to the second round against France. Elsewhere, Argentina blanked Bulgaria 2-0 in Mexico City behind goals by Jorge Valdano and Jorge Burruchaga.

Karns Overcomes Pretty Punch

Karns Animals rallied for six runs in the last two innings to top Pretty Punch, 6-4, in Sanford Coed Softball League play Tuesday night at Pinehurst. Seminole Merchant clipped Cardinal Red, 10-4, in the other game.

Chris Lake's two-run double keyed the Karns win. Greg Dickey added two singles. Mark Hibbard had two singles for the losers.

Steve Richards led the Merchants with three hits while Aleta Stam, Bob Fisher and Rick Fordham had two. Fordham had a home run. Tom Kelly had a three-run homer for the loser while Jim Giomella, Damon Siruno and Dave Sowers each had two hits.

Lieberman Does 3-Minute Stint

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Nancy Lieberman, former star of two defunct women's professional basketball leagues, Tuesday night became the first female known to play in a men's professional league, appearing for three minutes in a USBL game.

Lieberman, 27, a 5-foot-10 guard for the Springfield Fame, recorded the historic feat with 3-40 to play in the second quarter of a game against the Staten Island Stallions. Springfield won the game easily.

Austin, Orioles Look For Repeat

Baseball

After coming out of Division II to win the District 14 Top Team Tournament Senior Division title a year ago, manager David Austin's Oviedo Orioles will start out in Division I as they try to repeat in 1986.

The Orioles, sponsored by Blackwood Construction, open play in the Top Team Tournament Saturday night at 7 against Windermere at the Oviedo Little League complex.

"We're not in the same bracket as Altamonte and Maitland this year," Austin said. "I hope we can still do the same and repeat as district champions. But we'll miss playing those teams because we had a pretty good rivalry last year."

Along with Oviedo and Win-demere, other Division I teams include Apopka, Winter Garden, Ocoee, Rolling Hills, Clermont, West Oak Ridge, South Orange and Pine Hills.

In Division II, the Altamonte Dodgers open play on Sunday night at 7 at home against the winner of Saturday's Mount Dora-Deltona matchup.

Austin, who also coached a very competitive Senior League all-star squad last season, piloted the Orioles to a 20-2 record during the regular season. The Orioles have six players returning from last year's district championship team.

Also in the starting lineup for the Orioles are center fielder-pitcher Shelly Elliott, second baseman Mark Meintzer and third baseman Jeff Albright. Rounding out the roster are Russell Davis, Anthony Mays and Sean Mason. — Chris Fister

AWS Crushes Maitland, 23-0

The Apopka-West Seminole Big League baseball club ran its record to 12-0 Tuesday night with a 23-0 thrashing of Maitland at Lake Brantley High School.

Apopka-West Seminole broke open a 2-0 game with eight runs in the bottom of the second, then added 11 more in the third and sixth in the fourth. The game was stopped after four and a half innings due to the slaughter rule.

Mike Brown tossed a two-hitter for AWS, struck out three and walked just one.

Kevin Bass led the way for AWS as he was 2 for 3 with a home run and three RBIs. Brown, Tim Bruchl, Ken Chapdelaine and Matt Morgan had two hits and two RBIs each and Mike Hinde added a double and three RBIs.

makes it an infrequent stop for tour regulars.

Most of the leading players on the circuit will be seeing the course for the first time when they show up for practice. And they will find the course could be changing from day to day because of the winds which are so much a part of the region.

"I've played the course once," said defending champion Andy

North, "and the one time I played it the wind was blowing so hard that I couldn't get a handle on the place."

"So much depends on the wind," said Ben Crenshaw, who as an amateur showed up at Shinnecock one day and shot a 65 which he was quickly learned was the course record. "If the wind doesn't blow then my record will probably fall. But the wind is pretty much a part of the course."

"It's an old style course," said Nicklaus. "You will play some drivers and play some position shots. It has a lot of different kind of holes."

As for potential favorites, the initial consideration must go to the tour's veteran performers who are currently fighting off the challenge of youth.

Calvin Peete, Fuzzy Zoeller, Andy Bean and Hal Sutton have all won two tournaments this year.

Curtis Strange, John Mahaffey and Greg Norman have won as well. Tom Kite has been a consistent money winner as usual. Payne Stewart has been in contention more than once.

Bernhard Langer could be a threat and Watson has shown signs of regaining the form.

Seve Ballesteros will be on hand, hoping to make up for his disappointment at the Masters, a tournament he seemed to have under control until he plopped his second shot in the pond that fronts the 15th green.

And then there is Nicklaus, who will at least start the week as the focal point.

A win at Shinnecock would then only inflate the interest in this year's British Open, which will be played at Turnberry — site of Nicklaus' epic and losing battle with Watson in 1977.

And if by some chance Nicklaus won the first three majors the golfing world would await the result of every stroke hit at the PGA at Inverness, where in 1957 he played in his first U.S. Open at the age of 17.

"I've only won the Open once in the same year I won the Masters," said Nicklaus. "That was in 1972 and I lost the British to (Lee) Trevino when he chipped the ball in at the 71st hole."

"He was up on that embankment behind the green and he just hit a give up shot — that's what he called it — and it ran across the green and went in."

"In 1975 I won the Masters and PGA and lost the Open by two and the British by one."

"When you win the Masters it definitely spurs you on. For me, Shinnecock has now gone from being a very nice golf course and a very nice site for the Open to a place that I want to prepare myself for."

"I want to give myself every opportunity to win."

...Shinnecock

in which the green angles away from the fairway. There is sand all around, as is the case on most of the holes. "This is a great par 3. The green slopes from right to left and it is designed in a similar way to the fourth hole at the National Golf Club next door. I think that hole is the best par 3 in the world."

No. 8, 347 yards, par 4 — A short, dogleg right hole which from the tee looks almost like a sea of sand. There are 11 bunkers on the hole, but even more of a factor could be the thicket directly behind the green.

No. 9, 447 yards, par 4 — This hole has been lengthened as well by 35 yards which puts a premium on a long drive to get past the humps in the fairway. The prevailing wind is into the player on this hole which will make the second shot, already uphill, all the more difficult. "The wind is always a factor at Shinnecock. There is almost never a day it doesn't blow. The scores will depend on two things — how severe the USA sets up the course and how much the wind blows. Of the two the wind would cause the most problems."

No. 10, 409 yards, par 4 — Another elevated tee with the players unable to see the landing area in a deep valley. A sharply uphill second shot is left to a plateau green with some of the ever present thicket along the left side of the fairway and around the green.

No. 11, 158 yards, par 3 — The shortest, but not the easiest hole by a large measure. An uphill shot to a firm green and when the wind blows it will be tough to get the ball close to the pin. "This is a wonderful par 3. The green is on a plateau, like a lot of them are, and it can't run from left to right. It doesn't make any difference where they put the pin on this one. It will be tough every day."

No. 12, 472 yards, par 4 — The longest par 4 on the layout, one which rewards brute force. Added to the length is the fact the second shot is slightly uphill. The green is relatively flat, but just getting to the green in two is the chief problem. "This is an incredible hole. From the tee it looks sort of like a double dogleg. A lot of the fairways are cut up that they make little twists and turns. That is another beautiful thing about the architecture of this course."

No. 13, 377 yards, par 4 — Another example of a short hole that is made difficult by its architecture. The fairway slopes, the hole doglegs to the right and the green is shallow. "A lot of holes are angled in the wind, and the course, which is a mark of good architecture. The architecture is such that the course can stand up on its own without a lot being done to it by the USGA."

No. 14, 444 yards, par 4 — Once again the player stands on an elevated tee, but this one provides a particularly lovely view with the humps and hollows spread out below. The hole doglegs to the right through a valley to a green that has two bunkers — one in front of each other — sitting in the path of the second shot. "I think it is one of the finest holes on the course. It certainly has a wonderful view, but from the elevated tee the wind can do the most damage."

No. 15, 397 yards, par 4 — The last major birdie opportunity since no more than a short iron is needed after a decent drive. Three bunkers protect the corner of a slight right dogleg, but most players will be able to drive past them. More of a threat will be the four bunkers which guard the front of the green.

No. 16, 444 yards, par 5 — Back into the wind for this second of the two par 5s. The second shot must carry past five bunkers that encroach into the fairway and live more around the green. The uphill third shot carries directly toward the clubhouse. With all the bunkers built into the hills and with the clubhouse sitting high above the green, the approach into the 16th is unique for its scenery if not its difficulty. "I think this will be an honest three-shot hole. Players like Greg Norman and Seve Ballesteros always amaze me with the length they get on the course, but I don't think too many people will reach this green in two."

No. 17, 172 yards, par 3 — The wind tends to blow across this hole, which presents problems when trying to put the ball on a long, narrow green. The green is laid out between two long bunkers which run from front to back. Once in one of the greenside bunkers it is not all that difficult to knock the ball into the bunker on the other side.

No. 18, 450 yards, par 4 — A demanding, uphill, upwind finishing hole which seems to be a tradition with the U.S. Open. A birdie at the final hole of the Open should be well earned and if a player birdies this hole he will have definitely earned it. "This is another unbelievable hole. If the wind blows it could be a driver and a long iron or even a fairway wood."

"You can look at all the pictures and hear all the descriptions of this course, but you have got to be out there to appreciate it. It is a great part of the world and it is a great part of American golf. It is in the middle of where it all started."

Mark Rose, SCC student and coach of Seminole High's tennis team this year, is really starting to make an impression on the local tennis scene. Mark recently finished runner-up in the Raider Singles Tournament.

Mark was beaten in the finals by Kerry Klapper. Klapper is one of the top players around and Mark extended him to three sets. Several colleges are now showing an interest in having Mark come to their school next year.

Cook Of The Week

Her Flavorful And Nutritious Meals Are Elegant And Made With Ease

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

How many different names can you give a tuna casserole to make it seem like a new dish? Just ask Susan Millonig of Lake Mary, our attractive Cook of the Week, who has taken a lot of teasing from her family when she used to serve her "Tuna a la Vista" or "Tuna Supreme" or "Tuna Deluxe." But that was a long time ago, and our busy working mother has come a long way since those days.

Susan Millonig's meals are basic and flavorful

Mrs. Millonig's childhood took her from her hometown in Indiana, Pennsylvania, to Glen Rock, N.J. and on to Wisconsin, where she and her two sisters, Barbara and Paula, were "typical," she says. "We were close, but we fought a lot. We went camping in the summers as a family, and went hiking in state parks. But," says Mrs. Millonig with a laugh, "we didn't double date. I thought I was too sophisticated for them." While taking courses in education and psychology at the university, Mrs. Millonig visited Florida on "Spring Break" one year and moved here shortly after graduation, making Central Florida her new home. "I really liked Florida. After living in Wisconsin, this was a nice change."

Mrs. Millonig says, "My mother is an excellent cook. She really enjoys cooking and has gotten to be a gourmet cook at this point," says Mrs. Millonig. "She really didn't spend that much time teaching us how to cook, but since she was such a good cook, it was interesting to get her recipes and try them out. I wasn't too interested in cooking when I was in high school; I was busy doing my own thing."

Mrs. Millonig confesses that when she met her husband, John, and his two sons, John and Kevin, now 15 and 13 respectively, "I knew how to cook from my mother, but I never actually practiced it. When I moved to Florida and got married my husbands' two little boys came to spend weekends with us. I only knew how to make a tuna and noodle casserole. So for about the first three years, that's all they ate!" Mrs. Millonig good-naturedly pokes fun at herself, but her family agrees that her efforts in the kitchen are commendable and everyone enjoys Mom's excellent dishes. "My favorite recipes are things that my mother used to cook, and now, when I have time, I cook them," she says.

Introduced to John by an old college roommate, the Millonigs dated for about three years before getting married in May, 1977. And now that young John lives with them, Kevin visits on weekends, and they have their own little girl, Lisa, 8, the Millonigs' family is complete.

As with most young families, school activities, church functions, and everyday work schedules keep everyone on their toes. John attends Lake Mary H.S., Kevin is a student at Rock Lake Middle School in Longwood, and Lisa goes to Lake Mary Elementary. "I help out with Lisa's Brownie Troop from time to time," says Mrs. Millonig, "but all of us are very much involved with the Youth Group at our church." Mr. and Mrs. Millonig are co-sponsors of the group at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Lake Mary, and both enjoy giving of their spare time to work with young people. "Right now we're meeting in the cafeteria of Lake Mary Elementary School, says Mrs. Millonig. Construction is expected to start soon on a new church building, but for now the congregation is carrying on services as usual in their temporary quarters where Mrs. Millonig also teaches Sunday school classes to first and second graders.

Activities involving the youth group are always fun and productive. "Last month we went on a Lynx Bus trip to the Smokey Mountains in North Carolina," says Mrs. Millonig. "We do a lot of fund-raising, too. We wash cars, sell doughnuts, and we even 'rent-a-kid' to raise money to go on these trips. Members of the parish signed up for any jobs that needed to be done around their house, like lawn raking, weed pulling, and some of the girls cleaned windows. It took a lot of time, but it was worth it and they enjoyed it."

Mrs. Millonig's busy days include her job as secretary at Daco Software Systems in Longwood, while John Millonig toils away at his land clearing job for Polk Excavating in Orlando. Family meals have to be "very quick and easy," says Mrs. Millonig. "Spaghetti, tacos, hamburger, and chicken dishes are the usual fare," she says. "The kids even cook during the week to help, and I do a lot of stir-frying now. We all like that."

When they entertain, says Mrs. Millonig, "we usually cook out on the grill. My husband does that, and he makes delicious barbecued chicken. We have steak, corn-on-the-cob and basic things like that."

The Millonigs are a close family and an air of mutual admiration and interest in each other is quite evident in the things they enjoy doing together. "We like to play tennis when we get some free time," says Mrs. Millonig, "and we like to water ski. In the winter, we like to snow ski in Colorado."

Mrs. Millonig's talents do not end with her career and motherhood. Her homemaking skills are an integral part of making an attractive and comfortable home for her family. John proudly offers accolades to his stepmother's cake decorating efforts, "and I got to eat all the cakes," he says. "He got to eat all the mistakes," laughs Mrs. Millonig. An upholstery class helped her to give new life to a pair of comfortable living room chairs now covered in a sleek velvet fabric looking every bit like a professional job.

"I like to collect butterflies and have them all over the house," says Mrs. Millonig. An example of her mom's handiwork is stained glass in a butterfly in brilliant colors which hangs in a prominent place for all the family to enjoy.

Mrs. Millonig uses her microwave quite often and finds it is a timesaver. "I don't use it for cooking meats, but I use it for cooking vegetables all the time, and when the kids come home from school, it's great for heating up leftovers," she says.

Some of Mrs. Millonig's favorite recipes are listed below. All are flavorful and nutritious while also elegant and easy:

CHICKEN WITH WINE SAUCE

- 1 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 large chicken breasts, split, boned and skinned
- 4 tablespoons margarine
- 1/2 pound mushrooms, thinly sliced
- 1/4 cup chopping onion
- 1/4 cup chopped parsley
- 1 cup white wine
- 1 cup hot cooked rice

Combine flour, salt and pepper. Coat chicken breasts with flour mixture, shake off and reserve excess flour. Melt two tablespoons margarine in large skillet over medium heat. Brown chicken; remove from skillet. Add remaining margarine, mushrooms, onion and two tablespoons chopped parsley; saute until onion is transparent. Remove from heat. Stir in reserved flour. Blend in wine.

Bring to a boil, stirring frequently. Add chicken. Cover, reduce heat and simmer 25 minutes, or until thickened is tender. Serve over rice. Garnish with remaining parsley. Serves four.

POSH SQUASH

- 2 pounds yellow squash, sliced
 - 1 cup mayonnaise
 - 1 cup parmesan cheese
 - 1 small onion, chopped
 - 5 strips bacon, crumbled
 - 2 eggs, beaten
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 cup grated cheddar cheese
 - 1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
 - 1 tablespoon melted butter
- Cook squash in boiling salted water 10-15 minutes until tender; drain and cool. Saute onion and onion, set aside. Combine mayo, parmesan cheese, eggs, salt, pepper, cheddar cheese and stir well.

Mountain Of Socks Presents Roadblock To Wedding March

DEAR ABBY: My fiance is in the Army, stationed in England. He will be coming home in three weeks and our wedding is scheduled for exactly one week later. He shipped all his clothes home for me to launder. One of the boxes had a funny smell when it arrived, and when I unpacked it, I found a large pile of socks at the bottom. You probably won't believe this, but there were 203 pairs of dirty, black dress socks in that box. I counted them - 406 dirty socks!

My question: Should I go ahead and marry a man who would leave such a dirty job for a woman to do? I am afraid that this might be symbolic evidence of an unconscious lack of respect for women, and after we are married I will be expected to do the dirty work.

Hurry your answer, because if you agree with me maybe I should call off the wedding.

NOT SURE IN LOUISIANA

DEAR NOT SURE: I advise you to cancel the wedding plans until you know him better. Maybe your fiance just doesn't like to wash his socks, which is evidence that he's lazy - or a bit of a slob. But to assume that he's a male chauvinist who will expect you to do all the dirty work may be unfair. So don't sock it to him till you're sure.

DEAR ABBY: My granddaughter who is 2 years old goes to nursery school five days a week. The problem is that the children hit her. She doesn't hit back. She goes and tells the teacher. The lady in charge says, "You should hit them back!"

Abby, why do babies have to start fighting in nursery school? I find that so very sad. Please comment.

DELAWARE GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Our society has become a violent one, and while I am opposed to hitting, I think it's a good idea for all children to learn how to defend themselves. (Martial arts - karate?)

I would disagree with the "lady in charge." Rather than teaching the children to "hit back," she should teach the hitters to communicate verbally.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for informing your readers that the effectiveness of birth control pills can be diminished or canceled out if the woman takes antibiotics.

As a practicing certified nurse and midwife, I have known this to happen many times. The woman then says, "But nobody told me!"

The problem is that the doctor who prescribed the antibiotics is not the same doctor who prescribed the birth control pills. Also, when a doctor asks a patient, "Are you on any kind of medication?" the patient says, "No" - not thinking of the pill as "medication."

Microwave Magic

Vegetable Combinations Stuffed With Appeal

Farmers markets have always been good places to get fresh fruits and vegetables. This past Saturday morning the State Farmers Market in Sanford was opened for retail sales. The market, located at 1300 South French Avenue, is the oldest market of its type in the state of Florida. I plan to visit the market early Saturday morning throughout the season to get the farm fresh produce. Perhaps I'll meet many of you there.

One vegetable you're sure to find at the market this time of the year is the green pepper or bell pepper as it is commonly called in the south. My favorite way to prepare this vegetable is to stuff it, microwave it and serve it with a tomato sauce. The cooking time is short and energy efficient.

STUFFED PEPPERS

1 pound ground beef
 1/4 cup chopped celery
 1 cup quick cooking rice
 1/2 cup catsup
 2 tablespoons chopped onion
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon garlic powder
 Dash of pepper
 1 egg
 1 can (8 ounce) tomato sauce
 1 teaspoon sugar
 1/4 teaspoon basil leaves

Cut thin slice from stem end of each pepper. Remove all seed and membranes. Wash. Combine ground beef, celery, rice, catsup, onion, Worcestershire sauce, salt, garlic powder, pepper and egg; mix well. Fill pepper with meat mixture. Place in 8-inch square glass baking dish. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave on 100% power 10-12 minutes or until meat is no longer pink. Combine tomato sauce, sugar and basil in 2-cup glass measure. Microwave (100%) 2-3 minutes or until boiling, stirring once. Serve over peppers.

If stuffed vegetables appeal to you, try these stuffed tomatoes. Look for firm, barely ripe tomatoes as they hold their shape best when heated. When selecting the zucchini the smaller, younger ones are the best.

ITALIAN STUFFED TOMATOES

1/2 pound mild Italian sausage

6 medium tomatoes
 2 cups chopped zucchini
 1/4 cup chopped onion
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 cup Italian-style dry bread crumbs
 1 tablespoon fresh snipped parsley

Crumble sausage into 1 1/2-quart casserole. Microwave on 100% power 2 1/2-3 minutes or until no longer pink, stirring once. Drain; set aside. Cut 1/4 inch slice from stem end of each tomato. Cut around inside and remove pulp with spoon, add chopped pulp to sausage with zucchini, onion and pepper. Microwave on 100% power 9-10 minutes or until thickened; drain off excess liquid. Stir in bread crumbs. Fill each tomato with heaping 1/4 cup sausage mixture. Place in 8-inch round baking dish. Sprinkle with cheese and parsley. Microwave uncovered, 3-4 minutes or until heated through.

Zucchini forms the layers in this nutritional lasagna. It is super easy since the noodles don't require precooking.

MEATLESS LASAGNA

1 pound sliced zucchini
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 small onion, chopped
 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
 1 can (15 ounce) tomato sauce
 1/2 teaspoon basil leaves
 1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves
 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
 1 egg
 1 carton (12 ounce) creamed cottage cheese
 3 uncooked lasagna noodles
 2 cups (8 ounce) shredded

mozzarella cheese
 2 tablespoons parmesan cheese

Microwave (100% power) zucchini in a 1-quart casserole 9-10 minutes or until tender, stirring once. Drain. Sprinkle with salt; set aside. Combine onion and butter in 10 quart batter bowl. Microwave on 100% power 1-1 1/2 minutes or until onion is tender. Stir in tomato sauce, basil, oregano, and garlic powder. Microwave on 100% power 5-5 1/2 minutes or until boiling and flavors are blended. Beat egg, mix in cottage cheese. Spoon about 1/4 cup sauce into 10x8 inch baking dish. Layer half the zucchini, all the noodles and cottage cheese mixture, half the mozzarella cheese, the remaining zucchini and sauce. Cover with wax paper. Microwave on 100% power 8 minutes. Reduce power to 50%. Microwave 10-12 minutes or until noodles are tender. Sprinkle with remaining mozzarella and the parmesan cheese. Let stand 10 minutes before cutting into squares.

Combine fresh vegetables with eggs for a brunch dish or light supper entree.

GARDEN FRITTATA

 1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
 1/4 cup chopped green pepper
 1 tablespoon chopped onion
 6 eggs
 1/4 cup water
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Dash of pepper
 1 small tomato, chopped
 1 cup (4 ounce) shredded cheddar cheese
 Combine zucchini,

onion in 8-inch round baking dish. Microwave on 100% power 3-3 1/2 minutes or until almost tender, stirring once. Beat together eggs, water, salt and pepper and pour over vegetables. Microwave on 100% power 3 1/2-4 minutes or until edges are just about set, stirring twice to move set portions to center. Add tomato and cheese. Microwave on 100% power 1-2 minutes or until set.

While the Zellwood corn is plentiful, preserve some using this small-batch recipe for corn relish. It takes such a short time to prepare this old-time favorite you may want to make several "batches" — some to keep and some to give away.

CORN RELISH

1 cup sugar
 2 tablespoons cornstarch
 1 small onion, chopped
 1 tablespoon mustard seed
 1 tablespoon celery seed
 1/4 teaspoon tumeric
 1 cup apple cider vinegar
 1/2 cup hot water
 5 cups fresh corn kernels, or 3 cans whole kernel corn, drained
 1/4 cup finely chopped green or red pepper, or a combination of both

Combine sugar, cornstarch, onion, mustard seed, celery seed and tumeric in a 3-quart microwave-safe container. Stir in vinegar and water. Blend well. Cover and microwave on 100% power for 5 minutes. Stir well. Add corn and peppers to the sauce. Cover. Microwave on 100% power for 15 minutes. Stir well several times during the cooking. Pour into sterilized jars and seal.
 Makes 5 1/2 cups.

Add squash, stir gently. Pour mixture. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes. Serves six.

SPINACH SOUFFLE

1/4 cup melted margarine
 3 tablespoons flour
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/2 cup milk
 1/2 cup sour cream
 Dash of nutmeg
 1 small onion, chopped
 1 package frozen spinach, thawed and drained
 2 eggs, separated
 Parmesan cheese

Beat egg whites on high until stiff and fluffy; set aside. Combine margarine, flour, salt, milk, sour cream and nutmeg in pan. Stir and cook until thickened. Turn off heat. Add onion and spinach, then gradually add to slightly beaten egg yolks and mix well. Fold mixture into beaten egg whites. Pour into greased 1 1/2-quart casserole; cover with parmesan cheese. Bake in pan of hot water at 350° for about 40 minutes. Serves four.

CORN CHOWDER

 1 medium onion, chopped
 1/2 cup chopped celery (with tops)

 2 tablespoons flour
 4 cups milk
 1 can cream-style corn
 3 ears cooked fresh corn, removed from cob
 3 cooked potatoes, diced
 2 cooked carrots, diced
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 Snipped parsley
 Paprika

In large saucepan, saute onions and celery in three tablespoons butter; remove and drain. Remove from heat, blend in flour. Cook over low heat, stirring until mixture is bubbly. Remove from heat. Stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir one minute. Stir in creamed corn, corn cut from cob, potatoes, carrots, salt and pepper. Stir in ham. Simmer for 30 minutes. Sprinkle each serving with parsley and paprika. Serves four to six.

PUMPKIN BREAD

2 1/2 cup vegetable shortening
 2 1/2 cups granulated sugar
 1 orange
 2 1/2 cup water
 4 eggs
 1 can (16 oz.) pumpkin
 3 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 2 teaspoons baking soda
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
 1 teaspoon ground cloves
 1/2 teaspoon baking powder

2 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 2 1/2 cup raisins
 Grease two 9x5x3 inch loaf pans. Cream shortening and sugar thoroughly. Cut peeled orange into wedges and remove seeds; place in blender with water and process until a smooth puree. To the creamed mixture, add pureed orange, eggs and pumpkin. Sift together the flour, baking soda, salt, cinnamon, cloves and baking powder. Add to pumpkin mixture. Stir in nuts and raisins. Pour into loaf pans and bake in a preheated 350° oven for one hour and ten minutes. Remove from pans; cool. Makes two loaves.

Alzheimers Meeting Announced

The Sanford Alzheimers Support Group will meet at 7 p.m. on Thursday, June 12, at Howell Place, 200 W. Airport Blvd., Sanford.

According to Barbara Tindall, all interested persons are welcome to attend the meeting followed by refreshments. A film will be shown.

For information, call Annette Starke, 323-8967.

Food for Thought

by Bill Painter

Seasoned potatoes are great on the barbecue — or even in the oven. Slice medium potatoes thin, but only part-way down. Sprinkle green onion, chopped dill, and salt and pepper between the slices. Top with a chunk of butter and wrap in foil. Bake at 350° or in the coals for 45 to 60 minutes until done.

Coming soon: the Mexibell, a cross between a chili pepper and a bell pepper, available green or red.

For a spirited salad, whisk together 3 Tbs. sour cream or yogurt, 1 1/2 Tbs. bottled horseradish, drained, 1 Tbs. vinegar, and 1 tsp. mustard. Beat as you add 3 Tbs. oil. Super on bland greens.

Here's broccoli oriental-style: stir-fry blanched flowerets with minced garlic and ginger root. Add a little soy sauce, then sesame oil. Top with toasted sesame seeds.

Do-it-yourself pasta makers have the opportunity to create special ravioli. Try delicate squash or pumpkin, asserive pesto, flavorful chicken, or even lobster. Toss with butter and if you wish, a complementary sauce. Even do-it-yourself cooks deserve dinner out, and good cooks really appreciate the fine food at COLONIAL ROOM RESTAURANT

Famed French Chanteuse To Make American Debut

By Frederick M. Winship
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Barbara, the legendary one-name French chanteuse, will make her American debut at the Metropolitan Opera House next month teamed with ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov.

"This has been a most extraordinary year for me," said the birdlike raven-haired Barbara in an exclusive backstage interview at the Met with Baryshnikov sitting beside her.

success in my first theater piece, 'Lily Passion,' with actor Gerard Depardieu in France and Italy and now I will be teamed with Baryshnikov in New York. I get to work with the greatest actor and the greatest dancer. I doubt that I deserve all this in one year."

Asked if she would dance with Baryshnikov as well as sing, she shakes her elegant, sleekly coiffed head and laughs an engaging little laugh.

"No. I only sing. I never dance. But I would dance if he would sing!"

At close range, Barbara does not live up to her reputation as a femme fatale, even though she is dressed the role in dark glasses and a siren black dress worn toga-fashion over a white blouse cinched at the wrists with barbaric silver bracelets. Her stockings are of black lace, her shoes are laced above the ankles.

Nevertheless, she conveys a sweet vulnerability that is appealing, while exuding a personal magnetism that is immediately felt like a tangible aura.

Her American debut will be

July 8 in a gala performance benefiting the American Ballet Theater, of which Baryshnikov is artistic director, the Paris Opera Ballet headed by Rudolf Nureyev, and the Metropolitan Opera Association. It will kick off a two-week engagement of the Parisian company at the Met, followed by a week at the Kennedy Center in Washington, D.C.

"I am going to sing three songs, and I have flown here for a few days to go over plans with Mischa (Baryshnikov)," Barbara said. "I will start by singing 'Le Petite Cantante' alone, then I will sing 'Pierre' and 'La Mal de Vivre' with Baryshnikov dancing to choreography by Martha Clarke, the well-known American choreographer."

Baryshnikov said he was a fan of Barbara's even before he defected from Russia in 1974. He had collected her recordings out of appreciation for her talent and to use in perfecting his French. More than a year ago, he and Barbara were brought together by Jane Hermann, the Met Opera House's presentations director.

"We wanted to work together," Baryshnikov said. "Finally our dream is coming true. It will be a wonderful experience. Do you know that her mother came from near Riga (Latvia) where I was born?"

The collaboration is bound to spell magic, the word most often used to describe the performances of both Barbara and Baryshnikov.

Barbara is best known to Americans through her recordings of her own songs, always sung in French. She also has been seen in two films, "Frantz," directed by singer Jacques Brel, and "I Was Born in Venice," directed by choreographer Maurice Bejart.

Barbara had been in retirement since 1981 when she returned to the Paris stage in "Lily Passion" last January. It took her four years to write both the book and the music for the unusual two-actor drama, which has toured most of the big cities of France and most recently Milan and Rome.

Even critics ran out of words to describe the impact of this 90-minute romantic tragedy, spectacularly staged with musicians onstage and the most avant-garde use of lighting. Barbara does all the singing in a voice described by one reviewer as "the raucous rush of a train through the night" and by another as "a shivering, crackling violoncello." Depardieu only acts.

He is a powerful, cruel but tender man who finds satisfaction in murder. She is a fragile singer who loves him and tries to stop him from killing. She is successful and returns to the theater. Without killing, his life is worse than death, proving, according to Barbara, that "destiny does not belong to ourselves." It is very French.

Would she risk bringing "Lily Passion" to America, after she has broken the trans-Atlantic ice with her Metropolitan Opera House debut?

"I can't answer that," she replied. "I would love to perform it here. It is a very peculiar form of theater. I don't know if it is for Broadway, but then I don't know Broadway. It has been recorded and filmed for use in theaters and possibly for television. We will see."

Baryshnikov encourages her. "It is time for you to come to Broadway," he said. "You have worked the big houses of Europe. Why not here? The Met is a nice beginning, and now it is up to you to decide what to do."

"Her art is not a national art," he said turning to the interviewer. "Her art transcends language barriers. There are other chanteuses, of course. But Barbara is different. Very different."

The daughter of a French father and a Russian mother whose ancestors included dancers, circus performers and possibly gypsies, Barbara began singing in cabarets in Paris in the 1950s. She sang other people's songs for a number of years before writing her own material. She always accompanied herself on the piano.

At 20 she created her own cabaret in Brussels and later moved back to Paris to make a reputation for herself at the tiny L'Ecluse cabaret on the Left Bank, where she sang for six years. At 37 she had her concert debut engagement at the Bobino Theater, winning a large public and rave publicity.

"I was made," she recalls happily. "After that I sang at big cabarets and theaters like the Olympia. I traveled all over Europe and toured Russia. It was the big time. But I still played the piano for myself. That is very important for me. If I must have another musician, I like the accordion."

Since becoming a star, Barbara has retired several times, always to make a comeback after rest and reflection at her provincial retreat in Seine-et-Marne. Her house has no windows to the outside world, opening instead onto a secret garden in an inner courtyard where she has a tiny theater for rehearsing.

"It is there that I recharge my energy. I prefer to live alone, and the village respects my solitude. When I am surrounded by people I can't hear anything, so I don't let many people visit. I'm very selective. I prefer people with serenity."

In case you wondered, Barbara does have a last name, at least on her passport. It is Serf.

Baptists Urged To Retain Fundamentalism

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer
ATLANTA (UPI) — Outgoing convention President Charles Stanley pleaded with Southern Baptists Tuesday to continue on the path of doctrinaire fundamentalism.

Stanley, pastor of Atlanta's First Baptist Church, urged delegates to the Southern Baptist Convention to stick with the unbroken line of fundamentalist leadership that has led the nation's largest Protestant denomination since 1979.

"We must choose to follow positive reporting and reject changing the philosophy of leadership at this very crucial moment in the life of the Southern Baptist Convention," Stanley told 40,056 voting delegates at the opening session of the annual three-day meeting of the 14.4 million-member religious body.

Speaking just hours before an election to pick his successor, Stanley all but ordered delegates, called messengers, to vote for the Rev. Adrian Rogers, Memphis, Tenn., a leader of the fundamentalist forces. Rogers faced moderate Winfred Moore, Amarillo, Texas, in the election late Tuesday afternoon.

The presidential election is considered a decisive engagement in the denominational battle, which has been raging since a group of fundamentalists announced a decade ago they would try to win control first of the convention presidency and then the boards that control the 20 agencies and seminaries of the church.

The fundamentalists, who hold that the Bible is literally true and who lean politically to the ultra-right, charge that the more tolerant and flexible moderates have allowed "liberalism" to infect seminaries and mission programs.

"Go forward and never, never, never turn back," said Stanley who has been one of the most most controversial and overtly political presidents during the struggle.

Basing his speech on a passage from the Old Testament Book of Numbers in which the people of Israel are posed to enter the promised land, Stanley said the Baptist Convention must not make the same mistake as the ancient Hebrews — rejecting proven leadership and being afraid to give up tradition.

Moderates in the denomination have maintained that the fundamentalist campaign turns its back on Baptist tradition, especially its commitment to the autonomy of the conscience of the individual believer. Fundamentalists, they charge, would impose a creed or statement of restrictive beliefs on Baptists.

Ken Chaffin, a professor at Southern Seminary, Louisville, Ky., and a leader of the moderate forces, while acknowledging the fundamentalists are in temporary command, told reporters, "The Baptist commitment to freedom is so strong they will not sustain control in the long run."

In the short term, they can wreck some careers and hurt some seminaries.

Chaffin also warned that denominational peace committees, charged with reconciling the warring factions, may issue a doctrine statement defining the limits of legitimate Baptist belief.

"They'll make everyone who works for the denomination sign that doctrine statement or leave," he said.

Baptists Select Fundamentalist

ATLANTA (UPI) — Election of the Rev. Adrian Rogers, a Memphis preacher, to the presidency of the Southern Baptist Convention further tightens the fundamentalist grip on the nation's largest Protestant denomination.

Rogers, who had previously served as president in 1979, easily turned back a moderate challenger, the Rev. Winfred Moore of Amarillo, Texas, in Tuesday's presidential contest.

Rogers received 21,201 votes or 54.2 percent to Moore's 17,898 votes or 45.7 percent.

Today the messengers, as voting registrants are called, hear a host of agency reports and consider a wide variety of resolutions ranging from aid to the Contras to the AIDS crisis.

At a news conference following his election, Rogers also pledged to continue the fundamentalist effort to place on the denomination's boards and agencies fellow fundamentalists who hold to what is called the "inerrant" view of the Bible — the idea that the Bible is completely without error in all matters, including secular history and science.

"I don't think that we need to say that Southern Baptist liberalism needs to be represented" on the boards, he said. "I believe in soul freedom... I would never, never force my views on another person. But we are saying that those who work for us... ought to reflect what the vast majority of us believe."

Among those beliefs, he said, is that people must believe in "the historicity of Adam and Eve — that they were historical persons."

It is the rejection of such literal interpretations by some seminary professors and agency employees that sparked the fundamentalist drive to win control of the denomination.

The fundamentalist-moderate split is so deep and so bitter that even a greeting to the convention from President Reagan appeared to some moderate messengers to be put to political use by outgoing convention president Charles Stanley, a leader of the fundamentalist wing.

Reagan's greeting was read to the 40,462 messengers just after Rogers' election was announced. In his telegram to the convention, Reagan praised Baptists for the role he said they played in a "great and welcome change" — the destruction of liberalism.

Reagan's message also called on Baptists to work against legal abortion and to restore state-sponsored prayer in the public schools.

After the message was read, one unidentified messenger challenged Stanley's timing of its reading, suggesting it was used to endorse the fundamentalist cause and that it was "illuminated and hostile."

Cocaine Is One Of Most Dangerous Drugs

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband and many of his friends use cocaine. He says that recreational use of the drug is not harmful. What do you think?

DEAR READER — Recent discoveries have led experts to conclude that cocaine is one of the most dangerous drugs in common use. Until the last couple of years, there was a widespread view that cocaine was a non-addicting, innocuous substance. This is completely untrue, and as larger segments of the population become able to afford cocaine's high price, increasing numbers of healthy Americans will suffer the consequences of this drug. Between 1980 and 1983, there was a 91 percent increase in cocaine-related deaths. Your husband and his friends are asking for health, emotional and career problems if they continue to use cocaine.

DEAR DR. GOTT — An advertisement I saw claimed that a product made from the konjac root is very effective for weight loss. What do you think about this product?

DEAR READER — I receive many questions about herbal medicines; I suspect this happens because many employees of health-food stores try to convince customers that one or another type of herbal medicine is either a substitute for prudent living habits or an alternative to modern prescription drugs. In general, these substances are not effective; most are harmless. Studies have shown that synthetic vitamins are just as effective as the "natural" types. Prescription diuretics are much more useful than the herbal varieties. Exotic roots and plants have not been shown to be superior to commercially manufactured drugs. Herbal weight-loss substances are, to my knowledge, useless. In my opinion, diseases and symptoms are best treated by orthodox methods under the supervision of qualified medical personnel. For example, to lose weight, your best approach would be to reduce your caloric intake to a level slightly below your caloric requirements.

Nonetheless, I try to keep an open mind about traditional herbal medicines. Oriental cultures have used such substances for centuries, and I admit that some may be useful in one form or another.

Therefore, I am not making a blanket indictment of herbal medicine; rather, I appeal to people to seek medical attention for problems and exercise skepticism and good sense in accepting the advertisements and claims of health-food cures.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

If you have to give up a trick to establish a suit but you want to prevent a particular opponent from gaining the lead, you must think ahead and play carefully. First, watch how South erred.

After dummy's heart nine had held the first trick, declarer played a club back to his ace. Because the game was informal, West casually remarked, "Well, now maybe I'd better signal my distribution," as he smoothly unblocked the queen. The consequence of that astute play by West was that East could not be kept out of the lead. Had West failed to get rid of the club queen, declarer would simply have led a second club and allowed West to hold the trick with that queen.

What should declarer have done? At the second trick, South should come to his hand with the spade king and lead a club. If West plays low, declarer plays dummy's king and then ducks a low club to West, who must now win the queen. If West puts up the club queen when the suit is first led, declarer lets him win the trick. Either way, declarer develops the suit for the tricks he needs without giving up the lead to the dangerous East hand.

This play may also work when West holds the club jack rather than the queen, for he may carelessly fail to play the jack when the club is led from the South hand up to the North hand. Then, winning the king in dummy and ducking a club on the way back will once again stick West with the lead and keep the declarer from harm.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JUNE 12, 1986

You will undertake a new and unusual interest in the year ahead that will develop for you by chance. It's something you've always wanted to do; now the door will be open for you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something of substance will come out of your social involvements today. A person who likes you has been waiting for a chance to give you a break. Trying to patch up a romance? The Matchmaker set can help you understand what it might take to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Conditions that affect your material well-being are moving in your favor today. Ride the tide to something profitable.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In an activity today that involves several of your friends, it's going to be up to you to get things properly organized and headed in the right direction.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An arrangement that can be beneficial to you will also benefit two of your associates. It's going to be up to you to show them why this is so.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you'll be able to rectify a situation with a close friend that has gotten a bit off course. Do it while both are in a conciliatory mood.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you are going after an important objective today, first get up a full head of steam and then go all out. Momentum brings you victory.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) By today you'll have had enough time to think through a major decision. Act according to the way you've reasoned it out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to change something that has thus far benefited others more than you. It's time for you to share in the benefits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your companionship will be greatly appreciated by others today. You not only make them feel comfortable, you also know how to make them feel important.

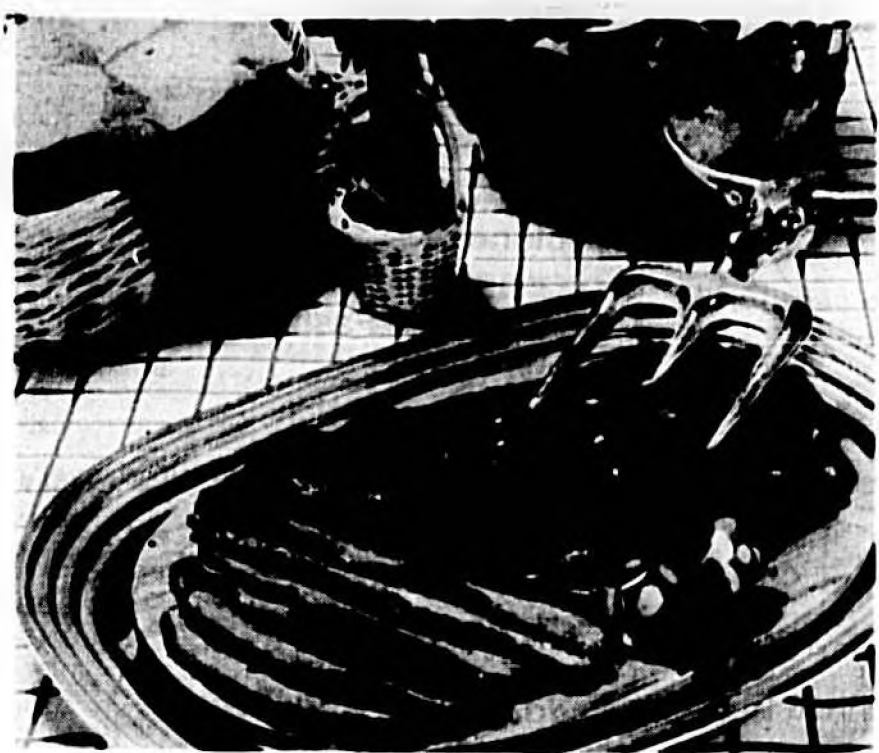

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Continue to do your assigned tasks to the best of your ability. Your good work is not going unnoticed by your superiors and will be rewarded.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your nimble wit and quick thinking will put you a step or two ahead of others today. When you spot an advantage, you'll take appropriate action.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Material benefits could develop for you in two unrelated areas today. These opportunities will be triggered from a central source that you can manipulate.

Marinade Tenderizes flank steak

Potpourri

Cola Marinade Adds Flavor To Grilled Steak

A simple marinade tenderizes a lean steak for barbecue and adds special flavor. One that is being revived is the cola marinade. The sweetness of cola and ketchup is offset by the lively taste of pepper sauce and garlic for a grilled treat.

A side dish that goes well with barbecued flank steak is ratatouille. Use fresh vegetables in season for this cooked vegetable treat that is good when served hot or cold. Try it on a hero or poor boy, too.

PEPPER-COLA MARINADE

- 1/2 cup ketchup
- 1/2 cup cola drink
- 3 large garlic cloves, chopped
- 3/4 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 2 pounds flank steak

In large bowl or plastic bag, combine ketchup, cola drink, garlic and pepper sauce; mix well. Place steak in marinade. Refrigerate at least 5 hours or overnight, turning steak often to marinate evenly. Place steak on barbecue grill over medium-hot coals; brush with marinade; cook 10 to 12 minutes. Turn, baste; cook 6 minutes longer or until steak is done as desired. Heat remaining marinade and serve with steak slices. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

BARBECUE RATATOUILLE

- 2 tablespoons olive oil
 - 1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
 - 2 cloves garlic, chopped
 - 1 small eggplant, unpared, cubed (3 cups)
 - 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes, undrained
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 1 teaspoon dried leaf oregano, crumbled
 - 1/2 teaspoon dried marjoram, crumbled
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
 - 2 small zucchini, sliced (2 cups)
 - 1 medium-size green pepper, seeded and cut in thin strips (1 cup)
- In large skillet heat oil; saute onion and garlic until tender.

Add eggplant, tomatoes, bay leaf, oregano, marjoram, salt and pepper sauce; mix well. Cover.

Cook 10 to 15 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent mixture from sticking. Add zucchini and green peppers. Cover. Simmer 10 minutes longer. Remove bay leaf. Serve hot or cold. Serve with additional pepper sauce, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 6 servings.

SAVORY BEEF STEW

- 1/2 pound bacon, cut into small pieces
- 1/4 cup flour
- Salt and pepper to taste
- 2 1/2 pounds beef for stew, cut into 2-inch cubes
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 3 cups chopped onion
- 2 large cloves garlic, chopped
- 1 1/2 cups Florida orange juice
- 1 cup dry red wine
- 3/4 cup canned tomato puree
- 2 beef bouillon cubes
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 2 bay leaves
- 4 medium turnips, cut in chunks (about 4 cups)
- 5 medium carrots, cut in chunks (about 3 cups)
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley

In large kettle or heavy saucepan, saute bacon until golden brown; remove and drain. Set aside. Combine flour, salt and pepper; dredge beef in flour mixture. Brown meat in bacon fat over high heat; remove meat and reserve.

Add olive oil to pan and heat. Saute onion and garlic until golden. Add orange juice, wine, tomato puree, bouillon cubes, salt, pepper, nutmeg and bay leaves.

Sprinkle with parsley. Serve with noodles, if desired.

YIELD: 6 to 8 servings.

Dieting Americans Still Prefer Yummy Sinfully Rich, Gloriously Goosey Desserts

Americans undoubtedly are more nutrition-conscious than ever before. They're eating whole grains and yogurt, reading labels and talking about calories and cholesterol and calcium at the drop of a cookbook.

But ask just about anyone what his or her favorite food is, or the dish they remember most fondly from childhood, and it is almost certain to fall into one category — dessert.

Americans may spread less butter on their bread and sprinkle less sugar on their breakfast cereal, but they still love desserts. And the more sinfully rich, the more gloriously goosey those desserts are, the better.

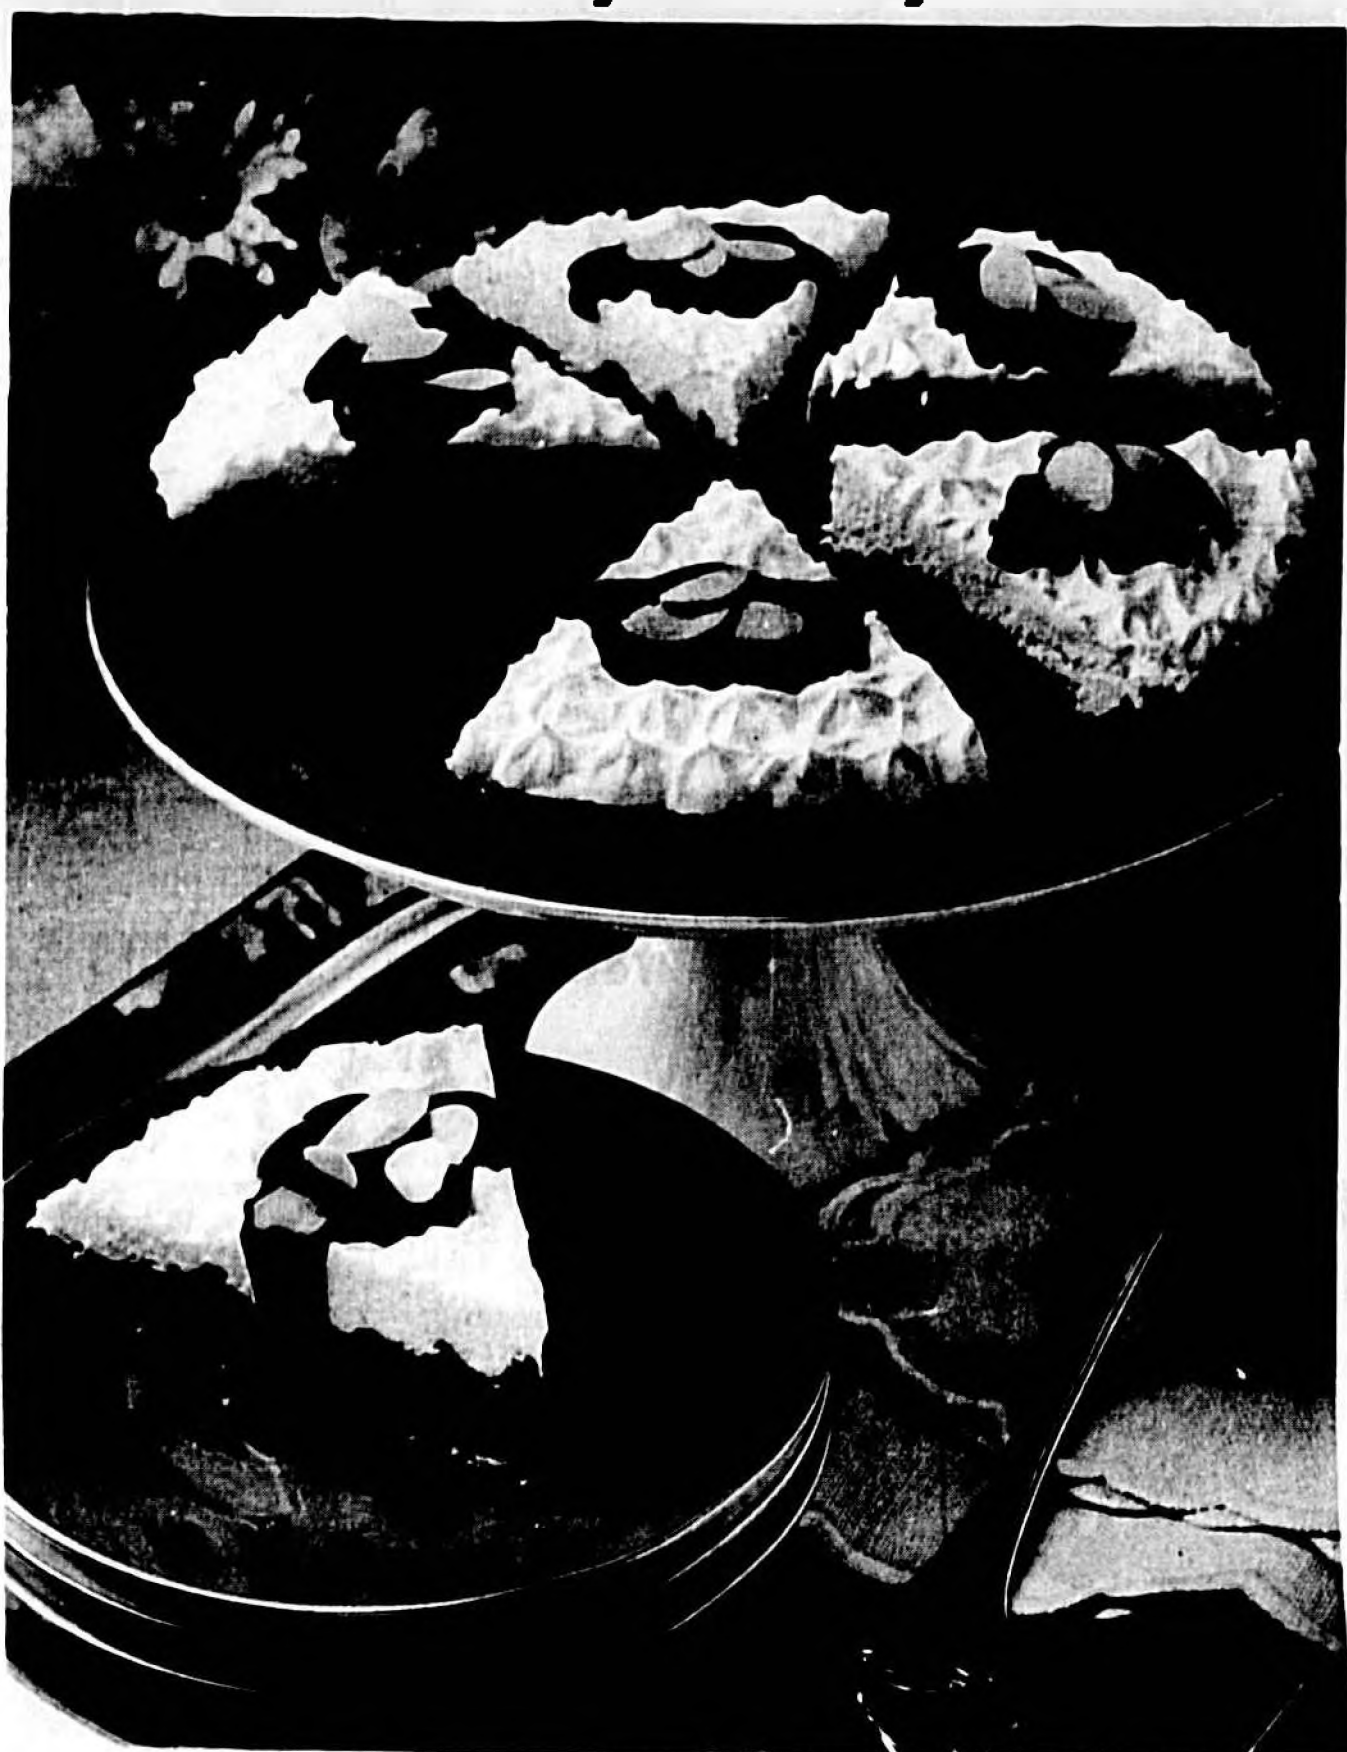

The following pies are a dessert lover's dream. They're rich. They're delicious. They look as good as they taste. And, maybe best of all, they're extremely easy to make.

The cook's secret — one she doesn't need to share because no one is likely to guess — is that each of these pies comes from the freezer case. The sauces that top them are homemade, however, but still so simple they take only minutes to concoct.

Go ahead. Serve broiled fish, steamed vegetables and lettuce leaves sprinkled with lemon juice for dinner tonight to prove you know good nutrition. Then serve up one of these pies for dessert. Everyone will be happy.

- CHOCOLATE MOCHA ALMOND CREAM PIE
- 1 1/2 teaspoons instant coffee
 - 1 tablespoon hot water
 - 1/2 cup chocolate ice cream topping
 - 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
 - 1 package (14 oz.) ready-to-serve frozen chocolate cream pie
 - Sliced almonds (optional)
- In small bowl, dissolve coffee in water. Stir in chocolate topping and almond extract. Serve over pie. Sprinkle almonds on top, if desired. Makes 6 servings.

- EASY PINE COLADA PIE
- 1/2 cup pineapple juice
 - 2 tablespoons lime juice
 - 1/4 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoons cornstarch
 - 1/4 cup shredded coconut
 - 1 tablespoon light rum
 - 1 (14 oz.) ready-to-serve frozen coconut cream pie
- In small saucepan, combine pineapple juice, lime juice, sugar and cornstarch. Cook, stirring constantly, over medium heat, until mixture is bubbly and slightly thickened. Remove from

Beat The Heat With A Cool Bean Salad

By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor

An antipasto bean salad offers a nutritious bowlful of good things that taste good together.

- ANTIPASTO BEAN SALAD
- 1/3 cup olive oil
 - 2 tablespoons red wine vinegar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon tarragon leaves, crushed
 - 1/2 teaspoon onion powder
 - 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
 - 1 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
 - 1 can (19 ounces) red kidney beans, drained

- 1 can (19 ounces) chick peas, drained
- 1 jar (3/4 cup) diced, roasted red peppers
- 2 ounces sliced salami, cut in 1/4-inch strips
- 2 ounces sliced ham, cut in 1/4-inch strips

In a medium bowl, combine olive oil, vinegar, salt, tarragon, onion and garlic powders and black pepper. Add kidney beans, chick peas, red peppers, salami and ham; mix well. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours or overnight.

Serve at room temperature over lettuce, garnished with Tuscan peppers, marinated artichokes or marinated mushrooms, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 6 portions: 4 cups.

- TUSCAN CHICK PEA SALAD
- 1/3 cup tomato sauce
 - 3 tablespoons red wine vinegar
 - 1 tablespoon olive oil
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
 - 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder

2 cans (19 ounces each) chick peas, drained

- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 1/4 cup diced green pepper
- 1/4 cup chopped red onion
- 1/4 cup diced fresh tomato

In a medium bowl, combine tomato sauce, vinegar, olive oil, salt, oregano and garlic powder. Add chick peas, celery, green pepper and red onion. Cover and refrigerate at least 2 hours. Bring salad to room temperature and stir in tomato just before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 portions; about 4 cups.

German Chef Develops Special Fondness For Products From The South

By JOHN DeMERS
UPI Food Editor

ATLANTA (UPI) — With one Michelin star under his belt — in Germany, no less — why on earth would a classically trained chef uproot his career, his wife and two children to move to the United States?

The answer turns out to be simple enough, and familiar enough to several million immigrants from the turn of this century. For some, it seems, the lure of creative freedom is irresistible.

"In this country, it's really just starting," said Chef Guenter Seeger, who runs The Dining Room at the Ritz-Carlton in the Buckhead section of Atlanta. "Helping to develop a nice cuisine in this country is something I like very much."

"I'm not cooking classical cuisine or nouvelle, which is already 15 years old. I'm cooking with new ideas, fresh products, nice combinations. There's so much room, really. Your personality can be your own in cooking."

The tall, slender Seeger evolved from professional to artist while managing his award-winning restaurant at the gateway to his native Black Forest, the Hohneck in Pforzheim.

In Germany, his single star from Michelin was often equated with two — considering that guidebook's preference for all things French. Nevertheless, the magnetism of fresh ideas proved too much when opportunity arose.

Seeger sold the Hohneck two years ago and moved to the United States, first bringing a class to the Regent in Washington then taking over The Dining Room when the Ritz-Carlton opened. He is the only Michelin-starred chef working on staff at an American hotel.

Seeger never plans a menu in advance, a fact that allows him to react imaginatively to fresh ingredients he finds during daily tours of the markets.

He is developing a special fondness for products from the South, deepening his long-held philosophy that cuisine should reflect the richness of geography.

"All the things I'm preparing today are my favorites today," said Seeger. "They may not be my favorites tomorrow, but I'm not cooking them tomorrow. I see the product and I know what I have to do with it."

Here are Seeger's recipes for Pompano With Balsamic Vinegar, a dish that can be prepared quickly with any firm-fleshed fish, and Shrimp With Apples, Cinnamon and Ginger, which draws its allure from its unusual combination of tastes and textures.

- POMPANO WITH BALSAMIC VINEGAR
- 1 large tomato, peeled, seeded and finely chopped
 - 2 Tbsp capers, drained and chopped
 - 1 Tbsp lime juice
 - 1 pompano (1-2 pounds), filleted and skinned
 - Salt to taste
 - Fresh ground black pepper
 - 1/4 cup flour
 - 4 Tbsp butter

2 Tbsp finely chopped chives

- 1 Tbsp balsamic vinegar
- Alfalfa or radish sprouts for garnish

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Combine tomato, capers and lime juice, then set aside. Rinse fillets and pat dry. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dust lightly with flour, shaking fillets to remove excess.

In a large, oven-proof skillet, melt 3 tablespoons butter over medium heat. Add fillets and saute 1 minute. Turn fillets and immediately place skillet in oven. Bake 3 to 5 minutes, or until just cooked through. With a spatula, transfer fillets to 4 dinner plates.

Place skillet over medium heat and add remaining tablespoon of butter. Cook until butter is lightly browned. Drain tomato mixture and spoon over fillets. Sprinkle with chives and balsamic vinegar. Drizzle with browned butter. Garnish as desired. Serves 4.

- SHRIMP WITH APPLES, CINNAMON AND GINGER
- Sauce:

- 3 Tbsp butter
- 1 tart apple such as Granny Smith, peeled, cored and chopped
- 1 Tbsp sugar
- 1/4 cup calvados
- 3/4 cup apple juice
- 3/4 cup creme fraiche or heavy cream

Apples: 2 tart apples, peeled and sliced 1/4-inch thick

- 4 Tbsp butter
- 2 Tbsp sugar

Shrimp: 1 pound medium shrimp, shelled and deveined

- 1/2 tsp salt
- Pinch of freshly ground black pepper
- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 tsp cinnamon
- 3 Tbsp butter
- 4 tsp finely julienned fresh ginger

To make the sauce, melt 2 tablespoons of butter in a medium saucepan over medium heat. Add apples and sugar, then saute until tender, about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Add calvados and carefully ignite with a long match to burn off alcohol. When flames subside, stir in apple juice and cream. Return to low heat and simmer, stirring occasionally, 20 minutes or until thickened.

Transfer to a food processor or blender and puree the mixture until smooth. Strain and return to saucepan. Just before serving, reheat gently. Remove from heat and swirl in remaining butter.

To prepare the apples, melt their butter in a large non-stick skillet over medium heat. Add apples and sugar and saute 7 to 10 minutes, until tender and lightly browned.

Sprinkle the shrimp with salt and pepper. On a piece of waxed paper, combine flour and cinnamon. Lightly dredge shrimp in flour mixture, shaking to remove excess. In a large skillet, melt butter over medium heat. Add shrimp and saute about 2 minutes on each side, until shrimp are just pink.

To serve, arrange shrimp on 4 warm dinner plates. Sprinkle with ginger. Spoon sauce around shrimp. Garnish with sauteed apple slices.
