County Offers Short Course On Citrus Canker

Seminole County citrus growers have been lucky so far. Citrus canker has not been found in any orange groves here.

But just in case, Frank Jasa, county agricultural agent, has scheduled a special program at 7 p.m. Wednesday, at the county agricultural center at Five Points to discuss the citrus disease and show films for commercial growers and homeowners who may have a citrus tree or two in their back yards.

So far, even though the Florida Department of Agriculture, Division of Plant Industry inspectors have gone through several orange groves here, no problems have been found.

The biggest problem confronting citrus growers in Seminole County is the total loss of some groves to last Christmas's freeze, Jasa said. Before the freeze the county had some 6,600 acres of groves. About 30 percent were lost in the freeze, leaving 4,500 to 4,800 acres in active groves now.

"But we have such a tremendous number of back yard trees and homeowners have very little idea of what citrus canker is or how to identify it. Yet, there are not enough state inspectors to go to every back yard in the state and check out trees," Jasa said.

Meanwhile, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk's deputies are watching groves for trespassers, who might unknowingly spread disease from one grove to another.

"Our patrols are looking for people in there. When we find a trespasser he will be issued a summons," Polk said.

Jasa said citrus canker is difficult to diagnose and even the most experienced plant pathologist won't do it without using the microscope and sometimes laboratory analysis.

"There are other diseases that are fairly similar," he said.

At first the state Department of Agriculture decided to check groves that had received new plantings since Jan. 1, 1984. Then they decided to check all those that got trees set out since October, 1983.

"The Division of Plant Industry is responsible for enforcement, doing the grove inspections and follow-up activities," Jasa said.

"Our biggest concern is those grove owners or the public who may suspect their trees have citrus canker and carry leaves or clippings around for others to see.

"If they think their trees have citrus canker, they should stay away from the trees and call the county agriculture office or the Division of Plant Industry in Lake Alfred.

"We don't want anyone carrying parts of diseased trees from one place to another. They could infect other trees. We are telling growers to stay out of their groves as much as possible so this thing won't spread," Jasa said.

He said the Division of Plant Industry inspectors when going into a grove wear protective clothing, not to protect themselves but to protect trees.

When they find a suspicious tree, they put infected leaves into double plastic bags and disinfect themselves after the inspections.

He urged those who need to know more about the disease to come to the agricultural center Wednesday night for the special program.

Fingerprinting Not Expected At Colleges

College and university instructors will not be fingerprinted like substitute teachers in Florida public schools because they are not certified by the state, according to Frank Gore, personnel director for Seminole Community College.

Last week, the Seminole County School Board voted to comply with a state law requiring all substitute teachers hired after Oct. 1 to be fingerprinted in order to get their teaching certificates.

Right now, that means only 981 of the 2,352 instructors on the county's list of substitute teachers will have to be fingerprinted. But Ann Nelawender, personnel director for the school board, said last week that eventually all of the substitutes and regular contract teachers will be fingerprinted.

The purpose of the law, according to Mrs. Nelawender, is to screen out "serious felons." Substitute teachers have to pay $18 to be fingerprinted, in addition to the $15 certification fee. Teachers also have to list physical information like hair and eye color, height and weight. The prints and the information are then sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation and local law enforcement agencies.

Because college and university instructors are no longer required to hold certificates from the state, they do not have to be fingerprinted, Gore said.

SCC still follows the same hiring policy as it did before the certification requirement was dropped in 1981, he said.

The school's applications still ask if the person has ever been convicted of a felony. He said an extensive check on the person's background is made only if they check "yes." Otherwise, he follows "the procedures most businesses do," which includes getting references from friends and former employers.

Ashmun Brown, attorney for the University of Central Florida, said the school follows the same hiring process as SCC.

Gunplay, Rape Mark Assaults

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

A convenience store owner was shot by robbers, a woman was raped by a man who cut her clothes off, and another woman was shot at by a would-be abductor in three unrelated assaults in Seminole County over the weekend.

The victims survived the attacks and the would-be kidnapper has been arrested. The 28-year-old rape victim reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was cooking dinner in her apartment when an intruder grabbed her from behind at about 10 p.m. Friday. He had entered through an open door.

The attacker became violent and as the woman struggled he cut her clothes off using a pair of scissors, bound her hands and feet with her clothing and stabbed her with the scissors in the neck and right arm before raping her, deputies report.

As the "short, skinny assailant," who was wearing a stocking mask that did not hide his "large nose with a mole on the end," fled he took $70, a $350 handgun and a cat litter box from the woman's apartment.

Park Improvements Planned

Boating facilities at four Seminole County parks will be improved if state and federal grants the county has applied for are approved.

John Percy, county director of development and facilities, said the county is seeking a total of $104,000 in grants for the improvements.

A $52,000 grant is being requested from the Florida Department of Natural Resources

Sheriff's spokesman John Spolski speculated that the man emptied and took the litter box because he had may have left fingerprints on it.

The woman was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, and released.

Roman Patel, 45, of Casselberry, the owner of Casselberry Gas And Food Store, reportedly pled with two robbers not to shoot him after offering them all his money. He was shot anyway, in the stomach.

Patel was in stable condition in Winter Park Memorial Hospital, Winter Park following the 10 p.m. Saturday shooting. Patel was reportedly closing his store on county Road 427 near Plumosa Street, when the bandits robbed him of an undisclosed amount of cash. They fled on foot.

An employee who had left the store just before the robbery reportedly told police he didn't see the robbers. He heard a muffled noise, but didn't think it was a gunshot. Patel has owned the store for about six months.

In the other shooting incident, Diane M. Duzlak, 35, of 504 Seville Ave., Altamonte Springs, told sheriff's deputy W.C.

Thatcher Security Tightened

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Britain has tightened security around Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher in the aftermath of an IRA bomber's assassination attempt and a claim that Thatcher has been a target for three years.

When the prime minister went to church Sunday near her official country residence outside London, armed police patrolled the village churchyard and surrounding woods. More officers, including one with a high-powered rifle, watched from the vantage point of a nearby hill.

Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist chief warned the explosion at the Grand Hotel Brighton Friday that killed four people and injured 32 could signal the start of another IRA bombing campaign. He urged politicians, judges and military personnel to be especially vigilant.

In Dublin, Ireland, IRA sources told the Sunday Press newspaper Thatcher had been an assassination target since 1981, the year 10 convicted IRA terrorists starved to death in a hunger strike at the Maze prison.

The IRA said it recruited English-born sympathizers to carry out the Brighton attack that involved months of long-term planning and was aimed at the prime minister and virtually the entire British Cabinet staying at the hotel during the Conservative Party's annual convention.

A Conservative politician was among the dead. Trade Minister Norman Tebbit, considered Thatcher's eventual successor, was among the injured still hospitalized Sunday. His wife was also seriously hurt and may be paralyzed for life with spinal injuries.

Photographs of the prime minister's wrecked bedroom suite underlined how lucky her escape was.

Chunks of rubble where the ceiling had collapsed littered the floor of the bathroom where Thatcher had been just two minutes before the blast. Plaster was blown off the walls. The bedroom showed signs of a hasty departure, the bed linen flung aside.

Thatcher's husband Denis narrowly escaped being hit by masonry crashing through a

Case Of The Purloined Pussycat

By Bill Cardoso

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — This is the true story of Roxy, the purloined pussycat, who was tracked down by a persevering Foodieck of the feline set after a cross-country catnapping.

"He was so stressed when we got him," said Patti Mercer, director of humane services for the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals in Houston, where the catnapper had taken Roxy.

Five years ago Jeff Lindley, now 27, gave his wife Laurie, 28, a kitten on her birthday. Believing "he" was a "she," she named him Roxy. The gender gap was later corrected but the name stayed.

"He's fat and sassy, kind of the Garfield type," said Laurie about the silver-tipped neutered Persian.

All the neighbors loved Roxy. So, apparently, did a woman visiting her daughter next door.

"She was acting strange about Roxy," Laurie recalled. "She was keeping him in her apartment all day. One day about five weeks ago, we couldn't find Roxy and this woman — thief, she is — was packing her car. I asked her if she had seen the kitty and she said no. But I knew she was lying."

A week later the Lindleys went to the woman's daughter. "She was nice at first but then she swore at my husband about the blankety-blank cat. But she said her mother was going to Florida and might stop in Houston at another daughter's."

Laurie called Houston. "That daughter gave us the run-around. I begged and cried on the phone for her mother's address. I said I was sick. I said how much I loved the cat. She hung up."

In desperation, Laurie acted on a suggestion by a Long Beach detective and tricked the address out of the daughter.

"I talked with an Australian accent and said I found her mother's purse and wanted to return it in the mall. That's how we got the address." Laurie's mother is Australian-born. "She does a very good Australian accent," said Jeff.

After filing police reports in Houston and Long Beach, she phoned Mercer at the Houston SPCA.

When they went to the Houston house, police convinced the catnapper's daughter to free Roxy by saying authorities would consider the case one of mistaken identity.

"That's about the only option we had," Mercer said. "She must've figured that was better than seeing her 65-year-old mother in jail."

Roxy's problems were not quite over. He was bumped from his return flight by a corpse being shipped to California. The Lindleys waited at the airport. The next flight from Houston would arrive seven hours later, at 1 a.m.

A cargo handler said not to worry, he'd deliver Roxy. They met at a darkened gas station. The agreed upon half-way point.

And the purloined pussycat was home at last.

U.S. Has Plan To Prevent Terrorist Attacks, But Smith Mum On Details

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal authorities have drawn up a coordinated plan to help prevent terrorist attacks against U.S. targets in this country and abroad, Attorney General William French Smith says.

A number of federal agencies are involved in a coordinated effort to deal with international terrorism, Smith said, and, "The focus here is on taking preventive action against terrorist attacks directed against U.S. targets here and abroad."

Smith did not provide details of the plan, but he said, "The information we develop about terrorist groups within our borders often discloses their international connections. When we discover information that can be useful to authorities in other countries, we are quick to share it with them."

For example, Smith said, the FBI helped find "crucial" weapons believed used in the 1982 assassination attempt on the Turkish consul in Ottawa, Canada.

He said the Canadian Mounted Police arrested four members of the Armenian Secret Army for the Liberation of Armenia based on work by the Canadians and the FBI.

"FBI surveillance under the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act and other investigatory work facilitated the recovery of weapons believed to have been used in the assassination attempt," Smith said.

Smith said federal authorities have been successful in combating terrorism in the United States, but the number of international incidents has grown.

In the United States, there was almost a 40 percent drop in terrorist incidents in 1983. There were 51 incidents in 1982 and 31 in 1983, when the FBI prevented six incidents.

So far this year, there have been only eight, Smith said.

Smith said the United States is more vulnerable to terrorist attack because it is an open society and more reluctant to take measures that might infringe on citizens' rights.

"We fully recognize our vulnerability," Smith said. "We also fully appreciate the fact that we must not sacrifice the openness of our society in our effort to counteract our vulnerability to terrorist attack."

Rapist Foiled By 'Roommate Will Be Home Soon' Excuse

A Winter Park woman foiled a would-be rapist by telling him her roommate would be home soon.

The 25-year-old woman told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that she was awakened at 1:15 a.m. Sunday by a man sitting on her bed. He said, "Don't yell. I have a knife and I am going to rape you. I won't hurt you. Just don't yell," according to a sheriff's report.

The woman said she felt what appeared to be a knife being held to her back. After she told the man, who was wearing a stocking mask, that her roommate would be home soon he left through a kitchen door. Deputies report he had apparently entered the apartment through a kitchen window.

No Contest On Cocaine Charge; Another Guilty In Mini-Pot Sale

A 34-year-old Sanford man has pleaded no contest to a charge of possession of cocaine.

Ronald David Rhinehart of Lake Markham Road entered the plea Thursday before retired Circuit Court Judge Humes T. Lasher. Rhinehart could be sentenced to up to a year in the county jail. Sentencing is set for Nov. 30.

According to court records, Rhinehart was stopped by Altamonte Springs police for a routine traffic check at about 9 p.m. March 24 on Westmont Drive. When he reached for his vehicle registration, officers said they saw what appeared to be a container of marijuana and cigarette rolling papers in the glove compartment.

Rhinehart was charged with driving on a suspended driver's license. The officers then searched his vehicle and found small quantities of pot and cocaine along with drug-related items in the glove compartment.

Charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia and driving without a license were not prosecuted.

In another case before Lasher, an Altamonte Springs man who sold $10 worth of marijuana to a man in a Casselberry parking lot pleaded guilty to sale or delivery of a controlled substance.

Alan Frederick Sumner, 19, of 514 Orange Drive, entered the plea Friday. Lasher set Nov. 30 for sentencing. Sumner could receive up to a year in the county jail on the charge.

The man Sumner sold the pot to was an undercover sheriff's deputy who had been called to the House of Babes, U.S. Highway 17-92, Fern Park, to investigate a man who was allegedly dealing in marijuana at the topless club, according to court records.

The agent and another deputy saw Sumner leave the bar and approached him in the parking lot of a nearby business. He sold the agent a small amount of pot wrapped in a napkin, a sheriff's report said.

A former Sanford man has pleaded guilty to charges of violation of probation and theft.

Earl Stanley Wilson, now of Deland, but formerly of 1105 E. 10 St., Sanford, entered the plea Thursday before Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. who set Oct. 26 for sentencing.

This is Wilson's second probation violation. He was convicted in 1977 of petty larceny for reportedly stealing two bathroom mirrors, according to court records. He was sentenced to five years in prison.

For two parole violations — failure to make monthly reports and moving without his parole officer's knowledge — he was sentenced to three years probation in 1982.

He pleaded guilty Thursday to failing to make monthly reports and not telling his probation officer that he had moved. He was being held without bond.

Two Appealing Drug Convictions Stemming From 500-Pound Pot Sale

Two men convicted in a Seminole County drug sting operation are taking their case to the 5th District Court of Appeal.

Robert Poyner Adcock, 35, of DeBary, filed his appeal Thursday while James Veal, 61, of Georgia, filed his appeal Wednesday. Both were arrested Feb. 22 and were sentenced Sept. 10.

Adcock was sentenced to six years with a minimum mandatory prison term of three years plus a $25,000 fine for trafficking in marijuana. Veal faces the same penalty for the same offense, except his initial sentence was 5 1/2 years in prison.

Adcock, Veal, a DeBary woman and two other Georgia men were arrested by Seminole County undercover drug task force agents who befriended the group and sold them 500 pounds of marijuana.

Court records show Adcock appealed his case because Seminole Circuit Court Judge Mize Jr. denied his pre-trial motion to suppress information. Veal filed notice of his appeal but did not state why he wants the high court to consider his case.

The five arrested in the case pleaded guilty and two of the Georgia men have yet to be sentenced.

Janine Willard Lassab-Adcock, the DeBary woman arrested in the case, was fined $300 Wednesday for conspiracy to traffic in marijuana. In a separate case, she was also sentenced to 4 months in the Seminole County jail and five years probation for smuggling marijuana into the facility.

Richard Patton, 29, of Riverdale, Ga. pleaded guilty Sept. 10 to possession of marijuana and faces up to a year in jail. He is scheduled to be sentenced this month. His father, Thomas Patton, 54, of Riverdale, pleaded guilty Oct. 5 to trafficking in marijuana and faces a mandatory minimum three-year sentence and $25,000 fine. He is scheduled to be sentenced Oct. 26.

Take The Money And Sweep Up

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — A holdup man with a bent for theatrics bound and gagged a convenience store clerk and waited on several customers — including a policeman — while a partner ransacked the back room, police said.

The "clerk" even swept up and dumped the trash, allaying the suspicions of the policeman, who drove his cruiser around the block for a second look.

Officers realized they had been duped when the real clerk, Robert J. Lord, 39, wriggled free of his bonds after the robbers had vanished and called police.

"One of our officers did go into the store, and he did recognize something was a little strange and unusual," said Police Commander Don Woolery.

"So the officer left in his car, went around the block, and saw the 'clerk' pick up a trash can and go about cleaning the store. That satisfied his curiosity."

The cool-headed robber "apparently waited on several people in the store" while he impersonated a clerk, Woolery said.

The robbers walked into the store about 3 a.m. Friday, one carrying a hunting rifle with a scope, police said.

They fled with an undisclosed amount of cash, officers said. The clerk was not injured.

Bankrupt Marxism

After two years of intensive and at times acrimonious negotiations, British and Chinese representatives sat down in Peking recently and initiated an agreement on the future of Hong Kong. The document is a remarkable harmonious resolution of conflicting interests and philosophies that appeared to be irreconcilable. It is, by all accounts, the best that could be hoped for under the circumstances.

China and Britain reached a meeting of minds because they were able to subordinate national pride to pragmatism. The British realized they hold no high cards and lack the means to defend their crown colony; they could only play for the best terms after their lease expires in 1997 and Hong Kong then returns to Chinese sovereignty. For their part, the Chinese saw they could retain Hong Kong as a global hub of finance and commerce only by preserving its laissez-faire economic system and quieting the near-panic afflicting most of the 5.5 million inhabitants of the territory.

The result is a "one-country, two-systems" arrangement wherein Hong Kong can become a special administrative region of the mainland, retaining its free social and economic systems for at least 50 years. China will represent Hong Kong in foreign and military affairs, and Chinese troops will be stationed in the territory after 1997. Hong Kong Chinese will be regarded as Chinese nationals.

Specifically, current laws will remain basically unchanged and Hong Kong will have its own executive branch, legislature and independent judiciary. Freedoms of speech, press, assembly, associations, travel, and religious beliefs are assured. Hong Kong will remain a free port and international finance center; its dollar will remain freely convertible and it will manage its own financial affairs. Peking will not levy taxes. Domestic orders will be maintained by the local government and not by troops from the mainland.

Despite a widespread impression that the agreement is sealed as well as signed, it is not ratified. China and Britain have promised Hong Kong's people a period to review it for approval before it goes to the British and Chinese parliaments for ratification. No real problems are expected. Observers report the agreement has brought some easing of fears in Hong Kong over the future takeover by China. But so many of Hong Kong's citizens are refugees from China and so many others are intimately aware of China's utter disregard for human rights and its unpredictable excesses that their exodus with their wealth will continue.

Meanwhile, China has lost no time in renewing overtures to Taiwan for reunification along Hong Kong lines — "one country, two systems." The Taiwanese are predictably cool to this idea and they can afford to be because, unlike the frightened people of Hong Kong, they are still free to decide their future.

Indeed the freedom of Taiwan reminds the citizens of Hong Kong that they are actually pawns with little choice over their future. Still, they should find some reassurance that they themselves have achieved an astonishing pledge of continued freedom through their enterprise and wealth. They have become too valuable to be made slaves even by so avaricious a power as China. Although Hong Kong feels threatened, it has the powerful defense of an economic system that is one of the wonders of the world; it proclaims the bankruptcy of Marxism.

Cloudy Crystal Balls

Are economists wiser than the rest of us? That's a question I would answer in the negative.

Economists in the late 1920s didn't see the Great Depression over the horizon. They aren't much more discerning today.

I was reminded of this in reading the summer issue of the Mont Pelerin Society newsletter.

It reported that Dr. Milton Friedman, the Nobel Prizewinning economist, spoke to the members of the Society and "predicted an economic slowdown for 1984, an accompanying rise in the rate of inflation, and the ultimate imposition of wage-price controls."

Dr. Friedman was completely wrong in his prediction. The economy is doing very nicely, inflation is low, and not even the most wild-eyed liberal is calling for the imposition of wage-price controls. So much for Dr. Friedman's crystal ball.

To be sure, Milton Friedman is not the only economist to misread the signs of the times.

Walter Mondale's economic advisers are doing the same thing. In the face of comfortable prosperity, they talk as though the sky were falling.

The errors of economists are thoroughly bipartisan, however.

Academic students of the economy make mistakes because they become wedded to their pet economic notions. They persist in defending their favorite economic dogmas, despite evidence that supports contrary positions.

The United States is too big, varied, and complex a country to be described in textbook fashion.

Economists, like other exponents of ideas, frequently ignore reality as they uphold the doctrine dear to their hearts.

They pontificate instead of striving to discover what is going on in the American economy.

Economics has been described as the dismal science. It also has practitioners who are dimly arrogant about the real world. They need to fight against this tendency. Arrogance is the undoing of economic "science."

Economists are here to stay. We need them — up to a point, but they should endeavor to acquire a measure of humility. The focus of their attention should be on the real world, not on theoretical texts. Economists need to spend time visiting factories and stores, studying the objective conditions confronting producers and consumers. There's no substitute for personal investigation of the marketplace.

It's A Landslide?

The polling figures on this election as they roll in from the various states are astonishing. There has been something like it in our history.

In 1968, 1972 and 1980 the Democratic presidential candidate suffered a devastating defeat. Hubert Humphrey got only 40 percent of the vote against Wallace and Nixon. McGovern carried only Massachusetts and the District of Columbia, and Carter was overwhelmed by Reagan. The Democratic percentage of the popular vote was 31st, 37th and 34th in the 39 elections since Andrew Jackson's victory in 1828.

In each of those three defeats, however, the Democratic establishment could assure itself that there were reasonable excuses. In 1968, maverick outsiders were muddying the water, and maybe without Eugene McCarthy and George Wallace on the scene Hubert Humphrey would have won. George McGovern was an eccentric candidate of little appeal. So was Carter, a provincial candidate created by Watergate, and he could not figure out how to handle Khomeini.

But there is nothing eccentric about Walter Mondale, and nothing much is muddying the water this time. Mondale is precisely the candidate of the Democratic establishment, the very embodiment of what the party stands for in 1984. He has had the backing not only of Lane Kirkland and Lloyd Bentsen but also of Bella Abzug and Eleanor Smeal. Julian Bond and Harold Washington support Mondale, but so do Tip O'Neill, Burt Lance and Dan Rostenkowski, Dick Gephardt and Ed Muskie. Mondale has long had the backing of the powerful American Federation of Teachers, and of the National Education Association, but also of the women's groups and the gay rights organizations, as well as that of the AFL-CIO. It is impossible even to imagine a more Complete Democrat, 1984 style, than Walter Mondale.

But this morning everyone is reading the polling printouts.

Reagan sweeps New England. Mondale's best state is Massachusetts, where Reagan leads by 2-10 points. In Rhode Island, solidly Democratic as long as anyone can remember, Reagan has an 8 point margin.

And New England is Reagan's weakest sector.

In New York and Pennsylvania, current polls put Reagan ahead by 10-13 points. Maryland is a Democratic state, and the only mid-Atlantic state to back Carter over Reagan in 1980. Reagan leads in Maryland 49-40.

In the South, the big electoral votes weigh in from Florida and Texas. The most recent newspaper poll from Florida shows Reagan holding an absolutely unprecedented lead of 64-27 over Mondale. Polls in Texas are showing Reagan margins of 20-30 points.

Mississippi and Alabama were once thought to be available to Mondale. The latest Alabama poll gives Reagan a 58-33 lead, with white voters backing him 3 to 1. In Mississippi, Reagan has a 20 point lead.

Issues Attract Voters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — While the presidential and Senate races receive the most national attention, in many states votes on issues are what will attract people to the polls.

There will be at least a total of 228 measures on the ballots of 43 states and the District of Columbia this November. Thirty-nine of these are voter-sponsored initiatives. The rest — mostly bond issue questions — have been referred to the voters by their state legislatures.

As usual, California's ballot is chock-full of initiatives, 16 in all. Among these are four sponsored by conservatives and Republicans which have sparked a lot of interest and which have Democrats worried.

The first, called "Jarvis IV," is sponsored by Howard Jarvis of Proposition 13 fame and seeks to close "loopholes" Jarvis says have been opened in that budget-cutting measure. A second calls for a non-partisan commission to redraw the state's congressional districts, which now heavily favor Democrats. A third attempts to limit contributions in statewide and legislative campaigns. And the fourth would make cuts in state welfare and Medicaid programs.

Voters in six states will be asked whether to allow gambling. Currently 17 states and the District of Columbia run lotteries. Now voters in California, Missouri, Oregon and West Virginia are being asked to approve them. Missouri voters are being asked once again, in what has become a perennial question in that state, to approve parimutuel betting.

Finally, measures on the ballots in Arkansas and Colorado would allow gambling casinos in specific areas (Hot Springs in Arkansas, Pueblo County in Colorado), much in the way that New Jersey allows casinos in Atlantic City. A measure to allow casino gambling in North Miami Beach did not make it onto the Florida ballot.

Local interest in Arkansas and Colorado has been piqued by measures that would severely restrict state funding of abortions. West Virginians will vote on whether to approve prayer in the state's public schools.

In Oregon, voters are being asked to approve a state constitutional amendment and a statute that together would re-establish the death penalty. In Maine, voters will decide whether to add an equal rights amendment for women to the state constitution.

In Utah, voters are being asked to approve an initiative that would severely restrict "adult programming" on cable television systems.

CIA Linked To Failed POW Mission

WASHINGTON — Evidence hidden under court seal in Hawaii indicates that Col. James "Bo" Gritz went on his unsuccessful mission to find American war prisoners in Laos last year with at least initial support from both the CIA and the Pentagon.

Gritz hinted at government support when he was freed from jail in Thailand last year, but it was never confirmed.

Hitherto undisclosed background on the Gritz foray into Laos is contained in an affidavit and accompanying exhibits in a federal fraud case against Ronald Ray Rewald in Honolulu.

Rewald claims the investment firm he headed was a CIA front. The documents have been sealed by order of the court, but my associates Dale Van Atta and lady Bushaw have seen copies.

Rewald stated that, as part of his job, he passed along "classified intelligence data" to the CIA's Honolulu station chief, and that, partly as a result, "the agency originally committed its support" to the secret Gritz mission.

Rewald said that while his investment firm "did supply a few thousand dollars to support the mission" at the CIA's behest, the agency was concerned that a military officer was drinking too much and "word was leaking out" about the hush-hush operation.

But Rewald says the CIA chief asked him to brief the FBI's Honolulu agent-in-charge about the Gritz mission.

The bombshell of Rewald's exhibit is a confidential letter to Gritz on official DIA stationery from the late Lt. Gen. Harold Aaron, when he was deputy director of the Defense Intelligence Agency. What the letter will do for Rewald's case is not clear, but it establishes a clear Pentagon link to the ill-fated Gritz expedition into Laos.

Gritz has stated that it was Aaron who convinced him he should retire from the Army in 1979 and put together rescue missions in Laos under cover of a civilian job with Hughes Aircraft. But in the letter, Aaron wrote that he had "mixed emotions about your hanging it up to pursue this PW-MIA matter but, frankly, I don't know any other way of getting to the bottom of it all."

The general's letter continued: "Bo, you have the experience and background to confirm this thing one way or another. Don't do anything to endanger your life or the lives of those we left behind. I am confident once you prove beyond a doubt that our men are still captive, the system will do the rest. Your task is not to be a one-man show, but to pull together evidence (to) convince political skeptics of PW existence."

While "it is too bad we have to proceed this way," Aaron wrote, he went on to assure Gritz: "Gen. (Eugene) Tighe (DIA chief) is well aware of the situation but his hands are tied. He is a true soldier in a blue suit."

Aaron repeatedly urged Gritz to be discreet.

"Keep your government contacts limited to those with an absolute need to know," he wrote. "The word spreads fast here in Washington...."

"Because of the politics involved, contact me only if you get in a spot with no way out. This thing is so sensitive it could result in a real inquisition if word leaked out that we were proceeding unofficially."

"This is a real hot potato, so watch your back trail carefully. We will arrange to meet as time and circumstances allow. Of course, if you uncover something critical, contact me immediately. Keep the press and government offices out of it."

The general concluded his letter: "Bo, destroy this and all other written communication between us."

Gritz confirmed the existence of such a letter from Aaron. He said he had never shown the confidential letter to anyone outside "channels," and has no idea how it was obtained by Rewald, whom he said he has never met.

Footnote: A Pentagon spokesman said the DIA conducted an investigation of the letter's authenticity. The results were inconclusive.

Castle's Racquet Came By Accident

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

When one finally gets into his chosen profession, it's not always by choice. Sometimes, accidents happen and one is trapped for life.

Larry Castle, whose accomplishments rank him with the elite tennis coaches of all time, is one of those accidents.

It was 1967. Larry Castle, just 24, fresh from taking his Louisville Thomas Jefferson High School basketball team to a second place state finish, needed a new challenge. He found one at East Tennessee State University.

Castle, who was recently inducted into the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame for his matchless record as Seminole Community College tennis coach, had never stepped onto a tennis court, much less coached a tennis team.

But East Tennessee State didn't just need an assistant tennis basketball coach, which he could fill very capably. It needed a tennis coach, which he wasn't sure he wanted to become. "Come on," urged the athletic director. "There's nothing to it. All we've got is 10 or 12 matches. Just get a hold of a van to haul them around."

In essence, ETSU didn't need a tennis coach, it needed a chauffeur for the tennis team. Castle, who didn't mind the extra income, shrugged and said why not. It was more than he bargained for. It was a decision that changed his life.

First came the embarrassment, then the anger, then the hard work, and then the success. "Since I was the new tennis coach, some of the university people invited me to play," remembers Castle. "So I put on my black high tops, some red shorts and a T-shirt. Heck, I didn't know any better. When I got to the court and saw how they were dressed, boy was I embarrassed."

For all the world, he looked like he was fresh from Grey Mare Branch, Kentucky. Which he was. "Yeah, but I only lived there about a year," he laughs. "Then I moved to the big city, Ashland, Kentucky."

Castle, 43, is very competitive and determined. The first-day embarrassment wasn't about to deter him. First, he got hooked on playing tennis, then on coaching it. "I just loved the game," he says. "I couldn't get enough of it. I made the good player on the team play against me. I just had to get better. I just hung around the good players and played and played."

And like a good coach — regardless of sport — Castle delved into the techniques of tennis. He studied and he played and he studied and he played.

And three years later, it was bye-bye basketball. "I just deecided that I wanted to get out of basketball and into tennis full time," Castle says. "I loved it that much."

Which was quite a decision, considering Castle was a graduate of Kentucky basketball. That's basketball on the same level as Indiana, Illinois and North Carolina — the eat, drink and sleep kind.

Castle did just that during his high school and college years. He did it very successfully, too. Ashland was a community of 45,000 on the Ohio River in the northeast corner of Kentucky. Basketball was big which made Larry Castle big, too.

Because he was good. Very good. During his career at Ashland, his team finished third one year and fourth the next in the state tournament. During his senior year, he averaged a sizzling 28.5 points per game.

"We were one of the few big schools in our area, so we played a lot of smaller schools" he says modestly. "We usually didn't lose until the state. We won the regional about every year."

Basketball, however, wasn't Castle's only sport. He was pitcher and infielder on the baseball team and a .600 hitter. "I used to get two or three hits a game," he says. "Back then, when you were the pitcher, you were the pitcher. I used to pitch a double-header, too."

Basketball, nevertheless, was his best sport and Louisville, Cincinnati and Western Kentucky were all interested. The same Cincinnati which would win two national championships in the next five years. Castle eventually decided on Western Kentucky.

It proved to be a good decision. He had four productive years on the hardwood and two on the baseball diamond. Castle made an immediate impact with the Hilltoppers' freshman cage team. He was Ohio Valley Conference Freshman of the Year in 1960. Although a scorer in high school, Castle moved to point guard in college. In 1961 and 1962, Western Kentucky competed in the NCAA tournament under the guidance of legendary coach Ed Diddle, who is third on the all-time wins list. Both years, the Hilltoppers lost to Ohio State in the Midwest Regional. That's Ohio State as in Jerry Lucas, John Havlichek and Bobby Knight.

"That was kind of strange," recalls Castle. "Bobby Knight is probably best known for his defensive teachings, but back then he sat the bench because he couldn't play defense."

After college, Castle found a teaching and coaching job at Louisville Thomas Jefferson High School. He put in two years as an assistant coach and was just getting his feet wet when the incredible happened.

The coach was fired. "It was really a pressure-cooker situation," remembers Castle. "I applied for the head job and I started looking for another one."

More incredibly, he was hired as head coach. "More than 150 coaches applied," says Castle. "But I got the job. It was a shock."

Thomas Jefferson was ranked 10th the year before. It had posted a 17-5 record and with most of the stars coming back, the townspeople and school officials had already booked their reservations at the state tournament.

"The principal told me, 'I don't know if this is a good idea giving you this job or not. It will probably make or break you as a coach,'" Castle recalls. "I knew if we didn't go to state, I'd only be head coach there one year."

Well, Castle and his boys made it to state — and more. They finished second and also beat the No. 1-ranked team in the preliminaries before losing in the title game, 63-58. "That was quite an experience," says Castle. "Four nights in a row we played before 17,000 people."

For his superb first year.

Tigers Take It All

DETROIT (UPI) — If they had to, the Detroit Tigers probably could come from behind. But we'll never know.

The Tigers seldom got into that position this season. Sunday, they used that formula to beat the San Diego Padres 9-4 and close out the World Series in five games.

They sprinted ahead and kicked up dust at the slightest sign of challenge. Secretariat would have trouble with this bunch, and he won the 1973 Belmont Stakes by 31 lengths.

"The Detroit Tigers have proved we are the World Champions from start to finish," said Kirk Gibson, who drove in five runs with two homers.

"After our 35-5 start everyone thought we would fold, but we didn't fall to the pressure. Everyone thought we would in the LCS, but we didn't. And they thought we would lose the World Series, but we won and we proved we weren't a luke."

The Padres, especially without injured center fielder Kevin McReynolds, played only well enough to give quite a bad name but San Diego manager Dick Williams praised his club and pronounced this season a good base for the future.

"No one expected us to be where we are," he said. "We got some great experience with some young people. We played hard all year. No one gave us a chance to win our division. No one gave us a chance in the LCS against the Cubs."

Gibson hit a two-run homer in the first inning, and added a three-run shot in the eighth. Along the way, the Tigers took advantage of every break they received and created some of their own.

Alan Trammell won the Series MVP on a knee that faces surgery and Sparky Anderson became the first manager to win a World Series title in both leagues.

"We had a lot of good publicity since the start," said Trammell, who hit .450 in the Series. "I think we would have gotten a lot of negative publicity if we would have played poorly in the middle of the season and, if we didn't win, we would have been labeled severe chokers."

The Tigers won their first nine games, 35 of their first 40, and won the AL East by 15 games. They swept the playoffs in three games. Most of the time, even their shadow wasn't close.

After the first week, the only time all year the Tigers were tied with anyone was after two games of the World Series. And they responded by winning three in a row.

It was the same way in Game 5. Every time San Diego had the audacity to make the game close, the Tigers took it personally.

Detroit grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first inning on Gibson's homer and an RBI single by Chet Lemon, chasing Mark Thurmond and leaving the Padres' starters with a 13.94 ERA for the Series.

Then the Padres capitalized on Dan Petry's second straight bad start, scoring once in the third on Steve Garvey's RBI single and twice in the fourth on Bobby Brown's sacrifice and Alan Wiggins' RBI single.

Gibson opened the fifth against Andy Hawkins with a single off third baseman Graig Nettles' glove and went to second on Parrish's flyball to deep left. After Herndon and Lemon walked to load the bases, pinch hitter Rusty Kuntz lifted a pop to right. Right fielder Tony Gwynn lost it, forcing second baseman Wiggins to make the catch at an angle that allowed him no shot at Gibson.

Thus the Tigers, who found 111 ways to win this season, clinched the title on a pop fly to short right.

"I'm numb," said Kuntz. "I didn't know if I was even going to make the team and look where I am now."

Parrish added a home run in the seventh for a 5-3 lead. Kurt Bevacqua pulled San Diego within 6-4 with an eighth-inning homer but Gibson provided the crushing three-run homer.

Willie Hernandez received a save in relief of winner Aurelio Lopez.

What A Race

5-Star Saves Best For Last

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Save your best for last. Seminole, Lake Mary, Lake Brantley and Apopka — take note. This may be the last year of competition for Five Star Conference football teams.

After the Florida High School Activities Association dissected the conference with its inane redistricting plan last week, the Seminoles, Rams, Patriots and Blue Darters may be taking their last Five Star hits at each other.

Seminole will be in AAAA-5. Lake Mary will be in AAAA-4. Lake Brantley and Apopka will be in AAAA-4. The new setup is set for two years. Meanwhile, this year's Five Star Conference and District AAAA-9 race is shaping up to be the best ever.

When Lake Howell surprised Lake Mary Friday night and Seminole, Lake Brantley and Apopka all won, it threw the race into a four-way logjam. All four have 3-1 conference record with four league games to play.

None of the three county coaches feels the schedule favors anybody. "All the teams are pretty even," said Brantley coach David Tullis. "We all have to play each other. The schedule doesn't favor anyone."

Although Tullis is probably right, two teams — Seminole and Lake Mary — can determine their destiny. Apopka and Lake Brantley must have help. Here's a look at how it stands:

● Seminole beat Apopka and lost to Mainland. Seminole has remaining conference games against DeLand, Lake Brantley, Lake Mary and Spruce Creek. Four wins give the Seminoles the district title.

● Lake Mary beat Lake Brantley and lost to Lake Howell. The Rams play Mainland, Apopka, Spruce Creek and Seminole. Four victories give them the district crown.

● Lake Brantley lost to Lake Mary. The Patriots play Apopka, Spruce Creek, Seminole and DeLand. They need to win the rest and hope Lake Mary loses another conference game.

● Apopka lost to Seminole. The Blue Darters play Lake Brantley, Lake Mary, Lyman and Lake Howell. They need to win the rest and hope Seminole loses another game.

If two teams tie for the conference and district title, the winner of the head-to-head battle will be the winner. If three or more teams tie, a playoff will be scheduled for Monday, Nov. 19.

Although Lake Mary lost Friday, Seminole coach Jerry Posey said it didn't effect his team's chances. "Basically, it hasn't changed for us," said Posey. "Lake Mary losing didn't mean a hill of beans. We still have to win all of our games."

Harry "The Ram" Nelson, Lake Mary's thoughtful mentor, was at his philosophical best after Friday's nightmarish loss to Lake Howell. "Sometimes you have to walk through the ashes before you make the mountain top," he said. "But nothing ever gets me down."

"I told the players after the game, 'Don't you ever forget this night. I want your broken hearts to stay broken. We'll just come back and work that much harder. We didn't want to back into this thing anyway.'"

Although the loss was definitely unsettling for the second-year Lake Mary coach, he said lethargic last week practices may have been an omen. "We were moping around all last week at practice," he said. "If anybody deserves to get kicked in the rear end, it's us."

What size, Lake Howell? 10-7.

Padres: Starters Never Started, Stopper Never Stopped

DETROIT (UPI) — Their starter never got started and their stopper didn't stop.

What can a manager do? Be thankful he got there. "We fought back all year, we played hard all year," Dick Williams said Sunday after the San Diego Padres fell 8-4 to the Detroit Tigers and lost the World Series in five games. "No one gave us a chance to win our division. No one gave us a chance in the League Championship Series against the Cubs. I'm proud. I thought we did quite well."

The Padres, who came from an 0-2 deficit in the National League playoffs to reach the Series, fell behind 3-0 when starter Mark Thurmond left in the first inning after throwing only 15 pitches — flye of which ended up as hits. They rallied to tie it 3-3, but that was their last moment of glory.

The Tigers went ahead in the fifth when Kirk Gibson tagged up on a short fly to right that second baseman Alan Wiggins was forced to play.

"He (right fielder Tony Gwynn) didn't see it so I had to catch it," said Wiggins. "I couldn't get into position from where I was. I was waiting for him to come in, but it was a tough sky and he lost it."

Gwynn said the cloud cover over Tiger Stadium made fly balls difficult to see.

"I lost it as soon as it went up," the NL batting champion said. "That's the worst feeling as an outfielder."

"I hate to have a World Series decided on a play like that, but that's what happened."

Williams brought Rich Gossage into the game in the seventh and Lance Parrish deposited Gossage's second pitch into the left-field seats.

Bucs Squander Chances, Tumble In OT To Detroit

MONTIAC Mich. (UPI) — Detroit Lions quarterback Gary Danielson could not think of an achievement that meant more to him.

He ran for one touchdown and passed for another Sunday to lead the Lions to a 13-7 overtime victory over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Danielson said his showing was the most memorable since he led his Michigan high school, Dearborn Divine Child, to an upset victory over perennial high school football power Birmingham Brother Rice.

He was coming off what he called the worst week in his nine-year National Football League career.

"This was personally a good game for me because I wanted to show everyone that I could play," Danielson said. "It's been a very traumatic week for me."

Danielson began the game on the bench after starting all six of the Lions' previous games.

The Lions were trailing 7-0 when Danielson entered the game early in the second period after Hipple, who had started every game for Detroit last season, left the game with strained ligaments in his right knee.

Hipple will be lost for three to four weeks, Clark said.

Danielson ran for a touchdown late in the first half and the Lions' defense took over until he found Leonard Thompson with a 37-yard touchdown pass with less than five minutes to play in the overtime period.

It was Detroit's defense that forced Tampa Bay's James Wilder to fumble twice, the second time in overtime after the Buccaneers won the toss and drove to the Lions' 39.

"When you fumble in overtime, you're in trouble," said Tampa Bay coach John McKay. "We had plenty of opportunities to win this game, we just didn't take advantage of them."

One opportunity came when kicker Obed Ariri missed a 42-yard field goal attempt as time elapsed in regulation. McKay declined to explain what went wrong on the field goal attempt, a line-drive kick that sailed wide left.

"I'm frustrated. The whole thing makes me mad," McKay said. "Go ask the kicker and the holder. They're the ones who were out on the field."

The winning touchdown came at the 4:34 mark in overtime and capped a 59-yard, four-play drive.

During the drive, Detroit's Billy Sims ran for 8 yards to give him 100 yards in 16 carries for the game. That gave him 5,003 career yards — just 11 yards behind the club's rushing mark held by Dexter Bussey.

The Buccaneers took a 7-0 lead late in the first quarter when Steve DeBerg fired a 25-yard scoring pass to Kevin House, who beat Lions defenders William Graham and Alvin Hall.

The drive covered 68 yards in 10 plays, but appeared stalled when the Bucs faced a third and 14 from their own 34. DeBerg then hit Steve Dell with an 18-yard pass down the middle the keep the drive going.

DeBerg hit 12 straight passes in one stretch to set a club record. The old mark was nine held by Doug Williams and Gary Huff.

Buc linebacker Jeff Davis moves in for the tackle.

MIAMI STAYS UNBEATEN

MIAMI (UPI) — The Miami Dolphins are now the only undefeated team in the NFL, they have a new record holder, and they may have found the running back Coach Don Shula has been seeking.

While Miami and Dan Marino shredded Houston's secondary for a 28-10 win Sunday, previously unbeaten San Francisco lost to Pittsburgh 20-17. That leaves the Dolphins alone atop the NFL at 7-0. Houston is 0-7.

Wide receiver Nat Moore and rookie running back Joe Carter had particularly good days Sunday. Moore caught a 32-yard pass for the 57th touchdown of his career and Carter scored his first.

Moore's touchdown tied him with Larry Csonka for the Dolphin record, and Carter's score came on a day when he became the first Miami rusher to top 100 yards since 1982.

"I was glad to see I tied the touchdown record," Moore said. "It was just a matter of breaking a tackle and carrying it on in."

"I'm coming to the end of my career," said the 11-year veteran who says this is his last season.

Theismann Throws 3 TDs, Riggins Reaches 10,000

United Press International

The statistics will point to Joe Theismann and John Riggins as the heroes of Washington's 34-14 rout of Dallas Sunday but as far as the Redskins are concerned, the real star was linebacker Monte Coleman.

Theismann passed for three touchdowns and Riggins became only the fifth NFL player to rush for 10,000 yards, but it was Coleman's 49-yard interception return for a touchdown that ignited the Redskins as they took sole possession of first place in the NFC East.

Tony Dorsett, who carried 18 times for 81 yards, sent Dallas to an early lead with a 29-yard TD run. Then Coleman struck, picking off Gary Hogeboom's pass to Ron Springs and returning it 49 yards to tie the game.

Steelers 20, 49ers 17

Mark Malone fired a 7-yard fourth quarter TD pass to John Stallworth and Gary Anderson added a 21-yard field goal to rally Pittsburgh over previously unbeaten San Francisco. Pittsburgh surged back from a 17-10 deficit late in the game. A pass interference penalty against the 49ers' Eric Wright set up the TD pass to Stallworth to tie the game and Bryan Hinkle's interception return to the San Francisco three set up Anderson's winning field goal.

Raiders 23, Vikings 20

Chris Bahr's 20-yard field goal at the final gun boosted the Raiders over Minnesota. The game-winning kick was Bahr's third of the game — he had hit from 22 and 24 yards. Marcus Allen scored on a short run to open the fourth quarter.

Seahawks 31, Bills 28

Steve Largent caught two TD passes from Dave Krieg, including a 51-yarder for the go-ahead score in the final period, to carry Seattle over winless Buffalo. Seattle opened a 17-0 first-quarter lead but trailed 28-24 in the last period after Buffalo's Joe Ferguson fired second-half TD passes of 50 yards to Byron Franklin and 3 yards to Preston Pearson.

Chiefs 31, Chargers 13

Bill Kenney came off the bench in the second half and passed for 238 yards and two TDs to carry Kansas City past San Diego. Kenney, back after breaking his thumb in pre-season, completed 13-of-22 passes, including TD throws of 18 yards to Stephone Paige and five yards to Ed Beckman. One of his passes was intercepted and

...Castle

Castle was named Louisville Coach of the Year and runnerup Kentucky Coach of the Year. During his Thomas Jefferson tenure, Castle also coached the first black player — Nathaniel Northington — to sign with the Southeastern Conference.

With his runnerup finish tucked safely away, Castle opted for college basketball. It was there he caught the tennis bug and also met a gentleman who would be very instrumental in his future years.

Joe Sterling, an original inductor of the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame two years ago, was then turning out powerhouse basketball teams for SCC. "I met coach Sterling through basketball recruiting," says Castle. "I remember telling him 'if you ever need a tennis coach, give me a call. Then out of the blue one day, a letter came from him. He offered me the tennis job at SCC."

Castle was elated. He'd always liked Florida. It was exactly where he and his wife, Lealie, wanted to go. When he arrived, though, it was a lot different than he had envisioned.

"I figured I'd get away from all the pressure of coaching," he says. "I was going down there as a teacher, then a coach. But when I got here, I was told that SCC had won the All-Sports title for 10 straight years and I wanted to keep it that way."

"Sterling's teams were always winning. Terry Long had a great track program and the baseball teams were good, too. I figured I better get to work. I didn't want to mess it up. Seminole probably had the best junior college sports program in the nation."

And it grew better with Castle. For eight years, his tennis teams strangled the opposition. His total record was 360-23. Against junior colleges, it was 170-4. Against four-year schools, it was 90-19. "Most of those losses came during the first four years," Castle says. "We didn't lose many the last few."

For eight straight years, Castle was Coach of the Year. His teams won three state titles ('81, '82, '83) and two national championships ('83, '83) before the sport was discontinued in '83.

The Castle legend grew far and wide. Players from several continents came to prosper at SCC. And it wasn't a country-club approach. Castle put his players through the paces. There was grueling workout after grueling workout. He took the great talent and conditioned it. He fine-tuned it. And when the J.C. careers were over, the four-year schools knocked down his door.

But it wasn't all gravy. During his first four years, his teams were a perennial bridesmaid. Four straight years, they finished runnersup in the state tournament. "I was beginning to think we'd ever win the state," he says. "The first year we had it locked up and then blew two matches to lose it. When we finally did win state, I never dreamed we'd win the nationals."

But SCC did. And for good measure, the Raiders repeated as champions during the program's final year.

Through it all, Castle remained modest. "I'm very religious," he says. "I give most of my credit to the Lord. I've had good players. We've worked hard and I've had a good wife (Lealie)."

"But this (Hall of Fame) is the biggest award I've ever received and I'm very happy about it. It's quite an honor to join those other people in the Hall of Fame."

Castle and his wife of 21 years, Lealie, live in Sanford. They have one daughter, Kelly, a sophomore at Seminole High School.

Castle joins Sterling, Montreal Expo Tim Raines and legendary baseball announcer Red Barber, all original members, along with former baseball great Buddy Lake and Seminole County's First Lady of Tennis, Emma Spencer. Lake and Spencer were inducted last year.

Castle, swimming great Mary Rose and coaching legend Leonard "Whitey" McClucas will be inducted on Jan. 19 at halftime of the SCC-Lake City basketball game.

Hepatitis: Sex, Kiss May Bring Liver Woe

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter's doctor told her that she has hepatitis. She also has yellow jaundice, itching and some red bumps on her scalp and body. Her doctor said she is not contagious. He said she got it from her fiancé through sex.

How long will the yellow jaundice last? How long will it take her to recover from hepatitis? How much damage is done to the liver? How contagious is it, and in what way? Her doctor has not given her any medicine. Should she be taking medicine? She has two little children. Will kissing them on the mouth transmit the disease?

DEAR READER — In recent years it has been recognized that hepatitis caused by viruses is more complex than had been thought. Type A (infectious hepatitis) is transmitted in food and drink and is really food poisoning caused by a virus rather than a bacteria. We used to call all other forms type B, or serum hepatitis. Today type B is primarily a sexually transmitted viral hepatitis. The virus is in saliva, semen and most body secretions. Medical and dental personnel tend to get this form because of their contact with body secretions.

We used to think that hepatitis from transfusions was type B, but today at least two other viruses, which are neither A nor B, are recognized as the main cause of transfusion hepatitis.

I have discussed the details of new concepts of hepatitis in a new issue of The Health Letter, Special Report 27, Common Liver Disorders.

Your daughter's jaundice is an indication of liver damage. As her liver recovers, her jaundice should disappear. However, complete liver recovery after jaundice may take six months. The virus can be transmitted in saliva, and close intimate contact on a frequent basis can transmit the disease.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently my doctor ran a complete blood test on me. Everything checked out fine, but he said I had Gilbert's syndrome, which has something to do with the liver and the blood. I was told it was nothing serious and that there was no treatment. Can you tell me anything more?

DEARER — Your blood color comes from hemoglobin in the red blood cells. This is an iron-containing pigment. As red blood cells are normally destroyed each day, this pigment is processed by the liver. The excess goes into the bile, but much of it is recycled. Gilbert's syndrome is a disorder involving the way in which the liver processes this pigment. It can result in a slight yellowing of the whites of the eyes. It is an inherited condition and involves up to 7 percent of the population. It is harmless.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Even when the declarer goes wrong, the defender still has to go right. But for the declarer, best of all is not to give the defense a chance.

South won the ace of diamonds and promptly led the 10 of spades for a finesse. East won the king and determined that the most promising source of defensive tricks was in the heart suit. If West had the king of hearts, it was immaterial which heart East returned. However, a specific play was needed when South had that king. East put the queen of hearts on the table. South played the king, which won the trick. But when West later won the club ace, a heart play through dummy's jack provided enough tricks to set the contract. Defender East should be congratulated for a thoughtful play, but declarer should be castigated for his haste to draw trumps when there were more important considerations.

South should play a club at the second trick. After the ace of clubs has been eliminated, declarer can attempt the spade finesse. Even though that loses, the defenders cannot take enough heart tricks to set the contract before declarer sheds one heart on dummy's good jack of clubs.

It is fine to draw trumps, but ask yourself first if there is something more pressing to be done.

Table with bridge hand information including North, West, East, South, and vulnerable dealer status.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY OCTOBER 16, 1984

This coming year you might resurrect an old enterprise which was never allowed to develop to its fullest potential. This time you'll give it room to grow.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Try not to tip your hand prematurely regarding your career goals today. Someone who'll be listening may be allied to your adversary. Major changes are in store for Libras in the coming year. Send for your year-ahead predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The only one who is apt to be impressed by your big schemes today will be yourself. Bear this in mind when addressing others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Financial matters must be handled with wisdom today or the large profit you anticipate might come from your own pocket.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today rely upon knowledge you've gained from experience rather than advice from a friend who has never had a similar problem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Hard feelings will result if you are too self-serving today and look out only for your own interests while ignoring the plight of another.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is not the day to hope that friends will bail you out of situations you've dug too deep for yourself. Fend for yourself.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Unless you put your full weight behind your more ambitious endeavors, you are apt to fall short of your mark today. Go all out. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not be pessimistic today but, by the same token, don't treat serious matters too lightly. Size up each situation separately.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Forego tendencies today to count your material blessings before they become reality. You can't bank funds you don't possess.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may be too easily swayed by the opinions of others today. Be sure the "know-it-alls" who bend your ear are dispensing worthy wares.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Problems will result today if you feel the services you render others are worthy of compensation but theirs should cost you nil.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you get involved in competitive social sports today, do your best but don't get upset with yourself or others if you fail to win.

Positive Attitude Gives Woman More Support Than Ex-Husband

DEAR ABBY: "Mad in Dallas" complained because the court increased her husband's child support payments from $270 a month to $330. She says her husband's ex-wife lives in a $100,000 condo, drives a Mercedes and shops at Neiman's, while she, her husband and small baby are pinching pennies in a cramped trailer.

"Mad" must have known her husband was obligated to pay child support before she married him, and she certainly knew about it before she decided to have a child.

Many of my friends either pay child support or receive it, and not one thinks the amount decided by the court is fair! (Myself included.)

Let's look at the other side: I am a single working mother who receives $150 per month in child support. I pay for child care in order to go to work at a job where the government takes one-third of my salary. Sometimes I don't get child support — my "ex," who lives out of state, owes me $1,000 in back payments.

Dear Abby

Abby, I thank God every day that I am alive, have a healthy daughter, a roof over my head, a car to drive, a job to go to, and food to eat (even if it's only beans and weiners). On my bathroom mirror I have written "COMPARED TO WHAT?"

I am grateful for what I have, instead of angry about what I don't have.

I would suggest that "Mad in Dallas" change her attitude because that's the only thing in her life she can control.

This may not help anyone else, but it makes it easier for me to sleep, and I'm the one I have to live with.

ONE DAY AT A TIME

DEAR ONE: Your positive attitude and the absence of bitterness and anger are commendable. Your letter may help child support victims who have been dealt a raw deal. Sometimes we have to be reminded of what we already know. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: If Jesus Christ was really the Immaculate Conception — born to the Virgin Mary — can you explain why this never happened to another human being anywhere in the world since Biblical times?

BIBLE STUDENT IN SAN JOSE

DEAR BIBLE STUDENT: The genetic rules that apply to mortals did not apply to the Christ child, who, according to the New Testament, was the son of God.

However, may I point out a common misconception (no pun intended): Jesus was not the Immaculate Conception — Mary was. Mary was born without the original sin on her soul because she was destined to be the mother of Christ.

You, like many others, are confusing the Immaculate Conception with the Virgin Birth. They are not one and the same.

tween delivering the U.S. mail and repairing automobiles at his own "body shop."

In a telephone interview he told me that he had a short temper and a long history of resorting to violence to settle all his arguments.

He also learned that he couldn't handle alcohol. His probation officer insisted that he join Alcoholics Anonymous. And when he quit drinking, he turned his life around.

Congratulations to "The Cambridge Bum," who is not a "bum" anymore; he's a solid citizen.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I want to start a family. Twelve years ago, when I was 17, I had an abortion in the early stages of pregnancy. There were no complications.

I do not want it on my medical record. My husband does not know about it, and if he found out, the consequences could be devastating.

Can my gynecologist tell if I've had an abortion?

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: No. If yours was a routine, complete abortion with no complications, there is no way a gynecologist can detect it.
