The guerrilla politics between Childers and Sen. Dempsey Barron, D-Panama City, erupted into a profane confrontation on the Senate floor Monday afternoon and Childers was forcibly pulled away from his former mentor by two Senate nilles.

It had been widely reported in recent days that Barron, a former Senate president who guided Childers Into the ob, was preparing to use a little-known rule permitting the Senste to dismiss its budget conferees in the final six days of conferees Childers appointed would effectively put Barron and his bipartisan coalition of conservatives in charge of the Senate during this closing week of the Speaker Ralph Haben said there simply is no way to provide adequate public school funding without a boost in required local dollars and that if the Senate won't go along, the Legislature might be in extended and special sessions all summer.

The Senate dipped into the $419 million working capital reserve fund for $154 million to help fund a $200 million package of special transportation projects, including interstate projects. Graham has threatened to veto most of this package.

Childers and Barron squared off at the rear of the Senate chamber when Childers suspected Barron was about to make a move to challenge his authority. Childers called a 30-minute recess and strode to where Barron and Senate Minority Leader Jim Scott, RFort Lauderdale, were talking.

Barron joked that his candidate for the Senate presidency - Sen. Curtis Peterson of Lakeland - should be allowed to preside while Childers was out of the chair.

"He said something obscene, but I swear I can't remember what it was,"

Barron said later.
Childern denied any rudeness to Barron, He and Senate Majority Lauder Pete Skinner, D-Lake City, said Barron told Childers, "I'm going to whip your ass and throw you out of the Senate right

Sen. Edgar Dunn, D-Daytona Beach, who with Skinner pulled Childers out of the angry confrontation, remembered Barron's words almost the same way, but said Barron used the word "beat" instead of "whip."

"He seemed to be pretty emotionally unset." Barron said of Childers.

Alleged Misconduct Brings Probe Of County Jail Guards

The internal affairs division of the Seminole County sheriff's department is conducting an investigation into alleged misconduct by officers at the county fail and at least one guard has been suspended.

Although the name of only one guard has surfaced so far, Sheriff John Polk said this morning "we're continuing our investigation and it involves other officers." He would not specify the number, nor the exact nature of the alleged misconduct.

Suspended with pay for 30 days is Cpl. Eliaha Smith, against whom an inmate filed a complaint with the county jail's administrator. Polk would not disclose the name of the inmate nor the specific nature of the complaint, pointing out "our investigation may show the allegations to be totally untrue, and I wouldn't want to damage the officer's reputation unnecessarily." He labeled the complaint "conduct unbecoming an officer." Polk said the suspension is for 30 days because he is confident the probe will be completed by then.

"And I had to suspend him with pay, because state law says if, after the investigation, I have to put the man back to work and give him back pay, the money can't come from public funds, so it probably would have to come out of my pocket,"

Cpl. Smith, according to Polk, joined the sheriff's department as a county jail guard in February, 1976 and lives in

County's New Assistant Administrator Begins Work

Herald Staff Writer

Implementing the county's new management plan and finding funding for transportation are the two major projects lifted from the wheelbarrow for Seminole's new Assistant County Administrator James C. "Jim" Easton to begin work on.

Easton, 38, now of Casselberry joined the courthouse staff Monday in the $12,000 per year position. He was chosen by County Administrator Roger Neiswender and a county staff commattee for the post, left vacant since the resignation of Jeff Etchberger, nearly seven months ago. A total of 183 persons applied for the job.

When county commissioners approved Easton's appointment three weeks ago today, Neiswender said a major qualification for the job was ability to lift the "wheelbarrow of project" accumulated since Etchberger left. "He should have my job within three years, if he does as well as I expect," Neiss ander eaid when he urged com-

"This man is armed and dangerous," Belgian police said Monday in an appeal for assistance in finding the killer who shot Naim Khader, 41, as he walked to his Brussela' office. "Everybody is requested to look out actively for him."

The Palestine Liberation Organization accused the Israeli secret uervice of the assassination. Israel said PLO factions kill each other and previous accusations against Israel had proved unfounded

The killer pumped six bullets into Khader in front of his suburban Ixelies house, hitting him five times in the head and once in the heart. The assassin shook off pursuers, throwing away an umbrells and a raincoat as he fled.

The PLO representative in Brussels had been largely credited with establishing recognition of Palestinian rights by Western European governments.

Khader, a Brussels University law graduate appointed head of the Brussels' PLO office when it was set up on 1976, was the seventh PLO representative abroad killed since

Irish Terrorist Set Bomb

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) - Terrorists detonated a powerful bomb as an armored police vehicle passed on a Londonderry road today, but all four officers aboard excaped death because the explosion was mistimed.

A police spokesman said one member of the patrol was wounded. But he was not hurt badly, sithough the blast destroyed the roof of a pub 300 feet away and knocked out windows in the Catholic Cregan Estate a quarter of a mile

"If the bomb had gone off as planned it would have destroyed the Land Rover and killed everyone in it," the spokesman said. "The slight error in timing by the bombers saved the lives of the four policemen."

Today's explosion occurred 80 miles from the Northern Ireland road where an IRA landmine killed five British soldiers on patrol two weeks ago.

Assassins' Leader Executed

DACCA, Bangiadesh (UPI) - Silent, barefoot mourners waited in a mile-long line to pay their last respects to slain President Rahman Ziaur today as the official radio reported the major general who led his assassins was executed by loyalist troops.

"Agitated soldlers shot Gen. Manzur (Ahmed) dead" as they escorted him and his family from the tiny hill village of Fatichari to the port city of Chittagong today, Bangladesh Radio said.

Manzur was captured at Fatichari, 40 miles southeast of Chitlagong, as he attempted to flee to India with his wife and three children. His capture came hours after his threeday rebellion collapsed Monday and the government put a $30,000 price on his head.

A sea of people began forming in Ducca immediately after the president's bullet-riddled body was placed on the steps of Parliament House Monday. The mourners' lines stretched for more than a mile through the dusty streets. The people of the poverty-stricken country filed past the president's flower-draped wooden coffin prior to its movement to a lake by the Parliament House for burial later today with full military honors.

"I heartily liked him," said Rashid Mollah, a tiny man who like the rest of the crowd walked bareloot with his sandals in his hands as a sign of respect. "All the people

Bani-Sadr May Face Trial

UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

A special franian commission has given the first hints Iran's moderate President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr may be ousted on charges of violating the constitution and defying Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's ban on political speech-

The special three-man panel investigating bitter feuding between moderates and fundamentalists recommended Monday that Bani-Sadr, 48, be tried, and said it would submit evidence against him to the public prosecutor.

The commission did not disclose the evidence against Bani-Sadr, but its investigation stemmed from a clash between the president's supporters and rival fundamentalists at a Tehran rally March 5. The fundamentalists charged Bani-Sadr instigated street violence against their colleagues.

The ruling was seen as a major victory for the hard-line fundamentalists who control parliament, but whose efforts to seize absolute control of the government have been blocked by Bani-Sadr's refusal to approve all of fundamentalist Prime Minister Mohammed Ali Raial's Cabinet nominees. Bant Sadr had no immediate comment.

Jury Is Being Selected For Murder-Rape Trial

Herald Staff Writer

The selection of a jury which will try accused murdererrapist Robert A. Preston Jr. continued today even though the question of whether certain damaging evidence will be used in the trial has yet to be decided.

Picking of a 12-member Seminole Circuit Court Jury was expected to be completed by early afternoon with opening arguments beginning shortly afterwards. Testimony in the nearly 31/2-year-old case could begin Wednesday morning. The trial is expected to last a week.

Preston, 24, of Apopha, is charged with murder, rape, robbery, and kidnapping, and could receive the death penalty if convicted.

The case began on Jan. 9, 1978 when Preston allegedly entered the Lil' Champ convenience atore at Spring Daks Boulevard and State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs, took $110 and some food stamps and kidnapped the 46-year-old clerk,

Her nude body was found in a field in Forest City the next day. The corpse had several broken ribs and had been stabbed and slashed repeatedly. Walker also had her throat slit and was sexually assaulted with a knife.

Preston is presently serving a six-year prison term for a 1978 conviction of throwing a beer bottle at an occupied car. Much of Monday's proceeding was taken up by a defense motion to suppress key evidence - a blood-stained jacket and some food stamps - seized by sheriff's deputies in the Preston family home at 3221 Walton Road two days after the murder. Preston's attorney, A.J. Kutsche, argued his client's mother Virginia had agreed to a search of the house, but only when she was present. However, deputies didn't wait and conducted their search while Mrs. Preston was still at work.

Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson said there were no such strings attached to Mrs. Preston's consent to a search of her home and the evidence should therefore be presented during the trial.

Judge Joseph Davis Jr. recessed the suppression hearing and began jury selection around I p.m. Monday without ruling on the defense motion. A decision was expected late this morning following the testimony of former prosecutor Joel Dick to whom Mrs. Preston reportedly gave permission for the treatment plant, has initiated condemnation proceedings on alightly more than five acres of land near the facility on U.S. Highway 17-92 near Lake Monroe. The property belongs to two out-of-s ate owners who earlier balked at the price the city was willing to pay.

In court papers filed last week, city officials said the expansion was "in the best interests of the residents of the city" and was being undertaken at the direction of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency so the plant can be used as a regional sewage facility for north Seminole County.

After making an appraisal, the city offered Leonard and Rosa Payton of Hellevue, Wash. $53,040 for their 3.04 acres along 17-92, but the offer was rejected as too small. Frank J. Forris Jr. of Stroudsburg, Pa. also turned down an offer of $24,630 for his nearby 2.12 acres.

Japanese Sensitivity

Not in more than 30 years perhaps has there been a greater strain on the generally close relationship between Japan and the United States, which relationship has been the underpinning of America's position in Asia and the far Pacific.

Japan's bruised feelings spring from a series of unfortunate episodes, none of which singly would be really serious but which collectively are shaking the government of Prime minister Zenki Suzuki and kicking up widespread anti-American

First, Japan reluctantly went along with voluntary" cuts in its soaring automobile exports to the United States. Then, there was a collision between a Japanese freighter and an American nuclear submarine, which failed to pick up sur rivors. Subsequently, Tokyo cancelled joint U.S.-Japanese naval maneuvers because American ships were accused of tearing up Japanese fishing nets. Then, what turned out to be a surprisingly constructive summit in Washington was all but undone because a White House communique signed by President Reagan and Prime Minister Suzuki referred to the Japanese-American 'alliance." In the ensuing storm over what Japanese public opinion perceived to be a new and dangerous military relationship, Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ito resigned.

But all of these cumulative problems paled for the stunned Suzuki government when a former U.S. ambassador to Japan, Edwin O. Reischauer, casually disclosed at Harvard that, through a secret U.S.-Japanese understanding, American ships carrying nuclear weapons have been entering Japanese ports since the 1960s and still are.

Because lingering horror over the atomic destruction of Hiroshima and Nagasaki has left the Japanese with a national psychosis about anything nuclear, the Reischauer disclosure generated a convulsive public reaction that the rest of the world can scarcely imagine. Actually, most informed Japanese in and out of government during these years have blinked at the reality of U.S. ships and planes entering Japanese sea and air space presumably with nuclear weapons.

The pragmatic, non-nuclear illusion was sustained nationally because the Japanese were well aware that their peace and prosperity were being achieved under a U.S. nuclear umbrella. len exposure of official deception has given Japana bad "nuclear-allergy" rash that is only now beginning to subside.

For Japan, the key concept in the past and perhaps in the future as well is the prohibition against the 'introduction' of nuclear weapons, which is understood to mean that such arms would not be placed or stored on Japanese soil. This principle, insofar as is known, has always been upheld, Indeed, the future prohibition against introducing nuclear weapons - save in necessary transit - offers a face-saving way out for American and Japanese policy-makers. Such a practical arrangement is necessary unless Japan is prepared to forfeit American protection, which no realist for a moment believes to be the case.

The end result of all this appears to be that the United States and Japan need each other too much to allow lasting damage to their defensive alliance. Reischauer's ill-considered revelation may prove helpful after all by bringing the nuclear skeleton out of the closet and ending 21 years of deception. Meanwhile, greater maturity and enlarged defense responsibilities required of Japan by increasing Soviet threats to international peace also summon the United States to greater patience and sensitivity.

Female Sterilization Technique

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) - Nine physicians across the country are testing a revolutionary new female sterilization technique that, for the first time, does not require surgery

Invented by Richard Erb, senior research scientist at the Franklin Institute Research Center of Philadelphia, the technique uses liquid silicon to form a plug at the base of the fallopian tubes.

John Schorsch, director of RSF Laboratories in Stamford, Conn., which is associated with the procedure, stressed that it remains in the testing stage and is only available to volunteers at seven locations in the United States. The Federal Drug Administration is monitoring the clinical tests and is expected to decide whether to approve it within two years, he said.

"The technique involves placing a liquid stlicon material into the fallopian tube, which becomes a rubbery solid in three or four minutes," said Erb. "A plug is formed in place which is bonded to a little rubber tip in the uterine cavity. You have a custom-formed ovary plus.'

He explained the technique is referred to as sterilization, rather than contraception, because no proven method of reversibility has been found.

"I've been working on it for 11 years," said Erb. "Conceptually, it is simple, but it was necessary to design all the instrumentation and components for the device."

The silicon method differs from common forms of sterilization in that it involves no incialon or surgery and can be done in a physician's office with a local anesthesia.

Clinical tests began in 1978 and will continue until 1963 with women volunteers who "have accepted it as permanent sterilization," said Erb. "We don't have enough information yet to consider that it is reversible. That will take subsequent volunteer tests on the women and we won't know for several years."

Some work has been done with rhesus monkeys and rabbits on reversal of the silicon sterilization procedure, said Erb. Of eight rabbits that underwent the procedure and then had the plug removed, two became pregnant on first mating, said Erb.

In the tests done so far, doctors have found 1 or 2 percent of the women suffer side effects of pelvic pain, said Erb. In those cases, the phig was easily removed with a retrievable loop on the soft silicon rubber tip.

"There have been no pregnancies if the plug has been properly formed," said Erb. 'In the earliest tests, we had two pregnancies with improperly formed plugs through loss of pressure on the silicon while it is forming. Now we maintain pressure until it jells to insure the fallopian tubes stay in the full open

The physicians who are conducting the clinical tests of the silicon sterilization are Dr. Theodore Reed of Lankenau Hospital, Philadelphia; Drs. Michael Baggish and Augusto Chong of Mt. Sinai Hospital, Hartford, Conn.; Dr. Herbert Harris of Long Island Medical College, Brooklyn; Dr. John Marlowe of Washington, D.C.; Drs. Con Con Edging Closer

WASHINGTON (NEA) - A convention called by the states to amend the U.S. Constitution is becoming a very real possibility for the first time since the founding fathers wrote the original document nearly two centuries ago. The purpose of this convention would be to require that the federal budget be balanced every year.

The Constitution says that a convention must be called if Congress is petitioned by the legislatures of two-thirds of the states - that is, 34 states. An amendment produced by the convention would then have to be ratified by three-fourths of the states - 38 states before becoming part of the Constitution.

Most constitutional scholars say that the agenda of such a conventional would be strictly limited to the subject of the convention call. For example, an anti-abortion amendment could not come out of a convention called to debate a budget-balancing

So far, 30 state legislatures have requested a constitutional convention on a balanced budget. The issue has dropped from sight in recent months because no state has added its name to that list since 1979. But it now appears that the four remaining states may fall into line as early as next spring.

The 31st state may well be Alaska, where the convention call has already been approved by committees in both houses of the state legislature. Votes are expected on the floors of both chambers before they recess this month. Convention proponents are waging a massive publicity campaign to pressure the lawmakers into issuing the call.

Earlier this year, convention calls were approved by both legislative houses in Missouri and Washington. Only last-minute procedural moves prevented the measures from gaining final passage. Backers of the convention predict that both states will issue the calls when their legislatures next meet.

In three other states - Rhode Island, Ohio and West Virginia - the convention call has passed one house of the state legislature. Proponents say that one of the three will that is not going to go away.

approve the call by next spring, thus providing the required 34 states.

Most of the calls - which are being pushed by the National Taxpayers Union and other organizations — are worded so as to give Congress a chance to act on the subject before the convention. Congress would have two years from the time that the 34th state issued a convention call to pass and submit to the states for ratification its own budgetbalancing amendment.

Congress is already moving in that direction. The Senate Judiciary Committee, which blocked a budget-balancing amendment when controlled by the Democrats. recently approved and sent to the Senate floor an amendment requiring Congress to limit federal spending to federal income except during a war or a national emergency or when three-fifths of the House and the senate vote for a deficit.

A similar amendment has long been pending in the House. But the opposition of the Democratic leadership makes it unlikely to be approved unless the Republicans take control of the House or the issue is forced by a convention call from 34 states.

Even if the required 34 are heard from by next year, say opponents of the amendment, It may be a long time before the convention call is validated. The courts will almost certainly be called upon to decide whether the call is valid even though the state petitions are not worded identically.

And because such a convention would be unprecendented, no one is quite sure of the procedures to be followed. Congress would have to pass a joint resolution calling the convention after the required 34 state petitions were received and validated. Whatever procedures Congress decided upon would also be subject to court tests.

So, while a constitutional convention and a balance-the-budget amendment are not right around the corner, there is substantial movement in that direction. This is an issue

Terrorism: The War Continues

It was an exceptionally bad week for the terrorist business.

First, Spanish police put a quick end to the seizure of a hostage-filled bank that may or may not have been a part of the semiorganized right-wing opposition to Spain's uncertain young democracy that surfaced most ominously last February in the abortive attempt by military units to take over the parliament.

Then, the hijacking of a Turkish airliner came to an ignominious - for the hijackers end in Bulgaria. In this case the terrorists were of the leftist persuasion and they were done in not by the intervention of an outside force but by one on the plane itself - the crew and passengers, some of whom jumped the gunmen.

There is much to welcome in the two events. There were injuries in the aborted hijacking. but no deaths. And they demonstrated that the victimized many are capable of responding effectively to the excesses of the violent few.

The Spanish incident at the moment appears to be the most significant in a political sense. Barcelona's bizarre "dog day" experience was billed as an effort to free officers arrested following the attempted

February coup. There were some tense hours when it was uncertain how energetically the conservativeminded leadership of Spain's security forces would respond to a blow against the democratic law and order ostensibly struck in behalf of some their own number. It had the makings of an agonizing dilemma But they did act, energetically and effectively, although with public expressions of relief when it became apparent that none of the gunmen were themselves affiliated with the security establishment. In the moment of truth, the officers opted to back a government that is legitimate but not to their liking. As a result, Spanish democracy appears a bit more secure - for the time being.

The implications of the hijacking are less weighty, although not necessarily to the Turks, who are still reacting defensively to the shooting of Pope John Paul by a Turkish national. They took a counter-offensively tough stand with every indication they meant what they said about being prepared to see plane and passengers destroyed rather than give in to the hijackers' demands. They were prompt in the aftermath in expressing up the handling of the incident as an example to the world on confronting terror "decisively."

The message to West Germany and other West European nations is clear. They are currently on Turkey's list for failing, in Ankara's view, to give their best to the cooperative effort of tracking down the pope's assailant and other expatriate Turkish extremists.

There was also a message to use policymakers in the U.S. State Department one that the most zealous would probably rather not read. The two incidents do not do much to bolster their thesis that terrorism on a worldwide scale is a Communist plot masterminded by the Soviets.

The Turkish hijacking did have its leftist connection, but it appears to be rooted in Turkey's own murderously fragmented political and social structure.

Pressure Swayed White House Vote

and abortion, the marketing of infant formula has become an emotional issue characterized by rhetorical excesses on both sides. Inevitably, the facts surrounding the controversy have become hopelessly obscured.

But confidential memos and State Department cables help to unravel the story of how the United States came to be the only nation to vote against the World Herlth Organization's code. The nearly unanimous vote puts most nations on record against the aggressive marketing of baby formula in backward countries, where its mixture with impure water can be dangerous.

In late April, Elliott Abrams, the assistant secretary of state for international organizations, was dispatched to Geneva to persuade Halfdan Mahler, director general of the health organization, to accept two concessions: The infant formula code would be defined as strictly voluntary, and it would be made clear that it applied only to formula, not other baby food.

Abrams had been told by Deputy Secretary of State William Clark, who was acting secretary in Alexander Halg's absence, that if these two concessions were granted, the United States would abstain instead of voting against the code.

According to State Department cables seen by my associate Vicki Warren, the Abrams-Mahler meetings went well. "Mahler was visibly relieved to learn that the U.S. now is in a position to avoid voting against the code," Abrams cabled Washington. "We are confident that we will have his cooperation in creating the conditions necessary to enable the U.S. to abstain."

But there was a hitch. Clark had not cleared the U.S. position with presidential counselor Ed Meese. For some reason, Clark didn't want to report the State Department negotiations by telephone. At the bottom of a confidential memo, he wrote: "Please send a copy of this memo to EM and R(ichard) Allen," the president's national security

On May 1, Meese, Allen and two other members of Reagan's inner circle, Lyn Nofziger and Martin Anderson, sat down to discuss the developments in Geneva. Poggy Bottom officials learned from a National Security Council staffer that the four White House aides "have met and concluded that the U.S. should cast a negative vote on the WHO infant formula code" and that they "are not prepared to abstain even if the two conditions are met."

What had happened was that American formula makers like Bristol-Myers, Abbott Laboratories and American Home Products Corp. had lobbled the administration against the code. They were joined by the Grocery Manufacturers of America, which feared the code might be applied to other baby food despite assurances to the contrary,

The pressure from the companies apparently swayed the White House, U.S. officials in Geneva were put on hold.

Lengthy memos went from Foggy Bottom to the White House, warning of the diplomatic black eye the United States would get by voting against the code. Health professionals, members of Congress and several high-level government officials added their pleas against a negative vote...

But the administration evidently bought the arguments put forth by business lobbyists. Essentially, these were (1) that the code's adoption would give ammunition to critics of Big Business, where as a U.S. rejection would discredit the code, (2) that adoption would set a precedent which might lead to action in other fields like pharmaceuticals, and (3) that the infant formula industry represented a $2 billion international market that was

The White House also found legal and constitutional arguments, even though the Justice Department's antitrust division at one time saw no objection to a voluntary code.

And when the United States wound up alone in its vote against the code, a White House spokesman insisted: "We did gain by voting 'No.' We gained what you get for standing for

Martin, Templeton Mad, Valentine Almost Happy

NEW YORK (UPI) - Billy Martin and the umpires are angry with the American League amd Garry Templeton also is mad about something. So, it's nice to be able to report Ellis Valentine at least is happy - up to a

Martin is upset over the seven-day suspension and $1,000 fine he was slapped with by American League President Lee MacPhail for bumping umpire Terry Conney in Toronto Friday night during the A'sBlue

He feels the punishment is too stiff and he's going to appeal. The umpires, on the other hand, through Richie Phillips, the executive director of their association, don't think the penalty is harsh enough and they're considering either a civil suit or a criminal complaint against Martin.

Personally, I think they'll get about sa far with that as Templeton will with his complaint over being unable to play in his own backyard. The St. Louis Cardinals' shortstop doesn't like the idea his work keeps his a so far away from his home in Santa Ana, Calif.

He would even prefer being with a lastplace club like the San Diego Pad es rather than be so far away.

Which brings us to Ellis Valenti: e, who also went from contender to tail-ender during the weekend when the Montreal Expos dealt him to the New York Mets.

Valentine says he's glad to be with the Mets, but also says he still is less than enchanted with his treatment by the Expos. They didn't appreciate him, he claims. They wanted him to play when he was hurt and made fun of him when he didn't. The Expos' players liked him personally but said he coddled himself too much and spent almost as much time on the disabled list as he did on the

A lifetime .290 hitter and owner of one of the best arms in baseball, the 6-foot-4, 218-pound outfielder was on the disabled list with a pulled hamstring when the Mets gave up reliever Jeff Reardon and minor league outfielder Dan Norman for him last Friday. He's due off this coming Friday.

"I think Ellis Valentine is the most talented ballplayer in the National League," says Mets' catcher Juhn Stearns.

Billy Williams, who played 16 years for the Chicago Cubs and now is a batting instructor and a full-time coach with them, thinks along the lines of many of Valentine's former teammates with Montreal. Williams holds the National League record for playing in 1.117 games and believes there are times when a player has to keep playing when he's

"In my opinion," he says, "Valentine is one of the most complete players in the league. "To me, it seems he has been on the disabled list the last two years almost as much as he has played," Williams goes on, "If I had any advice to give him, it would be that he has to learn how to play when he isn't 100 per cent healthy. I'm not saying he should try to play with a broken arm or anything like that, but I know that when I had my hitting stroke going good for me, I often played with

Valentine, 26, bats right-handed and although he's down to .211 at the moment, having played in only 22 of the Expos' 45 contests, he has shown he can hit both lefthanders and right-handers, when he plays.

"There was a time when the Expos had Valentine, Andre Dawson and Warren Cromartie in the outfield, I thought they had the best outfield in the league," Williams says. "Valentine could help the Mets a lot," His ex-Montreal teammates will believe that when they see it. They used to amuse themselves by getting up a pool as to when he would go on the disabled list again. Valentine found out about it and wasn't amused a bit.

Brett Keeps Cool Waiting For Hot Spell

GEORGE BRETT ...45 minute pep talk

DAN FORD · · solo homer

By United Press International Keeping cool is the only way to get hot.

Defending AL batting champion George Brett found himself losing his composure at the plate in Bloomington, Minn., against the Minnesota Twins and was called in for a chat by manager Jim Frey Saturday morning.

The two talked for 45 minutes and it helped Brett settle down.

The All-Star third baseman was back in the groove Monday night, as he drove in two runs with a single and a triple in helping the Kansas City Royals defeat the Scattle Mariners, 3-

"I can't say what he (Frey) said," Brett said. "But he wasn't too happy with me. I don't know if I was feeling sorry for myself or what but I know I was reaching the point of no

"So I decided to go up there and start to enjoy myself again ... I felt really good tonight. I hope this is a start."

Frey's advice was simple. He told Brett to just be nimself. "I don't want to make a big deal about it," said Frey of the meeting with Brett. "It was something I felt I had to do. Sometimes guys of the George Brett caliber try to carry the whole load. They can't do it. No one can. So I say, 'Just be natural. Be yourself. It'll be good enough."

Brett's eighth-inning single off loser Larry Andersen, 1-3, knocked in the winning run and gave the Royals their fifth triumph in their last six games.

Yankees 5, Indiana 1 Dave Winfield and Bucky Dent belted solo homers to highlight a 14-hit attack that sparked New York. Doug Bird, who has not lost a game since Aug. 16, 1978, went five innings to notch his 11th straight victory and fourth of this season.

Tigers 4. Brewers 2 Pinch-runner Mick Kelleher scored from third base on Lynn Jones' ground single up the middle — his fourth hit of the game - with one out in the 12th inning to give the Tigers a triumph.

Angels 1, Blue Jays 0 Ken Forsch fired a three hitter and Butch Hobson and Dan Ford belted solo home runs to spark California. Forsch, 7-3, posted his sixth complete game and third shutout.

Templeton Desires To Move Out West

By United Press International

One day after St. Louis shortstop Garry Templeton voiced his desire to be dealt to a West Coast team, he went 3-for-4 and drove in two runs to spark the Cardinals to a 42 triumph over

"I ain't got nothing to say fellas, sorry," Templeton told reporters after Monday night's victory in Busch Stadlum. "Find someone else to talk to."

But Sunday, after he had been dropped down in the Cards' batting order, he had plenty to say, telling the media he wanted to play on a team closer to his California home. He even tried to help St. Louis Manager and General Manager Whitey Herzog figure out a deal with San Diego.

Before the game against the Expos, however, Templeton released a statement that said his words had been distorted. "The trouble with the press is that if you don't talk to them, they get on your case - and if you do talk to them, you are either misquoted, or misunderstood, or exaggerated," he said. Rookie John Martin, 2-1, and Bruce Sutter, who notched his ninth save, combined on a fivehitter as St. Louis moved past Montreal into second place in the Eastern Division behind Herzog said it'll be a cold summer day in St. Louis before he even thinks about trading his 307 lifetime hitter.

"He can say what he wants to say," Herzog said. "The only thing I'll say is I'm not going to trade him" Phillies 3, Mets 4

Pinch-hitter George Vukovich's eighth-inning infield single scored Greg Gross from third with two out to rally the Phillies. Reliever Sparky Lyle, 4-1, picked up the win and Tug McGraw pitched the ninth for his fifth save.

Dodgers 5, Braves 2 Fernando Valenzuela pitched a seven-hitter and struck out 11 to become the major leagues' first nine-game winner. In snapping a personal two-game losing streak, Valenzuela took over the major-league lead in strikeouts with 90 and in innings nitched with 90.

Reds S. Glants S. Ray Knight's one-out, bases-loaded single in the ni.ith snapped a 5-a tie and Dan Driessen capped the four-run outburst with a two-run double to rally the Reds. Darrell Evans cracked a two-run homer for the Gianta.

NEW YORK (UPI) - The long anticipated appointment of Herb Brooks as head couch of the New York Hangers was to be made official today.

Brooks, who guided the 1960 U.S. Olympic hockey team to a stunning gold-medal victory at Lake Placid, N.Y., has reached agreement with the Rangers on a two-year contract worth $125,000 per season, a source close to the negotiations confit-

Headhunters Are After Top Execs

BURBANK, Calif. (UPI) -Many corporate presidents think money alone will protect their companies from raids by executive recruiters, but they haven't considered the importance of "psychic currency," an executive searcher says.

'Show me an executive whose reponsibilities are markedly below his or her skill levels, and I'll show you an individual about to be lured away," Joseph E. Fowler told Fowler, who founded the firm bearing his name in 1953 as one of the pioneer executive search organizations on the West Coast, said recognition is important.

"A company that wants to retain its executive team recognizes it owes its employees three things: the chance to use previously developed talents, the opportunity to broaden those talents and recognition in a variety of ways for his or her contributions to the success of the company," he said.

"Recognition can take the form of favored parking spaces, personal prerogatives, financial counseling and other psychic currency as well as monetary rewards."

Executive search organizations find out for themselves which companies are short on psychic compensation and make those corporations their "happy hunting grounds" for recruitment of superior people to fill job assignments

Hurricane Season:

Being Prepared Is Your Best Defense

Last Of Two Parts

The Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season opens this week, and Seminole County is prepared to handle emergencies arising from before the storm strikes.

beginning with keeping a watch on potential storms.

If the area receives an actual burricane warning here's what county experts advise:

Plan your time before the storm arrives and avoid the last minute hurry which might leave you marooned or unprepared.

Leave low-lying areas that may be swept by high tides or storm waves. If you have a hoat, moor it securely before the storm arrives or area. When your boat is moored, leave it, and don't return once the wind and waves are up. Board-up windows or protect them to small windows is mainly from wind driven debris. Larger windows until the storm is over. may be broken by wind pressure.

Store drinking water in clean The county's civil defense division bathtubs, jubs, bottles, and cooking has complex plans to handle as utensitien; your town's water supply aspects of a hurricane emergency may be contaminated by flooding or damaged by the hurricare.

Check your battery powered equipment. Your radio may be your only link with the world outside the burricane. Emergency cooking facilities, lights, and flashlights will be essential if utilities are interrupted.

Mobile homes are extremely susceptible to high winds. If you live in one, leave it for more substantial shelter.

Keep your car fueled. Service evacuate it to a designated safe stations may be inoperable for several days after the storm strikes, due to flooding or interrupted electrical power.

Stay at home, if it is sturdy and on with storm shutters or tape. Danger high ground. If it is not, move to a designated shelter, and stay there

Have medical supplies such as bandages, gauze, and compresses available. Remember, there may be an interruption in emergency services either by inoperable telephone lines or impassable roads. You are most likely to incur injury from flying debris rather than the wind or rain itself.

If possible, obtain scraps of wood or sections of plywood suitable for boarding up windows. As en alternate, cardboard boxes may be effective when cut up and packed against window openings and held in place by 2 x 3s. Have a supply of nails and a hammer. It is also a good idea to have pliers, screw drivers, s saw or ane etc. available for removing tree branches etc. after the storm has ended and the cleanup process begins.

Take an inventory of perishable goods. If you have a large frener, dry ice, if available, can be effective in prolonging frozen foods. Try to organize and plan meals so that refrigerators and freezers are only opened when absolutely necessary and as infrequently as possible.

Do not, if at all avoidable, attempt to go outside thuring the storm. Particularly, you should not attempt to climb the roof to remove tree branches or limbs. Remember, you may be able to fight the wind and rain but you are no match for flying debris such as branches, aluminum patio roofs, etc. These are the items that cause serious and fatal injuries.

Avoid going out or attempting to go out in your automobile im-mediately following the storm. Roadways will, in many cases, be impassable due to fallen trees and flooding. Remember, a stalled vehicle will impede the passage of emergency units. It is the 12 to 24 hours following a storm that are critical to emergency crews in restoring power, telephone lines,

Keep in mind that the emergencies and injuries created as a result of the storm will be in addition to the normal fires, electrical short circults', hazardous conditions, automobile accidents, and heart attacks experienced during normal times.

In the event of Interruption of telephone service, it may be difficult to obtain needed emergency services. Contact may have to be person to person by either flagging down an emergency relicle or physically going to your nearest police or fire station. As previously mendoned, you should only attempt this in extreme situations

Beware of the eye of the hurricane. Do not be fooled by a full in the wind since high winds may return from the opposite direction.

IN BRIEF

'Just Like Every Other Little Girl Growing Up'

Unked Press International

NEW HAMPSHIRE FIRST: It may not be a major milestone in civil rights progress, but for Natalle Oliver it's significant. She's the first black woman in the 34-year history of the annual Miss New Hampshire acholarship pageant to win the state competition, Miss Oliver, 21, of Manchester, received a $2,500 scholarship as the overall winner of the Miss New Hampshire Pageant and another $150 award for winning a talent competition. "Winning was the realization of a dream," Miss Oliver said. "Just like every other little girl growing up, I always wanted to be a Miss America and now by gum" Miss Oliver will be Miss New Hampshire in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, N.J., in September.

Stars Open 'Animal Gallery'

WILDLIFE GALA: Lawell Nesbitt is best known for his paintings of flowers, but now he's getting into the world of lions and tigers and bears. An exhibit of his paintings, "Animal Garden," opens Thursday at New York's Andrew Crispo Gallery with a $25-per-person party to benefit the World Wildlife Fund-US. The head of the International World Wildlife Fund won't be on hand - he's Prince Philip of Britain. But the local affair still will glitter with the presence of Rock Hudson, Polly Bergen, Jean Kennedy Smith, Dr. Lee Saik and Dena Kaye (Danny's daughter).

How To Embarrass Newman

QUOTE OF THE DAY: Paul Newman told talk-show host Mike Douglas the dangers of automobile racing are overdramatized and said: "I had an unfortunate turn when I was racing last year. My car turned over and everybody was wringing their hands. It really embarrassed me. Every time you turn on the television you see race car drivers hitting walls at 140, 160 or 180 miles per hour. The sportswriters don't pay that much attention to it but the people in the entertainment industry who write about things like that wring their hands like a bunch of old ladles. I wish they'd stop it. It simply embarrasses me."

Lena Horne Show Extended

GLIMPSES: Lenn Horne's one-woman Broadway show, "Lena Home: The Lady and Her Musici", which was supposed to close July 12, has been extended through Sept. 3 ... Bob Hope and Princess Grace of Monaco will be among the guests at the Diamond Jubilee for the Overlook Hospital Foundation at Birchwood Manor, Whippany, N.J. Hope had bowed out of a scheduled benefit for the hospital in 1977 because of the sudden death of Bing Crosby and promised to return at the next opportunity ... Bob Barker and Elke Sommer, with special guest Peter Allen, will emcee the 1961 Miss Universe Beauty Pageant, to be held for the first time in New York City

Husband For Sale Or Trade

A housewife in Great Falls, Mont., weary of her husband's hunting and fishing trips, took out a newspaper ad offering her mate for sale.

The unidentified woman also said she would consider a trade. Her ad said the outdoorsman "comes complete with hunting and fishing equipment, several trophies, 1 pr. jeans, 2 shirts, 1 yellow Labrador retriever, 200 lbs.

She described her man as a "pretty good guy, but not home much from Sept. to Jan."

Practice Got His Goat

LaPorte, Ind., Mayor A.J. Rumely lost the milking contest but he's not going to let it get his goat. "I didn't have any time to practice like Cliff," Rumely said, after losing a gost-milking contest Sunday to Mayor Clifford Arnold of Michigan City. "Next year, I'll bring my own goat."

There Is Something Special About A Chicago Irishman

UPI Senior Editor

CHICAGO (UPI) - There is something special about a Chicago Irishman. If you deny it, you had best be ready for Yet Chicago is, to a great degree, losing its Irishness. And the Chicago Irlah still rankle under a sense of persecution and prejudice.

For airmost 50 years, barring a twoyear Croatian hiatus, Chicago has had an Irish mayor, as it has now.

For more than a century, Irish priests have dominated the Chicago Roman Catholic archdiocese, the nation's largest and the most powerful single religious and sometimes civic - force in the city.

The machinery of city government, law enforcement, fire protection and some of the top levels of business are all laced with Chicago Irish.

New York and Boston - two other great Irish cities - can hardly boast as much for so long.

But the Chicago Irish are drifting to the suburba, leaving their neighborhoods, their parishes. They are dwindling from the Catholic church, preferring to meld into the WASP society, their Irishness shrouded.

City Hall is infiltrated with Poles, Italians, Jews, Germans and even English Anglo-Saxons. The police chief is a Pole. It might seem the decline of the last fortress of the American Irish. You had better not bet the rent money

Judge Richard LeFevour, president of the Irish Felowhip Club, puzzled over the sides, you really can't call them Irish more annual income than Irishmen neigh borhoods," he said. 'The old parish that's things of the past.

"But they're still Irish They're not toge ther. They fight each other. They call thermselves by different names. They're either Irish or American or American Irish. If you're American Irish, you're sort of lower caste here.

"During the time of the oppression, and what they call the concentration camps, which they probably are, I went to a fund raising hanquet at the Holiday inn ballroom on Foster. We went in to raise some dough for the families of the rebels being held in Northern Ireland.

"I think they raised 200 backs. I think if you had Jewish people to do something like that, they'd have walked out with $200,000. They were fighting there that night at the bar. That was the highlight of the evening."

Despite their tendency to take a swipe at each other, LeFevour and others agree, there is a quality of Irishness in Chicago which will keep them together. Its origins are in a history of oppression and prejudice. That brought thern together and keeps them there.

The second aspect is the matter of how, when and why the Irish came to Chicago. Chicago Irish hold the fond belief that only the best of their breed made it this

Andrew M. Greeley is a master of statistical surveys, a professor, a newspaper columnut, a priest, and a proud West Side Chicago Irishman. "We are different," he said. "We are more affluent and wa're better educated and we've advanced further." 'The southwest and the northwest Chicago Irish, he said, average $1,800 elswhere and about two more years of education.

'We're different from New York and Boston Irish because, perhaps, we didn't encounter the same wall of opposition the others met," he said. "We were able to

Monsignor Ignatius McDermott is a South Side Irishman (these distinctions are important in Chicago) and member of an illustrious political family. He tends to meak in poetic, almost liturgical phrases, but he has positive ideas on why the Chicago Irish are different from any body

"I suppose relative strength doesn't come without unity and I would say there isn't any universal unity in my books unless a nation is faced with annthilation," he said.

The Irish fled the persecutions and carne over here and they had to work through the blood, sweat and lears.

"I think the Midwest to me was more of a rugged country than the East. When the Irish came into Chicago, I just feel they had to be a self-starter. They had to do things for themselves and they didn't have any Bostonian models or New York models to follow. So they became their cram source of power.

"I think it's still there in solo fashion. But I don't think it's still there symphonic-wise. They don't operate under a baton as they did before, under a Toscanini ... a union of minds and

It is this spirit, LeFerour, Greeley and McDermott believe, which led the Irish to Chicago and power.

They came in the 1848s, building railroads and digging canals because ways to accept these brawny, brawling, dirty, awearing, hard-drinking immigrants of a strange faith. But Chicago needed all the help it could get. The city put up with the kish and, more importantly, gave them work. At first, they worked with their backs. Then they got into uniforms policemen's, firemen's, motormen's.

Eastern America was too set in its ways to accept these brawny, brawling, dirty, swearing, hard-drinking immigrants of a strange faith. But Chicago needed all the help it could get. The city put up with the Irish and, more importantly, gave them work.

Then they got into politics. That felt as comfortable and normal as slipping into an old slipper.

There have been many reasons adthe Chicago Irish, took so easily to American politics

Eastern America was too set in its the language. Also, it is advanced, they if Daley was here." knew the law and the basics of American politics, largely through practice at dodging the savage strictures of English law in Ireland.

In Chicago, there was a difference. They tended to fight each other less. Being Irish they fought, of course, and still do But they did not carry over the old country county feuds as did, Chicago Irish say, their countrymen in New York and Boston.

The Chicago Irish built a web of Democratic ward organizations based, to a great extent, on ethnicity, loyally, family, religion and a willingness to let all people - even blacks and Englishmen - share with them.

Irish dominance of the Chicago Democrats proceeded so rapidly that by 1880 the party was known as Mike McDonald's Democrata.

In 1832 Edward Kelly, of the Irish neighborhood bastion of Bridgeport, began a string of Irish mayors which, disregarding the brief interruption of Michael Bilandic, continues today.

The Irish reign reached its apogee under Richard J. Daley, who ruled Chicago for 20 years and would undoubtedly be mayor now had he not died in office in 1978.

Daley was the quintesaential Irish politician lie rewarded his friends handsomely, fought his enemies with vengeful determination, attended mass every morning on his way to City Hall, and, by his standards, did his best to vanced as to why the Irish, particularly make Chicago a good place in which to troubles, would say, "It wouldn't happer

"The Irish are more liberal here," Greeley said. "They had more liberalleaders such as forgive me. Richard J. Daley, He generally came down on the side of liberal domestic causes."

Greeley once wrote that, "The American Irish will disappear, not into concentration camps, but rather into upper-middle-class suburbs." He now thinks he was wrong.

Michael J. Howlett, former Illinois secretary of state and as Irish a politician as Daley, is not so sure Greeley was not right the first time. "The influence of the Irish is waning," he said.

"Vanishing? That's true of everybody. As each generation passes the sons and daughters aren't nearly as ethnicoriented as their parents were. I hear active Jews complain because the young Jews don't have the kind of interest in Israel they have. The Poles are becoming more Americanized."

Howlett's good friend, Virginia "Ginger" LeFevour, takes issue with such talk. Ginger, Judge LeFevour's wife, is of the upper crust Irish of whom Greeley spoke. She and her friends, she maintained, are rediscovering their know on which side a woman wears a flower in her hair to let men know she's available. I'll be going to Hawaii soon and must know. Thanks.

LEONA DEAR LEONA: A flower over the left ear means "I'm available"; a flower over the right ear means "I'm taken"; and a flower over both cars means "Let's negotiate."

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a problem. I have a solution to what used to be a major headache in my life. Perhape others may benefit should you care to print this.

My 90-year-old mother has been confined to a nursing home for the past three years. She is alert and enjoys relatively good health. Her major disability is that she has become quite deaf, but she refuses to wear a hearing aid because she says it will make her look "old." Consequently, visits with her always end up in an angry shouting match, and communication with friends and family has come to a halt. Now Mother sits alone in a silent, frustrating world.

solution. Each day I mail her a "bulletin," bringing her news of the family, cheery comments on life, and absolutely no bad news. I type six at a time (one can improvise on coming events), could get better acquainted. [Hills, Colif. 90212.

R.H.G., ELM GROVE, WIS. DEAR R.H.G.: 1 hope you will mention in one of your "bulletins" that a hearing aid does not make a person look "old." It's hardly risible, but if it's noticed at all, it's evidence that the wearer is doing his or her part to stay in communication with the outside world.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-Recently I hit upon a partial year-old nurse who has been widowed for 15 years. In the line of duty, I took care of a very attractive, well-

he left the hospital, he asked if

out for over a year now, and he proposed marriage. My problem is that he admits that he is still seeing several other women and says that until he has a definite answer from me, he will continue to date others.

Abby, this has turned me off on him and made me skeptical of his so-called marriage proposal. I am losing my respect for him. If a man thinks enough of a woman to want to marry her, why would he want to date other women?

It took him nearly six months to call me, after which we started dating. I was on

How can I say yes tonight when I know he had another woman in his arms last night? FRUSTRATED AT 50

DEAR FRUSTRATED: My guesta is that he is trying to maneuver you into an early decision. Il you want to marry him, say yes. And until you do, he's a free agent.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "doyour-own-thing" ceremon get Abby's new booklet. Sead $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (35 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, he could see me again so we 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly

For Wednesday, June 3, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY June 3, 1981

You are likely to make a substantial number of valuable social contacts this corning year. Although they will be helpful to you in many ways, they may not be lucky for you financially, GEMINI (May 2)-June 20) There is ample material opportunity around you today, but unless you exercise sound judgment little may come of it. Study your options with great care. Find out more of what lies ahead of you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radlo City Station, N.Y.

10019. Be sure to specify birth date. CANCER (June 21-July 22) That which you hope to achieve today might not be accomplished as easily as you think. Be prepared to buckle down. Don't look for easy

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to blame others today for mistakes which could have been prevented had you taken a greater share of the responsibility. Be a doer, not a shirker.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Normally you're quite good at allocating your resources to get the most value for what you expend. Today, poor judgment may yield disproportionale returns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have the potential to be a successful achiever today, but indifference could cause you to lessen your efforts and fall short of your goals. SCORPIO (Oct. 34-Nov. 20)

Information told to you in confidence usually remains a secret well-kept. Today, however, you may be tempted to talk indiscreetly. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 25-friends today should be clearly spelled out as to what each may expect, or there could be misunderstandings later. CAPRICORN | Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may have to deal with persons today who hold opposing opinions equally as strong as yours. Strive to be acceptance. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't take chances on people or things today about which you know little. This is not a good time to explore unknown areas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Beware of a tendency to rely too much on your luck today, or on leaving things to chance. Unguided projects could go ETTISS.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If it's necessary to delegate authority today, don't assign tasks to persons who lack the competency to handle them. Pick winners.

Summer Cooling Take A Cool Soak

DEAR DR. LAMB - Last summer we went through a terrible heat wave. Do some people suffer more from the heat than others? Docs it have anything to do with metabolism? Does prolonged heat have any effect on breathing or the heart?

I'm 64 years old. Last year I had no air-conditioning during That helps the body eliminate the day. My room at night was air-conditioned but since my husband can't tolerate air conditioning we used floor fans during the day, which really does nothing to cool the room. When I was so hot I had trouble doing my usual work. My breathing would become shallow. During the heat I get irritable and cranky. I would like to know if this is normal under these conditions.

DEAR READER - It is essential to your health to control the body temperature within a rather narrow range. Each of us has a thermostat in the floor of our brain that turns on the body-cooling mechanisms when the body temperature starts to get too high, It causes an increase in blood flow through the skin to you. improve evaporative cooling, which in the extreme is sweating. These changes do increase the work of the heart. Hot moist weather is particularly hard on heart patients.

Older people have more trouble regulating body heat. The thermostal is not quite as requirements for older people effective, so they have trouble eliminating body heat in the summer or maintaining body temperature in the winter. That is why heat waves affect older people the most.

The effects of heat and heat waves are discussed in more detail in The Health Letter sure to get plenty of calcium. number 7-12, Heat Stress: York, NY 10019.

the accumulated heat load. Fans are helpful but once the temperature gets too high, body cooling by evaporation is not very effective, and then fans don't do a lot of good. A cool soak in a tub of water is

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband and I would like to know what people entering their 90s should do for their health. We are in fairly good health and live on a farm and have plenty of exercise, we think. Do we need more of some things, such as protein for energy?

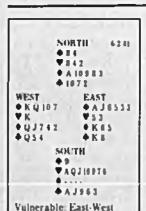

DEAR READER -Congratulations! Whatever you have been doing seems to have worked fairly well for

There is a misconception that older people need special diets. The problem often is that older people stop eating an adequate, nutritious diet, sometimes because they live alone and sometimes because they are already ill.

The nutritional are essentially the same as when one is younger. If you are not active physically, you may need fewer calories. The protein requirements are about the same; incresed proteins may actually strain the kidneys. You do need to be

Incidentally, it is a Cramps, Exhaustion, Stroke, mistaken idea that proteins which I am sending you, are high energy foods. They Others who want this issue are not. A gram of protein can send 75 cents with a long, contains about the same stamped, self-addressed amount of energy as a gram envelope for it to me, in care of carbohydrates and less of this newspaper, P.O. Joe Amsbury, who has the title of consultant editor of "International Popular Bridge," writes in a rather light vein and does not besitate to poke some fun at

The British of today use all sorts of fancy conventions. Thus, South's two-heart bid was a Tartan two bid designed to show either a weak hand with hearts and a minor suit or a strong hand with hearts Joe doubled. He points out that he had the vulnerability wrong because it was the first hearts made at most tables because with no entry to dummy, South would play his ace of hearts, drop the single-ton king, then could enter dummy with the trump eight, finesse clubs once, drop the club king next and be home.

Joe's king of spades beld the first trick and he decided to lead a diamond South found himself in dummy To quote from Joe
