Evacuation

Seminole County fire units were called to Hickman Road near W. S.R. 46 this morning, regarding a possible gas leak. According to a spokesperson at 9:30 this morning, there was an indication that it may be a case of some chemical leakage rather than harmful gas. The investigation into the situation was continuing.

For the sake of safety, approximately 400 to 500 people were evacuated from several businesses in the Industrial Park area near the location of the reported leakage. There were no injuries.

Hug lands daughter in court

SANFORD — A court hearing was scheduled this morning to determine whether an Altamonte Springs teen-ager violated terms of her probation when she hugged her mother on a nationally syndicated talk show.

Judge Alan A. Dickey will determine whether Antoinette (Tiffany) Sanzo, 18, violated his order that she have no contact with her mother, April, during her probation.

Sanzo pleaded guilty to conspiring with three other teens in the 1991 death of her father, Wayne, who was the national president of the Warlock motorcycle club. She has been on community control since she was released from prison Dec. 3, 1993 and was ordered not to have any contact with her mother during her probation. Her community control runs until December 1995.

In April, Sanzo and her mother appeared on The Maury Povich Show which focused on the case. The mother and daughter hugged when Tiffany appeared on stage and the two sat together with other guests during the show. After the teen's probation officer, Dick Cannon, viewed the tape of the show, he notified the court prompting the hearing.

Fire guts old hotel

Sanford loses Montezuma in pre-dawn blaze

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Flames licked the pre-dawn sky, shooting erratically from the folding roof. Below, a piece of Sanford history was left a charred shell of building.

The Montezuma Hotel, at the corner of Magnolia Avenue and Third Street in Sanford, once a grand vacation spot is no more.

The first hotel in Sanford. It was built between 1890 to 1895. The hotel was the location of the city's first indoor swimming pool.

At the turn of the century it was called the Bye-Lo Hotel and in the 1920s the name was changed to the Montezuma Hotel.

"I think we've lost a great piece of the history of Sanford," said Martha Wells, a preservation activist in Sanford. "This hotel was the night spot for the Port of Sanford at the turn of the century and in to the 1920s."

Wells described the mahogany trimmed rooms and twin baby grand pianos as the centerpiece of the building.

Before the sun came up over Sanford this morning, the sky near Third and Magnolia glowed orange. The once-proud Montezuma Hotel flickered below the bright flames that burned the building.

Firefighters fought the flames before sunrise. They were still working on the blaze several hours later in the daylight.

Firefighters Dean Rainville and Tom Martin survey the damage as they take a break from their exhausting work.

Geuka resigns as housing director

By J. MARK SANFIELD

SANFORD — Amelia Geuka, founder and executive director of GoldenRule Housing and Community Development Corp., has resigned to become the director of a major housing initiative in Palm Beach County.

Freda Burleson, an active insider with GoldenRule since its creation in 1991, has become acting executive director. Burleson said the agency will focus housing delivery, involving itself in individual support more as an "after-hours" service. County Community Development staff refused to reimburse expenses for the GoldenRule "Women on the Move" seminar in January. The day-long session was aimed at helping single mothers become more financially self-sufficient. "The staff had felt GoldenRule had strayed from its original mission," said Burleson. "It won't be when I get through." Burleson said this morning one of her first tasks is to seek an extension of the rapidly-approaching Oct. 1 county-imposed deadline for the agency to complete 10 homes. The agency has built four homes under $118,000 in See Geuka, Page 5A

Man digging hole trapped, rescued from dirt cave-in LAKE MARY — Ben Plucnik had a close call shortly before noon yesterday when the 22-year-old man became trapped in a hole while digging for gopher tortoises.

Plucnik was in the process of locating the gopher tortoises from property being developed by Lennar Homes, on Rinehard Road, next to the Public Safety building near Lake Mary Boulevard.

Police Capt. Sam Belfiore explained, "At about 11:20 yesterday morning, he was digging for a gopher tortoise and had a hole about 10 feet in length, sort of a tunnel, when he accidentally fell into it and the dirt caved in."

Nature's music accompanied by pops orchestra

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Though unparalleled in its beauty, the wind rustling through the leaves and the songs of the birds on the branches, nature's music will have a spectacular accompaniment on the shores of Lake Brantley later this fall.

Not since The Springs concerts of several years ago have there been plans to present such a large orchestral pops concert in Seminole County. The Lakeside Pops concert will raise heavenly strains to the evening sky on Saturday, Oct. 15 from the lakeside campus of Sweetwater Episcopal Academy and the Episcopal Church of the Resurrection on E. Lake Brantley Drive in Longwood.

"The organizers are working hard to bring the music back to Seminole County," said Susan Pregmon, publicist for the event. "This is the largest gathering of professional symphonic musicians in Seminole County since the Florida Symphony Orchestra folded."

There have been several attempts at bringing orchestral concerts to the public in a casual, outdoor See Concert, Page 5A

Murder suspect, 11, found slain

By YVONNE J. LINDSAY
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO — Solemn neighbors gathered around the sticky pool of blood, left when two bullets were fired into the head of an 11-year-old murder suspect. Adults walked young children under the railroad overpass — as a warning.

"This is our problem," Valerie Jordan said at the spot where Robert Sandifur was found early Thursday. "The authorities and the system have failed. This is our child."

Not yet 5 feet tall, not quite 70 pounds, the boy whose grandmother called him "Yummy" for his love of cookies was suspected in two shootings across Sunday that killed a 14-year-old girl and injured two other teens.

Robert was suspected of having gang ties, and two gunshot wounds — one to the back of the head, one to the top — led police to believe fellow gang members had killed him. Authorities were looking for a suspect.

"Here's a perfect example of someone who apparently was doing the bidding of gangs and finds himself then, because he is expendable, becoming a victim of the gangs himself," said Police Superintendent Matt Rodriguez. "That's quite a bit of conjecture on my part, but I'll stand behind it."

Standing in front of Robert's blood, Edward Jones said it was ironic that the boy died "thinking he'd found a family" with a gang.

As Jones talked, a cocky boy not older than 12 stepped in the blood as he walked toward the light at the end of the viaduct.

"That's what you should get a picture of," Jones said, pointing to the boy. "That's what it's all about."

But that picture may be the hardest to accept, and it's the story of Robert's short life.

In the past two years, Robert was prosecuted at least eight times for felonies including robbery, car theft, arson and burglary. He was convicted twice and got probation. One judge sentenced him to three weeks of detention for probation violations.

When Robert was eight, an investigation by the state's child welfare agency found scars on his face, cordlike marks on his abdomen and leg, and cigarette burns on his buttocks.

Robert was taken from his mother and placed with his grandmother. Complaints that she was not supervising him led to his placement in a juvenile facility in 1993, but he ran away.

In July a judge returned Robert to his grandmother until the boy could be put in an out-of-state facility that doesn't have Illinois' restriction on locking in or physically restraining children.

"This kid got missed a number of times in the system," said Dr. Elva Poznanski, chief of child psychiatry at Rush Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center in Chicago. "It points out the fact that there is just simply not enough placement available for kids."

Poznanski said she is seeing more and more violence among young children, many the products of abusive homes.

"When you have kids that have their parents just literally throw them out on the streets. ... If you don't provide some way to raise these kids to be useful citizens you're going to spend a hell of a lot of money on the other end," she said.

Robert's grandmother, Janie Fields, became hysterical before she shut the door on reporters.

"I really can't say what I'm going through," she said. "But I know my baby's not here anymore and I can't say, 'I love you, Robert,' anymore."

Cop, guard killed in southern Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt - Suspected Muslim extremists shot and killed a policeman and a police guard in southern Egypt, the government said today.

The shootings occurred as about 15,000 people were expected in Cairo for the U.N. International Conference on Population and Development, which opens Monday.

The radical al-Gamaa al-Islamiya, or Islamic Group, has warned participants to stay away or risk violence.

The group has waged a 2 1/2-year campaign to overthrow Egypt's secular government and replace it with Islamic rule. More than 400 people have been killed.

The police officer and guard were slain Thursday night in Gena, about 275 miles south of Cairo, the Interior Ministry said in a statement. There were no immediate arrests.

On Aug. 26, Muslim radicals fired on a tour bus in southern Egypt, killing a 13-year-old Spanish tourist and wounding three others. The Islamic Group claimed responsibility.

Mine blast death toll rises to 71

MANILA, Philippines - A man severely burned in a mine explosion died today and rescuers found a body in the flooded pits, bringing the death toll in the blast to 71.

Twelve people were missing in the country's worst mining disaster.

Officials blamed methane gas for Monday night's explosion in the town of Malabang, about 500 miles south of Manila. Some miners, however, blamed the explosion on dynamite. The company denies using dynamite.

Windy Refuerzo, spokesman for the Philippine National Oil Co., said the search for bodies was hampered by flooding inside the mine. Workers pumped fresh air into the shaft to prevent methane gas from accumulating.

Miner Jose Lito Taucan died today at a hospital in the central city of Cebu, Refuerzo said.

Searchers found a body floating in waist-deep water inside the mine, he said.

Officials said it could take two weeks to recover all the bodies because of the threat of more explosions.

Irish premier urges cease-fire

BELFAST, Northern Ireland - Irish Premier Albert Reynolds urged pro-British Protestants to embrace the IRA cease-fire as a historic chance for a new start with their Catholic neighbors.

But police said Protestant extremists gave their cold-blooded response a few hours later Thursday, shooting dead a Catholic man as he repaired a car in north Belfast. No group claimed responsibility.

The Protestant paramilitary group Ulster Defense Association said it was responsible for a separate attack on a Catholic taxi driver, who escaped uninjured.

Reynolds' appeal came on the first day of the outlawed Irish Republican Army's open-ended cease-fire, which it called after 24 years of violent resistance to British rule in Northern Ireland.

Train-bus collision kills 11

JAKARTA, Indonesia - Eleven people aboard a mini-bus were killed after it stalled in a railroad crossing and was hit by a train, police said today.

All of the victims - including five from the same family, according to news reports - were killed instantly. The bus was dragged 500 yards in the collision Thursday in the Central Javanese town of Kebumen, about 310 miles southeast of Jakarta, said Col. Mutamin Sunoto of the local police.

China blasts U.S. over population policy

BEIJING - China today criticized the United States for barring Beijing from receiving U.S. contributions to a United Nations family planning agency.

President Clinton signed a foreign aid bill Aug. 23 that bars China from using U.S. funds in the U.N. Foundation for Population Activities.

"This politically biased act is most unfriendly toward China," Foreign Ministry spokesman Shen Guofang said.

"It violates China's family planning policy," he said.

Since 1965, the United States has refused to provide tens of millions of dollars to the U.N. agency because of its programs in China, where authorities sometimes resort to forced abortions and sterilizations to implement a strict policy of limiting couples to having only one child.

Last year, Clinton approved $20 million in payments to the U.N. agency, but disbursement was blocked by a Justice Department order.

"We stand firmly opposed to any country attaching conditions to its donation," Shen said.

Concern over foreign air safety

By RANDOLPH E. BOWEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Crashes of Latin American and Russian airliners in recent years have led to growing concern about airline safety overseas and to demands that the U.S. government warn Americans about potential danger areas.

The Federal Aviation Administration, which enforces strict safety rules for U.S. carriers, began taking a closer look at foreign standards after an Avianca Airlines plane from Colombia crashed in New York in 1980 because it ran out of fuel.

In the past few years reports of crashes and other problems have led to increasing concern about flying in Russia and the other former Soviet states.

The Transportation Department planned to release safety assessments of aviation in 30 foreign nations today. However, some details may be withheld at the request of foreign governments, department officials said.

"The release of this list is long overdue," said Geraldine Frankoek, director of the private Aviation Consumer Action Project, which has been battling to force the government to release data on foreign airlines.

"Withholding information which could warn U.S. citizens ... betrays the trust the traveling public places in this agency," she said, noting that the State Department has long issued advisories about travel dangers.

David Stemple of the International Airline Passengers Association said he also was pleased that the department was "releasing this safety information, which is so critical to airline passengers."

Countries that fail to enforce safety standards can have their airlines banned from flying to the United States.

The Washington Post reported in today's editions that nine countries were told their airlines were to be barred: Belize, the Dominican Republic, Gambia, Ghana, Honduras, Nicaragua, Paraguay, Uruguay and Zaire.

Currently, an estimated 470 air carriers from 90 nations are authorized to fly into the United States.

The FAA began looking into safety standards of other nations following the crash of the Avianca airliner, which claimed 73 lives, and concern largely focused on developing nations in Latin America and Africa.

However, reports of safety problems in the former Soviet Union have claimed increasing attention recently.

The FAA has announced it will inspect Russia's deteriorating airlines and air safety systems to offer advice on improving conditions. Russian authorities requested the evaluation and a team of about a dozen FAA officials is heading for Russia.

Concerns about the safety of the civilian airlines, dominated by the aging Aeroflot, have become so serious that the State Department last month ordered U.S. government employees to stay off all Russian flights unless absolutely necessary. Britain, Canada and other countries have issued similar warnings.

The International Airline Passengers Association had earlier advised its members not to fly into or over Russia or the former Soviet states, citing not only low airline standards but also problems in air traffic control.

The passenger group also has issued warnings about air safety standards in China, Colombia, India and central Africa in recent years.

Earlier this year, that group, along with the Aviation Consumer Action Project and the publications Conde Nast Traveler and Air Safety Week, petitioned the Transportation Department to release the names of any airlines or nations that do not meet International Civil Aviation Organization safety standards.

The requests were rejected initially, with officials contending they need the cooperation of foreign governments in assessing the safety of airlines in those nations. Releasing reports on foreign air safety standards could result those government deciding not to cooperate in the future, officials said.

Americans traveling abroad might still wind up flying on airlines that have been banned from the United States, the consumer groups contended, and thus they need to know their safety records.

O'Cubs duo hurts a beauty

ORLANDO — David Hutcheson and David Swartzbaugh combined on a three hitter and Orlando scored four first-inning runs for a 4-1 victory over the Carolina Mudcats Thursday.

The Mudcats scored their only run on a Mark Johnson single in the first.

The Orlando Cubs regained the lead in the bottom of the first with a single each by Brant Brown, Pedro Valdes and Rudy Gomez.

AROUND THE STATE

Dolphins want Deion

DAVIE — Miami Dolphins quarterback Dan Marino has accepted a restructured contract to help the team's bid for Deion Sanders.

The agreement doesn't represent a pay cut over the life of the contract, but an NFL source said nearly $4 million that Marino was to receive this year will be deferred until 1995 and '96.

The new contract gives the Dolphins more room under the salary cap to pursue Sanders. They now might be able to sign Sanders without releasing another highly paid player.

Sanders is also considering the New Orleans Saints and his former team, the Atlanta Falcons.

Suns bury Braves

JACKSONVILLE — Ruben Santana hit a grand slam and two other runs to help the Jacksonville Suns to an 8-1 victory over the Greenville Braves in Southern League action.

The Suns opened the scoring in the third inning on an Eddy Diaz homer and scored six runs in the seventh, breaking open a 2-1 game.

AROUND THE NATION

No basketball for Jordan

CHICAGO — Stories circulated this week that Michael Jordan would play in a charity basketball game Sept. 9 at the soon-to-be-demolished Chicago Stadium.

The basketball game, sponsored by former Bulls teammate Scottie Pippen, is the last event scheduled at the 65-year-old stadium, where Jordan led the Bulls to three successive National Basketball Association championships.

But the retired NBA star said Thursday he would not play in it or any other charity basketball game, but he wishes Pippen luck.

Seminole Park plans unique doubleheader

By DUKE PATRICK
Special to the Herald

CASSELBERRY — Seminole Greyhound Park in Casselberry will be the site of a couple of special events Saturday night.

On tap are the 1994 Sprint Derby Finals and the first Wiener Dog Derby ever held in Central Florida.

The Sprint Derby finals have been pared down from an original list of 72 dogs. After four preliminary rounds, the final field of eight will be (with their preliminary results):

Bunns Lane Berth; J's Brawley; MC P's Neva (3 wins and 1 second each); Butler Breeze (2 wins, 2 seconds); Shamrock Lassie (3 wins, 1 fourth); Bonhamtown Mike (2 wins, 1 second, 1 third); Lou Joe (2 wins, 2 thirds); and Standing Alone (3 seconds, 1 third).

Three of the finalists belong to the well-known "Bertha's Bunch," the litter of 10 outstanding brothers and sisters that have created a stir at Seminole Greyhound Park.

Bunns Lane Berth (known as Bertha) has had a phenomenal season. In 21 starts she has sped to 19 wins and two second-place finishes and holds the track record of 21 consecutive "in-the-money" finishes.

She is still chasing the records for most wins and most times in the money in a season (23, set by Wyldie Show Biz in 24 starts in 1985).

The other siblings are Bonhamtown Mike and Standing Alone.

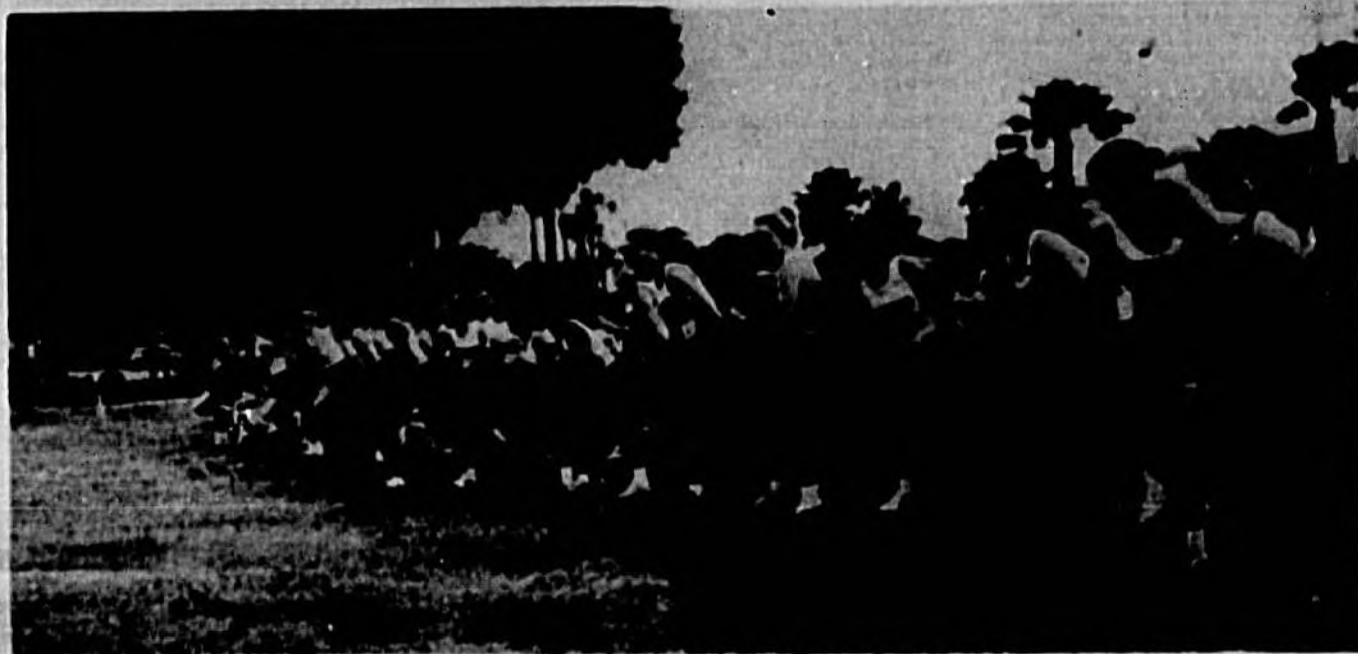

Wiener Dog races have become popular ever since Miller Lite Beer featured the Dachshunds in their commercials. Several greyhound tracks have run the short-legged canines and even David Letterman showcased them on The Late Show.

All finalists for this "non-betting" event will be clad in official racing garb and the 7 p.m. race will be preceded by a parade through the grandstand and clubhouse.

SGP opens at 6:30 p.m. Come early and catch a glimpse of the Dachshunds prior to the Greyhound races, which begin at 7:30 p.m.

Baby Dumplings (left), Tribbles (center) and Little Angel (right) are three of the nine Dachshunds that will compete Saturday night in Central Florida's first-ever Wiener Dog Derby at Seminole Greyhound Park in Casselberry.

Nearly 200 runners representing 12 schools competed in the four races of the Lake Brantley Invitational Thursday afternoon. Bishop Moore's Chris Miller won the varsity girls' 2-mile race in 13 minutes, 10 seconds while Edgewater's Derek Romich edged Kevin Harkema of St. Cloud at the tape to win the varsity boys' 3-mile event.

Early success trips Silver Hawks

By TONY DeBORNER
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Too much success too soon can be a daunting experience for a team, whether they're prepared for it or not.

After watching his team storm to an easy win in the Lake Mary Summertime Cross Country Jam-boree last Saturday, Lake Howell girls' coach Tom Hammontree tried to keep the Silver Hawks from becoming overconfident.

"One race does not make a season," Hammontree said repeatedly.

"They didn't listen. Running with considerably less intensity, the Silver Hawks compiled a team score of 65 at the Lake Brantley Invitational, good for a disappointing third-place team finish behind the Winter Park Wildcats (36) and Dr. Phillips Panthers (64).

The Edgewater Eagles (56) won the boys' team competition, finishing in front of the Oviedo Lions (98) and St. Cloud Bulldogs (105).

"From the way they ran last week and the way they ran today, it was like two different teams," said Hammontree. "Either they're going to run or they don't. You can't do it for them. It's up to them to decide."

"I'm disappointed, but I can't say I'm really surprised. With the way they've acted since last week, I could see something like this coming."

Rams show character, overtake Panthers

From Staff Reports

ORLANDO — Now is as good as time as any for the young Lake Mary High School boys' volleyball team to see if they have the character it'll take to meet the challenges that lay ahead.

On Thursday night, the Rams gave a good exhibition of that character, overcoming a first-game loss to defeat the homestanding Dr. Phillips Panthers 6-15, 15-8, 15-10 in the season-opening match for both squads.

Lake Mary also won the junior varsity match. "We started off slow," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen. "But the one thing about this team, they have shown a lot of character for it being so early in the season, especially for being such a young team."

Leading the Rams were a quartet of juniors: Will Lipscomb, Devin Hale, Darrell Dillmore, and Jeff Phillips.

"Will did a good job of running the team," Whalen said. "He was doing a lot of little things, keeping the rest of the team up after we lost the first game. He showed a lot of leadership on the floor tonight."

Lipscomb finished with 27 assists, two kills, and five blocks. Hale added 13 kills and two blocks while Dillmore and Phillips, Lake Mary's two middle blockers, combined for 20 kills and 13 blocks on the match.

Now 1-0, Lake Mary will open the home portion of its schedule next Tuesday against Cypress Creek.

Owens, Chamberlain blister Speedworld testing

By AARON GREEN
Special to the Herald

BITHLO — Lewis Owens of Apopka tuned up for tomorrow night's (Saturday) Performance Cylinder Heads Quick 32 event by pacing the Top Eliminator Division in testing runs at the Orlando Speed World Dragway Wednesday night.

Owens, the Performance Cylinder Heads Quick 32 points leader, turned the quarter mile dragstrip in 7.82 seconds at 177.20 miles per hour to edge Archie Rose of Sorrento, who put down a 7.84 elapsed time at 170.97 miles per hour.

Completing the top five top testing runs in the Top Eliminator Division were Robert Sellers from South Daytona (7.98 ET, 166.35 MPH), Michael Stovall from Grant (8.60 ET, 153.13 MPH) and Steve Boyle from Orlando (8.68 ET, 150.52 MPH).

But the quickest time of the whole evening of testing was turned in by Kevin Chamberlain in the Pro Cycle Class.

The Titusville rider burned up the quarter mile in an impressive 7.75 seconds at 159.97 miles per hour.

In a sport that is usually typified by differences in 100s and 1,000ths of a second, Chamberlain's run was extra remarkable as the next quickest motorcycle run was an 8.37 ET (156.98 MPH) posted by Tony Flagg from Rockledge, a difference of .63 seconds, an eternity on the dragstrip.

Rounding out the top five times and speed in Pro Cycle were Kevin Ferris of New Smyrna Beach (8.99 ET, 143.03 MPH), Joe Hooper of Orlando (9.40 ET, 138.48 MPH) and Alan Llewellyn of Casselberry (9.85 ET, 141.57 MPH).

In addition to the Performance Cylinder Heads

Quick 32 race, which features some of Florida's fastest dragsters, roadsters and doorslammers, there will also be action in Top Eliminator, Sportsman and Pro Cycle.

Gates open at 4 p.m., with qualifying beginning at 4:30 p.m. Final eliminations are set to start at 8 p.m.

Orlando Speed World Dragway is located 12 miles east of Orlando on Highway 50, approximately halfway between Orlando and Titusville, just west of highway 520.

It is part of the three track Orlando Speed World complex that also hosts FASCAR stock car racing every Friday night on a 1/4-mile oval and a dirt track for motorcross motorcycle racing or mud drag on occasional Sunday afternoons.

In addition to the weekly Saturday night shows, the dragway also holds weekly qualifying and testing sessions on Wednesday night.

For more information, call the track at (407) 568-5522 or the office at (407) 658-7939.

Stand apart in job interview

During tough times, job interviews take on increased importance. How can you stand apart in a crowd?

Part of the answer may be in what you wear. The clothing you select for a job interview influences hiring decisions. First impressions form quickly and can account for perceptions of you and your abilities. While good first impressions can't make up for a lack of skills and knowledge, ability isn't always the only issue in who gets hired.

What should you wear? Remember that an interview is a formal business occasion. Don't try to impress the interviewer with your knowledge of current fashion trends. Your primary purpose is to look competent and capable of handling the job. So, wear clothes that are perceived as professional.

Suit up. It's the item of clothing personnel managers and recruiters rank the highest. While dress codes for jobs have relaxed, the exception is the job interview.

Be cautious about advice from fashion-oriented sources such as newspapers and magazines. They may not be the best source of information because of their heavy reliance on trendy fashion advice.

Job-smart dressing calls for playing things on the conservative side. Select conservative, classic clothes in colors and fabrics representative of the business environment. Buy "conservative" doesn't "dowdy and out-of-date." Even a well-cut conservative suit can appear dated. So pay attention to the subtleties of cut and style. Look for strong, clean and simple line, while avoiding extremes in style. Good luck!

Cleanup leaves widow nothing but memories

DEAR ABBY: A few weeks ago my husband died, and right after the funeral, my children insisted that I go visit my sister in another town to get away for awhile.

Today I came home to an immaculate but very empty house. I have two wonderful daughters and I love them dearly, but sometimes I wish they wouldn't be so helpful.

They came and cleaned my house from top to bottom. Every closet, every cupboard, every shelf had been scrubbed. My house shines from one end to another.

But what bothers me most is that they disposed of all their father's belongings! There is not a trace of him in this house. It's as though he never lived here. There are no socks to darn, no buttons to sew. My sons-in-law even divided up his tools. I suppose they did this so I wouldn't feel so bad sorting through his things and doing it myself.

I could say something, but the deed is done, however well-meaning it was. But now I have nothing to do except dust and wash my own few dishes.

Thanks for listening, Abby. I feel a little better now.

LOST AND LONELY
DEAR LOST: I understand your feeling of uselessness, but I assure you your daughters meant well. They spared you what is usually the most painfully heartbreaking task a widow must face.

DEAR ABBY: Something has been bugging me for a long time, and I would like to get it off my chest. (Please don't disclose my name or town if you print this.)

I recent having to killy in for a Christmas present for the "big boss" every year. He is a rich man who has more than he needs, but every year the secretary or the office manager goes around and hits up everybody in this company for donations so the "big boss" can have a Christmas gift.

I am not cheap, and I don't mind contributing toward a gift if there is a need for it, but chipping in to buy an expensive present for this tycoon just rubs me the wrong way.

How do you feel about it?

BUGGED

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR BUGGED: Same as you. But don't discount the possibility that the boss has nothing to do with it. I do think, however, that "big bosses" who disapprove of such annual gifts should make their thoughts known.

DEAR ABBY: A recent column dealing with proper respect accorded the various doctoral degrees brings to mind an appropriate joke I first heard many years ago:

Two brothers, one a minister and the other a physician, each with the appropriate doctorate, strongly resembled each other. On one occasion, a young woman rushed up to the physician and said, "That was such an inspirational sermon you delivered last Sunday!"

"You have mistaken me for my brother," he replied. "He preaches; I'm the one who practices."

What to do when you're being stalked

DEAR READERS: We have expanded the focus of this column. From now on, we will be discussing personal and parenting problems, interpersonal relationships, and school or work-related issues as well as drug-related problems.

As always, your identity will be protected if you have a problem that you want us to address. Send your letters to me c/o the Sanford Herald or at Pine Crest Elementary School, 405 W. 27th St., Sanford 32773 (322-1711).

DEAR MARY: I broke up with my boyfriend last week after I found out he's been cheating on me. We were together for two years and during that time he hit me once because he thought I was flirting with one of his friends. Whenever we'd get into a fight he'd push me around a little, but nothing too bad. But now that I've decided that we don't have a future together, he's been following me. Everywhere I go, he's there and frankly, I'm getting scared. I know his temper has gotten out of control sometimes and I just have a bad feeling when I see him staring at me that it could happen again, and somebody might get hurt — probably me. I don't know where to turn for help.

SCARED

DEAR SCARED: If I were you, I'd pay attention to those "bad" feelings. You have too much to lose if you are right. Call the Victims' Advocate at the Seminole County Sheriff's Office (330-8800). She can make suggestions on how to proceed if you wish to file stalking charges. The sheriff provides cellular phones to stalking victims for a period of time, using confiscated drug funds.

After fire, remains demolished

By VICKI BOBROWER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The halls of Montezuma fell Friday afternoon with a rumble of damp and still-warm ashes.

The historic hotel, tarnished in recent times from its former proud glamor, burned rapidly early Friday morning and then smoldered for several hours.

When firefighters tried to enter the structure to be sure all flames were extinguished, floors began to crumble and ceilings to fall.

"It was just very unsafe in there," said Cmdr. Dennis Whitmore of the Sanford Police Department, who served as a spokesman for the law enforcement and firefighting officials at the scene...

Whitmore said the Sanford fire inspectors and the state Fire Marshall's office declared the building unsafe and ordered city crews to demolish the remaining walls.

Investigators aren't sure if the fire may have been set, but it

Teen won't go back to jail for TV hug

Sanzo, mother would like to communicate

By SANDRA GILBERT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — An Altamonte Springs teen was emphatically warned not to have any contact with her mother for the duration of her probation after pleading no contest to a violation of probation for appearing on a television show with her mother earlier this year.

Tiffany Sanzo, 18, was returned to probation by Judge Alan A. Dickey.

"I'm very happy I'm not going back to jail," the teen said after the hearing. From this point on, Sanzo added, she hopes her life is uphill and positive, with no more trouble and "bad stuff."

Sanzo was sentenced as a youthful offender in the 1991 death of her father, Wayne Sanzo, who was national president of the Warlock motorcycle club. She is on probation until December 1995. Three other teens were also charged in the murder case.

As part of her probation, Dickey ordered Sanzo to have no contact with her mother, April. In the spring, Sanzo received permission to appear on The Maury Povich Show, a nationally syndicated television talk show from New York City. Her probation officer, Dick Cannon, moved to violate her probation after viewing Sanzo and her mother hugging on stage. He claimed he was not informed April would also appear on the show.

Prosecutor Tom Hastings said there were only two choices in the case, for the judge to continue probation for the teen or send her back to jail. Under the negotiated agreement, Sanzo pleaded no contest to violating the no-contact probation provision and was returned to probation.

The teen and her mother have both indicated they would like to be able to communicate. Tiffany is April's only child.

Dickey made it plain the two are to have no contact either written, by telephone, in person or through a third party for the remainder of the probation. If another violation occurs, the judge warned the state might seek a more severe penalty.

IRA maintains truce despite slayings

BEILFAST, Northern Ireland — The IRA maintained its truce despite the slayings of two Catholics by Protestant extremists, and Irish Prime Minister Albert Reynolds said efforts were underway to get the Protestants to join.

"Now that we have a decision to stop the guns on one side, we want to stop them on the other side, too. I'm still very cautiously hopeful," he told the British Broadcasting Corp. on Friday.

The slayings of two men by pro-British Protestants on Wednesday and Thursday were the first test of the predominantly Catholic Irish Republican Army's cease-fire, which went into effect Thursday before the second killing.

The IRA has fought 24 years to end British rule in Northern Ireland. More than 3,000 people have been killed: about half by the IRA, a fourth by gunmen from the Protestant majority, and the rest by police, the army, stray fire and accidents.

Fledgling government carries on KIGALI, Rwanda — The wheels of justice may turn slowly in Rwanda, but Uziye Biziman is confident they'll turn his way.

One of 1,622 prisoners in the Kigali jail, the 38-year-old Hutu is accused of participating in the genocidal massacre of more than half a million Rwandans from April to July.

"I think I will have a fair trial," said Biziman, who denies any role in the killings.

The 6-week-old government, led by the Tutsi ethnic minority, is daily rounding up people for trials, though it appears no court will be set up for months.

While peasants who joined in the killings might be tried locally, the government has indicated that high-level members of the former army and government would be handed over to an international tribunal if it can be done quickly.

But the international community is moving slowly.

Top official gave info to spy for years

HAMBURG, Germany — A top advisor to Chancellor Helmut Kohl unknowingly provided information on military and other matters to an East German agent for more than 10 years, a news magazine reported Saturday.

Waldemar Schreckenberger, a state secretary and intelligence coordinator in the chancellery, met regularly with journalist Felix-Erik Laue, who is suspected of spying for former East Germany between 1979 and 1990, Der Spiegel said.

Most of the information Laue obtained from the meetings dealt with confidential East-West policies and military matters, the magazine said.

The report said the chief federal prosecutor's office in Karlsruhe is preparing to file charges against Laue, who has admitted working for the Stasi intelligence service for $7,500 annually.

Government says it defeated opposition

MOSCOW — The government in the separatist Russian region of Chechnya claimed Saturday to have defeated opposition forces, a day after fighting erupted on several fronts across the province.

Vice President Zelimkhan Yandarbiyev said the government lost three or four soldiers in the worst clash near Dolinskaya, a village about 19 miles north of Grozny, the capital. Five civilians also died, he told the Interfax news agency.

Soldiers loyal to President Dzhokhar Dudayev fought against units belonging to the Provisional Council, Chechnya's main opposition group, which is seeking to overthrow Dudayev.

"By starting the bloodshed, they have put themselves on the verge of extermination," Yandarbiyev said of the opposition.

John Mistrad said, "I've got mixed feelings because I was a National Guardsman in 1960. I saw 125,000 when I was there for two weeks. NATIONAL BRIEFS

Cuba, U.S. resume talks

NEW YORK — Cuba and the United States ended two days of talks without an agreement on expanding legal immigration to replace the exodus of Cuban refugees to the United States but did decide to continue discussions Sunday.

U.S. delegation spokesman David Johnson refused to say if a deal was near after eight hours of "candid" talks Friday at the Cuban mission to the United Nations. Cuban officials didn't speak with reporters.

Johnson said the two sides discussed replacing the "uncontrolled" flow of Cubans to the United States with a U.S.-proposed "expanded, predictable, dependable and legal migration program."

More than 28,000 Cubans have tried to cross to Florida in the past month, most on flimsy rafts. Cuban President Fidel Castro has let them go, hoping to force the United States to reverse its economic embargo of the island.

Anxiety, not fumes, caused fainting

LOS ANGELES — Anxiety and stress — not mysterious fumes — probably caused hospital workers to faint while working on a dying patient, a state study says.

A lawyer for one of the stricken doctors called the conclusion "absolutely insane."

The study released Friday by the Department of Health Services is the second in as many months to suggest the problem was in the workers' heads.

But investigators said they hadn't closed the door on finding a chemical culprit, noting that "an unusual nitrogen-containing compound" was found in air samples.

They said there may have been a toxic substance that caused symptoms in some workers, while the rest reacted "to the stressful situation around them."

The report was criticized by Dr. Julie Gorchynski, one of seven employees who passed out while tending to a cancer patient in the Riverside General Hospital emergency room Feb. 19.

Gorchynski is being treated for avascular necrosis, or bone deterioration caused by lack of blood, which she believes was caused by the incident. She has sued the county, saying officials botched their investigation and refused to share information.

Simpson jurors may be sequestered

LOS ANGELES — It would cost more than $3,000 a day to sequester jurors from headlines and broadcasts about the O.J. Simpson case, but prosecutors say that would be cheaper than a retrial.

Prosecutors filed a motion Friday to sequester jurors throughout the trial, which the judge has said could last six months.

They admitted that keeping jurors and alternates sequestered at a hotel for six months could cost as much as $3,446 a day, a figure that is based on bills from the federal Rodney King trial and includes meals and other hotel expenses.

But prosecutors argued it would be costlier to retry the case if exposure to publicity caused a mistrial. The cost of operating the courtroom is $9,459 per day, they said.

Simpson, 47, pleaded innocent to charges he murdered his ex-wife Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman. His trial is scheduled to begin Sept. 26.

Boy, 11, killed after refusing to apologize

HIGH BRIDGE, N.J. — An 11-year-old who refused to apologize during an argument died at the hands of a 13-year-old with a stolen gun.

Jacob Tracy was sitting in his bedroom Thursday when he was shot once in the chest at point-blank range by the youth, who was not identified because he is a minor, said Hunterdon County Prosecutor Sharon Ransavage.

"The victim, who was seated on his bed, got up and ran out of the house," Ransavage said Friday. "He collapsed in the back yard."

The teen-ager, who fled but then called 911 to report the shooting, was charged Friday as a juvenile with first-degree murder. State law does not allow anyone under 14 to be tried as an adult.

The gun used to kill Jacob had been stolen recently from a nearby home. Another stolen gun was found in the victim's home, Ransavage said.

She would not say why the boys were arguing. A third boy was present. Neighbors said they were friends.

"They were always playing real nice together," neighbor Carmel O'Brien said.

Student suspended for bright pink hair

NEW MILFORD, Conn. — Pretty in pink maybe, but not in pink hair.

School officials suspended eighth-grader Danielle Kriegsmann because she showed up for the first day of school with bright pink locks.

The 13-year-old's mother, Gina Satmary, said her daughter will be allowed to return to Schaghticoke Middle School — but only to a special class for troubled students.

"That class is for kids who bring guns to school. I'm upset because they're making her a part of this crowd," Satmary said Friday. "She's just an average kid who experimented with her hair."

Satmary met with Superintendent Mark Franceschini and Principal Donald Fital. She says they are interfering with her daughter's constitutional right to free speech and she will work with a lawyer to get Danielle back into regular classes.

The Connecticut Civil Liberties Union, meanwhile, also warned school officials of legal consequences.

Neither Franceschini nor Fital returned telephone calls Friday.

China shop of computer topics

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald SMIP Patrolman

This week, we'll stumble around in a china shop of topics and try not to do much damage. Our regularly-scheduled feature about a HIAM link to the Information Superhighway was unavoidably delayed. Solar flares, I guess.

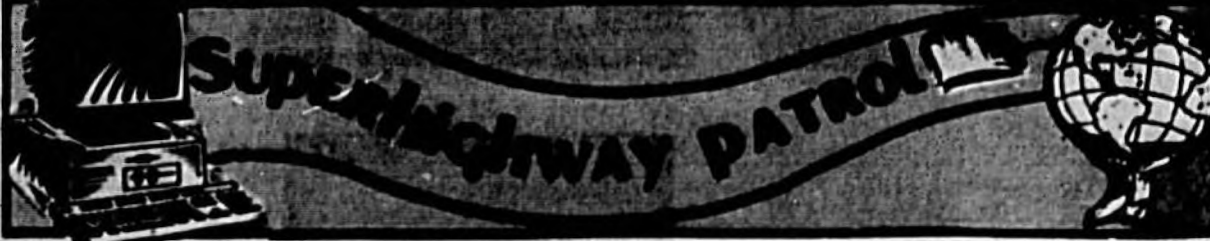

This just in...

When we perused CD-ROM encyclopedias two weeks ago, we left out one of the three major products available because it didn't show up until the day after that SMIP was published. Because we're here at the Patrol Station as benevolent twe write was nung tickets first, we'll give 'em a break. This time.

Perhaps the best-known of the multimedia encyclopedias on CD-ROM is Compton's Interactive Encyclopedia. Compton's, in size, compares to the The New Grolier Multimedia Encyclopedia, with its more than 33,000 articles. But I found it to be a bit less scholarly than either Grolier's or Encarta. The easy-to-follow language and explanations would satisfy the academic needs of a grade-schooler and possibly, a high school student, but probably not a college student. Using my "seawage treatment" example, I came up with a two-page article which did an admirable job of explaining the process, although not to the degree of Encarta's 12-page treatise. Also, there was no reference to William S. Burroughs, the beat author. There are biographies of fellow beat writers Allen Ginsberg and Lawrence Ferlinghetti, but no Burroughs.

Visually, Compton's takes the prize in terms of clarity of photographs and graphics. The photographs of Martin Luther King Jr. were the sharpest of the three CD-ROMs. There's a luminous photo of a Greek actor from a fragment of a Fourth Century vase that's worth checking out. There are plenty of sound clips, too. For example, under "Lexington and Concord," you'll hear an actor recite Paul Revere's immortal words, "The British are coming. The British are coming." There are also references to jazz, America's native music, but NO SOUND CLIPS! Also, there's no clips of blues or pop. These are serious omissions. You'll find plenty of classical though. I suppose there's an editorial comment lurking in those choices. You'll also hear a cat purring and a whale singing, along with beautiful photographs of them, but Compton's doesn't identify the species of either.

Compton's videos are equally detailed. Under "Civil Rights Movement," you'll see fairly smooth clips of demonstrators and King. Under "Moon Exploration," you'll see and hear the July 20, 1969 manned lunar landing of "Eagle." You'll also see Neil Armstrong's historic first hop down to the surface, but his feet are out of the picture when he landed. A great moment in podiatry clipped off below the knees. To be fair, Compton's was the only encyclopedia of the three to show this footage at all.

Some of the best features of Compton's are its tools. The "Virtual Workspace" is a feature that I'd like to see in other software applications. Using the workspace, you can spread several articles, search features, whatever, on an imaginary desktop that extends off your monitor screen several feet in every direction. You can have almost seven square feet of space to tuck various elements of your research project, including a word processor for writing. You manage all this cyber-reality through a "Workspace" box that gives you a thumbnail map of it all. To move an article into view, you just click on it and it pops into view. This is a great feature of Compton's.

Another neat utility of Compton's is its "InfoPlot." This is a cross-referencing tool which allows you to select a topic, then see four related topics with references to 16 other topics. For example the word "phlegm" produced a central box containing an article on medicine, with the word "phlegm" highlighted in green type. Branching off the key article were other articles on holistic, folk, sports and industrial medicine. Each of the branching articles was complete, allowing you to scroll through the text. Surrounding the branch articles were references to their related topics. For example, one of the topics branching off from "Industrial medicine" was "New Jersey," with information about the state's industrial development.

Another tool, "Topic Tree," allows you to click your way through increasingly narrowed topics to arrive at a specific subject.

In all, Compton's is a fine example of the computers-only reference tool, the multimedia encyclopedia. It has its limits, but they should be insignificant to a child. And today's computer-savvy kids should learn their around Compton's with aplomb. Compton's lists at $149.95, but you can find it for less than $75.

Have you ever copied a friend's game floppy disk? Everybody does it, you say. What can it hurt, eh? Software companies get real testy about the widespread practice of copying their diskettes. They have a good reason. The folks at Microsoft, creators of DOS, Windows and a host of other stuff estimate they lose $4 billion dollars a year in sales because of floppy copying. That's as much as the company lost last year, said MS spokesman Christine Santucci. The Business Software Alliance, a trade group formed by Microsoft, Lotus and other software Big Guys, estimates the amount of software "pirated" globally last year reached $12.8 billion, said Diane Smaroldo, BSA spokesman in the United States. The illegal copying represented 36 percent of the market. In 10 countries, the piracy rate topped 90 percent, meaning 10 percent or less of the software being used in those countries was purchased legitimately. The countries where piracy reached 99 percent were Indonesia, Pakistan, Thailand and United Arab Emirates.

Santucci admits the risk to users may be small. Companies and software company trade groups will file copyright infringement lawsuits against pirates and dealers, but not home or business users.

"The Microsoft Police" never pursue the end user," said Santucci. "But they won't get the (handholding) support they would have with a registered product. And they run the risk of viruses and that sort of thing."

Viruses can be a real risk when you copy disks from someone else, let alone, buy a pirated version of software. The supplier may not even be aware they're transferring a virus to you, but once it's in your computer, look out. Big headaches.

OCS boys kick Master's

MAITLAND — Jakob Hardrick netted five goals as the Orangerwood Christian School boys' soccer team clubbed The Master's Academy, 9-1, Friday night at Lake Destiny Park.

The Rams, defending Fall Soccer state champions and ranked No. 1 in the Florida Athletic Coaches Association's preseason state poll, improved to 2-0 on the season and have now outscored its foes 24-1.

OCS, which led 6-1 at halftime, outshot (24-13) and out-cornerkicked (4-2) Master's.

Goalkeepers Patrick Moore and David Green combined to save seven shots, while The Master's keeper stopped 15 shots.

Also helping offensively for the Rams were Chris Miller (two goals, one assist), Chris Smith (two goals), Moore (one goal) and Chris Hill, Dan VanDeStreek, David Westcott, Ben Mitchell, Iker Unzu and Gary Fleming (one assist each).

AROUND THE STATE

Kannell leads FSU romp

TALLAHASSEE — Florida State, plagued by problems in the offseason, had no problems in its opener against Virginia.

Danny Kannell, following in the footsteps of Heisman Trophy winner Charlie Ward, passed for 330 yards and four touchdowns as the defending national champions crushed the Cavaliers 41-17 Saturday.

The fourth-ranked Seminoles played without seven suspended players, including All-American linebacker Derrick Brooks and three offensive linemen who were penalized for accepting illegal gifts from agents.

'Canes set record with rout

MIAMI — The Miami Hurricanes won 56-0 and improved to 58-0.

Sixth-ranked Miami routed Georgia Southern to break an NCAA record Saturday with its 56th consecutive victory at the Orange Bowl. The Hurricanes surpassed Alabama's record of 57 wins in a row at home set in 1963-82.

Miami gained 415 yards rushing and 627 overall in the season opener for both teams.

Rader to leave Marlins

MIAMI — Florida Marlins hitting instructor Doug Rader plans to resign at the end of the season, and former Cincinnati Reds manager Tony Perez is the early front-runner to fill the vacancy.

Perez joined the Marlins' front office in July 1993 after being fired by the Reds. He works as director of international relations for Florida but has talked of returning to the field.

AROUND THE NATION

UCF thrashes Maine

ORONO, Maine — Darin Hinshaw ran for a touchdown and passed for two more Saturday to lead Central Florida to a 29-6 win over Maine.

Hinshaw, who threw for 245 yards, broke the all-time career passing record for the Golden Knights with a total of 6,766 yards.

David Rhodes, who caught one of the touchdown passes, also moved to the top of the UCF list with 2,868 yards.

After falling behind 3-0, the Knights went ahead to stay on a 33-yard touchdown run by Lake Howell graduate Marquette Smith, who finished with 119 yards rushing on 21 attempts.

Martin still rules Darlington

Martin won his third straight NASCAR Busch Series race on the 1.366-mile oval. Martin, the Mountain Dew Southern 500's defending champion, also won an International Race of Champions event at Darlington, giving him five victories in his last six starts on the track.

Pole winner Randy LaJoie led the first seven laps. Martin, who started second in a Ford Thunderbird, took the lead on lap eight and held it for 102 of the next 104 laps before rain brought the race to a close after 111 of the scheduled 147 circuits.

Sharpe walks out on Pack

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Sterling Sharpe walked out on the Green Bay Packers Saturday, saying he would sit out the 1994 season under his present contract.

The NFL's best wide receiver the past two years is dissatisfied with terms of a 10-year deal he signed in 1991 worth at least $15.5 million. Including incentives, he was to earn about $2 million this season.

Truly a perfect ending

Tribe, Hounds redefine rivalry

By TONY McPHERSON
 Herald Sports Editor

LONGWOOD — Folks, you had to see it to believe it.

In a game that featured more plot twists than a bad mystery novel, the Seminole Fighting Seminoles registered a 14-13 overtime win over the host Lyman Greyhounds in a Seminole Athletic Conference football game Friday night.

And while the game goes as a win for the Tribe and a loss for the Hounds, the night was a one-of-a-kind experience for everyone who saw the two teams give a heated exhibition of gridiron combat, then come together and take a knee at midfield for a moment of reflection.

It may have been a coincidence, but even the rain and lightning that plagued games across Central Florida stayed away until the game was over and the two teams had congratulated each other.

"It was a great game between two good football teams," said Lyman coach Larry Baker, who addressed both teams during the collective meeting after the game. "It hurts to lose a game like this, but I'm proud of our kids."

Seminole coach Ernie McPherson was thrilled to get of Longwood with a win.

"I told you, didn't I?" said McPherson, pointing

Early in the fourth quarter, Seminole quarterback Cliff Branch (No. 7) appeared to injure his left ankle when sacked for a loss and had to leave the field. Branch returned a few minutes later and led the Tribe on a 14-play touchdown drive that tied the score and sent the game to overtime.

New QB, small 'D' deliver for L. Brantley

By BILL KERRIS
 Herald Correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — So much for those worries about a small defense.

After Dee Brown scored the go-ahead touchdown, Lake Brantley's over-achieving defense stuffed West Orange at the goal line with 10 minutes left to preserve a 10-6 home victory at Tom Storey Field in the opening game of the season for both teams.

"That was one of the best games I've ever been associated with," said Lake Brantley head coach Fred Almon. "We rose to the occasion when the pressure was on. We got sloppy at times, but we weren't expected to play this well."

"If we keep playing like we did tonight, we've got a good chance of winning the district again."

Lake Brantley will start its quest at repeating as 6A-District 4 champs when the Patriots travel to Lake Howell next Friday for a 7:30 p.m. contest.

Tyson Hinshaw engineered second-half touchdown drives of 77 and 66 yards to rally the Lake Mary Rams and force overtime in Friday's game with Edgewater.

Edgewater edges Lake Mary in OT

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Playing in their season-opener at Don T. Reynolds Stadium, Lake Mary High School football team proved to be every bit as good, if not better, than the very talented Edgewater Eagles.

But the Rams' mistakes led directly to their own demise as the Eagles won the exciting contest, 27-24, on Ahmad Butler's 3-yard touchdown run in the Kansas tiebreaker.

"We played well tonight," said Lake Mary coach Doug Peters. "But we made way too many mistakes. We fumbled three times and had a crucial penalty in the first half. You can't give a team like Edgewater those kind of breaks."

"We became a better team tonight. But a loss is a loss. We are not happy. We lost to many close games last year to be happy in a loss. But I knew if we played hard and took it to them, that we would come out of this game a better club. And we have."

The Rams fumbled on their first two possessions, losing the first one and the second one forcing a punt. Lake Mary had a chance to pin the Eagles deep on the punt, but the Edgewater returner got away and took the ball back to the Rams' 38.

It took just two plays for the Eagles to get on the board as junior quarterback Caesar Campana Jr., son of the Edgewater head coach, found Sean Mora open behind the Rams secondary for a 29-yard score. Chase Heard tacked on the first of his three extra points on the night.

Lake Mary got a huge break midway through the second quarter as Donnie Casey broke through to block a 25-yard field goal attempt and Ronel Jumpy recovered for the Rams. But again, Lake Mary fumbled, giving the Eagles possession on their own 41.

Edgewater took advantage, Butler's 3-yard scamper giving the Eagles a 14-0 lead at intermission.

After forcing the Eagles to punt on the opening drive

King, defense lift Oviedo in opener

Special to the Herald

STUART — Balancing a brilliant individual offensive performance by Brion King with a smothering effort by the defensive unit, the Oviedo High School football team opened its season Friday with a 21-0 win over host Stuart-Martin County.

Offensively, King did everything but drive the team bus, rushing 17 times for 148 yards, catching two passes for 14 more yards, punting five times for a 31-yard average, and scoring all three of the Lions' touchdowns.

King personally accounted for 162 of the Lions' 206 offensive yards (78.6 percent). And most of those yards came on his touchdown runs of 63, 14, and 43 yards.

"We did pretty good," said Oviedo coach Jack Blanton. "Our defense played a great game, but we have a lot of work to do on offense. Brion had some big plays, but we didn't do the things I wanted to do.

"We had two fumbles and an interception on offense. Those are things we have to correct. On the offensive line, our seniors did well but the younger guys have to start working a little harder. They didn't execute like I thought they would."

According to Ken Kroog, who assists Blanton with the offense, the Lion defense was perhaps Oviedo's best offensive weapon.

"Brion's runs were real nice runs," said Kroog. "But it was really a field position game. We got it and we kept it. Our defense just smothered them. They never got inside our 20-yard line except for the final drive."

"We were able to move the ball. Their defense is tough. They completely shut us out last year, but we were prepared for them this year."

The Oviedo defense gave the offense solid field

Chisolm goes long twice in Lake Howell victory

By RYAN ANDERSON
 Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — Led by Kelvin Chisolm's touchdown dashes of 98 and 45 yards, the Lake Howell Silver Hawks opened the season with an opening night victory with a 30-20 thumping of the Winter Park Wildcats at Richard L. Evans Field.

Lake Howell's offensive explosion began with the opening kickoff, when Chisolm went 98 yards to put Lake Howell ahead 6-0. Rusty MacDowell added the extra point for a 7-0 Silver Hawk lead with only 15 seconds expired.

"I think the big key for us tonight was Kelvin Chisolm," Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia said. "Anytime you can run the opening kickoff back for a touchdown, that really takes a lot out of the other team. We stole the momentum early and that was the key."

The Silver Hawks maintained the momentum for the rest of the first quarter holding the Wildcats scoreless, and limiting them to 16 offensive plays.

Winter Park scored on their first play from scrimmage in the second quarter on a 4-yard run by Cornelius Allen. Scott Cohen's extra point tied the score with 11:54 left in the half.

The Silver Hawks answered the Winter Park score with Chisolm's second touchdown. MacDowell capped the five-play drive with an extra point that gave Lake Howell a 14-7 lead with 8:59 left to play in the first half.

Despite the win, Bisceglia still feels there is room for improvement for his team as the season progresses.

"I'm not entirely happy with the way we played tonight, but I'll take the win," Bisceglia said. "I think we executed strongly on defense but we made some mistakes on offense."

"We'll get better as the season progresses. There is no way we will be able to beat some of the teams on our schedule if we play the way we did tonight against them."

After Winter Park tied the game one last time on Allen's 54-yard touchdown dash and Cohen's extra point early in the third quarter, Lake Howell took control of the game by scoring 16 unanswered points.

The streak began on a 40-yard pass from Maurice Smith to Ellis DeJesus with 1:06 left in the third quarter. MacDowell nailed the extra point, then added a 25-yard field goal with 8:52

Terms of the purchase were not disclosed.

Sound Money Investors, publisher of Personal Investing News and International Money and Politics, doubled its size with the acquisition of the network.

Its sports operations are based in Las Vegas, Nev., and the business network is headquartered in Colorado Springs, Colo. Both air 24-hour formats of live news, features and special events.

A fine room at the inn Inn Route features Sanford B&B

By NICK PFEIFFAUF

SANFORD — A new pamphlet entitled Inn Route, is being made available across the state. It has been published by Inns of Florida, The Association of Smaller & Historic Lodging Properties of Florida.

Walt Padgett, owner of the Higgins House, 420 S. Oak Avenue in Sanford, is a member of the Board of Directors of the organization.

"We've had this organization for about three and a half years," Padgett said, "and we have grown from about 40 to 50 members to almost 90 at the present time."

He said the bed & breakfast industry, especially for those located in buildings of historical value, is rapidly becoming one of the state's tourist and vacationer highlights.

The pamphlet features 76 Bed & Breakfast locations across the state, and gives descriptions of many of them, including the Higgins House.

"This is our first listing of this magnitude," he said. "We are handing these out at each of our establishments, and I plan to take some down to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce to give out whenever someone makes an inquiry."

Regarding having the booklet included with the hundreds of pamphlets handed out at the Florida Welcome Stations along the state line, Padgett said the organization has had difficulty with the state in approving the distribution of the pamphlet. "We're still working on this however," he observed.

The actual document has been prepared by the Inn Route Association, founded in 1988. It is known as one of the foremost bed and breakfast authorities in Florida.

In addition to the smaller hand-out publication, Inns of Florida, headquartered in Miami Dora, has also published a major directory called "Inns of Florida," which is available for $3.80.

Padgett said the organization of bed & breakfast facilities will be holding an industry-wide meeting in Maitland later this month. "This is a rapidly growing industry," he said, "and we are all looking forward to gathering together for this meeting."

Regarding the individual listing for Higgins House, the publication is actually a promotion for the entire Sanford area.

It says, "Experience the charm and romance of a by-gone era at this 1894 Victorian Bed & Breakfast located in Historic Sanford, Florida, near beautiful Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River."

The brochure then goes into specifics regarding the offerings at Higgins House.

For information on the free hand-out publication, contact Walt Padgett at the Higgins House, 324-9236.

SANFORD — Although Decoupage is a major company operating in seven states, it is being marketed in Central Florida. Executive Vice President Jerry Caldwell is a Sanford resident while the company President, Ken Campbell, lives in Orlando.

The finished product is a mounted and covered photograph. Caldwell says an individual starts with a photograph, perhaps of a loved one or the family. The company then re-photographs the original, and enlarges it to eight by ten inch size.

From that point on, it is fine-tuned to eliminate any flaws which may have come from the original, and mounted on an all-wood oak display backing.

The backing is then coated in decoupage, which gives a complete covering to not only the photo but the entire framing area.

The backing is available with country oak or walnut stain finish, and with scrolled or straight designs. The cost for the finished product is approximately $35, plus shipping and handling.

"This will protect the photograph for possibly a hundred years," Caldwell said. "It's one of the most beautiful ways a person could find to preserve a treasured photograph, and it doesn't even require someone to give up the original."

He explained that decoupage is an old French form of an art style brought forward from the 15th century. "It enhances the photograph and will not crack or become foggy with time," he said. "We guarantee all of our work, which is custom crafted by a single individual at our factory, who takes extreme pride in his work."

The actual finished product is made in Hebron, Ohio.

Woman of the year?

By NICK PFEIFFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

Who will be the woman of the year in agriculture? The question is now up for response.

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Bob Crawford's office is now accepting nominations for the award for 1994.

The award, now in its 10th year, recognizes women who have made outstanding contributions to Florida agriculture. A woman does not need to be directly involved in tending cattle or plowing a field. Nominees may also include women who have been prominent in agriculture business professions.

"This award spotlights the vital role of women in Florida agriculture and serves to encourage other women to get involved in the business," Crawford said. "Many women have made significant contributions over the years in developing and sustaining what is now a $6 billion industry."

Those nominated will be judged by an independent panel familiar with Florida agriculture. The award will be presented on Feb. 3, 1995 at the opening day luncheon of the Florida State Fair in Tampa.

The Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services, which sponsors the event, has sent nomination forms to agricultural organizations around the state.

Deadline for submission to the department is Nov. 1, 1994.

Persons wishing to obtain an entry form should phone the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service office at 323-2500, ext. 5559.

Among past winners of the Woman of the Year in Agriculture award are Carol C. Murphy, owner and operator of a Volusia County soybean production business, Ruth M. Tucker, Brevard County cattlewoman, Ruth Wedgworth, Belle Glade businesswoman and farmer.

Appliances and more

Dean Ray, along with his wife Janet and their two children, own and operate Ray's Appliance, 318 French Avenue. The family says their business of appliances and thrift store items is here to stay. Although labeled as an "appliance" store, Ray's also deals with a host of clothing, leather goods, shoes, and collectibles. Originally from Detroit, the family also operates a booth at Flea World, and plans to open another store in the Sanford area in the future.

On August 18, at 4 p.m., Harriett Boyd's cat "Morris" disappeared. She believes he got into an open van parked at her home.

"As my friend drove out the driveway, he headed to Wilson Drive and home on Crystal Lake Drive, which is about a mile from my home (in Lake Mary)," says Boyd. She said her friend then went to Sanford, around midnight, to the area of 12th Street and Myrtle Ave.

Boyd says her cat is known to ride on the top of cars. "He stayed on my car when I drove to Cafe Sorrento, about two years ago."

Dennis appointed to AARP position

Lynette M. Dennis has recently been appointed to the position of Florida District Director of American Association of Retired Persons (AARP). For the past 20 years, Dennis has been devoted to the city of Longwood in various capacities beginning with the Historical Advisory Committee. Dennis was later appointed to the Charter Review Committee which recommends changes in the city's legal language and the system of laws for the purpose of adapting to the changes of the world around them. Later, Dennis was elected to the city commission and served a two-year term. In 1985, Dennis was appointed by her peers to the position of deputy mayor as an enforcer of code violations within the city limits.

During the next few years Dennis planned and executed her daughter's wedding and became a volunteer with the Hospice organization and began to develop her antiquing hobby. Her antiquing hobby has actually turned into "Antique Collectibles," a shop located in the historical district of Longwood at 216 W. Warren beside the Enchanted Cottage. As luck and hard work would have it, this part-time position also turned into another position of settling estates since antiques and prices were things that just remained with her. This was just working out great for Dennis when a retired city clerk friend asked if she would attend an AARP meeting with her.

After retiring from the position of deputy mayor, Dennis had planned to definitely spend more time with friends and the AARP meeting gave her an opportunity to do just that. One meeting led to several meetings which led to the position of legislative chair, then to the position of the board of directors, then the position of Florida District Director. The AARP knows talent when they see it.

When Dennis was asked if there is anything in the article she would like people to know, she responded with, "Yes, I would like everyone to know exactly what AARP is; it is about people and the enrichment of their lives no matter where they are in their stage of life." She is a wonderful spokeswoman for the AARP and a person dedicated to enriching one's life.

Tallahassee Girls State attended

SANFORD — Girls State was organized as a national Americanism activity of the American Legion Auxiliary in 1937 to inspire and develop interest in the study of government, foster civic leadership and to stimulate a desire to protect the privileges and responsibilities of this democratic form of government. Outstanding high school girls attend Girls State each year, currently about 20,000 young women have participated. Girls State is a non-partisan, non-sectarian, non-political attempt to teach and inculcate in the young women of America a love of God and country.

Girls State is sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary and is held in Tallahassee. Young women from each girl's state are selected to attend the study of federal government, meet national government officials and visit places of historical interest in the nation's capital. Political parties assignments are made as the Girl Staters arrive. These parties are: Nationalist and Federalist. Twelve staff members serve as counselors to about 25 young women, comprising the cities. The citizens of each city hold elections to select their city government. Two cities form a county and county officials are elected. The Nationalists and Federalists adopt party platforms, have pep rallies, and hold nominations for state government. The citizens of Girls State then elect their state governor, cabinet and other officials. The state officials begin to draft bills, debate those bills; committee appointments are made. Girls State is just like the real world of government. When available, the state capitol Senate chambers and the House of Representatives are utilized to hold sessions.

Three local teen-agers, Jenni Drury and Andrea Floyd, Lake Mary High School, and Angela Wiggins, Seminole High School, participated in June of this year

Behind the Washington D.C. scene

By SUSAN WILSON
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Just as Girls State has helped educate many young women about the workings of state and local government, another local teenager attended a similar event. Unlike Girls State that takes place in Tallahassee, Florida's capital, Presidential Classroom carries its program to the nation's capital, Washington, D.C.

Tamar Bains participated this past June in a program called Presidential Classroom. Many local organizations helped with expenses such as the American Legion Auxiliary Post 53, VFW (Veterans of Foreign Wars) Post 10106 and the Ladies Auxiliary from the same post, Order of the Elks Lodge 1241 in Sanford, and the Ladies Auxiliary of Fleet Reserve Post 147.

Bains spoke of her interest in the program and told some details about her week in Washington, D.C. "This June, I attended a symposium in Washington, D.C. from June 10 to 18. I participated in a program called Presidential Classroom, along with 252 other students. Presidential Classroom was founded in 1969 to teach 16- to 18-year-olds the merits of the federal government. It's an extremely worthwhile program. It is similar to Girls State except we learn about the federal government."

Bains spoke of the people she met during her visit. "When I first arrived in Washington I didn't know what to expect. What I found was hard work, wonderful friends and great memories. Everyday I was there I made a new friend from all over the United States. Almost every state was represented, even Puerto Rico, and they were terrific."

She continued by sharing the various speeches available. "The most exciting parts of the program were the lectures and the crossfire debates we had with other students there. In the lectures I had the opportunity to talk to the ambassador of Haiti. She had given us an update on the role of the diplomats. My parents have Haitian origin and so I asked how Haitian-Americans can help Haiti become more democratic. Instead of their dictatorship. She said we need to put pressure on the government to overthrow the dictator. I also met Senator William Cohen of Maine."

Girls

and shared their experiences. Claudia Burke, from the American Legion Auxiliary Unit 53, spoke of their involvement in Girls State. "We go to high schools in the spring," she said. "We ask them to give us names of girls who would be interested in participating in government. We interview the girls. The number we send depends on the membership of our auxiliary and our finances. After the girls are selected, the parents sign forms for approval. We choose three out of the seven we interviewed. The girls give us a narrative of why they want to attend and we ask further questions."

Burke displayed one of the interview sheets and sample questions. There were 13 questions asking the applicants if they had completed their junior year of high school. Were they a U.S. citizen and willing to pledge to the American flag as well as swear oaths on a Bible? Other questions included school interests and organizations of involvement and career goals. General questions on health, leadership and family interaction were also covered.

Angela Wiggins, who was voted mayor at the event, spoke of her experiences. "My school recommended me for Girls State and I was interviewed by the American Legion. I was chosen after the interviews to attend. I enjoyed Girls State. Each girl had to write a bill. My bill was entitled "Capitol Offenses — Speedy Execution Act of 1994." This gave a time limit for inmates to stay on death row. I had to debate on my bill and it was passed in both the House and Senate, however, it was vetoed by the governor. While at Girls State, Gov. Chiles spoke to us as well as Tom Gallagher. I really enjoyed Girls State and it was one of the greatest and most interesting experiences I've ever encountered. I was mayor of my city and a senator of Girls State. I also received a plaque for being the most outstanding citizen of my city, Ortega."

Jenni Drury said, "Girls State was a fantastic experience! I had heard wonderful things about the program from the start. When I was finally selected and I actually attended, my expectations were exceeded by the abundance of information we received, and the wonderful friendships I formed. The program centered around learning about how the state government works. A mock governing system was established and all delegates could hold city, county and/or state offices. We attended various lectures on the responsibilities of citizens, heard motivational speeches and participated in a hands-on legislative session. Somehow in between all those activities all the girls visited a museum in Tallahassee and the Supreme Court as well. I feel the greatest Bains then discussed her favorite part of the adventure in the places she visited. "The part I liked best was the touring. We went all over Washington. The program instructors managed for us to sit in the House of Representatives and the State Department. We went to the Department of Agriculture and heard a talk. We also went to Arlington National Cemetery, the Smithsonian, the Pentagon, the Vietnam Memorial and also the Women's Vietnam Memorial. The one place on my group tour that I really enjoyed was the Holocaust Memorial Museum. There were hundreds of people there but it was so quiet. All I can say is that it was an extremely emotional experience."

Bains emphasized her thankfulness to the many people who helped make her enriching and educational experience happen. "I would just like to thank all that helped support this program and me going to it. None of this would have happened if I hadn't received the brochure from my ROTC teacher, Col. Charles H. Gibson at Seminole High School, the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary Post 53, and all the other wonderful organizations that supported me in my venture to attend this program."

Bains was active in the ROTC in high school. Her plans are to enter the Army in the fall. She plans to pursue nursing while in the service. She said, "I want to be an Army nurse."

How I spent my summer vacation

Hawaii: Aqua seas, majestic peaks

By SHARI BRONK
Herald Staff Writer

Everybody's dream trip, a trip of a lifetime...Hawaii.

Well, that wasn't necessarily my attitude when it was announced at the company picnic that my husband had won an all expense paid trip to the Pacific Islands. Why would someone who had spent their entire life in Florida, a body of land surrounded on three sides by water, have any interest in going to another body of land surrounded on four sides by water?

Nevertheless, I threw myself into the guide books, hoping to find something to change my mind. I figured, it was a vacation after all, and everybody deserves a vacation, all expenses paid, for four people.

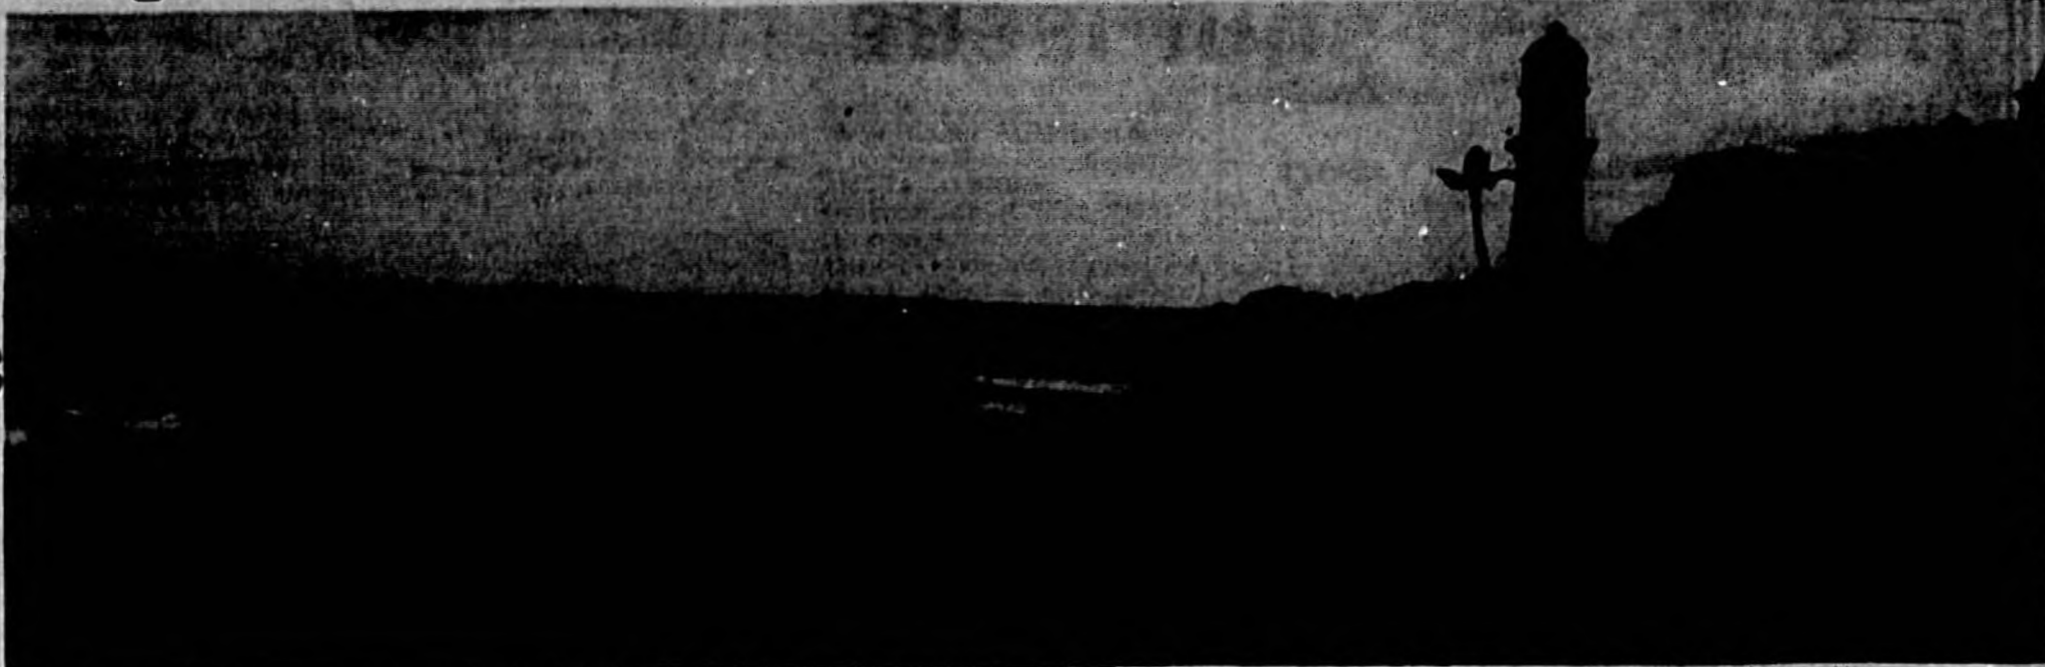

After six months of planning, the travel agent confirmed the accommodations, confirmed the flights and confirmed that we had done our homework and had crammed as much of Hawaii as was possible into eight nights and nine days.

We had planned to stay first on Oahu, on Waikiki, then on Maui with a day trip to the Big Island of Hawaii. The day trip would include a helicopter tour of Volcanoes National Park.

Since our internal clocks were all screwed up, we awoke the next morning at 4. Needless to say, we got a lot of sightseeing done the first day.

Having only seen the city of Honolulu, which has an interstate system running through the middle of town that would frighten even the most experienced drivers, I still was not impressed with our "dream" destination.

But by mid-morning we were driving across the midlands of Oahu, which is bounded by two mountain ranges. The valley floor is pineapple fields as far as the eye can see, until the eye reaches the bright blue of the Pacific off the famous North Shore. This first breathtaking experience was all that was needed to put all of us into a different frame of mind.

The North Shore is as bohemian as one would expect. No driving on these beaches, the waves reach right up to the roadway. Parking for surfers and snorkelers is at a premium. The road is lined with car after car, in single file. The towns are small, the foundation of wooden storefronts occupied by gift shops and the galleries are common to these artist communities. While the waves were impressive in the summer, winter is time, we were told, when the waves that made the area famous roll in.

Our remaining two days on Oahu were filled with seeing the "traditional" tourist sites. We climbed to the top of Diamond Head and were afforded a wonderful view of Waikiki on one side and Koko Head on the other. We also saw the Diamond Head Lighthouse. My two favorite things in the world, as all of my friends and family know, are pineapples and lighthouses, so I was in heaven, so to speak.

Beyond Koko Head is Hanauma Bay, a partially submerged, extinct volcanic head. The reefs were impressive, but we arrived too late to do any snorkeling.

We also visited the Polynesian Cultural Center, which could be called the Disney World of Hawaii, but should not be missed as it is a definite exponent of preservation of the Polynesian culture.

Although we were not sure if we would be able to fit it in, we were able to visit the Arizona Memorial, coincidentally on the Fourth of July. While it is well-known that Hawaii is a popular destination for Japanese tourists, my family and I were surprised at the number of Japanese visiting this site.

The northeast side of the island, going north from Honolulu through the tunnels at the Nuuanu Pali Lookout, showed a "different side of the island, a more urbane, less tourist-y side. Highway 83 winds along a marvelous coast of coves and palm trees at the base of the Koolau Mountains. Driving in Hawaii is not for the faint at heart.

We managed to escape the binds of Waikiki without attending a luau, taking a hula lesson, or paddling an outrigger canoe. Don't get me wrong, all of those things are wonderful, but the impression we got was that they were highly diluted by American culture and not at all what traditional Hawaiians meant them to be.

Maui was everything everyone said it would be. It is the Hawaii of travel posters and post cards. Lahaina is a bit too tourist-oriented for my taste, but the historical aspects of the old whaling town were interesting and informative. Kaanapali is beautiful, but on our next trip to Hawaii, we are going to stay closer to the center of the island, because it is a long drive from Kaanapali to Kahului, where the airport is. We spent a lot of time driving, that we could have spent exploring Mt. Haleakala, "house of the sun."

We did spend one day going and coming back from Hana. The road to Hana is thirty miles of endless curves and one lane bridges crawling across the northeastern foot of Haleakala. While more experienced drivers, probably natives, flew by us at 50 miles per hour, we crawled along at 35, tops, and enjoyed the endless waterfalls, the lush rainforest and spectacular views off of the high, sheer cliffs. Hana is rustic and isolated. One of the famous black sand beaches can be found on that side of Maui, as well as a red sand beach, which was equally as impressive.

Volcanoes National Park must be the epitome of what the lunar landscape must look like. On top of Kilauea is as high as I've ever been and still had my feet on the ground, at 4000 feet. Even with the helicopter tour, flying over the current eruption at Pu'u 'o'o and the lava flows to the sea, the few hours we spent on the Big Island were not enough to take in the breath of the size of the youngest island in the chain.

Nobody really wants to talk about the weather and especially the weather on another person's vacation, but I have to say that Oahu Gulch is the reward at the end of Hana Highway.

Another culture a world away draws local couple

Involvement in Rotary Club has always been exciting and rewarding, but I was reminded just how much on a recent trip to Taipei, the capital city of Taiwan, part of nationalist China, on the other side of the world.

My wife, Jane, and I traveled 13½ hours on China Airlines, heading to the Rotary International convention this past June. Flying westward, we followed the sun and it did not get dark until we were nearly to Taipei, even though it would have been after 5 in the morning after we left San Francisco time. We crossed the international date line and it became one day later, so we actually arrived at nearly 8 p.m. on Saturday.

When we arrived at Taipei and got into the airport we were immediately met by local Rotarians, and there were numerous signs in English directing us where to go. Our flight had several local Rotarians, including Tom Sacha of Winter Park, and Charlie Rogers of Altamonte Springs/Forest City.

We should mention that Taipei weather was very hot and humid. The sky was usually overcast and it always seemed to be on the verge of rain. On the bus ride to the Lin-Kou stadium, we noticed a tremendous number of police cars. We thought that was pretty nice that the police would give us an escort and watch us so closely. Later in the program that evening His Excellency, Prime Minister Lien Chan, on behalf of Pres. Teng-hui Lee, was the featured speaker, and we then realized that was the reason for the heavy security. Some people thought the security was very tight, but others whom we talked to said that they were seated close to the stage and felt that security was loose for such a head of state. It was probably a lot tighter than it looked to the untrained eye.

The ceremony was similar to the one at Orlando where each represented county presented a flag on the stage. The prime minister spoke with a strong political plea for admission into the United Nations, and he used the Rotary Four-Way Test to justify Taiwan's admission. On the bus on the way back we ran into a representative from the Casseberry club and discussed the content of the speech and the upcoming events for Monday.

After the Southland breakfast we walked around the neighborhood a little bit which gave us a good chance to see the cityscape in Taipei from a very close perspective. Traffic is ferocious. Cars are small, trucks are small, and motorcycles are everywhere. A three-lane street becomes a seven lane street when all available space between cars fills up with motor scooters. Motor scooters seem to outnumber cars by about 3:1 and all vehicles seem to peacefully coexist, although they all cut each other off, pull ahead and stop and all sorts of maneuvers that would have U.S. drivers screaming at each other or worse. With the Taiwanese, they do not feel they are being rude, their whole way of life is to be crowded and basically bumping into one another. No amusement park ride has even been more exciting or entertaining than some of the taxi rides we had in Taipei. Cars will pull right out into three moving lanes of mixed (motor

Backpacking across Europe

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — The lazy days of summer weren't so lazy this year for two Sanford youths. As a matter of fact, Randy Bowlin and Jay Culver spent five weeks backpacking and visiting five countries in Europe. The pair traveled to France, Spain, Switzerland, Italy and Germany.

Bowlin spoke like an old pro because this was actually his second visit to the other side of the world. "I first went with my grandmother a couple of years ago. There's so much to see. It's so interesting and it's such a different culture. It's so cool that in just a couple of hours going from country to country how different the architecture, culture and the people are. It's sort of like EPCOT. You can go to different cultures just in a matter of minutes. Switzerland and Italy border each other yet they still have different cultures and hold firm to their cultures."

"We were amazed that most people speak three to five different languages fluently. Americans need to work harder on that in the schools. The funny thing is they know you're American. There's no way around it. No matter how hard you try to look European, they just know you're American, so you might as well look American."

Culver chimed in. "One thing we heard a lot of is, 'You American?' The people would ask us what it is like in the states." Culver also agreed. "The coolest thing for me was that you could go an hour or more and things would be so different. It's so diverse there, even the culture."

The pair agreed that "meeting the people" was truly a memorable part of the experience. They sorted through many pictures of all "the girls" they met too. Culver pointed out, "I think every high school needs a trip to Europe as a course. It's so worth the trip because the culture, the people and the things to see just aren't done justice by the textbooks we study here. I learned more in five weeks in Europe than in two years of school."

Of course, for a 19- and 20-year-old, food was an important part of the trip. Bowlin said, "I liked all the food! We tried octopus, squid, fish. The Spaniards are crazy! They eat lunch at three or four in the afternoon and supper at ten at night until sometimes two in the morning." Culver added, "We spent most of our money on food. I like the Italian food the best. In Spain when we went out to eat we were at the restaurant at 2 a.m. and the place was packed and still going strong. They do have Pizza Hut's, McDonald's, Burger King and Kentucky Fried Chicken. There were 33 McDonald's in Paris alone."

They talked about the cost of items in Europe. Culver said, "A pair of Levi's jeans there cost between $80 to $120. A lot of the girls would tell us to bring them some Levis when we visit again. The cost of living is high in Switzerland but in Italy, it's low." Bowlin added, "A coke there can cost $3 compared to 60 cents here."

The pair joked about the word they learned and the few souvenirs purchased. Culver spoke as he showed a tattoo on his left ankle with the hair still auburn. "I got this tattoo in Europe. It's a symbol for no beginning and no end." He swung his head to the side and pointed out the thread braided into his hair. "I got the braid in Rome. I got the red, white and blue colors for America."

The customs were another topic of discussion. Bowlin said, "We taught some of the girls some American handshakes. The Europeans kiss on the cheek. That was different." Culver added, "The Italian girls taught us the word for groovy, 'spacioso.'"

The pair showed pictures of snow-capped mountains in Switzerland and frozen glaciers. The bullfights in Spain were also captured on film. In fact, they agreed that the fights were one of their most memorable ventures. Bullfighters with swirling capes, a bull covered in blood and horses pulling a dead bull from the arena were some of the

Get the financial help you need

Loans make it easier to pay for college

On average, it will cost you between $5,400 and $14,700 a year to attend college.

It's no surprise that students are relying more heavily on student loans to help finance their education. For the 1992-93 academic year, about 40 percent of all financial aid received was in the form of federally-sponsored student loans.

Sallie Mae, the nation's largest source for guaranteed student loans, advises students and their families to keep thorough, accurate records of their loans.

They also recommend using just one lender when applying for student loans.

"By using one lender, you will need to make just one monthly student loan payment in the future," said Jeffrey Sampson, the academic services representative for Sallie Mae. "Also, some lenders offer special repayment terms, or vary the monthly payment over the life of the loan."

But the most important thing of all, he recommends, is to be sure to apply for the loan early.

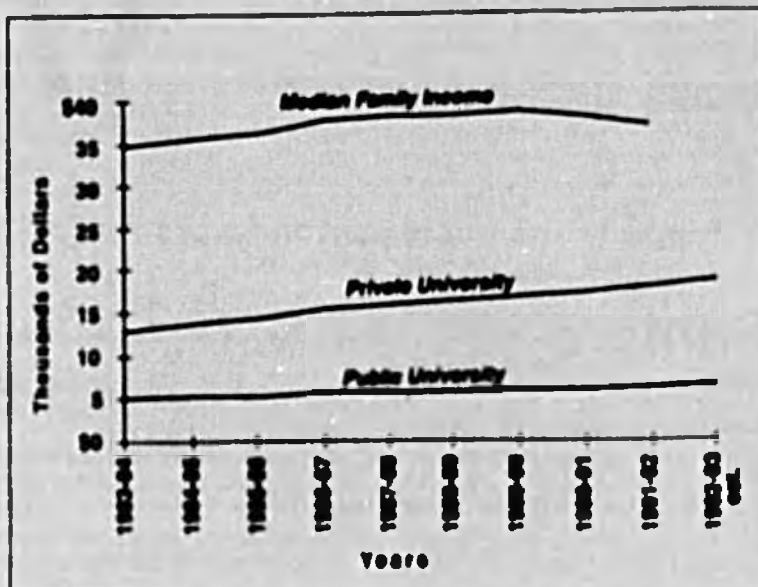

Apply first for grants and scholarships. There are many out there available to help students of all abilities and income levels.

But, if you fail to get the money you need from those sources, you should begin making your loan applications as soon as you can.

Students who will be entering college in the fall of next year would not be beginning their research in to financial assistance options too early if they were to start looking into the matter today.

Is it cool to eat at school?

By VICKI DEGENERAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Students still often turn their noses up at the lunches available at the high schools around Seminole County despite county efforts to improve the taste and nutritional content of the meals.

Despite restrictions, students often sneak off campus to dine at a variety of establishments around the area, away from school.

"It's just not acceptable to eat at school," said one young woman who did not want to give her name for fear of incurring administrative wrath. "The food tastes good and it's reasonably priced, but it's just not 'cool' to eat in the cafeteria."

She and several other students were eating incognito at the Taco Bell at the corner of 27th Street and French Avenue in Sanford.

"Actually," said another teen, rolling his eyes and feigning an air of sophisticate sophistication.

"I'm a burrito-tarian. I can't eat the chicken nuggets they serve at school. It would be totally outside the confines of my strict dietary structure."

Despite uproarious laughter from his compatriots, the food service department does not see the teens' rejection of the healthy options in the cafeterias as a joking matter.

"We really want to target the high school students," Dan Andrews, director of the district food service operations said. "We want the students to see that the food we have available for them is competitive with the food they can get out there on the street."

Andrews promises pizza, burgers...and, yes, even burritos. The items will taste as good as the "real thing," but will contain less fat and cholesterol.

"Who cares?" asked a young man with a bag full of candy and chips procured from a local convenience store. "I like greasy burgers. I like Cheetos. And I like all this s--- that's 'bad' for me."

Students around Seminole County have shown themselves to be outstanding in a variety of areas.

In elementary, middle and high school, as well as in college, these students are among the tops in their academic achievements.

Health care help for small businesses

The products are designed specifically for businesses with one to 50 employees.

BCBSF's expanded portfolio is available through the company's preferred provider organization plan and its Health Options HMO plan. For some small businesses, BCBSF's expanded portfolio marks the first time they have had access to HMO coverage of any kind.

The new plans are available now. Small business owners who would like more information about the plans may call 1-800-955-2227 or their nearest BCBSF's regional office.

Grand opening for new hospital Fish Memorial moves to Volusia Medical Center

Special to the Herald

ORANGE CITY — On Sept. 9, officials of the Southwest Volusia Healthcare Corporation will host a ribbon cutting ceremony and public open house of the new Fish Memorial Hospital at Volusia Medical Center. Ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m. with public tours available until 5 p.m.

The open house is part of the hospital's "Hand in Hand" campaign. Community members will be asked to trace an outline of their hand on a special certificate at the event to commemorate the opening of southwest Volusia's first hospital.

The program will incorporate local elementary schools, community organizations, elected officials and any member of the community interested in participating. Specially designed certificates will be available at the open house.

The first phase of Volusia Medical Center, an outpatient diagnosis and treatment center, opened last May. The Fish Memorial Hospital complex will begin providing emergency and inpatient services at 7 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 11, with the relocation of patients from the current location in DeLand.

Fish Memorial Hospital presently has 97 beds and can be expanded an additional four floors and 200 beds with the existing foundation and design. The Intensive Care Unit houses 21 patient beds while Progressive Care contains 26 beds in semi-private rooms. The Medical Surgical beds number 50 in either private or semi-private rooms.

The Emergency Room has two trauma beds and five standard examination rooms. A helicopter landing area is located adjacent to the emergency room in the event patients need to be transported quickly to another facility.

The Inpatient Surgery Department is designed with two operating rooms equipped with the latest technology for both specialty and general surgical procedures.

Rehabilitation Services includes occupational therapy, speech therapy and physical therapy for recovering patients. The Cardiopulmonary Department provides a complete line of non-invasive cardiology testing including stress testing, holter monitoring, echocardiography and peripheral vascular diagnostics.

Volusia Medical Center is located at 1055 Saxon Blvd., Orange City (one half mile west of I-4, Exit 83-CB). The center is a joint venture between the West Volusia Hospital Authority and Adventist Health System/Sunbelt — Florida Hospital.

State-of-the-art outpatient services offered

Special to the Herald

ORANGE CITY — The Volusia Medical Center Clinic opened in May of 1994. The clinic offers inpatient and outpatient centers for healthcare support services. There is an Urgent Care Walk-In Clinic, a Birthing Center, Ambulatory Surgery Center, Radiology Department and Laboratory.

The Urgent Care Clinic will provide walk-in non-emergency care, from physicals to stitches.

The Radiology Department has advanced technology with the following equipment:

The Siemens Magnetom Magnetic Resonance Imager (MRI), a non-surgical, non-invasive diagnostic procedure which allows doctors to see your internal body structures such as the brain, the spine and other vital organs without using X-rays.

Computer Tomography (CT) Scanner technology is a safe, painless examination. This imaging method provides doctors a cross-sectional picture of the structures in a body plane, reconstructed using a computer program and x-ray beams projected through the body.

Siemens Nuclear Medicine equipment provides a window to the heart, allowing the physician and technician to conduct complete, non-invasive cardiac studies.

SPECT Thallium Scans acquire information of renal, cardiac and other studies as needed. It will also process whole body bone scans.

Ambulatory Services offers physicians five operating rooms designed to service the local outpatients surgical needs.

Laboratory Services provides full laboratory and clinical pathology services.

The Breast Clinic offers three exam rooms and utilizes the newest GE Mammography Unit.

The Cardiopulmonary Rehabilitation Department is staffed by a registered nurse with cardio rehabilitation certification and a respiratory therapist. The department is equipped with new treadmills, stationary bicycles and Nautilus equipment.

The idea of having a full service medical center in southwest Volusia County has been a long time in coming, and now it is a reality. Thus we have adopted a slogan for Volusia Medical Center: "Care Made Visible," which speaks to Volusia Medical Center's emergence as this community's hospital.

By Bernice Bode Cool YOUR BIRTHDAY

Sept. 5, 1994
In the year ahead, you might make some significant, constructive changes... both socially and careerwise... that could help advance your ambitions and popularity. They will be products of your imagination and new positive attitude.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Realistic expectations should not be confused with wishful thinking today. The latter is self-defeating. The former ignites ambition. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
A difficult objective can be achieved today if you do what needs doing without a lot of fanfare. Decide your methodology in advance and boldly proceed.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You have a marvelous faculty today for expressing your ideas in ways that capture the imagination of companions and make them eager to participate in your interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Your boldness, determination and fortitude are your best assets today. Once you focus your mind upon an objective, you're not likely to quit in the middle of your campaign.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Today, even those who have previously resisted your ideas can be swayed to your way of thinking, rendering them allies instead of antagonists. Make your pitch.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
A substantial portion of your time today might be devoted to the needs of others rather than your own. You won't be seeking compensation, yet you're likely to be rewarded.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
You are likely to be much more effective today at dealing with others on a one-to-one basis than you will be with groups. Restrict

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Some players sit at the bridge table as if in a soundproof booth. They ignore all the vibrations that hang heavy in the air like humidity after a summer thunderstorm. They concentrate only on trying to find the right technical plays. Other players are alive to every little nuance, every momentary hesitation or bead of perspiration. They use their table presence, as it is called, to place the cards. Personally, I prefer a player who uses table presence -- but only on days when his antenna is well tuned. In today's deal, the significance of the opening lead was totally wasted on South. Thinking he had 12 easy tricks, he strode straight to defeat. North's three spades was a limit raise, showing some 11 total points and at least four trumps. South bid what he hoped he could make.

After winning the first trick with the club ace, South immediately led a trump. But East won with the ace and gave his partner a club ruff. The lead had all the aura of a singleton. (Or, if it was fourth-highest, it meant East had a singleton.) The correct line is to catch the heart ace at trick two. South continues with the diamond ace, a diamond ruff in the dummy and the K-Q of hearts, discarding his two remaining clubs. Then South proceeds with a high crossruff. As Katharine Whitehorn, the British journalist, claimed, "A good listener is not someone who has nothing to say. A good listener is a good talker with a sore throat." But South could only mumble an apology at the end of this deal.
