Superboy missed in Sanford

LAKE MARY — Due to a programming change that took effect Jan. 19, a "Superboy" episode filmed in Sanford late last year did not air at 6:30 p.m. Jan. 19, as reported in The Sanford Herald.

WOFL-TV in Lake Mary moved "Superboy" to an earlier slot Jan. 19, according to a spokesperson for the channel. The program's 14th episode, titled "Golem," aired at 11:30 a.m., its new time slot, the spokesperson said.

The spokesperson could not say when the episode filmed in Sanford would be repeated.

I-4 westbound closed tonight

LAKE MARY — The westbound, inside lane of Interstate-4 will be closed at the Lake Mary Boulevard interchange at Lake Mary tonight beginning at 11 p.m., according to Steve Homan at the state Department of Transportation office.

The lane will be closed to remove striping to prepare for the construction of a barrier wall, Homan said. The work is being done in preparation of the replacement of the Lake Mary Boulevard overpass, he said.

DOT officials were to decide later today if the lane would be closed Thursday night, Homan said.

Mom accused of drugging fetus

Jeannette Denora Burgess, 18, of 107 Harris St. in Altamonte Springs, was arrested last night by Seminole County sheriffs officers and charged with delivering controlled substances to a minor.

Burgess gave birth to Jerome Burgess in her home on Oct. 25, 1990, deputies report. At Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs, where mother and child were taken by ambulance after the birth, she said she had used crack cocaine three times a week during her pregnancy and had used it during labor, according to the arrest report.

The report said the child was transported to Arnold Palmer Hospital for Children and Women and placed in intensive care. The report also noted that the child was born at 22 to 24 weeks into the pregnancy and weighed one pound and 14 ounces.

The report stated that Burgess went to the Seminole County Sheriffs Office at the request of the arresting officer on Jan. 22 to make a statement about the case and was arrested after she allegedly admitted to smoking crack cocaine approximately two days prior to the birth of her son.

Burgess is being held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility in Sanford in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Homeowners say cluster boxes clutter downtown

By LACY DOMEN Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Some brand new structures are mushrooming on lawns in the downtown residential historic district, upsetting some downtown homeowners.

The Sanford branch of the U.S. Post Office, in a cost-cutting effort, began testing the idea of cluster mailboxes in the historic district in 1989. Letters were sent to select residents asking them for feedback about the central boxes which would allow postal carriers to deliver eight to 16 residents' mail to one location.

Several members of the Sanford Historic Trust did not feel the metal structures, common in apartment complexes and new housing developments, belonged in a historic district. Laura Straehla, president of the organization said.

Residents who had objections were invited to meet with postal officials on Jan. 18. See Page 5A

Renovation to disrupt local office

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Beginning Monday, mail delivered to 2,500 post office boxes at the Sanford branch will have to be picked up between the regular business hours of 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

A major renovation project, which will replace all post offices boxes over a three-month period, will require box mail to be moved from the front lobby area, according to Sanford Postmaster Fred Rader.

Rader said box customers will have to pick up their mail at the door located in the branch's lobby area. Lines to pick up mail could stretch as long as or longer than those for regular postal service at the branch's counter area, he said.

One of the reasons Rader isn't promising quick service for mail pickup is that it will be an additional chore for the branch's small staff. Only one of the 17 full- and part-time clerks will be available to pick up mail for box customers, he said, and that clerk will be taken away from the task of sorting box mail. The extra task will mean box mail, normally sorted by 10:30 a.m., will take longer to sort, he said.

Even finding a place to park in the already busy post office parking lot may become a bigger hassle. Construction workers will block off about nine parking spaces, including two designated for handicapped drivers, all located on the north side of the post office.

"We're begging the public to understand what we're going to be going through for the next few months," Rader said. "It's going to be a bigger inconvenience for us than it will be for you."

Prices of stamps rise Feb. 3

By RANDOLPH E. SCHMID Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — It'll cost four cents more to send a Valentine to your sweetheart this year.

Or to pay your credit card bill. Or even send home a postcard from vacation.

Postage rates will go up on Feb. 3, the governing board of the U.S. Postal Service announced Tuesday, accepting a recommendation made earlier by the independent Postal Rate Commission.

The price of a first-class stamp will climb from a quarter to 29 cents and a post card stamp will increase from 15 cents to 19 cents.

Representing the new first-class rate will be the "F-Flower" stamp, a red tulip on a yellow background. See Page 5A

Ground fighting flares; 2 hurt

By JEFFREY ULBRICH Associated Press Writer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — Allied warplanes battered Iraq for a seventh day today, and two American soldiers were reported wounded in a clash with an Iraqi patrol just inside Saudi Arabia.

Six Iraqi soldiers were captured when a U.S. Army armored infantry unit exchanged fire with the Iraqi patrol, Air Force Lt. Col. Mike Scott told reporters today. He said the encounter occurred near the Saudi-Iraq border and occurred amid continuing sporadic artillery fire.

He said the wounded Americans were treated and returned to duty.

Asked specifically about reports that Americans were captured in a skirmish with Iraqi troops, Scott said, "I have no information on that."

His comments came after Iran's official news agency said Iraq had claimed its ground forces had killed allied forces in Saudi Arabia early today and captured allied soldiers. There was no independent confirmation of the Iranian report.

Also today, U.S. and British officials said they were eroding Saddam Hussein's ability to launch Scud missiles on Iraq's neighbors.

Although Pentagon official Pete Williams said it was impossible to destroy all Iraq's Scud missile launchers, British Maj. Gen. Alex Harley said Tuesday was a "particularly successful day" in the effort to knock out the launchers.

"Virtually all the main Iraqi military airfields have been damaged, with reduced capacity; the Iraqi air force has been harassed and forced to move from one place to another, with his (Saddam's) command and control gradually being degraded," Harley said in London.

"This leaves the skies largely free for the allied air effort," said Harley, the deputy director of operations of the British defense staff.

Williams told "CBS This Morning" that the Iraqi launchers had proved particularly elusive targets. "Finding the right Scud launcher is a little bit like finding one flatbed truck in all of Texas," he said.

U.S. Patriot interceptor missiles failed to knock out Tuesday's Iraqi missile attack on the Tel Aviv area, but they turned back Iraqi Scuds zooming into eastern Saudi Arabia before dawn today.

Harley said the allied attacks have reduced Iraq's oil refining capacity by 80 percent.

An oilfield in southern Kuwait that was ignited by Iraqi occupiers was still raging today, oil industry executives in Bahrain said. The U.S. military had confirmed the blazes at several Kuwaiti oil facilities on Tuesday.

Bus shelters win tentative approval

By J. MARK SANFIELD Herald staff writer

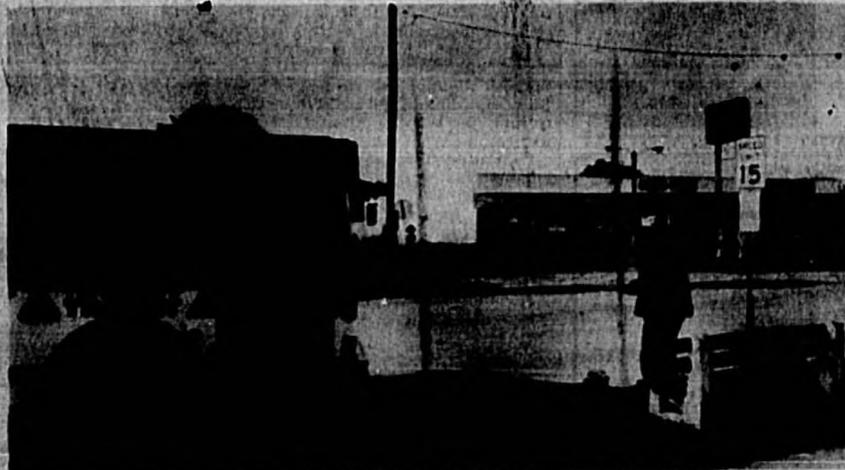

SANFORD — Unincorporated residents waiting for buses may soon keep a little drier.

Seminole County commissioners Tuesday agreed to consider allowing bus shelters to replace many bus benches throughout the county. Separate agreements would be needed with Sanford and other communities served by Tri-County Transit.

Hal Kantor, attorney for Flutie Enterprises of Central Florida Inc., said the company has been authorized by Tri-County Transit Authority (OSOTA) to provide the shelters throughout the bus routes.

Each shelter will be covered on three sides with glass and lighted. Each shelter would also bear four-by-six-foot advertising signs, Kantor said. Each would be placed where there is adequate public roadside land available, limiting the number

Shelters may replace benches at stops like this one at First Street and Cypress Avenue.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Blimp to scout Tampa Bay for manatees

TAMPA — Manatees will get some help from three biologists with a bird's eye view of Tampa Bay Saturday during a Super Bowl boat parade.

Sea World's Airship Shamu, the blimp painted in the likeness of a killer whale, will scout the bay for manatees during the Bamboleo Parade, which will attract between 500 and 800 spectators' boats to Tampa Bay.

The blimp will have three trained manatee spotters who will maintain contact with U.S. Coast Guard boats. The spotters and the Guard will then divert boats from areas where the manatees are.

About a third of the deaths among manatees are caused by boat propellers, and about 80 percent to 90 percent of the gentle sea cows have prop scars, Florida Marine Patrol officials have said.

About 1,200 manatees remain in the state.

Student pilot presumed dead

KEY WEST — The search for a Navy student pilot whose plane crashed into the Gulf of Mexico has been suspended and he is now listed as missing and presumed dead.

The search for Lt. J.G. Christopher T. Coston, 25, a native of Middletown, Ohio, was suspended at sunset Monday, officials with the Naval Air Training Command at Corpus Christi, Texas, said in a news release Tuesday.

Coston, who was stationed at Meridian, Miss., Naval Air Station, disappeared Sunday while en route to the USS Lexington to complete his aircraft carrier qualification landing, the final step in training before receiving his naval aviator wings.

The Pensacola-based Lexington was cruising in the Gulf about 10 miles north of the Marquesas Keys west of here, Coast Guard and Navy officials said.

Coston is the third pilot to die in operations involving the Lexington, the Navy's only training carrier, in the past six weeks.

Polluters may return to prison

PENSACOLA — Two small-time polluters who defied the federal government have been told they may have to return to prison because they have not paid fines of $5,000 each.

Ocie Mills and son Carey Mills, both of Milton, have already served 19 months of a 21 month term, and appeared before U.S. Magistrate Susan Novotny Tuesday.

She allowed them to remain free on personal recognizance pending a hearing on the issue of the fines before U.S. District Judge Roger Vinson. No date was immediately set for that hearing.

The Millses were convicted of dredging out and extending a drainage ditch and dumping fill dirt on a lot, designated a wetlands by the federal government, without obtaining permits from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Corps officials have said they were prosecuted, although the pollution they caused was relatively minor, because they refused to cooperate or take corrective action after the violations were discovered.

Removed flags to be replaced

PENSACOLA — Police removed dozens of small U.S. flags that someone taped to the Pensacola Bay Bridge, but City Manager Rod Kendig said they will be put back up.

The flags were removed Monday because neither the city nor the Florida Department of Transportation had given their permission, said police Sgt. Jerry Potts.

He also pointed out it is illegal to stop on the 3-mile-long bridge between Pensacola, home of the Pensacola Naval Air Station and other military installations, and suburban Gulf Breeze.

"It's not that the City of Pensacola isn't patriotic," Potts said. "I think it's wonderful, but someone else might want to put up a different flag next week."

Kendig said that, out of respect for the patriotism of Pensacola and its citizens, state transportation officials have approved the return of the flags. They will be put back up by the Fraternal Order of Police, Kendig said.

Bergalis wins $1 million insurance claim

FORT LAUDERDALE — An insurance company has agreed to award $1 million to a Fort Pierce woman believed to be one of the first patients ever to contract AIDS from her dentist.

The settlement Tuesday came a day before CNA Insurance Co.'s time had expired to contest claims by Kimberly Bergalis that she contracted AIDS from Dr. David Acer when he removed her wisdom teeth in December 1987.

CNA wrote Acer's $1 million dental malpractice insurance policy.

Acer died in September of AIDS-related cancer, days before Bergalis, 32, decided to make her case public to prevent others from sharing her fate.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Bill would cut public smoking

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A bill to curtail smoking in public places has again been introduced in the Florida Legislature, which passed a weaker version last year that was vetoed by then-Gov. Bob Martinez.

The bill will be sponsored by Sen. Jeanne Malchon, D-St. Petersburg, and Rep. Elaine Bloom, D-Miami Beach. It would reduce smoking in restaurants and hospitals and allow no one to light up in schools, day care centers and many common areas such as hallways.

"People are demanding strong clean indoor air legislation, and this sends a clear message to legislators and the tobacco industry," Malchon said. "We are serious about passing this legislation to control health care costs and reduce loss of lives from smoking."

She and Bloom were joined at a news conference by representatives of the American Lung Association, American Cancer Society and American Heart Association.

The bill, which would amend the Florida Clean Air Act, would prevent all smoking in schools, day care centers and hospitals, except in patient rooms where the doctor and all the patients there agree to allow it.

The definition of a "common area" would be expanded to ban smoking in hallways, lobbies, stairways, conference rooms and entryways. Smoking areas can be designated by signs in such places.

Restaurants that can serve more than 50 people would have to set aside at least 35 percent of their seating for non-smokers.

The Legislature passed a similar measure last year, but it was vetoed by Martinez because it prohibited employers from disciplining workers who violate non-smoking areas. The former governor also said the measure would have required smoking areas in movie theater lobbies, sports facilities and airports.

Malchon said the new bill wouldn't contain such a provision. It will, however, make it a crime for anyone to threaten or intimidate a person who reports violations.

The bill would also require bus, airline and other terminals in large cities to make public address announcements every 30 minutes pointing out that smoking is allowed only in designated areas.

Anti-smoking forces point to recent public opinion surveys such as a July Gallup poll showing that 89 percent of Americans favor some sort of restrictions on smoking in public places. Most — 73 percent — said they favored designated areas for smoking.

"There is mounting evidence that the public is ready to support legislation that would severely restrict, if not eliminate, smoking in all public places," said Dr. Charles Eytel, president of the Florida chapter of the American Cancer Society.

Palm Beach, Duval, Volusia residents argue local issues

By JACKIE HALLFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Boating speed limits, restricted beach construction and a new power plant drew people from Palm Beach, Volusia and Duval counties to the Capitol to argue their cases before Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet.

The panel Tuesday heard three hours of testimony before it signed off on plans for the coal-operated Jacksonville power plant.

It also heard two hours of testimony before it approved putting more Volusia beach property under tighter building restrictions and about half an hour of testimony on an emergency 25 mph speed limit designed to protect manatees in a seven-mile stretch of the Intracoastal Waterway from Jupiter Sound to Lake Worth.

The governor and Cabinet unanimously approved the siting of a new coal-generated electricity plant in Jacksonville after amending the order to delete permission to use ground water for cooling.

The possible use of ground water had been one of the major complaints of Jacksonville residents, who said they were living under water restrictions and opposed allowing a power plant that would be sending all of its electricity elsewhere in Florida to tap into the aquifer.

"Why should we take all the pollution and send all the electricity down state?" asked City Commissioner Joe Forshaw.

Dennis Bakke, president of Applied Energy Service Inc., the parent company of AES Cedar Bay, said the $470 million project would have a $4.6 billion economic impact on Jacksonville.

New murder suspect in custody

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Investigators are using DNA tests to link a man already in custody to the murder of five Gainesville college students, according to several news reports.

Police in the case dismissed the reports on Tuesday night, saying they knew nothing about efforts to link the crimes to a man in custody — and that they were certain no arrest is imminent.

But The Gainesville Sun reported for its Wednesday editions that the suspect in custody is not University of Florida freshman Edward Humphrey, one of the most publicized of the suspects.

LONGWOOD — The city commission last night voted 3 to 1 to form a citizen task force to review activities and decisions of the city police department.

Commissioner Rex Anderson voted to oppose the creation of the task force. Commissioner Adrienne Perry did not attend last night's meeting. Mayor Hank Hardy and Commissioners Gary Hester and Paul Lovstrand voted in favor of the measure.

According to the measure approved by the commission last night, each of the five city commissioners will appoint one member to the task force, and the city administrator will appoint two members.

Lovstrand's proposal to form the citizen task force came under fire by citizens at an earlier meeting.

Chiles to review amended workers' compensation bill

By KEITH PHILLIPS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — State lawmakers have amended the state's workers' compensation law to head off a legal challenge, but predicted they aren't through with the troublesome law.

During a 5 1/2-hour special session Tuesday, lawmakers approved an amendment designed to correct constitutional problems cited by a Leon County Circuit judge as well as address concerns of small contractors.

"We have addressed the most serious objections found by the trial judge," said Rep. Art Simon, D-Miami, at the conclusion of the session.

The amended law, which now goes to Gov. Lawton Chiles, eliminates the Industrial Relations Commission and the Workers' Compensation Oversight Board.

The amended bill also allows sole proprietors of construction companies to exempt themselves from workers' compensation coverage and allows up to three partners or corporate executives to avoid coverage.

The Senate approved the measure 36-1 after accepting technical changes from the House. The House passed it 114-2.

"All the problems of workers' compensation are not solved and will not be solved in a one-day special session," said Sen. W.D. Childers, D-Pensacola. "We will be back in the regular session rewriting workers' compensation this year," he said.

Sanford man jailed on drug charge

SANFORD — Florida Highway Patrol Friday arrested Edward N. Bullock, 31, 1316 Lake Ave., Sanford, on drug possession charges after a routine traffic stop, according to police reports.

Bullock was stopped by an FHP trooper on U.S. Highway 17-92 at 13th Street for a faulty headlight when the trooper noticed a plastic bag allegedly containing crack cocaine on the front seat of the car, a police report said. A search of the car turned up two additional plastic bags of cocaine, a container of marijuana and another piece of crack cocaine, the report said.

Bullock is charged with obstruction by disguise after he allegedly gave the trooper false identification, the report said. He is also charged with possession of cocaine and possession of marijuana with intent to sell and distribute.

He was booked into the county jail on a $5,000 bond.

Chiles picks Jacksonville trial judge

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The newest member of the Florida Supreme Court is Major Harding, a self-described judicial moderate with 20 years experience as a trial judge in Jacksonville.

Harding, 55, was chosen by Gov. Lawton Chiles to replace retired Justice Raymond Ehrlich, whose term ended earlier this month.

Chiles picked Harding to finish Ehrlich's six-year term from a list of three candidates selected by the Judicial Nominating Commission. Harding will face voters in a merit-retention vote in November 1992.

Hidden taxes

Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill are poised to mount another protectionist trade offensive that could make the emerging recession even worse.

During the next few months, in the name of protecting American jobs a flurry of bills will be introduced to stem the flow of foreign-made goods into this country. In reality, these measures would greatly increase what consumers pay for imported goods and add to the inflationary pressures that are undermining the economy.

Take toys, for example. Parents who are still paying off their Christmas bills should be outraged to learn that they owe nearly 10 percent more because of tariffs on toys and trinkets used as stocking-stuffers. Purchasers of Barbie Lifestyle Backpacks, for instance, paid about 20 percent more to cover the government-mandated cost of importing them.

Because approximately 70 percent of toys come from abroad, almost everyone is nicked by the government's hidden import taxes.

According to Customs Service reports for 1989, the most recent data available, tariffs on stuffed toys cost consumers $28 million and tariffs on video games cost another $43 million. All told, tariffs on items such as dolls, games, and children's vehicles cost a whopping $245 million two years ago. The tab was almost certainly higher in 1990.

Parents who bought their children clothing also got stung. Because of trade restrictions on textile imports, consumers are paying an additional $20 billion a year, or $238 annually per household. Not content with this windfall, the domestic clothing industry wants to restrict textile imports still further and extend them indefinitely. If Congress goes along, the poorest of America's families would spend an estimated 5 percent of their incomes to protect the pampered, textile and apparel industries.

The cost of Christmas cookies and candies and other holiday goodies containing sugar and other sweeteners was also artificially high because of protectionism. Shoppers are paying an extra two bucks for a 10-pound bag of sugar due to congressionally imposed import quotas which are costing consumers a total of more than $3 billion a year.

Rather than look for new ways to protect inefficient domestic producers by sticking it to consumers, Congress should be cutting tariffs on toys, textiles and sugar. This would make for a merrier Christmas in 1991 and help rather than hurt the nation's sluggish economy.

A myth about AIDS

Top federal health officials have bowed to international common sense by agreeing to strike AIDS from the list of illnesses that can bar visitors from entering the United States.

Health officials around the world have long agreed that there is no health basis for the ban. The disease cannot be transmitted by casual contact, only by contact with bodily fluids. Despite a plea from the National Commission on AIDS, the policy was fully endorsed last summer when San Francisco hosted a worldwide conference on AIDS. Thus, the policy became an international embarrassment when several prestigious organizations — from the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies to the International Planned Parenthood Federation — snubbed the event.

The suggested policy change will be final only if the Immigration and Naturalization Service and State Department check off on the decision by Health and Human Services. Both agencies should do so soon.

Carter began U.S.-Saudi alignment

WASHINGTON — Two minor skirmishes in the initial stages of the war against Iraq are probable portents of a new, semi-permanent military alignment in the Middle East likely to include a vastly expanded role for the United States.

Both of the military clashes occurred near the community of Khafji, in Saudi Arabia's northeastern corner just south of its border with Iraq-occupied Kuwait.

In the first episode, Iraqi artillery successfully targeted a Saudi oil refinery, severely damaging the facility and setting petroleum in storage tanks ablaze. Both Saudi military troops and civilian guards assigned to protect the industrial complex immediately fled without offering any resistance.

In the second incident, U.S. troops positioned nearby also came under artillery attack. But instead of retreating, they stood their ground and called upon jet fighters and helicopter gunships to suppress the enemy fire. The Iraqi assault was arrested.

Those contrasting outcomes vividly illustrate why the Saudis — uncertain about their ability to defend themselves even after purchasing billions of dollars worth of the world's most sophisticated military weaponry — reluctantly sought this country's military assistance after Iraq invaded Kuwait.

They also probably foretell a post-war future in which the United States will commit a substantial military force to the region on an indefinite basis — to protect the national security of Saudi Arabia and other countries unable to defend themselves and to insure the integrity of their crude oil supply.

Although that policy is only now being implemented, it was initially enunciated in a major presidential address 11 years ago. In his Jan. 23, 1980 State of the Union Address, President Jimmy Carter announced:

"Let our position be absolutely clear: An attempt by any outside force to gain control of the Persian Gulf region will be regarded as an assault on the vital interests of the United States of America, and such an assault will be repelled by any means necessary, including military force."

That "Carter Doctrine" never attracted much public interest — and even less attention was paid to the extensive measures taken to implement it throughout the 1980s. Indeed, the two principal participants in the process, the United States and Saudi Arabia, conducted much of their work in secret because of the politically delicate nature of the initiative.

It involved what Scott Armstrong, a highly regarded investigative journalist, described in a prescient 1981 newspaper story as "an ambitious plan to build surrogate bases in Saudi Arabia."

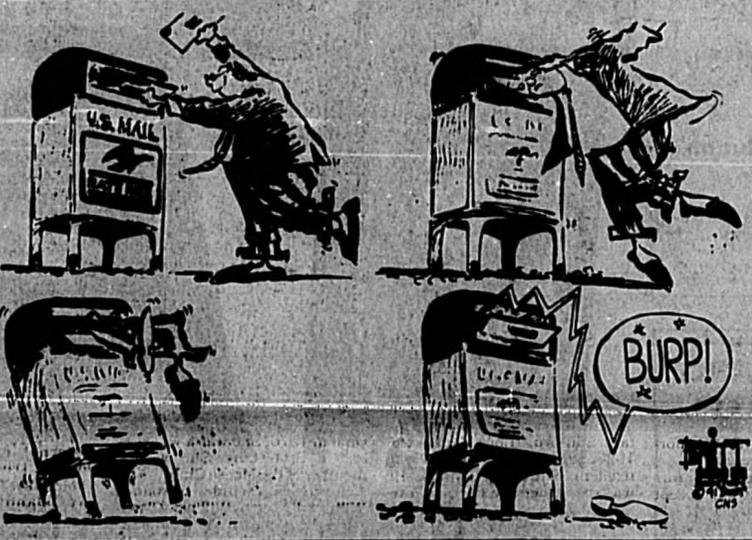

In an all-but-forgotten Washington Post account, Armstrong explained the essence of the bilateral arrangement:

"America will sell the Saudis an integrated package of top-of-the-line military technology" while "Saudi Arabia will build and pay for a massive network of command, naval and air defense facilities large enough to sustain U.S. forces in intensive regional combat."

In addition, the elaborate plan called for establishment of a region-wide air defense network led by the Saudis, but also including such moderate states as the United Arab Emirates, Oman, Bahrain and Qatar. (Also included on that list was Kuwait.)

The Carter doctrine never attracted much public attention.

The high price of U.S. victory

WASHINGTON — Afterward, when the shooting stops, the Persian Gulf war may ultimately be judged by the most elusive of the objectives President Bush set — a new world order.

It would have to begin in the least ordered of regions, the Middle East, where chaos is a cliché. And it would have to withstand the disorder gripping the Soviet Union.

Bush envisions a strengthened, active United Nations with its power to enforce peace proven by war to drive Iraq from Kuwait, and thus enhanced to be used again. The stalemate of superpower Cold War had blocked that kind of concerted action for 40 years.

Beyond the war, he sees the prospect of fusing world relationships that can make that vision reality.

In the Middle East, Bush said, "I do think when this is over we will have some very sophisticated diplomacy to do..."

"We want to be the healers," he said Friday. The president said that Arab partners in the coalition now fighting Iraq see as his job "that out of this there is a chance for lasting peace."

And to Arab countries "that are on the other side of this juncture," he said the message to the future should be: "Look, you're part of this new world order... You can play an important part in seeing that the world can live at peace in the Middle East and elsewhere."

Even as he announced the first strikes against Iraq on Wednesday night, Bush spoke of a future order "in which a credible United Nations can use its peacekeeping role to fulfill the promise and vision of the U.N.'s founders."

Attained, that new order would be a triumph for Bush, gaining a goal he once said had been sought by a hundred generations in a thousand wars — a durable system for peace.

But in the buildup to the war now raging against Iraq, there were skeptics who saw costly turmoil looming beyond military victory.

Preparing for the conflict launched Wednesday to drive Iraq from Kuwait, the administration was silent on what the United States might do after a war.

Bush's spokesmen said last Monday that the administration was looking at longer-term questions about the Middle East. "There have been any number of deliberations on these kinds of points by government authorities and the State Department and Defense Department, the White House and other agencies," said Merlin Fitzwater.

He would say no more at the time, and discussion of these matters has effectively been shelved for the duration.

But they were discussed in Congress, both before and after Bush was authorized to go to war. Among the areas of concern:

Civil collapse in a conquered Iraq, creating circumstances in which Iraq, Syria, or Iran might seek to gain territory or dominance; pressures for an overall Middle East settlement that might work to the disadvantage of Israel; postwar reconstruction effort involving heavy U.S. costs; Arab unity that could reach widely across the Muslim world.

The Middle East future is only part of the challenge Bush will face in the quest for a new world order.

The old order seems to be rising in Soviet military moves against independence movements in Lithuania and the other Baltic states.

After a swift meeting with Mikhail S. Gorbachev to display U.S.-Soviet solidarity against the Iraqi takeover, Bush told Congress on Sept. 11 that a new relationship with Moscow would provide the underpinning of a new order against aggression.

Now that relationship is shaken by the Soviet military crackdown that killed a number of people in the Baltics, the threat that it may spread to the other two independence-bent Baltic states, plus doubts about Gorbachev's role and hold on power.

The administration has told the Kremlin that Soviet actions in Lithuania put the new, cooperative superpower relationship at risk.

The Senate has adopted a resolution urging Bush to withhold trade and economic benefits until the Soviet Union withdraws forces from the Baltic states and ends the threat to the elected governments of the states annexed under Josef Stalin a half century ago.

That dispute is hardly promising for a new order that would require lasting partnership among the superpowers.

It adds to the agenda of challenges that will last beyond the war. As the fighting began, Bush said he would bring American troops home as soon as possible when they finish their work.

Even so, the administration said before war began that there will have to be a more lasting, if undefined, U.S. role. "This clearly is an area where we're going to spend a lot of time and effort and money in the years ahead," Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney told the Senate last month.

And Sen. Bill Bradley, D-N.J., speaking before the Senate approved the war resolution earlier, "Even victory has a high price."

The agenda of challenges will last beyond the war.

U.S. could have ammo shortage

WASHINGTON — It has been so long since U.S. troops engaged in massive combat that the ammunition buyers inside the Pentagon feared before they went into Operation Desert Storm that prolonged combat would strip the cupboards bare.

Pentagon insiders were concerned in mid-January that the operation could exhaust much of its crucial ammunition before the mission was over.

In fact, much of the ammunition sent to the Gulf was used up in practice firings.

A top Pentagon official recently confessed that the ammunition reserves are at such a low that U.S. forces almost ran out of crucial Mark '86 2.75-inch rockets in the 10-day invasion of Panama in December 1989. The rockets are needed to provide a massive spray of firepower from helicopters. The Pentagon is still short on those rockets even now, more than a year after the Panama invasion.

The Air Force has some in stock. But typical inter-service infighting is getting in the way. The Air Force isn't sharing with the Army.

U.S. troops also are reportedly short on M79s, a 25 mm armor-piercing round fired from the Bradley and the Marines' armored vehicles. That shortage resulted from a 1986 decision by the Pentagon to build a better mousetrap. The new rounds were developed and ordered, but will not be delivered for several weeks. To fill the gap, the Dutch government has offered to sell the United States 2.5 million M79 rounds. But so far the Pentagon is in slow motion and hasn't bought the Dutch ammunition.

The M79 armor piercers are crucial to front-line fighting. Soldiers are carried into battle in the armored vehicles that rely heavily on the 25 mm ground fire to protect their assaults.

Despite the known shortages, the Pentagon didn't rouse itself out of business-as-usual until almost the eve of the deadline for Iraq to pull out of Kuwait. Even after troops were deployed to the Gulf by the hundreds of thousands, the head of the Army's Munition Command told Congress that if he had more money, he wouldn't know how to spend it. Maj. Gen. Paul Greenberg told Congress that the Army had all the ammunition it needed.

Pentagon insiders told our associate Jim Lynch that the Army doesn't know what ammunition it has, or where it is.

Sources tell us that those in charge of procuring ammunition have focused on affordability rather than need during a time of budget belt tightening. It wasn't until Jan. 11 that Pentagon planners began to study combat surge capabilities — the ability to expand production to meet wartime demands.

As one Pentagon veteran told us, "I'm concerned that they're not doing everything possible to give our troops the best chance out there."

Part of the blame for shortages must be placed on the politics of Pentagon spending. In recent years, the sexy, high-tech weapons systems have received more attention and money than bland items such as bullets.

Congress has compounded the shortage by deciding that ammunition was not a controversial line item and could therefore be cut with a minimum of fuss from anyone. As recently as September, the General Accounting Office, an arm of Congress, suggested a $434 million cut in the ammunition budget. This year's budget for ammunition is $2 billion. Just six peaceful years ago it was $4 billion.

The Pentagon is still short on those rockets even now.

Mailboxes

circulated by a committee of trust members.

"An overwhelming number of people signed the petitions. We didn't want the boxes," she said. Strachla said several other members also wrote letters to Sanford Postmaster Fred Rader asking him not to install the boxes.

"We never heard anything back from Mr. Rader," Strachla said.

But within the last two months, Strachla said, homeowner Kevin Stubbs mentioned to her that a new cluster box had appeared.

"He said the dirt was freshly dug, so we knew it hadn't been there long," Strachla said. "My question is why are they appearing on a sporadic basis?"

Rader said the boxes are not put in sporadically.

"They better not be. I'll be glad to check if the Historic Trust people will call me," he said.

Rader explained that if residents ask for the mailboxes, neighbors will be surveyed to see if they object to them.

"People petitioned for them and we put two in in the last two months," he said. "We're not putting them where they are not wanted."

Strachla said she was not aware of any neighbors being surveyed about the recent placements.

Resident Monte Olinger said he was not notified or surveyed about the placement of a cluster box within a block of his home.

"We never received any notice of the cluster box placement within a block from us. They're sneaky and I think if we're within a block we should be notified. It impacts us aesthetically," he said.

Strachla said she thought no federal agency was permitted to impact a National Historic Register of Historic Places district by making placements not in keeping with the historic look.

"We'd be glad to work with them to design something suitable," she said.

Post office growth management coordinator for Orange and Seminole counties, Dan Dotherow, said neighborhood delivery and collection units, the post office term for cluster boxes, save the agency money and are the wave of the future. He said if placement is made in a historic area, residents are welcome to landscape or customize the boxes so they are in keeping with an area. He explained the boxes are placed on the easements between properties. They keep the cost of postage down because door delivery costs the post office $188 per year per resident. Curbside delivery costs $112 per resident and centralized delivery costs the post office $95 per year.

"It's mandatory in apartments and condos but we won't force curbside or centralized delivery on anyone already receiving door delivery. A signed site plan goes on file for each cluster box. Neighbors are in agreement before one goes in," he said.

Rader said if concerned residents will contact him, he will research surveys done for the recent placements of cluster boxes in the downtown historic district.

"If I find out the survey wasn't done and neighbors don't want them, the boxes will be removed," he said. "Somebody's behind will be in trouble, too," he added.

Renovation

The box replacement is the first phase of a $150,000 renovation that will eventually replace the postal counter line and lighting, ceilings, floors, windows, and doors at the 30-year-old facility, Rader said. But only the first phase is likely to be an inconvenience to customers, he said.

Once the boxes have been replaced, Rader said, some customers can expect an added inconvenience. Because the new boxes won't fit into the exact configuration of the existing boxes, he said, some customers will have their box numbers changed, while others will be assigned boxes that aren't the same sizes as their current ones. Customers will be notified of any such changes, he said.

Postal workers aren't sure how they will manage the temporary shuffling of equipment behind the counter, Rader said. The biggest obstacle will be the branch's limited space, he said.

"We've got a problem," he said. "We're crowded to start with."

Once the construction is completed, however, Rader said postal workers and customers alike will be happier with the facility. For about six months, employees and customers have had to operate under limited, temporary lighting while the building was prepared for construction, he said.

"I don't even see how they see to get their mail out of the boxes," Rader said about the dim lighting in the north lobby area.

Stamps

background. It's the sixth in the series of stamps printed with letters instead of prices, because the printing had to start before the official rate was known.

The P-stamps can be used for U.S. addresses only, but that includes APO and FPO addresses for members of the armed forces overseas.

In addition, for the first time the Postal Service is issuing what it calls a make-up rate stamp, worth four cents. It carries the legend "This U.S. stamp will add 4 cents of additional U.S. postage, in equivalent to the 4-cent stamp rate."

The Postal Service had originally sought to charge 30 cents for letters and 20 cents for cards, and the one-cent cutback may turn out to be "penny foolish," Postmaster General Anthony Frank said.

While the Postal Service accepted the commission's proposed rates, it did so under protest, said Norma Pace, chairman of the agency's board of governors. "We are concerned that the commission's calculations of volume are incorrect," she said. That could mean too little income to run the agency.

The Postal Service no longer receives government subsidies and is required to break even over time.

While the new rates were ordered into effect, the Postal Service asked the rate commission to provide more information to justify its rates.

"By delaying action, our alternative would be to accept up to $30 million a day in lost revenue that we sorely need after three years of no price increases," Frank said.

Asked if the protest meant the agency was hoping the commission would come back with a 30-cent rate, he said: "I don't think there's much chance of that."

briefly delayed when some arrangements were mistakenly made with the Orange County School District.

"They had requested Seminole schools specifically," Asano said, but he did not know the exact reasons for their requests.

They will visit two elementary schools, including Idylwild Elementary School, 430 Wilben Rd. in Sanford, as well as two middle and two high schools during the course of their two-day visit.

In a letter sent to Dalley, Katsuloah Takeuchi, the superintendent of education of the Saltama Board of Education, the delegation wanted to specifically see "the lessons as they are given by the teachers in Seminole schools."

Carolyn Towles, principal at Idylwild, said that she and her staff plan to go ahead with business as usual when the delegation visits the school today.

"We're planning our regular staff meeting," she said. "They can see how we do that."

Towles said that she and her staff are looking forward to the exchange of ideas that will occur during the three hour visit.

of sites available, Kantor said.

Kantor said the county could impose a fee on each shelter. He said Altamonte Springs has reached a tentative agreement to collect $300 annually for each shelter. OSOTA will collect $600 annually for each shelter in Altamonte Springs, Kantor said.

Commissioners were reluctant to endorse the plan without restrictions. Among those restrictions would be approval would be needed by businesses located next to the proposed shelter sites.

"Those businesses may not want a shelter hiding their store-front signs or seeing signs by their competitors in front of their business," said commissioner Pat Warren.

County land management director Herb Hardin said the business approval provision is now required for bus benches bearing advertising.

Dan Bellows, of Community Services Inc., said the county didn't have to allow Flutte shelters and suggested the county award a shelter contract to whichever company it chooses.

"We're going to have better control if we do it ourselves," Hardin said.

Commissioners authorized Hardin to prepare agreements for the shelters both independent of OSOTA and in conjunction with the transit agency for their consideration.

We are at war: Day seven

GULF BRIEFS

Mardi Gras will go on

NEW ORLEANS — Carnival will be celebrated as planned despite the war in the Persian Gulf.

Mayor Sidney Barthelemy announced Tuesday that the more than two dozen traditional parades will begin Saturday as scheduled and run through Feb. 12 — Mardi Gras.

"Of course, we are aware of the precarious situation in the Middle East and we will continue to monitor developments there," Barthelemy said. "Continuing with Mardi Gras in no way diminishes our support of and concern for our troops fighting in Operation Desert Storm."

Barthelemy said concern for the city's economy, heavily dependent on tourist dollars, figured in the decision.

Team cancels game in Saudi Arabia

NEW YORK — The U.S. soccer team, which had planned to play Saudi Arabia on Feb. 14 at Riyadh, has canceled plans for the game.

"If it was three weeks ago, we would have gone," Sunil Gulati, the director of the U.S. national teams, said Tuesday. "Now, certainly not."

A U.S. soccer team last played in the Middle East in February and March of 1989 at the Under-20 World Youth Championships in Saudi Arabia, where the Americans finished fourth. The national team hasn't played in the Middle East since two games in Israel in November 1973.

Support demonstration halted by cops

NEW YORK — About three dozen police officers were ordered to remove American flag patches from their uniforms because the emblems violated department rules, a police spokesman said.

Many officers at the 44th Precinct in the Bronx began wearing the two-by-three patches on their left sleeves last week as a tribute to soldiers fighting in Operation Desert Storm.

"The officers were informed that the Patrol Guide procedure in reference to uniforms does not authorize the wearing of any emblem," said Detective Joe Gallagher.

Farmer, Sioux plan peace mission

CLEVELAND — Sioux Indians who smoked a peace pipe in Baghdad plan to do the same thing in Washington in hopes of ending the war against Iraq.

"We prayed in Baghdad. Now we need to pray in Washington to complete the circle of prayer," said Garfield Grass Rope of Eagle Butte, S.D.

"We tried to get there (Washington) before the Jan. 15 deadline, but we didn't make it," he said. "Even though the war has already started, we hope our prayers can help bring about an end."

Average gas price up half a cent

NEW YORK — Gasoline has cost more at the pump since the start of the Persian Gulf war despite a sharp drop in wholesale prices, the American Automobile Association says.

The AAA said Wednesday in a statement from its Orlando, Fla., headquarters, that the nationwide average price of self-service regular unleaded picked up half a cent last week, rising to $1.249 per gallon.

Since the war broke out last Thursday, the price of wholesale unleaded gasoline has plunged more than 21 cents a gallon.

However, whether the price out is passed on to motorists depends on the independent owners who operate most of the nation's service stations.

Hospitals brace for war victims

TAMPA — Tampa hospital officials are getting special training in handling chemical warfare victims because of the conflict in the Persian Gulf and the threat of terrorism.

A total of 150 of the 575 beds at the James A. Haley VA Hospital in Tampa have been designated for use by the Department of Defense.

Hams are heartline home from war

Associated Press

OCALA — Twenty-five ham radio volunteers have begun operating one of the largest relay stations connecting U.S. military personnel in the Middle East with their loved ones at home.

The Silver Springs Radio Club in Ocala decided to do things in a big way when it sponsored the linkup with the Military Affiliated Radio Service. The new MARS station is believed to be the strongest ham radio link between that part of the world and the United States.

"It's been a real community effort," said the man behind the project: Johnny Williams.

"Otherwise, we never could have done it," said Williams, who operated a similar MARS station 20 years ago for fighting forces in Vietnam.

The operators will make hundreds of phone patch connections to many parts of the country from a mobile home donated by Marion County. United Telephone Co. provides telephone hookups, and Florida Power Co. put up the station's rhombic antenna.

They (MARS operators) have the biggest hearts in the world. g

-Ocala man serving on front line

Unlike the traditional ham radios that beam their signals from a tall tower, the rhombic antenna is strung along four power poles. It is three football fields in length and strengthens transmission through its configuration.

One of the Ocala radio operators, Lou Gorski, said the MARS units in Saudi Arabia reported Monday that the Ocala signal was the strongest coming out of the United States.

One mother told her son she couldn't believe she was hearing his voice from the war front.

"They (MARS operators) have the biggest hearts in the world," he responded.

The station went on the air Sunday. The ham radio operators for MARS use military radio frequencies to process messages originated from some 55 Army stations in Saudi Arabia.

A half dozen ham stations in Florida are running Army phone patches from the Mideast, but most are individual operators working out of their homes.

One of the first connections for Williams and his crew was patching a radio message from the desert to a Northeast city.

"What have you been doing?" the serviceman asked his family.

"Shoveling now," came the response. "Well, there's no snow here," said the warrior at the front.

Humanitarian rules on war don't promise POW safety

By HANS HEUERBOURG Associated Press Writer

GENEVA — When 50 officers of the Royal Air Force were recaptured after escaping from a POW camp in March 1944, Hermann Goering, incensed over allied air raids on Germany, ordered their shot.

Two years later, the Nazi reich marshal was sentenced to death by the International Nuremberg War Crimes Tribunal. He poisoned himself shortly before he was to be hanged.

The massacre was one of the counts on which he was convicted. It is believed to have been the first time in history that a leader of a warring nation had been found guilty of barbaric treatment of prisoners of war.

The 1907 Hague Convention already required that captured soldiers "must be humanely treated." But it was not until after two world wars that the 1949 Geneva Conventions made certain acts against war victims punishable.

Reprisals are not permitted under international law. Thus, trials for any grave breaches of the Geneva Conventions during the Persian Gulf war will have to await the end of fighting.

"It is then up to the parties to start the appropriate proceedings," said Francois Bugnon, deputy head of the legal department of the all-Swiss International Committee of the Red Cross, which monitors compliance with the Geneva conventions.

With their 429 articles, the 1949 conventions were a landmark in centuries of efforts to improve the rules of warfare. Never before had humanitarian law been spelled out in such detail.

All countries involved in the Gulf war are parties to the four conventions, which are designed to guarantee the protection of wounded and sick combatants, of prisoners of war and of civilians.

In the 18th century, the French philosopher Jean-Jacques Rousseau urged that prisoners of war not be held in chains, but be held in healthy conditions and freed after the conflict.

Another Geneva native, Henri Dunant, originated the Red Cross concept after witnessing the battlefield horrors of Solferino in 1859.

Four years later, a 10-article convention "for the amelioration of the condition of the wounded in armies in the field" was adopted.

Among several updates was the 1907 Hague Convention, prohibiting the use of poison, the wounding or killing of captured soldiers and the attack or bombardment of undefended civilian settlements.

It did not prevent chemical warfare in World War I, the World War II massacres of prisoners by the Nazis and the carpet bombings starting in Rotterdam and Coventry and climaxing in the allied raid on Dresden and the A-bomb strike on Hiroshima.

Troops, leaders ask: When will silence end?

By JOHN KING Associated Press Writer

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — After evening chow, two Marines near the front ponder a nagging question: When will Saddam Hussein fire the next missile into Saudi Arabia?

"It will definitely be between 8 and 8:30," predicts one. "No, it will be later than that for sure," says the other.

It's an immediate worry of the troops these days, but a much larger question also persists: When will Saddam unleash all his military might and turn the Persian Gulf conflict into a two-sided war?

The question is debated from front-line foxholes, to the allied command center in the Saudi capital of Riyadh, to 7,000 miles away in Washington.

"The truth is, we don't know why Saddam has chosen to react in the way he has," President Bush's spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, said Tuesday.

Saddam has promised that Americans will "swim in their own blood." The silence of his military machine disturbs analysts, who also are awed by Iraq's ability to endure horrendous punishment.

"We're at a loss. We don't know how they're taking it," said Hans-Heino Kopsitz, a Middle East military specialist and former analyst at London's International Institute for Strategic Studies.

A week into the war, Saddam's only counterpunches have been largely ineffective anti-aircraft fire and sporadic barrages of Scud missiles. A third strike at Israel on Tuesday claimed the lives of three heart attack victims.

Outgunned in the air, analysts believe Saddam may have decided to save his air power in the hope he can bog the allies down in a prolonged, bloody ground battle in the vast, shelterless sands of the desert.

They say Saddam's strategy is a desperate gamble that both he and his army can survive the relentless allied bombardment.

"Clearly, he's miscalculated," said Gary Sick, a former Carter administration National Security Council adviser in New York. "Clearly he didn't believe the coalition forces would or could do what they've done."

"He has two choices, surrender and stop it or go down in a blaze of glory. I think then you'd see him use his chemical weapons," Sick said.

There are no official estimates of Iraqi casualties, but Kopsitz and other analysts contend that the merciless round-the-clock bombing of troop positions has probably killed thousands.

Still, Iraqi ground forces in southern Iraq and Kuwait are huge and well equipped. Before the war began Thursday, they numbered 545,000, and many were hunkered down in fortifications they had nearly six months to dig.

Despite more than 10,000 allied sorties, Saddam may well have retained much of his fighting power.

It appears that fewer than two dozen of his 700 combat aircraft have been destroyed, and allied officers acknowledge many of Iraq's military airfields remain operational.

A Saudi official with access to intelligence data said Iraqi forces had stunned allied leaders by repairing bombed runways virtually overnight.

Iraq also has large arsenals of short-range missiles and possibly a large part of the biggest chemical weapons stockpile in the Third World.

"He's had a long time to think about defense, time to build hardened bunkers and store things away, hidden in underground sites," Sick said. "He may have more stuff tucked away and saved than we suspect."

Kopsitz said from his London office that the allied "failure to destroy Iraqi airpower is a very bad omen.... He can still do a lot of damage."

Army Individual Ready Reserve called to service

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Another pool of military reservists is getting the call for active duty.

Members of the Army Individual Ready Reserve, who provide specialized skills, began receiving mailgrams Tuesday telling them to report for active duty Jan. 31, officials said. The Army announced Sunday it was calling up about 20,000 members of the Individual Ready Reserve.

Mailgrams were sent out over the weekend, said Joyce Wiesner, a spokeswoman for the U.S. Army Reserve Personnel Center in St. Louis.

Members of the Individual Ready Reserve are not obliged to train and are not members of organized units, thus their designation as individual reserves.

WORLD BRIEFS

Gorbachev: Calming Baltics is main task

MOSCOW — President Mikhail S. Gorbachev says his main task is to achieve calm in the Baltics, but that the independence-seeking republics must repeal all laws that conflict with the Soviet Constitution.

The Latvian leadership on Tuesday said Gorbachev agreed not to impose direct Kremlin rule.

But skepticism remained three days after Soviet forces seized Latvia's police headquarters, leaving six people dead, and 10 days after a similar crackdown in neighboring Lithuania that left 14 dead.

The crackdown threatened to derail next month's U.S.-Soviet summit and jeopardize foreign efforts to help rescue the country's ailing economy. Several foreign governments, including the United States, considered cutting aid to Moscow.

Rebels massacre 27 Sinhalese villagers

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka — Tamil rebels stormed a Sinhalese village before dawn today and shot and hacked to death 27 people, most of them women and children, military officials said.

They quoted survivors as saying about 300 Tamil Tiger guerrillas overpowered soldiers and police guarding the village of Bogamuyaya in the jungle 110 miles east of Colombo.

The figure, if accurate, means the raiding party was much larger than usual in the Tigers' nearly 8-year-old war against the island's Sinhalese majority.

The officials, who under briefing rules cannot be identified, theorized that the rebels were on the run from troops who are trying to tighten the government's control in eastern Sri Lanka.

Peru president: Drug war needs U.S. aid

LIMA, Peru — President Alberto Fujimori says he can better fight drug-trafficking if the United States forgives some of Peru's $20 billion foreign debt and lowers trade barriers that keep farmers from earning an honest living.

The government announced the proposal Tuesday, facing a March 1 deadline to demonstrate Peru's cooperation in the drug war or risk losing $100 million in U.S. aid.

Vietnam enacts law on private business

BANGKOK, Thailand — Communist Vietnam has enacted a law sanctioning and protecting private business, in hopes of reviving one of the world's most backward economies.

Vietnam has relaxed central control of the economy and encouraged private enterprise since doctrinaire Marxist leaders retired and national reforms were adopted in late 1986.

Mongolian leader to meet Bush

WASHINGTON — A new trade agreement is the highlight of the first visit to the United States by a president of Mongolia in the 70-year history of that remote Asian country.

President Punsalmaagyn Ochirbat planned to sign the agreement today after meeting with President Bush.

U.S. trade with Mongolia totals only about $2 million a year, but the new agreement generally reduces tariffs on Mongolian products to the lowest possible levels, raising the possibility of a significant increase in two-way commerce.

Mongolia has lived in the shadow of the Soviet Union for virtually all of its independent history. The country's dealings with the United States were limited until diplomatic relations were established in January 1987.

Until six months ago, Mongolia was a communist state. With the election of a democratic government last July, Mongolia has sought to end its relative isolation from the rest of the world.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Utah governor to sign anti-abortion bill

SALT LAKE CITY — Utah's governor says he'll sign a strict anti-abortion bill headed toward legislative approval, setting up a likely court battle.

The Utah Senate scheduled final debate today on the measure, which would outlaw most elective abortions.

The Senate endorsed the bill 23-4 in a preliminary vote Tuesday, rejecting objections that it is unconstitutional and could cost up to $1 million to defend in court. Two senators were absent.

Supporters had urged the senators to examine their consciences; critics said they had no right to take the abortion choice away from women.

Men plead insanity in cabin slayings

COALVILLE, Utah — Two halfway-house escapees accused of killing an elderly woman and her daughter while burglarizing their remote cabin have pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

The men entered the plea Tuesday before District Judge Frank Noel.

The prosecutor said he will seek the death penalty against Von Lester Taylor, 25, and Steven Edward Dell, 21, charged with two counts each of first-degree murder in the deaths of Beth Harmon Tidwell Potts, 76, and Kaye Tidwell Tiede, 49.

They are also charged with attempted murder in the shooting of Tiede's husband, Rolf Tiede.

Noel appointed two mental health examiners to evaluate Dell and Taylor. He scheduled trial for March 19.

Right-to-life marchers win Bush cheers

By ROYAN MESSER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush urged about 25,000 "firestorm volunteers" of the right-to-life movement to keep abortion in the forefront in Congress, the courts and the minds of Americans.

Despite some successes in the past year, he said "abortion on the ground continues unabated in this country. And ... this persistence calls into question our respect for the fundamental right to life."

With the government and the private sector must do more to encourage alternatives, such as adoption, he told a shivering crowd on the Mall by telephone from the White House.

In each year since he has been president, Bush has made reproductive-choice addresses to the March for Life, which has been held every year on the anniversary of the Supreme Court's 1973 Roe vs. Wade decision that legalized abortion.

This year's crowd was far smaller than last year's 75,000. March leaders said many decided not to attend largely because of concerns about the Persian Gulf war and possible terrorism.

"Many people are concerned about the war and threats that have been made" by Iraq's Saddam Hussein regarding terrorist activity, said Nancy Myers, spokeswoman for the National Right to Life Committee.

The Missouri delegations canceled their participation, as well as many from Ohio and Pennsylvania, she said.

But those who gathered in subfreezing temperatures enthusiastically punctuated Bush's brief address with cheers, as he exhorted them to press on with their fight to end abortion.

Sweeping rules improve access for handicapped

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The federal government has proposed rules to implement legislation passed last summer requiring that new or renovated public facilities be designed to accommodate the nation's 43 million disabled people.

Among the numerous requirements in regulations published Tuesday in the Federal Register, owners of "newly constructed and altered" grocery stores would have to make all checkout aisles wide enough for wheelchairs.

Concert halls and theatres would have to be equipped with special listening devices for the hearing impaired, and restaurants and libraries would be required to make areas available to the disabled.

The rules were drafted by the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board, an independent federal agency which will review public comment and plans to implement a final version on Jan. 26 of next year.

Individuals and businesses have 90 days to file comments on the proposed rules, which would cover virtually every new or redesigned public establishment.

GYMNASTICS

Level 8's qualify

OLDSMAR — Gymnastic teams from the northern half of Florida gathered at Gemini Gymnastics Saturday, Jan. 19, for the Women's United States Gymnastics Federation (USGF) first local qualifier for level 8.

The following girls from Brown's Gymnastics Central of Altamonte Springs qualified for the Florida State Championships which will be held March 23-24.

Russell scores Late Model win, sets sights on 'Orange Blossom 100'

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — David Russell drove the "Horse" Around Farms Pontiac to victory in the FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

Russell will be among the favorites to win next Saturday's 19th annual "Orange Blossom 100" on the high banked half-mile, paved oval.

After a lengthy wheel-to-wheel duel with former track champion Joe Middleton, Russell moved up on the point for good and pulled away.

Because of a broken steering rod, Ed Meridith crashed in the heat. But he came back to wrestle second place away from salvage diver Guy Thomas and Middleton.

Mike Pritch took the Florida Modified feature over Gary Salvatore and early leader Scott McDade.

After inheriting first place when early leader Chuck Stanley spun, Mike Kubanek bested Allen Rhodes by a fender to score a popular win in the Limited Late Model final. Finishing a close third was Claude Collignon in the Cushman Suspension and Springs Specialists Monte Carlo.

Doug Mays took the lead on lap four and went on to win the hotly disputed Sportsman feature.

For the second week in a row, Jerry Symons had to make a trip back to the shop with his race car. And also for the second week in a row, he won the Mini Stock feature as he bested FASCAR's defending champion Bobby Sears.

Rookie Wally Semrow defeated a large field of Bombers to score his first win ever while weekly challenger John Ripley was in the pits with engine problems. High point lady Barbara Pierce was second over Roger Favreau, Ted Head and Bob "The Damn Yankee" Hiner.

Dean Cichowicz and Robin Wolfe were the Spectator Races winners.

at Orlando SpeedWorld

ORLANDO — Gambler Bass Boats manufacturer Bob Ackerbloom pulled off one of the biggest upsets in recent memory by winning Friday night's FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature at Orlando SpeedWorld. It was Ackerbloom's first ever feature victory.

"Bob drove such a good race that I didn't think it was him driving the car. He sure has improved," said chief starter/former race driver Johnny Bass.

Ackerbloom, whose only other win came in a heat race earlier this season, blasted into the lead from his outside front row starting spot and dominated the caution-free event.

Heat winner Steve Latham closed in at one point, but got trapped behind lapped cars and lost second spot to Ronnie Roach, who trailed Ackerbloom by several car lengths at the checkers.

Latham was third, Kenny Watson fourth and defending FASCAR Late Model Champ David Russell fifth.

Another first-time winner was Chuck Stanley, who took the special 30-lap event for the Limited Late Model division. Stanley, who had finished in the runner-up spot on numerous occasions, finally got the "monkey off his back" by taking the lead on lap 16 of the caution-plagued event and holding off a late charge by Jeff Moyer.

Chef starts out as dishwasher

Man gives up sociology for cooking

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Ernest Colbert has been a Sanford resident since 1984 when he moved from Arlington, Ga. with his family, as a teenager. He fondly remembers his first Sanford job as a dishwasher (known in kitchens as pearl diving) at the Day & Night Diner where he worked up to cook.

At that time, the diner was owned by Elsie Huss who still remembers Colbert with visits to his kitchen. Colbert said, "Why, Miss Elsie comes to see me when she can. She just got back from a trip to Miami. I love to see her."

Our Cook of the Week graduated from Crooms and studied sociology at Seminole Community College. "I don't know exactly how I got from sociology to cooking. I wanted to be a social worker, not a chef. However, I worked for George Dietrich when he owned The House of Beef here on the (Sanford Marina) Isle. I also went to a cooking school in Orlando," he said.

"I worked for The House of Beef in 1967 and 1968, then it changed ownership and became The House of Steak," Colbert said.

The restaurant at the Holiday Inn on Marina Isle has seen many changes over the years. Colbert has worked in the same kitchen there for the past 23 years. He is presently the kitchen manager and chef.

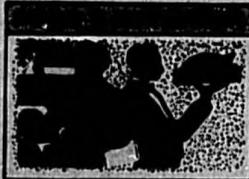

As Colbert speaks, he adeptly checks salads, lights the grill and carefully examines the ingredients for the noon meals. All the while he deals with the good-natured teasing from the waitresses as they try to make him smile with their mock taunts and puns. He takes it all in and never forgets what he is doing. He is a dignified man who has learned to ignore the people with whom he works.

Our Cook of the Week is single and has never been married. Although he offered that he has lots of women in his life, he does live alone. Colbert's favorite meal is Steak Neptune which he prepares quite often. His fondest desire is to have his own catering service and restaurant.

As a career choice, he believes his is one of the best and youngsters should seriously consider it. "You know, kids aren't interested in learning to cook for a living. They think there's no money in it. They are wrong! There's plenty of money in cooking. More kids now should set their sights on a cooking career. It pays very well," he said.

STEAK NEPTUNE

Crabmeat, 1 oz.
Hollandaise sauce, 2 oz.
Asparagus spears, 6

Cook steak to the temperature you like. Place on sizzling platter, top with crabmeat, asparagus spears, wine, heavy cream. Top with hollandaise sauce. Place under broiler until brown. Makes one serving.

7-UP CAKE

3 cups cake flour
3 cups sugar
3 sticks butter
1 Tbsp. lemon flavoring
4 cup 7-Up soda

When done, dust with powdered sugar, no frosting. Very good served with ice cream or fresh fruit and whipped cream.

BLACKENED CATFISH

Boneless catfish filets
Blackened seasoning (very hot and spicy)
4 Tbsp. vegetable oil
No breading or batter on fish. Wash filets and season. For hot and spicy, use more; for mild, use less seasoning.

Parents gag at kissing cousins who look for ties which bind

DEAR ABBY: I am in urgent need of advice. My 26-year-old, college-educated daughter just told me that she and her 25-year-old first cousin are in love and are considering marriage. Isn't that considered incest? These two have always shared a close friendship, but our families have lived in different states, and they have seen each other only for family celebrations.

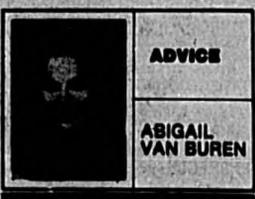

Seven months ago, my daughter moved to the city where her cousin lives, and they decided to share a two-bedroom apartment. Abby, the idea of these two marrying has upset my husband and me. We have heard that if first cousins marry, they should not have children. Also, isn't it true that there are only a few states that permit first cousins to marry? (If so, which ones are they?)

I am hoping these two kids will come to their senses and break up.

CAN'T SLEEP IN MARYLAND

DEAR CAN'T SLEEP: First cousins may marry in Alabama, Alaska, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Vermont, the District of Columbia and Virginia. And in Wisconsin, first cousins may marry if the woman is 55 years old or older.

However, if first cousins marry and decide to have children,

ADVICE
ASIGAIL VAN BUREN

they should consult a genetic counselor.

DEAR ABBY: I have to tell someone about my mother, who is a grandmother.

Every year at Christmastime when she visits her sisters' and brothers' homes, they send presents home with her to give to her grandchildren. All these presents are gift-wrapped.

When she gets home, she carefully opens all of the presents, examines them, then she rewraps them in the same paper.

I have suggested to her that this is childish. What do you think Abby? Maybe she will listen to you; I know she reads your column.

D.E.

DEAR D.E.: Your mother's behavior is not only childish, it's also nosy and underhanded.

thing has happened to my father, sister, and to friends who also drive nice cars.

There is nothing I can do to protect my car because the alarm doesn't go off when this happens.

I would like to know why anyone would want to deliberately scratch a nice car this way.

SEEING RED IN TEXAS

DEAR SEEING RED: I don't know, but let me guess. It's nothing personal. You are simply an anonymous car owner who has provoked the ire of a cowardly, mean-spirited stranger who begrudges you that handsome red Mercedes that he or she would like to own.

DEAR ABBY: My 25-year-old daughter has been living with her 36-year-old boyfriend since November 1989. She had a baby girl (his) three months ago and wants to get married. They live in Ohio. Her boyfriend's divorce was final three months ago, and he told her that in Ohio you have to be divorced for six months before you can get married again. Is this true?

HER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: No. According to Judge Ron Solove of the Domestic Relations Court (Franklin county, Ohio), after a divorce is final, there is no waiting period before a person is free to marry again. You daughter's boyfriend is either stalling or is misinformed about Ohio law.

Ethnic dishes feature rice

Rice, one of the oldest cultivated foods, is the staple food of more than half the world's population. Highlighting its importance is the fact that in the Far East it has been linked with the gods. The tradition of throwing rice at newlyweds comes from the Hindus and Chinese, who believed rice to be a symbol of fertility.

The versatile grain is often served in place of a potato. It also stars in special dishes such as the Italian risotto and the Spanish paella. It usually is served with Turkish kabobs. And, of course, what would a Chinese meal be without a bowl of rice?

Since its introduction to North Carolina in 1685, the cultivation of this crop has spread throughout the South and to California. Americans can find rice on their supermarket shelves in many forms: rice bran, rice cereal, rice flour and rice oil, which is used in margarines and cooking oils. It's also used in some livestock feeds.

Try these dishes in a main course salad for the family or for a bring-a-dish buffet with friends.

RICE TACO SALAD

1 lb. ground beef
 1/4 onion, finely chopped
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1/4 tsp. salt
 1/4 tsp. ground black pepper
 1/2 tsp. ground cumin
 2 cups cooked rice
 1 large avocado, peeled, seeded and diced
 1/4 lemon
 1/2 head lettuce, shredded
 2 tomatoes, coarsely chopped
 1/2 cup grated Cheddar cheese
 1/4 cup dairy sour cream

Cook over medium-high heat until browned in large skillet, stirring to crumble. Add onion and garlic, and cook until soft but not brown. Discard excess fat, if any. Add salt, pepper, cumin and rice. Remove from heat; cool.

Dice avocado and sprinkle with lemon juice. Combine lettuce, tomatoes, cheese, avocado and rice mixture. Add sour cream and toss lightly. Serve immediately with picante sauce or salsa and corn chips, if desired. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 6 servings.

RICE SALAD MELANO

3 cups hot cooked rice
 1/4 cup vegetable oil
 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1/4 tsp. salt (optional)
 1/2 tsp. rosemary
 1/2 tsp. oregano
 1/2 tsp. ground black pepper
 1 small zucchini, thinly sliced
 1 medium tomato, seeded and chopped
 3 Tbsp. grated Parmesan cheese

Spoon rice into large bowl. Blend oil, lemon juice, garlic and seasonings; stir into rice. Cover; let cool. Add remaining ingredients and stir. Serve at room temperature or chilled. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 6 servings.

Early leukemia is marked by anemia

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you provide information on myelodysplastic syndrome?

DEAR READER: The myelodysplastic syndrome (also called subacute myeloid leukemia and chronic myelomonocytic leukemia) is a form of early leukemia (blood cell cancer) that usually affects men in their 60s and 70s. It is marked by anemia or low white blood cell counts (leukopenia) or low platelet counts (thrombocytopenia) — or any combination of the three. The syndrome is considered to be a precursor of more serious leukemia, which may take years to appear, however.

The myelodysplastic syndrome is associated with infection and hemorrhage, which — for obvious reasons — must be treated promptly. Therapy for the syndrome itself involves drugs, such as prednisone, danazol and medicine to promote the growth of white blood corpuscles. Patients with this condition should be under the care of hematologists (blood specialists) or oncologists (cancer specialists).

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been told I have an elevated blood pressure and am overweight. Can you tell me what can be done to lower the pressure and control my weight?

DEAR READER: On first reading, your question seemed so rhetorical that I debated answering it. However, on reconsideration, I concluded that you need further information — even though my answer will seem too simple: Hypertension and overweight go hand in hand. Your first goal is to achieve an ideal weight. Cut out sweets, alcohol and fattening foods; avoid salt and engage in regular exercise. If necessary, join a weight-control support group, such as Overeaters Anonymous or Weight Watchers. Follow your doctor's instructions about diet and activity.

As you shed pounds, your blood pressure will probably improve. However, during your period of dieting, you may require medicine to reduce your hypertension. Commonly prescribed drugs include diuretics, beta blockers and calcium-channel blockers. Your doctor can advise you and, if necessary, recommend the necessary medication.

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

Remember that your two diseases — obesity and hypertension — are related; you need medical guidance in avoiding their consequences, such as stroke and heart disease.

There are some variations in the use of suit-preference signals. The simplest form of suit-preference occurs when a defender leads a card that he expects his partner to ruff. In such cases, a low card asks partner to return the lower of the two remaining suits; a high card asks for the higher suit. This can get a little sticky when you don't want partner to return either suit. Here is a simple example. South arrived in four hearts after opening one no-trump. West dutifully led his singleton spade. East won the ace and knew that he could give partner a ruff. So he played back the highest spade he could spare, the seven-spot, to guide West to play a diamond after ruffing a spade. Of course East did have something in diamonds, the queen. So he felt that a diamond back could not hurt the defense. What is interesting is that even if East held two worthless diamonds, he should still play back the seven of spades. Maybe West would lose a trick by leading a diamond in that circumstance, but it might not be crucial. But at all costs East knew he did not want West to lead a club, so the high spade was the correct return to prevent West from making a mistake. If East carelessly returned a lower spade, West might not be able to determine the intent and might just assume that declarer held A-Q-J-x of diamonds and only the queen of clubs. In that event, West might give away the contract by leading into South's A-Q of clubs. (C)1991. NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Jan. 24, 1991

Seek out groups or affiliations in the year ahead where you can make connections that could help establish a network conducive to your career. This can be effectively done as long as you try.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A few caustic remarks might be all that it takes to make your household combat-ready today. You're not the only one who will have the rhetorical weapons locked and loaded. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail #2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

FISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be extremely tactful and diplomatic today if you have to deal with a person whose feelings are easily hurt. This individual could be even more sensitive than usual.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Continue to think every move through very carefully in your financial involvements today. Conditions could be a bit more complex than they appear.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) People who are usually supportive of your endeavors may not be if they see your intentions as too self-centered. Don't let the ME overwhelm the WE.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There are indications that you may have a propensity for creating unnecessary problems for yourself today. Don't aim your gun at your own big toe.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Speculative, far-out ventures might capture your interests today; there is a possibility you and a friend might be drawn into a scheme where both could come out losers.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's imperative that you do everything in accordance with your highest standards today, because you will be closely observed by others. Even the smallest of infractions will be noted.

VERGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Guard against inclinations today to debate emotional issues with persons who, like yourself, have no power to change them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There are indications you might catch it from all sides today, although not necessarily from something you'll do. It may be a result of something done by someone with whom you are closely identified.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't put yourself in a position that allows another to make decisions for you in your absence today. What's good for this individual might not serve your best interests.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) The demands you make of yourself today could be rather heavy; associates are likely to follow suit and do so as well. Know your limitations, especially when to say "No!"

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Risky ventures, particularly those of a financial nature, might look more appealing to you than usual today. But, the guy who gives away something for nothing isn't apt to visit your neighborhood. (C)1991. NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

Couples combine innovation and tradition

Weddings today are unique, set trends

If you are a bride-to-be, the way you plan your wedding may affect future traditions for centuries to come. The reason? Weddings are being reinvented and redefined now. While some engaged couples enjoy consulting books of etiquette either for fun or to follow to the letter, many insist on creating a unique wedding that expresses what's special about their union.

Vows you can live by
One of the most common innovations is altering or rewriting the wedding vows. Some modern women think the part that goes "love, honor and obey" sounds more like a doggie training school oath than a wedding ceremony. Others object to "I now pronounce you man and wife" instead of "husband and wife" or "wife and husband." In the twentieth century, a bride should no more have to choke out something objectionable than she should have to marry someone not of her choosing.

On the other hand, the old-fashioned vows do have some charming attributes. For example, nothing is more intimate than the outmoded use of the second person singular, as in "with this ring, I thee wed." These days, "thee" is strictly reserved for God and one's betrothed.

Not-so-traditional gowns
Not every woman looks good in white and therefore some choose an off-white or light pink or an even less traditional color for their gowns. After all, the object is to be beautiful. One bride who had lovely legs comes to mind. She wore the traditional white veil and white satin bodice, but the gown stopped at her hips and flared out into a tulle tutu. She was stunning. Another reason for taking up the hem is that floor-length gowns were designed for graceful dances such as the waltz. Few people waltz nowadays and those massive skirts look awkward juggling about to modern music.

Even the food and drink served at receptions are undergoing scrutiny. Some couples, who have observed one too many scenes made by drunken relatives at other peoples' weddings, eliminate the possibility by not serving alcohol. And, the thought of guests driving home drunk is an added worry the already nervous couple doesn't need.

And the bride cuts the cake...

Chocoholics see no reason to deprive themselves on this of all days by serving white wedding cake. Make it a la mode with double fudge ice cream and your guests may urge you to do the whole thing over again same time next year.

Since today people often meet their spouses in the workplace, they frequently share professional interests. Some choose to make their mutual vocation part of the ceremonies. Two creative personalities may design all the decorations themselves. One equestrian couple exchanged vows and "walked down the aisle" on horseback!

Not-so-traditional wedding gowns can be sleek and sexy or timeless and traditional. Brides today make choices most becoming to them, including a wide range of colors and hem lengths.

Setting trends
When divorced or widowed couples wed, including their children in the ceremony is often a positive start in establishing good "step" relationships. What roles the children will assume is a wide open field waiting to be sown with the seeds of tradition. Your new Mrs. today may become the norm for second weddings in a hundred years.

However you plan your wedding, this time in history allows you to be the director with full creative freedom. And it can't get bad reviews. The only requirement is that the players enjoy themselves.

Linens become essential part of registry programs

The old-fashioned wedding trousseau is being updated with a new bed linen bridal registry program to make every couple's dream bedroom a reality. These bed linen registry programs allow couples to select color schemes, patterns, sizes and items needed to create a total room environment.

"As coordinated bed ensembles grow more popular and include more items than ever before, linens and accessories have become an important part of registry programs," says Deirdre McGovern, public relations manager for Wamautta/Pacific.

"Our research shows that 70 percent of new brides now register for bed linens."

To make it easier for couples to select the perfect pattern and colors, many bridal directors and consultants have an album of room setting photos showing the Wamautta patterns available in that particular store. This way, the bridal consultant can show the bride the many different looks she can select from. The albums also show how solids can be coordinated with patterns to create more than one ensemble.

We advise couples to request three sets of sheets for each bed: one set on the bed, one in the linen closet and one in the laundry," McGovern says.

"Bed ensembles also make an excellent theme for bridal showers."

Settle into cozy life after honeymoon

You're just back from the honeymoon, ready to settle into a cozy life as husband and wife. Now comes the "happily ever after" part, right? Well, it's not always that simple. Even couples who live together before saying their vows are likely to find "playing house" for keeps quite different than they expected, according to "Bride's" magazine. According to their research, the following tips might make the transition to married life smoother.

● Check with your partner before making big decisions or social plans. He may dislike the paisley couch you bought for the living room; you might get angry because he's invited his boss to dinner the night you'd planned a long evening in a bubble bath. Making sure something is okay with one's mate first can head off headaches (and arguments) later.

● Be flexible. People come to marriage with different ideas about everything from religion to who should walk the dog. Compromise is key; if you're not thrilled that he expects you to make him breakfast every morning (like his mom faithfully did for his dad), offer to whip up a terrific morning meal for the two of you on the weekends. During the week, he should share in the work.

● Watch your "fighting styles." When a heated discussion begins, do you burst into tears, while he withdraws? Learning to disagree effectively is essential to marital success, as is swallowing one's pride once in a while. All couples hurt or disappoint each other now and then; it's only human.

● Don't be afraid of change. It takes some work (not to mention patience and a sense of humor) to create a lifestyle which makes both partners happy. But the reward — a marriage that's able to grow in the face of both prosperity and adversity — is well worth the effort.

Chain saws join toasters on list

Looking for an original gift for the bride and groom? How about a 21-year-old maid, his and hers BMWs, or winning lottery tickets?

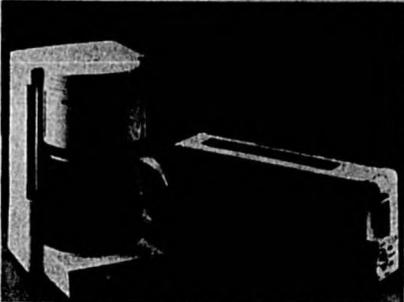

These are just a few of the unusual items brides have registered for, according to a survey of department store bridal registries by Proctor-Silex.

Other unique bridal requests included shrubs, a toilet seat, a trip to Alaska, a chain saw and a canoe.

Don't cross traditional favorites off your list, however; the survey found that most registry items are much more practical. For instance, two-thirds of brides register for appliances.

Coffeemakers are the most-requested appliance, with mixers running a close second. Toasters and irons tie as the third most popular choice.

Bridal registrars said most brides rate the appliance's style above durability and affordability. In fact, two-thirds of respondents indicated the bride "never" considers price as a factor. Color, however, was ranked as very important.

Wedding gifts can be original and practical.

Special features like automatic timing devices are also welcome, according to the survey.

Whether you're registering yourself or shopping for a bride-to-be, here are some tips to consider when choosing appliances:

● Ease of use: Select appliances that are easy to operate and have conveniently located controls.

● Ease of cleaning: Pick easy-to-clean finishes like baked enamel or fingerprint-catchers like chrome.

● Space-savers: Consider compact appliances that take up less counter space.

● Favorite features: Select features that will make brides' favorite appliances even more useful. Some examples:

Automatic Drip Coffeemakers — Look for auto pause/serve, popular with busy young couples. It temporarily stops coffee flow during brewing to allow pouring of a quick first cup of coffee.

Mixers — Choose a compact, rechargeable cordless mixer to make quick work of mixing fruit juices and milkshakes, egg whites, whipping cream, sauces and light batters.

Toasters — Be sure to pick a toaster with wide slots — they're a necessity! For more versatility, Proctor-Silex extra wide slot toasters feature self-adjusting bread guides which hold any slice upright, from thick bagels to skinny diet bread slices.

Irons — For safety and convenience, choose an iron with automatic shut-off and adjustable steam levels. Auto shut-off irons like those from Proctor-Silex turn themselves off if not used for 15 minutes in the upright position or 30 seconds resting on the soleplate.

Do the right thing

Getting what you want from marriage may be easier than you think! A sense of being important to your partner and feeling appreciated are the two best indicators of marital happiness. Author Charlie Michaels claims it's easy to ensure this.

Most of us would do anything for our mate if we were sure it were the "right thing." Unfortunately, it's easy to slip into a self-defeating cycle. You knock yourself out doing what you think will please your spouse. You're off target so you don't get the big smile and hug you expected. You try another approach and get another lukewarm reception. You get discouraged. You stop trying.

"Couples create the biggest obstacle to their happiness by expecting their spouse to intuitively know what they need, but we want different things at different times. Sometimes when I'm upset, I want to be held, occasionally I want to talk and other times I want to be left alone. How can my husband know what I need if I don't tell him?" says Michaels.

In their book, "Avoiding Wedding Aftershock or I Like You Even Better Now That I Know You," Michaels and husband Mike Brown help you identify the keys to your happiness and show you how to share them with your partner. Once you know how to make each other happy, you're on your way to creating a joyful, loving marriage.

"Often it's not that people don't talk, it's that they don't communicate on a level that can be put into action. Mike and I like to be pampered when we're sick. But what's pampering? Left to Mike's interpretations, he would bring me vestiges of his childhood: tea and toast. He means this lovingly, but I don't care for tea and toast.

Younger brides view marriage differently

Younger and older brides have dramatically different views when it comes to marriage, a reader survey in Bride's magazine revealed.

The nationwide study showed that brides under 25 years old are surprisingly conservative and traditional in their attitudes toward sex and marriage. Feelings are what matter most to these romantic young women; they're less interested in establishing their own independence than they are in sharing everything with the man they love. For many, marriage (whether the wedding day is a month away or a year down the road) is foremost on their minds. Some eye-opening findings:

- Only six percent plan to keep their own last names after marriage; just 33 percent intend to open their own checking and charge accounts.

- Ninety percent want an equal say in major financial purchases, but only 60 percent will insist on splitting bill-paying and investment decisions.

- Forty percent find the word "obey" in the wedding ceremony to be demeaning; 80 percent believe it's a wife's duty to be faithful to her husband.

- Younger brides are less likely than older ones to discuss AIDS — and sex in general — with their husbands-to-be.

- For 54 percent, marriage marks the first step away from their parents' home.

- Sixty-six percent consider their wedding day "the most important day of my life."

Can't-miss fashions

If you've chosen a hot spot for your honeymoon, you won't need to pack much more than t-shirts and bathing suit. However, if you're off to an unknown city take basic separates that can be mixed, matched and layered. Denim shorts can be paired with a light t-shirt or a heavy sweater. A pair of slacks is a necessity. Don't forget plain white blouses. It feels great to put on a clean one.

Tall, dark and dashing

For that all-important wedding day, he wants to look as perfect as you do. Even men who aren't generally swayed by fashion want to be dashing for the ceremony. The groom (r) is wearing a black wool cutaway detailed with a lapel that matches the tonal striping of the pleated trousers. His usher (l) dresses in a matching tuxedo but wears a cummerbund and tonal tie.

Scents make sense

Attention, all brides-to-be: Add to your list of one hundred and one things to do to choose coordinating fragrances for you and your groom-to-be. If you have any doubt that choosing your wedding scent is as basic as choosing your colors, consider this:

"Fragrance above all other sensory stimuli has the power to stir emotions," says Karen Quinn, director of marketing services for Liz Claiborne Cosmetics. "Women especially have known its ability to intrigue and have been using it to their advantage for more than 5,000 years, but men have by no means been fragrance-free!" Quinn offers these historical examples of the romance of scent:

In 54 A.D., Nero, the Emperor of Rome, pledged his everlasting love to his late wife by burning more incense at their funeral than all of Arabia could produce in ten years.

In 1370, "Hungary Water" was created for septuagenarian Queen Elizabeth of Hungary, and the perfume made her so desirable that the much younger King of Poland sought her hand in marriage.

Napoleon's beloved Josephine bathed daily in rose water and brandy. When she traveled, she saturated the palace walls with her fragrance in hopes that her emperor would not forget her.

Such was the power of perfume that Puritan England passed a law in the 1700s that voided a marriage if a woman was judged to have seduced her husband through the use of fragrance!

Wealthy people even scented the sails of their honeymoon ships.

Fortunately, in modern times, our fragrance options are a lot simpler. Here are some tips on how to use scent to maximum effect on your wedding day:

- When you choose floral arrangements for the altar, tables, and bouquets, think about their scent and not just their color. For instance, the smell of roses has a calming effect, something the nervous bride and bridegroom may need.

- Since fragrance evokes memories, add a new dimension to your reception by leaving potpourri sachet favors with the guests as a lasting reminder of your wedding day.

- While you're talking about bridesmaids dresses and tuxedos, discuss and coordinate personal fragrance for the bride and groom as well as the bridal party. Quinn emphasizes the importance of choosing fragrances that do not clash.

Not all brides are young and blushing

Anyone who believes that all brides are young and blushing should consider these facts: Today, one fifth of all women getting married for the first time are over 25. Of these, one third are in their thirties, forties, or older.

Whatever their reasons for delaying marriage — whether to pursue a profession or simply to live independently for awhile — once they do decide to wed these older brides generally have this question: "What kind of wedding is right at my age?"

"Bride's" magazine gives the following advice for this group of brides:

- Many older brides prefer small ceremonies with only family and close friends attending, but it's perfectly okay to choose any size ceremony you like. If you're like most older brides, you'll have only a maid or matron of honor, rather than a whole procession of bridesmaids, but again this is up to you. In either case, don't overlook the possibility of asking young relatives to be flower girls or ring bearers.

- What about the question of being "given away"? This ritual can easily be omitted if it makes you feel uncomfortable. But if you would like to be given away and your father is not alive or able to do so, feel free to ask any male relative or usher to perform the role.

- Feel perfectly free to wear a long, lacy white wedding dress if this is what you've always imagined you'd do as a bride. If this isn't you, consider off-white ivory, cream, or the palest pastels such as lavender or sea-green. A sleek style, such as a gently flaring or softly-gathered skirt with a simple bodice and matching jacket, is most attractive. Your dress can be long or short, but for a small wedding, you might feel more comfortable in a length that's just below the knee or mid-calf (very popular right now).

If you like, you can top off your outfit with a hat, or maybe a hat with a short veil. A pillbox style or a hat with a delicate brim is especially smart.

Where can you buy these styles? Try a bridal salon or your local store's bridal department first. Many bridal manufacturers are developing new lines of dresses that cater to the sophisticated tastes of your age group.

Your diamond reveals personality traits

Wow!

This very daring, very modern bride wears a white pearl-trimmed off-the-shoulder denim jacket over a white denim five-pocket short jean skirt.

For centuries man has attempted to access personality through tea leaves, astrological charts, and even bumps on the head. Now here's a new twist. In order to reveal whether a person is creative, aggressive, sensitive, earthbound or dreamy, look at his or her favorite diamond shape: round, oval, pear, marquise or emerald cut.

Over the years, veteran jewelry appraiser Saul Spero has developed a "personality profile" of individuals selecting diamond engagement rings by observing a direct correlation between the shape of the diamond desired and the person's character.

The credibility of Mr. Spero's observations is based on psychological precepts, confirms Dr. Frederick Koenig, professor of sociology at Tulane University. "There is a solid rationale behind Spero's observations. When a person selects a particular geometric shape, that person gives expression to an inner impulse...it is a revelation of the inner self. How does it work?

If you like the round shape best, husband, children and home life are terribly important to you. You're content, dependable, and relate easily to others. You eagerly anticipate all the comforts and joys of marriage and motherhood. Even if you work, a career is not your uppermost concern.

The security of home and family (suggested by the round portion) is also very meaningful to someone who selects the pear shape. But you're eager to meet new people and embark on new experiences (indicated by the tapered end). You're ambitious, want to keep up with your peers and urge your mate to do likewise.

Does the oval shape diamond appeal to you? Chances are you love to innovate and are fully in your element when you're being creative. You're organized, but not inflexible, and have a unique sense of your own style. You dare to be different, but are not "far out." The oval personality is a blend of the round, square/emerald and marquise.

Someone who prefers the marquise shape is outgoing, impulsive, sometimes temperamental, sexy and known to be "a charmer" (depicted by two tapered ends). You thrive on new challenges and your partner must do the same to keep up with you. Your energies need the outlet of a career and you're compelled to achieve your potential. You savor excitement and don't like to be "cooped up" at home.

A bit conservative, disciplined and organized, describes someone who favors the orderly, angular square or emerald shape. Often your mind wins over your heart. You think things over clearly before making decisions. You also have good executive and leadership capabilities.

Diamond shape, or "cut," is just one of the all-important "Four C's" that should be considered when buying a diamond, advises Jewelers of America (JA), the national organization dedicated to consumer information and education about fine jewelry.

Brides need time-saving, space-saving appliances

Choosing the right products for a first home can be overwhelming...from sheets and towels to china and crystal...from small electric appliances and kitchen gadgets to pots and pans...there are just so many different decisions to make!

Many brides-to-be opt for the help of a bridal registry coordinator at a local retail store. These "new home" experts have been trained in the pros and cons of many products by the manufacturers and through trial and error as they use the items themselves. Bridal registry coordinators can help match china, crystal and silver patterns, locate towels in just the right color and help choose the kitchen appliances that fit each couple's lifestyle.

When choosing items for a first kitchen, most bridal experts recommend that couples look for space-saving sets of pots and pans with time-saving features like a non-stick interior. Clean-up will be quick, which is important for today's busy dual-career family. Kitchen gadgets, knives, bakeware and casseroles should also be chosen with versatility, ease of use and storage needs in mind.

The same considerations should be put into place when choosing appliances for a first home.

Brides-to-be should not be afraid to be as specific as possible

Home fashion designer gives tips to newlyweds

"You are what your home looks like," says Louis Nichole. But even struggling newlyweds needn't quail. The 7-year-old home fashion designer insists that any bride's home can easily reflect the elegance and grandeur of the White House, or even Windsor Castle.

And Nichole definitely knows. Both the White House and Windsor Castle proudly house his internationally acclaimed fabrics and decorative accessories. And, thanks to Nichole's affordable bed and bath line, any newlywed can also indulge in the Old World charm and lush opulence of his designs.

Patterned in the grand romantic style of 18th and 19th century Europe, Nichole's sheets, comforters, draperies, towels, etc. offer something for everyone. There are lace trims that duplicate the filigree look of French crochet; rich tapestries combined with clean, contemporary geometrics; exotic palettes; and the sweet delicacy of rambling roses. All his designs, however, reflect the classic, Louis Nichole palette of soft, faded patina colors. That's essential, he says, because "consumers yearn for a 'collected' look they can build on year after year."

Through his bed-and-bath line alone, then, well-wishers can easily help any young bride initiate a timeless, enduring tradition. Just keep the basic requirements in mind. Nichole says the bedroom, for instance, should be stocked as follows:

- 3 fitted sheets, 3 flat sheets, and 3 pillowcases (6 for queen bed);
  - 2 pillows (4 for a queen);
  - 2 mattress pads;
  - 2 blankets, 1 comforter and 1 bedspread;
  - 1 duvet cover and 1 bedskirt.
- The bathroom requires:
- 2 bath and 3 hand towels;

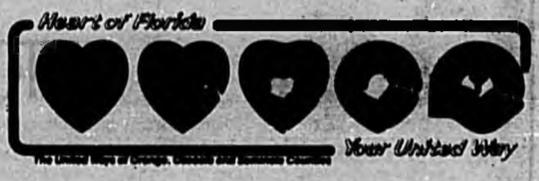

- 3 body sheets;
- 6 wash cloths and 3 fingertip towels;
- 2 bath mats;
- 2 shower curtains (and 2 liners, if needed);
- 6 guest hand towels.

And when bed and bath are done, newlyweds interested in furthering their integrated design concept can turn to the rest of the house. Nichole's special touch of Old World elegance coupled with clean American style is available among a potpourri of other products; everything from framed pictures, wallcoverings, lamps, bedspreads, decorative pillows, hat boxes and porcelain dolls to potpourri itself. And who knows where it will end?

Dedicated to seeing that "Once Upon a Time" never goes out of style, Nichole abides by one enduring tenet. As he puts it, "Quality is still affordable in America — if you find people who are passionate about what they're doing."

Lavish lace borders bestow a French linen. Distinctively feminine, the collection comes in several colors. touch of opulence to solid-colored bed
