May Become As Well Armed As Criminals

Sanford Police Get New Weapons

Maryann L. Cross Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police will soon be as well armed as some of the criminals they come up against.

The Sanford Police Department is replacing its six-shot revolvers with 55 new 16-shot, semi-automatic pistols.

City commissioners agreed to purchase the weapons from Oaks Wholesale Distributors of Rockledge for $20,845. Sealed bids from seven handgun suppliers were opened August 25 for 55 Sig Sauer 9mm caliber, 16-shot, semi-automatic pistols and related

"The law enforcement community trend is to try to keep up with the weapons we are encountering on the street," Police Chief Steve Harriett said. "We need to have equal fire power. The purchase of the new weapons will help us keep up with the changing times."

The cost of the new revolvers will be taken from the Law Enforcement Trust Fund. The money in the fund comes from the seized assets and forfeitures of drugarrests and other crimes.

in essence, the criminals are paying for better weapons for the police." Harriett said. The old revolvers will be traded in on the new semi-auto pistols.

Other expenditures the city commission voted on Monday includes:

 Approval of a final payment of $625 to the legal firm of Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff for professional engineering services performed in connection with the preparation of a downtown parking and traffic circulation study. The study was accepted for planning purposes at the August. 24 meeting of the city commission. At that time Falson said acceptance of the report is a jumping off point from which the staff will make recommendations that must come to the commission individually for approval.

Lake Mary Adopts Budget

The Lake Mary City Comraission gave final approval Thursday night to its 62.5 million budget 1987-88 fiscal budget by a unanimous vote. The new budget will maintain the same ad valorem millage rate city residents paid last

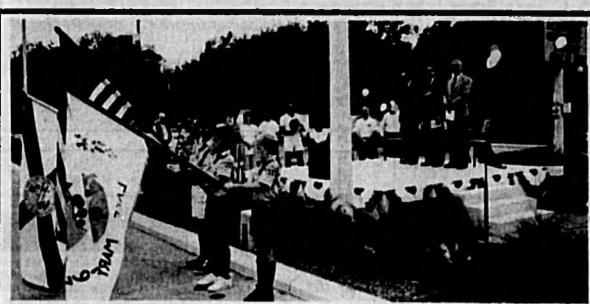

The budget ordinance approved by the commission last night will keep the millage rate at $5.90 per $1,000 of taxable property valuation. Under that rate a Lake Mary resident owning a home assessed at $75,000 with a $25,000 homestead exemption would be required to pay a city tax of $195 for the coming flocal year.

The money made for the $1.99 million city for current flocal year by the same millingerate amounted to $635,546 on a tax base of $185.4 million. The value of one mill in relation to the 1988-87 budget Was 8163,024.

The city expects that same millage rate to raise $637,443 during the 1987-88 budget year on a tax base of $214.8 million. The estimated value for one mill in the city for the

Martinez: ' Made Mistake'

Repeal Sales Tax On Services, He Says

Herald Managing Editor

In an apparent effort to restore Floridians' confidence in his abilities, Gov. Hob Martinez today called for the repeal of the consumer services tax.

That position drew an immediate response from Senate President John Vogt, D-Cocoa

Vogt and House Speaker Jon Mills, D-Gainesville, were traveling around the state today and Thursday visiting editorial boards of various newspapers. They told Florida Today in Cocoa Thursday that there is no consenus on whether to call for an outright repeal of the tax without a replacement, or to find alternative revenue sources.

Vogt insisted the Senate posttion would be repeal with replacement of some kind of tax to make up for lost revenues. He said increasing the corporate and soft drink taxes were possible alternatives.

Martinez, in his strongest position yet on the proposed repeal of the services tax, said today he will look for no alternative tax to replace lost revenues, and instead will insist the Legislature enact budget efficiency reforms before he will even consider a replacement tax.

Martinez insisted the state needs a broader tax base to cope with the demands of its unprecedented population growth. But he said the overwhelming public opposition to the services tax is proof that budget reform must precede tax reform.

'I put the cart before the horse and when I did i made a mistake,"

The fact remains, I put the cart before the horse and when I did I made a mistake," Martinez said at a news conference. "That mistake has cost me the confidence of the people of Florida."

Martinez said he will seek the service tax's repeal effective Jan. I to head off a petition drive to place an anti-services tax referendum on the November 1988 ballot. The Florida Constitution already prohibits a personal income tax, and Martinez said he does not want a similar constitutional prohibition against the services tax.

Vogt predicted if the services tax is repealed effective Jan. 1. millions of dollars in anticipated revenues from that source from this day forward until the repeal date would probably be lost.

People aren't going to pay when they know it's been repealed, so collection will be be all but impossible."

State Rep. Art Grindle, R.-Altamonte Springs, said he felt Martinez was "back on track" in his calling of a repeal of the tax. "One of the govenor's cam-paign promises," Grindle said, "was that he would trim the state budget by $800 million."

Grindle said he also agreed with the call by Martinz for legislators to enact budget effleiency before asking for an alternative revenue source to replace money from the service tax, should it be repealed. "Right now I think there's plenty of room in the budget that we don't need to worry about additional revenue at this time." he said.

Martinez said the public does not believe the tax is fair or necessary because they don't believe the state is making

Neiswender May Garner State Commission Post

Seminole County School Board member Ann Neiswender is scheduled to be recommended for a position on the State Education Practices Commission on Oct. 6. Neiswender said the Florida Cabinet will consider her for possible appointment next Wednesday in Tallahassee.

The practices committee is the group that has statutary authority to take away the certification of any teacher in the state found to have committed unprofessional or unethical conduct, according to Department of Education spokesman Karen Wilde. Neiswender said the committee has the authority to revoke or suspend teaching certificates if it is deemed approiate after reviewing cases.

The first term board member will be nominated for the position by State Education Commissioner Betty Castor. "I was kind of surprised she nominated me, Neiswender said, She's (Castor) a democrat and I'm a republican.

According to Wilde, the commission consists of 13 members from around the state appointed for four-year terms. Commission members receive no payment for the

Retail Sales: Nation Up But Florida Down

From Staff and Wire Reports

spoke of love.

National retail sales rose a smaller than expected 1.3 percent in August, with auto sales generating three-quarters of the growth, however Florida retails sales declined in the latest month for which figures are available.

Exclude motor vehicle purchases and the seasonally adjusted sales total for the month would have been only 0.3 percent higher than in July, the U.S. Commerce Department reported.

Many analysts had expected an overall sales increase of nearly 2 percent because cut-rate autofinancing deals had generated a 7 percent gain in sales of U.S.-made cars.

In dollar terms, however, the motor vehicle sales ended up producing only a 4.5 percent increase from July, reaching $30.5 billion. That's still the best increase since February, but it was too little to produce the sharp sales gains seen during similar financing campaigns last September and December.

The latest Florida retail sales figures, which are based on sales tax collections, are for August tax collections from July sales.

Those figures show the dollar volume of nondurable good sales dropped 3 percent in July, following an 11 percent increase the previous month. Florida sales of durable goods, were 31 percent lower in July then in June, Ironically, July durable good sales were about the same as they were in May. Thjen they jumped about 30 percent in June, and dropped again in July.

Seminole County retail sales also did not keep up with the national upward trend but showed a smaller drop that the rest of Florida.

Sales of non-durable goods in Seminole County during July were down 2 percent from the previous month, and sales of durable goods dropped 6.7 percent from June sales.

Nationally, consumers bought $128.6 billion worth of goods in August. That figure was adjusted slightly to reflect seasonal factors but not changes in price.

Dealers in durable goods - autos, ironing boards and all other items meant to last at least three years - increased their sales by 2.3 percent to reach $50.5 billion.

Here the gain in auto sales had to overcome a 1.1 percent drop in business at building materials, hardware and garden stores to $7.3 billion and a 1.5 percent fall in sales of furniture, home furnishings and equipment outlets to $6.7 billion. Purchases of non-durable goods Increased 0.6

If You Want It Hot, McAllen's The Spot

By Staff And Wire Reports

As we told Mr. Guinness very stoutly a record for breaking or tying records is a record. He didn't understand, but you do. Yesterday, for the fifth day during the past week the record high for the date was broken or tied.

Constitution Day's record of 96 was set way back in 1950 and was tied yesterday as part of the Bicentennial celebration. It wasn't proclaimed officially, but it happened any-

By the way, if you are interested in places where folks have worse weather, try McAllen, Texas where it was 102 degrees yesterday. McAllen is just across the Rio Granda from Reynosa, Mexico. The other extreme? West Yellowstone: 19 degrees for a low.

Sunny skies, calm wind and high humidity this morning may give way to afternoon showers but probably not enough to drench you. May even miss you altogether. Week-end is shaping up to be more of the same but thundershowers may hit in the after-

The so far harmless meanderings of Dennis, following the course set by other tropical storms this year has even gotten forecasters talking about the calmness of this hurricane season. When they talk like that, worry.

At 6 a.m. EDT, the center of Dennis was near latitude 18.2 north, longitude 52.0 west, or about 650 miles east northeast of Antigua, the National Hurricane Center said. It was moving west at 5 to 10 mph with winds at 40 mph.

Forecaster Joe Pelissier of the National Hurricane Center said the hurricane season so far "is one of the quietest in recent memory," but that it is too early to talk about it. The season runs from June 1 to Nov. 30.

"The normal hurricane season's major activity occurs in August and September and the first half of October," he said. "Really, now we're just past the time of peak hurricane activity but we're still well within active period. You can look back and see any number of hurricanes in October.

Although Dennis was still far out at sea. Pelissier said it could pose problems.

"It's shown remarkable persistence. We started tracking it back on the eighth of September, and it's still hanging in there today." Pelissier said. "It's gotten a little more cloudiness and thunderstorm activity near center, and the environment around it is a little less hostile. than it has been. But these are subtle changes.

Dennis was still a long way from the longevity record. Pelissier said the stronger Ginger, a hurricane, lasted a full month, from Sept. 5 to Oct. 5, in 1971

There have been 11 tropical depressions but only four tropical storms this season. Arlene, which brushed over Bermuda, was the only storm to become a hurricane. It was followed by tropical storms Bret and Cindy, but so far no storm has even threatened to make landfall in the United States

"All of the storms have kept well east," Pelissier said. "There have been none in the Gulf of Mexico or the Caribbe-

Violent thunderstorms that killed a 14-year-old New Jersey girl and caused widespread flooding in Pennsylvania lingered today in the East, while temperatures in the West dipped below freezing.

Iran Vows Revenge To Neighbor; U.N. Ponders Next Peace Move

MANAMA. Bahrain (UPI) — Tehran vowed swift retaliation for a series of Iraqi air strikes against Iranian land and sea targets as the United Nations considered its next move in the search for a cease-fire in the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war.

Iranian forces began amphibious maneuvers Thursday in the Gulf of Oman near the southern entrance to the Persian Gulf, the second such exercise in six weeks. Tehran said the maneuvers began with tribal volunteers boarding vessels at sea. It said the training exercise against "global arrogance" would include speed-boat maneuvers followed today by mock attacks on "enemy targets."

British diplomats in the region said Thursday that four British mine sweepers had arrived in the Gulf of Oman Thursday and were preparing for operational duty. The ships are expected to take on fuel and supplies before joining French units that have been searching for mines over the past week in international waters off the coast of

An Iraqi military communique said jet fighters scored direct hits on a "large naval target" off the Iranian coast Thursday in a second day of punishing attacks intended to cut off Iran's source of funding for the Iran-Iraq war.

Soviet Troops Fire On U.S. Gls

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — The United States is seeking a "full explanation" as to why a Soviet patrol fired on two American soldiers in East Germany in an incident that marred an unusually important day in U.S.-Soviet relations.

The Pentagon said a seven-soldier Soviet patrol Thursday fired at an unarmed two-man team from the U.S. Potsdam Military Liaison Mission, slightly injuring one of the men as they observed the patrol at Neuruppin, 50 miles northeast of Potsdam.

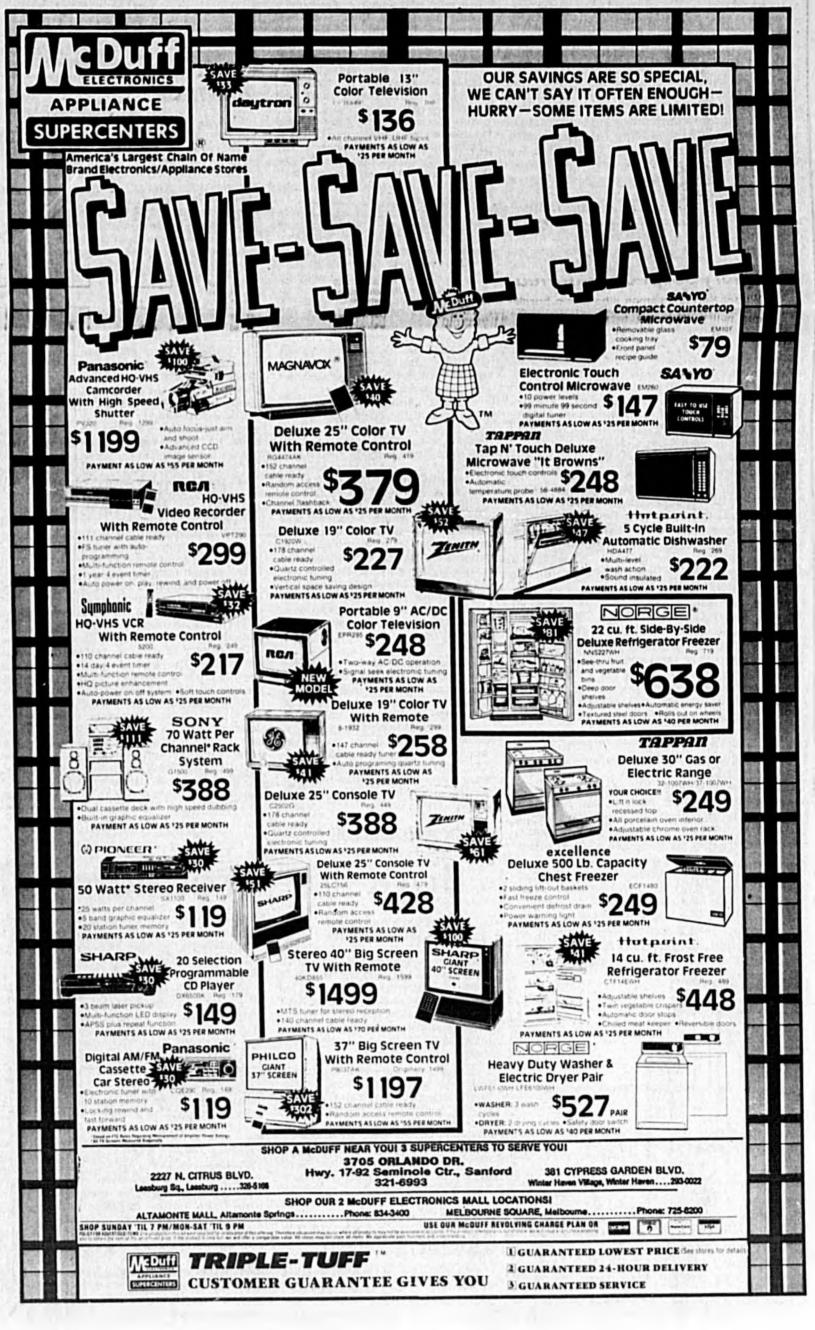

The incident, the most serious since a Soviet guard killed an American major in East Germany two years ago, came at an unusually high point in U.S. Soviet relations, with the superpowers announcing in Washington Thursday they would begin new negotiations on nuclear testing.

An Old Adage, Kill Messenger

The general heading the nation's largest intelligence outfit has met the enemy — and it is us. Us, the media. Us, the ordinary people of this country who must be shielded from the truth about their own government's opera-

Army Lt. General William E. Odom, director of the huge, hi-tech National Security Agency, is fed up with upstart news organizations. Doggone It. Not only do they find out about things, they go and print them.

He wants the U.S. Justice Department to prosecute certain writers and media people under a 1950 law barring disclosure of U.S. communication intelligence activities. Odom is especially unhappy about a 1982 book. The Puzzle Palace, that describes his agency's activities. He would like to see the author, James Bamford, rotting behind bars - and a similar fate for all those other reporters and authors who dare to reveal information about the government's spy satellites and other gadgetry.

Odom isn't the first intelligence chief frustrated by what he reads in a book or his daily newspaper — and in fairness, we must note that his job is to protect national security. The trouble is that these protectors of government secrets don't know where to stop. They have trouble distinguishing between a true breach of national security and a breach of our First Amendment rights. Besides, as Odom knows, most of the news he finds so objectionable was leaked to the media by administration officials.

If Odom's accusations against journalists were so grave, why did the Justice Department refuse to prosecute? We think it's because he didn't make his case, not because Justice lawyers tremble at the power of the press, as Odom suggested.

Odom's public outery is a reminder that the urge to censor is alive and well. And, it just may boost the sales of James Bamford's book.

Lack Of Reality

The idolization of Fidel Castro by some in the United States Illustrates a romantic streak that may be the soft underbelly of Democra-

When Castro said he was not a communist many gullible Americans believed him.

When he suppressed freedom of speech and the press, civil liberties and free elections and slapped thousands of dissenters into prison but said he was making life better in Cuba. his idolizers echoed what he said.

Herbert Matthews in a famous February 1957 interview with Castro in the Sierra Maestra wrote: "It is a revolutionary movement that calls itself socialistic. The program is vague and couched in generalities, but it amounts to a new deal for Cuba, radical democratic and therefore anti-communist."

Norman Mailer wrote in 1959: "It was as if the ghost of Cortez has appeared in our century riding Zapata's white horse. You were the first and greatest hero to appear in the world since the Second War ... the answer to the argument of commissars and statesmen that revolutions cannot last, that they turn corrupt or total and eat their own."

Multiply that kind of thing by the hundreds as writers gushed their fantasies.

Castro "brilliantly" manipulated U.S. media images, wrote John P. Wallach, foreign affairs editor of the Hearst Newspapers in an essay, "Fidel Castro and the United States Press," published by the Cuban-American National Foundation.

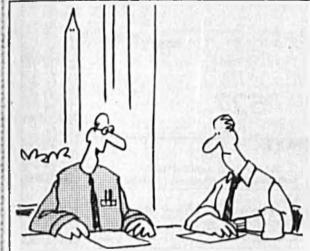

Under Castro's speel, he wrote, they came to share the idea that he, "as the romantic embodiment of our liberal traditions, could establish a humane, caring society where a cruel dictatorship had existed - becoming the world's first 'good' communist."

Castro's charisma, Wallach wrote, blinded his idolizers to the anti-freedom, antidemocratic quality of his rule.

in some the blindness is permanent. There are now two Soviet-backed dietatorships in the hemisphere. If romantic delusions keep U.S. policy wavering, there will be more.

Reagan Still Campaigning Against Washington

WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan had expected that during his White House years he would be David reducing the size of Gollath, the powerful federal government.

So far he has failed. But that does not mean he is throwing in the towel. He can't say enough bad things about the role of Uncle Sam. And if anything his rhetoric against big government is even more high pitched and determined than when he came into office.

Washington remains in his eyes the root of much evil in curtailing what he believes is the legitimate purview of the 50 states.

Although the end of his second term is in sight, he has not made his peace with the reality of Washington and the social programs that have grown over the years. In his view, apparently none of the programs, from the New Deal to the Great Society, did the country any good and in fact impeded individual freedom.

"It's easy to forget today that when we came into office, federal job programa had become a national scandal." he told the National Alliance of Business a few days ago.

The Alliance was created by President

Johnson to find Jobs for the unemployed and to train workers. a major involvement of the private sector that has remained in existence.

Denoucing in particular the job training programs of the past, the president said, "When we came into office, we took one look at this mess and said it had to stop. We wanted a revolution in approach.

"The Good Book tells us that excessive pride is a deadly sin." he said. "Well, the failing in these programs started with government's excessive pride. For five decades every federal training effort had been run by government because government believed it knew what was best for the unemployed and for the businesses that would hire them.

"I've always thought that the common sense and wisdom of government were summed up in a sign they used to have hanging on that gigantic Hoover Dam." he said. "It said. government property. Do not remove."

Reagan seems to have forgotten when his father was handing out WPA checks in Dixon. Ill., during the depression years to help families survive after men and women were unable to

But he is proud of his own Job Training

Partnership, which he said is "business run and locally run - not Washington run. "The hard-to-employ are getting trained," he said. "They're getting placed. They're keeping good jobs with good pay in good companies. They nave reclaimed the American dream."

And Reagan could not pass up an opportunity to take another whack at the Jimmy Carter's administration with the buzzword "malaise."

"All of Aemrica has come a long way from the malaise days of the late '70s. And while getting here wasn't easy." he said. "it was simple. We simply got government - with all its failures and reasons 'why it can't be done' - out of the way and let the American people take a crack at putting things right."

Before he leaves the White House, the president also hopes that he can put more federally owned assets on the block. He is trying to "privatize" as much of the traditionally government-run institutions as possible and to sell as many of its resources that he can

Liberal Journalist 'Sings'

Conservative critics of the pervasive liberal bias in the media are often told that demonstrating the personal liberalism of most members of the media elite proves nothing. In Michael Kinsley's magisterial formulation, "So what?" The point isn't what members of the media personally think, but how they report the news. And according to New York magazine's media observer. Edmund Diamond. "Nowhere do the bias hunters demonstrate any link between what members of elites may think and what they report."

It's certainly true that liberal journalists are usually very cautious about admitting that there's any bias in the way they handle the news. They want us to believe that, like Sgt. Friday, they want just the facts, ma'am. So it is an event of considerable importance when a highly placed member of the media elite lets down his hair and admits - indeed, brags - that he has successfully propagandized the American public on a subject of consuming interest to liberals. The loose-tongued liberal in question is Richard M. Cohen. His name is probably unfamiliar to you. but he exerts enormous influence over what millions of Americans see, hear and believe, for he is senior producer of foreign news for the CBS Evening News.

Cohen's admission appeared as an article on the op-ed page of The New York Times for Aug. 31. What made him so careless was no doubt his immediate subject, which was the restrictions recently imposed by the South African government on television coverage of riots.

The American consciousness about South Africa, I believe, was formed and maintained by the constant television images of brutal repression in many forms: the image of the padded, faceless policeman, club raised; the image of a black youth with fear covering every inch of his face as he throws a rock. These were constant and common images, and now they are missing."

For conservatives to squander their outrage on Dan Rather is a waste of ammunition. Dan Rather is simply the bedizened master of ceremonies in CBS's little cabaret of "consciousness-raising" skits. It is Richard Cohen and the dozens of backstage impresarios like him who, with quiet arrogance, are doing their deadly best to manipulate the minds and opinions of the American people.

'Wallpaper' Wolff

CHICAGO (NEA) — It can be said without any fear of exaggeration that the Prohibition era task force known as the Untouchables has inrecent years become one of the best known and most admirably regarded crime fighting organizations in the nation's long history of battling the sins of dadratted improbity

w herves.

Millions of words have been written about the group. There have also been television portrayals and a pair of motion picture productions. The ratings of other police agencies have ebbed and flowed with the times, but the Untouchables have become fixed in the popular mind as good fellows above reproach.

But is that exactly right? A man who remembers the gangbusters says no. Al "Wallpaper" Wolff claims the Untouchables were good but not great, and hardly invincible. Wolff recalls that the federal agents were generally upstanding, it's true, but, alas, the Untouchables were not wholly untouchable.

Wolff should know. He is the last surviving member of the group. He was an undercover agent for Eliot Ness, on loan from what used to be called the Prohibition Bureau of the U.S. Justice Department, and, yes, he says Ness also had faults. Nevermind the movies, history should be the biography of truth.

The history in this case began in the 1920s. The 18th Amendment was the law of the land, it prohibited the manufacture or sale of alcoholic spirits, and it was everywhere unpopular. Bootlegging was therefore born as a necessary evil, and it in turn fathered widespread police corruption and complicity. Wallpaper Wolff was then a bailiff's assistant in Chicago. That's how he came by his nickname. He says the courts would order the bailiff to confiscate property to satisfy legal judgments, and Wolff would be sent to take it away. "I'd go in." he says, "and I'd seize everything but the wallpaper."

He took that reputation to the Justice Department in 1928, and was promptly assigned to the Untouchables. There were five members depicted in the 1959-63 TV series and there were four featured in this summer's film. Wolff says he remembers 15 on the permanent staff, and others came aboard as needed.

Wolff remembers Ness most of all. And he does so fondly, for the most part. He says the agent in charge did not have much experience when he started, but he was a decent and reliable man. Wolff says Ness was "passive." by that he means laid back, and he was dedicated to the federal responsibility.

Ness employed Wolff surreptitiously. Wallpaper says he did the dirty work behind the scenes. "My job was to get the goods on people. I bought the booze so we could build our cases. I turned the stuff over to the prosecutors, and then the rest of the unit would come along to make

The duty was dangerous, of course. Wolff had one partner killed. and others were banged about. He says he personally faced both barrels of a bootlegger's shotgun on one occasion on Chicago's north side: "'Go ahead,' I told him, 'if you want more trouble." After that, he put the shotgun down.

Wolff says he carried a Luger or a Mauser himself. But he adds that he did not misuse either one. He says he was sworn to uphold the liquor laws, and he felt it should be done with scrupulous legality. "I was always fair." he notes, "even with the criminals.

Contact Lenses' Birthday

By Gayle Young UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) - Leonardo da Vinci first thought up the idea but it wasn't until 1887 that a Swiss physician named Eugen Field ground down a small glass disk and coined the term "contact lens."

This year marks the 100th anniversary of contacts — which didn's hit their stride until the 1970's but which are now part of life for some 23 million Americans, from the President of the United States to several contenders for his office.

"In the 1940's and '50's plastics began a real revolution," said Dr. Roy Wesley, president of the National Eye Research Foundation of Northbrook, Ill. "It led to a whole series of developments that are still continuing. The contact lenses of the 1800 s were a far cry from the soft. extended wear versions today that can be worn comfortably for weeks at a time, Wesley said at a recent seminar. "They were not very comfortable for wearing for more than a few hours at a time." he said of the early lenses, which were as thick as the lenses on binoculars.

Wesley said ancient Egyptians and Chinese knew as early as 5,000 years ago that vision could be improved by looking through chunks of glass found on sand dunes, but da Vinci is credited with the original idea for contact lenses. In 1508 he developed several different ideas for changing the surface of the cornea, a theory that was put into practice in the 1700s when soldiers in the French Revolution disguised themselves by wear ing glass shells that changed the color of their eyes.

Fick is believed to be the first to use small glass disks to correct vision. He fitted the lenses first on laboratory rabbits and then boiled them in a solution of 2 percent grape juice to keep them sterile. according to a report on the history of contacts prepared by Allergan, Inc. of Irvine, Calif.

It said others perfected the lenses. which were usually made by grinding or blowing glass onto molds taken of the eye of the patient.

One man is known to have worn contacts for 20 years until his death in 1907, but fewer than 2,000 people actually wore lenses before the turn of the century.

An estimated 10 percent of the population wear contact lenses at least part of the time, according to figures in the report.

JACK ANDERSON

Bork Vs. Freedom Of Information Act

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - While Judge Robert Bork has shown himself to be a friend of the press when individuals object to what is published and sue for libel, he does not believe it's the judiciary's role to help journalists when they try to get information or otherwise do battle with the government.

In fact, Bork once issued a barely veiled threat against those in the media who believe it's their duty to be the public's watchdogs against government misbehavior - and especially those who have the effrontery to challenge the courts.

In a 1979 magazine article, Bork wrote: "It seems to me particularly dangerous for the press to attack the judiciary as government, and therefore inherently an adversary. when the press depends upon the judiciary for the protections of the First Amendment.

This could be construed as either a warning or just good, practical advice. But Bork has made it clear in his writings and court opinions that, if he thinks the press would do well to coddle the courts, he doesn't think the courts should coddle the Bork appears to feel that the press is entitled to certain rights - as long as it doesn't get too uppity in its exercise of them. This, he has stated, could lead to anti-press decisions and greater government regulation.

"The press may properly claim great freedom," he has written. "It may not claim — or at least it is not likely to do so succesfully - the exclusive or the special possession

This rejection of a special, privileged status for the press comes through loud and clear in Bork's appellate court decisions in Freedom of Information Act cases. Consistently, when a reporter or individual has asked for information under FOIA and a government agency has withheld documents for security reasons. Bork has ruled for secrecy. Here are some FOIA cases researched by our associate Corky Johnson that illustrate Bork's viewpoint:

- When our former associate Donald Goldberg asked to see the results of a State Department questionnaire sent out to U.S. ambassadors on their host countries' diplomatic practices, the department refused to release parts of the responses on grounds that they were "confidential." Our attorney argued that most of the ambassadors had marked their questionnaires "unclassified."

But Bork and his appellate court colleagues ruled for the State Department, saying that government agencies have the authority to reclassify documents at will, and it is up to the journalist to produce evidence that would indicate the reclassification was in error.

- In Meeropol vs. Meese, the children of executed Soviet spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg had used FOIA to seek FBI documents on their parents' case. The FBI withheld documents that it claimed were entitled to exemptions by reason of national security, privacy and law enforcement needs. Bork's opinion on "perhaps the most extensive FOIA request ever made" said the FBI's withholding of the documents was proper.

- In McGehee vs. CIA, the court ruled that the agency had the burden of proving it had made a thorough search of records in an FOIA suit. Bork dissented, saying there was no evidence of bad faith by the CIA, but merely "bureaucratic inefficiency."

- In Sims vs. CIA, the appeals court ruled that the agency could not withhold the names of persons and institutions used in a research program. Bork dissented, saying that anyone giving information to the CIA should be assured anonymity, and adding that "the CIA will probably lose many future sources of valuable intelligence." It is doubtful that Bork would have been similarly concerned at the prospect that the press might lose sources of information as the result of a court ruling.

U.S., Soviets Finalize Agreement In Principle on Arms Elimination

WASHINGTON (UPI) - An historic superpower summit is an expected result of what administration sources said would be today's announcement of an agreement in principle for eliminating U.S. and Soviet medium-range missiles worldwide.

After a day of extended top-level talks and reports of significant progress, U.S. officials said President Reagan was likely to make today's announcement at the White House followed by a news conference at the Soviet Embassy from Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

Administration sources who requested anonymity revealed late Thursday that U.S. and Soviet negotiators would be sent back to Geneva under a general deadline to work out the fine print of the missile accord, including detailed verification procedures to ensure against cheating.

Completing the historic treaty would set the stage for a third summit between Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev later this year in Washington.

FBI Nabs Terrorist Suspect

WASHINGTON (UPI) - U.S. officials say they sought no help from other nations in the unprecedented capture of an accused Shiite terrorist brought to the United States from international waters to stand trial for taking hostages.

This represents the first overseas arrest by U.S. law enforcement officials of a suspected terrorist being sought under U.S. laws," Attorney General Edwin Meese said Thursday in announcing the dramatic arrest of Fawaz Younis, 28.

Younis, the alleged mastermind of a 30-hour airliner hijacking two years ago, was lured to a boat piloted by FBI agenta Sunday, according to the Justice Department. The Lebanese citizen was arrested and held aboard the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga before being flown to Washington and arraigned Thursday.

Former Local Woman Charged With Murdering Her Daughter

TAMPA (UPI) - A former Sanford area woman was charged with first-degree murder Thursday, accused of beating her 5-year-old daughter unconscious and then throwing her body into a retention pond to drown.

The body of Vanessa Clanton was found in the pond about 25 yards behind the family's townhouse in northwest Hillsborough County Wednesday afternoon. Her mother, Candace Bruner, 24, told deputies the girl had disappeared from the house about 9 a.m. But sheriff's spokesman Jack Espinosa said she was not reported missing until 2:35 p.m., and a few minutes after deputies arrived her body was found in the unfenced retention pond.

Espinosa said Bruner was charged Thursday after investigators found evidence the child had been beaten. He said the girl apparently had gotten into her mother's cosmetics and was beaten about the head with a belt and a buckle and then slammed against a door.

Judge: Pinellas County Tax Void

CLEARWATER (UPI) — Pinellas County Judge Charles S. Carrere ruled Thursday the that state's consumer services tax was unconstitutional in Pinelias County.

The ruling is effective only in Pinellas, but the controversial tax will be the subject of a special session of the Legislature next week and it could have some bearing on legislative hearings.

Carrere's ruling came in a drunken driving case in which lawyer Ross Ward asked that Pinellas County prosecutors be prohibited from trying the case because the outcome would determine whether the state gets to keep the tax on the fee the defendant paid Ward.

A provision of the consumer services tax law provides that if a defendant is acquitted, the 5 percent tax paid on' his lawyer's fee is returned. But if the defendant is convicted or pleads guilty, the state keeps the sales tax.

Red Cross Advisors Hear Program Reports

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

The role of the American Red Cross in helping educate the public about the AIDS virus and the successful Learn to Swim program held this summer were discussed at a meeting of the Seminole County Red Cross Advisory Committee.

One of the Red Cross' two educational films on AIDS, Beyond Fear, was shown to the advisory committee when it met Tuesday at the organization's Seminole County Service Center in Longwood. The film is narrated by Robert Vaughn and was made for Red Cross by the National Safety and Insurance Institute.

Jon Martindale, director of the Seminole Service Center, said the film was well received by the advisory committee, which felt it was most suitable for showing to emergency medical technicians and paramedics, technicians in labs and hospitals and community leaders. He said the film explains how the virus reacts in the body system, how AIDS victims react and how others can relate to them and the importance of community education. He said for every dollar spent on education, a $3 savings in medical costs will result.

The Red Cross also has another non-judgmental film. A Letter from Brian, that was made for use on the high school level. The film is being made available to the school systems. "We can't be ostriches and put our heads in the sand," Martindale said.

The advisory committee also viewed a video tape taken of the "Learn to Swim" program this summer. Martindale said the program, sponsored by the National Spa and Pool Institute. was the first swimming program offered without cost to the public by the Red Cross in the past 20 years. Held in Sanford at Sanford Landings pool, the program gave 90 children the opportunity to learn to swim.

Martindale said the Red Cross hopes the program will be funded again next year so that it can again be offered.

Twenty-five parents were instructed in how to teach their offspring to swim in a pilot program held in Seminole County this summer at Sanford Landings, Parnell's and other pools around the county, Martindale said. Parents that took the training felt that they had been given enough in-formation so that what they couldn't accomplish this summer they could continue next year with their young child.
Martindale said the children around 5 years old progressed rapidly during the short time while the two and three year olds learned more slowly. He said many of the parents said they enjoyed the quality time with their children and felt it helped their relationship.

Although the pilot program is still being evaluated by a committee, Martindale said he believes it will be continued next summer in some form.

Martindale said the Seminole Red Cross has helped nine families whose homes were damaged or destroyed by fire since July 1. and consequently an amount equal to all of last year's budget for helping fire victim was used up in that short time. This has resulted in going over budget.

The Red Cross is also involved in coordinating its role in disaster preparedness and response with other agencies. A meeting is scheduled on the topic for Oct. 26 from 4-6 p.m. in the Seminole Community College auditorium.

Senior Helpline Begins Operation

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

A new Senior Helpline began operation Wednesday in Seminole County to help provide information and social services to senior citizens and is expected to handle 13,000 calls in 1988 based on past experience and the increased number of older persons moving here.

The Helpline number is (305) 831-HELP. Four new lines have been installed for the Helpline which is manned by staff members 8:30 to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. When the office is closed an answering machine will be available to take messages.

In addition to scheduling for Meals on Wheels. homemaking and respite care, the new Helpline will also offer access to van transportation for doctors' appointments and lunch trips to any of eight congregate meal sites in the county.

Offered through the Federation of Senior Citizens of Seminole County, Inc. located in Altamonte Springs, the new Helpline will also help to provide information on everything from seniors' programs and activities to health care, nursing homes, legal and financial assistance. insurance information housing and more through referrals to various social service agencies.

Information/Referral Director Burr Anderson said,"We are trying to improve the ability of those with needs to get them met faster and easier by being able to call one number instead of several."

As part of a newly forming Community Service System, he said, the new Senior Helpline for Seminole County is being set up to work in conjunction with similar Helplines in Orange, Osceola. Volusia and Brevard counties for cross-county referral.

The new Seminole Helpline should help to cut red tape and speed necessary services to area seniors, according to Project Director Fay Kalteaux. The program is part of a continuing effort to help senior citizens maintain their independence and obtain necessary services in lieu of more costly long term medical care.

For information about the new Senior Helpline for Seminole County, contact Kalteux or Anderson at 831-1631.

Formerly working in the Communications Office of the Episcopal Diocese of Central Florida in Winter Park, Anderson joined the Federation staff in mid-July in preparation for opening the new Helpline.

Anderson said he welcomes inquiries about the service or information on other organizations. churches or agencies offering services for seniors or businesses related to seniors in order to expand his information and referral reference file.

We are in an area where there is a demonstrated need for social contact on the part of the elderly. With the help of the community, it is exciting trying to provide sometimes creative solutions to a wide variety of concerns." Anderson said.

He said, "Our Federation volunteers have been wonderful with Meals on Wheels and Respite Care programs and we appreciate their wonderful support. I don't know what we would do without

Authority Displays Expressway Maps

Right-of-way maps for the Seminole County Expressway route between State Road 426 and Interstate 4, along what was formerly known as "Alternate 68," will be on display at the Expressway Authority meeting Monday afternoon.

The authority is not scheduled to vote on accepting the maps until its October hearing, but will hear a report on the preparation of the maps Monday. The meeting is scheduled for 4 p.m. in the county commission hearing room just inside the San Carlos Avenue entrance of the County Services Building on N. First Street, Sanford.

The authority will also hold a public hearing on the alignment of part of the western leg of the expressway, between the Wekiva River and Interstate 4.

The Expressway Authority will hear an explanation of the recommended route from the Florida Department of Transportation, then will take public comments on the proposed routes.

The route recommended will be within a 1,000-foot corridor south of the abandoned Seaboard Coast Railway right-of-way.

Pays Contempt Fine Lawyer

Our Cherished Rights

By Deane Jordan

Herald Staff Writer An Orlando attorney already on probation by the Florida Bar has paid a $500 fine for missing court dates before Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr.

Ed Leinster paid $500 to the Seminole County Law Library in Sanford. He is also to aupply the Judge with a letter of apology.

In August Leinster told Eaton that he did not show up for two scheduled hearings July 20 because his secretary apparently made a mistake. Leinster, however, did apologize to Eaton for not showing up for a felony trial July 2. Leinster said he was not aware he was the attorney of record in that case, although court documents signed by Leinster show that he apparently was the attorney of record.

Leinster said July 2 he had to attend trial in Orange County and that Judge Eaton's office had been infromed of the conflict. Testimony, however, from Eaton's staff indicated they determined that the case Leinster was to be involved in ended the previous day with a dury decision

In the July 20 instances, Leinster said he believes his secretary had told Eaton's office that he (Leinster) could not be there. Again, testimony by Eaton's staff indicated they did not remember nor have any record of being told Leinster could not make the appointments.

Though the hearing was continued until today so Leinster's secretary could testify the issue was resolved earlier this week.

Leinster's law practice is on a probationary status until January 1989, a Florida Bar spokesman

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The NFL Players Association will be backed by the purse and man-power of the AFL-CIO, the world's largest labor organiza-tion, during a threatened strike on Tuesday.

Officials of the labor giant pledged their support to the NFL players Thursday and said they might ask certain unions to boycott games owners hold during a strike.

Meanwhile, Players Association Executive Director Gene Upshaw and Management Council Executive Director Jack Donian will meet today to try to revive the dormant contract talks. The league's 1,600 players are scheduled to walk off the job following Monday night's game between the New York Jeta and New England Patriots.

Upshaw told United Press International Thursday night he expected management to offer a "bribe" proposal that includes a 49-man roster, a four-man increase over the current roster size, and pension increase.

"It is another attempt on the part of management to stall and the players are aware that this tactic would take place," Upshaw said.

Jim Conway, Management Council assistant executive director, said the two chief negotiators would meet one-on-one at an undisclosed location today - the first meeting since management rejected the latest contract offer from the Upshaw, however, said the union has no plans to back off its strike date.

"Short of an agreement, short of resolving some of the conflicts that we have, there is nothing that can move us," he said.

In another development Thursday, former Washington Redskins running back John Riggins said by telephone he and retired Marine Corps Commandant P.X. Kelley offered to mediale the contract talks. The union turned down the offer, saying mediation "didn't have a role" so close to the strike deadline.

Upsaw, a member of the AFL-CIO's executive committee. called on the leadership of the AFL-CIO, which said it would provide money to the players' union, picket stadiums and arrange railles.

The state playoffs (Nov. 27) still seem like an entire season away but tonight will be a big night for Seminole High in its quest for a berth in postseason play.

The Seminoles, fresh off a 28-0 thrashing of Titusville Astronaut, open their Class 4A District 7 schedule tonight at 7:30 against Orlando Edgewater's Eagles at EE Stadium at the Orlando Evans High campus.

The kids realize this is our first district game so it will not be hard for us to get up for Edgewater," Seminole coach Roger Beathard said. "One of our goals is to get into the playoffs this year and the kids know they have to beat Edgewater to reach that Seminole will not only carry momentum and district dreams into tonight's game, but It will also be the favorite. While the Tribe crushed Astronaut last week. Edgewater was hammered, 30-0, at Tallahassee Lincoln. The Dunkel Index Line rates Seminole at a 24 point favorite.

"I'm one of ones who picked them (Seminole) to win the district, Edgewater coach Sam Weir said. "They are loaded with to Lewis. linebacker Ron Cox and tackle bullets than it may have thought last week when it performed almost flawlessly in every aspect of the game. Beathard was particularly proud of the play of the offensive and defensive lines.

"Those are the two areas where we had the most questions," Beathard said. "And I was quite pleased with the performances of both lines. It will be nice if we can have as good a team performance in all phases of the

One phase where Seminole has always been tough is defense and Beathard said that defense will be tested by the imaginative offense of Weir's Eagles this week.

Linebacker Earnie "Sackman" Lewis (15 tackles), safety Leonard Lucas (13 tackles, forced fumble) and monsterback Ron Blake (11 tackles) all performed well against the War Eagles. Ardine Daniels and Paul Newell effectively turned the running backs inside a lot of bullets and I don't know if we can. Ralph Hardy.

Seminole found it was loaded with more people who are threats." Beathard said. 'Sammy (Weir) does a lot of misdirection and gambling type plays so we'll have to be prepared for just about anything."

While the defense has been the backbone of the Seminole team the past few years. Seminole's district hopes also rest in the capable hands of quarterback Jeff Blake and his determined offensive teammates. Blake completed 9 of 13 passes for 141 yards against Astronaut, his first game action in a year. Curtis Rudolph led a balanced running attack with 88 yards rushing while Jerod Jones added 67 yards and two touchdowns.

Lake Mary Gals Band Together For Second

By Chris Fister

Herald Sports Writer ORLANDO - It's a good thing Mike Gibson doesn't have hay fever. One sneeze at the wrong time and he might have missed his entire team finishing the race Thursday afternoon.

Led by one of the tightest packs ever witnessed, Lake Mary's Lady Rams stormed to second place in the Edgewater Invitational Thursday at the University of Central Florida. In the process. Lake Mary, ranked 10th in the state in Class 4A. outran third-ranked Lake Brantley and seventh-ranked Lake Howell. Fourth-ranked Palm Bay took top honors.

"That is the best pack I've seen in all my years of coaching." Gibson said. "Our number one and number five runner were only 15 seconds apart. I know it's too early to get too excited, but that pack was an impressive sight.

Gibson had to do a double take when he saw all his runners in a row a the finish of the two miles.

Cross Country

The Lady Rams' top five finished 10th, 13th, 14th, 15th and 16th, respectively. Lake Mary finished with a team score of 68 while Palm Bay, led by second, fourth and seventh place finishes, had a score of 52.

The pack of Lady Rams included sophomore Allison Snell (13:39.1) and seniors Christine Adamson (13:52.6), Tara Braheny (13:53.3), Heather Heikkila (13:53.9) and Tabatha Gano (13:54.1). Also running for Lake Mary were Kim Blackadar (41st at 15:09) and Kwaja Floyd (57th at 16:39).

Lake Howell got a superb performance from juntor Jenny Bolt who won the individual title with a time of 12:53, six seconds better than her winning time at the Lake Mary Opener. Bolt might have ran a better time but she ran the last mile with no one

Martin overtook Cocoa Beach's Kelli Butler with 800 yards to go and never looked back as she won the Class 3A individual title with an impressive time of 12:12.

"Once I figured what the distance to the finish was. I decided to push it with every-thing I had," Martin said, "She (Butler) gave me a challenge but from the start. And, once she that made me push even harder, realized she had a shot at first. This is my last year and I'm going for it every time I get the chance.

Lady Rams' Heart Surprises Oviedo Noles Win First

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY - "Sometimes a lot of heart can beat a lot of talent.

Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry's words could not have been more true Thursday night as her inspired Lady Rams rallied for a 15-11, 7-15, 15-10 Seminole Athletic Conference upset of Oviedo's Lady Lions before 251 fans at Lake Mary

It was a big victory for the Lady Rams in the early going of the SAC race as they improved to 2-1 in the league and trail DeLand by one game. Lake Mary ran its overall record to 2.3. Lake Mary does not play again until Thursday when it hosts Seminole.

"The girls played with all their heart," Henry said. "They were digging up almost everything Oviedo hit at them and they never quit when they were down.

Oviedo, 2-1 overali, now stands at 1-1 in the SAC. The Lady Lions, defending conference champions, host Seminole Tuesday night.

"We gave the match away because of all of our missed serves." Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said. "You can't win if you can't serve. Getting the serving straightened out is now our number one priority."

Valerie Smith, Crissie Snow and Gina Dawson sparked the Lady Rams in the early going of game one as Smith served four points and Snow five as Lake Mary built a 10-5 lead. Oviedo came back behind Jodie Switzer's all-around play to pull within 10-9 but Lake Mary took a 14-9 lead on the outstanding serve of Lora Splatt. Brooke Taylor later served the final point of the game.

Oviedo got its potent offense cranked up in game two as senior Jill Knutson and junior Suzanne Hughes both put down some nice spikes. Switzer also had a good serving game as she served six points, including the game winner.

The Lady Lions took a 9-5 lead in game three but eight missed serves kept them from adding to the lead. Lake Mary tied it on Smith's serve, then took the lead on Karin King's serve. Oviedo stayed within 12-10 when a missed serve gave Lake Mary a side out and Marnie Frey served three points in a row, the last one an ace, to give Lake Mary

The Lady Rams played the third game without Splatt, who hit her face on the floor while diving for a ball. Henry said Splatt may have had a hairline fracture of her cheekbone and was taken to the hospital for X-rays.

'When I lost Lora I didn't know what we were going to do," Henry said. "She's the only experienced setter on the team. The girls hung in there, though, and played an inspired third

Pats, Rams Collide Tonight

By Scott Sender Merald Sports Writer Rivalries are high school football. There's nothing to match the excitement of seeing two fired-up teams go head to head on a Friday night. In Seminole County, there are a lot of good rivalries. Seminole-DeLand, Lyman-Oviedo and Lake Howell-Lake Mary are always momumental

But one rivalry sticks out. The anticipation begins on Monday and by Friday, it is not unusual to see 10,000 jammed into the Lake Mary vs. Lake Brantley. Whenever the Rams and Patriots square off, it's not a football game, it's all-out war. To put it bluntly, Rams and Patriots aren't too fond of one another, and every year they settle their differences on the football field. Another chapter will be written tonight at Brantley's Tom Storey Field when the hungry Rama and eager Patriots get together for a Seminole Athletic Conference and District 5A-4 showdown. Kickoff is 8 p.m.

After Brantley won the first two meetings in this annual Mayor's Cup game. Lake Mary has come back and won the next three to take a 3-2 series edge.

Both Brantley and Mary are coming off opening game losses. The Patriots lost a hearthreaking 28-21 double-overtime game to Oviedo while Lake Mary was dumped by Winter Park, 28-7.

Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon and Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson take different approaches to the game.

"I can't tell you how much I want to beat them." Almon, who has lost to Lake Mary both times, said. "To tell you the truth, our kids don't think they are going to win, they know they are going to win."

Nelson downplays the rivalry. "Everybody on our schedule doesn't like us." Nelson said. "It seems as though everybody is sky-high when they play us."

There are a number of interesting matchups. Most impor-tant is probably the Brantley offensive line against the Lake Mary defensive line. Lake Brantley is a ball-control team and it proved that last week against Oviedo as it held the ball for 34 minutes. Brantley wishboned 65 plays Oviedo's 25. Brantley also used a no-huddle offense that confused Oviedo at

"That is the way our offense is supposed to work," Almon, who once coached at Lake Mary, said. "We did a good job last week, and if we keep the ball for that long this week, I don't think that there is any way that they can beat us. Our offensive line is going to have a super game."

The line paved the way for senior fullback Mark Sepe. Sepe rambled for 104 yards and a touchdown. The 104-yard effort leads the county. "Mark is all fired-up," Almon said about his workhorse (30 carries) fullback. "We are going to do the same thing that we did last week, and they are going to have to stop

Nelson is not happy with his defense. "No, I wasn't pleased at all." Nelson said about the Winter Park outburst. "At times we were in the game, and at other times we weren't."

The Lake Mary defense is led by linebacker Lance Stewart. cornerback Terry "The Cat" Miller, cornerback Sheldon Richards and safety Carlos Hartsfield.

Nelson said the Patriots are much improved. "I don't think that there is any question about it," Nelson said. "They are one of the better teams around and we are going to have to play well in order to beat them."

The Lake Mary offense isn't too shabby, either. "They can really move the ball." Almon said. "I think that they are going to try to throw the ball against us, and I'm hoping that our secondary is up to the task."

The Lake Mary offense features juntor quarterback Hartsfield, senior wide receiver Richards and senior tailback

In 15 major-league seasons. the 38-year old right-hander has been with seven last-place clubs and only four times played for teams finishing above fourth

"He's been amazing." San Francisco Manager Roger Craig said. "He's going to win the Cy Young. He deserves it. He pitched like hell for a last place club, and he's pitching even better here on a good club.

Reuschel, 13-7, pitched his third-straight complete game for a league-leading 12. He walked one and struck out five en route to his fourth straight victory and fourth shutout.

"It's not something I'm thinking about, but every pitcher would like to get it." Reuschel said of his Cy Young chances. "I don't think I have enough wins to be considered, but I'm real happy with the way I've pitched this year.'

Bob Brenly broke a scoreless tie with a two-run double in the sixth inning beloing the Glants to their sixth-straight triumph. San Francisco, which has won 23 of its last 28 games, leads the National League West by eight games over second-place Cincinnati.

Tartabull's 'Kindling Hit' Lights Fire Under Royals

United Press International

Danny Tartabull broke two bats and two ties Thursday night to earn the Kansas City Royals sole possession of second place in the American League West.

Tartabull's league-leading 19th game-winning RBI, with two out in the 10th inning, gave the Royals a 7-6 triumph over the California Angels that moved Kansas City out of a secondplace tie with the idle Oakland Athletics.

Minton said Tartabull broke bats on the game-winner and on an eighth-inning single.

"I made kindling of his bat twice tonight and he's hitting 1.000 against me." Minton said.

game. I just hope we'll have Lora back soon."

Lake Mary's junior varsity kept its unbeaten streak alive as coach Willie Richardson's team downed Oviedo, 15-9, 7-15, 15-8.

SEMINOLE WINS FIRST Seminole High rallied from a big first-game deficit, then recelved an impressive service string from Adrian Hillsman in game two as the Lady Tribe won its first match of the season, 16-14 15-6, over Lyman's Lady Greyhounds in SAC action Thursday at Lyman High. Seminole, 1-3 overall and in the SAC, returns to action Tuesday at Oviedo. Lyman, 0-4 overall and 0.3 in the league, is at Lake Brantley Tuesday.

'It was a very good team effort." Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "We had good movement and passes and I was really proud of the setters. Liz Long, Cindy Benge and Adrian (Hillsman) all had a good night hitting. I hope this is a sign that we are starting to get it rolling."

In the opening game, Lyman built up a 14-8 lead and was serving for the game when Seminole got a side out and Hillsman served the Lady 'Noles within 14-11. Seminole got another side out and Heather Brown then served the last five points to complete the comeback.

In game two, Seminole had a 5-4 lead when Hillsman served nine points in a row to put the over DeLand.

Lady 'Noles in control. Brown later served the final point.

"Adrian (Hillsman) had a very nice string with her underhand. floater serve," Corso said. "She also had a run of three aces in a row."

Seminole also picked up its first junior varsity win Thursday as coach Michelle Monhollon's team downed Lyman, 15-6, 15-12. Amy "Bird" Fossbender. Shawna Cohen, Jennifer Benge, Kelly Epps and setter Kim Allen led the way for the JV Lady 'Noles.

HAYDEN DEVASTATES PATS With C.C. Hayden dominating at the net, DeLand's Lady Bulldogs took over first place in the Seminole Athletic Conference Thursday with a 15-10. 15.8 victory over Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots at De-Land High.

Deland, 4.0 overall, now stands at 3-0 in the SAC while Lake Howell is one-half game back at 20. Lake Brantley dropped to 3.3 overall and 1.2 in the conference.

"Hayden killed us at the net," Lake Brantley coach Stephanie Glance said. "She is so hard to defend against because she roams all the way across the front line, finds the set, and puts It down."

Glance said Hayden's dominance overshadowed an excellent performance by Brantley's Dawn Gebhart. "She played her best match ever tonight." Glance said of Gebhart.

Lake Brantley's junior varsity ran its record to 4-0 Thursday with a 7-15, 15-4, 15-11 victory

IN BRIEF

Chuck Suggs Receives Air Fare; Still Needs Airplane To London

Chuck Sugge has his airplane fare, now all he needs is an airplane.

Chuck, a 14-year-old Lake Mary resident who needs a heart transplant to live, received good news for part of his problem Thursday when The Children's Wish Foundation of Orlando offered to pay for Chuck and three family members to London for his operation.

Chuck's mother, Paulette, said the family plans to leave Oct. 5. The operation will be performed by Dr. Magdi Jacoub, a heart and lung transplant specialist. The Children's Organ Transplant Association of Bloomington, Ind. has offered to play for the $60,000 operation.

"We need a hospital plane," Paulette Suggs said. "We thought we could get a Medi-vac from Tallahassee, but then we found out it does not fly out of the United States."

Due to Chuck's delicate condition, he intermittently needs oxygen and the family is worried about his ability to withstand the long flight to London and the pressure of the

"We would like to get a plane that could get us there in four hours," Ed Suggs said. "The quicker the flight, the better for Chuck."

Chuck, a Lakeview Middle School eighth grader, is currently attending school and making his rounds in a motorized wheelchair.

Those wishing to donate to the Suggs' cause may do so by sending money to Chuck Sugge Fund, Sun Bank, P.O. Box 262. Lake Mary, FL 32746.

Hockey Team Employs McLain

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (UPI) - Two-Time Cy Young Award winner Denny McLain, whose conviction and 23-year sentence in a racketeering case were overturned last month, is going to work for the owner of the Fort Wayne Komets.

McLain, who is free on $200,000 bond pending a possible retrial, and Kometa owner David Welker confirmed the arrangement Thursday.

McLain, 43, said he will be a public relations representative for the International Hockey League team and will be a full partner in Welker's distributorship of Australian-made non-alcoholic wine.

Earnhardt Nears NASCAR Mark

DOVER, Del. (UPI) -- Dale Earnhardt will try to move within one victory of the NASCAR season record Sunday when he competes in the Delaware 500 at Dover Downs International Speedway.

Earnhardt has won 11 races this year and collected $1.23 million in prize money. He is seeking to break the record of 13 set by Richard Petty in 1975. Darrell Waltrip won 12 races in 1981 and Bill Elliott won 11 races in 1985.

Petty has finished among the top five in the last three NASCAR races, but is still seeking his first victory since

Nakajima Shoots 10-Under 62

FRANKLIN, Wis. (UPI) - Torrential rain, mixed with thunder and lightning, overshadowed Tommy Nakajima Thursday on the first day of the $600,000 Greater Milwaukee Open.

Nakajima shot a 10-under par 62 Thursday to tie the Tuckaway Country Club course record in the first round of the GMO. Rain in the afternoon, however, forced suspension of the round with 78 of the 156 golfers in the field still on the course.

Schaefer Wins Patriot Of Week

Beth Schaefer, a sophomore cross country runner for Lake Brantley, was voted Dairy Queen Patriot Athlete of the Week (Sept. 6-12), athletic director Bob Peterson announced Thursday.

Schaefer, a talented sophomore, placed second in the Lake Mary Opener last Saturday.

Other nominees included: fullback Mark Sepe, cross country runner Darrin Tugman and volleyballer Kim

Spruce Creek Blanks Mainland

Port Orange Spruce Creek opened its District 5A-4 season Thursday night with a 14-0 victory over Daytona Beach Mainland at Welch Memorial Stadium.

Spruce Creek, 1-0 in the district, improved to 2-0. Mainland fell to 0-1 and 0-2.

In other action, seveth-ranked Orlando Evans walloped Orlando Boone, 37-6, at EE Stadium in Orlando. The game was called due to lightning in the fourth quarter. Evans Improved to 2-0 and Boone dropped to 0-2.

No Move For FSU-Miami Game

CORAL GABLES (UPI) - University of Miami Athletic Director Sam Jankovich said Thursday the Hurricanes' game against Florida State will be played as originally scheduled Oct. 3, and will not be moved to Oct. 4 to accommodate CBS.

Guerrero Gets Off Critical List

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Race car driver Roberto Guerrero was taken off the critical list Thursday, one week after suffering a serious head injury during a test run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, hospital officials said.

Smith To Keep Eye On No. 26

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) - If Emmitt Smith is seeking a tailback to emulate, all he has to do is watch No. 26 Saturday.

Tenth-ranked Alabama, led by superb tailback Bobby Humphrey, will again turn to power football in the Southeastern Conference opener at Legion Field. Alabama, 2-0, has beaten Florida eight straight times, including a 21-7 triumph in Gainesville last year forged by a punishing running game.

Smith, one of the most highly recruited freshmen in the nation, enjoyed his first big game as a collegian Saturday in Florida's 52-0 rout of Tulsa. Humphrey, who ran for 114 yards and a touchdown against the Gators at Florida Field a year ago, was spectacular Saturday night as Alabama beat Penn State 24-13. The 6-foot-1, 187-pound junior carried the ball 36 times for 220 yards, including a 73-yard TD run, and also threw a 57-yard option pass to set up another score.

"In my opinion, Bobby Humphrey is the leading Heisman Trophy candidate." mys Alabama rookie coach Bill Curry. "Let me count the ways. The guy is amazing. He's like a ghost. He does not appear to be running hard, but he'll run past a tackler one time and run over him the next. He looks like a gazelle, but runs more like a rhino.' The Tide ran off 26 plays to Florida's five in the third period last year to erase a 7-0 halftime deficit. It was the first time since 1962 the Gators dropped a SEC game at Florida Field.

'Humphrey was a big part of their offense last year.' Florida middle guard Jeff Roth, who applied constant pressure last week against Tulsa quarterback T.J. Rubley. "He's got great moves and he doesn't just stand there for you to wrap him up.

The Gators rebounded from an opening 31-4 loss to Miami (Fla.) as Smith displayed impressive moves and speed. After finishing his high school career at Pensacola Escambia as the No. 3 rusher in prep history, Smith played sparingly against the Hurricanes. Last week, he ran for 109 yards in just 10 carries. including a 66-yard scoring run, in a Gator attack that featured an effective ground game rather than the passing of Kerwin Bell.

The Tide defense has allowed opposing teams to convert only 9 of 28 third-down situations while Alabama's offense is 18 for 32.

Earnhardt Cruises Toward Winston Title

Dale Earnhardt is close to putting his Wrangler Jeans Monte Carlo on cruise control.

The Kannapolis, N.C. veteran moved closer to his second consecutive NASCAR Winston Cup championship with a victory in the Wrangler Jeans 400 last Sunday. You can bet that made the Wrangler people happy.

The victory was Earnhardt's third consecutive on the Winston Cup Series, and his 11th of the season, moving him to within two victories of a tie with Richard Petty for the record in a single Winston Cup season during the modern era. Petty's record of 13 was set in 1975.

With just nine races left this year, it would seem that the 608-point lead that Earnhardt now has over Bill Elliott won't be made up. Terry Labonte is third in the point standings followed by Rusty Wallace, Darrell Waltrip, Ricky Rudd, Neil Bonnett, Richard Petty and Kyle

Earnhardt's victory helped push his money-won total for the season to $1,231,930, while Elliott's fourth-place finish pushed his winnings for the season to $1,000,535, his third

VOLUSIA FINALS - Three late model feature events were run on the final night of the regular season Saturday night at Volusia County Speedway. Along with the regular race the two previous rain outs were held to help determine the track champion.

Sixteen cars started the first feature which turned into a three-car battle for the lead. Pee Wee Miles of Seville, Greg Ward of Ormond Beach and Geno Evans of Orange City were the combatants for the top spot. Evans picked up the win and his first victory of 1987.

Jacksonville driver Dennis Bennett and Tuck Trentham started on the front row for the second feature and the two battled for the lead throughout the 20-lap event. The duo finished with Bennett first and Trentham second but Bennett failed a post-race protest and Trentham earned the victory.

In the third feature, Bennett appeared headed to victory lane when he tangled with another car going into turn three. The incident brought out the yellow and he was forced to pit with a flat tire. As the field was still under caution, the rains started to fall and officials were forced to halt the event. Tampa driver Keith Nosbisch was awarded the win, with brother Ken Nosbisch taking second. Local ace Steve Harris managed a fine third place.

The next scheduled event for VCS will be the Florida State Championships set for October.

through the first mile. Rockledge's Pam Wulf also passed Martin on the first mile and Martin, the fastest half miler in Florida track history, remained third until the last half mile when she started to make her move. "When I was third, It kind of reminded me of this summer and the times I lost in the 800," Martin said. "I decided that I wanted first place bad this time and once I passed the other two girls there was no way I was going to let them eateh me."

While Martin set the pace in the 3A girls division, the Seminole High boys team turned in an excellent performance in the boys race. The Tribe got strong performances from its top five and finished third in the meet behind 3A powers Orlando Bishop Moore and Rockledge.

"Every one of our top five either ran or tied his personal best," Seminole coach Ken Brauman sald. "I couldn't be more pleased with their performance. If we keep improving like this, we'll be fighting for one of the top four spots in our district which is the toughest district in the state in 3A."

Jason Kalser ran a tremendous race for the Seminoles Thursday as he completed the three-mile course in third place with a time of 16:05. Kaiser dropped a full 20 seconds off his previous best. Bishop Moore's Saul Laird and Eddie Raguso took the top two spots.

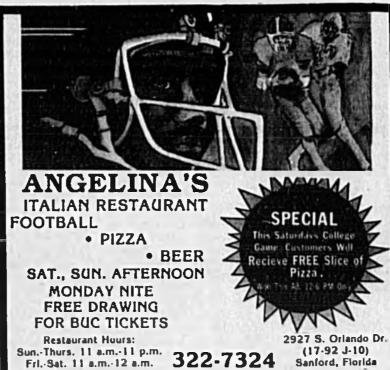

"Jason (Kaiser) made the decision that he wanted to get better and he put in a lot of work over the summer." Brauman in 14th overall with a time of 16:47 which tied his personal best. And Matipano ran much of the race with only one shoe.

Rufaro Matipano ran second for the Seminoles and he came 17:16.

'Rufaro ran his most competitive race yet," Brauman said. "And he lost a shoe somewhere on the second mile. He came up to me and said, 'I lost my shoe, coach.' I told him he better go find it because those things cost $33 apiece. So he went out and dug it out of the mud somewhere on the course."

Also running competitive races for the Tribe were Dalvin Davis, Joe Peeples and Brent Posey. Davis finished 16th with a time of 17:00, his personal best by 11 seconds. Peeples ran his best race ever as he took 23rd with a time, 17:11, that was 40 seconds better than his previous best. Posey, despite an upset stomach, bettered his personal record by 16 seconds as he finished 24th with a time of

Dr. Phillips Makes First House Call At Lions' Den

By Sam Cook Herald Sports Editor Jack Blanton, Oviedo's football

coach of short sentences, only knew two words to describe Orlando Dr. Phillips' 23-19 victory over Orlando Oak Ridge last

"Holy Poop."

Coaches, especially those scheduled to play Orange County's "$30 Million Baby," used similar words, no doubt smelling the arrival of Central Florida's next powerhouse.

"I didn't think about ever losing that football game." Oak Ridge coach Jerry Buchert confided to Blanton earlier this week. "I looked up and we had lost."

For those of you familiar with new schools crawling into a junior varsity schedule before walking into the Class 4A or 5A. meet Dr. Phillips, a 2,800-student strong, first-rate operation which decided to walk before it crawled. "I don't know how we did it," Gary Preisser, the coaching mastermind behind Phillips' shot heard 'round the state, said. "We caught some breaks. The klds were down three times, but they didn't quit."

Still, a first-year school beating an established Metro Conference school in its first game?

Incredible.

Preisser, five years head coach at Orlando Evans and two years at Apopka, said the foundation was built last spring. Dr. Phillips, billed as the biggest school in Florida, cut into Oak Ridge. Orlando Evans and Winter Garden West Orange school zones. Seniors at those schools were given the option of attending Dr. Phillips — and 15 pretty good football players did.

"We ended up having a good mixture of kids," the 41-year-old Preisser said. "It's a unique situation here. We have gotten great support from the faculity and students. Seniors knew if they came here, they would play. Several play very well. Raymond Butler, who ran over, under and around the Pioneers. is the tailback. "Raymond has great acceleration." Preisser said about last year's 220-dash district and region champ from West Orange. "His work habits and attitude have been his best Fullback Anthony Solomon and halfback David Jackson join Butler in the backfield. Upfront, 290-pound senior John Johnson, 230-pound senior Damien Moses and 195-pound junior Anthony Solomon open the holes. "Moses is a majorcollege prospect," Preisser said. "He goes plays both ways (guard/tackle) for us and does a great job." Defensively. Itnebackers Jerome Ellis and Greg Hill along with defensive back John Jackson join Moses as the stalwarts.

Preiseer said the school's size 2,800 — has made a big difference. "We were projected for 1,800 or 1,900 and they just kept coming."

Which created a problem. Dr. Phillips has too many students for the Class 4A-7 District, which includes Seminole, Oviedo, Orlando Edgewater and Leesburg. A decision, coming Oct. 1 when Phillips registers its enrollment with the Florida High School Activities Association, will probably render it ineligible for 5A, according to FHSAA field director Charles Smith.

Whether Its 4A or 5A or somewhere Inbetween, Oviedo's Lions, fresh from a 28-21 overtime victory over Lake Brantley, are ready to hand Dr. Phillips its initial setback.

"They're a pretty good team." Oviedo senior tackle Andy Palmer said. "They're not like a finesse team. They just take it up the middle, which is what we're best at. We have good linebackers."

And with Palmer (nine tackles against Brantley) anchoring the middle for LBs Willie Pauldo (17 tackles). Brad Bennett (eight tackles) and Pete Lingard (seven tackles), Preisser said the Lions figure to give his Panthers some trouble.

"We will have to play better than last week to beat Oviedo." he said. "They have a real good defense. The linebackers are tough and the secondary people Phillips

really pursue. Offensively, we'll LAKE MARY

have a tough time."

Mike McCurdy is one of those hard-hitting secondary players. He joins Karl Wright and Chad Duncan for Oviedo's three-deep. The secondary survived three pass interference calls to outlast Brantley, something Palmer said united the defenders.

'We just stuck it out," the 6-1, 265-pound Palmer said. "I just said when we get calls like that (interference), you've got to hit them twice as hard the next time. Take it out on the other McCurdy, meanwhile, made a cameo appearance on offense as well. And it couldn't have come at a more opportune time.

After QB John Pettit moved the Lions quickly up the field. McCurdy entered the game as a flanker on the left side. Pettit dropped back and fired a pass in the left flat. McCurdy, who played quarterback last year. snared it and tossed a touchdown pass to Alan Greene with just 33 seconds left to force the overtime.

"I hadn't been on the field for the offense all night," he said. 'Coach said go with what you haven't done all night. I just took one step forward and three steps

"I tried to remain calm as they were coming at me. Then, I just threw the ball over the defender's head and Alan caught it for the touchdown.

JVs: Defense Can't Save Tribe — Merthie Muzzles Pats

Herald Sports Writer

In two games, Seminole High's junior varsity defense has yet to give up a touchdown. Unfortunately, the Tribe has lost both of its games due to lack of offense.

Thursday night. Edgewater ran an interception back for a touchdown and recorded a safety in a 10-6 victory over Seminole in junior varsity action at Seminole High.

Seminole. 0-2, returns to action Thursday at home against unbeaten

Edgewater scored on the third play of the game Thursday as one of its defensive backs picked off a Seminole pass and ran 25 yards for a touchdown. The JV Eagles added the two-point conversion for an 8-0 lead.

The JV 'Noles got on the board in the second quarter when Jimmy Franklin returned an Edgewater punt 50 yards for a touchdown. The conversion failed and Edgewater had an 8-6 halftime lead.

Football

While Seminole continued to sputter offensively, Edgewater pushed the lead to 10-8 in the third quarter when it tackled a Seminole running back in the end zone for a safety.

Seminole's defense held Edgewater to just 10 yards rushing on 30 attempts. Willie McCloud had a big night for Seminole as he had 12 tackles, two sacks and caused a fumble. Bernard Eady added eight tackles and a sack and Jonathan Parker had, six tackles and a fumble recovery.

Offensively, Ralph Anderson had a good night for the Tribe as he ran the ball 24 times for 88 yards.

MERTHIE BOMBS BRANTLEY

Sanford's Mike Merthle completed 11 of 17 passes for 190 yards and two touchdowns Thursday night as Lake Mary's Rams crushed Lake Brantley's Patriots, 32-0, in JV action at Lake Mary Merthie hooked up with David Deese for a 20-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter, then went to Deese for a 35-yard scoring strike in the second. Lake Mary took a 20-0 halftime lead when Mike Newsome rambled 21 yards for a touchdown and Newsome also ran in the conversion.

Newsome's second touchdown, an eight-yard run, gave Lake Mary a 26-0 lead in the third quarter and Pete Teemer scored on a three-yard run in the fourth to make the final 32-0. Newsome led Lake Mary's running attack with 102 yards on 23 carries while Leonard Williams ran nine times for 73 yards. Deese caught five passes from Merthie for 84 yards.

Defensively, Robbie Nunziata led the Rams with eight tackles and one forced fumble. Tim Thomas contributed four tackles and two interceptions and Spencer Calvin added five tackles

Hawks Invade DeLand

By Scott Hander Ecrald Sports Writer

Lake Howell's Silver Hawks aren't used to losing. They were 9-1 in 1986. With a solid group of re-turnees, last week's 27-20 setback in the season opener ruffled some feathers. "The kids are very upset that we lost that game," Bisceglia said. "But we have to put that one beind us and concentrate on DeLand." The main concentration begins tonight at 8 when the Hawks fly into Spec Martin Stadium to battle the Bulldogs. The game is of double signifigance since it opens the Seminole Athletic Conference and District 5A-4 for both teams. Bisceglia said he hopes his team rebounds from last week's actback as it did following a loss to Apopka in '86. One week later, the Silver Hawks put it all together and thumped Lake DeLand coach Dave Hiss said he knows it is possible.

"I don't know how we are going to have a chance against them," he said. "They are a super football team and I hope that they take it easy on us."

Bisceglia realizes that although Hiss downplays his team, the Hawks are going to have their hands full against the Bulldogs. "We played them in the spring jamboree for a quarter and I saw them in the fall jamboree," Bisceglia said. "They are a very disciplined team. They are the defending district champs, and I think that it should be a tight game." In the spring jamboree, Howell nipped

DeLand, 7-6, in overtime. Howell received strong defense efforts from Todd Shockley (11 tackles). Greg Astle (two recoveries) and David Dees (interception) last week. Linebackers Steve Ryan and David Erdman chipped in eight tackies apiece. The Bulldogs, meanwhile, are coming off an impressive 24-8 triumph over Fort Pierce Central last week. "I don't know how we won that game," Hiss said. "We had 135 yards in penalties and made a season's worth of mistakes." Hise said that his team is in awe of Lake Howell. "They are the biggest team that I have ever seen," Hiss said of the Hawks. "We have been in prayer service all week, and we have been feeding the kids extra meals in an attempt to gain some weight. "Our kids are anemic compared to them," Hiss continued. When we view them on film. our machine tilts. I'm just hoping that we can give them a good game and not embarrass ourselves in front of the home

Bisceglia said that the key will be Howell's defense line against the DeLand offensive line. "De-Land is the total opposite of Apopka," Bisceglia said. "They like to run the football. Apopka threw it on almost every down. I feel that the strength of our defense is the line, so it should be a pretty interesting match-up. The DeLand offense is led by quarterback Billy Knight. Raymond Green is the mealticket running back and Danny Peters is Knight's favorite receiver.

Bisceglia said that he was pleased halfback Marquette Smith last week. Smith, a freshman, rambled his way for 85 yards, including a 25-yard touchdown run. "I thought that Smith did a heck of a job." Bisceglia said. "He complements Cornel Rigby very well. Rigby is playing hurt with a sprained ankle. The Blue Darters concentrated their defense on him and held him to just 34 yards. "He played the entire game banged up." Bisceglia said of Rigby, who had a four-yard touchdown run against Apopka. "Cornel has missed a couple of practices this week, and hopefully he'll be at a 100 percent soon."

Hiss said that he can't believe suspect that most of us admire the many azalea plan-tings that are in evidence in the early months of the year, and probably most of us have at least a few azaleas in our own yards. Azaleas provide masses of flow-ers in 15 or so distinct colors over a period of about two months, and the rest of the year there is an attractive evergreen shrub which fits very well into most landscape plantings.

The prevalance of azaleas in our area would lead one to believe that azalea culture is a matter of buying some plants and sticking them in the ground. That's what I did when I arrived here from New York. Well, I wasted some money, some energy and some time because I had not informed myself on the correct way to approach the problem. Azalea culture requires a few extra considerations at the outset, but once established the plants grow well with no more problems than anything else.

You will need an acid soil with a pH of 4.5 to 5.5 for the greatest success, and the soil should have a high organic content. The vide organic matter and also tend to lower the pH. About one third organic amendment by volume is necessary, and in extreme conditions with a lot of sand, more organic addition might be needed.

Azaleas do not like to be in full sun, and the preferred location is in partial shade under trees. Dense shade will result in stunted growth and reduced flowering. The best planting time is between November and February although plants can be set out or moved from one place to another most anytime if care is taken. A planting hole should be about 6 inches deeper and 12 inches wider than the root mass, and the backfill soil should be properly amended with peat moss, compost or other suitable organic material. Here is a vital step! My observation has been that most plants arrive in pots or containers in a root bound condition, and it is very important to break apart or loosen this tight mass. I have seen rootbound azaleas which had been in the ground for over a year. and the root condition was the same as when the plants were first set out. One might as well have dug a hole and put the container in the hole. Gently attempt to break up the root mass with your fingers or a blunt stick: if that does not work. you will have to make 3 or 4 vertical cuts with a sharp knife. The handy knife which uses razor type blade is great for this. Carefully spread the root mass and plant to a depth equal to or less than the depth in the container. Water in completely to drive out air pockets and mulch to a depth of 2 to 3 inches. Azaleas are shallow rooted and do not like to sit in soggy soil. New plantings require irrigation twice a week during dry periods while established plants require watering every 10 days to 2

A light application of fertilizer every 3 months should be sufficient. Newly set plants will require a handful and established plants two handfuls scattered around the soil underneath the plants. 6-6-6 or 8-8-8 works fine or you may wish to use a fertilizer blended for azaleas. I have also found that a couple of light applications of iron sulfate and manganese sulfate provide extra nutrients and also work toward keeping the pH level down.

Pruning is necessary to devel-op shapely plants, and this can be done with several light prunings during the active growing season with a final pruning after flowering. Later pruning will remove the buds for next year's flowers. Like anything else azaleas can be attacked by various insect pests and diseases, but suggest that you call the Cooperative Extension Service or make a visit for more information.

Azaleas are azaleas are azaleas! There are dwarf azaleas. azaleas that are more dwarflike than others, low spreading, medium spreading, large spreading. compact spreading, open upright, medium upright, and large upright varieties. Some will at-tain the height of 10 feet and others will never reach 4 feet. There are small flowered and large flowered, single and doubles, and of course many colors. Usually retailers label the product, but a cultivar name will mean little or nothing to most people. Some people who work in nurseries will be helpful in describing the various characteristics of the plants they are selling, but in many cases you will be on your own. My first venture was at the annual Apopka azalea sale where it was about impossible to find anyone who knew one plant from another. I dashed about and bought a dozen or so plants, put them in the ground, and a year later discovered that most of them were in the wrong place according to their growing habits.

Well, good luck. With a little homework and modest effort you can become the azalea king or queen of your neighborhood.

Organ Donations Give Life After Death

DEAR ABBY: Last month 1 lost a member of my family. He was involved in an accident and pronounced brain dead several days later. I had never given much thought to organ donations until that day. I was very much surprised that considering the amount of time the doctors and staff had spent with our family, they never once mentioned organ donations. I was the one who approached them.

The next week, I received a letter from the hospital informing me that both kidneys were successfully transplanted - one into a 4-year-old girl.

Ironically, last week the newspaper featured a special story about how badly organs were needed. I had no idea that some people had been on a waiting list for years!

My point: I almost decided not to approach the doctors because I assumed that if they thought my loved one could be a possible donor, they would approach me. I was wrong.

In our loss, there is such a comfort knowing that others have benefited, and may have a second chance at life.

ANONYMOUS

DEAR ANONYMOUS: Your letter could not have come at a more appropriate time. Just 10 years ago, the following appeared in my column for the first

"At a certain moment a doctor will determine that my brain has ceased to function and that, for all intents and purposes, my life has stopped.

"When that happens, do not attempt to instill artificial life into my body by the use of a machine. And don't call this my 'deathbed,' Call It my 'bed of life,' and let my body be taken from it to help others lead fuller

"Give my sight to a man who has never seen a sunrise, a baby's face or love in the eyes of a woman.

"Give my heart to a person whose own heart has caused nothing but endless days of pain.

"Give my blood to the teenager who has been pulled from the wreckage of his car, so that he might live to see his grandchildren play.

"Give my kidneys to one who depends on a machine to exist from week to week.

j"Take my bones, every muscle, every fiber and nerve in my body and find a way to make a crippled child walk.

"Explore every corner of my brain. Take my cells, if necessary, and let them grow so that someday a speechless boy will shout at the crack of a bat and a deaf girl will hear the sound of rain against her windows.

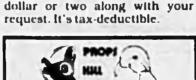

"Burn what is left of me and scatter the ashes to the winds to help the flowers grow.

If you must bury something. let it be my faults, my weaknesses, and all prejudice against my fellowman.

'Give my soul to God. "If by chance you wish to remember me, do it with a kind deed or word to someone who needs you. If you do all I have asked. I will live forever." ROBERT N. TEST.

"Her willingness to serve and her dedication to excellence in education will be a valuable asset to the commission," Castor said.

Neiswender said the function of the commission has a very serious effect with the ability to strip away a teachers certification. Because Florida has an agreement with 28 other states not to hire teachers who've lost their certificates by decisions of such commissions. efficient use of the taxes already in place, and the hasty approval of the tax last April has shaken public confidence in government 'lo its very foundation.'

"We face a crisis in government beyond the political fortunes of me or anybody else." the governor said.

"We must wipe the slate clean and begin again."

Martines, initially a strong supporter of the services tax, has called the Legislature into special session beginning Monday to reconsider the levy. He said he wants lawmakers to change budget procedures so unnecessary projects can no longer be hidden within the annual appropriations act.

He wants a capital improvement fund separate from other items, so be can readily use his line-item veto to kill projects he deems unnecessary. He also wants strict controls over the budget requests submitted by state agencies.

He acknowledged the 2 14 day special session will have to be extended to complete his pro-

Glenn Robertson, the governor's budget director, estimated Jan. I repeal of the services tax will mean cuts of $384 million from this year's $18.5 billion state budget. The figure will have to be verified after the repeal is enacted, then the governor will certify the state faces a deficit.

Vogt said he doesn't think the Legislature "wants to go along with repeal without replacement. That means we will have to cut back on various social services programs ... youll see local property taxes go up. What Martinez is talking about as budget reform is cutting into those programs he was unable to veto individually. Budget reform sounds nice, but I'd prefer revising the consumer tax and exempting only some of the taxes on services, such as on advertising. But the problem we run into it is some members (of the legislature) are incensed over the advertising camapaigns and they'll probably never go along with that'

Vogt noted he has taken that position ever since the Sanford Herald challenged his contention that newspaper advertising, for example, should be included as a taxable item because newspapers are the same as any other business. The Sanford Herald organizations are not the same conceptually, and that the feder-Small Business Administration.

When Vogt researched the question and learned that the federal government indeed will not allow the SBA to guarantee such loans to newspapers on the basis of avoiding any implication of government control or interference in the publication's operation, he said he firmed up his position opposed to taxing newspaper advertising.

"I've been telling editorial boards around the state that that's my position on the basis of the information provided me by the Sanford Herald," Vogt said.

Since the Constitution forbids deficit spending, Martinez will probably dip into the $240 million state "rainy day" con-tingency fund. Robertson said Martinez is also likely to kill some state building projects and may have to dip into agencies' operating budgets.

Martinez might submit a re-vised 1987-88 state budget for another special session that would include cuts in operating funds. It conceivably also could include money from replacement laxes, which the governor will consider once the budget reforms are passed, Robertson

Martinez is considering a special session on the medical malpractice insurance crisis. and other issues in November.

Because of the urgency of the tax lesue, Martinez said he will not extend the call of next week's special session to take up demands by state foster parents for liability insurance, or to close a loophole in the gun laws that might allow the open carrying of guns on the streets.

Recent surveys show up to 85 percent of the public is against the services tax, and its upopularity has rubbed off on the governor. The surveys place his popularity ratings at between 12 and 26 percent.

The levy extends the 5 percent sales tax to an array of consumer services to raise $750 million this year and more than $1 billion each subsequent year money state leaders say is desperately needed to keep pace with Florida's population

House and Senate leaders were trying to save the tax, perhaps by giving the voters a choice between it and a menu of replacement levies, maybe including a state personal income tax. Proponents of the approach say it will give the voters a clear picture of what their options are,

But there is widespread sentiment in both chambers to kill the services tax.

House leaders were considering exempting most advertisers, the most vocal opponents of the tax. Senate leaders opposed the idea, saying any clean-up bill with any new exemptions would mean a run on the bill by other special interests.

One proposal circulating in the Senate would replace the services tax with a penny in-crease in the sales lax, to raise $1.2 billion.

According to Grindle, if the legislature can "wring out" three or four percent of the money in Florida's current budget, the state will still find enough money to do the things it needs to do. "It's not that difficult" he said difficult," he said

With the rapid growth the state is experiencing 1900 people move into the state every day, according to Grindle) it's very difficult to determine how long it will be before the legislature has to find new revenue to replace the missing service tax funds. The time to do that to not now, Orindle said.

One of the things Grindle said Martinez didn't address during the press conference that he felt was important, is the governor's personal drive to find waste in the state's government. Grindle said once the legislature was through finding ways to operate within the budget without the use of the service tax that Martinez, by his executive power, could make the budget even more efficient by reducing the cost of administration.

"I think the Governor took the right position," Orindle said.

From Roly Polies To Wooden Indians It Pays To Advertise

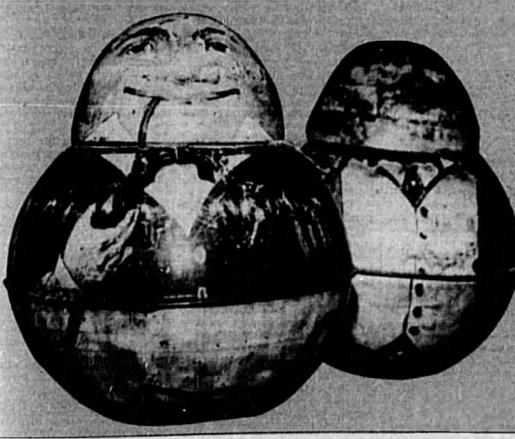

It pays to advertise!

That's something sellers learned early in the game with the development of cigar store Indians to identify tobacco shops even to those who couldn't read.

The patent medicine peddler produced the side show and labels for the bottles that contained his high-alcohol content elixirers, to promote his product to the fullest extent. In the fictional world of computer-generated Max Headroom we can even go "20 mintues into the future" of advertising, where certain couch potato television viewers explode when exposed to "bilipverts." Bilipverts compress 30 seconds of advertising into messages so short that they are subliminal and the stimulation to the human nervous system is just too much for some "particulary slothful perpetual viewers," who literally explode.

Today we're bombarded by ads on radio, television and in

Today we're bomberded by ads on radio, television and in every form of publication. But it wasn't until a couple of decades ago that collectors began to catch onto the value of advertisements, not as promotors of products, but for their own value as unique forms of art, as bits of nostalgia or as curios and investments.

It's been said of television that the medium is the message.

The same is true for some products, which have been packaged so distinctivity that a strong identity for the product is established as the unique package has gained recognition.

That's the case of "Roly Poly" or "Brownie" tobacco tins of the era of 1912 and 1913. These round containers of the tobacco of three different companies, are in the image of half a dozen rotund characters. A set of six in good condition loday are valued at $4,000 to $5,000, according to can collector and dealer Marilyn Underwood.

A single Roly Poly, in less than perfect condition is valued at more than $300. The most sought after of the set, which Includes an American Indian, a singer, a Mammy, a Cowboy, nd a business man, is the Scotland Yard Inspector. Underwood said that the inspector has such an ugly face that he wasn't popular in his day and thus wasn't saved, making him a rare find today.

Although reproductions of the Roly Polys are available today for about $12 each, Underwood said she doesn't expect that their value will ever increase to approach the value of the originals, because the reproductions don't have the distinction of having contained a specific product.

... Advertise

She said that's an immportant factor in the fin container and advertising memorabilia collecting game. The items need to be originals and need to have served a specific function.

Other factors that determine value of tin packaging, metal advertising signs, and promotional give-aways, such as calendars, mirrors, trays and bottle openers, is the condition, age and rarity of the item, as well as the quality of art and workmanship associated with it.

Other forms of packaging as advertising which have survived over the years and are sought after collectibles include spice and coffee bins, which in stores held large quantities of the products, which were packaged when sold. Such containers as a Welhause and Hoffman Coclove bin, made of tin and stenciled with the company name, from 1910, is today valued at about $85.

Very popular with collectors are old metal signs. Underwood said one of her favorites, and one of the most sought after metal signs, is a poster-size sign advertising Merita Bread. That sign bears the Image of The Lone Ranger and his horse Silver and also contains a promotion for The Lone Ranger radio program. It's valued at about $600 and Underwood said because of the quality of the lithograph coloring of this and other similar signs some collectors choose to decorate their homes with old signs in fleu of paintings.

"The art work is intricate. Today it would cost a fortune to produce what they did for pennies. The old signs are very colorful." Underwood said.

Nostalgia goes hand and hand with such items, she said, and added that many collectors seek out products which were made by companies their father worked for, or products which happen to bear their own family name.

Some collectors, Underwood said, invest in the containers and promotional material of a specific company, such as Coca-Cola, which is among the most popular with collectors.

Pocket-size tobacco tins are also very popular and tairly easy to find. Of special interest, Underwood said, are half-size tobacco tins, which were cut short and held samples of tobacco, which were give-aways.

We may complain today about over exposure to advertising and have been given the message that in the not so distance, fictional future — advertising kills. But given a little time and space between the collector and the medium, most any item produced to carry a commercial message can find new status, if not as art at least as an oddity. And the value of such "throw-away and give-away" goods is ever increasing.

Connie Stevens Finds A New Life In Films

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Her small role in "Back to the Beach" with Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello has re-opened the doors to Connie Stevens' film career.

Until the lightweight summer comedy came along in August, the blonde singeractress wasn't exactly fighting off producers clamoring for her talents.

She had not, in fact, made a motion picture since her teacher role in "Grease II," a 1982 bomb. And for a decade before that Stevens had abandoned movies for her nightelub and concert act.

Now she is being offered several scripts and already has completed another film, "Tapeheads," with John Cusack and Tim Robbins.

"It's the most amazing thing that's ever happened to me," said Stevens, who probably is still best remembered for her role as Cricket in the early 1960s series "Hawaiian Eye" in which she co-starred with Robert Conrad, Troy Donahue and Anthony Elsley.

"I was hardly in Back to the Beach," but I was featured prominently in the trailers that promoted the movie in theaters and on TV. They generated a tremendous momentum.

"As a result I've been offered three pictures, two movies of the week and a guest shot on a television special. Also, I've been contacted about a variety talk show of my own for a m a j o r c o m p a n y . "In 'Tapeheads' 1 play another mother role, but I want to get back to playing virgins again."

Stevens laughed.

"I'm tired of standing at the back of the line of available performers. I want to be a movie actress again," she said. "I guess the people in this business forgot me and a new generation of directors and producers have come along.

"I couldn't believe it when one 25-year-old network executive told me he saw 'Back to the Beach' and didn't know I did comedy. My God, that's practically all I've done.

"Every career has a dormant period, but that's what separates the girls from the women. You just wait it out and tough it out and it all comes around again. I've made a good living doing concerts and in Vegas. Now I hope to stay on an acting roll."

Stevens is talking to Conrad about a two-hour TV film of "Hawaiian Eye," bringing it up to date with the old cast, including Eisley and Poncie Ponce. They both have production companies and a script is in the works.

But Stevens currently is more interested in her avocation, the Windfeather organization that she helped establish in 1982 to provide basic needs for American Indians.

Since then she has raised a quarter of a million dollars to develop waterwells on Indian reservations in the West, especially the Papago tribe in Arizona.

"I've been working for Indian causes for a dozen years." Stevens said. "I began by raising money for college scholarships for eight brilliant Indian students who would otherwise not have had the opportunity.

"I know I'm blonde and I was born in Brooklyn, but I'm part Iroquois and I'm a history buff. My great-grandmother on my mother's side was Indian.

"I realize I'm not an authority on the subject, but we've ignored the plight of Native Americans while worrying about the welfare of people in other parts of the world. All I can do is help raise funds.

"Visits to many reservations have opened my eyes. I've talked to thousands of teenagers on Wyoming reservations who have no idea who they are or about their history.

"It takes money to upgrade their education and it takes only $15,000 to dig wells to help these people.

Romance Novels Have Come To TV

Writing romance novels is a business like, say, making steel girders. There are formulas to follow and rules to obey, and at the end you have the exact product you set out

Publishers of brand-name romance books have guidelines for each series so readers will know what to

Most of the books are fairly chaste: Miss Schoolteacher on vacation meets Senor Buillighter, blood pounds in her temples, but the novel ends just as things start to get interesting. Other series - 1 think they're called "bodice-rippers" — specialize in idealized physicality.

Made-to-order love books. which account for 45 percent of fiction paperbacks, earned more than half a billion dollars last year. It was inevitable that the genre would come to television.

Which brings us to "Dreams Lost, Dreams Found," the third in a series of Harlequin Romance movies on the paycable channel Showtime. The next play dates are Sept. 27, Sept. 30 and Oct. 6.

This is cunning generic television. The heroine is attractive, but not so stunning that other women can't identify with her. The locale is exotic, but not so exotic that Americans can't understand the lingo.

Sarah McAllister is a widow with a heavy heart. One day, she decides to sell her art gallery and buy a castle in Scotland. There, at a costume ball, she meets Ross Fleming.

"Who are you? My God, who are you?" Ross asks somewhat redundantly. Then, without waiting for an answer, he kisses her.

Do you feel tingly yet?

Well, just wait. Soon romantic images gush from the TV set: Leaves fall and wind blows, waves crash and fireplaces crackle, thunder thunders and hoofs beat.

There's not much sex in "Dreams Lost, Dream Found." Sarah and Ross do eventually land in bed, but the expanses exceptional delight.

of skin shown are not in the more intriguing locations.

Apparently, romance fans like their men rough. None of this modern, sensitive stuff. "Get your coat," Ross snaps when he finds Sarah at a friend's home. "Ross!" she replies alertly. "Get your coat." he repeats. "Ready," she says. getting her coat. "Right. We're away." he says. And away they go.

At another point in the film. Ross literally picks up a woman who has been flirting with him and dumps her out in the hall. This guy knows what he wants - and doesn't

In the background, while all this is going on, we hear a atring of emotional ballads sung by a woman with a too-obvious affection for Harbra Streisand.

Between Sarah's initial glimpse of Ross and the final embrace, when the violins go bonkers, there's something of a plot. We meet Sarah's sister and learn her dark secret. We agonize over Scottish legends and tragic misunderstandings that keep Sara and Ross apart for a while. But at no point do we doubt what the ending will

There's nothing new about generic entertainment, of course. TV series have always followed set patterns, with carefully timed anti-climaxes and a predetermined big finish. Nobody expects anything unusual to happen in "Matlock" or "Who's the Boss?"

TV shows adapted from format romance novels fit right in with established viewing habits. People who like their entertainment predictable should find "Dreams Lost, Dreams Found" an un-

Question: Will There Be A 'Rocky V'?

Dear Dick: A friend of mine has told me that Sylvester Stallene has cancer and that there wen't be a "Rocky V." Is this true? - M.B., Houston.

Dear M.B.. No. Rumors about the health of stars abound. But that's one that nobody in Hollywood has heard. As for a "Rocky V," the people at United Artists tell me there probably will be one - after all, that's the original golden egg - but it's far in the future. There hasn't even been a scrip written yet.

Dear Dick: I would like to know if the girls really do their own singing on the NBC show 'Rage to Riches" starring Joseph Belogna? Or are those songs done by others lip-synching? -J.W., Reideville, N.C.

Dear Dick: Why did the girl who played Nina on the original "Rags to Riches" movie leave the show? - K.B., Sherill, Ia.

Dear J.W. and K.B.: There have been several letters asking those same two questions about the show. Yes, the girls do their own singing. But, like most musical numbers on TV, they are usually pre-recorded, to get the best sound quality. So they are lip-synched (or is it lip-sunk?), too. As for the character of Nina, she was played by Heather McAdam. It wasn't her choice to leave the show. The producers felt the cast was too unwieldy, and it would be more workable with one less, so Nina had

Ask Dick Kleiner

Rowdy Yates was played by Clint Eastwood. He was trail boss. But at one time wasn't the trail boss named Gil Pavor? Who played Gil Pavor, and what happened to him? — Mrs. B.D.R., Pasadena, Texas.

Dear Mrs. B.D.R.: Actually, when "Rawhide" first hit the TV trail. Gil Favor, played by Eric Fleming, was the trail boss. Rowdy Yates (Eastwood) was his top hand. When Fleming left, Eastwood took over. But Favor was trail boss from 1959-65, and Yates for only one season, before it ended. Fleming died when he drowned in South America, shooting a film

Dear Dick: I would like to know who the man is on the Sun Country wine cooler commercials, with black hair, mustache, very nice suit. I hear he is one of the Beatles. - J.L., Kings Mountain, N.C.

Dear Dick: What is the name of the actress who plays Francie Hughes on "As the World Turne"? Did she co-star in "I'll Take Manhat-tan," the miniseries based on Judith Krants's novel? - A.M.F., Kalamasoo, Mich.

Dear A.M.F.: Yes, Julianne Moore, who plays Frannie, did play the character of India West on "I'll Take Manhattan."

Dear Dick: I would like to know about Frank Paylon. Is he still living and, if so, how old is he? I used to enjoy him in so many mevics and on "Dobie Gillie." — D.E., Hanever, Pa.

Dear D.E.: Paylen, one of the better character actors from Hollywood's golden era, died in 1985.

Dear Dick: A friend of mine claims that Katherine Helmond of "Who's the Beec?" is $2 years old. I claim she is not. How old is she? — A.C., Venture, Calif.

Dear A.C.: Phooey on your friend. Katherine turned 53 on July 5.

Dear Dick: Could you tell me if the book, "Tallulah Darling," is based on Bette Davis' life? It is a biography of Tallulah Bankhend by Deals Brian, published in 1972. — B.O.M., Cordele, Ga.

Dear B.O.M.: Why would you think a biography of Tallulah would be based on Bette's life? If it is a biography of Tallulah. it is based on her life, not somebody else's.

Fox Gambles On Emmy Glitz

and the second s

By Mark Schwed UPI TV Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — Forget whether Susan Dey, Tom Selleck, Ted Danson, Bruce Willis or Bob Newhart win their first Emmy, or whether NBC's "L.A. Law" rules the airwaves, or ABC's "Moonlighting" fades into the sunset.

The real question Sunday night is whether Fox Broadcasting Co. can pull it off.

For the first time ever, the awards that honor excellence in television - mostly excellence on ABC, NBC and CBS - will not be seen on one of the three major networks.

The 39th annual Emmy Awards presentation at the Civic Auditorium in Pasadena, Calif., (8-11 p.m. EDT), WOFL-TV. Channel 35, is on Fox, and the folks at the "fourth network" promise it will be like no other awards show on TV.

There is no official host, there are no song-and-dance numbers.

But there will be glitz. The stars are turning out in full force, glad to give a helping hand to a "fourth network' that means more work for the Hollywood machine.

Among those attending are Selleck, Dey, Willis, Victoria Principal, Cybill Shepherd, Michael J. Fox. Betty White. Robert Wagner, Marlo Thomas. Mary Tyler Moore and Joan Collins.

"There are no B-list stars," said one Fox executive.

Producer Don Ohlmeyer has changed the whole Emmy picture. Coverage will be patterned after an event rather than a giant production number.

That means cameras will follow the stars around backstage, hit the "green room," cut to the electronic media room for the winners. and even catch winners as they hop off the stage for a brief interview.

Ohlmeyer also has eliminated the 30-second rule imposed by the networks to limit victory speeches - and has asked everyone to be thoughtful and warm, to say something meaningful.

"That's what it's all about." Ohlmeyer said.

Two tributes are planned in lieu of production numbers: one to the late Jackie Gleason. with Audrey Meadows, and the other to NBC's "Hill Street Blues." the most honored drama in television that was canceled this year.

However, comedy - the backbone of television - will be king.

Newhart. Howie Mandel. Joan Rivers, Jay Leno, Garry Shandling and David Letterman will all be in attendance to poke some fun at television, and former "Saturday Night Live" star Jane Curtin will reprise her role as anchorwoman on "Weekend Update" for the show.

It's likely that the broadcast will exceed its allotted three hours, and nobody, especially Fox, seems to care. The last time Ohlmeyer did the Emmys - 10 years ago - It was the longest Emmy broadcast in history.

As for the awards, the new NBC series "L.A. Law" leads the pack with 20 nominations. one less than the record set by "Hill Street Blues" in 1981 and 1982, but that doesn't mean victory. Last year, ABC's "Moonlighting" grabbed 16 nominations, but won only one Emmy for editing.

NBC's "The Golden Girls" and "Moonlighting" did draw 14 nominations each (Shepherd was not nominated). "The Cosby Show," watched by more people than any show in TV history, got just four nominations, and NBC's "Nutcracker: Money, Madness and Murder" was the most nominated miniseries.

Fox received two nominations. A technical nod for "Married ... With Children." and best variety for "The Tracey Ullman Show."

How did the Fox folks get the Emmys show? Money. They doubled the network ante, chipping in $3.75 million for three years of awards broadcasts, plus another $250,000 a year for the Hall of Fame broadcast.

More importantly, for the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, Fox was willing to air all the awards, while the networks demanded the academy eliminate some of the director and writer awards.

Since the directors and

writers are the powers at the academy, this was unacceptable. Then along came Fox with its cash.

For Fox. the Emmy broadcast will be a supreme moment in its plan to mount a fourth commercial network. The idea is that the Emmys will draw people to Fox who have never watched the network before.

But Fox says it won't use the opportunity to cram the commercial breaks with Fox promotions or stuff the stage with Fox stars. Only one Fox celebrity. Emmy-nominated Tracey Ullman. will appear on the program.

But when it's all over, Fox will have set another Emmy precedent - the only network ever to broadcast the Emmys that has never won an Emmy.
