Judge Smith's Qualifications

In order to further convince ourselves that we had not erred in our choice of Millard Smith as the best qualified among the candidates for circuit judge, we have given him the liberty of writing to a number of residents of Titusville, relative to Judge Smith's character, integrity, and reputation among his fellowmen. We deliberately selected those known by us to have resided in Titusville for some time and so be themselves of high character and thoroughly familiar with their local conditions.

Among the replies which we have received are letters from the immediate past president of the Women's Club, from a grocer and orange grower who has resided in Titusville for the past forty years, a prominent physician, a leading druggist who is a pioneer resident, one of the outstanding lawyers of the city, a past member of the Masonic Lodge, the pastor of the Baptist Church, a past commander of the American Legion, and a pioneer farmer and circuit judge.

Without a single exception, they testify to Judge Smith's reputation in the highest terms. They commend him warmly as a neighbor and a friend, and they pay a splendid tribute to his character, integrity and honesty. These letters appear in adjoining columns on this page and we believe justify an assertion by us that we are supporting him because of his own exceptional qualifications for this office, rather than opposing the nomination of either of his opponents.

LETTERS OF RECOMMENDATION

Titusville, Florida
May 27, 1932.
Editor,
The Standard Herald,
Sanford, Florida.

Dear Sir:
In response to your letter of May 21, I am enclosing my letter and inquiry of May 21, 1932, to you in regards to Millard H. Smith, of Titusville, afford me an opportunity to reiterate my opinion of him. I have known Millard H. Smith since 1912, and have been associated with him in various capacities ever since. My acquaintance with Judge Smith is quite familiar, and I have found him to be a man of high ideals and principles, and one who is well liked and respected by his friends.

I have had the privilege of observing his habits and character in various capacities, and have found him to be a man of high ideals and principles, and one who is well liked and respected by his friends.

As you well realize, this can only be a general statement, and I can only say that he is a man of high ideals and principles, and one who is well liked and respected by his friends.

Most truly yours,
A. BRADY,
(Grocer and orange grower.)

Growers Union Of Farmers Has Special Session

(Continued From Page One) file as a legislator there, achieved the right representation. "Many times questions would arise in the Legislature that would materially affect the farmers," he said. "Sometimes these bills would be turned over to the wrong committee on purpose so that they would be killed before being presented to the Legislature. Then the representatives of the farmers would step into play. They would demand that the bill, in question, be submitted to the right committee."

At the opening of his talk Mr. Anderson made it clear that he is personally interested in the citrus industry. He recalled the organization of a citrus group in 1913 which, he said, "brought up in seven months" because it had too many activities. "In 1919 a Growers and Shippers League was formed in Florida. It is now nine years old and is considered a strong organization." Mr. Anderson said that he believed this particular body remained intact mainly because it had only one purpose. "That purpose is shipping," he said.

The speaker then read from several issues of the Florida Grower, printed in the early part of 1931, which indicated his position as favorable to truck hauling. He said the people of this state should be allowed to use the roads, which they paid for, in the way they wish.

Nick Zernovean, well known Sanford farmer, then addressed the meeting on the importance of truck transportation to the farmers and stressed the importance of the farmers sticking together in order to secure proper truck legislation.

After the meeting the Executive Committee of the Florida Growers' Union, met at the Court House and decided that Senate Bill No. 2793 entitled, "A bill to regulate the transportation of persons and property in Interstate and Foreign Commerce by Motor Carriers operating on the public highways, and for other purposes," is of vital importance to their interests as growers of this state.

They decided to communicate at once with all of Florida representatives and senators, asking that these office-holders instruct the Union as to their position as to the merits of the bill, and whether or not they are willing to support the said measure in substance as it is now before Congress.

Believing that some of the members of Congress from this state may not be familiar with the bill, they will be asked to instruct the Union in reference to placing the motor carriers mentioned in the bill under the same or familiar restrictions and commissions as are now in effect in reference to transportation by rail.

The Union further decided that the bill is not of any benefit to the growers of Florida, and that it is in fact detrimental to their interests and should not be passed.

They agreed that in the event of it being necessary to pass legislation placing any restrictions upon the said motor carriers that they be not such restrictions as are contained in this bill.

Members of the committee who were present and assisted in drawing up a resolution which embodies the opinion of the group were: Randall Chase, H. F. Haines, Henry Nickel, J. St. Clair White, W. C. Hutchison, Gus Schmah, Nick Zernovean, Henry Schumacher, George E. Balmer, and Martin Stanko.

Film Star Receives 2 Threatening Notes

LOS ANGELES, June 4.—(AP)—Two notes threatening the lives of the daughter of Maileene Dietrich, film actress, and the son of Mrs. Egon Muller, yesterday were given to Blayne Matthews, the district attorney's chief investigator.

Matthews said the letter threatening the life of Maria Dietrich, accompanied by a demand for $10,000, was sent through the mail to Mrs. Muller, and a similar letter, threatening the life of Harry Muller, and demanding $500, was received by Miss Dietrich.

JOHNNY McGRAW RETURNS AS HEAD OF GIANT ORGANIZATION

Relinquishes Pilot's
Job After 42 Years
In Baseball Racket.

By ALAN GOULD

NEW YORK, June 4.—(A.P.)—After 42 years as manager of the New York Giants, baseball's most famous leader, John McGraw, suddenly announced his resignation yesterday and turned over the management of the club to his 22-year-old first baseman, William HARVEY (Bill) Terry.

Terry, which had been sought for the past few years with an unyielding spirit that characterized his 42 years in the game, found himself suddenly his master.

He has been affected for some time by a sinus condition.

He reached his decision to resign by last night after he advised his wife, after a vacation trip with the family last season, he then selected Terry to succeed him because "it was my desire that a man be appointed who was thoroughly familiar with my methods and who had learned his baseball under me."

McGraw, who will retain his stock holdings in the Giants and remains as vice president, assisting President Charles A. Stoneham. He declared he would be "on hand at all times, my health permitting, when needed" for counsel or advice by Terry, but made it clear the first baseman will have "full, complete charge and control of the team and will have to assume entire responsibility therewith."

The appointment of Terry caught the baseball world with great surprise, surprise to the retirement of McGraw.

For several years, the veteran's prospective successor has been a subject of conjecture. At one time the finger pointed to Rogers Hornsby but the Rajah's mysterious departure to Boston squelched that idea.

To quiet rumors over a year ago, President Stoneham announced McGraw had signed a new five-year contract. Then it was signed by Dave Bancroft, former skipper and no far from McGraw's first assistant, was being groomed for heavier responsibilities. Bancroft ran the team when McGraw was absent.

Now, however, with the selection of Terry, there is doubt as to whether Bancroft will remain with the club at all. Neither the club's offices, McGraw nor Terry committed themselves as to Bancroft's future status yesterday.

Terry, while trying to make it known he had not been edited, indicated Bancroft might stay "if he desired." It is the same breath "Memphis Bill" emphasized: "No club can have two or three bosses. One is enough and I will be boss of the Giants."

Terry has been known chiefly as one of the game's foremost sluggers, and a brilliant defensive player. His only previous managerial experience was for the latter part of the season 1928 with the Toledo club of the American Association.

He came to the Giants the following year, soon replaced long John Kelly as first baseman and started his way into the top flight of the hitters, capturing the National league batting crown with a mark of .361 in 1930 and finishing in a virtual tie last year with Chick Hafey and Jim Bottomley at .360.

To make the circumstances all the more extraordinary, Terry had had a reputation for being annually an odds-on favorite to be elected as president. Stoneham, as well as McGraw, over salary matters. Told this spring he would have to take a 40 percent cut in salary under the figure of $22,000 he was paid in 1931, Terry engaged in a sharp verbal tilt with Stoneham. Finally he came to terms at a compromise figure, in a conference in New Orleans with McGraw. At that time, however, he had no inkling he was to be singled out as McGraw's successor and, confessed today, the appointment came as such surprise that he was momentarily speechless.

Smiling with a laugh, Terry recalled that the Giants bought him for no more than $100,000 from the Little Rock side of the Southern Association, then sent him to the big city.

"Memphis Bill" will assume charge of the Giants in the present organization, confident he will inherit the club into the present management. The floundering star, the 22-year-old southpaw is the most remarkable in personality of the several compelling McGraws. The business man is the product of the new era of business. He presents astute, sensible, if not always brilliant, leadership.

Brownlee Delivers Principled Address On School Program

school board, and other officials were also in the hall of march through the auditorium, and they took their places on the stage when Rev. Carroll Varner, of the First Methodist Church delivered the invocation.

Miss Hazel Tew, honor student of the club, delivered the salutation address, following which the stars arose to sing the national anthem.

H. C. Dulkes, member of the school board, briefly extended welcome and congratulations to the graduating class on behalf of the board and the faculty. Rev. Brownlee followed Mr. Dulkes' remarks, after which Capt. T. W. Lawton, S. Ranga, as president of the Sanford High Club, and Coach Leonard McElroy of the faculty, presented "humorous" homilies and proverbs.

John Alden Brown, Jr., delivered the valedictory address, the club again arose to sing its fare-well song, and the program was ended, as was the students' high school life, as they marched from the auditorium, to be surrounded by friends and relatives wishing success and showering congratulations.
