heard the words dropped by U. S. Senator George A. Smathers, retiring in January, when he was in our area and spoke about two situations.

One was his analysis of Central Florida as the spot where growth would be experienced in generous amounts in the months ahead. This was encouraging

He also is reported as pointing out the need for some constructive thinking among the leaders of his Democratic party in Florida. It did not require a visit from such a respected Floridian Democrat to emphasize and manning size the need for progressive thinking and planning. But that it was made by Senator Smathers and that it was made at this time is significant. For the Democratic party in our state, or in our county, did not cover itself with laurels during the recent cam-

Democratic ticket. Democrats who won, and these are did so on their own personal or local merita. Now, however, these Democrats are in control of the next state legislature and can prove their campaign experience as worth paying some heed or can stick with outmoded attitudes which will, now or later, change the entire tone of our political climate. In placing the Smathers' advice in perspective it must be viewed from three extraordinary situations which confront the Democrats.

Foremost is the challenge which presents itself the legislature as the revisions of the Florida State Constitution are implemented by its action. To let this be done with no attempt at bipartisan consideration would indicate that the increasing strength of the Republican party was being ignored.

Second to this and related quite intimately is the

not to be overlooked or downgraded in any instance, need for the Democrats to look again at the oftenchanged goals of our Republican Gov. Claude Kirk. This is not a simple task. Let to have an effective Democratic opposition—if opposition is indicated by sound judgment—then the Kirk goals must be

Third is the intra-party rivalry which could very well sap the basic Democratic sterength and open loopholes where GOP attacks could find vulnerable political targets. This contention is not limited to the guberna-

All of this is not to emphasize the weaknesses of the major political party in Florida. It is to say how much we agree with Senator Smathers' advice and torial election in 1970. This is, of course, an obvious time which will have, in fact already has, more than add that these words of wisdom apply specifically to Seminole County where growth is inevitable and im-proved political action is needed to cope with the a little bearing on Democratic in-fighting.

Words are, indeed, inadequate to describe the magnificent scenes of the Alps, where a heavy hand would have obscured the message without the clarification which the direction bestowed. For a few hours, home viewers were trans-ported to a world which existed at the turn of the century where hardened customs would mar the lives and blunt the aspiration of the human spirit to achieve, to give full reign to its unquenchable aspirations which were in the human breast then and persist today in the Space Age.

Thus the Heidi climate followed one of the most tulmultuous games which has arisen during this football surfeited season. It is easy to understand the fury which evidently gripped thousands when NBC decided to stop Curt Gowdy —with one minute to go—broadcasting from Oakland. The Jet-Raiders game had provoked drastic penalties, thrilled fans on the grounds and hypnotized those before TV screens to an explosive pitch.

NBC was flooded by telephone calls and protests. If there was anything needed to illustrate the TV problem, especially on Sunday afternoons and its utter devotion to professional football with its tremendous appeal, it was made crystal clear in this instance.

As we said, we are bold to comment on this as neither an authority on football or a competent drama critic. What we would say is that public reaction to this affair is well worth watching.
We would ask that a better balance be attained by all three networks and that due respect be given to those who would, in this con-
