With neither the Loyalists nor the Rebels patrolling the seas, piracy is thriving along the coasts of Spain. Hundreds of private craft are reported as infesting the Spanish Biscay coast, holding isolated fishing ports, pillaging ships and kidnapping refugees.

The effectiveness of modern machinery of war did not receive too good a recommendation in the case of the Alcatraz. Only eighty men were lost out of the 1200 defenders, and the opposition, by actual count, landed 11,200 shells, hurled 1100 hand grenades, 2000 dynamite bombs, 600 aerial bombs, 50 gasoline cans, and 200 bottles of flaming liquid.

A Welcome Verdict

The conviction of eleven "Black Legionnaires" for terrorist activities and the sentencing of seven of them to life imprisonment for the death of Charles Poole, whom they killed on false gossip, is a reassuring sign that American law and order is not yet ready to kneel under to mob rule, or to the morbid ambitions of fresh water dictators.

It is a tribute to Michigan justice that the jury of nine men and three women did not trifle with the vagaries of criminal jurisprudence, but handed out the stiffest verdict possible under Michigan law. That state does not have capital punishment, but if there ever were a case when electrocution or hanging were justified, the Black Legion case was it.

The defendants in this dastardly crime were sorry examples of manhood. As is usual in such cases they had no personal qualifications to recommend their aims and ambitions. They were cruel and selfish, devoid of any sense of fairness or fitness. They lacked respect for everybody and everything. Their character can be judged somewhat by the attitude of one of their members towards the wife of the victim. When the sentence was pronounced, he snarled at her: "Well, I hope you're satisfied." He was already beginning to harbor self-pity, to picture himself as being mistreated, and to be thoroughly sore because the state wouldn't allow him to kill whenever he thought the case justified it.

This is the mental make-up of all terrorists, of all radical adventurists who would trifle with human life to carry out some of their crack-pot theories. There is only one means of combatting them. There is no compromise. They must be dealt with exactly like a rattlesnake. The first time they raise their heads, they should be walloped with a big stick.

Edgar Hoover

For a long time there had been a need in the United States for one strong, centralized enforcement agency which would not be restricted by state lines, behind which criminals could find protection. The laws have been enacted and the organization perfected which makes it very difficult for certain types of crooks to operate, and much of this credit goes to Edgar Hoover, head of the Bureau of Investigation.

Coming to the defense of Mr. Hoover, who has been criticized recently, the Miami Herald says: "The public will applaud quite generally the publicly expressed resentment of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, toward his and the department's critics."

"J. Edgar Hoover can rightfully assert his pride in the accomplishments of his bureau. Americans join in that pride and rejoice in the fact that gangsters and organized crime no longer infest the nation because of the relentless warfare waged by the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

"There is food for thought in the statement of Hoover that it is discouraging for a law enforcement officer to build an efficient, loyal, hard-working organization only to find its morale weakened by the personal, financial and political ambitions of schemers who endeavor to belittle the efforts of honest men."

"The director of the bureau strikes a note that is responsive with clear-thinking Americans when he declares that he has no excuse to offer for the killing of dangerous criminals in the last three years. His record is clear on that score. The results speak for themselves."

"It is regrettable that Edgar Hoover finds it necessary to defend himself and his bureau. But it is sadder to realize that he was directing his remarks at operatives in the secret service department who unwarrantedly investigated Hoover's bureau to be reprimanded and demoted by Secretary Morgenthau."

"An honest man will make mistakes. His honesty will accept fair criticism. But he naturally resents the dishonest impugning of his motives. In expressing his 'utmost scorn and contempt' for critics of his bureau, Hoover gave notice that the spirit motivating his department is above the slanders of those who would curtail its activities in ridding the nation of organized vice which has spread its tentacles of corruption across the land."

China Lifts Potato To Important Post

NANKING, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The lowly sweet potato has been lifted to a place of national importance by China by a government order launching a nationwide yam improvement movement.

Always a popular food in China, the sweet potato has now been found to be a cheap, practical source of alcohol distillation, so the government ministry of industries is working toward the improvement of local strains in the expectation of increasing the alcohol content. The annual crop of 21 potato growing provinces of China amounts to 14 million tons, according to government figures.

Non-Unions Receive Threat From China

NANKING, Sept. 20.—(AP)—China is threatening the use of sanctions against all Chinese trading companies and firms which refuse or fail to join officially recognized trade or firm unions.

Some kind of control over all business organizations has become necessary now that an effort is to be made by the government to collect income and corporation taxes, and to require all male civilians to submit to elementary military training.

In return for joining semi-official unions, firms and companies are to be allowed to elect their own representatives to the national assembly which will soon launch China's constitutional regime.

"Green Pastures" Is Booked For Showing At Local Theater

"The Green Pastures," which as a stage show ran five continuous years on American stages, has been booked in film version Wednesday and Thursday of next week at the Ritz Theater, Joseph L. Marentette, manager, said today.

Depicting the negroes' idea of Heaven, the picture is said to be more impressive than the stage show, because wider outdoor effects are obtained with the camera than could be secured in the confines of the so-called legitimate theater.

Selassie Is Ready For Agreement In Italian Invasion

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie is ready to "sacrifice a considerable portion of his rights under the League covenant" to effect a settlement of the Italo-Ethiopian war, Lawrence Tassie, Ethiopian delegate, told the League of Nations Assembly today.

He did not specify what concessions the Negus might make but said the Emperor's desire to protect human life impelled the decision.

Church Co-Ed Class Gets New Quarters

Sunday marked a red-letter day for the Co-Ed Class of the First Methodist Church, when that group of young men and women of this city, crowded to capacity in their present quarters for holding classes, was given the largest room in the entire Sunday School for use, beginning Sunday, which is their sixth anniversary.

The class, has expanded to such a large membership since its organization in 1930, until at present it is said to be the leading group in the entire Methodist Sunday School.

Under the able leadership of Judge R. W. Ware, as teacher, this class, composed of young married couples and young people of this city who attend the Methodist Sunday School, has progressed in size and activities to such an extent that during the past year it clothed for the entire 12 months a young orphan boy at the Benson Springs Orphanage.

As they move into the room formerly occupied by the Wesley Brotherhood class, officials of the class expect a special attendance and are prepared for a larger number of members to be present.

Present officers of the class are: Judge R. W. Ware, teacher, who has held that position since the founding of the class in October of 1930; Mrs. R. E. Kipp, president; L. M. Swain, vice-president; Mrs. G. R. Sims, secretary and treasurer; and Mrs. W. F. Bryan, correspondent.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

By GENE MARTIN LANEY

The Seminole County Council of the Girl Scouts met Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Sanford Girl Scout Little House.

The Council at this time outlined its program of activities for the coming year, and heard reports of troop progress.

The Council plans to continue its policy of presenting representative Girl Scout programs to the various Civic organizations. Among its plans for October activities is celebration of National Girl Scout Week.

During this week Girl Scouts will present a fashion show displaying modern Girl Scout dress and equipment. Other projects such as an exhibit, a radio program, and a Girl Scout rally will further celebrate the week.

Miss Irene Hinton, captain of the Sanford Girl Scout troop, gave a report of activities at Camp Juliette Low, and presented many new ideas for Council and troop activity.

Among the Sanford troop projects are, the presentation of a puppet show, and the making of dolls for the orphanage. Many of the girls are busy at training at Signaling and Star Charting. Early recreation plans are centered in a Girl Scout slumber party to

Slim Crooner Seen Again In 'Pepper'

Slim Summerville thinks he's giving the songbirds of this nation too much competition.

The tall comedian who warbles with Jane Withers and Irvin S. Cobb in "Pepper," Jane's new Twentieth Century-Fox picture currently at the Ritz Theater, points out that he's turned out to be a crooner without benefit of a single singing lesson and with the added virtue of being absolutely tone deaf.

"But the worse I am, the better they like it. In fact, it's got so I can't do a picture but what they turn it into a half-way musical. Ever since I yodeled 'Big Foot Sal' in 'The Farmer Takes A Wife,' they've saddled me with songs. In 'Way Down East' I rendered a tender ditty entitled 'All Bound Around with a Wooden String.' In 'Captain January' Shirley Temple, Guy Kibbee and I went highbrow with the 'Sextette from Lucia' in 'White Fang,' I

Gloomy Weather Threatens World Series Opener

Cloudy Skies May Cause Postponement Of Tilt

Near Capacity Crowd Expected To Witness Opener With Ruffing And Hubbell Scheduled For Mound Duty

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—The third one may be slipped in the form of conditions surrounding a postponement of today's opening game, featuring pitching duel between the left-handed Carl Hubbell and right-handed Red Ruffing of the Yankees, but all hands had their fingers crossed while hoping for the best.

The weather forecast—"Clouds and probably rain"—offered prospects for a capacity crowd at the National League park, even with all reserved seats sold and speculators getting fancy prices from fans traveling light from all parts of the country.

Upwards of three-fifths of the Polo Grounds' capacity of nearly 50,000 has been sold in advance but the weather appeared likely to put a damper on the enthusiasm of fans seeking admission to the unserved stands at $2.50 or the bleachers at $1.50, starting at 8:30 A. M.

Only a handful of men seeking the distinction of leading the bleachers continued their around-the-clock vigil last night outside the National League park.

Yesterday's rain washed out the workouts planned by both teams on rival grounds. The Yankees' record-breaking "clout-circus" that will swing into action against Hubbell without any preliminary practice in the Polo Grounds, considered a happy hunting ground for hitters.

Nine Floridians Try For Places On Rollins Team

Tars Have Members From Ten States In Large Grid Group

Gator Combine Works Well On Forward Passes

Ivey To Pennington Looks As Dangerous Aerialist Pair

WINTER PARK, Sept. 23.—When the Rollins College varsity gridder take the field this season, the number and proportion of Florida boys on the squad will be larger than in many years of Tar football history.

More than nine of the 21 candidates for the 1936 machine hail from Florida and of these nine nearly all of them will probably win assignments as regulars.

The Leeburg contingent heads the list of home state lads with three in George Miller, veteran halfback, and the Brady brothers, Hal and Curry, plunging punting fullbacks. Several boys who used to play at Southern College before intercollegiate football was dropped make up another group. They are Marjorie McManis from Palmerton and Oliver Daugherty of Wildwood, both halfbacks; Carl E. Thompson of Falmouth, Donald A. Matthews, and Bob Hayes of Webster, all linemen.

The sixth Floridian on the squad is a home town product, Paul Alter, of Winter Park, whose varsity experience is giving him the edge over rival candidates for a terminal position.

North Carolina has six members on the squad and most of the Tarheeks will see a lot of service. They are J. Wesley Dennis, a guard, Rick Gillespie, a back, Ralph Little, an end, and Jack Justice, a guard, all from Asheville; Carroll C. Goodwin, veteran center, and Tommy Hopkins, sophomore guard, both from Edenton.

Conch Cody drilled his footballers in kickoff formations lining them up to receive freshmen place kicks several times before putting them to work in the business of scrimmage.

It is apparent that there will certainly not be a weakness in the end department. Floyd Christian, veteran wingman, charged into the freshman backfield once to block and recover a punt. Christian is one of the few Gators who can be sure to see plenty of service in Saturday's game against the military college as Cody has made no indication of the eleven he will start or who will be used against the Citadel.

Question About CARDUI PERIODICAL PAINS

"Why do so many women take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation?"

Each dose of Cardui contains a purely vegetable sedative and anti-spasmodic that is a pain-relieving and cramp-relieving medicine that is especially effective at monthly periods.

This fact about Cardui (that it helps to relieve many of the ordinary functional pains of menstruation with a beneficial plant extract, not habit-forming, not objectionable to take) is greatly appreciated by thousands of women. They recommend it to others.

Cardui is purely vegetable. Made in form, and comes in 2-ounce bottles, with full directions for use. Try it if of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.—Ad.

Cloudy And Colder!

Not fair and warmer, but cloudy and colder is the condition of the weather in New York today, an over-hanging cloud and threatening fronts are doing their best to bring about a postponement of the opening game of the World Series, which should see one of the best Series' history out for the conflict.

The opening tilt, scheduled for the Polo Grounds on the Giants' side of the river, offers to the gloomiest fan plenty of exciting features. In the first place, Red Ruffing, the Yankees' leading batter, according to percentages, is to meet the ace of the Giants' pitching staff in Carl Hubbell, which should be one of the best pitching duels take place that has been pre-arranged this season.

Since everyone is worked up to the height of excitement over this afternoon's tilt, we fear that it would be a terrible disappointment for the ump's to call a halt to something which baseball fans over the nation have lived with, eaten with and slept with for the past few days, that is the beginning of a "Subway series."

Have They A Weakness?

Just how effectively Giant pitching will be able to turn back Yankee power in the World Series will depend, to a large extent, on the intelligence brought back by the National League's scouts who covered McCarthy's last raid through the west.

After the All-Star game this year, in which young Joe DiMaggio failed to get anything which looked like a base-hit,

Nation's Grid Setting Game Full Momentum

Stanford And S. M. U. Counted Out As L. S. U., Duke Win

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—(AP)—From any angle that you choose it today, the nation's grid holds forth the prospect of the hottest kind of an October scramble for the pace-setting positions.

Such outstanding 1935 leaders as Minnesota, Louisiana State and Duke emerged from intercollegiate play with their colors still flying high Saturday but the tangled otherwise complicated chess warning of the impending showdown, notably in the South and East.

The Rose Bowl rivals of last New Year's Day, Stanford and Southern Methodist, may be quickly lost in the shuffle, on the basis of September returns, which again testify to the fact that the "little fellows" are the setups they used to be.

Stanford, minus all its leading stars of last season, yielded to Santa Clara, 15-0, as the forerunner of shift in the Pacific Coast's balance of gridiron power. Southern California, meanwhile, served notice of its revival by bombarding Oregon State, 38 to 7.

Washington's Huskies, although yielding to the superior power of the Minnesota Gophers, 14 to 7, indicated they will be a potent factor in the battle for Coast Conference honors.

Minnesota did not notch its eighteenth consecutive triumph over a three-year stretch, without a struggle at Seattle, but the Galloping Gophers probably will gather momentum as they go along. Bernie Norman's forces will have an extra week of preparation before tackling Nebraska and then beginning their Big Ten campaign against Michigan on Oct. 17.

Michigan not be limited as if in a close town. Such momentum may come in the form of a surprise victory over Michigan, which would serve to lift the Huskies to the top of the political division of the nation's grid.

The Huskies' victory over Oregon State in the Rose Bowl was a surprise, as the Huskies were considered one of the weakest teams in the conference.
