Radioactive Cloud Over U.S. Not Seen As Hazard

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high-altitude radioactive cloud spewed from the disabled Soviet nuclear plant is sweeping across the United States but officials say it poses no health hazard to millions of Americans.

The Environmental Protection Agency reported Monday that patches of the cloud carrying low-level radioactivity was moving across North America from two directions.

The EPA said the radioactive cloud was detected 30,000 feet above the Oregon-

Washington coast moving east across the country and that patches about 18,000 feet above the Gulf of Alaska also were observed.

EPA Administrator Lee Thomas told reporters the government is watching the situation closely.

"At this point in time ... we don't anticipate any levels which would cause health problems," Thomas said.

He said the government is not proposing any extraordinary safety precautions such as dumpling milk as recommended in some European countries closer to the Chernobyl plant where the nuclear accident occurred April 28.

But he did order the agency to analyze rain samples daily and said health officials also will scrutinize milk samples twice a week.

No radiation levels were measured on the ground and it would take a powerful rain storm to release any radioactivity, officials said.

In Moscow, Pravda said today "heroic" efforts of firefighters who braved radiation and flames that water and chemicals were powerless to extinguish helped limit the extent of the Chernobyl nuclear disaster.

The Communist Party newspaper report on the disaster — the Soviet Union's first public description of what occurred at the Chernobyl reactor — came as sandbag crews raced to prevent radiation from contaminating a river that flows by the plant, 80 miles north of Kiev.

Pravda also revealed some details on when the

Crashes Claim 3 Lives

Three teenagers were killed and two other area students, including a star athlete, were injured in separate accidents over the weekend.

Dead is Angela Marie Ford, 17, of 2857 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, and Gina Marie Johnson, 18, of 110 Sandy Oaks Place, Longwood. Injured in the same accident on State Road 44 west of New Smyrna Beach was Tammy Lynn Woods, 17, of 2843 Grove Ave., Sanford. She was in fair condition today at Halifax Medical Center in Daytona Beach, a spokesman said.

Also injured during an accident Sunday was Jeff Blake, 15, of 2511 E. 20th St., Sanford. He was in satisfactory condition Tuesday in Central Florida Regional Hospital following a car-motorcycle accident in Sanford.

Blake, a sophomore at Seminole High School, was the starting quarterback for the football team and earned all-conference honors. He also lettered in basketball.

Miss Ford, a student at Seminole High School, died at 4 p.m. Saturday at the accident scene about one mile east of Samaula on SR 44. Miss Johnson, studying pre-law at Florida State, died Monday at HMC, a spokesman said.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, the women were westbound in Miss Ford's 1980 Toyota when she swerved the vehicle to the left to avoid hitting stopped westbound traffic.

When the Toyota entered the eastbound lane it struck a 1979 Jeep station wagon head-on, killing the driver, Anthony L. Albert, 19, of Orlando. Albert was alone in the vehicle. No other cars were involved in the accident, according to FHP.

The release did not indicate if the victims were wearing seat belts.

In the second accident, Blake, on a 1985 Suzuki motorcycle, was westbound on State Road 46 when a vehicle at Mellonville

Court Rejects Bundy Appeal

Could Go To Chair In About 1 Month

STARKE (UPI) — Theodore Bundy, condemned to death for the killing of two sleeping sorority sisters and suspected in dozens more murders, lost his Supreme Court appeal of the death sentences Monday.

Bundy's appeal went before the Supreme Court the same day that the conclusion of a two-part dramatization of his rampage, "The Deliberate Stranger," was broadcast by NBC. The high court denied the appeal 7-2, and gave no comment.

Bundy, 39, had been scheduled to die in Florida's electric chair in March for the January 1978 clubbing murders of Margaret Bowman and Lisa Levy, residents of the Chi Omega house at Florida State University. Justice Lewis Powell stayed that execution to give Bundy extra time to file an appeal.

The law-school dropout could go to the electric chair in just over one month's time. Gov. Bob Graham is expected to sign a new death warrant quickly.

Polly Nelson, an attorney for Bundy, said he would appeal again.

Bundy is suspected in the deaths of up to 26 other women between 1974 and 1978.

Damaged Goods

Sanford firefighters remove charred merchandise from the back door of Zayra Department Store, 2708 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, Monday afternoon after they extinguished a fire in a storage room there. The blaze, being investigated by the state fire marshal's office, began at approximately 12:40 p.m. and the store was evacuated, firemen said. Fire damage was confined to stored merchandise but smoke damage was seen throughout the store and water damage near the fire area. Customers were allowed back in the store at about 2:40 p.m. and firefighters were on the scene about three hours.

Security Measures Seen As Key

City Has Proposal For Opening Pool

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford City Commissioners will seek a meeting with the Sanford Airport Authority to present a proposal for the city to operate the airport pool as a municipal swim center.

The proposal was agreed to during the commission's Monday work session, where Parks and Recreation Department Director James Jernigan told commissioners it would cost the city approximately $95,147 to operate the pool for its first six months and that approximately $24,844 of the expenditure would be returned to the city through pool fees and concession revenues.

According to Commissioner John Mercer, who also serves on the airport authority, "the key" to the authority's possible approval of the pool proposal is that it contain pre-planned assurances that security measures will be taken to keep the pool's patrons and their vehicles away from nearby highways and industrial complexes.

Mercer is also a founding member of the now defunct Sanford Bath and Tennis Club, which rented the airport pool from the authority until last January. The pool has since been unoccupied.

Mercer's statements during and after the commission's Monday work session were preceded by his saying he was not speaking as representative of the airport authority, but was offering "background into the situation."

Mercer said after the meeting that the city and the airport must receive adequate protection against liability claims for incidents related to the municipal center and that that security buffers be provided between the pool and nearby industrial areas on airport property.

His comments parallel those made last month by Airport Aviation Director J.S. "Red" Cleveland, who cited liability concerns when saying he would not recommend the authority approve the pool's transformation into a municipal facility.

Commissioner Dave Farr suggested during the work session that the city might consider building a separate access road to the pool and possibly providing separate

Was Conversation Violation Of Government In Sunshine Law?

If two or more elected officials engage in private discussion "of any issue that may come before their board, then you have a probable violation of the State Government in the Sunshine Law," Assistant State Attorney Don Martin said today.

He added, however, his office will not bring charges against the officials unless it first receives the sworn testimony of someone with "personal knowledge" of the incident.

Sanford City Commissioners David Farr and Bob Thomas have acknowledged they privately discussed city business prior to its being addressed in public session with a full commission. Their phone conversation on April 29 in regard to the Sanford pool proposal admittedly addressed not only the proposal itself, but the contents of a newspaper article which included a statement in reference to the then-upcoming city commission workshop at which the pool proposal work session was held Monday, and after it, Farr said the April 29 phone conversation between he and Thomas was "technically a violation of the Sunshine Law," although he qualified the statement by saying that he and Thomas "were not in collusion."

According to Thomas, the conversation was "not at all a

Ret. Army Officer Lake Mary Police Chief

By Paul Schoefer
Herald Staff Writer

A retiring 26-year veteran Texas U.S. Army lieutenant colonel is Lake Mary's new chief of police. The city commissioners and Mayor Dick Fess voted 5-1 to offer the job to Charles Williford Lauderdale III. He will take office in early June.

Mayor Dick Fess, and commissioners Charlie Webster, Russ Megonegal, Buzz Petros, and Ken King voted for Lauderdale, 43, while commissioner Paul Tremel cast his lone vote for Frederick Justin Staly, the other finalist for the job. Tremel said he voted for Staly, 30, Orlando, because he is from central Florida.

"It was a very difficult decision, and both are excellent," Tremel said. "I'm sure he'll (Lauderdale) will do fine." He said his vote wasn't cast against Lauderdale, but for Staly.

"We're delighted," Lauderdale told the Evening Herald, after being informed of his selection by Fess in a phone call to the hotel Lauderdale and his wife, Sharron, were staying.

Lauderdale

"We prayed very hard to find a place like Lake Mary."

"We prayed very hard to find a place like Lake Mary, and we're fortunate to be coming to Lake Mary. We'll work very hard to be good citizens, and give the office what it deserves."

Lauderdale, who will start at an annual salary of $26,480, said his first priority will be "getting to know the people of Lake Mary, and their needs and desires."

He said he would also spend time

"getting to know the personnel and all city employees, and make sure the department we design will fill the city's needs."

"The first couple of months will be an assessment period," the chief-elect said.

"We do intend to live in the city. I don't intend on being a commuting chief," Lauderdale said, adding that his wife had contacted a real estate agent Monday. He said he expected to be on the job between June 1-10.

Staly expressed reservations about the starting salary of the job, but said he was willing to sell his home in south Orange County and move to the Lake Mary area if hired. Webster expressed his opinion earlier that Staly, a nine-year Orange County Sheriff's Department detective, is a fast-rising law enforcement officer, who would be pursued by other departments in the near future.

The consensus of the commission is that Lauderdale's background and experience will allow him to be a teaching chief, who will train his department from within, as well as encouraging continuing college education.

Commissioners questioned each candidate during the second interview of each, and a dozen Lake Mary residents attended the session.

Both candidates spent the day in the city, meeting with officials and department heads. Commissioners also conducted individual interviews with the candidates earlier in the afternoon. They also spent time in the Lake Mary police headquarters.

Lauderdale said he saw Lake Mary has "the potential to proceed orderly with growth."

"If hired, my function is to see that you have a police agency that understands linking the police agency with every part of the city and the planned growth. Public safety is a prime consideration. Planning is 50 percent of a police chief's effort."

Panel Seeks Answers For Area Road Woes

By Sarah Flecher
Herald Staff Writer

A lack of dollars is the greatest hindrance to road improvements in Central Florida, area officials said Monday.

Yet, cooperation between governmental agencies and alternative funding sources will help remedy the transportation dilemma, members of the Seminole County Intergovernmental Cooperation Commission learned.

The commission queried a panel of local and state transportation officials and planners, seeking answers to complex questions surrounding the area's road issues.

For the most part, panel members conceded that an area mass transportation system is an expensive and uncertain proposition at this time. They also said local option gasoline taxes are not enough to address current transportation needs.

Rather, governments should continue to eye impact fees and tap other revenue sources to address growth issues, the planners said.

The Council of Local Government (CALNO) appointed the 15-member Cooperation Commission earlier this year. The commission's five subcommittees are exploring ways Seminole County and its cities can work closer together in a variety of areas, including transportation.

"We are looking past artificial political boundaries toward solutions," said Commission member John Tracy. He said a final report to CALNO is due by July.

Right-of-way acquisition, mass transportation and consolidation of governmental efforts were some of the issues raised, as Cooperation Commission members gained insight into how some officials are dealing with a myriad of transportation problems as new residents continue to pour into the area.

The panel consisted of representatives from a local transportation consulting group, the cities of Sanford, Casselberry and Altamonte Springs, the Department of Transportation, the Metropolitan Transportation Authority and a county-wide homeowners association.

MTA Chairman Walter Lewis called the transportation dilemma a "major funding crisis," saying it would be "disastrous" if the road building agency's plan to improve roads in three counties is defeated by voters next month.

The MTA is seeking approval of a referendum in Orange, Seminole and Osceola Counties June 3 to finance transportation projects through a gas tax of four cents and a $1 per $1,000 assessed value property tax.

Lewis noted a $1 billion shortfall in transportation dollars over the next 20 years, even with the $600 million MTA is slated to raise, $137 million of that in Seminole County.

Jim Lee, president of Transporting Consulting Group and a representative of Project 2,000, a governor's blue ribbon panel, said the transportation problems will still be there, even if MTA does not pass.

"Money has always been the problem," Lee said. "The reason we are where we are now is the

Ruling Will Not Deter Death Penalty Debate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Supreme Court decision allowing states to exclude death penalty foes from juries is a severe setback for groups seeking to halt executions, but is unlikely to quiet the debate over capital punishment.

The justices, ruling 6-3 Monday, reversed the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which said last year that the practice of "death qualification" violates a defendant's right to a trial by an impartial jury.

The decision, in a case from Arkansas, was attacked immediately as "morally scandalous" by the American Civil Liberties Union, but hailed in other quarters as a victory for states' rights.

Experts said the ruling is likely to hasten executions for some of the 1,800 inmates on death row around the country. Dozens of them had received temporary reprieves pending the court's ruling.

Trio Of Primaries Today

Two aging politicians and a bitter race that could spell a defeat for Republican Sen. Jesse Helms' New Right organization are on ballots today in primary races in Ohio, North Carolina and Indiana.

Former Ohio Gov. James Rhodes, who will be 77 in September, is trying to reconquer the governor's mansion.

Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford, 68, came out of political retirement to seek the Democratic nomination for the seat being vacated by retiring GOP Sen. John East. And in the state's GOP primary, Rep. James Brodyhill, a 12-term congressman and traditional conservative, squares off against David Funderbunk, a Helms protégé, in a bitter contest for East's seat.

In Ohio, Rhodes is the favored candidate in his Republican primary bid to retake the governor's mansion. To his supporters, Rhodes is a political legend capable of beating the Democrats. His critics, however, say he is a political dinosaur.

Land Of Blubber - And Bucks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alaskans earned the most per capita in 1985 and Mississippi residents the least among the 50 United States, as they have for most of the last decade.

Per capita income, or income divided by population, rose 1.2 percent to $17,756 in Alaska, which has ranked at the top of personal income lists since 1974. It was the highest average income for any state since records were kept.

But food and housing costs in the frigid northern state are typically 50 percent higher than in other areas of the country.

On the low end of the spectrum, Mississippi residents averaged just $9,035, followed by West Virginia ($10,112) and Utah ($10,166), the survey revealed.

Mount St. Helens Rumbles

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — High seismic activity at Mount St. Helens has prompted scientists to study data from the volcano very closely to determine whether another dome-building eruption could occur.

The volcano Monday continued to rumble more strongly than since it ended its last dome-building eruption in June 1985.

Seismic data was all scientists could watch — the actual volcano was hidden behind heavy cloud cover.

The volcano sent a plume of ash and steam 20,000 feet above sea level Sunday afternoon in its latest emission after a 10-month quiet period which ended in mid-April.

The mountain blew its top on May 20, 1980, devastating 200 square miles and leaving 57 people dead.

Short Circuit May Have Doomed Delta

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The weekend failure of a Delta rocket, possibly because of a short circuit, threatens to delay NASA's next blastoff and ground the last major satellite launcher in the nation's inventory, officials say.

An Atlas Centaur rocket is scheduled to take off May 22 to carry a military communications satellite into orbit. But engines in the Atlas first stage and the one that shut down prematurely to doom the Delta Saturday are similar and are built by the same company, Rocketdyne.

Lawrence Ross, chairman of the Delta accident investigation, said Monday engineers want to make sure nothing threatens the Atlas Centaur before committing it to launch in the wake of the Challenger disaster, the explosion of an Air Force Titan 34D rocket and the loss of the Delta.

The Delta accident review panel is scheduled to present its findings and recommendations by July 2.

Mercury Veterans Remember

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Proud engineers who helped launch America's first manned space flight 25 years ago fondly recalled their moment of triumph in a somber anniversary cloudy by the Challenger disaster and two other rocket failures.

The quiet memorial was held Monday at Launch Complex 5-6 at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station where astronaut Alan Shepard blasted off at 9:34 a.m. EDT, May 5, 1961, aboard his Freedom 7 capsule atop a Redstone rocket.

Shepard's 15-minute sub-orbital flight put America on the road to space and came just three weeks after the Soviet Union successfully launched cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin into orbit to kick off the space race.

Oystering Ban Lifted

APALACHICOLA (UPI) — A ban on oystering in a bay devastated by a hurricane last year was lifted Monday, but state officials said it will take them a week to determine whether commercial oystering is feasible.

Apalachicola Bay supplied more than 90 percent of Florida's oysters before Hurricane Elena devastated the oyster beds in September. It has been closed for the past eight months to allow the oyster population to recover.

David Heil, environmental administrator of the Department of Natural Resources, said although the oysters have recovered the state was concerned that high salinity and predators could reduce the harvestable oysters currently available.

Panel Passes Prostitution Test Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A House committee has voted to subject prostitutes and their customers to tests for AIDS and other venereal diseases, but the bill's sponsor says the measure is not intended as a scarlet letter.

The vote by the House committee on Health and Rehabilitative Services came Monday, after the full House gave preliminary approval to proposed campaign finance reforms. A final vote was expected Tuesday morning.

The prostitution bill (HB 279) by Rep. Elaine Bloom, D-Miami, would require the tests of any person arrested for prostitution as a condition of his or her release.

In passing the bill (HB 203) to tighten controls on the special campaign chests controlled by the Democratic and Republican legislative leaders, the House balked at a Republican-backed move to do away with campaign funds controlled by legislative leaders.

The bill would require the Speaker, the Senate President and the minority leaders of both houses to disclose the sources of the contributions to the special funds. The money is distributed to candidates in each party, generally on the basis of which incumbent is most in danger of being unseated.

In other action Monday: —The Senate Judiciary-Criminal committee unanimously adopted a sweeping anti-terrorist package (CS-SB 218 219) that would sentence terrorists whose acts cause injury or property damage to a minimum-maximum penalty of 30 years in prison. Loss of life could result in the death penalty.

—The House Education committee voted 9-8 to approve a statewide Board of Public Schools to help set policy for kindergarten through 12th grade classes. The board would have 13 members, all of them lay people appointed by the governor, except the Commissioner of Education, who would act as chairman. The board would review Department of Education-proposed guidelines and could challenge any proposal. Its recommendations would be forwarded to the department rules, and to the Legislature, which implements most new educational programs and controls all education funds.

The bill passed 9-8, and will go next to the Appropriations committee.

Dole Claims Progress On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Republican leader Robert Dole said Monday the Finance Committee is making progress and will approve a tax reform bill within the next two days.

At the opening of the day's Senate session, Dole said the committee would have a bill ready either today or Wednesday.

Dole spoke as the Finance Committee began consideration of the fourth new plan Chairman Robert Packwood, R-Ore., has put before the panel.

"It is fair to report," Dole said, "that a lot of progress is being made."

Senator Packwood will be able to report out a tax reform bill — not just a tax bill — if not tomorrow, then Wednesday," Dole predicted. "A group of us has reached a consensus on a package." Packwood announced Friday as he emerged from a closed session where the panel spent much of last week discussing tax reform options. "I think it's a majority."

But a subsequent staff briefing showed Packwood's latest proposal is rather vague and contains some very controversial provisions. The basic concept, which attracts the broadest support, would replace the current system of more than 14 tax brackets for individuals with two rates: 15 percent and 27 percent. That's about half of the current top rate of 50 percent.

Packwood said it would put about 80 percent of all Americans in the lowest tax bracket. A family of four would need to earn more than $40,000 a year — about $28,500 in taxable income — to be pushed into the top 27 percent bracket.

By raising the standard deduction and nearly doubling the personal exemption to $2,000, it would eliminate about 6 million poor Americans from the tax rolls.

"I hope the public will regard this as genuine tax reform," Packwood said during a news conference Friday. He was flanked by six other committee members, equally divided by party, but far short of the 11 senators he would need for a bare majority on his 20-member panel.

"I hope there is a majority for it," he said.

Some of the issues sure to raise concerns are the proposed elimination of the Individual Retirement Account deduction for many Americans, repeal of the capital gains tax rate, and severe restrictions on "passive losses" — designed to crack down on tax shelters.

It would limit the popular IRA deduction to people who do not participate in any private pension plans.

And it would repeal the favorable capital gains tax, now set at a maximum 20 percent, eliminating the distinction between earned income and investment income. Critics warn that could destroy the economy by discouraging investment.

It would retain key deductions: mortgage interest on up to two homes, charitable contributions, and state and local income taxes, real property and personal property taxes.

Sales taxes would no longer be deductible, but Sen. Dandiel Moynihan, D-N.Y., plans to offer an amendment to include sales taxes as well.

It also calls for a minimum tax, but to avoid a very controversial issue, tax-exempt bonds would not be included in the calculation.

"That means we'll still get stories about millionaires paying little or no tax because they jinked up on municipal bonds," staff director William Diefenderfer said. "But we can't win that vote."

It would drop the top corporate rate from 46 percent to 33 percent, repeal the lucrative investment tax credit on business equipment, and retain a corporate capital gains rate of 28 percent.

Overall, the plan calls for shifting between $93 billion and $103 billion of the tax burden from individuals to corporations over the next five years.

School Driver Wins 'Best In State' Title

Bonnie Selph earned the title of "Top School Bus Driver in Florida Award" in recent State School Bus Road-E-O competition held in Lakeland. She will represent Florida in national driving competition to be held in Minnesota in July.

In team competition, Seminole County took second place honors. Members of Seminole's team include Debbie Burkhardt, Debbie Campbell, Kathy Rittlinger, Clarence Thompson, Ms. Selph, and alternate Joann Rose. Their score of 2,140 points made Seminole County the only county in Florida to score more than 2,000 points for three consecutive years.

Hernando County won the team title, and Volusia County placed third.

Seminole County bus driver's performance made this school system the only Florida county to finish in one of the top three places in state competition in each of the past three years. In addition, the county is the only one to send three drivers into national competition. In 1984, drivers Terry Carver and Margaret Lubman went to national competition in Alaska.

"We are delighted that our school bus drivers consistently rank as some of the best in Florida," Superintendent of Schools Robert Hughes said.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: A wintry storm with "all the ingredients" to produce heavy snow blew across the Pacific Northwest and into the Great Basin today, while winds that gusted up to 100 mph made travel hazardous in the northern Plains. Travelers advisories today for rain and snow covered the mountains of western Oregon, Northern California and western Idaho. A winter storm watch for up to 2 feet of snow by tonight was posted in the Utah mountains. "This has all the ingredients for a major, late-spring storm with areas of heavy snow, especially in the mountains," National Weather Service meteorologist Bill Alder said. Alder urged stockmen to provide extra protection and feed for their newborn lambs and calves and for newly born sheep. He also said fruit growers should be prepared for freezing temperatures. In the Pines, a travelers advisory for snow and high winds was issued today in western and north-central North Dakota, where up to 3 inches of snow was expected. A livestock advisory was in effect in south-central North Dakota. In Minnesota Monday night, winds of up to 100 mph tore through Browns Valley, tearing the roof off a grandstand and damaging several businesses and at least 200 homes. Power was knocked out to most of the town's 887 residents. In Cheyenne, Wyo., winds of nearly 70 mph also knocked out power. A semi carrying a load of canons was blown off a highway west of the city, and another rig carrying a 28-foot boat suffered the same fate near Wheatland, about 80 miles to the north. No injuries were reported in either incident.

Severe thunderstorms drenched eastern Kansas and northwestern Missouri Monday night with more than 4 inches of rain. In Kansas, the storms pounded Cowley County with softball-sized hail and pelted Butler County with pea-sized hail. "It stings like everything when it hits you," said a Butler County sheriff's dispatcher.

AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 75; overnight low: 67; Monday's high: 84; barometric pressure: 30.16; relative humidity: 61 percent; winds: East at 7 mph; rain:

Law Week Review

Tipay DUI sobriety test volunteers, an Ask-An-Artorney booth and a call-in radio talk show about legal issues were three of several events that highlighted Law Week last week.

"We're really happy with it. It went real well," said Bill Cato, chairman of Law Week sponsored by the Seminole Bar in Seminole County.

He said over half the bar's 147 members participated in Law Week activities.

Also scheduled during the week were mock trials in the county's middle schools, a poster competition in elementary schools and creative writing competition in middle and high schools. A "drinking and driving — You Can't afford the cost" was held at three county high schools with three more planned in three more county high schools.

A spouse abuse clinic and seminar was also held.

At a dinner banquet Thursday, the Bar presented two awards. One was to Ralph Erickson, an assistant state attorney in the Seminole Circuit, for his annual assistance in Law Week and to Adolph Vogt who started and runs the Juvenile Arbitration Program, an alternative to court for disciplining first-time juvenile offenders.

Each year during Law Week — this year April 28 through May 2 — the Bar sponsors the events to increase the public awareness of the legal system.

Bandits Strike Twice At I-4 Rest Areas

In separate cases two travelers reported being robbed by rest area bandits on Interstate 4 near Longwood, early Monday. Although one robbery occurred at the eastbound rest area and the other at the westbound stop, the descriptions of the suspects match, according to Seminole County sheriff's reports.

In the first incident, Hobart Crofts Jr., 50, of Lexington, N.C., reported to sheriff deputies he was approached by two men in the men's restroom of the eastern stop. They both asked for cigarettes, which he handed over. One suspect punched Crofts in the mouth and face and the second took his wallet.

As they fled, Crofts said he also saw a third male suspect join them from the women's restroom. The three fled in a 1980, grey four-door sedan. According to a sheriff's report, Crofts wallet, which was stolen at about 3:15 a.m., contained no cash.

But the three bandits who approached Lynn Janne Adkins, 21, of Fraziers Bottom, W.V., in the women's restroom at the westbound reststop at about 4:20 a.m., grabbed her purse and got away with $520 cash, a pair of diamond earrings valued at $200 and an $80 makeup kit, a sheriff's report said.

Ms. Adkins reported that a fourth man was driving the getaway car, which matched the description of the vehicle involved in the earlier robbery.

JET STATION ROBBERY
A gunman who brandished a handgun and threatened a clerk at the Jet gasoline station, 1540 N. Orlando Ave., Maitland, got away with almost $300 in a 1:10 a.m. Monday robbery, a sheriff's report said. The suspect fled south on Interstate 4.

CANOE TIPS
Three Maitland canoeists were rescued from Geneva's Lake Harney after high winds and waves capsized their craft. Following rescue by Seminole County sheriff's deputies and firefighters, Gerald V. Frantz, 47, of 2040 Geronimo Trail, was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, and released.

Frantz suffered chemical burns from gasoline spilled from the engine of the tipped canoe. His wife Cheryl Frantz, 47, and Anita A. Strickland, 47, of 810 Town Circle, who were also rescued, were treated at the scene, deputies reported.

The boat capsized at about 2:45 p.m. Saturday. The victims were rescued at about 6:15 p.m. Frantz and Ms. Strickland were found clinging to the canoe and Mrs. Frantz was found clinging to a floating cushion. The canoe was about one-half mile from shore.

Occupants of another canoe reported the capsizing at the Osceola Fish Camp and deputies were called to the scene.

MOVER TIPS TO COCAINE
Barbara Phillips of 703 Woodling Place, Altamonte Springs, called police to that address, because she expected trouble from her live-in boyfriend when she moved out at about 1 p.m. Saturday, a police report said. The boyfriend ended up in trouble after Ms. Phillips told police he had a safe in the home which contained cocaine and cash.

Ms. Phillips took Altamonte Springs police into the home and pointed out the safe in the master bedroom closet. She opened the safe, which she said she had nothing to do with, and inside police reported finding 47 grams of cocaine and $900. Plastic bags, a scale and a .38-caliber handgun were also reportedly found by police.

Danny Ray Ross, 24, of the address above, was charged with trafficking in cocaine at 1:08 p.m. Saturday at his home. He has been released on $10,000 bond to appear in court May 19.

PALLETT THEFT
Two men have been charged with grand theft in connection with the alleged theft of 19 wooden pallets valued at $6.50 each and found in the bed of the suspects' pickup truck behind Publix on S. Orlando Drive, Sanford.

The arrests were made at 12:32 a.m. Monday and Roger Lee Hamilton, 35, of 203 James Court, Winter Springs, and Joseph William Easton IV, 20, of 507 Tan Oak, Court Altamonte Springs, have been released on $1,000 bond each to appear in court June 2.

BATTERY
A 21-year-old Sanford woman who allegedly bit a man several times and took $120 cash from him in the parking lot of the 7-Eleven on Park Avenue at 12th Street in Sanford, has been charged with grand theft and battery.

Accused of attacking James Actman, Anetta Richardson of 138 Carver Ave., was arrested at the convenience store at 6:19 p.m. Saturday. She was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

ERRATIC DRIVING, COCAINE
Altamonte Springs police who stopped a man seen driving erratically on E. Altamonte Drive, noted he had a suspended driver license and also reported finding cocaine in the man's possession.

William Howard Buell, 42, of 1300 N. County Road 427, P.O. Box 211, Longwood, was arrested at 11:49 p.m. Sunday and was being held in lieu of $3,000 bond.

IN-SCHOOL ARREST
Longwood police responded to a burglar alarm at Longwood Elementary School, 632 E. Orange Avenue at about 2:30 a.m. Sunday and reported arresting a man found in the kitchen of the school.

The man who was charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools reportedly had a pair of pliers in his pocket. Two windows of the school had been broken.

Jerry Amberg, 24, of Cooc, was being held in lieu of $3,000 bond.

RESISTORS ARREST
Two men and a woman, who reportedly resisted and interfered with Sanford police who were investigating a traffic accident at E. 25th Street and Melonville Avenue at about 9 p.m. Sunday, have been arrested.

They reportedly struggled with police. Shawn Joseph McClain, 22, and Judy Lynn Jackson, 21, both of 913 Catalina Drive, Sanford, have both been charged with obstructing a law enforcement officer, resisting arrest and disorderly intoxication. Richard Lee Bartz, 20, of 1421 Park Ave., Sanford, has been charged with resisting arrest. All have been released on $500 bond each to appear in court May 14.

BOARD BATTERY
A 26-year-old Sanford man, who allegedly hit Rachel Cheek with his fists and a board, has been charged with aggravated battery.

Sanford police reported arresting David Shawn Cheek at his home at 111 S. Maine Ave., at about 5:25 p.m. Saturday. He has been released on $500 bond to appear in court May 19.

FIRE CALLS

The Sanford Fire Department has responded to the following calls:

SATURDAY
—2:52 a.m., 1100 West 13th Street, fire. The interior, exterior and engine compartment of a pick-up truck were damaged extensively when the truck caught fire from as yet undetermined causes, the fire report said. The cause of the fire is under investigation and the name of the truck's owner is also being sought, the report said. The report did not disclose the year or model of the truck.

—9:09 a.m., Airport Boulevard and 18th Street, auto accident. Transported to the hospital were Mary Hawkins, 20, 1816 Lincoln Ave., Sanford, who received a possible back injury; Hall Hawkins, 19, of the same address, who received a laceration over his left eye; Greg Hawkins, 10, of the same address, who received a leg injury; and Jesse Lee, 48, of 2816 May Ave., who received leg injuries, an abrasion on his forehead and possible chest injuries.

—10:28 a.m., Celery and Locust avenues, auto accident. A 14-year-old Sanford boy, "driving illegally," ran the auto into a tree, the report said. He was transported to the hospital with a possible knee injury.

—10:55 a.m., Celery and Melonville avenues, auto accident. Mack Harris, 26, Rt. 200A, Sanford, and Paschal Moore, 65, PO Box 1098, Sanford, declined treatment, the report said. Harris reportedly became "belligerent" during emergency efforts to assist him.

—5:24 p.m., 1201 S. Park Ave., 7-Eleven store, rescue. A 60-year-old Sanford man was "attacked by a woman," who bit him on the right hand, the report said. The man was transported by private vehicle to the hospital after firemen cleansed his wound at the scene, the report said.

—7:24 p.m., 1101 East First Street, fire. Firemen determined the call to have been a false alarm caused by a faulty smoke detector.

—9:56 p.m., same address as above, same cause reported for the fire call. This time out, firemen reportedly showed a watchman how to properly react to the alarm.

—11:26 p.m., #15 Lake Monroe Terrace, rescue. A series of contusions on the top of an 18-year-old woman's head were reportedly caused when she was struck several times with a telephone receiver, the report said. The woman was transported to the hospital. The incident was recorded as a possible assault.

SUNDAY
—1:24 a.m., #13 Cowan-Moutan Terrace, rescue. A 15-year-old girl suffering from abdominal pain was transported to the hospital.

—3:08 a.m., #5 William Clark Court, rescue. A 48-year-old woman, who had reportedly suffered an asthma attack, declined hospital transport after receiving on-scene treatment.

—8:18 a.m., 2441 Polsonette Ave., rescue. An 88-year-old man suffering from back pain was transported to the hospital.

Greedy Protege Makes Millions

From ancient times, having a friend at court was worth a lot. But history has few parallels to the riches now pouring into the pockets of Michael K. Deaver, former White House deputy chief of staff and close friend of President and Mrs. Reagan.

Mr. Deaver's easy access to the throne has made him a multimillionaire during the relatively brief period since he left the White House last May. The influence Mr. Deaver sells nowadays for no less than six figures is highstakes stuff for defense contractors, foreign firms, and foreign governments.

For example: He has a $250,000 contract with Rockwell International Corp. to lobby the administration to purchase more B-1 bombers; a $350,000 deal with Boeing to work for the contract for a new Air Force One; a $400,000 fee from South Korea; a $250,000 annual contract with Daewoo Corp., the big South Korean steel maker, to quash charges of violating U.S. import regulations; a $105,000 payment from the Canadian government for changing the administration's acid-rain policy; a three-year contract paying $1.5 million with Saudi Arabia for gaining U.S. concessions on oil and arms issues; and similar lucrative contracts representing the governments of Japan, Mexico, Grenada, Singapore, the Dominican Republic, and so on and on.

Mr. Deaver has boasted of having placed a ground-to-air call to Air Force One as it flew the president to the Geneva summit in order to preserve an annual $600 million tax subsidy for another client, Puerto Rico. So successful is Michael K. Deaver & Associates, an agreement has been reached to sell the new firm for $18 million to a British advertising conglomerate.

The relatively mild public reaction thus far about this river of cash to Mike Deaver is a far cry from the furor that arose when Gen. Harry Vaughan, President Truman's military aide, accepted a deep-freezer for influence peddling; and when Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, accepted a vicuna coat for White House favors.

Still, investigations now going forward may lead to a full-blown "Deavergate," as Washington wags put it. Mr. Deaver may have violated the Ethics in Government Act that forbids a former government official from lobbying for one year "his former department" about "any pending government matter." The General Accounting Office apparently believes so and is digging.

Even more serious, Senate Democratic leaders are petitioning Attorney General Edwin Meese to appoint an independent counsel to investigate formally Mr. Deaver's activities.

The son of a Shell oil distributor in Bakersfield, Calif., has come a long way since he was recruited in the mid-1960s by Gov.-elect Reagan's new Cabinet secretary, William Clark, to be his assistant. Mr. Deaver's cynical, opportunistic side, which some Washingtonians speak of, was demonstrated years later when he reportedly joined an inner-circle power play that exiled Mr. Clark from the White House to the Interior Department.

Mr. Deaver's wheelings and dealings have prompted strong moves by Senate Republicans to tighten the lobby law. Sen. Strom Thurmond, the South Carolina Republican who heads the Senate Judiciary Committee, is introducing legislation that would prohibit former federal employees from lobbying anyone in the federal government — not just their former agencies — for a year or working on behalf of a foreign entity for two years. High-ranking officials would be barred from ever representing foreign interests. One provision that ought to be included in this obviously needed lobby reform would require former presidential aides to turn in their White House passes, which Mr. Deaver has yet to do.

Michael Deaver's exploitation of President Reagan's legendary tolerance of his friends and associates has brought the administration more disrepute than any other single episode. Yet scarcely anyone believes this is the end of it; more messy revelations are expected. Such is the scandalous coin of a greedy protege to a trusting patron.

A Computerized Mating Service Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An entrepreneurship on Capitol Hill has been described as "a political dating service."

Turns out the reference was to the Competitive Enterprise Institute, which specializes in putting together unlikely coalitions.

Although most of the coalescing thus far has been in the legislative field, we are entering a period when a political dating service might be needed for election campaigns as well.

Can you imagine Vice President George Bush on the same ticket with Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y.? Or vice versa?

I can't either, but that's what a dating service does, doesn't it? Make unlikely matches?

The Competitive Enterprise Institute wouldn't even have to wait until 1988 to work its magic. It is needed in Illinois right now.

Perhaps a political dating service could persuade Adlai Stevenson III, who has resigned as Democratic nominee for governor, to run on the same ticket with a couple of followers of Lyndon LaRouche Jr.

If bringing together slates that seem improbable isn't its forte, what is?

An institute spokesman claims that is what politics of the future is all about — Republicans mixing freely with Democrats, or the "left wing" joining with forces on the "right."

Not all political labels are that distinctive, however.

For example, the spokesman notes that when he was growing up in Louisiana "we had a true two-party system — the pro-Longs and the anti-Longs."

If Ralph Nader should run in 1988 with Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., the candidates might need to accommodate each other on certain issues.

Perhaps they could agree to ban smoking in small cars that no longer are manufactured.

In sum, a political dating service strikes me as being an ideal instrument for choosing running mates during the next presidential race.

Why leave the selection to such unscientific groups as convention delegates when a political party could have a computer do it?

One of the first things a computer would do is balance the ticket. Only it could do a better job than the average national convention, which generally strikes a geographic balance and lets it go at that.

If a presidential nominee is a Yankee, it's conventional to nominate a vice presidential candidate from the South. Or if one comes from the West, the other half of the ticket should be occupied by someone from the East.

A computerized political dating service could be far more sophisticated than that. Thanks to elaborate questionnaires that all party hopefuls would answer, it could match radicals with moderates, for instance.

To achieve a truly balanced ticket, and prove its worth as a direction finder, a computer might have to name three or more candidates. I have heard of such things happening in real dating services.

Who knows, the computer might even come up with a national ticket that would have former Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., running with former Rep. Geraldine Ferraro, D-N.Y. Stranger things have happened.

No Bells Ring In U.S. Maze

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's certainly not easy keeping track of every penny when you're collecting and disbursing more than $900 billion every year — but the federal government's accounting procedures are truly appalling.

The Accounting and Auditing Act of 1950 required that all government departments and agencies maintain uniform accounting systems that conform with standards established by the comptroller general of the United States.

But in a government-wide survey last year, the General Accounting Office found 427 different accounting systems being used. More than half of them (228) did not comply with the comptroller general's requirements.

The Defense Department alone relies upon 150 disparate accounting systems, 86 of which are not in conformity with the federal law enacted 36 years ago.

"Weaknesses in accounting and financial management systems continue to be widespread," concludes the GAO. "Data inaccuracy and incompleteness continue to be major weaknesses... and billions of dollars are not being adequately accounted for, managed and controlled."

Accounting procedures are a dreary subject, but adequate financial safeguards would prevent much of the fraud, waste and abuse that too often are hallmarks of government activity.

"Continued reports of wasteful spending, sloppy management and outright fraud in federal programs erode public confidence in the government," notes Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Texas., chairman of the House Government Operations Committee.

Moreover, the GAO says the lack of adequate internal controls has resulted in:

- Chronic overpricing and cost overruns in the Defense Department's $100 billion-per-year procurement operation.

- Vulnerability to abuse in the processing of more than $174 billion worth of Social Security benefits annually.

- Individuals manipulating federal programs for personal gain.

- Unsatisfactory collection procedures that have allowed more than $17 billion worth of debts owed to the government to remain outstanding and delinquent.

A major overhaul of the system is long overdue.

Iranians Protest Treatment Of Holy Man

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Civil unrest led by Shiite clergymen is sweeping Iran as a result of the Ayatollah Khomeini's vengeful decision to keep a rival holy man from leaving the country for cancer treatment. The mullah, 85-year-old Grand Ayatollah Said-Hasan Shariatmadari, died painfully in an Iranian hospital, and was then refused burial proper for one of his rank.

So far, Khomeini has responded to the riots and demonstrations with his usual ruthlessness, throwing hundreds of mullahs in jail. He is clearly worried by this latest challenge to his regime, remembering the important role the Moslem clergy played in the shah's downfall and Khomeini's own rise to power seven years ago.

In a country where executions of suspected opponents have become commonplace, why did the death and dishonoring of one man ignite unrest in cities across Iran? State

WILLIAM RUSHER

Celebrate And Reflect

The dinner in honor of the Heritage Foundation, held in Washington late last month, was one of those triumphal occasions we conservatives are getting pretty good at staging.

Easily 2,000 people crowded into the Shoreham's ballroom to see and be seen, indulge in the usual political table-hopping and hear President Reagan warn that Nicaragua's Sandinista regime is threatening to become "a Libya on our doorstep."

Almost everybody who is anybody in the conservative movement was there. Over there, beaming like an elderly pixie, was Russell Kirk, whose book "The Conservative Mind" was one of the foundation stones of the movement a third of a century ago. A few tables away was Paul Weyrich, who two decades later brought his keen political intelligence to the task of translating Kirk's principles into votes in Congress.

Indeed, most of those present had poured their lives into the task of bringing the movement to its current high estate. And presiding over the occasion from the dais were the men who had most cause to celebrate the $37 million dollars the Heritage Foundation has raised since it observed its 10th anniversary in 1983: its board Chairman Shelby Cullom Davis, its tireless President Ed Feulner and Joe Coors, the Colorado beer magnate who had the foresight to back Heritage financially long before those $37 million were raised.

A "think tank" such as the Heritage Foundation is absolutely indispensable to a presidential administration which, like Ronald Reagan's, has a serious agenda of things it proposed to accomplish. That agenda is what Heritage has so largely managed to flesh out for the Reagan administration, and why that glittering party was held in its honor at the Shoreham.

And yet every triumph inevitably involves certain reservations. As it happens, there came into my hands just the other day a copy of the "Intercollegiate Review," a conservative quarterly. The first half-dozen essays in the magazine constitute a "symposium" on what's wrong, these days, with the conservative movement.

Well, gosh, I thought things were going pretty well! And yet the members of the symposium are all thoughtful conservatives (one of them, in fact, was Russell Kirk), whose doubts and reservations must be taken seriously. There are, of course, people who just can't stand success — born nay-sayers (Madame Lenin reputedly was one) who will oppose whatever group is in power, even though they worked a lifetime to put it there. But that doesn't seem to be the mood of "Intercollegiate Review's" essayists.

I am glad I was at the Heritage dinner. I am with them heart and soul, and I see nothing wrong with rejoicing, now that conservatism's years in the desert are over. Nor do I fear the New Right or the neo-conservatives, or regret the number of conservatives now in public office. But I am glad, too, that "Intercollegiate Review" published its symposium. It never hurts to be reminded that principles are what really count.

Economic Summit Objectives

If the Democrats' planned revival of the Carterite Trade Adjustment Assistance program is a costly boondoggle, the Reagan administration's new foreign trade strategy is equally mistaken.

The Wall Street Journal reports that the administration intends to de-emphasize lengthy negotiations meant to get the Japanese to buy American products such as beef or citrus. Instead, it will press Tokyo to fundamentally alter its economic policies to encourage large-scale purchases of all foreign products.

Well, gentlemen, the plan won't work.

Consider the administration plan. It will ask the Japanese government to cut domestic taxes, boost domestic wages, reduce incentives for savings, and become a major importer of manufactured goods.

All that's wildly unrealistic. Japan's economic policy is bad news for the United States, but it's a very effective, profitable policy for Japan. Why would the Japanese completely abandon their overall economic strategy when they fight furiously against even token increases in beef and citrus products? One wonders how administration trade "strategists" can imagine for a minute that negotiating a new pitch will produce capitulation — talk without the threat of sanctions.

Moreover, the Japanese will understandably regard such proposals as interference in their internal affairs.

It's unfortunate that the Reagan administration isn't listening to American business leaders who are concerned about Japanese trade practices and who have advanced practical proposals to reduce the trade deficit. The administration would do well right now to examine the testimony of David Packard, chairman of the Hewlett-Packard Company, a leading computer company, when he appeared before the House Ways and Means Committee last September.

Mr. Packard told the Committee that "the only course of action" that will have an immediate effect on our trade imbalance with Japan is to determine the specific amounts by which we want to change our trade deficit with Japan and "construct specific short-term timetables for the achievement of such changes." He said the U.S. should "establish appropriate sanctions such as import quotas that would be applied to limit access to the U.S. market if the timetables were not met."

mullahs have led riots in the streets of Qom, Tabriz and Moshad. Bazaars closed down in protest over the government's actions. State Department cable traffic reported major disturbances as recently as last week.

Another grand ayatollah named Golpayegani has taken Shariatmadari's place as an outspoken critic of Khomeini. Golpayegani sent a telegram to Khomeini protesting the lack of a proper funeral for Shariatmadari and his "burial in a hidden place." Golpayegani, whom Khomeini has also placed under house arrest, complained that the regime's actions "are against Islam and the Koran."

Footnote: Supporters of the late ayatollah "amount to millions of people," sources estimate, and discontent extends far beyond the Moslem clergy. In addition, royalist elements have become emboldened by the unrest, and are planning their own demonstrations against Khomeini.

Indispensables: Harris, Shakar, Bradley, Fergy

Call them the Indispensables. Neal Harris, Steve Shakar, Bobby Bradley and Randy Ferguson aren't the most recognizable names among Seminole County baseball circles. You won't find them at the top of the pitching or hitting leaders.

Without their contributions in the post-season, however, it's doubtful that Lake Mary or Oviedo would be participating in the state baseball tournaments which open Thursday at two sites.

●Lake Mary, which opens semifinal play Thursday night at 7 against Sarasota Riverview at Rollins College's Alford Stadium, has benefitted from Harris' timely hitting and Shakar's two strong mound performances.

●Oviedo, which begins semifinal play Thursday night at 8 against Fort Lauderdale St. Thomas Aquinas at the University of Central Florida, has relied on Bradley's defensive prowess at third base and the red-hot bat of Ferguson.

"Harris' bat has come around big time," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said about his senior first baseman-designated hitter. "And the more Shakar works the better he gets."

Mable is equally impressed with his two gamers. "Bradley personally saved the St. Cloud game." Mable said about Oviedo's 3-2 district championship win. "And Ferguson is really starting to hit the ball. He's really solidified our outfield production."

Harris, who had trouble finding a spot in last year's awesome hitting attack, has flashed power and an ability to hit in the clutch this year. Harris batted a solid .278 with 20 ribbies during the regular season. He's upped it to .400 in the playoffs with a homer and a whopping nine RBI.

"Neal has filled hole in the bottom (seventh) of the order real well," Tuttle said. "He's a good felder and a team player. He will do anything you want him to do."

Shakar, meanwhile, has been a surprise — not with his effectiveness — but with the role he has assumed. He made the transition from early-season reliever to late-season starter after injuries and academic problems depleted the Rams' once depth mound corps.

"We used Steve mostly as a reliever and he didn't get enough work," Tuttle said. "He has really developed his control and has a fine curveball now."

The junior lefthander has hurled 12 innings in the playoffs, yielded just three earned runs for a 1.75 ERA and struck out 12 while picking up two victories. If Lake Mary gets past Riverview, Shakar will hurl Friday's title game against either Gonzalez Tate or Miami Columbus.

Oviedo, meanwhile, has a tough opener with the state's No. 1-ranked 3A team. "They have an awesome team," Mable said the Fort Lauderdale powerhouse (27-3-1). "We can't make mistakes. If we stay close, we can beat them. We play well in the close games."

Bradley proved that against St. Cloud. With the game on the line, he took away several sure hits with diving plays to his left. On one occasion, Bradley charged with the batter faked a bunt. The batter jumped back and drilled a shot at the senior third sacker. Reacting instantly, Bradley dived, gloved the grounder, held the runner at third and tossed out the batter.

"That was a major league play," Mable said. "And he made a couple more of them, too. Plus, Bradley's two hits were both at crucial times."

Ferguson, a guard on Oviedo's basketball team, reported late but has been rounding into shape as the season progressed. "Fergy has really started to hit the ball," Mable said. "He's a sporadic hitter but now he's really in the groove."

Ferguson, a junior right fielder, has five hits in 10 at-bats. Two of these were key strikes in Oviedo's regional victory over Gainesville Eastside.

Blake Suffers Broken Leg

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

The 15-year-old sophomore quarterback, the son of Seminole track coach Emory

Blake, was in satisfactory condition today at Central Florida Regional Hospital, according to Seminole football coach Dave Mosure.

Blake was riding a 1985 Suzuki motorcycle westbound on State Road 46 when a southbound vehicle at Mellonville reportedly pulled in front of him. The motorcycle struck the 1980 Nissan broadside Sunday at 8:45 p.m., according to police reports.

The driver of the car, Richard Lee Bartz, 18, of 1421 Park Ave., was not injured. He was charged, however, with violation of the right of way and not carrying a driver license.

According to a police report, Bartz had been drinking and had a blood alcohol level of 0.06, which is below the legal limit (0.10) of intoxication.

"We just didn't lose a football player, we lost a leader and a helluva kid," Mosure said. "I love that kid. It's just impossible to replace him."

Mosure said the break in Blake's throwing arm is below the elbow and "should heal without a problem." The compound fracture to his leg, however, presents the bigger problem. Mosure said Blake's leg has been placed in traction until time and healing will allow a stabilizing part to be placed in the leg.

"The leg will have to be placed in a full-length cast," Mosure said. "We're talking six to eight weeks for that. It definitely clouds his availability for the fall." Mosure said he would work out both Herb Hillery and Dwayne Willis at quarterback in Blake's absence.

Lyman senior will compete in the state meet Saturday at Winter Park's Showalter Field.

'Lean, Mean Throwing Machine'

Lyman's Streamlined Gauvin Isn't Intimidated By Big, Bulky Girls

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

As far as the limelight goes, discus throwers are what amounts to the opening act in track and field meets. The discus is usually held on a separate facility from the running events and at a time when most of the spectators have not even arrived.

For Jeannine Gauvin, Lyman High's "Lean Mean Throwing Machine," though, what goes on in the circle is just as exciting as sprinting around the oval. And, when she unleashes a good throw, it can be just as rewarding as breaking the tape at the finish line.

Gauvin, a senior, will compete in her first Class 4A State Track and Field Championships Saturday afternoon at Showalter Field in Winter Park. Gauvin qualified in the discus by taking second at the regional meet with a personal best throw of 128-5. She is the only member of the Lady Greyhounds' team to qualify for state.

The discus competition Saturday gets underway at 4 p.m. and is held in an area behind the stands opposite the press box at Showalter Field.

"My goal in state is to break the school record, (134-7 by Angela French in 1983)," Gauvin said. "It would be a great thrill if I could do it and I hope just to hit my goal would be enough to place high or even win state."

Gauvin came close to qualifying for state as a sophomore when she finished fifth in the regional meet. "Inches out of fourth place," Gauvin didn't compete as a junior but has had a solid senior season which included first places in the Seminole Athletic Conference and District 4A-9 meets.

"In all my years of coaching, she's as hard a worker as anyone I've ever had," Lyman coach Larry Baker said. "She works hard in the weightroom and is very particular about wanting her technique just right."

Technique is of the utmost importance to Gauvin's success especially considering she is relatively small for a performer in the weight events.

"There's more technique to throwing the discus than a lot of people think," Gauvin said. "You need strength, but you also need a lot of coordination. If you don't have that, you usually don't do as well."

Although big, bulky girls like Oak Ridge's Michelle Lee look intimidating, Gauvin said she doesn't let it get to her. She also said having a friend like Lake Brantley's Debbie Lovelace, another attractive and demur discus thrower, helps a lot.

Track/Field

"In all my years of coaching, Jeannine (Gauvin) is as hard a worker as anyone I've ever had. She works hard in the weightroom and is very particular about wanting her technique just right."

— Larry Baker

"Debbie (Lovelace) is one of my best friends outside of the circle," Gauvin said. "We've always supported each other and it helps because a lot of the bigger girls try to intimidate us. But you can't succumb to intimidation. Once you do, the mental part is lost."

Gauvin also came close to qualifying in the shot put as she finished fifth in the region with a throw of 37-8½ which tied her personal best. Gauvin, though, said the discus is her favorite of the two.

"I like the discus more than the shot because you need a little more finesse in the circle," Gauvin said. "It took a long time for me to really get the technique down in the discus."

In the regional meet, Gauvin was the first competitor in the discus and opened up with a throw of 128-0.

"I was pretty satisfied with that throw," Gauvin said. "But then Lee came in and threw a 129-0 on her first throw. When I did the 128-5, though, I knew for sure I was going to state."

Gauvin's throw of 128-5 came on her second throw in the preliminaries. In the finals, she said she went all out after Lee but couldn't come up with the big throw.

"I'm going to get a lot more practice in this week and see if I can get more speed in the spin so I can release it with a little more power," Gauvin said.

When competition is over, Gauvin likes to put on her "Lean Mean Throwing Machine" tee-shirt that was given to her by DeLand coach Ted Matson.

"I wore it (tee-shirt) to the mall and everyone was asking me about it," Gauvin said. "It was really nice of him (Matson) to give it to me and I think I'll hang on to it for a while."

Baker said Gauvin, who hopes to continue competing at the college level, has thrown 133-0 in practice and he knows she is capable of doing the same or better in the state meet.

And, if she reaches her goal, that will make Jeannine Gauvin more than ever the "Lean Mean Throwing Machine" she has been all this season.

Tribe's Davis Sprints Alive At Crunch Time

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Whether it's the last few strides in the 100 meters, or heading for the home stretch on the anchor of the 440 relay, when it comes down to crunch time, Seminole High senior Pat Davis can usually be counted on to rise to the occasion.

Davis will look to cap off a tremendous senior season Saturday when he competes in the Class 4A State Track and Field Championships at Showalter Field in Winter Park. Prelims for Davis in the 100 meters will be at 5 p.m., with finals for all running events and relays slated to start at 7.

This is the first season Davis, who has been running for the Tribe since his sophomore year, has qualified for state in an individual event as he was part of the 440 relay team that took second in the state last season.

"He's progressively worked himself up the ladder," Seminole coach Ken Brauman said of Davis. "He didn't do much as a 10th grader but stuck with it and started beating some people as a junior and earned his spot on the relay by the middle of the season."

This season, Davis was the champion in the 100 meters in the Seminole Athletic Conference, District 4A-9 and Region 4A-3 meets. Davis also holds the meet records in all three since the 100 meters is a new event.

Davis said although it is his first time running the 100 at state, he feels he has a shot at winning it.

"If I get out of the blocks in good shape, I've got a pretty fair chance," Davis said. "The big thing is to get out good in the prelims. All of us are going to have about the same time and getting in the top four is going to be tough."

Brauman said although Davis

doesn't have one of the top eight times going in, he still has a chance to place because he is a tough competitor and since the 100 meters is a do-or-die event.

"In a race like the 100 meters, you don't know what's going to happen," Brauman said. "You have to get out fast and can't get caught in the blocks. The prelims are very important and that's usually where the best races are. Just to get out and make the final is 90 percent of the situation."

In the 440 relay, Davis is on the anchor leg this season after running leadoff on last year's team. The Seminole foursome of Davis, Louis Brown, Eric Martin and Dwayne Willis has won every time out this season except on two occasions when the team was disqualified.

"The most important thing on the relay is the handoff," Davis said. "If we get them down we should run away with it as a problem."

Brauman said he likes to have Davis on the anchor since he is one of the top straight away runners on the squad.

"The way the finish line is, you have to have two good curve runners and two good straight away runners," Brauman said. "Davis and Brown are our best straight away runners."

Davis and the Fighting Seminoles are also looking to defend their state championship Saturday.

"We think we can win it if everything goes right," Davis said. "It's different this year because we know everybody's coming for us. We're training really hard and getting our heads right to go after it Saturday."

Pat Davis hits the finish line with another 100-meter win.

Stress Fracture Sidelines Samocki; Stratch Hurts Britt

Lake Howell High junior distance standout Lisa Samocki will miss the 4A State Track and Field Championships Saturday with a stress fracture of the left tibia, coach Tom Hammontrout said.

Samocki, the champion in the mile and two mile at the District 4A-9 meet, qualified for state with a second place in the mile at the regional meet but the injury forced her out of the two mile.

"She's been hurt for the last month but she kept running because she wanted to win," Hammontrout said of Samocki. "Her doctor hurt her. She's very disappointed but she can learn to recover from it and will be back next year."

Samocki, also an All-State performer in cross country where she placed second in the mile and second in the 5:11.8 in the mile and

Track/Field

11:28.5 in the two mile at the district meet. Both of these times were among the best in the state in 4A.

BERT'S ONLY IN LEAN JUMP
Panama City Mosley's Cynthia Britt, one of the most accomplished track athletes in the state, will compete only in the long jump at Saturday's meet after she mistakenly scratched herself from the regional meet.

Britt, the defending state champion in the long jump, was the champion in her district in five events including the long jump, high jump, 200 meters, 200 and 400. She had the state's best in the long jump (19-10), 100 meters (11.8) and 200 meters (29.2).

After Britt jumped 19-5 in the long jump to win the regional title, she allegedly went to the official in the high jump and scratched herself.

Over an athletic meeting from one event, she is scratched from all other events in that meet. This district meet will be open to all athletes in the state and the meet that will be held on the 4A-9 meet district will be open to all athletes in the state. — CHRIS FLATER

Bucks' Small Lineup Pays Off With Big 109-104 Win

United Press International
The Milwaukee Bucks turned to their little guys in the waning moments Monday night, and came away with a big victory.

Milwaukee went with its small lineup on the floor down the stretch in Philadelphia, as centers Alton Lister, Randy Breuer and Paul Mokeski were all on the bench.

"The small lineup has been a good lineup for us all year," said Milwaukee coach Don Nelson of 6-foot-5 Paul Pressey, 6-5 Ricky Pierce, 6-4 Sidney Moncrief, 6-3 Craig Hodges and 6-9 Terry Cummings.

With the giants on the bench, Pressey led a fourth-quarter surge by scoring 9 of his 17 points as the Bucks pulled away from Philadelphia 109-104 to square their best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series 2-2.

"I felt I was at the right place at the right time with offensive moves," said Pressey, whose 2 free throws gave the Bucks a 104-102 lead with 1:46 to play. His basket then put the Bucks ahead 106-104 as they reclaimed the home-court advantage.

The victory marked Milwaukee's first postseason triumph in the Spectrum in four years. Three times in the last four seasons.

NBA Playoffs

Philadelphia has knocked the Bucks out of the playoffs.

Ricky Pierce and Terry Cummings scored 19 points each for the Bucks, who host the 7ers on Wednesday night in the fifth game of the series.

The other three best of seven conference semifinal series resume Tuesday night. Atlanta will be at Boston, Dallas visits Los Angeles and Denver is at Houston.

The Bucks got 38 minutes out of Moncrief as he overcame a painful heel injury to score 13 points. Moncrief has played in only two games in the series and the Bucks have won both.

Milwaukee has outrebounded Philadelphia in both its victories, 45-32 Monday night, including 17-8 on the offensive boards.

Charles Barkley canned 2 free throws to bring Philadelphia within 106-104 with 46 seconds to go, but Pierce scored on a drive to the basket, and Cummings hit a free throw with 10 seconds to go for the final margin.

Barkley led Philadelphia with 37 points, and Bob McAdoo added 17.

Glenn "Doc" Rivers, left, and Danny Ainge scramble for a loose ball. The series resumes tonight at 7:30 on WTBS from Boston Garden. WTBS will also televise the LA-Dallas game.

Roy Thwarts 13, Montreal Goes Up, 3-0

United Press International
Montreal rookie goalie Patrick Roy turned criticism into confidence Monday night against the New York Rangers.

Roy, who the Rangers coaching staff called "technically unsound," thwarted 13 shots in overtime, and rookie Claude Lemieux knocked in the game-winner at 9:41 for a 4-3 victory that brought the Canadiens within one triumph of their first Stanley Cup final since 1979.

Montreal, leading the best-of-seven Wales Conference final 3-0, can advance to the Cup final with a victory in Game 4 Wednesday in Madison Square Garden. If New York wins, the series will shift to Montreal Friday.

"I like everything they've had to say about me, because it makes me really aggressive," said Roy, who faced 47 shots. "I feel better when someone talks against me. It makes it really fun."

Pats To Lose 2-Sport Star, Dunn Will Move To Georgia

Andy Dunn, a valuable two-sport standout for the Lake Brantley Patriots, said Monday he and his family will be moving to Dalton, Ga. Friday.

Dunn, a junior, was one of the mainstays on the Brantley baseball team, playing shortstop and hitting .354. He also led the team with 16 steals in 17 attempts. The versatile junior also figured to be the starting quarterback or tailback on the Big Blue's football team.

Andy Dunn

"This is the hardest thing that I've ever had to do," Dunn said Monday. "I was really looking forward to playing here my senior year."

Dunn said that that reason for the move is that his father got a new job in Dalton. Dunn lived in Dalton for 10 years before moving to Altamonte Springs.

Dunn will be playing for the Dalton High School Catamounts. Dalton is a 3A school and has a long history of having successful sports teams.

Baseball coach Mike Smith was upset by the news. "He's been the starting shortstop for the last two years. Andy would have been our captain next year," Smith said.

Vilas Wins, Revives Memories

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nine years later, the memories remain.

It was in 1977 Guillermo Vilas defeated Jimmy Connors in the final of the U.S. Open — the last Open played at Forest Hills. Monday night, Vilas had another date on that same Stadium Court, and he came prepared to deal with the memory.

"I arrived early and had a good practice before the match," Vilas said following a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 victory over Hans Schwarler in an opening-round match of the $615,000 Shearson Lehman Tournament of Champions.

Victorious seeded players included No. 9 Martin Jaite, No. 15 Jakob Hlasek and No. 16 Mikael Pernfors. Jaite beat Wojtek Fibak, 6-4, 6-3. Hlasek defeated John Sadri, 6-3, 6-3, and Pernfors defeated Terry Moor, 6-3, 6-3.

DA Wants To Talk With Reggie

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The Milwaukee County district attorney wants California Angels star Reggie Jackson to submit to an interview before he acts on allegations Jackson roughed up a fan who asked for an autograph.

District Attorney E. Michael McCann Monday heard from Donald Weimer, 26, of Racine, the fan who claims Jackson attacked him Saturday night after he had asked the baseball star for his autograph.

Jackson was represented at the session by attorney Gerald Boyle. He did not attend because his team played the Red Sox at Boston Monday night.

Weimer told McCann he was angry and embarrassed Jackson declined to give him an autograph at Major Goolsby's after he gave autographs to two other people.

Horford Is Eligible Dec. 18

MIAMI (UPI) — The waiting is over for the Miami basketball team and well-traveled center Tito Horford.

The NCAA ruled Monday Horford will be eligible to play for the newly resurrected Hurricanes basketball team after the fall semester, ending speculation on his eligibility that began when he enrolled at Miami Jan. 21.

Horford, who briefly enrolled at Houston and Louisiana State before coming to Miami, is ineligible for the fall semester because of "minor" NCAA violations that occurred while he was playing for a club team in his native Dominican Republic.

Horford can play beginning Dec. 18 and have four years of eligibility. He will miss between four and six games.

Kemp Wins $1.08 Settlement

ATLANTA (UPI) — A professor fired from the University of Georgia for claiming special treatment for athletes is $1 million richer today, and has been reinstated to her job as English coordinator for the school's remedial studies program.

Dr. Jan Kemp's lengthy legal battle ended Monday when U.S. District Judge Horace Ward approved a $1.08 million cash settlement from the state. She will return to her $30,356-a-year job July 1, the same day resignation of University President Fred Davison takes effect.

"If my attorneys like it, I like it. I trust them," said Kemp.

Best Bank? Atlantic 20, Sun Bank 10

By Chris Pieter Herald Sports Writer

After Atlantic Bank scored 17 runs over the last three innings, there was no doubt which was the best bank around Monday night. The 17-run explosion carried Atlantic Bank to a 20-10 victory over Sun Bank in Sanford Little American League action at Fort Mellon Park.

Atlantic Bank improved to 4-3 with the win and remains two games out of first place while Sun Bank fell three games back 3-4.

Sun Bank used a nine-run second inning to build a 10-3 lead. Tony Duncan's two-run homer highlighted the inning while Jason Sutton added an RBI single and Sun Bank also bled in on five walks and six passed balls.

Atlantic Bank bounced back from the shaky second inning with five runs each in the third and fourth and seven in the fifth.

In the third, Tyrone Williams and Neville Fuller rapped RBI singles while Williams had a run-scoring double and Steven Lowery an RBI single in the fourth. In the fifth, James Salmon drove in two runs with a double and Benjamin Moon macked a pinch-hit RBI triple.

Fuller was the winning pitcher for Atlantic Bank.

ADOCK RIPS PETROLEUM

Adcock Roofing broke open a close game with eight runs in the top of the fourth and went on to claim a 14-2 victory over Petroleum in Little American League play at Bay Avenue Field.

Adcock Roofing remains a half game back in the league standings at 5-1 while Petroleum topped its seventh straight.

The two teams fought to a 2-2 tie after one inning with key hits by Daniel Anderson and Dan Metzler leading the way for Petroleum.

Adcock Roofing took a 6-2 lead with four runs in the third with RBI singles by Mike Maples and Al Holt the big hits. Corey Williams' grand slam homer highlighted the fourth frame in which Adcock pulled away and Kevin Peterson ripped a solo homer.

J.D. Polk, who was 3 for 3 and scored three runs, also went the distance on the mound for Adcock Roofing, allowing five hits, striking out seven and walking three.

CARDINAL TOTALS FORD

Cardinal Industries maintained its one-half game lead in the Little American League with a 18-4 thrashing of Seminole Ford Monday night at Westside Field.

Anthony "Redman" Roberts was 3 for 3 and drove in four runs to lead the 12-hit Cardinal attack while pitcher Terry Williams held Seminole Ford to five hits and struck out seven.

Cardinal Industries ran its record to 6-1 with the win while Seminole Ford dropped to 2-4.

Tony McGill smacked a pair of doubles and drove in three runs for Cardinal while Matt Wilkes contributed a pair of hits and Willie Williams and Craig Merkeron both drilled triples.

Bill Kerms had two of the five hits for Seminole Ford while Jermaine Hartefeld was 1 for 3 with a triple.

ROTARY BOUTS SMITTY'S

Derrick Taylor and Andre Stokes had three hits each as Rotary rolled to an 18-4 victory over Smitty's Mower Monday night in Sanford Junior League action at Chase Park.

Rotary ran its record to 5-2 with the win while Smitty's fell to 1-6. In Monday's other game, Kiwanis, 3-4, forfeited to Knights of Columbus, 4-3, after a Kiwanis' player was ejected for throwing his helmet and the team didn't have enough players to continue.

Taylor was also the winning pitcher for Rotary as he allowed five hits, struck out 11 and walked seven. Blake Smith had two hits and scored two runs for Smitty's while Calvin Donaldson added a pair of singles.

Tommy Mitchell, Tommy Mathis and Tommy Hampton contributed two hits each for Rotary.

In Little National League action today, D.A.V. will take on the Railroaders at Fort Mellon Park. Sunland will meet Rinker Materials at Bay Avenue and Poppa Jay's will encounter First Federal at Westside Field. All games begin at 5 p.m.

Quake Kills 15 In Turkey; Colombian Volcano Quieter

By United Press International

The Turkish government sent blankets and food to villagers whose homes were leveled by an earthquake that killed 15 people, while Colombian officials eased their watch on the deadly Nevado del Ruiz volcano.

The Turkish earthquake Monday measured 5.8 on the Richter scale. It hit the provinces of Malatya, Elazig, Gaziantep and Tuntzeli, killing at least 15 people, injuring 100 and cracking the Surku Dam, reports said.

The Athens News Agency, quoting reports from Turkey, reported the epicenter of the earthquake at about 375 miles southeast of Turkey's capital of Ankara.

Food and tents were rushed by the government to the stricken areas and Interior Minister Yildirim Akbulut visited the area to assess the damage, the agency said. Authorities evacuated the area and reduced the water level of the dam's lake to prevent flooding, the Athens News Agency said.

In Colombia, the Nevado del Ruiz appeared to have begun slumbering again after experts had been worried about the possibility of a mudslide.

The volcano 90 miles west of Bogota erupted in November, causing a mudslide that killed 23,000 people. On Sunday and early Monday it rumbled ominously and belched smoke, alarming officials.

By Monday night, however, the crisis seemed to fade.

17 Die As Trains Collide

POVOA de SANTA IRIA, Portugal (UPI) — A speeding express train bound for Lisbon slammed into the rear of a commuter train stopped at a suburban station. At least 17 people were killed and search teams combed the wreckage today for five more bodies.

Officials said they suspected "human error" was responsible for the crash Monday — the second major rail accident in Portugal in less than eight months.

parking for its patrons. The nearest lot to the pool can accommodate an estimated 150 vehicles and, although it is not in use, it is under long-term lease to the Westinghouse Corporation, Mercer said.

Mercer said Farr's suggestion regarding a separate access road is one of the ways the commission may be able persuade the authority to allow the pool to be opened publicly, although he added "That's just an opinion. I am certainly not speaking for the authority."

The city also finds itself in an unusual situation where it owns the airport property, but gave management and lease jurisdiction of the land to the independent authority through a legislative act in 1968.

Due to this, according to Mercer, "technically, I think the authority could refuse the city unless they (the authority) did get some money out of it."

However, the authority could also grant the city free use of the land or ask it to sign a "token lease for something like a dollar a year," Mercer said.

Farr offered accolades for the authority's management of the airport property, which he said has enabled it becoming an extremely valuable parcel of real estate, although he said because the property also "belongs to the citizens of Sanford," the authority should seriously consider the pool request.

"They have so much land out there, it seems the pool could be used and enjoyed by our citizens," Farr said.

"If they (the authority) said no, it would seem to me to be somewhat of a selfish motive, quite frankly," Farr said.

"I'm sure the authority would listen (to a city commission request to operate the swim facility)," according to Mercer, who said the commission's proposal should address "the protections that will be provided, rather than just 'We want to open the pool.'"

Staff was directed at Monday's work session to work out traffic, parking and security improvement plans that commissioners would be present to the authority during the joint meeting.

The pool proposal was presented to commissioners five months ago by their youth advisory committee, some of whose members attended Monday's work session to reiterate their support for it.

According to Mercer, "a major concern" regarding the swim center proposal focuses on the possibility of high court awards for successful liability claims against the city and the authority.

He applied the statement to possible injuries suffered by pool patrons after straying into industrial areas or taxiways, and also to the possibility of patrons on bicycles or in cars causing a plane mishap by being out on a runway.

Jernigan's cost estimate for the city's operation of the pool included $25,000 for public operations liability coverage. Whether this policy extends to mishaps which occur outside the pool's confines, or what manner of pool related incident coverage would be provided through liability policies already held by the city and the authority was not discussed on Monday.

violation" of the Sunshine Law, "because it didn't last long enough and he (Farr) really didn't say anything. I did all the talking."

Thomas' statement regarding the length of the conversation and his having carried most of the discussion was agreed to by Farr after Monday's work session. Earlier in the day, Farr had said the phone call served as opportunity for he and Thomas to "share our concerns about the pool."

Both men said the topic addressed when Thomas called Farr was the possibility of security at the Sanford airport pool being improved to avoid patrons straying from it onto taxiways or into nearby airport authority industrial complexes. Also expressed was "disappointment" over what had been done by the city in regard to the pool after receiving it as a proposal from their youth advisory committee, Farr said.

The State Government in the Sunshine Law, "extends to discussions and deliberations as well as formal actions," according to the State Attorney General's Office Florida Open Government Laws manual, which cites case law to support the statement.

A violation of the Sunshine

Law by a public body or any of its individual members is also "a criminal offense punishable as a misdemeanor in the second degree," the manual states.

Such a violation carries with it the possibility of imprisonment for a period not to exceed 60 days and/or a fine not to exceed $500.

Colbert said today he will not involve himself in the matter of the phone conversation between Farr and Thomas unless asked to by the commission and he declined to comment on the matter to the Evening Herald, "without knowing all the facts and details that are involved."

reportedly pulled in front of him. The motorcycle struck the 1980 Nissan broadside. The accident occurred Sunday at 8:45 p.m., according to police reports.

Driver of the car, Richard Lee Barts, 18, of 1421 Park Ave., was not injured. He was charged, however, with violation of the right of way and not carrying a driver license. According to a police report, Barts had been drinking and had a blood alcohol level of 0.08, below the legal limit of intoxication.

Summit Concludes

Leaders Agree To World Economy Watch

TOKYO (UPI) — The heads of the world's leading industrial democracies agreed at their economic summit to a U.S.-backed plan providing greater coordination and surveillance of the world economy. Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone announced in a concluding statement today.

The seven leaders, still flushed with success at achieving unity on a strong condemnation of terrorism, also moved to include Canada and Italy in the exclusive Group of Five finance ministers, whose quiet manipulations have been credited for the recent drop in the value of the dollar.

The specter of terrorism that has overshadowed the summit persisted, however, reinforced Monday by renewed threats of attacks by Palestinian terrorist Abu Abbas and by a series of small incendiary devices that went off harmlessly in the Tokyo subway system.

The economic plan creates a new Group of Seven finance ministers — which also includes the United States, Japan, Britain, France and West Germany — and gives them a mandate to manage exchange rates according to a set of specific indicators.

The plan, reportedly promoted by Treasury Secretary James Baker, marks a shift for the United States, which has until now insisted publicly on allowing market forces to determine exchange rates.

"It is important that there should be close and continuous coordination of economic policy among the seven summit countries ...," Nakasone said, reading from the final economic declaration. "We agree, however, that additional measures should be taken to ensure the procedures for effective coordination of international economic policy are strengthened further" through the creation of the new Group of Seven.

Other highlights of the economic statement included an endorsement of a plan, first proposed by Treasury Secretary Baker to deal with the Third World debt problem through a combination of new public and private financing.

The leaders also cited the importance of long-term stability in energy prices and called for action to deal with disruptive food surpluses in the developed countries caused in part by far-reaching agricultural subsidies.

He stressed training in the department is important. "If you have poorly trained, poorly led police officers, you're never going to get where you want to go," Lauderdale told commissioners.

He said Lake Mary's Public Safety Department, which links the police and fire departments as a combined effort "is the way of the future."

"The cost of running separate agencies is prohibitive," he said. He favors a "coordinated total action in public safety."

"A police officer should be fair, just, and firm," Lauderdale said of how he would like officers to conduct themselves. "If a citizen can't pick up the phone (to call the police) with confidence, then the guy running the ship is the wrong guy."

Lauderdale said he will be active in church and community organizations, which pleased Fess, who added, "If you're sitting in the police station in two years (and not involved in community activities), I'm going to be very unhappy."

Of his officers, Lauderdale said, "My main job is to take care of them, and provide leadership and opportunities for growth," indicating that training will make better officers, who will be better prepared to react in a life threatening situation.

Fess expressed concern over a comment Lauderdale had made in his first interview April 24, when he said if juvenile offenders wanted to play Rambo, he would "give them Rambo."

"I don't want any hot-dog out there with guns blazing," Fess said.

Lauderdale said he didn't recall making the comment, but saw his roll as chief as a "Peace Officer."

"We're not going to blow people away to impress the citizens," Lauderdale said. He will instruct the use of deadly force only if public safety and officers are threatened, and will train his department in the law and the use of such action.

He said he will recommend that no high speed pursuit be done by officers in the city, and that the speed limit be observed by officers when responding to a call.

Of the interview process, Lauderdale told commissioners, "It is gratifying to see it done very professionally," and thanked the commissioners and City Manager Kathy Rice for their help.

Commissioners heard final pleas from citizens who wanted them to consider acting chief Sam Belfiore for the job. Belfiore, a seven year veteran of the department was passed over in the recommendation of the Central Florida Police Chief's Association screening committee, who recommended six finalists.

Earlier in the process, Webster and Tremel favored adding Belfiore's name to the list of candidates to be interviewed, but became satisfied with the candidates they interviewed.

"We presented petitions with over 100 signatures asking Sam be added to the list, but the commission refused to listen," Jim Oriole, Sr. said.

"Tonight in Lake Mary, the democratic process has taken a hell of a beating," he concluded.

Belfiore, 33, spent time with both finalists during the day and attended the interviews. He said of Lauderdale's selection, "I'm pleased with him, and plan to work closely with him and give 100 percent. I'm willing to learn and pick up all the knowledge and education I can."

He admitted his disappointment over not getting interviewed for the job, but added, "I still plan to stay with the department and do the best possible job I can for the department and the city."

He expressed his "sincere thanks and appreciation for all the support from those backing me for chief. I hope I can continue to serve and be an asset to the department and the community."

He said he felt the department "will remain stable" during the transitional period, and that department officers "want to be fair to the new chief."

Fess praised Belfiore "for the fine job" he has done in running the department since former chief Harry S. Benson retired March 1.

"The department has done an excellent job," Fess said. "You proved to us you're a heck of an officer," he told Belfiore.

Lauderdale is not certified to practice law enforcement in the State of Florida, but Pecos said his investigation found that certification show be "no problem."

Commissioners agreed to offer the position to Staly if Lauderdale had not accepted the job.

The Lauderdale's, who were to return to Texas today, have three children. Darren, 21; Amber, 18; and Charlie, 9. Amber graduates from a high school in Colorado May 25.

The new chief was born in Beaumont, Texas in December 1942, and has a Bachelor of Arts degree in Government (pre-law) from the University of Texas at Arlington, a Masters of Military Arts and Science in Management from the U.S. Army Command and General Staff College, and a Masters of Art in Criminal Justice from Sam Houston State University. He is also a graduate of the FBI's National Academy.

He entered the U.S. Army in May, 1960, and retired at an annual salary of $53,100.

reactor disaster was discovered, saying a weather station chief made a notification late Friday night, April 25, about radiation levels. The Soviet government did not disclose the accident until Monday night.

A four-man U.S. military radiation monitoring team finished initial tests in Moscow today and said it found low levels of radiation.

"Preliminary results from tests conducted in Moscow indicate no cause for concern," U.S. Embassy spokesman Jaroslav Verner said today.

Verner said the team said it would continue checks of the air, food and water for contamination.

Pravda said the chief of a nearby weather station found a "rise in radioactivity" during a routine reading "early Saturday morning."

Alarmed, the station chief sent a telegram to the Chernobyl station, where "evacuation of the settlement had already begun," Pravda said.

The "early Saturday morning" would indicate the accident occurred late Friday night, April 25, or before sunrise Saturday, the 26th.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, reported today that the situation at Chernobyl, and in neighboring communities, was under control and that radiation levels were dropping.

Three officials of the International Atomic Energy Agency were to begin meetings today with Soviet officials to assess the cause and effects of the disaster, said Morris Rosen, a U.S. expert in nuclear safety.

Pravda said the Chernobyl accident began with a fiery explosion in the plant's engine room. Flames from the blast leaped nearly 100 feet into the air, melting asphalt pavement and triggering a second blaze inside the reactor.

The Pravda account did not mention the cause of the explosion or the day it occurred.

"An explosion destroyed structural elements of the building housing the reactor and a fire broke out," the newspaper said. "That happened at night. After the explosion, the engine room coating took fire. The firemen were fighting the blaze at a height of 30 meters (about 90 feet)," Pravda reported.

"(Firefighters') boots stuck in bitumen (asphalt) that melted because of high temperature; soot and smoke made it difficult to breathe, but the brave, bold men kept fighting the blaze courageously," Pravda said.

"In the opinion of specialists, the heroic deed of the firemen limited the scale of the accident to a considerable extent."

The newspaper's account from its reporters at the scene said the entire Chernobyl power station complex of four reactors and the surrounding city of 25,000 people were evacuated in four hours.

lack of addressing the funding issue 10 years ago. There are more needs than there is money to meet those needs."

DOT spokesman Micheal Beha said new residents, not poor planning, are creating the transportation problems facing Central Florida.

"There are so many people coming into the state. We're ill-equipped to deal with it," he said.

Beha said increasingly elusive and costly, but essential right-of-way acquisition, also hampers many road projects.

There is a minimum of five years or more "from the talking stage to laying asphalt" during road construction, he said. Within that time, right-of-way must be bought, Beha said.

"When we announce we will four-lane a road, people rush in to buy the land and there's no mechanism to stop this or to pay in advance," he said. "As the law stands, we're at their mercy."

Panel members recommended entities undertake advanced acquisition of right-of-way, which represents some 30-50 percent of the total cost of road construction.

They also said state, county and city governments should plan to address transportation needs together.

Medicine May Be Cause Of Problem

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I drive for a living. I take Zylorim, Nalfon, Hydrodiuril, Probid and Xanax daily. I've been told I have peripheral neuropathy in my feet. The doctors want to do a spinal tap and nerve biopsy of the leg. I don't have diabetes and am not an alcoholic. Could this be caused by a shoulder injury from two years ago?

wrinkled skin in that area. Is this correct?
DEAR READER — Yes. There are many methods to correct wrinkles. Your best bet is to be examined by a reputable plastic surgeon who can suggest the most appropriate treatment for your particular cosmetic problem. However, Helen Hayes is quoted as saying: "I wouldn't swap one wrinkle of my face for all the elixirs of youth. All of these wrinkles represent a smile, a grimace of pain and disappointments... some part of being fully alive."

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio, 44101.

DEAR READER — Peripheral neuropathy (nerve malfunction) in the feet has many causes. In my opinion, a shoulder injury is not one of them. Your doctors apparently want to investigate this problem because you are not alcoholic or diabetic, two of the most common diseases causing neuropathy. Before doing a spinal tap and a biopsy, I would be inclined to order an electromyogram, a simple test to determine which nerves aren't working and to what extent. Judging from your medicines, you appear to have gout and arthritis. These conditions may be affecting the nerves to your feet.

You'll be interested to know that nerve disorders have been reported with at least three of your medicines. Zylorim can cause neuritis, Nalfon can produce neuralgia and Hydrodiuril can be associated with paresthesias (nerve tingling and numbness). Xanax can cause weakness.

Your doctors seem to have their work cut out for them. I suggest you ask for a referral to a neurological clinic.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 73-year-old woman and suffer from interstitial cystitis. My bladder only holds 125 cc. of urine and I have some pain and impeded flow. Is there anything I can do to relieve this condition?

DEAR READER — You seem to have a bladder that is contracted from chronic inflammation. This condition is unusual and would best be treated by a urologist. If you have seen a urologist, ask for a referral to the urology service in a teaching hospital.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've heard that an injection of collagen in the upper lip would decrease the "puckered" look produced by

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The bidding methods of a partnership are sometimes strained when the opponents overcall. Today, North could not bid three hearts after West's two-diamond overcall (in their methods that would not be forcing), and jumping to four hearts would not express the full strength of his cards. So he cue-bid three diamonds. When he removed three no-trump to four hearts, he thereby conveyed that he had enough for a strong raise to four hearts. South was happy to pass.

West cashed his two high diamonds and switched to the spade nine. Dummy's queen was taken by the East king and back came the jack. Declarer won dummy's ace and played three rounds of trumps ending in the dummy. Declarer noted that West had only one heart, and he was certainly inclined to play him for the club queen. On that basis he played to his ace of clubs and back to dummy's jack. When East showed out on the second club, declarer had to lose another trick and his contract.

Before playing the clubs, South should ruff a third round of spades. When West shows out of spades, his scrawny overcall will be apparent — a six-card diamond suit to no better than the A-K-10, and four cards in clubs. With that information, declarer can play the ace of clubs and next lead to dummy's nine. Returning to his hand with the carefully preserved queen of hearts, he can repeat the club finesse to make his contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

MAY 7, 1966
 Special knowledge that you've acquired the hard way will produce a handsome return for you in the year ahead. What you know will put you in demand.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) In a situation today where teamwork is essential, be sure you associate yourself with people who pull their own weight. Avoid slackers. Major changes are ahead for Taurus in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1848, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Co-workers will be as anxious as you are to protect their self-interests today. Don't step over established boundaries.
CANCER (June 21-July 21) If a misunderstanding develops today between you and a close friend, rectify it immediately. A lapse of just a few hours could hurt the relationship.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll be materially motivated today, and your chances for personal gain look promising. But if you're a poor closer, it'll cut into your profits.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Ancestral matters realistically won't be your problem today. If trouble ensues, it will be because you'll act against your better judgment.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'll be reasonably astute in your commercial affairs today, but perhaps not as sharp as the one on the other side of the negotiating table. Keep your guard up.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today you might be tempted to agree to something just to appease another. Unfortunately, a lack of firmness could cause you complications in the long run.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A person who will have no hand in your accomplishments might try to take credit for something you do today. Make it a point to set the record straight.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It could prove wise today to avoid a cliché that contains individuals you feel uncomfortable with. You won't tolerate their behavior today.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Don't show support today for an outsider who is against a member of your family. If you take the wrong position, it'll open a rift in your household.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Morals and principles you abide by could be unpopular with companions today. Don't lower your standards just to be accepted.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) You must stand up for your rights today if you hope to get what you're entitled to. Just don't ask for more than your fair share.
