ROME, Sunday 8:15 p. m.—Serious rioting broke out here tonight. Parties of Fascisti while passing through the working men's quarter, known to be a hot bed of subversive elements, were attacked by Communists who threw stones and fired revolvers. Fascisti replied. One person was killed, one Fascisti wounded, two Fascisti taken prisoners. Troops quelled the trouble.

UNITED STATES TURNS DOWN PEACE OFFER

FORMERLY REJECTS ALLIES IN-VITATION TO PART-ICIPATE

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Another request that the United States actively participate with the Allies governments in the settlement of European difficulties, this time involving the establishment of peace between Turkey and the Allies, was received yesterday by the Washington Government.

Its formal presentation by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, Count De Chamberlain, acting for France in the absence of Ambassador Jusserand and the Italian charge d'affaires, Rossi, who appeared for Senator Ricci, the Italian ambassador, was followed by an authoritative statement from the state department that this government yesterday had instructed its ambassadors in London, Paris and Rome to inform those governments that it could not officially participate in the Near East conference at Lausanne, Switzerland.

At the same time it was pointed out that there were important interests in the Near East in which this government was keenly interested, and treatment of these by the Lausanne conference would be observed by American representatives. Regarding the decision not to be represented through appointed delegates, it was said the United States had never been in a war with Turkey, and, therefore, did not believe it could appropriately take part in framing a treaty of peace with that nation in association with the Allies. Secretary Hughes' instructions to Ambassadors Harvey, Herrick and Child, it was understood, recounted the interests of the United States in subjects to come before the Lausanne meeting for justice. Outstanding among these were said to be that of protection of racial and religious minorities in Turkish territory and other humanitarian considerations, including those at the great missions and educational institutions.

Apart from these, but regarded as of equal importance to America's welfare in the Near East, was the problem of opening the Dardanelles and Bosphorus straits.

These considerations, the ambassadors were informed, warranted this country in observing closely the proceedings at Lausanne. The wish also was said to have been expressed by Secretary Hughes in his message to the three diplomats that opportunity would be given American observers for attendance upon them at Lausanne where treatment was given to subjects in which the United States was interested.

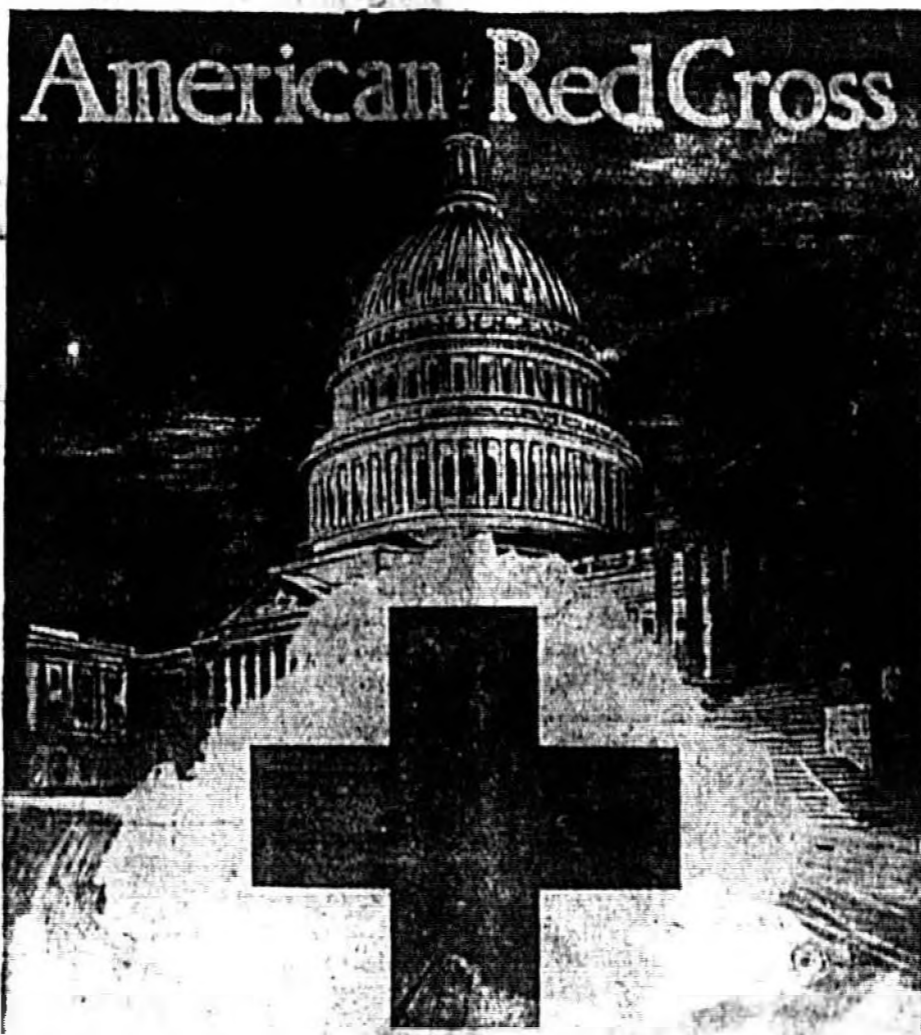

The call of the British, French and Italian diplomats at the state department was made with every formality and was brief. Ambassador Geddes headed the party and was received with his colleagues almost immediately upon arrival at Secretary Hughes' office. Their meeting with the secretary of state, however, lasted precisely three minutes. In his brief time, Sir Auckland Geddes read the formal invitation as it had been transmitted from the three foreign capitals.

Secretary Hughes listened attentively to the reading and received a copy of the invitation. He informed his callers then of the steps he had taken to acquaint their respective home governments with the attitude of the United States respecting the settlement of the Near Eastern question at Lausanne. Mr. Hughes was understood to have promised the three diplomats, however, that he would respond later in writing to the invitation they had brought.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Vincent of Wabasso are in the city the guests of Mrs. Vincent's sister, Mrs. R. J. Holly. They were called here by the serious illness of their mother, Mrs. E. G. Tyner, who has been ill for several days but is considerably improved and able to be about again.

LIVING WAGE QUESTION NOW UP FOR DISCUSSION WITH THE LABOR BOARD

PROGRESSIVES
SAY WILL WIN
IN SEVEN STATES

PEOPLE ARE BECOMING TIRED OF THE OLD LINE
PARTIES

(By The Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—The Committee of Forty-Eight, functioning as a liberal party, announced Saturday night through J. A. H. Hopkins, chairman of its national executive committee, that in seven states, contests have already narrowed to a two-party fight "with the chances in favor of the Progressives." The states, he said, are Pennsylvania, South Dakota, North Dakota, Idaho, Wisconsin, Nebraska and Delaware.

Mr. Hopkins has just returned from a tour of Pennsylvania and Delaware and previously had visited all of the states where the party had candidates in the field under various tickets.

Analyzing the contests, Mr. Hopkins said that in Idaho, where two congressmen and a state ticket have been named, it is a neck and neck race between the Democrats and the Progressives. In Pennsylvania where the Progressives have nominated two candidates for United States senator and a secretary for internal affairs and in South Dakota, where a state ticket and three candidates for congress have been nominated, the race is between the Republicans and the Progressives.

In Wisconsin, where a two ticket race is being fought, he said, it is a neck and neck race for the progressive Republican ticket, the Democrats having lost their standing as a legal party.

In Nebraska, the composite ticket consists of a Progressive for congress and lieutenant governor, a progressive Democrat for governor, and a progressive Republican for the senate, he said. "In Delaware," he continued, "both the Republicans and Democrats are thoroughly disorganized by reason of the obnoxious tax law recently passed. The majority which has heretofore been carried by the Republicans has melted by reason of the fact that the Republican senatorial candidate voted against the anti-lynching law and the Democratic candidate has refused to state his position, so that the new party candidates are the only ones pledged to vote for the anti-lynching law."

The party in Delaware is known as the "Forward party."

Mr. Hopkins said that in some of these states the party tickets have been endorsed by the sixteen railroad brotherhoods and various labor organizations in Pennsylvania. He said the United Mine Workers of America had endorsed the Progressive senatorial candidates, William J. Burke and Earl W. Thompson.

WOULD BANKRUPT
ROADS

WANT JUST WAGE

But Not the Kind of Living
Wage Asked by the Maintenance of Way

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Oct. 30.—Attacking the theory of "the living wage" as a basis for determining wages of railroad workers, the public and railroad groups of the railway labor board in an opinion made public last night declared such a course "if carried to its legitimate conclusion, would wreck every railroad in the United States, and if extended to other industries would carry them into communistic ruin."

The opinion, in the form of a rejoinder to a dissenting opinion filed by A. A. Wharton, labor member, in the recent decision increasing the pay of maintenance of way employees, 2 cents an hour, declared that if employees were granted 72 to 75 cents minimum wage for common labor with corresponding differentials for other classes an increase of 125 per cent. in the nation's railroad wage bill would be necessary. This, the opinion said, would add $1,122,042,387 to the annual pay roll, bringing it to $5,589,112,000 which would mean, it added, an annual deficit to the carriers of $2,211,929,518.

Even if the 18 cent minimum wage requested by maintenance of way men were granted and corresponding differentials were made for other classes of employees, the opinion said, an increase of 30 per cent in wages would be necessary, adding $1,249,290,000 to the annual wage bill of the roads, bringing it up to $3,725,884,540, thus forcing the carriers to face an annual deficit of $378,078,125.

The phrase "living wage" was termed in the opinion "a bit of mellifluous phraseology well calculated to deceive the unthinking."

"If the contentions were that the board should establish a 'living wage,' the majority would readily accede to the proposition," the opinion said, "and it is a matter of fact, the board in this instance as in all others has granted a living wage. But the abstract, elusive thing called 'the living wage,' confessedly based upon a make-shift and a guess, cannot receive the sanction of this board, because it would be utterly impractical, and would not be just and reasonable as the law demands."

Mr. Wharton's dissenting opinion and the supporting opinion in reply are attached to the formal decision increasing the pay of maintenance of way employees 2 cents an hour, establishing a minimum ranging from 25 to 37 cents. The United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Railway Shop Laborers, held a strike order affecting 100,000 men in obedience last July after the board had reduced wages pending a request for an increase based on the contention that the costs of living had advanced and wages in other industries had been raised.

When the case came up, maintenance of way officials asked the board to subscribe to the principal of the "living wage" based on a budget of what was required for an average family of five persons to live in health and reasonable comfort. A majority of the board refused to subscribe to this principle, asserting that the transportation act called for establishing a just and reasonable wage and that just and reasonable wage, was in effect a living wage.

The maintenance of way organizations asked the board to establish minimum rates of pay of 48 cents an hour to replace rates then in effect ranging from 23 to 35 cents. After a deadlock of several days, the board made public its decision formally handed down Saturday increasing the rates of pay two cents an hour adding about $20,000,000 to the railroad pay roll.

The decision asserted that the increase of rates was due mostly to the fact that higher rates of wages were being paid for the same classes of work in other industries, and

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

Among the many lovely pre-nuptial affairs with which Miss Eleanor Roberts is being honored, was the miscellaneous shower given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Claude Herndon and Mrs. G. W. Spencer, at the home of the former on Magnolia avenue.

The spacious rooms were opened en suite, and beautifully decorated. In the living room, brass bowls and hanging basket of bridge-hood zinnias were used, while in the dining room, the color motif of pink and cream was artistically carried out with quantities of exquisite Radiance roses combined with feathery asparagus ferns.

The guests were greeted upon their arrival by Mrs. Herndon, Mrs. Spencer and Mrs. Morris Spencer. Mrs. Herndon wore a smart frock of blue kitten's ear crepe, while Mrs. Spencer was attired in black satin. Mrs. Morris Spencer wore a black and white frock of black tulle and lace over black satin with touches of white. Miss Roberts, the bride-to-be, was beautifully gowned in white, geometrically and Spanish lace over white satin. With this she wore a hat of white daytime trimmed with pearl embroidery.

Mrs. S. W. Walker rendered several piano selections during the afternoon.

The shower was presented in a unique manner, Miss Roberts was called to the door, where a messenger boy handed her a telegram which read: "Wash out on the line to be taken care of at once."

She was then ushered into the dining room by little Misses Murtha Coney and Marjorie Dulose, where she found a line filled with loads of pretty gifts. These were opened and admired.

After the shower, "Shakespearean Romance" caused much merriment, the prize for the most correct answer, a box of Arizona powder, was won by Miss Ida Gray.

Following the contest, Mesdames Herndon and Spencer, assisted by Mrs. Morris Spencer, Mrs. Ralph Goodspeed and Miss Coralyne Spencer served frozen fruit salad, wafers, olives and coffee.

This was indeed a delightful affair, and one of the many lovely affairs with which this charming bride-elect is being honored.

Mrs. Mary Higgins returned home yesterday from Orlando where she spent several days with her daughter Mrs. Harry Dickson.

H. F. Slater, of New York, is a business visitor to Sanford, while here he is the guest of D. L. Thrasher.

Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Loucks returned to Sanford Thursday night after spending the past four months in the east. Most of the time was spent motoring through the Adirondack mountains through New York and Delaware states. A distance of 7,700 miles was covered by Mr. and Mrs. Loucks on their trip. Their many friends here are giving them a hearty welcome.

On Friday evening the Woman's Club gave a delightful evening of song and story and picture. As a leader of community singing Mr. Mar Malvin is unusually magnetic and inspiring, and in the two numbers in which he took a solo part, his own grand voice rang out deep and true. Mrs. Watson read in a most sympathetic and spirited manner the exquisite story of "Smilin' Through," while Ed. Randall manipulated the machine which threw a succession of beautiful scenes on the screen. The winsomeness of Jane Cawl in the lead has its suggestion of Irish charm and despite the sadness of the story there are brave gleams of humor. The costumes were so pretty, so perfectly filmed that one could not quite look at them long enough. The screen of taffeta, the cobwebiness of lace, in the old time ones and the indescribable texture of silk jersey and baronet satin in a modern sports costumes were as though the dainty materials were actually in touch of one's hands.

The story and picture are unique in their blending of the old days and now and in their tender and skillful touching upon the heart strings. To look and listen attentively, is to be stirred anew to the realization that nothing is ever settled until it is settled right, and that after all the discord and strife of the history of mankind, the one big motive impulse that never fails is Love.

Summer weather again.

And it looks like more rain.

Maybe it will get cool sometime and maybe it will not.

Sanford merchants had a better Dol lar Day Saturday than on Friday.

We believe if the weather was cool er there would not be so many crimes committed.

Despite all the advices given by newspapers and other agencies the public persists in getting killed at railroad crossings.

Man and his wife in Philadelphia were poisoned by eating cake that was sent through the mails. Now if it had been upon a table and not sent through the mails and sent thru the mails it would be different.

Goodberry and W. T. Thordick both on the Palatka News sought to make that paper one of the sparkling lights of Florida journalism. These gentlemen are two of the best in the profession and Palatka should be proud of this valuable acquisition.

After the meeting of the Orange county commissioners last week it was decided that they would build the east coast road of brick instead of penetration would not be good policy. Even the most progressive counties finally get to where they think they have enough bonds for awhile.

Eustis will have a Rotary Club and Eustis will be the smallest city in the state. It is a pity that the Herald will make the prediction that it may be the smallest but it will also be one of the best clubs in the state. Those folks over in Eustis are all live wires and they speak all the time and dead ones in the bunch.

The Sanford High School football team is one of the state winners and we are sure they will be right up against the champions of the northern part of the state. The southern whippersnappers will be at the end of the season. Sanford has one of the best football teams in the state but you would never know it from the state papers. They do not seem to see Sanford at all and yet Sanford people are subscribers to all of these papers. Do you get the drift?

We are glad to note that the Kiwanis Club has abrogated to itself the sports for the winter tourists and will have barnyard golf and other amusements on the vacant lot on Magnolia avenue next to the Chamber of Commerce and inside the room will be checkers and other indoor games when the weather is cold (this is a joke about the weather). Our winter visitors will appreciate this and the Kiwanis Club can go a bit farther and demand more good benches scattered over the streets where the visitors can sit down and rest and enjoy the summer weather this winter.

There are reports coming into this city of much shooting going on in the upper reaches of the St. Johns river and that the firing seems to be from people who are hunting ducks out of season. This is something for the Fish and Game Protective Association and the county officials to take up at once. The season is almost ready to open and those who are hunting out of season can either wait for the opening day or go to jail. The rest of us are patiently waiting for the opening day and while we wait the other fellow jumps in and kills all the ducks or scares them away before we can even get a glimpse of them. Put them in jail, officers.

Congratulations to the Florida Grower upon moving into their fine building in Tampa—a building of their own—and all arranged just like Ed gar Wright wanted it. The newspa per or magazine that can have their own building is fortunate indeed as there are few building comfortable unless built for the business. The Florida Grower has achieved a great success and deserves all that it has achieved since it had the regular struggles of all new magazines try ing to gain a foothold. It is now one of the best citrus publications in the United States, bar none.

The Orlando city election will take on new life next Friday night when the two candidates for mayor will be asked to state their case to the people. Some of the followers of the gentlemen want the facts in the case that have been buried from time to time in the newspapers and they want the men who have been doing the hurling to stand up in the hustings and tell the world what they know. This is really the proper way to play politics. Play it out in the open and above board and tell where you get your information. But the best way to play politics is to make no assertions about the candidates—then there will be no come backs.

POOR CAR LOADING CAUSES LOSSES

Carloading is one of the most im portant jobs the house manager has under his supervision and yet it is one that is too often left to someone whose only interest is what it brings him on Saturday night. We try to grow good fruit, pack it under up to date conditions and then spoil it all by poor car loading. The strain a load goes through on the journey is tremendous, shock after shock of terrific impact that jars every box with great force. Unless loaded properly and "stayed" just right there are bound to be broken boxes, sometimes very many, and such shipments are dis counted on sight in fact many buyers would prefer not to bother with such a load at all. Spraying makes clean fruit, a nice high pack with a few sheets of paper at the end of the box makes a pretty package. Why spoil it all by poor loading. Florida Grower.

FROM OTHER SANCTUMS

ONE NEEDED AMENDMENT THAT SHOULD CARRY

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the amendment to be voted upon at the coming election concern ing the right of special school dis tricts to make their own levy at a rate not in excess of that of the general district. Florida has become too large to be bound under restric tions which might have been just laws a score of years ago—and for the past three years every special school district in the state has been handi capped because of the low limit placed on millage.

The legislation which has obtained in Florida throughout the state may have some effect upon the vote and upon the terms of the election mill tax amendment. The expression which originated, perhaps in good faith, has provoked much comment upon those not fully posted, and has filled them with the idea that ten mills are to be added to all taxes. Between now and election day in many counties there is planned to have well informed men and women thoroughly explain in every voting precinct precisely what the amendment proposes to do once it shall become a law; and it is believed that the spreading of such propa ganda will make a material differ ence in the vote cast.

The average Floridian is ever in favor of all that will aid education. Rarely is it that a bond issue for the erection of a better and larger school building, for a playground, for any innovation which will be beneficial to the children is turned down in any county or in any district. Just now, however, voters have become wary—and in this case there seems to be a fear that some hidden motive may underlie the amendment. They have seen state taxes increase for the past decade in spite of all pledges that they shall be made lower. They can not well understand why or how such results are brought about; but they do know that taxes have been raised in spite of advanced valuations in a large majority of counties. And this "ten mill" proposition is what has frightened them.

There is need of propaganda in practically every voting precinct in the state in regard to this amend ment which will allow a special school district to fix its millage as it deems proper—but unless steps shall be taken along this line the needed sixty per cent of votes required for the adoption of the amendment will not be secured. Then would the entire state be in a sorry condition—as local meetings in Palatka have demon strated.

The amendment regarding the right for special school districts to regul ate their own levy—with ten mills as a minimum should carry—and it will if properly explained to the voters.—Palatka News.

FACTS ABOUT FLORIDA

By MOSES FOLSOM

"Who first broke the oyster's stony coat And dropped the juicy morsel down his throat?"

Nobody knows. Evidence that the oyster formed an important part in the diet of primitive man in Florida is very abundant. Up and down the St. Johns river are immense shell mounds, which in these modern days supply vast quantities of materials for making roads. The origin of these mounds is discussed by Frank H. Cushing of the U. S. Bureau of Ethnology, in his "Report on the Ancient Key Dwellers of Florida" in 1896, when he conducted the Pepper-Hearst Expedition into this state. These people of the shell age period long pre ceded the modern Indian. On the Keys they found the climate so agree able that they dispensed with cloth ing and had no worries over the high cost of wearing apparel as they went naked, and gathered their food from the trees, and the oyster beds in the kindly seas were free lunch counters. They merely had to walk in the water, get an armload of oysters, go ashore and having all the time there is, prised open one shell with another, swallowed the contents and threw the shells aside. They didn't bother about cleaning houses, and the accumulation of shells found along the St. Johns and other rivers and by the sea shores.

The location of the Florida Maga zine, with offices in the Bisbee build ing, Jacksonville, contains the opinion of Irving S. Gable of Florida, in which the famous humorist said, "You ask me to say what I think of Florida. I answer I may say that I think a great deal of Florida. I like the Florida climate, and the Florida bathing, and the Florida fruits and vegetables and the Florida people, and I am most entirely enthusiastic about the Florida scenery. The Florida of the coast lines, east and west, with its out spreading palms, royal, ocean and water's, with its winter hotels and its boardwalks, does not appeal to me so much as does the Florida of the interior, with its Everglades and its wonderful nature and life. All I can say, therefore, is that I am ready to go, three cheers for it any time I am invited to do so."

Phosphorus, one of the most impor tant elements required by plants, is obtained from phosphate rock, which is mined at various parts in the East and other foreign countries. Florida, however, supplies most of the product in the United States. Its output exceeds that of any foreign country. The normal annual output of Florida in recent years has been valued at between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. The phosphate beds of our state are the most extensive in Amer ica, but the European war reduced the output, as large shipments were made to warring countries. As a fertilizer phosphates are used in this country in the form of acid phosphate, the rock being treated with sulphuric acid. As far as is known a perma nently prosperous system of agricul ture cannot be established on the sandy soils of the Gulf region with out phosphates in some form. There are 36 incorporated companies engaged in mining phosphate in Florida. The mining of phosphates began in 1888 and up to 1920 the state has produced some 10,000,000 tons, a large part of which was shipped to enrich farm lands in European countries.

A visit to Florida is not complete without a trip on the St. Johns river in which Atlantic tides penetrate over a hundred miles. Some sections of the river are five or more miles wide. The Sanford Chamber of Commerce has issued a series of post cards on which the following appears: "When you visit Sanford, Florida, this winter, take the All Water Trip from Jacksonville, nearly 200 miles of gorgeous sub-tropical scenery on the lordly St. Johns river, the Nile of America. The trip on the palatial river liners operated by the Clyde Steamship Co., consumes 19 hours. You will always retain a lingering longing to make it again."

The pomegranate tree belongs to the myrtle family. It is a native of the Orient, is mentioned in the Bible as one of the fruits of the Land of Promise, and it is spoken of by Greek writers before the Christian era. The fruit is about the size of a large apple, has a hard reddish-yellow rind enclosing many large seeds, each enveloped in a sub-acid red pulp and the sprightly flavored juice is used to make jellies, marmalades and acid drinks. The tree is hardy and is valuable as an ornamental. The new shoots in the spring vary in color from light green to light pink and maroon. The showy and abundant flowers of scarlet follow in the early summer and the fruit makes the tree attractive in the fall. There are several varieties and every Florida home should have one or more growing. It is a good tree for the town lot for the reasons of beauty, shade and fruit.

From a survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture of 100 citrus fruit farms in Polk county for five years, 1917-1921, the average receipts per farm for each year of the period was $6,400. The five year average yield per acre in boxes was 148 for oranges, 165 for grapefruit and 172 for tangerines. The average price per box for the period was $2.62 for oranges, $1.67 for grapefruit and $3.63 for tangerines.

The hunting season in Florida be gins November 20th. Licenses are re quired to be had from the county judge. The resident license is $1.25. For a person who resides in another county but wishes to hunt elsewhere the cost is $3.50. In addition he must have a certificate from his county judge certifying that he is a resi dent of the county where he claims residence. Non-resident licenses are $2.50. The revenue from hunting li censes goes to the school fund.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING

There will be a meeting of the stock holders of the Old Fellows Building Association, at Old Fellow hall, to night after regular lodge to vote on the adoption of By Laws and other matters coming before the meeting. It is hoped every stock holder will be present. By Order of Board of Directors, 18714.

TURKEYS TO BE DEARER THIS YEAR

From Washington, Oct. 30. Fore bodings of high priced turkeys this year are seen in Agriculture Depart ment announcements that despite a steady increase in the price of turkeys production has steadily decreased. The average price received during the four months October to January 1915-1916 was 15 cent a pound. The average price received during the similar period of 1920-21 was 32 cents per pound, according to the Department's figures.

In 1900 the average farmer housed 2,000 turkeys on farms in the United States, while in 1910 there were only 3,088,708 and in 1920, there were 4,27,928. During the last six years the price of turkeys has in creased to the producer more than 100 per cent, while during the past 27 years the number of turkeys produced has decreased about 50 per cent, the Department states.

The difficulty of raising turkeys registers the reason for the produc tion decrease. They are hard to raise, because of wandering propensities and a disease known as "blackhead" to which they are easy prey. It is very difficult to ship live turkeys to market and when shipped dressed there is a large amount of "shrinkage." However, the raising of turkeys may be very profitable occupation where there is abundance of range, ample feed and reasonable freedom from predatory animals, the Depart ment adds.

HE FARMS JUST LIKE HIS "PAP" DID

There was a man who never plowed his fields, but bustled open a furrow and planted the seed, and then sat in the shade and let himself a "chaw er terbecnar" that the weeds would take the crop. (He always won.) That was the way his father had farmed. And Pap on his death bed had made him promise to keep the ticks fat and plump. So he let his cattle run wild, and wondered why he could not sell them for beef.

He sent to the North for some fast gray hounds to catch his hogs; Pap's dogs were too slow.

He went to town on Saturday to buy food for the family and the stock. Pap had never raised feed when he was alive. He worked the kids from the time they were able to drop corn to the time when they were old enough to run away. That was the way Pap had raised him.

He drank his milk out of a can because Pap told him it was too much work to drive the cows up for the old lady to milk. He made the old lady cut the wood, and cook the grits, and clean the house, and feed the chickens, and hoe the corn, and make the soap, and grind the cane, and dig the po tatoes, and grubble the "taters." Then when she had nothing else to do, she made some clothes, if she could find a piece of cloth big enough to stick a needle in. For that was the way Pap treated his first two wives.

EVERY HOME SHOULD HAVE RUNNING WATER

Running water in the farm home is no longer considered a luxury, but a necessity and a possibility. It is true that some homes can have more elaborate systems than others, but every farm can and should have running water at least in the kitchen. This is not only idealistic but a business proposition that faces every farmer, says Professor Frazier Rogers of the Florida College of Agri culture.

Every farm has some source of water to draw upon and the man of the house should in justice to his family devise some means whereby this water will not have to be carried to the house in puckets. Such would eliminate much of the drudgery, especially to the women, who need every consideration.

To have running water does not necessitate the outlay of much money. One can begin with a common pitcher pump and sink placed conveniently in the kitchen. This is far better than carrying water in a bucket. Later an improvement over this can be made. The force hand pump with a barrel tank might come second. Finally would come a gasoline driven pump and an elevated tank, which is much better than either of the former.

The time saved in going to and from the well with buckets to carry water and the satisfaction derived will soon pay for the best system.

Among the visitors present at the preliminary organization last night were: S. K. Guernsey, H. P. Leo, F. G. Rush, Judge C. W. Moore, Joe M. McCormick, G. R. Through the formation of a new club, with its main office in the city, lawship and conduct of the club becomes a part of the general body of representative organiza tion to the state. The club will be passing more than 100 members in Eustis in two or three months. Eustis Lake Region.

SERIOUS BLADDER TROUBLE

"Could not stand nor sit and was forced to cry out from pain," writes Henry Williams, Eustis, Florida. "The doctor's treatment of my bladder trouble was necessary. I had been told by my friends that Foley's was the best remedy and I had tried many others. I had a dangerous operation and my kidney trouble was cured. I am now well and my bladder is all right. Sold every where."

WARNING TO BOYS AND PARENTS Next Tuesday is Halloween and it is always an occasion of much merriment on the part of the young and old alike, which is perfectly legitimate and in which all concur. But in late years the boys have become entirely too destructive to property in their method of fun making, so much so that they have entered our school buildings, throwing the books of the students and those contained in the school library helter and skelter and thereby breaking many windows in the school buildings and have badly injured many of the desks therein, all of which is a wanton mischief and should be severely punished. They have torn down business signs and thrown them about the streets, have upset the flowers and ferns on the lawns of many homes and seriously injured them, beside breaking many pots and tubs containing them, and in many minor ways have effected much serious mischief which has caused considerable loss to the owners. Therefore as mayor of the city I feel my duty to issue a warning to all the boys of our city against such forms of mischief, and to beg of the parents that they both carefully instruct their children against such forms of amusement, and if possible keep them from such associations as would likely to engage therein.

I want to assure the boys that I am with them in all innocent fun, and will myself join them in it, but we must all know that we never have the right to injure property in order to get amusement.

DYING SOLDIER GIVES FAREWELL DINNER TO BUDDIES

(By The Associated Press) EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 30.—The story of a farewell dinner given by a dying soldier to twenty-five buddies became known today.

The soldier is Percy Evans, one of the first New Jersey men to enlist in the world war and one of the last to return.

The feast was held last Friday night. Believing that not many more days on earth remained for him, Evans, suffering with tuberculosis, after having been gassed, rose from his sick bed, taxied to the Washington society club house, and, propped up on pillows, presided over the affair.

"Sing all you want, boys; make all the noise you want, fight if you want, but please do not wreck the place," he told them.

"I won't be with you much longer. I have arranged this little dinner to show my regards for you, my boyhood companions and many friends of later life.

"Fellows, I have only a few thoughts to give you. One is the feeling of a fellow on his back, when a friend visits him.

"I have been that way. It is surely a wonderful thing. I know that the church bell down the street will soon toll for me. I have always cherished the association of my friends and I wanted in this way to attest my regard for them."

Evans' voice broke at this point and his friends sat silently while he recovered his composure and called on a trio to sing.

A bond issue of $4,000,000 will be floated by the Tidewater company to take care of its purchases and other improvements which add 85 communities to the list of those now served by this corporation.

Options have been secured on several other public utility companies in the south, Mr. Fitch said yesterday, but negotiations have not been completed.

WOULD CLASSIFY SERVICE MEN BY OCCUPATIONS

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Examination by army officers of notes taken during the recent conferences here with a selected group of civilians as to principles which should govern any future military draft regulations has brought out several distinct features which the conferees were agreed should apply to the classification of enlisted personnel.

For one thing it was the judgment of the civilian conferees, all of whom had war time draft experience, that work necessary in the army should be classified by occupations in order that the classification of men called to the color should be expedited and their assignments be based on the similarity of the civil training and military work they were best fitted to perform. It was also believed that the classification of men should be akin when they were called by local draft boards and not await their arrival at military training centers.

Another point brought out was the difficulty of finding in the army with men of low mental caliber. A suggestion was made to the conferees that a procedure should be set up to called for active military service.

The conferees were in harmony also as to the desirability of using men available for limited military service from the beginning of the operation of the draft law and not deferring such cases for later treatment.

To meet the problem of dealing with limited service and occupational specialties the suggestion was made that clearing pool centers for each of these groups might be established and that the excess from the various local boards could be turned over to these pools for further assignment. The plan would work especially well in distribution of specially qualified occupational specialists it was held.

They Couldn't Know The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, or the progressive sales of good merchandise of proved value. Back in 1818 the greatest newspaper of the day declared that the world had reached the limit of human expansion. It even went further, saying that there weren't enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population. The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

Summer weather again.

And it looks like more rain.

Maybe it will get cool sometime and maybe it will not.

Sanford merchants had a better Dollar Day Saturday than on Friday.

We believe it the weather was cooler there would not be so many crimes committed.

Despite all the advices given by newspapers and other agencies the public persists in getting killed at railroad crossings.

Man and his wife in Philadelphia were poisoned by eating cake that was sent through the mails. Now it is had been liquor, but who ever heard of such a case, poisoning and death through the mail at that.

Local directors of W. L. Thornbyske both on the Palatka News ought to make that paper one of the sparkling lights of Florida journalism. These gentlemen are two of the best in the profession and Palatka should rejoice in their valuable acquisition.

After the meeting of the Orange county commissioners last week it was decided that to start another election to vote upon bond for the hard east coast road of bank instead of penetration would not be good policy. Even the most progressive counties finally get to where they think they have enough bond for awhile.

We are glad to note that the Kiwanis Club has abrogated to itself the sports for the winter tourists and will have barnyard golf and other amusements on the vacant lot on Magnolia avenue next to the Chamber of Commerce and inside the room will be checkers and other indoor games when the weather is cold (this is a joke about the weather). Our winter visitors will appreciate this and the Kiwanis Club can go a bit farther and demand more good benches scattered over the streets where the visitors can sit down and rest and enjoy the summer weather this winter.

There are reports going into this city of much shooting coming on in the upper reaches of the St. Johns river and that the firing seems to be from people who are hunting ducks out of season. This is something for the Fish and Game Protective Association and the game warden and the county officials to take up at once. The season is almost ready to open and those who are hunting out of season can either wait for the opening day or go to jail. The rest of us are patiently waiting for the opening day and while we wait the other fellow jumps in and kills all the ducks or scares them away before we can even get a glimpse of them. Put them in jail, officers.

Congratulations to the Florida Grower upon moving into their fine building in Tampa—a building of their own—and all arranged just like Edgar Wright wanted it. The newspaper or magazine that can have their own building is fortunate indeed as there are few building comfortable unless built for the business. The Florida Grower has achieved a great success and deserves all that it has achieved since it had the regular struggles of all new magazines trying to gain a foothold. It is now one of the best citrus publications in the United States, bar none.

The Orlando city election will take on new life next Friday night when the two candidates for mayor will be asked to state their case to the people. Some of the followers of the gentlemen want the facts in the case that have been buried from time to time in the newspapers and they want the men who have been doing the hurrying to stand up in the hustings and tell the world what they know. This is really the proper way to play politics. Play it out in the open and above board and tell where you get your information. But the best way to play politics is to make no assertions about the candidates—then there will be no come backs.

POOR CAR LOADING CAUSES LOSSES

Carloading is one of the most important jobs the house manager has under his supervision and yet it is one that is too often left to someone whose only interest is what it brings him on Saturday night. We try to grow good fruit, pack it under up-to-date conditions and then spoil it all by poor car loading. The strain a load goes through on the journey is tremendous, shock after shock of terrific impact that jars every box with great force. Unless loaded properly and "stayed" just right there are bound to be broken boxes, sometimes very many, and such shipments are discarded on sight in fact many buyers would prefer not to bother with such a load at all. Spraying makes clean fruit, a nice high pack with a fast sale at the end of the box makes a pretty package. Why spoil it all by poor loading. Florida Grower.

FROM OTHER SANCTUMS

Too much emphasis cannot be placed upon the amendment to be voted upon at the coming election concerning the right of special school districts to make their own levy at a rate they see fit to collect their own taxes. This has been the only measure that has been passed by the legislature in the past three years every special school district in the state has been handicapped because of the low limit placed on millage.

One bugaboo which has obtained in Florida throughout the state, may be removed by an effort upon the vote and that is the ten mill tax limitation. This restriction which originated, perhaps in good faith, has provoked much comment upon those not fully posted, and has filled them with the idea that ten mills are to be added to all taxes. Between now and election day in many counties there is planned to have well informed men and women thoroughly explain in every voting precinct precisely what the amendment proposes to do once it shall become a law; and it is believed that the spreading of such propaganda will make a material difference in the vote cast.

The average Floridian is ever in favor of all that will aid education. Rarely is it that a bond issue for the erection of a better and larger school building, for a playground, for any innovation which will be beneficial to the children is turned down in any county or in any district. Just now, however, voters have become wary—and in this case there seems to be a fear that some hidden motive may underlie the amendment. They have seen state taxes increase for the past decade in spite of all pledges that they shall be made lower. They cannot well understand why or how such results are brought about; but they do know that taxes have been raised in spite of advanced valuations in a large majority of counties. And this "ten mill" proposition is what has frightened them.

There is need of propaganda in practically every voting precinct in the state in regard to this amendment which will allow a special school district to fix its millage as it deems proper—but unless steps shall be taken along this line the needed sixty per cent of votes required for the adoption of the amendment will not be secured. Then would the entire state be in a sorry condition—as local meetings in Palatka have demonstrated.

The amendment regarding the right for special school districts to regulate their own levy—with ten mills as a minimum should carry—and it will if properly explained to the voters. Palatka News.

FACTS ABOUT FLORIDA

By MOSES FOLSOM

"Who first broke the oyster's stony coat And dropped the juicy morsel down his throat?"

Nobody knows. Evidence that the oyster formed an important part in the diet of primitive man in Florida is very abundant. Up and down the St. Johns river are immense shell mounds, which in these modern days supply vast quantities of materials for making roads. The origin of these mounds is discussed by Frank H. Cushing of the U. S. Bureau of Ethnology, in his "Report on the Ancient Key Dwellers of Florida" in 1896, when he conducted the Pepper-Henest Expedition into this state. These people of the shell age period long preceded the modern Indian. On the keys they found the climate so agreeable that they dispensed with clothing and had no worries over the high cost of wearing apparel as they went naked, and gathered their food from the trees, and the oyster beds in the kindly seas were free lunch counters. They merely had to walk in the water or get an armload of oysters, go ashore and having all the time their prey open one shell with another, swallowed the contents and threw the shells aside. They didn't bother about cleaning houses and the accumulation of shells from the mounds found along the St. Johns and other rivers and by the sea shores.

The last issue of the Florida Magazine, with offices in the Bishop building, Jacksonville, contains the opinion of Irving S. Cobb of Florida, in which the famous humorist said, "You ask me to say what I think of Florida. I answer I may say that I think a great deal of Florida. I like the Florida climate, and the Florida bathing, and the Florida fruits and vegetables and the Florida people and I am most decidedly enthusiastic about the Florida scenery. The Florida of the coast lines, east and west, with its out spreading palms, royal, coconut and waterfalls with its winter hotels and its boardwalks, does not appeal to me so much as does the Florida of the interior with its Everglades and its wonderful scenery and life. All the same, the fact that I am here in the most beautiful and comfortable of climates, and I stand ready to give three cheers for it any time I am invited to do so."

Phosphorus, one of the most important elements required by plants, is obtained from phosphate rock, which is mined at various parts in the United States and foreign countries. Florida, however, supplies most of the phosphate in the United States. The output exceeds that of any foreign country. The normal annual output of Florida in recent years has been valued at between $9,000,000 and $10,000,000. The phosphate beds of our state are the most extensive in America, but the European war reduced the output, as large shipments were made to warring countries. As a fertilizer phosphates are used in this country in the form of acid phosphate, the rock being treated with sulphuric acid. As far as is known a permanently prosperous system of agriculture cannot be established on the sandy soils of the Gulf region without phosphates in some form. There are 36 incorporated companies engaged in mining phosphate in Florida. The mining of phosphates began in 1888 and up to 1920 the state has produced some 40,000,000 tons, a large part of which was shipped to enrich farm lands in European countries.

A visit to Florida is not complete without a trip on the St. Johns river in which Atlantic tides penetrate over a hundred miles. Some sections of the river are five or more miles wide. The Sanford Chamber of Commerce has issued a series of post cards on which the following appears: "When you visit Sanford, Florida, this winter, take the All Water Trip from Jacksonville, nearly 200 miles of gorgeous sub-tropical scenery on the lordly St. Johns river, the Nile of America. The trip on the palatial river liners operated by the Clyde Steamship Co., consumes 19 hours. You will always retain a lingering longing to make it again."

The pomegranate tree belongs to the myrtle family. It is a native of the Orient, is mentioned in the Bible as one of the fruits of the Land of Promise, and it is spoken of by Greek writers before the Christian era. The fruit is about the size of a large apple, has a hard reddish yellow rind enclosing many large seeds, each enveloped in a sub-acid red pulp and the sprightly flavored juice is used to make jellies, marmalades and acid drinks. The tree is hardy and is valuable as an ornamental. The new shoots in the spring vary in color from light green to light pink and maroon. The showy and abundant flowers of scarlet follow in the early summer and the fruit makes the tree attractive in the fall. There are several varieties and every Florida home should have one or more growing. It is a good tree for the town lot for the reasons of beauty, shade and fruit.

From a survey made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture of 100 citrus fruit farms in Polk county for five years, 1917-1921, the average receipts per farm for each year of the period was $6200. The five year average yield per acre in boxes was 148 for oranges, 165 for grapefruit and 172 for tangerines. The average price per box for the period was $2.62 for oranges, $1.67 for grapefruit and $3.63 for tangerines.

The hunting season in Florida begins November 20th. Licenses are required to be had from the county judge. The resident license is $1.25. For a person who resides in another county but wishes to hunt elsewhere the cost is $3.50. In addition he must have a certificate from his county judge certifying that he is a resident of the county where he claims his residence. Non resident licenses are $2.50. The revenue from hunting licenses goes to the school fund.

TURKEYS TO BE DEARER THIS YEAR

From Wednesday's Daily) WASHINGTON, Oct. 30. Forebodings of high priced turkeys this year are seen in Agriculture Department announcements that despite a steady increase in the price of turkeys production has steadily decreased. The average price received during the four months October to January 1915-1916 was 15 cent a pound. The average price received during the similar period of 1920-21 was 22 cents per pound according to the Department's figures.

In 1920 the average figures showed 2,000,000 turkeys on farms in the United States, while in 1910 there were only 3,000,000 and in 1910 there were 3,27,028. During the last six years the price of turkeys has increased to the producer more than 100 per cent, while during the past 25 years the number of turkeys produced has decreased about 50 per cent, the Department states.

The difficulty of raising turkeys gives a farmer a real headache in production. They are hard to raise, because of wandering propensities and a disease known as "blackhead" to which they are easy prey. It is very difficult to ship live turkeys to market and when shipped dressed there is a large amount of "shrinkage."

HE FARMS JUST LIKE HIS "PAP" DID

There was a man who never plowed his fields, but bustled open a furrow and planted the seed, and then sat in the shade and bet himself a "chaw er terbenear" that the weeds would take the crop. (He always won.) That was the way his father had farmed. And Pap on his death bed had made him promise to keep the ticks fat and plump. So he let his cattle run wild, and wondered why he could not sell them for beef.

He sent to the North for some fast gray hounds to catch his hogs; Pap's dogs were too slow.

He went to town on Saturday to buy food for the family and the stock dip had never raised feed when he was alive. He worked the kids from the time they were able to drop corn to the time when they were old enough to run away. That was the way Pap had raised him.

He drank his milk out of a can because Pap told him it was too much work to drive the cows up for the old lady to milk. He made the old lady cut the wood, and cook the grits, and clean the house, and feed the chickens, and hoe the corn, and make the soap, and grind the cane, and dig the potatoes, and grabble the "laters." Then when she had nothing else to do, she made some clothes, if she could find a piece of cloth big enough to stick a needle in. For that was the way Pap treated his first two wives.

EVERY HOME SHOULD HAVE RUNNING WATER

Running water in the farm home is no longer considered a luxury, but a necessity and a possibility. It is true that some homes can have more elaborate systems than others, but every farm can and should have running water at least in the kitchen. This is not only idealistic but a business proposition that faces every farmer, says Professor Frazier Rogers of the Florida College of Agriculture.

Every farm has some source of water to draw upon and the man of the house should in justice to his family devise some means whereby this water will not have to be carried to the house in puckets. Such would eliminate much of the drudgery, especially to the women, who need every consideration.

To have running water does not necessitate the outlay of much money. One can begin with a common pitcher pump and sink placed conveniently in the kitchen. This is far better than carrying water in a bucket. Later an improvement over this can be made. The force hand pump with a barrel tank might come second. Finally would come a gasoline driven pump and an elevated tank, which is much better than either of the former.

The time saved in going to and from the well with buckets to carry water and the satisfaction derived will soon pay for the best system.

ROTARY CLUB TO BE ESTABLISHED IN EUSTIS SOON

Pledged in a spirit of practical service to the community, the individual bring and perhaps a few more, a business and professional men placed Eustis definitely in the famous International Association of Rotary Clubs last night by taking the preliminary liminary steps for the organization of a club here.

The meeting last evening which began at seven o'clock with dinner at the Grand View hotel, was the culmination of a series of preliminary steps that have been held between the people interested in forming an organization and representatives of the international office, the district and the clubs of nearby cities where Rotary has been established for some time. Among the visitors present at the preliminary organization meeting last night were: S. K. Guernsey, H. P. Lee, F. G. Rush, Judge C. W. Adams, Joe M. McCormick, G. R. E. Edgerly, temporary secretary.

The speakers of the evening were: Messrs. S. K. Guernsey, H. P. Lee, Ramsey and DeWitt Miller. The following business men of Eustis were controlled as charter members of the Eustis Rotary Club: Geo. Hamman, A. D. Miller, Dr. Chas. H. Ferris, Geo. R. Whelper and William W. Jones.

Through the formation of a new club, with its membership in the neighborhood and conduct of its activities becomes a part of the community body of representatives, passing more than 200 members in the Eustis Lake Region.

SERIOUS BLADDER TROUBLE

"Could not stand nor sit and was forced to cry out from pain," writes Henry Williams of Eustis, Montana. "The doctor said that the formation of the Eustis Rotary Club was necessary for the relief of my bladder trouble. I will tell all my friends about the Eustis Rotary Club as it will help me to get my bladder trouble and perhaps a few more, a business and professional men placed Eustis definitely in the famous International Association of Rotary Clubs last night by taking the preliminary

WARNING TO BOYS AND PARENTS

Next Tuesday is Halloween and it is always an occasion of much merriment on the part of the young and old alike, which is perfectly legitimate and in which all concur. But in late years the boys have become entirely too destructive to property in their method of fun making, so much so that they have entered our school buildings, throwing the books of the students and those contained in the school library helter and skelter and thereby effecting much damage to them, have broken many windows in the school buildings and have badly injured many of the desks therein, all of which to mention would be too long to list. They have torn down business signs and thrown them about the streets, have upset the flower and ferns on the lawns of many homes and seriously injured them, besides breaking many pots and tubs containing them, and in many minor ways have effected much serious mischief which has caused considerable loss to the owners. Therefore as mayor of the city I feel it my duty to issue a kindly warning to all the boys of our city against such forms of mischief, and to beg of the parents that they both carefully instruct their children against such forms of amusement, and if possible keep them from such associations as would likely to engage them.

I want to assure the boys that I am with them in all innocent fun, and will myself join them in it, but we must all know that we never have the right to engage property in order to amusement.

DYING SOLDIER GIVES FAREWELL DINNER TO BUDDIES

(By The Associated Press) EAST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 30.—The story of a farewell dinner given by a dying soldier to twenty-five buddies became known today.

The soldier is Percy Evans, one of the first New Jersey men to enlist in the world war and one of the last to return.

The feast was held last Friday night. Believing that not many more days on earth remained for him, Evans, suffering with tuberculosis, after having been gassed, rose from his sick-bed, taxied to the Washington society club house, and propped up on pillows, presided over the affair.

"Sing all you want, boys; make all the noise you want, fight if you want, but please do not wreck the place," he told them.

"I won't be with you much longer. I have arranged this little dinner to show my regards for you, my boyhood companions and many friends of later life.

"Fellows, I have only a few thoughts to give you. One is the feeling of a fellow on his back, when a friend visits him,

"I have been that way. It is surely a wonderful thing. I know that the church bell down the street will soon toll for me. I have always cherished the association of my friends and I wanted in this way to attest my regard for them."

Evans' voice broke at this point and his friends sat silently by while he recovered his composure and called on a trio to sing.

WOULD CLASSIFY SERVICE MEN BY OCCUPATIONS

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—Examination by army officers of notes taken during the recent conferences here with a selected group of civilians as to principles which should govern any future military draft regulations has brought out several distinct features which the conferees were agreed should apply to the classification of enlisted personnel.

For one thing it was the judgment of the civilian conferees, all of whom had war time draft experience, that work necessary in the army should be classified by occupations in order that the classification of men called to the color could be expedited and their assignments be based on the similarity of the civil training and military work they were best fitted to perform. It was also believed that the classification of men should be kin when they were called to the color could be expedited and their assignments be based on the similarity of the civil training and military work they were best fitted to perform.

Another point brought out was the difficulty of dealing in the army with men of low mental caliber. A suggestion was made to the regulations should provide such men from being called for active military service.

The conferees were in harmony also as the desirability of using men available for limited military service from the beginning of the operation of the draft law and not deferring such cases for later treatment.

To meet the problem of dealing with limited service and occupational specialties the suggestion was made that groups might be established and that the excess from the various local boards could be turned over to these pools for further assignment. The plan would work especially well in distribution of specially qualified occupational specialists it was held.

They Couldn't Know

The mind of 1818 couldn't conceive of the miracles that human ingenuity would perform during the twentieth century. It couldn't imagine the wonders that would be wrought by new agricultural methods and modern manufacturing genius. It was ignorant of transportation as we know it, of the progressive sales

Even today there are some who fail to realize what an important factor advertising has become. Advertising is as much a part of today's life as electricity, anti-septic surgery or automobiles. It keeps us up-to-date on enough supplies in the world to support further growth of population.

The advertisements save time, money and effort for those who read them and follow their guidance. They are practical guarantees of satisfaction.

ALWAYS WHITE MAN'S FRIEND

Washakie, chief of the eastern band of Shoshoni Indians, was always friendly with the whites and magnificent fighter against his red enemies. More than 9,000 emigrants over the Oregon trail signed a paper extolling his kindness in helping to recover lost stock, in aiding them over dangerous crossings, in leading back men who had strayed and become lost. This was in the Shoshoni country of Wyoming and during the great migrations of the fifties.

In personal appearance he is described as being tall and powerful of build, of dignified bearing. When a young man he was autocratic as a chief and refused hospitality to any horse thief or vagabond. He retained his great popularity in his tribe by his victories over the Blackfeet and Crow. He was employed at times by the American Fur company, and more than once saved hunters and trappers from death.

At the age of 70 the average white man begins to think of retiring. Not so with Washakie. Some of the newest generation decided he should be deposed.

Washakie vanished and was missing for two months. The council met to elect his successor. The old chief entered the lodge with dramatic abruptness and threw on the ground six enemy scalps he had taken while away. He continued as chief.

Men of his band served as scouts for the government after the Custer defeat.—Adventure Magazine.

BROUGHT IT ON THEMSELVES

According to Uncle Henry, Men De-liberately Surrendered First Place to the Female Sex.

"I see where they are going to take the words 'obey' and 'serve' out of the marriage service entirely," commented Barney, the cigar stand man. "Not that they mean anything for some time," he added sarcastically. "Darned if I know what's got into the women lately. Before long they'll grab the pants on 'em and wear 'em. Mother Hubbard's an' swapping recipes over the back fence. From now on I won't take off anything at night but my hat, and I'm even going to lock that up."

"It's all our own fault," Uncle Henry remarked philosophically. "We started the whole business when we gave up our velvets an' satins an' turned bright clothes over to the female of the species. It was going against nature, Barney, an' nature never forgives. Look around yourself an' you'll see that the male bird is always the one with the topknot, the long tail an' the brilliant plumage. Back in the days when we ordered our business suits from the steel mill an' it took a whole herd of silkworms to turn out a simple walking suit for us you didn't hear anything about equal rights did you? No street women never peeped until we stepped out of our fiery hose an' doublets an' ostrich plumes an' put on the hard-boiled hat an' pinhead pants of modern civilization." Collier's

Signs Rule Country Life, City Too

"It's gotten so you can't go where you want to around this town—or in it," complained the man.

"What's wrong now?" asked his friend.

"Signs! Eternal signs! 'This way out.' 'Keep to the right.' 'East bound traffic only.' 'Use other stairs going out.' Then the cop stops you when you think you see an opening in traffic, and again you stop and go with the mob.

"Last Saturday I went out to the country thinking that I would at least be free from the confusion of traffic rules and get away from signs for one day. 'No automobiles allowed.' 'No trespassing.' 'Beware of the dogs.' 'Private property—keep out.' 'No vehicular traffic.' 'Keep on the paths.' All those signs slapped me in the face. More personal liberty gone."—New York Sun.

Golf Ball Retriever.

The golf enthusiast may save energy for the next drive by the use of a new golf ball retriever, fastened to the putter handle, by which he can pick the ball out of the cup or from the green without stooping, says Popular Science Monthly.

The novelty consists of a small nickel plated brass cup, the inside diameter of which is exactly the same as that of a golf ball, the handle of the putter with the retriever in place is inserted, and pressed over the ball, which is caught in the cup and withdrawn. The inventor of the retriever claims that the extra weight at the end of the club will enable the player to putt more accurately.

Real Power.

Every one turned to admire the tall man with the fine physique. His hair had a natural wave, his chin was cleft, his eye was icy blue, he had a skin any woman might envy and he wore his clothes well.

No one noticed the small boy by his side. He was wizened and old, he looked like a withered apple, his eyes were small and shifty, his chin was weak, he was bald and sulow, and his clothes hung loosely about his thin form.

"The small man had never done anything much except make about $10,000,000, while the tall man was the traffic man who had just told him to come along to the station house for speeding.—Judge.

SLANG OF "GOOD OLD DAYS"

Great Grandfather Enlightens Flapper as to the Meaning of Some Terms of Long Ago.

"He's a poor nut!" jeered the flapper.

"In '89 we should have called him a 'ninnyhammer,'" put in her great-grandfather, unexpectedly.

The flapper looked interested. "What was '59 for hip pocket?" asked she.

"'Bingo,' answered the old man promptly. "And home brow we should have called 'blue-ruin'; a gentleman occasionally was 'disgraced.'"

"Go on," cried the flapper, delighted. "You, my dear"—he bowed to her—"would have been 'smart as a carrot' in my day. Some of your contemporaries I've seen 'slam-mocking' about in their 'clumpers,' more like men than women, but you are always—'Jimmy.'"

"Next you'll be telling me you shinned in '61!"

"No, we 'hopped.' Do you know what we meant by a 'hummer'?"

"A good one," guessed the flapper. "How did you get excited?"

"We were in a 'pucker,' or we went on a 'burst,' or there was a 'plather,'" said her great-grandfather. Then he ended: "But there's one word that your generation can't parallel. What did we mean by 'mannershit'?"

"You have me, grandfather," admitted the flapper.

The old man opened a little, worn book on the table beside him and read: "'Mannershit—a portion of a dish left by the guests, that the host may not feel himself reproached.' Those were good old days—what?" said he.

MORE THAN A RAIN SHEDDER

African Chiefs Take the Possession of an Umbrella Very Seriously, According to Reports.

Some time ago, there was what the news described as unrest in the West African colony of Lagos; telegrams were dispatched between that country and Great Britain, governors and deputy-governors were interviewed, and it was with difficulty that a native war was averted. The cause of all this commotion was an umbrella!

Now, in our country, as we all know, an umbrella is looked upon as a harmless possession—but not so in West Africa. There, among most of the native tribes, the umbrella is regarded as an emblem of royalty, and its possession is strictly confined to the chief or king of the tribe.

Therefore the indignation was intense on the part of one of these kings, when he found an inferior chief putting up an umbrella of his own. The king at once took a journey to Lagos, to lodge a formal complaint of the chief's treasonable conduct with the British governor.

An African king's umbrella is a very elaborate affair, and it often costs large sums of money. Most of the umbrellas for Ashanti and the Gold coast are made of gigantic size, some of them when open measuring ten feet across.

The coverings of these umbrellas are of colored silk—the brighter the better, with very deep fringes. The largest umbrellas are carried over the heads of chiefs, by bearers while other bearers steady the umbrella by cords attached to the uppermost parts.

One state umbrella had for its apex a silver eagle standing on two silver eagons, while another umbrella had a gold lion on the top, the lion being surrounded by numerous chickens, to represent the chief and his tribe.

CHANGES IN "OLD FAITHFUL"

Yellowstone's Famous Geyser Has Slightly Lengthened the Periods Between Its Eruptions.

Old Faithful, Yellowstone's most famous geyser, has slightly changed the period of its eruptions.

According to the observations of the park naturalist and the rangers, the geyser now spouts on an average every 64.6 minutes. Last year the average period was 62 minutes.

The alteration in Old Faithful's "tempo" does not indicate any essential change in its vigor or faithfulness. On the contrary, Naturalist M. P. Skinner's observations show the mighty fountain to be increasing in volume. The change is believed to be due to an alteration in the subterranean tube of the geyser.

For the last year or so Old Faithful has acquired a habit of occasionally throwing out small rocks. The passage of the rocks through the tube is believed to have enlarged its dimensions slightly, this in turn being responsible for the lengthened period between eruptions and the increased volume of water.

A number of other interesting changes, tending a constantly varying tempo to the mysterious manifestation of the park's performing natural wonders, also are reported by official observers.

That Word "Corker"

The American word, corker, meaning a person or thing of superlative quality, is only a slang use of a legitimate English word. Corker, in its original sense, meant a conclusive argument. It probably originated from the quality which a cork thrust into the mouth of a bottle stops all egress, or ingress of material in it.

The derivation of the word as used in America to the field of slang, by the dictionary writers, has neither weakened the word nor limited its use.

The word "corker" is a perfectly good word. It expresses precisely a shade of meaning that needed to be expressed, and the chances are that it will be a word of good and regular standing long after the bones of the last living dictionary writers have thoroughly bleached.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Newspaper Accuracy.

R. A. White of the Detroit News, after long investigation, finds that daily papers make only one error in every 3,250 opportunities for mistakes. This country recently celebrated the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock and history is pointed out the very spot where they landed. Now a scientist discovers that at the time the Pilgrims landed this spot was under sea. Which leads Mr. White to ask, "If history cannot report a fact correctly in 300 years, ought we expect a newspaper to be unflinchingly accurate in six or eight hours?"

Diphtheria Germs in Wild Horses.

Wild horses running on the open range and never in contact with human beings have been found to be infected with the diphtheria germ, according to Dr. H. W. Schoening of the pathological division of the bureau of plant industry, at Washington. This fact, he claims, indicates that the diphtheria organism is widespread in the soil and is not carried to the horse by some human being as has been held.

IDEAL DIET NEVER PROPERLY ADOPTED

by the American Public, Is Physician's Assertion.

"The value of the date as a food is not half appreciated by the American public," writes Dr. John Harvey Kellogg. "The date not only furnishes a variety of sugar which is readily assimilated and which is much more wholesome than cane sugar, but it supplies a fine quality of food iron. An ounce of dates, in fact, supplies one-third more food than an ordinary beefsteak and iron of much finer quality."

The date is equally superior as a source of food lime and other food salts supplying seven times as much lime as does beef tenderloin. The date requires nothing but the simple addition of milk to constitute a complete diet. A pound of dates and a quart of milk afford nourishment not only sufficient in quantity to supply the needs of the average person, but of the highest quality.

"The American people are suffering from lime starvation which is resulting not only in a loss of stature due to lack of bone development, but in an almost universal decay of teeth. The free use of dates with milk is a part of the American breakfast would, on this score, do much to improve the national health and the lowering of the death rate."

Golf Ball Retriever.

The golf enthusiast may save energy for the next drive by the use of a new golf ball retriever, fastened to the putter handle, by which he can pick the ball out of the cup or from the green without stooping, says Popular Science Monthly.

Soap Bubbles Aid Scientists.

Every one who buys gasoline for his automobile has a direct concern in the efficiency of engines, the study of which is being assisted by soap bubbles, according to Popular Mechanics Magazine. These are now being used at the bureau of standards in determining the rate of propagation of flame in combustible mixtures of gases. Strangely enough, for years there has been sought a means whereby explosions could be studied under constant pressure free from complicating circumstances, but it was just recently pointed out at this institution that soap bubbles afford in ideal fashion just what is wanted.

Diphtheria Germs in Wild Horses.

Wild horses running on the open range and never in contact with human beings have been found to be infected with the diphtheria germ, according to Dr. H. W. Schoening of the pathological division of the bureau of plant industry, at Washington. This fact, he claims, indicates that the diphtheria organism is widespread in the soil and is not carried to the horse by some human being as has been held.

Newspaper Accuracy.

R. A. White of the Detroit News, after long investigation, finds that daily papers make only one error in every 3,250 opportunities for mistakes. This country recently celebrated the anniversary of the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth Rock and history is pointed out the very spot where they landed. Now a scientist discovers that at the time the Pilgrims landed this spot was under sea. Which leads Mr. White to ask, "If history cannot report a fact correctly in 300 years, ought we expect a newspaper to be unflinchingly accurate in six or eight hours?"

That Word "Corker"

The American word, corker, meaning a person or thing of superlative quality, is only a slang use of a legitimate English word. Corker, in its original sense, meant a conclusive argument. It probably originated from the quality which a cork thrust into the mouth of a bottle stops all egress, or ingress of material in it.

(By The Associated Press) HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 30.—The $200,000 suit of Nelda Myer against the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan was settled out of court here today. Miss Myer said after the settlement that she could not make public the name of the man who made the settlement nor the amount of money which was paid to her in cash, because she had pledged him her silence and was perfectly satisfied with what she obtained.

The suit claimed a warning had been by the Richmond Klan, which was alleged to have defamed her character. The case was to have been heard in federal court here Monday morning.

SHORTER DAY FOR WORKERS FAVORED BY ROCKEFELLER

(By The Associated Press) NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—A sweeping statement declaring his personal stand for the eight hour day in industry and condemning the twelve-hour day and the seven day week as "unnecessary, un-economic and unjustifiable," was issued today by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

The statement appears in the form of an article signed by Mr. Rockefeller in the current issue of The Survey Graphic and follows an arraignment of working conditions in certain oil fields of Wyoming in the same magazine by R. S. Lynd, who spent three months investigating conditions.

The statement today is the second within a week Mr. Rockefeller has given out in behalf of the laboring men. The previous one, issued last Wednesday took up the cudgel in the interest of coal miners in Somerset county, Pa., and particularly those employed by the Consolidation Coal Company of which he is stockholder.

"I believe that, generally speaking, the twelve-hour day and the seven day week should no longer be tolerated in industry, either from the viewpoint of public policy or of industrial efficiency," the oil magnate says in his most recent statement. "I believe both have been proven to be unnecessary, un-economic and unjustifiable."

Even in those industries where the so-called "continuous process" is an inevitable feature, Mr. Rockefeller says he believes the routine should be adjusted that the employees can have at least one day's rest in seven and can obtain that share of leisure for self development which accompanies the work day of approximately eight hours.

With regards to living conditions, even in isolated localities like oil camps. Mr. Rockefeller declares that it is not only possible but necessary to make reasonable provisions for the health, comfort and contentment of those who labor there in behalf of the entire community.

The article of Mr. Lynd, which called forth Mr. Rockefeller's statement, is an extensive study of conditions in the Elk Basin crude oil producing field of Wyoming where, according to the author, "one man in three works twelve hours a day and seven days a week, and all other classes of labor including office personnel, work a nine hour day, six and a half days a week."
