FLORIDA BRIEFS

Instant fame forces family to seek cover

FOND DU LAC — Leslie Robins and Colleen De Vries escaped much of the media spotlight for days after winning a $111 million Powerball jackpot, but their relatives weren't so lucky. "It's very sickening," said Alice De Vries, Colleen's grandmother. "I don't mind talking to the local paper, but all these people from so far away, what business do they have calling me?"

Since word broke that Robins, a Fond du Lac English teacher, held the winning ticket from Wednesday's drawing, he and fiancée De Vries have avoided most contact with news media by traveling to Florida where he formerly lived. Their families and friends, meanwhile, have been besieged by interview requests.

The New York Times called Alice De Vries on Saturday, and ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" has offered her a free trip to New York to appear on the popular morning program. De Vries said she and her husband have declined all offers.

While interviewing Colleen's aunt and uncle, a Milwaukee television station videotaped, without family permission, a picture of Colleen, De Vries said.

"They (Colleen's aunt and uncle) told them they couldn't use the photo," Alice De Vries said. "They (the television crew) left saying they would not, but they used it anyway."

Pee-wee's trek through legal maze

VENICE — The two-year legal maze of actor Paul Reubens — Pee-wee Herman — may end this week.

Reubens was charged with exposing himself in an adult theater south of Sarasota in July 1991. With a signature from Sarasota County Judge Emanuel Logalbo, Jr. this week, Reubens' case will be officially erased from court and law enforcement records, and forever sealed from public view.

But it appears that the misdemeanor case, in which Reubens pleaded no contest, paid a $50 fine and co-produced an anti-drug public service announcement, was the punctuation point to Pee-wee's exit after five years as host of the Saturday morning TV show "Pee-wee's Playhouse." And he has said there will be no more bow-tied nerd movies.

Under a plea bargain, Reubens, who will be 41 next month, never admitted the crime and never was pronounced guilty.

The request pending before Logalbo was filed in April 1992. Reubens finally got a hearing on it Wednesday, although he was not present. A decision is pending.

Prosecutor Don Hartery said he expects the motion to be granted, despite his reservations.

"I think sealing records makes sense when a great amount of time has passed, when it was a childish indiscretion ... But the trend of current law is to make it more difficult," Hartery said.

Two struck by lightning

LAKELAND — Two people were struck by lightning, including a man in Lakeland who remained in critical condition today after he was hit by a bolt.

James L. Norman, 44, went outside to check on his pet Sunday evening when he was hit by lightning, said Polk County sheriff's Lt. Rick Abbattello. He was in critical condition at Lakeland Regional Medical Center.

In Bonita Springs, Jahna Robinson, 18, of Fort Myers was in fair condition at Lee Memorial Hospital when she was struck by lightning. The bolt also knocked down several people on Barefoot Beach in Collier County.

About a dozen people were walking or running to get to the parking lot when the lightning struck, witnesses said.

Turnpike tolls rise

TALLAHASSEE — Save those quarters. Tolls on Florida's Turnpike are going up.

Starting Sunday, higher tolls were imposed from the Golden Glades Interchange north of Miami to the Wildwood link to Interstate 75 northwest of Orlando.

The increases, which make the 266-mile highway the most expensive long-haul state turnpike in the nation, are expected to raise $18 million a year for turnpike improvements.

Transportation Secretary Ben Watts imposed the new tolls after a series of poorly attended public hearings across the state attracted fewer than 100 people.

Underwater concert

BIG PINE KEY — A four-hour radio broadcast piped undersea caught the ears of more than 500 snorkelers and divers — and perhaps a few fish — at the ninth annual Underwater Music Festival.

The concert was coordinated by Keys station WWUS, which arranged eight underwater speakers above the coral reefs at Looe Key National Marine Sanctuary on Saturday.

The commercial-free broadcast featured such selections as the Beatles' "Yellow Submarine," Jimmy Buffet's "Jamaica Farewell," classical selections from Mozart and Vivaldi; and "My Island Home," a tune by the Key Lime Pie band, a local group.

Overnight trouble

Two Orlando women who tried to claim a package of marijuana sent via United Parcel Service next day air were arrested by Longwood Police Friday night.

Betty Jean Lawrence, 41, 5936 Silver Star Road, #26 and Teryl Monique Hunter, 29, 1483 Mercy Drive #28 were arrested during a traffic stop after a UPS supervisor notified police the women claimed a package.

Earlier in the day, police and agents of the City County Investigative Bureau were notified by the parcel service that a delivery man opened the package to verify an address and found a green leafy substance. It is standard operating procedure for UPS to open a package to determine an address location.

A UPS supervisor took possession of the package which was addressed to a man at 5936 Silver Star Road. Lawrence signed for the package and left the UPS distribution center in Longwood. The women were stopped on Bennett Road.

A K-9 unit inspected the car and about three pounds of marijuana was located. Both women were arrested and held at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility in lieu of $3,000 bond each.

Drug arrests

CCIB agents arrested Valarie M. Scott, 36, David Wallace Scott, 38, and David John Scott, 19 all of 813 Seminole Ave., Longwood, on drug related charges when they served a warrant Saturday night. The three were each charged with two counts of possession of controlled substances, cocaine and marijuana. David W. was also charged with possession of smoking devices and David J. with possession of testosterone. Each were held in lieu of $3,000 bond.

Edward Robinson, 26, 1936 W. 20th St., Sanford, was arrested in an undercover drug operation Saturday night in the area of Sixth Street and Sanford Avenue. Officers of the Sanford Police Special Investigations Unit were targeting street level cocaine dealers using electronic equipment and an undercover officer. Robinson was charged with the sale and delivery of crack.

Stephen Schick, 40, 2519 Laurel Ave., Sanford was arrested Friday for two counts of possession of a controlled substance (marijuana) when CCIB agents served a search warrant at his home.

Herbert Ellwood Pray IV, 19, 19 Primrose Drive, Orlando, was arrested Friday night for the sale and delivery of LSD. During a CCIB investigation in June, an undercover agent bought 100 hits of LSD from a street dealer. When the undercover agent asked to buy another 1,000 hits, the informant said Pray was his source, according to the arrest record.

Joseph John Henslak, Jr., 27, 315 Vista Oak Dr., Longwood, was charged with possession of a controlled substance after he was stopped for having no tag and a computer check showed an outstanding Wisconsin warrant. During an inventory of the vehicle, a small amount of marijuana was found.

Theft charged

Nelson Mercado Velardo, 37, 1208 Northlake Dr., Sanford was charged with taking $600 from his employer, Courtesy Used Cars. He allegedly issued a receipt for money but did not turn it over to the safe on June 25. The company said he admitted taking the money June 30 but they filed the charge against Velardo because they have not been able to collect.

Resisting an officer

Donald William Rife, 23, 109 Stonehedge Court, Sanford was arrested Friday at State Road 436 and Newberry Pt. Court after he was observed standing up in a moving vehicle with his arms and body through the sun roof. During the investigation, the officer asked Rife to remain seated in his vehicle. After getting up about six times, police made the man walk the road center line in a roadside sobriety test and arrested him. When he began kicking the left rear passenger window, he was further restrained and transported to jail.

Lavasher Shadale Williams, 32, 71 Seminole Gardens, Sanford, was charged with resisting without violence and retail theft of a radio from Radio Shack valued at $70. The suspect was stopped by police at Airport Boulevard and Stonebrook when his car matched the description in the theft case. He was charged with resisting when he gave the officer a different name and birthdate than his own.

A generous feline

Morris the 9Lives Cat sits comfortably in his directors chair as Deborah G. Bolding, communications manager for Heinz Pet Products Company, presents a check for $5,000 to Norma Spivey, executive director of the Seminole County Humane Society, Sanford. The donation will be used to rebuild the dog kennel lost during a fire.

State welfare grows faster than nation's

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — The percentage of people dependent on welfare is growing faster in Florida than nationally, and some state economists are starting to sound alarms.

State records show about one in nine Floridians received food stamps last month and one in 20 received Aid to Families with Dependent Children, The Florida Times-Union in Jacksonville reported Sunday.

The number of Florida food stamp recipients has more than doubled, jumping from 5.1 percent of the population in 1987 to 10.9 percent this year. Nationally, food stamp recipients increased from 7.8 percent to 10.4 percent.

"It's an indication of the general trend in society, widening the gap between the haves and have-nots," Florida State University researcher Chuck Daly said. "There are more and more people who simply cannot compete in our society."

Assistant state revenue director Jim Zingale told a legislative committee last month Florida can't afford to put many more citizens on welfare.

-Chuck Daly

The number on various public assistance programs already has risen from about 6 percent to 12 percent, partly because of the slumping economy, he estimated. "We can't go to 18 percent, folks. We can't survive."

Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services officials said causes of the increase included joblessness during the recession, laborers moving to Florida after losing industrial jobs in the North, expanded eligibility for federal and state assistance and more aggressive efforts to find those eligible.

"By making the programs more accessible, because we were out in places where we could find people in need, that had an effect of increasing the caseload," said Don Winstead, assistant HRS secretary for economic services.

The growth strains the state budget. Florida's Medicaid costs have risen from $1.4 billion in 1987 to an estimated $6.4 billion this fiscal year, of which $2.9 billion will be financed by state tax dollars.

And the numbers of recipients overwhelm HRS service centers. The agency made an estimated $300 million in food stamp and AFDC overpayments last fiscal year, partly because of swamped caseworkers.

HRS officials have cited a slight drop in the numbers since January, but Zingale produced an analysis predicting welfare recipients will increase for at least the next three years.

Studies show Floridians have a hard time getting off welfare. A 1990 HRS report said more than half of public assistance recipients remain on the rolls for more than two years and nearly one in four draws benefits for four years or more.

Handgun buyback nets 52 weapons, exhausts funds

By Associated Press

JACKSONVILLE — Organizers say a buyback to get handguns off Jacksonville streets wiped out a $1,300 fund raised for the event but gained something more important: community support.

The buyback conducted Saturday on a downtown corner netted 52 weapons, leaving organizers broke but happy.

"If a child asked us 'What did you do in 1993 to save lives?' we can at least say we put forth an effort to stop the homicides in our community," said Bob Ingram, a member of the Black Issues Forum, a loose knit group of community leaders.

Ingram and other concerned citizens sweated for six hours Saturday at 21st Street and Myrtle Avenue in an area known for violent crime, buying guns for $25 each with no questions asked.

The guns will be turned over to the police to be destroyed, they said.

"I think this is symbolic," Forum member Cliff Coleman said. "I think it says the community is ready to do something to improve its image and ensure its safety."

Young men drove up, turned in their weapons and mumbled that they were tired of crime by blacks against blacks. Few would give their names. Many of the weapons were unregistered. Among them were four sawed-off shotguns and a 9mm handgun. One man who turned in a handgun said he had a newborn child.

Budget time: Let's cooperate

City and county commissions will be involved in an arduous task during the next few weeks. It's budget time.

Department heads have been working diligently to submit their individual budget requests. These have now been fine-tuned and combined into an overall proposal which is presently being studied by members of the various commissions.

Sanford, Lake Mary, Longwood and Seminole County have each suggested no increase in the millage rate from this past year. They are however, proposing that the roll-back rate not be approved.

The roll-back would be the level of ad valorem taxation which would produce, during this coming year, the same income as received in the previous year.

Each of the governing bodies agrees that their areas are growing. There should be no question that such expansion is going to produce a need for improved service and increased expense.

As has been the case in the past, during these budget hearings, the general public will be urging the commissions to hold tight on spending. They want their officials to avoid the need for any increase in taxes.

On the other hand, as we enter the new fiscal year, these same people may demand support for projects which will involve more expense than what may have been budgeted.

City and county leaders must consider many points in budget preparation such as cost of living raises, the need for expansions in police or fire departments, planned road construction, and many other needs.

The public may agree that these improvements would be beneficial, but object to any tax increase which may be necessary to bring them about.

Blending expenses in improving a community with the willingness of the residents to pay the cost, is one of the most difficult tasks facing people who hold public office.

We urge our city and county commissioners to give careful study to every item on their budgets, and make decisions based on what is best for the people they have been elected to govern.

There is also a need for the people to look beyond their personal tax bills and see the total picture of what is best for the community.

Budget preparation time is difficult for all concerned. Let's work together and help attain a secured future.

A hand clapping for Judge Ginsburg

During the bipartisan chorus of praise for the president's first nomination to the high court, a dissonant chord was struck by Lyle Denniston, the trenchant Supreme Court reporter for the Baltimore Sun and American Lawyer magazine.

On "Nightline," Denniston took note of the two different Ruth Bader Ginsburgs. The first was the counterpart of attorney Thurgood Marshall, who made blacks "persons" under the Constitution in a series of landmark cases. She, as a lawyer, made "equal protection under the laws" include women.

But, Denniston added, since being appointed to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals in 1980, Judge Ginsburg "looks upon the judiciary as a somewhat secondary player" in our system of justice. "I don't think that she's going to leave a very substantial deposit in the constitutional or statutory law of this country."

To be sure, judges and lawyers play different roles. Judges are not supposed to be advocates for one side or another. Furthermore, Judge Ginsburg's supporters say — as she has — that a lower court judge is constrained by the rulings of the Supreme Court and the precedents of her circuit.

Accordingly, Judge Ginsburg considers it quite in order that she writes no more than a "few separate opinions a year." Furthermore, she much prizes civility among her colleagues and indeed among all judges. She prefers a Supreme Court, for instance, that operates with a "temperate brand of decision-making, one that (is) not extravagant or divisive." And she said during a lecture earlier this year at New York University Law School: "In writing for the court, one must be sensitive to the sensibilities and mindsets of one's colleagues, which may mean avoiding certain arguments and authorities, even certain words."

She is not, then, a forceful dispenser of justice or an incisive critic of colleagues who deny justice. In this respect, she does not at all represent Judge — and then Justice — Thurgood Marshall. On the Second Circuit and then the Supreme Court, he did not temper his disagreements with colleagues on issues that meant a great deal to him — school segregation, the death penalty, due process in criminal cases.

To Thurgood Marshall, being a judge did not require him to moderate his insistence on justice. And though he lost many of his battles on the bench, he became — for many lawyers, future lawyers and large numbers of non-lawyers — a model of the life force in the law. I once sat behind him on a train and watched lawyer after lawyer come over so that afterward they could tell their children and grandchildren they shook his hand.

Marshall was far from the only circuit judge who has not felt rigidly confined because he or she might be overruled. Among a good many others, there are Richard Posner, John Noonan, Frank Easterbrook, James Oakes, Amalya Kearse, Alex Kozinski, and on Ginsburg's own circuit, Patricia Wald. Among state judges dealing with constitutional issues, Hans Linde, Sol Wachtler and Judith Kaye have often challenged the high court rather than genuflect before it.

Army base goes for redecoration

WASHINGTON — The deepening recession in America's defense sector hasn't affected the visitors' quarters at Fort Myer Army Base in Virginia. Judging by the amenities recently added there, the infamous $600 toilet seat seems like a relative bargain.

As military bases across the country were being pegged for closure three years ago, a group of officers' wives at Fort Myer were embarking on a spending spree that would have made Leona Helmsley proud. When four-star generals visit the base, they now receive the five-star treatment: They dry off with embroidered towels, shut out the sun with custom-made drapes and leave their soap on solid brass soap dishes.

The Pentagon had already spent more than $50,000 on renovating the visitors' suites at Fort Myer in the early 1980s. Investigators now believe those renovations were "totally acceptable" before any additional work was added. Apparently, the decor in the suites didn't suit the tastes of the officers' wives who sat on a base advisory committee. This group, comprised of the wife of the base commander, a deputy commander's wife and a colonel's wife, promptly took the government on a $900,000 binge to refurbish the quarters, all without the knowledge of Congress.

The itemized tally of expenses includes such invaluable military hardware as a solid brass cup holder for $99.38, a solid brass bathroom faucet at $352, a $93 soap dish, an $81 tissue paper holder and a robe hook that cost American taxpayer no less than $43. The bathroom renovations alone cost the government $360,000, including an unwarranted $22,000 to have all 18 bathrooms upgraded from chrome to solid brass fixtures.

Although the old furniture was still in good shape, the officers' wives saw nothing wrong with spending almost $90,000 on furniture for eight of the visitors' suites. "The old furniture was probably even of a better quality than the new," one Pentagon investigator said.

"When I first got into the project, I kept looking at the bathroom fixtures ... and I said to myself, we've got the $100 cup holder to go with the $600 toilet seat," another investigator told our associate Andrew Conte.

All these expenses might have been noticed by Congress were it not for some creative bookkeeping by the Military District of Washington, which oversees the base. Congress must be notified of any military expense of more than $500,000. Although the renovations cost nearly twice that, they were conveniently subdivided, which allowed them to go unreported. Investigators concede that this maneuver was probably unintentional, but believe that it raises some questions. "MDW bypassed regulations. The project should have required congressional approval, but they didn't do that, and it leaves some doubt to their motives," an investigator said.

Base authorities who approved the project seem to feel no regrets over the renovations, which were completed while U.S. soldiers were fighting in the Persian Gulf. Retired Major Gen. William F. Streeter, the base commander at the time and whose wife sat on the committee, told us the investigation that followed the remodeling effort "shows that there wasn't any extravagance or waste." Retired Col. James Moore, deputy base commander at the time and whose wife also sat on the committee, believes the project actually helped save the government money. "There are catalogs and things the government uses or recommends be used but ... a lot of times off the wall things are cheaper," he said.

The infamous $600 toilet seat seems like a relative bargain.

Kudos to commission?

Ref. Julian Stenstrom's letter compliment for city commission:

I do not wish to put a damper on the puff job that Mr. Stenstrom has so affectionately bestowed upon our city commission, but, when you come to the bottom line it's just that, a puff job. This is unarguably one of the worst city commissions and mayor save for Mr. Thomas that this city has seen in a long time.

The reason that Ralph Russell was chosen chief was because Commissioners Eckstein, Howell, and McClanahan who form a majority on the board wanted him for that position. I just hope that Chief Russell realizes that he will only be their man until they've gotten whatever it is they want from him. When they're done with him, they will toss him out like yesterday's garbage. They had to talk Mr. Thomas into going along for it to take effect, with the mayor casting the only dissenting vote. People have talked about how strange it seems that these three commissioners have either been or are now being investigated for improprieties connected with their jobs or their elections. So much for Mr. Stenstrom's fine body of commissioners. I have no personal beef with Mr. Stenstrom for I read and love the weekly columns he writes for the paper. But, to mention or compare our previous chief of police alongside that of Williams and Butler is like trying to compare a bologna sandwich with lobster, there's just no comparison.

Although I believe that Ralph Russell can make a fine chief, he has yet to prove it. Personally I believe that Lt. Bill Hassen would've made the ideal chief, for he has the honesty and integrity that the job demands, plus he's respected by the majority of the department. His only drawback would be that he would stand up to the commissioners, which is something they do not want to have to contend with. I wish Chief Russell luck for he's going to need it under this city commission. That in a nutshell is the major flaw in this relationship. The police chief should not be under the jurisdiction of politicians. They've certainly demonstrated that they lack the mental and political maturity to handle their jobs.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not putting Mr. Stenstrom down for what he has written, for it is his opinion and he is entitled to it. I just happen to disagree with some of what he's said. I'll reserve judgment on Chief Russell's ability to do his job until after he's been in that position for awhile. Every man or woman should be given a chance to prove themselves, that's the fair thing to do.

Illegal immigrants

In these days of political correctness, if you voiced an opinion on the massive illegal immigration into this country you would be branded a bigot or racist. But if you look at the facts on how these opinions were formed, you just might agree.

Today, people who are committing a crime by being here illegally, qualify for welfare, food stamps, and unemployment benefits. To make things worse, when these people have babies, their offspring are considered to be a United States citizens, consequently, their welfare and food stamp benefits are increased and because illegal parents are rarely deported, they're set to board the welfare gravy train express.

If these people are caught before they have their babies, unlike me and you who would have to make restitution and possibly spend time in jail, these people are simply deported, leaving the taxpayer to pay the bill — until now!

Introducing H.R. 1078: This bill, currently pending in Congress, would close most of these loopholes, and if you're concerned about the rising deficit, taxpayers dollars being spent on ever rising entitlements (especially people who never paid a dime in taxes but are living off the government), write your congressman and urge him/her to support H.R. 1078.

Response to letter

Thanks to Rick Shearer for his letter in the Herald's June 6 edition responding to my request to determine if it was time to talk about a countywide law enforcement agency. He says a unified agency would not work and would cost more money. He may be absolutely correct but didn't say why.

As to who put the idea "in my head" it was no "little bird." It was the late Sheriff John Polk. If Mr. Shearer will read my letter again he will note I never proposed a single agency. I simply asked if it was time to talk about it.

Mr. Shearer seems to think the "idea" came from only two people. It's obvious he was referring to Sheriff Don Eslinger and his assistant Steve Harriett. For the record, I have never met Eslinger, I do know Harriett but I don't think I've talked with him for several years.

We now have one opinion although Shearer failed to say why it would cost more than the present $1 million a week we are spending for law enforcement in the third smallest county geographically in Florida. Frankly, we still don't know if a single agency would be favorable or not.

Flood knocks out power

By TOM SEERY
Associated Press Writer

DES MOINES, Iowa — Rising flood waters knocked out the water system in Des Moines and left thousands in the city without electricity as the out-of-control Mississippi and its tributaries swallowed more land across the Midwest.

Downtown Des Moines was closed for business today because of the weekend flooding by the Des Moines and Raccoon rivers. A water treatment plant serving about 250,000 people in the Des Moines area was forced to shut down Sunday when floodwaters rose past its 15-foot dikes. City officials said it might take a month to restore clean drinking water.

Leon Rhodes, who the three winners call "coach" summed up his feelings this way. "When it hits, it hits. Its kind of like the lottery. Do you know the odds of this happening?" he asked rhetorically.

Mike Kirby, director of the derby was very pleased with the race at the new Derby Park on Oregon Avenue, although 10 more minutes without a summer afternoon thunderstorm probably is on his wish list. Work at the park continued all day Saturday and the overnight rain turned the red clay soil into lumpy, sticky goo, but everyone found a place to park. Shade was at a premium in the intense sun and spectators who were not foresighted enough to bring a lawn awning for shelter made do with umbrellas.

Cars painted in a variety of rainbow hues raced two at a time down the new hill. The electronic times recorded the speeds and then, it was up the hill again after exchanging wheels for another run. The car with the fastest total time advanced to the next race. Racers who were eliminated had another chance to race for final placement, but some left the track, forfeiting a spot in the top ten finishers for their division.

Executive director Tony Deluca and Jeff Iula of the National Soapbox Derby organization came from Ohio to watch the race, praised the new Derby Park. Deluca said the city has made a wonderful commitment to the Soapbox Derby. Iula said the Sanford facility is the first track built for the race in about five years. Iula also quipped if Sunday's race wasn't the hottest he had ever attend, then it was the second hottest. At the 1968 All-American Derby it was 96 degrees, he recalled.

The temperature cooled off as the thick black clouds rolled in late in the day, but they were an unwelcome sight because more races had to be run. Lightning flashed in the distance as the deciding race in the master division between last year's champion Jesse Nelman, Lake Mary and Scott Giroux, DeLand was completed. Large raindrops began to fall before Giroux took the checkered flag, earning the right to compete in the national race.

Earlier, another AQP team members, Gregory Herman of DeLand won the kit car division edging out Kristen Gegenheimer of Orlando who finished second.

When the storm hit in earnest, the heavy rain washed dirt onto the track near the finish line and it took an hour and a half after the rain stopped to clean it. Both Strickland and his challenger, Heath Chambers, Cocoa were issued new wheels and ran two more races before Strickland was declared the winner.

The following is a list of top five finishers in each of the divisions:

STOCK: 1. Geoffrey Strickland, Longwood; 2. Heath Chambers, Cocoa; 3. Wade Stafford, Melbourne; 4. Shannon Brewer, Sanford (received Sportman Award); 5. Andrew McCoullough, Melbourne. KIT: 1. Gregory Herman, DeLand; 2. Kristen Gegenheimer, Orlando; 3. Sarah Modesitt, Winter Park; 4. Cody Lowry, Jr., Lakeland; 5. Chelsea Lowry, Lakeland. MASTER: 1. Scott Giroux, DeLand; 2. Jesse Nelman, Lake Mary; 3. Dominic Santopietro, Longwood; 4. Meredith Patchen, West Palm Beach; 5. Jesse Hill, Umatilla.

out to bid.

● Woodlands Elementary School: The walkway canopy replacement project has been completed and inspected. The contractor has requested payment for the work. Approval of the invoice is recommended.

● Lake Brantley High School: The roof replacement project has been completed and the request to be considered is acceptance of the work and approval of payment to the contractor. The board has already reviewed the matter during the June 28 meeting. Hagerty is recommending the board approve the final acceptance and release of retainage for the roof replacement project.

A new project will be discussed for Lake Howell High School. The proposal is for a 24,000 square foot multi-purpose building, (gymnasium, lockers, gymnastic, weights, restroom), an olympic size swimming pool and pool equipment building. A $600,000 grant has been approved, and the City of Altamonte Springs has pledged $100,000 in order to use the gym area.

Hagerty is recommending the board approve documents and grant permission to solicit bids for the multi-purpose pool complex.

Work is also under consideration at Lake Howell High School, where the board will review proposals outlining the scope of services for an initial design phase. The project will examine current conditions and make suggestions for improvements and/or changes.

The School Board meeting is scheduled to begin at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday, July 13, at the School Board office on Mellonville Avenue.

Appeal

compensate for the cap when the home is sold.

Wilkinson believed the amendment would take effect on Jan. 1, 1993, the first tax assessment date following the referendum, although the amendment item included no startup date.

DOR, supported by Attorney General Robert Butterworth, declared the amendment wouldn't take effect until Jan. 1, 1995. Butterworth decided the Florida Constitution establishes amendments without specific startup dates shall take effect on the first Monday in January following the election, which this year was Jan. 4, three days after the Jan. 1 property value date.

DOR further decided the cap would need a "base" year to establish the 3 percent annual cap. That base year would be the first Jan. 1 following the effective date, Jan. 1, 1994. Then, the cap could fully take effect on the following January, in 1995.

Wilkinson said this morning the appeal may well serve the state's goal of delaying the cap start until 1995.

"That's what they wanted all along," he said.

Bill Suber, Seminole County property appraiser, said the Lec County case had no effect on Seminole County because it was in another court circuit and district.

"I believe the judged erred when he ruled there wasn't a base year in the amendment," said Suber.

Suber said even if Pack's decision had statewide effect and no appeal was made, the implementation of the cap would have to be delayed until the Legislature created a method for the cap to be imposed and DOR passed rules on the legislation.

"If you don't have that, you'd have it being done 67 different ways around the state."

Study

Weldon commented, "We received a number of recommendations which we are looking into, as well as some suggestions for improvements." He added, "Although the extent of the study was to seek out problems, not all of the responses were critical. In fact, 13 of them were extremely favorable."

The responses from the local level were submitted to the visiting team, which has responded with a written document of suggestions and recommendations.

The suggestions are informational in nature, but the college must respond to all recommendations.

"We hope to have all of the responses completed and submitted to the reaffirmation committee in October," Orseno said. "Then we expect to be hearing back from them in December."

In addition to accreditation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Weldon is proud of the additional accreditation and approvals from various organizations and agencies.

The school presently lists accreditation for 17 separate organizations. "For some of them,"

Weldon explained, "we are one of maybe two or three schools in the state with official accreditation, and we are very proud of that."

The accreditations include fields of nursing, physical therapy, interior design, criminal justice, fire standards, HRS emergency medical services, child development, electrical and automotive services, and many others.

"Since SCC became eligible in the 1960's," Weldon said, "this is the fourth time we will have undergone an official accreditation study. It's part of an ongoing requirement for all accredited schools and we look forward to being reaffirmed once again."

receiving evidence about the case which is in violation of the board rules. Dennis was appointed to the board in February and was attending her first meeting the night the controversial case was heard. After the incident, two members of the code enforcement board resigned along with the code enforcement officer. The remaining members of the board have called for Dennis to resign her post or be removed by the commission. In other business, the commissioners will also consider an amendment to the city charter establishing the police department as an official city department.

By establishing the department in the charter, Commissioner Harvey Smerilson said it would take the department out of the political arena. A referendum in last year's election to do away with the Longwood Police was overwhelmingly defeated. Smerilson proposed the charter move when rumors of another challenge to the department surfaced, he said. As a charter department, it would take a unanimous vote of the city commission to change it.

Prior to the commission meeting, which begins at 7 p.m. in city hall, the commissioners will continue a review of the proposed 1994 police department budget which was not completed at Thursday night's budget review session.

assistance from a state sponsored program known as SHIP. Medco has determined that these funds, together with those made available under the city's impact fee ordinance, will make the homes more readily available to lower income families.

According to a statement from

Chap Chappell, project manager for Medco. "The main reason providing subsidies to families desiring ownership is so important that there are many folks out there who have adequate income to pay $400 - $500 in rent each month, but have not been able to accumulate the $3000 - $4000 normally necessary to acquire a mortgage."

Medco is expected to ask the city for approval to participate in the Affordable Housing Extended Payment Alternative program.

Although presently listed on the agenda for tonight's meeting of the city commission beginning at 7 p.m., it is listed as the lead item in the worksession meeting beginning at 4 p.m. this afternoon in the City Manager's Conference Room at Sanford City Hall.

The Old City Hall in Lake Mary was the site for the welcoming party of 16 international students from Spain. The students arrived in Orlando July 1 with the Rev. Jesus Diez, the group escort.

The host families picked up the excited students from St. Stephens Lutheran Church in Longwood which will be the activity center for the ASPECT activity program. All pickups and dropoffs during their 28-day stay will originate from St. Stephens, when there is an ASPECT sponsor activity. There were three groups of students from Spain. One group went to Pennsylvania, the next to Virginia and the other to Lake Mary.

Kerry Sullivan, a teacher from Stetson University on leave of absence, is the local regional coordinator of ASPECT. Carlos Monserrate of Sanford is the local area coordinator for the ASPECT program. Monserrate said, "I had to recruit host families by advertising in the newspapers, on radio and television, but most of the host families are from churches. I approached and I made about 100 telephone calls to match the students with a family without knowing much about each, except for their interests."

George and Mary Jane Durva were quite helpful and have been a host family before. This year their student is 17-year-old Pablo Bernipo from Salamanca.

Other host families are Clair Egan O'Connor, the group's escort, Father Diez, Robert and Sandy Thompson for student Irene Munoz Rubio, age 13, from Segovia, Ernest and Iris Johnson for student Roberto Luis Garcia, age 16, from Salamanca, Mike and Barbara Hortal for Elena Rodriguez Sanchez, age 15, from Segovia, Joseph and Mercedes Harper for Juan Jose Lovar Lopez, 17, Salamanca, Bob and Dagmar Modrzepewski for Enrique de la Fuente, 14, Burgos.

Also Cathy Gehr for Francisco Javier Almagro, 16, from Valladolid, Mike and Barbara Warman and backup family Jack and Susan Soriano for student Ilana Escarti, 15, from Madrid, Alfredo Archibald for Enrique Dominguez, 14, Salamanca, Bob and Karen Lewis for Sandra Gonzalez, 13, Madrid, James and Sofia Vullch for Carlos Blazquez Esudero, 16, Salamanca, Frank and Shadi Giampone and backup family student at Lakeview Middle School, Elena Rodriguez Sanchez, their exchange student and Laura Hortal, 16, attends Seminole High School.

Elena Rodriguez Sanchez, 15, was greeted with a birthday surprise.

Jose and Maria Elena Pinedes for Raquel Velasco, 16, from Valladolid, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Escame and backup family Bob and Lina Moore for Ricardo Lopez, 13, Salamanca.

Also, Al and Ernie Igan for student Juan Antonio Sanchez, 16, Salamanca, Joe and Margo Reeves for Ana Marie Bernipo, 16, from Salamanca, and Bill and Betty Hands and backup family Mack and Joanne Morris for student Maria Iglesias, 15, from Salamanca.

In some cases both parents in the host family work, so the backup family is necessary, or if they need to be out of town for some reason, the students are always cared for by a family. A couple events a week are scheduled by the ASPECT group and the host families have to drop off and pick up, but the students, for example, went to Flea World and Leebucknee Springs by chartered bus. All students are sophomores, junior or seniors in high school.

Father Diez said that all the students are from Madrid and north. He is from Valladolid which is 140 miles north of Madrid. Valladolid is the original government and capital city where Phillip II was born. Valladolid was the capital of the Spanish kingdom until Phillip I decided to move the capital to Madrid. Father Diez continued enthusiastically explaining that Christopher Columbus was born, lived and died in Valladolid and his house remains a tourist attraction. Also, Valladolid houses a very famous museum with wooden carved statues and it is also home to the first Spanish university, the University of Valladolid.

In the absence of Mayor Rockett, City Commissioner George Durva welcomed the students to the city.

Irene Munoz, 13, seated left, will be sharing the time in the States with Sandy and Bob Thompson, standing, and their daughter Karen, age 13.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Suns blind Cubs

ORLANDO — Dese Relaford hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning to help bring the Jacksonville Suns back from a 3-0 deficit and beat the Orlando Cubs 11-9 Sunday night in a Southeast League game.

Relaford's blast went deep twice from the Cubs' pitcher, who made runs in closing cases.

Tom Grambling, 110 took the win for the Suns against Mike Walker, 1-2, who suffered his second loss.

Tom Martin and Eddie Diaz also pitched for the Suns.

Nicklaus ends drought

DENVER — Jack Nicklaus sank a birdie putt on the 18th hole to end his 11-year drought of winning the U.S. Senior Open.

Nicklaus finished at 1 under par for a 72-hole total of 6 under 278.

Weskipt, who closed with a 67, wound up at 290.

Zarley was third, another stroke back, and Dale Douglass tied for fourth at 281.

Weskipt's 1 under 70 on the front nine tied a Senior Open record.

Jefferies added to NL roster

ST. LOUIS — Cardinals first baseman Mike Jefferies was added to the National League All-Star team.

Jefferies is fifth in the NL with a .343 average and leads the league with 112 hits.

He also ranks among the NL top 10 in runs scored (50), total bases (167), slugging percentage (.511) and stolen bases (27).

Jefferies takes the spot of injured San Francisco second baseman Bobby Thompson.

Wallace breaks slump

COLTON, N.H. — Rusty Wallace won the Slick 600, the inaugural NASCAR Winston Cup race at New Hampshire International Speedway.

On lap 274, Wallace kept his Pontiac Grand Prix in front the rest of the way as pole starter Mark Martin passed Davey Allison for runner-up on the 1.078-mile oval.

Dale Jarrett finished fourth, followed by Ricky Rudd, Sterling Marlin and rookie Jeff Gordon.

Dale Earnhardt was 20th and saw a 251-point lead over Jarrett cut to 1-1. Wallace's third leading 200 points.

Tracy smokes Indy field

CLEVELAND — Paul Tracy shipped past Nigel Mansell on the 14th lap and led the rest of the way in the Cleveland Grand Prix, outrunning Pruske teammate Emerson Fittipaldi for his second IndyCar victory.

Tracy averaged 127.913 mph on the 2.369-mile, 10-turn course at Burke Lakefront Airport and won by 18.09 seconds.

Stellan Johansson finished fourth, followed by Mario Andretti, Robby Gordon, Raul Boesel, Leo Tadeo Brian Hill and Arie Luyendyk.

Mansell retained the IndyCar points lead with 102. Fittipaldi moved into second with 88, followed by Boesel with 80, Andretti with 75 and Tracy with 62.

Marlins bring home Sunshine Games medals

From Staff Reports

LALABASSIE — A gold medal victory became a reality for the Orlando Marlins baseball team when it is made of this past week's net at the Sunshine State games at Lallahassie.

The local squad battled back from a 3-0 deficit in the opening game loss to the host team, but they won four straight games and a pair of double-digit wins to finish with a 10-4 record.

The Marlins' lead advanced to the final game of the Sunshine Games at Lallahassie on Sunday afternoon.

In that final game, the Marlins were extremely strong, outpitched host Lallahassie team right to the wire before falling 1-0.

The game in the sixth inning, a 2-0 lead by the Marlins that played Andre M. Vazquez.

The Marlins had to be patient for the Orlando group, but they were patient because it was Lallahassie's 100th Sunshine State Games game.

the Marlins that 10-0 loss. It was also the first time in four games that anyone had argued within six runs of the champions.

Larry Robinson again showed why he was the ace pitcher for Lallahassie, as his scoreless inning streak against the Marlins reached 11 innings. He had also pitched the shutout against the host team in the opening game.

Lallahassie was the unlucky losing pitcher in the final game, getting a two-run homer from Carlos Martinez.

The Marlins had advanced to the finals, the inaugural Orange 9-1 Saturday and Merritt Island 9-0, Sunday morning.

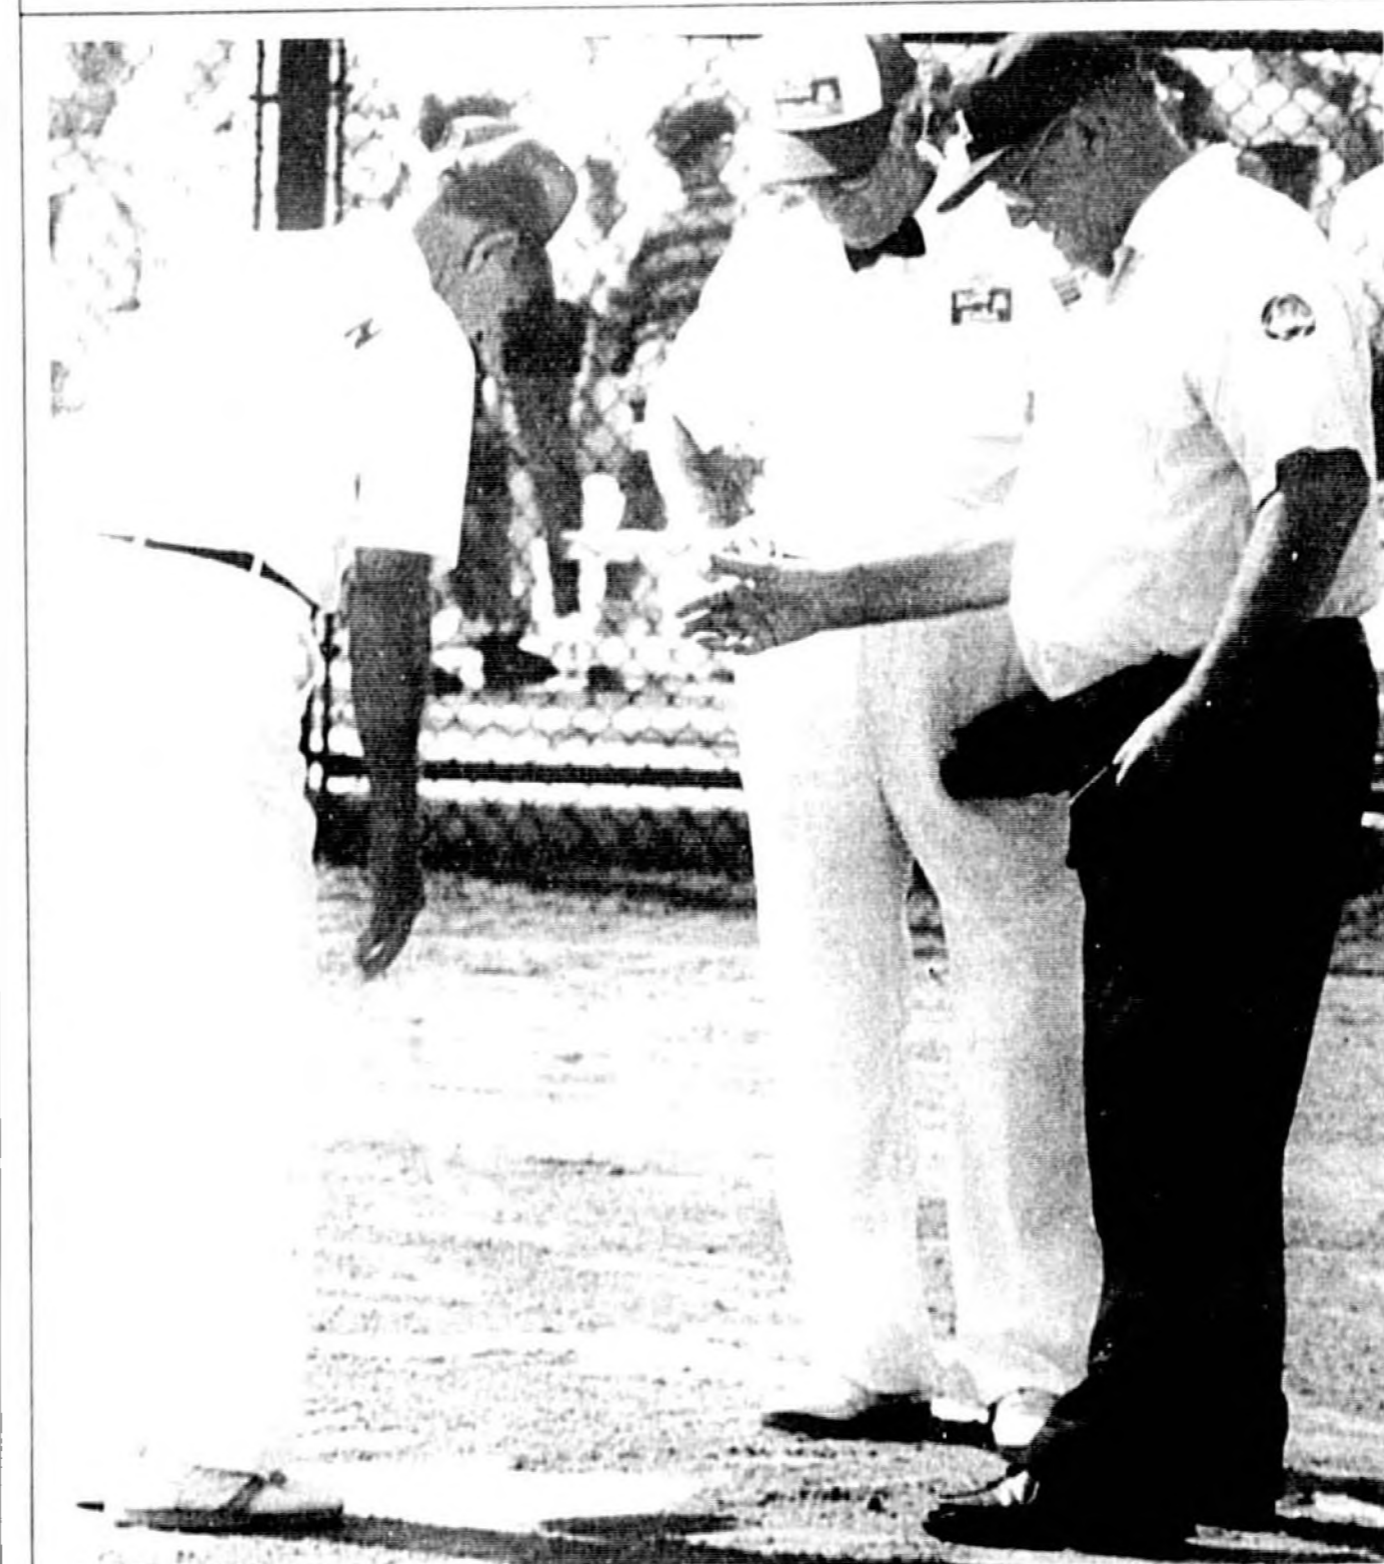

Against Quincy, Jason Fairs was the winning pitcher for the Marlins. He got plenty of hits from the Marlins, but he got plenty of runs from the Marlins, too. He also got plenty of hits from the Marlins, too.

Also playing for the Marlins, who were coached by Brian Jenkins this weekend while head coach Mike Terrill was on vacation, were Tom Brown, Mike Martinez, Mark Moore, Andy Hogan, Andy Henry, Chris Walker, Juan Rodriguez, Ben Danemann, Scott Higgs, Adam Coleman, John Sells and Brian Hendry.

The Marlins' summer team from 1991 at High School, wound up 1-2 in the Sunshine Games, but they were 1-0 in the Sunshine Games.

Is that plate straight?

That seems to be the question everyone is in mind for Saturday's exhibition softball game at the newly dedicated Seminole County Southall Complex in Altamonte Springs.

Mr. Pemberton, an 82-year-old pitcher for the Kubs & Kubs softball team from St. Petersburg, checks out the plate's location while his 89-year-old catcher and the umpire look on. Members of the Kubs & Kubs must be at least 70 years old, and players as old as 102 still participate.

Trash talking exists in recreational play too

Talking trash has become as much a part of playing the game as playing the game itself.

Thanks to national television stations and cable television superstations, the American public is being exposed daily to the verbal crumpets of professional athletes.

And while many amateurs try to mimic the styles of the professionals, talking trash like slam dunking or snap curling is a lot of practice. It doesn't come naturally to most.

But what trash talking by professionals has done is make backhanded verbal slaps — things we'd just as soon not hear about ourselves or our game — more objectionable by comparison and the process more acceptable.

For example, when playing softball or baseball, rather than get in to a face-to-face challenge with the batter, a pitcher will step off the rubber and call to his or her outfield, "Why are you guys playing so deep?" This guy will never hit the ball that far. Move in closer, closer.

Other things, like just as soon as you hear who's coming, saying fields.

Slowly, the play slows down, runners in the bases, cast double play.

How do you guys stake for him hit the ball? He says, "You out."

Baseball players include...

It's obvious who he means.

Let's see, he'll never make it.

We can run on these guys.

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

Can you run on these guys?

when a member of your foursome is asked what your collective handicap is, you may want to consider switching sports.

Once all the tee hitting order is determined by distance from the flag, the person furthest from the hole hitting first and soon.

Hence, the four worst words of golf are: "It's still your turn."

Understand that these generally aren't directed directly at the party in question, but to teammates about the questionable party. The effectiveness of such pronouncements are compounded by using them in earshot of the subject.

Also, discussing someone in the third person when the individual is standing right there, adds considerably to the "it's not your business" nature of the indirect hit. Like they're not there, it's worth the effort of acknowledging.

The bottom line is they're only effective if there's some grain of truth. Just as it's not bragging if you can't do it, it's not talking trash if you're telling the truth.

And that's what hurts.

RAINES GAUGE

Tim Raines is a Sanford native and Seminole High School graduate now playing for the Chicago White Sox. His stats are for the 1993 season in the first column, personal best season totals in the second column and career totals (including 1993 games) in the third column.

Raines continues to swing a hot bat as he came off the bench Sunday to triple in his only at bat and score a run in the White Sox' 11-5 trouncing of the Baltimore Orioles.

With the win the White Sox lead the Western Division heading into the All-Star break for the first time since 1984.

Take control of fire ant problems

Fire ants are a "big problem" for Central Florida residents. The sting is painful and can cause itching pustules that take days to heal. Some of us can experience an allergic reaction to the sting that can be quite severe. Unfortunately, I've learned the hard way not to work in the yard wearing sandals.

The fire ant is a small aggressive ant that builds a rounded nest or mound that can be as large as 2 or 3 feet across. Fire ant colonies are made up of a queen ant, winged males and females (virgin females), workers and brood (eggs, larvae and pupae).

Swarming usually occurs in the late spring and summer; however, swarming may occur at any time of year. The ants mate during flight and females land to begin new colonies. Most females fly or are blown less than a mile from the nest, but some travel as far as 12 miles or more. The nests are normally prevalent in open, sunny areas. Fire ants mound in yards, playgrounds and recreation areas and can be a real hazard to children and pets.

To effectively control fire ants, you should treat individual mounds. You will need to kill the queen or you will not get control. If the queen isn't controlled, she will start a colony somewhere else. This is why it may appear that no matter which method you choose, nothing seems to work. In reality what happened is that you didn't kill the queen. Today, colonies are being found with multiple queens which makes control even more difficult. There are several methods to control fire ants in an individual mound. First, you can drench the individual mounds with an insecticide like Dursban or Diazinon. Dilute the insecticide concentrates in water in a sprinkling can or bucket according to label directions and pour one gallon of liquid on the mound. Be sure to thoroughly wet the mound and the surrounding area. Best results are achieved if the weather is cool or after a rainfall. Check the mound in seven days and repeat if necessary.

GARDENING

You can also pour boiling water in the mound as an alternative to using pesticides. Heat one gallon of water to boiling and pour directly on the mound and surrounding area. This method also works better in cool days after 10 a.m. when the sun is shining. Boiling water can be dangerous since it can burn if spilled on the skin so extreme caution should be used to prevent burns during application. Boiling water will also kill plants, so be careful when applying "hot" water.

Since neither of the above methods guarantees to kill the queen, probably the best method is to use a bait where the insecticide is a food source and will be fed to the queen. Baits are easy to use, simply sprinkle the recommended amount on each mound. Distribute the bait uniformly a few feet around the mound. Remember that the bait contains an insecticide, so do not contaminate kitchen utensils during application or storage.

The bait is picked up by the worker ants and fed directly to the queen which is guaranteed to kill her. Baits are slow acting, requiring 2 to 4 weeks to kill the queen. Live worker ants may be found in the mounds for 4 to 6 months, even though the queen is dead. Repeat the treatment in four months if the ants are still a nuisance.

Baits, like all pesticides, must be used correctly. Never apply more than the recommended amount and always scatter it instead of dumping it all in one spot. Bait treatments should be made when soil surface temperatures are above 60 degrees Fahrenheit or after a rainfall. Avoid applications during the heat of the day when soil temperatures are above 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

For more information about fire ants, call 323-2500, ext. 5550 or visit the Cooperative Extension office at the Ag. Center at 250 W. County Home Road for a "free" fact sheet.

A toast to all

Failure to measure up causes wife's patience to wear down

DEAR ABBY: I have been happily married for two years, after going with the fellow for nearly four years. I love my husband, but I can't seem to please his mother. She has found fault with me since day one. If I change my hair, she liked it better the other way. Nothing I wear is right; my skirt is either too long or too short — and my clothes are either too loose or too tight.

I have never talked back to her, but once when she was on my back about something, my husband told her to lay off and quit picking on me, so she said I was "overly sensitive." Well, she is overly insensitive, and always has to have the last word. This irritates me.

ADVICE

Last Sunday we were at my mother-in-law's for supper, so after we ate everyone went to the family room and it was obvious that they expected their daughter and me to clean up the kitchen.

When my mother-in-law comes to my house, I treat her like a guest, and wouldn't think of letting her work in my kitchen.

Any advice? I'm not very good at putting on an act.

DEAR IRRITATED: What happened last Sunday was caused by a difference in perception. You perceived yourself as a guest in your mother-in-law's home, but she perceived you as a member of the family (her daughter was the other half of the clean-up crew.)

The constant criticism to which you are being subjected is rude and insensitive. As I see it, your choices are limited. You can develop a tougher hide and tune her out. Or look into family counseling before all your little irritations snowball into one giant family freeze-out.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to Frank Richie, whose pet peeve is people who come to church services and plop themselves down at the end of the pew and expect everyone to crawl over them.

I am very short, so I always get to church early so I can get an aisle seat. I am reminded of what happened to me when our son graduated from the Air Force Academy. The graduating ceremony was to begin at 9 a.m., so the nine people in our party got up at 5:30 a.m., showered, dressed and had breakfast, and headed for the stadium at 7 a.m. We stood in line until the gates opened at 8 a.m.

I staked out an aisle seat and sat on that hard concrete for an hour. At exactly two minutes to 9, a pretty young thing trotted down the aisle on the arm of a cadet. He leaned down and asked me sweetly, "Would you mind moving down, please?" I smiled back and replied, "Young man, do you know how long I have been sitting here?"

He looked surprised and ashamed, as he found a couple of seats in the middle of the row.

JEANNE KELLY,
WEST SACRAMENTO, CALIF.

DEAR JEANNE: Thank you for writing. The number of readers who wrote to challenge Mr. Richie's sentiments was amazing.

The wonders of chemical balance

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please address chemical imbalance problems.

DEAR READER: This is such an immense subject that whole textbooks have been written about it. Problems with chemical balance lead to serious illness, including vascular collapse, coma and death. However, I'll give you what I hope is a concise answer -- with a twist.

The most amazing feature of the chemical balance within our bodies is that it exists at all. Any living biological system has to deal with hundreds, probably thousands, of chemicals. The fact that we are able to do so -- and do it automatically -- is a miracle.

For example, if you hold your breath, oxygen levels in the bloodstream fall and carbon dioxide rises, leading to a highly acid condition in the system. In order to combat this, reflexes are set in motion: the urge to breathe, obviously, but also the kidneys begin to excrete a more acid urine.

Similarly, if a person ingests a substance that causes a chemical imbalance, the body employs many different mechanisms to neutralize or detoxify the substance. Even dehydration, which causes many chemical imbalances, promotes a host of defense reactions.

Therefore, a persisting chemical imbalance indicates that the body's normal defenses aren't functioning properly, either because of a deficiency (diabetics are very susceptible to acid conditions) or because the imbalance is too severe to be neutralized (drug overdose, for example).

To complicate matters further, all the reactions in the body are chemical -- from digestion to the effects of hormones to the consequences of medicines. So, the biological system has to have, literally at its fingertips, innumerable checks, balances and counter-reactions. Finally, human beings maintain a remarkably regulated internal environment, despite the complexities of our world. For instance, we don't function well in atmospheres that are too hot, too cold or contain too many or too few nutrients (including water and air). Variations in any of these factors can upset all our chemical balances. This fact is no surprise to chemistry students who are well aware that certain chemical reactions only occur at specific temperatures and pressures.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

I have just returned from a memorable week in Turkey, where I played in the First Bric Duniyasi Bridge Tournament. It was held in Marmaris, a beautiful resort on the Aegean Sea in the southwest corner of the country.

Today's deal is the very first my partner, New York expert Jim Krekorian, and I played. Our opponents reached a thin game. A diamond lead would have made our lives easy, but understandably Krekorian led the spade seven. Declarer won the first trick with the nine and cashed the spade ace. Krekorian dropped the 10, his middle remaining spade, in an effort to indicate preference for diamonds, the middle of the other three suits.

Next, South finessed dummy's spade jack: I discarded a low heart. Now South called for the heart two. When I played an "automatic" low heart, declarer gave me no second chance. He won with the king, played a club to dummy's queen, cashed the spade king and played clubs from the top, claiming nine tricks when the jack dropped on the third round.

How should I have known what to do?

When South doesn't cash the spade king, he must have a dummy entry remaining. That means he must have the A-K of clubs, which, with the heart king and spade ace, add up to 14 points. Therefore, he couldn't have the diamond ace. I should have shot in with the heart ace and continued with the king and jack of diamonds. With my partner holding the vital diamond 10, we would have defeated the contract and got the tournament off to a flying, not flat, start.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
July 13, 1993

There are indications you might form a dynamic new friendship in the year ahead. It could be with a person who is extremely enterprising and operates in areas with which you're unfamiliar.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Think progressively today and don't be reluctant to test new methods or procedures, because these are apt to be the ones that will help you get things done you couldn't accomplish otherwise. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your material prospects look encouraging today, but in order to manifest themselves they must be given top priority and focus. Make making money your prime interests.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Things should go satisfactorily for you today, provided you utilize your initiative instead of waiting on others. Take command of the situation and circumstances.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You have the unique ability today to unravel developments others have left tangled. Use your gifts for their good, as well as for your own.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You can learn much today by closely observing a person who operates in a manner you admire. His/her techniques can be applied to situations that presently affect you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your competitive instincts will be easily aroused today and this could serve a useful purpose, because when you're motivated to be first you'll be hard to beat.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If someone you know on a purely social basis offers to do you a special favor today, be a gracious recipient. Later you'll be able to pay this person back.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something you've been wanting to alter but lack the power to do so might be achieved today through the good auspices of another who has your best interests at heart.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It is very possible today that you might be able to utilize the ideas or suggestions of others in ways that will be personally beneficial. However, be sure to later credit the authors.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This could be an extremely rewarding day for you materially from endeavors where you use your skills, knowledge and talents on behalf of others. Be accommodating.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Try not to take yourself or life too seriously today. However, do play to win, but do it in a gamelike manner in order to lighten your outlook and the outlook of those with whom you're involved.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others will be willing to do your bidding today, provided they feel what you want to do for them is not motivated by selfish reasons. (C) 1993, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
