President Orders Ban Rescinded
 WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal ban on school-sponsored "mother-daughter and father-son" events was rescinded today by President Ford. The ban, which was imposed in 1974, prohibited such events from being held on school property. The ban was rescinded after a five-month study of the events was completed. The study found that the events were popular and did not cause any problems. The ban was rescinded after a five-month study of the events was completed. Presidential Hopefuls Differ Candidates Face Off On Energy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Do you prefer controlled or uncontrolled oil prices and imports? Mandatory or voluntary energy-saving standards? Federal back-up or federal break-up of big energy companies? Take your choice and look closely at this year's presidential candidates.

The energy policies of Democratic contender Jimmy Carter differ sharply from those of President Ford and his rival for the Republican nomination, Ronald Reagan.

For example, Carter favors oil price controls and import quotas, mandatory energy conservation standards and trimming the power of large energy companies.

Ford and Reagan favor an unregulated oil market, more voluntary energy conservation steps and federal support for energy companies.

Carter has more faith in solar energy, less in nuclear power, than Ford or Reagan.

All three favor removal of interstate natural gas price regulation, but Carter would make it temporary—a five-year test of the theory that it would bring forth new gas supplies as producers claim.

All three also favor greater reliance on coal, but Carter questions Ford's push to develop federal coal in the west as a move that might short-change the existing coal area of Appalachia.

After two years in the White House, Ford has spread his energy views all over the public record.

As former governors of Georgia and California, respectively, Carter and Reagan had neither Ford's ... federal resources nor his responsibility to develop national energy policies.

But Carter has developed a fairly comprehensive and specific set of energy policies, including an original proposal for a World Energy Conference to foster international cooperation in energy research, investment, data-gathering and conservation.

Reagan's published energy views have mainly been general attitudes, illustrated by criticism of policies already enacted by Ford and Congress. He shares Ford's "free-market" approach, but seems to feel it should be even more free than Ford would demand.

Here is a run-down of major energy issues as viewed by Ford, Reagan and Carter:

—Oil Prices: Ford urges an immediate end to oil price controls, but he signed legislation permitting only a gradual phase-out.

Reagan says Ford should have vetoed it.

Carter says prices of U.S.-produced oil should be controlled, at least $3 per barrel below world prices set by the OPEC foreign oil cartel.

—Oil Imports: Ford has made the reduction of oil imports a policy goal but wants to rely on rising prices and eventual improvement of U.S. production to stem the flow. He wants to see Arab oil embargo but has not predicted a U.S. reaction.

Carter proposes a quota system to limit oil imports to their present levels; this could create domestic shortages, and Carter says fuel allocation and rationing plans should be kept on standby status.

Carter says a new cut-off of oil shipments to the ... United States would be "an economic declaration of war" and that he would "instantly and without further debate" suspend U.S. exports of food, weapons, spare parts, oil drilling rigs and oil pipes to the offenders.

Reagan apparently has not taken public positions on these issues.

—Energy conservation: Ford prefers voluntary measures but signed an energy act mandating automobile mileage standards; Reagan said he would have vetoed it and blames such moves on "elitists, some of whom feel guilty because Americans have built such a prosperous nation."

Ford has proposed building insulation standards and tax credits.

Carter wants mandatory conservation standards for major appliances, automobiles and buildings; revision of electricity rates, a ban on promotional advertising and standby excise taxes on selected fuels.

—Energy ownership: "I support legal prohibitions against ownership of competing types of energy, oil and coal, for example," says Carter, who also would consider splitting oil production and refining from marketing activities.

Ford opposes any attempt to break up oil or energy companies.

Reagan apparently has taken no public position on this issue.

—Campaign contributions: "I will not accept contributions from political action committees controlled by major oil companies," says Carter. Ford and Reagan, asked the same question by a citizens' consumer group, said they would accept such contributions.

Airport Authority Approves Budget

By KRIS NASH
 Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford-Central Florida Airport Authority today approved a budget of nearly $16 million for fiscal 1977, a 20 percent slash of more than $11 million from the appropriation the authority has operated under the past year.

The five authority members attending the meeting voted unanimously to adopt the projected package of $15,400,000 and send it to the Sanford City Commission for final approval.

The budget, which goes into effect Oct. 1, includes an $850,000 appropriation for completion of a construction and lighting project originally begun in 1974.

The project—which would be funded primarily by state and federal grants—involves the building of a north-south taxi-way and a new patrol road at the facility plus installation of high-intensity lighting on the taxi-way and on some existing runways.

Authority members John Mercer and Scott Burns questioned the proposed reduction of the airport's building repair and maintenance allotment from $45,000 to $20,000, saying they were not sure the latter figure would properly cover necessary upkeep on various airport buildings.

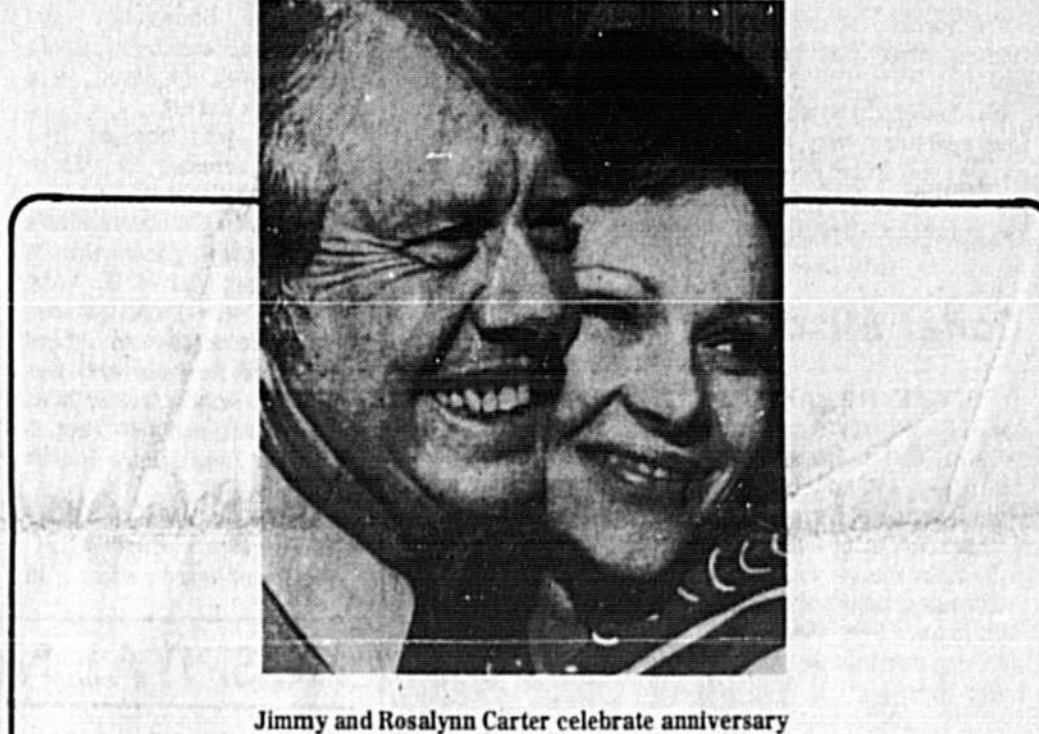

On another front, panelist Herbert Moreland said he feels the facilities and services maintained by the airport's fixed-base operator (FBO) are "deteriorating rapidly."

As examples Moreland cited a recent plunge in the number of monthly charter flights handled by the airport from 19 to nine, and the closing of the airport's restaurant and flight food catering service.

Dr. Robert Rosemond, the authority chairman, agreed. "It is appalling to me and ridiculous," Rosemond said, "that this airport doesn't have a place where a person can get a cup of coffee. That's one of life's pleasures."

The Airport Inn restaurant was closed May 31 on the orders of FBO Henry Wight. Wight terminated the restaurant's lease three months early because he said the facility's electrical bills were excessively high.

Members of the authority directed Cleveland to investigate the possibility of bringing in a consulting firm to examine the present FBO situation at the airport.

Carter Is Concerned Over General Election

PLAINS, Ga. (AP)—Jimmy Carter, who is virtually assured of the Democratic presidential nomination but says he's worried about the general election in November, was at home today to confer with two more possible running mates.

Carter stood on an airplane seat, with his wife's arm clasped around his waist.

"We're trying to prevent a realization of that concern by a very careful, very methodical, very thorough analysis and planning, polling and organization, trying to put together every possible capability for a victory in November. I think I'll win," he said.

Carter's vice presidential drama continued Wednesday with the candidate's announcement that Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, is being considered as a potential running mate.

He denied press reports that Sen. Frank Church of Idaho had been eliminated from vice presidential contention and that he hadn't get along with Church.

"I've never been with Sen. Church more than seven or eight minutes in my life," Carter told reporters. But those minutes "were very pleasant and I enjoyed them," he said.

They are kind of worried about it, and I am, too.

Park Fee Issue Swamps Canoes, Rowboats

By ED PRICKETT
 Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission's lack of a decision on what to charge residents using county parks has left canoes and rowboats high and dry at Lake Mills Park.

Director of County Development John Percy maintains park officials can begin renting the boats and 15 campsites as soon as the county commission decides on a fee schedule.

At last Tuesday's meeting the commission postponed a decision. Percy has suggested $1 an hour for boat rentals and $2-a-night for campsite rentals.

The commission has made no decision because county commissioners have mixed emotions about what to charge—if anything.

Commissioner John Kimbrough says he is opposed to charging county residents fees for facilities that were constructed with taxpayer money.

Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski agrees, for the most part, with Kimbrough.

Commissioner Richard Williams is solidly behind initiating some type of user fee. In fact Williams says some fees outlined in Percy's latest proposal should be higher.

County Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway occupies a middle-of-the-road position. Hattaway favors fees for after-hours lighting at tennis courts and ballfields, but the chairman opposes a fee system for other services residents have already paid for.

Kid-Parent Ruling Irritates Ford Today

... schools, which sponsor father-son banquets and mother-daughter teas. Scottsdale officials wanted to know whether the events violated the laws prohibiting sex discrimination in public schools.

Officially, the ruling issued last week was suspended pending research by lawyers to determine whether Title IX of the Civil Rights Act is violated by such events.

Nessen said that if it is found that the law is being violated, Ford would immediately send legislation to Congress to change the law.

The National Organization for Women took opposition to Ford's stand.

"We are watching Title IX being nicked and dimed to death," charged Lynda Weston, a NOW staff member.

Dividing the sexes for school-sponsored fashion shows, softball games, banquets and breakfasts is a tradition in many communities.

"What happens is you get the girls together with the mens and you have teas and awards for sewing and fashion shows. You get the boys and dads together and you have community leaders come in and give rousing speeches," the NOW official said.

"Other opponents argue such affairs are unfair to children with only one parent.

Trade Policy Is Out Of Step

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger preached unity in his address to the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development in Paris. This trade and monetary organization, in which the Western European countries are joined by the United States and Canada, demonstrated a distinct lack of cohesion, however, at the recent conference in Nairobi which attempted to resolve differences between the industrialized world and the less developed countries.

While Nairobi revealed divisions in how the OECD countries view relations with the Third World, Mr. Kissinger in his Paris speech touched on an aspect of the West's trade policies which has received less attention. It is the brisk trade developing between Western Europe and the Soviet bloc. Mr. Kissinger warned that the eager competition by Western countries to sell goods on the other side of the Iron Curtain is giving the Communist countries the opportunity to "play off" the industrial democracies against each other.

Trade between the Eastern bloc and the OECD countries has nearly quadrupled in the last four years. The Russians and the Eastern European nations have borrowed $30 billion from Western banks to finance their purchases which cannot be covered by their own exports to the West.

Mr. Kissinger is in a peculiar position to be urging more co-ordination by the OECD in East-West trade policies. Aside from our large grain sales to the Soviet Union and to some of its European satellites, our participation in this trade bloc has been blunted by our own Trade Act of 1974, with its Jackson-Vanik amendment linking trade with the Communists to a restriction of Jewish emigration policies in the Soviet Union.

Soviet-bloc orders for machinery and equipment from the United States have been declining since 1973, while they are a growing part of Western European sales. Treasury Secretary William E. Simon estimates the restrictions on Soviet purchases have cost the United States at least $1 billion in business.

Meanwhile there is no sign at all that those restrictions are accomplishing what Congress naively thought they would. Jewish emigration from the Soviet Union had declined last year to 13,000 from the peak of 35,000 before the Jackson-Vanik amendment was adopted. Neither the Soviet Union nor Hungary, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia and East Germany has been willing to change its emigration policy to obtain trade benefits under our law.

It would strengthen the international economic system if the Western democracies were to coordinate their trade with the Soviet bloc, says Mr. Kissinger. The United States can hardly take the lead in such an effort when our own trade relations with the Communist countries are chilled by the Jackson-Vanik amendment.

Reforms Needed

The administration should keep fighting for the reforms in the Food Stamp program which a federal judge has blocked on grounds there is a "likelihood" that the Department of Agriculture exceeded its authority in ordering them put into effect on June 1. For each day that passes, millions of dollars is going down the drain in the waste and inequities known to exist under the present rules.

The reforms would remove the least-deserving from the Food Stamp program in order to increase the food allowances for those in the most needy category. Practically everyone agrees that this ought to be done — including members of the Congress who are trying to write their own revision of the program. An appeal of the federal court ruling against the Agriculture Department can be expedited as the quickest way to bring Food Stamp excesses under control.

TOM TIEDE Teamsters: Shape Up Or Ship Out

WASHINGTON — One rarely has to reproach Teamsters' chief Frank Fitzsimmons for being vague. Usually he makes himself clear. But when he recently advised some dissident union members to "go to hell," what he really meant was for them to "go to Coventry."

Coventry is a town in England where, long ago, defeated soldiers were sent for penitence, since then "to Coventry" has throughout the English-speaking world meant ostracism.

The phrase is now quaint and obsolete. Except in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which is fascinated with rituals of the Middle Ages. Members who aren't in luck step with union policy are banished from the company of the faithful — sent to Coventry — until such time as they recognize Fitzsimmons as lord god.

Currently there are several thousand Teamsters in Coventry. They represent a handful of splinter factions who subscribe to such nonsense as union democracy. Lincoln Merrill of Winston-Salem, N.C., is among them. He calls Fitzsimmons' manner of believing in union hierarchy an extension of organized crime. Worse, he has joined a union subculture called PROUD which wants the U.S. government to force fundamental Teamsters reform. For this Fitzsimmons has decreed that he Merrill is a leper not fit to so much as speak to.

Says Merrill: "The men in my local have looked me for months. If I ask a question, they won't answer. That is unless I ask something in a union meeting; then they will speak to me by trying to shout me down. Naturally this kind of thing leads to arguments, and one time I even got my fist broken — on some other guy's jaw."

Coventry entails other punishments as well, Merrill adds. He says families have been threatened, wives have received appalling phone calls. "I live in an atmosphere of guarded hostility," he says. The radicals dare not violate a rule, for instance, because the union management, which inevitably subscribes to the Gospel as written by F. Fitzsimmons, is ever seeking ways to get rid of democrats.

And if all else fails to convince men like Merrill of their sin, the end move in the Teamsters is often to pick up the gun. Before he departed society, unexpectedly, ex-Teamsters Jimmy Hoffa told a reporter that "the bosses are everywhere." He did not elaborate, and did not have to. R.I.P. Jimmy Merrill says he has not yet been personally threatened, "but after what I've seen nothing would surprise me."

What Merrill and other PROUD members have sent up to one of the most damning indictments of union corruption in the modern history of the labor movement.

JACK ANDERSON Jaffe Tries To Aid Quang

WASHINGTON — A Los Angeles scrap-metal magnate has brought pressure on U.S. authorities to admit Li Gan Dang Van Quang, the former notorious South Vietnamese intelligence chief, into the United States.

The metals magnate, Sam Jaffe, has offered Quang a job with his corporation, Stiles International. According to confidential government memos, Jaffe explained that he wanted the controversial Quang because of his political connections.

You must be politically oriented to do business in Southeast Asia," one memo quotes Jaffe as saying. "There is no way to do business in any of these countries without paying off."

Quang's skills in the art of corruption are well-documented. He was associated in Saigon with heroin smuggling, extortion and torture. He sold exit visas, for example, to punky South Vietnamese refugees trying to flee aboard the Communists. One refugee has told of a $10,000 payment that Quang extorted.

These charges have been largely substantiated by the Canadian government, which now has Quang on its hands. He has been ordered deported as an "undesirable person," with permission to remain in Canada only until he can find another country that will take him.

As chief of South Vietnam's Central Intelligence Agency and a close confidante of President Nguyen Van Thieu, Quang was formerly a power in Saigon. He abused his power with a viciousness that has made him a target of a South Vietnamese vengeance squad called the Black April Committee. According to government memos, he stands "accused of torturing and killing Vietnamese nationals."

Jaffe succeeded in endorsing himself to Quang during the intelligence chief's glory days.

It's budget time. And in a few months, county commissioners will begin slicing requests from department chiefs for funds to run governmental operations next year.

The urge to cut can become manic. It did last year. Before you know it, worthy projects can be chopped out by reducing the budget to keep mileage down. This year will be doubly worse because three county commission seats are up for grabs.

Commission Chairman Mike Hattaway is up for re-election. Republican Commissioner Richard Williams must run again, and the seat occupied by Commissioner Sid Vihlen Jr. will be open.

There's hardly any better way for a politician to endear himself to the people than by cutting land taxes. Who would argue with that? But the commission has a tendency to chop out all social projects. They did it last year, and unless there's been some change in operating philosophy, you can look for it to happen again this year.

Directors of social programs better get rolling now if they expect to be funded. Rather than just cut across the board, it would be nice if the commission gave more consideration to some social programs, rather than just automatically wipe them out as a matter of philosophy.

There is no question that voters want reduced taxes. No one in his right mind would argue that. But, at the same time, elected officials have a responsibility to provide services to all area residents. And part of those services include the funding of social programs.

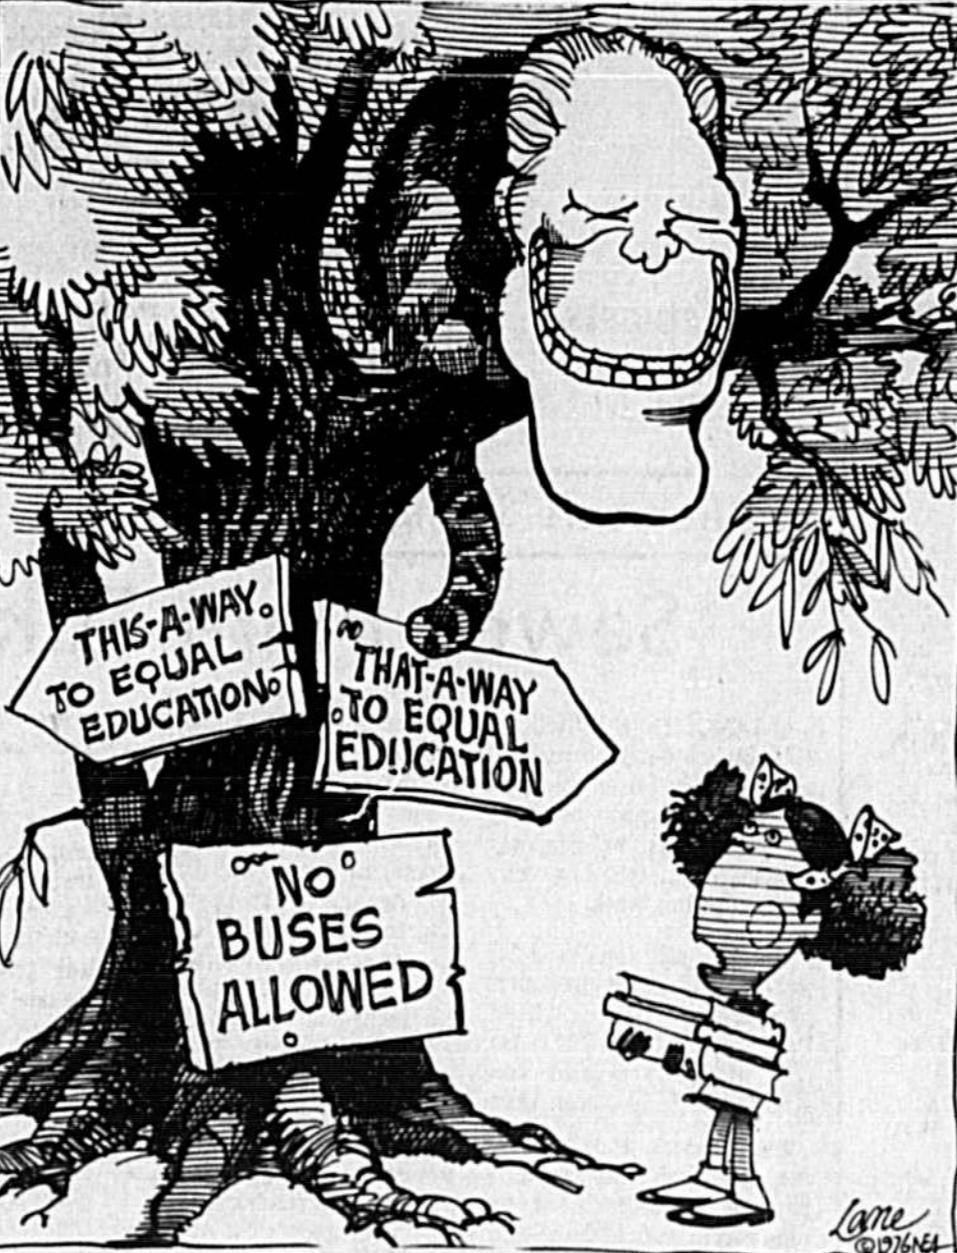

In the short run, funding such programs is not too smart. Most of the agencies represent no bloc of votes. And most certainly most have no lobbying expertise, unless it's done through the Seminole League of Women Voters, as was the case last year. But, historically, a nation is judged on how well it is able to care for its needy. And if nations are judged that way, counties are too. The same principle applies.

Last year Williams said was not the year for social programs, and believe me it wasn't. That statement proved true.

The county budget can be held down without chopping out all the funds slated to aid the needy. In fact there is now and there always has been fat in the budget.

County commissioners know that. All they have to do is bite the bullet, put aside politics and get to work and produce a budget the people can live with. And, hopefully, by people that means all the people — the have nots as well as the haves.

"Would you please tell me which way I ought to go from here?"

JOHN D. LOFTON JR. Medicaid To Fund Abortions

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate — the so-called "world's greatest deliberative body" — has deliberated gravely last week and voted 57-28 that the federal government (specifically the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare) should continue to fund Medicaid abortions which are now paid for by the states at a yearly cost of between $45 million and $50 million, your dollars and mine.

In the course of the Senate debate, there were the usual pro-abortion and anti-abortion arguments. Sen. Ed Brooke, R-Mass., spoke in favor of Medicaid abortions involving the victims of rape and incest, who, of course, constitute only an infinitesimal percentage of those requesting these abortions.

Declining to discuss the morality of abortion or the number of unborn children aborted each year, he warned his colleagues against getting into "an emotional debate." Emotion in the Senate, you see, is something to be reserved only when discussing things like the profits of big oil companies.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., — "personally opposed" to abortion, naturally — declared that the fact is not whether we're going to have abortions but "whether they will be on the operating table in a doctor's office or in a back room on a butcher's block."

Sen. Dewey Bartlett, R-Okla., argued — personally — in his judgment, against Medicaid abortions, observing that just because the Supreme Court has ruled a woman has a qualified right to an abortion, this does not mean there is a correlative constitutional right to have the taxpayer pay for it.

Letter To The Editor Registers Protest

It is my solemn duty to call to your attention the grave miscarriage of justice that has been perpetrated on the general public.

At first my thinking was to take my case to the courts, but when I suggested this to my lawyer, he recommended a change in legal representation. Of course, I refer to Tuesday's paper, in which it is alleged that I was the Ugly Man Contest at the July 4 lake front spectacle. Nothing could be further from the truth, and this defamation of my character and well-being, and that of my family, must be corrected. Surely an institution of your integrity and moral responsibility will retract this falsehood.

Two facts are clear: One, I could have won the Ugly Man Contest without a beard or special clothing; and two, the Beard Contest and award, was judged by people of impeccable character. I was judged — I tried unsuccessfully to bring them before the contest!!! It was a great way to raise money for some very worthwhile causes, and an unforgettable day of wishing ourselves a Happy Birthday... Congratulations to all...

William E. MacLaughlin Sanford

Morgan Top Vote-Getter Five Reds N.L. All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Morgan, baseball's top vote-getter, joined four of his fellow teammates from the Cincinnati Reds in gaining starting berths on the National League's All-Star team, Commissioner Bowie Kuhn announced today.

Morgan, the powerful but pinstriped second baseman, will share the NL's infield starting assignment with two teammates, third baseman Pete Rose and shortstop Dave Conception. Catcher Johnny Bench will represent Cincinnati on the NL's starting team.

Steve Garvey of Los Angeles beat Cincinnati's Tony Perez in the first balloting to prevent the world champion Reds from hogging the entire NL infield for the 47th midsummer classic, scheduled for Tuesday night at Philadelphia.

Rose made the All-Star squad as a third baseman for the first time in 1975, in batting .337 with 14 home runs and 50 runs batted in.

Rose, now a 10-time All-Star selection after beating Philadelphia outfielder Fred Lynn of Boston, the NL's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year in 1975.

The remainder of the team includes third baseman George Brett, who is batting .292 — Harrah, and Detroit outfielder Ron LeFlore and Rusty Staub. Grich, in his sixth major league season, is the NL's second baseman Willie Randolph, the first rookie ever listed on the All-Star ballot.

Staub, a five-time National League All-Star selection, made the AL squad in his first season in the league. He had 1,373,703 votes and was followed in the balloting by Mickey Rivers of the Yankees, 1,432,412, and Amos Otis of Kansas City, 1,431,668.

Boston's Darrell Johnson, AL manager, will name his reserves on Friday.

Game Tuesday In Philly A.L.: Carew Yes, Yaz No

NEW YORK (AP) — In the battle between longtime All-Stars Rod Carew and Carl Yastrzemski, someone had to give. It was Yastrzemski.

Carew, a fixture at second base for the American League All-Star team the past nine years, had led second baseman Bobby Grich of Baltimore on the also-ran list.

Now he's doing the same thing to Yastrzemski, another 10-time All-Star veteran.

Carew, the AL's top hitter the past four years, moved from second base to first base this year, and when the All-Star rosters were announced Wednesday by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office, Boston's Yastrzemski was off the team.

Carew, of Minnesota, who now has made the AL's starting team each year he has been in the major leagues, collected 1,778,958 votes. Yastrzemski received 1,403,557 votes.

Catcher Thurman Munson of the New York Yankees joined Carew as the only All-Star repeater on the AL's starting team, which will face the National League All-Stars Tuesday night at Philadelphia.

The AL has lost 12 of the last 13 midseason games, including last year's 6-3 decision. Munson beat out another Boston player, Carlton Fisk, in a close battle of previous All-Star performers. Munson is the All-Star catcher for the second year in a row. Munson and shortstop Tony Harrah of the St. Louis Cardinals lead the AL starters in home runs, each with eight.

The rest of the starters are first-time electees, including outfielder Fred Lynn of Boston, the NL's Most Valuable Player and Rookie of the Year in 1975.

Boston's Darrell Johnson, AL manager, will name his reserves on Friday.

Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schepelby, who led the majors in RBI with 69, Foster, who has hit 17 homers while batting .334, amassed 1,482,045 votes. Kingman, the major league home run leader with 27, finished with 1,415,050 votes in making the team for the first time.

Bench was named the NL catcher for the eighth straight year. He is batting .244 — lowest on the squad, with nine homers and 44 RBI.

Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson will name his reserves on Friday. He previously selected an eight-man pitching staff that included Andy Messersmith of Atlanta. But because of an injury, Messersmith was replaced by Dick Hathorn of Atlanta.

Luzinski, with a .310 batting average, 12 homers and 54 RBI, led the NL outfielders in the balloting with 1,946,279 votes.

Nations Salute U.S. With Stunning Historic Exhibit

Like kids invited to a birthday party, many nations of the world have prepared some spectacular Argentinean and 200th birthday of the United States of America. During the next two years it is expected that some 35 million Americans will see the "International Salute to the States" exhibit. Coordinated by the Smithsonian Institution Traveling Exhibition Service (SITES) the exhibits will be seen in major museums and galleries throughout the United States.

Coming is a two-part historical exhibition of late 18th century Holland as seen by John Adams. The first part, "Belgian Gunmaking and American History," shows the relationship between American and Belgian arms manufacturers during the last 200 years. The second part, "An American Inspiration," is Denmark's exhibition of the Shaker influence in Danish furniture.

Florida Marriage Rate Drops For The First Time Since '52

The Herald Service

Fewer marriages were performed in Florida in 1973 than in 1972, and this was the first year-to-year drop since 1952. The marriage rate per 1,000 population fell 0.1, the second yearly decline since peaking at 11.4 in 1973.

Although the largest age group in the Florida population, 15-19, is just entering the marriageable ages, its impact is being offset by large numbers of older persons who are already married moving to Florida. The number of dissolutions in the state rose to a new record and the rate per 1,000 population, 7.5, was at its highest level since 1947.

The recent trends in the marriage and dissolution rates of Florida and the U.S. are very similar. Most of the absolute difference between the two dissolution rates is probably due to persons establishing residency in Florida specifically for the purpose of obtaining a dissolution.

Florida's statistics on marriage and divorce date from 1927 when the central reporting system was established. Trends in marriage and divorce rates are affected by political and economic history. Both rates hit a low point in 1923, the middle of the Great Depression. Both rates peaked in connection with World War II, marriages in 1945, divorces in 1946. The Korean War resulted in much smaller peaks in 1950 and 1952. Changes since 1952 are not easily accounted for but were probably strongly influenced by

Vienna Hotel Has Birthday

VIENNA (AP) — Austrian Archduke Otto, known as the "handsome Otto," reportedly came out of his room in the Vienna Sacher Hotel wearing only his sword, according to one witness. Another asserted the Archduke wore the regulation tie and hat, but nothing else.

This supposedly happened in the last century, and it is one of the anecdotes surrounding the Vienna Sacher Hotel, which this year celebrates its 100th anniversary.

Another is about a guest who left some important papers in his hotel room. He discovered this on his return home. Desperately he searched his mind for the name of the hotel, which he had forgotten.

So he wrote a letter to the "Chocolate Cake Hotel Vienna," because he knew a cake had been named after the hotel. The famed "Sacher-torte."

The letter was duly delivered and the guest got his documents back.

The Sacher Hotel is regarded here as a legendary institution surrounded by many tales.

In the days of the Austrian-Hungarian empire, which collapsed in 1919, "chambers separates" included rooms of the hotel harbored many romances, including those of the handsome Archduke Otto, father of Emperor Karl, the last Austrian imperial ruler.

His proprietress at the time was cigar-smoking Madame Sacher, a legend in her own right. The hotel then was called "Hotel de l'Opera" because it is situated right behind the Opera building.

The first owner was Eduard Sacher, the son of the inventor of the Sacher-torte. He opened the hotel in 1873.

A number of years later, it was renamed Sacher Hotel after the owners.

The present owner, Peter Guertler, recently virtually admitted to newsmen that the hotel is more famous for the cake than as a hotel.

In the 1960s, a legal battle started between the Sacher Hotel and the famed Vienna Pastry shop "Dehmel" over which of the two had the "original Sacher-torte." The conflict was due to the fact that, in 1934, Eduard Sacher said Dehmel had the right to produce his cake.

The battle ended in a true Viennese compromise — both establishments' names were authorized to call their product original but the seals had to be made different.

The Sacher Hotel in its centennial year is as traditional as ever. Diners must wear neckties.

Pat Nixon Is Reportedly Stable Following Stroke

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Doctors kept an overnight vigil on former first lady Pat Nixon, partially paralyzed on her left side from a stroke and in "serious but stable condition."

Mrs. Nixon was reported resting comfortably after visits with her two daughters Thursday night, but neurologist Dr. John Mosier said she is far from being out of danger.

"If the stroke doesn't get any worse, she's not going to die. If it gets worse, well, people die from strokes," Mosier said at a news briefing called after the 64-year-old wife of former President Richard M. Nixon was admitted to Memorial Hospital Medical Center.

The stroke caused "moderate paralysis" of Mrs. Nixon's left leg, arm and left side of her face, which in turn caused a "slight slurring" of speech, Mosier said.

"I think she will walk," he said, but added, "She may not walk normally." "Pressures in her life" certainly could have been a contributing factor toward her illness, Mosier added.

Secret Service agents called an ambulance for her arrival and she was accompanied during the 30-mile trip from the

When housing authority accountant Edmund Dabiedath said he had not seen the $212,205 budget proposal, Commissioner Samuel Wright asked, "How can we have a budget if the accountant doesn't know anything about it?"

The Sanford Housing Authority budget — cut over $60,000 from last year — will be the topic at a workshop meeting scheduled for next Thursday at 7 p.m.

The budget proposal was submitted to the housing authority's commissioners last month, but at a commission meeting Thursday night housing authority accountant Edmund Dabiedath said he had not seen the proposal, prepared by Executive Director Thomas Wilson III, on how to spend the $212,205 federal subsidy.

"How can we have a budget if the accountant doesn't know anything about it?" Commissioner Samuel Wright Jr. asked.

Wilson assured the commissioners that before next week's workshop, what he called an "in-house review" of the budget proposal will be conducted.

An investigation of Wilson's resume — approved at last month's commission meeting — was only mentioned during this month's meeting when Wright requested a correction in the minutes of the last meeting. The investigation motion was incorrectly worded in the minutes, Wright said, and a motion by Commissioner George Brown to suspend Wilson — which was ruled out of order by newly elected Chairman Edward Blackshear — was left out completely.

New Commissioner John Colbert, attending his first meeting, pushed for action on several delayed matters. With his prodding, a $120,000 improvement project was approved despite tenant complaints that they were not involved in the planning.

The improvement project will add yard lights, fencing, sewers, smoke detectors and a lighted

...Mrs. Nixon Always Sought Privacy

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Pat Nixon is a woman who sought privacy even when her husband was president of the United States. She knew poverty and adversity, and she once said, "If I have a problem, I keep it to myself."

The 64-year-old former First Lady — who lies hospitalized here today after a stroke — remained true to form throughout her latest ordeal.

She told the family Wednesday at Casa Pacifica — once the Western White House in San Clemente — that she felt a weakness on her left side.

Ambulance attendants said she seemed cheerful when they arrived Thursday to take her to the hospital. She told them the ambulance wasn't needed.

Later, doctors announced that she had suffered a stroke and she may not walk normally again.

Mrs. Nixon has always prided herself on good health. She rarely let illness force her out of camp appointments and often said that neither hardship nor pain bothered her.

"I prefer to keep my own counsel, solve my own problems," she said.

While in public life, she met harrowing experience with poise and calm.

In 1968, when she was spit on and her car stoned during rioting in Caracas, Venezuela, her self-control moved a military aide to comment, "She's as

Wholesale Price Increase Reflects Gas, Steel Hikes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sharp higher prices for steel and gasoline pushed wholesale prices up four-tenths of a percent in June, the government said today.

The increase compared with a rise of three-tenths of a percent in May and was in line with relatively modest inflation rates so far this year both the wholesale and retail level.

Farm and food price increases slowed last month but an acceleration in industrial prices, led by steel and gasoline, was largely responsible for the over-all wholesale price increase, the Labor Department said.

Fears of a new outbreak of inflation were expressed by many economists after an eight-tenths of a percent jump in industrial prices in April, the biggest rise in six months. But the slowdown in May and June is expected to help dampen those fears.

The Ford administration forecast an inflation rate of about 6 per cent this year, high by historical standards but down from the 7 per cent rate in 1973 and far below the near record 12.2 per cent increase in 1974.

In June, the wholesale price index stood at 183.1, meaning it cost $183.1 to buy the same goods that sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

Industrial prices rose five-tenths of a percent last month with metal and fuel products accounting for more than half the increase, the government said.

Gasoline prices were up 3.7 per cent while metal products rose 1.1 per cent, largely as the result of previously announced increases in certain steel mill products.

Processed foods and feeds rose four-tenths of a percent in June.

Convention Countdown: Looking Toward November

Carter Having Trouble Picking A Running Mate

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — After back-to-back meetings with Sens. Walter Mondale and John Glenn, Jimmy Carter says he is having a more difficult time choosing a vice presidential running mate than he expected.

Mondale, of Minnesota, flew to Carter's hometown in a private plane Thursday morning to meet with him as a vice presidential possibility. And Glenn, from Ohio, followed several hours later.

The former Georgia governor said initially he would interview at least five vice presidential possibilities. He later lengthened that list to six or seven. He talked with Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine on Monday.

Carter said Thursday he plans to meet with Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington in New York on Saturday, two days before the start of the Democratic National Convention. He also has said he probably will interview Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey. Although they now are considered dark horses, two other senators who are expected to be interviewed by Carter during the convention are Frank Church of Idaho and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois.

Standing with Glenn, the former astronaut, on the lawn of Carter's home, the man who almost certainly will be nominated for the presidency next week

Ford Picks Up Delegates; Reagan Keeps Up Hopes

CHICAGO (AP) — Ronald Reagan headed for potentially greener pastures in Colorado today after suffering his worst setback in several weeks in his campaign for the Republican nomination for president.

President Ford picked up delegates Thursday and Reagan gained 23 in delegate elections in North Dakota and commitments from previously uncommitted delegates in six other states and territories.

That gave Ford 1,028 of the 1,130 delegates needed for the Republican nomination. Reagan, who had been steadily gaining in recent weeks, trails with 579 in The Associated Press' survey of GOP delegates.

And Reagan, while still predicting a first-ballot victory next month in Kansas City, devoted a significant portion of his day Thursday to trying to head off second-ballot slippage if the convention gets to that point.

He held several private meetings with about a dozen Indiana delegates — who are legally bound to him only on the first ballot — to solidify their support.

The former California governor planned to meet today with state convention delegates in Colorado. The state meeting was scheduled to elect 25 national convention delegates today and Saturday.

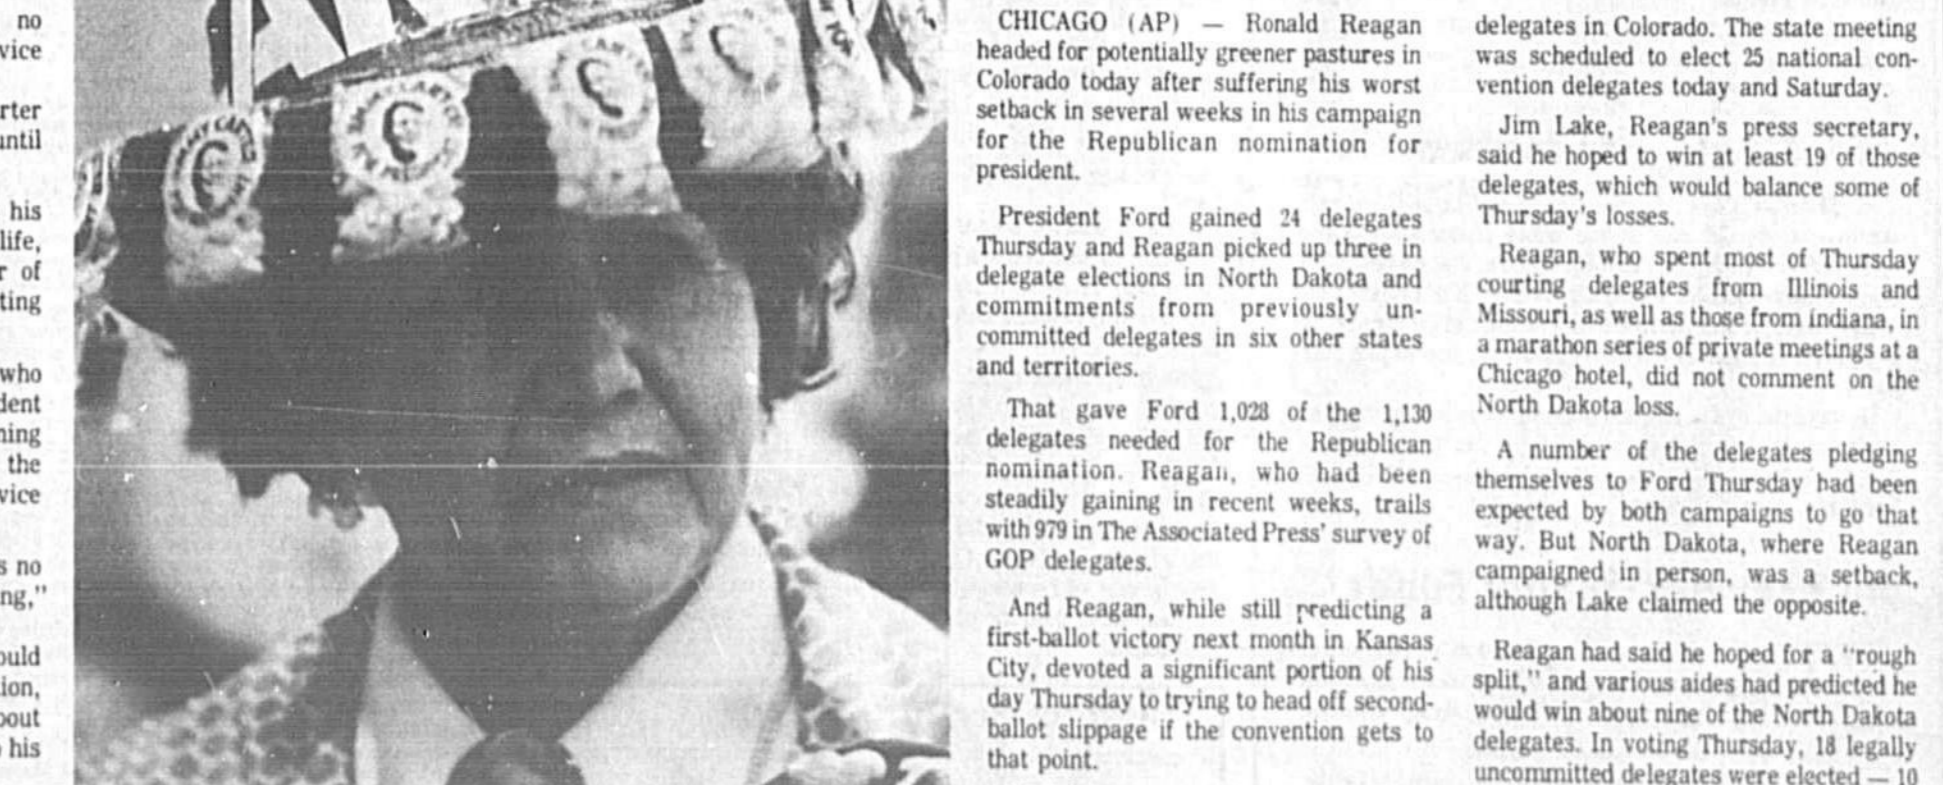

Jim Lake, Reagan's press secretary, said he hoped to win at least 19 of those delegates, which would balance some of Thursday's losses.

Reagan, who spent most of Thursday courting delegates from Illinois and Missouri, as well as those from Indiana, in a marathon series of private meetings at a Chicago hotel, did not comment on the North Dakota loss.

A number of the delegates pledging themselves to Ford Thursday had been expected by both campaigns to go that way. But North Dakota, where Reagan campaigned in person, was a setback, although Lake claimed the opposite.

Reagan had said he hoped for a "tough split," and various aides had predicted he would win about nine of the North Dakota delegates. In voting Thursday, 18 legally uncommitted delegates were elected — 10 who declared for Ford, three for Reagan and five uncommitted.

After Colorado picks its delegates, there will be 55 still to be named, and Ford is the favorite to gain more ground.

The Democratic convention, which opens Monday night in New York City, is rapidly turning into a gathering of Carter supporters from across the country — including cousin Betty Robinson of Tampa.
