Rest in peace, Diana

Travelers mourn loss of the princess.

A trumpeter played Taps, and for a few moments Orlando Sanford Airport became very quiet on Wednesday afternoon.

One more poignant tribute to Princess Diana.

As thousands of British citizens arrive and depart daily at the airport, they stop to observe a large wall display for the princess who died early Sunday in an automobile crash in Paris.

There's a picture of Diana and her children, and a scroll that many of the travelers have signed.

"They've written some beautiful condolences, messages to the family," said Edwina Casad, a front desk receptionist at the airport. "It's a very mellow this week. Not the jovial scene it has been. It is very clear how dear

In case of emergency

Busy Sanford airport prepares to handle any disaster

By MARIA OREM

The Orlando Sanford Airport will soon demonstrate its capabilities in case of disaster.

On Sept. 11, the airport will hold an emergency drill with the help of Seminole County and city rescue squads. The exercise is expected to draw about 250 participants, according to Jack Dow, director of operations at the airport. Additional cooperating agencies will include the Florida Highway Patrol, the fire departments of Sanford, Geneva, Longwood and possibly Altamonte Springs, Dow said. Seminole Community College students will pose as victims and the Seminole County Sheriff's Office will be on hand with two of its helicopters to provide support. The American Red Cross and the Salvation Army will provide food and drinks.

The emergency exercise is required by the Federal Aviation and Administration and will be conducted at the southern portion of the airport away from the runways. A double length bus will serve as a makeshift hospital. The Sanford Authority has coordinated the drills since 1980. Dow said because the exercise was unscripted, he could not disclose any details other than that the field portion could take up to two and a half hours. The second portion, he said, which involves a passenger manifest check, could take days.

With the increased airport traffic the one millionth passenger arrived in Sanford about two months ago the Sanford Authority sees most of its travelers on Boeing 757s. The purpose of the exercise is to assess the skills of rescue personnel in an aircraft crash situation.

"It is essential to maintain the proficiency of personnel to perform well as a team," said Steve Cooke, director of aviation. "In this exercise, we try to simulate an emergency situation in case of a real event."

Cooke said, so far the airport, acting as the first response team, has handled emergency situations without assistance. Recent cases involved a gear up landing, a false See Prepare, Page 3A

Marionettes: Gotta dance!

What do the words tradition, dedication and talent bring to mind?

At Lake Mary High School, they should bring to mind the Marionette dance team.

Since the high school opened in 1982, the Lake Mary Marionettes have been an integral part of not only the school's half-time shows, but it's history and success story as well.

Tradition is the key to the Marionettes. It is why they are so successful and why being a part of the team is so important to its members.

"Everything that the girls do from the way they walk, stand and sit to the way they word things is tradition," explained Marionette director Stacy Goldstein. "Since 1982, the Marionettes have been very successful and that's because the girls are dedicated to the team and to See Dance, Page 3A

Target meets challenge with grant to benefit hearing impaired kids

By DAVID FRAZIER
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY -- The Casselberry branch of Target Department Stores issued a grant to Camp Challenge in support of the Camp's Preschool Hearing Impaired program this past week.

Steve Currence, facilities coordinator, wrote the grant for Camp Challenge. It was Currence's first, and the total amount from Target is $2,000.

"We are very excited to receive this grant from Target," said Cynthia Schleier, the camp's executive director. "This grant will be used to provide for families with a hearing impaired child who could not otherwise afford to attend the program. Target Stores is concerned with helping the disabled and has always provided Camp Challenge with volunteers and financial support."

The Preschool Hearing Impaired program attends to the child's needs and provides parents and siblings with assistance in understanding the implications of hearing loss. Young children up to age six can participate. Hearing impairments range from mild hearing loss to severe deafness.

Camp Challenge is a 63-acre wheelchair accessible camp that serves children and adults with disabilities. Camp Challenge, located between Sanford and Mt. Dora, 11 miles past Sanford's Interstate 4 exit off State Road 46, offers a variety of programs, including summer camp, day camp, a stroke-survivors program, and the preschool hearing impaired program.

Established in 1961, Camp Challenge was a dream come true for its founder, the Florida Easter Seal Society. Never before was there a singular locale that offered so much to so many people with disabilities. Thirty years later, Camp boasts the same amount of acreage it was founded on, but now there are additions far beyond the original sights of the organization. Nine modern cabins and two dormitories invite as many as 150 people nightly. A dining area and activities center, pool, health center and an array of activities are prevalent at the camp.

Target's long-standing commitment is to give 5 percent of the company's annual taxable profits to community organizations for programs focused on strengthening and enriching family life. "With this grant we want to recognize and support the important work of Camp Challenge," said Gail Dorn, Target Director of Communications and Community Relations. "As a family store, our goal is to provide both financial and volunteer support to community programs that help strengthen families. Camp Challenge is working to achieve this goal."

Florida National Guard commissions new class of officers

STARK - The slogan of Officer Candidate School (OCS) Class 35 was "Make it happen." They did exactly that as the class of 30 officer candidates were commissioned as second lieutenants in the Florida National Guard on Aug. 23.

The candidates were joined by their families at the Camp Blanding armory for the festivities. Major General Ronald O. Harrison, Adjunct General of the Florida National Guard, spoke to the new lieutenants during the commissioning ceremony and the dining out. Among the other honored guests present were Brig. Gen. Douglas Burnett, Assistant Adjunct General, Air National Guard, Brig. Gen. Frederick J. Raymond, commander of the 53rd Infantry Brigade, and Brig. Gen. (Retired) Richard G. Capps.

The new lieutenants endured a 140 month long program leading to their commissions, which combined training at facilities in Florida, North Carolina and Alabama. During the course, the candidates participated in a rigorous schedule that challenged their physical and mental abilities.

The newly commissioned lieutenants and their hometowns are: Jeanette G. Andrews, Lauderdale; John H. Batten, Hastings; Sean T. Boyette, Brandon; Kenneth E. Dieppa, Tampa; Joel Bryan Dillard, Jacksonville; Peter Freschette, St. Petersburg; John A. Griffin, Orlando; Brian S. Hammonree, Altamonte; Reynold D. Hausman, Clearwater; Richard A. Be late...mind your own business

Today is...
RUSS WHITE

Take your time reading this column. There's no hurry. Read it slowly. Read it a second time.

Please don't be in a rush. Here's why - it's Be Late for Something Day.

How appropriate that Be Late for Something Day is the day after Do It Day.

Les Wass, the president of the Procrastinators Club of America Inc., suggests cutting stress by lessening the need to be on time. The club is based in Bryn Athyn, Pa., where time means virtually nothing.

When President John F. Kennedy was criticized for constantly being late for functions in Washington, he quipped, "You really haven't arrived until they can't go on until you arrive."

If you forget today is Be Late for Something Day, we suspect some will observe the event one day soon.

Honey, guess what?
Today is also Honey, I Want to Start My Own Business Day. Or Take the Plunge Day.

With the support and encouragement of your spouse, take that step toward fulfilling your entrepreneurial dream.

Millions are breaking free from the tedium of corporate life to choose unique challenges and benefits of self-employment. So says Arriela Jaffe of Bauman, Pa., where time means virtually nothing. (Anyone ever been to Bryn Athyn or Bauman?)

Dinner and a movie

Love story comes with Excess Baggage

David Frazier
Screen Tests

Alicia Silverstone plays Emily Hope, a neglected heiress who desperately tries to win the affections of her tycoon father (Jack Thompson) by staging elaborate but dangerous schemes in the new movie Excess Baggage (Two and a half stars). Emily's latest is a ransom in which her father must pay one million dollars to ensure her safe return. She ties herself up and hides in the trunk of her car to authenticate her plan. However, a car thief (Benicio Del Toro) has other ideas as he helms the car with her in it.

Excess Baggage is, basically, a chase film: Emily is being chased by her "Uncle" Ray (Christopher Walken), an ex-CIA operative hired by her father; Del Toro is being pursued by a couple of baddies that want money; and both are wanted by the cops. With all this "excess baggage," the real reason to see this film is a relationship that blossoms between Emily and the car thief that is made priceless by the chemistry of Silverstone and Del Toro—not to mention their individual acting talent.

Even though the relationship of the two lead characters is convincing; however, the rift between Emily and her estranged father is not. Director Marco Brambilla (Demolition Man) and screenwriters Max D. Adams, Dick Clement and Ian La Frenais unfortunately underscore this key relation in the movie, and it is not clear why the millionaire is so indifferent towards his daughter.

Excess Baggage is the first project from Silverstone's neophyte production company, First Kiss. And being the first movie to come from the company, Baggage is a disappointment to learn and grow from.

Raffaella De Laurentis put a young Austrian bodybuilder named Schwarzenegger into a star making role in 1981 with Conan the Barbarian. Now, Laurentis brings another prospect to the screen in Kull the Conqueror (Two and half stars), another film about a barbarian hero.

Kevin Sorbo was just embarking on his hit syndicated show, Hercules: The Legendary Journeys, when he was cast in the role of Kull, a barbarian who, by chance, becomes king and must fight an ancient, evil queen to keep his throne.

Sorbo displays most of the wit and charm used in his Hercules show. And his supporting cast performs to the level of the material in Kull. But, Kull is Conan by any

Only the freshest ingredients will do for Ellen Schirmer's restaurant.

Open more than a year, the First Street eatery is once again open for business following a one week renovation and expansion.

A native of Germany, Schirmer has developed a menu with specialties that incorporate fresh herbs and spices, fruits and vegetables. There is a European touch in almost every aspect of the establishment from the wine and beers by the glass to the outdoor tables. On Fridays, when Schirmer starts to serve dinner again, the Willow Tree will offer specialties such as coq au vin (chicken in wine), kota kampata (chicken and Greek spices), and beef bourgouton (French style beef stew in wine with mushrooms). Schirmer said the choices will vary depending on what she feels like cooking and also depending on the availability of ingredients.

On a recent visit, we ordered the potato leek soup ($1.95 for a cup and $2.75 for a bowl). The delicate mix of pureed potatoes and fresh leeks, blended well with the cream based soup flavored by a hint of garlic.

Shrimp Louis ($5.95), a favorite with the regulars and not so regulars, is served in an oversized platter surrounded by cucumbers and tomatoes. The presentation is beautiful and very appetizing. Topped with chopped olives and shredded egg, the

Some other interesting dishes include quiche, either spinach or broccoli at $4.95 or crab and shrimp, $5.95. Kntish specialties ($4.75) feature an open-faced sandwich based by the potato in pastry and topped with either turkey or ham and melted provolone cheese. For an additional 95 cents, diners get a cup of soup or salad. Applesauce, sour cream and mustard are included.

Desert choices range from carrot cake ($2.95) to Ellen's Homemade Vatrushka ($2.75) described as a cheesecake to die for and baked on the premises.

The Willow Tree is currently open for lunch with plans to open for dinner on Fridays.

each other. They work very hard and take pride in their traditions and their hard work."

And all of the hard work has certainly paid off.

The Lake Mary dance team has won the national competition eight times since its inception and has also been the national high-kick champion for the UDA five times. Add to those facts that members have been invited to such events as the Walt Disney World 25th Anniversary parade and the Brach's Christmas parade based on their outstanding performances and it's easy to see that the winning tradition of the Marionettes is alive and well.

A few of the reasons that the traditions are carried through the years are the officers.

Officers are chosen by the team and it is quite an honor to be selected. The captain and co-captain are generally four-year team members/seniors and they take on a majority of the responsibilities of the day to day activities of the Marionettes.

"There is a tryout to go through in order to become an officer," said Marionette captain Becky Muse. "We had to do a solo, give a speech, answer questions and write a letter explaining why we wanted to hold the position, how we were qualified and what we could do to improve the team. Then we had to teach at tryouts and prepare a nine-week exam. Everyone voted after that. I was so honored when I was elected captain."

Jaime Grant was elected co-captain through the same rigorous tryout. Together, Muse and Grant will have a lot of responsibilities over the coming year.

"I put a lot of the duties onto the captain and co-captain," Goldstein said. "A big part of the tradition of the team is the way the officers take charge of the group. They lead the drills and practices, they discipline the girls if needed, which is rare and they represent the group. I am here to do a job and so are they. It takes a very dedicated dancer to fill the officer role in this organization."

In addition to the captain and co-captain, there is also one senior officer, Mandy Davis and two junior officers, Lindsay Alfano and Kristen Krallinger. The junior officers are groomed for the captains' positions, so Alfano and Krallinger expect to spend a lot of their time learning from the seniors in order to attempt to fill their positions next year.

Marionette officers attend an officer's camp every summer, where they learn new techniques and routines to bring back to the team. A big part of that camp is the home routine, a number presented by each officer group that is original and is graded.

This year's officer team placed first with the home routine and Muse, Grant and Davis were all named as All-Stars for the camp.

The other reason for the great success of both the officers and the entire group is Goldstein.

Goldstein is a graduate of Lake Mary and was also a member of the Marionettes. She loved being a member of the dance team and was part of the national championship squad.

After high school, she attended the University of Central Florida, where she earned a degree in English Education with a minor in dance.

Goldstein's first teaching job was at Pine Ridge High School where she also worked with the dance team. However, since she was a Marionette, she always had aspirations to return to the team as its director.

"We have two mottos here at Lake Mary," Goldstein said. "Once a Marionette, always a Marionette" and "Only a Marionette understands a Marionette." Both of these are so true and reasons why I always wanted to get back to the team."

Working as a team gives the members so much more than dancing skills, which are at the core of the squad.

"Being a Marionette does so much for us," Grant said. "We learn discipline, a good work ethic, confidence and sisterhood. This is like a sorority."

When we walk into the dance room, we are there to work and the friendships stay outside. However, our friendships are very strong and we still rely on each other both inside and outside the dance room."

Traditions are hard to change. And with the traditions of sisterhood and success that the Lake Mary Marionettes are built on, it's easy to see why the team would want to carry the tradition on into the future.

then people were on their way." Bill Lockridge, the vice president of operations at the airport said that more than 15,000 passengers will arrive and a like number return to England in a number of days. "We want to be as accommodating as we can be to them," he said.

In addition to the wall display and prayer service - which will be repeated today - airport employees are handing black (mourning) ribbons to passengers.

To be sure, Princess Diana's name is on everyone's lips, and feeling for her deep in their hearts. "They are all commenting on Diana," Lockridge said.

These passengers carry newspapers with them - banner headlines and pictures of Diana. There are papers everywhere. At the gates and in the terminal. Newspapers, magazines being devoured by travelers.

The newspaper/magazine stand at the airport has been busy as have area book stores. News magazines with Diana's picture on the cover sold out within an hour at B. Dalton's Altamonte Mall. Books on the princess are gone, too, with orders being placed for more.

The school children in the area are keenly inquisitive of what happened to Princess Diana, and have had discussions with each other and teachers. Nan Parker, the principal at Hamilton Elementary, said that Life/Skills teacher Carol Minner has talked to many of her classes about Diana.

"The children know when a catastrophic event like this takes place," Parker said, "and have difficulty understanding why people we love are taken away. Carol Minner has answered their questions and listened to what our students are saying."

Serving as a checkpoint during the drill will be the airport fire and rescue station, housed in a metal structure located on the southwest ramp. The facility, built by the United States Navy in the 1960s, currently employs seven firefighters and operates one 3,000-gallon vehicle and two 1,500-gallon vehicles, one of them borrowed from the Daytona Beach Fire Department.

Presently out for bid at an estimated cost of $700,000, is a proposed 10,800 square-foot fire station to be located on the east side of Runway 18-38. Because of its location, airport officials said the authority could better meet the three-minute response time as required by the FAA. The metal facility, with access through a new road off Beardall Avenue, will feature six bays and an observation tower. The Sanford Authority plans to hire an additional firefighter and will purchase two 1,500-gallon firefighting vehicles.

On Princess Diana's death

The world has lost a beloved princess who will be buried Saturday near her father, Princess Diana, matured before us, from a shy, gawky teen-ager, capturing the hand of a future king, to a beautiful woman plagued by the real-life problems of depression and divorce. She raised her two sons, fiercely protective of them. She weathered her husband's infidelity and admitted her own. She dedicated herself to helping those forgotten and in need of love and encouragement. She embraced and held hands with AIDS and leprosy victims to show the world you couldn't catch the diseases by extending compassion to others.

She did it all in the harsh glare of the media spotlight. And the public just couldn't get enough of her.

Touted as the most photographed woman in the world, Diana died tragically early last Sunday morning in a gruesome Paris car crash. Her companion Dodi Fayed, who also died in the crash, was said to have been what the sad princess had been looking for, her knight and true love at last.

The chauffeur, Henri Paul, 41, died, too. Diana's bodyguard survived, but is in guarded condition and has not yet been able to tell what he knows. The London Times reported that Paul was driving in excess of 100 mph in a deadly game of tag with European photographers, reportedly taunting them by saying "Catch me if you can" before speeding away from the Ritz Hotel, owned by Fayed's father, and where the princess and Fayed had dined earlier.

A groundswell of criticism by the public blames the photographers for the tragic accident. Seven of them were detained and face some charges under France's laws, which are more stringent than American laws for invasion of privacy.

The photographers may have been overzealous in their pursuit, but they didn't kill Princess Di.

The chauffeur did. He was driving drunk.

And no matter how saddened and horrified the world is, no matter how Diana's worshippers wish for vindication of some sort, the photographers are guilty only of doing the job fueled by a public's obsessive need to see and be close to its idols.

Ironically, one Orlando television station last week, in reporting the atrocity and vilifying the photographers, aired a clip of Princess Di with her children on a visit to Disney World. The anchorwoman claimed the station's own photographers had tried to find Diana at the park, but couldn't. Someone else, a tourist with a videocamcorder, caught her illuminating smile, her joy at play with her children.

Some tourist invaded those moments. And our local news station played it. For you. Because you wanted so to see.

De Klerk guided South African reform

In the minds of his fellow countrymen, and in the eyes of the world, there was nothing particularly momentous about F.W. de Klerk's ascent to South African presidency. At the time of his election in 1989, hardly anyone imagined there would be much difference in his policies, and those of his Minister predecessor P.W. Botha.

But as de Klerk retired from South African politics, which he formally announced last week, he leaves behind an admirable legacy. He presided over his country's peaceful transition from three and a half centuries of white minority rule to multiracial democracy.

De Klerk kept on his inauguration day, perhaps foreseeing the great challenge that lay before him. "White domination will have to disappear," he declared shortly after taking over the government in Pretoria. "Otherwise there will never be peace in South Africa."

This was a revolutionary statement for the leader of the National Party, which had ruled South Africa for 40 years and instituted the country's odious system of racial apartheid. And it earned de Klerk the enmity of many white right-wing Afrikaners.

Meanwhile, much of South Africa's oppressed black population doubted de Klerk's sincerity. They were unimpressed, as was much of the world, that he would go so far as to dismantle apartheid and to willingly cede power to the country's black majority.

But that is precisely, and extraordinarily, what de Klerk did.

Within a year of assuming South Africa's presidency, he lifted the ban on the African National Congress and other black political organizations, welcomed exiled South Africans to return home, removed restrictions on the news media, lifted the state of emergency in the black provinces and freed political prisoners.

The most prominent of these political prisoners, of course, was Nelson Mandela, who had been solitary confined on South Africa's Robben Island for the better part of 27 years. Upon his release, de Klerk invited Mandela to join with him, along with representatives of South Africa's major political parties, to draft a new constitution that would ultimately result in black-majority rule.

In the meantime, de Klerk set out to repeal South Africa's apartheid laws. First to go was the Separate Amenities Act, which permitted government officials to reserve public facilities for whites. Next were the Land Acts, which restricted black ownership to less than 14 percent of South Africa's land.

De Klerk then went after the Group Areas Act, which mandated residential segregation. And finally, he struck down the last pillar of the apartheid regime, the Population Registration Act, which classified all South Africans by race at birth.

In 1994, South Africa held its first multiracial election and Mandela, only four years removed from prison, was elected president. While the entire world celebrated Mandela's ascent to power, hardly anyone acknowledged his departing predecessor, who made it all possible.

Campaign reform chances improve

Prospects for campaign finance reform have improved with the decision of Sen. John Warner, R-Va., to sponsor compromise legislation on the radioactive topic, but the chances of a bill's passing this year still don't reach 50-50.

Warner, chairman of the Senate rules committee, plans to introduce a measure that splits some differences between ardent reformers and die-hard opponents, although it also contains provisions that will arouse furious opposition from labor unions and Democrats.

As Congress returns from summer vacation, intense negotiations are expected to commence immediately over whether and how campaign finance will reach the Senate floor.

If no agreement can be reached by late September between reformers like Sen. John McCain, R-Ariz., opponents like Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., and party leaders, McCain is vowing to stop the Senate from passing appropriations bills, if necessary, until it takes up campaign finance.

"I don't want to do this. It doesn't make the Senate look good. But if we have to, we could prevent the Senate from conducting business by offering amendments, by objecting to all unanimous consent requests, by filibustering -- in general, by raising hell -- until we get a vote," McCain said in a telephone interview.

His arch-adversary, McConnell, said he's willing to filibuster, too, to prevent passage of legislation like the bill McCain is sponsoring with Sen. Russ Feingold, D-Wis., which McConnell considers unconstitutional and disadvantageous to Republicans.

Into this potentially bloody impasse, Warner is injecting a proposal that borrows some elements from ideas McConnell has said he might consider and others from a widely advertised proposal drafted by several political scientists led by Norm Ornstein of the American Enterprise Institute and Thomas Mann of the Brookings Institution.

"Philosophically," Warner said in an interview, "there's got to be an equivalence of giving things up that serve Republicans' and Democrats' interests. There's no chance of passing a bill that's unbalanced in either direction."

Warner said his bill would require Republicans to accept a cap -- not a ban, as McCain and Ornstein-Mann propose -- on corporate, union and individual soft-money contributions to political parties, probably at $100,000 a year.

On the other side, he said, Democrats would have to agree to allow use of union dues for political purposes to be made "voluntary" rather than automatic.

However, Warner's draft proposal includes the toughest kind of voluntary provision -- requiring that union members give advance written consent for political use of their dues. McCain said "this will end any chance for bipartisanship" and kill campaign finance reform.

“Intense negotiations are expected to commence immediately over whether and how campaign finance will reach the Senate floor.”

If the Warner bill became a vehicle for serious reform negotiation, it's conceivable that a milder form of union regulation -- such as creating opportunities for union members to request a stop to automatic use of their dues for political ads -- might offer room for compromise.

On another testy issue, independent "issue advertising," Warner proposes to require public disclosure of spending and sponsorship when groups mount large-scale mail or media campaigns that use the name or image of a federal candidate.

Ornstein and Mann propose that when a group takes out ads mentioning a candidate late in a campaign, money for the ad would have to be raised under federal "hard money" contribution limits -- which Warner said the courts were likely to declare an unconstitutional limit on free speech.

Warner opposes another proposal contained both in Ornstein-Mann and McCain-Feingold: free TV time for federal candidates.

"The minute you start giving free TV time to Senators," Warner said, "people will ask, 'Why not do it for governors, county supervisors and sheriffs?' You go down that road and pretty soon the TV industry will implode."

Other items in Warner's proposal -- which lean toward McConnell's demands -- include elimination of the limits on what national parties can spend on "coordinated campaigns" with their candidates and increases in the amount of hard money that individuals and PACs can contribute to campaigns, which have remained at the same level since 1974.

In smaller bows toward McCain-Feingold, Warner would require corporations to list soft money contributions in their annual reports and build up the capacity of the Federal Election Commission to monitor elections and to handle campaign finance reports online.

Warner's move is potentially significant because it signals that a key member of the Senate Republican establishment has decided it's necessary to make a move on campaign finance and not simply ignore the subject or oppose any change.

JOSEPH SPEAR

“That scoundrel Bill Clinton is impeding the media again.”

Media fiddle while presidents play

That scoundrel Bill Clinton is impeding the media again.

He has had the audacity to go off to Martha's Vineyard for three weeks of golfing, partying and reading, and he has thereby left the phalanx of correspondents and camerapersons who follow him around with next to nothing to report. And I have to tell you, friends, there are few creatures on the planet who look more sick and pathetic than reporters with nothing to report.

On second thought, perhaps I am being unfair here. Since the Clintons departed for the tony island in mid-August, the 50 or so journalists who made the trek with him have actually uncovered, by my count, more than a dozen presidential scandals.

They caught Clinton taking mulligans off the first tee. He made the mistake you see of bragging that he had broken 80 for the third time in his life. Oh no he didn't, they reported. They had counted two mulligans. More than that, in the words of the Washington Times investigative reporter on the scene, "a snooping photographer counted six presidential swats on the 13th hole, and his partners shaved one stroke from the score."

They identified the mysterious "Alice," for whom Clinton named a golf ball one day when he hit a bad shot. "Don't go too far right!" he yelled. "Sit down, Alice!" OK, the intrepid press corps demanded, who is Alice? Responded spokesman Barry Toiv, "We're going to find Alice. We're going to conduct a nationwide search." Soon Toiv was back with a report. "Sit down, Alice" was what Clinton used to say at the Cabinet table when former budget director Alice Rivlin got carried away.

They shot down talk that the Clintons, who are staying in a cottage on the estate of a wealthy Boston developer, may be doing domestic work. The "White House claims that the Clintons did their own cooking," reported the fearless Ann Compton of ABC. "And I asked about Mr. Clinton doing the dishes. But there's a lot of White House staff here. Support staff. I've got to think that they aren't slaves to the kitchen."

The list goes on. They caught Clinton chewing on a golf tee. They timed the presidential motorcade and reported it was speeding. They snapped a photo of the Clintons in swimsuits.

My guess is, we're looking at a couple of Pulitzer prizes here.

You might get the impression that the current White House press corps is a unique bunch of harses' asses, but in fact, this tradition of reporting White House Non-News goes back at least 111 years, when the portly Grover Cleveland married his late law partner's daughter, who was 28 years his junior. The newlyweds departed for a honeymoon at Deer Park, Md., and the press corps tagged along, watching their cabin through spyglasses and speculating in print whether the 250-pound president would crush his new bride. An irate Cleveland accused the press of "a colossal impertinence" and never forgave them.

In varying degrees, Harry Truman had the same problem when he went to Key West; Ike had to deal with it when he went to his Gettysburg farm; JFK endured it when he went to Hyannisport.

And Johnson when he visited his Texas spread, and Nixon when he visited San Clemente, and Carter when he visited Plains, and Reagan when he went back to his Santa Barbara ranch.

Renewal '97 promises to be a rare opportunity for everyone to step back from the hustle of every day life, reflect, reach out and heal. The excitement begins Sept. 13, with a sky sign over Walt Disney World during Night of Joy. Look for a banner over Tuskawilla Road, Sept. 21 and a searchlight to point the way. For more information call the church office at 365-6363.

Network meeting

On Sat., Sept. 6 a "Cross Cultural Christian Network" meeting will be held. For more information call Peter at 240-6272.

Scott Brown: A cowboy's call to ministry

Special to the Herald

A real-life cowboy, Scott Brown, will perform at Central Baptist Church on State Road 46 at 9:30 a.m. on Sept. 21.

In the mid-80s, Brown made his living wrestling 500-pound steers and roping calves on the professional rodeo circuit. After retiring in 1980, Brown spent five years as a minister of youth and music before the Lord called him to step out on faith and begin Scott Brown Ministries. Today, "Cowboy who sings for Jesus" enters his fifth year in music evangelism as part of one of America's unique ministries.

Working from his home with his wife, Pam, Brown has written and produced two successful Christian Country albums. His first album, Brand of the Cross, received wide recognition and created a foundation for the 1995 release of his second album, Wild Horse. Trusting only in God and without the backing of a major label, the first two singles released from Wild

Scott Brown

Horse moved into the Top 10 on national Christian Country charts and charted on Cash Box, Gospel Voice and Contemporary Christian Magazine. The songs are played in regular rotation on more than 800 Christian Country Christian radio stations across America.

Scott Brown is the real thing, not just a singer who performs with a cowboy hat on. He mixes an exciting stage presence with a powerfully delivered message about the saving grace of Christ delivered through his singing and preaching. He is popular with state youth evangelism conferences, FCA camps and retreats, men's conferences, youth revivals, church concerts and equipping retreats.

Making Brown's ministry all the more unique in the way God has allowed him to witness to cowboys on the rodeo circuit. When he left the profession in 1986, he held the arena record at the University of Georgia Block & Tackle Rodeo in steer wrestling and was a past American Cowboy Association Finals Steer Wrestling Champion. He never expected to go back. Today, God has allowed Brown to re-enter the rodeo circuit. Now, he not only competes, but he ministers through his music at events on the circuit.

Scott, Pam and 6-year-old Katie travel as a family all over America living and sharing the message of a deeper walk with Christ.

For more information about the concert contact the church office at 322-2914.

Family weekend hosted by Church of Christ

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Church of Christ, 1500 S. Park Ave., will host a Family Weekend with Dennis Jones, President of International Bible College in Florence, Alabama.

The public is invited to attend this weekend beginning Sat., Sept. 20 at 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. that evening and again on Sun., Sept. 21 at 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. that day.

Saturday morning will begin with coffee and Danish in the fellowship hall, followed by congregational singing at 10 a.m. At 10:30 a.m. Jones will present his first lesson on "What is the Church?"

At noon a cookout will be provided for lunch. The singing group "Oasis" will then perform and at 2:30 p.m. the second lesson, "The Church is Powerful" will be presented.

Again at 6:30 p.m. attendees will participate in a time of congregational singing and at 7 p.m. the final lesson for the evening will be "The Church is Me."

The Sunday schedule will begin at 9:30 a.m. with a lesson of "The Church is Unity." Classes for all ages will take place at 10:30 a.m. and a potluck lunch will be held at 11:30 a.m.

At 1 p.m. another time of congregational singing will lead to wrap up the weekend with its last lesson of "The Church is Love."

The two day event will be filled with food, fun, fellowship and feeding on the word of God. Minister Tony Black invites the community to attend.

For more information call the church office at 322-7781.

Baptist Children's Homes serves almost 300

Florida Baptist Children's Homes served 298 boys and girls during the first half of this year in residential and emergency-shelter care, adoption, therapy and treatment for severely emotionally distressed youth, counseling for unwed pregnant teens and monitoring of former residents now old enough to live and function on their own. Further, finances for the Children's Homes and its parent organization, Florida Baptist Family Ministries, remain healthy. And a 10 resident cottage that was previously closed for financial reasons will re-open shortly.

That's the essence of a July 29 quarterly meeting of Florida Baptist Family Ministries, 21 member Board of Trustees which also approved a 1998 budget of $5.57 million, an increase of approximately 7 percent over the current year's anticipated income.

Founded in 1904, Florida Baptist Children's Homes provide professional care and counseling for abused, neglected, abandoned, or troubled boys and girls, or young people whose parents are unable to care for them. Family-style, residential care facilities are located in Miami, Fort Myers, Lakeland and Tallahassee for school-age children who are able to function in a group setting. The Children's Homes also maintains a network of private foster homes throughout the state for care of youngsters who are best served in a private-home setting. These are typically infants and pre-schoolers, or older children with "special needs" such as medical problems or pregnancy. Regarding the agency's finances, staff reported to the trustees that during the first half of this year income totaled $2.3 million, approximately $126,000 more than the amount that had been anticipated in the budget. Expenses were favorable, as well $2.44 million was spent during a period when the budget anticipated a need for almost $2.6 million.

One of the reasons for the positive financial picture was the generosity of people giving to the annual Mother's Day Offering in Southern Baptist churches throughout Florida. The offering totaled about $263,000 on June 30th, roughly $21,000 ahead of the total on the same date in 1996. Update: By July 24 this year, Mother's Day Offering receipts climbed to $630,000. That figure is about $27,000 higher than last year at the same time. The 1997 goal is $750,000.

People who remembered the Children's Homes in their wills helped the finances, as well. Staff had conservatively budgeted $180,000 for all of 1997, but by mid-year the total received was $252,156. As a result the unanticipated amount—$72,156—was placed in reserves where it was invested to further undergird the Ministries' finances. President Charles Hodges paid tribute to a list of now-deceased persons who have designated some or all of their estate to help the Children's Homes help needy children. He also underscored the importance of turning the "unpredictable income" from wills and estates into "predictable dollars" through growth yielding investments that help children for many generations to come.

Also at the meeting, staff reported that near the end of August or shortly thereafter, a Children's Home (Miami cottage which has been closed since 1993, is expected to re-open—thanks to the generosity of a local businessman who donated $100,000 to help with start-up expenses. Known as Dorris Residence, the cottage will house up to 10 teen-age clients who are ready to learn skills (cooking, mending, balancing a checkbook, and so forth) that will eventually help them live independently.

A Trustees agreed to a staff recommendation to seek permission from the Florida Baptist Convention to relocate the Miami-area Children's Home, which has been at its present location since 1958. President Hodges emphasized this does not necessarily mean the Children's Homes will relocate—even that it wants to relocate—it's merely a step that's necessary at this time given the fact that a developer last year offered at least $2.4 million for the 7-acre property in the Kendall area and negotiations are continuing. Hodges said that, as a courtesy to its adjoining property owner and longtime faithful supporter, the Children's Homes has advised Wayside Baptist Church of the offer and given them the first opportunity to buy it for that price. If the property is sold, the Children's Homes would use the proceeds to buy property, possibly in southern Broward County, and construct cottages, a swimming pool, administrative and maintenance buildings.

All Souls choir to perform

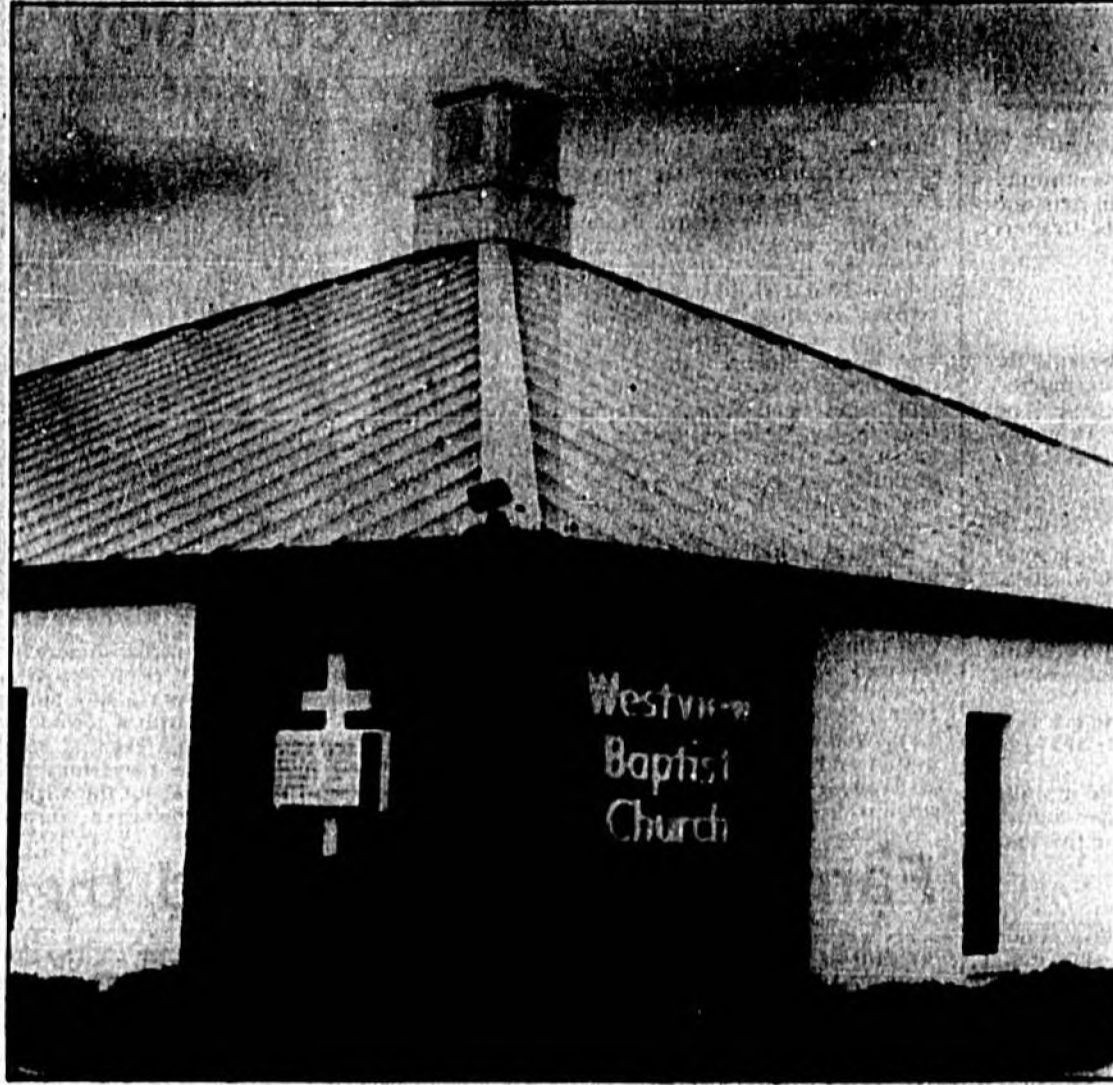

The All Souls Choir rehearse one evening per week and sing at one mass per month. Under the direction of Music Director Elizabeth Jenkins the group are pictured during one of their recent rehearsals. They are scheduled to sing at the Hilton in Altamonte Springs on Sept. 18. Their next performance at the church will be Sept. 14 during mass.

FOOTBALL FEVER

Greyhounds, Noles highlight opening week of 1997 prep gridiron season

By JEFF BERLINICK and KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writers

Game of the week: Lyman (0-0) at Seminole (0-0), 7:30 p.m.

Two conference rivals. Two teams with something to prove. Two programs with the talent to win not only their first game of the season, but improve on their identical 3-7 losing records from the previous year.

Tonight at Seminole High School, Lyman and the 'Noles will face off in the only game this week that pits two conference teams against each other.

Seminole High School has a new coach, a lot of new players and a new outlook.

Two units will be the key to the 'Noles success this season, the offensive line and the defensive secondary.

On offense, seniors Rob Legenhausen and Bryan Roberts have decided to make it their personal goal to protect sophomore quarterback Garrett Goldsmith and create holes for running back sensations Dion Howard and Joe Knight.

Both Knight and Howard racked up over 100 yards rushing apiece in their pre-season game against Deland and combined for three touchdowns. New coach Jim Worthington will certainly rely heavily on them this season as the 'Noles generally favor the running attack.

On the opposite side of the ball, one of the best secondaries in Central Florida belongs to the Seminoles. Ned Raines, Bobby Williams, Erick Smith and Arnick Footman are the fearsome foursome for any offense.

The Seminoles feel they have a lot to prove this year, but know that they have the ability and the confidence to pull it off. They come into this game with high expectations.

"We are expecting to play hard and hopefully get our first win of the season," Worthington said. "The players are real excited about the game and they are ready to play football."

So is Lyman. The Greyhounds come into the season opener with a Kickoff Classic tie against last year's conference champion, Lake Howell. Part of that successful pre-season game was the return of many seniors to the Greyhound line-up.

"We have a senior-laden team and that's where our strength is - with the seniors," said Lyman coach Larry Baker during pre-season practice. "They are tired of losing and they're very hungry."

The Greyhounds bring their new quarterback Brian Krause and new kicker Mark Lewis teamed with returnees on offense like wide receiver Randy Jonda and linemen Adam Tilbury, Steve Roman and Chris Rankin to Seminole.

Tarik McCall is the Greyhounds' secret weapon. He can play anywhere, including quarterback, and is probably the best athlete on the team.

At Lyman, defense is young. Only three returning starters are on the roster for the Greyhounds and Chad Buker, Ricky Bennet and Julian Johnson will have to work very hard to lead their more inexperienced teammates.

In all, if the defense can do their job of keeping the ball with the offense as much as possible and the offense can continue to balance the pass

A matter of perspective Winter Springs wins initial game with upset of Tribe

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - This was a match that evoked a lot of mixed emotions.

On one hand, if you are a fan of Seminole High School you have to be upset because the defending Seminole Athletic Conference and district champion Fighting Seminoles lost their first match of the season.

On the other hand, if you are a Winter Springs fan or a fan in general, you have to be happy to see a brand new program get off to a winning start.

Thursday night at Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium, the Tribe found themselves on the short end of a hard-fought three game 13-15, 15-11, 10-15 loss to Winter Springs High School in the first game for the newest program in Central Florida.

"We played well, but we made some service errors (nine in fact) that were unnecessary," said Seminole head coach Beth Corso. "We have a young team, but I was happy with what I saw tonight. Lindsay (Keeler) and Sarah (Luke) led us, but we still have to learn how to push points through."

Leading the way for Seminole were Keeler (15 assists, seven digs, two blocks), Luke (six digs, one kill, six service aces), Amanda Cook (10 digs, six kills, three blocks), Sonya Watson (six digs, seven kills, one block), Courtney Newman (11 digs, four kills) and Kim Corso (two kills).

The Fighting Seminoles (0-1) will be playing in the Lake Mary Invitational starting at 4 p.m. today and finishing up at 6:30 p.m. on Saturday and then will be off until next Tuesday when the Tribe starts a three-game in three days match at Lake Mary. Seminole will also travel to Titusville for a match against the Terreros on Wednesday before returning to Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium on Thursday to host the Lake Brantley Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference match-up.

All three matches begin with the freshman match at 4:30 p.m., followed by the junior varsity match at 5:30 p.m., and the varsity match at 6:30 p.m.

LAKE MARY INVITE TONIGHT

LAKE MARY - The Lake Mary Invitational for girls' volleyball teams will begin tonight with matches at 4 p.m. and seven p.m.

Among those expected to compete in the 10-team field are Seminole, Lake Howell, Oviedo, Lyman, Lake Brantley and the host Rams from the Seminole Athletic Conference, Metro Conference powerhouse Dr. Phillips from Orlando and East Coast power Merritt Island.

The tournament will wrap up on Saturday with matches set to begin at 8 a.m. and continue until the championship match, which is set for a 6:30 p.m. start.

Seminole High School graduate Matt Kuchar (center) poses proudly with his parents Peter (left) and Meg (right) and the century old United States Golf Association championship trophy that he recently received for winning the USGA Amateur Tournament during a reception in his honor at the Heathrow Golf and Country Club Thursday night. Kuchar's name will be engraved on the trophy with all of the other U.S. Amateur champions that include the legendary Bobby Jones and recent winners Phil Mickelson, Justin Leonard and three-time winner Tiger Woods. The rising sophomore at Georgia Tech University will leave today for Atlanta to prepare for fall classes that will begin on Monday and where he will display the trophy for the time being.

Rams boys rout Hounds

From Staff Reports

LAKE MARY - If you blinked, you missed it.

With Seminole and Oviedo expected to have strong teams and Lake Mary having lost several super players to graduation, some "experts" have been predicting that this is the year that the Rams step back to the level of the other boys' volleyball teams in the state.

Don't declare Lake Mary dead just yet.

Thursday night at the Lake Mary Gymnasium, the Rams looked most impressive in crushing the Lyman Greyhounds in straight games, 15-2, 15-3, in Seminole Athletic Conference action.

"It was a real quick game," said Lake Mary second-year head coach Jeannie Fisher. "Jason Hawkins and Jason Pocock were very aggressive at the net and Ryan Holm had a real good night serving."

"We were more upset than in our first match. I think that was because we were playing at home. This was our second game of the week and we just keep gaining more experience."

The Thursday victory was the second SAC win in as many nights as the defending conference champions knocked off the Lake Howell Silver Hawks in Casselberry on Wednesday.

Hawkins was a terror at the net for the Rams on both offense and defense, coming up with 10 blocks and nine kills.

Pocock also had nine blocks, while Barrett Klinger came up with three digs.

Lake Mary will be looking to stretch its overall, and conference, winning streak to three games when it hosts Seminole on Monday. This match will also allow the Rams to show if they are still among the SAC's elite.

Also on the schedule next week are non-conference games on Wednesday and Thursday evenings against Orlando powers Dr. Phil.

Pat jr's, Rams frosh win openers

From Staff Reports

CASSELBERRY - Lake Brantley scored on a pair of long touchdowns as the Patriots beat the Lake Howell Silver Hawks 14-6 in junior varsity football action at Richard Evans Field Thursday night.

Hector Diaz opened the Lake Brantley scoring with an 80-yard kick off return to give the Patriots a 6-0 lead. The extra point try failed.

The visiting squad added its second score when quarterback Bryan Smith found Brandon Lee for a 40-yard touchdown pass. Smith also hit Lee for the two-point conversion pass to account for Lake Brantley's 14 points.

"The defense played great," said Lake Brantley head coach Jay Bergman Jr. "For a first game we did a good job. Overall it was a great job by the players." Diaz led Patriots runners with 68 yards, not including the 80-yard touchdown gallop, while Smith was 7-for-16 passing for 102 yards and the one touchdown pass.

Lake Brantley will play its first home game next Tuesday, as the Lake Mary Rams pay a visit to Altamonte Springs and Tom Story Field. Game time is set for 7 p.m.

RAMS FROSH PULL OFF UPSET

LONGWOOD - Lake Mary did something to a Lyman freshman football team that it had not suffered in almost three years as the Rams handed the Greyhounds a loss Tuesday night at the Carlton Henley Sports Complex.

And not only did Lake Mary beat Lyman, they thumped the Greyhounds, whitewashing the home squad 36-0.

"We wanted to be aggressive tonight and showed with our swarming defense," said Lake Mary head coach Wayne Scott. "The offense also did a very good

Orr, Rogers grab End of the Month championships

Special to the Herald

BITHLO - The End of the Month Late Model 50-Lapper went on the Orlando SpeedWorld track last Friday night with 19 cars taking the green.

Cars from as far as Miami were on hand and it was an interesting race as cautions kept coming out as cars blew motors, hit the wall and lost wheels!

Pete Orr took the win, but not far behind was Rusty Ebersole, Jared Allison, David King and Bill Keeton. The Classic Race Cars were back and the "old" style race cars, 23 strong, put on a whale of a race with David Marsh, Robert King, John Martin, Ed Kates and Mo Davenport finishing first through fifth.

In other divisions, Eddie Hartin won the Modifieds, Conrad Grenier paced the Mini-Stocks, Osteen's Bobby Sears grabbed the Limited Late Models, Chad Pierce claimed the Bombers, Butch Pierce took the checkers in the Sportman event, Jason Hall tamed the Run-A-Bou's and David Shortt led the field home in the 4-Cylinder Bombers.

Tonight, The Legend RaceCars and Top Cops Racing will take to the track along with regular racing in the Late Model, Limited Late Model, Modified, Sportman, Mini-Stock, Run-A-Bout and 4-Cylinder Bomber classes.

Gates open at 6 p.m. with racing action starting at 8 p.m.

ENGAGEMENTS

Joseph-Moore

Benny C. Joseph, 1204 W. 8th St., Sanford, and Eartha S. Joseph, 1418 W. 7th St., Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sheryl S. Joseph, to Ken Moore of Sanford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Booker T. Byrd of Brooksville.

Born in Sanford, the bride-elect is a 1980 graduate of Seminole High School and a 1987 graduate of Florida A&M University, Tallahassee. She is employed as a supervisor with the Department of Justice.

Her fiancé, born in Brooksville, is a 1976 graduate of Hernando High School where he was active in football, basketball and track. He is a 1979 graduate of Bookman-Bethune College where he was a TV-radio band announcer and a member of the student government board. He is employed as a supervisor for America's Health Television Network.

Sheryl Joseph, Ken Moore

The wedding will be an event of Sept. 6, at 2 p.m., at New Bethel Missionary Baptist Church, Sanford.

Food safety hotline now available

It wasn't long after the spring floods devastated parts of the Dakotas and Minnesota that the calls started flowing into the Agriculture Department's Meat and Poultry Hotline. Victims wanted to know whether they could still eat foods that were partially defrosted when the electricity was cut off to their homes or whether canned goods that had been submerged under the foul water for days could be tainted. The questions were just some of the thousands received every year—110,000 in 1996.

Created in 1988, the hotline received its 1 millionth call last November. The hotline was set up when USDA officials realized that consumers did not have sufficient access to the department as far as food safety was concerned. Although the team included just three full-time staffers at the beginning, it has grown as the call volume has increased. The hotline now is manned by 11 staffers, home economists, registered dietitians and food technologists from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Eastern time Mondays through Fridays. The number is 1-800-538-4558. But callers can hear detailed food safety messages 24 hours a day. Using a touch-tone phone, they can select from about 50 subjects, which are updated periodically to include seasonal topics and the latest recalls of meat and poultry products.

CONSUMER FOCUS

Over the years, most inquiries have dealt with the safe storage, handling and preparation of meat and poultry products in the home. But as consumers became more aware of new technologies and processes, the questions have become more complex.

Questions about foodborne pathogens such as E. coli and Salmonella, irradiation and biotechnology are common as well as queries about nutrition, kitchen sanitation and the proper internal temperatures of cooked meat.

Are members of the hotline team ever stumped? "Sure they are," says Hotline Manager Beale Berry. "But we are set up to handle that. If we don't feel the question needs an immediate answer and if it needs further research, we'll ask for a phone number and tell the caller we'll get back to them". Still, nearly 90 percent of the inquiries usually are answered on the initial call. The 1 millionth call coincided with the hotline's busiest season, when callers begin to plan for their holiday meals. "The question most asked is, How long can I keep a turkey in the freezer?" Berry says.

The answer from a food safety perspective is almost indefinitely, she adds, although it will begin to lose quality after a year. Another busy season is around Easter, when callers plan egg hunts and other festivities.

Consumers also frequently call the hotline for help in handling foods after a power outage or flood. In 1995, 1,700 such calls were handled, most during the summer. The hotline team does more than just answer consumer queries, however. It has developed educational materials that are mailed to newspapers, magazines and broadcast stations. One of the latest reminds us that summer is a "particularly important time" for consumers to handle their food safely because foodborne illnesses peak during June, July and August. Call them! They are a good and free source for you and only a phone call away.

Moving can be hard on teenagers

Dear Mary,

Our family just moved here from Iowa. Our daughters are 9 and 16 years old. The younger girl seems to be getting along fine, but since we've moved here, it seems like our older daughter has undergone a personality change. In Iowa she was an excellent student, played clarinet in the school band and had really nice friends. We never worried about who she was with or what she was doing.

Since we have moved here, she has been hanging around with a group of girls who look and act like trash. She wants to dress like them (tight short skirts, sleazy tops.) She listens to music with lyrics that are shameful. Her grades are slipping, and her attitude toward her dad and I is rude and disrespectful.

FAMILY COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

We're scared to death of the path she's taking, but we don't know whether to forbid her to see her new friends or to just hope she'll begin to see them for what they are and dump them on her own. We're afraid if we take too strong a stand with her, she'll rebel against us and who knows what she might do then. Please help us gain some insights on how to deal with her to get our wonderful daughter back again. New to Florida and Scared Dear Mary and Scared,

As you're finding out the hard way, moving can be hard on teenagers, especially when the change in life-styles are as different as Iowa and Florida. In your daughter's Iowa life, she likely felt confident and in control. Now she probably feels like an outsider. It's natural for a teenager in this situation to latch on to the first kids who befriend her. It helps her feel like she belongs somewhere in her new world. Of course, if she dresses, talks and acts like them, they're even more likely to accept her into their group. The fact that these are not the types of people you want your daughter to associate with is also not unusual.

As you know, millions of kids dress in ways that are offensive to adults. But what you've got to determine is what is going on in her mind. You need to start some lengthy dialogue with her. Reassure her of your love and support and let her know you're looking forward to helping her reestablish herself in her new school. Encourage her to get involved in her music either through lessons or participation in a group. Set up some positive incentive for her to get her grades up and help her get involved in some youth activities through church or a community agency. At this time, do not forbid her from seeing her "friends" and don't ridicule or bad-mouth them. Take the more positive approach and give her support in finding other interests to see if she will drift away from this crowd on her own.

Telephone call from friend frees housebound patient

DEAR ABBY: Please remind your readers that if and when an accident or disease transforms an active, involved person into a housebound, sedentary victim of ill fate, that person desperately needs the warmth and caring of friends and neighbors. Even the smallest kind deed can turn moments of sorrow into meaningful moments of joy.

On behalf of the many tens of thousands of individuals in our country who are involuntarily housebound, I would like to plead with those friends and neighbors: COMMUNICATE! By phone, through a brief note, a drop-in visit — if only for a few minutes.

My beloved wife has been housebound for a little over two years. Because of her illness, she requires oxygen 24 hours a day. For her, a walk to the back yard is an adventure. When she's able to take one, we always take along the portable phone — in case someone calls. It would be a small tragedy to miss a call.

When that phone rings, and a familiar voice says, "Hi!" her conscious struggle for breath seems to almost miraculously disappear.

I hope I have made my point. Be a friend to a friend or relative in need. Abby, please do not use my name or location, but do share this message with your readers.

CONCERNED HUSBAND

DEAR CONCERNED HUSBAND: Your message is well worth passing along.

When someone is stricken with a serious illness, it's common for friends and family to experience feelings of guilt or to feel at a loss for words. Unable to cope with the discomfort, they react by distancing themselves at a time when their support is needed most.

In situations like this, act with the same generosity and compassion you would wish from others were the situation reversed. Rather than dwell on the illness, keep uppermost in mind that the sufferer is still your friend — with the same interests, sense of humor and values. Focusing on that should make communication easier.

The attention is almost always welcome. Coping with chronic illness is difficult enough without having to endure isolation, too. Reach out — you'll be glad you did.

DEAR ABBY: You made the remark in defense of older people, "Just because there's snow on the roof doesn't mean there's no fire in the furnace."

Abby, a male neighbor recently made a similar remark about my graying hair. I replied, "The fire in the furnace depends upon the stoker."

He never mentioned my gray hair again.
