Plane pioneers die

PAHOKEE - Two men who opened an experimental airplane business last month died Thursday when their ultra-light aircraft crashed in a field, officials said.

Brian Ankrom, 26, of Lorida, and Philip Downing, 23, of Lake Worth, rented a hangar in January for their budding business at Pahokee Airport, a few miles from where their Titan Tornado crashed, said Sgt. Pat Lyttch of the Palm Beach County Sheriff's Office.

"The plane was demolished." he said. "No fire, no smoke, just a pile of scrap metal."

There was no cause late Thursday. Weather in the area was clear and sunny all day. Pahokee is north of Belle Glade, on the southeastern end of Lake Okeechobee.

The plane was registered to Finley M. McRae, of Mount Gilead, N.C., said Christy Williams, spokeswoman at the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta.

Contractor found guilty

MIAMI - A federal jury found an Alabama contractor and its foreman guilty of violating the Clean Air Act by releasing Freon into the atmosphere during the demolition of Homestead Air Force Base housing units damaged by Hurricane Andrew.

It was the first criminal prosecution in the nation on charges of Freon venting, prosecutors said.

D&J Enterprises Inc. of Auburn, Ala., and Raymond "Buck" Phillips were each found guilty Thursday on two charges of releasing 700 pounds of the pollutant gas from 98 air conditioners in 1992. Prosecutors said Phillips directed workers to sever the piping in the air conditioners.

After the verdict was returned, the attorneys for DaJ Enterprises and Phillips asked U.S. District Judge Edward B. Davis to set aside the verdict "as being against the weight of Davis told attorneys Fred Schwartz and Victor Rocha to file motions explaining their legal reasons. He didn't enter a judgement of guilt pending his decision on the motions.

If the verdict stands, Phillips could face a maximum penalty of 10 years in federal prison and $500,000 in fines, according to prosecutor Thomas Watts-FitzGerald. D&J Enterprises could face a maximum $1 million in fines and could be barred from future government business.

Freon is the gas that makes air conditioners and refrigerators cold. When released, it rises into the earth's upper atmosphere. It damages the earth's layer of ozone, a gas which protects us from the sun's radiation.

The Miami Herald reported two years ago that Greer's nomination was held up after questions were raised by M. Lee Pearce, a Miami physician and investor who opposed the attorney in several lawsuits dating back to the early 1980s. Pearce was unavailable for comment.

Others, though, feel Republicans have dragged their feet on Clinton nominees. The president cleared Greer's nomination and sent it to the Senate last August.

"I contifiue to be concerned over the agonizing and lengthy delay in confirming federal judges," said U.S. Sen. Bob Graham, D-Fla. ### Four indicted in Brinks heists

MIAMI - The heists came as well-orchestrated attacks in highly public areas with big cash payoffs — nearly $3 million. The bandits were heavily armed.

On Thursday, four men were indicted for robbing two Brinks armored trucks. One of the thefts was the largest cash robbery in Florida's history: $1.9 million, said FBI spokesman Paul The heist occurred Sept. 28, 1994 in front of an Outback

Steakhouse in Coral Springs.

The second robbery on Jan. 3, 1994 occurred in front of the state Health and Rehabilitative Services building in Hialeah. The robbers took about $1 million from the armored truck.

Authorities were aided in their investigation by one witness who jotted down the license plate of a suspicious vehicle the night before the Outback robbery.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Study: Fla. panthers can survive if reintroduced to their old haunts

Associated Press Writer

JACKSONVILLE - The human factor is what worries biologists who say Florida panthers would do well if they are introduced into rural North

A draft of a 21/2-year study that used 19 common Texas cougars to "test" the wilds of North Florida for their extremely rare Florida cousins showed the wilderness and prey are sufficient to support a self-sustaining population of about 50 Florida panthers.

That's about the number of native Florida cats now living wild, most in the swampy southwestern corner of the state.

Not only could Florida panthers readapt in North Florida where they once roamed freely, the study said, but they would likely spread into other Southcastern states.

Creating another breeding population of panthers "is the way to reduce the risk of extinction." said state biologist Chris Belden, who with biologist Walter McKown wrote a report on the study for the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

"We've got a very small population in South Florida. which means it's vulnerable to population fluctuations or catastrophic events, in other words, all the eggs in one basket," Belden said Thursday.

The 50 panthers in Southwest Florida face extinction from loss of habitat through development. lack of genetic diversity and such low numbers that random fluctuations could lead to extinction, the report warns. Texas cougars have been released there to increase genetic diver-

Both Belden and Tom Logan. head of wildlife research for the state agency, say they realize it is the human factors that could prevent reintroduction of the animals in North Florida.

"There are some people living in the woods in those areas in rural circumstances. They are afraid of having them there," said Logan.

"There is tremendous support for panther recovery, there is tremendous support for panther reintroduction as part of recovery, but when you go to the people that are the ones that will actually be out there living with them, they've got a different attitude.

"That attitude is surrounded by the fear associated with living there with that large predator. Logan said.

During the initial cougarrelease experiment with the Texas surrogates, about 250 North Florida residents aigned petitions complaining that livestock was being attacked and that they feared for their safety and that of their children and

Jagger places a memorial for Colley at N. Florida rest stop

BY ADAM YEOMANS Associated Press Writer

MONTICELLO - An 800pound stone now marks the spot where a British tourist was slain almost 21/2 years ago. a murder that produced international headlines and tarnished Florida's tourism

Margaret Jagger, who was injured during the bungled robbery at the Interstate 10 rest area about 35 miles east of Tallahassee, said she wanted something to remember her companion of 14 years.

Jagger shipped the large stone inscribed with a memorial to the 34-year-old Colley from her home in West Yorkshire, England to Florida. His parents had previously planted a crape myrtle and placed a small plaque at the

A group of employees with the state attorney's office in Tallahassee and the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office erected the stone a few months ago without fanfare after three teen-agers were sentenced for the crime last fall.

It faces the parking spot where Colley was shot as he tried to escape with Jagger after their rental car was blocked in by a group of would-be robbers. The couple had stopped to rest shortly after midnight in September

"She felt very strongly about it representing Yorkshire where he came from," said Kay Rifkin, a victim's advocate who befriended Jagger. "It's very touching.' Most motorists who pull into the rest stop may not know the story behind the stone. Those who remember the case said it's a fitting tribute. "I'm glad to see that," said Keith Proctor, who stopped to read the memorial Friday after he and his wife Elizabeth pulled into the space. "I just feel bad for her and her family," said Proctor, who was en route from New Orleans to Jacksonville. "It's the last thing you expect.'

The murder caused lawmakers to post roundthe-clock armed guards at rest stops and overhaul the state's juvenile justice system.

Merger could save $millions

TALLAHASSEE - AMergink Florida's driver licensing and motor vehicle agency with the Secretary of State's office could improve service and save millions, a study Indicates.

Smokers who started as teens likely hooked for 16 years

By LAURAH NEERGAARD Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Today's underage smokers probably won't kick the habit for at least 16 years — and the younger they tried cigarettes, the later they'll quit, researchers reported today.

"Cigarettes are an addiction that (teen-agers) will not easily escape." John Pierce of the University of California. San Diego, concluded in today's edition of the American Journal of Public Health.

The government says some 3 million teen-agers smoke and a third will eventually die from smoking-related illnesses.

But how quickly smokers kick the habit is important, said University of California statistician Elizabeth Gilpin. Pierce's co-author. She cited a British study that found people who quit amoking by age 30 don't have a statistically significant increased risk of dying from it - but that risk then jumps every year smoking continues.

Government surveys show many teen smokers claim they won't still be using cigarettes five years later. So Pierce and Gilpin decided to check.

They pulled government research from 1965 through 1988 to track how smoking practices have changed among different generations. They extrapolated that data to people ages 17-21 who regularly smoke today, picking that age group because young teens typically don't smoke as regularly.

Half of this generation of male smokers won't kick the habit before they turn 33, and half of the females won't quit before they turn 37, the study con-

A separate study, also published in today's journal. found young teen smokers have worse odds of quitting by age 30 than older teens.

Naomi Breslau of the Henry Ford Health Sciences Center in Detroit randomly picked from a health maintenance organization 414 people in their 20s who had ever smoked. Of them, 145 had quit smoking for at least a who started smoking before they turned 14 had kicked the habit. But people who started smoking later in their adolescence did better: 9.6 percent of smokers who started at ages 14-16 and 13.6 percent of those who started after age 16 had quit.

Education was the only other strong predictor of who would quit smoking. Breslau found that smokers who finished college were 2.5 times more likely than high school graduates to kick the habit.

The tobacco industry says it opposes teen age smoking, and sponsors a program called "It's the Law" to inform store clerks it is illegal in every state to sell tobacco to anyone under 18. The program gives participating merchants window stickers to alert customers to the laws as

But a third study concluded "It's the Law" participants sold to minors just as often as their competitors.

For a University of Massachusetts study, 12 teens, ages 12 through 17, made 240 attempts to buy eigarettes from store clerks. Half of the stores were "It's the Law" participants.

NEW YORK - The TV industry has turned to the chairman of the Motion Picture Association of America to broker its negotiations for a rating system just like the movies.

Jack Valenti, once a White Just 4.4 percent of the people House aide for President Johnson, is an adept and influential lobbyist as well as a respected industry leader who can command respect from the owners and operators of multi-billion dollar networks.

NBC also confirmed it was in discussions regarding a rating opposed the so-called v-chip provisions of the Telecommunications Act signed into law by President Clinton a week ago. The law requires every 13-

"The legislation sets up the specter of a governmentally defined and imposed rating system," he said. "We think that's a bad idea, and what's more, we think that's unconstitutional."

According to several industry sources, the impetus for the talks began with the chief executives of the networks, specifically with Murdoch and Fox Broadcasting Co.

"Fox was pushing. ABC fairly readily agreed. CBS was somewhere in the middle, and NBC was the most reluctant. said one network source.

Walking jewelry stores

Crime reports in the Sanford Herald often tell of jewelry reportedly stolen on school grounds or from school-age youngsters. The values of the items at times have been listed at $300, $650, even $1,000. The exact loss connected to a recent theft from a locker at a school in Seminole County was not specified. but the police incident report said it was considered as "theft of property valued at over $10,000." It was one neck chain.

The question that must be asked is why school age youngsters ever take or are allowed by their parents to take such valuable jewelry to school. Often we must also question where some students obtained such expensive Jewelry in the first place.

Or is this is a case where a written police statement is made in order to request payment from an insurance company? Insurance officials say this is often the case.

While we would like to think our school hallways are free from crime, such is often not the case. Taking valuable jewelry, or any jewelry for that matter, to school, is just asking to become a victim.

it's time for parents to monitor not only what their children do and where they go, but whether or not they are walking-jewel boxes. ready to be robbed.

Behaving as though we're a village

WASHINGTON-Michael Joyce has offered some unusual advice to the new crop of Republican conservatives. Democratic liberals and progressives had better hope the freshmen weren't listening. Better yet, they might pay heed themselves. A lot of good might come of it.

Joyce, who is with the Milwaukee-based Bradley Foundation, began his recent remarks with a broad swipe at Hillary Clinton's new book. "It Takes a Village.

Too sweeping, he said, in its notion that somehow America-"all 250 million of us"-should try to behave as though we are a village. Since only the federal government could even attempt to "engineer this great feat of unification." the first lady's language, he contended, reveals progressivism's agenda: huge, intrusive, ever more powerful government.

That is conservative boilerplate. This isn't: "Now, we need to be honest about one of our own shortcomings in political discourse," Joyce told the gathering assembled in Baltimore by the Heritage Foundation. "When we talk about the need to ahrink the federal government aimply because it costs too much, or when we focus exclusively on balancing the budget-as critical as those undertakings are-we do begin to sound like crabby, small-souled bookkeepers. We play right into liberalism's caricature of us as heartless, uncaring conservatives. When we put on our green eyeshades, it enables liberalism to put on the armor of righteousness. That sets up a contest for public opinion that's difficult for us to are individuals who have thrown themselves into the business of civic revitalization, although they might not call it that. Perhaps one day they simply looked around themselves at the decay. the crime, the moral collapse, and said: Enough. Enough of the social pathology. Enough of government programs full of promise and short of performance. Enough of passively waiting for an alleged expert to do something. And so they themselves stepped forward to do something."

"What you must do now," Joyce told this mostly young group of conservative ideologues, "is to go back to your districts and track these folks down. Take the time to become acquainted with them. Learn their stories.

Much of what Joyce had to say-much of what liberals and conservatives have to say about each other these days-is a caricature. Does he really believe that Hillary Clinton (and by extension progressive Democrats) expects to turn America into a continental village? No more, I suspect, than the rest of us believe that government involvement in social problems is synonymous with mindless bureaucracy.

Liberals had better hope Joyce's audience wasn't listening. Or else they'd better start paying attention themselves. As far as the people in need of help are concerned, one might be about as good as the other.

Many thanks to all who made pageant a success

This year's Miss Sanford Pageant is finally over and it's now time to start preparing for next year. A very wonderful and talented young lady by the name of Amber Riddell of Orlando was selected as our current titleholder. This young lady should representt Sanford well at the Miss Florida Pageant to be held in June. We will miss Meredith Miller, last year's titleholder and we wish her well. Meredith did a lot of good will for Sanford and her efforts to make Sanford a place for out-of-towners to come to shop was very successful. But now on with our new gal.

I have heard comments that we did not have local girls in the pageant. This is very true and not because we didn't try to get Sanford girls, but either they did not qualify or did not know about the pageant. We are going to go to each high school in Seminole County next year in an effort to get someone from our county in the pageant. Hopefully. Seminole High will produce a few contestants for us. Mary Crager, a business teacher at Seminole, has agreed to assist with this effort. So maybe next pageant, we can have a few Sanford young ladies in it.

This year's pageant was made successful because of a few good merchants and business people. So I would like to say thanks to all of the following persons. Without them, we would not have had a pageant.

Jean and Lisa Clontz who worked backstage with the contestants. Martha Yancey, who helped in greeting our patrons; Johnny Cox, David Sharp and Windall Shafford, who helped our VIPs to their chairs. To Gina Conlan and Melinda Treuhl for giving out the programs. My wife, Diana, and Myra Wardwell who took care of the box office. Gail McCord and Martie Williams who smiled so pretty and sold lots of raffle tickets.

Local businesses are Jerry Ross at Skytracker for the searchlights. Bob at Sanford Ace Hardware, who is always there for Sanford. Mike at Freedom Bail Bonds. Kim at Sanford Flower Shop. I cannot say too much about this lady. She is another one who is always there for Sanford. Bill Barwick at Seminole National Bank. Bill is another person who works so very hard for Sanford. Miriam and Valerie at School of Dance Arts. The wonderful show they presented was fantastic. Tom at Sanford Trophy who donated the trophies for our winners. Biron at Biron Signs for the signs used at the civic center that night. Sharp Fence for the refreshments during the reception. For those who tasted the cake have indicated that it was the best cake they ever tasted. Thanks, Janet, you were so kind to not only help, but to donate the refreshments. Gail Stewart for the cups and plates in addition to assisting the contestants during the many changes they had to make that night.

Sandra Glenn with Sun Travel for the certificate auctioned off. This helped us to raise an additional $83. To Nora with Seminole Graphics program for us. Mark with Stitch by Stitch for

Bee stitched the whole thing together. Bud at Blossom World Bromeliads for the use of the plants. Monica at Schlotzsky's for the sandwiches which helped to give the contestants and stage crew a lift during the Saturday's rehearsal. Cindy at LeCut & Style who donated a cut and perm for the raffle and who worked backstage helping the contestants with their hair and mending tears, etc. To Vera at TMC Communications for typesetting the flyers and tickets. Winn-Dixie at the Marketplace on French Avenue for the gift certificate which was used as a prize for the raffle. Publix Food Stores on South Orlando Avenue for the gift certificate, also used as a prize in the raffle. Subway for the subs for the contestants and crew during the rehearsal. Burger King on Orlando Avenue for the drinks also used during the rehearsal. Lee's Famous Recipe Chicken on South French, another gift certificate used for the raffle. McDonald's at 1-4 and State Road 46 for the food donated that was consumed during the rehamals. Bill Painter at the Colonial Room Restaurant for hosting the judges to dinner on Saturday night of the pageant. Richard Aliaon at Shoney's Restaurant on South Orlando Drive for hosting the judges on Friday night before the interview portion of the pageant. To Patty at Sanford Landing Apartments and David Todd with Fitzgerald's for hosting the lunch on Saturday for the judges. Paula Mix with the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts for the Honor Guard. Johnny Cox with Helig-Meyers Furniture Company for the donation of the color TV which was raffled away.

I can't say too much about Dennis Baldwin. mnaager at the Marina Hotel. Dennis furnished five rooms for the judges for two nights, a getwho at the last minute was able to typeset the ready room for the contestants and an inteview room for the contestants' interviews on Friday monogramming the sash while Beverly at Sewing night. Probably the most important thing about the scholarship pageant is it gives many young women the chance to continue their education through financial assistance made available through these events. I'm very proud to be a very small part of this program, whether it is by being an executive director or Judging a pageant somewhere around the state. What a great country we live in.

Spy-trader now faces jail

WASHINGTON - At a time when many former Communist officials in East Germany are going free, a man who freed thousands of his countrymen from tyranny before the Berlin Wall fell could be headed to prison.

Wolfgang Vogel's crime is that he made a fortune helping his fellow East Germans escape to the West -- a fact that he never hid. Today, many former East Germans are grousing because the homes they once traded to Vogel in exchange for their freedom are worth 10 times or more what they were under communism.

Several weeks ago, the 70-year-old former spy-trader and superlawyer was convicted in a German court of perjury and of cheating five former clients out of money and property. He was ordered to pay $65,700 in fines suspended two-year prison term. A second trial, on related charges, is scheduled for March.

Vogel was one of communism's most fascinating characters during the height of the Cold War, a constant topic of conversation among spies, dissidents and Communists in the Eastern Bloc. Were his actions borne of convictions? Or was he merely a man trying to earn money under the rigid constraints of Soviet-style communism?

Vogel was one

fascinating

munism's most

ing the height of the Cold War.

The answer is, a mixture of both; Vogel was motivated by conscience, but he also enjoyed the perks money could bring him in East Berlin. CIA sources kept us abreast of Vogel's activities for more than a decade, and Vogel sat down with our associate Dale Van Atta to examine these questions.

His waiting room alone bespoke a man who had close friends in the top circles of the East and West. Unlike the usual bare offices with pictures of Lenin, Vogel's was filled with plush rugs, leather-bound books, tasteful antique furniture and knickknacks. Dressed immaculately in a tailored, double-breasted suit, Vogel traveled East Berlin in a yellow Mercedes-Benz at a time when his countrymen were plugging away in their tiny. unreliable Trabents.

For his second marriage, Vogel feil in love with a beautiful, younger West German woman who now does his driving and translates English for him. Vogel met the lovely Helga, a member of a West German swimming team, when she came to him in the mid-1970s to arrange the emigration of an East German swimmer with whom she was in love. She ended up marrying Vogel

A lawyer by trade, Vogel first came to Western attention in January 1962 when he wrote an American official in West Berlin asking if the West would be interested in a swap: Francis Gary Powers, the CIA pilot who had been shot down in a U-2 over Russia the previous year, for Col. Rudolf Ivanovich Abel, a Soviet superspy imprisoned in New York. A month later, the two spies passed each other on the Glienicke Bridge between West Berlin and Potsdam - the first in a series of Cold War spy swaps (all engineered by Vogel) that made the bridge famous.

Vogel spent the bulk of his time as an intermediary between the East German and West German governments arranging the release of more than 33,000 imprisoned disaldents who tried to escape East Germany by climbing the Berlin Wall. The deals, which began in 1963, and released an average of 1,500 a year, had to be conducted in secret. Any publicity, the East Germans warned, and the deals would be off.

Industrial output takes largest plunge in 5 years

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Industrial production plunged 0.6 percent in January, the biggest drop since the nation was emerging from the last recession five years ago. While the decline was due in part to the blizzard that hit the East Coast, it was fresh evidence of weakness in the manufacturing economy.

The Federal Reserve said today the decline in output by the nation's factories, utilities and mines was the steepest since an operate, and how it will go about conducting hearings and recommending enforcement procedures. As written, "The board would hear complaints and may declare any place or premises that has been used on more than two occasions, within a sixmonth period, as the site of the unlawful sale or delivery of controlled substances, ...or any place or building used by a youth and street gang for the purpose of conducting a pattern of youth and street gang activities, to be a public nuisance."

The complaints could be filed by any resident of the city including employees and officers of the city. A hearing is subsequently established, and persons connected with a building which has been accused of being the site of a nuisance, are allowed to present their cases.

If the complaint is judged by the board to be appropriate, fines could be imposed or other resolutions to the problem could be suggested.

It was the second drop in the last four months. Production edged up 0.2 percent in December. In another report, the Commerce Department said that construction spending rose 0.9 percent in December, wiping out an identical loss a month earlier and helping boost outlays by 4 percent for the year. But the annual increase was less than half the gain in 1994. Single-family outlays fell for a second straight month despite failing mortgage rates.

The Commerce Department

also reported that business inventories edged up just 0.1 percent in November, the imallest advance since a similar increase in March 1994.

Still, it was the 20th consecutive gain. Inventories had risen 0.7 percent in October.

The inventory backlog has been blamed for much of the economy's current weakness, since a big pileup of goods often means reduced orders and production while businesses attempt to clear their shelves and backlots.

But the report also showed a rebound in business sales. They were up 0.7 percent in November after slipping 0.3 percent a month earlier.

The drop in industrial output was not as steep as the. 0.8 percent decline that many analysts had predicted.

Factory output fell 0.6 percent, erasing a slight 0.1 percent gain in December and also the second decrease in four months.

Output of durable goods, such as cars and computers, was down 0.5 percent, wiping out a 0.4 percent advance a month earlier. Nondurable goods production fell 0.7 percent, the third straight decline.

Mining production slipped 0.3 percent on top of a 0.1 percent fall in December.

Output at the nation's utilities fell 0.9 percent, surprising most analysts who had expected a strong advance because of increased power usage during January's stormy weather.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said overall spending on residential, nonresidential and government projects totaled a record $537.5 billion annual rate, up from $532.9 billion in November when spending dropped 0.9 percent. Spending had risen 0.5 percent in October.

Court rules insurer must pay for kids' food supplement

Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. - A judge harshly denounced Blue Cross for refusing to cover a special formula for three children who cannot eat most food, and then ordered the insurer to pay up.

The ruling by state Supreme Court Judge Lawrence Kahn on Thursday forces Blue Cross and Blue Shield of the Rochester Area to temporarily pay the estimated $1,800 a month it costs to keep Catherine Evans' children on a protein-enriched formula called Neocate One Plus. The injunction lasts until the case is settled.

Mrs. Evans says her three children, aged 11 to 13, are unable to exi most foods without getting violently ill because of protein allergies. A doctor in December 1994 prescribed Neocate, which contains proteins already broken down. It prompted what Mrs. Evans

Elsewhere, the shortages often add to the cost of construction projects because builders have to pay coatly overtime - plus premium rates and even bonuses to hire and keep skilled crastapeople. Many industry groups are expanding programs to lure school kids into the construction trades. ABC is one of 10 trade associations that created the National Center for Construction Education and Research two

The center, which includes the National Association of Minority Contractors and the National Association of Women in Construction, is developing programs in the public schools, junior colleges and vocational schools.

"We think the supply of needed manpower has to come from the schools," Dan Bennett, director of the center, said Thursday.

Along with the training offered by individual construction firms and associated industries, these school-to-work programs are now reaching tens of thousands of young people. Bennett estimales.

Ultimately, industry leaders ope to see 1 million students in hope to see 1 million students in such programs at any given time because of the high turnover rates among craft workers.

Last month, Florida Education Commissioner Frank Brogan lauded the programs in Seminole County as being the 'wave of the future," noting that the programs, such as the construction trade academies, that prepare students for the workplace were being defined in Seminole County.

Next week, the Construction Education and Research Center is bringing in 70 of the top apprentices from around the country to Disney World for a national craft competition to select the best pipe-fitter, the best carpenter and so on.

The event, designed to provide high-visibility for the schoolto-work programs, is part of the annual convention of ABC, which represents 18,000 nonunion construction firms in 82 chapters across the country.

The center, which is completing a standardized curriculum for 20 crafts, is in some ways a response to criticism that non-union contractors have lagged behind the unions in training skilled workers.

For many years, unions were at the forefront in conducting training and apprenticeship programs. And in some cases, they were very rigid and selective. But that is no longer true.

About 80 percent of the construction industry is now open shop, or non-union, according to some industry estimates. And Bennett and others say they often have to fight a perception that union contractors still

Debate: No one stumbled in a big way

MANCHESTER, N.H. - The major contenders for the GOP presidential nomination came away from a high-stakes televised debate each proclaiming victory after lively exchanges on negative advertising, taxes, immigration and trade. And, if there was no clear winner in the 90-minute exchange.

Sex on the net

PHILADELPHIA - The federal government must explain what material it considers indecent before it can enforce a new law designed to protect children from sexually explicit material on computer networks.

U.S. District Judge Ronald Buckwalter on Thursday temporarily blocked the Communications Decency Act, saying the definition of "indecency" is so vague that people wouldn't know they were breaking the law until they were arrested.

"The judge sent a message to the federal government not to be prosecuting anyone under this law." said Stefan Presser, an American Civil Liberties Union legal director and lawyer for the 19 groups challenging the law.

Growth in personal incomes

WASHINGTON - Two states at opposite ends of the country - Nevada and Delaware - enjoyed the fastest growth in personal incomes last summer, while residents of Hawaii hardly saw any improvement.

The Commerce Department reported Thursday that incomes grew 2.27 percent in Nevada and 2.26 percent in Delaware during the July-September quarter, compared with the previous three months.

Incomes edged up a barely perceptible 0.3 percent in Hawaii. the only state with growth less than the 0.5 percent increase in consumer inflation as measured by the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis.

For the nation, personal income increased 1.2 percent in the July-September quarter, little changed from the 1.1 percent gain from April through June.

Survey: Schools and the Internet

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Half of the nation's public schools are linked to the Internet, but low-income students are less likely to have classroom access to the worldwide computer network than wealthier students, a survey found.

"Learning on-line must not become a new fault line in American education." Education Secretary Richard Riley said in a

He released a new survey today that estimated 50 percent of all schools had internet access in October 1995 - up from 35 percent one year earlier.

Nine percent of individual classrooms have access, the survey found, up from 3 percent the year before.

"If it's going to be a useful tool that's tied to learning, we need to get computer connections in the classroom." said Linda Roberts, director of the education technology office at the Education Department.

The department's National Center for Education Statistics conducted the survey. which was sent to a representative sample of 1,000 public elementary and secondary schools last fall. More than 90 percent of the schools responded. Responses were weighted to produce national estimates.

According to the survey:

-Internet access was available at 31 percent of schools with large portions of students from low-income families. In those schools, 71 percent of students are eligible for free or reduced-priced meals.

-Internet access was available at 62 percent of schools with lower levels of low-income families. In those schools, less than 11 percent of the students are eligible for free or subsidized lunches. -Lack of money and inadequate wiring were the most frequently cited barriers to acquiring advanced telecommunications. -Three-fourths of schools without access

Learning Center, a public school in southcentral Los Angeles, expressed dismay by what he considers to be a small number of internet connections in classrooms across America. "That's really a shame because it's really needed in the classroom," Lappin said. "Students need to have access to it regularly, often and easily."

Twenty-five of his school's 80 classrooms are on-line, and an additional 35 terminals are linked to the internet in the school's product development center. Students have used the network to download information and pictures to make an electronic 200. communicate with students in Japan, and Republican-led Congress. To receive the funds, states or communities would have to submit plans outlining how they would get schools connected, set up computers, train teachers and obtain educational software. Roberts said. The federal grants would leverage funds pledged by the private sector and other sources.

Before receiving funds, states and communities also would have to look at the technological needs of both poor and well-to-do schools, and address inequities so the money is not used to "make the rich schools richer and the poor ones poorer,' Roberts said.

Child advocates

Volunteers stand up for foster kids

By LAURIE ASSEC Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - After their mother died last year, two brothers ages 5 and 11 were separated and have shuttled among three foster homes each. But one person has stepped forward to speak for their interests. and she isn't even a relative.

Karla Saunders is one of 37,000 people across the nation who volunteer to become court-appointed advocates for children in foster care or under some court supervision. They do this work for free.

"Their only job is to figure out what this child needs," says Michael Piraino, the national Court Appointed Special Advocate program's chief executive officer. "They typically will not let go until that child gets into a safe, permanent home."

For her part, Saunders regularly checks on the boys and represents their interests at family court hearings. She serves, in effect, as the judge's eyes and ears to find out if the children are being well cared for.

For each of the brothers, Saunders says, 'One thing that's constant is that he has known me. He knows he can talk to me and that I'm not going to leave his life next Yolanda Washington, a Washington, D.C., school teacher, has been appointed to look out for a 19-year-old woman who is trying to build a life for herself from a troubled past. 'I think she can make it," Washington says.

'She thinks I bug her, but she likes it. She likes the attention; she likes to have somebody that cares."

The young woman had been a victim of sexual abuse at home. Now she is in a privately sponsored independent living program and attends college in hopes of becoming a

The Court Appointed Special Advocate program began in 1977 in Seattle, Wash., where Superior Court Judge David Soukup decided to recruit community volunteers to help him oversee child welfare cases.

Now there are programs in each state and the District of Columbia, financed with a mix of federal, state and local funds. The program costs about $477 a year for each of the 128,000 children nationwide helped by the unpaid volunteers.

Because volunteers usually are assigned one or two children, they have more time than a social worker who may be responsible for dozens of children. A volunteer visits and telephones a child regularly, keeps in touch with the social worker on the case, and appears in court to tell the judge how the child is doing. The volunteers are screened and trained about child development. Four-fifths of the volunteers are women. Ray King of Washington, D.C., a psychiatric nurse and former police officer, was assigned two brothers, ages 7 and 10, who were placed in foster care last year. The boys now are in a stable foster home with a retired couple, although one still has problems with disruptive behavior. The children sometimes need prodding to make the right decisions. King said.

He says he asks them: "Are you going to get your act together, are you going to go to school? Most of these kids have not gotten this positive attention."

"it's like being a best friend and a surrogate parent, all rolled up into one," King says. Saunders says the 11-year-old boy whose care she oversees spent Thanksgiving with her family in suburban Takoma Park, Md., and is going with them to a basketball game

Alter spending time in a grou home, and says, "He said he didn't want to be there any more." Now, he is with a stable foster family and is reading three library books a week.

The younger boy is in a new foster home after a "really strange situation" in which a foster mother wouldn't let Saunders visit her

"They've seen a lot in their short lives," says Saunders.

We are there to look after the best interests of the child," Saunders says, adding that she plans to stick around until the boys are out of the foster care system. "It's something that we want to do."

bottom of the sixth inning and then pushed across the winning run in the bottom of the 10th inning in a playoff to win 2-1.
In the nightcap, SCC led 3-0 and 4-3, but Polk took the lead for good in the fourth inning with three runs, then added three insurance runs in the sixth inning to post a 10-4 triumph.

"The first game was a well fought game by both teams," said SCC head coach Courtney Miller. "We had our chances to win, but couldn't push a run across. Crystal (Pittard) pitched a great game and the kids played hard, so it was a tough loss to take. The second game we hit the ball better and got the ahead early in the game, but we couldn't hold the lead because of poor defense."

The poor defense Miller referred to was four errors that led to four uncarned runs in the second game.

It was an error that also hurt the Raiders in the opener as a two out, none on error on single allowed a Vikings runner to reach second and Valente followed with an RBI double.

After nine innings the game goes to a "playoff" with each team getting to place a runner on second base to start the inning.

SCC's runner was thrown out stealing and the reached on an error and Lake Brantley's Anne Freeburg singled, but the next batter grounded

TITUSVILLE - No. 7 state ranked Satellite roared out of the blocks to a 33-20 lead after the first period and Seminole never recovered as Scorpions upset the Fighting Seminoles 93-63 in the semifinals of the Class 5A-District 6 Girls' Basketball Tournament at Tituaville High School

Thursday night.

Satellite, seeded third in the tournament, did not lose much momentum in the second quarter as it outscored the No. 2 seeded Tribe 24-16 and took a 57-36 lead into the lockerroom at intermission.

The Scorpions continued to build on the lead in the third quarter, leading 72-48 and also outpointed the local forces 21-15 in the final stanza.

'Overall, we had a good season,' said Seminole coach John McNamara. "We beat some very tough teams, and were very successful for a team with only one senior. Our players have nothing to hang their heads about."

The Tribe committed 38 turnovers in the game and finishes the year with a 24-5 overall record. Senior Mindee Hampton and sophomore Shemeika Stokes led Seminole with 15 points each, while junior Haneffah Miller added 11.

The quintet of Kelly Kretschman (23 points). Kalli Kamholz (21), Andy Sellers (17), Jakowica (14) and Cockrell (10) all scored in double figures as Satellite improved to 25-4 on the season.

'We're going to have to play a whole lot better tomorrow to beat Lake Howell." said Lake Mary coach Carl Brown. "We got out to a quick lead and kind of coasted the rest of the way. We won't be able to do that against Lake Howell."

The Rams jumped out to a 13-2 lead in the first quarter and, except for a late charge in the second quarter when the Patriots cut the deficit to 8 points, 24-16. two minutes before halftime. Lake Mary's lead hovered between 11 and 15 points the rest of the way.

"We haven't played in over two weeks, so we were a little rusty," said Brown. "That's not to take anything away from Lake Brantley. They didn't quit. They kept

Is ironing a thing of the past?

Wrinkle resistant finishes are associated with 100 percent cotton or cotton blend fabrics. Because of the increasing 'casual work day" or "dress down days" these wrinkle resistant garments are becoming more popular. This product is meeting the needs of durability while maintaining the desired comfort level for the wearer. Wrinkle resistant apparel is expanding also because of other characteristics it offers such as stability to shrinkage, permanent creases, less wrinkling after washing, less pilling, and smoothness of the fabric. The wrinkle resistant finishes are being offered in men's dress shirts, slacks and shorts. This product has begun to expand into women's casual wear and some children's wear. These garments are not sold in specific store types, rather a variety of stores from discount outlets to department stores. Although the wrinkle resistant finish may sound like the end of ironing. a few problems exist, specifically

• reduced tensile strength. • loss of elasticity to flexing and bending.

• stiff fabric that is suscentible to abrasion.

For stain removal and laundering of wrinkle resistant cottons, keep the following tips in mind. Durable press finishes attract oil soils. These types of sotle will be prominently found around the neck, collar, and cuff area on shirts. Treat with liquid detergent or pre-spotters before laundering for best soil removal.

When laundering wrinkle realstant apparel, these tips should extend the life of the garment. Dark colored items reduce the mechanical action. To prevent streaking, do not overload the clothes washer. Attempt to avoid using chlorine bleach. It has been found to cause vellowing and/or strength loss in the fabric. For the best results, it is recommended that home laundering be done on wrinkle resistant garments rather than dry cleaning garments. (Barbara Hughes/Gregg is the Seminele County Extension Home Economist. Inquiries may he directed to her at the Cooperative Extension Service, 258 W. County Home Road, Sanford,FL 32773 or phone 223-2800. Ext. 5556.)

Family aches to hear from son

still alive) will soon be 33. We have not heard from him in nearly five ars. The pain of not knowing if he is OK is nearly unbearable. Sometimes I still break down and cry. Nothing happens in our family that cannot be forgiven. I long to see his face or to hear his voice again. I have been to a counselor; I bought a book on finding last people; I checked with the police for his driver's license, etc. I do not know where else to turn.

Last Christmas, I shopped for a needy child. It helped, but my heart is still heavy when I think of my son. Now, when the subject of children comes up, I just tell the truth and say, "He left five years ago and I don't know whether he's alive or dead." Abby, it's painful to think I urge those who have separated themselves from their families to get in touch with them. You need not say where you are. You may think your family stops caring after a while, but that's not so. I'll never stop hurting. And I'll never stop hoping. In fact, sign me ... HURTING AND HOPING,

FORT WORTH, TEXAS

DEAR HURTING: I'm hopeful your son will read your letter, recognize himself and contact you. Companies that perform computer search services may be able to locate your son. (They are listed in the Yellow Pages under "Information Specialists," "Information Brokers" or "Bearchers of Public Records,") Meanwhile, continue helping others: Participate in a commu nity program for children in need, volunteer to read to children or teach a children's class at the library. Most hospital nurseries need volunteers to comfort sick infants. God bless you. I wish you well.

DEAR ABBY: A close friend of mine who now lives out of town stayed at my home the other night. She slept in the nude. When I asked her why, she told me it was healthier to sleep that way. Also, she sleeps better, and it's much more comfortable.

I have slept in the nude on a few occasions and would start doing it regularly if it is indeed healthier.

WONDERING IN SAN ANTONIO

DEAR WONDERING: If it has been proven that sleeping in the nude is healthier, I am not aware of it. The only possible advan-tage: There would be no pajamas or nightgowns to launder.

Years of absence can't be erased

DEAR MARY: My first wife and I got a divorce when my son was 18 months old. For the next couple years, she made my life hell by punishing me through our child. She accused me of sexually molesting him, among other things, and my son was being torn apart emotionally.

Then she met and married a guy who everyone said she really loved and was good to the boy. She asked me to allow him to be adopted. It nearly tore my heart out, but I felt like it would be better for him than being caught in an unending cross-fire between us. That was nearly 10 years ago and I have had no contact with him in that time.

I still miss him and yearn to see him. Sometimes I see kids about his age and think it is him. but of course, I can't be sure.

I really want to see him again. I won't try to be his dad; I gave up that right. I just want to know how his life is going and let him know I'll always love him. I know I could find out where he lives thrugh relatives. Do you think it would be all right to contact him?

LONELY DAD DEAR LONELY: Adolescence is a period of turmoil under the best of circumstances and your son has already survived a difficult early childhood. Wait until he is 18, then find him and reintroduce yourself into his life. if he wants that. To do so now might reflame the anger that led to so much pain when he was a little guy.

After he is legally an adult, you and he can decide together what your relationship will be. You are wise to remember, though, that a dad is the guy who was there to help you learn to ride a bike and do multiplication tables. You can't ever erase your years of absence, whether or not it was in his best

You can create a new relationship with time and interest on both parts, but for now let him deal with the difficult teen-age years without adding another overlay of confusion and divided loyalties.

Churches make friends, music

By MARVA HAWKINS Herald Columnist

SANFORD - Christian fellowship continues to make a greater love between all Christians who come together to celebrate and worship, united in the body of Christ.

The congregations of First Baptist Church, 519 Park Avenue and New Life Word Center, West 13th Street Joined this past Sunday in their sixth year of fellowship.

The Lord's Day worship ser-vice began with the combined choirs singing "Right Here and Now (We Gonna Praise the Lord)."

The Rev. Eddie Gilstrap, interim paster of First Baptist, welcomed Paster Ronald Merthie, New Life Word Center and other visitors and friends.

Celebration time in musical praise hymns gave strength to all Christians — "Are You Washed in the Blood, he Blood Will Never Lose Ita Power. "Precious Lord, Take My Hand." and "Thou Art Worthy." Oh how sweet the words of these hymne are to the soul of all

Worship through giving was a moment of giving back to God what is his. The music from the saxophone of Leo Zeola had the spiritual zest to make for a praise-filled time of giving.

Worship was continued through the musical selections from the New Life Word Choir, Combined choirs of First Bestiet Church and New Life Word Center sing in sweet harmony.

"Never Shall Forget" and "How Excellent."

Pastor Merthie's message from God's word was taken from Eph. 4:11-14, "Unity in body of Christ." He reminded the congregation that "we are not divided into races, all are one, molded in God's image. We are God's children, there is but one race, the Christian race. We are joined together to praise, wor-ship, lift Jesus, and we will be drawn together as one." This Christian fellowship has helped members of both congregations focus on both wor-shipting God and uplifting each other in Christian love. Before the worship service, a joint prayer dinner for the staff, Descon Council and spouses of both churches was held and a prayer meeting/Bible study.

February is the time for Southern Baptist churches to emphasise race relations and the leadership of First Baptist Church does more than just talk about improving them. Both churches have taken positive action toward breaking down racial barriers. These services are hosted between each church alternatively.

The fellowship and Christian love between these two congregations have grown. Many expressed their feelings that this was the high point of their spiritual year. This service does indeed make a difference in the Sanford community.

The facts on nephrotic syndrome

DEAR DR. GOTT: A relative has been diagnosed with nephrotic syndrome. Do you have information about protein loss, diet and medication?

DEAR READER: The nephrotic syndrome is not a single disease; rather it has many causes, ranging from diabetes and lupus to severe allergic reactions. The syndrome is marked by excess excretion of protein in the urine with resulting low levels of protein in the blood, increased amounts of fats in the blood, and edema (swelling of tissues).

The primary sign of nephrotic syndrome is edema, which can be quite severe in the legs, but can also affect the face and lungs. Symptoms include fatigue, malaise, loss of appetite, irregular menstruation, and abdominal pain.

The diagnosis is established by demonstrating the protein and fat abnormalities that I mentioned. Treatment is directed to the underlying condition that causes the nephrotic syndrome.

However, dietary protein supplements are also necessary to stem the protein depletion taking place through the kidneys. In addition, salt should be restricted, because it will aggravate edema. Patients with this condition should be monitored by kidney spe-

Cortisone and other steroids often help reduce protein losses. If the kidneys are severely damaged, renal transplants must be considered.

The outcome of the nephrotic syndrome varies, depending on the cause and the success of treatment.

Because I mentioned lupus and diabetes as two possible causes of nephrotic syndrome, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Lupus: The Great Imitator" and "Diabetes Mellitus." Other readers who would like copies should send $2 for each report plus a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title(s).

DEAR DR. GOTT: My grandson had a chance for a better job, but for some reason he failed the urine test because it was too weak. He drinks a tremendous amount of water. What can be done to alleviate this problem? DEAR READER: The more water a person consumes, the more fluid is eliminated in the urine. The more dilute the urine, the less concentrated are the various components - such as metabolic products of drugs - in

Therefore, during routine testing for drugs, such as marijuana and cocaine, many labs check to see how dilute the urine samples are. If a specimen is too dilute, the drug test is considered inconclusive - or may not be passed, as was your grandson's

MEDIC MINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

The easiest way to solve the probem is to urge your grandson to avoid unnecessary fluid consumption. If he drinks only when he is thirsty, the urine will become more concentrated and the lab will prove that he is drugfree - if, indeed, he is.

DEAR DR. GOTT: For six years following a mastectomy, I've been taking Tamoxifen. Because it is an estrogen blocher, I'm concerned about a higher risk of heart disease. Should I discon tinue the medicine or remain on it, taking my chances as far as heart dis-ease is concerned?

DEAR READER: Most authorities recommend the drug Tamexifen for women whose breast cancers are shown to be particularly sensitive to the effects of estrogen. Tamoxifen blocks the effects of estrogen, thereby reduc-the risk of recurrence or spre As you imply, estrogen seems to protect women against heart disease; hus, Tamoxifen could — in theory at least - neutralize that benefit.

However, the effects on the cancer are so enermous compared to the slight additional risk of heart disease that I cannot conceive of a woman choosing to stop Tamoxifen therapy for this reason al I advise you to discuss this issue with your encologist or gynecologist and to follow the advice given by these ompetent professionals.

Count on repetition

By Phillip Alder

Top golfers have a swing that they can repeat time and again. The best bridge players have a routine that they repeat every deal, counting all the cards and building up pictures of the unseen hands. Counting isn't difficult, but it takes application. When you start, it is tough. But it gets easier and easier, becoming almost automatic.

How would you count out this deal? You are in three no-trump after East has opened one heart. West leads the heart three, East playing the 10. Over other action is as descriptive or accu-

You have six top tricks: three spades, one heart, one diamond and one club. So, a winning finesse in either minor will see you home. However, always check the high-card points. As there are only 12 missing, East must have both minor-suit kings.

This means there is no point in taking the club finesse, but the diamond finesse is a certainty. Yet you might have to take three diamond finesses, which requires some care in the suit.

After winning with the heart ace, play a club to dummy's ace (you never know, East might accidentally drop the king, thinking you were going to finesse!) and call for the diamond nine. When it wins, continue with the diamond queen. In this way, you can take trump with only one heart stopper, es- three diamond finesses and wrap up pecially when it is the ace. One half ex- your contract. No other play in diapects to see the queen-doubleton of monds works against best defense by
