Houghton Interview Given Over Telephone During 1st Trans-Ocean Conversation

NEW YORK, Mar. 8.—(AP)—New York and London have had a telephone conversation, across the seas, as clear and as original as across the town talk.

Newspaper men gathered in the American Telephone Telegraph offices in New York, talked almost four hours yesterday by wireless telephone with a group at the general postoffice in London. And experiments carried on for weeks past were crowned with success on the fifth anniversary of the day of Alexander Graham Bell obtained the patent for his first telephone.

Over 2,500,000 miles of land area by wire and radio, there was conversation about current news and the weather, and jokes about prohibition and short skirts.

A reporter for the Herald, the British news agency, gave a reporter for the Associated Press an interview with Ambassador Houghton, who has just sailed from Southampton.

It was the first trans-Atlantic news dispatch, transmitted that way. In the interview Ambassador Houghton denied rumors that he was returning to take Secretary Kellogg's place in the department of state.

Every member of each group heard each conversation. Each reporter had ear phones. Each was in the speaker's booth.

From London voices were carried twenty miles by wire to a new broadcasting station at Rugby, Atlantic to a receiving station at Hinton, Me. Thence they came by wire 660 miles to the A. T. and T. offices.

JUDGE FAILS TO NEW SHIPPING ISSUE CITATION COMPANY IS TO AGAINST PAPER AID SANFORD

Contempt Charge Is Withheld Following Conference Between Judge White and Louisiana Paper's Lawyers

Official Action May Come Following Trial

State Resumes Its Case With Pearson On Witness Stand; Deputy Sheriff Is Recalled

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Mar. 8.—(AP)—No citation for Judge Walter A. White, against newspaper reporters today.

This announcement was made this morning by attorneys for the New Orleans newspaper after a conference between the presiding judge and the lawyers representing these newspapers, have been in circulation in Hancock County.

It was understood that any official action Judge White takes on disregard of his order to newsmen will not be published in the newspaper. The case now being tried in Hancock county, will come after the trial has been finished.

Attorneys conferring with Judge White were State Senator Carl Marshall, A. B. Russell and Walter J. Cox, all of Bay St. Louis.

Today's hearing issued an order before Favre went to trial that newspapers having a circulation in Hancock county should not publish the testimony developed in the trial.

Judge White's order was issued, he said, in an effort to avoid difficulty in getting a jury to avoid prejudice in the trial.

Today's court session was the first since newspapers have been in circulation in Hancock county with portions of the testimony included in their columns.

Justice White was introduced Saturday that the first two days of the trial being occupied in completing a jury. Favre is being tried under an indictment charging murder in connection with the death of John A. McLeome.

McLeome and W. C. Mingo, were slain near Edgewater, Feb. 18. Both were federal tax collectors who had started from their homes in Pleasure on a hunt with turkeys as their main objective. The bodies were found the following morning in the swamps.

Presentation of the state's case was resumed this morning with Harris Pearson, the first witness. Favre was arrested at Pearson's home at Honey Island. The witness told the court that he was a defendant at his home Saturday, following the double slaying. He also described a watch, coat and sweater he said Favre had with him.

Joe C. Jones, deputy sheriff, who arrested the defendant was recalled to the stand to identify these articles as having been taken from person of the prisoner or in Pearson's home where the first witness of the day said the defendant placed them.

Controversy Over Estate Left By "Wolf Of LaSalle Street" Still In Progress

CHICAGO, March 8.—(AP)—The controversy over whether John W. Worthington, the "Wolf of LaSalle Street" left an estate of $3,000,000 or merely $250,000, continued today. Alice Worthington, daughter of the confidence man who died in the Atlantic postoffice last Tuesday, maintained that the entire estate was valued at the smaller sum and that she possessed a will leaving all to her.

This assertion was countered by Robert L. Cohan, an attorney, who represented Worthington when he entered Chicago from Mexico last October. He produced a mass of papers purporting to be revocations of wills, blank checks to be filled on half a dozen European banks, confidential correspondence before and after "the Wolf" was sent to prison, and bank statements from abroad showing billions of German and Austrian marks, Italian lire and Austrian kronen on deposit to the credit of Johnson Whitehouse Worthington. Cohan declared he was left $250,000.

He explained that he drew up the will when Worthington returned to Chicago last October, that there were no witnesses because of the fear that Worthington would be arrested if his presence here was known. Worthington had more than $600,000 in stocks, bonds and negotiable papers piled on his bed at the time, Cohan related, but he said he did not know what became of the securities.

Among the documents held by Cohan is a paper purporting to be a revocation of all previous wills and codicils. It is dated Los Angeles, October 25, 1924, and is witnessed by Henry P. Leavitt and Alva E. Harshman.

BRIAND WILL BE URGED TO FORM NEW MINISTRY

Invitation Thought To Have Been Outcome Of Meeting Between Doumergue, Herriot

Socialist Leader Regrets Downfall

Herriot Mentioned For Premiership Should Briand Not Accept

PARIS, Mar. 8.—(AP)—Determined efforts will be made to induce Aristide Briand to form another ministry to succeed the one defeated in the Chamber of Deputies early Saturday on proposals of taxes. It is understood, was the outcome of conversations between M. Herriot, president of the left wing in the chamber, and President Doumergue.

M. Herriot does not disguise his regret over the defeat of M. Briand, which he says he would have done his utmost to prevent had he been in the chamber.

It is being pointed out in political circles that M. Briand must retain the portfolio of foreign minister. His departure from the helm of France's foreign policy, it is generally admitted, would diminish France's weight on international councils and notably make her delegates' position at the League council meeting in Geneva difficult.

There does not appear much chance of inducing M. Briand to reconsider his decision to resign. For to do so he would have to face the prospect of a coalition ministry, leaning more to the right than that of M. Briand and headed either by Joseph Caillaux, M. Monis or M. Poincaré.

Socialist Dictatorship Favored

GENEVA, Mar. 8.—(AP)—A special dictatorship for France in the form of a committee of public safety based on the parliamentary system but "showing its face" would not be displeasing if it were forced to, M. Paul Boncour is quoted as declaring in an interview with a Swiss newspaper.

Such a dictatorship would be less risky and more logical than a dictatorship by a single man, the French statesman added. Nevertheless, he was convinced that a less drastic remedy could be found in the constitution itself for history provides that France always tends to meet any crisis by destroying its incumbent.

M. Paul Boncour contemplated the parliamentary commissions to the commission of the French republic and the convention of that "Magnificent period in French history which I admire more and more," but said that bills drafted by specialists in the commissions were destroyed by an incompetent parliament which had lost the confidence of the country.

When questioned concerning the Reds in France, he admitted that important centers of Communism existed there. He did not think, however, that Communism would be dangerous to France at the present moment.

The success of the first excursion trip of the Lake Monroe Transportation Company held last Sunday has led officials of the newly organized concern to inaugurate similar pleasure trips every few days, including Sundays, according to E. L. Markell, secretary of the company who today made public plans for the commencement of moonlight excursion trips within the near future.

"That the Lake Monroe Transportation Company is supplying a long felt need in Sanford tourists is proven by the many who have applied for tickets on the first excursion given last Sunday afternoon," Mr. Markell said.

"Hitherto no facilities have existed for the transient to enjoy the scenery lining the banks of the river and lake," Mr. Markell added, "but that difficulty has been removed with the maiden voyage of this company's first cruiser, and so many have exhibited a desire to enjoy these excursions that we are planning to commence two every afternoon, beginning at 2 and 4 o'clock."

The trip aboard the "Wakala," well appointed excursion boat accommodating 50 passengers, will include a stop at Eastport and a run to the mouth of the Wakala river, Mr. Markell said.

"Moonlight excursions on Lake Monroe and tributary waters will commence as soon as the weather becomes a little warmer," he added.

American Legion Team Is Victorious In Final Play For Studebaker Trophy

The American Legion's team of golfers won the Studebaker trophy in the Civic Club tournament Saturday afternoon by defeating the team from the Lions Club in the final round of the tourney, after one of the closest matches played throughout the three day event.

G. W. Spencer, Jr., Lion, took his match from Roy Chittenden 2 points to 1; L. F. Boyle, Lion, beat Joe Chittenden, Legionaire, 2 and 1; Ted Wathen, Lion, beat Glenn Wimbley 2 and 1; A. P. Haggard, Legionaire, won from Hawkins Connelly by 3 points; E. D. Chittenden, Legionaire, won from H. Cobb, 2 and 1. The total was 3 to 7 for the Legion.

The trophy, a 22 inch silver cup, engraved with the name of the winning team, will stand in the Legion trophy case at the hut on the lake front until the tournament next winter, at which time the holders will have to defend it against the same contesting for the championship last week. Those teams are, the Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions, Chamber of Commerce and the Realty Board teams.

Betts is Low Medalist. C. E. Betts, with a low score of 88 for 18 holes made the first day when he played as a member of the Realty Board team, won the dozen balls given by L. L. Voorhes, club professional, for the low medal score for any one day's play in the tourney.

Many upsets featured the play. The Rotary club was one of the favorites to win and its defeat by the American Legion on Friday put them out of the tourney. The Lions, victorious over the team from the Kiwanis club on the opening day, probably caused the biggest upset of all. Following their victory, they rested Friday and then played the final with the Legion on Saturday.

REALTORS WOULD BETTER METHODS OF ADVERTISING

Publicity Body Is Given Free Reins In Budget Spending; Educational Advertising Is To Be Continued Locally

Discussion of the means whereby the Sanford Realty Board advertising program could be improved and enlarged featured the meeting of that organization at noon today, which was presided over by George W. Knight in the absence of President H. C. DuBoe.

Frank MacNeil, chairman of the advertising committee of the board, reported that due to the budget allowing only $100 monthly for advertising purposes, it was considered a very delicate task for the committee to appropriate the money for various purposes without some suggestion and advice from the members of the board.

Joe Chittenden and D. L. Thrasher instituted a measure which was adopted by the members, calling for the expenditure of the money allowed for advertising every month, and for immediate action by the committee on matters pertaining to publicity.

It was agreed that the money is to be spent locally and it was indicated that continuation of the educational advertising would be carried out. The code of ethics of the National association is expected to play a prominent part in the future advertising campaign of the organization.

The realtors were advised by acting President Knight of the national convention of the real estate boards, to be held in Tulsa, Okla., next June. He advised the assembly that President DuBoe would probably go into detail next Monday relative to the local board's plans for sending a representative to the convention.

The members were advised today that on April 6 a joint meeting of the Sanford and Deland boards would be held in this city, at which time it is expected that a number of the officers of the national association will be present for addresses.

Fiddlers' Contest Will Be Staged At The Milane Friday

An old-time fiddlers' contest planned by the Milane Theater and sponsored by the Sanford Herald, will be given at the Milane on Friday evening beginning at 8 o'clock. Fiddlers living or visiting in any part of Seminole county will be eligible to compete for the four prizes offered. J. L. Marentette announced today. First prize will be a $10 gold piece, second prize a $5 gold piece, third prize, six months' subscription to The Herald, fourth prize ten tickets to the Milane Theater.

The purpose of the contest is to establish the fact that we have here in Seminole county a number of the genuine old-time fiddlers who are fast fading from the face of the earth," Mr. Marentette said in commenting on the match. "To give these old fellows a chance to strut their stuff" and also to furnish entertainment out of the general run of theater attractions. It has been decided to put on this contest."

Several fiddlers have already entered their names for the tournament on Friday. Mr. Marentette said, and it is expected that at least 12 or 14 will compete. Those desiring to try for the prizes are asked to communicate directly with the Milane management, Mr. Marentette announced.

Associated Press Operation Will Be Broadcast Tonight

NEW YORK, Mar. 8.—The work of the 80,000 men and women who gathered and distributed news for the Associated Press will be explained tonight from broadcasting stations throughout the country by executives and editors of the co-operative news organization.

Growing interest among newspaper readers in the manner in which news of the world is gathered and brought to their homes is responsible for this innovation. Hitherto the Associated Press has confined itself to writing current history, without giving its readers any glimpse of its own working.

The phrase "by the Associated Press," or the abbreviation "AP," appears at the head of news dispatches which, it is estimated, are read every day by 6,000,000 persons. Tonight the world-wide organization identified thus, and some of the stories behind the stories that appear in print will be explained briefly to radio listeners.

At four additional headquarters the talks will be broadcast from WJZ, New York; WMAQ, Chicago; WSB, Atlanta; and KFO, San Francisco. The talks will be given at hours to be announced locally from other stations which include, in the east, NOL, Newark; WGY, Schenectady; WNAC, Boston; WOP, Philadelphia; KDKA, Pittsburgh; WHEC, Rochester; WGR, Buffalo; and WTIC, Hartford.

The pleasures of a visit to Asheville have no time-limit. They are bounded by no seasons.

The First Time He Stopped He Stayed—in Asheville

HE HAS business interests both in Richmond and in the far South. He had been making the trip back and forth, without a stop, for years, until about twelve months ago. One day, he was talking to his banker. As is usual when business men meet, the conversation turned to golf, and the banker who had played most of the fine courses in the South, naturally spoke of Asheville.

"Why don't you stop by there on your way South?" he asked our friend. "It's a great place to visit and a better place to stay." The advice was taken, and our friend hasn't left yet.

The pleasures of a visit to Asheville have no time-limit. They are bounded by no seasons. It makes no difference whether you come in spring, fall or winter, there will be places for you to see, things for you to do, trips for you to make, delightful days in the glorious mountain air.

If you are fond of golf, listen to what the Golf Magazine has to say about one of Asheville's courses: "To describe the beauties of the Asheville course is hopeless. It is situated on a bit of plateau, near the city and somewhat above it. On one side is the base of Sunset Mountain, and on the other the city of Asheville. And encircling it on every side is range on range of hills. You will have to imagine the surroundings from that—or, better still—come and see it. It will repay you." Asheville now has four courses, each of them offering splendid golf.

If you are fond of mountain scenery, and who is not, remember that Asheville nestles near the loftiest peaks in the East. Mt. Mitchell towers 6,711 feet above the sea. There is Mt. Pisgah, the Great Smokies, Chimney Rock and a dozen other peaks each offering superb scenery—and all easy of access. For, thanks to more than a thousand miles of perfect motor roads, none of this natural grandeur need miss.

Never think that you need forego sports when you come to the mountains. Very close to Asheville are beautiful spots of crystal water where swimming and are true delights. And besides, you always fishing in the mountain streams sport with the gamest of trout.

Perhaps you know already of the magnificent hotels. Their fame is no secret. They offer a wide range of accommodations from the most luxurious suites to the simple quarters, each suite to your taste.

Plan to visit Asheville. Stop on your home. The season doesn't matter. You can enjoy it any time, though spring and summer are most popular.

Write for any specific information you want. If you plan to motor, you will find good roads all the way. Write for touring directions. If you plan to take the train, you can get a through Pullman Southern Railway on the following daily routes:

Telephone Service Expands To Meet State's Growth

THE extensive telephone construction and replacement work completed in Florida last year is a reflection of the growth and progress of the State.

The result has been to improve and extend the service, to better care for present needs, and to prepare for the growth of the future.

Florida's telephone system has grown to the point where it now requires 43 central offices, 235,200 miles of wire, 2,252 miles of pole line and 374 miles of underground duct.

There was an increase of more than 30 per cent in the number of local and long distance calls last year, and the service rendered in

Something New In Journalism

Something new in the field of journalism in this country has been started at Washington in the publication of a newspaper called the United States Daily. Both within and outside the newspaper fraternity the novel experiment will be watched with a great deal of interest.

The aim of the United States Daily is to present every day a complete resume of the activities of our government. Facts uncolored and without any opinion or comment are to make up the news stories of the new paper.

The New York Times shies a little at the expressed purpose of the publication in not giving an opinion. On this particular point, the Times says, "there must be in the nature of the case a selection of facts, and selection amounts to an 'opinion,' at least to the extent of deciding which are the more important facts."

Despite the contention of the Times, it appears certain that the United States Daily will be welcomed by many different people, from the officials of the government to the ordinary interested reader. It should furnish a great deal of information for record, in addition to supplying an accurate account of government happenings for editorial comment by other papers of the country.

David Lawrence, for several years considered one of the best informed political writers of the country, heads the new publication, and he and his associates, by reason of their long experience in particular branches of journalism, are in a position to gather and assemble the facts as few others in their profession. Their experiment in publishing the United States Daily will furnish an interesting test as to whether the newspaper field can be successfully extended as far as they anticipate, and will also serve to prove or disprove the contention that readers want only the facts.

Efficiency and Patriotism

During a visit to the British Industries Fair held in London recently, King George stopped at a booth to examine a British typewriter. While toying with the keys and praising the machine His Majesty received a bit of news qualified to far even the Britisher's plume. He was informed that practically all typewriters used by the British government were American made. One hundred and fifty typewriters were imported every day, duty free, from the United States, an attendant told him.

While the conservative British press refused to quote His Majesty verbatim, American correspondents of American newspapers caused the King's words: "This is scandalous. I will personally see to it, and have the matter looked into."

Later, in the House of Commons, Ronald McNeill, financial secretary of the treasury, declared that preference would be given to British typewriters by the government as soon as "the British typewriter manufacturers catch up with the standard set by United States' concerns."

This is only another indication of America's leadership in the production of useful inventions. What is scandalous about England's adoption of the American typewriter? If the American machines give better service at cheaper cost, only a bigoted brand of patriotism would frown upon their use. The American typewriter is saving time and money for the British government. Departmental heads admit this. Even the King was forced to admit, so where is the scandal attached to their use?

England invented the typewriter, but American brains have developed the machine beyond the best produced by other nations, so why should American manufacturers not reap the benefit of their initiative?

If British machines were superior, or even equal to American typewriters, King George would have come cause to howl about America's monopoly. But British machines are admittedly inferior to America's, so His august Majesty's "squawk" is a little premature. Let him get after the British manufacturer, and when British concerns are capable of producing typewriters comparable to America's, King George will be justified in demanding that the British government patronize only home manufacturers.

THIS SOUTHWARD migration is but a fresh evidence of the never-ending quest of mankind for the new and the strange; for wealth, ease, health and happiness. Hope forever beckons mankind onward. Then there will be found romance in Florida's history, and fascination in her tropical vegetation and scenery. Perhaps Ponce de Leon, searching for the Fountain of Youth, was not far from its discovery when he touched the shores of the land of flowers, for youth will approximate its renewal as nearly in Florida as elsewhere.—Elmer H. Youngman in Bankers Magazine.

FLORIDA HAS the center of the stage, and is attracting more attention and enlisting more fresh capital and enterprise within a given period than any other spot on earth. This statement may seem extravagant to the outsider, but its correctness will be apparent to any one who goes to Florida and studies with an observing and unprejudiced mind what is being done there.—Elmer H. Youngman in Bankers Magazine.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

IT KEEPS YOU OUT IN THE OPEN AIR. Jesse Burkett, the old-time fence-buster, is now on the official staff of the New York Giants. He is rounding out a long career in the national game as an assistant to Manager John McGraw and in this capacity played a competent part in the World Series of 1921 at the Polo Grounds. A few years ago, though, he was managing a team in one of the lesser leagues in New England. His eyes had not forgotten its cunning even though his legs were stiffer than they once were, and frequently in an emergency he went in to bat for some member of his outfit who was weak with the stick.

One summer Burkett had a severe falling-out with one of the umpires on the circuit. The umpire bided his time, awaiting a chance to get even. Finally he got it. The game was almost over; Burkett's team appeared to be hopelessly beaten, no matter what might happen. It would take a miracle to put them where they would have even a remote chance to tie the score. Nevertheless, in the ninth inning with two men out, and the only one man on base, Burkett elected to try to make a hit. He beckoned back the player, grabbed his favorite length of hickory and declared himself independent. The umpire, following the custom of announcing the entry of a new batter and the name of the grandstand and raised his megaphone to his lip. "Burkett," he bellowed, "now batting for exercise!"

Still Sitting Up Practically Polygamist Only Work Counts. Various Justice By ARTHUR BRISBANE Copyright 1926, by Star Co.

THE WALL Street invalid was still sitting up yesterday. Brokers' loans were smaller, spring lamb stocks were thrown over for lack of margin and that caused the situation.

Railroads discovered that everything from the administration down, favors more mergers. Great economies in operation will result. And even if the public does not get its share of the savings, the country will gain. Waste injures all.

BISHOP MANNING, head of the Protestant Episcopal church in New York, denouncing divorce in his society, says it means "practical polygamy." In one year there were only 5 divorces in Canada against 112,036 in the United States.

Some questions: How does the bishop expect high society to amuse itself if it can't get an occasional divorce? Would it be a more high social morality by any better if men and women, disliking each other, were compelled to remain married?

Is not man naturally a polygamist animal, reverting to his primitive state when economic pressure is removed, as in high society?

REUBEN HOFMAN, aged twenty-eight shot himself to death, leaving a note that he chose to die because he was a failure. He mentioned also the fact that he "never worked much, for fear of making a slave of himself." If he had been a little more of a slave, he might have been less of a failure. Men need to realize that work is the only thing worth while.

DIFFERENT KINDS of justice are needed for different kinds of people. Three unimportant men were hanged, four deported. The Maharajah, real murderer, gives up his throne to his son. Even "justice" does nothing else to him. Mantaz has married a third protector.

THE FIRST performance at Milan of "The Martyrdom of St. Sebastian," new play by D'Annunzio, the American reporter calls "a flop."

Ida Rubenstein did her best on the stage. Gabriele D'Annunzio, in the uniform of a general, chest covered with medals, his son, Gabriele, in the front row. But the opera didn't go. The Vatican had forbidden Catholics to witness the performance, a severe handicap, which, of course, he never recovers.

UNCLE SAM'S representatives have concluded not to make the old gentleman ridiculous in the eyes of the world. The Countess of Athol will stay in the United States as long as any other alien visitor. The federal justice decided that "moral turpitude" and the lady were strangers. So she is not to be deported, but is to be deported, her one little element forgiven.

GERMANY AND France are more friendly, and that is the content to the world's peace than pushing poor Uncle Sam into the league of nations. Premier Briand's latest speech in the chamber of deputies is called by German statesmen, "the most friendly speech concerning Germany made by any official spokesman for France since 1870."

HARVARD, YALE and Princeton raise football prices from $3 to $5 for alumni. The universities admit that they raise the ticket price because they can't get work search for a job.

ACCORDING to British scientists there are really four courses to a square meal. Every meal should include three vitamins, A, B and C, and good protein. Those four elements guarantee health and vigor.

THE FILIAL "TOUCH" NEW YORK TIMES

That rock-ribbed stalwart, the Old Graduate, is in for it going and coming. Only a few months ago it was informed that he could no longer be permitted so many "championship" football games. The stress upon athletic prowess had become too great, the "commercialism" involved in metropolitan gate receipts too corrupting. Henceforth the eleven of Yale, Harvard and Princeton would "play only their local and 'natural' rivals. In this highly moral reform undergraduate opinion, as expressed in college dailies, took the lead. Emphasis was to be shifted from the gladiatorial hotel or stadium to the "general" development of athletics throughout the student body. If Old Graduate thought at all, and he can't be always rabid, it occurred to him that, with phlegmatic receipts, it might not be so easy to pay for athletic "generalization." He was wrong. To the practical filial touch nothing is impossible. Championship games being fewer, what could be more reasonable than that Old Grad, should pay more for them? The price of his tickets rises from $2 to $5; that is all.

Of the $85,000 increase in receipts at the Harvard Stadium The Crimson says, in its best editorial manner: "Its usefulness is self-evident. Even Old Grad can see this as he reads of new squash courts, tennis courts, golf courses, shells and gigs, hockey rinks and swimming pools. Admitting that 'the method adopted may be decried as commercialism,' The Crimson protests that 'in reality it is nothing of the sort.' It does not involve the general public because the games for which there is a public sale are not affected. Nothing could be so uncommercial as the filial touch. 'It is merely Harvard's method of raising the funds through Harvard's graduates.' That is it—a sort of self-determination of parents, the child being father of the man. Incidentally it may be observed that while the price of tickets is raised to five dollars for father it is lowered to two dollars for son. Doubtless the usefulness of that one dollar saved is also self-evident. In closing, The Crimson pays a well-deserved tribute to the ingenuity of the Athletic Association in augmenting its gate receipts."

THE CASE OF JOHN SPEAR ASHEVILLE CITIZEN

"Ex-Convict Appeals for Honest Job. Under that headline the New York World publishes on its front pages a remarkable document. It is the story of John Spear, who wants to 'go straight' but is stalling because he can't get work. John Spear is the ex-convict. He says so in his letter to The World, asking the editor of that journal to assist him in his despairing search for a job.

"Half of my life," he writes, "has been spent in penal institutions from the reform school to state prison. But he has a wife now, and to the reporter who looked him up in his forlorn room he explained: 'I got a year for my last 'trick' and was out last June. That's why I want to give her a square deal and not go back to jail.' As an introduction to the story the World prints this in italics: 'A Problem was presented to The World yesterday,' and by the way of conclusion it says: 'The World presents this situation without attempting to vouch for John Spear beyond the impression of sincerity made on the reporter who visited him.' But is it so insoluble a problem as those words intimate? John Spear suggests where the solution may lie, saying: 'She treated me white. Nobody ever treated me like that before.' That is to say, nobody ever gave him credit for willingness to be square. Nobody ever tried to bring out the good in him. And on that comes the inquiry: 'How many other fellows gone, and are going, crooked because nobody gave, or gives, them credit for wanting to do right.' Of course no person and no organization can give on the theory that ex-convicts may always be assumed to desire to do the right thing. That would be maudlin and silly. But a lot has been written about organizations which see that the man coming out of prison has a chance to go straight. If there are enough of these associations, how comes it that John Spear could find none of them? If he could, fine ones, the machinery of our civilization was, and is, not functioning properly. There should be room in the world for the man who would be straight.

MORE PAY FOR JUDGES PALM BEACH POST

There is one increase in salaries paid public officials that the general public usually will be found in favor of and that is where the increase is to be added to the salaries of judges. The recent bill introduced in the house of representatives and which has been approved by the house judiciary committee, would raise the salary of the chief justice of the United States from $15,000 to $20,500, and the salaries of associate justices of that court from $14,500 to $20,000. District judges would be raised from $7,500 to $12,500, and judges of the circuit court of appeals would receive $15,000 instead of $8,500.

These are large increases but they fully are justified. A judge of any of these ranks occupies a most responsible position. He must be of a caliber that could earn many times the salary paid. If he devoted himself to a private practice the pay should be large enough that he may live in a manner befitting his station without the necessity of other means of income besides his salary as a judge. It is to be hoped that these proposed raises are approved by congress and thus place the judiciary on a paying basis. This will be a much better country in every respect when governments of all kinds pay their judges a becoming salary, when school districts see to it that their teachers are given enough to live on and when officers how to keep it fully enforced.—Sanford Herald.

Constance Meisch Is Hostess At Birthday Party On Saturday

Miss Irene Prout entertained Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Meisch honoring the birthday of little Constance Meisch. Pink and blue was the color scheme adopted for the dining room, where approximately a score of little girls and boys gathered around the long table where a large cake banked with sweet peas was placed.

Favors for the girls were little bracelets, while the boys received a variety of toys. Following the serving of a delightful refreshment course, the small guests engaged in various games and contests for the remainder of the afternoon.

Little Adelaide Richter won the prize in the peanut hunt, and Ruth Peters won a story book in the Poodle party.

Present Modes Demand Very Simple Hair Arrangement for Evening.

WHATEVER you decide upon for your evening headdress—you may be sure that your hair must needs be done with a simplicity almost severe. For the elaborate evening headdress is not elaborate by reason of puffings and wavings and paddings and twistings of hair, turbans and evening hats.

A large class of evening headdresses consists of turbans and caps built upon a sort of skull cap of maline, which fits as closely as possible to the smoothly dressed head. Sometimes two-toned pastels colored laces are draped over this and there is frequently a jeweled pin. A neat little metal for your evening headdress—you sometimes jeweled laces are arranged around the little maline skull cap to resemble the Greek victory wreath.

One of the prominent French milliners is responsible for velvet evening hats which have been worn this winter, in shades of mauve, linden green, blue, rose or golden yellow. They have drooping brims of silver cloth draped with tulle. Their only trimming is a band of velvet ribbon two inches wide, which passes around the crown and hangs in long loops at one side.

The name of Lucien Lelong has been closely associated with headdresses of great splendor this winter—which are of course always worn over the most simply dressed hair. One of these headdresses, known as the blue butterfly consists of a sort of close-fitting shaped bandeau covered with blue gems that fits over the forehead, covering the eyebrows with a jeweled band passing over the ears and across the nape of the neck to hold it in place. There are little points of the bandeau covered with the blue gems coming well down over the ears. Sometimes Lelong's bandeaux are like turbans, but they always fit very far down over the forehead and eyebrows. One of Lelong's evening headdresses comes so far down on the forehead at the sides that it actually covers the eyebrows and all but hides the eyes, while an ornament of jewels rests well down on the bridge of the nose. It is held in place by a jeweled band that passes from the middle of the front to the back, forming a mask for the center hair parting.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Wallace and her house guest, Miss Margaret Clark of Steubenville, O., left on Friday for Tampa where they will be the guests of Mrs. Grady Giddens.

THOUGHTS-WISE AND OTHERWISE

IN YOUR MARKET BASKET
MOST of us use junket only when our children are young and we are glad enough to give it up when they no longer need such simple desserts. But really it deserves more consideration. Many good uses may be made of junket if we but go to the trouble to find them out. Junket is useful in making ice cream. To do this you should heat one quart of milk with one cup of sugar until just the right lukewarm temperature for the junket. Have a junket tablet dissolved in a tablespoon of cold water and stir into the warm milk, with a tablespoon of vanilla and let stand. When it is well set—three or four hours later—add two cups of cream and freeze. This makes a very smooth, delicious ice cream.

UNPAINTED FURNITURE
There is as much difference in the price of painted furniture, probably, as there is in the price of finished furniture.

The small smart shop that deals only in unpainted furniture may ask you a pretty penny for it. But if you can pick up the pieces you wish in the basement household supply department, you may come away with something very reasonable.

The inexpensive pieces are usually for the furnishing of the kitchen. But a boy's bedroom could be very attractively furnished with them, for everything except a bed and mirror. There is a little serving table of buffet that answers admirably for a desk, with one or two good sizeable drawers over which a good, but simple mirror could be hung to make a satisfactory dressing stand. There are tables and chairs and those benches with backs that let down to form big round tables.

When you paint this furniture the point is not to rush it through but to put several coats on, letting each dry thoroughly before adding the next.

The World Do Wag!
And now we know the worst about this income tax business! Married persons are allowed $3,500 and $400 for each dependent, a tax of one and a half per cent on incomes of $3,000 and less, 3 per cent on incomes from $4,000 to $8,000, and 5 per cent thereafter. Unmarrieds are allowed $1,500 with the same tax rate! First payment due Mar. 15.

One of the main jobs of secret service men accompanying kings and presidents and such is to protect us from snaphot friends who will go to any length to how to a sovereign and be snapped while greeting him. Such pictures and more chummy ones have been treated out in numerous scandalous cases, revolving about potentates. Verily, "uneasy lies the head that wears a crown!"

Women want to be treated like pals by men, says a movie actress as part of her publicity game prior to the release of an Elinor Glyn picture in which she stars. The talented young actress proceeds to say that women want men to discuss their business with them and stop the cooing stuff! And I don't believe one word she says! Women may think they ought to want this business conference stuff but most of them still lap up the Dresden china cooing with much more gusto!

We will soon be tooless. We do not use them. Therefore wise Nature will take them from us just as she did our tails. This frightful warning comes from the president of the National Association of Chronologists.

Well, do the chinos expect us to scale trees every morning in toe developing exercises? And if it's meant as warning, who cares? What's a toe more or less? Most nothing beauties would look far better with nothing but plain untrimmed feet.

Is Your Name Here?
Anna means gracious; Beatrice, happy; Catherine, good; Elsie, joyful; Florence, blooming; Emma, energetic; Gladys, brilliant; Irene, peaceful; Iva, happy; Mildred, gentle; Martha, a lady; Mabel, for love; Julia, soft-haired.

For the Family Palate
If you can't afford fresh fruits in the wintertime, try some variations with the dried and canned. Shortcakes, for instance, are delicious made with canned peaches, raspberries and pineapple. Dried apricots and lozan berries make delicious puddings, and even the lowly prune can be dressed up with the addition of lemon and orange peel while cooking. Dried fruits should be soaked for several hours in enough water to cover.

Our Home
Paint is being used in the newer living rooms rather than paper for a wall finish. It can be wiped off with a damp cloth and it adapts itself to pictures, lamps and draperies better than a wallpaper. Walls of deep cream or ivory are the designer's first choice, being light and harmonious background for any color scheme.

Budgeteering
Clothing should cost from 15 to 20 per cent of income; rent on payment on home, 25 per cent; food, from 20 to 35 per cent, the former for family of two adults, the latter for family of four adults; operating, 15 per cent; advancement, from 5 to 12 1/2 per cent; savings, from 10 to 15 per cent.

Beauty Tips
Many of the beauty clays sold are bad for the skin. They contain too much alcohol. Besides, the best of them are only filler's earth, five cents worth of which costs about a dollar when under the beauty clay name. The best possible skin and freckle bleaches are sour milk or cucumber juice, or lemon juice.

HOBSON SPEAKS BEFORE RECORD ORLANDO CROWD

Lecturer Who Is Scheduled To Deliver "The Crisis" In City Hall Tuesday Night Draws Large Audience Last Night

Captain Richmond P. Hobson, noted lecturer and hero of the "Merrimac", of Spanish war fame, who is to speak at the City Hall Tuesday night at 8 o'clock, lectured last night in Orlando before a crowd estimated at 3,000 people, most of whom were said to be members of the various Protestant churches of that city.

Captain Hobson, whose lecture "The Crisis" has been heard in nearly every state of the union, is said to be one of the most active exponents of the eighteenth amendment and has long been a worker for the cause of prohibition.

It was reported today that arrangements are being made for a capacity audience at the City Hall tomorrow night.

Following are extracts from Captain Hobson's talk in Orlando last night:

"Prohibition is only one-fourth of what it was seven years ago," he said. "Alcoholic insanity is greatly decreased and there were 250,000 fewer arrests in the last six years than in the six years previous to the 18th amendment. There were ten million dollars on deposit in savings banks when the Volstead Act was passed; now those deposits total forty million dollars, and 247 per cent. of the children of workingmen are now receiving higher education."

"Alcohol is a specific cause of degeneracy, as it attacks the gray matter of the brain. Alcohol puts its victims out of tune with nature and nature's God. Where degeneracy obtains, a consciousness of kind brotherhood is dwarfed into nonentity, feuds, anarchy and bloodshed follow."

Captain Hobson spoke appreciatively of the work of the Anti-Saloon League, stating that "the league has learned to fight and whip the liquor interest and is in this battle to win." He also quoted Lloyd George as saying, "We England can never compete, industrially or economically, with dry America."

In closing, Captain Hobson said, "If America wins this fight against liquor, the world will declare for prohibition, and an era of happiness will come to mankind such as history has not yet recorded."

Sanford's Special Advertisements To Appear In Herald

Sanford's special series of advertisements, stressing the assets and resources of the community, began today in The Herald. From day to day in consecutive issues the advertisements will run until all 14 are printed. The Chamber of Commerce requests the public through the columns of The Herald, to read these advertisements daily and "get familiar with the facts of Sanford."

Edward Higgins, president of the Chamber of Commerce, said today that it was not the original intention to run these advertisements locally, but after the special committee had heard them read, it was believed by committee members that they would be just as important in "selling Sanford to its own people" as in selling the city to the outside world.

Arrangements for printing this series in pamphlet form are now being made and a letter is being mailed today to the real estate men of the community asking how many of the pamphlets they wish to order. They will be sold at cost for this purpose.

Letters are now being addressed at the Chamber of Commerce for the first of the series of direct mailings that will be sent out as a part of the special advertising campaign.

McDevitt to permit the prisoner to withdraw his plea of not guilty entered last week, and to "stand mute" to the indictments. Counsel explained to the court that Marshall had pleaded not guilty "through some oversight." Judge McDevitt refused to agree to the change "at this time." Marshall, a chiropractor by profession, sat calmly as the preliminary proceedings were disposed of. His wife was not present.

Florida Minerals Found To Be Among Most Valuable Assets Of Entire South

JACKSONVILLE, March 8.—Now and then someone in the north who undertakes to tell what Florida possesses in the form of mineral resources remembers it has something in addition to phosphate but he usually stops at fuller's earth, says the Florida State Chamber of Commerce. The Southern Division of the American Mining Congress will hold its convention in Memphis March 15th to 17th and in connection with preparations for the gathering Dr. Henry Mace Payne, Acting Secretary, has compiled a list of the known minerals of each Southern state. The Florida list includes chert, numerous forms of clay, diatomaceous earth, fuller's earth, gypsum, limonite, limestone, agricultural and chemical, marl, molding sand and clay, peat, phosphate, rutile, sand, tripoli and zirconium. "While Florida is a dominating factor in the phosphate rock industry," says Dr. Payne, "the state of progressive impoverishment of the soil, which makes profitable operation an economic impossibility. Nor does a mere plant stimulant meet the requirement. "A nitrogenous supply of plant food is essential. Peat, which is of itself nitrogenous humus, is capable of a rapid increase in soluble nitrogen, by bacterial action. When a mixture consisting of 90 per cent peat, and 10 per cent lime and phosphorus is added to the soil, its decomposition furnishes the food necessary for the bacteria which render the nitrogen available to the plants, at a much lower cost than the usual methods of fertilization. Such a mixture re-

THE END OF BLUE WHISKERS

Jupe, the woodpecker, failed and away he jumped. Pretty soon they came to the moat of cod-liver oil that surrounded the palace.

But this time there was no need to give the pass-word as before. For Jupe gave a bound and cleared the whole thing at one jump.

Then all of them crept away, very softly through the garden and back to the kitchen. (they could see it very plainly as they neared through the window) lay the Blue Cherry.

It wasn't like other cherries, for

Blue Whiskers was saying anxiously not only was it blue, but it was as large as a good-sized plum.

The cook stood beside the table with a big knife, and right beside him stood Blue Whiskers himself.

"Cut it! Cut it!" Blue Whiskers was saying anxiously. "I want the blue stone to set in the handle of my silver shaving-brush."

"But, your Highness!" said the cook, "surely you don't want to shave off your beard! If you do, you know yourself that your power will be broken, and Paddyfoot will become king again. Besides that, Jupe, that old pesky kangaroo, will become a prince as he used to be."

"Don't I know it?" cried Blue Whiskers. "I'm not going to cut off my whiskers—don't worry! Hurry up, cook, and cut the cherry."

Cook raised his big knife high over his head in order to give a good blow, when sudden—

Jumped in through the window and gave Blue Whiskers a push.

Just as the knife came down, his long blue beard flew out, and there it lay over the kitchen floor, every hair of it!

"That's the end of me!" cried the old wizard rushing out of the door. "I can't stay in Fairyland now. I'll have to work for my living."

That was the last of him. (To Be Continued.)

Navy's Air Achievements Are Described By Wilbur In Late Magazine Story

TAMPA, March 8. (AP)—Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy of the United States, is the author of an article on "American Achievement in Aviation," which is the feature contribution to January Current History Magazine. Secretary Wilbur reviews the part played by the airplane and dirigible in American naval development. The World War gave considerable stimulus to progress in this direction, and the signing of the armistice was followed by numerous important moves. The bureau of aeronautics was organized; a new policy with respect to aviation standards and the development of new planes was adopted; and the old theory that naval aviation should be confined to patrol service was abandoned in favor of a policy by which planes were expected to go to sea with the fleet.

Secretary Wilbur discusses the technical problems involved in the question of developing faster planes and more powerful motors. With respect to the participation of the United States in the World War he writes that "the design and manufacture of the Liberty airplane motor was an outstanding contribution of the country to the cause of the allies. He praises the Liberty motor as "the best aircraft engine developed during the war."

The secretary adds that important progress is being made in the improvement of anti-aircraft guns. He deprecates the "extravagant statements" recently made as to inefficiency of anti-aircraft guns, and states that "new anti-aircraft guns already developed and now going into service are

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Croemulsion, an emulsified crocote that is pleasant to take. Croemulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, crocote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Croemulsion contains, in addition to crocote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation; while the crocote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Croemulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. READ THESE TRUTHS ABOUT A "REAL FLORIDA" CITY

(A day-by-day story of a Florida community that we believe will show more comparative progress in the next five years than any other city in the state.)

THIS IS NO. 1 Sanford Is the World's Greatest Celery Producing Center.

Years ago, Sanford recognized what all Florida is beginning to realize—namely, the necessity of an agricultural background to stabilize and secure city values and finances.

Today, Sanford with its adjacent and immediate surrounding territory is admittedly the most intensively developed agricultural section of Florida for the profitable growing of staple fruit and vegetables. Seven thousand, six hundred cars are shipped annually.

Celery is the money crop, comprising more than 70 per cent of total miscellaneous shipments. An area of some 3,000 acres, devoted to this specialized farming, yield better than 700 crates to an acre. This represents one-third of the total celery production in the United States.

Right now, a record $8,000,000 celery crop is being marketed.

There's a reason, of course, for this enormous productivity. The fortunate natural condition of the soil has made possible the application of a system of subirrigation, subaeration and subdrainage which has been pronounced by the United States Department of Agriculture as the best method in applying moisture to plant life.

The above is merely one feature of Sanford's claim of substantiality. It emphasizes the seriousness and thoroughness with which the people of Sanford, and of the Solid Central Section of the State are creating tangible assets for prevailing moderate values.

Plans now maturing are expected to make Sanford one of the leading poultry centers of Florida.

At Sanford are inexpensive homes and homesites, farms, acreage, business and industrial locations. Municipally owned utilities. Forty-seven miles of paved streets. Three banks. Modern schools, and churches of all denominations.

New Forrest Lake Tourist Hotel. Eighteen-hole golf course. Fishing, hunting, water sports. Other recreational facilities of the type that has brought renown to other resorts.

Sanford's Claim of Potential Values

Set forth in a series of fourteen advertisements in this newspaper, in which the Story of Sanford, the City Substantial, is being told, and by which you will see how that Sanford NOW has every essential for a great city:

- 1—Sanford Is the World's Greatest Celery Producing Center.
- 2—Sanford's Recreational and Pleasure Facilities.
- 3—The Hotel Forrest Lake, Sanford's Tourist Headquarters.
- 4—The St. Johns River and Lake Monroe.
- 5—The St. Johns River-Indian River Canal.
- 6—Sanford as a Better Place to Live.
- 7—Sanford as a Transportation Center.
- 8—How Sanford Is Growing.
- 9—The Spirit of Sanford's Citizenship.
- 10—Sanford as a Place to Rear Your Children.
- 11—Real Estate Possibilities in Sanford.
- 12—Sanford's Moderate Cost of Living.
- 13—Business Necessities in Sanford.
- 14—Recapitulation of Facts and Statistics.

Come and See for Yourself

—why Sanford values are undiminished and why investments are strictly income earning and not speculative. You'll see, for instance, an $8,000,000 record celery crop being harvested.

You'll see a city fronting on a magnificent lake, head of navigation on the St. Johns River, afforded cheaper transportation by all-water route to principal Eastern seaports; $400,000 municipal pier and bonded warehouse to be built.

You'll see a city on the main line (division headquarters) of the Atlantic Coast Line railroad and on the cross-line Dixie Highway midway between Jacksonville and Tampa. Pullman bus service to all parts of Florida.

You'll see, too, the new half-million-dollar Forrest Lake Tourist Hotel.

You'll see property values like these you are accustomed to up North and you'll be convinced, as others have become, that today, Sanford offers the same opportunity as St. Petersburg, Miami, Orlando and Daytona offered ten years ago.

Information, booklet and reprints of any or all of the advertisements in this series will be mailed upon request.

Five-Fingered Bowling Ball Overcomes Handicap

HERBIE LANGE, the Madison (Wis.) bowler, who for years led America's pin knights in national tournaments with a grand average of more than 200, was almost forced from the game this year because of an injury sustained last May.

Lange, in a moment of carelessness, forgot to take his hand from the ball rack. It was caught between two balls and badly crushed, so badly that the center joint of the middle finger on his bowling hand stiffened permanently.

With this handicap it was impossible to continue in the game. Lange rested the finger for a long time but it availed him nothing. Life had left it. Sorrowfully he decided then to quit bowling and accordingly gave over his place on the crack Guardian Life team of Madison to George Oakley, an elderly gent with a sharp hook—a good bowler but hardly of Lange's class. Strangely enough it was Oakley who inspired Lange with the idea that brought him back into the game.

"Why not try a five-fingered ball?" Oakley suggested.

That was it—a ball with five holes. Forthwith Lange hurried to the Brunswick people in Chicago, had them fit out a ball to suit the measurement of his hand and eagerly awaited its arrival in Madison to give it a trial. It worked clumsily at first, very clumsily. Gradually, however, he is becoming accustomed to the change and undoubtedly will be in the spotlight again at Toledo in the American Bowling Congress tournament in March.

Miss Mary Brown Stars In Both Golf And Tennis But Has Leaning Toward Latter

PALM BEACH, Mar. 8.—(AP)—In the finals of a golf tournament last week, and in the finals of a tennis tournament this week, Miss Mary K. Brown is qualified and nervous like no one else in the world to contemplate the two sports.

There have been many stellar performers in golf to give up the game for tennis and vice versa, but Miss Brown is the only person known who has been able to remain in the front ranks of both sports. This was especially apparent in 1924, when she reached the semi-finals of the national tennis tournament and the finals of the national golf tournament. She was runner-up in the golf open in that year and has been national champion in tennis on three occasions.

"Which do I prefer? tennis or golf?" Miss Brown said. "I ought to be able to give a good answer after just having participated in a golf and a tennis tournament in the last two weeks. But it's like comparing ice cream with last Wednesday. However, I really know that I am fonder of tennis than golf. That is, if I can have some of each, but I get fed up with either if I have too much of a stretch.

"I have been playing tennis far more than I have golf. I took up the Scotch game when I had played a whole season of tennis and was fed up with it. I found golf to be just what I needed as a rest and a change in this event."

"It's hard to say which I find more thrilling, a golf or a tennis tournament. I like them in different ways. Competition in tennis seems to be more exhilarating, since it is more tiring in playing."

Last week Miss Brown was defeated in the finals of the golf tournament at Ormond Beach by Miss Dorothy Klotz of Chicago. Before this tournament she had only played three rounds of golf in three months. Glenna Colles and Dorothy Campbell had favored to reach the finals in this event.

The tournament was over on Saturday. On Sunday Miss Brown arrived at Palm Beach and laid aside her clubs and took up her rackets. She was defeated in the finals of the tennis tournament of Florida by Miss Elizabeth Royan.

Miss Brown says that she probably could do better in either sport if she would give up the other entirely.

Billy Evans Picks Three Greatest Baseball Feats

BY BILLY EVANS
WHAT are baseball's three greatest feats? The superlatives of sport are always interesting. Here are the three greatest feats in baseball as I see them:

Ty Cobb's record of leading the American League for nine consecutive years with a low average of .324 and a high mark of .420.

Babe Ruth's stunt of making 59 home runs in a 154-game schedule is certainly a super feat.

Cy Young's extraordinary performance in winning over 500 games in 22 years service as a big league pitcher.

Records are made to be broken. However, I have always felt that this trio of records would stand for years and years, if not for all time.

While Ruth's feat entitles him to the honor of being regarded as the greatest slugger the game has ever known, I have always felt the performance of Cobb and Young even more meritorious.

Young's feat of greatest of all Ruth's stunt was a one-year flash of remarkable batting, a sprint affair, so to speak, while the performances of Cobb and Young was a sustained effort; Cobb over nine years, Young 22.

Young's feat looms up as the greatest of the three. Winning 20 ball games is a rare stunt for a pitcher these days; capturing 25 is decidedly unusual. Yet Young, over a period of 22 years, almost averaged 25 victories per season.

Cobb finished his nine years of American League batting leadership in 1915. He began it in 1908. The record has already stood for 10 years. However, a serious menace has come up in the person of Rogers Hornsby, star batsman of the National League.

When Hornsby finished the 1925 season with an average of .403 he made his sixth straight year of leadership in the National League. He started in 1920 with the lowest mark of the six years, .370.

Cobb's Record Is In Danger
In leading the National League for six consecutive seasons, he is the only player to do so. He has been on such a furious batting rampage. His average for that period is practically .400, to be exact, .370.

Unquestionably Hornsby is the outstanding batter in the National League. He is easily 25 points better than his most dangerous contender. On form he should continue to show the way for a number of years unless incapacitated by injury or illness.

Of the three super-feats in baseball, there is a chance that Cobb's mark will be broken by Hornsby. He must take down the National batting crown for four more years to top Ty. So you see Hornsby still has his work cut out.

At the loss of the 1925 season I asked him what he thought about his chances to better Cobb's great record. He modestly replied: "I have a chance to break Cobb's mark and have hopes of doing it. It's a long way, for I must lead three more years to tie it."

"Good health and the breaks are essential in batting. If I continue to enjoy both I'll certainly be dangerous."

"Boots" Antley Will Substitute For Speaks In Bout With Welling Tuesday

Efforts to match Joe Welling, who fights "Boots" Antley here tomorrow night, with Rock Kansas for a championship bout, to be held in Tampa are being made by Welling and his handlers in this state. It became known today, Kansas beat the Englishman, Jacks, Friday night in five round of what the newspaper men said was a good bout. Welling gave the same Jacks a severe clouting several months ago.

If the match is arranged, Welling will establish training quarters in either this city or Orlando and will work hard to get in shape for the big go, according to John Maurer, Jr., who is looking after Joe's business matters in Florida.

The scrap tomorrow night is expected to furnish local fans with some action of the type they are looking for and of the kind they saw last Tuesday night at the Armory. Antley is considered a top-notch and is not believed to be a mere setup for Welling. All the local customers want is a good bout as well as that between Welling and Young Wallace, which was put on these weeks ago.

The reserved seats for the battle Tuesday night are said to be moving fast. The general admission tickets have been cut to $1.

Tanner-Johnson Semi-Final
Tanner and Carl Johnson will be in the semi-final on Tuesday's card. These boys fought six rounds last week and at the last minute, both were hardly able to keep their feet or swing their fists. Tanner had a shade the best of the milling

Commerce Team Is After Legion Scalp In Another Match

Floyd Palmer, captain of the Chamber of Commerce golfers, has issued a challenge to the American Legion golf team, winners of the Civic Club championship, for a match to be played on the course of the Sanford Country Club this week, the loser to stand a dinner dance at the club in the near future.

It was announced today that the Legion team has accepted the challenge and that the details of the match were being arranged.

Practically the same men who competed for the Studebaker trophy are expected to play, and in view of the good scores made during the last few rounds of the civic tourney, some excellent golfing is in prospect.

The Legionaires took their match with the Chamber of Commerce last Thursday by a score of 9 points to 7. The teams at that time consisted of the following: Legion, Roy, Joe and Ned Chittenden, A. R. Haggard, Glenn Wimbush and W. D. Gardner. Chamber of Commerce, C. E. Betts, C. L. Britt, Floyd Palmer, B. W. Herndon, George G. Herrin and A. L. Fuller.

The date for the special match is expected to be announced tomorrow, and will probably be one day the latter part of the week.

At The Training Camps

Win Two Exhibition Games
ST. LOUIS, Mar. 8.—(AP)—After winning their first two exhibition games of the season, played Saturday and Sunday with the Waco, Texas, leaguers at Waco, the Cardinals returned last night to their San Antonio training camp to go into their third week of training.

The Cards lagged the two games to the tune of 8 to 3 and 12 to 0, collecting a total of 30 hits, including five homers, five doubles and two triples. Hafey and Bottomley drove out homers yesterday.

The Browns' squad of 32 players was made complete yesterday at the Tarpon Springs, Fla., camp with the arrival of Cedric Durst, outfielder. It was an ideal day and many of the players went fishing, golfing or on bus trips.

Hauser Not Likely to Play
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Mar. 8.—(AP)—It is regarded as improbable that Joe Hauser, injured first baseman of the Athletics, will do much playing this season. Jim Poole, who covered the initial sack last year, will again be seen in that position, with Hauser playing a game now and then. The A's are training at Bradenton has received word that Fred Leach, who was believed to have been a hold out, will arrive at the camp late this week.

Practice Games Discarded
WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 8.—(AP)—The regular-season training games that give a player only a few chances at bat in each, are to be discarded in favor of regular swatting drills at the Tampa camp of the Washington Senators.

Manager Harris thinks his toilers will profit more by the drill that gives each man a score more of raps at the ball and more hitting chances. The team will choose sides only occasionally to vary the routine.

What becomes an international event of the Senator's training grind was on tap today at Ybor City, Fla., with the ropies taking on a Cuban 9.

BEGIN BATTING PRACTICE
CLEVELAND, O., Mar. 8.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians were set for their first batting practice at Lakeland, Fla., today. The bat-termen 16 strong arrived here night from Hot Springs, and not a single arm was reported. Prior to their arrival George Uhle and Joe Shaute were the only pitchers at Lakeland.

The end of the first week finds all of the men in good shape except the former Summa and infielder Guy Lacey, who are suffering colds.

Donahue to Face Cubs
CINCINNATI, O., Mar. 8.—(AP)—Manager Jack Donahue of the Cincinnati Reds announced yesterday that he will have to face the Chicago Cubs and that Carl Mays would wear in the second game of the season.

He also predicted that Eppa Rixey would join the team in time to pitch the third game of the series. Rixey has been holding out for an increase in salary, but both Donahue and President Herman expect him to be with the club shortly.

Tunney-Strib Bout Expected To Draw Big Fight Crowd

MIAMI, Fla. March 8.—Gene Tunney and Young Stribling will fight before the largest audience ever to witness a Queensbury tilt in the history of the entire South in the ponion of Promoter Jess Baugh, the promoter of this remarkable fight attraction.

Hinah Stadium will be completed Saturday. It has a seating capacity for 30,000 spectators. The arena is situated six miles from Miami. The bowl in which the two heavyweights battle will be the property of the Miami Jockey Club.

Baugh predicts a gate of $300,000 when the time arrives for the two battlers to enter the ring. Tunney and Stribling are hard at training.

Tex Rickard offered to buy the fight from Promoter Baugh when here recently. Baugh refused to do any business with Rickard as Jess hopes to make at least $100,000 on this match.

Dempsey To Meet Wills If Chicago Makes Fight Legal

CHICAGO, Mar. 8.—(AP)—Jack Dempsey will give Harry Wills a long-awaited chance at the heavy-weight boxing title on Labor Day in Chicago.

The principal part of the "Floyd Fitzsimmons intimated before departing last night for Los Angeles, his Chicago's action in passing the bill to legalize the sport here.

Fitzsimmons, who possesses the only document extant that can bring Wills and the champion together in the immediate future, said Chicago promoters with whom he and Jack conferred over weekend had offered "satisfactory" proposals and credentials.

The offers were from representatives of the Coliseum Athletic Club, a syndicate in South Bend, Ind., and individual sportsmen. The promoter did not definitely commit himself but his inference was that passage of the boxing bill is virtually all that is necessary to obtain the match.

The championship battle can be staged here only if the city votes for boxing in the April primaries. The state legislature legalized sport in 1925, but had been prohibited for a decade, had provided for local option.

If held here the bout would go 10 rounds to a decision or not at the discretion of the state boxing commission. The titleholder will open a camp to start training for the scrap with the negro challenger.

Dempsey is on his way to California, where according to Fitzsimmons, the titleholder will open a camp to start training for the scrap with the negro challenger.

Greb Anxious To Meet Flowers And Light-Heavy King

PITTSBURGH, Mar. 8.—(AP)—Harry Greb, who lost his middle-weight boxing title to Tiger Flowers recently, has three ambitions.

The first is to win back the championship in the return bout with Flowers May 21, the second is to meet and defeat Paul Berinbach, light-heavyweight title holder, and the third is to retire after he has accomplished his first two aims.

"I'm never going to let it be said that I stuck in the game after I should have quit," Greb was quoted as saying, when questioned about his retirement ideas.

"Why should I have all the money I'll ever need. When I get through with this next five-ways fight I'll have something like $200,000 left out of my earnings. The young fellows are never going to slap me around," he continued, "but I do want a chance to get back on top again and then I'll step out. I want my friends to remember me as a winning fighter."

If he should retire, Greb said he would likely open a gymnasium in Pittsburgh and perhaps promote a few boxing shows on the side.

Second Round Of Four-Ball Tourney Begins At Miami

MIAMI, Mar. 8.—(AP)—Miami's international four ball golf tournament went into its second round today with the country's best golfers facing each other. Yesterday's five came through with scores in the 80's. Eight matches, including the match between Willie McFarlane, national open champion, coupled with Tommy Armour, won their match as did Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, and Gene Sarazen, former open title holder. These two teams are expected to give the winners of the tournament much trouble. Another five is the McDonald Smith-Wild Bill Melhorn team who encountered little difficulty yesterday.

New York and Chicago each have representatives in the running, and Bobby Cruickshank and Art Espinosa represent the "Big Apple," with two "Joos" from Phoenix City, and Turner, the easterner, Johnny Farrell, Florida's latest open champion, and Tommy Hampton, Clarence Hackney and Harry Hampton rounded out the list of victors.

PARIS LETTER

PARIS, March 8.—(AP)—The new international committee on intellectual corporations, founded under the Aegis of the League of Nations, has begun work by creating a bulletin to serve as a connecting link between the universities of the world. This publication will give details of the holiday courses, students' association, exchange of professors, comparison of university standards and general university interest.

More than 100 institutions of higher education already have replied to the committee's inquiry regarding the value of this bulletin. Information and comment from the United States has been particularly full and interesting, and 90 universities have appointed professors to supply material for the committee's publication.

An international radio-telephone company has been created to study the question of the rights of authors there when their work is broadcast and how authors may collect for such rights.

"Athletic heart" has been the reason for the exemption of so many young men from French army service recently that the authorities are taking measures to combat this evil.

Long-distance foot races, especially in the district around Paris, has become one of the most popular forms of sport in France, attracting many aspirants for honors who are their own trainers and do not attain proper condition to undergo the strain of distance running.

Army doctors are carrying on propaganda among the classes called for conscript service, lecturing the young men who are found to have "broken down hearts" as the French call them, and calling on them to spread the doctrine of more careful training for athletics that place a great strain on the system. This propaganda is said to be bearing fruit already in fewer army exemptions for "athletic heart."

France is in a state of strained nerves, asserts Louis Morsoleau, poet-journalist, in explanation of present phenomena indicating the high nervous tension of the people. He blames the politicians in and out of parliament for having reduced the country to a state of irritability that can only be calmed, he believes, by some form of violence.

He cites two recent incidents which he considers typical of the country's "jumpy" condition. The favorite in a horse race got off a bad start and "was beaten. The disappointed backers pulled the jockey from his horse and beat him nearly to death. Race track crowds in France often have shown feeling against a losing jockey for such uncontrolled savagery.

An American film shown at Bordeaux portrayed King Louis XI and the Dauphin in a manner the French audience considered unflattering to those long dead personages. Such a disturbance arose that the police had to clear the house.

Paris-Mutuel betting on automobile racing with a percentage taken from all wagers for the state is provided by one of the bills introduced in the chamber of deputies to balance the budget.

The sponsors of the measure assert there is no reason why the government should countenance betting on such unclean animals as horses, and at the same time refuse bettors facilities for wagering on their favorite motorcar drivers. The principal objection offered to the proposal that their are not enough automobile races in France to make it profitable.

Newspaper men of Paris are to have an identifying badge issued them by the police to save them broken heads and bruises when their duties carry them into the middle of riots or other public disturbances. This is the result of a protest by the journalists, that the police, in quelling outbreaks in the streets of Paris, have failed to distinguish between newspapermen and active participants in the disorders. The badge will be a small shield of blue enamel which bears the arms of the city of Paris in the center in red, and with the word "Press" above in gold.

Telephone Growth In The South

THE details and results of the operations of the Southern Group of Bell Telephone Companies during the year 1925 enable you to be familiar with the progress of the telephone industry in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, the Carolinas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee. This presentation is but a continuation of our policy of taking the public fully into our confidence, and expressing the appreciation of the telephone workers for your friendly interest and co-operation.

In these nine States there was an expenditure last year of approximately $23,668,700 for gross additions to the telephone plant.

There was a net gain of 54,186 new telephone stations, making a total of 1,147,590 telephone stations in the nine States. Of these 772,979 are Bell owned, 336,430 are owned by other companies, but connected with the Bell System.

The investment in service, December 31, 1925, was $143,962,506, not including $2,355,011 of construction work in progress.

To build, operate, maintain and manage this system requires the services of an army of skilled men and women, whose annual payroll amounts to $20,835,362. Another big expense was the tax bill of $3,966,784 for last year, which is three times as great as the tax bill for the year 1918.

It is a matter of pride that this service was the best for any year since the war.

Another source of satisfaction has been our happy relations with our customers and with the public. The telephone workers appreciate your friendly co-operation, and it encourages them to strive continually to render the kind of service you want.

LONDON LETTER

LONDON, March 8. (AP)—The old-fashioned coach and four is coming back in England to compete with the motor car.

Regular coaching trips between Brighton and London will be instituted early this spring for the benefit of travelers who prefer the romantic atmosphere which surrounds the old-time conveyance to the prosaic automobile.

A famous vehicle, the Berkeley, which won all the coach events at the Richmond and Olympia horse shows last year, is to be used in this service on the Brighton-London highway, from which the horse has almost disappeared in recent years.

There are approximately 20,000 "lost" husbands in England, and although rewards have been offered, no news of them can be obtained. The board of guardians in various localities, who are responsible for maintenance of the dependents of missing men, are eager to find these husbands because the authorities are spending many thousands of pounds on "poor relief" for their wives and families.

Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham and indeed, most of the other cities have a list of "wanted husbands." The guardians say that many of the men found it impossible to settle down to humdrum life after their war-time experiences and, not being able to get employment in their home places, owing to the trade depression, have "taken to the road," knowing that their wives and children would be cared for by the authorities.

When Shakespeare was at the height of his powers, he almost made his language, as the Americans say they do today, as he went along. Dr. George Gordon, of Oxford, pointed out in a lecture on Shakespearean English before the Royal Institution of London.

Referring to the state of the English language in the sixteenth century, Professor Gordon said there was no fixed standard in grammar or spelling, pronunciation or accent and there was neither standard grammar nor a standard dictionary. The first quality of Elizabethan and, therefore, of Shakespearean, English was its hospitality and its passion for experiment, its willingness to use every form of verbal wealth, to try everything "once at least."

So far did it go, this movement of linguistic anarchy, declared Professor Gordon, that prudent, word-fearing men grew alarmed, and later new words were black-listed.

The efforts of the young Miss of 1926 to look willow were criticized by Sir Bruce Porter, consulting physician of the American relief administration after the war, in a London speech.

"Why girls want to look like weak and woeey young men, I cannot imagine," he said. "But they will get that figure, and with it indigestion and a greater risk of consumption. Why should the fair—and strong—sex try to copy the worst points in young men?" Sir Bruce declared it was more than a tragedy to see so many young girls try to get "willow" figures. "Don't let your daughters cultivate that figure," was his advice to mothers. "The craze will not last and it does not make for a happy old age, if they ever reach it."

Mrs. Stanley Baldwin's cook has become more famous than any of the chefs at England's royal palaces. Her originality in turning out topical and clever iced decorations for afternoon teas at Number 10, Downing street, have made her the talk of London's smart set. The latest masterpiece of Mrs. May Berrill, head of the prime minister's kitchen, was an enormous chocolate cake representing Big Ben, the famous clock in the tower of the house of commons.

At its base were the words, "Peace in our time." This was called to the attention of Hon. Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, by Mr. Baldwin himself.

Mrs. Baldwin had delegated the prime minister to cut the cake while tea was being served, but Mr. Baldwin became so engrossed in looking after his guests and discussing the fruits of Locarno that he forgot all about his assignment, and the cake was so impressive nobody dared ask for a slice of it.

James Gleason was being as kindly received by the London critics as any American actor who has visited England in a decade. His appearance in "Le-Zat-So," in which he also is co-author, is generally heralded in the London papers as the greatest laugh America has given London since the "Potash and Perlmutter" struck England.

The critics acclaim Gleason, in the role of the prize fight promoter, and Robert Armstrong, as the lightweight fighter, as one of the funniest teams London has seen for years. The ability of the British public to understand the New York slang and follow the rapid patter of the comedians is ascribed by several critics to the influence of American films. In pre-war days, some of the critics say, it would have been impossible for "Le-Zat-So" to have succeeded in London.

Forecasts of spring fashions in London indicate many novelties. The latest hint from the arbiters is that skirts will be as short as ever, bodies a mere slip of tulle, but that long sleeves will carry almost as much material as the dress itself.

Huge square cuffs reaching to the hem of the dress are predicted for smart attire, and new models are already seen with enormous puffed melon sleeves, striped with contrasting materials which serve as both cloak and sleeves.

The newest evening gown has no sleeves but is cut right to the chin, while some outdoor models are cut high and finished with puritan collars and bow tie, also without sleeves.

There is a whisper that lingerie is likely to be more scanty, as stockings and under garments are being woven in one piece of finest gauze silk. This merely has a frock slipped over it and the evening costume is complete.

LEAGUE NATIONS RECESSES WHILE STILL IN TANGLE

Question of Assigning Permanent Seats in Assembly Is Undecided; Sub-Committees Talk Regular Business

GENEVA, Mar. 9.—(AP)—With the League of Nations assembly in a tangle arising out of Germany's request for membership and the delegates of four other countries—Poland, Spain, Brazil and China—for permanent seats in the league council, the assembly was in recess today.

Only sub-committees of both the assembly and the council were at work today and they were dealing with routine matters.

When adjournment was taken yesterday no time was set for the next session. It is possible that the assembly will not reconvene until the end of the month.

No Abatement of Claims. There has been no abatement in demands by the representatives of various countries, which are asking permanent seats in the council. The Germans hold steadily to their ground that no seats should be awarded until Germany has been installed.

The only permanent members are Great Britain, France, Japan and Italy. Spain's representatives have reiterated that if the League of Nations had been formed simultaneously with Germany they will leave the League.

The Brazils delegation argued that they cannot allow the entire continent of South America to remain without permanent representation.

No less insistent is Poland, and she is backed strongly by France and hoping also for the support of St. Austen Chamberlain, Viscount Ichi, the Japanese Ambassador to France, is sponsoring the claim in China.

Sweden Approves Enlargement. Sweden, a non-permanent member, is declared to be unalterably opposed to any enlargement of the council at the present except for the admission of Germany. Since the vote of the council must be unanimous Sweden's negative ballot would scotch the plans of any of applicants. For admittance to the assembly only a two-thirds vote is required.

Dr. Alfredo De Costa, former Premier of Portugal, who is president of the assembly, yesterday warned the delegates that the life of the League of Nations had reached a turning point and he urged them either to make new harmonious moves, or to disband themselves.

Dr. Luther, the German chancellor, and Dr. Stressemann, his foreign minister, did not attend the assembly meeting. The council will not meet until after the assembly acts on Germany's application.

Board Delays Meeting Of Illness Of Governor. The board of directors of the Florida Power and Light Company, which had been scheduled to meet today, was postponed because of the illness of Governor Andrews.

Governor Andrews' condition was much improved this morning, although he was said to still have a little temperature. Although the executive was anxious to leave his duties of state, he was prevailed upon to remain at his mansion until it was made certain that he was physically able to do so.

LOCAL MEN TO FORM AERIAL EXPRESS FIRM

Meeting Called At Yacht Club Tonight To Perfect Plans For Organization Of First Air Line To Serve County

To Operate Flying Boats Down St. Johns

Fast Air Liners Will Convey Freight And Passengers To And From Jacksonville

Organization of a company, to be known as the Sanford Aerial Express Co., is scheduled to take place tonight at the yacht club in Jacksonville. The company's business and professional men are to meet at the yacht club in Jacksonville. The plan is to operate flying boats down the St. Johns river route to the Gate City by hydroplane.

The gathering tonight is expected to result in an announcement being made to the effect that the officers and directors of the company are prepared to go forward with plans calling for the immediate installation of both passenger and freight express service over the St. Johns river route to the Gate City by hydroplane.

Mr. Henderson, the promoter, stated yesterday that Sanford had been selected as a base for operations of the company due to its central location and to the adequate facilities offered here for both land and water planes. The hydroplane base is expected to be established for the present on the municipal property west of the American Legion hut, on the lake front.

The promoter stated that this plan would be to purchase a plane with a capacity of six passengers and pilot, or 1,000 pounds of express or freight. The plane will be powered by a 100 horsepower Liberty motor and will have a wing spread of 82 feet from tip to tip. It will be equipped with floats and will be able to take on and off the water.

Gangster Tells Of Events Leading To Slaying Of Boxer

NEW YORK, March 9.—(AP)—Revelations were made today as to the slaying of Battling Siki in Hell's Kitchen last December. The boxer's slaying, which was the last of his life, was the result of a fight with a man he had called "white trash."

The story of what happened in the early hours of the morning, when the boxer's body was riddled with bullets, was told today by an 18-year-old youth, Martin Maroney, who was arrested on a charge of homicide. Police believe, however, that the youth had fled before Siki was killed.

Maroney has given the names of several men who were in a Ninth avenue lunch room where Siki is believed to have been shot. He said that he was in the room at the time of the slaying and that he saw the boxer being carried away in a "white trash" car.

The men leaped at the boxer during the fight that followed, Maroney fled. A few blocks away he heard shots.

Two detectives say they first suspected Maroney when they overheard him in a telephone booth discussing plans to make a "getaway" when the bells are too close to the room. The detectives, disguised as truck drivers, had frequented a Ninth avenue social club for weeks, investigating Siki's death.

Navy Makes Plans To Move Sunken Undersea Boat To Brooklyn

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 9.—(AP)—The navy is to try to tow the sunken submarine S-51 from its seagrass grave off Block Island under water to Brooklyn navy yard, 150 miles away.

Twenty-five bodies of the 33 victims of the collision between the submarine and the steamship City were recovered last September and are being buried in the cemetery at Brooklyn. Some of the crew are believed to have been washed overboard but most of the bodies are still in the sea.

Air-filled pontoons will be used in the attempt, which will be made next month. The submarine is within 80 feet of the surface and will be started on its journey to Brooklyn.

Uncle Sam's big submarine V-1 emerges off the Rhode Island coast after a test dive of 300 feet to the ocean's floor. Beams leaked slightly at this extreme depth, but the V-1 was pronounced a success.

Kresge And Wife Latest To Become Reconciled While Divorce Suits Are Pending

NEW YORK, Mar. 9.—(AP)—To kias and make up is becoming a popular ending to separation and divorce suits which have been holding public attention lately.

The latest individuals in reconciliation plans are Sebastian S. Kresge, ten cent store owner, and Mrs. Doris Kresge, whose matrimonial differences, as they involve the question of stocks and bonds, are now before the Supreme Court of New York. The trial was suddenly adjourned yesterday.

The couple conferred with the justice and then went in search of the pastor of their church. The reconciliation was announced yesterday. The couple are now on a second honeymoon. Five years ago they launched upon a campaign of charges and counter charges.

Craven Are In Bermuda. In Bermuda, Lord and Lady Craven are prolonging a second honeymoon after a tempestuous matrimonial course that touched the shores of two continents.

Another case of a proposed reconciliation coming to naught was told in court yesterday. Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster testified that her husband, Eugene V. Brewster, magazine publisher, suggested they have a second honeymoon.

Then she charges, Miss Corliss Palmer, movie actress, who had rushed to a telephone and called Joe Carter, chief of detectives. The latter detailed half a dozen plain clothes men on the case at once. In the meantime the two machines proceeded toward Lake Tomsassa.

Wanted Divorce Abandoned. Arriving at the destination, the abduction forced their victim from the car and after lasting him, left him for the roadside with the remark, "that if he didn't abandon a divorce action which he had recently started they would take him out again and nearly kill him."

Mr. Fort, in making the presentation, said: "It is with a great deal of pleasure that I present this cup to the American Legion. It is the trophy of a hard struggle on the part of the team members and their sportsmanship throughout the tournament made a lasting impression on their competitors."

Many matters of importance were discussed at the meeting last night and plans were made for tagging the musical comedy at the 21st cup for the Legion on the night of March 25. Briand Induced To Form New Ministry As Herriot Declines

TAMPAN BEATEN MONDAY NIGHT BY UNMASKED MEN

Dudley Read, Photographer Is Floored By Men Posing As Deputies Who Had Warrants From Sheriff For His Arrest

TAMPA, Fla., March 9.—(AP)—Dudley Read, official photographer for the Tampa Board of Trade, was severely beaten last night by five unmasked men Monday night. Read returned home late this morning, suffering from numerous wounds on the body.

The victim told detectives that his abductors took him to a lonely spot about 15 miles from Tampa known as Lake Thonotosassa. There he was held for about an hour and then released. He was taken to the hospital and his wounds are being treated.

Read's ribs and back were swollen and bleeding. Detectives said he had been struck probably 60 times.

Read said his abductors came to his home about 9 o'clock last night in two automobiles. Mrs. Margaret Read, wife of the photographer, answered the door bell. She was confronted by three men, one of whom wore a badge and said he was Sheriff Carter.

Read called her son. He asked to see the warrant and with a brusque remark, "that if he didn't abandon a divorce action which he had recently started they would take him out again and nearly kill him."

Read started back home. After walking about 15 miles, he sought refuge in a rooming house and reached his residence about 4 o'clock this morning. He notified Chief Carter of his arrest and the latter hastened to Read's home. The photographer was barely able to walk after his long trip afoot on the road back to Tampa.

He had not told his mother or sister that he had been thrashed but explained to them that the men had threatened him with punishment unless he withdrew witnesses in his divorce suit. The women were excluded from the room while he told the chief of detectives details of his experience.

Immediately afterward, Chief Carter ordered the arrest of Read's wife, her mother, father and brother and detained them at police headquarters pending an investigation. They expressed surprise at their arrest and declared they knew nothing about the attack on Read.

Mrs. Dudley Read, 26, is a feature writer at the Tampa Tribune. About two months ago Read instituted divorce proceedings, naming John Kelly, a friend of his, as co-respondent. Kelly and Read continued to be friends, Kelly living at Read's home and helping him in his work for the Tampa Board of Trade.

Chief Carter would make no charges against Read's wife nor her people, pending an inquiry later today but expressed the belief that the whipping was "domestic trouble." Read was reported to have told the chief that he had been "forced into the marriage."

FREIGHTER BREAKS AWAY ST. JOHNS, N.F., March 9.—(AP)—The leaving made satisfactory progress to within about 65 miles of port, the French freighter, Kentucky broke away from the Silas last night during a southeast gale. Latest reports were that she was drifting landward. The gale had subsided considerably this morning.

Fiddlers Are Urged To Compete In Meet To Be Staged At Milane Theater Friday

Plans for the staging of an old time fiddler's contest at the Milane Theater on Friday evening by the management of the theater with the cooperation of the Sanford Herald have been located considerably by the entrance of three of the county's best known fiddlers who are anxious to compete for the four prizes offered according to J. L. Marenzette, who is active manager of the match designed to afford Sanford theatergoers recreation out of the ordinary.

Fiddlers in various sections of Seminola county have entered the contest. Mr. Marenzette announced today, "but there are still many who have not yet sent in their entrance notices. I wish to take this occasion to urge the mayors of Lake Mary, Orlino, Geneva and other communities to exert every effort to have the towns represented in this meet."

Participation in the championship contest will bring much publicity to the communities represented, and every fiddler in this section should lose no time in getting in touch with my office," he added.

Such prizes will be given the first two winners, while a subscription to the Sanford Herald and 10 theater tickets will go to the third and fourth places.

Veteran Leader Again Comes To Rescue In Order To Stabilize Financial Situation

Ex-Premier Takes Prominent Part

Herriot Asks That Briand Have All Of His Former Support

PARIS, Mar. 9.—(AP)—Aristide Briand, veteran French statesman, today accented a mandate from President Doumergue to form his ninth cabinet, to succeed the one which fell last Saturday.

The veteran statesman was called in after Edouard Herriot, Radical leader had declined to attempt the formation of a "concentration" ministry of the left, as had recommended that Briand be sent back to the League meetings in Geneva with all his former powers.

The Briand ministry retained Saturday after failure of a vote of confidence on the snail tax provision of its budget program.

Once more M. Briand proved to be the only French leader willing to attempt to lead the country out of the financial bog in which it has been floundering. As he left the Elysee palace this afternoon notifying the president of his acceptance, he said:

"In view of the present situation of my country, I have told the president that I did not feel I had the strength to attempt the task he did me the great honor to offer me. I will do my best to form a cabinet and hope to give President Doumergue a definite answer this evening."

The nucleus of the new cabinet, according to the best information obtainable this afternoon, is as follows: Premier and minister of foreign affairs, Aristide Briand; Minister of marine, Georges Leygues.

There is a strong probability that Raoul Poincaré, president of the chamber of deputies, will undertake the difficult task at the finance ministry.

It is reported as certain that Anatole de Monzie, minister of public works; M. Daniel-Vincent, minister of commerce; Amatoine DeFur, minister of hygiene; Paul Jourdain, minister of pensions; and Dean Durand, minister of agriculture, will retain their portfolios, while the three Radical ministers who voted against the government on the financial bill are likely to be replaced. These three are Camille Chauteppe, minister of the interior; Edouard Daladier, minister of public instruction and M. Chauvin, undersecretary for liberated regions.

PARIS, March 9.—(AP)—Edouard Herriot, Radical party leader, today declined the mandate of President Doumergue that he form a new cabinet to succeed the Briand ministry.

Herriot proposed that M. Briand be summoned, saying the premier must return to the League meetings at Geneva with all the prestige he had before the fall of his government.
