Opinion is held, however, that if plane went down during storm all is lost

NEW YORK, Jan. 14 (AP)—One thread of hope remained for the monoplane traded yesterday following receipt of a message reporting it had fallen into the sea 20 miles off San Miguel one of the Abasco group of islands.

The message, picked up third-hand by the Miami Radio Company, all was hope when or before the plane was seen to fall, and George Witten, manager of the plane, chose to hope it was there before or after the storm which raged over that part of the ocean Sunday morning.

"If the plane went down in the storm," he said, "there is not a chance in the world that it is any place but at the bottom of the sea. It would have been quickly battered to pieces."

Witten pointed out that Mrs. Beyle Hart and Capt. William McLaren, pilot and navigator of the plane which was carrying a payload of 200 pounds of mail, might have found a cove in which to escape the fury of the elements if they dropped before the storm.

They carried a backwash with which to save off the wings and they planned to drop the engine from the machine if they were forced to float, he said. Their food supply would have lasted two weeks.

Mrs. Cora Mansfield, mother, and Mrs. Georgia Gwynne, sister of Mrs. Hart, were still optimistic.

MADE FOR STRIB SCHMELING FIGHT

Hearst Milk Fund And Bill Carey Figure In New Propositions

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—(AP)—The big heavyweight runround came out into the open yesterday in a set of puzzling proposals destined to line up one world title bout between Max Schmeling and Young Bill Stribling, somewhere in Illinois in June and another in September between the winner and Primo Carnera, the man mountain of Venice.

The Hearst milk fund officially—and Bill Carey, president of Madison Square Garden unofficially—joined in extending contracts for this program to "Pa" Stribling, father and manager of the Georgia prize, and Joe Jacobs, pilot of the German cloutier.

While the antagonists hailed the proffered documents with glee, it seems that some basis for agreement finally had arisen from the muddled state of affairs, provided that other complications could be smoothed away.

Although Carey could not be present at the conference under penalty of suspension by the New York Athletic commission for dealing with a suspended fighter, the contracts were drawn up by the name of the Illinois-Madison Square Garden corporation under which the late Tex Richard promoted the $5,700,000 Tommy Driscopy battle of the long count in Chicago in 1927. This charter to promote matches in Chicago still is considered "alive," although it has not been used by the New York parent organization since the biggest flat spectacle of modern times.

The contracts were offered Schmeling and Stribling through the Illinois branch of the New York Garden despite opposition of the Illinois State Athletic commission to any heavyweight pugilist not promoted by local talent. The contracts did not name Chicago as the site for the June match but no other city in that state is under consideration.

Neither the Stribling nor Schmeling managements would sign the documents immediately and both were given time for consideration.

"Pa" Stribling was not in sympathy with a provision that bound his son, if victor over Schmeling, to fight Carnera in a city not named in September, 1931, and again in 1932 against the best available opponent for the milk fund alone. The contract bound Stribling to post $25,000 of his 12 1/2 percent share in the Schmeling-Stribling receipts as a forfeit for the match with Carnera.

Bill Duffy, American manager of Carnera, sat in on the conference today along with milk fund promoters and the representatives of Stribling and Schmeling.

Carnera has been under the ban here as well as in other states since his flange with Bomba Challenger in Oakland, Calif., last year. Schmeling was suspended indefinitely along with Jacobs when the New York commission vacated the German's championship last Tuesday for failure to agree immediately to a tilt bout with Jack Sharkey here.

The contracts as offered yesterday definitely eliminated Sharkey, who fouled Schmeling in a title match here last June, from a match with either the German or Stribling this summer. It also was predicted that the wrath of the local fathers will fall heavily upon the heads of all concerned when and if the contracts offered today are signed.

For declaring that the completion of State Road Number Three was one of the most important pieces of construction in this section of the state, he paid high compliments to the men who have been working for some months in securing state co-operation. He stressed the untiring efforts which Mayor Brown has been making in connection with the organization and continued development of the committee and its activities.

Senator Parrish made a brief talk in which he stated that he felt that Seminole County would not be neglected in the future, as far as state road building aid is concerned, declaring it his belief that the organization now in existence is of such strength and prominence that it would be heard in every case. He offered all the members of the committee as a member of the State Senate, and told that Senator Denny's representative would be present at the meeting in Tallahassee.

Colleges Re-Curtainment On Athletics

Jan. 12.—(AP)—The college football season is drawing to a close, and the curtain is being pulled down on the year's sports. Receipts running five to 20 percent below 1928, in disposition among spectators to curtail other sports, which in the main supported from the local schools, of Virginia Polytechnic school was prepared to curtail if necessary to meet the general and minor sports of the same class as the power of the state.

At Vanderbilt, the decrease in football receipts meant merely that there was less money to apply to the cost of the athletic department, but no curtailment was in minor sports.

At Mississippi college, Alabama (Auburn) and Tennessee, curtailment is being considered only in the case of football.

At the college of Louisiana, curtailment of minor sports is being considered, but the school is expected to decrease its football receipts in football receipts.

Smaller schools as a group are the hardest hit by the decrease. Although the University of Carolina, among these, is the Associated Press reports a decrease in football receipts—23 percent.

Alabama Polytechnic reported increased revenues and although the school has received a bath of money, it is believed that it would show receipts of about the same amount, which had a good football competitively, revenue as about the same in 1928, exact figures not available.

Small Dixie schools, Kentucky Wesleyan and Atlantic University of North Carolina, reported a decrease in their 1928 season. Kentucky Wesleyan, said the game is to create an atmosphere of harmony with the highest scholarship and character.

Athletic directors were almost unanimous in their answer to the question: "How do you think the year of football as played in 1928 compared with other years?"

"To the best," answered Arthur, director of athletics at Tennessee, and that reply was made, although one or two qualified answers to include only Alabama, Tulane, Tennessee and three more of the larger schools.

Regarding the schools reported by the Associated Press, curtailment of football receipts curtailment of athletic programs, the lineup follows:

Alabama (no estimate of receipts), Oglethorpe (10 percent), Kentucky Poly (no estimate), Tennessee (no estimate), Georgia (10 percent), Virginia Military Institute (slightly off), Mississippi college (20 percent), Vanderbilt (10 percent), Tennessee (slightly off), Centenary (30 percent), Mercer (slightly off), South Carolina (23 percent), University of North Carolina (10 percent), Washington Lee (5 percent), Virginia Poly (no estimate).

Other programs: Mississippi (baseball, basketball and tennis), Tennessee (baseball), Kentucky Poly (baseball and basketball).

transformed to the leasing provisions of the nitrate plant. Numerous informal conferences yesterday failed to develop an agreement acceptable to Senator Norris, (R., Neb.), author of the government operation bill who wants the lease leased, as is, on the best possible terms.

Meanwhile at the capitol, talk of a disagreement between the House and Senate conferees will meet again today in an effort to reach a conclusive agreement.

Barnes in his statement said Muscle Shoals was not needed for national defense since private industry was producing "three times the quantity of nitrates that would be required for military purposes in the event of a major war."

"The one valuable asset of Muscle Shoals is hydro-electric power," he added. "Concerning this the question at issue is whether the government shall enter the field of economic enterprise, in violation of every principle observed in the conduct of government as well as in the conduct of industry, by developing and distributing this power."

I feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills made all the difference in my health."

Of County Show Better Health

Since 1915 there have been recorded 1162 white males, 908 white females, 1034 colored males, 898 colored females, and one Japanese male, a total of 4003 births. Over the same term of years, 641 white males, 469 white females, 373 colored males, and 654 colored females, a total of 2547 deaths have been recorded. The peak in deaths and births was recorded during 1927 when 412 persons were born while 248 died. 1928 vital statistics were almost the same for 403 persons were born while 240 died. A gradual decline in both births and deaths has been noted since that time, for in comparison with 1925, forty-four fewer persons were born while 49 fewer persons died.

While 1927 was the peak year in births and deaths, other years furnished the high marks in types of births and deaths. 125 white males constituting a high record, were born in 1926. 106 white females were born the same year, making another high record. 111 colored males were born in 1925, while 105 colored females were born in 1927, both high records. 96 white male deaths were recorded in 1926 for a high mark in 15 years. 48 white female deaths were recorded in 1924, a high mark. 84 colored males died in 1928 and 83 colored females died in 1927, to establish high marks.

Digging deeper into the records we find that over a period of 15 years more people were born in October than in any other month of the year. At the same time more people died in December than in any other month. May, June, and July show the lowest birth records, while September and October, and February and March, show the highest records during the 15 year period. The winter months November, December, January, and February record the largest number of deaths, with July, August, and September showing the lowest death rate.

From the office of County Judge James G. Sharon, statistics on marriage licenses issued since 1918 and through 1930 indicate that since the year 1926 when 487 licenses were issued more than one and one quarter a day, the marriage rate has decreased more than 75 per cent. During 1930, there were 290 licenses issued, the lowest mark since 1922. May and January led all other months during 1930, with October a close second.
