By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

This concrete slab used to be a wayside park overlooking Lake Monroe — before the Florida Department of Transportation tore down the picnic table and shelter this week.

Area fishermen, nature lovers, tourists and lunchtime picnickers were surprised this week to discover concrete barriers overlooking Lake Monroe were torn down and hauled away this week.

A stalemate between county and state government resulted in the state hauling off two picnic tables, one shelter and litter barrels once provided at two wayside parks along U. S. 17-92 between Sanford and Lake County Development Director John Percy was amazed to learn today the state has removed the tables.

"You're kidding," he said. "Why did they have to pull them in. I thought it was a bluff by the Department of Transportation, (DOT)."

Percy went on to say, however, the DOT — like the county — has a budget to live with.

Percy said upkeep of the roadside parks seemed like a "logical function" of the DOT. But DOT officials say a state-wide policy requires the facilities be taken over by local agencies — or removed.

It appears the next to go are picnic tables at the boat ramp near the 14 bridge just north of Sanford.

In fact, the boat ramp itself —

Sellers said DOT offered to turn the three facilities over to the county, but the county wasn't interested.

Asst. Roger Neiswender says the problem was not that the county wasn't interested, but he said county officials decided they didn't want to assume the liability and maintenance problems which would accompany a takeover of facilities at the boat ramp.

Neiswender said the commission wanted a deed to the facility.

And Sellers said handing the deed over to the county was impossible because the facility is located on the state right of way.

Neiswender said the county doesn't want to spend money to repair the ramp then at some future date have the DOT take it back.

"It (the ramp) needs improvements," Neiswender noted.

He said the piers and launching areas are in a state of disrepair. Also, Neiswender said the pads underneath the concrete ramp may be "eroding."

Meanwhile, Sellers said the DOT does not have the necessary funds or personnel to maintain parks. Litter barrels, Sellers complained, were used by some persons as dumps for household garbage.

of a statewide DOT policy which hopes to get the department out of the recreation business.

He said a policy approved in January 1975, calls for the deletion or lease of all wayside parks not used exclusively by the traveling public. The department will continue to maintain rest areas on interstate highways and in some remote areas.

"We want the DOT to keep it," the chairman declared.

But District Roadway Engineer Jack Sellers said removal of the facilities is part of DOT's reasoning is simple: money. DOT officials say insufficient funds exist to maintain the parks and facilities like the boat ramp.

SHA Chairman Delays Calling Meeting

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) chairman Richard Evans says he's pulling two other members of the authority board to "determine their position" on calling a special meeting to consider demands that SHA executive director Thomas Wilson III be fired or suspended.

Evans said Wednesday that he will consult with board members Edward Blacksheere and D.C. McCoy before making a decision on a special board meeting.

SHA commissioners George W. Brown and Samuel Wright Jr. have requested a special board meeting to take up the complaints of tenants in the 400 low-rent, public housing units Wilson managed for nearly four years.

Brown, who is a tenant and was selected by tenants to represent them, and Wright say SHA by-laws require Evans to schedule the special meeting within two days after receiving their written request but Evans interprets the by-laws differently.

Evans said he's consulted three attorneys and that they agree with him. SHA attorney Ned Julian Jr. confirmed that he was one of the three attorneys consulted by Evans.

Evans says the by-laws, adopted in 1945, do require him to call a special board meeting upon written request, with purpose noted, from two board members.

Need For Coach Cost Me My Job: Oviedo Teacher

"I can't suddenly turn into a male football coach, but I do my share."
—Carol Edwards

OVIDEO TEACHER CAROL EDWARDS

By JEAN PATTESON
Herald Staff Writer

The line-up was academics vs. athletics. Both sides scored points, but the outcome is still uncertain.

Carol Edwards, a third-year teacher with top ratings at Oviedo High School, appeared before the Seminole County School Board Wednesday night to charge that she is being fired so that her position can be filled by an athletic coach.

The board members, at the recommendation of School Supt. William P. Lauer, said they would reserve comment until a grievance filed by Mrs. Edwards earlier this month reaches them for public hearing.

Mrs. Edwards said she was appearing before the board as a citizen, taxpayer, parent and educator, and that she would not speak on her specific grievance. "Are we in the business of academics or the business of athletics?" she asked the board.

recommending the renewal of Mrs. Edwards contract, was that he hoped to find a better qualified or more experienced teacher. He said he was considering a replacement whose recommendations were "very good" and who has a master's degree. Mrs. Edwards has been attending Florida Technological University at night during the past three years and expects to get her master's in August.

She said she is certified to teach both French and Spanish, as well as English, and had lived a year in France.

"Mr. Stone says I'm good in the classroom, but my extra-curricular participation is weak," said Mrs. Edwards. She said she had offered to coach both tennis and swimming, was co-sponsor of the school's largest club, the International Club, and that last summer she accompanied 247 students on a six-week tour to Europe. She is also assistant chairman of the language arts department.

Stone said that last year he had five teachers who were not on continuing contract; next year he will have only two teachers without tenure.

Teachers on annual contract volunteer to sponsor clubs and coach athletics, said Stone, but as soon as they get on continuing contract, they refuse to continue these volunteer efforts.

"In a small school this is always more of a problem," said Stone.

In a standing-room-only crowd, Mrs. Edwards was supported by more than 100 other teachers, students and parents during her presentation.

Mike Monaco, an Oviedo senior who has won a full scholarship to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, presented a petition signed by 364 students stating their opposition to a certified teacher being dismissed to hold a position open for a coach.

He and another senior, Erin Kane, presented the board with a resolution urging them to reverse Stone's decision.

Oviedo High biology teacher Judy Davis, who received a letter of dismissal identical to Mrs. Edwards', also appeared before the board. She said she was there to urge parents to challenge the criteria used by hire and fire teachers. "It's clearly not my qualifications which count," she said.

Oviedo Principal Keith Stone declined to comment during the meeting, but afterwards said Mrs. Edwards was in the wrong ball game. Although he said she is not being removed to make space for a coach, he commented Tuesday that if an applicant for her position could coach football, it would help the job.

Stone said his official reason for not

Local Officials Meeting Today With DEA Chief

Delegations from two Seminole law enforcement agencies flew to Washington today for meetings with federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) officials amid reports that local authorities are trying to scuttle the appointment of Carlo Boccia as new head of the Central Florida DEA task force.

Seminole County Sheriff John E. Polk and Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler, contacted before leaving the Orlando airport by commercial airliner, denied that they're seeking Boccia's removal from the position he is scheduled to take over about July 1.

Polk and Butler announced the trip following a meeting Wednesday afternoon at Sanford of representatives of nine local area enforcement agencies who still have agents working on the task force.

Brevard County Sheriff Leigh S. Wilson, Orange County Sheriff Melvin G. Colman and Orlando Police Chief James York have pulled out of the task force amid controversies surrounding the local DEA operation and its former chief, John Lepore, who has been transferred to duty at New Orleans.

Colman and York also were scheduled to meet today in Washington with DEA chief Peter Bensinger, but apparently after Bensinger meets with Polk and Butler.

A spokesman for Colman confirmed that Colman and York were to talk with Bensinger about Boccia, who now heads a DEA task force at Newark, N. J., and was involved two years ago in a

House Votes End To Mandatory Coverage

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida motorists probably will be required to buy a lot less auto insurance after the 1978 legislature finishes its work.

Apparently distrustful of claims and counterclaims by lawyers and insurance companies on which no-fault revisions are best, legislators seem to have decided that the way to reduce premiums is to cut the amount of insurance a motorist must buy.

The House voted Wednesday to abolish all compulsory auto insurance in Florida and return to the system used before no-fault was passed in 1971.

The vote brought praise from trial lawyers and screams from insurance companies that rates would go up.

Rep. Charles Papp, D-Coral Gables, said his amendment would provide up to 30 per cent savings in insurance premiums by allowing motorists to drop "what we consider unnecessary coverage."

The House's surprising vote almost certainly will not stand when a House-Senate conference panel compromises differences in the two chamber's bills.

Even the plan's sponsor, Rep. Charles Papp, D-Coral Gables, concedes that.

"What I'm trying to get across is that some people are too poor to buy all the luxuries" of insurance required by the no-fault law, Papp said.

He said he just wanted the House in a strong bargaining position and a number of other legislators said that's why they voted with Papp.

TREE PLANTED AT COURTHOUSE

In order to help celebrate the American Bicentennial, the McDonald's Corp., is sponsoring a nationwide beautification program entitled "McDonald's Trees for America." As part of that program, an eight-foot live oak tree was planted Wednesday at the Seminole County Courthouse. On hand for the tree planting were from left Bill Bell of the Division of Forestry, Ernie Herrell of the Seminole County Action 78 Steering Committee, County Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway, Urban Forester Jim Harrell and McDonald's representative Dick Oswald. ## No-Fault Automobile Insurance Might Be On Its Way Out

The Senate bill seeks to lower rates by making suits more difficult.

But Senate President Dempsey, D-Panama City, who will play the major role in deciding what the Senate will accept, said, "That's the concept I favored all along since it tends to reduce the price of the product for the poor."

However, he said Florida needs more insurance laws than provided in Papp's one-paragraph change, and the House was expected to add some of those provisions on its own.

In addition, Insurance Commissioner Philip Ashler's plan calls for drastic cuts in the amount of required coverage.

Papp's amendment returns to the pre-1971 plan of requiring a motorist in an accident to show financial responsibility of $10,000 per person injured, $20,000 per accident and $5,000 property damage, allowing suits for damages anytime.

Barron said he had been trying for a year to reduce the required coverage from the present $15,000-$30,000 to $10,000-$20,000.

But one of the concerns of Barron and the House was how to cut costs for motorists who want to continue carrying the same amount of protection.

"This is a man buy what he wants," Papp said. "Everybody knows porthouse and fillet mignon are better than hamburger, but government is saying you have to eat porthouse steak and if you can't afford it, you don't eat anything."

NATION IN BRIEF

Social Security Program Could Go Broke By 1981

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has no intention of letting the government default on Social Security payments, lawmakers studying the system's financial problems insist. Three members of the House-Senate Economic Committee made the comments Wednesday after Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell testified that a fund to cover deficits in the program could go broke as early as 1981. The fund now stands at about $44 billion, but is being steadily eroded because Social Security pays out more than it receives.

Hays Friends Collect Data

WASHINGTON (AP) — Friends and supporters of Rep. Wayne L. Hays are collecting evidence that they say shows Elizabeth Hays was a competent office worker who performed clerical and secretarial duties for her $14,000 congressional salary. Miss Hays was removed earlier this week from her job as a clerk for the House Administration Committee after she said she earned her salary by serving as Hays' mistress. Hays has admitted a relationship with her, but he denied that she was paid by public funds only to satisfy his sexual desires.

Affair With FDR Told

NEW YORK (AP) — President Franklin D. Roosevelt and New York newspaper heiress Dorothy Schiff had a seven-year relationship from 1938 until 1943, according to a biography of Mrs. Schiff scheduled for publication in the fall. The book quotes Mrs. Schiff, publisher of the New York Post, as saying FDR was "in a rather sweet way ... fairly bold," that he "was looking for a turn-on," and that he "probably saw me as a sex object," said John J. Geoghegan, whose firm, Coward, McCann & Geoghegan, will publish the book in October. A spokesman for Mrs. Schiff said the 73-year-old newspaper publisher "did not ever have and has never claimed to have had a romance or an affair with the late President Franklin Delano Roosevelt."

Cadet Cheating To Be Probed

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Officials at the U.S. Military Academy say the entire junior class of cadets will be held over on the spot for an investigation into charges of massive cheating. The academy's statement issued Wednesday did not say how long after normal summer departure the cadets would be held. But a spokesman said it probably would be for about a week or 10 days beyond graduation day, June 2. Four hundred juniors were scheduled to remain at West Point anyway, for the customary training program for incoming plebes. The other 600 will be delayed in reporting to other army posts for various summer training activities.

Meat Contains Bone Bits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some consumers probably have been getting finely ground bits of bones in their hot dogs for more than a year and haven't even realized it, Agriculture Department officials say. The practice involves the use of machines which grind up neck bones, ribs and other hard-to-see bones from cattle and hog carcasses cut up by food processors. Under pressure, the mixture is forced through sieves which separate most of the bone from the squashed meat.

Polk said representatives of the Seminole and Lake County Sheriff's Departments and police departments at Sanford, Winter Park, Kissimmee, Melbourne, Cocoa, Cocoa Beach and Titusville agreed at Wednesday's meeting that they want operation of the Central Florida DEA task force to continue. Polk said publicity in the news media about Boccia, Lepore and task force operations "has been blown way out of proportion."

Joint Tenant Council representatives picketed the SHA offices on West 19th Street last week after delivering a resolution with 15 complaints against Wilson and seeking his ouster to the SHA board members.

(Continued From Page 1-A) St. Johns Water Management District Executive Director Dennis Auth has been given a new lease on life. His controversial firing was reopened this week when the Florida State's Natural Resources Committee refused to concur in John Dicks' resignation as a member of the district governing board. Dicks, who called the swing vote when Auth was fired by a 4 to 3 vote at the governing board's April meeting, was re-elected by the board in a move that the district in mid-1975. In a May 3 letter to Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, board member Francis Knapp of DeLand asked if Dicks was legally qualified as a voting member of the board because he had moved from Jacksonville into a mobile home in Roddick, which Dicks describes as a temporary summer residence. Dicks' Roddick home is 1.5 miles west of the district boundary, according to a district planner.

Refinance Plan Rejected By City

(Continued From Page 1-A) Nathan Van Meter said today he and his colleagues on the governing body agreed that a refinancing program at this time would not have been in the best interests of the customers of the city, Van Meter said. Van Meter said the city council agreed, however, that the door was not being closed to the possibility of a refinancing program at a future time if market conditions change. He said that the city had agreed to a 90-day exclusive arrangement to determine if a method of financing could be found that would permit the city to cut costs to the consumer.

Money, Pistol Stolen

Sanford police today were investigating a daylight burglary on Wednesday at the home of Sanford City Manager Warren E. Knowles in which money and a pistol were stolen. Knowles reported that his residence at 2015 Lily Court was broken into sometime between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m., police said. Investigating officers said the burglar pried open a window to a storage area and then forced open a locked door to enter the house. The residence was ransacked and $20 in coins and currency taken, police said, plus a $200 stainless steel snub-nose revolver in a custom-made black holster embossed with Knowles' initials.

Community Affairs Funds Slashed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — An appropriations conference committee is unmoored by protests that cuts in the Department of Community Affairs will wreck housing support, local government aid and other programs. A subcommittee approved the drastic budget slashes Wednesday, as another panel compromised differences between the House and Senate in 1976-77 prison construction. Still facing panel members were decisions on such major issues as education, welfare and law enforcement. But House Appropriations Chairman Edmund Fortney, D-Pace, said he remained confident the committee will reach agreement by Friday. Community Affairs would lose 80 of 206 positions under the

Report May Stir JFK Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A temporary intelligence committee report is expected to rekindle, not settle, the controversy surrounding the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., said Wednesday the report would "raise some very serious questions ... about the relationship of the CIA and FBI to the Kennedy assassination." But Schweiker conceded, "we may raise more questions than answers."

Mrs. Johnson held the suspect at bay with a butcher knife until Sheriff's deputies arrived after she found him under her bed. ## Jacksonville Dangerous For Flying: House Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Jacksonville area faces a serious potential for aerial collisions between military and civilian airplanes, according to a report issued by the House Government Operations Committee. The report Wednesday said high-performance military jets occasionally spill out of "warning areas" used for combat training exercises onto civilian air routes used by scheduled passenger airplanes. And it said passenger aircraft sometimes intrude into the warning areas.

Code Needed For Companies

Because corporations have become such a central feature of our society, it is imperative that they maintained the highest standards of ethical conduct for their employees.

The Securities Exchange Commission, after a two-year investigation of illegal political contributions and bribe payments by U. S. corporations at home and abroad, has recommended what must be a minimum program of reform.

Although most corporations have been untouched by the recent series of disclosures, enough of them have admitted involvement in corruption to cause serious concern.

The revelations stem from the Watergate scandal and show that it was not only the president's men in the White House who had lost their ethical compass.

The corporation as it has developed in this century has become an essential component of our economic system, supplying most of the dynamic force for technological and material progress.

But the drive for profits, increased dividends, and economic growth for the corporation must never obscure the basic moral responsibilities of the individuals who compose it.

Corporations are immoral, if they achieve economic success. They have no souls, even though they are treated as persons under the law. They have limited liability, both financial and moral.

But the persons who serve corporations must be required to account for their actions to a higher court than their stockholders' meeting.

The SEC recommendations would make it illegal to falsify company books and records, or to furnish false information to an accountant, or to fail to establish internal controls so that money is spent without management's specific authorization.

The disclosure requirements are basic. Few of the questionable payments would have occurred if those who made them had known they would become public.

Congress and the President should enact the SEC recommendations.

Time To Deregulate

President Ford is asking Congress to commit itself to a four-year program of doing away with needless government regulations. He has sketched out a timetable for tackling the job one step at a time, starting in 1977 with a review of regulations covering the transportation and agricultural industries, and winding up in 1980 with regulations covering communications, finance, insurance and service industries.

Meanwhile, a federal version of the Sunset law recently adopted in Colorado and being considered in Florida and other states is beginning to move through Congress with bipartisan support. This bill would abolish almost all federal agencies every few years unless Congress specifically votes to keep them in existence.

Mr. Ford wants Congress to act by a measure that would establish deadlines in the 1977-80 period for congressional action on his department-by-department deregulation plan. That proposal and the federal Sunset law are giving Congress a golden opportunity to show that the "big government" issue which is occupying candidates on the political hustings this year is being taken seriously in Washington.

Big government and nuisance-level bureaucracy are not really new as subjects for campaign oratory. What seems to be new this year is a public feeling that it is time to stop talking about it and do something. We're waiting.

Where should the emphasis be placed in Seminole County's school system — on brain or brawn?

An Oviedo High School French and Spanish teacher feels the emphasis should be placed on brain. That's one of the reasons Carol Edwards took her case to the public in addition to the normal grievance procedure provided Seminole County teachers.

Though her performance evaluations show only top ratings, Mrs. Edwards charges Oviedo High Principal Keith Stone declined to ask her back to teach a fourth year because he needs to hire someone to coach athletics.

Stone says the concept, per se, of eliminating her is not true, but he also is quoted as saying he may need to fill a vacancy with a coach.

Well, athletics has its place, but I think any principal who would fire a teacher with Mrs. Edwards' qualifications needs to have his tenure examined (no pun intended).

The dilemma, as always, is money. While the state continues to cut back on education funding, local school systems have to scrape up funds somewhere to pay teachers, and, of course — coaches.

If it comes down to choice between a coach and a teacher in an academic field, I'd choose the teacher and let the coach go. As important as development of the body is, it's even more important and vital to mold young minds.

I'm sure Stone wishes he had sufficient funds to staff the school as needed. Probably, he's also under pressure from the community to come up with winning football and basketball teams.

Sports occupy an important niche in American culture, but it shouldn't be required to maintain that niche at the expense of academic courses.

Administrative functions while facilities and basic rehabilitation programs go begging. It would take only a short course in basic attitudes, and volunteer teachers by the hundreds could be found among the Yawards and will work toward rehabilitating even one youth. But, as it was pointed out, the origination of county funding for this, as well as several other programs with valid and worthwhile functions, were NOT to be seed programs. It has turned out to be just that.

Of all the charitable request made upon the people for all the worthwhile endeavors, it would behoove us to fund such programs on a local basis wherein the dollar expended would return interest uncountable in our own society, but to continue to ask the taxpayer to fund programs that are not his or her own dollars (by way of Washington or Tallahassee) only scrapes the ice from the surface. Millions of dollars are now being spent by an inefficient, non-co-operative, psychologically geared department. Division Youth Services whose dismal failure has created the need for just such programs as Youth Services Inc., Sky King Ranch, the Grove School, the Boys and Girls Sheriff Ranches and on and on. It would be a worthwhile project for any newswoman or woman to originate an investigation of the top heavy expenditures of this Department.

But one has to wonder just how much Sen. Goldwater knows about Senate Resolution 97, which he has sponsored along with 36 other Senators. Because this resolution specifically labels the Ford Administration's negotiating position on the Canal as constituting "a clear and present danger to the hemispheric security and successful operation of the Canal and I will keep my name on it because I'm not going to see the Canal precipitously given away."

Now, "Meet the Press." On May 2, Sen. Goldwater was asked whose position he agreed with on the Canal, President Ford's or Ronald Reagan's? He replied: "I have to support Ford's position on it, and I think Reagan would too if he knew more about it."

Thus, one cannot simultaneously support President Ford on the Panama Canal while at the same time favoring Senate Resolution 97.

— Everybody has a Constitutional right to criticize America, but there is something especially nauseating about those who put down the system under which they have prospered so well.

Driving home the other day, I heard actress Shirley MacLaine on the radio denouncing capitalism as a "poisonous" and an "exploitive" system. She said it is impossible to be both a feminist and a capitalist. Fine.

Not only do they wish to trade with us, they said the Los Angeles lawyer, who since 1972 has made eight extensive trips to China, where he maintains top level contacts with trade officials, but he said that her officials, but he said, in the past two years he and other China authorities have observed that the United States has shown official interest in the subject, and in fact, with much of the Far East area.

Meanwhile, he said, other nations are eager to develop trade with that country and have been actively seeking to enlarge their ties. "Only the United States is hanging back," he said in an interview.

"In this year of almost anything but Asia," our State Department does not indicate any particular interest in China, he said, broadening his reference to include any kind of influence in the area.

He blamed "the top echelon of the State Department" for ignoring what he said was China's desire not only to develop trade with the United States but also to develop closer ties in general with this country and Japan.

House, son of missionaries, lived in China through World War II, when he joined U.S. Navy intelligence forces there. Bilingual and bicultural, he helped brief President Richard M. Nixon for his visit to China in 1972.

Sometimes, he said, the Chinese wonder if their messages get through, although he conceded that some Chinese communications appear to have been sent through unofficial rather than established channels.

"There is a terrible lack of communication," he said. "I contend it is one thing if we study the situation and then decide not to trade," but he said it was inexcusable to default, politically and commercially, because of disinterest.

House nevertheless maintains that U.S. trade with the People's Republic, which amounted to $49 million in 1975, will grow rapidly and enormously, reaching $5 billion by 1980 and much more than that by the middle of that decade.

This he said is because the Chinese, for economic and security reasons, are eager to industrialize, and many nations and individual U.S. companies are just as eager to provide them with the technology needed to begin development.

Several negotiating teams from the United States are involved in prolonged talks with the Chinese, he said, noting that a U.S. team of steel and oil construction executives currently was in China.

Don Oakley Excessive Regulation Is Costly

By ED PRICKETT

Federal regulation — overregulation, that is — has been blamed for everything from inflation to enervation, from high costs of shipping or airline travel to low levels of industrial productivity or television entertainment.

Earle B. Barnes, executive vice president of Dow Chemical Co., charges that "the business community has long been guilty of losing its freedom by the cowardly act of compromise when they knew a regulatory bill was totally onerous from the beginning." He calls for businessmen to be more aggressive in defending themselves against unrealistic or unnecessary federal regulation.

But when does federal regulation become unrealistic or unnecessary? Equally as strong sentiments have been voiced on the other side.

For example, a plan to reduce the Interstate Commerce Commission's control over the nation's transportation would "plunge the trucking industry into chaotic rate wars and drastically reduce the number of firms in the business," warns Lee R. Sollenberger, chairman of the American Trucking Association.

"Airline deregulation will lead to chaos and higher costs rather than improving the existing system," said Charles C. Tillinghast Jr., chairman and president of TWA.

These two industries, however, seem to be exceptions to the current anti-regulatory mood shared by most businessmen as well as the general public. According to Sen. Charles Percy, regulatory reform is one of the critical issues confronting the 94th Congress, and although not as glamorous as some other issues, in many respects it is far more important and its consequences for the nation are likely to be greater.

Excessive regulation, says the Illinois Republican, has an annual cost in excess of $60 billion. The government's multitudinous agencies — SEC, FTC, CAB, EPA, etc. — constitute "a complex alphabet soup whose effect is piled at best and at worst fuels inflation, stifles competition and produces mountains of paperwork and red tape."

Percy, together with Assistant Majority Leader Robert Dwyer, D-W. Va., has introduced the Regulatory Reform Act of 1976. Briefly, the bill would require the President to submit to Congress by March 31 of each year, from 1977 through 1981, comprehensive plans for reforming regulation in specific areas of the economy. No later than September 15 of each year, the appropriate congressional committees would be mandated either to report out the President's original proposals or their own comprehensive reform bills.

WASHINGTON — In the cluttered, overcrowded office of Rep. Andrew Hinshaw, R-Calif., there is a sign that sums up his philosophy: "Why worry about tomorrow? We may not make it through today."

Andy Hinshaw, a short, assertive, Napoleonic man with large wide-tipped glasses, has reason to be fatalistic. Although he keeps a game politician's smile on his round face, as befits a congressman running for re-election, he knows worse days are ahead.

The California conservative, who was elected to office in 1972 with a personal push from Richard Nixon, has been convicted on two bribery counts. A second trial, on conspiracy charges, is pending.

The House Ethics Committee, so loath to look into the ethics of congressmen, has found nothing unethical about Hinshaw's crimes. The same committee has delicately avoided passing judgment on him, contending that the charges go back to his days as Orange County assessor.

But we are always happy to help the Ethics Committee make a case against an errant congressman. We have dug up evidence of unethical conduct by Hinshaw since he came to Congress. Here are our findings:

— Hinshaw put through government raises for staff aides who, in turn, contributed to his legal defense fund. Two top aides in his district, Chop Cleary and Geraldine Ford, conceded that they had contributed.

— Hinshaw prides himself on a "Watchdog of the Treasury" award presented to him by businessmen. Yet he put his office manager, Joan Smith, on the payroll for $22,000 a year, although she often doesn't show up for work. He is also paying her daughter out of the taxpayers' funds. Ms. Smith told us that Hinshaw kept her from the office and that she was not favored because of her close personal relationship with the divorced Hinshaw.

— Most outrageous of all, Hinshaw has used his membership on the House Post Office Committee to squeeze information helpful to his legal defense out of the Post Office and the FBI.

He used his congressional power, for example, to compel the Post Office to send the committee a 14-page breakdown of all mail covers requested by California authorities from 1968 through 1975. This happens to include the period when the state was investigating him.

Hinshaw would like to prove that his mail was tampered with, which would give him legal grounds to overturn his conviction. Thus the data he requested from the Post Office could have been vital to him.

Our study of the committee transcripts also shows that Hinshaw used his right to cross-examine witnesses to discover whether his mail had ever been opened.

On October 1, he asked James Adams, assistant to FBI chief Clarence Kelley: "Now, would you personally be in a position to know whether or not there would be a type of do-not-file system for mail openings or mail covers or mail surveys on prominent government officials?"

Adams tried to assure Hinshaw that his mail had not been tampered with. Hinshaw then tried another approach and pressed him for names of all those who had ordered mail covers for him.

Still not satisfied, Hinshaw demanded related information three more times when the committee questioned Adams and Deputy Attorney General Richard Thornburgh behind closed doors.

On November 5, Hinshaw used his congressional clout again to seek information which might have helped his trial, then only two months away. On this occasion, the witness was the chief postal inspector, Neil Benson.

"Can you tell me," inquired Hinshaw, "what the actual procedures are . . . if a local district attorney, for example, were to ask for a mail cover?"

Benson did his best to give straight answers, but Hinshaw buzz-sawed him with continued

John D. Lofton Jr. Goldwater Letter Confusing

By ED PRICKETT

WASHINGTON — A private letter from Barry Goldwater to actor John Wayne makes the Senator's attacks on Ronald Reagan's position on the Panama Canal—that it is ours and we should not surrender it— even more puzzling and confusing.

In response to an inquiry from "The Duke" asking just exactly where he does stand on the Canal, Goldwater has replied that he is still a sponsor of Senate Resolution 97 which he says we should not surrender it— even more puzzling and confusing.

Now, "Meet the Press." On May 2, Sen. Goldwater was asked whose position he agreed with on the Canal, President Ford's or Ronald Reagan's? He replied: "I have to support Ford's position on it, and I think Reagan would too if he knew more about it."

By Union Organizers Strong-Arm Tactics Used All Too Often

EDITOR'S NOTE: With increasing frequency, union organizers are turning to strong-arm tactics to enforce their demand that everyone join a union in order to work. This article, the first of three parts, takes a closer look at the problem, and its causes.

By HERBERT BERKOWITZ

It's hard to locate Sammy Kirkland these days. He doesn't answer his mail. He spends much of his time on a hog farm, away from his home in Ft. Myers, away from everyone.

He's been trying to keep a low profile ever since the union mob nearly killed him, breaking three ribs in the process, temporarily blinding him, threatening to cut off his arms, and hanging him in the most vicious fashion imaginable.

Unfortunately, what happened to Sammy Kirkland four years ago in Florida is not an isolated incident. Beatings, bombings, shootings, threats—sudden and so-subtle—have become a standard organizing tool for many union officials who, after exhausting more conventional ways, apparently have resorted to descending on several trucks upon Kirkland and his co-workers, including a plainclothes detective who was working undercover.

... Man trying to eke out a living operating a backhoe, and this large group of men descended on him and hurt him immeasurably.

... They were bent on evil . . . bent on hurting and killing me. . . .

... In January, a Lake Charles, La., construction site was invaded by a gun-toting mob, several members of a "renegade" union were shot, one killed and the site torn apart. Several men, including Donald Lovett, business manager for the Southwest Louisiana Building and Construction Trades Council, AFL-CIO, William Carl Cook Sr., AFL-CIO, and Harlan Duhan, a member of the Louisiana AFL-CIO executive board, have been indicted and charged with a variety of crimes, including manslaughter and first degree murder.

... In New York, Pennsylvania, Missouri, New Jersey, Delaware, Michigan, Virginia, Florida, Colorado, Louisiana—in state after state, sometimes on a grand, swashbuckling scale, sometimes on a lesser scale, attacks on workers who for one reason or another refuse to join unions, and attacks on employers who refuse to force their employees into unwanted unions.

... The right to walk streets and pursue one's occupation that Judge Balaban so movingly addressed, is just so claptrap to many union bosses. To them, you either join (if you can), or else.

WORLD IN BRIEF

U.N. Peace-Keeping Forces To Remain On Golan Heights

DIAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim announced today that U.N. Peace-Keeping Forces have agreed to extend the life of the United Nations peace force on the Golan Heights for another six months without any political conditions.

Israel announced last week that it would agree to an extension of the mandate of the 1,344-man U.N. Disengagement Observer Force. But it said it would oppose any Syrian attempt to attach political conditions.

The mandate expires at the end of the month. As its price for the extension six months ago, Syria got a Security Council debate on the Arab-Israeli situation with the Palestine Liberation Organization participating. But relations between Syria and the PLO have cooled since then because of Assad's intervention in the Lebanese civil war.

Sports occupy an important niche in American culture, but it shouldn't be required to maintain that niche at the expense of academic courses.

OPEC Meets In Bali

Yamani said OPEC's present base price should be maintained "until the end of the year."

"We oppose any increase in price, and we have a very strong position on that," Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani told newsmen at the opening of a three-day meeting of the 13-nation Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Yamani said OPEC's present base price should be maintained "until the end of the year."

Beirut Fighting Continues

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians and Moslems battled at close range early today for control of the eastern Beirut suburb of Assaf's village.

A police spokesman said the warring militiamen fought floor-to-floor battles with hand grenades.

A heavy Moslem rocket barrage set the eight-story, Christian-controlled Assaf village ablaze on the eastern edge of the harbor, police said. They reported that 20 men moved in under cover of the barrage, blew open the safe deposit vault of the National Bank of Paris in the building, and began emptying the 300 safe deposit boxes.

China Wants Trade With U.S., Others

By JOHN CUNIFF

WASHINGTON — China's campaign against "capitalist roaders" has misled many Americans into believing that the People's Republic isn't interested in expanding trade with the United States, a China authority asserts.

The opposite is true, said Harned Pettus House, a China-born trade negotiator who already has been involved in several deals with the Chinese as a representative of U.S. corporations.

Not only do they wish to trade with us, they said the Los Angeles lawyer, who since 1972 has made eight extensive trips to China, where he maintains top level contacts with trade officials, but he said that her officials, but he said, in the past two years he and other China authorities have observed that the United States has shown official interest in the subject, and in fact, with much of the Far East area.

Meanwhile, he said, other nations are eager to develop trade with that country and have been actively seeking to enlarge their ties. "Only the United States is hanging back," he said in an interview.

"In this year of almost anything but Asia," our State Department does not indicate any particular interest in China, he said, broadening his reference to include any kind of influence in the area.

He blamed "the top echelon of the State Department" for ignoring what he said was China's desire not only to develop trade with the United States but also to develop closer ties in general with this country and Japan.

House, son of missionaries, lived in China through World War II, when he joined U.S. Navy intelligence forces there. Bilingual and bicultural, he helped brief President Richard M. Nixon for his visit to China in 1972.

Sometimes, he said, the Chinese wonder if their messages get through, although he conceded that some Chinese communications appear to have been sent through unofficial rather than established channels.

"There is a terrible lack of communication," he said. "I contend it is one thing if we study the situation and then decide not to trade," but he said it was inexcusable to default, politically and commercially, because of disinterest.

House nevertheless maintains that U.S. trade with the People's Republic, which amounted to $49 million in 1975, will grow rapidly and enormously, reaching $5 billion by 1980 and much more than that by the middle of that decade.

This he said is because the Chinese, for economic and security reasons, are eager to industrialize, and many nations and individual U.S. companies are just as eager to provide them with the technology needed to begin development.

Several negotiating teams from the United States are involved in prolonged talks with the Chinese, he said, noting that a U.S. team of steel and oil construction executives currently was in China.

Six Teams At Lake Brantley Friday Oviedo Tests Veer Offense In Jamboree

OVIEDO—Oviedo High School's football team, smaller than any other school it will face this fall, brings an element of excitement to open the jamboree at Lake Brantley Friday night.

Oviedo gets the ball rolling in the first quarter against Lake Howell. The Lions face Bishop Moore in the second stanza. Lake Howell meets Bishop Moore in the third and host Brantley faces Seminole in the fourth. Seminole and Lyman tangle in the fifth, with Lyman going up against Brantley in the finale.

Kickoff is 7:30 p.m. The jamboree will be preceded by a chicken barbecue at $1.75 per plate. Tickets are on sale at each school for the game.

In his second year at the Oviedo helm, head football coach Bill Klein has introduced the Houston Veer for spring football with a total read offense.

The true Veer Klein is running is a high risk offense because the quarterback does not exercise his options until the defensive man he is "reading" is totally committed and contact is imminent. The risk of course is that the quarterback will be hit so quickly that his pitch-outs may be erratic and result in turnovers.

The formation is effective and exciting because every play is planned ahead of the play and the actual execution is based on reactions from the defense. In effect, the ofense takes advantage of a reaction by the defense at the time the weakness is happening.

Klein is happy with his experiment so far this spring and is enthused over the attitudes of the players. "We don't have the size and speed we'll be facing next year, so we have to equalize the game with finesse," Klein asserted. "It will be a read offense on everything."

Oviedo will also be passing team this year and Klein says he has the best receiver in the area in returning veteran split end Rick Evans, 6-1, 165. "He's the best I've ever coached," Klein said with no reservation whatsoever in his voice. "He's coming off a great season. He only dropped one pass all last year. He has tremendous hands and good moves. He's one eyelash, one step away from being a real blue chip and he'll gain that by next year. He'll be a senior and our leader."

Oviedo ran out of the formation last year and just did not have the manpower for power running and blocking. As for the Veer, Klein says, "I believe in the offense, but we've got to have the people to make it work. To make the offense work we must be disciplined. Everything we do must be disciplined. To overcome our size and speed deficiencies we must act as a unit, we must take advantage of mistakes on offense and we must contain on defense. Every man must do his job. Our greatest job as a coach, is not to get them one-on-one with our opposition."

Klein was quick to point out that he was happy with his spring so far even with the challenge. "We play four teams that are gigantic," he said referring to Lake Brantley (AAAA) Sanford Seminole (AAAA), Titusville Astronaut (AAA) and New Smyrna Beach (AAA). "We only play one team about our size, Bishop Moore, and they are allowed to recruit," Klein said.

A good running, passing and alert quarterback is an absolute must for a successful Veer offense and Klein is pleased with the performance of young Mike Cox (5-10 and 145) this spring. "He's improved more than we've got a right to expect," Klein said. Still in competition for quarterback but backing up Cox at this juncture is Rick Nash (5-8 and 135). Besides great progress at reading keys for the Veer, Cox is more than adequate at the short pop pass to Evans.

The coming edition of the Lions will have five seniors on offense and as many seniors on defense trying to improve last year's 3-7 record.

Tight end will be senior Morris Hodges, 6-3 and 175. He was a defensive starter last year and will play both ways for the jamboree. Tackles will be David Coughlin (195) who started last year and will go both ways; and Chip Johnson (185) who was a defensive starter last year. Soph Jack Procell (170) will start next season at guard while Will Carter (160) a junior who played some defense last year will hold down the other side, Greg Kerr (190) is returning starting center.

Oviedo has four running backs that Klein is pleased with. Rick Wark (145) will be the senior starter. He alternated at split end last season. Dennis Cone (160) will be a junior and the other running back. "Cone has a chance of being a good back," Klein said.

Relegated to second string status by virtue of last Friday night's practice games but still very much in the running are Bob Johnson (155) a hard running sophomore and Todd Ferguson (155) a tough senior. At wingback will be Skip Sauter, the "mighty mite" of the team (5-7 and 135). "He'll hit with anybody," Klein said. "Last year he was our starting rover and he won't be a sophomore until next season."

"We've had a good spring," Klein smiled. "We have a real good attitude. We have learned the Veer very well for 15 practices. The kids have responded well. We've worked hard. Yes... a good spring." Klein looked and acted confident.

Seaboard, Eldridge, SCC Chalk Up Wins

Things came easily for Metro League slow-pitch softball teams Seaboard Coast Line and Eldridge Standard last night, but nothing compared to Seminole Community College Faculty's win via forfeit over Atlantic.

Seaboard's consolation in having to play was plenty of batting practice in a 21-6 triumph over the Patrick Patriots. Meanwhile, Eldridge Standard was taking 12-6 measure of Lake Monroe Inn.

Seaboard's hitting was well distributed, with Joe Benton getting the only home run and Rico Peterson and Buddy Stump getting three each. Benton, Steve Cooper, Glen Robinson and Dave Richards had two hits apiece.

Ed Jackson rocked Seaboard pitcher Dave Hudick for two home runs while teammate Bernard Hudley added one. Fred Washington batted out two doubles and a single.

Ali-Inoki Rules Set

TOKYO (AP) — The June 26 match between world heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali and pro wrestler Antonio Inoki will give rise to a new sport: trying to understand the rules of their contest.

One rule says that the referee may separate the pair only if they get tangled in the ropes.

If a contestant is thrown out of the ring, he has 20 seconds' return before being counted out. But a man also would be beaten if his shoulders are pinned to the mat for a count of three, if he is knocked out for a count of 10, or when his corner concedes he is hurt too badly to continue.

Danny Lee has play turned on him at third; Eldridge fielder Gary Belcher makes pivot. (Herald photo by Tom Vincent)

Indy Winner Relagated To Trivia In 50 Years?

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — If history repeats itself, the winner of Sunday's Indianapolis 500 will be remembered by the public 50 years from now as little more than the answer to a trivia question.

Time holds back for no one. Not the rich, or famous or athletes.

lletically gifted. Not for George Souders.

The 75-year-old Souders, who won Indy in 1927, has been the victim of a racing accident, a fire and a stroke. Yet he retains his good spirits.

"I haven't got very much news now," says Souders. "But my credit is still pretty good."

The last few years, however, have been less happy ones.

A fire swept through his trailer in Lafayette, Ind., a few years ago, destroying virtually everything he owned, including medals and trophies from his racing days.

But Souders insists he didn't need the hardware to remind him of his past triumphs.

"I didn't have much of that stuff left anyway," he said. "You lose 'em, they steal 'em and everything else."

The memory of the 1927 race is still vivid in his mind.

"I started in the 22nd position. I was ninth after 90 miles. I made my first gas stop at 200 miles. I was in the lead before I had to take a second gas stop 200 miles later. By that time, I was far enough ahead of my lap and have three of my tires changed. I finished 17-30 miles ahead."

Souders says the fame that has escaped him is of little concern.

"I never paid any attention to that end of it. I don't care anything about that," he said, adding hopefully, "if they're sports fans, they don't forget that sort of thing overnight."

Yet they have forgotten. According to one of his friends, Souders is "just a fustler, a plain, ordinary fustler."

Will the winner of this year's race be remembered as anything but a plain and ordinary 50 years from now?

Celts Hope Pinned On Iron-Man JoJo

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's Jo Jo White is the "iron-man" in the National Basketball Association, and in this season's playoffs he has shown no signs of bending. In fact, he has only gotten stronger.

White, whose 362 consecutive regular-season games represent the longest streak among active players in the league, was Boston's second leading scorer with an 18.9 average as the Celtics romped to their fifth consecutive Atlantic Division title. He is No. 1, averaging 21.1 points a game.

White, whose title bid (he is 6-foot-3 and 190 pounds), believes his iron-man role, was a key player both offensively and defensively last Sunday when the Celtics beat the Phoenix Suns 98-87 in the opener of their best-of-seven, nationally televised NBA championship series. He scored 22 points, including 20 in the second half and 12 straight for the Celtics in the fourth quarter, while holding former teammate Paul Westphal to a mere eight points.

White's assignments will be the same tonight, when the teams meet in Game Two at Boston Garden, before heading for Phoenix and Games Three and Four.

Souders says the fame that has escaped him is of little concern.

"I never paid any attention to that end of it. I don't care anything about that," he said, adding hopefully, "if they're sports fans, they don't forget that sort of thing overnight."

Yet they have forgotten. According to one of his friends, Souders is "just a fustler, a plain, ordinary fustler."

Baseball Fills Holiday Weekend

A weekend of baseball is planned at Sanford Memorial Stadium with a Memorial Day Weekend tournament planned Saturday and Monday featuring the Sanford Giants, Oviedo Black Hawks, Winter Park and Orlando Athletics.

Sunday's action will be a Sunday game at 9 o'clock between the Sanford All-Stars and Dunellon. The All-Stars, 4-4, lost to the Giants last week-end, 3-2. They then came back to register a 6-1 win over Winter Park. Bernard Bady pitched a no-hitter with 13 strikeouts. The All-Stars play at Avon Park Saturday.

Kevin Clark forced at home; Chase's Scott Richardson looks to field.

Railroaders Maintain Unbeaten Streak Prosser, Federal, Elks Also Post LL Victories

It was another day for the powerhouse Wednesday at the Sanford Little League as Railroaders, the only remaining undefeated team, rallied to elude its National League-leading record to 13-0.

Jack Prosser Ford roared back to life in the Continental League after two straight defeats, slugger Apex Produce, 12-1, and climbing to an 11-3 mark. Elks, the Junior League's first-half titleholder, turned back Moose, 6-4, to its initial decision of the second half.

Elsewhere, First Federal nudged over Seminole Sporting Goods, 4-3, in a Continental League upset and Stromberg-Carlson held off United Transportation Union, 10-4, to up its NL slate to 7-4.

Jim Miller snatched the spotlight for Railroaders, hurling a three-hitter and pacing the offense with a double and a single. Miller fanned 10 and was backed by a 2-for-3 performance from Fred Howard, who fired a no-hitter in his club's last outing.

Eugene Rogers stroked a pair of singles for Chase & Co. Prosser Ford returned to safer ground in the CI after his back-to-back stumbles and George's recent 8-5 victory over U.T.U. — sparked by Tony Little's two home runs — had shaved the Car Dealer's lead to a game and a half.

Darrell Shuler powered a home run and two singles for Prosser to log the top batting effort of the day, followed by Kelly Denton's round-tripper and single in two trips. Bill Adams tossed a three-hit, smothering Apex from the first inning on.

Moose had Elks down twice, 2-1 and 4-3, before the first-half champs pulled out the triumph with a pair of fifth-inning scores. Mike Link saved the day for the winners, relieving Bill Coogrove in the fourth and blanking Moose the rest of the way.

At the plate, Link drilled a triple and a single to drive in two runs. Dan Kinard also slashed a brace of hits for Elks, while Bruce Annett clubbed a triple for the losers.

First Federal picked up a total of 15 batters. Anthony Beveritt rapped a single and a double for the winners while Rick Chesser collected a double and single for Seminole Sporting Goods.

Stromberg-Carlson chalked up its second decision in two days, piling up a 10-1 lead behind Bernard Merlie's fourth pitching and 2-for-3 batting. U.T.U. constructed a comeback rally around six walks, four errors and Lenford Sutton's grand-slam home run, but it fell slightly short.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Friday, May 28, 1974
Aries (March 21-April 19) This should be an active day with some pleasant surprises. You may even meet someone who has a bright, new idea for you.
Taurus (April 20-May 20) There are excellent opportunities for profit around you today. Ask the top price for anything you're selling, or for your services.
Gemini (May 21-June 20) Conditions affecting you personally make a favorable shift today. Give the utmost consideration to any new project you want to launch.
Cancer (June 21-July 22) Don't be too surprised today if a long-overdue debt is repaid, or if you get the first slow trickle of a return from an old investment.
Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You could be motivated today by an important happening that will inspire new hope in you. If it's right, you will react to it instinctively.
Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Pursue your goals broadly today, especially in career areas. You're capable of doing big things if you put your mind and energy to it.
Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't treat plans you make today lightly. If the foundations are properly engineered, you will brighten your future considerably.
Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You are definitely a power to contend with today. You have a magnetism that draws the people you need, and all the elements that enhance any joint venture.
Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) People just want to be around you today. You impress others so favorably, you could even pick up a valuable new ally.
Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something new may be developing for your work or career today. This could be very beneficial, particularly if key people are involved.
Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Cast aside old methods that have not proven successful. Don't be concerned. You'll develop new better ways to operate today.
Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good time to change or improve your home or residence. What you do will create something of lasting beauty.
Your Birthday May 28, 1974 An active year is ahead of you socially. It will be rewarding. The types of friends you've always been looking for will enter your life.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
king of trumps and makes his contract. Jean points out that a really devious West might find a way to defeat the four-spade contract. When East leads the third heart, our spy West ruffs with the seven of spades. South overruffs with dummy's nine. Now put yourself in South's position. What one card is West least likely to hold? The jack of spades. So South leads the spade, finesse the 10 and loses his contract.
An Ontario reader wants to know if spades has always been the ranking suit. The answer at contract is "Yes." In the first days of auction, spades was the lowest ranking suit. Then someone invented royal spades to outrank all others. You could bid regular spades (lowest) or royal spades (highest) and didn't take long for the lowest spades to disappear and since then the spade suit has been top dog.

Readers Question Values Of Liberated Marriages

By JOANNE KOCH
Many readers have responded to the debate over the effects of the women's movement on marriage. Some of them believed women need to look up to. A few of these days are too passive, letting the women make all the decisions.
But most readers worried that reports of male confusion and distress might add fuel to the anti-feminist fires. A Provo, Utah, woman, who described herself as a Mormon wife and mother, believed that we should not pass on reports such as Dr. James Framo's description of the pain of changing traditional male-female roles is causing some men to become depressed. She said she, "It's like wearing a red flag before those already inflamed against feminists."
Mrs. Janet Sketchley, also of Charlottesville, states that she is a divorcee and knows many divorcees, none of whom felt elation and relief when their divorces were granted. "If one has had an emotional commitment to a good marriage and to all that entails," writes Mrs. Sketchley, "one never comes out of it feeling, 'ahh, at last, I'm a free woman and can do my own thing.'"

Smoothie Dials Right Number

DEAR ABBY: I'm a long distance telephone operator, and I must have a very apalling telephone voice because many men have asked they could meet me. I never was tempted because I thought, "What kind of a creep would hunt to make a date with a girl who has never seen and knows nothing about..."
Well, a few months ago I got a man on the line who was trying desperately to locate his brother. I must have called to him, and he wasn't at my desk. The poor man sounded so unhappy and frustrated, then he expressed his sincere appreciation for my cooperation. I liked his manner and he said he liked my voice because it had a "smile" in it. To make a long story short, I broke all the rules and agreed to meet him. (Don't say where this letter is from because I could get fired).
We are going together now, but when people ask me how I met him, what should I say? Sign Me: "SMOOTH OPERATOR"

DEAR SMOOTH: Put that "smile" in your voice and tell your inquisitive party to dial "information."
DEAR ANONYMOUS: Don't be afraid to ask my experts to say I agree with you. Although sexual relations may be beautiful, they are (or should be) a private affair.

Liberated Look for a Star-Spangled Summer!
DEAR PUZZLED: Maybe he's trying to get you to try harder because you're No. 2.
DEAR ABBY: My son who is a junior in high school has an English teacher who has a warped sense of humor. She recently gave her students an assignment, of which I think you should be aware.
She asked them to write a "Dear Abby" letter, and she told them to make them as wild and far-out as possible, but also to make them believable.
I don't know the literary value she thinks there is to this kind of creative writing. I imagine by this time, you have become an expert at detecting the phony letters, but I want to warn you that about 40 of them will be coming your way soon.
This is modern education!

DEAR FINK: No matter how "wild" the students' phony letters are, they couldn't possibly match some of the views, I would choose the one used by Angela Barron McBride as the title for her new book — "A Married Feminist." A married feminist to quote Ms. McBride, "feels pulled in two directions between traditional values and conventions on one hand, and a commitment to feminist ideology on the other." She is "a woman who wants a loving, long-term relationship with a man, but bitterly resents being considered only someone's other half. A woman who values family life, but deplores the sterile, functional view of man as head of the family and woman as his heart. A wife who wants to belong to one man, yet not be his private property, (a person who is) sensitive to the fact that demanding can make a woman look selfish, but being undemanding can deprive a woman of her sense of self."

Scouts Live A Story To Tell Their Children

By BOB ORRELL, Herald Correspondent

Five brightly colored puppets lived up to the ethereal, gloomy landscape at Wekiva River Landing as Boy Scouts from Troop 31, Matland, camped in the rain May 15 and 16. The intrepid youngsters launched their canoes at Wekiva Springs State Park, paddled 13 miles downstream to Wekiva Landing and set up camp in the rain.

Wet clothes and wet tents failed to dampen their enthusiasm—the camp management offered the use of a clothes dryer, and five minutes later all the youngsters were soaking wet again. Concerned parents contacted one of the scout leaders who drove to the camp to "rescue" the wet kids, but they refused to be "rescued" and continued their activities as though the sun was smiling on them. Some even tried the fishing and reported three bass caught.

Late Saturday afternoon the scouts were standing around in the rain, eating pork and beans straight from the can, accompanied by pots of potato chips and waiting to cook their supper.

Scoutmaster Robert Voke, Scott Belflower, Bob Anderson, Tom Gerlach, Norman Page and John Hillbrandt composed the group who failed to let adverse weather stifle their long awaited camping trip.

An interested bystander remarked, "You boys are sure brave to be out in weather like this. To which one of the scouts replied, "Not brave—just dumb!"

Supper over and camp chores completed the group adjourned to the camp recreation room, which contained a piano. The room was soon crowded with other campers as the strains of Chopin, Mozart, Beethoven and Bach filled the night air. Scout John Hillebrandt, "though only 14 years old, has been playing the piano for nine years and his music kept the entire campground entertained for hours.

Congress Has Good News For Overburdened Budgets

Income Tax Cuts May Be Extended Another Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is taking steps to head off a tax increase scheduled for July 1 that would cost a typical four-member American family earning $15,000 an extra $180 annually.

The Senate Finance Committee voted unanimously Thursday in favor of extending current tax cuts. The House has approved a similar bill.

If the antirecession tax cuts enacted last year are allowed to expire as scheduled on July 1, it would mean a $145 tax increase for a family of four earning $6,000 a year; a $204 hike for a couple earning $10,000, and a $151 increase for a single person with adjusted gross income of $10,000.

The Senate bill also has some bad news for wealthy investors and some good news for housewives and working parents.

Some of the provisions that have been used by investors to shield their incomes from taxation would be tightened, but not as much as by a bill passed by the House last year.

Working parents would be allowed a tax credit of up to $800 a year for certain childcare and household expenses necessary for both parents — or the sole parent — to work.

And for the first time, a housewife could qualify for tax-exempt treatment of contributions to a pension fund. This would be available only to persons whose spouses are not covered by a company retirement plan but who contribute to an Individual Retirement Account (IRA).

At a cost to the U.S. treasury of $40 million a year, the spouse's maximum IRA contribution of $1,500 a year could be increased to $2,000 for a joint retirement fund to cover husband and wife.

Extension of the tax cut will allow current withholding rates from paychecks to continue. Here are the tax cuts that would be extended:

—Increases in the standard deduction, used by taxpayers who do not itemize, would be made permanent at a cost of $4.1 billion a year. The minimum is $1,700 for single persons and $2,100 for joint returns; the maximum is $2,400 for singles and $2,800 for joint returns.

—A $35 credit — which is subtracted directly from taxes owed — is provided for a taxpayer and each dependent at a cost of $5.6 billion. This would be extended through June 30, 1976, to allow the new Congress and the next president to gauge the economy before determining whether it should be renewed again.

As an alternative, a taxpayer could have a credit of 2 per cent of the first $9,000 of taxable income, or a maximum credit of $180.

—A "work bonus" for poor, working families with children would become permanent. Under this provision, costing $4.1 billion a year, a family is given a tax credit of up to 10 per cent of earned income up to $4,000. The benefit phases out at $8,000 income.

Also made permanent are reduced corporate taxes to benefit small business. The rate is 20 per cent on the first $25,000 of taxable income, 22 per cent on the next $25,000 and 48 per cent above $50,000.

Lake Monroe Drive Could Be Darkened

By ED PRICKETT, Herald Staff Writer

Anyone out for a nighttime drive or stroll along scenic Lake Monroe may find themselves in the dark unless county government agrees to pick up the electric bill for 52 street lights.

"I'd like to turn them off as far as the city is concerned. I don't see any reason to burn 52 lights in the county," Sanford City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan said this morning.

The problem, as McClanahan sees it, is that taxpayers living in Sanford are paying $1,092 yearly for 52 lights that are located in the county.

Twice McClanahan has asked the city commission to turn the lights off. So far, however, the city commissioner said he hasn't received a majority vote from the county. After his second attempt, Sanford City Manager Warren Knowles wrote a memorandum to county Executive Assistant Roger Neiswender, asking the county to pick up the bill.

"My recommendation is for the commission to take the item outside city limits could be used to provide lighting for a city park, or for other city functions. Unless Neiswender changes his mind, the cost of the lights will be plugged into this year's county budget. Of course county commissioners have the option of deleting those funds. McClanahan said he is waiting only for an answer in writing from Neiswender before taking the matter before the full city commission for a third time.

"The commission as a whole can do whatever it wants, but I'm for turning them (the lights) out," the commissioner said. "I just maintain that $2 lights that could be burning on land that was later annexed.

'I Can Type' Claim Capitol Hill Buttons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A women's political caucus says the Rep. Wayne Hays affair shows there is a feudal and discriminatory job situation in Congress, which always exempts itself from the civil rights and equal pay laws it imposes on others.

"This is still a very traditional, chauvinistic world where there are no rules" on employment of women, said Miriam Dorsey, coordinator of the 200-member Capitol Hill Women's Political Caucus.

Meanwhile, some women at the Capitol were wearing buttons assuring anyone who might have an interest: "I can type."

"Congress is not covered under any civil rights laws or equal pay laws, so something like this can exist because each member has his own little fiefdom and what one member does with his employees is no other member's business," Ms. Dorsey said Thursday.

She said the revelation that Hays had an affair with Elizabeth Ray, who contends she was placed on the government payroll to be Hays' mistress, "really damages the image of women on Capitol Hill." Miss Ray says she was unable to do office work and couldn't even type.

Ms. Dorsey said, "An incident like this just perpetuates the myth that women are not here just for work."

Ms. Dorsey, a legislative aide for Rep. Richardson Preyer, D-N.C., says she believes there is a "definite problem" of male bosses pressuring women employees for special favors at the Capitol.

"Mainly this is because the members are so enamored with their own power," she said.

"People in their offices wait on them hand and foot, going to get their laundry or whatever. They just get carried away with their power. There are many young women who come to the Hill looking for a glamorous experience who don't realize what they're getting into in some cases."

The group, a branch of the National Women's Political Caucus, has conducted various surveys of sex discrimination in Congress. A study it released a year ago said few women were in top-paid jobs in Senate offices and that those who held such jobs were not as well paid as men doing the same work.

Drug Force Eyes Move To Seminole

By BOB LLOYD, Herald Staff Writer

Sources close to the controversial Central Florida task force of the federal Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) said today that the unit is expected to move its headquarters from Orlando to Seminole County and that a DEA agent from New Jersey won't take over the local operation as previously announced.

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk and Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler declined to comment today on the possible replacement of Carlo Boccia who is slated to take over the local task force about July 1, but both officers reported they had a productive meeting Thursday in Washington with DEA head Peter Benninger.

Polk said he said Butler flew to Washington as representatives of nine local law enforcement agencies working in the task force not to scuttle Boccia's appointment, but to straighten out a communications breakdown.

Amid controversy over previous task force operations under DEA agent John Lepore, Boccia was announced Monday as the new task force director.

Then news media reports surfaced that Boccia was supervisor of a DEA stakeout in Kearney, N.J., two years ago in which a school teacher was shot in the head when agents mistook him for a fugitive wanted for four murders.

Boccia was cleared in probes by state and federal grand juries, officials said, but $2.3 million in lawsuits filed by Carmine Ricca Jr., 25, a vocational education teacher, are pending in court.

"Boccia was caught in the middle," Polk said today. "He wasn't told of the Central Florida task force controversy. And we weren't made aware by DEA of the New Jersey incident. We went to Washington to discuss the situation and how effective Boccia would be here since all the publicity."

"I'm very optimistic that DEA in Washington will make the proper decision within the next 10 days," Polk said, but he declined to say what he thinks "the proper decision" should be.

Polk and other members of the advisory board for the local DEA task force are known to have recommended that interim task force director Don Harper, a DEA agent from Miami, be selected to take over the task force operation.

"There's no rift between the local law enforcement agencies over the task force," both Polk and Butler told reporters.

They said the problem is the previous leadership of the unit under Lepore.

"I wish I knew what to do about the problem," said Mrs. Shamate, one of whose organizations includes selling the cemetery lots.

"We have offered Mr. McEvers other lots, offered to give him his money back. I don't know what to do," she said.

In late March, another mishap occurred where the two different parties had ownership of a cemetery lot and a body was buried there.

At that time, Mrs. Shamate said, permission was gained to move the body to another site.

Burial Plots May Cause Lawsuit

By DONNA ESTES, Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A dispute involving the city and two couples over the ownership of cemetery lots in Longwood Memorial Gardens may wind up in the Seminole County circuit court.

William Leffler III, attorney for Mr. and Mrs. James McEvers of Magnolia Avenue, said today, "We've tried to negotiate this long enough. A decision has to be made about whether to go to court."

The problem came to light after McEvers complained to City Council Chairman J.R. Grant about the problem and Lormann assumed the action would be taken to honor his ownership of the lots. He acted, however, that instead the city wanted to trade other lots for the two he had purchased.

"I was given a deed and that proves the property is mine," McEvers said today. "I shouldn't have to accept other property. It's a matter of principle."

McEvers said he complained to Herrig's office under the state's consumer fraud laws. A spokesman for Herrig's office said, however, that investigation has shown that no fraudulent intent was involved and the matter is a civil one.

McEvers attorney said it appears that the problem is another of government becoming involved in too many businesses.

The original cemetery, founded by Grant, Rosedale and Longdale Avenue, which dates from the late 1800's, was acquired by the city in the late 1950's from a cemetery association headed by a group of citizens.

Since that time the city has included additional property. There are currently more than 1,000 lots in the cemetery and less than one-third of the lots are occupied.

"I wish I knew how to solve the problem," said Mrs. Shamate, one of whose organizations includes selling the cemetery lots.

"We have offered Mr. McEvers other lots, offered to give him his money back. I don't know what to do," she said.

In late March, another mishap occurred where the two different parties had ownership of a cemetery lot and a body was buried there.

At that time, Mrs. Shamate said, permission was gained to move the body to another site.
