

Playwright Has 3 Dramas At Once On Famed Street

Critics Say Anderson Should Have Centered Efforts

By GEORGE TUCKER
Features Service Writer

NEW YORK, Apr. 1.—London more likely a Berlin hatcher than a playwright, Maxwell Anderson, puts his mark on the fallow, but those who are on Broadway, the critics have been quick to say he would have been wiser to write one really good play.

Never before all three plays are making money.

The first to be produced was "The Winslow Boy," starring Kathleen Ryan. Then came "High Tide" a fantasy which was on the boards at the Hudson Theatre last fall. Anderson's own production of "The Sign of the Cross" at the Waldorf Astoria, which opened last night, is the third of the three.

Finally came "The Sign of the Cross," an interpretation of the Ringelstein tragedy which took place in 1841, and far from Vienna.

All of these plays are written in verse, as most of Anderson's later pieces have been.

Of all the great Broadway playwrights, he is the only one who writes in verse. It is a fact that Anderson's verse is not only good, but it is also good to read. It is a fact that Anderson's verse is not only good, but it is also good to read.

Committee, the New Yorker also asserted the Nazi army is being drilled in this country, complete with uniforms and swastikas, and that a Detweiler, Fritz Kuhn, had an organization of 200,000 Nazi sympathizers.

The investigation proposal will go from the subcommittee to the House for final determination.

Another committee which recently had heard considerable testimony about the American form of government and preservation of democracy, the Senate Judiciary Group, heard Dean Henry M. Bates of the University of Michigan Law School testify in opposition to President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan.

He declared it was not "liberal and progressive" and would move "toward a theory of government triumphant in a part of Europe at the present time."

The Government disclosed smashing successes in drives against the insurgents in Guadalajara and Cordoba sectors and toward Franco's erstwhile headquarters, Burgos, 125 miles north of Madrid. But Franco's men gained ground in a new assault on the Bilbao Sector of the northern front.

Mussolini was reported meanwhile still confident that insurgents would win and for the time being was satisfied to respect the European non-intervention agreement.

program was wholly new to all farm agents, the project of construction was dragged out over a period of nearly six months. However, the 37 plan is expected to be finished in much less time through the experience gained in handling a former program.

Mr. Dawson anticipates that Seaside County will rank among the leaders again this year as regards the percentage of farmers and growers participating. Last year the figure was about 95 per cent, and represented 744 farms.

This year's arrangements make it possible for larger amounts of money to be received by the farmer for his participation, although the cost of administering the program will be deducted from the payment checks.

Rescuers Dare Death To Hunt Mine Victims

Undaunted by two successive explosions that killed nine men far down in a coal mine near Dubois, Pa., rescue workers equipped with life-giving oxygen tanks are seen entering the shaft to search for the victims. Tailless Sheep Is Developed On Farm

BROOKINGS, S. D., Apr. 1.—(AP)—A tailless breed of sheep has been developed by James W. Wilson, director of the state agricultural experiment station.

For 23 years Wilson has been crossing the native Siberian sheep with grades and purebreds of the United States. The resultant breed, not yet available to shepherds, is said to have more vitality than other breeds.

Firestone is justly proud of the part it has played in the prevention of highway accidents. In the matter of non-skid safety, Firestone has been in the forefront from the start, having introduced the first all-rubber non-skid tread.

The new Firestone tread is so scientifically designed that with every revolution of the wheel it wipes and cleans the surface to permit the tough, clinging rubber to grip the highway or pavement, thus providing maximum traction and protection against skidding.

Take no chances on unsafe tires, when with the new Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires it costs so little to protect lives worth so much.

WISDOM'S SHINING FACE

Who is the wise man? and who is the interpretation of a thing? A man's wisdom makes his face shine, and the boldness of his face shall be changed.

Were you one of those who didn't find out that it was April Fool's yesterday until it was too late?

This session of the Legislature is going to pass a law prohibiting cows from chasing automobiles off the highways, a privilege they have enjoyed too long already.

In spite of an agreement between General Motors and the labor unions that there would be no more "sit-down" strikes, the "sit-down" strikes did break out yesterday in several General Motors plants.

Did you know that the State of Florida supports a Board of Barber Examiners? And did you know that this Board exceeded its receipts by $3,250.15 according to a receipt report State auditors? Financial records of the Board appear to be inadequate.

When four school teachers in Koru, Miss. quit because they had not been paid their salaries for several months, more than 125 high school students went on a strike. In Michigan this method of remedying a situation may have worked but in Mississippi where the new technique of class rules is not yet fully appreciated, the parents drove their children back to school with long dangerous-looking history notebooks.

Karl Lehmann tells Kivansians about fresh fruits and vegetables preserved for months by freezing so that consumers far from the farms where they are grown may have the choicest foods, as if they had been freshly harvested, at any time of the year.

The Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is. A year ago New York state's minimum wage law was held unconstitutional by a five to four vote of the Supreme Court.

Success burst upon him suddenly. He was given a chance on the Rudy Valley hour and immediately a deluge of letters descended upon the studio asking for more of the man who reminded America so much of the late Will Rogers.

Entertainment was furnished by the male quartet of the University.

Drivers' License Law

Attorney General Landis' proposal for the enactment of an automobile drivers' license law is a good one which should be favorably acted upon by the coming session of the Legislature.

As the Attorney General points out, a railroad engineer must have gone through a long period of training and he can take a train out on a run, but practically anyone from the cradle to the grave, including the deaf, dumb, and blind, can get behind the steering wheel of a car and maneuver somehow down the highway even though he never drove a car before in his life.

It is suggested that before a person could get a drivers' license in this State, he would have to demonstrate that he knows something about driving an automobile, is familiar with the rules of the road, and knows the laws of city and State with respect to driving.

One of the best features about such a law is that a severe penalty is ready-made for those who violate the laws of the State. Anyone convicted of reckless driving, being a hit-and-run driver, persistently violating traffic ordinances, or driving while drunk, could be deprived of his license for a certain stipulated period of time, thus not only protecting other users of the highways, but also inflicting considerable punishment.

Strange Similarity

Despite the horror with which we view the present conflict in Spain, there is a marked similarity between it and our own Civil War of seventy years ago. In order to prove this, the current issue of the Review of Reviews publishes a brief description of the Spanish revolution with the suggestion that a few words (appearing in parenthesis below be substituted for the original text), as follows:

"One of the bloodiest of civil wars resulted from the national election of 1936 (1860), which brought to power President Azana (Lincoln). The radical Republicans triumphed at the polls, men dubbed "reds" ("blacks") and "communists" ("abolitionists") by their more conservative opponents.

"Contented in the election were the great holders of land (slaves), whose viewpoint was in many respects semi-feudal. These magnates resorted to military revolt, and were called "rebels" by those loyal to the legally elected central government. The civil war opened promptly as rebels captured Cadiz (Sumter). A high percentage of regular army officers adhered to the rebel cause, while the rank-and-file were mainly true to the President.

"Foreign countries were keenly interested in the course of the war, and actively aided and abetted the so-called rebels; foreign volunteers were present in both armies. Russia and the British and French Liberals were strongly in sympathy with Valencia (Washington); Tories of the world-at-large inclined to the rebel leaders of Burgos (Richmond). There were frightful atrocities attributed to both fighting sides. History has a peculiar habit of repeating itself."

Glass Blowing Returning

After four centuries of neglect, examples of the glassblowers' art are back into the museums with American artzians now in the world's front ranks, a recent issue of the Literary Digest observes. Twentieth century hand-blown pieces sit today alongside the work of the fifteenth century Venetian artists who surpassed all others in the magic of creating gossamer-thin crystal.

Responsible for this country's return to the production of hand-blown glass is the son of an English pottery-maker, Frederick Carder, who established his own glass making plant at Corning, N. Y., in 1903.

Despite the high prices, ranging to $1,000 each for a large engraved piece, there are not enough skilled men who can turn out hand-blown objects fast enough to supply the growing demand.

Three big names of the all-ways-Bing Crosby, Bob Burns and Martha Raye—are included in the list of players who appear in "Waikiki Wedding," the new romance of the South Seas which shows Sunday and Monday at the Ritz Theater.

The same trio headed the cast in "Rhythm on the Range" in which Burns, the Arkansas drifter, and Miss Raye, she of the cavernous mouth and bewitching swing, made their film debut.

MONDAY'S DECISIONS

By WALTER LIPPMAN

The three opinions handed down on Monday throw a great deal of light upon the present controversy over the Supreme Court. They are a striking vindication of the Democratic platform and of all those who, whether they voted for Mr. Roosevelt or not, accepted as sound what the platform said on the constitutional issue.

Consider first the most dramatic case, that of the Washington state minimum-wage law for women. In which by a vote of five to four the Supreme Court has reversed its previous opinion. This opinion was handed down four years ago, in 1933. At that time four of the present justices held the act unconstitutional. These four justices still hold such acts to be unconstitutional. The ages of these four justices in 1933 were as follows: Sutherland, sixty-one, McReynolds, sixty-one, Van Devanter, sixty-three, Butler, fifty-seven. Dissenting opinions were written by Chief Justice Taft, aged sixty-five, and Justice Holmes, aged eighty-two.

It is not plain that if the Supreme Court was in error for fourteen years, and the court itself now admits that it was, the age of the justices had nothing to do with the error? In fact, the Adams precedent was established as a result of "new blood" that had just been infused into the court by President Harding.

Consider now the Frasier-Lombis act for a moratorium on farm mortgages. The original act, which, incidentally, was not an Administration measure though it had the qualified approval, was unanimously held to be unconstitutional. Congress then did what the Democratic platform promised to do. It repealed the bill to meet the court's objection. The new bill has now been unanimously upheld.

This is particularly illuminating because it sustains the view of those who have argued that the main reason there was such a judicial slaughter of New Deal statutes is that so many of them were hastily and badly drawn and incompetently administered by the Administration lawyers.

These decisions do not of course, imply that all the powers the President would like to exercise can be found in the present Constitution. But they do indicate that the present court in preparing to re-examine in a liberal spirit many invalidated laws is likely to be guided by the faith by competent men who respect the Constitution.

It is all that the Democratic platform asked or expected of the court: is it all that any reasonable person could ask or expect of it. So the meaning of these three decisions may be said to be that the court is prepared to re-examine its opinions if Congress is prepared to re-examine and revise its laws. Beyond that large area of re-examination and revision by both branches of the government, the powers which the President sincerely desires, but which no conscientious court can find in the existing Constitution. There the remedy must be amendments submitted to the people.

A flock of doves, flying eastward near Hawkinsville, Ga., were blinded by the afternoon sun shining on a white farmhouse. They flew against the house, and seven were killed.

THE SANFORD FORUM

Editor, Sanford Herald, Dear Sir: Having read Mr. Barora's letter with disgust, I am disgusted with a parent who will go up to Seminole High School to get his daughter out of a class for some necessary business and find the janitor locked the door behind him just to keep the students out of the hall during lunch period and any body with common horse sense should know that the doors will open from the inside if he pushes down on that bar hard enough and get out a water fountain but never took time to go through the school and investigate it.

There are only 10 fire extinguishers which are located at every dangerous place in the school. If there should be a fire break out it could be put out very soon.

Florida Prison Time Runs Into Countless Years

Records Show Young Men Commit Most Crimes Of Today

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Apr. 2.—(AP)—Time runs into thousands of years for inmates of Florida's state penitentiary. Records of the state prison bureau for the years 1935 and 1936, showed today 2,516 convicts entered the penitentiary to begin sentences which totaled 11,217 years. This does not include 124 sentenced to life imprisonment, and 18 to death.

Most of the sentences are for less than five years. Younger men, the records show, commit most of the crimes which bring about penitentiary sentences. In the two years, 730 white men and 361 negroes between 18 and 30 years of age were sentenced.

Only three other years in the state's history, 1927, 1931 and 1932, showed more persons sentenced to prison than did the two past years, when the figure was 1,264 for 1935 and 1,252 for 1934. The total in 1937 was 1,373, in 1931, 1,299, and in 1932 it was 1,234.

The "gain-time" system is followed in this state for prisoners with good conduct. It ranges from 21 days on a sentence of one year, up to seven years and 73 days on sentences of 20 years, which means a person sentenced to 20 years actually would serve only 14 years and 232 days if he served the maximum during good behavior.

Forty-four state prisoners died during the year 1936. They included 10 who were electrocuted and one, Riley Herndon, who was shot and killed in Kittitas, Wash., while resisting arrest as a fugitive after he escaped from prison.

Eight of those who died were sentenced to life imprisonment. The longest time any of these had served was eight and one-half years. Since 1909, the prison bureau report showed, 311 persons have been legally executed in Florida, by hanging or by the electric chair which replaced the noose in 1922.

The largest number of executions in any four-year period was 25, during the term of Governor Albert W. Gillchrist in 1909 in 1912. Eighteen were executed during the term of Governor Dave Sholtz, which expired last Jan. 5.

Mr. Barora said that there was at least 50 or 75 windows that students could leave by if necessary. There are 14 rooms on the lower floor. Each room has no less than 6 windows. Don't you think that quite a few students could leave the building by this means? From 86 windows?

You say that the cooking lab is screened. It is, but why do you screen your kitchen? Now about those girls in the gym. If we assume that the doors leading from the main building to the gym are chained (which they aren't during gym), do you know that there are three other doors by which an exit from the gym could be made much easier? These doors can neither be locked from the inside and so are ready for instant use.

The janitor might have left the school the other day but there are two janitors at the school and at least one is always prepared. I, nor any other person at the school believes it a criminal act to lock other people out of the school to be free from disturbance. Wouldn't you lock people out of your house so they couldn't disturb you when you are very busy?

I agree with you when you say that Mr. McKay is a fine teacher. He does his job as only he could do it well. Those fire-drills which you said were being conducted wrong might be, but did you know that even when women and girls have sturdier skirts under stress than men and boys? Therefore, these drills are being conducted accordingly.

And last, before I close Mr. Barora, have you ever been injured by an eight foot drop? Yours truly, JAMES TEV. P. S. I hereby invite you to come to our school and go around it so we students can each day. I'm sure anyone would be glad to accompany you on a tour of inspection.

Eight Die When London Trains Crash On Bridge

1 Coach Telescopes, Falls Across Live Rail And Burns
LONDON, Apr. 2.—(AP)—Eight persons were killed today and more than 10 injured when two suburban trains, crowded with City bound workers during London's morning rush hour, crashed on a sixty-foot high viaduct.
One coach was badly telescoped across a live rail and burst into flames. The blaze was quickly extinguished.
Scores of passengers narrowly escaped death in the smash which was one of the worst train accidents in the London area in recent years.
Some of the dazed occupants of the car swiveling precariously on viaduct crawled from the cramped coach and along a narrow foothold to safety. Others refused to leave the car until ladders were run up to the bridge from the main line below.
A heavy rain beat down as stretcher after stretcher loaded with dead and injured, were carried to ambulances.

Chattanooga Defeats Washington Senators Here

Thrilling Finish Marks Lookouts' 5-4 Victory Over Visiting Combine

Joe Kubel, Nat's First Sacker, Outstanding At Bat; Doc Miles Is Chattanooga Leader

McFarland Good In Center Field

Hayes Mound Work Stands Out; Rookie Holds Nats Hitless

Fighting an uphill battle practically all the way, Cal Griffith's Chattanooga Lookouts staged a thrilling last inning finish to win a 5-4 victory over Clark Griffith's Washington Senators in a hard-fought contest which took place yesterday afternoon at the local ball park.

During the first three innings, the Senators had what seemed an insurmountable lead, although the Lookouts talked one in the fourth to cut the advantage to two runs. A two run rally in the sixth tied the count but it remained for the last two innings to bring out the exciting moments that were replayed more than once late in the evening on the radio.

The last half of the ninth, however, brought the thrilling finish and victory to Clyde Milan's prospect as McFarland, first man up, stepped past three bases with Lewis in making a marvelous stop to hold him to first base. Benamiller then grounded to Links who made a throw to Travis to barely nab McFarland at second with Benamiller taking first on the fielder's choice. Miles then singled to centerfield to send Benamiller to third and on the ensuing play Jimmy Waddell hit a grounder to short which was followed by a play at the plate with Benamiller sliding in safely with the winning tally.

The Senators scored their three runs in the third when Hank Warner, starting Lookout hurler, walked two men and then put one in the groove for Joe Kubel, visiting first sacker, to send over the right field fence. The Senators Chattanooga, walked two men, fanned one and allowed three hits and three runs to cross the plate. Kirby Hayes, pitcher here last year with the Sanford club, relieving Warner in the fourth, walked three, fanned one, and kept the Senators hitless in the three innings he was on the mound while Joe Hayes, who finished the game and who was credited with the victory, walked two men, fanned none and allowed three hits and one run.

Such nervousness, who took to the mound for the Nats in the first inning, worked for five frames, walking seven, fanning five, and allowing four hits and three runs. Links, finishing hurler in his four innings, walked one and fanned two while allowing four hits and two runs. He was charged with the loss of the encounter.

The Lookouts had a total of eight hits while the Nats had but six. The visitors scored their runs with Kubel getting three, Travis two and Links one. The largest crowd of the training season was on hand for the contest with approximately 500 people witnessing the encounter. The Lookouts will play the Montreal club this afternoon at Orlando but will return to the local park for an exhibition game with the Columbus Red Birds of the American Association Sunday afternoon at three o'clock.

Scorecard for Washington Senators vs Chattanooga Lookouts. Includes batting averages and fielding percentages for both teams.

The extra base hits of the day included a double by Travis and one by Hayes, as well as the home run made by Kubel and Links. Hank Warner, starting pitcher for

Second Semi-Final Elimination Event Stated For Tonight

The second and last semi-final eliminations for the Central Florida Derby will be the feature event of tonight's program at the Langwood track of the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club when the first four dogs of the third preliminary race vie for the opportunity of entering the Second Annual Central Florida Derby next Wednesday evening.

Favored to win tonight is the champion, Ann Hope, whose track record of 22 seconds flat still stands for the 5-16 event, the distance over which the hounds will run in the feature tonight. Second choice is Ann Faith with Red Pick chosen as show dog while Dirty Owen and Biome Meadows will fight it out for the fourth position.

Other selections include Noon Day Flyer, Ann Page and In-Description in the first; Rascal Dazze, Ramona G and Was Howler in the second; All Eyes, Black Favorite and Jack's Mission in the third; Blue Maiden, Lacey Al and Andy Boyer in the fourth; U. S. Bonds, Raymond Warrior and Flash Play in the fifth; Rip Collins, Mack's Mission and Red Sentinel in the sixth; All Common, Speedy James and All Myrtle in the seventh; Commandant, Skyline Mahout and Disberin in the eighth; and Night Laddie, True Ann and Speedy Karl in the tenth.

May Term Leesburg Entry In Loop As 'The Gondoliers'

Orlando To Be Known As 'Gulls'; Others Retain Nicknames

ORLANDO, Apr. 2.—(Special)—Even though there's a chance they might later be called the Venetian Gondoliers, the young hopefuls who'll make up the Leesburg entry in the Florida State League this summer carry the name of "The Gondoliers" from all over Lake county as submitting suggestions for a team title to replace the 1934 moniker "The Islanders" which Leesburg acquired when it took over the Daytona Beach franchise in the semi-pro Central Florida Baseball League.

Because the Leesburg outfit will play in beautiful Venetian Gardens Park the name "The Gondoliers" seems to be the most apt, so "Gondoliers" is probably will be the name of the team.

Other selections include Noon Day Flyer, Ann Page and In-Description in the first; Rascal Dazze, Ramona G and Was Howler in the second; All Eyes, Black Favorite and Jack's Mission in the third; Blue Maiden, Lacey Al and Andy Boyer in the fourth; U. S.
