Sheppard Regains Mayor's Seat

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Union support was responsible for the election of Owen Sheppard as the next Casselberry mayor, according to Sheppard and his two opponents, incumbent mayor Charles Glascock and former councilman John Leighty. In Tuesday's mayoral race Sheppard received 678 votes, Leighty, 525 and Glascock 437.

"I thought it would be closer between John and I," Sheppard said. "What helped me was the support of the city employees. A lot of the employees I have talked to are telling me things that need my attention. I'm getting up to speed so when I take office it will be an easy transition."

However, in the contest for the city council it was the incumbents all the way.

For seat four, Phyllis Sheppard, 56, of 580 S. Lake Triplet Drive lost to the incumbent Al Harmon, 44, of 1131 Avalon Blvd., 1,119 votes to 391 votes. Mrs. Sheppard is the mayor-elect's estranged wife. For seat five, incumbent Tom Embree, 49, of 512 Jupiter Way, won over Ed Lewis, 31, of 1765 Holiday Drive, 1,086 to 534. Out of 7,057 registered voters in the city, 1,685 voters turned out — 23.5 percent. City Clerk Linda Garavano had predicted a 30 percent turnout. the ballot contending his opponent did not meet the city's residency requirements. Last week Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr., Sanford, ruled Sheppard eligible to run even though he lived outside the city for several months last year.

Sheppard, who is in marketing, said, "Charlie (Glascock) did not do himself any good with all the mud he was raising up. He ran a negative campaign. The effort to have me disqualified was part of the overall controversy. I felt like I was running on the defense throughout the campaign, but I have no bad feelings. It's just the dues you pay running in politics."

Pepper Davis, 59, raises her arms as she crosses the finish line in the co-ed mini-marathon held Tuesday. Davis, of Orlando, was the first woman to finish.

Marathon Winner Sets A Record

Running on the first cold morning of the fall, a 56-year-old man set a new record for the 10,000-meter race in the Golden Age Games' mini-marathon.

Jim Blount of Winter Park crossed the finish line in 37 minutes and 50 seconds leading a field of 13 men and three women and shaving 11 seconds off the old record. The previous best time for the 6.2-mile course was set last year by Geoffrey Etherington, 55, of New Haven, Conn., who ran the race in an official time of 38 minutes and 1 second under unseasonably hot conditions. Photographs at the finish line, however, showed he ran the course in the same time as Blount's, 37:50. This is the second time the race has been included in the games and the first time more than one woman entered.

Blount said the early-morning temperature, in the mid-50s, was perfect for running.

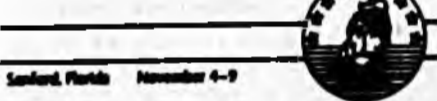

"I think it was an excellent day for it," he said adding that the only distraction was a slight headwind.

Blount, who did not enter the race last year, said he was pleased with his time. He said he had some cramping problems during a marathon in Ohio three weeks ago cutting his performance and was concerned he would have a similar problem in the 10,000 meter race.

He described the 37:50 time as average for him.

Blount said the mini-marathon was the first Golden Age Games event he had entered but he said he has followed the Games' progress for several years.

"I think they are marvelous," he said.

Coming in second with a time of 42:22 was Bart Ross, 62, of Casselberry. Third was Larry Rush, 62, of Ponce Inlet. He had a time of 42:45.

First woman across the line was Pepper Davis, 59, of Orlando with a time of 48:46. Following her was Anna Rush, 57, of Port Orange with a time of 52:03.

The race, sponsored by Central Florida Regional Hospital, began and finished on the shore of Lake Monroe near the Sanford Civic Center.

"We're really pleased with the race," said Kay Bartholomew. She said the hospital was looking forward to the race next year and is considering offering a sports medicine seminar in conjunction for senior athletes. Also in discussion is the possible

Plant Expansion 'Go'

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

Seminole County Commissioners voted 4 to 1 early today to go ahead with application to expand a Tuscawilla-Deer Run area wastewater treatment plant and install a spray irrigation disposal system, despite protests from those who live near the facility.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff voted against the go-ahead.

In a 7-hour meeting, residents objecting to the plan and about 35 county staff filled about 100 seats in the county commission's auditorium in the County Services Building, Sanford, and an overflow crowd of about 30 were seated in hallways outside during most of the discussion. An audio system allowed those outside to hear the proceedings.

The meeting began at 7 p.m. Tuesday night and discussion on the treatment plant lasted until after 2 a.m. today.

The county's plan, presented by Environmental Services Director Jim Bible, is to provide permanent improvements to the existing Consumers wastewater treatment plant. The plant reached its 1 million gallons-per-day capacity in September, 1984, and the plan will increase its capacity to 2 million gallons-per-day.

"We don't approve of what you're trying to do," Howell Estates Homeowners Association past president Jan Garavano told the commission. She said with projected need for the south central Seminole County area at 9 million gallons per day according to Bible, the increase, even with increased capacity at the only other plant serving the area, the regional Iron Bridge plant south of Oviedo, would be inadequate.

"The real issue is not the Consumer's treatment plant," she said, "but that in five years it will still be totally inadequate."

"This is like putting on a band-aid when you have a person who's artery has been severed," she said.

Ms. Garvano asked that no additional capacity be added to the Consumers facility.

Other nearby homeowners expressed concerns that expansion of the plant would create greater odor problems than those already causing complaints and that spray irrigation might be a health hazard. Homeowners also said the expansion might lower their property values.

While signatures were being gathered for a petition against the plant expansion outside the meeting, several homeowners left the meeting discussing plans to sue the county to prevent the action.

Despite the long discussion, today's early morning vote seemed a foregone conclusion to many.

Before the vote former County Commissioner Bob French, president of the Seminole League of Homeowners Associations, said the commission has already spent about $1 million to purchase land adjacent to the plant for the expansion, "so how do you think they're going to vote?"

Police Ask Help Locating Suspect

Teen Dies After Refusing Medical Aid

A Sanford man who refused medical help after hitting his head on the ground during a scuffle early Saturday suffered irreversible brain damage and died Monday after becoming an organ donor.

A funeral mass for Timothy D. Holt, 19, of 113 West Ridge Drive, is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. Thursday. Police are asking for help in identifying the man who knocked him to the ground and the pick-up truck he was driving.

According to Sanford Investigator Darrel Presley, Holt was injured about 2 a.m. Saturday while at a Lil' Champ food store, 1920 French Ave. Holt had been given a ride to the store from the Barn, a rustic nightclub nearby at 1200 French Ave.

After the truck arrived at the store with the hospital. He was then taken home by his father, according to the police report.

At noon the same day, Holt's parents could not wake him and called emergency rescue. Holt was admitted to the Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford around 12:13 p.m., according to hospital records.

Medical examiner Dr. G. V. Garay said Holt suffered irreversible brain damage from bleeding inside the skull which then pressured the brain. The injury was apparently caused when he struck his head on the ground, Garay said.

The symptoms caused by such an injury mimic the symptoms of being drunk so people may not have suspected he was injured, Garay said.

Woman Vice Presidential Candidate Good Possibility For GOP, Ford Says

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

There are five to seven women in the Republican Party who could ably handle the vice-presidency and one of these "highly qualified" party members stands "a very good" chance of being a presidential running mate in 1988, according to former President Gerald Ford.

Ford's remarks came Tuesday during a press conference at the Sweetwater Club home of E. Everette Huskey. The ex-President said he was in town to take a look at Huskey's developments and enjoy the local golf greens.

Although Ford declined to identify the potential vice-presidents, he did roll off the names George Bush, Jack Kemp, Bob Dole and Howard Baker when asked who the Republicans might nominate for the number one spot.

Ford also discussed his own endorsement of Florida Senator Paula Hawkins and said "the odds are" he'll campaign for her re-election in 1986, when she'll face Democratic opposition from now-Governor Bob Graham.

After discussing female candidates Ford turned to black party members, particularly the county executive in Wayne, Mich., an ex-Democrat who Ford said "saw the light" six months ago and has now received the Republican endorsement for Michigan governor.

According to Ford, by switching party loyalties William Lucas became another of "the many prominent and able black leaders who became fed up with the narrow Democratic point of view and saw they'd have a better chance to serve their communities as Republicans."

During the press conference Ford also addressed the Geneva summit, saying he was "optimistic" after seeing President Ronald Reagan's arms control counter proposals to those made by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Ford said he is also "very positive, although not overly optimistic" the Nov. 19-20 meeting will serve as "a blueprint" for the signing of "a final and definitive agreement" at a second summit six months from now.

During his own presidency, Ford met with then-Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev and agreed to the interim nuclear missile limitations that led to the Salt II treaty and a Carter-Brezhnev summit in 1979. This was the last time U.S. and Soviet leaders

Red Light Means Stop - Talking

WHITE CITY, Ore. (UPI) — A red light may mean "stop" on the highways, but at the White City Intermediate School it means "shut up!"

The stoplight hangs on the cafeteria wall, looking just like the red, yellow and green lights seen at street intersections. Responding to an internal decibel meter, the light flashes green if cafeteria noise is within an accepted level. Amber comes on when noise approaches the maximum accepted level and red flashes if noise becomes excessive. Students lose recess time if too many red lights come on, but they get credits for keeping the light green and yellow. Once a class earns 100 credits, they can redeem them for an extra recess or a party.

Fourth-grade teacher Marian Pinnell said the light has alleviated teacher's problems.

"Instead of us having to go around and tell students to be quiet, they monitor themselves," she said.

Glascok explained his defeat. "I guess I was too outspoken, too controversial. I was surprised that the voters would elect someone who had moved out of the city. I have a sour taste left. It's a union town now."

"I gave three good years of my life and tried my best. I'm satisfied," Glascok added.

Former city councilman John Leighty, 55, of 661 E. Seminola Blvd., who is in security work, said. "We did our best. It was a family effort. That's just the way it is. I thought we had it. I thought it would be closer, but it was the union that defeated me. It's a union town."

Mrs. Sheppard was disappointed with Sheppard's election as she was with her own defeat.

"I'm not happy with the election, the way things were done. I feel it was a set up. I don't think Mr. Sheppard is qualified to be mayor. He used this address as his legal address, but had not lived here for 1 1/2 years. How could a man who had only lived in town for 14 days have been allowed to qualify for the election?"

"The thing about my being his 'estranged' wife hurt me in the election," she said.

Embrée said about his wide margin of votes. "It was a pleasure to see it — you never know. I think I've done my homework and the voters evidently approve of the job I am doing in spite of the smoke blown up by my opponent."

Lewis said this was his first attempt at politics, but not his last. "The voters wanted a strong, boisterous candidate and I accept their wishes and will support the winning candidate now that he has been re-elected. The people know me better as a result of the election and I will probably run again in the future to give the voters a choice."

Harmon, who is vice president of Freedom Savings and Loan Computer Department in Orlando, said "It surprised me. A whole lot of thanks go to the voters. I will do everything I can to make sure their trust in me is carried through to the best of my ability."

Woman, Black Elected In Virginia

RICHMOND (UPI)—Virginia, once a rock of tradition in a sea of change, has shed its deep-dyed conservative political image overnight by electing a black and a woman to two of its highest state offices.

New Jersey re-elected Republican Gov. Thomas Kean with a thundering landslide that also gave the GOP control of the state Assembly in the only other state-wide election in off-year balloting Tuesday.

Democrat Gerald Baliles won the Virginia governorship handily, leading a Democratic sweep that elected Mary Sue Terry attorney general and Douglas Wilder lieutenant governor. Terry was the first woman and Wilder the first black ever to win statewide office in Virginia.

In Virginia, with 97 percent of the precincts reporting, Baliles had 721,341 or 55 percent of the vote, Republican Wyatt Durrette had 582,368 or 45 percent. Terry had 791,723 or 61 percent; Republican W.R. O'Brien 497,351 or 39 percent. Wilder had 665,459 or 52 percent; Republican John Chichester had 618,111 or 48 percent.

In New Jersey, with 93 percent of the ballots counted, Kean rolled up 1,282,403 or 70 percent of the vote; Democrat Peter Shapiro had 538,475 or 30 percent.

The Virginia and New Jersey results meant the Democrats will hold 32 governorships and the Republicans 16 going into the 1986 elections.

Hundreds of cities also elected mayors and voted on referendums. Big city mayors — Edward Koch in New York, Richard Calliguri in Pittsburgh, George Volinovich in Cleveland, Donald Fraser in Minneapolis, George Royer in Seattle, Kathy Whitmire in Houston, George Lattimer in St. Paul, Jimmy Griffin in Buffalo — all won re-election.

In Detroit, Mayor Coleman Young was re-elected to a fourth term, garnering 60 percent of the vote to his opponent, Thomas J. Barrow's 40 percent.

In Hartford, Democratic Mayor Thirman L. Milner defeated Republican candidate Eunice Groark.

The Virginia sweep was predicted in pre-election polls, but even if it wasn't an upset, it did signal a change that not long ago would have seemed impossible in a state that replied to the civil rights revolution with massive resistance and stood like a stone wall behind a tradition of male-dominated politics.

French, who lost his bid for re-election to the board in 1980, said he was attending the meeting to ask, on behalf of the homeowners league, that the county deny the special exception needed for the expansion. He said the league wants the county to renovate the 15-year-old Consumers plant to operate to standards for 1 million gallons-per-day capacity and use a newly-installed lift station there to pump 1 million gallons per day to the Iron Bridge facility, which he said has a potential capacity of 96 million gallons per day. He also suggested the county build a new plant at an alternate site and delay decision on spray irrigation and percolation ponds at Consumer's while an alternative is planned.

Because the county had already contacted the state with regard to necessary permits for the expansion, some homeowners charged that, despite the testimony of experts and public hearing, the commissioners had already made up their minds.

Sandra Glenn told the assemblage:

"It may sound like you're hearing a show and tell we've already heard, but they (waterwater treatment and environmental professionals) are answering questions for us, too. In my opinion there is no foregone conclusion."

State Department of Environmental Regulation District Manager Alex Alexander told the group he had received protests by phone and in writing about the proposed plant expansion. He said he was not promoting approval or denial of the plans but told homeowners once the county decides to go ahead the state will hold a "quasi court" hearing on the issue during which they may bring testimony. Residents who are not satisfied by that proceeding may then take the issue to circuit court.

French said the county's problem is that it had approved more subdivisions than it can handle.

"When Iron Bridge was approved we (the County Commission at the time) formed a (wastewater) Transmission Authority, which required a special legislative act. We got the Transmission Authority to provide a lift station at Consumers. There never was any discussion of expanding its (Consumers') capacity."

But, French explained the commission went on, after he left the board in 1980, to do away with the "four-fifths" vote necessary to amend the Comprehensive Land Use Plan. With a requirement that any specific amendment be approved by four out of five commissioners, fewer amendments were approved.

"With Dick Williams, myself and Bill Kirchhoff on the board, we kept it this way," French said. But a subsequent board did away with that requirement, and specific amendments to the plan can now be approved by simple majority or a 3-2 vote. French estimated that in the past five years 40 to 50 parcels of land have been allowed to be developed due to the change.

While the county is out to double and triple wastewater treatment capacity to handle the increases brought on by this development, French said he does not see the county doubling or tripling road capacity, law enforcement or fire fighting capabilities.

While the expansion vote was 4-1, commissioners unanimously approved a plan to spray effluent on Deer Run golf course; were unanimous in approving use of land near Red Bug Elementary school for retention ponds; but were divided 3-2 on using another parcel for ponds. Glenn and Kirchhoff voted no.

Duarte's Deal For Daughter Decried

El Salvador's President Jose Napoleon Duarte faced a tough call when his daughter was kidnapped by Marxist guerillas on Sept. 10.

To obtain her release recently, he violated a cardinal rule of all nations which seek an end to blackmail. He negotiated a deal with the terrorists.

After Ines Guadalupe Duarte and a friend were seized by guerillas, President Duarte's anguish was such that his administration was nearly paralyzed for the 44 days of his daughter's captivity. He felt compelled to send eight other family members out of El Salvador for their safety.

Negotiations with the guerillas resulted in a complex swap involving 143 persons. In exchange for the release of Ines, her companion, 23 mayors and a promise that the relatives of top political and military officials would not be kidnapped in the future, President Duarte released 23 guerilla prisoners and granted safe passage out of El Salvador to 96 sick and injured rebels.

President Duarte's deal for his daughter has to be disillusioning for Salvadorans. The Duarte government has not met ransom demands in numerous kidnappings and unexplained disappearances during the nation's six-year-old civil war. The abducted mayors, for example, were hardly an issue before Miss Duarte's abduction.

And, the provision safe-guarding relatives is equally disturbing, lending credence to leftist claims that El Salvador is run by a class of privileged untouchables.

The Duarte deal has magnified the president's predicament: Leftists accuse him of laxity in prosecuting Salvadoran military officials accused of harming civilians. Now, the military is criticizing him for giving in to the guerillas.

Unhappily, President Duarte will realize soon enough that the guerillas, having won what they want through kidnapping, will demand even more after their next crime.

Fed Needs Brake

Every president wants a Fed of his own, and President Reagan is about to get one. With his nomination of Manuel H. Johnson, assistant secretary for economic policy at the Treasury and a leading booster of supply-side economics, and Wayne D. Angell, a banker-economist-farmer protege of Kansas Sen. Robert Dole, Reagan can now claim a majority of four on the seven-member Federal Reserve Board.

Will it make a difference in policy? That's hard to say. Like judges, Federal Reserve board members have been known to change their political stripes once ensconced in the safety of a 14-year job.

But the two previous Reagan appointees, Preston Martin and Martha Seger, have pushed for easier money, even during the last year, when the money supply has soared beyond the targets set by Chairman Paul Volcker and the Fed majority. On the record, Johnson and Angell seem likely to join them in arguing for easier money. A true believer in the Reagan tax cuts and author of the dubious administration doctrine that there is no relationship between big budget deficits and high interest rates, Johnson probably won't want to follow the kind of tight-money policy that would prove himself wrong. Angell brings a farm perspective to the board at a time when agriculture's financial crunch is likely to be a prime topic for the board, and to judge from his political backing and his writings, he seems to be quite at home with agriculture's normal leaning — easier money.

In the short run, new Fed members with those views will not much matter. With the economy slack and imports providing a check on domestic price increases, the Fed's heavy foot on the monetary accelerator does not currently pose much inflation risk. But up the road, a loose money policy combined with continuing high deficits could slide the economy into another inflationary crack-up. Before we get that far, someone in Washington should stop to wonder, where's the brake?

BERRY'S WORLD

GEORGE MCGOVERN

Grenada Remembered On Anniversary

On Oct. 21 I debated Georgia's feisty young congressman Newt Gingrich at George Washington University on "The Lessons of Grenada."

Gingrich and his supporters believe that the Reagan administration's invasion of Grenada, Oct. 25, 1983, represents a positive turning point in American foreign policy and is a model for the future on how the United States should react to the communist challenge.

I take the position now, on the second anniversary of the event, as I did two years ago, that the U.S. invasion was an unnecessary and unjustified jingoistic fraud and a violation of U.S. law and international law. The Grenada exercise strained relations with our allies around the world, including President Reagan's friend, British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

The invasion was sold to the American public by official lies and distortions and represented a low point in U.S. policy in recent years.

The press was excluded from the invasion for two days while the administration brainwashed the American public with a deceitful account of the reasons for the invasion — all of which quickly proved to be groundless. But many Americans were so hungry for an American "victory" that they swallowed the notion that the invasion was designed to rescue endangered American medical students on the island and prevent the communists from completing an airport runway that threatened American security.

As we now know, there was no threat whatsoever to the American students, and the runway, designed by a respected British company, was being built to assist Grenada's little tourist industry.

Lost to most Americans, apparently, was the overwhelming vote at the United Nations which condemned the invasion as "a flagrant violation of international law." The United States was deserted on that vote by every member of the Security Council, all of our European allies and nearly all of the states in our own hemisphere.

The Reagan team tried hard to put a cloak of legality on the invasion by claiming it had been requested by the Organization of Eastern Caribbean States. But the United States is not a member of that organization and the treaty which guides the organization legalizes its requests for help only if the request is unanimous. In this instance, only six of the eight member states requested U.S. intervention. What's more, The New York Times subsequently revealed that the request was drafted by the Reagan administration and pressed onto one or more of our tiny East Caribbean clients.

Grenada, an obscure little island of 111,000 inhabitants — about the size of Sioux Falls in South Dakota, my home state — was a threat to no one. It had been ballyhooed by the Reagan administration into a mighty Russian-Cuban bastion of terrorism and violence that threatened the free world.

In the intellectual and political history of the United States, a handful of small circulation magazines have had immense influence. One thinks of The New Republic in the 1914-1917 period under the late Walter Lippmann and The Nation, which for decades has carried the banner of the Left — supporting everything from Stalinism to Nicaragua under the commandants.

None of these publications, however, has played the truly central role that National Review has played for the conservative cause since 1955. Under its editor, William F. Buckley, Jr., and managing editor, Priscilla L. Buckley, National Review has been heart and soul of serious, responsible, intellectual conservatism in the United States for 30 years. Moreover, it promises to be the flagship of this type of conservatism for as far into the future as one can see.

Why has National Review succeeded so brilliantly? First of all, because of the brilliance of its editors. The Buckyleys are remarkably gifted as well as principled people. They have brought to the pages of the magazine not only right reason but dignity, good manners, elegance, and wit. These qualities haven't been much associated with run of the mill conservatism in the past. Remember: conservatism once was styled the "stupid party." No one could say that of a conservatism given intellectual leadership by the Buckyleys. National Review disproves the notion that conservatism is the province of the yahoo.

As editors, William and Priscilla Buckley display a generous spirit and a wideness of vision. There is not the narrow, partisan cause that some people, yesterday and today, would like conservatism to be. Neither are they libertarians who believe that life can be explained solely in terms of economic transactions. They are committed to the historic values of our country and the ancient values of our civilization. Every issue of the magazine makes this clear.

For all its involvement with ideas, values and culture, National Review has been a shaping force in American politics. It's impossible to think of the Goldwater candidacy or the Reagan election and presidency without the influence of National Review. It will be an influential force in shaping the thinking of thoughtful American conservatives regarding Mr. Reagan's successor.

Insiders Say It's Coup Time For Qaddafi

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Col. Muammar Qaddafi, the desert fox who has ruled Libya with increasing instability since 1969, is likely to be toppled by a military coup within a year.

During his 16 years in power, Qaddafi has outdone the proverbial nine-tailed cat. By our count he has survived at least 22 attempts to assassinate or otherwise unseat him. He has been nicked by a bullet but has never been seriously wounded.

Yet the time has never been riper for either a spontaneous coup from the inside or one orchestrated from outside, according to our sources, who include Libyans still in the country as well as in exile. The CIA, in a recent top-secret evaluation, rates Qaddafi as "very vulnerable."

His physical condition may be as precarious as his mental health. The CIA reports that Qaddafi has been ingesting large amounts of sleeping pills lately. His wife

New Money; Old Lore

By William A. Rusher

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (NEA) — You have never seen a travel poster or a magazine ad inviting you to "Come to Sunny Saudi Arabia." In fact, there is no such thing as a tourist visa for travel to this large but thinly populated (10 million — about nine per square mile) and oil-rich desert kingdom. You have to be invited — most commonly on business.

This policy of near-isolation is a natural byproduct of the profound innate conservatism of the Saudi nation. This barren peninsula was the site in the seventh century of the founding of the Moslem or Islamic religion by Mohammed the Prophet, and has therefore been a place of special significance ever since to Moslems all over the world. It was only early in this century, however, that a Bedouin chief named Ibn Saud managed to unite the nomadic tribes of the peninsula's central sector under his rule and found the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia. He sired an enormous number of sons — 60 or so — and four of these have successively occupied the throne since his death in 1953. By now there are at least 2,000 royal princes, many in high governmental posts.

Oil was discovered in 1938, and by the time of Ibn Saud's death was producing revenues of $2.5 million a week. As the demand for oil rose in subsequent years, the history of the kingdom has tended to become the story of how the dynasty has coped with this enormous influx of wealth.

By and large, they have managed it fairly well. A great deal of it has been aimed in directions that benefited the entire population: actual poverty is almost non-existent in Saudi Arabia today. At the same time, inevitably, the royal princes and a number of highly talented commoners have become immensely rich. A few have solved the problem of what to do with all that money by making monkeys out of themselves in Beverly Hills and elsewhere; but a great many others have spent it creatively — and on a style of living that is lavish yet thoroughly tasteful. Perhaps most striking of all is the sheer quantity of superb architecture that the nation's oil money has generated. Mosques, government offices and private residences are frequently just plain gorgeous. The Riyadh airport, for example, is very probably the loveliest on earth.

Where the Saudi monarchs have compromised only reluctantly, it is all in the vast area of social "modernization." That superb airport, for example (and much else), can only be photographed by special permission. Literacy remains low (15%, according to one recent estimate). Crimes are punished severely: murder, adultery, sodomy, and various other major offenses by decapitation with the sword, theft by amputation of the right hand, etc. The status of women varies with place and circumstance. The veil is widely worn in public, but certainly not everywhere or all the time. Alcohol is strictly prohibited, and one must become accustomed to sipping orange juice or Pepsi-Cola.

SCIENCE WORLD

Facial Peeling Popular

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Barbara Cassebarth was a California girl who played tennis every day and hit the beach on weekends for hours of sun-soaking — as the lines and sunspots on her face at age 51 attested.

Worried her face would become cancerous, the San Fernando Valley native opted this spring for a procedure commonly known as a facial peel. In one long, sometimes painful week, her wrinkles and sunspots were removed with a chemical compound.

"I had no idea how fantastic it would be," said a bubbly Cassebarth in a telephone interview. "The change was so dramatic people literally didn't recognize me."

Facial peels were shunned by the medical community when first introduced in the 1960's. And while most doctors still have not embraced the procedure they are not as hostile as they were previously, said Dr. Robert L. Simons, president of the American Academy of Facial Plastic and Reconstructive Surgery.

"It is an accepted procedure," said Simons. "Facial peels initially got a lot of bad press and rightfully so. They were done by lay people who botched a lot of faces. Now more medical doctors are around who are willing to do it."

The increasing number of medical doctors willing to do the procedure have driven many of the lay people out of business, said Dr. Robert Kotler, who performed Cassebarth's facial peel in his Los Angeles office.

Because doctors are able to anesthetize the patient, they can perform more thorough facial peels that result in what the patient is seeking — an unlined face covered with smooth skin, he said.

"Since the results are better now, more and more people are seeking the procedure," said Kotler, who says 95 percent of his patients are women. "This has really caught on in California and Florida. I can see it spreading to the Northeast."

A special license is not needed to perform a facial peel, but it is a complex and possibly dangerous procedure that is best done under general anesthesia, doctors said.

The procedure, like others in medicine, seems almost ghoulish. A compound of acids and irritant oils are applied to the face to eat away a millimeter or two of skin within 24 hours, taking with it a lifetime of wrinkles and age spots.

Qaddafi to power and hold key posts in the armed forces and security apparatus.

Consequently, Qaddafi has "reduced his reliance on the officer corps ... gambling that the rank-and-file of the armed forces (along with the East German body-guard) can protect him from challenges." In hopes of cementing the lower echelons' loyalty, "he has suggested to his fellow Bedouin tribesmen, who make up the rank and file, that they should be suspicious of their largely city-bred officers."

Though the CIA cautiously warns that "Qaddafi has a remarkable ability to patch up or smooth over apparently irreconcilable differences," other Libyan experts predict that his days are numbered. "The time is ripe," one intelligence source said. "His domestic base is eroding fast. There will be greater upsurges and attacks against him." And sooner or later, one will succeed.

oversees the desert dictator's medication, for fear that one of his many enemies may poison him.

The most serious coup attempt, last August, got little publicity in the Western media, but its significance was not lost on Qaddafi-watchers in the intelligence community. In one of his all-too-frequent fits of pique, Qaddafi ordered his generals to invade Tunisia. Instead, they mutinied.

It was only by the skin of his teeth that Qaddafi survived this attempt. His loyal guards, including East Germans, were able to halt the planes and tanks that the mutinous officers had ordered to attack Tripoli. At least 13 senior air force officers and 30 army officers were subsequently arrested.

Without the loyalty of the military colleagues who put him in power, Qaddafi is on a slippery slope. Just how slippery was demonstrated by the Sept. 1 anniversary celebration of his 1969 coup. For the first time ever, the great parade contained no military units, only a rabble of revolutionary militants.

Presumably, he remembered that his old enemy, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, was assassinated while reviewing a military parade, and Qaddafi didn't want to risk the same fate.

In his speech to the celebrants, the distrustful dictator put the best face possible on this curious absence of military muscle. "The Revolutionary Committee Movement," he said, "which we parade today instead of tanks and aircraft, which are standing in their bases and camps, is another display of power."

Qaddafi knows he can survive as long as he has the military behind him. But a secret CIA report states bluntly: "That support is no longer assured."

The CIA report notes that trouble "has been brewing within the officer corps," and adds: "Qaddafi's policies have caused bitterness and friction, especially among the Free Officers, a loose organization of about 60 officers who brought

Shuttle Crew Wraps Up Mission; Next Mission Landing In Florida

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — Challenger's eight crew members wrapped up their Spacelab experiments today and packed for the dive back to Earth, bringing home a bounty of data about the weightless environment of space.

The unprecedented shuttle flight, chartered by West Germany for about $67 million, has been hailed as "nearly perfect" by elated scientists on the ground after a week of around-the-clock experiments to study materials science, biology and medicine in the absence of gravity.

Commander Henry Hartsfield and co-pilot Steven Nagel planned to fire up Challenger's two braking rockets over the Indian Ocean to drop the ship out of orbit and onto a glide path to a desert runway at Edwards Air Force Base in California's Mojave Desert. Good weather was expected for touchdown.

With the unlimited dry lakebed strip at Edwards providing plenty of margin for error, Hartsfield was scheduled to test a new nose-wheel steering system expected to help reduce the tire and brake damage seen after most shuttle landings.

If all goes well, shuttles will resume landings at the Kennedy Space Center in Florida later this year or early in 1986.

Gas Explosion Kills Two

MONT BELVIEU, Texas (UPI) — Three explosions at a gas storage facility that killed two workers and forced thousands to flee were the latest in a series of petroleum industry disasters, say officials seeking solutions to the problem.

The blasts Tuesday at Warren Petroleum forced Mayor Fred Miller to order all 2,000 residents out of town. They later were allowed to return to their homes for clothing but were told to spend the night somewhere else. Authorities said the residents might be able to return by today or Thursday.

Mont Belvieu sits atop a massive underground salt dome that stores millions of barrels of petrochemicals for various companies located in an industrial complex on the western edge of the town, about 30 miles east of Houston.

Strikers Seek Defector Release

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Ukrainian-American hunger strikers seeking asylum for a Soviet sailor who jumped ship twice and may have slit his wrists since being returned to the vessel vowed to keep a courthouse vigil until his release.

U.S. District Judge Martin Feldman was to hear arguments at the courthouse today on a request by Julian Kulas, an attorney who says he represents the Ukrainian sailor Marislay Medvid. Kulas said he wants to exercise Medvid's civil rights of due process and legal counsel, to which he became entitled when he set foot on U.S. soil. Medvid jumped ship Oct. 24.

A dozen protesters — including three hunger strikers — marched outside the federal courthouse Tuesday, chanting and singing, while Kulas' lawsuit was filed.

Chamber And Attractions Open Tourist And Convention Bureau

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County is right in the thick of things and the owners of 23 local attractions have formed the Seminole County tourist and convention bureau in an effort to make people throughout the country aware of this.

Visitors to Seminole have easy access to Walt Disney World, Daytona Beach, the Kennedy Space Center and "some pretty unique local attractions," according to bureau president and Altamonte Travel owner Ed Anderson. "We have a lot to offer and plan on getting the word out to conventions and tour groups."

Another highlight of the bureau's collective campaign is, according to Anderson, "the quality and quantity of our accommodations," which he said are provided at half the price of those closer to larger tourist attractions.

These advantages, said Anderson, "Make Seminole County a natural home base for Florida visitors."

The bureau was chartered in September and is sponsored by the Greater Seminole Chamber of Commerce. It is, Anderson said, "a cooperative effort" between owners of local attractions who will fund their campaign through membership dues.

It is also "about time," said Lou Evans, Altamonte Springs Hilton and Towers sales director. "All the elements are here. It's just a matter of people being told about them."

The bureau's official debut will be next month, when representatives present Seminole County to a group of convention planners. From there, a campaign utilizing videos, billboards and brochures will be launched, said Nancy Yuronis, bureau secretary-treasurer and Rivership Romance owner.

According to Evans, bureau members feel no conflict of interest when working together "because collectively, we can make a pretty impressive package to offer tours and conventions."

He explained that while the Hilton contains 325 rooms and 15,000-square-feet of meeting and exhibit space, "there are plenty of conventions that require less space and we have plenty of hotels to provide it."

And, when meetings let out, conventioners "can make their own choice" regarding the numerous local restaurants and attractions, Ms. Yuronis said.

Ms. Yuronis also said she views larger attractions such as Walt Disney World as "complementing, rather than conflicting" with those located in Seminole County.

She added, "What they don't have on us is the taste of 'the real Florida' we offer. We're off the main track and this should appeal to a lot of people."

According to Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith and Greater Seminole Chamber of Commerce President Bob Louis, all Seminole businesses stand to gain from the bureau's efforts. They both pointed out the tourist dollar would also find its way to local enterprises such as gas stations and convenience stores among others.

Bureau representatives said their campaign will involve a lot of voluntary hard work before it begins paying off. "It's going to be worth it in the long run, though," said Ms. Yuronis. "By the time we're through, Florida visitors won't just be passing through Seminole County, they'll be vacationing and holding their conventions here."

Mortgage Rates Drop Slightly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board says average home mortgage rates declined slightly from September to October, a trend analysts expect to continue over the next two months.

The average interest on the most common mortgage — a fixed-rate loan of at least 15 years with a 25 percent down payment — dipped from 12.65 percent in early September to 12.61 early last month, the board reported Tuesday.

With a 10 percent down payment, the fixed rate loan that mortgage companies, savings and loan associations and commercial banks agreed to give home buyers was placed at 12.65 percent in an early October survey by the board, down from 12.68 in early September.

"There's been no significant change in the last four months," economist Warren Lasko of the Mortgage Bankers Association of America said Tuesday. "The rates have been essentially the same."

The Golden Age Games continued today with the senior athletes spurred on by chilly temperatures. The big midweek social event will be a Country-Western barbecue starting at 6:30 p.m. served in the Sanford Civic Center patio at Seminole Boulevard and Sanford Avenue. Those who do not wish to brave the cold may take their dinner inside. Games Coordinator

Virginia Longwell said. A dance will be held in the civic center following the barbecue. Van transportation will be available for participants leaving Sanford Landing Apartments on West First Street and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, 200 E. First St., at 9 a.m.

An event as popular with spectators as it is participants is the talent show to be held at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Sanford Civic Center.

Kulbes, Kaehler, Trencher Victorious

Candidate Protests Winter Springs Contest

By Karen Talley and Jim Searis

Former Lake Mary City Manager Phillip Kulbes garnered 702 votes to beat Art Harris, 657, and Ray Bradshaw, 391, for seat three and challenger Cindy Jo Kaehler took seat one away from incumbent Jim Hartman, 1,121 to 635, in Winter Springs City Commission election. Elected for seat five, from a field of four, was former city commissioner Martin Trencher with 662 votes or 37 percent of the total 1,783 citizens who voted in the at-large contest.

Of the city's 6,894 registered voters, 28.9 percent cast ballots. The seat one contest is being challenged by Hartman, who said last night he has already lodged a protest with the County Board of Elections regarding his challenger's campaign tactics. A letter sent last week by Mrs. Kaehler to all the city's registered voters contained "malicious and slanderous accusations" against him, Hartman said.

Mrs. Kaehler said today she "stands behind what is said in the letter," although Hartman "didn't stand behind his voting record. I pointed that out in the letter. It was neither malicious or slanderous. It was the truth."

Both Mrs. Kaehler and Kulbes said late Tuesday their priorities lie with controlling the growth that lies ahead for Winter Springs. To accomplish this Mrs. Kaehler said she'd be "looking very seriously at the commission's codes" and "standing behind density in steps" by employing the planned unit development (PUD) ordinance she'd worked on with the city's citizen advisory board.

Kulbes said he'd like to control growth of the city's business area by implementing a "mixed usage" ordinance. Under this legislation developments in Winter Springs' business district could be zoned both commercial and residential.

Both winners said although they supported the development of Winter Springs, restraint and control were necessary during the next few years to ensure its success.

"We're headed for it no doubt, but lets do it the right way," Kulbes said. "I'm not saying stop it, but we have to dictate where it's going."

According to Mrs. Kaehler, "We've had uncontrolled development occur in the past and now it's time to look ahead. If we do that now we can avoid cleaning up messes in the future."

The two men who ran against Kulbes also said they support controlled growth. Bradshaw, a former city building official, said today he would have achieved this by applying "the sound fiscal practices I've lived all my life" to the development faced by the city.

Harris, a retired Air Force colonel, said he would have worked on developing "a comprehensive planning document."

Harris also said his victorious opponent "is a good man who will do a good job."

Election costs of each candidate are as follows: Kaehler, $750; Kulbes, $600; Hartman, $1,300; Harris, $1,100; and Bradshaw, $700-800.

In the seat five contest, defeated candidates and their vote totals were Marilyn Piland, 452; Burley G. Adkins, 389 and Lawrence Cerra, 260.

Trencher, 38, of 607 Marni Dr., cited running a positive campaign based on growth management and a desire to provide equal representation for everyone in his district as the determining factors in his success. He said he would have liked to see more people come out to vote but he was happy with the results.

A comprehensive city plan for growth to extend at least 15-20 years in the future is also a concern of Trencher, who now has three years to implement his plans.

Trencher said he gained considerable experience in city government during his three years due to the fact that he served in three different areas.

"I favor single member voting districts rather than the at-large system where all the citizens vote for the individual," Trencher said. He said in that form of city voting only people who live in that particular area could vote for that commissioner and he/she would have to live in that district to run. That would mean more equal representation for all the people in the city, Trencher said. He said he is the only commissioner to represent the Tusawilla area and he said that area deserves more representation on the commission.

Burley G. Adkins, 41, of 753 Bear Creek Ct., was the incumbent commissioner on seat three and he then stepped down to run for seat five for "personal reasons." Adkins expressed job burnout from his years on the commission as a reason for not wishing to serve the city anymore and he expressed little regret at the loss.

"The city commission is much better off now," Adkins said. "Trencher won soundly and the election of Cindy Kaehler really improves things for the city."

Lawrence Cerra, 28, of 1363 Blue Spruce Ct., was the youngest candidate to run for office in Winter Springs this election and said he hoped his campaign would provide encouragement to other young people to seek office. Cerra said the reason for his defeat was the large number of candidates who chose to run for the "hotly contested" seat five.

met to discuss avoiding global conflicts and Ford said he hopes the Geneva summit can constructively renew those communications.

The ex-President declined comment, however, when asked whether the Soviet Union was attempting to shade the summit talks by Monday's accusation that the CIA had kidnapped a top KGB official. The agent, Vitaly Yurchenko, said he was abducted from Rome in August and spent "three horrible months" under CIA interrogation in Fredericksburg, Va., before escaping to the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Yurchenko also said the CIA drugged him as a means of obtaining information and Ford again declined comment when questioned regarding CIA interrogation practices.

The CIA has yet to discuss Yurchenko's allegations, although the State Department has officially denied the agent's account. Sen. David Durenberger R-Minn., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee has called the allegation's "a set-up from the beginning" and said "there's no question he defected voluntarily."

Ford did comment on the ramifications of allowing an already "unforgivable and unconscionable" national debt to continue its upward spiral.

"We cannot afford a $2-trillion annual deficit," Ford said, calling for the White House and Congress work together to "do a better job in handling fiscal affairs."

Ford also said the nation's seven percent unemployment rate carried with it "serious economic ramifications of a recession," and a potential "for something more serious."

The unemployment figure must be pared, Ford said, if the country is to avoid the possibility of another depression. Along these lines the ex-President also said he felt already low interest rates may soon decrease further.

Regarding the trade deficit, which he put at $150-billion, Ford said, "Although we're not a banana republic," the country "must be strongly competitive" in the export market.

Also, said Ford, American goods must be used against imports. Voluntary agreements for limited trade may be necessitated Ford said, rather than Congress stepping in with the same type of protective legislation it enacted in the 1930s.

The tax reforms proposed by President Reagan were viewed by Ford as "very good in concept," although he only gave them a 55-45 percent chance of adoption as they stand. The low odds were attributed by Ford to "making a change in one segment and then running into opposition from the other side."

He said among those seeking to block the proposed reforms are state and local governments, charities, real estate interests and the smoke stack industry.

These opponents, many of whom have strong lobbyists on Capitol Hill, feel tax reform is "very, very harmful," Ford said.

By the time Holt was taken to the hospital later that day, his brain had been permanently damaged Garay said. Other than that, he was in good health, the medical examiner said, and could have probably survived the injury had he accepted immediate medical treatment.

Holt was administered last rites shortly after he arrived at the hospital. They were performed by Father Lyle Danon of the All Souls Catholic Church.

After Holt was pronounced dead, his family gave permission for his organs to be used for transplants. Further details of that procedure were not released today.

Presley said the investigation of the death is on-going and asked that anyone who saw the incident or knows anything about it to contact the Sanford police department at 323-3030. He said they are looking for a mid-to late- 1970s GMC pick-up truck, with a white top and bottom and a horizontal maroon stripe on its side. Presley said while Holt was an organ donor, any charges against his assailant would be based on the cause of death as determined by Garay. Garay said today the cause of death was hemorrhaging.

Holt, born in Holly Hill in 1966, moved to Sanford in 1968 from Bunnell. He was a member of All Souls Catholic Church and recently worked for Dick Joyce Well Drilling.

Bob French, office manager for the business, said he and the well-drilling crews were shocked to hear about Holt's death.

"Timmy was a good worker, an excellent worker. He was on time everyday, never gave anybody difficulties or hassles. He seemed like a well-mannered boy. It's just a shame," French said.

Holt was an avid hunter and fisherman and played in Pony League Baseball.

Civic involvement took a day off during Altamonte Springs' election this year with two candidates strolling into office unopposed.

Voter turnout was extremely light city-wide with only 78 ballots cast, less than one percent — actually 0.7 percent — of the 11,253 registered voters. The election, required by the city charter even though the candidates were unopposed, cost Altamonte Springs residents about $2,500, according to city clerk Penny Conahan. Unopposed state and county candidates do not have to participate in an election, according to Sandy Goad, supervisor of elections for Seminole County.

Lee Constantine, an Altamonte Springs city commissioner watching the results come in at Goad's office in Sanford, said the language of the city's charter required an election because no one ever envisioned an election in which a candidate would run unopposed.

Incumbent city commissioner Dudley Bates, of district three, was elected to his third two-year term by collecting 78 votes.

Also unopposed in the election was Eddie Titen, of district one. He received 69 votes.

Both Bates and Titen will be sworn in during a regularly scheduled meeting of the Altamonte Springs city commission Nov. 19. A city commission meeting scheduled for election night was canceled.

Titen, of Titen and Dumke in Altamonte Springs and a general contractor, was unopposed for the seat occupied by Commissioner Bruce Furino. Furino served on the commission one year by running unopposed to fill out the term of Commissioner Bette Griffith. Ms. Griffith resigned because of health reasons, Ms. Conahan said. Furino said he was not seeking re-election because he could not devote enough time to the job. Altamonte Springs has a five-member commission comprised of a voting mayor and four commissioner. The non-partisan commissioners are paid $300 a month for their services. The mayor receives $400 a month.

Bates, a general manager for Koger Properties of Jacksonville, was out of town this week on business and could not be reached for comment.

Titen said his unopposed election was not a shoo-in because he had met with community leaders discussing the problems of the city and letting them know of his background in environmental studies and architecture.

Impossible? Junior College Tennis Is Dead

(Editor's note: Larry Castle was the head tennis coach at Seminole Community College for eight years.)

Florida has a lot of things to offer as far as tennis is concerned. It is generally accepted that our state, along with Texas and California, is at the very top of the tennis list.

And why not? After all, Florida has the perfect year round climate for tennis. Also, we are blessed with an abundance of tennis courts. Hundreds of city and county courts are free to the public throughout the state. There are many, many tennis clubs and resorts.

All of our colleges and universities in the state have excellent tennis facilities and even a great many high schools have their own tennis courts. Indeed, we are a tennis-rich state.

Several of our state universities, including Florida, Miami and Florida State, rank highly in the NCAA Division I rankings. Rollins College and Flagler College always have excellent teams and rank very high in NCAA Division II and the NAIA.

Some of the very best young players in the U.S. live and train in Florida and one of the best high school teams in America is Lake Brantley High School.

Knowing how important tennis is in our state and knowing how perfect the climate is down here for tennis makes it even harder to understand why junior college tennis in Florida has almost completely disappeared.

One would think that of all the sports that a junior college can offer that tennis would be the most feasible. All the schools have tennis courts, the climate is perfect, and tennis does not cost much for a school to fund.

Actually tennis, golf, and swimming should be the three most popular sports for men and women in the junior college in Florida. However, in order to have a golf team you need to have access to a course that is near campus and is willing to let your team play on a regular basis. It is hard to find that situation nowadays and even if you do it is very expensive.

Larry Castle

To have a swim team you need an olympic size pool — enough said. That still leaves tennis. There are 28 junior colleges in Florida and all of them have tennis courts.

When I first came to Florida, 24 of these schools had men's tennis teams. Many were very strong. Florida was considered the junior college tennis capital of the U.S.

Seminole Community College was strong and Dade South was strong. Dade North and Dade New World Center had good teams. Palm Beach and Indian River were good. Manatee and Daytona Beach, Brevard and Florida Junior College, Pensacola and Lake City, St. Johns and Central Florida, all were good.

There were many others but the point is they were all playing and all fielding good, quality tennis teams. Florida teams always went to the national tournament and Dade North won the nationals one year, Central Florida won the nationals one year and SCC won the nationals twice.

Today in Florida there are only three junior colleges that really make an effort to field a quality men's tennis team. Palm Beach, Florida Junior College and Indian River are still trying to have good teams. There are three or four more schools that say they have teams but really have little more than club teams.

That is only six or seven men's junior college tennis teams left in this tennis-rich state. There is only one team north of Ft. Pierce.

Why? What happened? To tell you the truth I don't know. Some said it was the influx of foreign players; so the state made a rule two years ago that a team could have only two players from out of state.

Did that cause more teams to come back in? No. In fact several have dropped out since then. Why?

I personally believe that the main reason Florida junior colleges have gone by the wayside in tennis is a lack of qualified, interested and dedicated coaches.

When a coach decides to retire from tennis coaching, he still remains on the teaching staff. There is not a real vacancy created for hiring a coach. Part-time coaches usually don't work out so the schools opt to drop the programs rather than trying to field a team with an inexperienced faculty member of a part-timer.

This is basically what happened at SCC and has happened at many of the other junior colleges in the state. It seems impossible but it's happened, but in this great, tennis-rich state — junior college tennis is dead.

Gallagher's Quick Draw Surprises SCC And Brevard

David Gallagher, an old gunslinger from several Seminole Community College teams past, was a little quick on the draw for his coaches and new Raider teammates Tuesday against Brevard.

But the hair-trigger prematurity was all forgotten when his running 10-footer with 14 seconds left settled into the net and SCC walked into the sunset with an 85-84 opening-game victory over Brevard at Cocoa in junior college basketball Tuesday night.

"Thank goodness it went it," SCC coach Bill Payne said. "We were trying set up a play for Tony (Roberts) down low but when David saw the opening he took the shot."

Gallagher, who played on Payne's first SCC team three years ago before riding into hibernation for a couple of years, turned in an excellent floor game to go with his clutch basket. The 5-10 ex-Orlando Edgewater guard finished with 16 points by hitting 6 of 8 field goals and 4 of 5 free throws.

Although Gallagher's bucket put the Raiders up by two, they were far from out of town with a win. Brevard, which received an outstanding 31-point, 16-rebound performance from 6-2 Milton Moore, worked the ball around to Tony Jordan who fired a 10-footer with four seconds left.

Vance Hall, SCC's big 6-8 freshman, went up and corralled the rebound. "It was a big rebound," SCC assistant Dean Smith said. "But we thought the clock would never run down. Vance held it and held it and held it. I thought they turned the buzzer off."

Basketball

Smith said the Raiders received superlative efforts from Roberts, a Western Kentucky transfer, and Orlando Jones product James Morris. Robert finished with 18 points and six assists to lead SCC while Morris, who hit all seven free throws, had 17 markers.

"The free-throw shooting made the difference," Smith said. "We hit 21 of 29 and got them in foul trouble the second half. Plus, we started rebounding a lot better in the second half."

Greg "Slim" Johnson led the boardwork with nine caroms along with nine points.

Brevard, which outrebounded the smaller Raiders just, 36-34, held a five-point lead in the first half while the Raiders built a five-point edge in the final 20 minutes.

Hall, a 6-8 Seminole Osceola product, hit all four floor shots and finished with nine points. Lake Howell sharpshooter Efrem Brooks popped off the bench to hit all three of his shots to finish with six points.

Lyman's Donna Ball deftly passes to a teammate.

Passing Is An Unnoticed Art

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Playing the back row in volleyball is a lot like playing on the offensive line in football. If you're doing your job, it pretty much goes unnoticed.

A good pass to the setter usually results in a good set which enables the hitter to do the rest. And, if the hitter drills the spike to the floor, that's what the people remember. The only time a back row player is remembered is if she digs out the vicious spike or if one of her passes goes into the bleachers.

Actually, it is the back row that is the backbone of a good volleyball team. A good attack must start with a good pass. And positioning is the key to being a good passer.

"The actual skill is one of the easiest to learn," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said of passing. "It's one of first things you teach beginners. But, moving and getting in position to play the ball correctly seems to be the most difficult, even in the colleges."

Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said passing is probably the most underrated skill in volleyball in that it is not as difficult as some players make it look.

"All you have to do is move," she said. "A lot of kids don't want to move but want to reach. Passes shouldn't be hard but kids like to make them hard. You have to have good reaction time and be able to judge the ball early."

When someone has mastered the skill it makes the offense run smoothly and is often overlooked. One of the top passers in Seminole County is Lyman High senior Sheila Mandy.

"She has a very nice technique," Luciano said of Mandy.

Henry agreed. "Mandy has a pretty pass. She's a tall girl and really covers the floor well."

Lyman, which has the top team in the county, also has many of the top back row players. Along with Mandy, senior Donna Ball is another who makes passing look easy. And a pair of juniors, Diana Boyesen and Jodie Vega, are developing into excellent back row players.

Among the other top back row players in the county are Lisa Knapp and Cindy Wood of Oviedo; Angie Capps of Lake

Volleyball

Mary; Denise Elstathion and Jolee Johnson of Lake Howell; Dawn Gebhart of Lake Brantley and coming on quickly for Seminole are Maryann Callibuso and Aretha Riggins.

Perhaps the most difficult pass to make is the return of serve, where the back row players are put to the test most.

"That's the thing you work on the most," Luciano said of returning serve. "It's the bottom line. If you can't get the pass to the setter, there is no attack."

While experience is one of the keys to being a good passer, natural athletes seem to pick it up quickly.

"People that do it well have the innate ability to judge the ball early," Henry said. "Good athletes that have learned good technique are usually the best at it. And the ones that do it well make it look easy."

Playing the back row specifically may be hard for some players to accept, but the ones who do it are those who enjoy just being able to participate and would do anything for the team.

"It's not a fun skill to practice," Henry said. "It's more fun to go to a spiking drill or work on the serve. Passing can get real boring but it's something you can't win without."

CORRECTION — The matchups for the Thursday's semifinals were incorrectly reported in Tuesday's Evening Herald. The actual pairings for Thursday will be the winner of Wednesday's Seminole-Lake Howell game vs. the DeLand-Mainland winner and the Lyman-Lake Brantley winner against the Spruce Creek-Lake Mary winner. The game times are 6 and 7:30.

Morris, Tribe Defense Rest On Laurels

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Kenny Morris, in particular, and the rest of the Seminole defense, on a whole, are resting comfortably this week after an outstanding effort last Friday against the Oviedo Lions which produced an amazing 17 tackles for losses accumulating 73 yards.

More importantly, it produced a 21-15 victory.

Morris, a senior defensive tackle who has been coming into his own the past few games, was responsible for three quarterback sacks. "I was just stunting," the 5-11, 205-pound defensive tackle said about his play. "It came down to the time when we had to hold them and we held them."

Morris, who added eight solos and four assists to his tackle total, said he was impressed with Oviedo running back Andrew Smith, which is not surprising since the 5-8, 165-pound senior has drawn that appraisal from every foe this fall en route to rushing to a county-leading 1,172 yards and 11 touchdowns.

"He's a good runner," Morris said. "But we've been pretty good at shutting down good runners."

Smith did get his 105 yards but it took him 25 carries. He was hampered in the second half by a sore back.

The Seminoles, who received stellar efforts from Burger King Defensive Player of the Week Brian Brinson (20 tackles), Earnie Lewis (10 tackles), steady Dexter Franklin (15 tackles), Rick Kelly (14 tackles) and Theron Liggins (13 tackles), were able to snag Smith six times for losses.

"Those tackles for losses were the key to the game," Seminole coach Dave Mosure said. "They made Oviedo use up its timeouts. That's why the clock ran out on them."

Seminole watches the third annual Faculty-Alumni flag football grudge match this Friday before returning to the gridiron next Friday for homecoming against New Smyrna Beach.

Brinson continues to lead the county in tackles with 133. Sophomore quarterback Jeff Blake flicked a pair of touchdown passes to take the lead in that category with six and 835 yards. Sophomore Lewis picked up another sack to hold onto that lead with seven.

Lake Mary's Ray Hartsfield made a big move to second among the receivers. The slippery senior hauled in eight passes against Mainland to give him 21 for the year, four behind lead Sam Sears of Lake Brantley. Lake Mary's John Curry was Burger King Defensive Player of the Week as he picked up 171 yards and scored three TDs.

Lake Howell's Mark Wainwright beats the rush of Lake Mary's Scott Keller with pass to the flat.

Waltrip Holds 20-Point Edge Over Elliott With One To Go

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Darrell Waltrip's 20-point lead over Bill Elliott entering the final race of the season is the second narrowest in the history of NASCAR's Grand National Championship.

Elliott's victory at the Atlanta Journal 500 Sunday gave him 4,121 points on the season to Waltrip's 4,141. Waltrip finished third. The last race of the season is the Western 500 Nov. 17 at the Riverside (Calif.) International Raceway.

The only other points championship race that was closer was in 1979 when Waltrip and Richard Petty were separated by 2 points going into the final race. Petty won the championship.

The Western 500 will be on a 2.62-mile superspeedway and Elliott has dominated the superspeedways this year. Waltrip cannot lose the championship if he finishes first or second, or if he finishes third and leads a lap.

The two drivers are the only ones still mathematically in the national championship race.

U.S. Gymnasts Fall, Fumble

MONTREAL (UPI) — The teenaged girls who are helping the United States rebuild its 1984 Olympic silver medal team may never again laugh at Coach Don Peters' habit of using football terms to talk gymnastics.

The somewhat corny words he borrowed from his gridiron counterparts during an emergency sidelines "huddle" were just what they needed to hear Tuesday to turn around what could have been a totally humiliating showing in the World Gymnastics Championships.

Peters called the "huddle" after watching the girls fall and fumble their way through their usually solid compulsory routines on the uneven parallel bars, their first rotation in Montreal's Velodrome. Their total score on the event was a very disappointing 46.325 of a possible 50 points.

"We have never had trouble with our bar routines before; at our last practice we hit 24 of 26 routines," Peters said.

Bulls: Brewer To Replace Jordan

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ron Brewer, a guard waived by the New Jersey Nets before the season, Tuesday was signed by the Chicago Bulls as a replacement for injured star Michael Jordan.

He is expected to join the Bulls in time for Wednesday night's game at Detroit.

The loss of Jordan for at least six weeks sent Jerry Krause, the Bulls' vice president in charge of operations, scurrying to find a replacement.

Jordan, last season's Rookie of the Year and this year's top scorer on the club, broke a small bone in his foot a week ago during a victory at Golden State.

After spending nearly seven hours on the phone Monday night, Krause reached a tentative agreement to acquire Brewer, who played 11 games for Bulls coach Stan Albeck at New Jersey last season. He averaged 10.4 points, shooting .583 from the floor and .889 from the line.

Ingram Rallies Bulldogs, 13-12

The Bulldogs rallied behind the arm of Jeffrey Ingram for a 13-12 victory over the Rams Tuesday in Sanford Recreation Department Flag Football Junior League action at Chase Park.

After a scoreless first half, the Rams built a 12-0 lead early in the second. The first score came on a 45-yard run by Terrence Jones and the second on a 30-yard interception return by Donnie Williams.

The Bulldogs got on the board when Ingram hit Britt Henderson on a 20-yard touchdown pass. Ingram then found Johnell Brewington for the conversion, cutting the Rams' lead to 12-7.

The Bulldogs scored the winning touchdown when Ingram passed to Demetrius Presley.

Wilander Upset, Noah Survives

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Thierry Tulasne of France served brilliantly Tuesday to upset Mats Wilander of Sweden 1-6, 6-2, 6-2 in the first round of the $375,000 Stockholm Open.

Yannick Noah of France averted a loss when he overcame Jimmy Arias 6-2, 4-6, 7-6 (9-7).

Wilander, the No. 2 seed who is ranked third in the world, outplayed his 22-year-old opponent in the first set, breaking three times. But Tulasne, who beat Wilander in September at Barcelona, Spain, won four straight games to take the second set 6-2.

Unhappy Winslow Skips Practice

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Kellen Winslow of the San Diego Chargers, apparently unhappy over a lack of playing time after returning from a career-threatening knee injury, Monday failed to report to practice and faces a fine of $500.

The Chargers, who had an off-day Tuesday, have been unable to contact the veteran tight end, who returned only two weeks ago from the knee injury that sidelined him for a year.

Under terms of the collective bargaining agreement between the NFL and the players' union, Winslow can be fined as much as $500 for his unexplained absence.

Rams, Patriots Faculties Collide

The Lake Mary-Lake Brantley pre-game festivities start a little early this week. About 48 hours early.

Faculty members of both schools hope to set the stage for Friday's blockbuster at Lake Brantley with a fund-raising competition between the two schools tonight at Lake Mary.

A serious of strange events will provide the tests. There will be a softball-nose roll, a three-legged race, a potato race, a balloon-popping course and a basketball game played by special rules.

The competition begins at 7 p.m. Admission is $1.50.

Bass Captures Japanese MVP

Day In, Day Out, Saberhagen Was AL's Best

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bret Saberhagen and George Brett had this little thing they did every time they lined up for the national anthem during the World Series.

Saberhagen made sure he was always standing alongside Kansas City's brilliant-hitting third baseman, directly to his right, so that nobody would have any trouble reading the letters on both their uniforms — Brett Saberhagen.

Next Tuesday, when the American League's Cy Young Award winner is announced, it figures to be a different combination of names. Something more like Bret Guidry.

The writers who did the voting had a tough choice.

Ron Guidry, the Yankees' 35-year-old left-hander and 1978 Cy Young winner, enjoyed a spectacular year, posting a 22-6 record and a 3.27 earned run average. He gave up 243 hits in 259 innings, striking out 143 and walking only 42. Saberhagen's 20-6 slate might have been a bit less impressive but his 2.87 ERA was better. He worked only a few less innings than Guidry, 235, but yielded considerably less hits, 158 hits, the same number he struck out, and gave up 38 bases on balls.

What the Royals' 21-year-old right-hander did in the World Series doesn't count. Not in the Cy Young balloting, anyway, because the deadline for the voting occurred before Saberhagen beat the Cardinals 6-1 in the third Series' contest and then wrapped it all up for the Royals with his 11-0 shutout in the seventh game.

Guidry doesn't have a vote for the Cy Young Award, but if he did he has said he'd give it to Saberhagen. Me, too, although I didn't get to vote, either, this year because I'm not one of those beat writers whose judgment supposedly is sharper from being exposed to more games.

Milton Richman
UPI EDITOR/Sports

The reason I'd give it to Saberhagen is because day in and day out I think he was the best pitcher in the American League and more than that, he was the one who won their division for the Royals. I'll be surprised if he doesn't win the Cy Young.

Along with everything else, this seems to be Saberhagen's year all around, the same way 1957 was Lew Burdette's, 1970 was Brooks Robinson's, 1977 Reggie Jackson's. Just take another look at the Royals' pride and joy. First, he wins his 20th by pitching them back into a tie for first place with a big win over the Angels on the last day of September. He goes on to beat the Cardinals twice in the World Series and before Game 6 he becomes a proud papa for the first time when his wife, Jancane, delivers a 9-pound, 3-ounce boy they name Drew William. The night before he went out to pitch Game 7, Saberhagen said, he tried to think more about the baby than the Cardinals.

Until the final game, there was as much doubt about who would be the Series MVP as there was about who'd be the Series winner. After the seventh game, there was no doubt at all. Saberhagen was the unanimous choice. Not only among those who participated in the voting conducted by Sport Magazine but also among those who made their selections for major league baseball, which got into the act for the first time this year. The magazine gives a car outright to the MVP. Major league baseball gives the car in the player's name to any charity of his choice.

Saberhagen arrived the night before for Monday morning's award ceremony and was met at the airport by the magazine's communications director, John Carlucci. On the way in to the midtown hotel where he was staying and where NBC's Bob Costas introduced him Monday, Saberhagen talked about the new home he's building in Kansas City, his visit with the president at the White House last Thursday and his participation in a golf tournament a few days earlier in Wichita, Kan., for the benefit of retarded children.

Carlucci asked Saberhagen how he felt about his Cy Young chances. "Somebody's gotta win it," the Chicago Heights, Ill., native said. "Why not me?"

UPI Names Rose As Top Manager

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Pete Rose has been around baseball long enough to know you will always receive a second chance. Tuesday he did.

One day after he was edged out for the National League Manager of the Year awarded by the baseball writers, United Press International honored Rose with its version of NL Manager of the Year.

"After finishing second in the other one, this one really makes you feel the difference between winning and losing," the Cincinnati Reds player-manager said Tuesday. "It's a great feeling to win this award."

In the UPI balloting by 26 baseball correspondents, Rose collected 12 votes. Whitey Herzog of St. Louis received 10 votes and Tommy Lasorda of Los Angeles two. Davey Johnson of the New York Mets and Chuck Tanner, formerly of Pittsburgh, each picked up one vote.

On Monday, the results of the Baseball Writers' Association of America balloting for a similar award were announced and Herzog edged Rose 86-85. Charley Feeney of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette chose not to include Rose in his top three. Feeney voted for, in order, Herzog, Lasorda and Buck Rodgers of Montreal. Had Feeney placed Rose anywhere on the ballot, Rose would have at least shared in the award with Herzog.

N.L. Baseball

"I went with Rodgers because he lost a first class pitcher in Charley Lea and still managed to finish high in the standings," explained Feeney. "I thought it over many times and just felt Rodgers was more deserving." Feeney noted that he had received a "lot of heat from Cincinnati" over the way he voted.

"I think Feeney just forgot about me," said Rose. "But, when there are different votes taken for the same award, there are going to be different reasons put into it. I think Herzog and I would be close in any vote."

Rose, who has won dozens of "player" awards throughout his 23-year career, said he felt especially gratified to be chosen UPI Manager of the Year in his first full season of managing.

"Whether you're a player or a manager, you want to be at the top of your profession," said Rose. "I think anytime you win a manager of the year award, it's going to bring a very rewarding feeling because it means a team under your control had success."

"Anyway," Rose added with a laugh. "I

Tommy Lasorda

probably should have won the award because I'm already at the top of this profession in salary. That's definitely one thing they won't take away from me."

Rose last week became the highest paid manager in the history of baseball by signing a $1 million a year contract to continue managing the Reds the next three seasons.

Rose said one of his goals is to prove that a great player can become a great manager.

"Usually, two guys come to mind when it's said that great players don't make great managers — Frank Robinson and Ted Williams," said Rose. "But I think that's very unfair to say about them. I don't think they had very good ballclubs to manage and you've got to have the players if you're going to have a shot at being a good manager."

Under Rose, the Reds finished second in the National League West this season after finishing sixth, sixth and fifth the past three years.

Lanier: Astros Will Be Aggressive On Bases

HOUSTON (UPI) — Hal Lanier, newly named manager of the Houston Astros, Tuesday said he wants his team to run more aggressively on the bases.

"I think the fans of Houston will see a different brand of baseball," Lanier said. "I'm a very aggressive manager. I think you'll see more running. I like to put people in motion and have the defense make mistakes. I like this ballclub, what I've seen of it. It's very strong up the middle. I see at least five to six people on this team who can steal 25 to 30 bases."

Lanier, who was third base coach of the National League champion St. Louis Cardinals and a former major-league infielder, Tuesday signed a two-year managerial deal with the Astros.

He replaced Bob Lillis, who was fired at the end of the season. It is Lanier's first managerial job in the major leagues.

Lanier, 42, beat out Chicago White Sox third base coach Jim Leyland and former managers Billy Gardner, Joe Torre and Dave Bristol for the job.

"We interviewed some really outstanding people," said Astros General Manager Dick Wagner. "The reason we chose Hal is that he's been in the National League and he's been associated with winners. I like the fact that he was associated with (St. Louis Manager Whitey) Herzog. He's (Herzog) one of the outstanding people in our game."

Wagner also announced Tuesday the Astros will seek permission from the New York Yankees to talk to former manager Yogi Berra about joining the Astros as a coach. Berra remains under contract with the Yankees through December.

"With hard work and the determination of the players, it's going to be an exciting year," said Lanier, the ninth manager in the history of the Astros.

Lillis was fired after guiding the Astros to an 83-79 record and a tie for third place in the National League West Division with the San Diego Padres.

Lillis, now a coach with the San Francisco Giants, took over in 1982. During his tenure, the Astros' best finish was a tie for second place in 1984.

Lanier joined the Cardinals in 1981 after a successful stint as a minor league manager. He was first base coach the first three years before moving to third.

In 1976, he was named manager of the Cardinals' St.

Petersburg team in the Florida State League, and three years later was promoted to the Cardinals' Triple-A affiliate in Springfield, Ill. of the American Association.

He was named the Sporting News Minor League Manager of the Year after winning the American Association Championship in 1980.

Lanier, the son of former Cardinals pitcher Max Lanier, signed a bonus contract with the San Francisco Giants in 1961. He made his first major-league appearance in 1964 against St. Louis, driving in a run in his first at-bat to beat the Cardinals.

Lanier finished his major league career with the New York Yankees in 1973 and was signed by the Cardinals in 1974. His contract was assigned to Tulsa, where he hit .269. He was a player-coach in 1975.

Frustrations

Henning, Bennett Follow Similiar Plights Of Losing

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Atlanta Falcons fired their head coach Leeman Bennett following the 1982 season after he compiled a 45-41 record over six seasons. The move thrust both the Falcons and Bennett into their current plight of frustrated losers.

Under Dan Henning, Atlanta has gone 7-9 and 4-12 in its past two seasons and are 1-8 this year. The only NFL team with a worse record is 0-9 Tampa Bay, whose first year coach is Leeman Bennett.

Although Bennett took the Falcons to their only three playoff trips in club history, the team never fulfilled the promise it showed when winning the AFC West with a 12-4 mark in 1980.

Before the 1981 season, a national sports magazine proclaimed the Falcons the NFL's next dynasty, but they finished 7-9 that year, 5-4 the next and were eliminated in the first game of the playoffs after the strike-shortened 1982 season.

Atlanta's fortunes have worsened under Henning, however, to the point of near-collapse. The Falcons' brightest light of the recent past, quarterback Steve Bartkowski, is on the injured reserve list and will probably never play for the Falcons again.

His replacement, Dave Archer, has completed 13-of-35 for 135 yards over his last two games and was lifted in favor of Bob Holly each time.

The Falcons are the NFL's worst defensive team and Sunday were humiliated 44-10 by Washington.

"I think the club as a whole is utter frustration," Archer said. "This is especially true from (running back) Gerald Riggs' standpoint.

Football

"The guy rushes for 130 yards (actually 127) and is our leading receiver (three for 68 yards). Just looking at his face before he left is a just description of how this team feels."

Bennett was out of football for two years before he was named John McKay's replacement in Tampa Bay. He's off to the same type of start as McKay — a losing one — when he took over the Bucs as an expansion team in 1976. McKay's Bucs lost their first 26 games.

Loss No. 9 for Bennett was Sunday's 22-20 heartbreaker against the New York Giants. For the sixth time, Tampa Bay blew a halftime lead.

Bennett, 47, says he underestimated the talent on his team, which finished 6-10 in 1984 and then lost its top two defensive players — end Lee Roy Selmon to injury and disgruntled linebacker Hugh Green to a trade.

But Tampa Bay's struggles haven't been due to a lack of effort by its coach.

"They broke a lot of tendencies on defense that they've been doing and it knocked us off balance for awhile," Giants coach Bill Parcells said. "They blitzed a lot on run downs."

The Bucs led 13-6 at halftime but quickly squandered the lead on the Giants' first second-half possession.

"I've thought about that problem a great deal, but I have no answer," said Bennett, who has a five-year contract. "I even sent them out a couple of minutes earlier from the locker room to run a little and stretch. I thought we may have been getting cold during the halftime break. We go out and again it takes us a quarter to get going again."

Despite Bennett's exhaustive search for answers, he keeps coming up with losses.

"You don't just flip a light switch on or reach down into a paper bag and pull out five or six players. It might take 10 or 12," Bennett said. "It might take one."

That one might be Steve Young, the million-dollar quarterback Tampa Bay signed earlier this year after two seasons in the USFL. Young hasn't played a down yet for the Bucs and Bennett said he plans on sticking with Steve DeBerg for at least a few more games.

But there's no doubt Young is the Tampa Bay passer of the future.

"Obviously if you sign a million-dollar quarterback, you expect him to be your No. 1 quarterback sometime before too long," Bennett said. "He (DeBerg) understands where he is, goes out and plays well every week. He's 31, obviously he's not going to play his whole life and he's been super in handling it."

TAMPA BAY ADDS 2

TAMPA (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers signed two free agents Tuesday to bring the roster back up to 45 after placing two players on injured reserve Monday.

Signed were tight end K.D. Dunn, 6-3 and 230 pounds, and defensive end Mark Studaway, 6-4 and 275 pounds.

Dunn was a 10th round pick of the St. Louis Cardinals out of Clemson this year and was cut in pre-season.

Rams Climb To Top

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Lake Mary, on the strength of its impressive 33-21 victory over Mainland last Thursday, has taken over as the best Seminole County football team, according to the Dunkel Index.

Here's a look at the rank and the point total among the state's 360 football-playing schools:

- 125. Lake Mary.....50.1
- 144. Seminole.....48.3
- 158. Lyman.....46.3
- 167. Lake Howell.....45.7
- 207. Oviedo.....41.3
- 217. Lake Brantley.....40.3

Less than 10 points separates the six county schools. This closeness is well documented this fall as many to the inter-county battles have gone down the final minute.

Lake Mary and Lyman will meet Nov. 22 at Lake Mary to decide the District 5A-4 playoff representative. This Friday, however, each has an interesting Seminole Athletic Conference encounter.

Lake Mary, 5-2, travels to winless Lake Brantley. The Dunkel Index has the Rams as the 10-point favorite. Lyman, 4-3, journeys to 3-4 Lake Howell. The DI has the Greyhounds as a one-half point choice.

Oviedo, 2-5, travels to Cocoa Beach. The Dunkel has the Lions as a 10 1/2-point underdog. Seminole takes Friday off before a homecoming showdown with much-improved New Smyrna Beach. NSB plays Candler Lake Weir Friday. It is a 28-point favorite.

Last week, the Dunkel Index clicked again, hitting nine more winners to give it a streak of 18 consecutive winners. This Friday, the DI has Apopka (-24) over Oak Ridge. Evans (-19) over Edgewater. Winter Park (+5 1/2) over Jones. West Orange (+15 1/2) over Boone and Seabreeze (+13) over Titusville.

Newlyweds Both In U.S. Army In Colorado

Rhonda Lynn Shull and Keith Sean Ralston, both of Colorado Springs, Col., were married Aug. 30, at Pinecrest Baptist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Don Shockley, a family friend, performed the candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shull, 207 Flamingo Drive, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ralston, Lake Reservoir, also Sanford.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a white satin gown overlaid with bridal lace, fashioned along the bouffant silhouette with a softly flowing chapel train attached to the fitted waist. Detachable arm sleeves came to a calla point at the crest of her hands. The bride's headpiece, a satin-covered picture hat adorned with lace and seed pearls, held her tiered veil of imported illusion. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls given by her father to her mother on their wedding day. The bride carried a bouquet of white full-bloom roses delicately surrounded with white daisies. Her color scheme of mauve and burgundy was carried out in her bouquet with pink sweetheart roses showered with burgundy and mauve ribbons tied in love knots.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a soft pink off-the-shoulder gown gently tied at the waistline where she wore a corsage of mauve-colored daisies enhanced with burgundy ribbon.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a cobalt blue gown designed with a circular neckline that fell into a chiffon drape complemented with a corsage of pink daisies.

Poinota Margeolas attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a mauve-colored dress designed with an off-the-shoulder neckline and carried a nosegay of burgundy and mauve roses, pink sweetheart roses and small burgundy lilies tied with matching ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Michele Russell and Kim Petree. They wore burgundy gowns and carried nosegays of mauve and pink roses with matching burgundy ribbons. The attendants all wore combs arranged with roses in their hair.

The groom's father served as best man. Ushers were Chris Bechir and Scott Larson.

The reception was held at the Sanora Club House. Assisting at the reception were Libby Overstreet, Kitty Oswald, Barbara Howe, Helen Wood, Helen Crenshaw, Cathy Vorholt, Dede Doyle, Velvet Lyles, Taahca Margeolas and Sharon Driskell.

Following a wedding trip to New Smyrna Beach, the newlyweds traveled to their new home in Colorado Springs where both are serving in the United States Army, stationed at nearby

Fort Carson. The bride is also a student at Pike's Peak Community College.

Bride-Elect's Old Flame Kindles Groom's Slow Burn

DEAR ABBY: If plans go according to schedule, I'll be married next June. I met "Julia" when I was a senior at college. She was a junior. After I graduated, I drove down to see her nearly every weekend. I live about two hours from there. We started to go steady, then I gave her an engagement ring.

Dear Abby

One night Julia called me from college crying. She said she had fooled around with a guy I knew (I'll call him John), but she promised she would never go near him again.

She called me several times after that to say John was still "after her," but she didn't want me to do anything about it because she could handle it. Meanwhile, I was very upset after these calls.

Then one morning she called in tears to say that John had given her a ride somewhere, refused to take her home and tried to rape her, but she fought him off. I told her I was driving right down there to have it out with him, but she begged me not to, saying they have a lot of mutual friends and she didn't want any awkward feelings. She asked me for her sake to forgive and forget.

Here's the payoff. Julia put John on her guest list for our wedding! I told her I couldn't stand the sight of that guy and I didn't want him anywhere near us on our wedding day. She says he's a good friend to all her friends and she can't leave him out. I am ready to tell Julia if she wants to marry me, she can't invite John. Am I wrong?

END OF ROPE

DEAR END: No! Why your fiancée would even consider inviting to her wedding a man who tried to rape her is a mystery to me. Give her a choice, you or John. And if you back down and permit John to be a guest at your wedding, prepare to do a lot more forgiving and forgetting.

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for your very informative column on fire prevention. May I add one more fire hazard to the list? It's one I never would have thought of, but it nearly cost me my home.

Late one morning I smelled smoke. The last room I searched was the spare bedroom. As I entered the room, I saw the heavy drapes pulled back from the window burst into flames!

I had left a magnifying make-up mirror on a table by an east window, and apparently the sun on the mirror had reflected onto the drapes!

STILL SHAKING IN WESTLAKE, ORE.

DEAR STILL: Thank you for the valuable tip and your reassuring comment. Apparently a St. Louis reader was less than fired up about that column:

DEAR ABBY: Your column is one of the first things I read in the Globe-Democrat, but the one about fire prevention was very disappointing. I enjoy your column when a problem is posed and you offer a solution, but the essay on fire prevention is just not your thing and has no reader interest.

I hope you'll accept this in the constructive manner in which it is offered.

CHUCK NORMAN, ST. LOUIS

DEAR ABBY: In response to "Dinah, Who Will feel Much Finer When Folks in Carolina Return My China": I strongly urge those taking food to someone who is grieving to heed this suggestion: Please use disposable, non-returnable containers.

During my son's illness and subsequent death, we were given dozens of food items in "nice" containers. The last thing I needed at the time was the worry about returning the containers. It hung over my head for months, making a traumatic time even more stressful. So if you really want to make things easier for those who are grieving, send your offerings in plastic, foil or paper.

Also, please keep your cakes, and give me carrots! I put on 25 pounds eating all those "goodies." And don't tell me I should have been more careful. When you're stressed out and it's right under your nose, nibbling is normal.

BEEN THERE IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old divorced woman with two children from a previous marriage. For the last nine years, I have been living with a man I love very much. He's 46 and says he loves me. Last year we purchased a beautiful house in both our names.

My problem is that he asked me not to work for the last nine years because he wants me "at home." He's an excellent provider, and we lack for nothing. He has told me that I am the beneficiary on all his insurance policies, and I am the main beneficiary in his will.

My concern is his 22-year-old daughter from a previous marriage. What are my legal rights if she contests the will? Could I lose my inheritance fighting the daughter for what is rightfully mine? If he left her a token inheritance, could she still protest?

I love him very much and don't want to leave him, but I need to know that my future will be secure. We've been arguing about this lately because he thinks I'm trying to pressure him into marriage. I would love to be married to him, but could continue to live as we are, as long as I knew his daughter wouldn't take from me what he and I have put together.

Please answer in your column, as I'm sure other women have these questions.

NEEDS SECURITY

DEAR NEEDS: Much will depend on whether you are living in a state that recognizes common-law marriage. Please see a lawyer.

If your gentleman friend is on the level, he will not object to showing you the documentation need to feel secure. You have (will and insurance policy) you every right to know.

BSP Chapter Told Food Products Can Aid In Cleaning

In keeping with the international theme of "Walk In the Sun Find Renaissance" the members of the Xi Theta Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi discovered that everyday household foods and condiments can be reborn as inexpensive cleaning products.

President Ruth Gaines assisted by research from the book Rodale's Book of Hints, Tips and Everyday Wisdom," explained to the group that the acids, salts and other natural ingredients in grocery items work to remove spots, stains and smells. Mrs. Gaines cited some examples, such as:

Table salt gets rid of most fruit and berry stains. Sponge stain with cold water as soon as possible. Then pour salt directly on stain and soak in milk for 10 minutes. Launder as usual.

Milk removes ink stains you get on your clothes. Here's what to do: As soon as you notice an ink stain, blot as much off as you can with a paper towel. Then soak the stain in milk for 30 minutes. Launder as usual.

Worcestershire Sauce— can polish your brass. Simply pour sauce on a damp cloth and rub unlacquered brass until clean.

Then rinse and dry.

Lemons do a variety of jobs. They serve as a terrific kitchen freshener—all you do is cut a lemon in half, put both halves in a quart of water, and gently boil for a half hour letting the fragrance "take over" the room. And half of a lemon dipped in salt and rubber over copper will clean it. Wash copper in soapy water and rinse after applying salted lemon. Buff with a clean cloth. Want to freshen a bunch of dirty sponges? Soak them in lemon juice for 10 minutes, then rinse out. To remove stains from enamel and aluminum pans, fill with water. Drop in a lemon (cut into quarters). Then boil until stain disappears.

During the business meeting committee reports were heard. Plans for a Halloween social, service projects and the annual All Chapter Luncheon were finalized.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served to Donna Frank, Ruth Gaines, Virginia Hagan, Victoria Hughes, Bonnie Jones, Al Kurta, Norma Loepf, Kay Pruitt, Lois Smith, Laurel Rodgers and Tracey Wight.

Loss Of Calcium Requires Testing

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — The doctors tell me I have a serum calcium problem and that there is something wrong with my parathyroid that makes it remove the calcium from my body. They say I shouldn't take calcium to replace it. Nothing shows up when they do a test for it alone — only when I go in for my yearly checkup and they do several lab tests. I don't understand this. What will happen because of the calcium leaving my body? Is numbness a symptom? I have that a lot on my left side, but they say that it is caused from narrowing of an artery that is 50 percent closed.

DEAR READER — Most parathyroid problems are due to little tumors that cause too much calcium in the blood. You appear to have the reverse situation: Too much calcium is being lost; you seem to require more parathyroid hormone. I believe you need to see an endocrinologist in order to reestablish your parathyroid balance. An under- or overactive parathyroid gland, if untreated, can lead to serious difficulties. I am further concerned by the 50 percent blockage of an artery that is apparently in your neck. Since the parathyroid glands are in the neck, there may be a connection between your excessive calcium loss and the blocked artery. Perhaps when you see the endocrinologist, he will be interested in having you evaluated for a procedure to remove the arterial obstruction.

In any event, it sounds to me as if your doctors have chosen not to be very aggressive in treating your disorder. Judging from the description of your condition, I believe that you need more than yearly checkups and lab tests.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My shoulders bother me, as I am top-heavy. I'd appreciate it if you could write something on plastic surgery for breast reduction, particularly its safety, the pain involved, etc.

DEAR READER — Extremely heavy breasts can present real health hazards, as well as being cosmetically unacceptable to some people. Chronic shoulder pain can eventually result in anatomical changes and back problems.

Breast reduction is a medically safe procedure that can be performed by most qualified plastic surgeons. Obviously, there is initial pain — as with all surgery — but the final result usually makes the discomfort a small price to pay. I cannot tell you what the risks are in your particular case, nor can I give you a price range for the operation, but a plastic surgeon could. Ask your doctor for a referral or check the Yellow Pages of your telephone book for a board-certified specialist.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Why bid a second suit in competitive auctions when you have already found a fit with your partner? There are three reasons. First, the hand may play better with the second suit as trump. Second, you may want that second suit led if the opponents buy the contract. Third, telling your partner about your second suit might help him make a crucial decision about whether to bid on. If none of those reasons apply, it's silly to tell your opponents about that second suit lurking in your hand.

In today's auction, South knew that he was going to bid to the five-level. If the opposition bid five spades, he would try to defeat that contract. Surely he did not want his partner to lead diamonds, and he certainly did not want to play in diamonds rather than in hearts. But he still bid five diamonds. Look what that bid created.

West doubled, and then doubled five hearts. He led a heart, and upon regaining the lead, he played another heart. Because declarer was now unable to ruff out all his diamond losers, he had to go down a trick. Suppose instead that South had simply bid five hearts over East's four spades. He might well be doubled, but West, with no knowledge of South's secondary diamond suit, might just select the diamond king for his opening lead. That lead would wrap up five hearts doubled for South.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
NOVEMBER 7, 1985

In the year ahead, make it a point to associate with people in the forefront of progressive ventures. You'll be lucky with those who have a pioneering spirit.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't be afraid to take on new projects or assignments today, especially if they're presented by a person with upbeat ideas. All should work out well. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a special knack today for turning losers into winners, particularly where your career is concerned. Don't give up the ghost.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to take the unworkable ideas of associates and transform them into something effective and useful.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's imperative to keep your priorities in order today. Maximum effort should be devoted to matters that can add to your holdings or enhance your security.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't worry today about what others think of you. The only thing important is what you think of yourself. Success is the companion of self-worth.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Overall conditions appear rather profitable for you today. But you might not receive an immediate return on what you're working on now.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Friendly competition will provide you with the greatest pleasure today. You need a little challenge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This is a good day to entertain select friends at your place. Your graciousness as a host or hostess will make this a memorable event.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Set aside the cares of the workaday world today and take a recreational break. Do something fun and carefree or even frivolous.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A profitable lead may be given to you today by a family member or relative. Be sure to check it out; it could mean extra money in your pocket.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be sure that your plans are flexible today. An unexpected opportunity may develop, and you'll want to have the mobility to change course.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Something good is stirring for you now, but it may be temporarily screened from your view. Soon it will emerge into the sunlight.

Citrus Scores In Fast-Cooking Soup-Er Bowl

Americans have turned game-watching into a sport of its own. Friends and family gather around the TV, and each play is dissected while the coach is given vocal instructions about how to do his job. Hours later, an exhausted and either bouyant or disgruntled group seeks hearty sustenance and a chance to give a complete replay.

A tureen of steaming, home-made soup is a guaranteed crowd pleaser on such an occasion. And Citrus Soup-er Bowl is a fast-cooking, robust soup athat warrants cheers from the whole team. Tiny meat balls, chopped onion, green pepper and rice team up with a savory broth of convenient Florida frozen concentrated orange juice canned beef broth. Offer a choice of breads, corn muffins, garlic bread, or sesame bread sticks, and add cheese and a tossed salad to round out the meal.

Homemade soups are better the second time around, so this might be made the day before and reheated slowly while the game's in progress. It's also one of the those recipes that freezes beautifully so it could even be stored in the freezer way ahead of schedule.

Another dish you might prepare and freeze ahead of time — this one for a more formal, sit-down dinner after the game — is Orange Chicken Rollatine. Roll each of eight boned and skinned chicken breasts around a slice of cooked ham and fasten with food picks. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and bake. Does this sound easy enough? It is, and super-delicious as well, with a pungent orange sauce that's equally simple to make. Just combine Florida orange juice with melted butter, season with tarragon and pour over the chicken as it's baking.

When the whistle blows and the team jogs out onto the field, relax and enjoy! Win or lose, your mealtime game plan is unbeatable.

CITRUS SOUP-ER BOWL

1 1/2 pounds ground beef
1 teaspoon salt
3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper
2 large cloves garlic, minced
1 can (6 ounces) Florida frozen concentrated orange juice thawed, undiluted

2 cans (13 3/4 ounces) beef broth, undiluted
7 cups water
3/4 cups uncooked rice
1 teaspoon dried leaf thyme

Mix ground beef with salt; shape into 1/2-inch meatballs. In a large, heavy kettle or Dutch oven, melt butter over medium heat; brown meatballs. Remove meatballs; keep hot. Add onion, green pepper and garlic to kettle; saute until vegetables are tender. Add concentrated orange juice, beef broth and water; bring to boiling; stir in rice and thyme. Cover; simmer 15 minutes; add meatballs, cook 10 minutes longer, until meatballs are heated and rice is tender. YIELD: 8 servings.

To freeze: Cool soup to room temperature. Pour into freezer containers or individual freezing bags. Seal tightly, label and freeze. To serve, place frozen soup in saucepan. Cover. Heat slowly, separatn with fork as soup thaws. Heat through; do not boil.

ORANGE CHICKEN ROLLATINE

8 whole chicken breasts, boned and skinned
8 slices cooked ham
1 cup packaged dry bread crumbs

2 1/2 cups Florida orange juice
1 tablespoon butter or margarine, melted
1 tablespoon dried leaf tarragon
Salt to taste

Place chicken breasts, skin side down on flat surface. Place on slice of ham on each breast; roll up and secure with food picks. Sprinkle with bread crumbs. Arrange in large, shallow baking dish. Bake in 400°F. oven 15 minutes, turning once during baking. Combine orange juice, butter, tarragon, orange rind and salt; pour over chicken. Reduce oven temperature to 350°F; bake 30 minutes longer, turning chicken occasionally. Serve with hot cooked rice, if desired. YIELD: 8 servings.

To freeze: Line a baking dish with heavy-duty aluminum foil, leaving enough overhang for wrapping. Place chicken and sauce in prepared dish. Freeze. Lift foil and food out of baking dish. Wrap. Return to freezer. To serve, unwrap frozen chicken, place in baking dish. Place in 350°F. oven until heated through.

Chicken Caramba Goes To A Picnic

Whether you take an invigorating hike, tailgate at the stadium or simply enjoy a sylvan setting, autumn picnics are a joy. The air crackles, the leaves are turning and the weather brings the color to your cheeks.

Appetites are keener in the open air, so it's important to serve a robust dish to please the crowd. A hearty salad like Chicken Caramba fills the bill beautifully, with chunks of chicken, kidney beans, sticks of zucchini, red onion slices and chilled sections of oranges from Florida all napped in a mustardy vinaigrette. Bring along a loaf of crusty bread and top off the meal with the sumptuous flavor of Oatmeal Fruit Bars.

Some amenities should be considered, even when "roughing it." Start with a well-packed basket. You might want to invest in some inexpensive cutlery with colorful plastic handles, but for glasses and plates, the new plastics are hard to beat. Bandanas from the five and ten cents store make napkins that won't fly away with the first breeze. It's simple touches such as these that make the food taste better, adding to the pleasures of an autumn picnic.

And don't forget, citrus juices make the best thirst-quenchers with a bonus of vitamin C to help make your outing a healthy and happy one.

CHICKEN CARAMBA

2 cans (15 1/4 ounces each) red kidney beans, drained
3 cups chilled Florida orange and grapefruit sections
3 cups cut-up, cooked chicken
1 medium Zucchini, cut in julienne sticks (1 1/2 cups)
3/4 cup sliced red onion
3/5 cup vegetable oil
1/5 cup white wine vinegar
1/4 cup Florida orange juice

2 teaspoons Dijon-style mustard
1 clove garlic, minced
1/2 teaspoon ground cumin
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/5 teaspoon pepper

In large bowl combine kidney beans, orange sections, chicken, zucchini and onion. In small bowl combine oil, vinegar, orange juice, mustard, garlic, cumin, salt and pepper; mix well. Pour over salad; toss lightly. Cover. Refrigerate several hours. Toss again just before serving. Yield: 8 servings.

OATMEAL FRUIT BARS

1 cup pitted dates, coarsely chopped
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, thawed, undiluted
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 1/2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 1/2 cups rolled oats
3/4 cup chopped nuts

In medium saucepan combine dates, water and 1/2 cup orange juice concentrate. Stir over medium heat 15 to 20 minutes until all liquid is absorbed. Remove from heat; cool to room temperature. In large mixer bowl cream butter and brown sugar; beat in remaining 1/2 cup orange juice concentrate. In a medium bowl sift together flour, baking soda and salt; stir in oats and nuts. Stir dry ingredients into butter mixture to form a soft dough.

Spread half the dough over the bottom of a greased and floured 9-inch square baking pan. Spread date mixture evenly over dough. Spread remaining dough over dates. Bake in a preheated 375°F. oven 25 to 30 minutes until golden brown. Cool in pan. Cut into bars. Yield: 16 to 20 bars.

Cook Of The Week

She Juggles A Full-Time Job, School And Homemaking

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

Not many of us can juggle a full-time job, school and homemaking successfully and still manage a happy, well-balanced lifestyle the way our Cook of the Week does, and with cheerful determination.

Lori Ferry of Longwood is a young homemaker who has earned an AA Degree at Seminole Community College and is now working toward her Bachelor's Degree at UCF. Lori's objective is a Master's Degree in Marketing and has given herself a target date of about two years to accomplish that goal and is very confident that she will do it.

Lori loves to cook and is very quick to admit that her mom, sister and brother are all excellent cooks also. In fact, Lori and her brother and sister, John and Lisa, were the subjects of a "cooking" article when they were 16, 15 and 12 years of age, respectively. The article depicted their joint efforts in the kitchen and the fun they had doing it together. Therefore, our young cook has had a good head start and her early experience in food preparation is paying dividends now. Lori remembers attending a cooking seminar when she was in the Girl Scouts and, she says, "That's when I really started being active in the kitchen. In fact, the Beef Put Together Recipe is one that I learned in the Girl Scouts all those years ago. I really liked it so much that I still use it."

"I never had any formal cooking lessons," says Lori. "I just always hung around the kitchen looking over my mom's shoulder. She's one of the best cooks, and I don't think I'd be able to cook as well as I do now if my Mom wasn't an extraordinarily good cook."

A native of the Washington, D.C. area, Lori and her family moved to Central Florida when she was about 8 years old. A graduate of Bishop Moore High School, Lori was on the track team for a while and was also a "Wrestlerette." For more than five years, Lori has enjoyed her "flexible" job at Maitland Auto Parts and is in charge of inventory control. "I also work at the counter and deliver parts," says Lori. "That's what I like about it," she says. "When it's slow in the office, I say 'Let me take a run' and off I go to deliver parts."

One of the nicest things about Lori's job is the way she met her husband, Jim. "He was an auto mechanic, and I delivered parts to the garage where he worked. We started dating and were married in July of 1981," says Lori. As with most young couples, Lori and Jim make the most of their spare time by doing fun things together and by entertaining friends in their home.

"We like to go fishing often with some of our friends," says Lori. "Just last week we caught a lot of flounder and it was really something new for me to try cooking fish. I'd had no experience at all in cooking it, but I put it in aluminum foil with lemon juice and seasonings and steamed it on the grill. It was so good, I couldn't believe it!" Besides fishing, Lori and Jim enjoy canoeing with friends on the Wekiva River.

Lori is no stranger to travel and has enjoyed many family vacations, but an especially memorable trip to Europe with a stop in Italy to visit her mom's relatives is something she'll never forget. "My grandfather has about nine brothers and sisters still living there," says Lori. "We spent an entire day there and had some really authentic Italian cooking. They had at least 14 courses. It took us two hours and 15 minutes to eat lunch! They were total strangers to me, yet they were so warm and friendly. It was one of the greatest days of my life." Lori was amazed to find that they had saved photographs of her and her family that her grandmother had sent to them throughout the years. "They even had pictures of my wedding," she says.

Sharing the Ferry household are a parrot named Sam, a 16 year old Siamese cat called Ash which Lori has had since she was 8 years old, and Bud and Ace, their two dogs. Sam hasn't learned to talk yet, says Lori, but they're working on it. "We talk to him all the time, but he's young and it takes time."

Lori enjoys a close relationship with her brother and sister and speaks proudly of both. Lisa, a brand new bride, also attends UCF and takes some of the same classes as Lori. "Just this past week," says Lori, "I drove to Melbourne where she lives now, and studied with her all night. We were studying for the same test. We've been in a couple of classes together which is real nice." Lori's brother, John, is in the lawn maintenance business and uses his expertise to beautify the landscape.

"We really got into gardening last year," says Lori. Jim built a wood frame over the garden and ran PVC pipe along the top to keep the plants watered, and even put a fence around it to keep the dogs out of it, but it didn't do so well. Then we went to visit my grandfather in West Virginia and brought back some of his grape vines and planted them. Now we have grape vines all over where the vegetable garden used to be. Soon we hope to be able to pick some grapes."

Lori's day is well planned to fit her busy schedule. "When I get home at night I have a good hour or two to study because Jim doesn't get home until late. Then I start preparing supper about 7:30 or so," she says. Lori found that taking night classes were bogging her schedule, cutting down on study time, social time and homemaking chores, so a change to morning classes this term was in order. "I hope to be able to take one night class next term, though," says Lori.

Lori's formula for her future is earmarked for success. Plans for a family are down the road a bit, and, she says, "Right now I would just like to get my degree and get a really nice job and work for a couple of years."

Holiday Pleasures

Easy, Elegant Desserts

One of the joys of the holidays is celebrating the season with family and friends. Whether the occasion is a casual get-together or a formal dinner party, choosing special desserts is important. The desserts you serve should be delicious, but easy to prepare since the holidays are the busiest time of year. The recipes given here are for four delicious desserts that are just what they're elegant but easy.

The reason for the ease of preparation is the ingredients: unsweetened cocoa, peanut butter chips and unsweetened condensed milk. Unsweetened cocoa provides delicious chocolate taste without the fuss of premelting; peanut butter chips offer the flavor of real peanuts and are conveniently poured right from the package; and sweetened condensed milk, a pre-cooked blend of milk and sugar, supplies a creamy no-cook base for many desserts.

PEANUT BUTTER CHIP CHEESECAKE
(Makes one 9-inch cheesecake)
1/2 cup margarine or butter, melted

1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/2 cup cocoa
1/2 cup sugar
1 cup peanut butter chips
2 (8-ounce) packages cream cheese, softened
1 (14-ounce) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (NOT evaporated milk)
4 eggs

1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Whipped cream and chocolate curls or shavings, optional

Preheat oven to 300°. Combine margarine, crumbs, cocoa and sugar; press firmly on bottom of 9-inch springform pan or 13x9-inch baking pan. Melt chips in top of double boiler over hot, not boiling, water. Meanwhile, beat cheese until fluffy. Gradually beat in sweetened condensed milk and melted chips until smooth. Add eggs and vanilla; mix well. Pour into prepared pan. Bake 50 to 60 minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Cool to room temperature. Chill thoroughly. Garnish with whipped cream and chocolate

Seafood Competition Set

It's time again to prepare for the most prestigious culinary competition in the South! Florida's "Second Annual Governor's Cup For Seafood Excellence," the culinary competition to select Florida's best seafood chef is scheduled for Feb. 5, 1986. Governor Graham has extended the invitation to over 800 chefs across the state to participate in this year's competition.

The Florida Seafood competition will be held at the beautiful, national headquarters facility of the American Culinary Federation in St. Augustine. The Governor's Cup will be hosted by the Florida Department of Natural Resources, Bureau of Seafood

Marketing.

Four finalists along with last year's winner, Chef Keith Keogh, will set the culinary pace.

The food competition will have an added requirement this year with a mystery box prepared for hors d'oeuvres that will be judged on health conscious criteria.

Pops Are Tops When It Comes To Special Birthday Parties

Birthday parties must take the cake for ranking high on the excitement scale for children. Balloons, streamers and confetti all emphasize that this is a special day, and the birthday child has not only all the attention, but the additional honor of acting as host or hostess during the celebration. The smart mother organizes the decorations, the games and even the food to make sure everything runs smoothly. From "Pin The Tail On The Donkey" to the last wave from the front door, children's parties are major events.

Orange Yogurt Pops add to the festivity. The yogurt-based mixture is flavored with piquant Florida orange juice concentrate, then frozen with a pop-stick or plastic spoon for a holder. Crisp orange sugar cookies are baked with a slit in the center through which the pop-stick is inserted. The delicious cookie acts as an edible coaster for the luscious treat.

For guests of all sizes, Florida orange juice concentrate makes a marvelous ingredient in desserts. But to children especially, orange is a comforting flavor, familiar since infancy. It says Happy Birthday with a smile.

ORANGE YOGURT PARTY POPS

2 cups (16 ounce container) vanilla yogurt
 1/2 cup Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, undiluted

1/4 cup sugar
 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
 Chocolate flavor hard shell topping (optional)

Combine yogurt, concentrated orange juice and sugar until well-blended. Fold in whipped cream. Divide evenly into 8 (7 ounce) flat-bottom plastic drink cups. Insert a plastic or wooden pop-stick in center of each. Freeze until firm. To serve, remove pops from plastic cups. Place an Orange Party Pop Cookie on each pop-stick. Decorate with hard shell topping, if desired.

Yield: 8 pops.

ORANGE PARTY POP COOKIES

3/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 1 teaspoon baking powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
 2 eggs

1 tablespoon Florida frozen concentrated orange juice, undiluted

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt; set aside. In large mixing bowl, cream butter and sugar together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and concentrated orange juice; blend well. Gradually add sifted dry ingredients until well-blended. Cover dough with plastic wrap. Chill in refrigerator 2 hours. Roll dough on a lightly floured surface with a lightly floured rolling pin to a thickness of 1/8 to 1/4-inch thick. Cut 3-inch circles with a floured cutter. Using tip of a knife, cut 1/2-inch long slits in center of each cookie. Place on lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in a pre-heated 400°F. oven 6-8 minutes or until cookies are lightly browned. Remove to cooling rack. Cool.

Yield: Approximately 3 1/2 dozen cookies.

NOTE: Extra cookies may be frozen for later use.

SPICY HERB-BROILED CHICKEN

1 broiler-fryer chicken, cut in parts

1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
 1/2 teaspoon dried mint
 1 cup cider vinegar
 1/2 cup soy sauce
 2 tablespoons cooking oil
 2 cloves garlic, pressed
 1/2 teaspoon hot pepper flakes
 1 cup chicken broth
 2 tablespoons catsup
 1/2 cup plain yogurt

In large bowl, make marinade by mixing together poultry seasoning, mint, vinegar, soy sauce, cooking oil, garlic and hot pepper flakes. Add chicken, turning to coat, and marinate at least 30 minutes. On broiler pan, place chicken, skin side down; broil 5 inches from heat for about 15 minutes. Turn chicken, brush with marinade and broil for about 15 minutes more or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Remove chicken to warm platter. Drain broiler pan; remove and discard any excess fat. To pan, add chicken broth, catsup and remaining marinade; simmer over medium heat until reduced by a third. Add yogurt and broil to boil. Serve with chicken. Makes 4 servings.

*All recipes prepared in the Cook-off along with other chicken recipes and information are included in The Chicken Cookbook. It is available for $1.75 per copy (check or money order only; do not send cash) from: Chicken Cookbook, Department NBC, Box 307, Coventry, Connecticut 06238.

HEAVENLY CHOCOLATE-BERRY PIE

1 1/4 cups graham cracker crumbs
 1/4 cup granulated sugar
 1/4 cup margarine, melted

1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese, softened

1/4 cup packed brown sugar
 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

1 6-oz. pkg. semi-sweet chocolate pieces

1 cup whipping cream, whipped

2 tablespoons margarine, melted

Whole strawberries
 Combine crumbs, granulated sugar and margarine; press onto bottom and sides of 9-inch pie plate. Bake at 325°, 10 minutes. Cool.

Combine cream cheese, brown sugar and vanilla, mixing until well blended. Blend in 1/2 cup chocolate pieces, melted. Fold in whipped cream. Spoon into crust; chill several hours or overnight.

Combine remaining chocolate pieces and margarine; stir over low heat until smooth. Arrange strawberries on top of pie; drizzle with chocolate mixture. Chill.

6-8 servings

PARSLEYED POTATO FRITTATA

4 servings

A frittata is an Italian omelet made with the filling in the eggs and served flat. Try this for a family weekend brunch. It's hearty, reminiscent in flavor of the German "farmers' breakfast."

2 tablespoons butter
 2 cups (8 oz.) frozen Southern-style hash
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 8 eggs
 1 cup snipped fresh parsley
 1/2 cup dairy sour cream
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 Paprika, optional

In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet with ovenproof handle* over medium heat, melt butter. Add potatoes and onion. Cover and cook, stirring occasionally, until potatoes are lightly browned, about 15-20 minutes. Reduce heat to low. Beat together eggs, parsley, sour cream and salt. Pour over potatoes. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired. Cook until eggs are almost set, 12-15 minutes. Broil about six inches from heat until eggs are completely set, about 3-5 minutes. To serve, cut into wedges and serve from pan or slide from pan onto platter.

*To make handle ovenproof, wrap completely with foil.

Microwave Magic

Cooler Days Call For Hearty One-Dish Meals

As I write this week's microwave article, Orlando has been for several days the hottest place in the nation, but I am hopeful that somewhat cooler days will be with us soon, and with that thought in mind these recipes for casseroles and heartier one-dish meals might be useful.

It will also be a good time to experiment with converting some of your favorite recipes to the microwave. Many recipes will convert with very little effort while others require a bit more experimentation. Some of these suggestions may be helpful to you as you convert recipes in your "test kitchen."

1. Compare similar recipes in your microwave instruction cookbook with your recipe. Use the ingredients called for in the recipe and combine them, but add the liquid gradually reducing your quantity by 1/4 (no

Midge Mycoff

Community College

moisture is lost through evaporation in microwave cooking.)

2. Cooking utensils (casseroles, batterbowls, etc.) need to be slightly larger and filled only to the half way mark to allow for bubble-up and extra height in the case of baked goods.

3. Adjust cooking time. Casseroles usually require 1/4 of conventional cooking time. It is better to undercook and then add more time. Overcooking ruins food. Check the food frequently as you are experimenting and keep track of the time by writing it down so the process will be easier the next time you prepare the recipe (document your findings). Don't forget to allow for standing time to complete the cooking and include this in your recipe.

These recipes have all been tested on a 600-700 watt microwave oven. Enjoy these and convert at least one of your own.

MICROWAVE BEEF-A-RONI

- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 - 1 medium onion, chopped
 - 1-1/2 pounds ground chuck
 - 1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
 - 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
 - 1 teaspoon thyme leaves
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 (8 oz.) macaroni, cooked and drained
 - 2 cups (8 oz.) cheddar cheese grated
 - 1/4 cup grated Romano cheese
- Combine green pepper and onion in 1 1/4 quart casserole. Crumble beef and add to casserole. Microwave on 100% power, uncovered, 5-8 minutes, or until meat is no longer pink, stirring once. Drain. Stir in tomatoes, tomato sauce, thyme, salt and pepper. Microwave, uncovered, 7-8 minutes, or until bubbly, stirring once. Cook macaroni as directed on the package. Rinse and drain.

Layer half of the macaroni, meat sauce and cheddar cheese in a 12x8 inch baking dish. Repeat the layers. Sprinkle with the Romano cheese. Microwave on 100% power 8-11 minutes, or until hot and bubbly.

MAZZARETTI

- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 package (8 oz.) wide egg noodles, cooked until almost tender and drain
- 1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
- 1 large clove garlic, crushed
- 4 ribs celery, chopped (1 1/2 cups)
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1 can (12 oz.) corn, undrained
1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 can (4 oz.) mushrooms
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 teaspoons salt — or to taste

Celery leaves, crushed — optional
1/2 teaspoon fresh ground pepper

Brown beef well in a large, heavy, hot skillet over medium heat, stirring occasionally to break up meat. Drain off fat and discard. Add onion, celery, and garlic in melted butter until onion is tender, 5-7 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add beef noodle mixture. Stir in corn, soup, mushrooms, milk, salt, and pepper until well mixed.

Turn into greased round 3-quart casserole. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake, uncovered, in preheated oven, 400°. Cook for 25-30 minutes or until hot and bubbly. Garnish with chopped celery leaves. Makes 6-8 servings.

For microwave oven assemble as above. Cover and cook for 5-8 minutes at 100% power.

QUICK BAKED-BEAN AND KIELBASA CASSEROLE

- 2 pounds precooked kielbasa (see note)
- 3 tablespoons Dijon-style mustard (about 3)
- 2 cans (16 oz.) baked beans
- 1 medium onion, sliced thin
- 1/4 cup dry red wine
- 1/4 cup fine dry bread crumbs mixed with 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- Fresh ground pepper (to taste)

Cut kielbasa crosswise into 2-3 inch pieces; halve pieces length-wise. Spread cut sides of kielbasa and apply mustard to each side.

In a greased 2-quart casserole, layer a third each of beans, onions, kielbasa pieces, mustard over all. Sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Cover and bake in preheated 375° oven. Cook for 30 minutes. Uncover and bake for 10 minutes more or until crumbs are lightly browned and beans are hot and bubbly. Serves 4-6.

You may substitute another precooked sausage or frankfurters for kielbasa.
Microwave oven assemble as above. Cover and microwave 8-10 minutes or until heated through.

CHILI BAKE

- 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 (10 oz.) can hot enchilada sauce
- 1 (8 oz.) can tomato sauce
- 1 (15 oz.) can pinto beans
- 2 1/2 cups crushed corn chips
- 1 cup shredded sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 cup dairy sour cream

In a 3-quart casserole dish, crumble ground beef, add the onion and green pepper. Cover and microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes, or until the meat is no longer pink. Stir several times during the cooking. Drain off excess fat. Stir in the enchilada and tomato sauces. Cover and microwave on 100% power 6-8 minutes. Stir once. Drain beans; stir beans, 1 cup of the corn chips and 1/4 cup of the cheese into the meat mixture. Cover and microwave on 100% power 6-8 minutes. Stir, then spread sour cream over top; sprinkle remaining chips and cheese over the top. Microwave just till the sour cream is hot. About 30-50 seconds.

A new class in microwaving has just begun at Seminole Community College, Wednesday 6-9. There is still time to join this class to become more knowledgeable about microwave cooking or a more informed consumer if you intend to purchase a microwave oven in the near future.

Looking toward the holiday season, Lori says that she enjoys making hand crafted gifts and last year she made each relative a personalized picture frame. "I'd like to do the same thing this year," says Lori. "I have so many relatives and they are all so creative. My aunts all sew and even my grandfather gets into it. He cuts up his grapevines and makes beautiful Christmas wreaths out of them. Almost every ornament on our tree is something one of my relatives has made. Every year they send us new ornaments for the tree, so I would really like to give them something I've made myself." Lori's thoughtfulness and personal touch is sure to make her loved ones happy this Christmas.

Lori says that Jim is a good cook, too, but "He's good in the dessert field," says Lori. "He bakes pies and he has a recipe for Magic Bars that he likes to make, but he doesn't cook as much as he did when we were first married."

Preparing the main course is Lori's primary concern, and rumor has it that Jim is very proud of his wife's culinary results. Below is a collection of Lori's favorite recipes which have proven themselves over and over whether served to family or guests:

BEEF PUT TOGETHER

- 1 No. 2 1/2 can tomatoes (3 1/2 cups)
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 1/2 cup green pepper, cut into thin strips
- 2/3 cup chopped onion
- 1 tablespoon shortening
- 1 1/2 pounds ground chuck
- 3/4 cup quick cooking rice

Place tomatoes in mixing bowl. Break up large pieces with a fork. Add seasonings, green pepper and onion. Melt shortening in skillet on high heat. Add beef. Switch to medium and stir occasionally until well browned. Add tomato mixture and rice to beef. Stir well; cover. Bring to a boil then switch to low heat. Let simmer 15-20 minutes. Serves 6.

RINDERROULADEN

- 1 round steak, tenderized
- 1 pound sausage
- 1 teaspoon salt

- 1 medium onion, sliced
 - 1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
 - 1 can (16 oz.) sauerkraut
 - 2 teaspoons caraway seeds
- Cut steak into serving pieces (2" x 2"). Roll sausage meat into little links and place a link on each piece of steak and roll up. Fasten with toothpicks. Brown meat slowly in oil. Pour off drippings and season with salt. Add onion, tomatoes and caraway seeds and liquid from sauerkraut, reserving sauerkraut to add later. Cover tightly and cook slowly for 1 hour. Add sauerkraut and continue to simmer 30 minutes longer or until tender. Serve with potato cakes. Serves 4 to 6.

CHICKEN-BROCCOLI BAKE

- 2 cups chicken broth
 - 3/4 cup long grain rice
 - 3 tablespoons butter
 - 3 tablespoons flour
 - 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 - Dash of pepper
 - 2 cups milk
 - 2 cups cubed chicken
 - 1 package frozen broccoli (10 oz.)
 - 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms
- In saucepan, bring chicken broth and rice to boiling. Simmer, covered, 15 minutes. Remove from heat and let stand, covered, for 10 minutes. Melt butter, stir in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk slowly; cook and stir until bubbly. Stir in chicken, cooked rice, drained broccoli, and mushrooms (drained). Place in 2 quart baking dish for 30-35 minutes. Serves 6.

APRICOT GLAZED PORK ROAST

- 1 pork loin rib end roast (4 pounds)
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - Pepper to taste
 - 1/2 cup brown sugar, packed
 - 1 tablespoon cornstarch
 - 1 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1 cup apricot nectar
 - 2 teaspoons cider vinegar

PEANUT BUTTER TORTE

- (Makes 10-12 servings)
- 6 eggs, separated
- 2/3 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 cup peanut butter chips, chopped
- Chocolate Whipped Cream (recipe follows)

Preheat oven to 325°. Line bottom of two 8-inch round cake pans with wax paper; set aside.

Beat egg whites in large mixer bowl until foamy; gradually add 1/2 cup sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Set aside. Beat egg yolks in small mixer bowl until thick and lemon colored; gradually add remaining 1/2 cup sugar, beating until thick and light in color. Gently fold in vanilla, flour and bread crumbs, blending well. Fold in 1/2 cup of the chopped peanut butter chips and about 1 cup beaten egg whites; gently fold egg yolk mixture into remaining whites. Spoon mixture into prepared pans; spread evenly. Bake for 20-25 minutes or until top springs back when lightly touched. Place cake in pan upside down on wire rack which has been covered with a clean cloth dusted with confectioners' sugar; cool completely. Turn right side up; loosen edges with metal spatula. Turn out of pan onto cutting board; remove wax paper. With long serrated knife, using a sawing motion, cut each layer in half horizontally to form 4 thin layers. Prepare Chocolate Whipped Cream. Place one cake layer on serving plate. Spread with 1/2 cup Chocolate Whipped Cream. Repeat layering with remaining three cake layers and Chocolate Whipped Cream, ending with cream. Sprinkle remaining peanut butter chips on top around outer edge. Cover and chill at least 8 hours before cutting. (For ease in cutting use a serrated knife.)

*Chop by hand or in nut chopper, do not use a food processor or blender.

Chocolate Whipped Cream:

- 1/2 cup sugar
 - 6 tablespoons cocoa
 - 1/2 cups whipping or heavy cream
 - 1/2 teaspoons vanilla
- Combine sugar and cocoa in large mixer bowl. Add cream and vanilla; beat until stiff.

QUICK BLACK FOREST CAKE

- (Makes one 8-inch cake)
- 2 cups graham cracker crumbs
- 1 (14-ounce) can Eagle Brand Sweetened Condensed Milk (NOT evaporated milk)
- 1 cup finely chopped almonds, melted
- 1 cup margarine or butter, melted
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 eggs
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon almond extract
- 1 (21-ounce) can cherry pie filling, chilled
- 1 (4-ounce) container frozen non-dairy whipped topping, thawed

Preheat oven to 350°. In large mixing owl, combine all ingredients except pie filling and whipped topping; mix well. Pour into two well-greased and floured 8-inch round cake pans. Bake 25 minutes or until wooden pick inserted near center comes out clean. Remove from pans; cool thoroughly. Place 1 cake layer on serving plate, top side up. Top with half the pie filling. Top with second cake layer then remaining pie filling to within 1/2 inch of edge. Frost side and 1/2-inch rim on top of cake with whipped topping. Cover; chill 6-8 hours before serving. Store cake covered in refrigerator.

Dips And Spreads Set The Stage For A Relaxing Evening

Cocktail party food is an eclectic mix that has evolved over time. Appetizers have routinely come into vogue and faded into obscurity, but a few have stayed around for years, becoming party traditions. Dips, spreads and cheese balls are classic examples. Their great flavors, informality, versatility and make-ahead preparation make them favorites of hosts and guests alike. Teamed with an interesting variety of fresh vegetables and breads, dips and spreads set the stage for a relaxing evening.

A quick trip to the supermarket produce department can yield a treasure of a vegetable selection to serve as dippers. Experiment with jicama and black radish slices, red, yellow and purple sweet pepper chunks and the variety of popular baby vegetables to add new dimension to favorite dips and spreads. Be adventurous and try pita bread, dark rye, pumpernickel and the wide range of whole-grain breads as delightful change-of-taste alternatives to traditional crackers and chips.

Serve your supermarket bounty with the following Kraft Kitchens recipe suggestions at this season's casual parties. Rich with the classic flavor of Philadelphia Brand cream cheese, all three have maintained popularity for so long they have earned "hall of fame" status. A boon for busy cooks, they can be prepared in advance, even the night before, and whisked from the refrigerator at the first ring of the doorbell.

Vegetable-flecked Party Cheese Ball boasts a smooth, spreadable texture, a spicy-Cheddar cheese flavor and a coating of crunchy pecans. Parsley-Pepper Dip has a mild, rich flavor which complements fresh vegetables of all kinds, and Cucumber Cheese Spread makes an ideal topper for party rye, pumpernickel or whole grain breads or crackers.

If you have already discovered how smooth-spreading "Philly" cream cheese can add a special flavor and texture to your cocktail party foods, you could become a charter inductee into the "Philly" Hall of Fame and win one of four luxurious trips for two to historic Philadelphia, a city undergoing an exciting restaurant, hotel and boutique boom. The "Philly" Hall of Fame Recipe Contest is accepting entries until January 31, 1986. To enter, submit your original recipe using at least one 8-ounce package of Philadelphia Brand cream cheese in one of the four contest categories: A) Cookies and Desserts, B) Cheesecakes, C) Appetizers and Snacks or D) Main and Side Dishes. Almost any recipe is a potential winner, but only if contest rules are followed exactly.

For the recipe contest rules, write: Rules, "Philly" Hall of Fame Recipe Contest, P.O. Box 7691, Chicago, IL 60680-7691.
