

To Prevent Police Injuries

Sanford Police Adopt New Funeral Escort Policy

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Recent injuries to a Sanford police officer, incurred while he was escorting a funeral procession have led police officials to adopt a new escort policy.

In the past, officers escorting funeral processions through the city have blocked traffic at intersections, allowed the procession to pass, then "played leap-frog or catch-up by quickly passing the procession and blocking the next intersection," said Sgt. Herb Shea, assistant to Police Chief Ben Butler.

"This unwritten, yet verbal custom of handling processions has resulted in two of our officers being involved in accidents and nearly getting killed," he said.

Officer Andy Colazo was seriously injured in a November 1980 accident while escorting a funeral procession under the former "verbal" guidelines. According to City Manager Warren E. "Pete" Knowles, Colazo "was banged up pretty badly" and medical expenses and property damages incurred by the city reached more than $25,000. Knowles said Colazo was not charged in the accident but charges filed against the other motorist involved were later dismissed in court.

The most recent accident, involving Officer Paul Peterson, occurred on July 9 while he was blocking traffic for a funeral procession at a Sanford intersection. Peterson was hospitalized overnight for observation and released to perform light duties for about two weeks as a result of the crash, police said.

"Paul had let the procession go through the intersection and was going up beside them quickly to block the next intersection when a motorist made a left-hand turn without signaling and Peterson's motorcycle collided with the car," Shea said.

"Paul literally flew through the air," Knowles added. "He was shaken up quite a bit and was scratched up. He also landed against a trailer on the side of the road."

The Florida Highway Patrol investigated the accident and charged Peterson with improper passing and charged the other motorist involved with failure to signal a left turn, Shea added.

Knowles said about $1,000 in damages was done to the motorcycle. "But we have no idea what the medical costs will be yet, although they won't come close to what Colazo's were," he said.

"Our new, written policy will be that whenever we are able to provide the service and have manpower to do so, the officer will escort the procession in a marked police car and as they approach an intersection, another unit will respond by a route other than that taken by the procession, to block traffic and allow the procession to pass," Shea explained.

"At no time shall the speed of the escort exceed 25 mph," the directive states, adding that "at no time shall a police vehicle or motor unit attempt to pass the funeral procession to get to the front."

"The chief never did really like the way the processions were conducted before and wanted this policy written," Shea said. "Violation of the policy will result in disciplinary action."

The policy further provides that any accident occurring as a result of a violation of the policy will result in suspension without pay for a length of time to be determined by the police chief.

"This service is not provided free to all cities," Knowles said. "We want to provide this free, extra service here to serve a common need as long as we have manpower available. But if we risk the lives of officers and property damage and incur costs to the taxpayers as a result, it isn't really a free service."

School Food

Better Quality, Service Goals Of Adopted Report

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

School lunches: One of those things everybody complains about but nobody does anything to improve.

Well, that's not the case any more in Seminole County.

Seminole County School Board members took action Wednesday which they hope will be the first step toward improving the quality of food and food service in county schools.

The board unanimously approved the report of a committee which examined the system in depth and recommended dismantling the current satellite lunch system in favor of food preparation at each school.

The satellite lunch program was devised in the late 1960s to solve the rapid student population explosion. Because of limited construction funds, kitchen and dining rooms were eliminated from construction in favor of classrooms.

In the plan, small spaces for serving food were provided at schools with the students expected to return to their classrooms to eat.

Currently, school lunches are prepared at seven production centers and then transported to all county schools. This policy, according to the report, is responsible for complaints about cold food and poor menus.

The board agreed with the problems identified by the committee and adopted its list of short-term goals. Some of those short-term recommendations include a 5-cent increase in the cost of school lunches, an evaluation of the county's warehousing system as opposed to vendor delivery at individual schools and an evaluation of outside agencies to provide lunch services at high schools.

The board also agreed to set up a special meeting in October or November with members of the food service committee to review how those recommendations have been implemented and begin consideration of the long term goals for budgeting in fiscal 1983-84. The major long-term goal in the report is the construction of kitchen and dining room facilities at all new schools and the renovation of existing facilities.

Dan Pelham, a member of the Food Service Committee and Sanford Middle School principal said the biggest problem is the quality of the food.

Pelham explained meal preparation begins as early as 5 a.m. because of the quantities involved and they are transported to the schools as much as 2 1/2 hours before serving time. As a result, the food served is often overcooked or cold by the time it is served, Pelham said.

He explained food is not kept in a heating unit while it's being transported. From two to six workers are on hand at the schools to serve the lunches. No direct on-site supervision of the serving operation or personnel takes place, he said.

The conclusion of the report is the satellite system is not conducive to serving hot, good quality meals to the students. But the purchase of heat lamps and insulators to improve the quality on a short term basis is recommended while new facilities are constructed.

The report also recommends the review of food served in the program and the elimination of foods which do not retain their heat and quality.

Pelham also reported menus are not flexible enough to account for food preferences in some areas and the individual tastes of students.

The committee recommends increasing the number of days in which the individual schools can have its own menu. Currently, one day per month is manager's choice. The board suggests doubling that in November and December and increasing it to five times per month in January, February and March.

The report recommends using ground beef as the main course in those meals because of the many ways it can be prepared. The program will be reviewed in the spring to measure its effects.

Pelham said the public image of the county school food service is poor and needs to be improved through a concerted effort of school employees.

He recommended a slide show for presentation to staff, PTA and student groups about the food service operation and its goals. Newsletters and brochures explaining those goals and giving nutritional information also were recommended.

The report explained the most pressing long-range problem is constructing adequate kitchen and dining facilities at the schools.

At Teague Middle School, no lunch room exists and because principals have not allowed students to take lunches into carpeted classrooms, they have had only a covered picnic area outside the school building in which to eat, even in bad weather. A similar problem exists at Tuskawilla Middle School.

Students at Lawton, Bear Lake, Longwood, Lake Mary, Hopper and Casselberry elementary schools must carry their lunches from the serving area outside to their classrooms because the dining rooms have been converted into classrooms. The report recommends restoring those dining rooms.

Kitchens were closed and the equipment removed from Crooms High School, Jackson Heights and Milwee middle schools, and Lawton, Woodlands, and Spring Lake elementary schools and the Rosenwald Special Education Center. The report recommends remodeling and reactivating the kitchens at these schools, with the exception of Spring Lake and Crooms.

Lake Mary High School has complete kitchen and dining facilities. Lake Brantley and Lake Howell high schools have food serving areas and partial dining rooms. All other schools built since 1970 have only food serving areas with no dining facilities.

Rock Lake Middle School and Eastbrook and Wekiva elementary schools would be equipped with finishing kitchens, the report says.

Providing dining areas for students and modifying current serving and kitchen facilities is recommended at Lake Brantley and Lake Howell high schools, Teague and Tuskawilla middle schools and Idylwildie, Forest City, Spring Lake, Red Bug, Sterling Park, Winter Springs, Sabal Point and Lake Oriole elementary schools.

Full kitchen and dining facilities are recommended for Geneva and Wilson elementary schools because of their isolated locations.

NOT JUST MONKEYING AROUND

Everybody gets into the act when it's a zoo house ground breaking. And Wednesday was no exception as people and animals pitched in to do a little shoveling in the 300 block of Hidden Lake Drive in Hidden Lake Subdivision. Shoveling in back, from left, are Al Rozon, director of the Central Florida Zoo; Jerry Feinstein, zoo house coordinator for RCA; and Sanford Mayor Lee Moore. In front, from left, are Fred Wynn, an animal dealer; Martha Hepp, assistant zoo education coordinator; and Tom Williams, zoo education coordinator. The house will be built by Residential Communities of America and auctioned. The proceeds will go to the zoo.

Man Killed In Wreck

Orlando police are continuing their investigation today of an accident involving a tractor-trailer and a car which resulted in the death of a Winter Springs man Wednesday morning.

Michael Havley, 44, of 113 Murphy Road, died shortly after arriving at Florida Hospital-Orlando after his 1977 Pontiac collided with a 30-foot-long tractor-trailer at 5:30 a.m. on Orange Blossom Trail at Lee Road, Orlando, police said. Police estimated Havley's speed to be in excess of 60 mph at the time of the collision.

The driver of the tractor-trailer, George

Hysell, 28, and his passenger, Ruby Cross, 27, both of Carol City, Fla., were not injured in the crash, police said.

Police said no charges have been filed concerning the crash and that they are awaiting results of blood tests taken of the dead man.

Police said they have estimated the amount of damage to Havley's vehicle at about $3,000, while about $1,000 in damages was caused to Hysell's tractor-trailer.

Havley, who reportedly was married and had two children, was employed by Liquor World, Orlando, police said.

Marshland Funds Earmarked

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Some $9.4 million worth of flood plain marshlands will be purchased by the St. Johns River Water Management District in fiscal 1982-83 if a tentatively approved budget is adopted.

The district board of directors, after a strong lobbying effort from the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, its special St. Johns River Task Force, the city of Sanford and other Seminole County residents, tentatively approved a budget Wednesday earmarking funds for the purchases.

Mike Gray, Seminole County's representative on the district board, said today taxes will be increased in the 19 counties of the district, including Seminole from 12.1 cents per $1,000 assessed valuation to 24.8 cents to provide money for the land acquisition.

This means a person owning a home assessed at $50,000 will pay $12.40 annually, up from the $6.05 yearly taxes they were paying.

Public hearings on the tentative budget are scheduled for Sept. 7 in Palatka, Sept. 8 in Tavares and Sept. 22 in Palatka. The budget is scheduled to be formally adopted after the Sept. 22 hearing.

The new budget year begins Oct. 1. The increased tax will raise $5.1 million for acquisition of lands in the upper basin. In addition, the state from its "Save our Rivers" fund has allocated $4.3 million toward the purchases.

Gray said the district will buy as much of the 38,000 acres of marshland in Indian River and Brevard counties as possible with the new money available.

That much acreage, all in the flood plain and all marshlands, is available for negotiated purchase, Gray said.

"The increase in taxes is not that much per person but when tied together it makes a large amount," Gray said.

"Everyone recognized that the Sanford chamber was first to get into the battle and led the way in this project. There were several comments on the support from the chamber, Sanford and Seminole County in general," he said.

In addition, J.T. Turnipseed and Chester Brown of the Friends of the St. Johns and Don Asher of the St. Johns Coalition spoke to the board in favor of the acquisition project.

"The acquisition of wet lands has been talked about since 1966," Gray said, "but this is the first dramatic step toward realizing that goal."

He said the management district staff was given strong direction to make every effort to purchase as much property as possible with the funds available in the new year.

The purpose of acquiring the marshland is to provide natural storage of water during rainy seasons and the release of that water into the river during droughts. By this method, pollutants will be filtered from the river while flow will be controlled and increased when necessary.

Hospital For Longwood Approved

By JOE DeSANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

Their fears apparently put to rest about the impact a psychiatric hospital would have on Longwood's community, the city's Land Planning Agency has granted Hospital Corporation of America a conditional use permit to construct an 80-bed facility on a 5.9-acre site at State Road 434 and West Lake Road.

The unanimous approval came Wednesday night after HCA officials cleared up a misunderstanding about the corporation's original request to construct a 150-bed hospital that was supposed to contain a psychiatric wing and not a separate facility.

Back in January, the City Commission approved HCA's request to build a 150-bed hospital on a 26.5-acre site at the same location. That plan was revised to 100 beds after the settlement of a dispute with Florida Hospital over which company should be allowed to add beds in Orange and Seminole Counties.

HCA, however, took Longwood city officials by surprise in May when it announced plans to construct a separate psychiatric hospital on the site. The company originally planned to build the facility in the Goldenrod area, but a combination of neighborhood unrest and a sink hole-plagued building site led HCA to look elsewhere.

Following HCA's May announcement, City Attorney Marvin Rooks suggested to the commission that HCA be required to file for a conditional use permit because at the time the commission approved plans for the 150-bed facility, commission members were under the impression a psychiatric wing would be included in the same building.

HCA officials immediately filed for the conditional use permit and seemed eager to appease the city Wednesday.

HCA spokesman Jim McAllister told the five-member board the 80-bed psychiatric hospital already has been approved by the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services and that the permit to build was based on a need assessment of that type of facility. See HOSPITAL, Page 2A

Dade Kicking The Cons Out Of Public Housing

MIAMI (UPI) — Partially because of what they perceive as a turnaround in public support, Dade County officials have started evicting entire families from public housing if one of them is convicted of a crime.

Officials say the policy has been hard to enforce in the past because tenants were unwilling to cooperate with the department's investigations.

But now, after a growing number of complaints from tenants in public housing, officials say they are ready to begin strong enforcement of the policy. Three families have already been evicted this year and another eight families are under investigation and could be evicted later.

Policewoman Wounded

MIAMI (UPI) — Surgeons early today were attempting to save the life of a female Metro Dade police officer critically wounded during a struggle over her purse with two armed robbers.

Police said Officer Cheryl Seiden, 33, was being operated on at Baptist hospital for bullet wounds in the left side of her neck and in her shoulder.

Lebanon Wants Everyone Out, Including The PLO

United Press International
The long-divided Lebanese government, trying to prevent a blood bath in its capital, staged a rare show of solidarity to demand all foreign forces, including the Palestine Liberation Organization, leave its war-torn nation.

The action came as diplomats sent out mixed signals about the progress of peace negotiations. A cease-fire around Beirut held shakily despite sporadic artillery fire from both sides and a mock air strike by Israeli warplanes.

Iran Pushes Offensive

United Press International
Promising to send "this infidel regime to hell," the Iranian government urged on its 80,000 invasion troops battling inside Iraq and both sides claimed strategic victories in the explosive Persian Gulf War.

Iraq warned oil tankers Wednesday to avoid the "war zone" and nervous U.S. officials worried the conflict could spread to threaten Western oil supplies.

McCollum, Batchelor Seeking U.S. House Seat

U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Altamonte Springs, and his Democratic challenger, State Rep. Dick Batchelor, of Orlando are formally announcing their candidacy for Florida's fifth congressional seat in the U.S. House of Representatives.

The 5th District includes all of Seminole County, about 60 percent of Orange County and 22,000 residents in Lake County.

Batchelor 34, will make his formal announcement at noon Friday at the Vietnam Memorial on the steps of the administration building at Evans High School, 4949 Silver Star Road, in Orlando.

The site has special significance to Batchelor who graduated from Evans High School, in 1966 and immediately joined the U.S. Marine Corps, volunteering for duty in Vietnam.

McCollum 38, completing his first term in Congress, will make his formal announcement Friday at Rollins College, Winter Park.

The announcement will be made at a gathering of supporters at the McKean lakefront from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Refreshments will be provided. In case of rain, the event will be held in the Student Union.

Railroad Into Space

The space shuttle Columbia's consummate landing wrote an appropriate finish to the testing phase of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's shuttle program. Now, the $4-billion, decade-long effort to build a "railroad into space" must begin to pay its own way via commercial and military applications.

The odds are good that the Columbia and its three sister ships will do just that. Columbia's four test flights during the last 15 months demonstrated conclusively that NASA has the vehicle design and related technology to ferry large payloads into orbital space.

Columbia's turnaround time has decreased with each flight. This suggests that the shuttle will be able to meet the routine schedules necessary for successful commercial ventures and for servicing space stations.

NASA's present goal of 26 shuttle missions per year may still be some time away, but Columbia's success shows that achieving this benchmark is well within the bounds of existing technology. The next few years should demonstrate whether it is commercially feasible as well.

The near-perfect vacuums obtainable in space should permit the manufacture of metal alloys and pharmaceuticals that are difficult or impossible to produce on earth. These possibilities alone have generated enough commercial interest to pit NASA in competition with the Western European Ariane program for future shuttle business.

Beyond these immediate commercial prospects lie the possible construction of permanent solar energy platforms and, of course, orbiting space stations themselves. President Reagan pointedly avoided a commitment to NASA's proposed space station program in his remarks at Edwards Air Force Base, but few can doubt that orbiting space stations will one day be a reality.

The shuttle's military applications may pay the most important dividends during the next few years. The Soviet Union has already successfully tested a prototype killer satellite. An operational system posing a permanent threat to U.S. communications and reconnaissance satellites may be only a year or so away.

In addition, the Soviets appear well ahead of the United States in developing laser weapons with multiple applications on earth and in space.

Shuttle technology will probably be decisive in countering the Soviet Union's drive to seize control of what has been appropriately called the "high frontier" of orbital space.

And looming on an even more distant horizon is the possibility of a space-based anti-ballistic missile defense system that could effectively protect this country from even an all-out Soviet nuclear attack. Without the shuttle, it is difficult to imagine how any such system could ever be built.

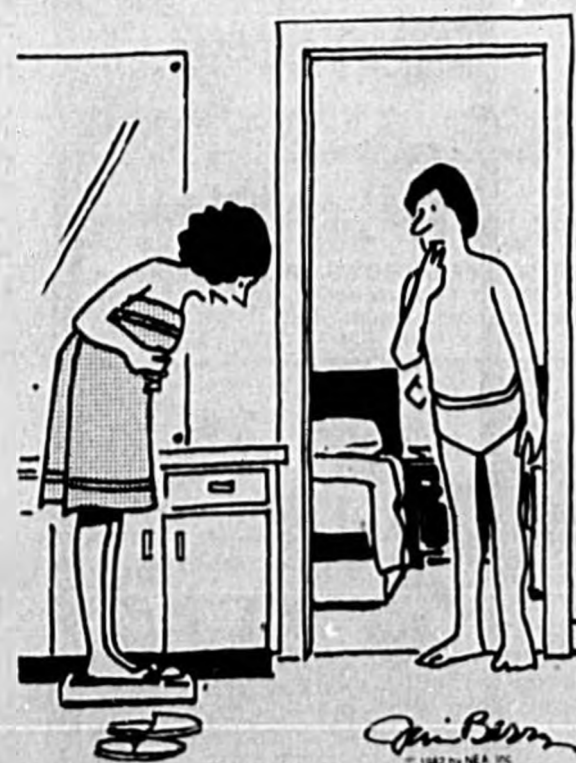

For the moment, the shuttle's future remains the province of commercial and technological vision. But the latter has already produced the most complex vehicle ever built and then sent it on four round-trip missions totaling more than 9 million miles and 314 orbits of the earth.

This remarkable achievement stands as telling testament to what may yet be accomplished in a future limited only by the boundaries of human dreams.

EDWARD J. WALSH Arms Control In 1982

With the opening of arms control negotiations between the United States and the Soviet Union on June 29 in Geneva, the old arguments on arms talks, pro and con, have been hauled out — with a difference. So far, the anti-SALT hawks have been strangely muted. That may be because it is the old pro-defense stalwart, Ronald Reagan, who is promoting arms cutbacks. The veteran arms control warrior, retired lieutenant general Edward Rowley, is the chief U.S. negotiator. It is of some significance that he resigned his Army commission in protest of President Carter's SALT II arms accord in 1979.

The talks opened with a flourish of high-spirited eloquence from President Reagan. In a letter to General Rowley, he said that "arms reduction is one of the most important tasks of our age." The superpowers, he added, "are trustees for humanity in the great task of ending the menace of nuclear arsenals." That kind of thing almost — though not quite — summons up President Carter's nearly-forgotten inaugural pledge to "eradicate nuclear weapons from the face of the earth."

Meanwhile, the Washington Post's man in Moscow reported that the Soviet Defense Minister, Dmitri Ustinov, marked the opening of the talks by charging that the United States is responsible for the "sharp deterioration" of the international situation. A Soviet journal declared that "The United States propaganda is destructive, permeated with the cult of force and the spirit of militarism."

After listening to that, one wouldn't blame Soviet readers for thinking it was the United States that has sent 100,000 troops to Afghanistan, not the Kremlin. Neither would they be disposed to believe that the USSR possesses approximately 5,100 nuclear warheads on intercontinental missiles, to the United States' 2,100, according to the U.S. State Department. Nor do the Russians boast of owning total nuclear missile throw-weight of roughly 11.2 million pounds, to the U.S.'s 4 million pounds.

The Soviets do not admit these things because, as we should have learned by now, they are approaching arms control negotiations the right way: understating the numbers and capabilities of their own weapons, while exaggerating those of ours. Inasmuch as the court of world opinion will hold the stronger party responsible for the success or failure of the negotiations, the Russians don't want to be seen as the bad guys.

The United States, meanwhile, is approaching the talks in a spirit dangerously close to that of Mr. Carter's big speeches and noble hopes. Gen. Rowley's abilities notwithstanding, subtle pressures are already being applied to get the talks moving — to make "progress." The first sign of this will be the United States making unilateral concessions, in order to "generate a positive atmosphere," in the words of arms control expert Edward Luttwak. The Soviets' man in Geneva, Victor Karpov, will smile, but will not budge.

The United States' initial proposal is on the table. It calls for reducing the intercontinental missiles of both sides to 850, from 2,350 for the Soviets and from 1,700 for the U.S. These would be allowed no more than 5,000 warheads, a one-third reduction. No more than 2,500 of those could be on land-based missiles.

Mr. Reagan aims at land-based missiles because the Soviets currently possess more than 300 superheavy SS-18 missiles.

Navy's Artists Paint Portraits Of Mom

WASHINGTON — Not all the Navy's painters are engaged in the lowly drudgery of chipping decks and slapping on battleship gray. The Navy also employs a staff of skilled artists who paint portraits, landscapes and favorite ships to grace the walls of the admirals and their friends.

This corps of artists, reminiscent of court painters of the Renaissance, produces original oils of whatever subjects the admirals order. It costs the taxpayers hundreds of thousands of dollars a year for the Navy brass to play patrons of the arts.

I sent my associates Donald Goldberg and John Dillon over to the Navy Publications and Printing Service to check out reports of abuse. Here's what they found:

—Artists' work logs listing subjects commissioned by the Navy's high muckamucks. Among the paintings of ships and submarines were such landlubberly scenes as landscapes,

Warning: Selling alcohol, cigarettes and adult magazines can lead to arrest and prosecution of the seller and could result in the suspension and/or revocation of liquor licenses.

That's the warning Seminole County state attorneys are giving to area residents but especially to convenience store clerks and corporate officials.

The state prosecutors, in conjunction with the state Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco, will be holding "an education seminar" for all interested people and convenience store owners and employees "to make them aware of the laws concerning selling certain things to juveniles and the penalties they'll face if convicted," said Assistant State Attorney Ed Schuckman.

The free seminar is scheduled to be held between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m., July 23, at the Sanford Civic Center.

"Within the last two months, I would say I've handled 25 such cases through our Citizens' Dispute Program," Schuckman said. "It is just unbelievable the amount of cases we get on selling these items to minors, especially alcohol. We're trying to make these clerks and store owners aware of the law to cut down on the source where juveniles get the liquor."

Schuckman praised Altamonte Springs Police Chief William Liquori's efforts in that city, saying "we've seen a tremendous effort there to cut down on this problem and we're seeing arrests. Other cities are picking up on it, too, and doing what they can to catch the offenders and help us curtail the problem," he adds. "But we've seen an outstanding effort in Liquori's area."

"After July 23, though, we're going to start coming down hard," Schuckman continued. "Oh, we're still going to prosecute those arrested prior to the seminar but after that there will be no excuses that the clerk was new or whatever. It'll be a different ballgame altogether."

The "different ballgame" Schuckman says will be that instead of just "going after prosecution of the clerk that sold the items to juveniles and pushing for a maximum penalty of six months in jail and a $500 fine, we'll seek to have the liquor licenses pulled from the corporation, and we don't need a conviction to do that."

"But the seminar's main objective is to educate these people to the law and the problems they could be facing if they find themselves in violation," he continues. "Although this is only a one-day seminar, we will gladly hold additional ones as the need or desire arises to keep the people updated on the law and hopefully, we'll see a decrease in this county and, possibly, statewide, of this problem."

The Campaign Trail

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Democratic insiders are referring to their current lineup of potential 1984 presidential candidates as the "Gang of Seven."

Four of those seven were reportedly heartened by their receptions at the party's recent mid-term conference in Philadelphia.

However, two left town with their presidential hopes deflated, while a seventh departed much as he arrived, almost unnoticed.

Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., did nothing in Philadelphia to detract from his status as the front-runner for the presidential nomination.

His speech was the high point of the conference as he again proved himself to be the party's most impressive orator. He also has a better staff than any of his would-be rivals.

While Kennedy continues to impress the Democratic rank and file, he has yet to convince party leaders that he can win a national election. And many of them continue to fear that he cannot.

Former Vice President Walter Mondale came into Philadelphia with his campaign faltering. He left in better shape — if for no other reason than he was able to start putting some distance between himself and Jimmy Carter, who is fast becoming the Democrats' answer to Richard Nixon.

But a number of party leaders are expressing doubts about Mondale's ability to assemble a high-quality campaign staff. This could become one of his greatest problems.

Sen. John Glenn of Ohio and Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado reportedly came away from Philadelphia more convinced than ever that their candidacies have the potential for generating broad support among Democrats.

Whether this support is real or simply the wishful thinking of two ambitious politicians is an open question, and many party insiders suspect the latter. But it is clear that both came away from the conference determined to push ahead.

Neither Sen. Alan Cranston of California nor Sen. Ernest "Fritz" Hollings of South Carolina made a particularly good showing in Philadelphia. Both were received coolly by the party's rank and file and even more coolly by the party's leaders.

Cranston's cause was helped by the announcement that former Sen. Harold Hughes will lead his campaign in the crucial early-caucus state of Iowa. But neither Cranston nor Hollings is being taken seriously at this time.

The seventh potential candidate, former Gov. Reuben Askew of Florida, is continuing to run the kind of low-key personal-contact campaign that proved so successful for Carter in 1976.

Askew gave no major speeches in Philadelphia and did little else to draw attention to himself. Many insiders believe that he is really running for the vice presidential nomination.

When President Reagan was asked at his recent news conference whether he intended to run for a second term, he gave an ambiguous answer that included a quip that he had told his staff not to start reading the help-wanted ads.

This generated a spate of headlines the next day to the effect that the president does indeed intend to run in 1984. A number of "White House sources" were quoted as saying that Reagan believes he will need a second term to complete the work that he has started.

Don't be fooled by these stories. Most Republican insiders doubt that Reagan will run again.

What is happening is a frantic effort by the White House to prevent Reagan from being perceived as a lame duck. Between now and the end of the year, you can expect the president and his staff to give off all kinds of signals that he intends to run again.

Reagan still might seek re-election, of course. But there is a growing conviction among insiders that he will return to California in January 1985.

Among the September primaries, one of the most interesting is the race for the Democratic Senate nomination in Nevada between four-term incumbent Howard Cannon and Rep. Jim Santini.

The polls gave Santini a wide lead shortly after he announced that he was challenging Cannon. But months of hard campaigning by Cannon have reversed the standings and now he has taken a small lead with many voters still undecided.

On the Republican side, Rick Fore, a young Las Vegas developer, has moved into a commanding lead, although this could change if former State Sen. Chick Hecht makes good on recent promises to enter the Republican race before the filing period ends July 21,

On Our Changing Economy

We have just passed a significant milestone on the way to the post-industrial society.

The Labor Department reports that in April, for the first time in history more Americans were employed in the consumer, financial and service industries than in the production of goods — 24.3 million compared to about 24 million.

And that's not the whole story. The consumer and financial service industries are not only the fastest growing sector of the economy but have been adding jobs — a half million in the year preceding the April tabulation — even as the manufacturing work force shrinks.

The greatest spirit was registered in health services — up almost a quarter of a million jobs. Other large gains were in banking and related activities, legal services and accounting.

In painful contrast, manufacturing jobs are down by more than a million and construction by almost 400,000.

All this might be explained as the effects of a sagging economy if it weren't the continuation of a trend that pre-dates by quite a bit the current recession. Up by some 17 million jobs, service growth has tripled in the last three decades. Some 27 percent of all non-farm jobs are now in this area, compared with 16 percent 30 years ago.

This thoroughgoing restructuring of the American economy has important implications for important segments of it.

For one thing, it suggests that there is more to the agonies of the steel and auto industries than obsolete plant and price-cutting competition from Japan and Europe. Band-Aid remedies designed to lessen the pain and make it difficult for foreigners to do business in the American market are not going to cure the ailment.

The problems of both old-line industries are essentially effects of a rapidly changing economy and both can hope to survive and prosper only as they adapt to that change.

It is not coincidental that the shift has occurred as women have been entering the job market in previously unprecedented numbers. A very high proportion of new jobs opening up has been in areas where women can compete equally with men. Again looking at the Labor Department figures, clerical work has replaced traditional blue-collar employment as the largest single occupational category. Such white collar jobs now absorb 43 percent of the male work force but 66 percent of the female employed.

And then there is organized labor. The major unions were the product of and have maintained their base in heavy industry. They have been slow to expand organizational efforts to the service area and among women, and have found it difficult to make much headway.

As a result, membership has been virtually static in recent decades, and in the context of an expanding labor force that means a decline in the last 30 years from a quarter of all jobs to barely 20 percent.

If anything, the shift from a goods-producing to a service-providing economy is understated. Add another 41.6 million employees in wholesale and retail trade, transportation, public utilities and government and service-oriented jobs account for a lopsided three of every four employed Americans. And to these might be added some 7 million self-employed, of whom roughly two-thirds provide services of some description.

snowy mantles. . . We are looking forward to the others, especially the one with the dory. . .

Congressional aide: "It goes without saying that you clearly exploded your talents in the production of my dear mother's portrait. . . It was shown for the first time up at my oldest sister's home. . . amongst old friends, and it was nothing short of sensational."

The misuse of Navy artists should be no surprise to top brass. Two years ago, the artists' operation was the subject of a joint command inspection. Here's what the inspectors wrote in a report that is still classified:

"The bulk of the artists' work consists of portraiture, landscapes, seascapes, ships, etc., as requested on an undocumented, unreimbursed basis. . . When completed work has been delivered to the requestor, its disposition is unknown. . .

"The authority for performing this function is unknown, the legality is questionable, and revelation outside the Navy is potentially a subject of public criticism."

The inspectors recommended that the Navy "discontinue the accomplishment of undocumented unreimbursed art work."

Artists told my staff that the recommendation had been ignored. The exact cost of the court painters is hard to determine, but sources say the whole operation costs more than $350,000 a year in salaries alone.

Footnote: The official Navy response to my inquiry was: "Oil paintings or objects having significant Navy interest and/or historical value are created in response to official requests on a cost-reimbursable basis."

Belly dancers? Bullfighters? Mother? In the old Navy, these would have been handled by the nearest tattoo artist.

"Saving energy is so easy, you can do it with your eyes closed."

When my brother talked me into getting a Florida Power Home Energy Audit, I knew what they'd say: caulk the windows, tape the ductwork, weatherstrip the doors, wrap the water heater—work, work, work.

But I didn't know they'd get somebody else to do it! The Home Energy auditor gave me a complete estimate of costs for materials and labor for seven different energy-saving projects. They hire the contractor, they inspect the work—they even pick up part of the tab! So I can afford to catch up on my rest.

In fact, Florida Power's new Home Energy Fix-Up Program makes saving energy so easy, you can do it with your eyes closed.

For more information on the Home Energy Fix-Up program, call or send this coupon to your local Florida Power office.

Comeback Complete Lucas, Nationals Stun Groveland

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Forget the first inning hexes, the superstitions and the second guessing — this team can play.

The Sanford Nationals, behind impressive all-around performances by the entire team, handed Groveland its second straight loss and claimed the District 4, Sub-District 2 Title, 6-3, Wednesday night at Fort Mellon Park.

The Nationals' victory earned manager Sylvester "Slick" Franklin and his team a berth into the District 4 Tournament which begins Monday night at Fort Mellon Park. At 6 Ormond Beach plays Ocala and at 8 Sanford National plays Sanford American in a classic matchup.

Wednesday night's game was the most intense battle of the tournament but was marred by Groveland's (particularly manager John Reagan) poor sportsmanship (see Fister's column Friday).

Leonard Lucas struck out 13 and allowed just four hits en route to his second complete game victory of the tournament. Lucas also picked up the game-winning RBI on a run scoring single in the second.

"Leonard did a great job tonight," Franklin said. "He sucked it up and went out and did his job."

The Nationals played impressively in every aspect of the game. "They really played good ball," Franklin said. "We had some good throws from the outfield too."

Fine throws by center fielder Willie Grayson and right fielder Ronald Blake killed two Groveland rallies while Jeff Blake hung tough behind the plate. There were no passed balls and no wild pitches for Sanford, a rarity in Little League baseball.

Groveland, the visiting team, opened up with two unearned runs in the first inning, Randy Hart and Richie Kirkland drew consecutive walks, Lucas then struck out two straight, and Mike

Baseball

Hooten's single to center got by Grayson scoring both Hart and Kirkland.

Sanford tied it up with two runs on three hits in the bottom of the first. Jeff Blake singled with one out, moved to second on a passed ball and scored on Willie McCloud's two-out bases loaded walk. Todd Revels, who had walked, scored on a single by Tim Graham.

After Lucas struck out the side in the top of the second, the Nationals responded with three runs in the bottom of the frame. Tarance Carr reached on an error, went to second on a wild pitch, Jeff Blake then walked, and Carr scored on Lucas' solid single up the middle. Both Blake and Lucas scored on Edward Gordon's whose uniform number is five, hit fifth in the order and played third base, the fifth position single.

Sanford scored its sixth run in the bottom of the fourth. Ronald Blake ripped one down the right field line and the ball skipped over the fence giving Blake a ground rule double. He went to third on a wild pitch and scored on an error.

Randy Hart's solo homer in the fifth pulled Groveland to within three runs. It would have been a two-run homer but a brilliant peg by Grayson to Gordon at third got Monte McGuire off the base paths.

Groveland threatened again in the top of the sixth as its first two hitters in the inning drew walks and Harold Davis came to the plate representing the tying run. Lucas came through and struck out Davis and Brandy Coppage. With two outs, McGuire coaxed three straight balls from Lucas. But Leonard settled down and ran the count to 3-and-2 then caught McGuire looking for the third strike and the championship.

"We came from the bottom (loser's bracket) all the way to the top," Franklin said. "I couldn't ask for a better bunch of kids. Everyone on this team did a good job."

Franklin and the Nationals will be involved in another intense game Monday against Sanford American. An overflow crowd is expected and the likely pitching match-up is McCloud, or Lucas for the Nationals against Reginald "Cheese" Bellamy for the Americans. But, for now, Franklin and his team will celebrate their victory and for the first time in over a week Franklin will get a well deserved, "good night's sleep."

Black, Tickle Blast Semoran

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Brad Black socked a two-run home run and Matt Tickle turned in a superb relief job as Seminole knocked off Semoran, 13-7, in Mustang Baseball District Tournament action at the Seminole Pony Complex near Winter Springs Wednesday.

The two Mustang squads resume play tonight with Seminole manager Gene Oliver sending right-hander Todd Howell to the hill in an attempt to wrap up the best 2-out-of-3 series.

"We did a lot more shuffling tonight than we usually do," said Oliver about his numerous lineup changes. "But we finally found the right combination."

On the mound the right man was Tickle. The thin right-hander took over with Seminole trailing, 6-4, in the second inning. He held Semoran to two unearned runs over the next two frames as the Seminole bats started to explode.

The biggest explosion came in the third inning. David Swain singled to lead off the inning and Black, a sturdy right-fielder, unloaded a fastball 200 feet over the left field fence.

The long blast ignited the Seminole attack and the Five Points squad tacked on two more runs for an 8-7 edge. Tickle chased home the tying run with a single to left and Ethan Bauer scored the go-ahead run on a balk.

Semoran, nevertheless, came right back to tie the game in the top of the fourth. George Wisneski rapped a double to right center. Robbie Hart then singled home Wisneski for an 8-8 deadlock.

In the last of the fifth, Seminole finally gave itself some breathing room with a five-run outburst. After Patrick Newell struck out, Bauer singled, went to second on an error by the center fielder and stole third — his fourth theft of the night.

Tickle followed with a ground ball to shortstop which scored Bauer for the game-winning RBI as Tickle was tossed out on a close play at first.

Skip Diehl walked, moved to second on a wild pitch, third with a steal and tallied when the throw went into left field. Donny Bryan then singled in the hole and went to second when shortstop John Bagley — after making a sensational stop — threw the ball past first.

Swain singled home Bryan, moved to third on two throwing errors, then scored when Black clubbed a single off the top of the center field fence. For Black, it was his third hit — all off or over the fence — and third RBI. Livernols plated Black with the final run of the inning when he reached on an error for a 13-8 bulge.

Bauer shut down Semoran in the sixth with the help of a nice double play where Bryan made an over-the-shoulder catch and doubled a runner off third base who left too soon. Bauer induced the final hitter to pop to short.

Tickle, who picked up the victory, also drove in three runs. Tickle, Swain and Bauer had two hits each. Wisneski had a double among his three safeties and Bagley stole four bases.

Defensively for Seminole, first Diehl turned in a nifty scoop of a one-bounce throw to end the fifth inning and Livernols made a great stop and diving tag on Todd Stresen-Reuter to stop a run at the plate.

A play earlier, Stresen-Reuter had dropped a perfect bunt single to score Mark Snead to pull Semoran within, 8-7.

Luis Arlet's infield single with the bases loaded knocked in the winning run in the eighth inning Wednesday as Gainesville nipped Semoran, 3-2, in District Pony action.

Semoran, who lost to Seminole Tuesday, forged a 2-0 lead, but Gainesville scored one tally each in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings to pullout the game.

Gainesville and Seminole now play a best two-out-of-three series for the Pony title. Manager Wayne Overstreet is expected to send Greg Root to the mound tonight at 7:30.

Altamonte's Burst Rips Winter Garden

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

WINTER GARDEN—A seven-run sixth inning and four-hit pitching by Mike Schmit lifted the Altamonte Junior League All-Stars to a 9-2 victory over Winter Garden here Wednesday night in the opening round of the District 14 Tournament.

"I feel that whatever situation occurs we are going to be able to do what it takes to score runs," Altamonte manager Gene Letterio said.

Bruce Carlson stroked a run-scoring single for the first run of the sixth for the game-winning hit but the key play of the game came later in the inning. After Steve Chasey reached on an error and advanced to third on two wild pitches, Dan Beaty ran the count to 3-and-2. Winter Garden switched catchers at that point, and, on the next pitch, Beaty laid down a perfect squeeze bunt that plated Chasey.

"The squeeze play really broke their bubble and opened the gates for us,"

Junior

Letterio said. "The score was still respectable (4-1) and they really didn't expect it, it took a lot out of them."

The Junior All-Stars will play again Friday night at 7:30 in Eustis. They will play either DeLand, West Oak Ridge or Oviedo. Letterio will go with Neal Harris on the mound.

Schmit was at his best for Altamonte striking out 10 and giving up just three walks. "A lot of credit goes to Mike, who pitched his finest game of the year," Letterio said. "He had them off balance the entire game and his curve ball was the best it's ever been."

Altamonte jumped on Winter Garden starter and loser Dave Moorman for two runs in the second. Ryan Lisle walked and stole both second and third base while Marty Posey walked and stole second. Carlson then stepped up and delivered a two-run single.

"Carlson came through with some clutch hits," Letterio said.

Since Winter Garden has no league for 13-year olds, Altamonte's opponents were used to playing against 14 and 15-year olds and have a strong team. "When you get right down to it, our team showed a lot of poise," Letterio said.

Included in the seven-run sixth was a two-run triple by Lisle and a two-run single by Harris that put Altamonte in the driver's seat.

Stripp No-Hits Colonial

LONGWOOD — Billy Stripp fired the first no-hitter of his American Legion career Wednesday night as Altamonte Springs Post 183 blanked Colonial, 9-0, at Lyman High School.

Stripp, 3-1, retired the first 15 hitters in order before a poor throw from shortstop Todd Murriotti pulled first baseman John Reich off the bag for an error. Stripp walked the next hitter, but then slipped out of the jam.

The ex-Lake Howell High right-hander whiffed 10 hitters and walked, two. In the second and fifth innings, he struck out the side utilizing a dipping curveball.

"Mike Sawyer (Altamonte catcher) did a good job of stopping the ball," praised Stripp. "They were swinging at the drop and he was knocking it down and throwing them out at first."

Altamonte, 10-3 and preparing for next week's district tournament at Lyman, pushed across the only run it needed in the first inning. Kenny Brown beat out an infield hit, stole second and third and scored on a single by David Martinez.

After a Marriotti fly ball moved Chiodini to third, Tom Gibbons blooped a single over the shortstop's head for a 5-0 lead.

In the fifth, Sawyer singled and stole second. Chiodini ripped another double to score him and later came home when Brent Smartt reached on an error.

Nine Clubs .500 Or Better Resume Race

United Press International
After the National League's 4-1 victory in Tuesday night's 53rd All-Star Game, it's safe to say few AL players want anything to do with the NL.

and the surprising Seattle Mariners four off.

American League

The Eastern Division race shows a virtual tie for first place between the Milwaukee Brewers and Boston Red Sox, with the Baltimore Orioles 3½ games behind, the Detroit Tigers six and the Cleveland Indians 6½.

Instead, the 14 AL clubs, nine at 500 or better, will get down to the business at hand — playing to capture a pennant.

The California Angels lead the Western Division by one game over the Kansas City Royals, with the Chicago White Sox two games back

The White Sox are near the top despite a shoddy defense that leads the AL in errors, and the upstart Mariners are keeping everyone's eyes glued to the Pacific Northwest with their brand of late-inning heroics.

In the East, the Brewers undoubtedly will continue to lean on the long ball in the second half, Milwaukee, which has a 30-6 record in games where they hit two or more homers, are led by Cecil Cooper, Ben Oglivie, Gorman Thomas and Robin Yount, and many consider "Harvey's Wallbangers" the most power-packed club in baseball.

The Red Sox, .002 percentage points behind Milwaukee, point to their bullpen as their strength with Mark Clear, Bob Stanley, Luis Aponte and Tom Burgmeier combining for an 18-7 record. Baltimore should be near the top at the end, and Manager Earl Weaver's announced retirement at the end of the season should spur the Orioles to at least a few more victories.

Miracle Brewing In West, Dogfight In NL East

United Press International

With a miracle brewing in the Western Division and a down-to-earth dogfight developing in the East, the National League today turns from the All-Star Game to the business of pennant races.

In the West, the Atlanta Braves and San Diego Padres stand 1-2, a refreshing if surprising development considering Atlanta's recent woes and San Diego's 13-year history of futility.

National League

In the East, four clubs figure to compete: Philadelphia and St. Louis are virtually tied for first place with spunky Pittsburgh 2½ games behind and enigmatic Montreal within range at four games back.

Since joining the league in 1969, San Diego has reached .500 only once and has never finished higher than fourth. Atlanta has finished in the first division only once in the last 10 years.

Suddenly, however, unless Los Angeles, with its overall talent and tradition of winning, gets hot, one of the two miracle teams should win.

"San Diego has put together a club that is lean and hungry," says Tal Smith, former Houston general manager now working with the Padres as a consultant.

The Braves' 13-game winning streak starting the season amounted to a modern major-league record, a feat that pleased new Manager Joe Torre after his futile efforts to lift the dismal New York Mets to loftier plateaus.

Torre has worked wonders in Atlanta with hard-throwing right-hander Steve Bedrosian. Bedrosian has a 4-1 record and a stingy 1.64 ERA that was the best in the NL when the teams broke for the All-Star Game Tuesday.

Aaron's Home Run Drops Americans In Computer Game

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The American League can't even win an All-Star Game played by a computer.

In what was billed as the "Greatest Game Never Played," an all-time All-Star Game matching the greatest players in the history of the American and National Leagues, the NL won Wednesday night, 5-4.

Hank Aaron homered leading off the ninth inning off Walter Johnson to give the NL the victory in the recreated game, just as has been the case in most All-Star Games.

The National League's 4-1 victory in the All-Star game Tuesday night in Montreal was the league's 11th straight and 19th out of the last 20 games.

Editors of The Sporting News played the roles of National League Manager John McGraw and American League Manager Casey Stengel for the recreated game, which was broadcast by more than 200 radio stations in the United States and Canada.

Lowell Reidenbaugh, a senior editor at The Sporting News, made two key managerial decisions in place of McGraw that helped the National League to the victory.

He allowed Aaron, who was hitless in his four previous at bats, to remain in the game in the ninth and that confidence was restored when Aaron, the major league's all-time, homerun leader with 755, blasted a 2-2 pitch into the upper deck in left field at Shibe Park in Philadelphia, where the mythical game was played.

"You never take the homerun champ out of the lineup," said Reidenbaugh, who had inserted substitutes at every other position. "He's going to connect eventually."

Baseball

Reidenbaugh's other key move was ordering an intentional walk to Eddie Collins in the eighth, loading the bases with two outs, after the American League had taken a 4-3 lead.

"McGraw had seen him in several World Series and I think I showed him the proper respect," Reidenbaugh said.

The move paid off when Tom Seaver, the sixth of seven NL pitchers, retired pinch-hitter Mickey Cochrane on a fly to center to end the inning. Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched the ninth for the NL and got the win.

One of Reidenbaugh's other moves was inserting Bill Terry at first base in the fifth inning in place of Pete Rose. Terry went 3-for-3, including hitting a two-run homer in the seventh off Lefty Grove that tied the game, 3-3.

"He was a personal boyhood hero of mine and I had to get him in there as soon as possible," Reidenbaugh said. "I think he justified his presence."

The game, organized by BFV&L Promotions of St. Louis, was recreated by Jack Buck and Lindsey Nelson after all of the players' lifetime statistics were fed into a computer. "I was very much impressed with the realism of the game," Reidenbaugh said. "It was just incredible. There was a lot of interest in it and it seemed to be growing the last few days."

"Baseball thrives on nostalgia, and I guess that might be the secret to it."

Zoo Offers New Classes

The Central Florida Zoo Education Department is offering summer classes beginning Tuesday, Aug. 10. The classes will run for two weeks on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Summer classes are open to students ages 10 through 15. One class entitled Junior Zoologist, offered to seventh and eighth grade students, will examine, for example, the teeth of a tiger, the behavior of a baboon and what animals eat. A second class on Endangered Species offered to fifth and sixth grade students will explore the vanishing animals of the world including several animals endangered in their own back yard. There will be a charge of $15 for Zoological Society family members and $20 for non-members. For registration and information about the classes, persons may call the Central Florida Zoo Education Department at 305-323-0181.

ERA's Okay, But 'I Wear The Pants'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Singer Lee Morgan believes equal rights for women is the American way — except when it comes to the kiss. Morgan has penned a song called "I Wear The Pants" to cash in on feelings about the death of the Equal Rights Amendment. "It stands up for the man," Morgan said about his song. "A lot of guys have been threatened by the movement and the 'new woman.' Women are breaking away from their traditional role. Consequently, the guys have drawn away from their traditional role. The roles have become reversed. Women have become much more aggressive. They're kind of scaring guys." In the song, Morgan said it's okay for women to get better jobs and better pay. Equality among the sexes is the "American way," he sings. "I won't fight it," say the lyrics. "I'm tired of opening doors and lighting cigarettes for ya. I'll gladly give you the chance to do likewise, Ms., until we start to kiss. Then I wear the pants." More lyrics: "I wear the pants in romance, it's a necessary evil. Understand I'm a man who demands to be treated as an equal. You can have your career, and your Germaine Greer, you can even lead when we dance, but when it's lovin' time, you better make up your mind. I wear the pants." What about equality in the bedroom? "No, that's not what a woman really wants," said Morgan. "They want a man to be a man, to act out the role that God gave us. "I'm speaking for a lot of men and mostly speaking for a lot of women because they want a man to be a man." The singer said he enjoys "aggressive women" as long as they don't mind an aggressive man. "I had a girl just the other night in a lounge rip open my shirt when I passed by," he said. "She stuck her hand in and played with my chest. Then she said, 'Hi, I'm so and so and I'd like to meet you.' "I said the same thing and I ripped open her blouse. She was very apologetic. It goes both ways." He said the timing of the song's release with the passing of the deadline for ratification of ERA is no coincidence. "I will take advantage of an opportunity," he said. The last time he took advantage of an opportunity was when Elvis Presley died. Morgan penned the tune "The King is Gone," which sold 3 million copies. The 45 rpm record of "I Wear The Pants" was just mailed to radio stations in late June, so few people have had a chance to hear the song. But Morgan said initial reaction is good. "Comments from women have been favorable," Morgan said. "They love it — the reason being, you can have whatever you like, lady, except my masculinity." "The only negative reaction I've had from that song was from my ex-wife. Of course, she never liked any song I wrote except the ones that made money."

NASA To Launch Earth Monitor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The space agency plans to launch a new unmanned satellite Friday to give farmers, oil and mineral explorers, urban planners and many others around the world a better view of Earth's resources. The satellite is the fourth in a series of Landsat spacecraft and the first to be turned over, like weather satellites, to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration for operational use. It will be launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., by a Delta rocket into a north-south polar orbit that will carry its sensors over the entire globe every 16 days. Unlike its predecessors, the new satellite is designed to be retrieved in orbit by space shuttle astronauts to be returned to Earth for overhaul or to be repaired in orbit. Shuttles are to start flying in orbits that could reach the Landsat by late 1985. Landsat D — to be called Landsat 4 in orbit — differs from the three earlier Landsats in that the new satellite is equipped with a second electronic scanner that detects visible light and invisible infrared light reflected from Earth in narrower bands of the electromagnetic spectrum and in greater detail. The first Landsat, then known as an Earth Resources Observation Satellite, was launched in 1972. It demonstrated such a spacecraft could produce pictures of the land and seas that could be used for such things as farm crop inventories, forest surveys, surface water and snow cover monitoring, oil and mineral exploration and urban planning. The next two Landsats, launched in 1975 and 1978, carried similar instruments that NASA says "have provided a wealth of observations that have improved our ability to monitor and understand the dynamics and character of the various features and materials covering the surface of the earth." "Because of the tremendous success of the Landsat program, land use planners and managers are awaiting the Landsat D spacecraft because it will extend the data set of observations provided by the multispectral scanner for the past 10 years," the agency said. The new scanner, for example, is expected to enable farmers to distinguish between such crops as wheat and barley or corn and soybeans which were difficult to differentiate using the images produced by the first three Landsats. Geologists expect the new scanner will enable them to tell the difference between a wider variety of rock and soil types as seen from 438 miles high. Of particular interest are clay minerals which sometimes can lead to copper, lead, zinc and uranium deposits. The higher resolution of the new scanner will be helpful, for example, in making crop inventories of smaller areas. Previous satellites could only monitor relatively large fields of grain such as those in the Great Plains and the wheat producing regions of Northeastern Europe and Northern Asia.

County Group Known By Few

Conservation Watchdogs Unopposed

Did you know there is an elected board in Seminole County that specifically watchdogs soil and water conservation here? Although the board members volunteer their time to this cause, they receive no pay, not even reimbursements for expenses. And even though they are officially elected, the board members' names will not appear on the ballot this year. Nor have board members' names been on the ballot at any time during the 40 years the board has existed. The board in question is the "Seminole County Soil and Water Conservation District." All three district supervisors—David H. Greer of Geneva, Gene Weldon of Chuluota and Dr. James M. White of Sanford—are up for election this year. But since no one submitted petitions by the deadline to oppose them, they will be automatically re-elected Oct. 5 at the second primary election. The law requires that candidates for district supervisor submit petitions signed by 25 registered voters by June 4 as a major qualification to seeking the office. None but the three incumbents filed petitions with Seminole Election Supervisor Camilla Bruce's office. Since the board, by law, must have five members, the three incumbents have the task of finding two others willing to serve. Richard Hoffman, district conservation officer, whose office is located at Big Tree Park, said the board was created by federal law and put into effect in Seminole County in the 1940s. Its responsibilities are to provide a plan and carry out that plan for soil and water conservation in Seminole County. "The supervisors must look at the whole county with its problems of wind and water soil erosion and the need for conserving water and create a plan to provide solutions," Hoffman said. Hoffman's salary is funded by the federal government. He also has four other staff members on the federal payroll to serve not only Seminole, but also Volusia and Orange counties. Hoffman said the Seminole County Commission funds a $17,000 budget for the district which pays the salaries of two part-time employees and other expenses. He said the district supervisors can levy property taxes if it wishes, but the Seminole Board has never chosen to do that. While it does have the power to levy taxes, it does not have the power "to tell people they cannot use water," Hoffman said. He noted that it is more of an advisory body than a regulatory one. Not only do the district supervisors not levy a tax, they raise money among themselves through work-shops to promote contests among school children on the need for water and soil conservation, Hoffman said. —DONNA ESTES

Cartier Sells Land

KISSIMMEE (UPI) — British entrepreneur Lewis Cartier has sold nearly a third of a proposed $500 million historical attraction and he plans to erect a smaller theme park and a tennis and golf resort on the rest of the acreage. Cartier refused comment Wednesday on why he sold 402 acres of Little England to Xenorida, a corporation registered in the Cayman Islands, for $4.4 million.

Let's Green Up County: Forester

"Let's Green Up Seminole County," that's the word from Seminole County Urban Forester Mike Martin. The 1982-83 tree planting season is off and running with the Division of Forestry's new tree seedling brochures being distributed throughout the state, he said. Martin said he would like to make this year's planting efforts even more successful than last year. Martin said landowners in Seminole County purchased 67,000 tree seedlings last year. "We owe it to ourselves to maintain a pleasant living environment in all communities throughout the county," he said. For further information on tree species and prices, persons may contact the Urban Forester at 323-2500, extension 186.

Florida Women's Hall Of Fame

SCC's Dorothy Morrison Honored

Ms. Dorothy Morrison of Lake Mary, instructor in English and Humanities at Seminole Community College, was invited to a reception today at the Governor's Mansion, Tallahassee, honoring the 1982 Florida Women's Hall of Fame nominees.

Ms. Morrison, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Henry S. Sanford Museum-Library, the Board of Directors of Seminole Mutual Concert Association, and the Seminole County Historical Commission, was nominated by Ms. Leora Schermerhorn, Dr. Margaret Maney and Ms. Lucinda Coulter.

At Seminole Community College, Ms. Morrison served as Division Chairman in Humanities from 1968-1982.

She is a member of the National Council of Teachers of English and several affiliates, the College English Association where she has served as president of the State Affiliate and the Modern Language Association where she was elected by the National Membership to serve as a member of the Delegate Assembly.

She was selected as one of five individuals to meet with the Modern Language Association to discuss the relationship of the M.L.A. to the two-year college. She is a life member and has held office in Alpha Nu Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa International Honorary Fraternity for Women Teachers. She has served on the Board of the Florida League of the Arts where she will be Treasurer for the coming year. She co-authored a brief history of Lake Mary at the request of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ms. Morrison was the first woman administrator at Seminole Community College. She is now an instructor in British Literature, Composition and Fundamentals of Writing.

She is active in special classes such as "STARS," the Honors Program, and Special Services for Disadvantaged Students.

Miss Kimbrough Weds Jasper A. Allman Jr.

Virginia Dawn Kimbrough and Jasper Lincoln Allman Jr. were united in Holy Matrimony June 12, at 5 p.m., in Northwest Baptist Church, Gainesville. The Rev. Ken Weaver performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Kimbrough of Gainesville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Allman Sr. of Osteen.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown fashioned along the empire silhouette with a Queen Anne neckline. Appliques of re-embroidered lace embellished the fitted bodice and flowing train which cascaded into a graceful chapel sweep.

A lace Juliet cap secured her cathedral veil of imported illusion and she carried a formal bouquet of pink rosebuds.

Marie Nation attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a pink gown and carried pink rosebuds showered with baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Vanessa Williams, Gainesville; Martha Young, St. Louis, Mo.; Cindy Dunwoody, Coral Gables; and Donna

Jensen, Chicago. They wore pink gowns and carried pink rosebuds with baby's breath.

John Allman, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Jeff Kimbrough and Jay Kimbrough, brothers of the bride.

Groomsmen were Danny Smith, Sanford; Dwayne Clutter, Osteen; Randy Knight, Daytona Beach; Bill Ferguson, Apopka. The bridegroom wore a white tuxedo and other males in the wedding party wore silver gray tuxedos.

Flower girls were identical twins Amanda and Leigh Copeland. They wore white gowns fashioned with tiers of ruffles and tied at the waist with side pink sashes.

Following the reception, held at the Thomas Center Spanish Court, Gainesville, the newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to Kiawah Island, near Charleston, S.C.

The couple are making their home in Lakeland. The bridegroom is employed at Dutch Resort Inn, Lake Buena Vista. The bride is a graphics artist with an advertising agency in Lakeland.

Julia Child Offers Food For Thought

DEAR ABBY: Recently I was in Memphis doing some fund-raising cooking demonstrations for Planned Parenthood, and on every occasion I was picketed by a dozen or so Right-to-Lifers. I didn't talk to them because it was not the place to make a scene, but I did want to ask them this:

Dear Abby

"What are your plans for these children once they are born? Are you going to help provide, for instance, for the child of a retarded 13-year-old daughter of a syphilitic prostitute? What about the child of a convicted wife-beater and child molester? Or that of a tubercular and abandoned welfare mother who already has six children?"

"These are extreme cases, of course, but there are plenty of them, and these are the future citizens who, for the most part, end up in our juvenile courts and in our jails. If you insist on their birth, you must also assume responsibility for their lives."

What do Right-to-Lifers have to say on this subject?

Let's hear from them — if indeed they have considered this matter at all, which I very much doubt.

JULIA CHILD

DEAR JULIA: For the world's most famous cook to have whipped up a world-famous controversy is a case of just desserts!

DEAR ABBY: We work in an office. Our boss is a difficult man. In the morning he barely says hello, and he never says good night when he leaves. He never compliments us. And regardless of how well a task has been performed, his tone implies that he expected more.

On his birthday we all pitched in and bought him a beautifully decorated cake, and his only comment was, "I hope I don't have to eat it all now; I just finished a huge lunch!" Then he put the cake in the refrigerator. The flowers and streamers he never even noticed.

Are we fools to stay?

FOOLS IN L.A.

DEAR FOOLS: That depends. If the pay is good, why look for another job? You have no guarantee your next boss will be better. (He could be even worse.)

Since his birthday means so little to him, forget it next year. Don't expect any cheery "Good mornings" or any kind of a "Good night," and you won't be disappointed.

featuring Abby's best answers and favorite responses during the past 25 years, is now available. You can obtain a copy of this new best-selling book by sending $9.95 plus $1 for postage and handling to "The Best of Dear Abby," in care of this newspaper, 4100 Johnson Dr., Fairway, Kan. 66205. Make checks payable to Universal Press Syndicate.

Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's new booklet. Send $1 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, 12060 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

Just to keep you wondering: Does the light truly go out when you close the refrigerator?

The reason there are very few dodgem rides in amusement parks any more is that you're tired of the game by the time you get to the park.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Friday, July 16, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY July 11, 1982. Although you may be tempted to go into other areas, your best luck this coming year will be in fields with which you're familiar. Your base is stronger than you think and will be enlarged upon as time progresses. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you want to make changes today regarding things which affect only you that's OK, but be extremely careful with alterations which could complicate matters for others. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Co-workers will not readily forgive you today if they feel your work is holding up theirs or you're not meeting your responsibilities. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't step in and try to manage situations today uninvited. First, you may be out of your element and second, you might make everybody mad. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try to be a factor in keeping everyone calm at home today. Don't be the one who stirs things up. Family members could be a bit more tense than usual. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful about introducing changes into financial situations which are presently running smoothly. Your alterations could worsen, not better them. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be extra-careful with your resources and prized possessions today. Both money or objects could slip through your fingers if you're reckless. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Outsiders could cause you complications today if you permit them to pry into your personal affairs. The mess they'd leave behind could prove costly.

Use Low-Fat Foods In 4 Basic Groups

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate any Health Letter you have concerning foods that aid in lowering fat in the blood. I attended a health fair here last spring and the only test that was outside established reference range was the cholesterol and triglyceride count. I have had a high cholesterol count for 10 years to my knowledge. I have never been very energetic. I'm 64 years old, female and otherwise in good health.

Also I would like to know the food value of buttermilk. I like it very much and hope it is not harmful. DEAR READER — Both diet and exercise are important in controlling your cholesterol and triglyceride levels. The big goal is to eliminate any excess body fat that you might have. That means calorie restriction by your diet and increased calorie use by exercise. Your comment that you have never been very energetic may be a factor in your problem.

Buttermilk is not a problem, except that you need to control your total calorie intake. It is a good food and contains good quality protein. A whole quart will provide only 353 calories and contains only one gram of fat. It does contain 35 grams of protein and also needed calcium. It is a good choice for your diet. Your diet should eliminate total fat, particularly saturated fat and limit cholesterol intake. When you do this right, and if you avoid concentrated carbohydrates such as sugar, honey and other sweets you will usually be able to cut your calories down a great deal.

Your low-fat, low-cholesterol diet should include all the four basic food groups; dairy products, meats, fruits and vegetables and breads and cereals. You simply choose the low-fat products in each of the groups and don't add fat in preparation or cooking. DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time ago a man wrote to an advice columnist — I can't remember which — to discuss his wife's arms. They had become flabby, the flesh was hanging loose and was very unbecoming. He asked if she thought his wife should have an operation to remove the excess flesh. The columnist's opinion was the wife should have the operation. Now I've been ill and my flesh on my arms has also become flabby and unsightly. I would appreciate your advice. Is this a dangerous operation? DEAR READER — Any unnecessary operation is a dangerous operation. I do not know what you read before but each case has to be decided on the basis of the individual circumstances. Such extra skin can be removed. So can excess fat, and it is not a great risk. BUT, if your arms are flabby because of loss of muscle tone because you are not using those muscles, what you need is an exercise program to strengthen and enlarge the arm muscles, particularly the triceps at the back of the arm. I'd like to see you recover your muscular strength before you rush off to surgery.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand analysis showing North and South hands, vulnerable status, and opening lead. North: A863, Q632, AKQ6, 2. South: KQ7, AKJ10, 852, A103. Vulnerable: Both. Dealer: North. West: 10 Pass 10. East: 4 Pass 5. Pass: 5 Pass 7. Opening lead: 4K.

East's unusual defensive play. They didn't get around to any discussion of their own mild overbidding. North's jump to four hearts was a slight overbid and South's jump to seven was a decided overbid in our opinion. But with a 3-2 trump break the slam would breeze home as it would if clubs were just 7-2. South took his ace of clubs and played ace and jack of trump to get the news about the 4-1 trump split. Then he ruffed a club with dummy's queen of trumps on the theory that West needed eight clubs for his vulnerable three bid. At this stage in the proceedings East had to discard. If he chucked a diamond, dummy would score four diamond tricks. If he chucked a spade, dummy would get four tricks in that suit, although the spade danger wasn't as apparent. However, East played safe. He chucked a trump. This trump discard effectively broke up all squeezes because when South would get to lead his last trump dummy would have to discard before East. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sostag. North and South might still be fighting about getting to the heart grand slam and going down one trick if it weren't for the fact they were so lost in admiration of
