

At The Capitol

By GEORGE McGRY

TALLAHASSEE, May 20.

The racing bill passed the House Wednesday afternoon, by a safe majority of about 25 votes. A very surprising vote to many who thought the vote would be close. The highest vote recorded against the bill was on the first amendment offered to strike the carrying clause, and on that vote, 37 members voted against the bill, and for the amendment.

Mrs. Fuller, the lady from Orange, made the most stirring appeal for opposition to the bill, in a very well delivered address of some 15 minutes.

Representative Jim Lee of Highlands county offered an amendment, and talked in favor of it for about 30 or 40 minutes, and as far as I can determine, he has not said anything yet. On the vote to adopt his amendment, he was the only one in favor of it.

It remains for the Governor to sign the bill, and then it will be law. (It is rumored that he will not sign it, but allow it to become a law without his signature.) Of course, referendums will then have to be held in any county desiring to hold racing meets.

In order not to hold the reader in suspense any longer, I will tell you how Mr. Hagan voted. I voted Mr. Hagan voted NO, and I voted NO. Senator Patrick voted NO in the Senate on the same bill.

Several other measures passed the House Wednesday, but none of great importance.

A number of the tax measures were introduced today, and will come up for consideration Thursday, as soon as we dispose of the Flood Control District Bill, which is a Special Order for 10 o'clock.

The usual Third House meets Wednesday night. This is when the members take the place of the representatives, and vice versa. I have been chosen as Chief Reading Clerk. Mr. Hagan as a stenographer. We expect to derive a great deal of pleasure from the meeting, which convenes at 8 P. M.

Have not been able to pass our Road Bill yet, but feel sure that we can get them by Thursday night, and then they can be signed by the Governor, as they have already passed the Senate.

One bill, passed by the House today, provides that incidents of today, counties cannot be used in the three large counties in their civil courts of record, but must be held in the county of their residence. This bill should be well received by many in our county.

For the information of many that are interested, House Bill No. 419 has been taken off the House Calendar.

Decision Is Expected Soon Upon Hospital

PUBLIC WORKS SEEN AS ONLY HOPE OF LABOR

LaFollette Declares Nation Faces Third Year Of Idleness With Dire Results

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—A vastly expanded public works program made possible by an immediate special session of Congress was seen today by Senator LaFollette as the sole hope of avoiding "dire consequences of a third winter of unemployment for many millions of our citizens."

Speaking as chairman of the unemployment and industrial stabilization progressive conference, the Wisconsin Republican based his conclusions on a preliminary report by Dr. Isador Lubin, chairman of the conference subcommittee on unemployment. "The federal government alone can meet the widespread distress which the report reveals."

LaFollette said "At the present rate of industrial revival the number of unemployed to be provided for the coming winter bids fair to remain close to six million, found by the census bureau in its enumeration last January. He said the report showed little or no evidence that the remainder of the year would bring sufficient improvement."

Reports for April to the labor department showed spring road construction absorbing thousands of unemployed although curtailed schedules continued in many establishments.

Salvation Army Is Organizing Groups For Getting Funds

With the arrival in Sanford of Brigadier George F. Casley and wife, of St. Petersburg, Salvation Army officials here today began a 10-day drive to organize groups of workers who will canvass the city starting June 1 in a week's campaign to raise $4000.

The amount needed to conduct welfare work here for another year.

Local Salvation Army officials hope that several residents of this city will voluntarily offer their services as members of committees which will cover every section of the city in the fund-raising campaign, but, under the supervision of Brigadier Casley, appointments will be made just as soon as he can meet with various members of the advisory board and ascertain their feelings and recommendations.

The advisory board recently voted that the sum of $1000 was the minimum figure which was needed to continue work in Sanford, and that the Army will have to confine its charitable activities to the most essentials.

Headquarters will be opened in the Meinh Building today, and all committee meetings and organization work will be conducted from that point. The drive opens Monday June 1, and will continue for one week.

BEAUTY CONTEST WINNER FREED IN SPOUSE'S DEATH

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger Acquitted In French Court In 10 Minutes

NICE, France, May 21.—(AP)—A French jury required only 10 minutes last evening to acquit Mrs. Charlotte Nash Nixon-Nirdlinger, former St. Louis beauty contest winner of the slaying of her husband last March.

The jury upheld the young widow's contention that she shot her husband, Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, wealthy Philadelphia theater operator, in self-defense after he had attacked her in a jealous frenzy.

Her trial opened yesterday morning and the speed of the jury in arriving at a verdict set a record for Riviera tribunals. Immediately after it was returned Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger was released from the jail where she had been confined since the slaying.

The prosecuting attorney, who asked for conviction of manslaughter, decided not to call any witnesses.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger, who as Charlotte Nash won the St. Louis beauty contest in 1923, told a crowded courtroom in halting and sometimes fearful detail the story of the fatal encounter.

So wide was interest in the trial among the Anglo-European colonies that it was necessary to call out police reserves to handle the crowds. Only a few were able to find space in the small chamber.

Bursting into tears at several points, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger detailed how on the night of Mar. 11 her husband, after accusations (Continued on Page Four)

"Jake The Barber" Denies Charge He Swindled Britons

CHICAGO, May 21.—(AP)—John "Jake the Barber" Factor surrendered to federal authorities yesterday to face and fight the charge that he swindled Britons of huge sums of money in a stock selling scheme.

Factor denied all charges of fraud laid to him by English officials. The international promoter served notice he would resist any attempt to extradite him. His attorneys argued for hours attempting to obtain his freedom on bail, but the upshot was a continuance of the hearing until Monday.

"All I have read about myself in the past few days," he said in a statement, "is absolutely false. The statements about me and the members of my family which have been maliciously circulated are utterly without foundation. I have appeared voluntarily because I know the charges made against me are untrue."

EXTREMES OF WEATHER HIT PARTS OF U. S.

Minnesota, Dakotas, Utah Shiver As California Swelters In Terrific Heat Wave

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—(AP)—While Minnesota towns and Fargo, N. D., Dever, Colo., Logan, Utah, played or shivered in the snow or in sub-freezing temperatures, most of California perished in a heat wave.

The atmospheric conditions that frosted the highlands leaving 14 inches of snow on Pike's Peak in Colorado, were said by weather bureau officials here to be partly responsible for the scorching winds that blew into California.

Scenes of fires in timber, brush and grass were reported over California. Heavy damage was caused by numerous fires in San Francisco and nearby cities. Damage was estimated to total a half million dollars.

The heat wave brought a temperature of 90 degrees Tuesday to San Francisco. It was several degrees cooler yesterday, and the weather bureau forecasted still cooler weather ahead.

Taking cognizance of the emergency which included a serious water shortage, Gov. James Rolph Jr. appointed a committee to devise ways of meeting the situation. The committee yesterday ordered 2500 state highway and traffic patrolmen to cooperate with federal and local agencies fighting the fires. The committee was authorized to use the national guard if needed.

The governor declared the state was faced with a "genuine emergency" and "extraordinary steps are taken to prevent it, the entire state may be afire by the middle of the summer."

Southern California and Oregon and Washington appeared to have escaped the unusual heat. Snow flurries were reported in the Rocky Mountain region and in Minnesota and North Dakota. Snow fell heavily in Denver yesterday afternoon, driven by a north wind. Temperatures as low as 22 above zero were reported in Wyoming.

Man Confesses To Killing Woman And Her 2 Small Sons

MATTOON, Ill., May 21.—(AP)—Merle Johnson, 25-year-old Arkansas mountaineer, yesterday confessed to killing Mrs. Corrie Bowers, 38, and her two small sons on a side road near Mattoon, after firing the house in which they lived.

He wandered into town yesterday morning, face and hands burned from the fire and surrendered to a policeman.

"I killed them," he said. "She asked me to, it was the most blooded thing I have ever known." Then, police said, he gave a full confession.

He said he fired the house shortly before midnight, and carried the two children, 2 and 2 years old, from the burning building, put them in a car with Mrs. Bowers and drove outside town.

There he shot Mrs. Bowers, then shot, and strangled and clubbed the two children.

Under repeated questioning, Johnson varied his story frequently. He said, and then denied, that a friend had conspired with him to burn the house where he lived with Mrs. Bowers. He refused to amplify his statement that the woman "asked" him to kill her and the children, and authorities doubted it. He had no other motive to give for the slayings.

It was learned that Johnson had come to Mattoon with Mrs. Bowers from Stuttgart, Ark. He was employed by her on a rice plantation near there—his first "steady" job since he came from the hills near Harpersville, Mo. Officers were pursuing two theories in the slayings. One was that Johnson had killed the trio because he had heard Mrs. Bowers was planning to order him from her home. Another was that he sought possession of money she had brought from Arkansas in a box. The box is missing.

BARNES SUBMITS SCHEME TO CURE ECONOMIC ILLS

Emphasis Put On Team Play Between Government, Industry

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—An 11-point program for the improvement of government, business and international relations and trade was submitted yesterday to the national association of mutual savings banks by Julius H. Barnes, chairman of the board of the chamber of commerce of the United States.

Barnes sought to outline team play between the government and industry. He said his recommendations, "are soundly based for the government's contribution in the recovery from this depression."

Briefly his program suggested the following: Legislation to lift restrictions which prevent insurance companies from preparing in private contracts security against unemployment.

Enlargement of tax laws should seek advice and take recommendations from those skilled in the subject, particularly the capital gains provision.

An end to senatorial disparagement of men nominated to government posts by the president.

Congress should "follow the recommendation of President Hoover, organized business and other organizations in respect to joining the world court."

Reconsideration of the anti-trust laws.

Restudy of the banking laws.

Mass Meeting To Be Staged In Move To Aid Prohibition

Under the direction of the National Conference of organizations supporting the Eighteenth Amendment, as well as the state committee of the societies, a mass meeting will be held at the City Hall, Tuesday, May 26, at 8:00 o'clock, as the opening gun in a campaign of organization in Santa Fe County.

Dr. Fred E. Britton, chairman of the state committee, will speak on the subject "Our Present Great Crisis," while several local proponents of prohibition will be asked to speak briefly. The meeting is open to the public, and, according to Dr. Britton, all who are interested and believe in the Eighteenth Amendment and its proper enforcement, are specially urged to attend.

Dr. Britton has just completed a tour of the East Coast where he said he effected county organizations in every county from Dade to Nevada. He has also organized societies in Sebring, Haines City, Kissimmee, St. Cloud and Orlando, the latter city having an organization with 400 members.

LIQUOR CRAZED MAN KILLS HIS WIFE, 2 SONS

Terrifies His Other Children And Three Adults As He Talks Offiring Upon Them

MEDFORD, Wis., May 21.—(AP)—Joseph Fleischmann, 35, shot and killed his wife and two small sons and for five hours held his two daughters, another son, and three adults in a state of terror while he talked incessantly of firing at them.

The three adults, one a Catholic priest, escaped from the Fleischmann farm home amid a burst of bullets. They called officers who arrested Fleischmann before he harmed the other children.

Fleischmann was a butter maker. At the creamery he became crazed by liquor. Officers said that he had been confined to an asylum twice for alcoholic insanity.

After killing his wife and his two youngest sons, Fleischmann telephoned Anton Kummer, a neighbor, who was forced to telephone Father Gregory Heuter and Otto Huber to come to the home.

The three were forced to view the bodies while Fleischmann threatened them. Finally the trio fled and Fleischmann opened fire on them. Fleischmann was captured later in the woods.

Ship's Oiler Tells Why He Told About Scuttling Of Boat

MOBILE, Ala., May 21.—(AP)—Failure to receive all the money he said was promised him for scuttling the Rose M. Murphy prompted him to write from Barcelona, Spain, to the Salvage Association in New York and offer to give information regarding the loss of the ship and another ship, Salvador Martinez, ship officer, stationed in Pote at court yesterday.

The Spaniard's testimony, given in the trial of Capt. John C. Murphy, was concluded last yesterday, and the court prepared to hear James A. Fullard, chief engineer of the ship, give his version of its sinking.

Captain Murphy and Fullard were indicted with Martinez for the alleged scuttling of the vessel, to which the officer already has entered a plea of guilty.

Martinez testified that he not only helped to sink the Rose Murphy, but he set fire to the steamship Northern Light, another Murphy vessel, in the port of Mobile in 1927. He said Captain Murphy paid him $2,500 for burning the Northern Light and that he received $1,500 of a promised $2,500 for the Rose Murphy destruction.

Cross-examination of Martinez was halted for a time yesterday for the testimony of A. W. Stahl, insurance broker of New Orleans, who handled the policy of the Rose Murphy. He testified the policy on the vessel at the time she was lost was $75,000 but that a new policy of $100,000 had been authorized and would have gone into effect a few days after the ship went down. He said he and not Captain Murphy suggested that the insurance be raised on the vessel.

Big Sum To Be Spent On Miami Race Plant

NEW YORK, May 21.—(AP)—Joseph Wadsworth, president of the Miami Race Association, said today in view of the action of the Florida Legislature favoring pari-mutuels, he planned to spend up to $1,000,000 in improving race course at Hialeah Park operated by his association. He said the work would start as soon as possible and be planned to make a park one of the most beautiful race courses in the world. He hopes to complete most of the improvements in time for the racing next winter and the remainder by the following season.

FLORIDAN FORTS AMONG THOSE TO BE ABANDONED

List Of Doomed Posts To Help In Economy Announced By Chief

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—The entire or partial abandonment of 53 military posts was proposed yesterday by General Douglas MacArthur, army chief of staff, in line with President Hoover's economy program.

Meanwhile, postoffice department officials were invited by President Hoover to center with him and the War Department a week-end on possible savings. The war and interior departments have been studied on previous week-ends.

President Hoover hopes to cut government expenses to a point that will make a tax increase unnecessary. He expects a $125,000,000 to $150,000,000 saving next year with additional reductions later.

In a memorandum to Secretary Huxley, made public by the war department, General MacArthur proposed abandonment of 24 posts and partial abandonment of 29 others, the total valued at $22,000,000.

Occupied posts cited by the general for elimination included Forts Rastis and Hunt, Virginia.

General MacArthur said his recommendation was "influenced by reasons of military efficiency as well as economy."

Several of these posts, the general said, were of temporary construction. (Continued on Page Six)

Golden Jubilee Of Red Cross Will Be Ushered In Tonight

WASHINGTON, May 21.—(AP)—President Hoover, head of the Red Cross in this country, and Judge Max Huber, of Zurich, Switzerland, president of the International Red Cross committee, will open the golden jubilee celebration of the American Red Cross tonight.

Judge Huber was presented yesterday to President Hoover by John Barton Payne, Red Cross chairman, at the White House.

Their meeting aroused some conjecture as to whether they might have descended from the same Swiss family. As a result of research into the Hoover genealogy, articles have been published declaring the Hoover family originated in Switzerland and that the name was once spelled Huber.

President Hoover and Judge Huber will share honor positions tonight at the banquet table where 800 notables will dine. They will divide time on a broadcast to be carried by both National and Columbia systems.

Mrs. Hoover also will attend. Eight Ambassadors and more than 50 other diplomatic representatives will be numbered among the guests. Chief Justice Hughes will preside.

By radio reception, hundreds of dinner parties among the 3,500 Red Cross chapters will listen to the addresses of President Hoover and Judge Huber. Judge Huber from 1923 to 1927 presided over the permanent international court of justice at The Hague. His whole lifetime, he said, had been devoted to the advancement of peace.

HOUSE PASSES BETTING BILL BY BIG MARGIN

Senate Approves Tax Upon Corporations; Carlton Signs Bill Affecting Schools

TALLAHASSEE, May 21.—(AP)—The Senate today refused 20 to 17 to reconsider its approval of a proposed constitutional amendment to exempt homesteads from state and county taxation. The bill would require ratification by voters before becoming a law. The Senate ordered it sent to the House and the House passed it. The Senate approved a measure for a graduated tax on corporations. An estimated revenue of $1,000,000 yearly is expected from the corporation tax.

The House finance taxation committee reported unfavorably the Billiton bill passed by the Senate for a two cent a gallon state excise tax on gasoline which would be in addition to the present six cents tax. The House approved a bill to require payment of all delinquent personal property taxes before an occupational license is issued and received a bill proposing a tax on soft drinks of one cent for each five cents retail price on bottled drinks and 75 cents a gallon in fountain syrup.

Governor Carlton signed a bill providing for the distribution of school funds to county school systems on a teacher unit basis of $1000.00 per unit of one teacher and 20 pupils. Another regulating the practice of barbering and a third restricting the publication of legal notices in newspapers, with at least one year continuous publication record.

The bill regulating the use of pari-mutuel betting machines at Florida race tracks, heavily weighted with amendments, gulped to an easy victory in the House yesterday.

The House passed it, 55 to 38, and it will be sent back to the Senate for acceptance or rejection of the amendments put in during more than three hours of sensational debate. But the Senate is expected to concur in the House changes and the bill probably will (Continued on Page Six)

Magazine Editor Is Severely Wounded By Gunman's Shot

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—(AP)—An unidentified gunman late yesterday shot and killed Herbert Spencer, Los Angeles newspaper man and former city editor of the Evening Express, and seriously wounded Charles Crawford, city political figure. The slayer escaped.

The shooting occurred in California's real estate office in Hollywood.

A stenographer told detectives the two men were conversing when a man ran in the front door, drew a revolver, and shot point blank at Spencer and Crawford.

The gunman bolted out the door. Crawford staggered to his feet and collapsed in the doorway. He was taken to a hospital where physicians said an abdomen wound probably would prove fatal.

In the conclusion detectives were unable to obtain a clue to the possible motive of the killer.

Several pedestrians said they saw the slayer dash to the street and flee up Sunset Boulevard, one of the main thoroughfares in Hollywood, and disappear.

Spencer left the Express several months ago and since has been editor of a monthly magazine. Crawford had figured widely in city politics and became wealthy in the real estate business.

Famed Inventor Dies From Burns Received

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—(AP)—Charles Vawter, widely known inventor, died today from burns received in an explosion in his laboratory. He was lubricating a motor while testing a new high tension ignition device designed for airplanes; when a spark ignited the oil causing the explosion. He is credited with venting more than 800 radio electrical devices.

Hypocrisy Slayed

Florida's first general election passed the House yesterday by the surprising favorable vote of 55 to 33. Since it had previously passed the Senate, with the exception of a few minor amendments which were tacked on by the House, the Governor alone can prevent it now from becoming a law. He may either sign it, or veto it, but in case he does neither, which is not unlikely, it becomes a law anyway.

The legislation of racetrack gambling has become necessary in Florida because of the apparent impossibility of electing to office men with the courage, or the honesty, or whatever it takes, to enforce the law. It is an admitted fact, even by the members themselves, that a preponderance of public opinion in the State of Florida is a whole in favor of racetrack gambling. Yet, in spite of this fact, and the spirit of the law against it, we have had racetrack gambling in Florida since 1914.

With the passage of the present bill, it should be borne in mind by our readers that here in Seminole County they do not have to tolerate horse and dog tracks unless they so desire. Some time before the next season begins, a referendum will be held and the people of this county will decide whether the tracks shall close or remain open. They will decide whether our community can prosper most through the operation of racetracks and their attendant characteristics, or through the more conservative development of our agricultural and industrial facilities.

But whatever may be their decision, and the decision of voters in other parts of the state, we cannot but feel that the legislature has taken a wise step in adopting this local option measure. The corrupting influences of the former system had certainly had evil effects on all manner of law enforcement, and has assisted in creating a disrespect for the law which will require many years to wipe out. The graft which has formerly gone for protection will now be used to reduce taxes, and no one can deny that that is some improvement.

Signs Of Betterment

One of the best things about a depression is that manufacturers curtail production, the supply is eventually exhausted, consequently the demand increases, and prosperity returns. The same may be said of agriculture. According to the Manufacturers Record, there will be realized from farm products during the next few months at least $12,000,000,000 of new wealth which will be turned into channels of trade stimulating all lines of business.

"Industry and agriculture generally," says the Record, "are on a sounder basis and in a position to realize an economic effect in their operations. One of the lessons learned during the depression is that distribution and marketing are equal in importance to volume of production in our highly industrialized civilization. Output controlled in relation to a demand properly stimulated by constant and intelligent sales effort is a key to the solution of existing conditions. Over-production has brought satiety and clogged the flow of trade."

"We are learning a better appreciation of true values, as well as a saner method of doing business, of fitting our products in quantity and quality to the demand for them. Signs appear to be pointing to an end of the depression. There has been a noticeable increase in building permits in a number of Southern cities for the month of April. The total value of construction and engineering contracts awarded in April in the South shows a considerable advance over preceding months and over April a year ago."

"The people of this country, to whom the word looks for leadership in industry, require a definite outlook. They have not been able to see their way through a depression that had more conflicting elements than any depression of the past. Students of economics and business agree that the state of the public mind has had a great deal to do with the let-down in buying. Buyers hesitate in a declining market."

"But the road ahead is getting a little clearer. The cash returns from crops, particularly in states which were in a dire way last year from the drought, will have a most wholesome effect. It is probable that instead of the dullness of a summer period, which industry in many lines always faces, there will be more activity this summer than there was last. Those familiar with business history call attention to the fact that previous depressions have usually had their turn for the better with the returns from crops."

LIKES FREE PRESS

MIAMI HERALD

Recent criticism of the daily newspaper has attracted the attention of editors and publishers. Some of the harshest and most candid opinions were expressed recently by editors in conference in Washington and at a discussion at Princeton University. The daily papers were viewed "critically as an institution."

Editor and Publisher has just asked a number of individuals "high in their respective professions but entirely removed from the business of newspaper production," how the relations between the public and the press might be improved. Among those who answered was Henry J. Macpherson, editor of The American Mercury, who has often been referred to by the daily papers in various sections of the country because of his outspoken manner and his habit of poking fun at newspapers and their regular readers.

"I have no complaint to make about my country's newspapers," writes Mr. Macpherson. "The more conservative editors of the past generation were not so good as those of today. I believe in free speech and in a free press. I believe in the right of every man to express his opinions and in the right of every man to read what he chooses to read."

"The most common attack on the newspaper is that it is too expensive. I believe that the newspaper is too expensive only because it is too good. It is the only institution in our country that has not been destroyed by the government. It is the only institution that has not been destroyed by the government. It is the only institution that has not been destroyed by the government."

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

BY SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, May 11.—The hundred and seventy-two army airplanes are due to descend on New York today in the largest concentration of fighting aircraft yet attempted by the Air Corps. I am told that, based on previous experience with air shows, a minimum of twelve serious accidents are expected before the show is over. This is "inside dope." It is interesting, because we can check up on it.

Another taxi driver story, this time about a dour New Englander who found himself piloting a "14 and 5." A Pineston freshman, in New York for the weekend, told him grandly to "drive along through the park." With the college boy was his best girl, who was in a bank and lived in Greenwich Village. The driver set without interest, guiding the car round and round, while he overheard all the details of an engagement, punctuated with many giggles and hoarse assurances of eternal devotion. The meter clicked on. Finally, as the car drew near the Village square, he heard a discussion of how many dear little children they would have. Three was the number decided upon. The meter read $4.70. The college boy handed over a $5 bill. The taxi driver handed him 50 cents in change. The college boy handed the taxi driver a dime tip. The taxi driver handed it back. "Here," he said, shoving the hack into gear, "take this and have four of them."

Some mighty odd things have been happening around town lately. A young lady, who lives on upper Fifth avenue, is laid up with poison ivy infection, contracted while giving her dog an airing in Central Park near 107th Street. And Gilbert Swan, a Broadway columnist, was run over by a bicycle while crossing Seventh avenue enroute to the Pennsylvania station to meet his wife. There's an item for him.

New York's quarantine tower rises on Staten Island. Or perhaps it would be better to say that Staten Island looks on New York's quarantine tower and New York's quarantine tower looks on the sea. Inside the tower sits a dapper, brisk little man. On one side of the dapper, brisk little man is a large telescope. On the other side is a small telegraph key. During the daylight hours he darts from one to the other like a well-dressed shuttle. His name is Harry Harrison. He is the guy who reports the incoming ships.

Harry Harrison has been shuttling from telescope to key for thirty years now. You would think he'd get awfully lonely, but he doesn't. Ships are faces to him. He knows the outline of every major vessel that floats, and can report most of them as soon as he sees their stacks stick above the horizon. And many famous people have sought him out in his tower, too impatient to wait until he could turn to his key, for reasons poignant or dramatic. One of them was Vincent Astor. Astor stood in the tower and strained his eyes with Harrison for a first glimpse of the "Carpathia." He wanted to know if the body of his father, John Jacob Astor, victim of the Newspapermen usually try to be fair; they know that their future and their success depends on the belief of the great mass of readers in their fairness and their mental honesty. Being in the business of criticizing others, they should, of course, recognize the rights of others to criticize them. Editor and Publisher says that the replies to its question "are laudatory in the main as to the work newspapers are accomplishing" and says they offer the sort of criticism that editors welcome. Verbal assaults on the press are common and are easy to make, but when the assault tries to put his words on paper he is likely to be fairly conservative and to decide that conditions generally are satisfactory.

Thanic disaster, was aboard. It wasn't.

Of course Harrison recalls the war time "gate" across the channel at Quarantine. It was a gargantuan affair of steel cables, stretched from the Brooklyn shore to Staten Island, designed to force every vessel to stop for close scrutiny and to entangle any adventurous submarines. Harrison remembers the "gate" as rather cheery. It was supported by several towers, each with a platform for a searchlight. The "gate" was a rather cheery sight. Program Presented At Club

To persons attended the annual program given on Tuesday evening at the Women's Club at 217 S. Sanford. The program was presented by Mrs. Fannie Blount, president of the club, and other guests, with Mrs. Harry L. Brown and Miss Margaret L. Davis as hostesses.

The program was considered one of the outstanding events in the work of the department. It was presented by Mrs. Blount, who organized many of the members of the club which was the Music Department of the Women's Club, and in honor of the club. Each year the department has given a program in honor of Mrs. Munson and the Cecilia Club, but this year Mrs. Blount reversed the order by presenting the program.

The performance on her part were old pupils of her who are now teachers of the club with large classes of their own.

On the stage from which the numbers were presented was a background of spring flowers accented with a color scheme of pink and white. Gladioli and snapdragons were arranged in baskets while asparagus was draped along the length of the stage. Mrs. Arden Brannan had charge of the decorations.

Following the program Mrs. Blount gave a most interesting and instructive talk on the topic of the evening, "Present Day Competitions." She brought out many subtle points characteristic of present day composers, stating that never before in the history of music writing have there been so many and varied styles and types of composition.

She declared that there are old classical and modern classical, romantic, Chopinesque, American, modernistic, ultra modernistic, freak scale compositions, music based on Indian themes, on negro spirituals, and jazz music. Mrs. Munson discussed each school in narrative fashion, bringing out many humorous as well as serious and educational thoughts.

The program for the evening was presented as follows and covered selections from above of the schools discussed by Mrs. Munson:

Piano — Ses Gardens, James Francis Cook, Rigaudon, I. Champs, Mrs. R. H. Deas, Mrs. R. C. Deas.

Golfing's Cake Walk, DeBussy, Mrs. Elizabeth Tolar.

Morris, 1015 West Twentieth Street. Miss Boyce and Miss Brannan were given pieces of silver as gifts from the class.

Developing a color scheme of pink and white were the quantities of pink roses and snapdragons which were arranged about the room where the guests were entertained. Games and contests were enjoyed throughout the evening.

At a late hour refreshments in shades of pink and white were served by the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. J. M. Stinescoper. PUBLIC WORKS SEEN AS ONLY HOPE OF LABOR

tion of labor urged local councils to seek additional members, "to make use of collective action if general wage reductions are proposed."

At the same time, Matthew Wolf, a vice president of the federation, said in an address before the national association of spiritual saving banks that "American labor is probably in for the fight of its life."

"The demand for the cutting of wages," he added, "is a part of a campaign which is now only beginning again and which has been planned as a part of the program of the international control of capital, of manufacture, of markets, of prices—and of labor, by those who would master the world in the interests of the few."

"The most gigantic empire of all the age is now being envisioned by these men who look with complacency on the wrecking of a standard of civilization set up by the blood and tears of millions."

Following statements by President Green and the federation that reductions were contemplated, the metal trades division said unorganized workers must be organized to keep "any unjustified, unsound, uneconomic burdens from being forced upon labor's back."

It attributed much of the business depression to "unsound and uneconomic policies" followed by employers. It held that since "shortsighted and selfish employers... encouraged by the advice of some of the nation's leading bankers, are reducing or attempting to reduce wages," active efforts should be made to organize the unorganized. Such a step, it said, would enable more wage earners to "make use of collective action" against lower pay proposals.

Asserting the American wage earners and their dependents constitute 85 percent of the population and it is the goods they purchase which maintain American industries, the department said the present depression was caused principally by the failure of industry to pay wages in proportion to the wealth being created.

"Some of those who reap disproportionate profits during the depression," it said, "are those who have not shared the hardships of the depression."

We wish to extend sincere thanks to our friends for their many acts of kindness during the recent illness and death of our dear husband, father and brother.

Beauty Contest Winner Freed In Husband's Death

ing her of having love affairs with younger men, grasped her by the throat and choked her. She said she awoke a revolver from under her pillow where she kept it because she was afraid of her husband, and shot him twice. One bullet entered his eye; the other caused a fatal wound in his body. She denied all her husband's accusations.

"Why did you have a revolver under your pillow?" she was asked by the judge.

"It was a bad habit, I admit, but my husband was jealous and violent and I was afraid of him," the defendant responded.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger protested it was the first time she ever had used a revolver. She wept as other witnesses appeared to testify as to her character.

Charles G. Loeb, an American lawyer, testified that while he considered himself the slain man's best friend, he believed Nixon-Nirdlinger was afflicted with jealousy.

While the prosecution delivered its summation the defendant's mother, who came from St. Louis, collapsed from the heat.

The prosecution argument was described by attorneys in attendance as being of a high order.

Sea Food, Poultry Market Is Opened On Sanford Avenue

Sanford's newest business enterprise is a sea food and poultry market where the exciting house-keeper may find, at all times, the choicest of delicacies in sea foods and poultry.

Under the direction of Harold J. Fischer and J. M. Alderman, two experienced grocery and meat market salesmen, the new store opened for business this morning at 402 Sanford Avenue.

Mr. Fischer is the son of G. E. Fischer, well-known Sanford delicatessen and meat market owner. Mr. Alderman came here from Valdosta about six years ago, and has had years of experience in the handling of meats, sea foods, and poultry.

The store has been remodeled, completely re-decorated, and presents a pleasing appearance. Refrigeration equipment as well as all display cases are the latest of their type, and the stock is neatly displayed at all times in spotlessly clean cases.
