Paterson's trial date set

SANFORD - A May 11 trial date was set Tuesday for Stephen Paterson charged with two counts of lewd and lactvious assault.

Paterson did not appear at his scheduled arraignment before Judge O.H. Eaton who set the May trial date.

Paterson, the former Lakeview Middle School band instructor, is charged in connection with an alleged assault on a former student.

The Seminole County School Board postponed firing Paterson Tuesday night after his attorney requested a hearing by an offier of the state department of education.

Sanford named tree city USA

SANFORD - The City of Sanford has announced it has been named a Tree City USA. by Mr. John Rosenow, executive director of the National Arbor Day Foundation. It is the sixth year that Sanford has received this national recognition for its tree care program.

The Tree City USA program is sponsored by the National Arbor Day Foundation in cooperation with the USDA Forest Service, and the National Association of State Foresters.

To become a Tree City USA, a community must meet four standards: a tree board or department, a city tree ordinance, a comprehensive community forestry program, and an Arbor

The award will be received by the Scenic Improvement Board, which will present it to the City Commission.

Altamonte officer sued

SANFORD - A police officer who thought he had found a runaway now finds himself being sued for stopping the wrong girl.

Terl VanBritsom has filed a suit against officer James Pierstorff and the Altamonte Springs Police Department, alleging her daughter, Melissa DeHaven, suffered physical and psychological damage due to the incident.

On April 9, 1991, Pierstorff stopped Melissa. then 12, near a hotel because she fit the description of a runaway. Witnesses said Melissa fought the officer furiously, insisting she wasn't the girl he was looking for.

Melissa, who bit Pierstorff on the arm, was bruised on her abdomen, legs and under one eye during the struggle.

Correction

In a story on Sanford City Commission actions regarding changing jurisdiction over the posi-tion of police chief, presented on Page 1 of Tuesday's Sanford Herald, a private discussion between commissioners Lon Howell and Bob Thomas was reported. The conversation took place between the workshop and regular meetings. Howell has reported the talk concerned personal matters and did not regard the police chief subject, which could have been a violation of the Sunshine Law.

'Limit sex business' Residents: Curb adult entertainment

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - About 50 Seminole County residents and religious and moral leaders urged county commissioners to strengthen their adult entertainment ordinance last night.

Most people attending the first of two hearings last night applauded the propose . Tevisions which would further limit the number of new adult establishments. But they said more should be done.

"The proposed amendments are a good faith effort, but more needs to be done," said Robin Haas, a leader of the Seminole County Christian

Incentives may lure Northrup

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners pledged to waive more than $200,000 in county impact fees if an aircraft manufacturer moves to Central Florida Regional Airport.

Commissioners voted 4-0 to waive an estimated $265,000 if Northrup Corp. relocates from the West Coast to Sanford's airport and remains there for at least 15 years. Sanford commissioners pledged to waive about $80,000 in impact fees Monday night.

Northrup is seeking a location to build 750 single-engine military training aircraft during the next 15 years. The Sanford Airport Authority is competing with about a dozen other airport facilities throughout the southeastern United States for the 200,000 square foot aircraft assembly facility.

The move is expected to bring 300 highly-paid jobs to the area and create a service employment base of up to 200 additional jobs. Northrup employees earn an average of $35,000 per year. compared to the average Seminole County aggragate salary of $21,000, said airport director Steve Cooke.

In an economic analysis of the proposal by Fishkind and Associates, a leading state economics firm in Winter Park, the total employment base created by the facility will be paid $15 million annually. The Northrup wages could expand to more than $37 million as they are spread throughout the community, the Fishkind analysis comcluded.

The decision was touted as the first major move to attracting new industry to Seminole County. The county's Economic Development Advisory ☐See Aircraft, Page 5A

City to end motorcycle patrol

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford Police Department is eliminating motorcycle patrols. All six units will be replaced by regular police vehicles.

The Sanford City Commission approved the proposal during Monday night's meeting, with a four to one vote. Acting chief Ralph Russell proposed the change with money to be spent from a special seizure fund deposited in the Law Enforcement Trust Fund.

are all scheduled to be auctioned." He continued, "If we continue using motorcycles, we will have to get into another lease agreement." Commissioner Bob Thomas cast the lone vote against eliminating the motorcycles. "Why do we want to get agreement for several years," Russell said, "and they

'We've had these motorcycles under a lease rid of them?" he asked Russell. "They are limited in their use," Russell responded. "One reason is that they go down in bad weather. Also, whenever a motorcycle officer makes an arrest, he has to call for a car to transport the prisoner, which ties up two units rather than one."

"Other reasons," he said, "include the fact that motorcycle units are not allowed by state law to become involved in a pursuit chase, and as far as area coverage is concerned, cars have a much higher visability than

Russell explained that transferring radio equipment from the motorcycles to the cars would save an estimated $24,000, compared to the cost of fully equipping the new vehicles.

Yesterday, Lt. Mike Rotundo said he expected to have the motorcycles remain in use until almost mid year. "We have the six new cars on order," he explained, "but under the state contract, we don't expect to receive them until possibly April or May, then it will take several weeks to convert the equipment and get them ready for use." "I would estimate it will be mid-year before we could consider the motorcycle patrols ended," he added. The six cars to be purchased are full size 1993 Ford Crown Victorias, for a total cost of $76,524. Additional related expenses for painting and other needs have been estimated at $11,050.

Agency vows to look closer at labs

FORT LAUDERDALE - The Florida agency that oversees private laboratories is trying to improve procedures so that patients do not end up with inaccurate results on HIV tests.

The state Laboratory Licensing Board is the second Florida agency in the past week that has vowed to keep a closer watch on private labs that test for the deadly disease.

The licensing board and the Clinical Lab Personnel Board became concerned about the labs after news reports about seven South Florida patients who were falsely told they had tested positive for the human immunodeficiency virus. The labs erred in a number of ways, including switching blood samples or test results and mislabeling specimens. "It a high time we try to do something about these errors," said Laura Phillips, administrator of the Laboratory Licensing Board. "I'd like to reach out and get some national authority, like the Centers for Disease Control, to advise us."

Judge rules stalking law too vague

FORT LAUDERDALE - A Broward County judge has ruled the state's new anti-stalking law is unconstitutionally vague. Women's rights proponents were discouraged by the development, but prosecutors promised an appeal.

"You have to know when you're going over the line or when Monday in dismissing a misdemeanor charge against Rosert Kahles. "It shouldn't leave you to guess at the prohibited

Wright accepted arguments by Assistant Public Defender Howard Finkelstein that the law is "well-intentioned and sorely needed" but is subjective and needs revision.

The ruling applies only in Wright's courtroom, but an appeal would expand its impact. Assistant State Attorney Tony Loe said, "We've found the law to be an effective tool to combat what I would call a type of urban terrorism."

The statute says stalking becomes a crime when someone causes the victim "substantial emotional distress."

Telemarketers accused of fraud

MIAMI — A telemarketing company is accused of preying on victims of the recession by promising lucrative but nonexistent overseas employment to job seekers.

Thirteen officials of Universal Placement Inc. of North Bay Village were indicted on charges of defrauding 400 job applicants out of more than $200,000 on application and processing fees of $675 per person.

Help-wanted ads attracted out-of-state people with offers of jobs in Australia, New Zealand, Britain, France and other, countries with salaries of $40,000 to $120,000. Readers were advised to call for immediate job openings.

But federal prosecutors said Monday the company never did more than arrange applicants' resumes in alphabetical order and pocket the money.

The indictment named George Davis, president and director of Universal, Howard Senter and Paul Crupi as officers and managers, and 10 salespeople. All 13 were charged with mail and wire fraud and conspiracy to commit mail and wire fraud.

Public breast-feeding

Florida first in nation to guarantee rights to nurse

By CURT ANDERSON Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - A new law making Florida the first state in the nation to guarantee a woman's right to breast-feed in public should remove some women's hesitancy to perform a natural and healthy act, advocates said.

"This law will take away some of the stigma to it and make a positive statement about breast feeding," said Elizabeth Baldwin, an attorney who advises the La Leche League pro-breast feeding group. "This shows we're not going to criminalize this hasic mothering act.

Baldwin said numerous medical studies have shown breast feeding is healthier for mother and baby. Mother's milk improves the immune system, is better for digestion and reduces the mother's chances of contracting breast and ovarian cancer. "It's not a shameful act that ought to be hidden behind closed doors," said Gov. Lawton Chiles at a bill-signing ceremony Tuesday. "It's a time of bonding and nurturing between a mother and her baby. We know breast-feeding ought to be encouraged."

In other action Tuesday, the House Finance and Taxation Committee voted 24-4 for a bill (HB 43) that would penalize people under 18 for buying eigarettes or other tobacco products.

The bill would allow judges to impose penalties, including community service, fines up to $500, curiews and driver's license suspensions on people under 18 who buy or possess tobacco.

Rep. Carol Hanson, R-Boca Raton, said the final version may not include the possession provision because it is difficult to enforce and has run into opposition. The bill's next stop is the Appropriations Committee.

The breast-feeding bill, which passed both houses of the Legislature with only a handful of negative votes, states that a woman who breast-feeds in public cannot be charged under any Florida obscenity. lewdness or public nudity laws.

The legislation also endorses breastfeeding as the preferred way to nurse an infant, stating its goal is to end ignorance based on "archaic and outdated moral taboos.'

No other state has enacted such a law, although a similar municipal ordinance exists in Kansas City, Mo., according to the main sponsor, Rep. Miguel De Grandy, R-Miami. The law took effect when Chiles signed it.

Documents show Southern Bell knew of repair fraud

TALLAHASSEE — High-ranking officials at Southern Bell Telephone Co. knew their employees falsified repair records to meet state performance standards, but top managers did little to stop the practice, according to investigative documents released Tuesday.

Some employees said in sworn statements they were under pressure to comply by any means with a state regulatory rule that required the company to repair disabled phone service within 24 hours or pay rebates to customers.
"My job depended on that. You know, my evaluations were based on how well I did," said

James Powell, a phone company supervisor.

Powell testified he was pressured to resign in 1991 after he resisted falsifying reports. backdated computer entries, misclassified repair

The sworn statements showed employees codes, made up bogus repair records, counted working phone lines as ones that had been repaired and used other methods to faisify records to meet the state's 95 percent compliance rate on repairs.

Michael Maloy, former chief investigator for the Attorney General's Office, had testified that "high-level Southern Bell management knew of and countenanced the fraudulent activities."

Maloy said the scope of the activities disproved "Southern Bell's public ascertions that the fraud was the result of only a few 'bad apples' who have since been dismissed." The statements of Powell and 12 other Southern Bell employees were taken in 1991 and 1992 by investigators for the Attorney General's Office and the Office of the Statewide Prosecutor as part of an investigation into the company's repair and billing practices.

The company agreed in October 1992 to refund $15.2 million to more than 900,000 customers to settle a statewide grand jury investigation.

Southern Bell called the documents "old news," although it said it had not yet reviewed the statements. It asked the Attorney General to release all documents from the grand jury probe.

Abused wife in jail for murder may gain freedom

By The Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - An abused wife imprisoned four years for killing her husband may become the state's first to win clemency under a new policy designed to help battered women.

Gov. Lawton Chiles and the Cabinet could give Kimberly Soubielle, 27, her freedom from a prison work center by Friday.

"I'm going to be ecstatic. I can finally get on with the rest of my life and get time with my daughter," Ms. Soubielle said Tuesday. "She was 2 then. She is now 8. I lost six years of her

Ms. Soubielle, who was imprisoned in 1988, is serving a 15-year sentence for seconddegree murder for shooting her husband to death because she saw no other way to escape his abuse.

"I think the justice system sees no difference between a battered woman and a man who goes out and kidnaps and rapes and murders somebody," she said.

Chiles' office on Tuesday said that the governor wants to reduce Ms. Soublelle's sentence to the time she has served, and a majority of Cabinet members support him.

In 1987, Ms. Soubielle shot her 25-year-old husband, Pierre, six times, reloaded her gun and shot him again in their Casselberry home. She dragged the body to a car trunk lined with plastic before calling her father to help load the body. He refused and persuaded her to call police.

At her murder trial, Ms. Soubielle spent hours testifying that her husband of three years raped her, stuck needles in her breasts, burned her with cigarettes, beat her and forced her to become a topless dancer and a prostitute. She also has said her husband sexually abused her daughter.

Several states, including Ohio and Maryland, have granted clemency to battered women who kill. In late 1991, Chiles and the Cabinet agreed to set up a Florida Battered Woman's Syndrome Review Panel.

The panel, composed of judges, prosecutors and experts on the battered-woman syndrome, investigates murder cases involving allegations of domestic abuse. Ms. Soubielle's case was the panel's first, and it recommended in her favor.

The decision to grant Ms. Soubielle clemency could bode well for several hundred women who are in Florida prisons for murder. Some 60 to 70 percent of women who commit capital crimes probably were battered by the boyfriends or spouses they killed, according to the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence, an advocacy group.

Police, prosecutors and the state Parole Commission fought the idea of granting Ms. Soubielle freedom. Prosecutors described her as a cold-blooded killer who murdered her husband so she could start a new life. They said there was not enough evidence to show Ms. Soubielle was abused.

But she said she had no other choice.

"I regret that I didn't get help earlier, that I didn't leave. But as for what happened that day, the choice was either my daughter and myself or my husband," Ms. Soubielle said.

Sanford revises fees for special events

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission is revising licensing requirements for special events. An ordinance dealing with the matter is being prepared.

If approved, a single fee would be charged for a total event, rather than occupational license fees levied against each individual participant. The fees would be equal to or lower than those charged by most other municipalities for special events.

The changes in the requirements were considered as a result of a city commission workshop meeting several weeks ago. Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Dave Farr, on behalf of the St. Johns River Arts and Crafts Festival, had requested either a waiver or reduction of occupational licenses for vendors at the event.

By a concensus vote, the commission elected to hold off on the requirement for the fees until the matter could be examined more closely. At that time, Farr said he would be willing to adhere to whatever decision the commission reached.

Monday night, the commission received a list of recommended fee changes, submitted by city Licensing Official Gretchen Mason. In preparation of her recommendations, she had examined licensing fees in other municipalities.

Mason has recommended a sliding scale, based on the number of vendors involved in any particular activity. For minor events with one to ten vendors, her proposed fee is $50, rather than a maximum of $75 which would be charged for a total of ten.

For events with 11 to 25 vendors, a blanket fee of $80 would be charged rather than the present charge of $82 to $187.50. Events with 26 to 75 entrants would pay $200, and for 76 and over, the total cost would be $500.

Although the concept of the proposed fees drew a favorable response from the commission. no decision was made regarding the effective date of the change.

Making the fees retroactive to January 1 would reduce the charges the city has made for the All Souls Festival held earlier this year, in addition to lowering the rate for the St. Johns Festival.

City Manager Bill Simmons expects the changes will be prepared in ordinance form to be submitted to the commission during the next regular meeting on March 22.

A successful festival

The 1993 St. Johns River Arts and Crafts Festival was a huge success. The event should not go unheralded.

Arranging for over 80 booths of artisans and craitsnien, pros and talminent, displays and other attractions is not an easy job. While it certainly takes leadership and organization, it also requires massive cooperation.

Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce served as the festival chairman this year. His efforts were commendable.

Although Farr did not estimate how many visitors attended the two day event this past weekend, he did comment that many people had told him it was the best festival of its kind in many years.

Appreciation must also be extended to the people who participated in the show. Each acted in a professional manner and did what was expected of him or her in scheduling activities, setting up and manning booths. serving food, and the many other tasks that were required.

Farr set it up, but the participants provided the success. Everyone involved should give themselves a pat on the back for making the 1993 festival a success.

Muting the voice of independence

Spending cuts? Leave it to your government to do it penny-wise, ton-foolish.

Consider the case of budget-starved State Department bureaucrats conning the Clinton administration into an attempt to terminate "Radio Free Europe," "Radio Liberty," and their parent organization, the semi-autonomous Board for International Broadcasting. What seems like an areane government turf war has potent

In one swoop, the budget decision manages to 1) violate another Clinton campaign pledge, 2) work against democracy in Russia, 3) and China, 4) harm Clinton politically, 5) reward that stalwart of freedom, the emir of Kuwait and 6) display confusion.

To America, Russia is still the most important foreign country. The nuclear arsenal remains; in the wrong hands the weapons could threaten global stability. Further corrosion of Russian democracy could yield anarchy and an ugly gi bai lesses What follows totalitarianism may be worse. Clinton knows that. He is proposing financial aid, and he will soon be meeting with pro-democratic President Boris Yeltsin.

Yet, for U.S.-funded "home service" Radio Liberty -- which broadcasts in 15 languages throughout the Former Soviet Union, which trains journalists in transitionary societies that often still regard news as a propaganda weapon, which provides the best objective reporting of Russia by Russians to Russians -- the Clinton budget proposes a Kevorkian solution.

Clinton thinks the job can be done by the Voice of America. an agency that ... surprise! - would like to get its hands on RFE/RL's federal purse. But VOA is the "national service" voice of America, not of Russia. It is run by State Department, inherently reluctant and unable to do serious journalism about a foreign nation with which it is also negotiating.

China may be America's second most important foreign nation. The repressive communist go ernment is building up nuclear-tipped milltary forces and sending arms to unsavory states. The economy is booming. If a second global superpower emerges, it will likely be China. America wants such a superstate to be democratic, which is why Clinton favors setting up "Radio Free China."

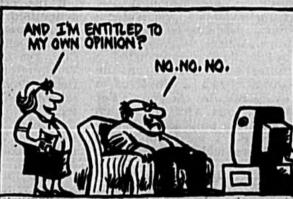

In a campaign position paper Clinton endorsed the report of the Commission on Broadcasting to the People's Republic of China, saying, "I am especially pleased by its principal recommendation: that a new surrogate radio service for Asia be initiated under the aegis of the Board of International Broadcasting.

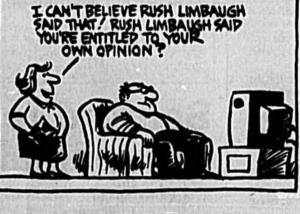

Good idea. Emigre-based home service broadcasting would give non-propagandistic news about China, by Chinese, to China -- encouraging democracy. Good idea, except that the Clinton budge: a wies on the bib. Again, Clinton gives the action to the VOA.

Is Clinton serious? A spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget says it is a done deal. But Undersecretary of State-designate Tim Wirth says "no decision" has been made.

I'M LISTENING TO RUSH LIMBAUGH. RUSH SAID EVERYONE IS

Independent dairy companies divvied up entire regions so only one company would bid on a milk contract with a district, Without competition, compa-nies submitted in-flated bids knowing they had cornered the market and could reap windfall profits. in some cases, companies colluded with "cooperatives." which are groups of farmers that jointly market their products because they can't make it on their own. Although the co-ops are owned by the farmers, the farmers are typically frozen out of the decision-making loop by the co-ops' board of directors. Not a single farmer has faced criminal charges or been accused of wrongdoing in the scandal. But their punishment has been Draconian: passed-along penalties for bidrigging they did not participate in, at a time when their income is dropping. In 1980, dairy farmers across the country received an average of $13.05 for every 100 pounds of milk they produced. But by the time that milk was processed into various dairy products and delivered to the grocery store, it was worth $25.10. That means that 52 cents of every consumer dollar spent on dairy products went to the farmer, according to Department of Agriculture figures as interpreted by the National Milk Producers

Federation. Last year, farmers were only getting six cents more per 100 pounds of milk they produced ($13.11) than they did in 1980. But this time, the retail value on that amount of milk was $36.42. The farmers' share of every consumer dollar spent on dairy products had shrunk to 36 cents. "Fewer and fewer of the consumers' dollars are going to the dairy farmer." Peter Vitaliano, chief economist for the NMPF, told our associate Ed Henry. Consider the plight of Tom Trantham, a South Carolina dairy farmer who calls himself a "double loser" because he has spent time with two separate cooperatives -each of which has been convicted of bidrigging in the last couple of years. "The sad thing is I didn't benefit at all from it." said Trantham. "We're being fined and penalized for something that someone else has done."

One of the cooperatives is the 132-farmer Coble Dairy Cooperatives Inc., which was convicted of bid-rigging two years ago and fined $1.6 million. Coble has passed the damage on to the farmers, who each have to pay over $12,000 towards the fine, by returning portions of their profits each month.

Trantham has since switched to another co-op, which happens to be facing more than $10 million in fines for its own role in bid-rigging. Between the two co-ops, Trantham's share of the fines has crippled him

"The bottom line is that when you have

this kind of money coming off the top of a co-op or a company it just has to filter down to the dairy farmer and it will affect how much money he'll get for his product." said James Barr, head of the NMPF. "The dairy farmers own the co-op so when the co-op gets fined, the farmers take their share of that lick just like the stockholders of a company

Fight crime not morals

Enough is enough. How can any reasonable person stand by and let local government take away established rights. I'm talking about the current crackdown on adult entertainment businesses. Watch the evening news or open the local paper and you're bound to read about a very dangerous encroachment upon our rights as adults made by local law enforcement

For some reason officials for the Sheriff's Office feel that crime and adult entertainment are synonymous. I've been told by Sheriff's officials that adult entertainment establishments are a breeding ground for drugs. prostitution, and an overall debasement of community morals. That's funny, I have lived here for 16 years and have never seen a prostitute anywhere around the clubs I've been to. As a matter of fact, I've never seen a prostitute anywhere in Seminole County. I'm sure they exist. I'm just saying that in all the times I've gone by the adult establishments. I've never run across one. I've questioned several of my male as well as female friends and they all stated that they have never seen one either. As for the drug issue, well I've never been offered drugs nor have I ever been asked for them. Now. if these activities are going on, then by all means, put a stop to it. I have personally asked over 10 law enforcement officers just how many drug dealers or prostitutes they've arrested in the adult clubs. Their answers were all the same, none. Three Seminole County deputies. however, said that they have made numerous arrests for what is known as a "straddle dance." Big deal.

My suggestion to Sheriff Ealinger is, be known for fighting crime, not morals. When our high schools are free from guns and drugs, and drunk drivers are taken off the road and people can drive around town without worrying about becoming a victim of a carjack, then let the Sheriff's Office harrass the law-abiding citizens. Until then, quit trying to make headlines and start trying to fight real crime.

Right to choose: Health care

If certain state and national proponents of health care reform have their way, a patient's right to choose his or her own physician, hospital and insurance plan may soon be only a memory.

The Florida Medical Association, as well as national medical organizations including the AMA, recognizes the need to reform America's health care delivery system. But at what cost?

Proposals that ultimately deprive Americans of their traditional freedom of choice in selecting health care providers, and subsequently decrease the quality of care provided, promise to deform - not reform - the system!

Any change to America's health care system must, first and foremost, take patients' needs into account. At the national level, recent calls to freeze or cut physician reimbursements for Medicare and Medicald patients is further proof that the elderly and the poor will be victimized by a policy that looks only to the financial Certainly, cutting the national deficit is a priority, but the elderly and indigent should not be forced to carry this burden alone.

Why President Clinton in his recent State of the Union address failed to mention the true factors driving up the cost of care for all Americans is a mystery.

These include unhealthy lifestyle choices such as tobacco, alcohol and drug abuse, which conservatively run in excess of $100 billion annually in related health care costs; the inevitable rise in the cost of care for a rapidly aging population, ever escalating administrative and liability costs associated with medical practices (liability costs related to physician services alone are over $10 billion annually), skyrocketing health insurance premiums; and societal factors such as violence and the HIV/AIDS epidemic, which result in billions in heatlh care costs each year.

Both federal and state proposals for reform have instead focused on the need to further cripple health care providers and subsequently their patients by imposing more fee caps and a virtual blizzard of bureaucratic regulations that. if carried out in their present form, will adversely affect the quality of care and limit access to care.

In Florida, Governor Chiles' Interim Florida Health Plan has a number of commendable elements which the FMA supports such as preventive care and insurance reform, however, its key component is a radical new system that promises to virtually eliminate a patient's freedom of choice.

By focusing on what are known as Community Health Purchasing Alliances (CHPAs). massive HMO-type monopolies, the state claims that heath care costs will fail, despite the fact that cost estimates for their operation and the projected savings for patients are nonexistent. Like national proposals, the governor's plan could quickly eliminate a patient's right to choose his or her own provider thereby destroying the doctor/patient bond which is a crucial aspect of the healing process.

Rather than rushing headlong into an unproven statewide CHPA system, the FMA believes a pilot program should be established to quickly identify the potential impact on patient

In its own "Health Access Florida" proposal major elements of which have been incorporated into the governor's plan, the FMA calls for reform of state insurance regulations wheth currently hamper delivery of a basic, affordable health care policy. This type of policy would provide preventive health care services and treatment of pregnant women and children. The American Medical Association estimates such a policy wold cost about one-half the average current cost of $3,200.

Johnson was admontshed by

To augment this effort the FMA is pioneering an innovative program in cooperation with the state's Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services under which volunteering physicians throughout Florida will be matched with public health units to provide free care to thousands of inc gent Floridians at an estimated savings to taxpayers of $400 million per year.

Reforming our state and nation's health care system should not mean sacrificing a pateint's right to choose the physician, hospital or insurance program of his or her choice. And reform certainly should not mean sacrificing the quality of care Americans of every social strata

The 17,000 physician members of the FMA are committed to achieving meaningful health care reform and are confident that a working partnership beween the private sector and government will succeed, provided the patient's voice is heard.

WASHINGTON - Farmers, schoolkids and taxpayers have been milked by a widening bid-rigging scandal that might be dubbed 'Dairygate.'

So far, the Justice Department has filed 83 criminal cases against 47 dairy companies for conspiring to rig bids to sell milk to public schools and other institutions. There are 34 grand juries currently investigating the industry in 23 states, and the Justice Department has won convictions of more than 30 corporations and levied fines in excess of $40 million.

Companies mitted inflated bids knowing they had cornered the markel.

Commissioners are considering changing their 12-year-old adult business regulation ordinance to increase distances between adult entertainment establishments and residential properties from 100 to 500 feet. The proposed changes would also increase the required distances between adult entertainment establishments from 500 to 1,500 feet.

Other changes would eliminate adult entertainment employee licensing but require managers to maintain records of their employees.

Commissioners will take action on the proposed changes Oct. 23. If approved, the changes will take effect in April. The distance separation regulations would not affect existing businesses, including two lingeric modeling studios where recent arrests have been made on charges of lewd and lascivious behaviour.

Before public testimony was taken, County Attorney Bob McMillan urged commissioners to be cautious in their actions.

"The baselines be verycrease regulations," said McMillan. "You can make them so tight you can't open an adult entertainment establishment in the county and it may be found unconstitutional."

McMillan said when considering whether to recommend an increase in distances between residential properties and the adult businesses, the county porting on suburban sex-for-sale Current Planning Division determined some new adult businesses could open. Herb Harden, current planning manager, has said about a half dozen such establishments could open under the restrictions.

When commissioner Pat Warren asked staff to prepare a map of those areas. McMillan placed his head in his hands. sighed and then said "I suggest you do not create such a map. You may have just put the nall in the coffin."

McMillan said such a map could open the county to legal challenges from the adult entertainment industry. He said courts have ruled 2 to 3 percent of a government's jurisdictional land area area must be available for adult entertainment establishments to be constitutionally acceptable.

McMillan added such a map would require considerable staff time to prepare because a visual inventory of all playgrounds. parks, schools, and every other pertinent activity would have to be completed first.

No other commissioners supported Warren's request.

King testifies: I was trying to stay alive

By LINDA DEUTSCH AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES - A softspoken Rodney King testified for the first time about his videotaped beating and brought race to the forefront of the federal civil rights trial, accusing police of taunting him with ractal shurs. "We're going to kill you. nigger. Run!" King said an officer shouted. The black motorist admitted Tuesday he was drunk and speeding the night of March 3. 1991, and he said he fled police because he was afraid of going

But he said that police clubbed and shocked him needlessly after he pulled over and that he dodged blows because "I was trying to stay alive." He said he didn't obey orders to lie still because "they never gave me a chance to stay still." When he awoke the next morning in the hospital, he said, "I was wondering what did I do to deserve that type of pain?"

Cross-examination had just begun when Tuesday's court session recessed. King was to return to the stand today.

The lawyers for the four police officers accused of violating King's civil rights claim the motorist brought the beating upon himself by jumping up and charging a police officer, then continuing to move as blows rained down on him.

Asked by Prosecutor Barry Kowalski whether had attacked an officer, King said, "No, sir. I was trying to stay alive, sir, trying to stay alive."

King raised his voice as he imitated officers he said he heard chanting: "Killer, nigger, how do you feel killer?" But King acknowledged he wasn't absolutely sure if the word used was "nigger" or "killer."

His claims of ractal taunting brought the issue of race to the forefront of the federal case. which follows a state trial that ended in the officers' acquittal and an outbreak of rioting that left more than 50 people dead.

Prosecutors have not pressed the racial issue in court. U.S. District Judge John G. Davies has ruled that racial animosity. need not be proven in the case.

Outside court, defense attorney Harland Braun noted that no other witness had reported hearing racial epithets, and hesaid King couldn't be believed.

His case will rest and fall on the question of whether there were any racial epithets," Braun-

It was the first public airing of King's version of the story known worldwide because of the videotape shot by an onlooker. King wasn't called to testify in the state trial.

"He looked very good," defense lawyer Michael Stone sald. He described King as "mildmannered, polite and thoughtful."

Officers Laurence Powell, Theodore Briseno and Timothy Wind and Sgt. Stacey Koon could get up to 10 years in prison and $250,000 fines.

Under questioning by the prosecution, the 27-year-old King told of his criminal record as a robber and his stint in prison. He said he had too much to drink before he went for a drive with two passengers.

When a California Highway Patrol car began following him. King said, he was speeding, perhaps going 75 mph to 80 mpl. He said he didn't initially stop because he was afraid of going back to prison.

Once he did stop, King said, he obeyed commands and fell to the ground face down. He said he felt a blow to his head, then officers pounced on him.

"At that point, when my hands were behind my back, one of them applied pressure like he was trying to snap my wrist in half and I went, 'Aaaah!' he said.

"I heard, 'Back!" and they all backed away from me," he said. Seconds later, he said, he was struck with an electronic stungun dart: "It felt like my blood was boiling inside of me.'

Later, when an officer asked how he felt. King recalled, "I said I felt fine. I didn't want them to know what they were doing to me was really getting to me. I didn't want them to have the satisfaction. ... I laughed it off. Ha, ha. And I was coughing and laughing the blood out of my mouth."

It was then, he said, that an officer velled. "We're going to kill you nigger. Run!" King said he got up and took a few steps. then was struck in the face

He said he didn't fight back. "L was trying to put my hands over my face. I wasn't trying to hit any police officer."

Smooth sailing for Reno at confirmation hearing

By STEVEN KOMAROW Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Janet Reno promised to blend tough law enforcement with respect for people's rights Tuesday at a smooth confirmation hearing that both Democrats and Republicans predicted would lead to her approval as America's first female attorney general.

Miami's chief local prosecutor for 15 years, Reno described herself as a no-nonsense person who lived by the eredo: "Don't pussyfoot, don't equivocate, don't talk out of both sides of your mouth.'

For members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, an especially welcome quality seemed to be that she was non-controversial. "You have no idea how happy we are to see you here today," said chairman Joseph Biden, D.Det.

President Clinton's first nomination for the top Justice Department Job, Zoe Batrd, was withdrawn after criticism of her having illegally hired aliens as household help. The president then dropped federal Judge Kimba Wood from consideration because she also had lifted an illegal alten to be her child's there was enough to do and you nanny - though she had broken no laws in doing so.

Reno, 54, seemed nearly free of personal controversy and Biden scheduled no other witnesses for the confirmation hearing. Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah, the ranking Republican on the committee, said the panel might vote on her nomination this week.

'Having read every page of your FBI report. I am impressed with your credentials and what you've done with your life.' Hatch sald.

He and Biden both said rumors that she had been pulled over but never charged with drunken driving were checked by the FBI and committee investigators and proven unfounded. Hatch called them a "hate-mongering campaign."

When asked about accusation: that she was loathe to prosecute public corruption cases in Florida, she said she had passed some on to federal prosecutors because the court rules were more favorable in that system. She said she did this despite advice that it would be "political suicide."

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Marlin squads "split"

VERO BEACH - The Florida Marlins split their squad into two teams and came up with a win and a loss, dropping a 10-0 decision to the Los Angeles Dodgers and nipping the Houston Astros 4-3 in 12-innings at Cocoa.

Charlie Hough, the 45-year-old knuckleballer, pitched four shutout innings in his first start of the spring for Florida and hit a run-scoring single off Mark Portugal. Hough hasn't had a regular-season at-bat since 1980.

Rookie Charles Johnson won the game with a homer off Bob Hurta, Houston's sixth pitcher. Kevin Bass had three of Houston's 18 hits.

At Vero Tim Wallach had three kits including his hist home run of the spring, con-Snyder homered and had three RBI and Orel Hershiser allowed two hits and struck out six in four shutout innings.

The Dodgers had 14 hits against David Weathers and three other Marlin's pitchers.

Jets end Lightning streak

TAMPA - Winnipeg rookie Teemu Selanne scored three goals - one on his first penalty shot - and reached the 100-point mark in the Jets' 4-2 victory over the Tampa Bay Lightning.

Selanne, who last week broke Mike Bossy's 1972 mark of 53 goals, now has 59 and 42 assists. He joins Peter Stastny (109 points in 1980-81 for Quebec), Dale Hawerchuk (103 in 1981-82 for Winnipeg) and Pittsburgh's Mario Lemieux (100 in 1984-85) as the only rookies in NHL history to score 100 or more points.

The victory snapped Winnipeg's two-game losing streak and ended Tampa Bay's threegame unbeaten streak.

FAMU coaches resign

TALLAHASSEE - Following a season that produced more turmoil than victories. Florida A&M has accepted resignations from its basketball coaches in an effort for improvement on the court and in the classroom.

The university Tuesday received resignations from coach Willie Booker and assistant Jim Duplantier at the request of school officials concerned about the overall direction of the program and a worrisome graduation rate of basketball players.

AROUND THE NATION

Rockets cool Heat

HOUSTON - Hakeem Olajuwon scored 18 of his 34 points in the fourth quarter as Houston won its 11th straight game and snapped Miami's franchise-record six-game winning streak. 104-94 Tuesday night.

The streak is the second-longest in Rockets history and gave them 24 wins in 29 games.

Olajuwon hit 8 of 11 shots in the fourth period and finished with 15 rebounds. Ous Thorpe scored 14 points for Houston, and Vernon Maxwell had 11 points and 10 assists.

Grant Long scored 22 points, Steve Smith 20 and Rony Scikaly 16 points and 12 rebounds for the Heat.

Policeman's wife: Cops are officers

Gordon Padwick, reminding us that not all the members of the police force are "officers," really got me mad! When are people going to quit picking on the police? Not only do they get blamed for everything under the sun, now Mr. Padwick declares they are not worthy of the title "officer" - after so many of them busted their tails to earn a hadge. Get a life, Mr. Padwick!

My husband is a police officer – a damn good one! He puts his life on the line every time he walks out the door. Sure, he writes tickets and takes those who deserve it to jail, but he also helps pull people out of wrecked cars and holds wounded people in his arms until the ambulance gets there - and he comforts the loved ones of those who are critically injured or dead. He works on Sundays and holidays, and has missed his own children's birthdays and our anniversaries. Furthermore, when he's off duty, when needed, he'll rush to assist other officers from whatever department may need help. You bet my husband is an officer, and for your information, Mr. Padwick, my dictionary's definition is similar to Abby's only hers says, "one charged with police duties," and mine says, "one performing police duties," which could mean if you called '911' in an emergency for which you needed an officer, they wouldn't send a "captain" to your house - they would probably send a plain, ordinary police officer.

A POLICE OFFICER'S WIFE IN OKLAHOMA

DEAR WIFE: Thanks for a great letter. I'm sure you voiced the sentiments of many police officers' wives. If Mr. Padwick ever goes to Oklahoma, he may need police protection.

Cooks of the Week

Couple ready to sauce chicken for 'Youth Blast'

By ED KORGAN

Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — Wayne and Carol Hoffman of Lake Mary work together as much as they cook together. Through the years, the couple, owners of Wayne's Heating and Air, have donated much of their time to cooking barbecue chicken in quite a few of the different cookouts for charitable organizations in the local area.

The Hoffmans are famous for their barbecue sauce which they have refused to divulge to anyone, even the Cook of the Week

In years past. Wayne and Carol have barbecued chicken for the Lake Mary Fire Department, Seminole High School and First Baptist Church. He claims his secret sauce makes the barbecued chicken the best you can find around. The sauce came from upstate New York. What it does is to break the fibers of the chicken meat down as it penetrates into the inner part of the chicken. The sauce is applied after the chicken is cooked. The chicken is dipped in the sauce that is made in a 10 gallon container and then laid in a can with the other chicken that has been cooked. Even then it is still cooking and will stay hot up to eight hours.

A few of the ingredients did slip out as Wayne talked about the way the chicken was prepared. It has pineapple juice, V-8 juice and peppermint candy which are only a few of the strange ingredients. This will be the fourth year that Wayne and Carol have barbecued the chicken for the Youth Blast scheduled March 13, at Fort Mellon Park, Sanford. He said if you have never tried it, now is of the "Youth Blast" held by the First Baptist Church of Sanford which kicks off the youth revival for the week. The chicken is available to be picked up frm 11:00 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Saturday. Bryan Hitch, a contemporary Christian singer, will do a concert during the day. The local law enforcement agency also sets up displays and does demonstrations with its K-9 unit. There will also be stands set up to sell pizza hot dogs, drinks and popcorn. Throughout the day there will be many competitive games that the youth can participate in for prizes.

Tickets are available at the church or can be purchased at the "Youth Blast" for adults $4.75, and children under twelve for $4.25.

Potatoes are enjoyed the world over

Potatoes certainly have universal appeal! If you look at the countless ways they are now packaged in convenience foods one would think it was America's favorite food and no meal is complete without a potato in some way, shape or form. Until recently when we discovered pasta, the potato was served at least once a day in most American homes. This staple has endiess ways to be used.

My favorite potato is the small red potato that is plentiful now. They are so flavorful they require only simple seasonings. ROSEMÁRY POTATOES

1 lb. small red potatoes, scrubbed

1 Thep. water 1 Thep. olive oil

2 tsp. snipped fresh rosemary * 16 tsp. salt

Scrub potatoes: halve or quarter as needed for similar sized pieces.

Combine with water in 1-qt. micro-safe casserole. Cover with MICROWAVE MAGIC MIDGE MYCOFF casecrole lid. Microwave on 100 percent power 6-7 minutes or until tender, stirring once. Drain. Add olive oil, rosemary and salt: mix lightly. About 4 servings.

Other fresh herbs such as savory, chives or parsley can be substituted.

This delicious soup is one that was often served during the time of the Great Depression.

POTATO SOUP

3 strips bacon
3 cups diced potatoes 2 ribs celery, chopped

1 medium onion, chopped 15 cup water

2 tsp. parsley flakes 1 tsp. instant chicken bouillon 1/2 tsp. salt

16-14 tsp. pepper 2 cups milk

11/2 Thep. cornstarch 3 Thep. butter or margarine, if desired

Arrange bacon in single layer in 2-quart casserole. Cover with paper towels. Microwave on 100 percent power 3-31/4 minutes or until crisp. Remove bacon and set aside: reserve 1 teaspoon drippings in dish. Add potatoes, celery, onion, water, paraley, bouillon, salt and pepper. Cover with casserole lid. Microwave on 100 percent power 12-14 minutes or until potatoes are just tender, stirring twice. Blend together milk and cornstarch until smooth. Stir into potato mixture. Add butter; cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 8-9 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens slightly, stirring once. Crumble bacon and stir into soup. About 6 servings.

These potato puffs are great for special dinners.

Write A Want Ad

That Sells! YOUR CLASSIFIED AD works best when it contains what the reader wants to know.

GIVE FACTS

Put provedin the buyer's place. What would you want to know? List the item's ago, condition, size, brand name, model and approximate value. If you're selling a car, state the type of transmission, mileage (if it's low) and special equipment.

DON'T EMBELLISH:

It's risky business to emagnerate and it won't increase your chances of success. Mislanding information may get a buyer to your house. It may also get you a punch in the ness.

AVOID ABBREVIATIONS:

While a few abbreviations can serve you space, too many of them strong together can urous confusion. A confused reader won't take time to sert out your meaning.

INCLUDE PRICE:

Surveys indicate that buyers are more interested in the merchan-dice when they know the price. This applies to everything from household ferminkings to automobiles. Good merchandies, priced fairly, is the best guarantee of success.

BE AVAILABLE:

A telephone number is fine if you've at home when your ad runs. If you've not going to be home, state the time ; on will be. Most people wen't call back twice.

USE YOUR NAME: Put your name in your ad. It gives credibility to the item you are advertising. You may over get results when semesan who has you your ad non you in a reviewment or walking down the street. That's taking advantage of being in a small community such as

Fiber intake can regulate HDL level

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a moisturizers don't work, many 62-year-old male with a history of three heart attacks, the most recent occurring in 1985. Since that time I've altered my lifestyle, walk three miles a day. and engage in strenuous table tennis at least once a week. My concern is my HDL level. In spite of diet and Lopid, a cholesterollowering drug. I cannot seem to maintain an HDL reading of at least 40 or reduce my LDL consistently below 160. The risk ratio is of great concern to me.
Do you have any suggestions?
DEAR READER: Some pa-

tlents appear to have a genetically governed low HDL (the "good" cholesterol) and high LDL (the "bad" cholesterol). This may not respond to diet or medication. Nonetheless, you might try using fiber products (such as Metamucil) to lower your LDL. I've seen patients in whom this safe and inexpensive compound worked. In fact, psyllium fiber (the active ingredient in Metamucil) has now been added to a dry breakfast cereal (Kellogg's "Fiberwise"), making ingestion of the fiber a more pleasurable experience.

Because your family doctor is the person most familiar with your cholesterol problem. I recommend you seek his advice. Perhaps an alteration in your medicine (or its dose) would also be appropriate.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss dry skin or winter itch. A dermatologist prescribed cold packs and an expensive cream. Neither worked. I went back for a second visit and he changed the cream. Still no cure. Should I return a third time or see another physician?

DEAR READER: Winter itch is a real nuisance because it is so difficult to treat. If skin good play: how to win by declaring or defending perfectly. However, as we all know, in the real world everyone makes mistakes.

Now a book has appeared that bad plays. Mike Lipkin's "Invitation to Annihilation" (Devyn. $11.95, 800-274-2221) explains how to push the opponents into making errors and how to profit from those errors.

Today's deal from the book is a good example. The opening bld of two no-trump showed 20-22 points in the modern style. North wisely raised to three no-trump, expecting the club suit to provide sufficient tricks for the game to make.

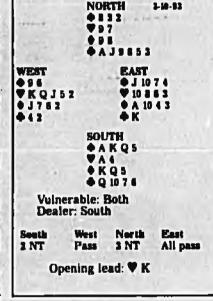

West finds the irritating heart lead. It seems as though the contract depends totally on the club finease. If the finesse is working, you will win at least

Most bridge books feature one overtrick. But if it loses, you are down the tubes.

Some players would lead the club queen and, after West plays low smoothly, put up dummy's ace. They assume that if West has the club king, he will always contains a non-stop stream of cover an honor with an honor or at least he will think about it. 956 This is a dangerous assumption to make - unless your opponent is both naive and ruthlessly ethical.

The actual declarer cashed his spade winners first. On the third round. West discarded the club two. Judging that West hadn't made a clever discard from K-4-2 of clubs, South led the club queen, to tempt a cover. He then put up dummy's ace and dropped East's king.

Of course, West should have thrown a diamond. South was most unlikely to have A-K-Q-x of diamonds. But that is what this book is all about.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be prudent rather than indifferent in the management of your resources today. Carclessnsss could cause losse hat you may not be able to recoup.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In order to achieve what you aspire toward today, you are going to have to set a pretty brisk pace and be consistent. If not, you may not meet your deadlines.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be optimistic today, but be sure your expectations and hopes are built upon realistic premises. The joke will be on you if you kid yourself about the state of affairs.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Financial commitments should not be made impulsively today. What you agree to now might not be feasible when it comes time to fulfill your obligations.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be
