High Pressure Needs Medicine

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am concerned about the medicine that my husband has been taking for seven years for high blood pressure. His blood pressure is normal now, 140 over 80, but the doctor says he still should keep taking Enduron, one tablet each morning.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Recently I read that taking insulin could cause blindness. I am a diabetic and take insulin. Now I'm really scared that the insulin will cause me to go blind. Should I stop my insulin and follow some diet to control my diabetes? Would you send me a diet I could use instead of taking insulin?

needs four spade tricks. At some stage of the play he goes to dummy with the ace of hearts to take the spade finesse.
Oswald: "If it loses to the king the contract is doomed to defeat, but there is his majesty perched in the East hand and the finesse will work."
Jim: "Nevertheless he must be careful to start the spades by leading the nine from dummy. If he makes a mistake and leads the jack East can beat him by refusing to cover. He must play the six spot from his hand. Then, when the nine is led next, East holds back again. South must win in his own hand and can't lead through the king for the third time."

ASK THE GOODOYS

A Florida reader says that she averaged just 8.3 high-card points a hand after keeping count for 50 hands. She wants to know if she is unlucky.
The answer is that if her count was accurate she really was in a streak of very bad luck, but somehow or other we doubt if her count was accurate.

Outlaw County Impact Fees, Panel Urges After Study

A seven-month study of Seminole County's impact fee controversy has produced a report which asks county commissioners to adopt legislation outlawing impact fees for this county, Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski said today.

Williams has been quoted as saying, "But the report prepared by the ad hoc committee appointed seven months ago recommends abolition of the present system. In addition, the report asks that new construction not be allowed a free ride on the tax rolls for up to three years."
Instead, the report recommends new construction be placed immediately on the tax rolls.

Findings were submitted first to Kwiatkowski, Chairman of the ad hoc committee, is Jo Ann Henningsen.
Democrats on the board have opened the door by allowing developers of conventional units to receive building permits without payment of fee. Presently, a developer may get a permit without paying the $10. But the ruling does not apply to Planned Unit Development (PUD), where the bulk of future impact-fee money is recorded.—Ed Prickett

Golden Age Of Triumph

The Second Annual Golden Age Olympics is part of history now and it should be a proud part for many Sanford area residents.

We commend Olympics chairman Vic Arnett, Sanford Parks and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan and Jack Horner and Virginia Longwell of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce for their many long hours of planning that provided participants a week they could truly call their own. And there were the people who worked silently behind the scenes — the volunteers who helped and the civic and service organizations that played a key role in making the program run more smoothly.

The success and acceptance of the event portends a future expansion of the concept over and beyond the borders of Sanford.

It might take a while but we can't miss.

'Kissinger Era' End In Sight

The election has produced a reaction around the world that might best be summed up like this: For better or for worse, the "Kissinger era" in U.S. foreign policy is coming to an end.

The certainty of Henry Kissinger's departure as secretary of state tends to overshadow the uncertainty which foreign leaders are sure to feel about the advent of a President Jimmy Carter.

The former governor of Georgia did none of the foreign traveling that often precedes a bid for the presidency. Some of our oldest and closest allies, as well as our adversaries on the international scene, probably know less about Mr. Carter than they have known about any new U.S. president since Harry Truman took office in 1945.

The recent campaign, however, has told them that a Carter foreign policy is not likely to differ in its general aims from that of the Nixon-Ford years.

Mr. Carter approved of the global policy that former President Nixon put into place — a new relationship with mainland China, accompanied by detente with the Soviet Union and a pursuit of arms limitation agreements.

His criticism was aimed mainly at "deception, secrecy and drift" in the way foreign policy was conducted, and a lack of "morality" in our relations with countries under authoritarian or repressive governments.

As a diplomat-negotiator given a loose rein by two presidents, Mr. Kissinger has taken more credit and blame for developments in our foreign policy than usually flows to a presidential adviser or secretary of state. Indeed, the Ronald Reagan primary campaign that may have contributed to Mr. Ford's defeat at times seemed to be aimed more at Mr. Kissinger than at the President.

Statesmen abroad who know Mr. Kissinger well may have mixed feelings today. Arab leaders who think the United States has been too pro-Israel in its Middle East policy say they are glad to see Mr. Kissinger go. Ironically, the same sentiment has been expressed in Israel, where Mr. Kissinger's stock had fallen after the 1975 Sinai agreement with Egypt.

That there should be continuity in our foreign policy despite a change of administration is all to the good. Mr. Carter's choice of a secretary of state is likely to come from among foreign policy experts who went into official exile during the last eight years and have been among his campaign advisers.

An indication of whether Mr. Carter will be as forceful in his conduct of foreign policy as he hopes to be will come early when he begins to present his programs to Congress. In recent years Congress has continued to encroach on what has traditionally been the executive branch's foreign affairs turf. It may continue to do so with Mr. Carter.

Just a few random thoughts... We regularly hear complaints these days from would-be experts, observers and critics of the educational scene. Their chief gripe: the kids just don't and can't read and-or write the English language as it was meant to be read and-or written.

And, invariably, the educational system is singled out as the principal culprit. Well, that may or may not be in the final analysis. But let's look further—and you don't have to look much further than your friendly neighborhood supermarket.

In it there usually is a special check-out counter reserved for purchasers of a relatively small number of goods. It usually reads: "10 items or less."

Incorrect grammar, right? Right. And how many kids look at that particular sign every day? After doing so, are they going to believe their teacher when he or she tells them the sign is wrong, that it should read: "10 items or fewer?" Not likely.

It's only a little thing, but...

The newest craze for the past several months or so has been the self-service or self-serve gasoline station. That's the one where you pull up to the pump, get out and pump your own gas.

The owner or operator of the station usually is content to sit and watch. So, not only do you have to serve yourself, but more times than not, you also have to traipse up to the office to pay for the gas you just pumped into your tank. The proprietor doesn't budge, doesn't even meet you halfway.

The only time he might venture out is to check suspiciously over your shoulder to make certain you're not planning on cheating him.

Self-service is one thing—but being ignored and distrusted at a profit-making operation is or should be another.

If any of your diarch Richard Milhous Nixon fans had been trying to reach the gentleman on the telephone Sunday night without success, please don't be too angry or hard on the man. He wasn't trying to avoid you. There is a perfectly valid explanation for his ordering Pat to take the phone off the hook: It was fascinating time.

Once again, as he was known to be in the White House, the former President was savoring the life and times of one of his all-time favorite heroes: no, not Spiro T. Agnew—but George S. Patton, in the film of the same name.

It was the 58th time, at least, he was idolizing the exploits of this legendary military man. During his tenure in the White House, Mr. Nixon recalled, he disappeared for hours on end only to be discovered watching this classic. Sunday night was no exception.

And stop to think about it.

The two historical figures probably have something in common: The late general constantly hurt himself with self-inflicted verbal wounds which hampered and stilled his career. The former president did the same thing—even to tape recording some of these verbal outbursts. And...

RAY CROMLEY GOP Needs New Face, New Image

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — A Republican wheel I've known for 30 years passed me in the hall of a government building the day after election. He stopped only long enough to say forcefully "We've got to clean house in the party from top to bottom, get the old group out and a new group in, give the party a new face, a new image." Then he went on his way, with a parting shot: "And we can do it."

Despite the failure of the Republicans to improve their position in the Senate, House and in state governorships after the walloping they took in 1974, there are signs my old friend may be right. The figures, for certain, don't give much comfort to the GOP — hefty Democratic majorities in the Senate and House and in the nation's governorships. Plus, of course, a Democrat, Carter, as president.

Even more discouraging to Republicans is the evidence of what adverse voting drives by the major labor unions and black organizations can do, as well as the surprising turnout of rural voters for Jimmy Carter in many sections of the country.

Nevertheless, the evidence of this election is that when Republicans put up outstanding candidates for Congress or for governorships they were elected more often than not, even in states which gave Carter a majority.

The Republican statisticians calculate that Carter's 1.7 million vote majority was more than accounted for in nine states — Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, West Virginia and the District of Columbia — where Carter piled up a 1.9 million advantage.

The total vote in the other 41 states taken as a whole gave a majority to President Ford. His losses in some were more than compensated for by wins in others.

These same statisticians note that a gain of a few thousand votes in Ohio plus a similar gain in Hawaii, would have put Mr. Ford in the White House for another four years.

But if the election indicated a bastion of Carter-Democratic strength in the South, it gave an equally clear promise of Republican hope in the West and continued strength in most of New England. A north-south line down the center of the United States dramatically illustrates a straight victory for President Ford on the Pacific side, except for Texas and Hawaii — but including Alaska.

These were the same states, conservative Republicans claim, that went so heavily for Ronald Reagan in the primaries.

Not all Republicans won in these Western states by any means, as not all Democrats won in the South or in major cities of the North where labor union and black voting were strong factors.

CIA Crimes Go Unpunished

WASHINGTON — For over 30 years, the Justice Dept. has been winking at crimes committed by employees of the Central Intelligence Agency. Even serious crimes and felonies unrelated to official duties have been ignored.

This is the conclusion of a still secret report compiled by the House Government Information and Individual Rights subcommittee. The congressional investigators were so shocked by the Justice Dept.'s leniency that they recommended a "Special Prosecutor be appointed to prosecute illegal activities of intelligence agency personnel."

An independent prosecutor is needed, the report bluntly states, because the Justice Dept. has failed to move even in instances where there were "widespread admissions" of criminal activity and "the inequalities by the intelligence personnel" were unrelated to their job activities.

"The Justice Department has assisted in setting the CIA above the law," the report continues, "by allowing the CIA to decide which cases would be too sensitive to prosecute, and by allowing the CIA to withhold whatever information it sees fit..."

The Justice Dept.'s softness on the CIA dates from a 1954 agreement between the two agencies which, in effect, gave the CIA the right to block a prosecution or keep a crime secret in the name of "national security."

A year later, Congress passed a law requiring government agency heads to report the illegal activities of their employees to the Justice Dept. The CIA, however, has rarely complied.

"Given the CIA's self interest," states the congressional report, "it is not surprising that

John D. Lofton, Jr. Voters Reject Gun Law

WASHINGTON — For the first time in the nation's history, the voters of a state had the opportunity to totally ban the private ownership of handguns.

And when the final ballot had been tallied, the result was that the citizens of Massachusetts had defeated this proposal by a better than two-to-one margin, which is just as well since the law most likely would have done very little to accomplish what its proponents said it would.

One of the more important backers of Question 5 — which would have limited the ownership and use of handguns to only the police, the military and legitimate museums — was the governor of the Bay State, Michael Dukakis.

Dukakis said of the handgun ban measure, which would have had the state pay each Massachusetts gun owner the fair market value of his weapon, that the arguments for handgun control came down to this question: "Are we serious about dealing with crime in our society? If we are, we must restrict the possession, sale and ownership of handguns."

But the governor's statement is a classic example of question-begging. Would reducing the number of handguns really reduce crime? Would this really be the result of a strict handgun ban? I think not.

The most detailed, definitive, in-depth study of the effects of handgun control laws has been conducted by Douglas Murray, a research analyst who works for the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice.

Starting with the assumption that the primary causes of crime and violent acts are the harsh social conditions in which people live, Murray sought to learn what additional effect on the incidence of firearm-associated violence there is that may be attributed to the "product" restrictions imposed by different state laws on the purchase and possession of handguns. This was done because implicit in the arguments of the gun-controlists is that such laws play a significant part in reducing crime.

To reach his findings, four violent acts were "predicted" from measures of social conditions contained in the 1970 Census. Then, each of the seven basic gun-control laws in the various states was added to each of the four "predictor" models to see if they had any significant impact. Of the resulting 28 equations, not one gun-control law was found to have a significant effect on a single measure of violence.

Writing in the October 1975 issue of "Social Problems," Murray concludes:

Brantley And Tucker Elected To Top Capital Posts

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Senate President Law Brantley, son of a Georgia sharecropper, and House Speaker Don Tucker, accompanying something no other person has done in 50 years, won election to the top legislative jobs today.

The vote for Brantley was unanimous, while Tucker was elected 98-23 on a strict party line vote over House Minority leader William James, R-Delaware Beach.

With today's action in the reorganizational session, Tucker became the first man to win re-election as House speaker in 50 years.

Suffering from what aides said was an infection of his inner ear, Tucker got out of bed against doctor's orders to bed and the House and lead the organizational session.

The formal elections followed the swearing in of all 120 House members and the 20 senators who were up for election this year.

Brantley, 59 and a Jacksonville Democrat, was praised as a man who had risen from humble beginnings to the second most powerful post in Florida government.

Both Tucker, D-Tallahassee, and Brantley were to address their respective chambers in speeches eagerly awaited by the members for first word of who would get coveted committee chairmanships.

Before Brantley was even sworn in, he met with a group of Senate mavericks seeking to push proposals for rules changes.

The group, led by Sen. Robert Graham, D-Miami, presented Brantley with the proposed changes.

Sen. George Firestone, D-Miami and a member of the delegation, said that Brantley promised the group that the rules committee would take up the proposals. With that assurance, Firestone said, members of the group decided not to bring the proposals up during today's session.

Some of the proposals were identical to changes that Graham and other dissidents had unsuccessfully tried to get passed last session. They were defeated in the rules committee.

Both chambers were festooned with the normal array of flowers for the opening day of legislators met their new colleagues.

Brantley locked up the powerful Senate presidency in the 1975 session. A Jacksonville Democrat, he won the post after it had apparently been taken by former Sen. Bob Saunders, D-Gainesville.

In the aftermath of a controversial vote ousting former Health and Rehabilitative Services Secretary O. J. Keller, Senate President Dempsey

Barron helped engineer Brantley's victory.

Barron was behind the move to dump Keller. Brantley supported the ouster; Saunders opposed it.

Tucker was assured of his post when he won the House Democratic caucus vote last January, defeating Rep. James Redman, D-Plant City. Rep. Barry Kutun, D-Miami Beach, had dropped out of the race.

A Tallahassee Democrat, Tucker is the first Florida speaker to succeed himself since Cary Hardee was speaker in the 1915 and 1917 sessions.

Tucker had vowed not to retaliate against opponents but stripped Kutun of his Health and Rehabilitative Services Committee chairmanship.

House Republicans Monday re-elected Minority Leader William James, R-Delaware Beach, but ousted Whip Van Poole, R-Port Lauderdale.

Poole was replaced by Rep. Dick Langley, a tough-talking Clermont lawyer who promised to be "hard-nosed." Also re-elected were Minority Leader Pro Tempore Mary Grizzle and Caucus Chairwoman Betty Escley, both of Clearwater. They defeated challenges by Rep. Tom Lewis, R-Palm Beach, and Rep. Vince Fectel, R-Leesburg.

Also losing in the whip vote was Rep. Tom Gallagher, R-Miami.

James preached the Republican faith to the 28 GOP House members and promised to lead them into battles with the Democratic majority.

"I'm afraid of no man or woman in this legislature," he said.

Marianna Rossi Decker with hand painted tile tabletop and Italian art diploma.

International Artist Roosts In Deltona WOMEN

By JEAN PATTESON Women's Editor

Picture with words, pictures with color. It's all the same to Marianna Rossi Decker, poet, artist and owner of the soon-to-open Rossi Decker Gallery in Deltona.

While Marianna has come home to roost in Deltona — moving down from New Jersey following the illness of her husband, William — she has by no means relinquished the international art connections she has built up over a lifetime. In fact, she hopes to host an international art exhibition in Deltona before too long.

A sweet and gentle personality whose Italian ancestry suddenly fires up passion and poetry in her soul, Marianna is injecting the same enthusiasm into the opening of an art gallery which she has given to her varied projects throughout her life — be it newspaper illustrator, Audubon artist or columnist.

She hopes to open the gallery Dec. 1, and to offer classes in the painting, watercolor and oil painting. As associate editor of The Poetry Forum, she also hopes to stimulate the efforts of local poets.

Mrs. Decker is proud of her achievements, and the citations she has received from a number of overseas countries, including a recent diploma awarded in Italy — the equivalent, she explained, of a Masters degree in art. Presently, she has an exhibition of paintings in Monaco.

"But I never take myself too seriously — there is a lot of humor in my work," she said. "I never feel I'm that important. I just enjoy art."

The daughter of an engineer working for the U.S. Government by the time she was nine, Marianna had already lived in Italy (where her teacher was Maria Montessori), Germany and Portugal by the time she was twelve. Back in New York, she won both the Emily Dickinson and John Mansfield awards for her writing skills. Today, one of her poems, September Magic, appears in The Family Album collection sandwiched in among poems by Thoreau and Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Her anthology, The Mustard Seed, which is in the Library of Congress, is a collection of poems about women — their accomplishments, personality and emotions. "Keeping a pure heart and mind — that's what is important," she muses. "Purity, a wholesome attitude and humility — to me, that's beautiful."

To be an artist or writer, one has to be a little psychic, says Marianna. "You have to see beyond the skin, have X-ray eyes." Perhaps this quality makes her a successful contributor editor to Beyond Reality, a regular publication of ghost stories.

Setting into their new home on Randolph Street, Marianna and William spend much of their time in the double garage, sorting and preparing materials for their gallery.

Hutchisons Mark Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Caithen (Abby) Hutchison Sr., 1921 Park Ave., Sanford were honored on their 50th wedding anniversary with a reception Sunday hosted by Mr. and Mrs. William C. (Patsy) Hutchison Jr. at their home on the Wekiva River.

Also present was the couple's daughter, Mrs. Penrose Hutchison Rowley of Key West. Six of the couple's seven grandchildren attended the reception, along with about 150 guests who called between the appointed hours of 3 and 6 p.m.

Mrs. Hutchison's sister, Mrs. Frances Herr attended the bride's hook. Mrs. Ruth Mickelson sang the couple's wedding song, Love Divine, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. F.L. Chiles, sister of Mrs. Hutchison Jr.

The celebration spilled from the Hutchison home into a large, gold-striped marquee on the banks of the river. Gold flowers and a harvest theme was carried out in the decor and table appointments, which also featured two large carved ice swans and a white tiered wedding cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutchison were married Nov. 8, 1926, in the Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford. Mrs. Hutchison was born in the city. Mr. Hutchison came to Sanford from South Carolina in 1922. He was employed by Chase and Co. from 1924 to 1948, and then went into his own business.

Kiwanis Seeks Woman of Year Nominations

The Kiwanis Club of Sanford is again accepting nominations for the Annual Roberta Gatchel Woman of the Year award. This award was established in 1969 in the memory of the Sanford Kiwanis Club benefactress, Roberta Gatchel, who catered Kiwanis luncheons for many years.

The award is presented each year to the woman who has done the most for her club and community. Each area women's club is invited to nominate one of its members; the final selection is made by a special committee of Kiwanians.

To make a nomination, send a brief biographical sketch and summary of the nominee's club and community activities to Robert E. Daehn, Special Awards Chairman, Sanford Kiwanis Club, 114 Shirley Ave., Sanford. Deadline is Jan. 18, 1977. The award will be presented in March, 1977.

Past winners have included Irene Laney, Val Colbert, Charlotte Austin Smith, Maria Perez M.D., Rosamond Chapman, Winifred Gielow and Myrtle Gradick.

Lord Will Forgive Leaviny Husband

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have raised 14 children, eight daughters and six sons, here in the coal fields of the Southeast. All were raised in the church. (My husband teaches a Bible class.)

Seven years ago one of my daughters, then 15, became pregnant. I couldn't believe it and was heartbroken. My husband insisted that she be sent away, and her baby left wherever it was born. I defied him, saw my daughter through the birth and am now raising her little boy. My once teen-aged, precocious daughter has become a lesbian and has fallen into the use of alcohol and drugs.

Six weeks ago she revealed to me that her own father is the baby's father, too! I also learned that he had mistreated our other daughters as they were growing up. No one would tell me, but immediately after high school graduation they would leave home to work. Now I know why!

DEAR ABBY: My husband is an ordained minister who doesn't charge a fee to officiate at weddings for families in his congregation.

Last summer he performed six ceremonies. They were all lovely church affairs followed by receptions and dinners, and the night before, there were rehearsal dinners. Abby, my husband and I never got an invitation to any of these festivities!

One bride's mother said to my husband after the ceremony, "Oh, please stay for the reception and dinner, and phone your wife and tell her to come over right away!" (He politely declined.)

Another bride told him, "We didn't invite you, and your wife to our wedding reception because we figured you'd be too busy to come."

The other four brides didn't even ask my husband to stay after the ceremony, but one saw him on the street a few months later and said, "How come you didn't stay for the dinner? We

'Bulletin' Was Just A Jest

LOS ANGELES (AP)—NBC doesn't see its entertainment show interrupt themselves to announce sudden, dramatic but bogus "bulletins," even if such are jets, put-on and obviously not the McCoy.
"Such introductory terms as 'Flash' or 'Bulletin' and statements such as 'We interrupt this program to bring you a news broadcast,'" NBC tells its show-makers.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSLO For Wednesday, November 17, 1974

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll be industrious today unless you hook up with loving friends. Then all your penchant for hard work will go by the boards.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you have anybody working for you today, keep a close eye on them. Otherwise you'll pay for work not performed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your search for a little romantic adventure could get you in trouble today. The bait may attract the wrong fish.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Confusion results for your people you are in charge of today because you are both too firm and too forgiving.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have an issue you intend to clear up with someone in no uncertain terms, stick to your guns. Sugarcoating won't do it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Where you're cleverer than your opponent in some respects, you'll be extravagant speculating for items you really don't need.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Be careful not to put yourself at a business disadvantage by diluting your position to give another an undeserved foothold.

Calcium Shortage Part Of Problem

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am now 46 and 10 years ago I had a thyroid operation. My parathyroid glands were also moved by mistake.

I went through my menopause immediately with cramping of my hands and legs and muscle spasms - also convulsions. The doctor put me on calcium and phosphorus but kept increasing it until I was on 35 pills a day which is hard to swallow.

Parathyroid glands and it is given in very large doses. This is not the kind of vitamin therapy you should try to regulate yourself but needs to be part of your treatment program. Some doctors prefer to use crystalline dihydroxyacetone called simply A.T.-10 rather than vitamin D because it can be much more rapidly eliminated from the body if you get into trouble with too large a dose.

Anyone who has had as much trouble in regulation as you have had and who is now having convulsions that are not controlled should have an evaluation by an endocrinology clinic or specialist in endocrinology. Ask your doctor to send you to the nearest university medical center endocrinology section for a more complete evaluation.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause, so you can see the difference between this condition and the one you are experiencing. Menopause does not cause your symptoms. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10015.

Presuming that you are correct in your interpretation that the convulsions are secondary to low parathyroid function the problem should be solvable. The parathyroid glands, on each side of the thyroid gland, are sometimes damaged during surgery. This is often temporary but your 10-year history means that the damage in your case is permanent.

These tiny glands help regulate the level of calcium in your blood. When they are gone or damaged the blood calcium falls. The low blood calcium, not the menopause, causes the muscle cramps, tetany and convulsions that you have experienced. Usually these symptoms can be controlled if the blood calcium can be maintained at sufficiently high levels. In your case this must have been uncommonly difficult.

The blood calcium is depleted by giving calcium and vitamin D. The vitamin D is very important in the absence of parathyroid glands and it is given in very large doses. This is not the kind of vitamin therapy you should try to regulate yourself but needs to be part of your treatment program.

South starts with seven top tricks as a starter for the nine he needs. He also can be sure of one extra club trick irrespective of where the queen is. That will give him eight. Where can he find a ninth?

Given time he can set up a diamond, but he isn't going to have time. The opponents have been unkind enough to attack in hearts.

Is there any other place to get another trick? Yes, there is. With a little luck he can score four club tricks. One way to get four club tricks is to bang down his ace. If that drops a singleton queen he is home. Otherwise the lead of the ace will not give him a chance for more than three tricks in the suit.

However, there is a reasonable chance to score four club tricks if he leads toward his hand and finessees the 10. If the finesse works, he continues by playing his ace and will be home safely if East started with either queen and one or queen and two clubs. This represents a total probability of about 31 per cent.

Wrecked truck operator John Griggs studies semi-submerged auto. George Adams of Orlando had floated his boat onto the trailer attached to this car Tuesday afternoon at the public boat ramp, U.S. 17-92 at the St. Johns River, officials said, when the weight of the boat, background, eased the auto down the sloping ramp into water. Adams said the auto's hand brake was set at the time. Estimates of damage to the auto were several hundred dollars body damage, plus water damage to the auto's interior.

Seminole Keeps Ambulance Firm

By ED PRICKETT Herald Staff Writer Despite an offer from the president of a local ambulance company to put up as collateral everything he owns, the Seminole County Commission Tuesday turned down a proposal from Aida Ambulance Services Inc. to take over the exclusive franchise in this county.

"Whatever I have, I'll gladly put up, we need the chance to prove we can do it," Bernard Fidoletto told commissioners as he attempted in vain to win the franchise from Herndon Ambulance Service of Orlando. Fidoletto offered to provide four additional ambulances to Seminole, offered to operate without the $20,000 subsidy paid Herndon, promised to pay for a full financial report requested by officials and promised to provide free service to the elderly and Medicaid patients.

Commission Chairman Dick Williams, however, pointed out that a court judgment in New York against Fidoletto for $37,000 is being processed in Seminole County courts. "It's information that I think apropos," Williams said. Fidoletto said his attorneys are working on the matter and expect to have it cleared up soon.

County Atty. Robert Pierce explained that New York courts ruled against Fidoletto. Pierce said, however, that a Seminole judge must rule here before the terms of the lawsuit are settled in the state of Florida. The motion to reject Fidoletto's offer was made by Commissioner John Kimbrough and seconded by Commissioner Bob French. In addition, Kimbrough said French has some additional questions he wishes to ask Herndon officials. "We're going to be asking you a number of questions," Kimbrough told Herndon President Idus Willis. If the correct answers aren't forthcoming, commissioners indicated the contract with Herndon could be terminated. Pierce said all that is required to cancel the franchise is two months' notice.

Public Atty. Gary Kaiser submitted a report to the commission recommending an audit of Herndon's books to try and determine exact revenues. But Commissioner John Kimbrough said he will not order an audit. "We need a chance," Kaiser said. Willis, however, did say his firm would welcome an audit of his books. He said Herndon's books are open at all times to any qualified persons who wish to peruse them. Aida applied for the franchise last month. Since that time Kaiser has attempted to sort out records of both firms to try and make a recommendation. Kaiser said the issue "brought the spotlight on Herndon." There is some speculation the firm could operate without the $30,000-a-year subsidy.

Herndon, however, says it must have the $20,000 to continue operations. The $20,000 was cut to $14,500 at last night's meeting, but Kaiser explained all that meant is Herndon will be required to pay $5,500 toward a grant for communications equipment. Instead, the county will pay the $2,500. Then, if the franchise is canceled, the firm couldn't claim any donations toward communications equipment which will be owned by the county.

School Board Elects Sims Chairman; Served In '73-74

By KRIS NASH Herald Staff Writer Altamonte Springs businessman Davie Sims was elected Tuesday as chairman of the Seminole County School Board. Sims, who previously served as chairman in 1973-74, immediately promised to "try not to wrinkle too many brows."

"I had great mixed emotions, if the opportunity to be chairman was offered, as to whether to be chairman or not," said Sims, who succeeded two-year panel chief Robert G. (Bud) Feather. "I remember the last time and how I spent some time in the hospital because of the great amount of pressure the school board chairman is exposed to."

Sims, Stenstrom and Mrs. Telson were chosen at an organizational session which preceded the board's regular meeting. The voting came after Sims and Feather were sworn in to begin serving the four-year terms they won in the recent general election. In other business, the board heard a report from representatives of the Dainwood-Derryberry-Pavelchak Partnership, the Casselberry architectural firm that has been contracted to convert the old Sanford Naval Academy Junior School into a two-story office complex for School Supt. William P. (Bud) Layer and his administrative staff.

Joseph Pavelchak told panelists that the former naval academy building is in need of extensive repairs, including a new roof, completely new mechanical, wiring, heating and cooling systems, and the addition of a paved parking area. Construction on the modern complex is being regulated by the State Department of Education, Pavelchak said, and since repairs will cost more than 25 per cent of the building's $330,000 purchase price - the project will be treated as if it involved erecting a completely new structure.

Parents too many brows and I'll try to work with the principals any way I can." Sims, Stenstrom and Mrs. Telson were chosen at an organizational session which preceded the board's regular meeting. The voting came after Sims and Feather were sworn in to begin serving the four-year terms they won in the recent general election.

Bigger, Better Events Planned Olympics Fame Spreading

By BILL CURRIE Herald Staff Writer Sanford has been declared an unequalled success. That word came from the just completed Second Olympic Chairman Vic Arnett Annual Golden Age Olympics in manager of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, at a breakfast meeting of committee chairmen this morning at McDonalds. Both Arnett and Horner told of the more than 500 who registered to participate and of the exposure the city of Sanford had received on a national level as a direct result of the Olympics. Arnett said he had been interviewed (via telephone) on radio stations in North Carolina, Kansas City, Mo., New Orleans and Lincoln, Neb. Horner related an experience that Don Jackson and his wife Lois had while visiting with friends in Seattle last week that was directly connected with the Olympics. Jackson, the chairman of the Seminole County Port Authority, his wife and hosts were engaged in a casual conversation while a Seattle television station was airing a program entitled "Events Of The Day."

Three Pickles Shy Of What??

WASHINGTON (AP) - Will it be socially correct in the new White House to tell the president you consider him "wild as a peach orchard bear?" Not hardly. In fact, that type of running off at the mouth could get you branded as a fellow who's about three pickles shy of a barrel, or somewhat less than prudent.

"Wild as a peach orchard bear" is an old Southern expression for a man intent on having his way with the ladies. It is definitely not the type of subject to bring up in polite company, according to a new book called "You All Spoken Here."

The book was written by Roy Wilder, a sometime newspaperman and ad writer from Raleigh, N.C. Wilder thinks there could be quite a market for a glossary that defines such good fortune would enable them to start "living in the high cotton," or even "owning two cars and a boat," the ultimate goal of the good old boy's ladder of success. They might even want to throw a "chillin' strut" for their friends. That's a social gathering where folks get together to drink liquor and eat chitlins, or hog intestines. They'll employ the all-purpose Southern modifier, "right." As in, "We might could get that report finished today, but we've got right much work to do first." Such fluency in the language might could help avert a pink slip from the incoming Carters, which would cause those still employed to say of the departed, "He got flattened."
