Allies Retake Last Red Base South Of 38th

Bitter Resistance Is Met By Vanguard Of Advancing UN Force As Chunchon Falls

By OLEN CLEMENTS
TOKYO, Mar. 21—(AP)—An American tank force today tumbled into the former Chinese stronghold of Chunchon. It met only flag-waving Korean civilians. The Chinese, who had made the central Korean road center their troop massing point in South Korea, apparently had withdrawn north of Patalal 38. Chunchon is 8 1/2 miles south of the Red Korean border. It was from Chunchon that the Chinese mounted their two massive offensives in January and February against Wouju, deep in central Korea. On the western front, South Korean and American tank forces ranging in the historic invasion route of Korea bumped into bitter Communist resistance north of Seoul.

An American tank patrol on the road to Uijongbu ran into a heavy mine field. "The small arms and mortar fire were so intense that it was impossible for the men to leave the tanks and remove the mines," an operations officer said.

On the east coast, South Korean units were officially placed within 15 1/2 miles of the old border between North and South Korea. Patrols may have reached or crossed the imaginary line. A correspondent from the front reported that United Nations troops were probing the area between the main Allied lines and parallel to the main Allied lines and parallel to the main Allied lines.

Earlier reports placed American units five miles north of Chunchon.

The program was marked by orchestral music, singing, entertainment and a talk concerning pioneer days in Florida by Karoly Housholder, Sanford attorney.

Contempt Charge Against Field Is Declared Invalid

Millionaire Red Is Freed On Grounds Of Right To Silence

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21—(AP)—Frederick Vanderbilt Field, New York millionaire, was freed today of contempt of Congress charges.

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldborough, who presided at Field's trial without a jury, granted a defense motion for acquittal. The judge held Field was within his constitutional rights in refusing to answer questions of a Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee on grounds his answers might incriminate him.

Field was charged with contemptuously refusing to answer 24 questions during an investigation of charges by Senator McClellan (D-Wis) that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

Police Lt. John J. Conerman said Premas related that on Saturday, in a fit of despondency, he went to a railroad siding and fired a .32 caliber bullet into his chest. He walked home and went to bed, expecting to die.

But Sunday morning he awakened, surprised. He brooded all day and Sunday night he aimed for his heart and again lay down to die. But again death eluded him, and on Monday his brother, William, saw blood-soaked Premas' shirt and called police.

Surgeons who removed the bullet said Premas aimed for his heart was close to the target but that his bones deflected the bullet.

Hospital reports say Premas is "recovering nicely." Premas said the despondency set in after some drinking.

Lansing Says Salt Water Fish Agency May Be Created

The Florida Legislature may create a salt water fish commission similar to that in California, Porter Lansing, president of the Florida Wildlife Federation, told members of the Lions Club today.

March is the last month in which taxes may be paid before a minimum of 3 per cent is levied against real property taxes and 1 per cent against personal and intangible taxes. In addition to this penalty levy, Mr. Galloway pointed out the tax laws require the additional charge of a fee for advertising the property as delinquent, which fee is 30 cents.

The Florida Wildlife Federation, he declared, was organized by businessmen and sportsmen to conserve natural resources including timber, water supply, soils and wild life.

Since the organization of the Seminole County Sportsman Association and the bringing of game warden here, illegal killing of thousands of pounds of fish a year has been checked, he pointed out. One result is that fishing of perch and bass has been improved, he said. More than 90 percent of the tourists coming to Florida want to fish, said Mr. Lansing.

He stated that at a recent session of the Florida Wildlife Federation, it was voted to ask the Fresh Water Game and Fish Commission to stop all fishing in Florida water.

Officers here thought Weldon might visit a friend in the state penitentiary at Walla Walla and notified officers there to nab him. They did.

Truman Asked To Withdraw Plan To Reorganize RFC

Senate Is Asked To Consider Abolishing Public Loan Agency

By G. MELTON KELLY
WASHINGTON, Mar. 21—(AP)—Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) of the Senate Expenditures Committee proposed today that President Truman withdraw temporarily his hotly disputed plan to reorganize the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

He said Congress should be allowed to work out its own solution to the fate of RFC huge government lending agency. A Senate banking subcommittee contends the RFC has fallen under the control of an influence ring with White House contacts.

McClellan made this suggestion as his committee opened public hearings on the President's proposal to abolish the five-man RFC board of directors and put the agency under a single administrator.

"This plan should be withdrawn temporarily," McClellan said. Senator Maybank (D-S.C.), chairman of the full banking committee who spoke as the lead off witness, said he thought that "might be a good idea."

Maybank said he considers the President's plan in any event would not be a final solution, and that his committee wants to work out ideas of its own on what to do with RFC. He said he intends to call hearings immediately on several proposals to abolish the agency.

"Imagine the committee is going to be pretty rough," Maybank added. "It ought to be."

The hearing before McClellan's committee was the opening of a series of public hearings on the RFC.

Myriads Of Safety Devices Protect Sensitive Submarines From Disaster

By ELTON C. FAY
ABOARD SUBMARINE GRAMPUS, Mar. 8—(Delayed)—(AP)—Are submarines dangerous?

The truthful answer to that is probably yes. They have more built-in hazards than other craft but that is the nature of the vessel. They must have them. But they also have a boatful of safety gadgets and techniques.

Let's consider the dangers first. There is the matter of buoyancy. The margin between floating or sinking, when a submarine is operating on the surface, is less than for any other craft. It is almost a hairline difference. It has to be that way. The submarine must be able to submerge in a matter of seconds. In combat, a quick dive can save the boat, tardiness in diving will mean its destruction by aircraft or surface ships. This low buoyancy factor means the submarine is particularly vulnerable to enemy gunfire or to collisions. A ship's bow knife through the sub's hull can send her down like a stone, too fast for bulkheads to be closed.

The second danger point is the lack of visibility. The sub is blind to the surface world. The only way to see the surface is through periscopes. In combat, a quick dive can

Patrolman Declares Death Rate Here Is Twice That Of State

By ERNEST R. VACCARO
KEY WEST, Mar. 21—(AP)—President Truman served notice today that the United States has doubled its armed forces since the invasion of Korea to resist "further Communist attacks against other free nations."

An exchange of telegrams between the President and Secretary of Defense Marshall declared that this country's uniformed forces now stand at more than 2,900,000 men—more than 100,000 more than the 2,800,000 men who were on duty when the Korean Red launched their unprovoked attack June 25.

Mr. Truman made his telegram public shortly before leaving at 7:30 A. M. for a visit to Fort Jefferson in the Dry Tortugas aboard the destroyer Sandfield. He is due back at 1 P. M.

The President will fly back to Washington tomorrow to spend the Easter weekend with Mrs. Truman and his young daughter, Margaret. He is scheduled to take off at 2 P. M. Thursday from the Boca Chica Air Station, eight and a half miles from this Naval submarine station.

Mr. Truman's announcement was a new warning to Soviet Russia that this country "in company with other free nations" is determined "to establish and maintain world peace."

He emphasized the speed with which this country is rebuilding its defenses by disclosing Marshall's telegram giving the size of this country's armed forces as doubled what it was on June 25.

"This doubling of our strength has been accomplished here in more than 21 months after the Communist aggression against the Republic of Korea," General Marshall stated.

"For your information, the strength we have already attained—a total strength in excess of 2,900,000 men—not attained in World War II until more than 21 months after our build-up started in June 1940, following the fall of France, and more than three months after Pearl Harbor."

The President's annual plan to seek world-wide disclosure of the progress of American defenses, and the exchange of telegrams was beamed around the globe by the State Department's Voice of America.

He telegraphed Marshall: "I wish to commend you and all your associates in the Army, Navy, and the Air Force for the strenuous efforts which have made such growth possible.

"This tremendous gain in our military strength is a source of pride and inspiration to all Americans."

Rare 220 Pound Dog Reported Missing

CHICAGO, Mar. 21—(AP)—Ruffy, a 220-pound Great Pyrenees, said to be the only dog of its kind in the nation, was reported missing yesterday and feared a victim of dogcatchers.

The dog's owner, Dr. Collin M. Doyle, said Ruffy vanished Sunday from the inclosed yard of the Doyle home. Ruffy has a shaggy, white coat, without markings.

Doyle said there is an American strain of Great Pyrenees, but Ruffy is the only representative in this country of the Spanish breed, raised in the kennels of the Infanta Don Alfonso of the Spanish royal family. Ruffy was a puppy when Don Alfonso gave him to Doyle in 1942. At that time Don Alfonso was a student and Dr. Doyle an instructor in the British Royal Naval Academy.

COOK SENTENCED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Mar. 21—(AP)—Admitted slayer William E. Cook, Jr., today was sentenced to terms totaling 500 years in "Alcatraz or another safe prison where he has no chance to escape" for the slaying of the five members of the Carl Mosser family of Alameda, Ill.

Gangster Is Sullenly Silent On Queries Concerning Wealth; Admits Bookmaking

NEW YORK, Mar. 21—(AP)—Underworld boss Frank Costello today defied Senate crime investigators for the fourth time in their efforts to find out his net worth. He said he wouldn't answer the question.

With the same sullen stubbornness he has displayed when the matter came up previously, Costello said the committee was asking for information it had no right to.

"I refused before," Costello said. "I'm not going to answer that question."

The gambler, labeled by the committee as head of a national crime syndicate, pictured himself to the committee as one now engaged in purely legitimate business.

And he said he wasn't going to talk about what assets he has. Costello pictured himself as a promoter of hot boilers for the benefit of housewives with small apartments.

He conceded before the Senate Crime Committee that the boiler business hadn't taken up much of his time so far.

"It's in its infancy," he said. "The boiler was described as an infra red boiler for use in apartment houses, but Costello said he didn't understand its mechanical details.

Prior to Costello's appearance, the committee issued a second invitation to New York Governor Thomas E. Dewey to appear before it about gambling at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Senator Charles Tobey (R-NH) said Costello's refusal to answer "makes us suspicious and I don't want to be suspicious."

"The world can't think well of a man who covers up," he added. Costello has disclosed he has some $150,000 in cash in his home safe and in two bank accounts, but beyond that, he contended his holdings are his own affair.

"Do you have a safe deposit box anywhere else other than in your home?" asked committee member Randolph Hatley.

Costello started at the ceiling momentarily, blinking into the white, but glare of lamp lights. Then he said in his hoarse, thin voice: "No."

Costello's attorney, George E. Wolf, has contended that his client is constitutionally entitled to remain silent.

Younger To Answer Warren's Charges Before Grand Jury

TALLAHASSEE, Mar. 21—(AP)—Governor Warren today suspended Washington county judge Sam D. Max on charges of drunkenness.

MIAMI, Mar. 21—(AP)—Col. Jack E. Younger, president of the Greater Miami Crime Commission, said he would go before the Dade county grand jury today—at his own request—to answer any questions about charges made against him by Governor Fuller Warren.

Accused by Warren of associating with "one of Miami's most notorious gamblers," Younger said he would sign a waiver of immunity and testify under oath to any questions about such an association.

After he has appeared before the grand jury, Younger said he would ask that the governor be called or support his charges with sworn testimony.

Warren charged yesterday that the Crime Commission chief associated with a notorious gambler, and alleged that a mysterious envelope had been passed to Younger under a barroom table in Dade county.

Younger declared the charges were "false and infamous" and gave the Governor 24 hours to retract them.

Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 1—(AP)—Sterling Hayden, Hollywood's bouncing actor, claims he is now getting his third and maybe last chance in the movie business. Actually, I don't think his plight is as desperate as that. He is one of those tall, rugged types who seem to be indestructible in movies. (Examples: Gary Cooper, Joel McCrea, Randy Scott, John Wayne, etc.) But Hayden is one of the most self-analytical of actors, and he berates himself for not having secured his film position before now.

He got his first chance shortly before the war. He rose from obscurity to appear with his future (and now ex-) wife, Madeleine Carroll, in two films, "Virginia" and "Bahama Passage."

"I sloughed the whole thing off," he admitted. "I didn't give a damn. I didn't even read the scripts through, just learning the lines on the set before the scene started. I must have given the dialogue director a terrible time."

"I asked if he had seen those pre-war films recently. 'No,' he answered abruptly. 'I couldn't stand the punishment.'"

Hayden went off to the war with no regrets about leaving the movie business. A lot of people didn't expect him to return to Hollywood, but he did. This time he had a new attitude. He was eager to learn and to work. But now the opportunity was lacking. His studio, Paramount, gave him little or nothing to do. Eventually he was released.

Then came Hayden's second chance, John Huston, one of the few Hollywood creators who can be called great, picked the actor to play the lead of the hoodlum in "Asphalt Jungle." It was a prize role in a prize (although not commercially successful) film.

"But I missed on that one too," he remarked. "I did some of my best work in the picture, but my performance was awfully uneven. You might say that the spirit was willing but the flesh was weak. I could do a much better over again today."

Despite his modesty, Hayden was suggested, Hayden squawked in righteous indignation. He got his second release from the studio.

Now he has embarked on this third big change, a starring role in "Skid Row." When I lunched with him, he was a battered man, with a bruised face and a stubble beard.

"But this character in the picture isn't always a bum," he explained. "The script goes under the surface and finds out the reasons for things. The role is the deepest I've ever had. If I can beat it, I'll be in good shape. Lord knows, I'm not going to get any more chances."

the song service. Friends of Mrs. G. L. Sinquefield will be glad to hear that she is sufficiently recovered to be moved from the Florida Sanitarium in Orlando to the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. M. Cochran.

Teen Talk

By VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures

Is it a first-date? An old flame? A blind date? No matter what—the important thing is where you meet him. Many girls meet their dates on dark corners, at parked cars, even in movies. If it is a first date, you certainly are establishing a bad precedent. If it is a steady date, he can't have much respect for you. And if it is a blind date, you are being a fool.

If you want respect from the boy and also prefer not to live dangerously, the boy should meet you at your home, get the family scanning and observe the family interest. Just suppose you meet a new boy at a party and he asks if he might phone you some time. Fine. No objection to that. When he calls for a date, ask him what he is planning to do, and what time he plans to call for you. If he suggests that you meet him at a place other than your home, act surprised, and then insist in a nice way that he come to your home.

Inform your family that you want them to meet your new date. Even if Mom can talk the ear off a china doll, and Pop is addicted to displaying his suspenders, you should invite them into the living room to meet your new beau. This is more for your protection than it is to show off your parents. The impression you make this first day is all-important to you in earning the respect of the boy. When he arrives at your home, take his hat and coat, seat him in the living room, and then invite your parents in to meet him.

Say something informal and casual which will put him at ease, such as: "Bill, mother and dad want to say hello to you", then after the introductions say: "Mom, (or Pop) we are planning to go to the movies (or elsewhere) and I think we should be home at 10:30 or 11 or . . . what do you think Bill?" It is a good idea to have him set the hour while your parents are in the room. Then he'll be sure to bring you home on the dot.

After the young man has visited a few minutes, say goodbye to your folks and be off. This little family meeting breaks the ice, shows the boy your respect for your family interest in you. If he approves of it, and his motives are strictly honorable, he'll want to see you again. If he is just the playboy type, he might set himself out to wilder pastures—and if so, you haven't missed a thing.

If he entertains you nicely, not necessarily lavishly, that first evening, ask if he'd like to come to dinner or Sunday night supper (perhaps a week hence). Don't be eager-beaverish about it, but say something like this, when he asks to see you again:

"How would you like to have dinner at our house (before the party or movie or dance)?" It is possible that he might refuse because of shyness, although few boys are ever too shy to turn down a dinner invitation. If he does turn you down, wait until he gets to know the family better before inviting him again.

Even if your first date is a boy whom you decide you never want to see again, you haven't lost a thing by being polite and holding out for your feminine privilege in asking him to call for you. If you don't like him after that first date, don't see him again. You still haven't lost anything in time or effort if you give him the gate at once, but don't be a time waster and se him just because you feel sorry for him or he means well.

More Than 15 Million Americans Suffer From Various Allergies

By ARTHUR EDSON (For HAL BOYLE)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21 — (AP) — If you want to win friends, and be influenced by people, get yourself an allergy.

You won't be alone, for there are more than 15,000,000 of us who suffer from this country.

It may be hay fever or asthma or a food or skin allergy.

Whatever it is, it's possible that it will be serious and it's certain that it will be annoying.

For the allergy victim often is condemned to a lifetime of wheezing, shorting of scratching.

I'm a scratcher myself.

The little blisters showed up on the index finger of my left hand at the Philadelphia political conventions two years ago.

For a time I thought I might be allergic to Philadelphia, but when I came home the blisters came right with me.

They haven't been a complete liability, for they have helped me to strike up conversations with complete strangers.

I was buying some women's hose, a Valentine for my wife, and the saleslady confessed: "I have an allergy, too. I've had it ever since I've been to hosiery from underwear."

A congressional committee clerk told me a well known Senator had a breaking out on his hands for years.

The girl where I bank pointed to some spots on her hand and asked sympathetically, "are you allergic to money, too?"

"I'll never know," I said sulkily.

Others have chided in with all sorts of helpful hints, from taking vitamin pills to coating my hands with vegetable shortening.

Naturally I have followed every piece of advice given me, both amateur and professional, and the results have been gratifying.

The blisters have spread only to four fingers of my left hand and to the little finger of my right. Without this kind of help, I'm sure I would have been a goner.

Certain conclusions have been reached from these interviews, and I pass them on as my small contribution to medical science.

1. The person who has an allergy never suggests a cure.

2. The person who hasn't an allergy always knows exactly what will cure you.

The best cure, of course, is to find the thing, or things, that is irritating, and stay away from it.

My doctor says finding this villain can be extremely difficult and complex.

"I had a woman not long ago who was allergic to her fur coat," he said. "But she insisted she wanted to wear furs, and had me test her for her reaction to each kind of fur."

"She was overjoyed when I finally found the only fur she could wear was mink."

Many prominent people have been hypersensitive, but my favorite is Marcel Proust, the famed French author.

In an introduction to Proust's "Remembrance of Things Past," Lewis Galantieri says of this sufferer from chronic asthma:

"Indoors and out, he would wrap himself up like an anemic voyager in Antarctica, retaining (for example) his furrier coat whole evenings through, while seated in the most brilliant drawing rooms of Paris."

"In bed he wore over a long night-gown, sweaters and mufflers and with these, stockings, gloves, and nightgowns."

In later years Proust went out only at night, and used to drop in on friends at 2 A.M.

So put Proust down as an exception to my rule that an allergy helps win friends. On that schedule, his friends soon must have become allergic to Proust.

Rural Common Sense By SPUDS JOHNSON

Keeping the farms of Florida and the rest of the country in good shape mechanically is about the best insurance for food and fiber production in the defense effort so important in the country.

Numbers of horses and mules on farms have dropped to the point where it is either mechanical power or no power on most farms. It's a case of keeping the machine running or else stalling farm production.

Since 1941 farm production in the United States has increased 20 percent, while the labor force has dwindled by about one million workers. Mechanization is the answer.

The Department of Agriculture as well as those concerned with defense efforts and farmers themselves, realize that it is highly essential to keep farm equipment rolling now. And so the Department of Agriculture is urging farmers, with the help of industry, to keep their farms in good shape mechanically by conserving farm machinery and equipment and repairing parts and by using the machinery they have wisely to avoid undue wear.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan says "The need to consider how we can maintain an adequate supply of farm machinery and equipment is on us now—since food demand for the 1951 crop year is heavy. And we must look to the future, when food needs may be even higher."

The Department urges farmers to survey their individual needs now and place their orders, particularly for repair parts, as quickly as possible. Industry, it is hoped, will increase the output of repair parts and other items needed by farmers in the efficient maintenance of farm machinery.

Manufacturers, of course, will be in better position to satisfy these requirements if farmers will get their orders in early.

"An essential aid in keeping our farms in good condition mechanically is for farmers to take all steps possible toward keeping their machinery and equipment in a constant state of repair and to use it under conditions that will cause the least wear," says the Secretary of Agriculture.

"In the interest both of maintaining an adequate supply of farm mechanical equipment and of obtaining the food we shall need in the national defense effort, I fully recommend such measures."

Florida Expansion Vividly Depicted In Power Co. Report

MIAMI, Mar. 21 — (Special) — Florida's varied and expanding economic horizons and ideal climatic conditions are vividly depicted in the 1950 annual report of the Florida Power & Light Company.

Smith said the past five years of peace have been five years of expansion and improvement by his company and additional major improvements are under construction or on order.

He revealed that the company spent $18,000,579 for improvements during 1950, making a total of $80,000,000 spent since V-J Day. The company expects to spend an additional $19,000,000 this year.

Capacity to generate electricity was boosted from 2,100,000 KW in 1945 to 4,000,000 KW at the end of 1950. By the end of 1953 this will be increased to 5,500,000 KW, or more than three times the V-J Day total.

Electric customers at the end of the year total 4,349,000, compared with 3,100,000 in 1945, a gain of 41 per cent and more than 1 1/2 times the number of customers in 1945.

If war comes, Florida's economy can be shifted quickly to serve the nation, the report stresses.

During the reign of Philip of France in the 14th century, a long strip of muslin was adapted for a tie. This was not wrapped around the neck, but was worn on the shirt.

Farmers estimate that it requires at least one acre of good pasture land to supply a dairy cow in this summer season.

Womanpower Draft May Be Next Step In Mobilization Program

By DOROTHY ROE ASSOCIATED PRESS WOMEN'S EDITOR

A draft of womanpower may be the next big step in our fast-changing world.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Anna M. Rosenberg says she has no plans at present for a draft of women, but the possibility looms large in the minds of the public in the event of all-out mobilization and a changing world.

Mrs. Millie Mae McIntosh, dean of Barnard College, New York, has gone on record as favoring a voluntary registration of women.

A recent statement issued by the president of 25 women's colleges requested "the significant part which women should play at the present time in our country's history" and asserted approval of a conference to study the question of voluntary registration of women.

On the other hand, Dr. Harold Taylor, president of Sarah Lawrence college, Bronxville, N. Y., says:

"I am against any draft of women. I don't think it's necessary. We're fighting a war against Communism. It isn't necessary for us to adopt the very method we are fighting. Patriots in all that is needed in any American emergency. If people are concerned of the reality of the emergency, they will do more than they are asked."

Jacksonville To Celebrate Fifty Years Of Progress

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 21 — (Special) — This city on the St. Johns River, which gave the nation a preview of Hiroshima just 50 years ago, is all set to celebrate its "golden year" next week.

Jacksonville was devastated by fire in 1901. From Monday, Mar. 26, through Saturday, Mar. 31, it will hold a great celebration marking the half century of progress.

Big event will be a nightly historical spectacle at the Gator Bowl, with 1,500 local people as performers. Narrators will tell the history of the area from the arrival of Frenchman Jean Ribault in 1562. There will be brilliant displays of fireworks every night.

Dozens of added attractions are scheduled. Concurrent with the spectacle will be a Boat, Sport and Industrial show at the Gator Bowl. This will include exhibits of products made or distributed here.

Leaders of industry, government and the entertainment world will be on hand, according to Fred H. Kent, president of Jacksonville's Fifty Years of Progress Association.

Opening the gala week on Monday will be Governor's Day. Governor and Mrs. Fuller Warren will be on hand for a parade at 10:30 A.M. Dozens of floats will participate, and there will be numerous bands taking part.

Warren will address Rotary Club luncheon at noon. The Governor's party, cabinet members, Rep. Charles Bennett and others will be on hand for the crowning of the queen at the Gator Bowl that night.

A second parade will be run Tuesday afternoon, observing Armed Forces Day. It, too, will be one of the great parades in the city's history, said N. L. Mellison, chairman of the Special Events Division.

Besides the Naval Air Station band, there will be bands from Eglin Air Force Base and MacDill Air Force Base. Principal speaker at a luncheon given by the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce will be Secretary of the Navy, Francis Matthews. Mathews and many high officers of the armed forces will be present for the pageant that night.

Wednesday, to be set aside as Pan-American Day, will be marked by Latin-American entertainment. An outstanding Mexican businessman will speak at a luncheon.

Then will follow Industrial Day and Transportation Day, the finale on Saturday, Mar. 31, being Georgia-Florida Good Neighbor Day. "We are expecting hundreds of visitors from our neighboring cities in Georgia and Florida on that day," according to Robert C. Millar, chairman for that day.

The city is already gaily decorated for the event. By way of providing color, and to call attention to the festivities, hundreds of Jacksonville men are sporting beards, goatees, sideburns or mustaches. They are called "Brothers of the Brush."

Wooden akela and souvenir hats help to create the atmosphere.

"We are expecting to have the greatest celebration in the city's history since the Sub-Tropical Exposition of 1888," said Kent. "And we are inviting people far and wide to join with us."

Child's World Is Wonderful

Carmelita Plonka

The world that children live in is mighty wonderful . . . filled with little daydreams and hopes and joys that make the older folk sometimes wish they were school-age again. But boys and girls have their ups and downs, too, particularly when they are not feeling well. Ten-year-old Carmelita Plonka, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Plonka of 3202 S. Aberdeen, Chicago, Ill., was not feeling good recently and was just too listless to get the most out of her school days. Fortunately for Carmelita, though, her grandmother suggested that her mother give her IADACOL, because she had heard how much it was helping children deficient in Vitamin B12, Iron and Niacin. Now Carmelita feels fine and her mother says she has a big appetite.

Here is Mrs. Plonka's statement:

"My daughter Carmelita, who is 10 years old and in the fifth grade, had always been underweight and I had to positively force her to eat. She had no interest in food whatsoever, but I knew that she had to eat. When we were visiting my mother in Missouri over the Christmas holidays she suggested I give Carmelita IADACOL. I bought a large bottle of it that same day and was amazed at the change in Carmelita. Her appetite picked right up and she now eats three hearty meals a day plus in-between snacks. I have really pruned IADACOL, and highly recommend it for everyone."

The decision as to whether we will again make the mistake of crossing the 38th Parallel is about to be made, with President Truman and the State Department apparently trying to make General MacArthur shoulder the burden.

We enjoyed a trip to Seminole High School the other day with members of the Rotary Club. Anyone who hasn't been up there lately should make it a point to visit the school and see the many improvements which have been made.

Some legislators who were for the out and out abolition of the Milk Commission a while back, aren't saying so much right now. The Florida State Dairy Association has produced some authentic cost of production figures and comparisons with other states that has improved the position of the dairymen and, while some changes may be made in the Milk Commission set up, indications are it will be continued.

Foreign Aid Agency

The taxpayer is likely to feel a chill when he hears a serious proposal for the creation of a new government agency of major size and scope. The President's special international development advisory board has recommended that a new agency should be created to handle the Marshall Plan and all other foreign economic aid, now distributed among more than twenty different agencies.

In setting up any new governmental operations we should not fail to take full advantage of the recommendations of the Hoover Commission. It is largely through helter-skelter establishment of new agencies and offices, without an overall plan, that the government has grown into such great need for reform.

Wish And Work

I remember as a boy, watching my father calmly raking leaves. Dad wouldn't let a single leaf escape his rake. "Dad," I said, "wouldn't it be great if you could just make a wish, and all those leaves would be in one pile?"

An accompanying benefit of the fighting in Korea is that the losses among China's best troops may prevent Mao from undertaking his long-dreaded invasion of Indochina. They may also have kept him from carrying further his conquest of Tibet.

Too Late To Classify

A month or so ago it was the Florida Milk Commission that was getting all the heat and they are still getting some, but now it is the State Welfare Board that is on the griddle and between the newspapers and the politicians, the flames have been fed until it has reached the stage of a sort of three-alarm affair.

When department heads and board members know that their books are going to be audited at least once a year and that the legislature and the Governor are going to be on their neck if they slip out of line and get careless with the taxpayer's money, they will do a much better job than when they feel that nobody cares what they do anyhow.

The World Today

The next place to watch on the map is Iran. The troubles there could end in placing the Soviets many steps closer to World War III. Russia needs oil. Iran has it. Iran has been both pressuring Russia, and holding out the olive branch of good trade.

Right now reports from Iran are contradictory. There is no way of predicting what will happen in the near future. The jig-saw puzzle which means so much to the safety of the western world, and to the security of the United States.

Two weeks ago the Premier, General Ali Razmara, died after being shot by a student assassin who was a Nationalist who wanted Iran's oil nationalized. Razmara opposed nationalization. He was satisfied to handle the biggest lot of oil through the British.

It is certainly reasonable to assume the Engineer's estimated cost should be increased at least 30%. To build the storage capacity four times the present proposed also will cost at least $300,000 additional.

It is conservative to plan on a total expenditure of three quarters of a million dollars before the project is completed and any revenue at all is received. PAYER HAVE THE PRIVILEGE OF INCLUDING WHETHER OR NOT TO INCREASE THE BONDED INDEBTEDNESS THROUGH A REPRESENTATIVE.

Mr. Roland Dean, Editor Sanford Herald, Sanford, Florida

In order to bring before the Citizens of Sanford some of the questions and issues involved concerning the proposed Dock and Terminal, your publication of this letter in the Sanford Forum section of your paper will be appreciated.

Why Was This Action Taken?

A satisfactory answer to the following questions could have made this action unnecessary. 1. WHAT CHANCE HAS THE PROJECT OF BEING FINANCIALLY SUCCESSFUL?

The answer to this question is clearly answered by direct quotations taken from impartial surveys made by F. C. Hillier & Associates and paid for by the City of Sanford.

2. WHY IS IT NECESSARY TO PLUCK PARKING METER REVENUES TO PAY OFF THE BOND?

3. WHAT WILL THE DOCK AND TERMINAL COST?

4. SHOULD NOT THE TAXPAYER HAVE THE PRIVILEGE OF INCLUDING WHETHER OR NOT TO INCREASE THE BONDED INDEBTEDNESS THROUGH A REPRESENTATIVE?

What Are The Prospects For Securing Common Carrier Barge Service?

There are three types of water transportation service. Common Carrier, Contract Carrier, and Exempt Carrier. It is generally conceded that Common Carrier Service is the only service that would be satisfactory for the proposed Dock and Terminal.

It meant? It says Mr. Truman "should" get approval before sending more troops. Does that mean he "must"? And what meaning does a "resolution" have anyway since senators themselves admit Mr. Truman doesn't have to abide by it but can ignore it?

Symphony Concert Scheduled Saturday

ORLANDO, Mar. 21—(Special)—The Central Florida Symphony will close the season Saturday evening when at 8:30 it will present at the Municipal Auditorium Johannes Brahms's Requiem.

A chorus of 100 has been added to the group of musicians making up the orchestra and will be directed by Yves Chardon, conductor, who has gained increasing popularity for his effective interpretations in past concerts.

Mr. Chardon's search for vocal talent which had sound musical and choral training ended with the selection of choir from the First Methodist Church of Orlando, the Presbyterian Church of Sanford and the Congregational Church of Winter Park.

The training of these groups in the intricacies of Brahms's composition was placed in the hands of the directors who had charge of the choir, Jessie Pedrick Baker, Edna Wallace Johnson and Mrs. George Touhy.

This week the rehearsals will be under the baton of Mr. Chardon who will give the choir his interpretation of the Requiem and weld the efforts of the orchestra and choirsters into the delightful offering that is expected of such talent and monumental composition. The two groups have met separately in past rehearsals with Mr. Chardon.

The Lamplighter

Wearing his success like a girl might wear her first Prom corsage, Mario Lanza sang a tremendous Central Florida audience Monday night at the Municipal Auditorium in Orlando. The road, healthy looking young singer, sang a selection of relatively popular pieces which the audience loved, demonstrating its approval with ringing applause interspersed with several "Bravo's" and "Encore's" from the lobby-box brigade.

It was a well integrated audience, drawn from the many levels of society. Some people brought "Mario Lanza" booklets advertised by a "charter" in the lobby, and before the lights were dimmed, perused the pages adorned with pictures of the current idol, hailed by many as the modern Caruso. Lanza began to sing at 8:15, and during the first part of his aria, "Lamento Di Federico," the restless crowd finally calmed down and silence settled over the darkened auditorium, the spotlight trained on the dynamic young artist.

Lanza's greatest success was apparent in the famous Paganini aria, "Vesti La Giubba." He sang this, as he did every piece, in the Enrico Caruso tradition, putting heart and soul into the effort and achieving "triking dramatic effect that always ends with a split second of strict silence followed by an overwhelming tumult of applause. Lanza will probably play the hapless role of "Canio" many times during his career.

Also from Paganini, Lanza sang equally bright in his renditions of Neapolitan songs and the popular "Because" and "Be My Love." These were what his audience wanted; this was what they wanted to take home with them, and years hence, perhaps, recall, when Lanza has run the gamut of the opera house from La Scala to the Metropolitan, how he sang the "Vesti La Giubba" in a thrillingly warm evening in mid-March. And it is out of such things as this that memories are made.

Lanza's voice is much better on his high notes. His low tones seem to lack development. But when that booming crescendo is written in the score, the man shines. His voice rises, laden with power and feeling, negotiating notes, the very color and brilliance of which thrill you to the core.

Is Mario Lanza another Caruso? In all fairness this certainly remains to be seen. At present, the answer is no. Lanza has "miles and miles" to go before he can hope to equal the artistry of such singers as Jussi Bjorling, Ferruccio Tagliavini, and Jan Peerce. Lanza is the budding artist, and although he has arrived popularly, his artistic arrival remains somewhere in the future and very likely not too far off.

Lanza's accompanist, Constantino Callinico, was excellent in his own right rendering selections from Debussy, Chopin, and two compositions of his own. The piano pieces got to be somewhat tedious, not through any fault of artistry, but because of their number.

The audience had come to see and hear Lanza, not Callinico. We don't believe Lanza sang as much as he should have. Actually, his only encore was "Be My Love." There were many people who would like to have heard several more operatic arias. As it was, there were only two arias on the program, "Celeste Aida," or "O Fenicio" would have lent the finishing touch.

Lanza, with the possible exception of Elio Pina, is the first classical singer to be adopted, Frank Sinatra fashion, by the younger set. In beginning his ascent in operatic immortality through the medium of the movies, there will be many people drawn to the classics who might otherwise never come in contact with them. And this is good.

Lanza is scheduled to sing with the La Scala Opera Co. in Milan next October. The Italians will love him as well the rest of Europe. He promises to be a figure of importance in the operatic world for another 30 years at least. It's good to see a young singer firmly on the road to greatness.

Illinois Snaps Columbia Streak; Kentucky Easily Beats Louisville

By WILL GRIMBLEY
NEW YORK, Mar. 21 — (AP) — Four members of college basketball's elite top ten—Kentucky, St. John's, Illinois and North Carolina State—will square off at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night in the semi-finals of the NCAA eastern eliminations.

Kentucky, No. 1 nationally, will face a tired St. John's team, No. 2. Illinois, No. 5, will oppose North Carolina State, No. 8. Illinois and N. C. State are expected to play the first game, at 7:45 P. M. Those four powers would forward last night in opening skirmishes at Madison Square Garden here and at Raleigh, N. C.

Meanwhile, the western NCAA will start catching up with the east tonight, staging the first two quarter-final games at Kansas City.

Brigham Young, winner of the National Invitational Tournament last week, will take on little San Jose State while Kansas State will face Arizona, K-State and Arizona are expected to play the first game, at 7:45 P. M. Oklahoma's Aggies, favored to win the western title and play heavily-supported Kentucky for the title at Minneapolis Mar. 27, will open their bid tomorrow night against Montana State.

At Madison Square Garden, before 17,107, Illinois' Big Ten champions shattered Columbia's unbeaten record — the only one left — 70-71, while St. John's disposed of little Connecticut, 63-62.

Until they ran up against Illinois' Ted Beach and Don Sundeberg, Columbia's Ivy League Illinois had piled up 22 straight victories this year and 31 over a two-year span.

Columbia led 45 to 38 at the half. But Beach popped in seven out of eight light one-handed set shots in eight minutes just before the end of the half. Then Sundeberg went on a one-man scoring spree to catch Columbia, 57-51, with ten minutes to go and send Illinois out front to play.

St. John's, looking a bit weary from its recent invitation tournament grind, rolled up a 25-point lead early in the last half against little Connecticut and then almost let the game get away on a strong rally sparked by Vince Yokobanos and Bill Ebel. However, it ran out on the UConn's. A capacity crowd of 12,400 saw the two-games show at N. C. State's Coliseum in Raleigh and almost tore down the house when Bill Kukuy, subbing for All-American Sam Ransome, led the Wolfpack to its unexpected victory over Villanova, 37-32.

Kentucky had its famous hands full with its neighborhood rival, Louisville, for a half, leading only 44-40 at the intermission. But Shelby Linville, scoring 22 points altogether, pulled the team's offense up by the bootstraps and the Wildcats breezed home.

Clumsy Kluszewski Wins Regular Job On Determination

By JACK HAND
TAMPA, Mar. 21 — (AP) — A Memphis sports writer once acidly wrote of Ted Kluszewski: "He couldn't catch a bear in a telephone booth." It was as bad as that.

"I was the world's worst," admitted Cincinnati's muscular first baseman. Recently, big Ted was a "fresh" ball player until last season when he finally arrived as a big leaguer. In 1930 the extra base threat in his bulging biceps paid off for 25 homers and 111 runs batted in.

Now the Reds talk happily about the day when Kluszewski will wrestle for the batting title. At 28, they rate him one of the coming young stars in the National League.

What happened? Nothing sensational. No secret gimmick. No new stance. No new bat. Just good old fashioned hard work. They after lay Ted stopped and granted while grounded in the bourn-off his chest. Manager Luke Sewell hit some more. Always Kluszewski was on the other end. The improvement was gradual but it was there.

Straight from the Horse's Mouth

By ED HARPER
Incubus Jones came in the other day his weasened face split with a grin. Seema as if inkly sat stopped to watch a sandlot game and, after seeing the team at bat score a couple of runs, casually asked the first baseman, "What's the score?"

The boy said grimly, "It's 39 to 0 their favor," and turned back to the field.

Incubus says he was a little startled at the big score and asked the boy why they were being beaten so badly.

"What yuh mean gettin' beat?" the youngster demanded. "We ain't even had our turn at bat yet."

Stolidly scored 30 runs in the first junior baseball league game last Monday held under the sponsorship of the Lions' Club but the final total was Red Sox 19, Cubs 18 in a game which went into extra innings.

In the jaded devotee of such exotic plays as the pick off at second base on a signal from the catcher which must be caught simultaneously by pitcher and snoutup and executed with hair trigger timing, the Junior League won't be very interesting. But to a lover of the sport, rather than a student, there is more fun in watching a bunch of yelling eager kids slam away at the ball, make mistakes and enjoy themselves than in seeing Eddie Stanky and Alvin Dark combine for a slick professional double play on a hard hit ground ball through the middle.

Johnny Bowen, a diminutive and grim faced kid with an iron arm pitched for the Sox Monday. He will probably end up a 20 game winner if he can keep his earned run average below 2.0 (that's twenty not 20).

It was a heartbreaker for Edwin Madden who had the game sewed up going into the fifth when the determined Red Sox came back to take the contest into extra innings.

It was especially impressive with the interred catchers for both teams. None of this threatening to throw for them. If a runner looked as if he might be going to steal, he was especially dangerous to second base — or maybe into center field.

Little Larry Bernay, Cubs back stop, glared ferociously up at opposition batters throughout the game and batted his pitcher with an authority that would have done justice to Yogi Berra.

Umpire Jack Morrison, who called balls and strikes from behind the pitcher's box, kept the game in hand despite the high spirits of both sides.

Chas. English, who was Red Sox field general as well as catcher, was untrifling behind the plate and blocked off sliding runners with a truly professional stance.

Goose Kettles Is Named Manager Of Cocoa Indians

Former Rollins Star Won Coast League Penant Last Year

Carl "Goose" Kettles, Seminole High School football coach, was named manager of the Cocoa Indians in the Florida State League last night. Kettles managed the Cocoa entry in the now defunct Florida East Coast Semi-pro league during the 1930 season.

In 1949 the former Rollins football and baseball star piloted the Indians to the FEC pennant and playoff championships after taking over the club from Ed Levy, now manager of the Orlando Senators.

Kettles, who has coached football in Sanford for the past six seasons, formerly played for the Sanford Giants and St. Augustine in the Florida State League, making a name as one of the most volatile hurlers in the league.

Last season he played in the Georgia Semi-pro "Geechie League" following the failure of the FEC loop.

Ousted Shotton To Root For Brooklyn In Spite Of Exile

By FRANK ECK
AP Wirephoto Sports Writer
SANFORD, Fla., Mar. 21 — (AP) — Hurt Shotton is out of a baseball job for the first time in his life but his heart still belongs to Brooklyn.

The deposed manager of the Dodgers will be rooting for the team he led to National League pennants in 1947 and again in 1949.

"I'm through working," said the genial Shotton today as he sat on the porch with a newspaper. "If I had something offered, something that I liked, I could take it. But I don't anticipate doing a darn thing."

"I've had a great baseball life. I was thrown out, but I haven't with all the glory anyone could possibly have. I'm a long way from being a millionaire but I'm not hungry."

Asked why Branch Rickey hadn't taken him to Pittsburgh, "Rickey doesn't have the vast farm system he had in Brooklyn. I was listed as a scout in 1946 but Rickey and I never had any contact since then."

Relations between O'Malley and Shotton reached the breaking point last November when Shotton and Rickey went hunting for a new manager. Shotton, who had sold his 25 per cent Dodge stock for $1,025,000 to O'Malley and Mrs. John L. Smith when Rickey's five-year contract as Brooklyn's major domo expired. Branch has said he was forced to sell because he was in debt and because his services were no longer in demand in Brooklyn.

Shotton pointed out that there's quite a difference between the majors and minors.

"It's not so much in the boy's mind and in himself. A boy has got to have confidence. Without it you can't play in the big leagues."

Training Camp Notes

HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Mar. 21 — (AP) — Joe DiMaggio, chief drawing card of the New York Yankees, is having a tough time at the plate. The great Yankee centerfielder has collected only two hits in 18 trips to the plate for a .111 average. Both boys, however, were home runs.

MIAMI, Mar. 21 — (AP) — Tommy Brown, lading candidate for Brooklyn's regular left field berth, is finding the going rough in exhibition games. Brown has failed to collect a hit in his last 20 official times at bat.

ORLANDO, Mar. 21 — (AP) — Washington pitcher Carlos (Potatoes) Pascual, smitten with a love bug, got a free ticket to Havana today—one way.

PASADENA, Calif., Mar. 21 — (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, winner of eight exhibitions in nine starts, have Manager Paul Richards confused. Richards said he will be able to hit when the chips are down.

ST. PETERSBURG, Mar. 21 — (AP) — Manager Luke Sewell of the Cincinnati Reds has a couple of Grade A problems to wrinkle his brow. One is Joe Adcock. Joe's batting average is way below what a good outfielder's ought to be, and Luke is wondering whether the youngster still will be able to hit when the chips are down.

Another problem is that old flu bug, which still is lingering around the Tampa camp of the Red Sox. Lookie outfielder Bob Hagle was the latest to be stricken.

Baseball Owners May Give Players Voice in Choosing Commissioner

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Baseball's front office executives generally adopted a conciliatory attitude today towards the idea that the players, as well as the owners, be given a vote in naming a successor to A. B. Chandler as commissioner.

Will Harridge, president of the American League, assured the players their interests will be protected "regardless who is commissioner."

The major league clubs put the union fund and revised player contracts in operation and will continue to carry them out, added Harridge.

Freddie Hutchinson, Detroit pitcher and player-representative or the American League, vouches the player-vote-for-commissioner idea on Monday. He said that a petition will be presented to the owners at a meeting in Detroit in July.

If the owners reject the petition, the players may hire a commissioner of their own, Hutchinson said, perhaps the deposed handler himself at $10,000 a year.

Bob Carpenter, owner of the Philadelphia Phillies, expressed a minority opinion.

"It's a bad situation," he asserted. "If the players have no more confidence in the owners, they should get in another business, the players or the owners."

Joe Cronin, general manager of Boston Red Sox, said "Hutchinson and the players shouldn't have any fears about what may happen under a new rule commissioner. For our part, Tom Yawkey was a member of the committee that set up the pension fund. Regardless of who the commissioner is, the ball players should have no fears."

Chandler, in Chicago, declared it "wonderful to think the players still possess that confidence in me. They always have been my pals and this proves they are not going to forget me even if the club owners did."

Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington Senators, didn't think the idea "would pan out."

Bill Evans, general manager of Hutchinson's team, the Tigers, said, "It's the club owners who pay all of us our salaries and they will continue to operate their own business."

The major league All-Star game to be played July 10 at Briggs Stadium in Detroit was originally scheduled for Shibe Park with the Philadelphia Phillies as hosts.

"It's a bad situation," he asserted. "If the players have no more confidence in the owners, they should get in another business, the players or the owners."

"Third Man" Ruby Goldstein Wins Boxings' Respect

Honest Ruby Thought Wolcott Beat Joe Louis in 1st Bout

AP Newsfeatures NEW YORK.—The first time Joe Louis fought Jersey Joe Walcott two men gained in stature. One was Jersey Joe Walcott because he almost won the heavyweight championship. The other was Ruby Goldstein, the third man in the ring that night.

Goldstein. That's why boxing men admire the 31-year-old former boxer. It is why the New York Herald ritters rate him as the nation's No. 1 referee.

Goldstein is one of seven referees who have worked three or more heavyweight title bouts. Arthur Donovan worked 14. Goldstein did such a fine job in his first big bout that Eddie Egan, New York State Athletic Commission chairman, had him handle the Ezzard Charles-Gus Lesnevich title bout in 1949 and also the recent fiasco between Charles and Lee Oma.

"All right, step back," Ruby really is a gem in the ring. However, he is unlike the ring in a finer piece for when Goldstein is the third man in the ring he works so methodically that you hardly know he's there—except if you happen to be watching television.

"All right, step back," can be heard over the coastal radio when Goldstein works. It's his way of breaking a clinch and it proves very effective.

In all, Goldstein has had seven title bouts as a referee. His others were three featherweight battles and the first middleweight championship bout between Tony Zale and Rocky Graziano.

Goldstein came up the hard way. At 16 he was an amateur boxer in the East Side and from 1925 to 1931 he engaged in some 70 professional fights, meeting the best lightweight and welterweights.

Goldstein became known as the "Jew of the Glove." He compiled a string of some 20 straight victories, most of them knockouts. But he ran up against Ace Hudkins, a wildcat from the west, Hudkins stopped Ruby in four rounds. Ask Ruby what happened and all he says in the dry humor manner for which he is noted is: "You tell me."

Best Goodrich in Garden Goldstein beat Ulimy Goodrich in the Garden in 1927 before Goodrich won the lightweight title and in 1929 he and Jimmy McLarin drew $100,000 to the Garden. Ruby received more than $20,000 for this bout in which McLarin scored a two-round kayo. McLarin later became welterweight champion.

Field Acquitted

(Continued From Page One) answered all these 32 questions in the affirmative—in a certain way—it would have taken very little more evidence to put him in the penitentiary.

The judge said the privilege against possible self-incrimination, "has to be treated in a practical manner, the way the Supreme Court has always treated it."

The provision declares that no person shall be compelled in a criminal case to be a witness against himself.

The judge said Field, before his appearance as a witness, "was charged before Congress with being a Communist spy and these charges were widely publicized. It also was charged that he was a rich organizer of Communist activity."

Goldborough continued: "In that atmosphere he was called before a congressional subcommittee he knew he wasn't called before a congressional subcommittee to be asked some simple question or any one question. He knew he was called to be grilled."

And some of the questions asked Field, the judge went on, concerned publications the subcommittee regarded as subversive and "individuals the committee thought most guilty of subversive activities."

The question put to Field, Judge Goldborough said, was "perfectly legitimate and proper because it was the duty of the subcommittee to get such information as they could."

But, he added, he has no reason to suppose Field did not claim the protection of the Constitution in good faith.

Field was on trial before him, the judge emphasized, on a charge of contempt of Congress and was not being tried "for being a Communist or for being subversive."

The Commission is considering asking for a $1 County fishing license which would include fishing with a pole or rod and reel, but which would not apply to those under 16 or over 65. State licenses would still be required for those wanting to fish outside of some counties, he said.

All expense money for the Game Commission is derived from license money, said Mr. Lansing. He stressed the need of more funds for hyacinth eradication and lessening of predatory fish.

Jack Morrison reported that the Lion's Junior Baseball League got off to a good start yesterday with 58 boys reporting at the Lakefront Softball park. He asked that all team managers report regularly. Harry Robson presided.

Local Taxes

(Continued From Page One) per line. Attention was also called to the fact that the interest charged against delinquent intangible taxes and any other collection costs are added to the tax and become liens against any real property owned by the delinquent taxpayer and must be satisfied before such real property may be sold or transferred.

After being duly advertised, tax certificates will be sold on all delinquent 1950 taxes.

It was pointed out that the longer the delay in paying taxes after Apr. 1, the higher the penalty costs become. The interest on real property taxes begins at 1 1/2 per cent per month with a minimum charge of 3 per cent immediately after Apr. 1. On personal and intangible taxes the interest mounts at the rate of 1 per cent per month.

It was also pointed out that there are still further charges incurred by delinquent personal property taxes in the form of "collection costs. This fee amounts to $1.00 on items up to $500, $1.50 on items from $500 to $1,000 and $2.00 on any item over $1,000.

It is to the financial advantage of the taxpayer to make his payments promptly and avoid interest, advertising and collection charges, Mr. Galloway declared.

"More than 77 per cent of the 1950 taxes were paid before Mar. 1 or during the months when discounts of from 4 to 1 per cent were allowed," he said. "No doubt all of our taxpayers, when aware of the Apr. 1 tax deadline, will make their payments without further delay."

He admitted that your statements are untrue, unfounded and unworthy of the chief executive of this state.

There was no response from Tallahassee to Younger's demand. Newsroom were unable to find Warren. Executive assistant Charlie Clark said he didn't know the Governor's whereabouts at the mansion said he was supposed to be gone for "the weekend."

The Crime Commission sent a telegram to Warren this morning, again urging him to appear before the Kefauver crime investigation committee to clear up charges of gambling influence in Florida politics.

It was Younger's first suggestion to that effect two days ago that prompted Warren's outburst against Younger.

"Have telegram from Senator Estes Kefauver stating that he will undertake to arrange a suitable date in event you wish to testify before Kefauver Senate committee," Younger's telegram today read.

"This is your opportunity in the event that you are interested in substantiating your denial of financial campaign assistance from gamblers, your denial of Capone gang influence in Florida state dog racing, your refutation of any other finding of the Kefauver committee, and to place on the record your evidence of the conspiracy you allege between officials of the crime committee of Greater Miami and unnamed notorious gamblers.

"By your sworn testimony, you can let the citizens of this state know the facts, and we sincerely hope you have the courage that should be commensurate with the high office you hold, and that you will advise Senator Kefauver of a date suitable for your appearance."

RFC Investigation

They hope first to defeat the reorganization plan and then go on to scuttle the agency.

Maybank said he is willing to vote for the proposal to substitute a one man boss for the five man RFC board but only with the understanding that this would be accepting "the lesser of two evils."

"Anything would be better than we got," he said.

He added that the reorganization plan could serve possibly a useful purpose as a stop-gap measure until Congress can pass "powerful legislation" to supplement or replace it.

He said that Senate banking subcommittee headed by Senator Fulbright (D-Ark.) which is investigating RFC has been handicapped by so much conflicting testimony that it will take a grand jury to find where the truth lies.

"I can't find the truth," Maybank said. "I hope the grand jury does."

Even RFC directors have challenged each other's testimony, he observed.

Maybank said it is "absolutely necessary to clean up" the RFC and that the President's plan would at least be a step in that direction.

Maybank said mail received by him and other senators indicates "a majority of the American people" believe the RFC should be abolished entirely but that the task is more complicated than they realize.

Someone, he said, has to handle the long task of collecting outstanding loans and handling a $700,000,000 defense lending fund in its custody, if nothing else.

Senator Hendrickson (R-N.J.), in a statement prepared for the committee said the Fulbright investigation "has brought to light one of the most sordid chapters in the political history of our nation."

He called the President's proposal to be rejected and Congress abolish RFC entirely.

"The name RFC has produced in the nostrils of millions of our citizens a stench which can be described by courageous action on the part of Congress," Hendrickson said.

Senator Mundt (R-S.D.), a member of the Expenditures Committee and an advocate of abolishing the RFC, called the RFC "inbred banking in a time of prosperous peace."

Mundt, Hendrickson and another Republican, Senator Nixon of California, backed McClellan's suggestion that the President should temporarily withdraw his reorganization plan.

But Senator Smathers (D-Fla.), appearing as a witness, strongly urged approval of the plan as a first step toward bringing about fundamental changes in the agency.

Smathers credited the RFC (much like diving bells which have been used for more than a century) the bell is hauled down from the escape hatch on the submarine's deck where a watertight link is made. The bell can bring up an average of six passengers and two operators on each trip.

Submarines also are equipped with the "Momsen Lung," the breathing device which when held between the teeth enables a man to ascend slowly easing himself to the surface along a knotted line. If he surges up fast from deep depth, the "diver's bends" might kill him by creating nitrogen bubbles in the blood stream.

Equal to all the mechanical gadgets and "gadgets" of the submarine's safety factor is the training of its men and officers. Above every thing else, the security of the boat is of paramount importance. They have a deep and abiding personal interest in their own lives which depend on it. Because the submarine is a maze of intricate machinery, its personnel are especially fitted for guarding against mechanical or personnel failures.

Submarine

Then there is failure of valves and hatches (the submariners say induction) which leave the hull open to the sea. Coupled with that is the failure of the automatic signals which are supposed to show whether the openings are closed.

Personnel error. It happens in submarines all the time anywhere else—in automobiles, in airplanes, on railroads. But the danger of personnel error is greater on a submarine because of the tremendous complexity of operation of the boat.

Failure of controls? A jammed diving plane (which works like the elevators on an airplane) can send a submarine down fast. Fortunately, the submarine crew, trained to lightning-quick action, has a far better than even chance of getting out of this situation.

If they don't, the submarine could go on down until she (a) hit the bottom with a crash in shallow water or (b) went beyond the depth pressure which she could stand. The popular belief in this latter instance is that hull would crush from the hundreds and thousands of tons pressure. But, say submariners, that wouldn't be what would happen. The fittings in her hull—the places where valves and hatches are located—would blow out first and the hull flood.

The submarine is hard to see (as she should be because of her mission as a combatant vessel). But that means that under peacetime operation she is in greater danger of being run down by some careless merchantman hurrying in or out of port.

What safety asset does the submarine have? Except for impact from the sharp blow of a collision, the submarine has the strongest hull of any vessel. The inner hull of the boat is a tapered cylinder.

That can stand almost unbelievable pressure. It can dive to hundreds of feet; the exact depth may not be stated. Her powerful hull means also she can stand a lot of depth charging.

A submarine is, as ship designers say, "means compartment." That means that at intervals—the flooded compartment, this compartmentation also means that fire can be confined to one area of the boat.

The indicator board—the "Christmas Tree," so called because of its multitude of red and green lights—is a major safety factor, telling at a glance the condition of every opening in the boat's hull. Moreover, every important control on the boat is in multiple. If the normal control fails, there is an emergency power control. If that fails because of power loss (for instance, the flooding of a generator or failure of an air pump or tank) there are hand-operated controls.

In recent years, American submarines have been equipped with two escape features of prime importance. On the fore and after ends of the Grampus, as on other U. S. Navy submarines, are low floats, the "messenger buoys." Engraved on plates of each buoy are the words "submarine sunk here. U. S. S. Grampus, 523." The float is attached to the submarine by a cable which can be unreeled from within the submarine.

The purpose is this: The rescue ship upon locating the marker buoy attaches to it a diving bell

Korean War

On the east-central front, American artillery and planes decimated a square enemy concentration forming for an attack north-west of Pangam. About half the 200 Reds were killed.

A British general told Eighth Army correspondents the Reds would not regain the initiative in Korea. Lt. General Richard Nelson Gale, director general of training in the British army, said the U. N. forces are slowly and methodically pursuing their own course.

He did not say whether the Allies planned to cross the politically significant border, but said British troops in the Eighth Army would carry out any orders given them.

The Eighth Army described the Americans south of Chunchon as "holding elements"—a task force strong enough to withstand a counterattack. They were over the crest of mountain ridges ringing the Chunchon valley on the south.

Chunchon was a more important objective than Seoul in the Eighth Army offensive launched one month ago. At that time the Reds were just outside Wonju and Cheochon, some 40 miles to the south.

The Allies recaptured Seoul Mar. 14.

The Chinese and Red Koreans appear to be north of the border on the eastern front and withdrawing behind it on the central front.

But on the western front, a fresh Chinese army corps, the 26th, has moved into position about 30 miles northeast of the battered old South Korean capital. It was screening the withdrawal of other Red troops.

This shift of forces, Allied officers said, may be the start of a maneuver by which the retrained Chinese Third Field Army may replace the Chinese Fourth Field Army all across the front.

The Third has been resting in North Korea since last December. It had fought against Allied forces in the Lungman area of northeast Korea.

Field reports said an American unit Wednesday met stiff resistance on the western front. Air strikes were called down on three Red troop concentrations.

AP correspondent Jim Becker said the Reds have manned defense positions in both sides of highway which runs northward from Seoul through Uijongbu. Chinese are on the east, North Koreans on the west.

Uijongbu is 12 miles north of Seoul.

General MacArthur's ban on any mention of the 38th Parallel was lifted Wednesday. Such bans usually cloak an impending military operation. No new operations have been reported, however.

Some 38 on the west central front. American forces are within 13 miles of 38 on the west central front.

Fifth Air Force fighters Wednesday littered the northwestern corner of North Korea with wrecked and burned transport.

Seven locomotives, 100 railroad cars and a number of vehicles were hit in strikes reported before noon.

On the propaganda front, Red Korean Premier Kim Il Sung assured Russia's Stalin that his people intend to fight the war to the bitter end.

The Communist New China News Agency said Kim sent this with providing needed financial aid to small business and said that disclosures about its operations, "shocking as some of them may be," should not be the determining factor in whether to continue the agency.

Halley asked whether Costello had in excess of $10,000 in cash "anywhere else" than in his strongbox at home or in his bank accounts.

Costello: I would say, yes. Of course, I have a trading company.

On the east-central front, American artillery and planes decimated a square enemy concentration forming for an attack north-west of Pangam. About half the 200 Reds were killed.

A British general told Eighth Army correspondents the Reds would not regain the initiative in Korea. Lt. General Richard Nelson Gale, director general of training in the British army, said the U. N. forces are slowly and methodically pursuing their own course.

He did not say whether the Allies planned to cross the politically significant border, but said British troops in the Eighth Army would carry out any orders given them.

The Eighth Army described the Americans south of Chunchon as "holding elements"—a task force strong enough to withstand a counterattack. They were over the crest of mountain ridges ringing the Chunchon valley on the south.

Chunchon was a more important objective than Seoul in the Eighth Army offensive launched one month ago. At that time the Reds were just outside Wonju and Cheochon, some 40 miles to the south.

The Allies recaptured Seoul Mar. 14.

The Chinese and Red Koreans appear to be north of the border on the eastern front and withdrawing behind it on the central front.

But on the western front, a fresh Chinese army corps, the 26th, has moved into position about 30 miles northeast of the battered old South Korean capital. It was screening the withdrawal of other Red troops.

This shift of forces, Allied officers said, may be the start of a maneuver by which the retrained Chinese Third Field Army may replace the Chinese Fourth Field Army all across the front.

To Promote the Progress of America;

Allied Tank Patrol Blasts Out Of Red Ambush Near 38th

60 Thousand Chinese Dig In On Western Front In Attempt To Halt Allied Attack

TOKYO, Mar. 22—(AP)—An American tank-infantry patrol with mine-hunting engineers today shot its way out of a Communist ambush less than three miles from the Red Korean border.

The tanks were moving up one side of the Pukhan River north of Chunchon and the infantry were plodding along the opposite bank when the Reds opened fire.

From high ground they poured machinegun, rifle and mortar fire on all sides of the patrol.

"They let us walk into the trap and then they sprung it," said Cpl. Charley Hamilton, Virginia City, Va. "Our tanks opened up on the hillside with everything they had, but it didn't stop the Chinese. Enemy fire was all around us everywhere we turned. We finally scrambled across to the tanks and they kept the Chinese down on one side while we moved out."

The tanks pulled back to Chunchon, carrying the wounded.

Along this central Korean sector, the bulk of the Communist troops appeared to have slipped north of Parallel 38.

But in the west, the Reds appeared to be digging in for a desperate stand in South Korea.

Field dispatches said some 60,000 Communist troops manned western defense positions in depth for 15 miles south of the border. These included two divisions of the Chinese Third Field Army, the 15th and 16th, and the Hunanese action in December.

An Allied tank patrol ran into a hot fight Wednesday on the approaches to Uijongbu, north of Seoul.

The thrust north of Chunchon was the closest announced Allied approach in force to the Red Korean border during the current drive.

Patrols may have crossed the boundary.

A delayed dispatch from AP correspondent William C. Barnhart said the army's advance toward north late Wednesday from Red-barricaded Chunchon. It pulled back to bivouac positions for the night.

Chunchon is eight miles south of Parallel 38.

Allied tanks and infantrymen occupied Chunchon Wednesday afternoon without a fight.

Playwright Shaw Leaves Fortune Of More Than Million

LONDON, Mar. 22—(AP)—Playwright George Bernard Shaw, a pioneer British Socialist who hated taxes, left an estate valued at $1,028,254.22 but reckoned after debts and taxes at $210,000, his will and an accounting disclosed today.

The 11-page document directed that part of the money be used for promoting a 10-letter alphabet which was one of the Irish wit's pet projects.

Shaw died last November in his little cottage at Ayot St. Lawrence at the age of 94.

Alger Hiss Scheduled To Go To Jail Today

NEW YORK, Mar. 22—(AP)—Alger Hiss—branded a traitor and a liar—goes to prison today.

The former high-ranking State Department official was scheduled to surrender to federal authorities here to begin serving a five-year prison term for perjury.

Judge Henry W. Goddard, who sentenced Hiss, will turn him over to the U. S. Marshal.

Then the Department of Justice will designate the institution to which Hiss will be sent. Hiss, who is 46, will remain at the Federal House of Detention here for about a week.

Hiss has 60 days to move for modification of his sentence. But his counsel, Chester T. Lane, said last night that such a move was unlikely. It would not delay his imprisonment in any event.

An aid of U. S. attorney Irving H. Saypol, who is representing Hiss, said he would be reduced by one-third for good behavior.

Hiss, an advisor to President Roosevelt, recently lost an appeal in the U. S. Supreme Court. He has been free in $10,000 bail while fighting his case up through the courts.

He was convicted Jan. 31, 1950, on two counts of perjury. But his counsel, before T. Lane, said he was investigating espionage.

Atomic Scientist Union Proposals Says Russia May Have 50 A-Bombs

ROME, Mar. 22—(AP)—Dr. Harold C. Urey, one of America's leading atomic scientists, said today he thinks 50 might be a good guess as to the number of atom bombs Russia possesses.

The Nobel prize-winning scientist told a news conference here that Russia has that many bombs, that newspapers have speculated and added: "I suppose 50 might be a good guess."

Dr. Urey, who is en route to Israel to deliver a series of lectures in Haifa, told newsmen he developed whether the Russians have developed any peaceful uses for atomic energy. He said he placed no faith in a statement once made by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinskiy to the effect that Russia was "moving mountains with atomic energy."

"I am sure that the Russians have the atom bomb," Dr. Urey said, "and I am sure they have exploded them." When questioned regarding his use of the pronoun "them," the scientist said he felt certain that "several" atom bombs had been exploded in the Soviet Union.

Asked what stage the development of a hydrogen bomb had reached, Dr. Urey said: "They are working on it. I don't know what stage it is in. But I hope it won't work."

He added that all the while the atom bomb was being developed he had "hoped it would not be developed in principle."

"I don't think the atom bomb is a good thing for us to have," the scientist said, "for I think it can only bring destruction." He admitted that he "is very much afraid" of the weapon he helped develop.

However, he said there is no question in his mind that if a full-scale war should break out, the atom bomb should be used immediately—and on the most effective target possible. But I do hope we will not misinterpret border incidents.

"I feel certain that we will not."

Asked how much stronger America's present-day atomic bombs are as compared with those dropped on Japan, Dr. Urey said: "One of our bombs—and they seem to lack the most information—has said bombs all times" (Continued On Page Four)

Four-Year-Old Boy Saves Sister's Life

PHOENIX, Ariz., Mar. 22—(AP)—A four-year-old boy carried his baby sister from the burning home last night shortly before it and six other houses were consumed by flames.

The youngster, Charles Hanley, said: "I fetched my sister outside to save her from burning up."

The fire started in the Hanley home and spread quickly to other homes, destroying six homes and burning up the Hanley home. The children's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hanley, were away.

"I got cold and I tried to light a fire in the stove," Charles told firemen. "The big fire started when I dropped a match into a pile of papers near the stove."

The boy's sister, Deborah, is about nine months of age.

DEPUTIES FRED
MIAMI, Mar. 22—(AP)—Five former Dade county deputy sheriffs charged with taking pay from gamblers were freed today after a state prosecutor called his own witness a liar and resigned from the case.

Criminal court Judge Ben Willard directed the jury to acquit the defendants after assistant county solicitor Herbert Aspiero told the court the witness, George Patton, was not telling the truth.

HEATED DEBATE
PARIS, Mar. 22—(AP)—Strained tempers after an all-night session in the National Assembly led today to a dispute in which a deputy knocked one of his colleagues unconscious.

Both of the deputies are from Algeria. The two men were having a heated discussion about a rejected amendment to the controversial election law when Mohamed Benabdel struck Francis Quillet.

Quillet, flung on the bench, was revived after several minutes.

President Truman Flies Home After 3 Weeks Vacation

Absenteeism Blamed For Slowing Down Cutting Of Budget

KEY WEST, Mar. 22—(AP)—President Truman left for Washington today aboard the "Independence" after a three-week Florida vacation.

The White House plane took off from the Boca Chica Naval Air Station at 2:03 P. M.

Col. Francis Williams, the presidential pilot, said the trip likely would require about four hours because of unfavorable winds.

The President swam for 20 minutes this morning and then packed his trunk and suitcase. The weather was cool and clear.

Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said that Mr. Truman would not hold his usual Friday cabinet meeting tomorrow.

On arrival in Washington, Mr. Truman planned to drive immediately to the Blair House to spend the Easter weekend with Mrs. Truman and his daughter, Margaret.

The departure marked the end of a vacation far removed from the troubles besetting Mr. Truman's Administration in Congress.

Meanwhile holiday absenteeism was blamed for slowing down a mission drive to cut President Truman's $71,600,000,000 budget for the fiscal year 1952.

Rep. Taber of New York, Republican sponsor of the cutting mission, was disappointed but not discouraged by the initial results—a cut of 1.3 per cent in the first departmental appropriation bill passed this year by the House.

"We would have done much better if the members had stayed here a little longer instead of leaving early for the Easter recess," Taber told newsmen. "Perhaps it was just as well, because (Continued On Page Four)

Robberies Attempted In Office Building

A number of offices were entered in the Sanford Atlantic National Bank building Saturday morning, but nothing of value was reported missing, police disclosed today.

The rooms were entered by jumping over the fence. Police officers also tried to enter the Raymond Studio and the Family Loan Co. offices in the Florida State Bank Building.

Orlando police yesterday reported similar entry into offices of doctors and dentists in the American Building and Florida Building on Sunday night. Only a small amount of cash was missing.

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 22—(AP)—James Dunn was enthralled by the televised proceedings of the Senate Crime Investigators in New York. So much so he didn't even notice that he was in a fire.

The blaze had spread from a shed to the second floor and all across the roof before Dunn realized what was happening. It took firefighters an hour to get the flames under control and the furnishings were heavily damaged.

ZOO GROWING
Eight new animals, including six monkeys, arrived at the Sanford Zoo this week, and all are reported to be getting along fine, according to H. J. Davis, manager of the zoo.

The monkeys, all of which have been placed in cages include two cinnamon ring tail types, three white faced capuchins and a full grown orange monkey which is very tame and which likes to wear itself inside of Mr. Davis's jacket.

The other new arrival at the zoo are a male coyote and a kinkajou, a South American mammal.

THE OF TOYS
PARIS, Mar. 22—(AP)—Erling Coker, Jr., national commander of the American Legion, today started distribution of toys collected in the United States in the "rule of toys."

After Coker made individual presentations to a few bright-eyed youngsters, the announcement was made that the other children should come forward and pick out their own packages. About 200 underprivileged youngsters gathered for the occasion surged forward and left behind but a few stray ribbons and bits of papers.

This morning's distribution was symbolic. About 250,000 toys are being sent to France for delivery to orphanages and other institutions.

CONTRACT LET
Two contracts were recently awarded by the Sanford Housing Authority to the James Stevens Co., Albany, Ga., for equipment for the Castle Brewer project.

Jaycees Nominate Stenstrom As King In Kiwanis Contest

The Jaycees today nominated Mrs. M. D. Gattelus and Judge Douglas Stenstrom to be candidates in the Kiwanis Club king and queen contest. One vote costs a penny, President W. H. Stenstrom said, and boxes will be provided at strategic spots in town by the Jaycees.

A film showing the Golf for Youth program sponsored by the Jaycees, and the Kiwanis Club, was shown by R. P. Gattelus.

Mr. Gattelus pointed out that the Jaycees were the logical choice among civic clubs to take in hand the entire afternoon and lecture the youth of community.

He emphasized the importance of the fishing rodeo and urged the Jaycees to get behind the project and make it a success.

One of the golf films was a model of Jaycees sports promotion for youth, he said, the local club could build the fishing rodeo into a tradition of similar importance.

All members of this club were invited to attend the fourth district meeting being held in Haines City on Apr. 8. Mr. Stenstrom read a letter from the host club which stated that the meeting would take on the entire afternoon and lecture the various projects to be taken up.

Tom Crawford urged members to get behind the Jaycees dance being held at the Army on Mar. 31. He pointed out that the Horace Mann high school and floor show were top ticket selling points.

The departure marked the end of a vacation far removed from the troubles besetting Mr. Truman's Administration in Congress.

MIAMI, Mar. 22—(AP)—A Navy Corsair fighter plane crash landed in Hallandale, just north of Miami, after its engine failed today, but the pilot escaped with minor injuries.

Hospital Group Plans Move Back To Old Location

Present Equipment Is Offered For Future Sanford Hospital

Decisions to move the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital from its present location at the Naval Air Station back to its former location at Fifth Street and Oak Avenue by the time the Navy occupies the Station as of May 1, and to make present hospital equipment available for a future hospital here, were made yesterday by the Board of Directors of the Hospital Association at a meeting at the Court House.

E. L. Tucker, who presided, appointed Mrs. Endor Cullett chairman in charge of the moving operations, and pointed out that she had done an efficient job when the hospital moved in 1947 to the Air Station dispensary building.

Mr. Cullett approved the action to move, pointing out that there is no other place to go than the old hospital building. She stated that Lea R. Lesher and H. B. Pope in anticipation of the move, had taken steps to "recondition the old hospital so that it can be reactivated."

She also stated that since the Navy will start to reactivate the station by Apr. 1, the moving to the old hospital site should be carried out as soon as possible.

Mr. Pope reported that electrical and plumbing work in the building had been slowed up pending receipt of materials which have been ordered.

Mr. Lesher said that carpenter work had been started a week ago Tuesday by Fred Dyson, and that painting will be started soon.

The report of the County Health Unit, the building has been vacated, he stated.

Dr. Frank Quillman of the Health Unit replied that it will be secured, and added that the unit will probably remain at its present location until Apr. 15.

Mr. Tucker reported on the meeting which he attended in De Land in which he and the trustees of the Bert Fish estate told members of the Hospital Emergency Committee of Seminole County that they had determined that they were not in a position to help immediately in the construction of a new hospital here, proposed that this county build one, and offered to cooperate by financing the construction of a wing to the hospital.

Mr. Tucker added that the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital Association is trying to assist in the construction of a new hospital, and "in a very unique way" had made an offer whereby the name Fernald-Laughton will be remembered.

He called upon H. H. Coleman to read a resolution to this effect. Mr. Tucker also pointed out that local attorneys are working on plans to secure a legislative enabling act which will permit Seminole County to issue bonds to help build a new hospital.

The resolution read by Mr. Coleman pointed out that the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital Association is a non-profit corporation, organized under State law.

Carroll Admits Being Financier And Advisor For Huge Race Gambling Syndicate

NEW YORK, Mar. 22—(AP)—William O'Dwyer said today he does not plan to resign as Ambassador to Mexico as a result of testimony and political gift-giving that forced city water commissioner James Carroll to quit. The alleged "good will" gifts, were reported to Senate crime investigators yesterday by John P. Crane, president of the Uniformed Firemen's Association. He said he gave Moran $55,000 and O'Dwyer $10,000.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22—(AP)—James J. Carroll told Senate crime investigators today a $20,000,000 a year gambling operation in East St. Louis, Ill., produced around $750,000 gross profit in 1949.

Carroll, for many years a St. Louis odds maker with a national reputation, said the East St. Louis operation was carried on by John Mooney and Michael Grady.

He acknowledged he had been associated with Mooney and Grady and said he got $110,000 in one year for "advice" and "financing." Carroll did not say what year that was. His lawyer had declared earlier that Carroll is now retired from the betting business.

Under questioning, Carroll denied he had ever received police protection or had discussed protection with police officials.

Carroll's session with the crime investigators brought two points where questions were raised as to whether there was conflicting testimony.

One was about his relations with bookmaker Frank F. Mason of New York. He denied he did business with Erickson and that they were members of a national "wire" betting syndicate.

He also said he does not know New York racketeer Frank Costello or west coast gambler Mickey Cohen.

Carroll's lawyer, however, had taken steps to "recondition the old hospital so that it can be reactivated."

She also stated that since the Navy will start to reactivate the station by Apr. 1, the moving to the old hospital site should be carried out as soon as possible.

Mr. Pope reported that electrical and plumbing work in the building had been slowed up pending receipt of materials which have been ordered.
