Who has the floor?

Longwood commissioners at odds over Robert's Rules of Order

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — It's homework week for Longwood city officials.

While city administrator John Drago and staff research the question of health insurance coverage for members of the city commission, city attorney Richard Taylor, who also acts as the board's parliamentarian, is assigned the task of finding out exactly which version of Robert's Rules of Order the board is supposed to be operating under.

While delivering his district report during this week's commission meeting, Miles asked for clarification on which version or edition the city is supposed to be using. His questions date back to motions and votes taken by the commission to a July 19 meeting in which the board voted to approve 13 charter amendments for the fall ballot, only to move in an entirely different direction two weeks later. The end result was a petition drive to force charter amendments onto the fall ballot.

Miles asked for a clarification of the issue and challenged mayor Paul Lovstrand's ability to make motions and debate issues without passing the gavel and relinquishing his role as board chair.

"Under Robert's Rules that we adopted the chair must pass the gavel," Miles said. "Standard operating procedure dictates that the chairman is precluded from taking part in debate and making motions because he/she is supposed to remain impartial."

Commissioner Steve Miller contended that Miles position was unfounded.

"We passed a resolution to amend our policies and proce-

Bluegrass, Gospel tunes play in Longwood

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Fans of Blue Grass and Gospel music are invited to the city of Longwood this weekend for the monthly gathering of local musicians in what amounts to a contemporary jam session.

Scheduled for Saturday night from 6 to 10 p.m., a number of bands and individuals are expected to join in for the monthly music fest that features free entertainment in a casual atmosphere.

The event will take place on Wilma Street and West Warren Avenue.

Blue Grass Pickin was started last October and runs each third Saturday of the month in the city's Historic District.

"It's a lot of fun and we try not to let it get too structured," said unofficial organizer Judy Putz. "The city has taken over the sponsorship and we seem to get new and different people every month. They feel it's great that the city puts the event on."

Putz said the musical get-together is casual. People usually bring lawn chairs and their own snacks or they may purchase hot dogs and soft drinks. No alcoholic beverages are permitted at the event.

Local bands that usually show and play include the New Cross Creek Travelers, Pure Country, and Pine Creek Blue Grass.

Putz said individual musicians are more than welcomed and often show up with their instruments and find themselves involved.

"All it takes is for somebody to yell out a request from the audience, and if any of the groups know the song, they'll be glad to play it," said Putz.

The monthly Blue Grass Pickin concert usually attracts 100-200 people per weekend.

The event is free and open to the public.

Pan Am eyes mid-fall start date

Airline officials dispute Puerto Rican Chamber's claim that service will begin Sept. 2

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Despite an announcement by a Puerto Rican official, airline service from Sanford to that U.S. territory is not scheduled until at least early fall.

Michael Rodriguez, director of the Puerto Rican Chamber of Commerce, said Thursday during a Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce breakfast that Pan American Airlines would begin service between Sanford and Puerto Rico by Sept. 2.

However, Pan Am officials say that service won't be available until late September or early October.

The first set of flights will connect the airport with Chicago, Ill. and Portsmouth, N.H. A second set of flights, to be established at a later date, will likely connect Sanford with Atlanta, Portsmouth, and San Juan, P.R., said John Nadolny, senior vice president of Pan Am.

Main Street wants to lure more retail to downtown Sanford

Kuhn sees zoning, land use plan as important to future

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — More than 150 classic cars are expected to cruise along First Street on Saturday in downtown Sanford.

Businesses will remain open during the monthly street festival, sponsored by Sanford Main Street, that will last from 5:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. Hot dogs, drinks, and popcorn will also be sold, and a live dee-jay will provide entertainment. An estimated 1,000 to 1,200 people attended the street festival in October.

"We want Sanford to have a night life," said Linda Kuhn, executive director of Sanford Main Street. "The streets have been crowded during the Cruise Nights. Last month was our largest turnout this summer. It's been fun."

Sanford finds itself at a turning point, with downtown merchants waiting for revitalization to bring in new prosperity. Kuhn is hoping that land-use rezonings under consideration by the City Commission, will foster downtown growth. The rezonings are part of the commission's plan to revise the Comprehensive Land Use Plan.

"Zoning is done primarily to protect the value of individual properties," Kuhn said.

No decision was made concerning rezonings at the Aug. 9 City Commission session, amid debate over how rezoning in the

Brandi was dandy - but just wait

In the old days girls had their own game of basketball - six players at a time, three on offense, three on defense. What you had was a couple of half-court games at once. No one knew what was happening but the girls. And no one much cared.

Some of this has changed. Girls and women are playing basketball - and some people are noticing. Personally, I don't care much for girls or women's basketball. Haven't been to a game. Don't want to watch them play on TV. Couldn't tell you one player from another.

If women's basketball is all that great, why isn't Geena Davis playing? She's taken up archery, you know. She wants to make the U.S. Olympic team. I like that. I'd much rather watch Geena Davis shoot arrows than see her shoot free throws. Bless her.

Ms. Davis stole my heart as a women's baseball player in A League of Their Own. She was a catcher. If I'm not mistaken, Madonna was the shortstop. Tom Hanks managed the team. As they say, diamonds - not basketball courts - are a girl's best friend.

Makes you wonder what the next century holds for women in sports. Only in the last decade or so have we had a number of successful women basketball players - enough to form a professional league of their own.

Arguably, the 20 Century's top athlete among women is Babe Zaharias. The Babe excelled in all sports. She was better than most men. Althea Gibson was a marvelous tennis player and golfer. Wilma Rudolph was a graceful runner, Peggy Fleming an exquisite skater and Billie Jean King a gung-ho champion of tennis.

Unlike the great male sports figures of the 20th Century, the notable women played as individuals rather than on teams. Women didn't have that much chance to be Babe Ruth or Red Grange, Wayne Gretzky or Michael Jordan. This has begun to change. Brandi Chastain showed us what a girl can do - and a boy couldn't - on a soccer field.

Here are some predictions for the 21st Century in women's team sports and the individuals whose fame will be known throughout the universe by the Year 3000:

- Wilkida Chamby Berland of the Chuluota Chicklets will average 60 points a game and get 116 points in a professional women's game in Hershey, Pa. She'll make 60 percent of her free throws. She'll lead Chuluota to five world titles. She'll leave sport to become a cloistered nun.

- Sarry Banders of the Detroit Lionesses will rush for 5,777 yards in one season and for 111,111 in her 25-year career. She'll sign for a 26th season but take a shuttle to the moon and keep the bonus money. The Lionesses won't win a title with Banders.

- Jane Mettsky, an orphan born in a soup kitchen in Florida, will become the universe's greatest professional hockey star. She'll be the only player to be a goalie and right wing. As a goalie (who refuses to wear a mask), she'll record 401 shutouts. She'll also score 800 goals. She'll give all her money to the poor.

- Markarita McGwire, a grand niece of 20th Century home run champion Mark McGwire, will become the first woman to hit more than 500 home runs in a mixed doubles, triples and homers pro baseball league. Singles will be counted as outs. Markarita will marry one of Sammy Sosa's grand nephews. They'll build Seminole County a conference center in Taintsville.

By the way, Geena Davis will win so many gold medals in archery that someone will write an overture for her. If the Lone Ranger rides again, it'll be his theme song.

Russ White's column appears Tuesday through Saturday in the Seminole Herald.

Longwood company has steady growth

Consolidated Label, Inc., the Longwood, Fla.-based product label manufacturer that grew from $225,000 in annual sales back in 1984 to a projected $10 million in sales this year, plans to expand its Flexigraphic technology and add new presses and personnel to capture a top spot among regional label manufacturers in the U.S.

Consolidated President Joel Carmany said production has increased by 10 percent or better for the past several years and he has pursued a conservative growth strategy, reinvesting in new equipment and technology as revenue increased.

Currently, Consolidated owns eight Flexigraphic and has hot stamping presses and hopes to add a new eight color, 10-inch Roto press next year. Carmany said he is also considering a new Olec Oval Flexigraphic exposure system used in the plant making process. This will bring cycle time down from three hours to one hour and provide higher resolution screens on four-color process printing.

With new equipment, Carmany said he plans to add at least 10 new employees. Consolidated started the year with 55 employees and Carmany said he should finish 1999 with at least 65.

"Our principal aim is to cut turnaround time, increase capacity and maintain our exceptional quality standards," Carmany said.

Recently, Carmany re-engineered his product inventory system, adding new computers that maintain close running inventories of customers' label stocks and alert customer service workers whenever supplies start to run low.

"We have built this business on a reputation for personal service," Carmany said. "Now that we are a large regional supplier, close personal service is more important than ever before," he said. An experienced five-man sales force mixes product packaging expertise with an understanding of the customers' needs for partnering with customers' manufacturing, packaging, and distribution divisions.

"We know their product schedules, their buying schedules, their manufacturing capacity and their retail environments, so we can do our part in making the process work smoothly and efficiently," he added.

Consolidated focuses on businesses that use anywhere from $10,000 to $1 million in label purchases a year, Carmany explained. There is significant room for growth within the regional niche.

"Our goal is to increase the number of companies we can service with the primary focus on middle market accounts," Carmany said.

Nationwide, the labeling industry has been growing at an annual rate of seven to eight percent of the strength of new consumer products or new versions of established products. Carmany said he expects to maintain his 10 percent growth rate going forward.

dures so the mayor can make motions and participate," Miller said. "This is not Congress, we are a small governing board. Let's not forget the mayor is also a district commission just like us. He was elected to represent the people and have a voice on this dais."

Miller added, "If necessary we need to pass another resolution with provisions from Robert's Rules so that the mayor or any commission member can make motions and debate."

Miles countered that the chair's responsibility to conduct commission meetings supersedes his individual responsibility only because of the need for impartiality.

"He needs to surrender that gavel," Miles said. "There's a great deal of difference between Robert's Rules and Parliamentary Procedure. We are chopping up bits and pieces to suit our own purposes. We are walking on very treacherous grounds."

Lovestrand said there are several books written on the topic and several sections of those books have been adopted for some types of meetings.

"Some of those rules are for large national conventions where the chair serves in a largely ceremonial capacity," said Lovestrand. "In smaller quasi-judicial bodies like the commission, the law says I have the right to make motions and debate."

Commission Dan Anderson said commission rules are designed to provide for orderly meetings and to get the work of the city done.

"Everyone should have a chance to speak," Anderson said. "I do not recall anytime anyone has been denied and equal and fair chance to speak. We are arguing over details when the problem has yet to rear its head."

Miles contends the board deviated from the norm two weeks ago when it flip-flopped its agenda and addressed charter issues early in the evening prior to his arrival and the arrival of commissioner Annamarie Vacca.

"I listened to the tapes of that meeting," Miles said. "Not one single motion dealing with those charter issues came from anyone but the chair. I wonder why? That's too ironic for me to accept as a coincidence."

Miller told Miles his absence was his own fault.

"Everybody knew what time to be here," Miller said. "It's your fault for not being here on time. The commission has a perfect right to make changes in the agenda."

Miles stated it was not his intention to get tied up in I-4 traffic on the way to the meeting and had every intention of taking part in the charter debate.

The board has instructed Taylor to review the set of rules board meetings are supposed to be operating under and provide clarification on the Robert's Rules debate.

historic district would affect a free dinner program planned by Seminole Volunteer Enterprises, a non-profit organization.

Kuhn has been a consistent opponent of the dinner program, saying that it would attract crime and vagrancy to the area.

"We're supposed to be an advocate for downtown," Kuhn said. "However, when I speak at the City Commission I am speaking as an individual. We need clear zoning requirements that say, for instance, what type of retail stores will be allowed downtown."

With a large number of vacant downtown office spaces, Kuhn said she is concerned that the area is in need of more retail businesses and restaurants, rather than more offices.

"You need retail stores and restaurants to draw visitors," Kuhn said.

Sanford Main Street is working with various companies to organize a Tuesday morning downtown Farmers Market that, if approved by the City Commission, could begin in September.

The organization also coordinates the program that places banners on light poles along First Street and the Fourth of July fireworks that drew an estimated 40,000 people to Fort Mellon Park. During the holiday season, Main Street will coordinate placing Christmas decorations along the downtown area.

"We're working with the city to improve the appearance of our downtown area," Kuhn said.

This is the sixth year that Sanford has been a Main Street city. The City designated $25,000 in funds for the non-profit organization, the same level of support as last year. The commission will hold budget hearings in September.

"Being a Main Street city increases the number of points the city receives when applying for other funding," Kuhn said.

However, the Board of County Commissioners decreased funding for Sanford Main Street from $25,000 to $10,000 during budget workshops. The budget hearings for the County Commission will also be held in September.

"We're still solvent, but we will have to do more fundraising and increase our membership," Kuhn said.

Pan Am

"We're trying to keep it simple, and trying to do it well," Nadolny said. "We have made a great deal of progress just in the last four weeks."

Nadolny said that Pan Am's computer reservations center is already manned, and that it will soon be ready to take reservations. However, he said a date has not been set for when reservations can start being made out of Sanford's airport.

The Department of Transportation recently granted

Pan Am's request to begin scheduled service. The airline is now waiting for Federal Aviation Authority approval, Nadolny said.

The Puerto Rican Chamber of Commerce of Central Florida has formed a partnership with the Sanford/Seminole County Chamber of Commerce to promote mutually beneficial business relationships. Rodriguez said that Pan Am's service to Puerto Rico is a key reason for the partnership.

"A lot of growth and development is anticipated at the airport," Rodriguez said. "We're expecting jobs to be generated in transportation, engineering, the service sector, and in manufacturing. Plus, when developers see a demand, they will come."

The Orlando Sanford Airport currently has 1 million passengers per year, primarily from British charter flights. Pan Am will provide the airport's first scheduled domestic service.

WIN AT BRIDGE

A fish a day keeps the defenders away

By Phillip Alder

Cecil Beaton, a British photographer, claimed, "She has a face that belongs to the sea and the wind, with large rocking-horse nostrils and teeth that you just know bite an apple every day." About whom was he talking?

Doctors supposedly recommend eating an apple a day, though why they would wish to reduce business isn't clear to me. Apparently eating fish is good for the brain. So, if you eat a lot of seafood, you should have no trouble finding the best play here. What would be your approach in three no-trump after West leads the spade five and East puts up the jack?

any problems? Well, first check your top tricks. There are only seven: one spade (given trick one), three hearts, one diamond and two clubs. The extras can come from the diamond suit, but if the finesse is losing, could a spade return from East be lethal? Yes, if the spades are splitting 5-2. The defenders might collect four spades and one diamond. (If the spades are 4-3, it doesn't matter what you do.)

However, you can disarm those spades by ducking at trick one. This allows you to cut the opponents' communication in the suit. Presumably East will return a spade, establishing his partner's suit, but West has no entry. When you get in, take the diamond finesse, not caring whether it wins or loses. You collect at least one overtrick, not an undertrick.

Cecil Beaton's uncomplimentary observations were about Katharine Hepburn.

ASK DR. GOTT

You can't make gay son 'go straight'

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 30-year-old never-married son recently confided to me that he is gay. Is there any help to make him go straight? We are concerned because the Bible bans homosexuality.

DEAR READER: Few issues seem to perplex and upset parents more than the sexual orientation of their children. I am sure that you felt devastated when you learned that your son is homosexual. I am equally certain that you cannot conceive of the turmoil he has experienced for years, knowing that his orientation would threaten the very basis of your family stability. For no other reason, he should be complimented on the courage it took to "come out." Now, since he no longer has to deceive you, your love for each other will have a chance to grow stronger.

Some gay people honestly want to change their sexual preferences and become straight. In such cases, psychological intervention, including support groups, may be useful. However, this is more the exception than the rule.

Many homosexuals believe they were born gay and wish to maintain their lifestyles, asking only for parental acceptance. Despite the health risks of same-sex, non-monogamous relations, a significant number of gay people are able to establish long-term, loving partnerships. Thus, I believe that your wish for your son's heterosexuality will probably have little influence on him.

Let's cut to the chase. Rather than blaming him and increasing his feelings of rejection and isolation, make an effort to achieve greater happiness by accepting him. After all, he is your son and needs your love and approval no less because he is gay. At 30, he is entitled to make his own choices and must accept responsibility for them. In the final analysis, none of us has the power to change other people; we can only change ourselves.

Therefore, I urge you to open lines of communication with your son, accept him as a whole person, and try to be non-judgmental. Although Scripture seems to condemn homosexuality, your son's orientation, salvation and possible sin are issues with which he alone must deal, with whatever spiritual assistance he needs. It seems to me that invoking Biblical injunctions is a paltry excuse for condemning homosexuality, which is — by necessity — the most private of intimate personal acts. In short, it's none of the Church's business. I do not intend to give a blanket endorsement of all kinds of sexual activity. It's OK to disapprove of specific, dangerous and irresponsible homosexual practices; the same holds true of heterosexual involvement. However, if you depreciate your son as a person, you will build artificial walls in the place of compassion, understanding and warmth. Both you and he need more.

DR. GOTT

Registration of birth certificates: It's the law

Giving birth to a child is one of the memorable experiences in a parent's life.

However, the birth of a child is often accompanied by extraordinary circumstances that consume a parent's attention. As a result, registering the child's birth certificate is often one of the last things on a parent's mind.

Nevertheless, Florida law requires the registration of birth certificates within five days of the child's birth and with the local registrar of the district in which the child is born. Following are some of the requirements the law imposes on certain persons, regarding the registration of a birth certificate, the naming of the child, and the information included on the birth certificate concerning paternity.

If the birth occurs in an institution or en route to an institution, the physician, midwife, or person in attendance during or immediately after the delivery shall provide the person in charge of the institution or that person's designated representa-

the medical information required by the certificate. The person in charge of the institution or the designated representative shall prepare the certificate, certify to the facts of the birth, and register the certificate with the local registrar.

On the other hand, if the birth occurs outside an institution and the child is not taken to an institution immediately after delivery, the certificate shall be prepared and registered within five days by one of the following persons in the indicated order of priority: (1) The physician or midwife in attendance during or immediately after the birth or, in the absence of such a person; (2)

Any other person in attendance during or immediately after the birth or, in the absence of such a person; (3) The father or the mother or, in the absence of the father and the inability of the mother, the person in charge of the premises where the birth occurred.

Interestingly, many a birth has occurred on a moving conveyance. Therefore, Florida law directly addresses this issue. Simply stated, if a birth occurs on a moving conveyance and the child is first removed from the conveyance in Florida, the birth shall be registered in Florida, and the place to which the child is first removed shall be considered the place of birth.

Regardless of where the child is born, if the mother is married at the time of birth, the mother and the father as entered on the birth certificate shall select the given names and surname of the child if both parents will have custody of the child, otherwise the parent who will have custody shall select the given names and the surname of the child. Similarly, if the mother is not married at the time of birth, the person who will have custody of the child shall select the given names and surname of the child.

If the mother is married at the time of birth, the name of her husband shall be entered on the certificate as the father of the child unless paternity has been determined otherwise by a court of competent jurisdiction.

However, if the mother is not married at the time of birth, the name of the father shall not be entered on the certificate of birth without the consenting affidavit of the mother and the person to be named as the father, unless paternity is determined by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Florida law requires the registration of birth certificates within five days of the child's birth and as noted above, it also provides requirements regarding the location of registration, the naming of the child, and the information included on the birth certificate concerning paternity in order to preserve the integrity of the family unit.

In the coming weeks we will discuss other family issues.

Seeds of love sown by humble dandelion

DEAR ABBY: It's been more than 20 years since I sprawled on the grass, discussing dandelions with my daughter, who was not yet 10. Our headline news was filled with trouble in some Middle Eastern country.

As we lay together in the grass, my daughter asked, "What happens to dandelion seeds when they blow away?" I explained that they plant themselves and grow to make new dandelions. Before I could tell her that's why Daddy doesn't want them in our grass, she excitedly said, "Wouldn't it be great if we could put love on the seeds and blow them to the people fighting with each other, so love could grow instead?"

Her innocent, loving thought inspired me to write the following:

"If I could blow my thoughts like dandelions to the wind,

"Thoughts of love, peace and hope I'd send

"To seed hearts and souls the world therein."

Twenty years later our moment shared and my little poem came to mind yet again. I still have a loving daughter and still have the same dream. Perhaps these loving thoughts of my little girl will seed and inspire yet other loving thoughts to grow in this complex world we share. I pray that God will give our love seeds to grow.

ANN McCLAIN WASHINGTON, MISSOULA, MONT.

DEAR ANN: The sentiments of your inspirational poem are a heartwarming reminder that we reap what we sow. Thank you for sharing it.

DEAR ABBY: I have read with interest the letters you have printed from readers about the difficulties they encountered when trying to settle the family estate after the parents pass on.

Before Mom and Dad died, they let it be known they didn't want any arguments or hard feelings during or after we kids divided up their worldly possessions. As executor of the estate, I felt responsible but had not yet devised a method for dividing the estate.

The day we six brothers and sisters arrived at the homestead in Oconto, Wis., Mom and Dad must have been watching over us. During the preliminary discussion, one of my sisters suggested that we put our names in a bowl for anything we wanted in the house and simply draw for it with no limitations. The next two days we spent together turned out to be the most heartwarming, enjoyable experience for all of us. I still remember my sisters ordering me to put my name in the bowl for an antique dish that I wasn't interested in but they thought my wife might like.

I still have the small aluminum bowl with all our names engraved on it. I also still have the note my wife gave me as I left our house for Oconto: "Dear Bill, please remember that there is no material thing on this Earth more important than family."

BILL HOPPE, WAUKESHA, WIS.

Thanks, Abby. Once again, you've provided a great service for your readers.

A CAPITOL HILL READER

DEAR ABBY: Since Sen. Gramm's letter appeared in your column, congressional offices across America have been bombarded with requests for flags flown over the Capitol. This is great! It's wonderful to see so many patriotic citizens wishing to display Old Glory.

Unfortunately, the prices Sen. Gramm quoted were out of date. Those who wish to obtain a flag should contact the local office of their congressional representative or senators for a list of the correct

DEAR CAPITOL HILL READER: Thank you for setting the record straight. Readers, your telephone directory lists the telephone numbers for the local offices of your representatives and senators in the section titled "U.S. Government."

Knights looking for big silver anniversary campaign

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - The University of Central Florida's second half run of eight wins in its last 10 games gave the men's soccer team its best ever finish at 13-7 in 1998.

The Golden Knights were likely a win away from their first NCAA tournament bid but dropped a 3-2 overtime decision at Jacksonville University in the Trans America Athletic Conference (TAAC) championship game.

It proved to be UCF's only loss against conference competition (6-1) and left the team with plenty to strive for in 1999.

Last season, the Golden Knights played Butler University, ranked 14th in the country by the National Soccer Coaches Association of America (NSCAA), to a one-goal game.

UCF dropped both of its games against NSCAA number 23 Jacksonville, a team that reached the second round of the NCAA playoffs, but the Golden Knights lead the series between the two schools in a perennially competitive matchup. In addition, UCF lived up to the challenge of Division I national champion Indiana University at the Nike/Snickers Soccerfest.

Nine starters and 18 lettermen overall return to the squad, which should give UCF a leg up in experience over the opposition. Three Golden Knight Knights made the TAAC All-Tournament squad and seven more earned regular season TAAC honors, including four first teamers.

The Golden Knights will play in four regular season tournaments to accentuate a heavy travel schedule that includes trips to Michigan and Wisconsin. However, they will get some midseason relief with six consecutive home games.

New lights at the UCF Arena Soccer Field afford men's soccer the opportunity to host five night games for the first time. UCF has an opportunity for revenge against Jacksonville in a September 29th match under the lights.

The University of South Florida, another NCAA tournament participant, renewed an old rivalry against UCF last year. The result was an epic 3-2 win for the Bulls but the Golden Knights get another crack in Tampa on September 21st.

UCF kicks off its annual 25th anniversary season and its 16th as a member of NCAA Division I at home September 3rd against Long Island University.

POSITION-BY-POSITION ANALYSIS FORWARDS

A solid core established by head coach Bob Winch in previous seasons returns all of its key contributors for the 1999 season.

Senior Heikki Ritvanen, a three-time All-TAAC first team member and a two-time first team NCAA Division I All-South honoree, leads an explosive offense that averaged nearly three goals per game in 1998.

He tallied 24 goals and four assists last year for a total of 150 points in his 51 game career. Since becoming the first NSCAA/Umbro All-American in UCF Division I history in 1997, Ritvanen has kept up his, consistent scoring pace and finished fourth in the nation in scoring.

Also earning a top 20 ranking in Division I scoring was All-TAAC third team senior Ari Nurmi. Many of his 40 points came in crucial situations last year and he led the team

Altamonte Majors still unbeaten

Special to the Herald

ALACHUA - The Altamonte Springs Babe Ruth Bambino Majors (11-12 year olds) remained on an outstanding roll as they swept five games to claim the Babe Ruth Baseball Bambino Majors State Championships in Alachua.

Altamonte Springs completed the sweep with a 10-5 victory over Santa Fe in the Championship Game, pushing the club's undefeated winning streak to eight games. Altamonte Springs had won three games in winning the five-team District 8 Championship.

Bryan Bennett led the Altamonte Springs attack with three home runs, while strong pitching by Matt Morales, Ryan Polte and Alex Rushing kept some

Disney to host U.S. Transplant Games

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - They haven't hit the court or track yet and already this group of athletes has performed death-defying feats.

They all carry an inner trophy — a new organ that qualifies them for the dream team in the game of life.

Their ultimate trial will kick off at Disney's Wide World of Sports Complex, the venue selected as the host site for the 2000 U.S. Transplant Games, the National Kidney Foundation (NKF) has announced.

The Games, to be held June 21st through 24th, 2000, are an Olympic-style event for athletes who have received life-saving organ transplants of every type — kidney, liver, heart, lung, pancreas and bone marrow.

Transplant athletes will compete for gold, silver and bronze medals in 13 different sports including track and field, swimming, tennis, basketball, cycling and golf.

Presented biennially by the National Kidney Foundation since 1990 and sponsored by Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corporation, the U.S. Transplant Games draw participants from all over the country who are organized into 50 state teams.

"More than 65,000 Americans are currently on the waiting list for life-saving organ transplants and 10 people die each day while waiting. The Transplant Games showcase the success of transplantation, demonstrating the life-saving power of organ donation," says Representative Karen L. Thurman (D-FL), whose husband is a kidney transplant recipient.

According to Fred Herbert of Ocala, NKF vice chairman, "The Transplant Games were poised for a first class facility and we are thrilled to partner with Disney's Wide World of Sports — the most inclusive state-of-the-art sports complex in the country. We hope our spirited competition will slam home the message that every American should consider becoming an organ donor."

Attendance at the 2000 U.S. Transplant Games is expected to surpass the record-breaking participation in the 1998 Games of 5,000 people, including transplant athletes, their families and friends and families of organ donors.

Athlete participants range in age from three to 75. In addition to athletic competition, the Games will feature four days of special workshops for donor families and an educational program for professionals involved in transplantation.

A 5K Road Race, open to the Orlando community, will be held at Epcot Center during the four day event.

THANK YOU FOR EVERYTHING MAYFAIR

SANFORD - The Seminole High School girls golf team (top photo) had a very successful 1999 Spring season and are in the process of preparing for the new season, which will now be played in the Fall instead of the Spring.

Part of the success of the Fighting Seminoles, whose four seniors had a combined 38-10 record, goes to Mayfair Country Club owner Jack Daniels and General Manager Rich Cleary, said Seminole golf coach Bill Klein (bottom photo with Keisha Talbot).

The duo allowed the girls and boys teams to practice every day through April, including use of the driving range, for no charge; purchased golf bags and golf balls for both teams; and bought two sets of uniform shirts for the girls team.
