

Size Of "Fight" In Tank Is Main Factor For Battle

WASHINGTON, March 17 (AP)—We got the size of the tank in the fight, but the size of the tank that counts.

General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, who hazarded the guess that the 60-ton heavy tanks would disappear from battlefields before the end of the war. Firepower, not bulk is the test of any tank, he said.

The Chief of Ordnance, asked about reports that Americans

in Tunisia had "nothing to match" the German Mark VI

tank monster tanks, said the Army had four mobile fieldguns that would—and had—put shells

through the German armor.

He added that American ordnance officers more than a year ago designed and built 60-ton tanks, only to give them up when the Germans made them too big for them.

"The fellow who had to fight in them, and maybe perish in them, said he didn't want them. They were too heavy; they could n't maneuver."

"We are very prone," said General Campbell, "to get confused in our outlines as to what a tank is for. There is no exception to any tank except the

firepower can exert."

"It's not how much track or

engine, or starters, or storage

batteries or bulk—it's the gun

you can bring to bear its how much firepower. If we can get TNT and steel on the enemy

in greater volume than he can get them on us, we're going to be successful."

The heavy tanks developed in this country mounted large guns,

General Campbell said, but tactical officers decided that mounting

the guns on lighter-weight, faster

vehicles was more effective than

the lumbering monsters.

As a result, he pointed to the

self-propelled field gun, the "tank destroyer." Most celebrated of this type is the M-7, the 105mm

howitzer mounted on an M-3 medium tank chassis, which played

a big part in the rout of German

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's

forces in Egypt.

The American 3-inch gun, the 155mm howitzer, and the 90mm

gun also provided effective reply

to the German Mark VI tank,

said General Campbell. The 90mm

is a combination antiaircraft

and antitank weapon, which can be elevated from horizontal to 85

degrees, and outshoots the famous German 88mm, a weapon designed for similar purposes. The

Mark VI tank, incidentally, carries an 88mm gun.

A Man and His Dog

An eloquent appeal for man's best friend, the dog, was made by Mr. Tarkington, author of "The Other White Shoe," to the wife of the movie hero, Tarkington, who at home he had written when ill. As a result of his appeal a pet shop has been set up down town where stray dogs are sold to the public at $1 a piece.

ROCKLAND-DE GOLDE
BOSTON, MASS.—The dog has accomplished for himself, selecting man out of all the universe, command of his own free will and trustfully to his master only friend, wrote Mr. Tarkington. "No other animal loves him, he loves in him and unquestionably puts the power of life and death in his hands. He is the only creature that can do more than the fact that the dog does this gladly and merrily.

The history of Tarkington's appeal records a of a young son, one man in behalf of another, the late Senator West of Missouri. The dog had been killed by a man who claimed it was vicious and the owner was suing for $2000 in damages. Senator West agreed to take the case.

When the time came for him to address the jury he alone scanned the face of each juror and then

Nine Students Of U. Of F. Interned In Enemy Prisons

GAINSBOROUGH, March 16 (Special) — Nine former University of Florida students, all but one Floridians, are prisoners of war in the hands of the three Axis powers.

Captured by forces of Germany, Italy, and Japan, the men were taken in three major war areas—Europe, Asia and Africa.

According to information compiled by Miss Ruth Carter, University alumnus director, the United States hold the largest group, six former students captured in the fall of Batista and Corregidor. Germany claimed one in a air force over Europe and one on convoy duty. Italy took one in the African campaign.

Prominent among the prisoners is Lieut. Ewart T. Scovens of DeFuniak Springs, who became a World War II hero when as bombardier, he took the controls from a wounded pilot and brought him down.

Held by the Japanese are the following, all previously stationed

Flying Fortress back to Britain base.

Scovens was captured later in another flight over enemy territory.

Lieut. Richard M. Harris, 24, of Orlando, a business administration student from 1937 to 1941, was captured while on convoy duty to Russia. Interned in Germany, he is now studying economics and history at the University of London by English extension courses for prisoners of war. Instructors are teacher graduates of English universities captured

Information about the nine prisoners, six of whom hold degrees from the University, came through the War Department from the Japanese Red Cross. The German short wave radio and Italian broadcasts, supplemented by information from parents, who have returned questionnaires sent to them by the alumni office.

The prisoners interned by Japan must be presumed to have been captured with the fall of the last two main bastions in the Philippines campaign. Miss Carter said.

Held by the Japanese are the following, all previously stationed

in the Philippines:

Lieut. Lawrence G. Semmens, 27, of Bradenton, who received his degree in 1938 and was with the field artillery.

Lieut. H. Waggoner, Jr., 26, of Tampa, who received his BSBA degree in 1940 and was an artilleryman.

Lieut. Ollie Lancaster, Jr., 24, of Mobile, Ala., who was a law student from 1938 to 1941 and was with the Army Air Corps.

Lieut. Jack A. Gillon, 28, of Mobile, Ala., who received his BSBA degree in 1940 and was with the Air Corps.

Lieut. Charles M. Cannon, Jr., 24, of Tampa, who received his BSCE degree in 1939.

Capt. John M. Galbraith, Jr., 26, of High Springs, who received his BSF degree with honors in 1938. He was twice decorated for bravery in action by Gen. MacArthur before his capture.

Interned in Italy is Lieut. Fred A. Johnson, Jr., 29, of Pensacola, who received his BA in 1937. He was captured in North Africa, a member of the first American unit landed there. Reported missing June 13, he was later listed as captured.

Lieut. Johnson's wife lives in Winter Park with their two children.

Victory Garden Gardeners Do Well to Get True Data

VICTORY Gardeners will well to avoid armchair strategy. Here are some tips from professional gardeners of college agricultural stations:

Seeds more often are planted too deep than too shallow. They should be sown deep enough to make sure they are in soil that moist. Deep planting delays germination.

Remove all growth from tomato plants to a height of 12 inches above the stem; stake the plants to five foot poles.

Plant corn in square plots, either corn in a long row, because corn has to be fertilized by pollen dropping from the corn itself. In plots, the pollen is virtually certain to fertilize no plant which is the wind blows.

If partitions are used in seed starting boxes there will be less shock to the plant at transplanting time as the separators permit a section of soil to be removed with each plant.

Poison mixed with the soil around some of the larger plants, like tomatoes, will help kill insects.

Invasion Of Africa Came After Breakfast

Baltimore, Mar. 18. (AP) The landing of American soldiers in North Africa was witnessed after breakfast by Chief Commandant Stewart Emory P. Ward of the Coast Guard.

Ward was in charge of a vessel which landed hundreds of American soldiers and officers at Casablanca. Just an hour before they scrambled over the sides of the vessel into landing barges, the doughboys were served an average American breakfast—orange juice, oatmeal, toast and coffee," says Ward, now stationed at Lazarillo Point.

Ward's vessel has been on a transpacific trip to Portland, Oregon, and is en route to his wife and two sons in Longwood, Md., says Major Ralph Hammond, 41, of Baltimore, who is in charge of the American forces in Casablanca.

Major Hammond, who is in charge of the American forces in Casablanca, says the American troops will then march inland to Tunis.
