Help Blacks Up Test Scores, Williams Urges

By Donna Estes

Herald Staff Writer School Board member Roland Williams is calling on the public school system in Seminole County to make a major effort to find out why black students from here are not measuring "up to par" in statewide test scores and to correct the problem.

He also wants enforcement of equal opportunity in employment in the system and provisions made to insure minority contractors and business people are given a fair share of the school system's work and business.

"I want to see what the board's feelings are about establishing phtlosophy on how we can work on the basis of equality," Williams said.

"But we should go beyond that and create a policy and procedure that specifically addresses those areas and enforce them." he said.

Putting his fellow school board members on notice about his concerns, he wrote a memo to School Superintendent Robert Hughes saying he will bring the Issues up at Wednesday's 7:30 p.m. board meeting.

"I want to discuss these matters with the board members and see what their thinking is," Williams said Thursday.

'These matters aren't something that just occurred. I've been studying and analyzing the need for improvements in human relations for the past year and something needs to be done," he

He's suggesting that persons with experience in dealing with broad groups, particularly blacks, be brought in to conduct seminars for administrators and teachers on enhancing the quality of the educational opportunities the school system is offering, and to train in positive motivation and increasing abilities to relate to those students.

Williams said he doesn't see state testing as "that biased." "We just have to do a better job of communicating and of giving motiviation to students who come from sectors of society where persons have historically been deprived of certain opportunities," he said.

It may take several months of study on all the board members' parts to come up with something feasible on affirmative action and equal opportunity. But both should have well documented procedures," he said. Williams became the first black ever to sit on the School Board on his appointment by Gov. Reubin Askew in June, 1978. He ran for the split two-year term left with the resignation of Davie Sims later the same year and was re-elected in 1980.

He is up for re-election this year and does plan to run, he said.

State Tosses Out Some Union Cards

By Deane Jordan and Britt Smith

some of the signature cards from Seminole County workers calling for union representation, the National Association of Governmental Employees (NAGE) today submitted new cards to make up the loss.

County labor lawyers, however, said it was too late in the game to be submitting new cards and asked that they be disallowed.

The two sides squared off Thursday during the opening round of a two-day hearing before the state Public Employees Relations Commission (PERC) at the Seminole County Courthouse over the validity of 143 cards calling for a collective bargaining election.

County representatives maintain that if just 31 of the 143 contested cards can be declared invalid, NAGE does not have the necessary number of people interested in unionizing to hold an election. The county is challenging the validity of

PERC rules state that 30 percent in this case, must express an Stung by the state's dismissal of interest in a union vote before one can be held. Invalidation of 31 cards would drop the "Interest" rate below the required 30 percent level.

> PERC hearing officer H. Lee Cohee II Thursday threw out 19 of the signature cards because they were undated, duplicates, signed by employees other than the one named or over a year old. One of the disputed cards was added back to the union list after a new signature > was affixed Wednesday. NAGE officials have argued the cards are not only valid, but charged the county with intimidation by bringing county employees into the hearing to testify.

At Thursday's hearing, contested cards were reviewed and the exact Job descriptions of the individuals and their on-the-job authority was discussed. The county maintlans some of the card signers were coerced while union officials contend the signings were voluntary.

At one point, John Gronda, a of the targeted workers. 375 to 422 county, asked for a recess so he could telegram the state labor board to ask that the hearing be halted because he believes the county had proved its case that there wasn't enough interest among county employees to unionize. During the 3:40 p.m. recess. Gronda reconsidered and the hearing continued.

In its latest challenge to the NAGE unionization effort, the county earlier this month accused a road division supervisor of intimidating workers to sign cards calling for a collective bargaining election.

in documents filed with PERC seeking dismissal of the NAGE petition for a union election, Gronda said Terry Tyson, a road division grade foreman who supervised road paving and resurfacing projects. 'personally solicited" about 70 of his subordinates to sign the cards.

Gronda contends that not only is it improper to solicit signatures during working hours, but that Tyson's union activities "would logically convey to them (workers) the message that their refusal to Miami attorney representing the sign would result in retaliation by

Other county workers were subsequently interviewed to determine the extent of union activity within the division.

Union attorney Thomas Pilacek :alled the interviews "intimidating" in an effort to defuse the unionization effort.

Union officials questioned county representatives Thursday as to whether Tyson had the clout to intimidate workers into signing cards, specifically whether he was in a position to hire, fire, give raises. grant overtime pay or promotions.

According to testimony given Thursday, Tyson had to clear all personnel decisions with his supert-

Following the hearings, scheduled to end today. Cohee has 45 days to submit his recommendation and PERC will then decide within 90 days whether the NAGE petition is valid and if it is, when an election should be scheduled. That would probably not be until late July or early August, according to union national representative Eric Manuel.

NEW YORK (UPI) — By the next century doctors may be able to use transplants to replace sections of the human brain lost to accident or disease, says one of the world's leading researchers in the field.

But he said it is unlikely that transplants of an entire brain will ever be done due to the million of nerve endigs that would have to be connected. Cotman has been successful in transplanting brain tissue in rats and believes the technique is applicable to humans.

Consumer Prices Slow; Inflation Hits 6.1%

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Consumer prices rose 0.4 percent in February, a drop from January's advance, as food increases moderated and gasoline and clothing prices fell, the Labor Department said today.

The slowdown in the growth of the Consumer Price Index was a reassuring note amid rising interest rates and Wall Street fears that the economy is overheating, January's increase was 0.6 percent.

Both months together produce an annual inflation rate, if sustained for the rest of the year, of 6.1 percent, compared with last year's rate of 3.8 percent.

But analysts in and out of government expect 1984's inflation to weaken even more in March and April as the remnants of price pressures from last year's bad weather fade.

The broadest category of food prices went up 0.6 percent in February, far less than the 1.6 percent in January.

Transportation costs, benefitting from a steep 1.5 percent drop in gasoline prices, showed no change at all from

The cost of local telephone service, continuing to reflect the separation of independent regional companies from AT&T, rose another 3 percent in February on top of January's record 8.5 percent Increase.

All numbers were seasonally adjusted, Clothing sales for winter mechandise coupled with widespread advanced spring sales took the price index for clothes down 0.3 percent after a similar increase in January. That was the first decline in clothing prices since December 1982

The categories of medical care costs and entertainment were the only ones to worsen in February.

although both October and December showed no change.

Medical care prices rose 0.8 percent rate, compared to January's 0.7 percent. Entertainment costs were up 0.3 percent, compared to January's 0.2 percent.

Housing costs rose 0.5 percent in February, the same as in January, pulled up by a 6.9 percent surge in heating oil costs, the largest monthly increase in three years.

Missing Child Search Intensifies

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) - Fifty sheriff's deputies canvassed two counties early today and a helicopter hovered over rock pits in search of an 18-month-old boy missing since a thief stole the sports car in which he was sleeping.

"We're hoping for the best and expecting the worst," said Broward County spokesman George Crollus, of the search for Jonathan Marks of North Miami. The child was allegedly abducted -- apparently by accident -- Thursday as he slept in his father's silver-gray Corvette outside a storefront garage in West Hollywood.

Joseph Marks, grandfather of the brown-haired, brown-eyed toddler, sald

Authorities found the 1979 Corvette early today and arrested Jimmy Ray Jackson, 26, of Hallandale, at his mother's house. There was no sign of the Jackson, who is unemployed, was charged with auto theft and is to be arraigned later today, Crollus said. He said Jackson is "the prime suspect" in the abduction, but Jackson denied knowledge of the child.

The spokesman said 50 Broward Sheriff's deputies and police from Broward and Dade counties were conducting the search and were distributing flyers with the child's picture.

The explosion occurred about 4:30 p.m., shattering the carport and hurling debris across a wide area.

The shell was identified by demolition experts from Camp Shelby, located in Forrest County just north of McHenry. Investigators said the shell could have been found in a "garbage dump or a Junk yard."

DUI Prosecution

Three Seminole County attorneys are particiapting in a four-day seminar in Orlando on the prosecution of drunk drivers.

Edward Helvenston and Ava Tunstall, assistant state attorneys in the misdemeanor division of the 18th Judicial District, are attending a four-day session helding the Florida Criminal Justice Training Center in Orlando as lawyer "students" to learn more about prosecuting

Assistant state attorney Steven Plotnick, of the feloney division in Sanford, is at the event as one of 15 critics to evaluate the performance of the attending 48 lawyerstudents - most of whom are misdemeanor prosecutors from around the state.

Steve Urse, coordinator of the event and an assistant state attorney - misdemeanor division - in Sarasota. said the purpose of the four-day session is to introduce new prosecutors to successful techniques used In prosecuting driving under the influence cases and the latest interpretation of laws regarding DUIs.

The fledgling lawyers attend lectures and demonstrations throughout the seminar and also participate in staged trials - examining witinesses and cross examining plus making opening and closing statements

Their performances are video taped, Urse said, and then critiqued by the more experienced lawyers attending the event which is the second one the Florida Prosecuting Attorneys Association has sponsored along with the Central Florida Criminal Justice Training

The goal, Urse said, is to give the new lawyels practical and educational experience in prosecuting what he described as an increasing complex courtroom

Urse said that among the lectures to be given besides those of experience trial lawyers and a toxicologist — will be a talk by Florida Supreme Court Justice Raymond Erlich.

The first seminar, held in September, also received the participation of Seminole County prosecutors with assistant state attorney Steven Brady acting a coordinator for publicity.

Whittling Big Oil Down To Size

In an election year, who can resist taking a swing at the industry everyone loves to hate? When Texaco opened wide and swallowed Getty Oil last January, a bill in Congress aimed at preventing mergers among major oil companies failed passage by only 10 votes. Now, the impending takeover of Gulf by Standard of California has brought the anti-merger bill back to life in a flurry of rhetoric on Capitol Hill about the depredations of "big oil."

Congress should go back to worrying about its deficit and let the oil companies take care of their surpluses. The gods must surely laugh when members of the House and Senate, who have made such a colossal mess out of managing the finances of our government, presume to criticize the economic decisions of the directors of corporations that are profitable enough to pay taxes.

But this dodges the issue. Why aren't these companies investing their profits in oil exploration instead of buying out their competitors? When the same companies were arguing against the windfall profits tax, didn't they say they needed to plow every dime they earned back into exploration and production so we would be less beholden to OPEC for oil?

If they were diverting capital from drilling for the sake of financing mergers, there might be grounds for criticism, but this does not seem to be the case. There is indeed a luli in exploration, but Daniel Yergin, the energy expert at Harvard, points out that this is not the result of a shortage of capital but "a shortage of reasonable prospects for drilling."

The frontier for oil exploration in the United States lies mainly offshore and on federal lands, and the Reagan administration has been backtracking from former interior Secretary James Watt's gung-ho approach to federal leasing. The gods will laugh even more if the Congress that voted last year to impose a moratorium on offshore leasing should now complain that oil companies are not doing enough exploration in these forbidden areas.

If there is no inducement for mounting major drilling operations at this time of worldwide balance in supply and demand, there is ample inducement for oil companies to bid for other properties. Oil is selling on the world market for about $29 a barrel. If SoCal manages to acquire Gulf for $13 billion, it will be acquiring all of the petrolcum reserves controlled by Gulf for between $4.50 and $9 a barrel. Such is the arithmetic of buy-outs when there is a marked disparity between the price of a company's stock and the book value of its assets.

What the oil industry is seeing is the kind of consolidation that happens when there is a break in the pattern of demand for a product. The leveling off in consumption of oil and gasoline has left many service stations operating in the red and refineries operating well below their capacity. In circumstances like this, mergers are what restore efficiency to an industry.

Oil company mergers certainly deserve the attention of the Federal Trade Commission and the Justice Department in their role as anti-trust watchdogs. The oil industry has been highly competitive, and the public must be assured that it will remain so. The fact that Congress is considering a moratorium on mergers involving the 50 largest oil companies is a fair enough indication of how competitive the business is. In how many American industries are there 50 companies large enough for Congress to be worried about their survival? A few of the poorer performers can disappear without fear of monopoly breaking out.

"YUCKI Female body builders! Who wants to see THAT?!"

By Susan Loden

The Humane Society of Seminole County is gearing up to handle an expected spring influx of newborn pupples and kittens and now is the time for animal lovers to step in and help care for these potential pets, many of which will be abandoned by their owners.

The projected births will not only increase the workload for shelter staff and volunteers, but will also bring a financial burden that the Humane Society is striving in advance to meet by expanding its membership base.

The number of hurt, hungry and helpless animals cared for each month at the shelter has doubled in recent years, according to society president Helen Wolk. The county's growth has meant not only an increase in the human population, but the animal count is also rising and "places a distressing strain on both physical facilities and operating funds," Mrs. Wolk said.

Under the banner "We Care", the society is sending 50,000 letters to area families, searching for those who are concerned about animal welfare with the hope that they will help care for unwanted and abused animals either through financial support or by lending a hand with work at the animal shelter at 2800 County Home Road, Sanford.

Both new and current members will receive a "We Care" emblem and also can sign their pets up for the society's "Very Important Pet" identification and registration service.

But the most important benefit members receive, according to Mrs. Wolk, is "the satisfaction of knowing that you care enough to help relieve animal pain and suffering in our community."

Much of the group's efforts, which are performed largely by volunteers, involve investigation of animal cruelty charges and litigations. Major expenses include food and medical care for sheltered animals.

The non-profit Humane Society receives no tax dollars and is funded by contributions from animal lovers. For more information, call 323-8685,

Kids Pose Some Hard Questions

By Patricia McCormack UPI Education Editor

From pens of the pint-sized come tall questions for presidential candidates, a journalism contest for youngaters in grades 1 to 6 shows.

Sponsored by the national school-magazine Scholastic News, the contest asked entrants to complete the following:

"If I could ask the presidential candidates one question, I would ask..."

A review of entries reveals the takeover generation's concerns don't deviate much from those of students in high school or college or of grown-ups.

Nuclear war, poverty, crime, pollution and unemployment are major worries down in the grades, the review documented.

The contest is no mere academic exercise. Winners, one from each grade, will face presidential candidates in an exclusive press conference in the fall, said Helen Benham, editorial director of Scholastic News.

Here's a sampling questions proposed by contestants.

Eden Prairie, Minn. — "Why does there have to be so many roads? Why can't there be any country around? We should have country because cities make too much noise. They stink. There are too many roads and tooy houses. They are tearing down fields just to make roads and houses."

Phoenix, Ariz. — "Can we have some peace in this world? Because I like peace and quiet."

Bristol, Conn. — "Why can't we pass athat could be adopted by all countries of the world to protect endangered wildlife such as the whale and the bald cagle?"

Miami — "I would ask what they do for the handicapped Americans."

Kenosha, Wis. — "How will you help old people when they get sick? It is important that we help old people because they worked for our country to make it better for us."

Bakersfield, Calif. — "I would ask how can we help each other be equal. People feel bad when they are not treated the same."

Delaware, Ohio. — "Could you make a law about people making bombs? I think this question is important because a large number of people can be killed by only one bomb."

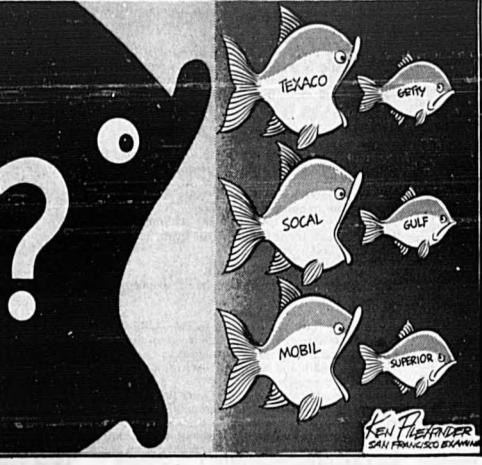

Glenshaw, Pa. — "Why don't you have a woman running mate? Women make important decisions every day. A woman could help you in the future."

Florence, Wis. — "Why are the taxes so high? I think that question is important so we know where our money is going. I don't think that tax money should be spent on bombs that could blow up our country because then I could never grow up to pay taxes."

Wayne, N.J. — "What would you do to prevent World War 3?"

Baton Rouge, La.— "What are you going to do about Social Security?"

Maitland, Fla. — "Please, Mr. Candidate, can you do everything in your power to have peace in the world? We children are the future of our country. Each child's accomplishments, each child's dream for the future, will have so much more meaning if we can feel sure that there will be a tomorrow."

WILLIAM RUSHER

Non-Nuclear Defense

NEW YORK (NEA) — Today's column is addressed primarily to people who, from time to time, find themselves arguing with advocates of a nuclear freeze (or some variant of that theme). I have good news for you: There exists, ready for immediate use, an argument on your side of the question that is 100 percent sound and absolutely devastating. I have devoted a goodly share of my life to studying the black arts of argumentation and I am prepared to testify that, in 45 years of debating public issues, I have never encountered a more decisive riposte.

The argument for a nuclear freeze (or whatever) is at bottom a criticism of the current doctrine of deterrence ("mutual assured destruction"), decorated to taste with allusions to the borrors of nuclear warfare. What if — for whatever reason: accident, misunderstanding or sheer homicidal mania — deterrence falls to deter? ABC-TV's The Day After offered an answer calculated to scare the daylights out of us. One alleged solution — implicitly put forward as the only conceivable solution — is to stop producing and deploying these terrible weapons right now.

But that is in fact not the only conceivable solution. It isn't even the best one, even assuming the Russians could be trusted to halt production (which couldn't be verified).

In one perspective, the history of warfare is a series of pendulum swings between the dominance of offense and the dominance of defense. Nuclear weapons swung the pendulum far over toward offense. But our ability to place sophisticated satellites in earth orbit, capable of spotting ICBMs on launch and destroying them within seconds, now swings the pendulum sharply back toward defensive dominance.

Advocates of this defensive system — and they include some of this nation's highest ranking military authorities — estimate that it could prevent 95 percent of Soviet ICBMs launched against this country from ever reaching their targets. And that in turn would render a nuclear first strike against the United States out of the question.

Watching nuclear-freeze proponents grapple with this counterproposal borders on the comical. Expecting to spend an agreeable hour or two expatiating on the horrors of nuclear warfare, they suddenly find you agreeing with them and inviting to join in working for a future entirely free of the specter of nuclear annihilation. Worse yet (since President Reagan spoke approvingly of the defensive-satellite concept in a TV address a year ago, and called for funds to research and develop the idea), they find themselves being urged to rally behind Mr. Reagan on pain of being convicted of nostalgia for the Good Old Days of mutual assured destruction if they refuse.

The rhetoric of the defensive-satellite proposal is positively awash with virtues: The concept is strictly non-nuclear (it would knock out ICBMs with high explosives or laser beams) and purely defensive (it wouldn't kill so much as a single Russian). Nuclear-freeze proponents, feeling their world crumbling about them, improvise arguments against the proposal, but each has its answer:

To construct such a defensive system would be dangerously destabilizing, since it would create a situation in which we could strike at Russia whereas they couldn't strike us. By all means share the defensive technology with the Russians, so they can be secure, too.

The Soviet Union would merely construct "killer satellites" that would knock out our defensive satellites. They could try, but if so the technological race would be conducted in earth orbit, where this country holds the high cards.

The cost would be too great. Not necessarily as great as the cost of our present system of "mutual assured destruction." But surely we would be foolish to economize on a defensive system that would render nuclear ICBMs obsolete.

It wouldn't work. On the contrary, there is every evidence that it would; but why this bitter resistance to even trying the idea? Why did NBC's Today show, the very morning after Mr. Reagan's suggestion, rush a scientist from M.I.T. onto the program to fight the proposal tooth and claw? What is the matter with these anti-nuclear protesters? Do they want a nuclear-safe future or don't they? What is going on in their sick little minds?

You get the idea. Go to it!

FARMING WORLD

Cutting Out The Middle Man

By Robert Crabbe

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. (UPI) — Art Lange and his two grown sons raise fruit on their part-time farm in Fresno County, but you don't see their apples and peaches in supermarkets.

When their fruit is tree-ripened to maximum sweetness, the Lange boys load it on a truck and head for some of California's 81 farmers markets. Within a day or two — sometimes hours — the fruit is sold direct to the consumer who will eat or can it.

In some places, the Langes sell from the back of the truck, in others from stalls available at some markets.

"A small farmer doesn't really have any other markets," said Lange, who farms 11 acres near Reedley. "The farmers' market is one of the few viable places where he can sell his produce."

Farmers' markets have sprung up like mushrooms since 1976, when the California Department of Food and Agriculture began encouraging direct sale of farm products.

Then there were only six such markets in the whole state. Now there are 81, with plans for another 10 by next summer.

The CDFA certifies the markets and the growers. Their wares are exempt from grading, packaging and labeling standards that apply to produce sold by conventional distributors.

About 500 family farmers and people involved in direct sale of farm products gathered Feb. 18-19 for a two-day conference at California State Polytechnic University in San Luis Obispo. A similar meeting in 1977 had only 22 participants.

Measured against California's $13.7

Measured against California's $13.7 billion agricultural ontput in 1983, farmers markets are small business. Les Portillo, chief of CDFA's direct marketing program, estimates the combined sales of the 81 markets at around $25 million last year.

"If you can sell a ton of fruit at a given market, it's a good day," Lange said.

Santa Monica's market, with turnover of about $1 million had the largest volume last year. Other big ones are in Pasadena, Stockton and San Francisco, whose market dates back to World War II.

Farmers markets are not the only way growers deal directly with consumers. They also use roadside stands and mail order selling, along with rent-a-tree programs and U-pick, in which farmers open their fruit and vegetable fleids to buyers.

"If you include wine and Christmas trees, direct selling might be about 1 percent of the total volume of agricultural sales in the state," said Gail Hayden, a CDFA economist. "But 1 percent of $13.7 billion is quite a bit." It works out to $137 million.

A grower is not tied to a single market. The Langes have sold their produce as far north as Chico and as far south as Los Angeles. Much of the produce sold in 12 markets in the Los Angeles area comes from the lower San Joaquin Valley.

Nor are all sellers small farmers. A study of 73 growers using Stockton's farmers market showed that 20 percent farmed 400 acres or more.

Did DeLorean Want To Back Out?

WASHINGTON — Crucial government tapes of conversations between automaker John Z. DeLorean and undercover agents show that DeLorean wanted to back out of a $24 million cocaine deal that supposedly would have saved his sports car company from bankruptcy. Then — overnight — he suddenly agreed to go ahead with the

What the jury in DeLorean's drug trial will have to determine is, quite simply: Why? DeLorean has told my reporters that one of the government operatives threatened his daughter's life, and that he agreed to go along out of fear.

DeLorean's apparent change of mind is made clear on the government's tapes of three telephone conversations in September 1982. My associates indy Badhwar and Tony Capacelo have reviewed the still-secret tapes.

The first conversation occurred on Sept. 15, 1982, between DeLorean and a supposed banker who called himself Jim Benedict. The man was actually an FBI agent. DeLorean told Benedict he had no money for the cocaine deal and wanted to pull out.

DeLorean: "I just don't see any way out of it."

Benedict: "You just screwed up a helluva deal."

DeLorean: "But I don't see any other way, 'cause that's where it is, and unless you've got some other ideas there

Just lan't any other way."

Benedict: "So what are you telling me? I went to all this trouble for nothing? You really put me in a bad spot. ... This is going to make us look extremely, extremely bad and it puts me in a very bad position. So what do you want me to do? You want me to kill this deal?"

DeLorean: "I don't see any alternative right now. All I can do is, I'll try to develop an alternative and if I can't, I'll leave word at your office."

The second call came later that day, when James Hoffman, the government informer who was supposed to be arranging the cocaine deal, called De-

Lorean to urge him to stay in.

Hoffman: "Well, John, maybe there's a way we can solve this. Do you have something you could put up within our period, to show you have good faith, such as some kind of collateral? You got any free, ah, group of free and clear cars anywhere?"

DeLorean hems and haws and stresses his poor financial shape. Hoffman persists.

Hoffman: "Everything is in gear right now, and all I have to do is figure out a way to, ah, you know, to cover it and to put you in a position that, ah, nobody could criticize that, you know, you're not showing good faith."

The next day, Sept. 16 — after DeLorean claims his daughter's life was threatened in another call from Hoffman — Benedict called to pursue the collateral matter.

Benedict: "I talked to Jim (Hoffman) and I guess he has discussed some matters with you that might possibly matters with you that might possibly change."

DeLorean: "Yeah, he asked me if there was any collateral ...."

Benedict: "What we're looking at is not necessarily, ah. I'm not worried about liquidation of the collateral, obviously."

DeLorean: "You want it to look right."

DeLorean: "You want it to look right."
Benedict: "Right. Obviously you can't run it through the bank now. ... it will be like a note between you and I. Uh, I will be extending a loan based on collateral that, uh, put together for 2 million payable within 30 days and the collateral being assignable. And there'd be just a piece of paper between you and DeLorean: "Well, let me, I'll get this done immediately and we'll have it. I'll put it on a plane to you tomorrow."

put it on a plane to you tomorrow."

Benedict: "I'm going to call him and I'm going to tell him that I received today from your end ... cash. ... In case that should come to a face-to-face confrontation with you and him, keep in mind that I've told him that I've got the cash from you, as opposed to this

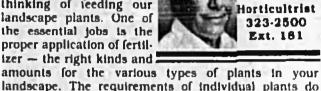

The government contends that De-Lorean's agreement to the phony collateral arrangement showed his willingness to go ahead with the scheme.

Application Of Fertilizer Important

- at least according to the

And, we should be thinking of feeding our landscape plants. One of the essential jobs is the proper application of fertilizer - the right kinds and

Urban

The only way you can feed plants properly is to know about the different kinds of fertilizers that are available. the ones that are needed by your particular ornamental plants. Most of our landscapes contain an assortment of trees, palms, shrubs, and hedges. Shrubs should be given an all-purpose garden fertilizer, such as 6-6-6 or 8-8-8. Apply the fertilizer at the rate of 11/2 to 3 pounds per 100 square feet. For hedges, the fertilizer should be spread evenly along each the plants. For other shrubs, simply broadcast it over the entire area.

To calculate the correct amount of fertilizer to use for trees and palms, you need to know the trunk diameter of the tree you plan to feed. Keep in mind that tree diameters are measured 4 feet up from the soil surface. For trees with trunk diameters of 6 inches or less, apply 3 pounds of 6-6-6 fertilize for every inch of trunk diameter. For trees with trunk diameters larger than 6 inches, use 5 pounds of 6-6-6 fertiller for each inch of diameter. At this rate, the fertilizer is best applied by pouring into holes punched in the ground with a crowbar, jack handle or similar tool. If this is difficult for you, you may divide the total quantity of fertilizer required into three parts; apply one-third now, one-third in June, and one-third in early October by broadcasting under the canopy of the tree. Very small trees can be fed the same as shrubs.

Palm trees can be fed with either a 6-6-6 or 8-8-8 mixture. Apply the fertilizer at the rate of one pound for each inch of the trunk diameter. If your palm is so small that it doesn't have a woody trunk yet, apply from 2 to 8 ounces of fertilizer. The mixture can be broadcast under the palm's normal canopy.

In addition to the fertilizers mentioned, which provide the major plant nutrients, all landscape plants will benefit from an appliction of a minor element mixture. Many all-purpose fertilizers already contain these minor elements. If not, you'll need to add them. You can do this by using an all-purpose minor element mix- or use the individual elements that are needed. These include: magnesium sulfate, sulfur, and tron sulfate. The all-purpose mixes are more convenient to use, but they are more expensive, also. Whatever method you choose, always follow the manufacturer's recommended rates of

Since iron deficiency is a very common problem in Florida soils, you may want to include a chelated iron in your spring fertilizer program. Mix 1 ounce of 12 percent chelated fron in 25 gallons of water. Apply this quantity for each 100 square feet of landscape area. Contrary to beliefs, it's quite common in Florida for the soil pH to be too high, causing the minor elements to be tied up in compounds that are unavailable to plants. Sulfur or iron sulfate can be used to lower the pH of the alkaline soils.

KEEP A GARDEN DIARY Have you ever kept a garden diary?

If not, why not start one this year? You can use a 3-ring binder with removable pages or a spiral notebook. Every time you do something in the garden or landscape, make a note of the date and what you did, such as fertilizing, planting, mulching, etc. Be sure to keep a record of the names of the plants, the kind of fertilizer, the amount applied, even make a note of how much you paid.

Now, keep in mind that each season is different from year to year. Maybe you were able to plant a vegetable garden one year in February, but this year, foul weather held up planting a month. Keep notes on this. In future years, you can check back on the history of your garden. and this will help you remember what to do when and how much. Don't forget to make a note of your harvest. too, and how much the garden produced. Weather notes and rainfall amounts are helpful in determining is not so much his "real" watering practices.

ANNUAL TREE SEEDLING SALE

This year's annual tree seedling sale, co-sponsored by the Florida Division of Forestry and the Florida Nurserymen and Growers Association, will be held Saturday, April 14 at the Altamonte Mall, ground floor, west end. Proceeds from the sale go for scholarships in environmental studies. A very worthwhile project. Varieties offered this year include: silver dollar eucalyptus, loblolly bay, crape myrtle, southern magnolia, laurel oak, live oak, and East Palatka holly. The sale starts at 10:0 a.m. - be there early to be sure you get what you want. Happy gardening!

Rams Take Aim At Brewer In Crucial 5-Star Shootout

Herald Sports Editor

Baseball isn't everything at Apopka High School - it's the only thing. At least that's the way coach Sonny Wise and his hard-nosed ballplayers feel.

The baseball theory is a simple one — the Blue Darters just!play good, old country hardball. They hit, field and throw with the best of them which is one reason Wise's boys haven't lost very many games in the past three.

For the most part, Wise takes low-to-middle income youngsters, works them to death, and turns out quality ball teams, "We've got a good situation here because there is not a lot to do but play baseball," Wise said about his program. "That's the way we like it."

Wise has built Apopka into quite a program - and quite a facility - since he began there a few years ago. The baseball field is one of the best around, well-kept and dimensionally fair. It's easy to see that everyone contributes at Apopka.

Just 30 minutes after slapping three hits and driving in four runs there was senior standout Rodney Brewer dismantling the baseboard of the scoreboard and preparing to put it to rest for the night.

When asked if he hadn't contributed enough all ready that day, Brewer Just laughed and said, "No sir, everybody does his work around here."

Simple, hard-working and successful. That sums up Apopka's program.

It's a three-year program in its bloom right now. Seniors Brewer and shortstop Billy Johnson are the stags. Both are two-time All-Five Star Conference performers and the team leaders. Junior center fielder Mike Hinde, senior first baseman Trey Brasseur and sentor second sacker Tony Johnson are a notch behind. Senior pitcher Steve Thomason and third baseman Rigo Herrara are the role players. Sophomores Keith Ussery and Tim Oxley are the future standouts.

Apopka was the preseason pick in the Five Star Conference. The Darters bolted to a quick start, missed a gear in a loss to Lyman, then recled off several more wins. They stand 8-1-1 in the conference and 15-1-1 overall. They're in good shape for their third straight Five Star Conference title.

But, as Lake Mary football coach Harry Nelson likes to point out, "There's a new tiger in the woods." That tiger, however, is really another breed of animal - a Lake Mary Ram. And the Rams want to win the Five Star Conference just about as badly as the Apopka Blue Darters. They get a chance to show how badly Saturday at 1 p.m. when Apopka comes to Lake Mary High for the biggest baseball game of the year to date.

Realistically, the Rams are just about the only thing between the Blue Darters and their third crown. Lake Mary is 7-1 in the Five Star and 12-4 overall. First-year coach Allen Tuttle has molded a solid hitting outfit built on youth (just one senior starter) with some strong but it could do a lot to sending the winner on its way.

Prep Baseball

pitching from the next Rodney Brewer - sophomore righthander Mike Schmit.

The two teams, though, are as different as night and day. Where Apopka is experienced and tournamenttested, the Rams are young and just in the third year of their program. Where the Apopka boys are from low-to-middle income families, the Rams are from-middle-to-upper-income parents.

Experience vs. youth. Poor vs. rich. It should be a great matchup. But the rotation has rolled in Apopka's favor. Brewer, who is 5-0 this year, will be on the mound. Schmit, who is 8-0, will not - at least not right away. Schmit went seven innings in Lake Mary's win over Lake Howell Wednesday. He threw 90-some pitches and Tuttle will not start him Saturday. With two days rest, his effectiveness would be suspect

So, the Rams will have to beat one of the best pitchers in the state without their ace on the mound.

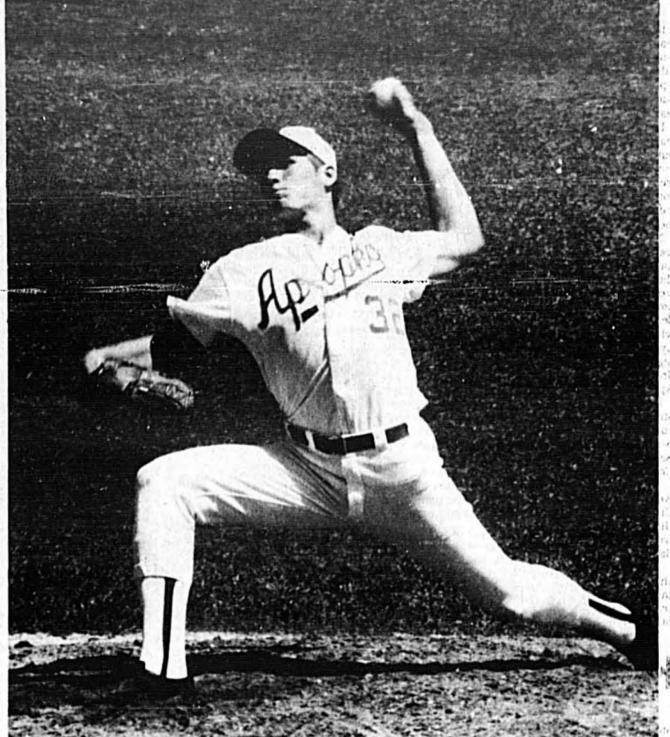

Wise and his Darters are relishing the challenge. "We're going to put Rodney on that hill Saturday and they can come and get him," said Sonny Wednesday, "I don't care if Schmit pitches. He can play, I heard he was smart and can hit the spots, but when you put a righthander on the mound against our (left-handed) hitting lineup, that's fine with us."

Lefty Brasseur leads off with his .350 average. Righty Billy Johnson follows with his .385 clip. Lefty Brewer is next with seven homers. 25 runs batted in and a .445 batting average. Lefty Hinde is next with his .340. Lefty Oxley, who plays against righthanders, is batting .370.

It's a lineup Tuttle will try to combat with righthanded junior Eric Hagen. Hagen has been the Dr. Jeykil and Mr. Hyde of the Lake Mary staff. Every other outing has been a good show. His last outing against Lake Brantley Monday was a bad show. If the pattern takes its course, the Rams may be all right. If ...

While Apopka has some strokers, Lake Mary doesn't pale when it comes to putting the aluminum on the ball. Freshmen Ryan Lisle (.390) and Shane Letterio (.290) are the rally starters. Juniors Scott Underwood (.367 and 13 RBI) and Scott Metz (11 RBI) along with Schmit have supplied the big hits. Junior Ron "Nate" Natherson (.366) is a dangerous hitter along with senior leader Barry Hysell (.347). Junior Kevin Hill has 17 runs scored from the seventh place in the batting order and Junior power man Donald Grayson is beginning to come out of hibernation.

Saturday won't make or break the conference race,

Apopka's Rodney Brewer stands in the way of Lake Mary and first place in the Five Star race.

While Apopka and Lake Mary have today off, the five other county baseball teams jump back into action. • At Daytona Beach, coach Bobby Lundquist's Fighting Seminoles try to snap a two-game losing skein against Seabreeze. The Tribe lost to Lake Howell and Apopka carlier this week and Lundquist hopes righthander Brian Sheffield can do the job on the Lundquist's day was brightened somewhat Wedensday when senior Chad Braden turned in an inning of scoreless relief. Braden (3-1) was Seminole's top hurler before a back problem sidelined him three weeks ago. He will resume his place in the starting rotation Monday

Virginia 63, Syracuse 55

With 7-4 Ralph Sampson gone to the NBA. the Virginia Cavaliers are no longer the favorites in the NCAA Tournament but they continued their "fun" trip Thursday night with a solid 63-55 win over 16th ranked Syracuse.

This year, we're not the favorites but we go out and play hard and we're coming out on top," said senior guard Othell Wilson, who scored 17 points to lead the Cavallers past the cold-shooting Orangemen.

The Cavaliers jumped out on top early and both coaches agreed Syracuse's poor shooting in the first half (8 for 29 for 27.6 percent) spelled the difference.

"It was quite obvious Syracuse didn't have a good night shooting the basketball," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "We did not anticipate using the zone for as long as we did, but it was working so well and Syracuse was having problems making the outside jumper that we stayed with it."

Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim said his team had shot the ball well all season against zone

'Tonight, we didn't in the first half and got behind," said Boeheim. "Virginia is a very difficult team to come back against. Basically, we didn't shoot the ball well enough in the first half to get close."

Both teams got off to terrible starts offensively, and Virginia trailed 6-4 after 6 1-2 minutes. But the Cavallers then ran off 12 straight points and Syracuse got no closer than six points the rest of the game.

Holland said he wasn't worried about the slow start. "Strange as it seems, I was thinking, 'This is right up our alley. We've made them look as bad as we're looking.' I thought the tempoand the whole tone of the game was right up our alley," he explained.

Virginia, 20-11, will be the underdog again Saturday. But that doesn't bother the Cavaliers, who upset 7th-ranked Arkansas last weekend to get a shot at Syracuse.

"It's easier for us this year because we are not the favorite like last season," said Virginia guard Othell Wilson, who was the Cavaller's scoring with 17 points, 9 on free throws. "We just go out and play hard, do our best to come out on top."

Virginia coach Terry Holland said he remembers "waiting to find out if we were going to get a bid.

"Othell called me at home to ask if I had heard. I told him I thought that because of our schedule we had a chance.

"He told me then." said Holland, "that if we did get a chance, we'd do well in the NCAA Tournament."

If you looked in the Lake Mary softball team's equipment bag you might find a few four-leaf clovers, a horseshoe, a rabbits foot and maybe one or two leprechauns. When it comes to luck, the Lady Rams have had a lot of it in their last few games.

Lake Mary, the Five Star Conference leader, had only four hits on Tuesday. but still managed to pull a 2-1 victory out of its hat. Thursday, the Lady Rams were outhit by the worst team in the conference, Spruce Creek, but two errors led to four runs and a 5-2 Lake Mary victory at Spruce Creek.

Two other Seminole County softball teams, Sanford's Lady Seminoles and Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks, outhit their opponents Thursday but the hits weren't falling in at the right times as both teams lost. Seminole dropped a 5-2 decision to Daytona Beach Seabreeze while DeLand trimmed Lake Howell, 3-2. Lyman's Lady Greyhounds equaled their biggest run output of the year (10) but dropped a 14-10 decision to hard-hitting Apopka.

Lake Mary, which has won five straight games remains on top of the conference with a 5.0 Five Star mark, 6.2 overall. The Lady Rams host Seminole Tuesday at 4 at Seminole Community College.

"The best shots we hit (Thursday) were being caught," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "But the balls that they (Spruce Creek) should have caught were being dropped. That's the kind of day it was."

Although the Lady Rams have had their share of luck in recent games, it takes more than that to be a first-place team. Lake Mary has been playing outstanding defense all season long and pitcher Beth Watkins has been a steadying influence on the mound. When the Lady Rams are on, and they have been all season, they're as tough as any team

Lake Mary got on the scoreboard first Thursday with two runs in the top of the first inning. Kim Averill and Watkins both drew walks and Lisa bimkins followed with a single which drove in Averill and Watkins scored on an error on the same play.

Spruce Creek belted out five straight hits in the bottom of the first to tie the game at 2.2, but Watkins and the Lady Rams' defense held the Ureek scoreless on just four hits the rest of the game.

Lake Mary broke the tie and went ahead for good with two runs in the top of the third. Averill, who was 3 for 3 on the day, singled and Watkins did the same. Lisa Gregory then lifted a fly ball to left field which the left fielder dropped. allowing both Averill and Watkins to score. Lake Mary added an insurance run in the fifth for a 5-2 lead.

The Lady Rams are in good position in the conference with only four conference games remaining. Instead of playing each team in the conference twice only one conference game against each team counts toward the title this season. That will make it hard for teams two games behind to catch up.

Lake Mary's remaining conference games include Seminole, Mainland, DeLand and Seabreeze. The Lady Rams will get a look at second-place DeLand in the West Orange Tournament next weekend before playing the Lady Bulldogs in a conference game.

Lake Mary's Lisa Gregory keeps her foot on the bag as she snags a high throw to nip Lyman's Lisa Wright at first base. Gregory and the Lady Rams maintained their lead in the Five Star Conference with a 5-2 victory over Spruce Creek Thursday. Lake Mary, 5:0 in the conference, is one game ahead of DeLand which took over second place with a 3-2 victory over Lake Howell Thursday. The Lady Rams host county rival Seminole Tuesday at Seminole Community College.

Seminole played well on both offense and defense Thursday, but the Lady Tribe left 12 runners on base and that spelled doom in a 5-2 loss to Seabreeze in Five Star Conference action at Daytona Beach.

"The hits were there, we just couldn't bring the baserunners around," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "Teams are throwing chances at us and we're not taking Hard luck fell on Lake Howell's Lady Hawks Thursday as they rapped 10 hits but could only score two runs.

Lake Howell stands at 7-2 overall and 4-2 in the conference. The Lady Hawks host Scabreeze Tuesday at DeLand took a 2-0 lead in the top of the first but Lake Howell got one run back in the bottom of the inning on a RBI single by Grace Ley. A sacrifice fly enabled DeLand to take a 3-1 lead in the top of the fifth.

Lake Howell responded with one run in the sixth. With one out, Mary Johnson singled to left and Ley reached on an error. Eileen Thiebauth singled off the pitcher's leg to load the bases and Barbara Heim looped a single up the middle to drive in Johnson. Lake Howell still had the bases loaded with one out when pinch hitter Beth Saunders drilled a line drive to the shortstop who caught Ley off third for an inning-ending double play.

Lake Howell put together another rally in the bottom of the seventh but DeLand turned the Lady Hawks away. Jaudon Jonas reached on a flelder's choice and Erin Hankins kept the Hawks alive with a clutch two-out single, the third hit of the game for the good-looking freshman. Sandy Gillies then smacked a line drive toward the right field line but the first baseman reached up and grabbed it for the final out of the game.

Drew Pearson In Serious Condition After Crash

DALLAS [UPI] - Dallas Cowboys wide receiver Drew Pearson remained in intensive care today after surgery for injuries he received in an auto accident that killed his brother.

Police said Pearson's car was traveling at an "unsafe speed" early Thursday when it slammed into the rear of a tractor-trailer truck parked near a freeway exit.

Pearson's brother, Carey Mark Pearson, 27, was pronounced dead at the scene.

Pearson, 33, underwent surgery at Presbyterian Hospital Thursday afternoon to stop bleeding in his liver.

Hospital spokesman Bill Mays said Pearson was in stable but serious condition after the surgery. He was taken to intensive care.

Cowboys coach Tom Landry joined a group of active and former Dallas players at the hospital. "Physically he is in pretty good shape," Landry said. "Mentally, he is not in as good of shape because of the death of his brother and FALL RIVER, Mass. (UPI) - Two Portuguese immigrants wept as a jury found them guilty of taking part in the gang rape of a young mother on a barroom pool table. The jury acquitted two other immigrants accused of cheering the rapists on with shouts of "Go

Within hours of the verdict, as many as 10,000 Portuguese-Americans and their supporters staged a candlelight march through New Bedford to protest the guilty verdicts. Organizers of the march said the six men tried in the attack, all Portuguese immi-

There is "no justice for immigrants,"

Cordeiro were led in manacles from the courthouse. Cordeiro raised his hands in an obscene gesture. Both men had sobbed as the jury announced its verdict.

Jose Medeiros, 23, and Virgilio Medeiros, 24, who are not related, were found innocent

Virgilio Medeiros said he was happy about his own acquittal, but felt the convictions of Raposo and Cordeiro were unjust.

There was no rape at Big Dan's," he said. "She led them on."

Judge William Young delayed sentencing until at least Monday for Raposo, Cordeiro and the two men convicted earlier in a separate trial - Daniel Silva, 27, and Joseph Vietra, 28. They could be sentenced to up to life in prison.

Pina said the verdicts showed the judicial system worked. Despite conflicting evidence, he said the two juries came to the same conclusion that "there was a tragedy to the victim."

The victim testified that she entered the now-closed bar to buy eigarettes and that she was raped on the tavern's pool table for at least two hours by as many as a dozen men while she pleaded for help. She said bystanders cheered her attackers on.

The six defendants were the only ones

Silva and Cordeiro, the only two defendants to testify, claimed the woman agreed to have sex with them, was laughing, appeared to enjoy herself and never cried out for help.

Cordeiro testified both he and Raposo had performed oral sex on the woman, but Cordeiro said the woman consented.

A bartender, Carlos Machado, testified the Medeiroses had cheered and shouted, "Go for it! Do it! That's the way it's done," when the other men were attacking the woman.

Machado əlso said Virgilio Medeiros prevented him from calling police.

Darlene Wheeler, a spokeswoman for the Coalition Against Sexist Violence, a group organized after the incident to combat attitudes that foster rape, said the verdicts "proved that the criminal justice system can give fair decisions to rape virtims."

Emily Sedgwick of the Committee for Justice, a group organized to protect the rights of the defendants, said the group is very pleased" with the innocent verdicts. But, she said, "nothing can repay those two men for what has happened to them in the past year.'

She said there was not enough evidence to convict Raposo and Cordeiro and the verdicts reflected bias against Portuguese.

Alvarez Wants Job Back

MIAMI (UPI) - Suspended city policeman Luis Alvarez says a jury has cleared him of any wrongdoing in the shooting death of a black youth two years ago and he wants to be reinstated on the police

In his first English-language interview since he was acquitted of manslaughter last week, the Cuban-born officer said he has "a responsibility to return" to the

Miami Police Department. "I feel like I have a responsibility to back my fellow officers because they backed me when I needed them, Alvarez said in a radio interview Wednesday. "It's a matter of personal

Daycare Center Teachers Charged In Child Molesting

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - Five teachers at a suburban daycare center have been indicted on 109 charges of sexually molesting 18 children - some as young as 2 - and threatening to harm the children's parents if they told anyone. District Attorney Robert Philibosian told a news conference Thursday there was evidence that sexual abuse occurred over the last 10 years at the McMartin Pre-School in Manhattan Beach and may have involved as many as 100 children of both Philibosian said the teachers told the children that their parents would be harmed. Small animals were actually slaughtered in the children's presence in order to frighten them ... so much that they wouldn't say anything." He requested $1 million bail for Raymond Buckey, 25, the grandson of the school's founder and owner, Virginia McMartin, who was not among those, arrested. Buckey is charged with 75 counts of Others indicted were Buckey's mother, Peggy McMartin Buckey, 57; his sister. Peggy Ann and two former McMartin teachers, Babette Spitler, 36, and Betty Raldor, 57.

Those arrested were to be arraigned today before

Superior Court Judge Ronald George. Philibosian refused to say if any suspects not yet arrested had been indicted, but said the investigation was continuing After the indictments were announced, some parents whose children attended the school issued a statement calling for further investigation, including charges that films purportedly made at the school may have been distributed through child pornographers. Philibosian would not comment on those He said 18 students at the school testified before the grand jury and some of the nine boys and nine girls would be called to testify at the trial. Some evidence was obtained by a child therapist who interviewed the children, using puppets to elicit descriptions of what happened. An investigation began last fall and Buckey was arrested on suspicion of child molestation but was released without formal charges being filed. The school was closed in January after police issued a warning and its license was revoked last month by the state Department of Social Services.

At least five civil suits for $1 million damages each have been filed by parents against Buckey and also accusing Mrs. McMartin and her daughter of negligence.

Police Chief Denies Links To The CIA

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) - The chief of the Salvadoran Treasury Police. Col. Nicolas Carranza, said charges he received $90,000 a year as an informant for the CIA were untrue and intended to discredit him.

Carranza, a former Defense Minister who was named head of the Treasury Police last year. dented he worked for the CIA.

"I be not know anybody who is a member of the CIA, and I have not received any money from the United States." Carranza said.

In Washington, Rep. James Shannon, D-Mass., filed a resolution asking the CIA to turn over documents about Carranza's reported links with the agency.

In a CBS Interview Wednesday, an unidentified source with access to high Salvadoran government officials implicated Carranza in death squad activity and said he had been a CIA informant for "five or six years."

The New York Times Thursday quoted U.S. officials as saying Carranza has received more than $90,000 a year as a CIA informant for the last five or six years.

600 Arrested In Strike

LIMA, Peru (UPI) - Security forces killed one person and arrested 600 during pitched battles with workers and students staging a general strike that the government declared a failure despite millions of dollars in production losses.

The coalition unions who organized the 24-hour strike Thursday over government economic policies said it was the largest labor protest ever against the 31/2-year-old civilian government of President Fernando Belaunde

Police, enforcing a nationwide state of emergency imposed by Belaunde in an attempt to prevent the shutdown, clashed with strikers and students in Lima and seven other Peruvian cities. Dozens of people were reported injured,

Banks, schools, mines and factories across the country closed and thousands of workers joined the strike called by major labor coalitions to protest inflation and recession they blame on stiff government economic measures.

Rebels Kill 16 Militiamen

By United Press International

U.S.-financed guerrillas killed 16 Sandinista militiamen in an ambush in Nicaragua's northern mountains, where the insurgents and government forces are locked in heavy combat, a military official said.

Guillermo Martinez, a Nicaraguan militia official in San Rafael Norte, 72 miles north of Managua, said Thursday rebels of the U.S. supported Nicaraguan Democratic Force Tuesday attacked government troops in the nearby town of El Plantel. The rebels, who are fighting to overthrow the Sandinista government, are trying to disrupt the economy and upcoming national elections with a campaign of attacks on key targets.

In the Nicarguan capital of Managua, the Superior Council of Private Enterprise, known as COSEP, said presidential elections set for Nov. 4 may not be held because of a state of emergency and the country's dire economic

The Druze-operated Voice of the Mountain radio accused the Mourabitoun of "stirring sectarian hatred" and provoking violations of a cease-fire de-

The land eventually was obtained by National Bulk Carriers, which asked in July 1979 for permission to excavate a lake and fill the remainder of the land to the elevation of flood criteria, in order to make it suitable for farming. The county denied the request on Sept.

That was a victory for the ophthalmologists, who for several years had been lighting off attempts by optometric lobbyists who wanted to legalize use of pupil-dilating drugs and other medicines by the optometrists.

Optometrists
Can't Use Drugs,

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The long-running medical dispute between ophthalmologists and optometrists has been resolved in favor of the eye doctors -

A Department of Administration hearing exam-

Says Examiner

The optometrists had sought authority to use drugs for dilating pupils and paralyzing optic muscles in examinations and prescription of antibiotics for treatment of glaucoma and other serious eye diseases.

The Florida Legislature last year passed a bill allowing optometrists to prescribe drugs and use them in eye examinations. Gov. Bob Graham vetoed it, saying he favored drug use by optometrists in examinations - but not for treatment of eye

A five-month court fight ensued, with the optometrists claiming unsuccessfully that Graham had waited too long to veto their bill and that it had become law without his signature. Circuit Judge Ben Willis upheld the veto Jan. 5.

The ophthalmology association had separately challenged the 1975 policy statement and administrative rule in court a year earlier and - after an initial dismissal that was reversed - went to hearings before Caleen last fall.

Court Strikes Environmental Provision

struct a concrete pier marina in

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - For the first time, an appeals court has said Florida can't force builders to prove that a project is in the public interest before issuing a permit in specially protected waterways.

The First District Court of Appeal said Thursday the Department of Environmental Regulation has no legal basis for the public-interest provision of a rule covering Outstanding Florida Waters.

The special designation was created by DER to give extra protection to waterways that have special environmental or scenic characteristics. The appeals court upheld the designation, but not one of the key rules used to enforce it. Grove Isle Ltd. wanted to con-

Biscayne Bay in Dade County, an aquatic preserve that carries the Outstanding Florida Water designa-DER rejected the application, citing a rule prohibiting structures in Outstanding Florida Waters unless applicants can demonstrate the projects are "clearly in the public interest" and won't harm the water. Grove Isle challenged the ruling.

Writing for the court, Judge Douglass B. Shivers said the "public interest" requirement was not defined in DER's rule in a way that would allow the agency, a court or an applicant to know whether the provision had been satisfied.

"The rule appears to allow DER to determine arbitrarily whether an applicant has proposed an activity which is 'clearly in the public interest,' based on DER's subjective and unwritten notions of what the 'public Interest' might be," Shivers

The court, however, refused to throw out the entire Outstanding Florida Waters program, despite Grove Isle's contention that the rules don't meet statutory requirements.

"The rules should be sustained as long as they are reasonably related to the purposes of the enabling legislation, and are not arbitrary and capricious," the court said.

Elderly Couple Found Hacked To Death

PENSACOLA (UPI) - The bodies of an elderly couple have been found hacked to death by someone with a long-handled axe and investigators were searching for a 19-year-old suspect, police say.

The victims were identified as Willie May Grayson and an unidentified man who was living with her, police sald. The object of the search was Mrs. Grayson's grandson, Raymond Grayson.

Police said the younger Grayson had not been seen since he attended a local high school Wednesday.

The mutilated bodies were discovered Thursday afternoon, but police said the killings took place

Wednesday night. One Pensacola police sergeant called it "the most gruesome scene I've seen in 19 years on the force."

A three-foot-long single edged axe was found next to the bodies and police said the killer also hacked the couple's German shepherd dog to death. Neighbors said they heard the dog barking at around 8:30 Wednesday night and heard no other sounds after that. The man was struck twice in the head and face and the woman was hit about 12 times in the face and upper body, investigators said.

JERUSALEM (UPI) - The Israeli parliament, in a heated session marked by name-calling, handed Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's 6-month-old government a stinging defeat by voting to force early elections that could take place in September.

The Knesset voted 61-58 Thursday on three motions to dissolve the 120-member parliament and call new elections ahead of the scheduled November 1985 date. The early elections proposal now must go to a Knesset committee, which will turn it into a bill and set a date for

'Peppercorn': Very 'Non-Traditional Ballet'

By Susan Loden Herald Staff Writer

An old-time traveling show may be just what the doctor ordered to ward off a bout with spring fever. So, step right up for the one and only, once in a lifetime showing of Professor Peppercorn and the Amazing Outdoor Traveling Show.

Peppercorn will be in town for just one performance with his troupe of 20 dancing clowns. puppets and a host of other fanciful and realistic characters (who are also known as the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole dancers.)

At 8 p.m. Saturday, March 24, Sanford surgeon Dr. Frank Clontz will don old-time showman's gear of top hat, striped trousers, tails, ruffled shirt with multicolored ascot, fake mustache and redish-blond wig to become ... maestro, a drum roll please ... Professor Peppercorn.

Clontz will step into the spotlight at the Lake Mary High School stadium and take on the persona of a turn-of-the-century showman and ringmaster as he introduces the acts and provides the thread of theme to weave together this showcase for dancers, the 16th annual major production of the Ballet Guild.

"This will be a very non-traditional ballet," according to Clontz, who, incidentally, does not dance and says he has trouble even walking. "It isn't classical ballet, it's more Jazz, free style, tap,

The program, scripted by Sanford historian Mildred B. Caskey, will be the Guild's first attempt to produce an outdoor show.

"It would be dumb to do a show outdoors where our dancers would have to compromise their performance," said Valerie Weld, who along with her sister Miriam Wright, produced and choreographed the show.

This is our premier performance for our home city. This is where our sponsors are and we expect that they will be expecting our best from us and hopefully this show will be as good as it could possibly get as far as our performances and creative efforts go.

"Our first thought has always been to entertain. Why bring an audience in if you're going to bore them to death? We aren't afraid to try something different," Ms. Weld said."

Peppercorn was conceived by Ms. Wright with the hope that the circus-like atmosphere and the rhyming script will attract and entertain an audience which might shy away from a traditional

The dancers, who range in age from 10 up, "worked hard to earn a role in the show," Ms. Weld said. They practice 14 to 18 hours a week and had to win an audition for their parts.

"The Amazing Traveling Circus has toured the world, and in our imaginations we know it has been in the very smallest backwaters of the world," Ms. Weld said. And despite Peppercorn's grandious style and the carnival atmosphere of the show, "some of the lines are rather serious...when we get into the concept of freedom and the battles of the Civil War," Ms. Weld said.

Music for the show ranges from The Battle Hymn of the Republic to Neil Diamond's America.

Tickets will be $2 for children and $3 for adults and will be on sale the night of the show or can be picked up at Atlantic Bank and several other Sanford businesses. Money earned through ticket sales will be used to cover ballet production costs.

An alternate rain date for the show has been set for April 7, but rain or shine there will only be one performance ever of this unique showcase for local

Gross Gets Big Break

By Peter Meade

Long before there was "Sat-urday Night Live," Mary Gross worked for five years as a secretary for the American Dental Association in her native Chicago.

"I was never on time for work," she recalls. "But I always kept the boss laughing. I always had the image of being Rose Marie working with Dick Van Dyke and Morey Amsterdam."

"I ended up being funny in a Don Knotts sort of way," says Miss Gross. But after completing the workshop, her teachers asked her to stay on as an apprentice and soon a new career, with the famed "Second City" comedy troupe, was born

Star Takes Heat For 'Little House' Destruction

By Vernon Scott UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - To what degree do viewers take seriously the behavior of actors in prime time television shows?

Do they genuinely believe Mr. T fires live ammo?

Is Daniel J. Travanti really running a police precinct?

Could Pernell Roberts remove an appendix?

Is Larry Hagman truly filthy rich? Believe it or not, there are Americans sitting in front of TV sets who fall to distinguish between actor and role.

Sometimes the differences are slightly blurred, e.g. Joan Collins in Dynasty and Stuntman's Lee Majors. Joan is sultry, bewitching and naughty. Lee is a rough-and-tuugh actor who does some of his own

But some viewers ascribe virtues or villainies in TV shows directly to the performer.

Take the case of James Karen, a long-time character actor who played a robber baron in the final episode of Little House on the Prairie. As Nathan Lassiter he bought out the hamlet of Walnut Grove, forcing its inhabitants to blow it up.

To Karen it was just another job. another payday.

To millions of viewers he represented the depths of wickedness, an unfeeling scoundrel responsible for leveling a town.

To several hundred viewers, Karen himself was the heavy.

They reacted by telephoning and writing outraged letters to Pathmark Supermarkets, a chain of 150 food stores in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

Why, you ask, would furious viewers write to a supermarket about a TV actor?

Simple. Karen does 500 TV commercials a year for Pathmark. He is the bozo who hucksters the produce, meats and groceries, the bargains, sales and the like.

For 15 years Karen has been The Pathmark Man shoppers in seven states have come to know and trust. His face is familiar and almost beloved by countless families in the Northeast.

Then, suddenly, there he is, right there in Walnut Grove making scores of decent townfolk homeless.

"Hundreds of letters came in to Pathmark asking the store to do something about me." a stunned Karen sald. "The customer relations department couldn't believe it.

For some reason they never objected to other heavies I played. But the evilness of Nathan Lassiter blew their minds. I guess they realized they'd never see Walnut Grove again and it created a great sense of loss.

Karen read a letter from viewer Veronica Truska of New Jersey:

"I always liked the man you have in your commercials but after what he did to the little town of Wainut Grove. I couldn't believe it. I don't see how I can continue to shop at Pathmark after what your spokesman did to those innocent people.

"I guess I'll have to go back to Shoprite, even though I like your stores better. I still can't believe you'd let him do that."

It entered Karen's mind that he could lose a lucrative position.

This is the best job an actor can have," he said. "It pays very well and it's steady. It's given me the freedom to be selective about the roles I play. But I guess I can't go around destroying towns like Walnut Grove. it's a bad idea.

"I am a part of the company, not just another actor doing commercials. I'm clearly identified with the stores. I go to New York every two weeks and run off 20 30-second commercials at a

"We've never used my name on the air but my recognition factor in those states is incredible. I'm on the air as often as 30 times a day on some areas.

The day after they blew up Walnut Grove I was in New York. Truck drivers yelled at me. A cop said. 'Don't expect me to stop traffic for you,' and a cab driver said he wouldn't pick me

Karen, a good natured, easy-going man, resolved to set angry viewers straight. He replied by letter and telephone.

'Some people were dead serious," he said. "And they were astounded to be hearing from me. At first they were floored. Then they laughed.

"Mrs. Truska, for instance, said her letter was a joke, but her husband was worried I'd lose my job."

Hope Foots Bill For Troop Christmas Shows

DEAR DICK: Bob Hope entertained the troops at Christmas time for many years. Many people assume that Hope and his troupe performed free of charge. Did he, in fact, receive reimbursement for his services? - J.W.S., Santa Maria, Callf.

No. Not in the sense that he was given a check by the government. However, he did film or tape most of those performances and they became the basis for his TV specials and, of course, he got big money for them. But Hope absorbed the costs for all of the people he took with him - crew, performers, band - and that was expensive. His people insist that he made money on some of the TV shows culled from his overseas trips, but on others he actually wound up losing money

DEAR DICK: I understand that Barbara Hale, who starred in Perry Mason, is the mother of William Katt, who starred in The Greatest American Hero. I say his father was William Boyd, of Hopalong Cassidy fame. Right or wrong? I've anted my hand in marriage on this. Please answer. — S.B., Amarillo, Texas

Ask Dick Kleiner

For your wedding preparations, I am pleased to offer you something blue - you lose. Katt's father is actor Bill Williams.

DEAR DICK: Could you please tell me the names of The Oak Ridge Boys. I am a real fan of theirs. Also please tell me how old they are. My grandma thinks they are not brothers, but I think they are. — T.M.M., eport, Neb.

Your grandma is a smart lady. Over the years since the group was formed, there have been something like 30 singers who have come and gone and called themselves Oak Ridge Boys. At the last census, the four in the group were Duane Allen, who is 40; William Lee Golden, who is 45; Richard Sterban, who is 40; and the kid, 35-year-old Joe Bonsall. Not a brother in the crowd.

DEAR DICK: I have heard that Don Knotts and Carol Burnett are brother and sister. Is this is true? - E.H., Quincy, Ill.

Totally false. Cross those people you heard that story from off your list.

DEAR DICK: Will you please tell me the year the series, I Married Joan, premiered on TV? Also, what year did Joan Davis die? - L.C., Carthage, Mo.

I Married Joan ran from 1952 until 1955. Joan Davis died six years later.

DEAR DICK: I have noticed that Sondra Locke stars in all of Clint Eastwood's movies, and I was wondering why? Are they a team or something? — J.E.M., Saginaw, Mich.

'Something" is closer than "a team." Eastwood and Miss Locke are a romantic duo, as well as acting

A Birthday Celebration: Carlo's Dinners At Reduced Prices This Week Only

If you're a connoisseur of pizza and you've tried the rest, then maybe it's time to try the best... Carlo's at 1008 S. French Ave., Sanford.

Carlo's lays claim to this title by virtue of sheer hard work. As Paul Baio, owner and chef, explains: "We do everything except grind our own flour," for the pizza.

The slight exaggeration is forgiveable as one sinks pearly teeth into tender crust layered with special sauce and seasonings, topped with whole milk mozzarella. Maybe you've never given much thought as to what goes into pizza, but your tastebuds will tell. And, according to Paul, so will your pocketbook since Carlo's offers pizza at "a price that no other place can beat - lowest priced pizza anywhere."

And, it's not a commercial pizza since its made from scratch by Paul.

Now this same thoughtfulness as to quality and ingredients goes into the preparation of all dinners prepared, Paul assures, and prices have not changed here in more than two years.

For a restaurant of its size, 52 seats, Carlo's boasts an extensive menu. At least 34 meals, not counting pizza and luncheon choices.

Balo claims that by combining sauces, pastas and other ingredients, he can offer up to 700 differnt dishes. And, all dishes are prepared as they are ordered. The basic tomato sauce is prepared fresh each morning in the kitchen of the restaurant fo ensure quality and consistency.

Paul, who has cooked in fine New York restaurants, stepped into his father's, Carlo's, shoes last year continuing a family business of eight years in Sanford. Carmella (Mamma) and Debble (Paul's wife) have also been active in the family business.

Carlo's Restaurant, open for lunch and dinner, serves generous portions with lunches beginning at $1.99. The establishment is now open seven days a week.

For one week only, Paul is offering one dollar off on all baked dishes, steaks, veal and scafood as his gift to customers in observance of his birthday. Diners must use the coupon on this page.
