American for enterprise, the economically feasible realization of an "impractical dream" of two decades ago.

When the late Dr. Charles Herty, Savannah scientist, began experimenting with pine-needle paper, there were both scientific and financial barriers to hurdle. Paper had been made from pine since about 1920, but it was dark in color, coarse and unsuitable for anything but wrappings and heavy cartons. Dr. Herty was told that it would be impossible to take out the turpentine and resins and bleach the paper sufficiently for newsprint manufacture.

Even when his experiments proved successful and a pilot plant at his Savannah laboratories produced a few rolls in 1931, the financial barriers loomed. Economic capital was needed for the tremendous production essential if Southern newsprint were to compete in price with that manufactured in Canada and other Northern spruce-forest districts.

The plant began to take physical shape on April 17, 1948, when ground was broken for the mill that now, less than two years later, is a completed plant. Approximately 3,500 carloads and 5,500 truckloads of material and equipment were required in the complete project.

Ordnance Works
The enterprise in terms of the initial idea and the subsequent planning necessary to bring it into being goes back many years; and many can share the credit for a permanent producing enterprise in an area that might otherwise have been a desolate vacuum left in the wake of World War II.

The project had its roots back in the depression days of the early 1930's. Realizing that the South's forests of fast-growing pine were an unappreciated asset and believing that they could be utilized in the making of paper, the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association began to promote the idea of Southern paper mills to make newsprint.

This formed a partial background against which another, and at first quite unrelated, problem could be solved. This was the matter of Childersburg and its surrounding area, which during the war was the site of the Alabama Ordnance Works. With the close of hostilities, hundreds of wartime jobs were no longer available, and the prospect for the town particularly and for Tallapoosa County, after enjoying the wartime upsurge of jobs and money, was one of quick collapse into a state of low economic activity.

To prevent this, a citizens' group from the county — the Childersburg County War Plant Reconversion Committee under the leadership of Donald Comer and Thomas W. Martin — set out to do something to help with the re-

Power Plant

At this point the Alabama Chamber of Commerce entered the picture. Acting as a catalytic agent, they brought together the Newsprint Committee of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association (SNPA) and the county group in the hope that their two problems could be solved jointly. When this happened, results shortly became evident, and the long years of promotion on the part of the nobiliters and the intensive efforts of the Tallapoosa citizens bore fruit.

On June 12, 1947 the Cosco River Company took over ownership of their first properties. The existing facilities were located on a large government-owned reservation, and the new company purchased outright a 615 acre segment of this, including the "old" on which the existing buildings were. They also signed leases giving them 40 year use of the improvements. Chief among these were the 30,000 kw power plant and the 83,000,000 gallon water plant, but also included were such other things as various process boilers, several miles of paved highways, and railroad tracks.

With basic plans set, a site and facilities located, and with the nucleus of an organization, the next problem facing the new company were getting the necessary technical know-how to design, build, and operate the plant. They turned to Kimberly-Clark Corporation of Neenah, Wis., as a long-established, widely-known concern, which had as a part of its organization complete and experienced engineering, research, woodlands and sales staffs, as well as personnel experienced in the kind of operating problems posed in this new venture, along with specific experience in newsprint dating back to 1878. After several months of conferences and studies, later in 1947 agreements were made between the Cosco Company and Kimberly-Clark under which the latter would assume full responsibility for the design and construction of the plant, for the operation of it, and for the sale of its finished product.

Ground Breaking
First construction began on April 18, 1948, following several months of the planning and engineering preliminaries necessary to the letting of contracts. Ground breaking ceremonies were held on the day, and were attended by Edward Norton, governor of the Cosco River Newsprint Company, and by U. S. Senator Tom Heflin, who presided at the ceremonies.

There is much to the huge industrial building, built on part of the old Childersburg ordnance works site, than the paper mill. The operators employed under 40-year leases the $2,000,000 federal power plant, and the $3,000,000 water plant, and a $500,000 waste water treatment plant. Also housed was the $1,000,000 water filter plant used by the mill. Some 400,000 awarded jointly to the United Company of Greenville, S. C., an established Southern company experienced in the building of textile mills, and to the P. H. McGraw Company of New York, and Hartford Engineering was done by Kimberly-Clark's engineering department and by the Cosco Company, which had made the original survey from which the recommendations for the mill's key construction personnel were selected from the several offers.

When construction began, the original schedule called for completion in the space of 18 months. It was expected the mill would be 2 years in building. The first production of the mill actually was turned out on Dec. 25, 1949, when the pulp mill started operating, indicating how start-up dates have been surpassed.

Raw Materials

Raw material problems were thoroughly solved as a part of the original planning of the project, which indicated that there would be an abundance of wood in the immediate vicinity of the mill to carry its needs. Within a 50 mile radius are some 4,000,000 acres of forest land, and within a 100 mile radius are 10,000,000 acres. The 50 mile limit alone will produce an estimated 1,500,000 cords of pulpwood each year, as compared with the mill requirement of 250,000 cords.

As a part of its operation, the Cosco Company will have a forestry staff with a maximum of 15 to 18 men, not only in the most effective methods of growth, protection and harvesting of their own wood. There will eventually be three or four "observation foresters" working for the company on this project. The first plantings of seedling trees was completed early in 1949 when about 200,000 trees were set out on lands owned by the company.

Because of the nature of southern wood, it is not stocked for long periods like northern varieties. Plans are for a woodpile with a maximum of three weeks' supply. The first wood received was purchased on Dec. 1, 1949. This production indicates a steady, year-round flow of wood to the mill, closely geared with mill consumption.

The product will be distributed well beyond areas close to the mill. Available for transporting finished paper and pulp, as well as the incoming materials, are three of the areas important rail lines, the Southern Central of Georgia and the Atlantic Coast Line. Access by highway is on State Highway 91.

Administration
The Cosco River administrative group includes: A. G. Walker, man, executive vice-president and general manager; Ralph M. Watt, vice-president in charge of sales; W. W. Cross, sales manager; William E. Hornbeck, resident manager; and P. A. Bechtel, comptroller. John Robinson is woodlands manager; C. C. Laide, plant engineer; Al. D. Binkley, purchasing agent; Howard A. Neubaum, office manager; John Thurmer, wood storage and preparation superintendent; James Mounthan, groundwood superintendent; J. D. Bailey, pulp mill superintendent; Jay Grittenden, paper mill superintendent; James Simpson, service operations superintendent; G. A. DeCoudres, industrial engineering superintendent; and C. R. Koons, personnel superintendent.

Present directors of the Cosco River Newsprint Company are as follows: Stewart M. Chambers, president; Donald Comer, E. K. Gayles, C. B. Hanson, Jr., John R. Kimberly, Ernest Mahler, Thomas W. Martin, Edward L. Norton, Cole D. Parker, Rex A. Roberts, John S. Sims, A. A. E. Walker, and Ralph M. Watt. Present officers are as follows: Chairman of the Board, Donald Comer; President, Stewart M. Chambers; Vice President, E. K. Gayles; Secretary, John S. Sims; Treasurer, A. G. Walker; and Assistant Secretary, John Robinson. Sales

300 Tons Daily
Paper will be produced on two modern, high speed newsprint machines designed to turn out 300 tons daily of high quality product. Pulping facilities include both groundwood and chemical equipment. The former are rated at 250 tons daily, all of which will go into the manufacture of paper at the mill. Part of the sulphate production will be used in newsprint and the remainder sold for other uses. Under terms of Kimberly-Clark's contract, they will buy this sulphate pulp.

Justice Prattman wrote the majority decision with Justice Frankfurter concurring. A vigorous dissent came from Justice Edgerton who declared:

"Without trial by jury, without evidence and without even being allowed to confront her accusers or to know their identity, a citizen of the United States has been found disloyal to the government for the United States."

The majority opinion argued: "The Constitution placed upon the President and the Congress, and upon them alone, responsibility for the welfare of this country in the arena of world affairs."

Home Gardeners Must Keep Soil Rich In Humus To Get The Best Results

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
 Every gardener dreams of the day when he can go to the garden and pick up a dozen, and rich handful of soil. Some people undoubtedly achieve this "happy condition," but most of the time they are building and improving the earth.

But even for the fortunate ones with productive loam of the right consistency, there remains constantly the task of keeping soil rich in organic material which is plant food.

Diagnose treatment and care of soil is a huge subject and it should be done by the gardener. A heavy library on this phase of gardening alone. The gardener can carry on an intelligent program of garden betterment, however, without understanding all of the "why's" or "wherefore's" of his activities.

What Soil Does
 It's almost enough to know that soil is a handy way of growing plants. It provides a place where plants can grow and spread, giving them a toe hold from which they can grow up into the air and sun. At the same time it is acting as a hook anchor, it gives to the plant roots the plant food to make growth.

Plants can take food only when the chemical elements are dissolved in water — and soil is a handy receptacle to hold the food in.

Finally, the soil acts as a reservoir or storage place for water and food, so that last week's rainstorm can turn into next week's dinner for the plants.

Unhappily, not all soil in fact, most of it — isn't ideally conditioned to act as a double-duty anchor and feeder. That's where the gardener gets into the act.

The Hand Problem
 Soil which is too sandy fails to both its functions. It dries out quickly and permits water to leach out, thus providing neither a firm gripping place for the roots nor a constant supply of food. Soil which is mostly clay is too solid to permit the roots to make their growth hold water so hard that it doesn't reach the roots and when dry — bakes to a hard crust. Unhappily, many soils are somewhere between the two. Good garden soil contains sand, clay and — very important — the organic matter which is the food itself.

To remedy a too-sandy condition, the gardener has the job of supplying matter to bind the minute sand particles and provide organic matter. About the best materials for this purpose are well-rotted stable manures, compost, leafmold or peatmoss. How to mix sandy soil with a cover-crop of rye, buckwheat or cowpeas — and then dig the crop into the soil, is a wonderful soil conditioner. Repeatedly, evenly distributed, will provide water-holding qualities and slowly added coal ashes will help, too.

When the soil is too firm, because of an over-supply of clay, addition of coarses sand will lighten it. Oddly enough, such soil also will be improved by the digging in manure, compost and the other organic tonics, as well as by raising a cover crop and adding coal ashes, too.

The Water Problem
 Good garden soil is or lawn soil is a fairly delicate balance. Now it handles water is vitally important. Unhappily, we depend almost entirely on rainfall to feed plants. Water which soil particles can't hold is useless to most plants. The idea is to create soil which holds a film of water around each particle of soil. This film — known as capillary water — rises from permanent ground water and is used either by the plant or lost by evaporation.

What all of us want in the way of growing soil can be easily identified. Keep up a damp, not wet, damp and squeeze the soil into a ball. If it holds this form when released by the hand, wet crumbles apart when touched lightly, it does so, it's the consistency seeds and plants will like.

The counsel, now Robert N. Denham, is empowered, for instance, to bring charges of unfair labor practices against a union. The board then lays the charges. Under Mr. Truman's proposal the board itself would decide in the first place whether the charges should be brought and would also lay them.

Senator Taft of Ohio, one of the authors of the T-H law, and some other Congressmen contend that Mr. Truman is attempting to repeal part of the T-H law by indirect means, having failed in his efforts to get the law repealed outright.

The United States Chamber of Commerce is opposing Mr. Truman's move. It sent the House committee a statement today saying the reorganization plan "would restore the unfair and inequitable administration of our national labor law prevalent in the days before the separation of the prosecution and judicial functions of the board."

Crack Sleuth To Investigate Woman's Death

Body of Mother Is Discovered Clad In Night Apparel

WATERBURY, Vt., Mar. 23—(AP)—A crack state detective today swung into the investigation of the mysterious death of the wife of a ski resort innkeeper.

Almo G. Franzoni of the state Attorney General's office joined other state and local officials in investigating the death of Mrs. Pauline G. Molony, 40, mother of two children.

Her nightgown clad body was found Saturday morning outside the 50-room inn operated by her husband, Edmund.

Investigators expressed hope that an autopsy report would help solve the puzzle. In a preliminary report, Dr. John Spelman, state pathologist, said the woman died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

The report said she had suffered a blow on the head and bruise and scratches on the left hand, left foot and knee.

Investigators yesterday questioned the woman's husband and Dr. Henry St. Antoine, a guest at the inn for about four months. They declined to comment on the results of the questioning.

State Attorney Reginald Abare said the woman apparently did not die of natural causes. He said, however, that the possibility of accidental death could not be dismissed even though "there is some evidence of foul play."

Richard Cutting, 61, night clerk at the inn, told reporters he saw Mrs. Molony in the lobby, clad in a bathrobe, early Saturday morning. A few minutes later, he said, he saw her standing near the entrance.

He said she looked frightened. His attention was distracted for a moment and when he looked again, the woman had disappeared.

Meanwhile, in Iowa City a University of Iowa pathologist, still on the witness stand today, testified a pretty, blond found dead was killed as the "result of force" applied to the neck.

Dr. E. J. Boyd, 24, assistant professor of pathology at Iowa, reported this yesterday in the murder trial of Robert E. Bonnasak, 24, Iowa psychology student.

The soft spoken defendant is charged with strangling his beautiful campus classmate, Margaret Anne (Gee-Gee) Jackson, 20, The Burlington, Ia. student had once worn Bonnasak's fraternity pin in the campus tradition signifying "engagement."

The pathologist, who performed an autopsy on Miss Jackson a few hours after her body was found early Dec. 11, gave a detailed description of exterior wounds on the girl's neck and of internal injuries to the larynx (voice box).

Dr. Boyd testified yesterday the autopsy showed a "tough" cartilage which joins two parts of a small bone in the larynx and another cartilage in the larynx were fractured.

He said the nature of the wounds indicated "force had been applied to that portion of the neck." This resulted in swelling and the closing of the windpipe, he said. Cause of death, he testified, was asphyxia, a condition which develops when the body is deprived of its normal supply of oxygen.

The pathologist described the exterior wounds as a double puncture wound beneath the left ear, a bruise on the right side of the jaw, and an oblong bruise about two inches in length and an inch across which overlies the thyroid cartilage (Adam's apple).

Dr. Boyd was the state's 23rd witness. The state has filed a list of 50 witnesses.

40 Berlin Beggars Answer Roll Call In Blasted Ruins

By BERMAN TIMM

AP Newsfeatures
BERLIN—Forty shabbily-dressed men answer roll call each morning on a desolate, bomb-blasted backyard in Berlin's Soviet sector.

Leaning lastly against a crumbling wall as he calls roll is a young, broad-shouldered man. They call him just Erich though he is the self-styled king of the Berlin beggar league. In the uneasy light of the dawn he assembles his men to send them on their daily begging assignments throughout the city.

King Erich of the beggar league is a 28 year old former locksmith, tired of working. He watches the more or less successful individual efforts of beggars at length before he decided to inject a system into the art of removing money from soft-hearted passers by.

Erich got busy and gathered 40 "full-time" beggars. He convinced them of his idea to form a sort of organized fraternity with the purpose of jointly begging daily beggar. He has developed a thorough technique. While most of his men are sent on daily assignments throughout the Soviet sector, part of his group swarms over western Berlin. These men must contribute 20 per cent of their daily income to a common fund because a weak mark is worth six east marks.

The fund is used to support member beggars who fall ill or who fail to beg their daily minimum profit of eight east marks (50 cents.) King Erich carefully checks the daily assignments with a master-list to avoid having the same man appear too often on the same corner. The police might become unpleasant.

But the organized drain on human sympathy is only part of King Erich's profitable enterprise. The older and more yielding part of the business is what he calls his tobacco industry. Each of his men must collect all the cigarette stubs he finds during the day.

"Pick them wherever you find them" is what Erich tells his boys. They act accordingly. All of them make a point of fulfilling the daily quota of 20 stubs and many exceed it.

Late at night, a special shift of men processes the stubs in an old garage. The six men sit around a table on which a huge mountain of limp cigarette ends is heaped. With swift fingers the stubs are classified into four categories: American, Bulgarian, German and a fourth category sold as pipe tobacco.

The second phase is the rolling of the tobacco into new cigarettes. King Erich's pride is his steady supply of original-looking cigarette paper and packs. Among his men is a former printer.

The next day a new shift of beggars gets busy selling the cigarettes on east Berlin's black market. Their customers are hurrying passers-by and taxi drivers. The team is tough competition to other black market dealers because the beggars sell at cut-rate prices.

Only once in the last 20 Big Ten basketball races has a team gone through the schedule undefeated.

Until he turned the tables in the 1950 CIA indoor meet, Penn State's Jim Gehlke had never licked Michigan State's Horace Smith in the hurdles. It was their fourth meeting.

Joe Annyal, national single sculls champion, has been appointed chairman of the New York A. C. Rowing Committee for 1950.

Senator Pepper And The Negro Vote

There seems to be a growing tendency on the part of some of Senator Pepper's supporters to discount the Negro vote and to assume that it is all going to Senator Pepper. One of the most ardent supporters of Senator Pepper, the publisher of the Orlando Sentinel, said the other day "the colored man and the colored woman is voting for Claude Pepper. Why? Forget about FEPC and all the other mysterious initiated laws which mean more than most of us are willing to believe. Just remember that the Negro vote is for Pepper. We may as well face the issue."

It may as well be conceded that the majority of the Negro vote is for Pepper, but we are inclined to believe that the more intelligent Negroes can see that outside interference in Florida's racial problems can be as harmful to the Negro as to anyone else and do not believe that the leading citizens of Georgetown and Goldsboro are going to want to see the friendly and peaceful relations which have existed in this community for so many years, disturbed.

Senator Pepper's chief claim to fame among the Negro population is his advocacy of Civil Rights legislation. As he said in his Gainesville speech last year to University of Florida students, he is in favor of federal legislation on racial problems and he proposes to support the Civil Rights program from beginning to end, even if it means his defeat in the present federal election. That is to say, Senator Pepper favors federal laws eliminating poll taxes, abolishing segregation of the races, prohibiting lynchings, and banning discrimination.

Let the Negro consider what these bills mean to him. Let him consider first the elimination of the poll tax. Florida has no poll tax. Florida is the only state in the North American continent that has no poll tax. It was designed to prevent Negroes from voting. But Negroes have voted in Florida ever since we can remember and they have nothing whatever to gain from the passage of Federal poll tax legislation.

The second of the so-called Civil Rights bills would abolish segregation of the races. That is to say, there would be no separate colored and white schools. There would be no Georgetown and Goldsboro. Negroes could not have their own churches, their own dances, their own beer parlors. Everywhere Negroes went there would be white people around them. We are under the impression that such an arrangement would be as uncomfortable for the Negroes as for the white people.

Then there would be a Federal law prohibiting lynching. Now lynching is something that we here in Sanford and in Florida in general, are proud of. Lynching is more than a lynching in Sanford and there has never been any lynching in Florida since the Negroes have been prohibited by State and local laws the same as the white people have. And this system has worked fairly well. Now it is proposed to transfer the authority for prohibiting lynching to some remote political body in Washington. Wouldn't very serious if such an organization could handle the job as effectively as it has been handled in the past and our peaceful community might easily be turned into a bloody battleground.

The fourth of these Civil Rights bills provides that the Washington government ban discrimination in employment against Negroes. This would mean that a white man could not be employed in a white school, but it might also mean that white teachers would be employed in Negro schools. It is equally true that an employer could discriminate against a Negro because he is a Negro. It is equally true that an employer could discriminate against a white man because he is a white man. An so we might find in periods of stress that jobs customarily reserved for Negroes were necessarily being filled by white men.

But the intelligent Negro should be far more interested in matters of general policy of government than in particular bills like Civil Rights. He should be interested in a sound administration operated on economical and efficient lines. He should be interested in saving money for the taxpayers and helping to keep down the cost of living. He should be interested in protecting our country against the Communist invasion and he should be interested in ridding our administration of saboteurs and spies.

And so we believe that many decent, law-abiding, intelligent Negro voters will give serious thought to this matter before they vote for Senator Claude Pepper.

Rules of English
Prof. Robert A. Hall Jr. of Cornell University is not the first to say that the rules of the English language are clumsy and cluttered. But his book, "Leave Your Language Alone," has devoted a considerable amount of research to establishing that many of the rules of the language have no basis in logic. He shows that the rules of the language have been invented by some earlier language authority who wanted to write a book, and that others have simply been translated into English from its source language, notably the Latin. It would not be surprising if the question of whether English benefited from the transfer.

Theagenes, Greek Fighter, Killed 1,800 Pugilists

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
NEW YORK — Joe Louis went through 26 world's heavyweight championship fights without suffering a defeat, but he was no Theagenes. Louis never killed an opponent. Theagenes killed 1,800. To learn about Theagenes you would have to read the writings of Pausanias, Oenomaus, Dio Chrysostom, Lucian or Grumbach. If you say that's a lot of Greek you'd be correct, excluding Grumbach.

John V. Grumbach, in The Saga of Rock (A.S. Barnes and Co., $7), writes at length on Theagenes, the greatest boxer of the ancients. That was long before the three-minute rounds and Mike Jacobs. To be exact Theagenes ruled between 484 and 468 B.C.

Grumbach's saga tells of the spread of boxing from Ethiopia to Egypt around 8,000 B.C., then to Crete, Greece, England and finally America. But this Theagenes is really the guy who impresses. The native of Thasos fought 2,102 battles and won 'em all. He even took part in the marathon, a contest combining honest-to-goodness wrestling with boxing and fought until one gladiator either hollered "uncle" or was killed in the process.

Theagenes was an Olympic champion. He was crowned at Olympia while the fate of Greece was being decided on the battlefield of Thermopylae.

Boxing contests in those days featured the cestus. It was the "12 ounce glove of the day," but looked more like a leather belt wrapped around a fist. It was made of heavy leather through with a hard leather surface over the knuckles.

"Theagenes won 1,400 championships, often involving 10 fights a day," writes Grumbach. "He killed 1,800 men and knocked out many more. Even if this were a tenfold exaggeration, it still leaves a challenging record."

Theagenes was born about 605 B.C. If dates are correct he became champion at 21. At the age of nine it is said that because he took a childish fancy to a huge bronze statue in the square of his city he carried it away.

He wasn't punished, but was made to return the statue before witnesses. Thereupon he became famous for his strength. When he became of age he took on all comers and had 1,400 olive wreaths placed on his head.

Theagenes became so famous that the Greeks erected a bronze statue in his honor. When he died one of his enemies flogged his statue, and as if in retaliation the statue fell and killed him. Legend has it that the family of the dead man prosecuted and the statue was convicted of murder.

Following traditional Greek punishment for such crimes, the Thracians dropped the statue to the bottom of the sea. Later the statue was recovered by fishermen with nets and set back to its original spot.

Two centuries ago Theagenes' statue was considered a cure-all for injured athletes.

If Joe Louis could only find one now he might try to regain his youthful figure. But don't let anyone tell you Louis was tops in defending his crown. Theagenes got so many olive wreaths that he could have opened a stuffed olive factory.

CLEARWATER, Fla. — President Bob Carpenter of the Philadelphia Phillies gets a gleam in his eyes at the mention of Granny Hamner.

"I wouldn't trade him for Brooklyn's shortstop Pee Wee Reese, even though I've had several opportunities," the young owner of the Phillies revealed. "We got to take Hamner over Reese. Granny is only 22 years old and Pee Wee is 30."

"Branch Rickey first offered me Reese for Hamner a year and a half ago. I think that Branch was serious when he tried to make the deal. I think he's always serious. He's one of the most serious men in baseball and is far ahead of the rest of us it isn't even funny."

"I appreciate Rickey's fine judgment on Hamner. He's a user. Eddie (Manager Eddie Sawyer) and myself both feel sure he is ready to take over as the best shortstop in the National League. Hamner is the sparkling in our infield."

Hamner, who broke in with the Phillies at the age of 16 during the wartime season of 1944, enjoyed a fine campaign last year. Playing in every game, he hit .263, led the league in double plays and in total chances. Reese, often called the brains of Brooklyn's infield, hit .279 and blasted 16 homers. Hamner hit only six homers all year but four of them came in September.

"I've never made any trades with Brooklyn but that's not because I fear being outsmarted by the smartest trader in baseball," said Carpenter. "The Phillies no longer are a collection of misfits

1st Open Tourney Held In Florida Had $15,000 Prize

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. — Willie Klein gets credit when Californians get all the credit for golf's gold rush.

"It was right here at the La Gore Country Club in 1928 that the first $15,000 open tournament was held," says the popular pro. Johnny Farrell won it by three strokes with a brilliant 63 on the final round. The cream of the pros competed, too, and it wasn't until George May came along in Chicago some 15 years later that our prize was surpassed.

"The late Carl Fisher and the late Walter Kohler got the idea. We had only four La Gore Opens but all the good players competed. We have now replaced the open with a pro-member competition which probably brings out more top pros than any other event of its kind."

Klein very seldom takes issue with the other fellow. He's often too busy giving lessons, or welcoming celebrities to La Gore or making arrangements for Wheatley and cast-offs. We want to raise our own ballplayers and I think we've been doing it rather successfully.

The Reese for Hamner subject came up when Carpenter began comparing his players with the National League champion Dodgers. He took Willie (Puddin' Head) Jones over all Brooklyn's third base candidates and Del Egan over anyone the Dodgers use in left field.

And when he got to last-stand he just seemed to fall in love with Hamner, the hotting hot from Richmond, Va.

Hills Golf Club members from Long Island to shift their gear from one section of the country to another.

Klein has been at La Gore since 1927. He comes down the middle of November each year and in mid-April leaves for Wheatley where he has been pro since 1925.

The 6,275-yard par 71 La Gore course is one of the most popular in the south.

"Gene Sarazen and Farrell look forward to playing here every year. Both veterans have a soft spot in their hearts for this place. Sarazen won one of our opens and Farrell went on to win the U. S. Open after taking our first big prize," says Klein.

But the fellow Klein really raves about is young Henry Russell of Miami. The former Duke University star recently shot a 64, seven under par and a course record for an amateur.

"He beat a lot of the pros in our recent pro-member event," says Klein.

Florida seems to have regained some of its former prestige this winter. After Fred Hoss Jr. beat Bob Hamilton in the Miami Open in December, the Bauer sisters, the greatest thing here since that $3,000 Hinshaw double, swept one amateur tournament after another. As soon as they worked their way up the coast, along came St. Petersburg and Miami Beach Opens, both $10,000 plums.

The World Series of 1923 between the Yankees and the Giants the first in which the winner's share per player topped $8,000.

During the 1928 World Series, Lou Gehrig of the Yankees drew six consecutive bases on balls.

Television rights for the World Series of 1949 cost $200,000, while radio rights went for $150,000.

Cadillac

FOUR NEW SERIES OF CARS...

..All Dramatically Restyled...and Powered by Cadillac's Sensational New Engine!

TODAY, we are presenting, for your consideration, the finest, most beautiful motor cars we have ever been privileged to announce.

They are the new Cadillacs for 1950—and we want you to come and see them.

We not only want you to see them—but we think you should see them. For to see and inspect these wonderful creations will make you a sharper judge of all cars—and increase your motor-car pleasure in every respect.

There are six entirely new series of cars—all with new bodies, and all completely restyled. We think you'll agree that nothing so sleek and dynamic and beautiful has ever been seen on the world's streets and highways. They are arrestingly and breath-takingly gorgeous—and all are distinctively Cadillac.

And not only are they advanced in beauty—but their performance is finer in every way.

Cadillac's great new high-compression engine is even smoother; it is actually quicker in acceleration; and it runs so quietly that only the indicators reveal when it is in action. It is simply wonderful to drive.

And—difficult as this will be for owners of 1949 Cadillacs to believe—the 1950 cars are even more economical to operate. Gasoline mileage really approaches that of the smaller, lowest-priced cars. It is no less than amazing that cars so big and luxurious should run so far on a gallon of gasoline.

Comfort and handling ease are also remarkably advanced. There is far finer road balance and over-all steadiness at all driving speeds. Steering is softer and more positive. Brakes are more efficient and longer-lived. The over-all satisfaction of driving—from every standpoint—is simply "out of this world."

Truly, here are cars so fine and beautiful that they deserve your personal consideration. Make your plans now to come in and see them. You will be cordially welcome at any time.

Today's Bible Story

MATT. 6: 16-34; 7: 1-5. Moreover when ye fast, be not, as the hypocrites, of a sad countenance; for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear unto men to be fasting; say unto you, 'Thou, when thou fastest, wash thy face, and wash thy feet; that thou appear not unto men to be fasting, but unto thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly.'

"REALITY" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Churches of Christ, Section I, throughout the world on Sunday, March 26. The Golden Text is: "Since the beginning of the world men have not heard nor perceived by the ear, neither hath the eye seen, O Lord, beside thee, what he hath prepared for him that waiteth for him." (Isa. 64:1).

Which of you by taking thought can add one cubit to his stature? And why take ye thought for raiment? Consider the lilies of the field, how they grow; they toil not, neither do they spin: yet I say unto you, That what Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

Therefore, if God so clothe the grass of the field, which today is, and tomorrow is cast into the oven, shall he not much more clothe you, O ye of little faith? Therefore take no thought, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall we be clothed? (For he saith unto you, Take no thought for the morrow: for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things.)

Even the COLORS sing of Spring!

Too bad a newspaper has to be printed in black and white. For here we can show you only half the picture you can make this spring, this summer and for a long time to come. True, you can see the lines of this tidy 1950 SUPER Convertible. You can, perhaps, imagine the top-of-the-world feeling you'll know with the wind combing your hair, a great valve-in-head straight-eight filling your ears with its song, these spinning wheels creating a path of air as you go in soft, coil-spring comfort. What we can't show you here are the bright, gay colors we have made ready just for you and just for this year. We can't show you how they dress you up, clothe you in the very spirit of the season, add their own special plus to that unmatched I-drive-a-Buick feeling. Best we can say is they won't cost you one cent extra. They are part and parcel of this gorgeous Buick package, like the Fireballing power of our new F-263 engine - the level going of all-coil springing - the steady roadability of Buick's solid structure - the handy controls for top, windows and front seat, the lustrous smoothness of Dynaflow Drive.

River Resources

agencies. He referred to a Hoover Commission recommendation that civil functions of the Army engineers be transferred to the interior department.

Such a recommendation, he said, "Disregards and discards all wisdom gained by experience of the most competent, efficient and constructive agency of the federal government."

"It is purely a grab for power—an attempt to concentrate in one single agency an unprecedented power both economic and judicial. It has neither supporting data, statistics, experience, judgment, improved efficiency, nor anything else of merit to recommend it."

Other opening session speakers included: Senator Holland (D-Fla.), discussing the flood control program, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.), talking on reclamation and irrigation, and Rep. Bonner (D-S.C.), discussing the Merchant Marine program.

Vice President Barkley was invited to greet the congress at a luncheon meeting at which master of ceremonies was Paul Wooten, Washington correspondent for the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Afternoon speakers included: Rep. Whittington (D-Miss.), chairman of the House Public Works Committee; Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Chief of Army Engineers; Elmer H. Staats, executive assistant budget director; Knox T. Hutchinson, assistant sec-

He said he regretted that Jessup's name had been brought into the Senate investigation of McCarthy's charges that the State Department is a haven for Communists.

Jessup himself had denied McCarthy's charges in testifying before the foreign relations subcommittee making the investigation.

The committee, headed by Senator Tydings (D-Md.), arranged with Attorney General McGrath meanwhile to meet next Monday and FBI Chief J. Edgar Hoover regarding access to government loyalty files on State Department workers accused by McCarthy.

Tydings has said that both McGrath and Hoover are opposed to giving the committee access to FBI records. They are understood to feel that such a step would break faith with the sources of FBI information and dry up possibilities of obtaining additional data.

The final decision on whether to yield the files rests with President Tydings (D-La.), secretary of Agriculture, and Senator Long (D-La.).

Belgian Riots

Paul-Henri Spaak, Socialist leader, told the paraders before they began to march that return of Leopold would lead to "grave trouble for our country."

The Socialists and other anti-Leopold forces say the advisory referendum which showed 57.58 percent of the Belgians favoring his return has split the country. In some areas—particularly in areas dominated by the Walloons—Leopold won only 40 per cent of the vote.

Leopold's foes have been unwilling to forgive his surrender of the armed forces to the Germans in World War II and his marriage to a Flemish commoner. The cabinet fell Saturday when the Liberals refused to support a Christian Socialist (Catholic) plan to have parliament recall the King.

No solution of the cabinet crisis is in sight. Elder statesman Count Henri Carton de Wiart called a meeting of the Council of State yesterday to try to solve the crisis but the council found no solution.

Greece had a new government today headed by Premier Souflis and his government are stamping out the Communist (Catholic) plan to have parliament recall the King.

The Yugoslav people will vote on Sunday, but, as in Russia, they will have but a single slate of candidates. Premier Strosch Tito and his government are stamping the country urging a 100 per cent support of their candidates. It will be the first national election since 1945. Since then Yugoslavia has split with Russia and her satellites. Tito wants a near 100 per cent vote to show his independent brand of Communism is strong and the nation's loyalty to him unswerving. In Rome, Premier Alcide De Gasperi warned his parliamentary supporters he wants strong powers to deal with mounting violence in the nation brought on by Communist tactics. Communist-inspired demonstrators battled with police in a riotous battle with guns and grenades yesterday in San Severo. Fifteen police and four civilians were wounded. TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE... That is a debt the strong owe to the weak.

Just to show you how different things can look from a different point of view, Evgeny Tarle, Soviet historian who works for Joe Stalin, reminds the United States of the path which Hitler took.

To those thousands of people in Seminole County who have not yet registered to vote in coming elections this year, we can only say that if we had a dictatorship in this country and they were not allowed to vote, they probably would not like it at all.

People will completely lose the right of local self-government if the national government continues to usurp all sources of taxation and taxing power. While the tax collections of the federal government have been increased by ten times, local tax collections have scarcely doubled.

Senator Claude Pepper brings his campaign for re-election to the United States Senate to Sanford on Monday. He will tell us how much he has done for us during the last six years and how he is responsible for all the growth and prosperity which we are currently enjoying.

Pepper says... (Continued from page one) takes more than 1,000,000 American workers and from under even the old contract on their minimums.

Peace Pact At Work

The investigation conducted in the Caribbean area by an international committee is an effort to use the terms of a mutual defense treaty to maintain conditions conducive to peace. An investigating committee, consisting of official representatives of five American nations, accuses three other states of harboring and helping international trouble-makers.

Flying Missionaries

Modern missionaries, though they may live by "the old-time religion," are not averse to taking advantage of modern transportation facilities which add speed and efficiency to their work.

Observations On Parents

- 1. Parents should consist of one man and one woman, married.
2. It is a complicated situation because you have to have children to be parents.
3. The term "Parent" could easily be a contraction of the phrase "Pa pays the rent."

What are the people talking about? Here in Central Florida they are talking about the high price of citrus fruit, citrus groves, raw land suitable for planting.

THE WORLD TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

A colleague having an analytical turn of mind laid a picture on my desk with the quizzical remark: "Does that look as though Russia is afraid there's going to be war?"

The photo showed a model of Moscow's proposed new skyscraper building, 28 stories high. This is one of a dozen "skyscrapers" being built in the Soviet capital to the fascination of the Muscovites, who aren't used to such tall buildings.

No, that certainly doesn't indicate Moscow fears atomic bombardment. The same can be said of America, for from my office window in the Rockefeller Center of New York City one can see numerous buildings miraculously shooting up toward the sky like Jack's beanstalk.

Does this mean peace? Not at all. We still have the cold war with us. Tryve Lie, secretary-general of the United Nations, is advocating a 20-year peace program to relax international tensions and "bring the cold war to an end."

All right-minded folk will wish Mr. Lie good luck in his effort, and will lend their support. But there are a lot of us who can't envision an end to the cold war now.

In any event, as we work for peace do so in the spirit of our national motto which broke the ground in the new world with their flintlocks loaded and ready at hand.

Appropriations

The Air Force has information of its scientific success. The Air Force's outline of justifications that accompanied its amended request to the committee was so frank, even in discussing classified material, as to be startling to reporters.

The Navy was given the largest increase. Its projects totaled $243,532,301, an increase of $76,623,560.

The military forces propose to spend nearly half, or $220,323,888, of the committee-approved total outside the United States.

Housing

They described the move as "purely precautionary" and designed to see that the agency does not overstep the loan commitments authorized by congress.

Chrysler Corp.

The complete cost of the pension plan, the company said, "would be paid by Chrysler corp. and the employees would have to pay only part of the cost of insurance—substantially less than previously."

What Pearson Missed

The Louisville Courier-Journal

Readers of The Courier-Journal must be puzzled at the scope and nature of Drew Pearson's full-page statement of a week ago. Since this has been a Sabbath argument, we have reserved comment until today. A brief resume of the issue is useful.

On January 10 the Merry-Go-Round stated that "In Taylorville, Ky., a 13-year-old runaway boy was locked up in a two-cell log jail for four days with a steaming, laughing maniac."

This is Charles Spindel's 25th season as Penn State wrestling coach. He was absent only during war service.

Max Quackenbush, rookie defenseman for Indianapolis in the American Hockey League, is a brother of the Indiana Bill of Detroit in the National League.

MORE and more, these days, your cancelled check takes the place of a receipted bill as evidence of payment. But sometimes a cancelled check is lost or mislaid or perhaps wilfully destroyed just when you need it most to prove a disputed item.

In such cases the new "Recordak" Service of The Florida State Bank of Sanford may save you considerable annoyance and perhaps actual loss.

Each check passing through our hands for payment is now recorded on a moving picture film. This permanent picture record of their checks is always available to our depositors.

"Recordak" protection and finished monthly statements of your account are but some of the features which make our service a money-saving account with this bank.

The "Recordak" is being demonstrated in the bank... Center in and see it in operation.

PTA Region 6 Meets At High School

The annual meeting of Region 6 of Parent-Teacher Association was held on Tuesday at the Semiole High School with Mrs. George A. Hanford presiding. Guesting were Mrs. C. E. Hittell, Semiole County Council president, and Herman Morris, Semiole High School principal. A response was given by Mrs. Carl Williams.

The theme of the meeting "In the Way He Should Go" was presented by the Florida Congress, President Mrs. Edith M. White Cameron. Reports were heard from Mrs. Carl Averitt, Lake county council president; Mrs. Ralph Miller, Orange county council president; Mrs. C. E. Hittell, Semiole county council president; Mrs. A. T. Canty, Brevard county council president; Mrs. Hugh Barrett, Ocala county council president; Mrs. F. Mcintosh Vinton and Flagler council president.

Mr. Robert Shank, national representative, spoke on "The Child" and stated that "The child is the most precious possession that a family has. He is a being who is being formed, and it is the duty of the parent to guide him in the way of wisdom, skill and judgment, in the knowledge of God and love of fellow men, in a community willing to accept responsibility, and mentally alert to the needs of children. She stressed the fact that the home must be responsible for the basic instruction of a child."

A symposium composed of Mr. Cameron, Mr. Hanford, Mrs. J. Floyd Griffin and Mrs. Barrett discussed the subject "In the Way He Should Go Physically, Mentally, Socially and Spiritually." Mrs. Hanford stressed the need for physical well being in adult as well as children and that parents visit the schools, clubs and health organizations, for what is being done for their children. Mrs. Cameron spoke on "The Way He Should Go Mentally" and stated that a child's mind should be trained with proper stimulation beginning at home. Good home atmosphere means the proper music and discussion all add to the child's needed education, Mrs. Cameron said.

Mrs. Griffin discussed the social phase of a child's life, stating that each child needs the contacts of a happy home, knowledge of God and a sense of belonging and citizenship to the family. An atmosphere of respect is needed for a child to grow into a well rounded and useful individual. Mr. Shank stressed the importance of character building by not withdrawing children from the home and through the church so that a child will feel free to call upon God in times of trouble.

A panel discussion followed on the subject of the child who cannot attend school. Mrs. Hanford presided over the discussion. Mrs. C. E. Hittell, Mrs. J. Floyd Griffin, Mrs. P. M. McNeill, Mrs. S. G. Harrison, Mrs. J. E. Horton, Mrs. J. W. Knight, Mrs. E. B. Richardson, Mrs. O. T. Pearson, Mrs. J. P. Wilson, Mrs. H. W. Cassabe, Mrs. R. G. Fox, Mrs. W. H. Young, Mrs. J. W. Knight, Mrs. E. B. THE OVIEDO JR. HIGH SCHOOL A SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

At 3:30 P.M. Sunday, the Grant Chapel A.M.E. Church, Orlando of which Rev. W. C. Grant is pastor, celebrated Men's Day by rendering a very good program. It is quite a blessing and equally as gratifying to note that almost all of the members of that program were rendered by former or present students and present faculty members.

The music was furnished by a group of Ninth and Tenth Grade Boys under the direction of Prof. George Edward Blackhear who also enhanced the program with a masterful instrumental solo. There was a Panel Discussion by two former students, Joseph Carville and Willie Harris who are now students at Crocker Academy and Hunterford respectively. The main address was delivered by Principal S. T. Miller who electrified the audience with his eloquent and well-organized address out to the men some of the responsibilities toward each other in the chain of life of our world which inevitably make for the Fatherhood of mankind and the Brotherhood of man.

P.T.A. HEARS PROGRAM To give further service to the Community, the P.T.A. of the school at its regular meeting on Monday night, was graciously entertained by the First and Second Grades. These little babies are being trained under the most competent guidance of their instructors, Mrs. Lillie Robinson Hall and Miss Cloie R. Bacon, respectively. The children were enthusiastically received by a packed audience of some 200 parents, students and friends. The program was made up of nursery rhymes, songs and dances that the students had learned in their classes during their enrichment period.

The entire school is thankful to the community for the keen interest it seems to have in the school under its new and present administration. The principal and his staff of workers are urging that such spirit continue for time. A kind of spirit Educational Growth is inevitable.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

On Wednesday evening, Mar. 22, the 21st Annual Oratorical Contest was held at the Shiloh Baptist Church under the auspices and sponsorship of Celery City Lodge No. 842 and Evergreen Lodge No. 211. The principal of the contest were three charming young ladies of Crocker Academy. The winner of said contest was the first speaker, Miss Inez Smith, with a very timely and well delivered oration, Miss Elizabeth Brown and Esia Moore second and third, respectively.

Awards were presented by Exalted Ruler H. L. Refoe, Jr., Celery City Lodge. At this time Mrs. L. R. Subanks presented a presentation for her unremitting efforts in training and coaching the volunteer contestants. Judges were Mrs. A. J. Hurston, Principal of Houser Academy, Miss Sally Fields and Prof. Willie Wiley. Miss Smith will represent the local order in the District Oratorical Contest which convenes at Orlando, Thursday, Mar. 25. The winner of the District Oratorical Contest will be entered in State Oratorical Contest to be held at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. April. The contestants who take first place in the Southern Regional Contest receive placements from five southern States, in awarding annually a scholarship to attend college.

WOPPER ACADEMY

The classes at Wopper Academy have gone out into the world to observe what is going on in the world today.

Dr. J. C. Ringling is shown in his modern equipped office attending to a patient. Dr. Ringling was born in Tallahassee. A graduate of Florida A. & M. College, Tallahassee, Howard University, Washington, D. C., he received his Dental Surgery Degree in 1914. Dr. Ringling is active in civic affairs of all phases. He has practiced here in Sanford for three years, and is doing a lucrative amount of work. He and his lovely wife, Mrs. Dorothy Smith Ringling and two children, Lorraine and Julius Caesar, Jr., are residing at 613 1/2 Sanford Ave.

stand it. The First Grade visited the Post Office and learned much about the mail service. Postmaster Joel S. Field was very kind to allow them to observe there. Pupils of the Second Grade were cordially received at the Nellie Bottling Plant by Mr. McKee and Mr. Caldwell. One class of Second Graders are studying Safety. They went to the Park Avenue and Thirteenth Street intersection to note traffic regulations. A train trip to Kissimmee, was taken by the Third Grade pupils. They travelled on the A. G. I. Champion. Much was learned about how to travel and what comfortable service is given passengers by the railroad Company.

Fourth Graders visited Dr. J. C. Ringling's office to see the various charts and equipment which are used in studying and repairing defective teeth. He gave them information concerning the care of their teeth. Two classes of Fifth and Sixth grade pupils went to St. Augustine, Fla., to see historic points which they had studied about in their social studies classes. Enroute there they observed the wonders of water life in Marine Studios.

Several points of interest in Sanford and surrounding places will be visited this term by the pupils.

SERVICES AT NEW MT. CALVARY M. B. CHURCH. Services for the New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church for Sunday, Mar. 19, began with Sunday School at 9:45 A.M. The subject of the lesson was "Faith that Sustain the Church. After the lesson was discussed by the pastor, the class No. 3 retained the Offering Banner and Class No. 6 retained the Attendance Banner. Morning Worship began at 11:00 A.M. at which time the Deacons led the devotional part of the services. The message was given by the Pastor, Rev. A. C. McQueen.

Deacons Board Number One held its meeting Sunday evening at 8:30 P.M. at the home of Mrs. Nellie Williams. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Daisy Roundtree at 2:00 P.M. April 1, 1934.

SICK The many friends of Mrs. Lucy Williams, 121 Pine Avenue, another of Mr. and Mrs. John Law, regret to learn of her confinement to the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital. We are hoping for her a very speedy recovery and that she will soon be able to return home.

Mr. John Willie Mosely, manager of Mosely & Son Funeral Home, who is confined to the hospital in Tampa, is reported doing nicely. Many warm expressions and prayers are going out for the speedy recovery and quick return for Mr. Mosely.

Miss Audrey Mosely, the daughter of Mrs. Mary Mosely and the late Mr. M. C. Mosely is also confined to the hospital in Orlando. She is reported as doing fine and very cheerful. Audrey will always be remembered for her cheerfulness, civic work, church work, and her most sympathetic services rendered during hours of others' sadness. Her many friends are wishing for her continued improvement.

THANKS The bereaved family of the late Mrs. Annie Dora Charlton Midway, wishes to express their deep appreciation to the many friends for their beautiful flowers, telegrams and cards of condolences. With special mention to the Burton Funeral Home for their sympathetic services rendered them during their loss.
