Gas Tax Viewed As Spur For Proposition 1

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Are you unhappy about the Seminole County Commission adopting a 4-cent per gallon gasoline tax that will be added to prices at the pump beginning September 1?

Ed Havill, Lake County property appraiser and author of the "Citizens Choice Amendment" slated for the general election ballot on Nov. 6, 1984, predicts this single action will inspire an overwhelming number of Seminole Countians to vote in favor of the amendment. Also known as Proposition 1, the proposed state constitutional amendment would limit the taxing power of state, county and city governments in Florida.

"We already expected considerable support for the amendment in Seminole," Havill said.

If the amendment does pass, it will mean, Havill says, that state, county and city governments will be limited to operating on the same amount of revenue as they did during the 1980-81 fiscal year, except for a small growth factor. That could mean:

● Repeal, in effect, of the state's fifth cent of sales tax, passed a couple years ago, which brings into state coffers $800 million annually, half of which is split with city and county governments.

● Repeal of the 1.7 cents-per-gallon state gasoline tax imposed during a special session of the Legislature earlier this year. This tax is expected to bring the state $148 million annually.

● Repeal of the 4-cent gasoline tax passed by the Seminole County Commission Tuesday night and expected to bring the county $3.4 million annually for the next 10 years.

And any revenues, whether they are called fees, taxes or licenses, increased above a certain level since the 1981 year will have to be reduced.

"Basically your purse and my wallet doesn't know the difference between taxes and fees," Havill said.

He added in some cases if a governmental unit collects more revenues than allowed from a certain source under the formula established in the amendment, it is allowed to reduce a fee from another source.

In addition, "it's got a trigger to stop governments from building up budgets in anticipation of the amendment passing," Havill said.

Saying he has no doubt the amendment will be approved by a large margin statewide if it is allowed to remain on the ballot, Havill noted that a Miami businessman named Martin Fine has filed suit in Tallahassee claiming the amendment will "make the poor suffer" and asking the courts to order it off the ballot.

The amendment received approval in March and was ordered onto the November, 1984 ballot by Secretary of State George Firestone after Havill and his group collected some 500,000 signatures across the state requesting it be put to the voters.

The signatures were certified by various county supervisors of elections around the state at a cost of some $40,000 to Havill's committee. In addition he noted that the committee through contributions paid another $60,000 for printing and postage for the petitions.

The state constitution provides that citizens can place proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot through the petition process.

Havill said after Fine filed the lawsuit, he and his committee went to talk with Firestone about defending the proposed amendment in the court. Havill said Firestone suggested they talk to Attorney General Jim Smith.

"Smith said he not only would not defend the amendment's place on the ballot, he would lobby against the proposal if it stays on the ballot," Havill said.

He said his response to Smith was that he, as the state's attorney general, took an oath of office to uphold the state constitution.

"And the constitution gives the citizens of Florida the right of redress of grievances. Basically our position is

Cave-In Reports Withheld

By Charles Cobb

Investigators sifting through the debris of a collapsed roof at an Altamonte Springs construction site indicated today that their probes had been completed but said they would issue no official report on the cause of the tragedy before next week.

James Terry, a 39-year-old construction worker from Midway, was killed and two other workers were injured when a portion of a roof at a mini-mall that was under construction fell in Tuesday.

Terry died of multiple skull fractures in the accident, according to Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay.

Altamonte Springs building officials and the Sanford roofing subcontractor on the job estimate that as much as 20 tons of roofing gravel had been piled on the 40-by-54-foot section of roof that caved in.

Altamonte Springs Building Director Windell Peters said the cause of the cave-in "apparently" was linked to the great strain placed on the trusses from the roofing material.

Peters said investigators from the Occupational Safety and Health Administration, the Florida Department of Professional Regulation and from his own department had completed their probes of the accident.

However, Peters said the architectural and engineering firms involved with the project are still conducting their investigations and the Altamonte building department won't release its report until the firms release their findings, probably sometime next week.

Honey bees scramble for the "sweet water" from a drainage pipe at Liquid Foods Inc.

Wreaking Havoc

City Sours On Sweet Residue

Residue from liquid sweeteners produced and distributed by Liquid Foods Inc. at 2200 Country Club Road is wreaking havoc on the city of Sanford's Poplar Avenue sewer plant and leaving a putrifying, smelling mess in ditches in Goldsboro.

And the city wants it corrected. Jim Batalini, vice president of the firm, told Sanford city commissioners recently that he will appear at the Aug. 8 commission meeting to explain what the firm is doing to correct the problem.

After showing the commission color slides taken at the Country Club Road plant, Knowles said the residue, being dumped in part into the sewer lines has put the sewer plant out of commission three times. He explained that any sewer plant is dependent upon bacteria "helpers" digesting the sewage and a concentrated sugar mixture "shocks" and kills the bacteria.

In addition, he said the residue, called "sweet water," from washing the sugar mixture from platform docks at the plant is draining into a ditch and ultimately ends in Goldsboro. Citizens there are complaining about the odors, he said.

The slides taken by Knowles showed the plant's operations and concentrated sugar water in several spots either draining into manholes to the sewer plant or into a nearby ditch. He also noted that several areas at the plant are favorite gathering places for honey bees, attracted by the sugar.

Knowles said he and other city personnel are monitoring the plant operations.—Donna Estes

Fed Up With Suit Threats

Christensen Turns Accusing Finger At Casselberry

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Casselberry officials should spend less time worrying about double taxation suits and more time worrying about inequities in service delivered to their own customers.

"I'm tired of it," she said of threats by Casselberry officials to sue the county.

Mrs. Christensen said Casselberry officials threaten to file a double taxation suit every time they're unhappy with the county.

"At the drop of a hat they're going to sue us," she said.

The latest threat to sue came after commissioners discussed rewarding Oviedo officials for supporting the county gas tax by providing additional funds to that city, she said.

Oviedo was the only city to support the county gas tax and commissioners have discussed giving the city a larger share of tax revenues than the other cities will get. The extra money would come from the county's share of the tax revenue and is perfectly legal, she said.

Mrs. Christensen said city officials should stop worrying about what happens between the county and Oviedo and concentrate on reducing rates to water and sewer customers.

Mrs. Christensen said she believes city officials should revamp their rates, particularly to customers in the unincorporated areas.

She said the 5,500 customers in the unincorporated areas who receive water and sewer service from Casselberry are paying between 30 and 44 percent more for service than residents who are served by the county's water system.

Seminole County customers who use 10,000 gallons of water a month are paying $27. Casselberry residents using 10,000 gallons a month pay $31 while Casselberry's customers in the unincorporated areas pay $33.50.

The differential is even greater for customers who use 20,000 gallons per month, Mrs. Christensen said. Seminole County customers pay $39.25 while Casselberry residents pay $52.31 and Casselberry's unincorporated customers pay $56.55. 44 percent more than Seminole County's customers.

Mrs. Christensen said the reason the county customers pay less is because the county doesn't charge sewage fees on water used above 15,000 gallons.

"But the whole point was that Casselberry is charging too much to everybody," she said.

Casselberry's rate structure should be studied, she said.

"Their bond obligation should be lower than Seminole County's," she said. "We're taking our sewage to the same place and paying the same rates. How can they charge 44 percent more?"

Mrs. Christensen said Casselberry's rates are "unfair to unincorporated residents."

By state law, cities are allowed to charge a 25 percent surcharge to their customers in unincorporated areas. Sanford charges customers outside its city limits the full 25 percent, according to Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff.

"But you're not getting the innuendoes from Sanford that you're getting from Casselberry about double taxation," she said. "I'm tired of it."

Casselberry commissioners have postponed consideration of a double taxation suit against the county until after the county adopts its final budget for 1983-84.

County Tossed Jail Yard Net Plan

Seminole County officials are considering plans to construct nets over exercise yards at the Seminole County jail to keep volleyballers — and prisoners — in.

Jail Administrator James Schoultz told commissioners this week the existing exercise yards at the jail are a security problem because prisoners can climb the fence and escape.

Schoultz said the county is mandated by law to provide at least an hour of exercise time each day for inmates. Prisoners are ushered out of the three compounds at the jail into adjacent exercise yards where they play volleyball or other games, he said.

But occasionally, he said, a ball gets out of the yard and a trustee must retrieve the ball

James Schoultz

"I'm more concerned with security than keeping their ball in the yard."

before the game can go on. If there's no one available to get the ball, that leaves prisoners with lots of time on their hands.

"It's not something we're trying to do to be nice to prisoners," Schoultz said. "I don't have any sympathy for prisoners. I'm more concerned with security than with keeping their ball in the yard."

Schoultz proposed that "razor" wire be placed near the top of the fence to keep prisoners from climbing out of the compound. Razor wire is a thin strand of wire which is extremely sharp. "Razor wire makes it virtually impossible to get out," he said.

Commissioners were agreeable to the plan to install the nets but were hesitant to go along with a proposal to pour a cement floor in the exercise yards.

The item will be presented to commissioners at their regular meeting at 9 a.m. Tuesday in the Courthouse.

Three Races In Lake Mary

Seven candidates for three city commission seats in Lake Mary qualified by the noon deadline today to run in the Sept. 6 city election.

The candidates are: Dennis Smathers and Arthur "Buzzy" Petros challenging incumbent Commissioner Burt Perinchief; Bob Stoddard opposing Harry Terry for the seat held by Ray Fox, and Martin Bacon Sr. and Colin Keogh for the seat held by Charlie Lytle. Lytle and Fox are not running for re-election.

Sanford Mum On Spurt In Lake Mary Water Connections

Lake Mary's water system appears to have grown like Topsy, some 64 percent in one month.

The "growth" was reported from the time Sanford voted to limit water it would sell Lake Mary and the date the limit was to take effect — July 1.

Sanford officials have not responded to the report, read at this week's city commission meeting.

Sanford stipulated in early June the limit would be the number of water customers Lake Mary had as of July 1 plus 10 per cent for growth. The commission, told that the city's customers in early June was 961, did not expect that number would change much in just a few weeks.

How did Lake Mary exceed that by some 64 percent?

Apparently, in conveying their message to Lake Mary, Sanford used the word "connections" and Lake Mary has taken a liberal view of the word's definition.

Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson, in a letter to Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore, read at this week's Sanford city commission meeting, reported that as of July 1, Lake Mary had 1,574 water connections — 64 percent more than the 961 reported in June. But that's because counted in the greater number were lots where water lines exist and where a stub exists to connect to a house or a planned house. Counting those "connections" the total reached 1,130," Sorenson said.

Sorenson cited as an example Cardinal Oaks, where developer Larry Dale has built a water distribution system and where a meter can be turned on at a property. However, there may be no one in the house on the parcel or the house may not yet exist.

In addition there is the expansion to

The Forest mobile home community off Lake Mary Boulevard, under construction long before the flap began between Lake Mary and Sanford over Lake Mary's escalating use of Sanford water, he noted.

Sorenson also pointed to the new developments of Feather's Edge, an apartment complex under construction, Lake Bingham Woods and Lake Mary Woods, both preparing to begin construction. He said all three were discussed and planned prior to Sanford's action limiting the water supply to Lake Mary. These make up the rest, he said.

Meanwhile, Lake Mary continues its planning for a water supply of its own.

Sorenson said he discussed with a principal of Residential Communities of America (RCA) how that development firm will help the city acquire its own water supply. He said the RCA representative is discussing with Mrs.

Patricia Stenstrom acquiring at least two of the three most westerly wells she owns in areas on a line from Rinehart Road to Rantoul Lane.

RCA has received zoning from the city to build some 880 single family units and multiple family units on a 223-acre parcel near Rantoul Lane and State Road 46A.

Sorenson said Bill Goodman of RCA and Mrs. Stenstrom are discussing proceeding with testing of the wells to determine which would be the best to be used as a beginning of a city system.

"Why bother building a new well next to an existing well?" Sorenson asked. After the testing is completed, Sorenson said the city will do whatever necessary to activate the wells including apply to the St. Johns River Water Management District for a permit.

Sorenson said while he doesn't know how long this will take, it certainly will not take as long as looking for a site and drilling a new well.

The Sanford City Commission set the water limitation on Lake Mary after RCA announced its new proposed development, "The Hills at Lake Mary," to comprise 880 units.

A total of 1,500 new housing units have been announced from the planning stage to beginning construction phase in Lake Mary over the past several months.

Sanford officials became concerned that Lake Mary is quickly using up Sanford's water reserves to the extent that Sanford may not have sufficient water supply for proposed Sanford developments. Consequently, the 10 percent growth limit was set on new customers outside the city of Sanford.

NATION IN BRIEF

Fed Chairman Volcker Gets Another Four Years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Volcker — credited with halting runaway inflation, but also blamed by some for record high interest rates — has been confirmed by the Senate as chairman of the Federal Reserve Board for another four years.

The vote was 84-16. In 1979, when he was first appointed Fed chairman by President Carter, his Senate confirmation vote was 98-0.

To combat double-digit inflation, Volcker in his first four-year term imposed a tight money policy credited with slashing inflation, but also blamed by some for causing high interest rates and a recession.

Despite harsh criticism of the Fed chairman by some conservative members of Congress, President Reagan nominated Volcker, 55, to a second four-year term in the $69,800-a-year post.

Meanwhile, Sen. William Roth, R-Del., said he plans to introduce legislation making the term of the Fed chairman run concurrently with that of the president.

Concurrent terms "would insure that the policies of the Fed complement the economic policies of the president," Roth said in a statement.

Ex-Reagan Aide Opposed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, put on the spot by the racial views of a former campaign aide he nominated to a prestigious international position, may be spared the embarrassment of dumping him.

Thomas Ellis, a Raleigh, N.C. lawyer whose segregationist background led a majority of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to oppose him Wednesday, told United Press International he will decide today whether to ask that his name be withdrawn.

He was nominated to a post on the Board for International Broadcasting, which oversees Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty. He is a top adviser to Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and ran Reagan's successful 1976 North Carolina primary campaign against incumbent Gerald Ford.

In that campaign, he distributed a letter claiming that Ford was seeking a black running mate. Reagan disavowed the letter at the time but was not aware Ellis was involved, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said.

Ellis was once on the board of a group financing studies into theories that whites are genetically superior to blacks, belongs to an all-white country club and visited South Africa on a trip paid for by that country's segregationist government.

NATIONAL REPORT: The summer's second heat wave rolled out of the Plains into the Midwest today, pushing the thermometer past 100 in sun-scorched states where 175 people have already died from sweltering temperatures. "We're setting up for that same situation we had (with the first heat wave), the jet stream sweeping from the southwest across the western edge of the Plains into Canada" and pulling hot air north and east, said forecaster Nolan Duke at the National Severe Storms Center in Kansas City, Mo. "The heat wave's back." Duke said. "We've got a 106 forecast for Wichita, Kan., and we've got 100-degree temperatures forecast all the way from Texas to Nebraska and Missouri." Temperatures Wednesday were above 100 across much of the Plains. It was 106 at Concordia, Kan., 105 at Salina, Kan., 104 at Gage, Okla., 102 at Wichita Falls, Texas, 101 at Tulsa, Okla., and 100 at Kansas City. Oklahoma reported its first heat wave fatality, a woman found dead in her room at a boarding house for the mentally retarded in Eufaula, Okla. In Iowa, Benton County sheriff's officers found a 63-year-old woman and her dog dead in her locked trailer, where the air conditioning was turned off.

Voters May Be Asked To OK Road Tax

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary can not levy a special tax for road improvements this year even if the voters approve. But the issue apparently will be on the Sept. 6 ballot anyway. And if approved, residents will start paying the additional $1.50 per $1,000 assessed value of real property in the 1984-85 fiscal year.

The city commission at a special 7:30 meeting tonight will consider adopting an ordinance setting the referendum on the road tax to be held concurrently with the city's regular election in September. The commission meets at City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

The city was notified several weeks ago by County Property Appraiser Bill Suber that the referendum would occur too late to be included on the tax bills for the 1983-84 fiscal year.

After consideration of the referendum ordinance, the commission is scheduled to hear a presentation from a study committee on salaries of city employees. If the commission approves the committee report, city employees will receive about $24,000 in pay hikes in the new fiscal year which begins Oct. 1.

The increases will not be granted on an across-the-board basis, but rather will be allocated to selected employees.

The committee members which studied the issue are: Public Works Director Jim Orioles, City Treasurer Madeleine Minns, Mayor Walter Sorenson, City Commissioner Russ Megonegal and A.R. "Doc" Jorc, a city resident and former Maitland city commissioner.

Also tonight, the commission is expected to review a $1,026,920 proposed budget for the 1983-84 fiscal year. The budget proposed by Sorenson and Mrs. Minns is up $159,231 over the current year's $867,689 spending plan and calls for a tax increase of 61 cents per $1,000 assessed property valuation.

The rate of property taxes is proposed at $4.76 per $1,000, up from the current year's $4.15.

County Property Appraiser Bill Suber reports that a tax rate of $4.41 per $1,000 would be necessary for the city to receive the same amount of revenue as during the current year, minus new construction.

However, considering the value of new construction,

Unhappy Chrysler Workers Predict A January Strike

DETROIT (UPI) — Some Chrysler workers, claiming they are being overlooked in the automaker's newfound profitability, predict they will strike in January because of the breakdown of negotiations on an immediate pay raise.

Talks between Chrysler and the United Auto Workers broke off Wednesday about 10 minutes before the union's 5 p.m. deadline. UAW leaders had to catch planes to attend today's meeting of the 170-member Chrysler Council in Huntsville, Ala.

The council, which had expected to vote on a new contract, instead will get a report on the breakdown of talks.

"Chrysler wants to make all of the money and they don't want to give us any," said Willie Rozier, an hourly worker at the Jefferson Avenue assembly plant.

The United Auto Workers, negotiating for 47,100 U.S. workers, and Chrysler ended talks with no agreement on the union's demand for a pay raise of at least a $1 an hour as the workers' share of Chrysler's newfound profits.

The company offered a $1-an-hour wage raise with additional increases to reach parity after two years in exchange for a $15 million-a-year cut in health care costs, which now total $370 million annually.

Chrysler said if that amount was not cut, the shortfall would come out of workers' cost-of-living payments, which would not be paid in any quarter in which the automaker did not make a profit.

Thomas Miner, Chrysler vice president for labor relations, said the total package would have been $1 an hour behind Ford and GM in total labor costs.

The union asked for a raise after Chrysler announced its highest quarterly profit in history, $310.3 million, last week, bettering the record $172.1 million profit made in the first quarter. The company showed a profit three out of four quarters in 1982. Chrysler said come August it would pay off the last of its $1.2 billion in federally backed loans.

Drug Probe Ends Without Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The three main targets of a yearlong federal investigation of drug use by congressmen will not be prosecuted, but still could face action by the House ethics committee.

The Justice Department said Wednesday it found insufficient evidence to prosecute Reps. Ronald Dellums, D-Calif., and Charles Wilson, D-Texas, and former Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr., R-Calif.

Wilson called the investigation "malicious," Goldwater said he felt a "great weight going off my shoulders," and Dellums said he anticipates "complete vindication" from the House committee.

The announcement ended the federal probe of drug use on Capitol Hill. However, the House ethics committee still is investigating drug use among members and employees.

"After conducting a complete investigation of these allegations, we have determined that there is insufficient admissible, credible evidence to support criminal charges," the Justice Department said in a letter to Joseph Califano, special counsel to the House committee.

To date, four men have pleaded guilty to drug charges in connection with the case, including former congressional page Douglas Marshall, and Troy Todd, whose arrests sparked the investigations.

The House authorized its drug investigation under Califano's direction at the same time it authorized a probe into allegations of sexual misconduct by members of the House.

Congress May Disconnect Higher Phone Rates

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Federal Communications Commission Chairman Mark Fowler today asked Congress not to scrap the commission's decision to put a $2-a-month surcharge on home telephones next year.

The FCC, under the gun from a bipartisan coalition of House and Senate committee chairmen, Wednesday chopped the monthly surcharge for residential telephone service planned for next year from a maximum of $4 to $2.

The action took place shortly before unusual joint House-Senate hearings today on measures to entirely eliminate the new charge.

"I would recommend that Congress stay its hand on access charges until it can review the results of our year-end investigation of the state rate situation," Fowler said in remarks prepared for the hearing. "If corrective legislation appears warranted, then it can be enacted during 1984."

Fowler said his commission will complete an investigation of "the recent rash of proposed telephone rate increases" at the state level by the end of the year.

He said the FCC is making things easier on consumers by "reducing the flat charge upon residential users from a minimum $2 in the first year to a maximum $2 for the year 1984."

The surcharge will pay for costs now absorbed by long distance rates. It will be charged to telephone users whether or not they make long distance calls.

The FCC decision limits the surcharge on residential subscribers to $3 per month in 1985 and $4 per month in 1986. After that, the commission will decide whether additional increases are needed.

"What the FCC has done is to rearrange the decision but the end result is exactly the same — ratepayers will suffer unduly," said Rep. Timothy Wirth, D-Colo., chairman of the Energy and Commerce telecommunications subcommittee. Wirth is one of the sponsors of legislation to abolish the surcharge.

Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee and another sponsor of the legislation, said the commission's action "does not really change the situation."

"When the FCC saw the reaction to their first decision, they narrowed it a bit. I think in the hope of deterring congressional opposition," he said. "Congress will not be deterred."

"The major long-distance users — businesses — should continue to bear their fair share of the costs of maintaining universal telephone service," he said.

Jewelry Thief Nets $800 Haul After 'Jimmying' Door

Someone stole two gold necklaces, worth a total of $800, from a Sanford woman's home between 11 p.m. Saturday and 11 a.m. Monday.

Brenda Jean Olds, 19, of 207 Meadow Hills Drive, told police she last saw her jewelry when she placed the items in her jewelry box.

Police said the door and the doorjamb of Miss Olds' home were scarred, indicating that the thief may have "jimmied" the door.

BB GUN CAPER

If litigation results from the accident, the findings of the OSHA and state investigations won't be released until the trial begins, Peters said.

The 75-by-156 mini-mall, called Altamonte Depot, was designed to house eight businesses and is located 100 yards north of State Road 436 on the west side of County Road 427.

The roof trusses which gave way reportedly were purchased by the project's main contractor, Central Florida Construction Group, Inc. through Scotty's Inc. They were made in Sanford.

James Terry was a member of a seven-man team working at the site and employed by Expert Roofing of Sanford, a subcontractor on the job.

Shortly before the collapse at 12:43 p.m., the crew had hoisted up to the roof half or more of the 45 tons of river gravel used to surface the roof.

Several witnesses reported hearing loud cracking noise just before the roof fell in.

Norman Lewis, 55, a mason from Eatonville, had just finished lunch Tuesday and said he was talking with Terry inside the building when both saw the roof frame above them start to buckle.

Lewis ran for the door, but for reasons Lewis said he doesn't understand, Terry ran toward the middle of the building.

Lewis fell to the ground when debris spilled onto his legs, burying him up to his waist.

Lewis is still recovering today at Florida Hospital-Altamonte from surgery to set broken bones in his right leg and ankle.

A laborer working on the project, Joseph Fleut, 18, who was also injured, was treated at the Altamonte hospital, given a neck brace and released after the accident.

Pershing 2 Missile Malfunctions Again

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Army officials searched for clues today in the failure of a Pershing 2 missile, which was destroyed over the Atlantic when it began to break apart during a test flight.

The malfunction during Wednesday's test delivered a setback to proponents of the controversial missiles, which are scheduled for deployment in western Europe later this year.

David Harris, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Missile Command at Huntsville, Ala., said it could be several days before officials can determine what caused the failure — the second malfunction in eight test flights of the sleek surface-to-surface missiles from the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station.

Rape Victims Mum

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Authorities say they can't convince a single one of more than 421 rape victims in Broward County to form a counseling support group with others who have suffered sexual assaults.

Public announcements and notices sent this month to rape victims announcing the start of a support group received no response, said Suzanne Line, counselor at the Broward County Sexual Assault Treatment Center.

Workers at the treatment center said they were disappointed at the lack of response — but not surprised. Support groups have worked well for alcoholics and drug abusers, but not with rape victims, counselors said.

Ms. Line, a social worker, said one of the most helpful things rape victims can do for themselves is talk with others who have been sexually assaulted, but they are often reluctant to do so.

Officials To Crack Down On Western Journalists

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Parliament called a session today to debate tough new legislation authorizing three-year prison terms for foreign journalists who violate censorship laws and Poles who take part in illegal organizations or protests.

The new censorship law, if passed, will authorize officials to intervene in scientific publications, trade union bulletins and exhibitions.

On the eve of the parliamentary session, former Solidarity press spokesman Janusz Onyszkiewicz walked smiling through the gate of Rakowiecki prison and three underground union leaders surrendered under the amnesty declared with the lifting of martial law last Friday.

Troops Patrol West Bank

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Hundreds of Israeli soldiers and border guards today patrolled the West Bank, where four people have been killed and more than 30 injured in bitter clashes this week.

Israeli troops fired rubber bullets and tear gas Wednesday, injuring four students who burned tires and threw rocks to protest the terrorist killing of three Palestinians Tuesday in Hebron.

The violence broke out at Bir Zeit University in the small town of Bir Zeit, which has long been a center of radical Palestinian nationalism. Students erected makeshift roadblocks of large stones and burning tires across the narrow roads of the village, about 20 miles north of Jerusalem.

that we followed all the steps required by law for putting the amendment on the ballot."

Havill insists now is not the time to argue about the constitutionality of the proposed amendment.

"Let the people vote on whether they want it or not. If everyone votes against, I will be satisfied. But let them vote. To argue about it before the people vote is ludicrous."

"After it passes, anyone can go to court," Havill said, also pointing out that under Florida law, anyone opposing a proposed constitutional amendment must file suit in the courts within 30 days after the petitions are certified and accepted. And, he added, that 30 days expired some 90 days before Fine filed suit.

"The bottom line is we are going to do what is necessary to keep the question on the ballot. Hopefully the issue will get a fair and non-political legal hearing," Havill said.

"There has never been a suit in the state's history that required an issue once put on the ballot to be removed before the people had the right to vote on it," he added.

Havill disputed what he says is the opinion of many Floridians — that the state has low taxes.

For example, he said, while Florida homeowners were told their property taxes were being reduced, the state raised the sales tax.

"Actually Florida ranks 8th in total taxes collected in the 50 states," he said. "And it's the 34th poorest state out of the 50 in terms of per capita income."

"Gov. Bob Graham's new $11.3 billion budget represents a 100 percent increase since he took office four and a half years ago, far outstripping the state's population increase of 15 percent in that time. Florida is the 10th highest in the nation in total property taxes collected. The expenditure per child for education ranks 4th in the nation."

Havill, a professional engineer, was elected property appraiser in Lake County in November, 1976.

"I told the people I am an engineer and an administrator, not a property appraiser and they elected me anyway," Havill said. He was re-elected in 1980. He is the first Republican to hold the office since Lake County was founded in 1887.

Military Construction Bill Has Strings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate bill appropriating $7.2 billion to build and maintain U.S. military installations around the world attaches some strings to further spending in Central America.

President Reagan wanted $8 million for improvements to an airfield in La Cieba, Honduras, but the legislation, passed Wednesday, withholds the money until the Pentagon provides Congress a report outlining all military construction planned or completed in Central America.

"I know I speak for the majority of my colleagues when I say that we are very concerned with the events as they are unfolding in this region of the world," said Sen. Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., during debate on the bill.

Last year, the Senate provided $13 million for a similar contingency base at Comayagua, Honduras, but Sasser said some of the money actually was used for another location in northwest Honduras.

In addition, he said, the Air Force is building a radar site south of the Honduran capital, using money from another Pentagon budget account. And he said there are reports the administration wants to build a $150 million air and naval base on the Atlantic coast of Honduras.

Sen. Mack Mattingly, R-Ga., chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on military construction, said the bill contains $1.2 billion less than requested by Reagan and is only 0.2 percent above last year's bill.

The legislation includes $2 billion to be spent outside the United States, including $55 million for facilities to support the Rapid Deployment Force at Ras Banas, Egypt.

The House had deleted $91 million for Ras Banas after U.S.-Egyptian negotiations broke down. But in its report on the bill, the Senate Appropriations Committee said it disagrees with the House action and hopes renewed negotiations will resolve the problems.

The committee also expressed concern with the administration's request for 20 new overseas bases in recent years while NATO allies were not paying their share of defense costs.

The committee also inserted language requiring the administration to notify Congress of new overseas bases.

Attorney To Be Pressed To Talk About Sex Tapes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Attorney Robert Steinberg was ordered to testify today at a hearing for Marvin Pancoast, accused killer of Vicki Morgan, and Pancoast's lawyer says he will push Steinberg to talk about video sex tapes Steinberg has failed to prove exist.

Steinberg was subpoenaed by the defense to testify at the preliminary hearing for Pancoast, who has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity in the slaying earlier this month of Miss Morgan.

Steinberg has said the tapes show Miss Morgan, 30, longtime mistress to presidential confidant Alfred Bloomingdale, at orgies with government officials.

Pancoast, 33, allegedly beat Miss Morgan to death with a baseball bat July 7 while she slept in the North Hollywood apartment they had shared for three weeks. He surrendered shortly after the killing.

Although Steinberg repeatedly invoked his right against self-incrimination when questioned by a prosecutor about the tapes at a hearing earlier this week, defense attorney Arthur Barenis said it was necessary that he return to court.

"I don't plan to follow the same tack as the district attorney did," Barenis said. "I do plan to pursue this to the fullest legal extent to see the questions are answered."

Barenis said that although he believes Steinberg fabricated his story about the tapes, he would be remiss if he did not question the attorney under oath.

Steinberg told the court Monday that he does not have the tapes or know their whereabouts. He was unavailable for comment Wednesday, but his attorney, Leonard Levine, said Steinberg has nothing to add to his previous testimony.

Barenis said he does not plan to ask Steinberg to produce the tapes.

"I want to know if there's something he saw or heard either from the person delivering the tapes or from the tapes themselves that would be helpful to my client's defense," he said.

Four days after Pancoast's arrest and after briefly meeting with him in jail, Steinberg claimed he had three videotapes showing Bloomingdale, Miss Morgan and top government officials at "sex parties."

Steinberg said he had been given the tapes by an unidentified woman who told him they would help in Pancoast's defense. The day after claiming he had the tapes — and after being subpoenaed by the district attorney to produce them — Steinberg reported them stolen from his Beverly Hills office.

Pancoast, who once worked as a clerk for the William Morris talent agency and the public relations firm of Rogers & Cowan, has recently undergone psychiatric treatment. He told reporters in jailhouse interviews he killed Miss Morgan because she had made him her "little slave boy."

Despite those statements, Barenis has voiced doubts that his client actually killed Miss Morgan. The lawyer also requested the sheriff beef up security for Pancoast because he was afraid there are people who would kill the suspect to prevent him from standing trial.

Oil Companies' Profits Up

Mobil Corp., the nation's second largest oil company, credits stable crude oil prices and high profits on petroleum products for a 40 percent surge in its second-quarter earnings.

Phillips Petroleum Co., ranked 10th, racked up a 15.7 percent gain in its second-quarter results primarily because of increased production of crude oil and natural gas liquids. Sun Co., the 11th-largest, attributed a 22.7 percent profit rise to better refining and marketing results.

Analysts generally had expected major U.S. oil companies to record improved earnings in the April-June period following OPEC's decision to lower its benchmark oil by $5 a barrel in mid-March to avert a price crash.

In the second quarter Mobil said Wednesday it earned $402 million, or 99 cents a share, up from $287 million, or 68 cents a share, in the same period last year.

MAKE A FAST ENERGY SAVING

WOULD MAKE A FAST $1,450.

FPL will pay you up to $1450 to have a participating contractor install these energy-savers:

- Up to $600 to replace your money-wasting old air conditioning systems with energy-saving central air conditioning split systems.
- Up to $300 to install ceiling insulation or add to your existing insulation. (Bring it up to FPL's recommended level.)
- Up to $150 to install solar heat solar screens and certain types of awnings and shades for your windows or glass doors.
- Up to $400 to install a solar water heater or up to $300 for a water heating heat pump, or $100 for a heat recovery unit, any of which can be added to your existing water heater.

If you qualify for these energy-saving programs you not only save on your utility bills now, and also lower your energy bills in the future. And an FPL representative will personally check to see that the completed job meets our rigid standards.

This program benefits you and all our customers. Because it costs less than the oil necessary to generate the extra electricity wasted by inefficient homes.

Republicans Tie Covert Aid Halt To Nicaraguan Restraint

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Republicans, seeking to blunt a Democratic bill that would halt U.S. support for Nicaraguan rebels, say the aid should end only if Nicaragua's government agrees to stop supplying leftist guerrillas in other countries.

Democrats responded Wednesday with their own amendment that would retain the ban on U.S. aid while merely urging the Central American nations to agree among themselves not to supply arms to insurgents.

House leaders hoped for final action on the amendments and the bill today.

The amendment offered by Rep. Bill Young, R-Fla., would order the aid stopped only if Nicaragua agreed to stop supplying rebels in countries such as neighboring El Salvador.

Young said his amendment would have all countries in the conflict "play by the same rules."

Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., said the United States should not wait for an agreement among the other countries before halting covert aid to the anti-government forces in Nicaragua.

Barnes said the United States "should not be in the business of taking upon itself unilaterally to overthrow other governments of this hemisphere with whom we happen to have a disagreement."

House Republican leader Bob Michel, R-Ill., said the United States "would cut off that (covert) aid in a minute if the Nicaraguans would stop exporting arms."

The amendments were offered as the House went through six hours of debate on the aid cut bill backed by most House Democrats, but strongly opposed by President Reagan.

Neither side was confident of victory and there were continuing efforts to fashion a compromise plan that would be acceptable to a majority of the House.

The Democratic bill, if passed by the House in its original form, would almost certainly be rejected by the Republican-controlled Senate.

The measure would halt U.S. aid to the rebels and, instead, provide $80 million for friendly governments in Central America to use in efforts to halt the shipment of arms to guerrilla forces in the region.

It's A Losing Game

"We think that our capacity to persuade will be a lot greater if it's clear to everybody that if we must play that game, we can play it, and we have a deeper pocket than they do." Secretary of State George Shultz said recently. "The game" is subsidizing farm products. Other countries do it and are hurting our exports. So, "we're probably going to have to compete," Shultz told an enthusiastic conference of farmers in Washington.

To some, it's about time the United States got tough on the unfair trading practices some countries use to undercut our markets. To us, subsidizing favored sectors is shooting yourself in the foot, and shooting yourself in the foot isn't tough. It's stupid. A subsidy competition with other farm exporters would only draw further capital from growing industries and productive workers, and use it to prop up overproducing agricultural sectors.

What should we do? Nothing. Every time a foreign government uses its spending power to subsidize chickens or butter, it does so by withdrawing resources from something else, like cars or computers. The money spent on subsidies, acquired by taxation or by tapping private credit markets, thus removes capital and incentives from more productive uses.

Subsidies thus hurt the subsidizer not just on some ethereal economic blackboard, but in real, direct ways. And they hurt even in the short run, not just 20 years from now. Subsidies work only in the sense that they present some producers, like chicken farmers, with a windfall gain at the expense of others, like auto manufacturers.

The United States could, of course, intervene with new subsidies or import quotas of its own, but who would want to?

As it is, American subsidies to agriculture have ballooned from $8 billion under Jimmy Carter to more than $20 billion this year under a president committed to free enterprise and open trade. Part of the problem, of course, resulted from the Federal Reserve's three-year squeeze that drove the prices of all commodities through the floor.

What's more, the administration has made some noble efforts to address the farm subsidy pork barrel. Many farmers, for example, receive payments for excess production not in cash, but in kind — receiving crops which they then sell on the open market or store, rather than glorified welfare checks. This has relieved the government of a large part of the storage problem that comes with fiddling with free markets, and has kept the costs of the program lower than they would have been.

The best way to help American farmers would be to bring down real interest rates to their historic 2- to 3-percent level. One good way to do that would be to trim the size of government. And one good way to do that would be to undo the maze of corporate welfare payments that make up virtually a tenth of all federal spending. A broad-based effort to cut off private interests from the public trough would be both useful and, in all probability, a lot more popular than trimming little Johnny's food stamps.

Let's do it.

Tip Means You

A lot of people are trying awfully hard to blame the current and coming deficits on Ronald Reagan's tax cut of 1981 — in particular, on his measure cutting the top tax rate from 70 percent to 50 percent. But the numbers suggest that the blame lies elsewhere.

In tax year 1980, the latest year for which complete figures are available, 88 million Americans filed tax returns. Almost 1.8 million wound up being taxed at what is now the top marginal rate, 50 percent, or higher. These top taxpayers earned $33.8 billion in income subject to taxation above the 50 percent rate. Of that, the Treasury collected $21.1 billion, about 8 percent of all 1980 collections.

Hence, even if the Treasury had seized all income once being taxed at better than 50 percent, it would have netted only $12 billion, about 6 percent of the projected 1984 deficit. By the way, tax rates of 50 percent or better begin to apply as soon as the single earner hits $41,500 in income, and at $60,000 for couples filing jointly. The next time Tip O'Neill talks about soaking "the rich," remember he could mean you.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Many public issues have clear and profound biblical — I mean, moral dimensions. Wouldn't you agree?"

By Diane Petryk

"A free disc camera, just for taking a look" the invitation said.

Walking along one of Florida's beaches last weekend I was handed a flyer asking me to take a short tour of a nearby time-sharing resort. They were going to give me the camera because "we know your vacation time is valuable."

What the heck, I thought. I don't really know anything about time-sharing condos; I'll look at the place. How deep a bite could it take out of my Sunday afternoon? An hour or so, and maybe I'll learn something and, well, there's the free camera.

Four hours later I emerged from the experience.

The actual tour took about 15 minutes. The rest of the time was pure hard sell.

When I first arrived and presented my invitation, the receptionist wanted to know if I was married, because if I was and hubby wasn't with me, the deal was off. At first I protested, arguing that, married or single, with my own money I make independent decisions. Besides, I told the manager, a wife could tour the resort and then go home and tell her husband what a great place it was, couldn't she? Then together they might decide to invest... "It doesn't happen that way," he said. "I'm single," I said.

He looked skeptical, but assigned me a salesman anyway. What I thought was going to be a group presentation/tour turned out to be a one-on-one sparring contest. The salesman had an answer for everything.

First he took information on my background: income, education, interests.

Then asked what I knew about time-sharing.

I said that's when you buy a week or two at a place and those are your weeks every year and other people buy the other weeks.

"Ah, you know nothing about it," he said. And he proceeded to tell me.

I had to admit I had some misconceptions, at least in reference to the time-sharing concept of his company. You don't have to use the same week every year. You don't even have to stay in the same place — you can trade your week in Florida for a week at a resort in London, Switzerland, Australia or thousands of other places all over the world.

Some of this sounded good. You buy the resort time for 25 years, so as inflation increases the cost of vacations the accommodation part of yours is paid for at 1983 prices.

The catches: A yearly maintenance fee, subject to increase. A computer fee for making the trade or your unit for another in the vacation paradise of your dreams. Will the trade you want be available at the time you want it? You have nothing to resell at the end of the 25 years. The building reverts back to the original owner.

These are not necessarily reasons not to buy. Just things to consider. And perhaps the time-shared resort is a good deal. They certainly "sold" me on many aspects of it.

For instance, although you may only occupy your accommodation for the week or weeks you purchase, you may, at the particular resort I toured, use the recreational facilities — pool, tennis courts, etc., any day of the year. For the price, this might be cheaper than a membership at your local YWCA.

But when I said "I'll sleep on it" they went full steam ahead with the pressure.

"No, no. This price is only good if you sign up today. Today we can offer you a $500 discount. I can't offer you that tomorrow." It was then I realized why experience showed wives never return with their husbands or vice versa. Given a day or two to think about it they think better of it. Or so the company fears.

When I insisted that if it's as great a deal as they said it would bear scrutiny, the salesman called in his boss who began to knock down the price. Could I take the contract to be looked at by a lawyer? "We don't let people take the contracts out — other firms try to copy them."

"Well," I said, "I'm sorry, but I make it a policy never to buy something the first day I hear about it."

At this point the salesman began to insult the college from which I got my degree.

He made me wait another 15 minutes or so while he filled out paperwork, then coldly escorted me out.

Oh, yes. He grudgingly gave me the camera. I could have done better with a box of Cracker Jacks.

Genetic Hepatitis Vaccine?

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Health Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two chimps named lanthe and Dolf made medical history the other day when it was announced they didn't contract hepatitis B after being exposed to the virus that causes the disease.

They didn't get sick because they had been injected with an experimental hepatitis vaccine made through genetic engineering.

Two other chimps in the primate center in Rijswijk, the Netherlands, also exposed to the infection, became ill. They had not been protected by the experimental vaccine produced through recombinant DNA technology by Biogen N.V.

"This indicates the likelihood that the new formulation will be effective in preventing hepatitis B in humans because of the similarity of the disease in chimpanzees and humans," said Dr. Walter Gilbert, Biogen's president.

Blood tests confirmed the chimpanzees which received the experimental Biogen vaccine were immune, he said.

He estimated last week if all goes smoothly, the genetically engineered hepatitis B vaccine should be available by 1986.

Hepatitis B affects some 200 million people worldwide and is considered a major cause of liver cancer. It is transmitted by sexual contact or contact with blood or blood products and can cause flu-like symptoms and liver failure. There is no specific treatment.

A hepatitis B vaccine has been on the market for over a year, but it is made from matter extracted from human blood plasma. The supply is limited by the quantity of blood parts available.

The new process, which uses yeast, could give doctors an endless source of material to make hepatitis B vaccine.

In the process, Gilbert said, the DNA in the yeast cells' genes is changed so they produce hepatitis B surface antigens. Such antigens are characteristic proteins that lie on the surface of a virus.

Surface antigens stimulate the body's production of antibodies to fight the foreign matter and the subsequent development of immunity to the specific virus.

Currently available hepatitis B vaccines are made from surface antigens taken from blood plasma of human carriers of hepatitis.

Gilbert said a vaccine produced through recombinant DNA technology would have significant advantages over current vaccines.

The yeast strains were developed by Prof. Kenneth Murray, a member of the Biogen Scientific Board and head of the department of molecular biology at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Sizing Up Japan's 'Yas'

TOKYO (NEA) — The Japanese are taking the measure of their new prime minister.

They haven't been quite sure what to make of a leader who acts like a leader. The pattern has been for a Japanese prime minister to be an operator of Machiavellian skills in domestic politics, but abroad, a very low-profile representative of the Japanese consensus — or that part of it determined by the Liberal Democratic Party, a coalition of essentially conservative interests that has had a firm grip on power throughout the post-war era.

Yet here is Yasuhiro Nakasone very much up front, and not only at home. He persists in acting like a leader among world leaders.

Consider his performance at the Williamsburg summit, which has drawn much comment in Japan. For the first time in the nine reunions of the leaders of the industrial democracies, you did not have to look to the end of the line to spot the Japanese prime minister in the group photos.

Nakasone was invariably front and center, right next to the supreme leader of the free world, the American president.

It's not what the Japanese might have been prepared to expect from their prime minister, but it is what you might expect from a self-professed admirer of John F. Kennedy. Also, as Nakasone subsequently revealed, of Winston Churchill and Charles de Gaulle. Bold role models all.

Nakasone took a number of bold steps immediately upon taking office last year. In Japanese terms, the most significant was a visit to South Korea in which he frankly acknowledged the low point in the centuries-long relationship between the two countries. He did not exactly apologize for a half century of Japanese occupation, but he made clear contemporary Japan's regret of the consequences and hopes for an easier relationship from now on.

If the Koreans have not yet wholeheartedly accepted Nakasone's hands across the Taishima Strait gesture, they have at least refrained from telling him to take his leadership act elsewhere.

Which he did anyway — to Washington. He made a distinct impression on his host, who asked to be called "Ron." OK, or something to that effect the Japanese prime minister responded, provided the American president called him "Yas."

That sort of thing isn't done with Japanese names and at first the folks back home weren't sure whether to be appalled or amused. But enjoying a good joke as much as any other people, they apparently have opted for the latter.

They haven't been so amused about other Nakasone initiatives, such as his associating Japan with the Williamsburg declaration in support of U.S. missile installations in Western Europe and his reference to Japan's role in the common defense effort as that of a gigantic aircraft carrier.

Once back home, there was some soft — if not exactly back — pedaling of the military talk. Nevertheless, military spending and foreign assistance are the two major items in the current budget not marked for austerity trimming.

Nakasone's primary concerns for the immediate future are, like the budget, essentially domestic. The anticipated deficit is of a magnitude that would be right at home in Washington.

Money The Banks Don't Like

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the banks won't take your money, it must mean something.

It's not paranoia. We don't just think they don't want our money. They really are reluctant to take it.

Take what happened the other day. We were in trouble from the start. The guard watched with acute suspicion. We were lugging this big plastic bag.

He kept watching during the writing of a deposit slip and the approach to the teller's cage. The contents of that plastic shopping bag — actually two, one inside the other because of the weight — were plopped on the counter in front of the teller. Thump, thump, thump.

People turned their heads to the tune of that thumping. It was mildly embarrassing.

This particular bank hails itself as a friendly people's bank where you get personal attention. It's not like the bank we used to go to where you didn't get personal attention. You got computerized instead.

The friendly people's bank's computer is less visible. Tellers have to go to it to check up on you. It doesn't sit blinking at them in their cages.

Our favorite friendly people's bank teller let out a yelp before running off to check up on the account in the computer.

"Harry," she said to the guard, "why do you do this to me? Didn't you see what he's carrying?"

She said, reproachfully, "It's 2:45 on a Friday. You couldn't come in earlier? We close in 15 minutes."

"I was working."

"You couldn't work some other time?"

There didn't seem to be an answer to that. She began to gather in the money with great distaste. One would have thought she didn't like money. Maybe if you handled it all day, you wouldn't either.

She counted: 19 rolls pennies — $9.50; 10 rolls nickels — $20; 4 rolls dimes — $20; 3 rolls quarters — $30. In all, $79.50, the product of a lot of careful hoarding.

"You shouldn't do this," she went on. "You're hurting circulation."

We felt hurt.

"You know we can't count this today," she said. "We'll have to debit you if it comes out wrong."

"OK."

All this time, there was the sound of shuffling feet behind us. This was accompanied by groaning and moaning. The friendly people's bank's lines are seldom long. But our pennies were holding up other customers' deposits. We looked around furtively to meet stares of frustration and anger.

They Still Play Pork Barrel Game

WASHINGTON — Come crisis, deficit, hell or high water, the old pork barrel game never slacks off on Capitol Hill. Skillful players dip into the barrel to fish out choice morsels that will show the folks back home they're getting their share of Uncle Sam's dollars — a million for a road-widening project here, a billion for a waterway there.

The game could be dismissed as just so much dam-foolishness, if it weren't for the sad fact that the accumulated boondoggles cost the taxpayers billions every time the congressional experts sit down to play. Even sadder is the fact that some pork-barrel projects aren't worth the paper the appropriations bills are printed on. Few are justified at a time of runaway budget deficits.

Members of Congress know this all too well. That's why most of the wheeling and dealing is done behind closed doors at the House-Senate conference on appropriations. Despite the determined effort to keep the taxpayers from knowing what's being done to them, my associates Corky Johnson and Donald Goldberg flushed out some of the more outrageous provisions in the $14.3 billion Energy and Water Development Appropriation Bill for 1984. Here's what they found:

— In December, the House voted solidly against funding the controversial Garrison water-diversion project in North Dakota. But Rep. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., appealed to the House Democratic leaders for help. Under pressure from the leadership, 53 Democrats reversed themselves and helped kill a motion that would have ordered the House conferees not to fund the project. Result: $23 million for Garrison in the appropriations bill.

— Technically, no funds were appropriated to finish the $1.8 billion Tennessee-Tombigbee waterway, which runs through the districts of Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., the appropriations committee chairman, and Rep. Tom Bevill, D-Ala., chairman of the water development subcommittee. Realizing that a specific appropriation would have brought a sticky floor debate, Tennessee's backers pulled an end run, directing that $202 million be taken from leftover Corps of Engineers construction funds.

— The House voted overwhelmingly against the $200 million Stonewall Jackson Dam in West Virginia. Even the local congressman, Rep. Bob Wise, D-W.Va., called it a boondoggle. But Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., made more than 120 calls to House members who were considering a motion to order the project killed in conference. Result: $26 million in start construction.

— The Oregon Inlet project in North Carolina can't be built without Interior Secretary James Watt's OK, and he's dead set against it. But at the insistence of House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Chairman Walter Jones, D-N.C., whose district includes Oregon Inlet, $500,000 was appropriated. Lacking Watt's approval, the money will revert to the Corps of Engineers general construction fund — where it would wind up paying for Tennessee-Tombigbee.

— Rep. Wes Watkins, D-Okla., wanted $1 million for a project at Sardinia Lake in his district, and managed to extract $750,000 from the House-Senate conferees. Then he juggled funding for another project in his district, McGee Creek, and emerged with the whole $1 million.

Altamonte Teams Just 1 Win Away

Coffey, Seniors Bury Dunnellon; Seek Title Today

INVERNESS — The Altamonte Senior League All Stars picked up where they left off Wednesday by erupting for 13 runs on 10 hits in the bottom of the fourth en route to a 19-7 rout of Dunnellon in the completion of Tuesday's rain-suspended game in the Little League Senior Sectional tournament.

When the game was suspended Tuesday, Altamonte had just rallied for six runs in the bottom of the third to take a 6-4 lead. Dunnellon took an early 4-0 lead on the power of home runs by Robert Hunter and David Goebel in the first inning and a round-tripper by Cassandra Baker in the third.

The victory advances Altamonte into today's 2 o'clock final against the same Dunnellon team, which beat Mayo, 8-7, in the loser's bracket final Wednesday night. If Dunnellon beat Altamonte today, a second game will be played at 6 tonight to determine the championship. Losses in the sectional tournament carry over into the state tourney.

"Some of the guys on the team have come down with a stomach virus and they told me before we started today (Wednesday) that they were going to get some runs early before the virus got to them," Altamonte manager Clayton Garrison said. "And we came in and blew them (Dunnellon) away in the fourth."

Altamonte's Tim Smith and Kenny Chappelaine were unable to play in Wednesday's game because of the stomach virus while Mark Coffey was able to play despite being ill.

Coffey, who came on in relief of Mike Pinckes on Tuesday, set down Dunnellon on one hit in the top of the fourth to set up the blow out in the bottom of the frame.

Pinckes led off the fourth with a walk and T.J. Scaletta reached on an error. John Bane then walked to load the bases and Ryan Lisle followed with a RBI single. Kevin Bass followed Lisle with a two-run single and Coffey followed Bass with a run-scoring double, knocking Dunnellon's Dexter Allen out of the game as Altamonte took a 11-4 lead.

Neil Harris greeted reliever Baker by slamming a two-run homer to give Altamonte a 13-4 lead. Andy Dunn followed with a double and Kenny Oswald singled to put runners on first and third. With one out, Scaletta reached on an error to load the bases and Bane followed with a RBI single. Lisle then drilled a RBI single and, with two outs, Coffey connected for a run-scoring double and Harris smashed a two-run double to complete the 13-run uprising and give Altamonte a 19-4 lead.

Coffey went the rest of the way to pick up the pitching victory for Altamonte as he gave up three runs on four hits in four innings of work.

"He (Coffey) hasn't pitched in three or four weeks," Garrison said. "But he did real well today and held his composure all the way through."

Altamonte amassed 16 hits in the game as Bane led the way with three hits and three RBI while Harris had a pair of hits and four RBI. Bass collected two hits and picked up three ribbies while Lisle, Coffey, Dunn and Oswald had two hits each.

Altamonte's Ernest Martinez (above) raps a ground ball to the third baseman during Little League Junior Sectional Baseball Tournament action against Tri-County Wednesday. Tri-County pitcher Herman Pryear went strictly with his curve ball, but the Juniors still carved out a 5-2 victory, thanks in part to Jeff Hagen (right) who tossed a six-hitter. Hagen struck out five and walked two as the Juniors again played excellent defense. Tonight at 7, Altamonte takes on Jacksonville Highlands for the championship and a berth in next week's state tournament.

Hagen, Juniors Trip Tri-County; Highlands Next

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

WINTER GARDEN — Tri-County pitcher Herman Pryear came up with a few wrinkles for the Altamonte Junior League All-Stars Wednesday — but it didn't matter because Altamonte's Jeff Hagen smoothed everything over like an embalmer.

Using primarily a fastball, Pryear had been ripped for three runs during the first inning of Tuesday's rain-suspended Little League Junior Sectional Tournament game. Pryear went strictly with his curve Wednesday, but Altamonte still tacked on two runs to offset two by Tri-County for a 5-2 victory.

Hagen, a smooth lefthander, was nicked for single runs in the second and third innings before settling down to finish with a six-hitter. He struck out five and walked two.

"Jeff did a fantastic job and we played excellent defense again," said manager Frank Messina. "We definitely would like to end it Thursday. We'll probably go with (Cory) Prom or (Greg) Ebbert. It will depend on whom we play."

The team Altamonte will play will be Jacksonville Highlands. Jax easily disposed of Tri-County, 7-1, in Wednesday's second game.

A victory by the Juniors at 7 o'clock tonight will earn them a berth in the state tournament beginning Monday at Winter Garden. A loss forces a winner-take-all game Friday at 7:30 p.m. A loss accompanies the team into the state tournament, which is also double elimination.

Pryear, meanwhile, didn't waste any time showing off his curve ball. He induced Eric Birle and Hagen to ground out to open the second. Matt Lange, though, coaxed a walk and stole second. Red-hot Chris Brock followed with a ground single between short and third to score Lange. When the throw skipped past the catcher, Brock scampered to third.

Eric Martinez followed with a shot to the shortstop's right which he gloved, but couldn't throw out Martinez for another hit and RBI and 5-1 lead. Ernest Martinez grounded out to end the frame.

"Obviously, he (Pryear) decided (Tuesday) that we were going to hit his fastball," said Messina. "He changed his style. We just tried to get our guys to wait a little more and be patient."

Pryear didn't have much trouble after the second, allowing singles to Zac Maddox (third), Randy Green (sixth) and Lange (seventh). Altamonte had second and third with just one out in the seventh, but Pryear struck out Ernest Martinez and Matt Messina to escape.

Hagen, likewise, was sailing along. He gave up a run on a single to Steve Gindl in the second, but a snappy 5-4-3 double play erased any further damage. In the third, Cliff Moore's sacrifice fly brought home another run, but Hagen made a quick grab of Pryear's liner and then got Coy Campbell on a popout for the final out.

Hagen retired 14 of the final 17 batters he faced. Campbell got as far as third on a single and two stolen bases in the sixth, but Hagen reached back to whiff Sherman Holland and get Rodney Showers on a ground ball to third.

Altamonte's inner defense of the Martinez brothers at the corners, Messina at shortstop and Scott Stiles at second continued to make the plays and make things easy for Hagen.

"Terry (Hagen) positions the players," said Messina. "We've got a book on just about everybody we play and Terry moves the guys where he thinks they'll hit it. It's paid off about a dozen times already."

TOURNAMENT TIDBITS — Altamonte's depth continues to pay dividends. Messina and Hagen haven't started with the same nine twice, but everybody who starts usually produces in some way. Tuesday's lineup featured Birle and Maddox. Birle contributed two nice fielding gems at third while Maddox added a single in the third inning. Lange continues to run at will on the bases. He stole three more against Tri-County, one on a pitchout. "It doesn't matter," said Don Birle, manager of the Americans' Little Major All-Stars. "I don't think he got thrown out during the regular season."

Hebert Leads USFL Stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — Led by quarterback Bobby Hebert, the champion Michigan Panthers had four first-team selections on the inaugural United States Football League All-Star team.

Herschel Walker of the New Jersey Generals and Kelvin Bryant of the Philadelphia Stars, the USFL's two leading ground gainers, joined Hebert in the backfield. Walker led the league with 1,812 yards.

Rounding out the first team offense were wide receivers Trumaine Johnson of the Chicago Blitz and Eric Truvillion of the Tampa Bay Bandits, guard Buddy Aydelette of the Birmingham Stallions, tackle Irv Eatman of Philadelphia, center Bob Van Duyne of Tampa Bay and tight end Raymond Chester of the Oakland Invaders.

Brett's Bat Decision Due Today

NEW YORK (UPI) — American League President Lee MacPhail is to rule today on a question that even President Reagan refused to touch.

League spokesman Bob Fishel said Wednesday that MacPhail will announce his decision on George Brett's pine-tar home run at 11:30 a.m. EDT at the AL offices.

The question of Brett's controversial homer arose at the daily White House press briefing when Reagan spokesman Larry Speakes was asked: "As an old baseball fan, does the president think George Brett ought to be able to keep his home run?"

Baseball

Speakes replied: "The president hasn't expresses a viewpoint but I'm sure that the president thinks that baseball should be played by the rules, as does George Brett, who says he'll keep the pine tar under 18 inches."

MacPhail's decision is to come four days after umpires nullified Brett's two-run, ninth-inning homer.

Seminole Broncos Have Sights Set On St. Joseph's, Mo.

You can't blame Jim Lucas, Larry Walker and Dick Joyce for taking just a peek past this weekend's Seminole Pony Baseball Bronco State Tournament. It's only human nature after what happened two years ago.

After all, when the Seminole Broncos finished second in the World Series two summers back, it gave every team thereafter quite a target to shoot for. And Lucas who manages the team, along with coaches Walker and Joyce, have their bow and arrow pointed directly at St. Joseph's, Mo., the site of this year's World Series.

But it won't come easily. Those Broncos of two years ago had the opportunity to host the Southern Zone tournament. When they upset a powerful Miami Avanti team, it gave them an automatic berth at the Series in Lafayette, La.

This year's Broncos have a tougher road.

It begins tonight at 6:30 or 8:30 at Pembroke Lakes (near Hollywood) with the state tournament. A draw will be held at 3 today to determine whether Seminole plays Tamiami, Tampa or Pembroke Pines. The double-elimination tournament runs through Sunday.

The winner advances to the Regional on Aug. 3 at Tampa's Town & Country complex. A couple of victories there gets you to the Southern Zone at St. Bernard, La. on Aug. 9. The next step, or "ultimate dream," as Walker so aptly puts it, is the World Series at St. Joseph's.

Lucas feels his squad of 11- and 12-year-olds are up to the task. "We have a tremendous hitting team," he said prior to the district tournament. His squad reinforced that theory by sweeping three games and the district, outscoring the opposition.

Sam Cook
Sports Editor

46-8. This team is built on power. It hit 16 homers while taking the district. First baseman Bobby Moore and pitcher Chris Hudson each socked three. Outfielder Mike Davis and pitcher Chris Crockett hammered two apiece.

But the Broncos are going to have to eat their Wheaties if they hope to continue the slugfest at Pembroke Lakes. The dimensions of the field are enormous. Down the lines is 305 feet. It's 350 feet to center. At Seminole Pony, it's 205 down the lines and 240 to center.

"I don't know where they got those dimensions," said Walker. "The recommended distance is 250. I guess we'll just have to hit them in the gaps."

Although this Bronco team may hit better than the World Series runners-up of two years ago, the pitching may be a question mark. Manager Richard Coffey's squad had a plethora of hurlers led by Sanford's Terry "The Cat" Miller, Greg Ebbert, Mark Coffey, Sean Flaherty and Kelly Hysell.

Lucas' squad boasts James Joyce, Hudson and Crockett as the mainstays. Either Joyce or Hudson will probably get the call tonight.

Defensively, both clubs are excellent. The infield is set with the hard-hitting Moore at first, either Jimbo Lucas or Carlos Abreu at second, Chris Trier at shortstop and Craig Smith on the hot corner. The outfield is comprised of Davis, Chris Norton, Mike Lowe, Todd Walker, Chris Schoenfelder and Erik Wofford. Wofford socked a grand slam in the district.

Both teams are strong to the last player. "We've got a combined average of .450 coming off the bench," says Walker. "Not a whole lot of teams can say that."

Handling the pitchers will be Joyce, a veteran performer behind the plate. Walker says a good catcher is a must since the backstop is a whopping 60 feet behind home plate. "It's conceivable you could score from second base on a passed ball or wild pitch," says Walker.

It'll also be conceivable it's World Series time for Seminole Pony again.

That is, after Pembroke Lakes, Tampa and St. Bernard.

Cardinals' 9 Steals Nip Giants; Yanks, Orioles Move Into 1st

United Press International

The St. Louis Cardinals are using sprinters' speed to create hurdles for the opposition.

"They have a track team," San Francisco catcher John Rabb said Wednesday after the Cardinals stole nine bases en route to a 7-6 victory over the Giants.

"I've never experienced anything like that." The nine stolen bases by the Cardinals fell just two shy of tying their team record of 11, which has stood since 1916. The 11 steals in a game also is the modern National League record.

"I don't think there is any club or any other catcher that St. Louis can't run on," continued Rabb. "They have the speed and the talent. If you make any little mistake you have no chance."

The Cardinals completed their first series sweep since they beat Montreal four straight games May 12-15.

"I think at one time this year we had stolen 44 bases and had been thrown out 37 times," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said. "We couldn't steal. But we have to do that. Now nine steals — that's a pretty good day's work. But it took every one of them."

A stolen base by David Green led to the winning run in the bottom of the ninth. Green beat out an infield hit, stole second, moved to third on George Hendrick's foul fly and trotted home on a sacrifice fly to center by Tom Herr to snap a 6-6 tie.

"We can steal more than that," Green said. Lonnie Smith paced the Cardinals with three steals and Ken Oberkfell and Willie McGee added two each with Bill Lyons and Green contributing one.

In the three-game series against the Giants, the Cardinals stole 16 straight bases. During the nine-game homestand against San Diego, Los Angeles and San Francisco, they stole 27 and were thrown out just three times, twice on attempted steals of home after a runner on first had been caught off base.

Cubs 2, Dodgers 1

At Chicago, pinch hitter Jerry Morales hit a tie-breaking sacrifice fly with one out in the eighth to lift the Cubs. Lee Smith, who pitched the final two innings, raised his record to 4-5. Bob Welch fell to 8-10. The game ended when rookie pinch runner Dave Anderson was caught stealing by catcher Jody Davis.

Braves 6, Mets 3

At New York, Rafael Ramirez's two-out, two-run single with the bases loaded keyed a four-run eighth. The Mets took a 3-2 lead in the seventh on Mookie Wilson's three-run homer. Craig McMurtry, 12-5, was the winner. Terry Forster pitched the final two innings for his 10th

A.L./N.L. Baseball

save. Doug Sisk, 4-3, took the loss. Pirates 10, Padres 1

At Pittsburgh, Johnny Ray drove in four runs with two homers and Tony Pena added three RBI with a two-run homer and a single to support the four-hit pitching of rookie Jose DeLeon and lead the Pirates, 10-0. DeLeon, 2-0, allowed no hits for 6 1/3 innings. Eric Sisk, 10-7, took the loss. Expos 6, Reds 3

At Cincinnati, Andre Dawson slammed a two-run homer in the first inning and Warren Cromartie keyed a three-run sixth with an RBI single to lift the Expos and rookie Greg Bargar, 2-0. Frank Pastore fell to 4-9. Tim Lincecum doubled twice, scored once and drove in one run.

Phillies 3, Astros 1

At Houston, Joe Lefebvre triggered a three-run second inning with an RBI triple to lead the Phillies. John Denny, 10-5, worked seven innings for his fourth straight victory, and Willie Hernandez finished up for his sixth save. Joe Niekro, 8-8, had a personal four-game winning streak snapped.

Yankees 4, Rangers 3

And then there were two... Monday there were four teams — Toronto, Detroit, Baltimore and New York — tied for first place in the AL. East. Tuesday night Toronto fell from the pack.

After Wednesday's games, only Baltimore and New York remained.

The streaking Yankees' 4-3 victory over Texas and the Orioles' 10-3 rout of California, coupled with Detroit's 5-3 loss to Seattle, placed Baltimore and New York one game ahead of the Tigers and 1 1/2 games ahead of the Blue Jays.

Matt Keough and Rich Gossage combined on an eight-hitter and Steve Kemp tripled in the go-ahead run in the eighth inning to help the Yankees complete a three-game sweep of the Rangers at Arlington, Texas.

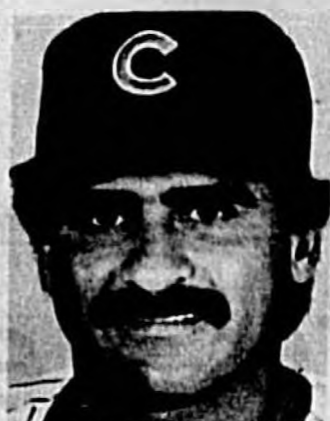

It was the Yankees' fifth straight triumph and 12th in their last 13 games. The Rangers, meanwhile, fell below .500 for the first time since June 9. They are now 49-50, having lost five of their last six and 17 of 23 since July 4.

Orioles 10, Angels 4

At Anaheim, Calif., Cal Ripken collected four hits and drove in three runs and Allan Ramirez allowed four hits over 5 1/3 innings to lead the Orioles. It was the Angels'

Goose Gossage

Jerry Morales

14th loss in their last 18 games. Ramirez, 4-1, gave way in the sixth inning to Sammy Stewart, who recorded his fourth save. Mike Witt, 4-8, took the loss.

Mariners 5, Tigers 3

At Detroit, Pat Putnam drove in four runs with a pair of homers, including a three-run shot in the seventh, and Mike Moore, 2-3, pitched a three-hitter over 8 2/3 innings to help the Mariners snap Detroit's four-game winning streak. Bill Caudill finished for his 18th save. Tigers reliever Doug Bair fell to 3-2.

White Sox 11, Blue Jays 3

At Toronto, Scott Fletcher highlighted a six-run eighth inning with a three-run triple and Carlton Fisk and Harold Baines had three hits and two RBI each to power the White Sox. LaMarr Hoyt, 12-10, worked seven innings and allowed two runs on eight hits.

Royals 5, Indians 4

At Kansas City, Mo., Hal McRae hit a two-run homer, George Brett drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and a single and Gaylord Perry reached the 3,500-career strikeout plateau in leading the Royals, 5-4. Perry, 4-11, worked six innings and Dan Quisenberry went the final three for his 25th save.

Brewers 13, Twins 9

At Minneapolis, Ben Oglivie hit a 480-foot home run and Paul Molitor and Jim Gantner combined to go 9-for-9 in helping the Brewers snap Minnesota's five-game winning streak. Jim Slaton, 9-3, the second of four Milwaukee pitchers, was the winner while Brad Havens dropped to 7-7.

A's 7, Red Sox 6

At Oakland, Rickety PETERS and Dave Lopes each drove in a run in the fifth inning and Bill Krueger, 7-6, pitched 3 1/3 innings of shutout relief for the A's. Boston's Carl Yastrzemski hit his seventh homer of the year and 449th of his career.

All-Star Games Continue; Seminole Physicals Aug. 3

Six High School All-Star games, featuring Florida's finest graduating high school athletes, will continue today, Friday and Saturday in Orlando as part of the 1983 Sunshine State Games.

The Florida Athletic Coaches Association (FACA), in conjunction with the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, will be sponsoring the games which include football, soccer and basketball for men and softball, basketball and volleyball for women.

Graduating seniors are selected to be members of the All Star teams by FACA coaches. They are chosen based on their outstanding athletic talent and demonstrated sportsmanship. They represent the 16 FACA districts throughout the state with districts 1-6 representing the North and 10-16 the South.

Seminole county players chosen for the All Star teams include the following: Football — Mike Hill, Lyman.

Men's Basketball — Ronnie Murphy, Oviedo.

Soccer — Paul Chimelewski, Lake Howell; John Pinkley, Lyman. Assistant coach, Bob Rosenburber, Lake Howell.

Women's Volleyball — Lynn Lugerling, Carol Rogers, Lyman.

Softball — Erin Duffy, Lake Howell.

Physicals for all Seminole High football players (freshmen, junior varsity and varsity) are scheduled for Wednesday, August 3 at 4 p.m. in the trainer's room at the Seminole High gymnasium. Physicals are free of charge.

Practice for the Seminole varsity begins on August 15 with the JV and freshmen beginning practice on August 22.

Oviedo High football physicals are set for Thursday, August 11 at Dr. Robert Likens' office on State Road 436 in

Sports Roundup

Casselberry at 1 p.m. The examinations are for all players, freshmen through seniors. The Lions, like the rest of the county schools, begin practice on Aug. 15.

Three local girls teams and a team from Riviera Beach will compete in an exhibition tournament as part of the Sunshine State Games tonight and Friday at Lake Mary with the championship set for Saturday at Valencia Community College.

Ken Patrick's Florida team will play Mickey Norton's Seminole squad at 8:30 tonight. In the first game, Bill Moore's Lake Mary girls will take on Riviera Beach at 7 p.m.

The double-elimination tournament continues Friday with games at 10 a.m., 11:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. The championship will be played Saturday at 11 a.m. at VCC in Orlando.

The Altamonte South Seminole Jaycees and Women Jaycees will be sponsoring the 1st Mutt Dog Derby to be held on Sunday at the Super Seminole Greyhound Park.

Registration for three weight classes of dogs begins at 10 a.m. and the races begin at 1 p.m. Admission is $1. Prizes for winning races include three $50 savings bonds and all entrants will receive awards.

Proceeds from the event will go to benefit the Humane Society of Seminole County. Entry forms are available at any Seminole County 7-11 store. For more information contact the Humane Society at 323-8885.

Another Stephenson Scores Well

Kristi Stephenson does her best imitation of her namesake, Jan, at the Seminole Golf Club at Longwood. Kristi, who shot a 59 in the final round of the six-week summer program, had the best low gross score for the second flight. Chris Bravo had the first low net while Mike Bravo was second and Kristin Conway was third. In the beginners' group, Scott Vincent had the low gross while Chad Weinkauf had the best low net. Steve and Colin Lawter were next in line.

Missy Warner, Oviedo, from left, Jeannie Longworth, Winter Springs, and Barbara Ann Buccino, Longwood, are among the 11 members of the Seminole County 4-H Horse Club riding in the state show to earn the club Second Overall High Point County.

4-H Horse Club Takes Honors At State Show

After three days of dust and grueling heat, 11 of the Seminole County 4-H Horse Club members swept the Florida 4-H State Horse Show with several victories at the state fairgrounds in Tampa.

Seminole County came home with the honor of being the second Overall High Point County at the show. They also received the coveted "Golden Shovel Award," which is presented to the county delegation who maintained the cleanest and neatest stable area during the horse show.

Seminole County had several members who excelled in their riding styles as Barbara Ann Buccino, Longwood, was awarded High Point Hunt Seat, Missy Warner, Oviedo, High Point Saddle Seat, and Jeannie Longworth, Winter Springs, Reserve High Point Saddle Seat.

In individual classes Jeannie Everett, Oviedo, placed second in Stake Race, fourth in Pole Bending and fifth in Keyhole.

Brian Berk, Lake Mary, placed fourth in Stake Race.

Missy Warner, Oviedo, placed second in Saddle Seat Showmanship Sr., first in Saddle Seat Equitation, first in Bridle Path Hack, and first in English Pleasure.

Barbara Ann Buccino, Longwood, placed fourth in Hunter Showmanship Sr., fourth in Hunter Type Mares, over 14.2, fourth in Hunt Seat Equitation on the Flat, Sr., second in Hunt Seat Equitation over Fences Sr., and first in Working Hunter.

Melissa Henry, Longwood, placed third in Saddle Type Pony Halter and third in Saddle Seat Showmanship, Jr.

Jeannie Longworth, Winter Springs, placed second in Saddle Type Halter Gelding, Reserve Champion Gelding, third in Saddle Seat Showmanship Sr., second in Saddle Seat Equitation, third in English Pleasure and eighth in Bridle Path Hack.

Amy Smith, Longwood, placed second in Handy Hunter and eighth in Open Pony Working Hunter.

Sinda Knowles, Sanford, placed sixth in Hunter Type Gelding, over 14.2. Shannon Gardner, Casselberry, placed second in Hunter Type Mares, over 14.2.

Dena Watson, Longwood, placed fourth in Saddle Seat Equitation, sixth in Saddle Seat Showmanship Sr., fifth in Saddle Type Gelding, over 14.2, and fifth in English Pleasure.

Missy Warner, Barbara Ann Buccino, Dena Watson and Jeannie Everett will represent Seminole County and the State of Florida at the South Regional Championship 4-H Horse Show in Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 22, 12 and 13. These riders are among the top 40 riders in the state. They will be competing with riders from 12 other states.

Allergy To Perfume Is Nothing To Sneeze At

DEAR ABBY: I am allergic to all perfumes and colognes. Only people who suffer from this allergy can appreciate how terrible it is. When I come into close contact with someone wearing an excess of perfume or cologne, I get a throbbing headache and my skull feels as though it's about to explode!

I can't understand why some people douse themselves so excessively with overpowering cologne. Years ago it was considered cheap or vulgar to use too much perfume, but today when you walk into a room, you nearly pass out from the combination of fragrances used by men as well as women.

Please print this, Abby. You would be doing a lot of people a big favor.

ALLERGIC
DEAR ALLERGIC: I've had a rash (no pun intended) of letters lately on this subject. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. Most people think I'm a "kook" because I am allergic to perfumes and colognes. Just one whiff, and my nostrils close up, my throat becomes irritated, and I start coughing and choking and gasping for air. It's a panicky feeling. All I can do is run to a place where I can breathe fresh air.

Abby, some people (men as well as women) use a fragrance subtly, and others bathe in it! I happen to be a smoker, and I respect those who are allergic to smoke. Why can't others respect my allergies? They don't seem to care or understand. My doctor said, "Sorry, I can't do anything for you. Stay away from the public, and your friends should understand."

Can you offer any help? I have never seen this subject in print.

NEEDS HELP IN TUCSON

DEAR NEEDS: Your doctor's advice should be taken literally. When you encounter an overscented person in a social situation, head for the nearest exit! And it's up to you to tell your friends about the seriousness of your problem.

P.S. Why hasn't someone invented a chic designer gas mask? It would be an instant "best-smeller." I'd be the first to buy one.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to have a baby, and I am not married. What should I do about my baby's last name? I know for certain who the baby's daddy is. Do I need his permission to give my baby his last name? Some say I do and some say I don't.

I plan to keep my baby, but I need to know what name I should put down on the birth certificate.

HAVING A BABY
DEAR HAVING: Laws differ from state to state. In some states, in order to use the father's surname, the father must admit paternity or it must be proved through the courts and an affidavit signed to that effect.

Find out what is required in your state. If a child is not able to use the father's surname, the surname of the mother is normally used.

DEAR ABBY: Say it again! I can't tell you how much I agree with you when you say that a pastor should always call before dropping in on church members.

Just 15 or 20 minutes' notice would be enough. Surprise visits are almost always upsetting and inconvenient.

Where do some people get the idea that clergymen are gods?

KNOXVILLE
DEAR KNOX: It's hereditary. They get it from their parents.

Watergate: A Nation Probes Its Government

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter
NEW YORK (UPI) — In the 1960's, television brought Vietnam into the homes of America and asked millions of viewers to judge for themselves. In 1973, the nation was asked again to judge for itself. This time, it was Watergate.

"Democracy had never worked quite this way before," said Sam Dash, chief counsel to the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities. "Never had a nation participated so intimately in an investigation of its government." Dash was one of several members of the Senate committee and its staff who were interviewed recently by WETA, Washington, for its two-hour program, "Summer of Judgment: The Watergate Hearings," which aired Wednesday on most PBS stations.

The remainder of the program featured the most startling testimony of White House figures and members of the Committee to Re-elect the President, which WETA edited out of the 250 hours of videotape it made while covering the hearings live from May 17-Nov. 15, 1973.

It was a tough decision for the Infant Public Broadcasting System to decide to provide gavel-to-gavel, live coverage of the hearings and then rebroadcast the tapes each night. None of the three commercial networks carried complete coverage.

WETA President Gerry Slater, who was general manager for PBS at the time, said veteran newsmen Robert MacNeil and Jim Lehrer were among those who urged PBS to clear as much air time as possible for the hearings, which eventually led to the Aug. 9, 1974, resignation of President Nixon.

"It was a major change in the programming schedule, so I reported to the (PBS) board of directors," Slater said. "It was very important to go the board, because it represented a cross-section of the country. They all approved, so we couldn't be accused of being Liberal East Coast Establishment."

Slater said PBS made its regular programming available, "but I don't think anyone chose not to run the hearings."

The tapes were rebroadcast at night, Slater said, because the daytime programming of some public television stations was dictated by contracts with their local public school systems.

Besides a review of hearing highlights, "Summer of Judgment" was meant to present Watergate "from the perspective of the committee members and their staffs," said producer Rieki Green.

WETA tried to interview the three senators on the committee who still are in office — Lowell Weicker, R-Conn.; Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Howard Baker, R-Tenn. — Ms. Green said.

"Mainly because of funding we wanted to do as much of our interviewing in Washington as possible," Ms. Green explained. Former Sen. Sam Ervin of North Carolina, who chaired the committee, was the exception.

Weicker and Inouye both appeared on the program but Baker refused to be interviewed, Ms. Green said. "His aide said he doesn't do interviews on Watergate. He doesn't want to talk about it."

Baker's assistant press secretary Cary Jehl told UPI the senator was too busy to do the interview. "It's not something he's put off by."

In his interview, Terry Lenzner, one of Dash's assistants, shed light on the scope of the impact that the live coverage had on Americans.

Dash's office received 100-200 telegrams a day during the hearings and 1,000 letters a week, Lenzner said, and he received scores of telephone calls at his office and more when he got home at night.

"Many people in this country perceived this to be a national call-in show, where they could in fact offer questions they wanted asked of these very important figures in government," Lenzner said. "Healthy participation in what they perceived as a sort of quiz show."

Slater said PBS made its regular programming available, "but I don't think anyone chose not to run the hearings."

The tapes were rebroadcast at night, Slater said, because the daytime

Rocky The Stick-Up Dog May Be Given Reprieve

SEATTLE (UPI) — Rocky, the pit bull terrier doing time on dog death row as a vicious accomplice in a holdup, may get a reprieve thanks to a legal loophole.

Rocky was doomed because he played to the strong-arm guy in a late-night robbery. Curtis Anthony Knight, who pleaded guilty to the holdup, ordered Rocky to attack the victim, Donald Bradshaw, 25, who was bitten on the cheek, thigh and ankle.

Knight, who will be sentenced in September, is Rocky's master, but possibly not his legal owner, a fact that could save the canine criminal.

Authorities who were planning to have Rocky executed as a vicious animal said Wednesday city law allows him to be put to death only if his legal owner does not claim him within six days.

House Panel Tightens Tax-Lease Loophole For Tax-Exempt Organizations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Ways and Means Committee agrees restrictions should be placed on the ability of tax-exempt entities like schools to sell their property and lease it back to take advantage of huge tax breaks.

The committee, on a voice vote held during a session closed to the public and reporters Wednesday, agreed to tighten tax leasing rules established in 1981 as they apply to tax-exempt organizations by stretching out the length of time over which property can be depreciated, thereby reducing the tax break, and denying then the investment tax credit.

The changes were in response to highly publicized examples of sale-leaseback transactions, including Atlanta selling its city hall, Bennington College of Vermont selling its classrooms and dormitories to its alumni, and the Navy selling some of its ships.

This is how it works: A tax-exempt entity sells its buildings to a taxable investor and then leases it back from the investor on a long-term basis. The tax-exempt entity retains the same use of the property it had before the sale and pays rent to the investor. As the owner of the property, the investor is entitled to any tax depreciation associated with the property. Part of the tax benefit flows back to the tax-exempt entity in the form of reduced rent.

In general, the new restrictions apply to all leasing transactions of tax-exempt entities entered into after May 23, 1983. However, a number of exceptions and transition rules also apply. If a binding contract is negotiated by May 23, 1983, the lease participants would have until the end of the year to consummate their deal without being subject to the restrictions.

For example, Bennington College, which did not sign its lease by the deadline, would have to depreciate its buildings over 40 years instead of 15.

But the Navy, under an exception written for the federal government, will be allowed to continue leasing back its ships.

Leases involving computers, high technology hospital equipment and short-lived telecommunication equipment are exempt from the proposed restrictions.

The full House is expected to consider the measure when it returns from its summer recess in September. The Senate has not yet acted.

Bishop Charged With Killing, Sexual Abuse

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Wearing a bulletproof vest, Arthur Gary Bishop was arraigned on five capital homicide charges that also allege he sexually abused four of five kidnapped Utah boys and photographed some of them in sexual acts.

Bishop, 32, a former missionary, honor student and Eagle Scout, was taken from his "suicide watch" cell Wednesday and arraigned before Fifth Circuit Judge Floyd Gowans, who scheduled a three-day preliminary hearing starting Oct. 5. The defendant, clad in blue jeans and a white shirt over a bulletproof vest, was protected by several law officers who kept tight security on the packed courtroom.

The Salt Lake City bookkeeper, after questioning Sunday in the July 14 disappearance of Graeme Cunningham, 33, the most recent kidnap victim, led police Monday to all five bodies, which were buried in shallow graves in the foothills outside Salt Lake City.

Gowans appointed public defender Jo Carol Neset-Sale to represent Bishop in the capital homicide cases, which, according to Salt Lake County Attorney Ted Cannon, will each be tried separately, with the Cunningham slaying going to court first.

Bishop agreed to a prosecution motion to seal the statements in which the causes of the boys' deaths are outlined. Ms. Neset-Sale said after the hearing that her client was cooperative. "He knows the grief of everyone involved," she said. "He has expressed concern for the families involved."

Only the first abducted child, Alonzo Daniels, 4, had not been sexually abused, according to the charges. Bishop was charged with capital homicide and aggravated kidnapping in the boy's Oct. 16, 1979 disappearance.

The complaint, filed just before Bishop's arraignment, lists the following victims and charges in addition to the capital homicide count:

—Kim Peterson, 11, aggravated kidnapping, sexual exploitation of a child, and forcible sexual abuse. He disappeared Nov. 8, 1980.

—Danny Davis, 4, aggravated kidnapping and forcible sexual abuse. He vanished from a South Salt Lake supermarket Oct. 20, 1981.

—Troy Ward, 6, sexual abuse and aggravated kidnapping. He vanished from his downtown Salt Lake City neighborhood on his birthday, June 22, 1982.

—Cunningham, aggravated kidnapping and sexual abuse of a child. Bishop was a friend of Cunningham and it was his association with the boy that led police to question the defendant.

The charges alleged that Bishop showed Peterson, Ward and Cunningham pornography "or displayed pornography or caused the victim to be photographed in a lewd condition."

Cannon said a search of Bishop's apartment turned up "pictures, exposed film and videotapes of nude boys."

Sheriff Pete Hayward said the former Mormon missionary led such an average life that he was not connected to the slayings until this week.

Bishop, an Eagle Scout who was active in the Mormon Church until he was excommunicated nine years ago, lived near the five victims or in neighborhoods where the young boys were abducted.

Bishop also faces four forgery charges in connection with his employment at a ski promotion firm.

House Subcommittee Narrows Request On The Carter Papers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In its latest attempt to strike a deal with the White House, a House subcommittee is narrowing its request for access to President Reagan's 1980 campaign files that it hopes might explain which Carter White House papers were passed to Reagan strategists.

Ordered by Reagan to cooperate, the Justice Department reached a separate agreement with the subcommittee Wednesday under which it will begin sharing some, but not all, materials gathered in the FBI's criminal investigation.

A spokesman for the Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee headed by Rep. Donald Albosta, D-Mich., said a Justice Department official pledged to turn over copies today of videotapes of Reagan's rehearsals for the crucial Oct. 28, 1980, debate with Carter.

Meanwhile, law enforcement sources said FBI agents concluded their two-week review of Reagan's campaign files at the Hoover Institution Library at Stanford University last Friday, finding additional documents pertinent to their investigation of the possible theft of Carter materials. The sources provided no details.

Micah Green, staff director for the subcommittee, said the panel is "extremely close" to a compromise with the White House that would give congressional probers direct access to Reagan's campaign files.

After days of negotiations, he said the panel has focused its request to limit it to only those materials that are relevant to its investigation, such as files of key campaign and White House officials.

The two sides have been deadlocked on the issue since White House counsel Fred Fielding said last week Reagan aides will only make the files avail-

Alcohol Possible Cause Of Impotence

DEAR DR. LAMB - My husband is 59 years old and about 15 pounds overweight. He has borderline hypertension with a pressure of 158 over 84, which is down since he lost approximately 15 pounds. He has been a heavy drinker for many years and has experienced occasional problems in maintaining an erection as a result. When he began taking Inderal for his blood pressure his erection problems increased and other medicines such as diuretics did not help. We finally realized his problem is more from alcohol than the medication, perhaps because of a loss of testosterone caused by the alcohol. Is this condition reversible by greatly reduced alcohol consumption?

I am sending you The Health Letter 18-6. Help for Impotence. To give you a better understanding of how it is caused and what can be done about it. I'm glad your husband's pressure is down but he should stop drinking alcohol entirely for best results. He should also get rid of the rest of his excess weight. He may not need any blood pressure medicine then. After stabilizing he could be more fully evaluated for impotence along the lines discussed in The Health Letter that I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Should a woman who has had a coronary thrombosis be forced to eat at least one egg a day? Isn't that unnecessary cholesterol? DEAR READER - I would think that would add to the problem. The average egg yolk contains 225 milligrams of cholesterol. The American Heart Association's recommendation is to limit the total cholesterol intake from all sources (meats, milk, dairy products and foods made with animal products) to no more than 300 milligrams a day. Now, if the patient happens to have a low cholesterol level and a good ratio of the small to large fatty-cholesterol particles then you might be more liberal. Even so I would not recommend forcing anyone to eat eggs after a heart attack. Women tend to have a low cholesterol during the childbearing years, which often means they can consume eggs during those years with less concern. But the real answer depends upon what that specific individual's cholesterol level really is.

DEAR READER - There are many factors that cause impotence so it is often difficult to know which one or which combination is the culprit in cases like your husband's. Alcohol certainly can and often is an important factor in causing impotence. High blood pressure medicines can also cause it. The size of the dose may make the difference in whether it does. Along that line, many patients being treated for high blood pressure with medicines would be able to have normal blood pressure without medication if they changed their lifestyle. Rose Stamler and associates from Northwestern University reported at the last American Heart Association meeting that two-thirds of the patients with high blood pressure could stop taking medicine if they lost weight and reduced salt intake and alcohol consumption.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE O80L What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JULY 29, 1983 This coming year you will develop a more philosophical outlook. Your new attitude will be a great asset to you in sports, your social life and business. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't put too much stock today in things which merely give you material gratification. Happiness will come from that which money can't buy. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Proposals brought to you today must be carefully analyzed or you may not appreciate all they have to offer. Don't rush to judgment. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Libras usually feel more comfortable doing things with partners rather than functioning on their own. This is apt to be especially true of you today. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Schedule important business meetings in the afternoon, rather than in the a.m. You should be both luckier and sharper at that time. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Instead of being self-conscious about being demonstrative today, take the opposite tack. Show one who is fond of you that you're equally fond of him or her. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may learn an important lesson about positive thinking today when something you've been worrying about turns out good instead of bad. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you judge someone new you meet today by material standards, instead of quality of character, you may cost yourself a valuable friendship. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Early in the day you might feel sorry for yourself, thinking everyone is getting breaks but you. This won't be true when the final score is tallied. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't be withdrawn or let your inhibitions deny you pleasurable experiences today. Be warm and outgoing and you'll have fun times. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Sentiment could work against you in commercial situations today. Go where you know you'll get the best deal, not where you feel obligated to trade. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you go to others for advice today you must be able to distinguish between logical counsel and emotional recommendations. Ignore the latter. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't give up today if your initial efforts fall short of what you're attempting to achieve. When you regroup and try again you'll succeed.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand diagram showing North, South, West, East cards and dealer information.

they considered an exceptionally strong weak two-bid. The bidding in the box shows how game was reached at most tables. North's two no-trump response was a one-round force. East's double showed a very good hand, and South's redouble showed his maximum hand with good defense in case East and West bid too far. West's run-out to three hearts was an escape bid. He wanted no part of letting North play two no-trump redoubled. North's three-spade bid was not a force, but all South players went on to game. The hands were a perfect fit, and with spades breaking 2-2 and no singleton in either defending hand, four spades wrapped up. There is a curious paradox here. One South player elected to open one spade and eventually played in three spades to take a substantial loss in IMPs since the other North-South pairs reached game.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby Most of today's experts believe firmly in the use of the weak two-bid. The bid is most effective in the major suits since it both pre-empts and suggests game possibilities. In the 1981 Bermuda Bowl most of the South players elected to open with two spades with what
