

Steel Production In U. S. Exceeds 100 Million Tons

NEW YORK, July 19.—(AP)—This nation's steel mills, at present capacity operating, could turn out in a year some 132 million more tons of steel than were produced last year in all the rest of the world combined, including Russia and Communist-dominated countries.

This was the statement made today by the American Iron and Steel Institute as it announced that the industry's capacity topped 100,000,000 tons annually on July 1 and would reach 105,750,000 tons by the end of 1952.

At the same time, the institute's giant, United States Steel Corp., with about one-third of all the steelmaking facilities in the country, announced plans to add at least another 2,300,000 tons of annual output capacity.

Chairman Irving S. Olds said the corporation planned a 1-600,000-ton increase by the fall of 1951 in the Chicago and Pittsburgh district plants of its subsidiary Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., and would start in 1951 to build the first part of a new integrated mill near Trenton, N. J., with a minimum input capacity of around 700,000 tons annually.

Increase in tonnage planned for individual plants were not disclosed. Units affected, Olds said, would be:

- Gary and South Works, in the Chicago District; Homestead, Edgar Thomson, Clairton, Duquesne and Ohio Works (Youngstown) in the Pittsburgh district.

Olds said the capacity increases "should prove to be of material help toward meeting the current high demand for many kinds of steel products."

The new construction work, he said, would not interfere with existing steel production, and would be pushed to completion as quickly as possible.

Truman Message

armed aggression may take place in other areas.

The President said the increases in the size of the armed services and the extra supplies they need will require additional appropriations. Hence in the next few days he will "transmit to the Congress specific requests for appropriations in the amount of approximately $10,000,000,000."

At home, Mr. Truman said, there must be "substantial redirection of economic resources" to insure that defense needs will be met without bringing on inflation and its resulting hardship for every family.

Accordingly, the President proposed:

1. That Congress pass legislation now authorizing priorities and allocations for materials needed for national security, to limit use of materials for non-essential purposes, to prevent hoarding, and to requisition or seize materials required for defense.

2. That all government agencies review their programs with an eye to lessening the demand for services and supplies vital to defense.

3. That taxes be boosted more sharply than he has recommended before in order to combat inflationary pressure.

He said that at "an appropriate time" as soon as necessary studies are finished, he will present Congress a tax program based on the principles that (A) The nation must try to pay for the greatest amount of needed spending out of taxes and (B) The tax system must be balanced to distribute its burden fairly.

Mr. Truman heretofore has urged mainly higher taxes on corporations and on upper bracket incomes.

Today he told Congress that heavier taxes will lessen the need for general economic controls and that a balanced tax program would help check profiteering.

4. That there be further restraints on credit expansion—along lines of curbs he directed yesterday for federally assisted housing.

The President told the Federal Housing Administration and the Veterans Administration to demand higher down payments and to cut down on building programs generally in order to provide more building materials for defense purposes.

Today he recommended that Congress authorize more controls to curb the expansion of privately-financed real estate credit.

5. That Congress authorize production loan guarantees and direct loans to boost production. The idea is to speed and increase the output of vital materials, products and services for defense.

Mr. Truman closed his message on a confident note.

"We will follow the course we have chosen with courage and with faith, because we carry in our hearts the flame of freedom. We are fighting for liberty and for peace—and with God's blessing we shall succeed."

There was no optimistic prediction, though, for a quick victory in Korea. The course of the fighting there, the President said, shows no easy solution can be seen. He said we are facing "overwhelmed, well-led forces which have been long trained for aggression. He added:

"We must also prepare ourselves against possible further aggression in the face of danger to the whole international community. We must be ready to meet any such attack."

intention of abandoning Taejon. An Eighth Army spokesman said "the men of the 24th United States Infantry Division's 19th, 21st and 24th regiments were dug in for defense and showed determination to stay."

General MacArthur's communique said the Communists had made "minor infiltrations and movements beyond contact of our forces" around Taejon. He reported South Korean troops standing firm along Communist invasion routes.

Allied aircraft struck hard at Red tank and troop concentrations in the vicinity of Nonsan, 25 miles southwest of Taejon and left Nonsan in flames. Other Allied aircraft smashed at Communist lines directly behind their lines as the Reds feverishly tried to restore supply routes blasted by air attacks. The Reds needed the supply lines to resume at full pace the offensive brought to a halt by that U. S. resistance.

The Defense Department announced U. S. Navy and Air Force planes destroyed or damaged 45 Red Korean aircraft yesterday. The arrival of the new American troops, committed to the battle zone on ten days notice, raised hope that the time of American retreat was past. More delaying action was predicted, but the buildup for the counteroffensive was getting under way.

The First Cavalry is commanded by Maj. General Robert B. Gray. It landed unopposed at a pier in the little fishing town of Pohang, 6 miles north of Pusan. It went ashore with artillery, engineering and signal units, and mounted supplies. The number of men landed was secret.

The 25th may have already been in action at Yecheon, 52 miles inland from the east coast on the right abutment of a dam held by South Koreans. It was here that unexplained U. S. artillery fire landed this week and sent them fleeing in retreat.

The landings will lift some of the pressure from the 24th Division which has been holding the Communists in their tracks at Taejon, which Allied planes tipped at enemy armor, vehicles and supply lines. Gregory from a bloody battle on the Kum to get their breath, and only patrol actions were reported for almost two days.

concrete blocs exposed on both sides and would have a concrete floor, he said.

The Rotary plan to finance the building calls for the forming of a non-profit corporation. The corporation would sell to each club in Sanford 325 notes. The final note, Mr. Spencer said, "could be tired in 13 years."

Civic clubs would be allowed to have one director on the building's board for each 50 notes that they take.

"On June 1," Mr. Spencer said, "the Rotary Club sent letters to every civic club in Sanford asking them of their aid in carrying through the program. To date only one club has answered."

"If Sanford is to grow," he said, "we will have to gamble a little money on its future."

The Gainesville Kiwanis club has written the Sanford club asking for its support in selling tickets to football games to be held this fall at the University of Florida. President Ralph Smith instructed all members interested to contact the secretary of the Kiwanis and file their names with him.

President Smith urged all members to attend a divisional meeting which will be held Oct. 31 in the University Club at Winter Park.

Three Mt. Dora Kiwanians were guests of the local organization. They were L. C. Smith, W. C. Patton and Eddie Digwall.

the Korean war, but also for any emergency elsewhere.

Mr. Truman said increased strength is needed in three general categories:

First, to meet conditions in Korea, additional men, equipment and supplies must be sent "as rapidly as possible" to the forces of General Douglas MacArthur.

Second, the world situation requires a substantial increase in the size and material support of American armed forces, beyond the increases required in Korea.

Third, is the extra help for our Allies.

Nowhere did Mr. Truman directly accuse Russia of fanning the fires of aggression in Korea. But he recited the record of Soviet refusal to support the U.N. or even attend meetings at which the Security Council stepped into the Korean crisis.

Mr. Truman said the Security Council's united and resolute action to put down lawless aggression is a milestone toward the establishment of a rule of law among nations.

"Only a few countries," he continued, "have failed to support the common action to restore the peace. The most important of these is the Soviet Union."

Negro Voting In Orlando Primaries Is Recommended

ORLANDO, July 19.—(AP)—Orlando's White Voters Executive Committee, which has conducted city primaries for 46 years, last night recommended that city elections be opened to Negroes.

At the same time it voted to dissolve and "turn the primaries over to the city," said Charles Stuckie, committee chairman. The committee agreed to ask Mayor William Hearshall and city commissioners to "comply with recent supreme court decisions" in opening the primaries to Negroes.

Orlando Negroes brought a $16,000 damage suit last February against Stuckie, Hearshall, Barney Cohen, committee secretary, and City Clerk Ed McDowell. They said they had not been allowed to register to vote.

Circuit Judge Frank Smith dismissed the suit June 28 but gave them until Aug. 1 to file an amended bill of complaint.

Nehru Sends New Note To Acheson On Korean Crisis

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru today renewed his proposal to bring Communist China into the United Nations as a step toward solving the Korean crisis.

In a new note to Secretary of State Acheson, the Indian leader argued that the admission of Communist China, as demanded by Soviet Russia, would not be "an encouragement of aggression."

He said that in making this approach to the U. S. and Russia India is seeking to "strengthen the United Nations in resisting aggression."

Nehru's second note was in response to Acheson's rejection of the idea of seating Communist China now as a preliminary to a possible settlement through the Security Council.

The exchange was made by the State Department immediately

McGrath Orders Stringent Policy On Draft Evasion

WASHINGTON, July 19.—(AP)—A stringent policy for prosecuting willful violators of the draft law was announced today by the Justice Department.

Attorney General McGrath said he has instructed the FBI to "vigorously seek the apprehension of willful violators."

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover issued a list of suggestions for those coming within the draft law, and noted that it provides penalties for violations ranging up to five years and fines as high as $10,000.

The act requires registration of all males between 18 and 26 years old. Those becoming 18 must register within five days after that birthday.

Hoover suggested for those affected:

1. Register promptly.
2. Fill out and return your questionnaire promptly.
3. Keep your local board advised of your correct mailing address.
4. Report for examination and induction when so ordered.
5. Report changes in your family status or occupation which may have a bearing on your classification.
6. Always carry your registration certificate and classification notice on your person.
7. If you have made an honest mistake, talk it over with your local draft board.

he dined with his theatrical friends. There, the trail ends. The Judge, who wrote lurid mystery stories as a hobby, himself became the key figure in a tale more inscrutable than any of his own. There were enigmatic postscripts:

Shortly after he vanished, police and other investigators, along with Mrs. Crater, searched the Crater's Fifth Avenue apartment for clues. Little was found, and Mrs. Crater returned to Maine.

But six months later, when she came back to the city apartment, there—in plain sight at the top of a bureau drawer—was a stack of the judge's papers, $6,690 in cash and securities, and a note addressed to her.

The note listed persons owing the judge money, and ended, "Am very weary—Joe."

Adding to the puzzle, the papers included a check bearing the judge's endorsement, dated Aug. 30—24 days after he disappeared.

But there was no inkling of what happened to him. Emil K. Ellis, an attorney for the judge's wife who spent several years investigating the case, says he established that the judge was at the Manhattan apartment of June Brice, a showgirl, after he left the West 46th Street night club.

daughter's mental upset dated from the day Crater vanished.

Two years ago, Miss Brice died, her mind still confused. "I am convinced," Ellis said this week, "that Judge Crater was the victim of a blackmail plot stranger than any fiction author could devise. It is unfortunate that the theorists overlooked his private life."

Close friends of the judge also are skeptical of the idea that he voluntarily forsook his career. Police Capt. Cronin points to the heaps of letters, cablegrams, photographs, circulars and reports that have accumulated on the case, and says:

"The evidence, and his actions indicated flight. Cronin said the judge had a wide acquaintance among New York show people, and that for months, detectives kept these friends under surveillance, but the judge never contacted any of them.

A detective still is assigned to the case. In the last two years, the judge has been reported seen at a gambling casino in Algiers, at a Montreal hotel, herding sheep in Oregon, at a Miami barber shop.

Like hundreds of previous tips, these proved unfounded. In 1939, a court declared Crater legally dead, and a year later, his $20,000 insurance was paid to his wife after her attorney dropped a suit demanding double indemnity. The judge's wife, now remarried, and her present husband, Carl Kunz, an engineer, live at Bederades Lakes, Me.

The judge's disappearance was not reported to police until Sept. 4, 1930—nearly a month after he was last seen. His wife said the judge's political associates had advised her not to make the report until a private inquiry regarding his whereabouts was made.

Some time ago, a newspaper reporter was sitting in police station press room in San Antonio, Texas, when an old, ragged, just-released prisoner approached and asked for a cigarette.

Noticing the old man's well-kept hands, the reporter asked him about his background. The man hedged. Later, the reporter found this note scribbled on a towel in an adjacent wash room: "Thanks for the cigarette. You almost got a scoop. Remember that judge in New York."

No Alarm in Washington Over A-Bomb Attack Yet

WASHINGTON—Defense leaders in Washington have little fear that the Korean crisis may bring an atom bomb attack on the United States by Russia, even if the Kremlin decides on all-out war.

United States intelligence is certain that the longest range Russian bomber could fly only about 1,500 miles—at the very most—carrying the fission A-bomb.

It is the conviction of the Navy officers that Marines could have been landed and rushed to the front lines in Korea in far less time than required to send Army troops from Japan.

Regarders of past policies, it is likely that the Korean situation will strengthen both the Navy and the Marines. Congress probably will be more willing to listen to the Navy's arguments.

NO MARINES—Navy critics of Defense Secretary Louis Johnson's armed forces unification policy found new ammunition in the outbreak of fighting in Korea and the United States decision to intervene in the conflict.

MacARTHUR-LAND—Gen. Douglas MacArthur, who was a chief of staff before most of the active generals got their stars, enjoys such rank and independence that his command is referred to as "the separate country of MacArthur-land."

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

A LOT of United Nations members are now indicating willingness to send troops to Korea. If things keep on as they have, there won't even be room for ours.

The American forces call the North Koreans "Gooks." Naturally too many Gooks spoil the soup.

Public's Lack Of Awareness Of Korean Hostilities Is Attacked

NEW YORK, (AP)—It was nice that no newly-retired American widow from the Far East was there.

You know some of them are back home already with their kids—young girls who kissed a husband goodbye in Japan, and heard a few days later he was dead in his country's service in Korea.

And quickly the widows and their fatherless children came shuffling here by air.

But, of course, they weren't going to bars, not named and dazed and with duties to fulfill, not with sudden widowhood to comprehend. Not bars.

However, should some widow, alone and more desperate than she knew, have wandered into a typical small Manhattan bar...

She might, for example, have heard this: "Well, thank God, the lost battalion got through!"

That's what I been trying to tell you," insisted the young man. "We lost a battalion in Korea and it fought its way back. Nobody here even seems to care about it."

Although he had a loud voice and the room was crowded with young men—and he looked around at the other young men—nonsensical anything.

"No," said the girl. "I been tied up worrying about baseball."

"No," said the girl. "I been tied up worrying about baseball."

just said the lost battalion got back. I don't know how many of them did or didn't. But they couldn't all have made it."

"Well, really..." said the tall young man, bitterly. "What is the use? I shouldn't have brought it up."

A little later, after they had left the bartender, a veteran of the last World War, said: "You know, last week it really was pretty tight in the National League—Philadelphia, St. Louis, Boston and Brooklyn all scrambling for the top. But things have pretty much quieted down now. And it seems to me people are talking more about Korea. They're a lot more interested."

As I say, it was nice that no freshly-arrived widow had dropped in all alone before going on somewhere to meet her parents. War is kind, she might have wondered if she were really in her homeland.

EVEN IN THE GRACIOUS CONFINES of the Tavern's secondary bedrooms, six hours' sleep was the most we could handle without the noise of a few taxis or street fights for lullaby.

A walk through the campus the next morning and an unsuccessful search for a Racing Form in this suddenly abortive town, and then we were ready to drive the fair Miss Winters down to Oceanport, where she was to be the guest of honor at the Monmouth Park race track during the running of the Shelley Winters Purse, three-year-olds and up, $4,000.

Miss W. was only three-quarters of an hour late, which is about par for the course. At point-blank range she turned out to be a handsome woman, a little tired around the eyes and a little preoccupied with the aerial problems of the camera, but all in all the kind of girl with whom you would sit down and play poker.

Thus to Miss W. in paid man's greatest compliment. The wind ruffled her short hair as we toiled swiftly through the country roads and we ruffled through her attempts at relaxation as we asked her what is all this about her being temperamental.

"Oooooowww," she cried, holding her head. "Please—let's enjoy." But we persisted.

"Well," she said, taking a deep breath, "I ain't being temperamental. I've only had trouble on one movie set in my life, and that's because the director was trying to make me imitate Mae West in my acting and it came out so bad that I balked. I just looked embarrassed, when we saw the rushes at night."

"But I think an actress ought to have a little temperament, which is something else again. Some performers don't worry about anything when they're on the job; they're down to Oceanport, where she was to be the guest of honor at the Monmouth Park race track during the running of the Shelley Winters Purse, three-year-olds and up, $4,000.

As a race track it turned out to be a dilly, being one of the newest and sharpest in the country. Even Miss Winters, who once went to California's lush Santa Anita and Hollywood Park tracks every day for seven months in a row, did some raving about this one. And when the races began, she did some shouting that overshadowed anyone in the park. "Maybe I yell too much," she said, apologetically.

The Shelley Winters Purse turned out to be won by a good thing named Near Thing. Miss Winters bet on a different horse in the same race. But she smiled gamely and presented a silver plate to Fernando Fernandez, gray-haired boy jockey of Near Thing. Then we piled Miss W. into a limousine and sent her back to Princeton.

"I'm not temperamental," she walked through the car window as she took off. We nodded pleasantly and I turned to the boy motorist as we made ready for the trip back to New York. "Nice dame," I said. "Yeah," he said. And the two-day holiday was over.

WHILE THE BOY MOTORIST TOOK CORNERS SAFELY on three wheels instead of two, Miss W. raved about her new, untested movie, the re-make of Dreiser's An American Tragedy, but our arrival at Monmouth cut the plug short.
