Mr. and Mrs. Steve Morris, Charlotte, Tennessee, visited the William L. Mitchell family last week. They are staying at Daytona Beach for a few days where Mrs. Mitchell and son Elmer joined them Sunday for a day of beach fun. Mr. Mitchell missed this visit from his county because he had gone to Salisbury, North Carolina for two weeks, seeing relatives and old friends. He has just returned to his home on the corner of Grant Ave. and Palmwood Street.

Joan Collins On 'Glamour Kick'

(Editor Note: Joan Collins is on vacation. Working in his place today is movie star Jean Collins. The English-born beauty says glamour girls should stay glamorous.)
By PAUL CHAZAN
Written for U.F.I.
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — You're looking at a new Joan Collins. I'm on a "glamour kick"—and it's paying off personally and professionally.
I don't feel like the same person as a few weeks ago, driving a limo. I've started acquiring a lavender sports car and living in a lavish new apartment. And I certainly don't look like the same person, either.
It all started several months ago when a public poll listed me as one of Hollywood's worst-dressed women. I got mad—not at the pollsters, but at my own capacity to get a rating. My grandpa used to tell me that look in the gay twenties, when things were slower and men had time to form an opinion, you couldn't even say the words "two-looked."

Average Person Over-Crisis'd

By BOB CURTIS
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — "The way I got it figured," says Wilbur, our office grocer, "is that the average guy has faced as many crises in the last few months as he's ever faced. Crisis is his name. Not in a state of shock—I wouldn't say that. Just numb."
What makes you feel that way, old man?
"Because he just doesn't react," said Wilbur. "You ask him how he feels about the sports car or the H-bomb menace and he just stands there kind of bleary-eyed. You ask him does he think the recession is winning, losing or drawing. He just spreads his arms."
"I tell you the average guy around this town has been hit with the news so many inter- national crises that he's lost his capacity to get excited. My grandpa used to tell me that look in the gay twenties, when things were slower and men had time to form an opinion, you couldn't even say the words 'two-looked.'"
Looks Appreciated
The apartment was especially decorated and furnished to look like a movie star's apartment. You should see the bedroom. It's very "retro"—plush pink and plenty of mirrors.
And not long afterwards, I was named one of Hollywood's best-dressed actresses. My pictures began appearing in fashion magazines. Producers at 20th Century-Fox, where I am under long-term contract, suddenly started asking me to star in their films.
I just completed, "The Bravado," opposite Gregory Peck. And the other day I was assigned a co-starring role with Jeanne Woodward and Paul Newman in "Ball by Round the Flag, Boys!" I'll wear 25 different changes of costume in the next one.

Re-Elected State President

By Staff Writer
Pascual school facilities have been added here at Forest Lake Academy and at schools in Sanford, Delray Beach, Miami and Clearwater.
Mr. Schmidt said recent inspection of membership rolls indicated good gains in every church in keeping with population gains in the state. Net membership gains for the past two years, he said, indicate a 10 per cent average for the entire conference.
The problem of one pastor having to serve more than one congregation is acute in the Advent church, as it is in many others, Mr. Schmidt said. "We are working toward a minimum of one pastor for each congregation, even the smaller ones," he added.

$300,000 Fire Hits Tampa Meat Packing Plant

TAMPA (UPI)—Fire gutted the center block section of a large meat packing plant here early today, with damage estimated running as high as $300,000.
Fire companies of St. Petersburg were called out to battle the blaze which broke out about 10:30 p. m. at the Hickory Hill Meat Packing Co.
S. M. Overstreet, president of the firm, said damage to the building was estimated from $200,000 to $300,000. He said the figure might have reached half a million dollars if the flames had spread to a nearby warehouse.
The origin of the blaze was undetermined.
Night Supt. Angel Ferrara said a night shift worker, Mildred Ruka, turned in the first alarm when the lights in her winner-pooling department went out. The fire was spotted moments later when a man was sent to check for fuses.
Low water pressure hampered early efforts of firemen to combat the blaze, and two huge tanks of gas ammonia threatened for a time to explode. However, no injuries were reported and the blaze apparently was largely under control shortly after midnight.
Company employees and volunteer workers helped remove part of the stock from the warehouse.

The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is calling on its members to cast ballots in the forthcoming annual election of directors.

"Do not lay them aside and forget them," members are urged.

De Gaulle Seeks Passage Of 'Salvation' Program

PARIS (UPI)—Gen. Charles de Gaulle today asked for immediate passage of a national "salvation" program by a divided General Assembly which already had given him a minor setback, possibly paving the way for a major one.

121 SHS Seniors Ascend 'Stairway To Stars' Friday

A class of 121 seniors received their diplomas from Seminole High School Principal Andrew J. Bracken Friday night in commencement exercises that depicted the "Stairway to the Stars."
The Salutatorian was Miss Barbara Mitchell, the Valedictorian was Angelo Compain.
Awards were presented to Angelo Compain by Howard McCall, president of the Florida State Bank annual award; Miss Barbara Mitchell received the Rotary award from Myron Reck; the Junior Chamber of Commerce award was presented by Tom McDonald to Teddy Walker and Nancy Richards; the American Legion award was presented by Gordon Frederick to Dickie Houtz and Irma Jean Corley.
The Seminole High School band played both the processional and recessional; the Senior Chorus sang "You Will Never Walk Alone."

The National Assembly, which Sunday named him the Fourth Republic's 25th premier, went back into emergency session this morning to debate the first two of three measures he said were essential for rescuing France from its greatest postwar crisis.
The third, his constitutional reform bill which would take from the Assembly its right to topple governments, remained tied up in the Assembly's universal suffrage commission after night-long debate.
The commission ignored the new government's plea for speed on all three measures and postponed further debate on the reform measure until this afternoon.
Special Powers Granted
Socialists and Radicals joined with Communists to administer a further rebuff when they named a "reporter" hostile to the measure to present the bill to the Assembly.
Shortly before 6 a.m. the commission approved, 37 to 12, the bill granting him special powers for six months to run the country without interference from Parliament.
But in doing so it completely rewrote the bill, sharply limiting the powers the government could exercise by decree alone.
The government had demanded that all three bills be passed without change.

32 Holiday Deaths Reported In Florida

VAH-9 Reveals Outstanding Crew Of Month

Aboard the USS Bergato in the midst of NATO exercise Medflex Fort, the largest NATO exercise ever held in the Mediterranean, the final statistics compilations were made and the outstanding flight crew of Heavy Attack Squadron Nine for the month of April was named.
The procedure for the selection of a crew of the month was begun two months ago in an effort to stimulate competition between individual crews in furthering their effectiveness in all phases of training. Upon the completion of each flight a grade is awarded for bombing scores obtained, air navigation, and airmanship demonstrated on that particular flight.
The award for the month of April was made to tactical crew number two (2) consisting of Commander E. R. Horvill, aircraft commander; Lt. (jg) B. G. Anderson, bombardier/navigator; and R. G. Ballard, ADS, third crewman. Commander Horvill is the Executive Officer of Heavy Attack Squadron Nine (VAH-9).
Commander N. E. Melana, VAH-9 Operations Officer, stated "The very nature of the award stresses teamwork between all crew members and competition is so keen that to win each individual in the crew must turn in an outstanding performance."
Tactical Crew Eleven (11) won the award for the month of March. Composing this crew were Aircraft Commander, Ledr R. H. Conn; bombardier/navigator Lt. (jg) J. C. Peterson; and Third Crewman, J. R. Youm, ADS.

One person was electrocuted in his own backyard and another

Plans Completed For Lake Mary Fire Dept. Building

Plans for the new Fire Department Building in Lake Mary are now completed and will be presented at the June 10 meeting of the Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department. Ed Zimmerman said this morning.
Two fires this past weekend point up the need for the department, Zimmerman said, as he pointed out that both fires, one on Saturday and another on Sunday, endangered homes of the area.
"The brush fires could have resulted in extensive damage to homes," he said. Zimmerman explained that in the Saturday fire, debris was so deep it took a long time to extinguish the smoldering area.
"We need a large turnout at our meeting so that everyone in the area can see the plans, make suggestions, and comment on the proposed building before start of construction," Zimmerman pointed out.
Another matter that should stay before the people of District 10 is the fact that a vote will be taken in the September Primary on making the area a Fire District.
Citizens can acquaint themselves with the problems of the area by attending meetings regularly, Zimmerman said.

suffocated in a Miami hotel room when she fell asleep holding a lit cigarette.
Three-year-old Karen Hotchkin of Hypolux was fatally injured last night when she tumbled out of the tailgate of her mother's station wagon and was run over before her mother noticed the child had fallen.
At Lantana, three-year-old Linda Lewis drowned when she fell in the swimming pool at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lewis.
Two potato field workers, both Negroes, died in a fire in a rooming house at Palatka. They were identified as Levi Lloyd, 60, and John Frazier, 56.
One of the most tragic accidents occurred near Deerfield Beach when Kenneth Wagner, 44, leaped into the Hillsborough Canal to save his 11-year-old son, Steve, who had fallen from a 15-foot embankment while fishing. Another son watched helplessly from a wheelchair as his father held the boy over his head until another fisherman, Harley Kemp of Fort Lauderdale, came to their aid.
Kemp saved the youngster, but failed to reach Wagner in time. Police said Wagner could not swim.
Collision Kills Three
The worst auto accident in the holiday period which began at 6 p. m. Thursday occurred near Inverness where three persons were killed in a two-car pileup.
The victims were identified as T. E. Harper of Dunellon, his 1-year-old granddaughter, Debra Ann Pitts, and Alex Parsons of Fort Benning, Ga., and Philadelphia.

Osteen Residents Warned Against Snakes In Area

An unusual number of rattlesnakes have been killed in Osteen this year.
"Much land is being cleared and it is thought that snakes are being chased out of the scrub," Mrs. Clarence Snyder, the Sanford Herald's correspondent in Osteen, said today.
A 4 1/2 foot rattler was killed in the Postmaster's yard Sunday when a child came near stepping on it.
Mrs. Snyder killed a "diamond back" on her concrete patio, two feet from the back door and about 10 feet from a 12-month-old child.
"A neighbor killed a six-foot rattler with 10 rattles and a button in a yard where children were playing," said Mrs. Snyder.
She advises all parents to warn their children and not allow small children on the outside without supervision, she said.

Jaycee Certificates Awarded At Banquet

Certificates of recognition and appreciation and certificates of merit were awarded Friday night at the Annual Installation Banquet staged by the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce.
Officers were installed for 1958 during the ceremonies with two officers of the State Jaycee organization taking part.
Don Smith, Leesburg, State District Vice President, installed Tom McDonald as president of the local Jaycees. Other officers officially named to office were Mason Wharton, first vice president; Bill Gramkow, second vice president; Art Harris, third vice president; Bob Landreth, treasurer; and John Alexander, secretary.
Directors installed included Glenn McCall, Howard McNulty, Herbie Stenstrom, Everett Harper, Ed Davis, David Klingensmith and Bill Brunley.
Prior to speaking to the Jaycees, Smith presented the Civic Service Award to the Sanford-Seminole County Jaycees for the "outstanding job in its year-round program."
Smith told the local Jaycees "A tremendous resurgence of enthusiasm occurs in the spring."
"If each and everyone of us could capture some of that spirit, this club and the entire fourth district could be vastly improved," he said.
"I don't think this is the time to say we have reached the peak," he said. "It is the time to say it's time for bigger and better awards."
Certificates of merit went to Mason Wharton, John Alexander, Glenn McCall, Harry Canell, Bob McKee, Howard McNulty, David Klingensmith, George Andrew Speer and Tom McDonald.
Prior to relinquishing his office as president of the local Jaycees, Raborn pointed to the program that had been accomplished during the past 12 months.
Tom McDonald, installed as president, said "We've had a very great and fine year—primarily due to the wonderful work of Sonny Raborn."
McDonald presented Raborn with a piece of luggage as a gift of appreciation for the work done during his term as president of the organization.
Attending the meeting was Tommy Blythe, Cocoa, a past National Director of the Jaycees.

Railroad Survival Plan Underway; Support Urged

E. N. Fielding, Freight Agent of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad, said today that the "Your Blueprint for Survival" program recently inaugurated by W. Thomas Rice, president of the ACL, is well underway.
"This program is designed to formulate ACL support for railroad legislation now pending in the U. S. Senate and House of Representatives as a result of the members Senate Committee Report."
Fielding stated that the need for all citizens in this area to support the legislation is urgent in order to avoid disaster for the American railroad industry.
Many of the country's largest railroads have as little as 30 days working capital on hand, Fielding stated. In 1948, he said, the railroads serving the Southeast had a net working capital of $60 million. In 1947, the year-end working capital was $78 million. "As it requires $127 million to meet monthly payroll, the seriousness of the situation is apparent," he said.
In calling for the support of all railroad employees and their friends, Fielding pointed out that it is extremely important that the pressing need of the railroads for immediate emergency legislative assistance receive rapid action in behalf of a stabilized national transportation policy.

DeBary Resident, Dr. Hurrell, Did Much For French People

By Mrs. Adam Muller
Dr. Louise M. Hurrell of DeBary is 66 years old.
Before coming to DeBary to live in 1943 she was a well-known doctor in Rochester, N.Y. She makes her home now with Dr. C. Seger at 232 Eldorado Drive.
In August 1918 Dr. Hurrell went to France where she was a member of the American Woman's Hospital, an organization which was independent of both the Army and Red Cross, but was operated with the sanction of the government.
Her first work was done in cooperation with the French Army, but after the signing of the Armistice, it took over the medical work for the American Committee for Devastated France. This was under the direction of Miss Anne Morgan and other prominent women at that time.
The hospital was given a free hand by the government and maintained its independence throughout.
When the Woman's Hospital unit arrived in France the civilian population in the vicinity of the Marne were beginning to return to their liberated homes.
Ultimately, the effort of the Woman's Hospital extended over a territory which included the greater part of the Department of the Aisne with the unit's first location in a chateau at Neufveaux, south of Chateau-Thierry.
The hospital unit cared for the refugees in the battle zone, who had been without adequate medical care for some time. Their work was scarcely begun when epidemics of diphtheria and typhoid and other diseases, caused by crowded and unsanitary conditions, began to rage.

The Woman's Hospital was able to check these epidemics and provide their relief.
With the coming of the Armistice, Dr. Hurrell, who had become director of the unit in November 1918, moved the hospital to the picturesque village of Lusigny.

It was now that the great work of the hospital began. Its field expanded into 108 villages which were placed in the care of the American women. In addition 83 dispensing centers were established with members of the hospital staff visiting them twice weekly.

When Dr. Hurrell first went into this area she found conditions had, in some places, citizens had to travel miles to get water fit to drink. Epidemics were breaking out everywhere, they were forced to close schools, and the food supply was meager.

Dr. Hurrell took her problem to the regional French authorities and told them if her hospital was to accomplish any good she wanted a squad of men from each village to clean up, that lot of disinfectant must be sent.

She said they sent her all she asked for within a few days. The attitude of the French people toward the Americans "was marvelous" said Dr. Hurrell.

During Dr. Hurrell's administration the unit took care of thousands of people. The hospital personnel was 42, with 13 of them professional. There were at least 60 operations a day.

Dr. Hurrell received many decorations for her work in France, one of her proudest possessions is the cross de guerre with a palm.

Also, she says, "My memories of quiet nights in Bordeaux and visits to the Cathedral are among the pleasantest I cherish."

After her return to the United States in 1928, Dr. Hurrell wrote a book "The Doctor's Buffalo Bag" which was widely acclaimed at that time. It was dedicated to the "Local members of the American Woman's Hospital Unit 1" in DeBary.

Dr. Hurrell, until recently, has been active in woman's clubs in DeBary.

Oviedo Terrace Under Construction

OVIDEO—Oviedo Terrace, owned by Homer D. Daniel, is now being developed by the owner. An interview with Daniel reveals that houses will be constructed and rented when completed.

The site of Oviedo Terrace is on Lake Jessup Ave. It is a large tract of land and many houses can be built there.

It is also understood that Daniel owns land that Mayor Lee Gary states the city has been trying to purchase at a reasonable price for the location of a new Fire Station.

The City tried some time ago to purchase the old Oviedo Hotel site from Daniel. The unsuitable building was finally torn down, but the debris still remains. Another lot owned by Daniel is adjacent to the concrete block home of Mrs. Hettie P. Regalade. This lot it was reported, is always grown up—an eyesore to the community as well as the neighbors.

Traffic Safety Examples May Mean The Saving Of Many Lives

School is out! Hundreds of children all start to enjoy a 90-day vacation from school and academic achievement.

To some motorists this means a heavier pace on the accelerator and a disregard of the 15-mile-per-hour school zone speed limits.

However, everyone should know that just because schools are observing a summer vacation schedule, many children will continue to attend classes for one reason or another.

Summer school begins just as soon as teachers and school authorities take a brief vacation. Children will be attending the summer school sessions more than ever in order to "strengthen themselves" in weak spots.

Again, this year, schools will be used as recreation centers for the countywide recreation program, and hundreds of our school-age youth will be seeking relaxation through fun and play.

As a matter of fact, the 15-mile-per-hour speed zones should be observed more stringently than ever before. The danger is greater with children darting here and there anxious to get home from summer school classes, or back home from recreation activities.

You May Go First, Sir!

Four words come easy when driving habits are the subject. Often the man or woman behind the wheel seems possessed by the devil of aggressiveness, bad temper, poor judgment, recklessness, stubbornness, or plain lack of consideration for the other fellow. Knowing that display of these qualities has been responsible for many deaths and injuries doesn't help matters.

This state of affairs makes it all the more pleasant to offer some words on the credit side. They concern the practice—not common enough, but more common than it used to be—of yielding the right of way in a good-natured fashion.

It's a wonderful feeling when another driver stops short of an intersection in slow traffic and lets you cross, or allows you to turn in front of him when the light changes instead of making you wait for a long line of cars to go by. Such an act merits a grateful wave of the hand—which generally brings a wave in return. You're happy, the good samaritan is pleased with himself, and anyone who was watching got a little object lesson in driving courtesy.

It's well worth the few seconds lost.

The Lighter Side Of Congress

By FRANK ELKASER
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The lighter side of congress:
Most of our lawmakers would have sworn they stopped all such foolishness 11 years ago, when wrongdoers in the Civil Service Commission made the mistake of compiling a list of suspect congressmen.

That list—containing derogatory material about maybe as many as 50 members of House and Senate and at least one senator's wife—was hastily destroyed, and the commission promised an irate House committee it never again would confuse congressmen with people who ought to be investigated.

But here, just the other day, were the commission's investigators, gunning around the capital corridors, asking questions about the loyalty and security of certain lawmakers who, it was obvious, were about to be dispatched on a mission of utmost secrecy.

And about Humphrey
"What?" one of the clerks solemnly inquired of Herb Waters, administrative assistant to Sen. Robert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.), "let me see your reputation of general reliability?"

Waters, who gave out lyrical headlines to the press on that day, smiled, agreed that everything he knew about the senator is unflattering. The apparently to have any double the government eye may have had about Humphrey.

Other loyalty investigators meanwhile were making quiet,

At the same time, streets will be literally seething with children as they take advantage of play time around their homes. Instead of late afternoon hours with youngsters dodging here and there in their activities, it will be day-long, morning to night.

Certainly it means, this summer, as in every summer past, motorists should take an extra share of precaution wherever they drive—in town, out of town—for fear that a child might dart under the wheels of the automobile or truck.

This summer provides an exceptional opportunity for law enforcement officers, civic leaders, school teachers, mothers and fathers, to set an example for other motorists to follow. If there is danger, speed zones around schools and residential areas should be strictly observed.

There have been many horrible examples of leadership in the field of automobile and traffic safety. These should be corrected so that those who fail to observe traffic safety regulations will stand out and be seen.

Summer time is traffic safety time, the most important time to save lives of youngsters and grownups alike.

Another Men's Poison!

When management grants a wage increase it generally has two sources from which to procure the additional revenues needed. It can pass the increase on to the consumer by raising the price of its product, or it can reduce its own "salary," so to speak, by cutting into the profit margins. Labor and management have long been at odds over which method should be used.

The United Steel workers of America has for some time been critical of the steel manufacturers over this issue. The union claims that industry could absorb many wage boosts without raising prices; the steel producers deny it. Whoever is right, the fact remains that when steel wages go up, steel prices almost always go up too.

Because steel is a commodity basic to most American industry, whatever happens to the price of steel at the mill affects a large part of our economy. The automobile and other heavy goods industries are among those hardest hit in some areas where down-selling became a fact. An increase in the cost of steel will hinder the recovery in such areas. Thousands of automobile and heavy industry workers are dependent upon that recovery for re-employment.

This has posed a dilemma for the steelworkers. Their contract entitles them to an automatic wage increase this year. They know that if they take it, the price of steel is almost certain to rise again. They know what effect that would have on heavy industries, and on the job prospects of many workers.

Things are getting pretty complicated when one man's raise is another man's poison.

The decline in penmanship makes it easy to see why a lot of people don't heed the handwriting on the wall. They just can't read it!

HOW CAN WE

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL RAY
Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, professor of medicine at the famed Mayo Foundation in his book "Live with Your Nerves" (Prentice Hall, Inc.), points out, the part emotional play in many illnesses and the importance of a physician's awareness of this fact in prescribing treatment.

I have long believed that a large percentage of the diseases that afflict us today are brought about through our own mental and emotional reactions. We make ourselves sick with our thoughts and actions and all the treatment and medicine in the world won't cure us until we understand our problem and change our thought patterns and behavior.

Such emotions as fear, constant irritation, hate, greed and others create a physical condition through the subconscious mind that eventually results in high blood pressure, heart conditions, ulcers and I firmly believe, cancer. We have lost the art of living with our nerves and are paying the penalty of pain and suffering.

You can call this belief Christian Science, mental healing or what you wish but it is a universal law that we can profit by if we understand it or suffer from it if we ignore it.

Dr. Alvarez says that over the last 30 years in the medical field he learned his psychiatry from his patients rather than from books. He found that most of his patients needed instructions in right-living rather than medical treatment. He formed the habit of listening to their accounts of their troubles, worries and fears. Through sound advice, understanding and encouragement he was often able to bring about a complete recovery by causing his patient to exercise self-control or mental control, if you like, of the underlying fear or irritation that was the real cause of their trouble.

Spiritual healing is being accomplished every day by those who have mastered the art of causing people to change their living habits and their thought patterns. These so-called healers are not all charlatans as some would have you think. They are simply applying age-old knowledge as recounted in the Bible and taught on the shores of Galilee.

Christ told us that the things He did we could do also and even greater things. He understood and applied God's law and he knew that anyone who would apply it through prayer and understanding as He did would reap the same results.

Individually and as a nation we need spiritual understanding and faith. We won't find the answer in pills or tranquilizers but within ourselves.

It is not my purpose to question the sincerity or accomplishment of our medical fraternity. In their field they are doing tremendous good and their service to humanity is unquestioned.

I do say, however, that our doctors and technicians should give credence to the afflictions we suffer from today. I firmly believe that Dr. Alvarez' practice of psycho-somatic medicine adopted by more medical men and given more consideration in medical schools would eventually lead to better doctors and greater service to mankind.

We contribute countless millions

Senate To Referee Sand Pile Struggle

CHICAGO (UPI)—A 200-year-old war over a long-ignored sand pile in Lake Michigan now has the U.S. Senate for a referee.

The struggle pits industrialists and Indiana officials against conservationists, Chicago vacationers and Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.).

The industrialists want the three and three-quarter mile stretch of Lake Michigan sand dunes for steel mills, Indiana Gov. Harold W. Handley wants it for a mammoth harbor.

But conservationists, led by the "Save the Dunes Council," want neither. They say the harbor is not economically feasible, and, since the dunes are worth less than a penny to have dirt piled up there, they should be conserved.

Douglas wants to take the area, drained and all, and make it a national park. He introduced a bill in the Senate to place the dunes under the national parks service.

Handley, a Republican, said Douglas isn't actually aesthetic, just astutely political.

"Douglas' position is not dictated by a deep love for natural beauty but rather by a desire to defeat Indiana's plans for a valuable and important lake port," Handley said.

The Save the Dunes people popped into the fray in 1932, but inherited a controversy dating to 1917. The fight had a temporary lull in 1935, when Indiana created the Dunes State Park.

"But the park just isn't big enough," Mrs. Dorothy R. Buell, president of the Dunes Council, said. "People stand in line for a chance to stand on the sand."

Some Indiana officials took the line that it's Chicago people who are standing in line, anyway.

"That's not true," Mrs. Buell said. "People from all over use the area. Frequently I go out and sweep down license plates from across the nation."

The disputed sand now is jointly owned by the Bethlehem and National Steel companies.

"If we could only have raised a little more money, we instead of the steel people could have bought the land," Mrs. Buell said. "I was up for $700,000 and we tried to get the cash."

Only $1700 trickled in, which made the dunes people realize they might be better off trying to win the case on a petition appealing for preservation of the dunes because of their scientific, historical and recreational value," Mrs. Buell said.

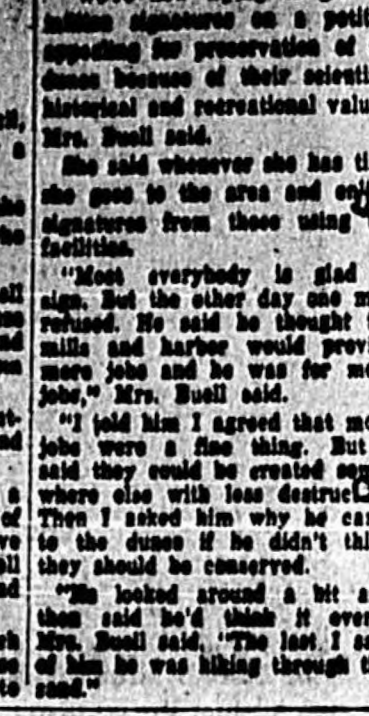

She said whenever she has time she goes to the area and collects signatures from those using the facilities.

"Most everybody is glad to sign. But the other day one man refused. He said he thought the mills and harbor would provide more jobs and he was for more jobs," Mrs. Buell said.

"I told him I agreed that more jobs were a fine thing. But I said they could be created somewhere else with less destruction. Then I asked him why he came to the dunes if he didn't think they should be conserved."

"He looked around a bit and then said he'd think it over," Mrs. Buell said. "The last I saw of him he was hiking through the sand."

Mrs. Johnny Cameron has been chosen "member of the month" by the Anna Miller Circle.
Mrs. Cameron joined the circle in 1950. She served as president in 1952. During her term, money raising projects were so successful that the circle was able to give over $1200 to the Harry-Anna Crippled Children's home. The money was used to purchase equipment, including an exercise bed.
Since that time, Mrs. Cameron has served on many committees, and is presently liaison officer between the Anna Millers and the Elks.
The member of the month was born and raised in Sanford. She and Mr. Cameron have two daughters, Marty, who attends Kentucky Wesleyan College Owensboro, Ky., and Mrs. W. J. Sullivan Jr., of Atlanta. They have one grandchild, Mary Helen Sullivan. The Camerons own and operate the Progressive Printing Co. Mrs. Cameron is active in the First Baptist Church and the Business and Professional Woman's Club.

Young Homemaker Of 1958 Outlines Ideal Wife Role
By PATRICIA RIEHL
DALLAS —(UP)—Many girls dream of combining marriage with a career, but Aloma Qualls may be better equipped for the task than most.
The 18-year-old high-school sophomore was named "Young Homemaker of the Year" by the Girls Club of America. She competed with hundreds of girls across the country in sewing, child care, grooming and cooking.
Aloma wants to study medicine or become a laboratory technician. Whichever career she selects, home still will come first, she said.
"I think a homemaker should not only be prepared to be the wife and mother in her home, but also the companion, best friend, advisor and peace-maker," she added.
Family Ties
The teen-ager, who lives in Wichita Falls, believes a homemaker should be able to prepare attractive as well as nutritious meals and, with an eye to her husband's paycheck, should know how to shop on a budget.
But economics is only a part of homemaking to this girl. She stressed the importance of families doing things together and of family worship.
"A husband and children are much better prepared to face their problems, knowing that God is with them and that their family understands," she said.
Religious convictions are important to her, she said, and must be important to the man she marries.
Played Clarinet
"I don't care whether he's good-looking, but he must have a good sense of humor and be of the same religious faith as I am."
She also wants six children.
Her tastes are not limited to homemaking. She plays the clarinet in the high-school band, likes to tap dance, and is interested in athletics. She also is a rock 'n' roll fan and likes Elvis Presley. And she maintains a straight-A average.
Aloma received an official citation from Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower

CONTROLLABILITY IMPORTANT FOR COOKING, TOO
How would you like to drive a car that goes 30, 40 or 50 miles an hour with 30 speeds in between these three? It would be confusing, you must admit. Today, many cooks seek on ranges that are just as confusing. No wonder they get bored preparing three meals a day. Pressure cookers must be watched continually. Boil overs and burned foods are everyday occurrences. 1958 gas ranges give the most discriminating cooks every degree of heat needed for fine cooking. For hurry-up meals, the flame will throttle fast. The minute the flame is turned off, the heat stops. The burner itself does not retain heat. There is an optimum degree of temperature for cooking each type of food and the new gas ranges are designed to produce and hold that temperature. It all adds up to finer meals with less effort from the cook.

Plastic Coating Tested For Eggs

MADISON, Wis.—(UP)—The housewife soon may be stocking her refrigerator with plastic-coated eggs.
Flora Hanning and Marjia Cox, home economists at the University of Wisconsin, have discovered that eggs dipped in a plastic solution don't lose weight, as the ordinary variety does, and don't get the acid taste that comes from storage in a warm place.
The two experimented with 150 fresh eggs and dipped half of them in a solution of chlorinated rubber, wax and several chemical ingredients. Then they stored all the eggs in a warm room without temperature regulation.
After a week, the non-treated eggs had a "rotten egg" taste but the coated ones were still fresh. And the old-fashioned batch lost as much weight in a week as the plastic coated eggs did in a month.

Today's Sports Parade

By Oscar Fraley
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—What American tennis needs to regain international supremacy from Australia, former Davis Cup captain Bill Talbot insisted today, is special training camps for young comers in the spring and fall and even during the Christmas holidays.

"Our youngsters are just as good players as the Australian kids," Talbot insisted. "It's simply that the Australian system beats ours."

Not, crew-cut Billy says emphatically, that we should go "all out," with the youngsters as the Aussies do.

While he wouldn't enlarge on why we shouldn't, the answer is obvious. The Australian youngster of promise virtually becomes a tennis pro. He plays tennis the year round and his scholastic education suffers sadly. Proof of this is that, since the war, there hasn't been a college man among the horde of fine Anzac players.

No Longer A Sport

This, it is obvious, removes the game from the realm of sport. It becomes a business—like baseball's "bonus babies"—the lure being a full professional contract if the young tennis star develops into "the" player of the year.

"I have never seen a better player at 17 than Butch Buchholz of St. Louis," Talbot elaborated. "But he has to do his development on his own. He goes to school until June, can compete only during the summer, and then returns to school in the fall. That's why I suggest spring and fall training camps under an expert such as Jack Kramer," Talbot added. "They could even get together during the Christmas holidays when, ordinarily, they would be playing in one of the holiday tournaments where, actually, they aren't learning anything."

Long a member of the top 10 and a Davis Cup star in his own right, Talbot reached the heights of the hard way.

Tennis Recommended

"I was a diabetic at 10," he recalls. "For three years I sat around doing nothing. Then the doctor said I should try tennis. I was delighted. I was hungry to get out and do something and this gave me an outlet as well as companionship."

But the current crop of youngsters, he feels, are by-passing tennis in favor of such sports as basketball, baseball and football.

"They actually don't know what they are doing," he says. "Tennis is an 'after school' sport. Not many boys can expect to continue playing basketball, football or baseball after their school days are ended. But they can play tennis the rest of their lives."

Talbot bears no malice, although you can detect a hidden hurt, at being replaced as captain of the Davis Cup Team. Instead, he has thrown himself wholeheartedly into "selling" the sport to the kids.

Cocoa May Prevent Saints From Winning FNL Pennant Race

By PETER SCHAAL
League Statistics
ORLANDO—Paul O'Dea's power-hits Cocoa Indians tonight were expected to be the lone club which can prevent the St. Petersburg Saints from winning both halves of the Florida State League pennant race.

Sportswriters, scouts, umpires, players, and fans, noting how effectively Tom Hamilton's Saints rose to the occasion and won six out of eight during the week ending midnight Thursday, expected the first half race, and the All-Star game to the Junior New York Yankees.

Only super-human play by Ray Wilson's Daytona Beach Islanders, Charley Grant's Orlando Senators, or Johnny VanderMeer's Palatka RedLegs from tomorrow through June 18, end of the first half, can upset the smooth-working Saint juggernaut which meets Daytona Beach Orlando three more times each, and Palatka only two more times.

Cocoa, with a starting line-up whose batting average has mounted slowly but with authority, appears to be the only club with the potential power to match the Saints' "Big Three"—Pennington, Hamilton, and Tresh—not to mention Banks.

If O'Dea can convince his Cleveland Indians owners to send down a pair of sure fire hitters to go along with the slugging capabilities of the starting eight, Hamilton will likely be burning the wires to New York, too.

The week was climaxed by the tremendous turn-out of 6,218 people who saw the Saints slaughter Tampa, 10 to 3, Thursday night in a manner which left no doubt as to which team is the class of the circuit.

The 6,218, while admitted free through the courtesy of Sincere dealers in St. Pete, made up the longest crowd ever to see a Florida State League game, as well as the largest crowd to see a game in St. Pete this year—major league exhibitions not excepted.

Aside from the batting thrills which marked the tilt, the year's first triple play also was recorded, the play going from pitcher Horsford to second sacker Gonzales to first sacker James to catcher Muskus. Horsford won his tenth game without defeat, and going away.

Individual batting honors were held at midnight Thursday by Pennington and Hamilton, the latter benched since May 24 because of injury to a knee. Pennington's .333 was matched by Hamilton but in fewer games. Tresh was a .352, with Baks a .342.

Home run honors were held by Cocoa's Jim Lawrence with eight. The youngster boosted his season's average from .238 to .270, best showing of the week around the loop. RBI honors still belonged to Banks with 45, while Bill Martin, Palatka, had stolen 15 bases for a wide lead there.

Horsford's ten straight without defeat topped the hurling efforts which saw strike-out honors held by Harry Coe of Tampa with 77 in 77 innings. Horsford was matching Bob Cruse, last year's control artist, having walked 18 in 28 innings while Cruse walked 20 in 28.

O. McCarron Signs Contract With Detroit

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—College star Owen McCarron of Florida State University will report to Augusta, Ga., in the Class A South Atlantic League when the current school term ends.

McCarron, 21-year-old senior from Rutley, N. J., has signed a professional contract with Augusta's parent club, the Detroit Tigers.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed but a Tiger scout said McCarron received a "substantial" bonus for signing.

McCarron led his college teammates this season with a .345 batting average. He was the fourth Florida State University player this year to sign a professional baseball contract.

Florida State will be defending champion in the District 3 NCAA baseball playoffs June 3-7 at Gastonia, N. C., where the kick off action against George Washington University of the Southern Conference.

A four-year letterman, McCarron was barred by the freshman rule from participating in the playoffs.

Uoff Pole Vaulters Entered In Two Meets During June

GAINESVILLE—Henry Wadsworth, the Florida freshman who attracted wide attention for his over-fourteen feet pole vaulting this season, will be entered in two important meets during June.

The former Coral Gables High star has accepted an invitation to enter the "Meet of Champions" sponsored by the University of Houston on June 7, and will enter the National AAU meet in Bakersfield, Calif. on June 21.

Wadsworth cleared 14 feet on four occasions this season, setting a new Florida freshman record of 14 feet 4 1/4 inches and setting a new Southeastern Conference freshman record of 14 feet four inches.

The mark he made in SEC frosh competition was an inch and 1/8 over the existing SEC variety mark held by Florida's Larry Foucher. The variety mark stands until bettered by a variety athlete in the SEC meet, however.

Wadsworth has had some interesting experiences this season in connection with the poles he has used. In the first four meets of the season he bettered 14 feet three times using poles borrowed from the opponent team. The fourth time he used his own and was limited to a 13-foot-plus vault.

The reason was this. The opponent owned poles weighing around six pounds. Coach Percy Beard carried out considerable correspondence with the manufacturers, even had one company weld a heavy pole in its warehouse, but could find no six-pound poles for his star.

When in the State AAU meet, Wadsworth borrowed a six-pound pole from Miami and promptly broke it while vaulting. He borrowed another from Florida State and broke that.

Meanwhile, Coach Beard has finally located a set of lighter poles, paid Miami back with two like its own and gave two to Wadsworth. Florida State's vaulters liked the heavier Florida pole, they took that in exchange for the broken one.

Now, owning a pair of six-pound poles, Wadsworth is off in search of greater heights to clear.

HAWAIIAN SIGNS

The reason was this. The opponent owned poles weighing around six pounds. Coach Percy Beard carried out considerable correspondence with the manufacturers, even had one company weld a heavy pole in its warehouse, but could find no six-pound poles for his star.

When in the State AAU meet, Wadsworth borrowed a six-pound pole from Miami and promptly broke it while vaulting. He borrowed another from Florida State and broke that.

Meanwhile, Coach Beard has finally located a set of lighter poles, paid Miami back with two like its own and gave two to Wadsworth. Florida State's vaulters liked the heavier Florida pole, they took that in exchange for the broken one.

Now, owning a pair of six-pound poles, Wadsworth is off in search of greater heights to clear.

Bisons Close Second Top Baseball Season

WADLEY, Ala.—The Southern Union Bisons, champions of the Dixie Junior College Conference in baseball for the second year in a row, finished the season with a 13-5 record.

Coach Earl J. Bentley's squad bettered its record for the school's second year in intercollegiate baseball. In 1953, the season record was 12-5 with a 10-2 conference record. The Bisons swept through conference opposition with a record of 8-0 for the season.

Eight men on the fifteen man squad had a season batting average of better than .300. The team average for the season was a whopping .342.

Richard Fussell, Georgiana, Ala., sophomore, has the top record for the Bisons. Fussell, used both as a pitcher and an outfielder, had a batting average of .372 in 43 times at bat. He also had a pitching record of 4-3 for the season.

Alfred "Tot" Bentley, a freshman from Greenville, Ala., held second place with a .368 batting average, including four homers. Bentley is an outfielder, usually in the center spot.

Others who led the squad include Sterling Newton, Greenville, .339; John Hanson, Lafayette, Ala., .338; Terry Burt, Greenville, .333; Larry Newton, Greenville, .333; Orden Sexton, Greenville, .333 and Larry Sinquefeld, Phenix City, Ala., .326.

On the mound, the Bisons had three men with deliberate ability and skill. In addition to Fussell, Billy Joe Johnson, Hartsville, Ala., freshman, held sway with a 5-2 record including one no-hitter and one shut out. Johnson, a right hander, is known for his controlled pitching.

Whatever Happened To Harry Harts?

By United Press International
HARRY HARTS was one of the most consistent drivers ever to race in the Memorial Day 500-mile at Indianapolis, but never managed to win it. Beginning in 1922, he finished second three times and fourth twice over one span of five years. Harts was good enough to win the national driving championship in 1928, however, and later, as an owner, saw his cars win at "Indy" with Billy Arnold and later Fred Frame at the wheel.

Whatever happened to Harry Harts? Now approximately 60 years old, he has made his home at Indianapolis and is on the sales staff of an automobile agency.

Governor Receives Gift From Grateful German Citizens

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. LeRoy Collins has received a handsome surprise gift from grateful German citizens who have visited this country under various exchange programs.

Some 14,000 German nationals who have been in America since the end of World War II today presented Collins and the governor of the other of states with a German reference library of 50 books.

The books were given to Collins by Dr. Kurt Kohler of Florida State University, a German exchange professor.

Air Force Says Reports Unfounded

MANILA (UPI)—The U. S. Air Force today reports that American pilots from Clark Air Force Base are aiding the Indonesian rebels are "completely unfounded and without basis."

At the same time, an official spokesman for National China's Civil Air Transport line denied that American pilot Allen L. Pope was working for CAT at the time of his reported capture by the Indonesian Loyalists.

Pope, 39, of Stone Mountain, Fla., is said to have told his captors that several "American pilots stationed at Clark Field in the Philippines" are helping the rebels.

A 12-page Air Force spokesman speaking to Clark Field officials said the report is "completely unfounded and as far as they are concerned is without basis."

The CAT spokesman said Pope applied for and was granted leave without pay last month by the airline, headed by retired U. S. Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

"CAT has no knowledge of his whereabouts or personal endeavors during his recent leave," the spokesman emphasized.

'Personal Rocket' For 'Grasshopper Troops' Unveiled

COLUMBUS, Ga. (UPI)—A research firm unveiled a tiny "personal rocket" for "grasshopper troops" or future specimens before military authorities at the Ft. Benning Infantry center.

Army officials viewed a film showing a man flying 100 feet or so with a prototype of a rocket strapped to his back like a comic strip character.

Company representatives said the device is so simple it might create a popular sport rivaling skiing and parachuting. The Army can slip troops over rivers and mountains with it, they said.

"The weight is negligible," a company man said. "And all you do is press a button."

The rocket was developed by the Reaction Motors Division of the Thiokol Chemical Corp. at Denham Springs, La., as a part of its own "project grasshopper" research program to develop greater mobility for troops.

Bigger models may slip tanks, jeeps and atomic cannons across rivers and mountains. And troops, with a push of a button, could swoop down on an enemy "quick as a flash."

Thiokol spokesmen said the company could produce civilian models for sport, models suited for troops who could dart upon an enemy from concealed points or heavier models for moving tanks and cannon over obstacles.

Thiokol has prototypes of several kinds that were developed to determine which is the more stable, they said.

They said the "personal rocket" is a forerunner of the propulsion scientists will use in building

BARRY MADDER was not in sight, Price asked. "Where's your dad, Laura?"

"I don't know," she said. "He didn't come home after school." She put a hand to her throat, frightened eyes on Price. "What does it mean? What's going to happen?"

"I don't know, except some people will get hurt, and you dad may be among 'em." He sat down beside the couch and turned his attention to Jean Potter. "How did you know about Cronin's teaching?"

Jean sat up. She put a hand to her forehead as if rooting it down beside the couch and turned his attention to Jean Potter. "How did you know about Cronin's teaching?"

"I don't know, except some people will get hurt, and you dad may be among 'em." He sat down beside the couch and turned his attention to Jean Potter. "How did you know about Cronin's teaching?"

to Bruce. He could recognize this reddened man if he saw him again."

"Oh, yes. And he heard some of the talk. One man was called Colin. Another one Tom. Pa said it would be Cole Weston and Tom Mahoney, and the other man was probably Joe Mahoney."

Price nodded. "That's likely who it was." He shook his head, realizing that anything Jean or her parents said in court would be hearsay evidence, and that the boy Bruce was the key witness. Weston and the other hadn't known he was there or they wouldn't have ridden off the way they had and left him in the store. They'd kill a boy, all right. But a woman, if it meant saving their hides?

As Price stood up, Jean m'ed. "You're going to try to do something about this?"

"Of course I'll try, but what I do depends on whether I can find Bruce." He called, "Laura! When she came into the room from the kitchen, she said, 'I want Mrs. Potter to stay with you. I'm going to try to get her folks to come to town. It's too dangerous for them to stay there. Will you keep them here?'"

"Of course, if they'll stay." "Your dad will raise Cain, but I want to save their lives and I want them where I can put my hands on them." He turned to Jean. "It's important for you to stay here. You'll be safe. Do you understand?"

"Yes." She swallowed with evident effort. "You think my folks are in danger?"

"Yes, I do, if Weston and his friends hear about Bruce and that he told you and your folks what he saw."

He left the room, not realizing that Laura had followed him until she called his name. He turned in the doorway and she came to him. He saw the pulse beat in her temples, he felt her hands tremble when she lifted them to his shoulders. She asked, "Price, have you got to go ahead with this? I mean, Cronin being the kind of man he was and all?"

"Yes, I've got to go ahead." He sensed that now, with the show-down at hand, she had little real understanding of the problem he faced, that she was Laura the girl, not Laura the woman. He asked, "Which is the greater crime, stealing calves or taking a human life?"

"Taking a life, of course, but her hands gripping his shoulders, then she said, "It's just that you're alone, Price. Be terribly alone."

He knew what she meant because he had felt it many times since he'd come to Sadie Rock. Cole Weston controlled the thinking of those who lived on the grass; Barry Madden had almost a complete control over those who lived in town. Again he thought how important it was that Madden and Weston be forced apart, but it was not anything he could say to Laura. She would have to realize it herself. "I know how much I'm alone," he said, "except for you. I guess it's a good thing what happened before we were married. If you don't want to go ahead with it."

"No, Price, no. I wish we were married now."

He kissed her, letting her feel the desperate need he had of her. Then, their lips parted, he said, "I love you, Laura. I love you very much." He walked away, leaving her standing in the doorway, her eyes following him as long as he was visible.

De Long had been hitched to the Potter wagon and Price's room maddened by the time he reached the stable. Mrs. Mahoney and Barry Madden were both there. Barry's cynical smile as he spoke of Price's arrival on his thin legs, Madden's sneer a little, red but grimly determined. Barry said, "Price thought, because he was dead wrong and he knew it."

"I hear Cronin met up with some rope justice," Barker said. "Rope justice," Price said. "Not justice. No man, even one as big as Cole Weston, has the right to decide justice. Price stepped into the middle and looked down at Madden."

The banker took a step forward, motoring his lips. He said, "Price, it's like this. I wouldn't have had Weston off his legs either. Laura loves you." He spread his hands. "I don't know why, but she does. If you get yourself killed, it's going to be hard on her. Do what he's doing. I'd say this. Don't pick it up. Let it go. A man like Walt Cronin isn't worth it."

"Barry," Price said, "I'd hate to have you say that. You've got to have your own opinion. He picked his head at De Long. "Let's roll."

Price rode through the doorway, the wagon creaking behind him, Madden and Barker standing there staring at him. Barker said, "Funny thing, Barry, I've been dying for ten years and I don't have a damned thing to live for, but I haven't got the guts to do what he's doing. I'd say the odds are about a hundred to one against him."

"Larger than that," Madden said harshly, "and he doesn't have sense enough to see it."

"Sense?" Barker wasn't smiling now. "No, Barry, you're wrong. He knows. It's not a matter of sense. It's something else, something I wish I had."

Red Sanderson is not going along with the evil deeds of the Mahoney brothers and Cole Weston. Continue the story here tomorrow.

Farm Land Value Up While Income Down

By Clifford F. Godwin
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The average value of farm real estate per acre on March 1 was more than three times the 1940 value and 17 per cent above the previous peak in 1928.

Yet net farm income in 1957 was down 19 per cent from 1951 and was only a little above that of 1943-45, when land values averaged only half their present levels. No other period of equal length in nearly 50 years of record can be found in which land values continued to rise while farm income declined.

An Agriculture Department economist examined this seeming paradox in an attempt to determine whether land prices had increased more than was justified by the present level of farm income. William H. Scofield of the Farm Economics Research Division discussed the study in the department's publication, "The Farm Cost Situation." He came up with a number of answers to the question of "How high are farm real estate prices?"

Land Values Increase
The price of land has increased substantially more than have prices for other groups of commodities since 1940. Land values have risen 54 per cent more than consumers' prices and 40 per cent more than prices paid for the goods and services farmers buy for production purposes. Except for farm wage rates, land shows the largest increase since 1940 of any major items bought by farmers for production purposes.

Scofield holds that part of this increase in the price of land relative to other goods and services

In due to the additional capital that has been invested in farms. Part of it reflects the increase in technological advances. But in some sections of the country, actual and anticipated uses of farm land for non-farm purposes have been more important in contributing to the upward trend in market prices.

Value Exceeds Income
The present market value of farm real estate is about nine times the current annual net farm income. The earnings-capital ratio has risen steadily since the low level of the 1940's. It is now about the same as it was in 1910-15. It is a little higher now than it was in 1928-29 and 1934-35, two periods in which a relatively stable relationship existed between the value of farm real estate and net farm income.

Although the present price of land in relation to farm earnings is the highest in 20 years, Scofield said it still may not be too high for certain classes of buyers.

By farm the largest group is the established farmer who is frantically free of mortgage debt, and who can increase his net income by using available equipment and labor on a larger acreage. Because many commercial farms are too small to use efficiently the equipment and labor available, demand for land for farm enlargement has increased sharply in recent years. Farmers may be willing to pay more for additional land than the land would be worth as a separate farm if it will reduce overhead costs per unit of output and increase total net income.

Citrus Mutual

BY JOHN SIKES
Florida Citrus Mutual
LAKELAND—It takes a double-page spread to list "a few of the many" projects and programs Florida Citrus Mutual just about continuously carries on in serving its nearly 9,000 members and the citrus industry.

This bit of intelligence is gleaned from a brand new booklet just off the Mutual presses for general distribution to apprise the public of the many facets and phases of Mutual activity. The booklet was prepared by Mutual staffers, including the printing.

Among these "few of many": New Market Cultivation, New Products Research, Spreading Decline Studies, Fruit Protection, Daily Information on FOB Prices, Utilization Records, Industry Supply Adjustment Program, Field Assistance to Growers, Grapefruit Spoon Promotion (this, naturally, promotes wider use of grapefruit), Pounds-to-Solids Explanation (this uncomplexes the method of paying for fruit on a basis of how many pounds of sugar-solids to the box, the method now generally in use by concentrators in purchasing oranges), Fruit Quality Promotion, Florida Citrus Tree Census, etc., etc.

From the booklet's foreword you get a pretty good notion of Mutual's prime functions for the grower stated in somewhat general terms, such as:

"It's (Mutual's) basic, primary obligation... is to make certain its membership has every known informational tool with which to make sound marketing decisions. In accomplishing this, Mutual works on all levels pertinent to the supply-demand equation which governs the eventual prosperity of its citrus producers."

Mutual, the booklet emphasizes, operates on the belief that "a well informed grower is a successful grower."

Two very important items spelled out by the new book:

Who may become a Mutual member?—Any person engaged in the production of citrus fruit in Florida.

Where does Mutual obtain its operating funds?... By means of a small fee (less than one cent) per box assessment for each grower member.

If you want to get all the details with which the book is jam-packed, just drop a line to Mutual in Lake-regional hearings on proposals to increase social security benefits will begin next month.

Social Security Benefit Increase Topic Of Hearing

Any increase in benefits, which now range from $30 to $108.50 a month, almost certainly would be accompanied by a boost in the payroll taxes on employers and employees covered by the program.

The House Ways and Means committee scheduled hearings to run from about June 16 to June 27.

Chairman Wilbur D. Mills (D-Ark) said the committee would cover some 400 bills proposing boosts in old age insurance payments, higher public assistance grants to dependent children, needy aged, disabled and blind persons.

Mills said the hearings also would consider measures to extend unemployment compensation coverage. The House recently rejected such legislation in passing a bill to beef up payments to persons already covered by the unemployment program.

Taxing of whisky began with the passage of an excise law in 1791.

Russia To Join U.S. In Attack On Disease
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Russia has agreed to join the United States in an attack on disease.

The State Department announced that the Soviet government had responded to President Eisenhower's proposal of last January to all nations to join efforts in health research.

Russia said in a diplomatic note that it now cooperates with the World Health Organization to try to improve the health of all nations. But in addition it proposed that the United States and Soviet Union join in several programs during the 1958-60 period.

This included exchange of plans and results of scientific research on cancer and heart disease; mutual exchange of specialists in the two diseases; and mutual publication of works by American and Soviet researchers.
