

Qualifiers Continue To Mount In Tourney

Qualifiers for the 1947-48 Country Club Championship continue to increase in number. Six members turned in good cards yesterday afternoon.

Among those qualifying yesterday were H. H. Rucker, 40, 45, 82; Earl Hagenbohm, 41, 42, 83; An-draw Carrigan, 40, 42, 82, Dr. G. S. Steman, 41, 42, 81; Roy Mann, 45, 45, 90; and E. G. Kilpatrick, 45, 45, 90.

Club pro Clyde Trullinger stated that he wished to remind all those who desired to enter the tourney that qualifications must be complete by tomorrow evening.

Harris Says Yanks Will Be Good Club

MIAMI, Mar. 28—Manager Rucky Harris of the New York Yankees says he is not ready to concede that the Yanks will be a complete team for the beginning of the season. He is recovering from an operation on his leg, and is not expected to be ready until after the pennant race, Harris says.

"Of course we need Joe in there. He is a great ball player. But even without him things are not so bad. The more I see of our youngsters the better I feel."

AN INVITATION to Central Floridians..

March 24, 1947.

Central Floridians:

You are cordially invited to attend a meeting on APRIL 3, at 9:00 A.M., to be held at the ORANGE COURT HOTEL, Orlando, at which meeting we will introduce to the State of Florida the Stran Steel Arch Rib Home, the Stran Steel Nailable Framing Conventional Type Home, and the new application of Quonset Buildings for commercial, industrial and agricultural use. Attending this meeting will be officials of the Great Lakes Steel Corporation, Detroit, officials of municipalities, towns and villages of this area, Mayor Beardall, and Governor Caldwell, if possible, both of whom will touch off the meeting.

On display in the garden of the Orange Court Hotel will be an actual Stran Steel Arch Rib Home, completely furnished to bacon frying in the kitchen. You will also be entertained at a luncheon at noon and a cocktail party between five and six o'clock.

The exhibit and information that will be made available to you offers a definite source of great profit to all architects, builders, contractors, jobbers and realtors. We urge you, for your own interests, to make an endeavor to be present at this meeting.

Should hotel accommodations be necessary for the night of April 3, arrangements have been made with Mr. Stephen G. Crean Jr., Manager of the Orange Court Hotel. It is suggested that you advise him immediately by letter as to your requirements as that is the only means of assuring your having a room. Looking forward to seeing you, we are

Vandenberg Suggests Giving Veto Power To UN Over Aid To Greece

Amendment Requires President To Halt Aid At Request Of United Nations

WASHINGTON, Mar. 31—Senator Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan proposed today that the United Nations be given the right to speak the final word on American aid to Greece and Turkey. The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee suggested that the United Nations be given the power to veto the Greek-Turkish aid program.

Vandenberg set forth his views at Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearings on legislation to authorize $400,000,000 in aid for the two Mediterranean nations. The Michigan senator suggested writing in an amendment under which President Truman would be required to halt aid when and if the United Nations told him to do so.

Vandenberg's amendment also would have the President withdraw all aid if so requested by any government of Greece or Turkey representing a majority of the people of either nation.

Earlier, Fred Crawford of Michigan said the United States should tell Russia to disarm or this country will use her atomic bombs and economic power against the Soviet Union. Crawford said he knew the course he advocated would mean war if Russia defied America. But, added Crawford, if war came, America would be the loser.

Crawford testified at the House Foreign Affairs Committee hearing on legislation to provide the money to aid Greece and Turkey as proposed by President Truman.

Wind Storm In Sanford Disrupts Lighting Service

Street lighting facilities and power service on the east side of Sanford were disrupted by the sudden freak wind storm that preceded a shower of rain. A few trees were blown down, roofing was torn loose in some places, and electric current of the Florida Power Corp. was cut off for about an hour in Longwood and Lake Mary by the blowing onto the highway of a pole carrying wires of high tension current.

Home Gleason of Lake Mary took immediate charge by putting out lanterns near the fallen pole and routing automobiles around it by waving a flashlight.

Three poles of the Florida Power and Light Company were blown down on the East Side, and there was a line down at Tenth Street and French Avenue, according to H. H. Coleman, local manager. There were 12 to 15 transformer fuses down. Breaking of an overhead street lighting line was the cause of the blackout conditions. This line is being worked on and should be in service by tonight, said Mr. Coleman.

A tree that crashed across the narrow road between Longwood and Lake Mary was blocked off with lanterns to warn motorists last evening. At the Sanford Airport a plane pilot made a forced landing to avoid disaster in the storm. A speed boat on Lake Monroe scurried to the wharf.

Tillis Re-elected To Head Outboard Group

Ray O. Tillis, Sanford police captain, was re-elected president of the Sanford Outboard Association at a meeting held Thursday evening at the Tourist Center.

Other officers elected were W. W. Jones as vice president; W. P. Smith as secretary; Jimmy Cowan as treasurer; and B. W. Walker, Homer Zittie and G. J. Nissen as directors. Plans were made for races with the Coast Guard on April 13, also for a picnic in the near future, said Capt. Tillis.

Wilson Reports Interest Shown In Farm Program

DIRECTOR TALKS WITH AGRICULTURE SECRETARY IN CAPITAL

JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 31. (Special)—While in Washington last week I was particularly impressed by the interest in improvement of the marketing of farm products," said William L. Wilson, Director of Florida State Markets today. "I spent some time with Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, discussing matters connected with the farm marketing program. Later, acting chairman of the new National Association of Market Managers, I went over the details of our May 15-16 convention to be held in Washington, with Assistant Secretary Gilmer, and C. W. Kitchen, who is executive vice president of the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association.

"J. Stanford Larson, and W. C. Crow, Department of Agriculture officials, will be in Jacksonville in Florida by reason of their participation in conferences in this State, have been actively engaged in the setting up of arrangements for the May meeting of our National Market Managers' organization. We are expecting an attendance of several hundred.

House Of Peers In Japan Is Terminated

TOKYO, Mar. 31—Japan's House of Peers died an official death today. After half a century of aristocratic approval of imperialism, the 62nd regular session of the Diet ended the life of the House of Peers. It was the last session to be held under the old 19th century Japanese constitution.

Plan To Avert Phone Strike Is Proposed

House Okays Bill Extending Rationing, Price Control Over Sugar To Oct. 31

WASHINGTON, Mar. 31—Congress today received legislation aimed at heading off the nationwide telephone strike threatened for Apr. 7. The measure was introduced by Fred Hartley of New Jersey, chairman of the House Labor Committee. It would permit the attorney general to obtain an injunction to block a strike.

The contract between the company and 20,000 long lines workers in 42 states expires at midnight tonight. The president of the Independent American Union of Telephone Workers, John J. Moran, said a meeting with company negotiators ended in a stalemate last night.

Meanwhile, the House approved compromise legislation continuing sugar allocation and price control until Oct. 31. The House took the action today in a race to prevent expiration of sugar rationing at midnight.

Also the Senate Banking Committee approved unanimously a bill to continue gun controls through February of next year with no blanket increase in rents. The bill provides that five-man local advisory boards would be set up in each rent area. They would have the authority to recommend decontrol or rent increases on an area basis.

The bill would also transfer the rent program from the OPA to Housing Expediter Frank Creedon and unless recommendations from (Continued on Page Six)

Pupils Of Grammar School Sponsoring School In France

That nickel for ice cream at school means a lot to the average grammar school pupil. However, the pupils of Sanford Grammar School will voluntarily go without ice cream until June 1 in order to raise money to start a school in impoverished and war-torn France.

The story of this heartening gesture in international goodwill is contained in the following letter to The Herald from Linda Leonard of Room 8:

"The pupils of the Grammar School are sponsoring a school in France. We have to raise $150 for sponsorship. The P.T.A. gave us a start with $15 and we have to raise $60 before the first of June.

"Our class is doing without our nickels for ice cream every Monday to help raise the $60. A man has promised to buy paper and magazines for 25 cents a hundred pounds.

"We shall appreciate it very much if you will publish this letter. We want everyone who would like to help us to call 225, the Grammar School's number and ask for Sammy Jacobson. He will send someone to collect the paper.

Couple Turned Over To Nashville Police After Local Arrest

A young couple, arrested here Saturday for the theft of a 1943 Buick automobile from Nashville, Tenn., were today turned over to Nashville authorities and detectives who took the car back with them, according to Police Chief Roy G. Williams.

The arrest came only 25 minutes after Chief Williams had received a notice from District Attorney Jim Richardson of Nashville to watch for the couple who gave their names as Paul Toney, 19, and Patricia Miller, 18. The latter, small and blonde, is reported to have escaped from a Nashville industrial home. They registered here as man and wife, Toney said Chief Williams, is already married and a father.

Patrolman H. E. Billingsley and Ralph Geiger found the car which had been taken by the couple to Reel's garage to have repainted. The order to be on the lookout for the couple and car came from Nashville at 10:15 A. M. The girl was arrested coming out of a local drug store. They were reported to have motored here from Miami.

Oil Installation Fires Raging On Haifa Waterfront

Damage Is Estimated To Mount To High Of $16,000,000

JERUSALEM, Mar. 31—Oil fires continued to send thick black smoke thousands of feet over Haifa today. The fires were started last night by new explosions, the second series in four days. As the explosions began, British soldiers were rescuing 1,570 Jewish refugees from a rotten, sinking ship.

Oil company technicians estimated the damage at approximately $4,000,000. However, they said the fires in the oil installations might continue for several days. Unofficial estimates previously had said the damages might (Continued on Page Six)

Hindu-Moslem Fights Continue In India

BOMBAY, India, Mar. 31—There were fresh outbreaks of Hindu-Moslem violence in Bombay today. The renewed clashes between the two religious groups raised the casualty figures to 42 dead and 114 injured in the past 36 hours. There have been similar disturbances in Calcutta and Cawnpore in which nine persons have been killed and 50 wounded.

Most of the Bombay casualties occurred yesterday. Forty persons lost their lives and 137 were injured in the rioting. The disorders were quelled only after police fired repeatedly into the mobs.

One of the two men killed today was burned to death when a crowd lit fire to his house. British troops joined police in an effort to keep order. Public gatherings of more than four persons have been prohibited.

Infant To Undergo Unusual Operation

PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 31—An unusual operation to save the life of a four-day old boy is being planned today by doctors at Temple University Hospital in Philadelphia.

The baby was born with an incompletely esophagus, the six-inch tube in a person through which food enters the stomach. The surgeons hope to complete the link. The child, born to Mrs. E. P. Hanley, of Greenville, S. C., was flown to Philadelphia in an army plane and has been kept alive through intravenous feedings.

His condition is so delicate that hospital officials have grave doubts that he can be saved.

Day Of Mourning Held For Victims Of Mine Disaster

Donna Jean Dunn Is Seriously Hurt In Car Accident

CENTRALIA, Ill. A black Monday of mourning was observed today in Centralia and four nearby communities for the 111 miners who died in the Centralia Coal Company's No. 5 mine last week.

Stores, offices and schools did not open in compliance with proclamations issued by the mayors of Centralia, Wamac, Centralia, Sandoval and Glen Ridge. Most of the miners killed in the explosion last Tuesday lived in those communities.

Two townspeople were asked to attend a solemn requiem mass at Saint Mary's Roman Catholic Church and a memorial service in the high school auditorium conducted by the county ministerial association.

The families of at least 14 of the dead had brief notes telling of the last thoughts of their loved ones as they faced the death which they apparently knew was about to overtake them.

One note scribbled in the exposure-wrecked mine said: "God bless you all." Another miner urged his wife to make certain their children attended church services.

The last of the bodies was located in the mine Saturday. Meanwhile, preparations are being made to begin state and federal investigations of the disaster.

Meanwhile, in less than 48 hours, the nation's 400,000 soft coal miners will leave the pits by a six-day period of mourning. United Mine Workers' Chief John L. Lewis ordered the work stoppage to honor the victims of the explosion.

There are no reports of dissatisfaction among UMW members over the stop work order, and soft coal mining will halt throughout the nation at midnight tonight.

MOONSHINER CAUGHT
The first bottles of moonshine liquor seized by police in some time were today on display in the office of Police Chief Roy G. Williams, who reported the arrest of Taylor Roundtree, negro, who is charged with possession of unstamped liquor.

Russian Proposal To Reduce German Imports Attacked As Starvation Policy

Secretary of State Marshall today made his bluntest speech of the foreign ministers conference and denounced Russia for delivering an ultimatum. Russia had taken the stand that unless she could get reparations from current German production, no settlements could be reached.

"Unless we can have a real meeting of minds and a real desire to carry out both the spirit and letter of our agreements, Marshall told the conference, it would be better if none were reached."

Marshall also criticized the French for adopting the stand-pat attitude that they must have coal from the Ruhr or they would agree to nothing.

The American Secretary of State also charged that the Russian proposal to reduce German imports in order to get reparations for Russia would cut German food consumption to a starvation diet. "Does the Soviet government make this proposal seriously? The United States," Marshall said, "is opposed to policies which will continue Germany as a congested slum or an economic poor house in the (Continued on Page Six)

Contract Is Let For Deepening St. Johns River

Contract for the deepening of the St. Johns River from Palatka to the Astor Bridge, a 50-mile first link in the Sanford to Palatka channel improvement, has been let, it was announced this morning by Edward Higgins, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

The contracted price of 10 cents a yard is less than had been figured as a probable cost for the work, he declared.

The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is the sponsor for obtaining the rights-of-way and the spoil areas for the river deepening project and is vitally concerned with the progress being made. At the present time, Manager Higgins said, the trade group has three crews of engineers surveying property that will be used either for the route of the deepened channel or for spoil areas.

These men are working between Sanford and the Astor bridge. The U. S. Engineers have requested that all this work be completed by Apr. 15 to enable them to plan the continuation of the dredging into this section of the river.

"We are positive that we will have the work done by that time," Mr. Higgins said "and there will be no reason that I can see why bids cannot be accepted at that time for the balance of the work."

1000 Babies Smother

Every year more than a thousand tiny babies smother to death in their own cribs -- and not one of these bitter tragedies is necessary, says Donald G. Cooley, in the April issue of True Confessions magazine.

To save herself from needless heartbreak, he says, a mother need only keep these few simple points in mind:

1. A baby should sleep in a crib of his own and should never be taken into bed with others who might roll over on him.
2. Soft pillows in which the baby can bury his nose while sleeping should be removed from the crib, even for a nap. If his head must be raised higher, a pillow can be placed under the mattress.
3. Blankets should be tucked in firmly at the foot of the bed, but not so tightly at the sides that movement is impossible. The top edge of the blanket should be well below his face. Loose blankets should not be left in the crib. The top sheet over the mattress should be drawn taut and tucked under firmly on all sides. A blanket or rubber sheet should never be draped over the side of the crib where baby can tug it down. A rubber sheet, entangled around the face, will smother him quickly.
4. Most babies are dressed far too warmly for sleeping at night. Instead of piling on extra blankets, a long sleeved knitted jacket and booties should be put on the child.
5. As for gadgets, such as sleeping bags and similar devices, a doctor should be consulted about these. Some are good; some may imprison the baby so he fights them, and others may have tapes and ribbons that might entangle and smother him.

By following these few simple, sensible suggestions, a mother may save her precious baby's life.

Negro Honored

Virginia has proclaimed and celebrated a special day for a Negro.

Joseph Jenkins Roberts, first president of Liberia, was recently honored by his native state.

Liberia today is about the only surviving relic of the American Colonization Society, which until the Civil War proposed to solve the race question by returning the Negroes to Africa. A homeland was secured on the West African coast, and named "Liberia" or "the land of the free." Jenkins was elected president in 1847 and served five terms, 14 years in all, before his death in 1876.

The Liberian government has neither conspicuously succeeded nor failed. There have been corruption and over-addiction to politics. The Negroes from the United States have been accused of exploiting the African natives. Yet with some friendly help from the United States, Liberia has kept its independence and the government seems to be improving. It may yet be Roberts' best monument.

Now If I Had A Daughter

Without turning her into a clothes-horse, I would teach her that the most abominable sight in the eyes of civilized man is a sloppy, untidy woman. I would give her the back of the hair-brush if she ever screeched or yammered. Shakespeare's "Her voice was ever sweet and low" would be her motto, with one exception -- when she laughed. A woman with a real belly laugh can shake a king's heart, and certainly will never die an old maid. I'd have her taught how to cook and to sew. I'd see that she learned something of art and music and how to paddle a canoe and put on a bandage. I'd let her go out on her first date alone during her third year in high school, and I'd pray that the young ape who escorted her had buck teeth. I'd want her to be as feminine as Eve and as witty as Beeky Sharpe. I'd hope to Halifax everybody thought she was pretty and nobody ever convinced her she was beautiful. I would never want her to look forward to any permanent career except marriage. -- By Hal Boyle.

National Women's Bureau Faces Possible Extinction | Stassen's 1948 Candidacy Now Taken More Seriously

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Women's organizations have started a fight to prevent Congress from making history in reverse.

A subcommittee, handling appropriations, originally planned to eliminate funds for the national women's bureau, an agency under the Department of Labor. The move is being bitterly opposed by a "women's lobby."

The bureau was created after World War I by a Republican Congress under a Democratic president.

If funds are rejected, the bureau thus would be killed after World War II by a Republican Congress under a Democratic president.

The bureau is one of the smallest in the government. Its early appropriation has been only $12,000. It has only 75 persons on its staff. On the other hand, its work affects the welfare of more than 15 million working women.

Rep. Frank B. Keefe (R) of Wisconsin has indicated that funds for the bureau may, after all, be retained. If so, women's organizations say, it will be because they campaigned to keep Congress from acting in reverse in this respect.

POLITICAL OBSERVERS, particularly among the GOP, now are conceding that Harold E. Stassen's self-announced candidacy for the Republican presidential nomination next year is not to be shrugged lightly aside.

They agree that the stature of the former Minnesota governor, now on a fact-finding tour of Europe, is growing.

Beyond that, there is the already declining popularity of Senator Robert A. Taft (R) of Ohio, never a man with particular popular appeal. Taft has experienced several setbacks as behind-the-scenes domestic policy maker for the GOP in the Senate.

It is conceded that Stassen's hurdle—to get the delegates at the 1948 convention—still appears formidable. He will control, probably, the Minnesota delegation and perhaps, with luck, blocks from the other northwestern states.

Taft's waning popularity will have no effect on the large blocks of delegates he will control.

Republican politicians privately admit that Stassen might make a more appealing candidate to the people than Taft.

One reason is Stassen's liberal labor outlook. Another is his war record as a naval officer in the Pacific. And, finally, he has no Senate record with which rebellious party elements can quarrel.

GOVERNMENT EXPERTS are somewhat apprehensive of the prevailing calm on the industrial relations front. They are fearful that the first big strike of 1947, if and when it comes, will touch off a chain reaction of labor troubles.

So far CIO President Philip Murray and AFL President William Green have kept the lid on, but pressures are building up among the unions.

Murray narrowly averted an oil strike a few weeks ago. A settlement was achieved at the eleventh hour, after a walkout had been postponed several times.

Fact is that there has been little, if any, progress toward settlement of the wage demands in steel, electrical, auto, coal, railroad and other big industries which will set the 1947 pattern for labor.

Labor observers wonder how much longer Murray can sit tight without demanding something in the way of more money in the pay checks of the rank and file.

THE WAYWARD BUS

Miami and the Criminal Scum

MIAMI is worried, and rightly so, about the frenetic and vicious hold organized crime has on the city and Dade County.

"A good name is better to be desired," is the recent theme of public spirited citizens who are telling frankly that vice holds sway along the sands of the beach and the palm-lined boulevards of the city.

Crime and vice in Miami are bold. They do not lurk in the dark alleys and mean streets. They flourish brazenly in full view of one and all, along the beach and the palm-lined boulevards of the city.

Franklin Parson, the assistant city attorney, spoke out the other day in a fighting speech and said "there can be no widespread gambling or vice in any community without the payment of graft to public officials."

Parson went on to say that "crime and vice breed graft. Graft breeds misfeasance, malfeasance and nonfeasance in office, and gamblers willing to invest thousands of dollars in campaign funds for the election of any official whom they know they control."

Here is a public official with the courage to shout "The graft of which he talks" so boldly must be in the City Hall for which he works. Some office holders must have cringed at his words, for he is in a position to know and he is telling the world what goes on. He must have the clod turkey on some of the boys, or he wouldn't be so brazen in his finger-pointing.

Explosive in making his speech was the oft-told tale that Florida is a tourist State and "must be liberal in its attitude toward gambling and vice because our customers wait for it." For years this story has been a by-word. Even preachers of the gospel have softened their pulpit orations under its influence.

We have said before and we say again that this attitude is propaganda and propaganda of the type which Goebbels used to spin his well-worn German myth. Parson says the myth also is promoted by persons elected to public office on gamblers' money, persons in public office enriching themselves from gamblers and persons in private life who are paid by gamblers and public officials for protecting gamblers.

All of which makes good sense. We learned during the war that rumors and false stories start somewhere and usually with people who hope to profit by them.

Democratic leader Dr. Marshall, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church in Washington. He was chosen by voice vote divided on party lines.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON LETTER
 By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—The U. S. Senate's new chaplain, Dr. Peter Marshall, says he doesn't believe "God has any political affiliations."

He says the chaplain offers prayers at each day's opening session of Congress for divine guidance "because we still believe God governs the affairs of man."

"The prayer is an expression of the needs we all feel," he says, adding that as far as he knows there is no "directive" for what the prayer should be.

The chaplain's job, on the other hand, set off the first political debate in the Senate last January. The Republicans had used their newly-won power to force a change and elected Dr. Marshall, pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church in Washington. He was chosen by voice vote divided on party lines.

Democratic leader Dr. Marshall, after attempting to win reelection of the outgoing chaplain, Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, declared the chaplain's office "should be above politics."

The chaplain was born in Coatbridge, Scotland, and speaks with a soft and entrancing "burr." He says he is not disappointed at the small number of Senators present to bow their heads as he delivers the prayers before the Senate roll call.

"I know what keeps them away," he says, explaining he knows how so many get tied up in committee meetings before the high noon convening of congress.

"They know they are being prayed for, not only in the Sen-

Rhine Is Important To Communications In Central Europe

By GEORGE BOUTWOOD
 AP Newsfeatures

COLOGNE—The important part the Rhine river plays in central Europe's communications was emphasized during the past winter.

The freezing of the Rhine immobilized tens of thousands of tons of goods carried in the 700,000 tons of tug and barges, seriously adding to the difficulties of the occupying powers.

The effect of the freeze up was also felt in Switzerland, which uses the Rhine as its outlet to the sea, and in Holland, whose ports of Rotterdam and Amsterdam pour cargoes up the river for central Europe. The great industrial belt of the Ruhr also depends on the river for communication with southern Germany.

The tourist Rhinecland of beer gardens, Lorelei legends, fairylike castles and steamer trips is no more.

The Rhinecland cities and towns are wastelands of war's devastation. But with the restoration of some of Germany's international trade, British officials have expressed the hope that during the next few years Rhine traffic will be restored to "something near the pre-war figure of 9,000,000 tons."

The combined efforts of the inland water transport authorities of the U. S., French and British zones have done much to restore the river to almost normal working conditions. Bridges had to be repaired, docks of demolitions removed from the river, port facilities rebuilt, new barges constructed, hundreds of existing ones repaired.

Then in December came ice, earlier than usual. The Freeman floating bridge at Dusseldorf collapsed through January and February with only a few clear days. Ice blocks impeded river traffic. Now the authorities are preparing for spring floods.

The Rhine has the largest flow of population in Europe. Rhine barges are no midlets, averaging 2,000 tons, with whole families living aboard.

Tuberculosis was the leading cause of death in the United States in 1911, but was sixth most important in 1945.

In Catholic Latin America, Dec. 25 is usually observed as a religious holy day, but the distribution of gifts is postponed until Jan. 6, the feast of Epiphany.
