$100,000 Damage In Industrial Park Blaze

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County fire battalion chief making his routine rounds Sunday morning noticed a puff of smoke at a building next to the fire station at the 1-4 Industrial Park near State Road 46. Fifteen minutes later, firemen extinguished a blaze said to have caused more than $100,000 damage.

Battalion chief J.W. Walters was leaving the industrial park fire station just before 11 a.m. when he noticed the smoke coming from the rear of a building leased to the U.S. Time Company, Inc. Gary Kaiser, county public safety director said. The building is about 100 feet from the fire station.

Kaiser said Walters sent the two men on duty at the fire station to the building and called for additional units.

"The men went through the building to see if there was anybody inside, but they didn't find anyone," Kaiser said. He said firemen believed there had been someone living inside the building.

Firemen said the blaze was under control within 15 minutes. A total of four units and 12 men were called to the scene from various county stations, Kaiser said.

There were no injuries, but firemen said it was necessary to use protective breathing equipment to avoid inhaling toxic fumes resulting from the burning of lacquer used by the company in finishing the cypress clocks it produces.

Minor smoke damage was also sustained by a nearby building leased by Herrington Research, a business machine firm which recently discontinued business, firemen said.

The cause of the blaze has not yet been determined and investigators from the Seminole County Sheriff's Department and the office of the state fire marshal today continued their probe of the blaze. Kaiser said samples of the burnt material collected at the scene would be sent to state authorities for examination.

La. William Hagan of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department said deputies are not ruling out the possibility of arson in the case.

The U.S. Time building is leased to Ron Scarlata, of 5 Gumtree Court, Winter Park. Industrial Park records show. The firm had been in business about one year. The building leased contained 30,000 square feet of space and was valued at $265,000, according to industrial park spokesmen.

A spokesman said preliminary estimates indicate about 30 percent of the building was destroyed. Firemen said damage estimates of $100,000 included the destruction of contents in the building as well as structural damage. Scarlata could not be reached today.

An I-4 industrial park spokesman said the park insures the building and the tenant insures the contents.

Seminole County Students Head For Naval Academy

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

Ten students from Seminole County will attend the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis this fall representing one percent of the incoming freshman class each year, Fairley said.

Of the 10 students, two are female and will be among the 80 women the academy admits to its freshmen class each year, Fairley said.

Lyman High School will graduate four of the 10 soon-to-be plebes whose college career begins July 6 at the naval academy. Those students are: John Stagliano of 207 Bromhouse Lane, Longwood; Cathy Gaul of 563 Puerta Court, Altamonte Springs; Jeffrey Hall of 110 Aspen Place, Longwood; and Binhdoy Hardsky of 824 Lake Irene Road.

Seniors David Sullivan and Cindy Blenic of Lyman High School, are anxiously awaiting the word of acceptance from the academy.

Students from Seminole High School are: James McGovern of 816 Myrtle Ave., Bostwick; Dale Owen of Route 1, Longwood; Erica Ryder of 104 Shannon Drive, Sanford.

Oviedo High School's Javier Covelli of 180 E. Third St., Winter Springs and Lake Brantley High School's Frank Albritton of 1103 W. Tulane Drive, Altamonte Springs are also included in the 1979 freshman class. Forest City's Anthony Sanchez, a 1978 graduate of Lake Brantley High School, will also be a plebe this summer.

"Basically, the lead item of the story is the one percent thing, but it could not have been made without a good school system," Fairley said.

"There's a lot of effort being placed in the ability of the young people to perform on a national basis.

"The school system has a strong academic curriculum that's maintained by the administration and the teachers. This is proof of it."

Palestinian Targets

Israeli Planes Hit Lebanon

United Press International Israeli warplanes attacked Palestinian guerrilla concentrations in southern Lebanon today in the second such air strike in two days, the Israeli military command announced.

The strike near the village of Reichen occurred at 3 p.m. (9 a.m. EDT) and all planes returned safely to base, the Israeli command said.

Reichen is about 13 miles north of Metulla, the northernmost town in Israel.

The command said the target was "terrorist concentrations" but there was no indication of the size of the stronghold or how many weapons, if any, were there.

The new raid was announced shortly after official sources in Jerusalem said Prime Minister Menachem Begin will propose talks with Lebanon's President Elias Sarkis to end fighting between Israel and Lebanon-based Palestinian guerrillas.

The sources said the move eventually could mean the first contact between Israel and the Palestine Liberation Organization.

The air strike on an inland target was unusual since Israeli warplanes generally concentrate their raids on guerrilla strongholds along the Lebanese coast. Military sources earlier denied reports from Beirut saying warplanes struck at targets near Tyre, on the southern Lebanese coast.

The Israeli attack against a suspected stronghold along the eastern sector of the guerrilla front line came within 24 hours after local reports said the Christian militia in southern Lebanon killed two guerrillas in the outskirts of Tripoli Sunday.

The same region.

The reports, from Metulla, quoted the leader of the Israeli-supported Christian militia Maj. Saad Haddad, as saying his forces repulsed the attempted infiltrations.

Earlier Beirut Radio stations reported Israeli warplanes today had pounded the southern city of Tyre and its surrounding area. But Israeli military sources and PLO officials denied the reports.

The new Israeli air strike followed bombings by Israeli jets in the outskirts of Tripoli Sunday.

Seminole Woes Recalled In Bid For Insurance Law

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Rep. Bobby Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, predicted today a bill will be passed in the Florida House of Representatives to prevent a recurrence of the loss of substantial sums of money by clients of health and life insurance companies which go into receivership.

Seminole County school system employees have unpaid claims totaling more than $800,000 against Old Security Life Insurance Co. of Kansas City, Mo., which went into receivership after the 1976-77 year.

The firm, under contract with the school system, was to provide health and life insurance for school system employees and dependents. Toward the end of the contract year, however, some 1,500 claims ranging from $60 to $60,000 remained unpaid and still have not been paid.

The legislation to be heard by the full Florida House of Representatives insurance committee, of which Hattaway is a member, calls for establishment of a guaranty fund by domestic insurance companies pooling resources to pick up the coverage and claims of individuals when an insurance company goes bankrupt.

Hattaway said he spoke before the insurance subcommittee of the full committee last week, citing the problems Seminole school system employees have suffered as a result of Old Security Life Insurance Co. going into receivership.

"The legislation is being heavily lobbied against by insurance companies," Hattaway said, adding, however, "I'm working for the bill and am bringing to the attention of as many legislators as possible the problems Seminole County people have had."

Hattaway said he will introduce the legislation in the past and will be strongly supporting the new legislation in this session.

He said the insurance companies in the past have heavily lobbied against this type legislation and were able to kill it in the Senate commerce committee. "This is much needed legislation and we have had problems in Seminole County that it would prevent in the future," he said.

School Superintendent William F. Laver and Gene Grooms, executive director of the Seminole Education Association are "strongly endorsing" the proposed legislation.

Similar legislation was adopted by the Legislature in 1970 concerning property and casualty insurance.

"I'm strongly in favor of the legislation," Laver said. "I would have saved school personnel, doctors, dentists and hospitals a lot of grief when Old Security went into receivership."

and stopped all payment on claims" 20 months ago, he said.

The Seminole school system had a contract with Old Security Life Insurance Co. to provide hospitalization and life insurance for the system's 3,000 employees and families in 1976-77. Toward the end of the contract period the Kansas City, Mo. insurance firm stopped paying insurance claims and checks issued by the firm to Seminole County clients bounced.

"The legislation would have been a great help if it had been a reality in Seminole when the problem with Old Security Life Insurance Company developed. Some 1,500 school board employees have outstanding claims against the company ranging from $60 to $60,000," Grooms said.

Laver said toward the end of a one-year contract for all school employees who had received checks from Old Security returned by banks for insufficient funds to send copies of those checks to him with verification that medical bills had been paid.

He said the receiver will begin the process of reimbursing at least part of those losses to the claimants once Old Security properties are sold.

"Several groups in this state have experienced the disaster of an insurance company failure," Gutter said. "The answer lies in establishing a guaranty fund to ensure that no consumer will be left holding the bag when a company mismanagement or simply bad economic times fails to meet its obligation," he said.

NATO Receives A U. S. Pledge

In the bad, old days of the Cold War, this country's crushing superior nuclear arsenals served to restrain the Soviet Union from any temptation to do to Bonn, Paris, and Amsterdam what it did to Prague and Budapest. Now that detente has persuaded the United States to yield its strategic dominance, Western Europe is increasingly in the cold shadow of Soviet military power.

Granted, the Carter administration has belatedly responded to the buildup of Soviet forces in Eastern Europe by orchestrating improvements in NATO's conventional defenses against a non-nuclear attack. The increased sums spent by all the major NATO partners on tactical air-craft, anti-tank missiles and other defense hardware may even have caused Soviets to extend their timetables for reaching the Rhine or the English Channel, should the shooting ever start.

But enhanced conventional war defenses are meaningless if the Soviets are allowed to achieve a decisive edge in those short and medium-range nuclear weapons that are unregulated by any existing or prospective arms limitation agreement. During the last two years, the Soviets have further tilted the European balance of power in their favor by producing and deploying 2000 of the potent, new SS-20 ballistic missiles. Each SS-20 can carry three independently targeted nuclear warheads over a range of about 3,100 miles — a distance sufficient to strike any target in Western Europe from launch areas well inside the Soviet Union. It is worth noting that just a dozen SS-20s could wreak more havoc than 50 neutron warheads — the tactical nuclear weapon President Carter declined to produce in the hope that the Soviets would match such restraint.

It's One For All

We can be sure that Sears, Roebuck and Co. entertained no illusions about how difficult it is to beat city hall, in this instance the U.S. government, when it filed a class-action suit against 10 federal agencies in January. Thus, ready to defend itself in a tough fight, Sears struck back at what its chairman, Edward R. Telling, described as a federal campaign of "harassment, subterfuge or retaliation" against Sears. In the future, Mr. Telling announced recently, Sears will no longer do business with the federal government. Although government contracts represent a tiny percentage of Sears' multi-billion-dollar annual gross business, still the $20 million write-off represents a form of corporate courage that few businesses can afford to manifest toward Washington these days.

The Sears suit on behalf of retailers maintains the government has no right to penalize employers for not meeting preferential hiring standards when the government itself, through contradictory decrees, had laid down conditions making compliance difficult, if not impossible. Sears points out, for example, that federally mandated preference for hiring veterans, which brought a disproportionate number of white males into the work force, has denied equal opportunity to women and minorities.

How Long Can Love Affair Last?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There is, when you stop to think about it, something inherently contradictory about 55 miles-per-hour national speed limit and motor vehicles deliberately designed to travel at twice that speed. Somebody has finally noticed that incongruity and the initiative comes not from some government agency looking for new regulatory worlds to conquer but rather from a commercial motor carrier — Trailways bus company.

In a case which has received remarkably little publicity considering its potential ramifications, Trailways has asked the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) to mandate design controls on all interstate trucks and buses that would prevent them from traveling faster than 57 mph. The rule-making application, which NHTSA has agreed to consider, would affect only commercial vehicles — not private automobiles. But it has sent a shudder through Detroit, which can read the handwriting on the wall.

Trailways already practices what it preaches. After six-to-eight months of testing in late 1977 and early 1978, the company began fitting speed control devices to its entire fleet of 2,200 buses. It expects to complete the job by this time next year.

According to a Trailways spokesman, the company was motivated both by safety considerations and by a desire to save on fuel costs. The speed governors, which cost a mere $75 apiece, do not affect acceleration or performance at speeds below the legal limit. But the company estimates it can save 1 million gallons of fuel a year by holding its buses to a maximum of 57 mph — a huge dollar savings, especially with fuel prices escalating so rapidly. A number of major trucking companies support the Trailways bid for mandatory design controls, although other bus companies and independent truckers have so far been hostile to the concept.

NHTSA plans to receive public comments on the Trailways proposal until Aug. 17 and will probably hold hearings thereafter before deciding whether to draft any regulation. If it does, it will be the first time since the 1970s that federal agencies have held public hearings on a safety issue. There is no question, however, that the Trailways application has piqued the interest not only of the agency but of outside groups interested in highway safety issues.

"I think it's a remarkable testimonial to the change in public attitudes that has taken place in recent years," said Ben Kelley of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety. "Six years ago, when I gave a speech on design speed controls, I was laughed out of the room. Nobody is laughing now."

Price Guide Hassle

By WILLIAM STEIF C. Joseph Stetler and David S. Kessler think this column has been unfair to their organization. Stetler is president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association, the drug maker's lobby. Kessler is manager of regulatory affairs for Kaul Pharmaceutical Co., Whippany, N.J. Stetler says this column, in discussing the Health, Education and Welfare Department's "Guide to Drug Prices," did not "fully or accurately explain our position. We think consumers should have access to price information about prescriptions. Our objections to the HEW price book deal with the type of information the government has assembled and its method of making it available to the public." Stetler also objects to this column's statement that "medicines often are marked up 100 percent or more from wholesale to retail." He says "manufacturers have no voice whatsoever in the decision of how much markup is added... That is determined by the pharmacist... The percentage stated in your column is inflated and inaccurate."

Hospital Support I was recently discharged from Semole Memorial Hospital. At home, recuperating from surgery, I have time to reflect on my experience. Hospitals all over the country have been a part of my life ever since I can remember. My father is a retired Hospital Administrator. As a young adult I worked as a laboratory technician. And my husband now is practicing medicine in this area. It occurs to me that a hospital is NOT just a grand building set on a pretty location with plenty of parking space. It is a great deal more than that when you discover you need one. A hospital is, in essence, a community investment in a professional group of alert, caring, responsible people gathered together in the same place to serve and care for the sick in the best way possible. I received outstanding care, cheerfully given during my stay at Semole Memorial Hospital. For this I am "Jay grateful. Let us not forget in the months to come when our community hospital will need support and positive response from all of us, that, should we need them, there is a fine, dedicated team of professionals standing ready to serve us there and they deserve our loyalty and praise. Sincerely, Marybeth Weigand (Mrs. F.J.) Deltona

Saudi Alienation: Carter's Big Error?

WASHINGTON — The alienation of Saudi Arabia, whose desert oil fields pump lifeblood into the factories of America, may go down as Jimmy Carter's biggest honor. For decades the Saudis have been staunch friends of the United States. The ruling family there prizes its ties to the United States to study. They invited U.S. companies to develop their oil reserves and, later, to help construct modern cities and industrial complexes. The U.S. Army Engineers administer billions' worth of military construction in Saudi Arabia. U.S. government teams work on a joint economic commission with the Saudis to provide technical assistance. Indeed, secret government documents indicate that the Saudis seemed more concerned than Washington about the impact of the oil group upon the Western economies. The Saudis secretly urged the Nixon administration in 1974 to pressure the Shah of Iran to hold down oil prices. When Washington failed to respond, the Saudis reluctantly went along with the price increases rather than stand alone against the oil bloc. Earlier this year, the Middle East was thrown into turmoil by the downfall of the Shah and the Egyptian-Israeli peace pact. It felt when the Iranian oil fields were down, the Saudis were down. The Saudis stepped up their own production so that the United States would not be deprived. Given this history, it would seem difficult for any president to alienate the Saudis. But Carter has succeeded in doing this, thereby jeopardizing the nation's oil supply. Here's how he accomplished it: BLUNDER NO. 1: Like President Nixon before him, Carter coddled the Shah. The president disregarded secret Saudi warnings that the Shah was an unstable, unpredictable ally. Carter joined in presenting the Shah to accept the Shah as the chief protector of the oil-strapped Persian Gulf. Against their better judgment, the Saudis embraced the Shah. Then Carter, reacting in panic to the Iranian uprising against the Shah, abruptly abandoned him. Not only were the Saudis left in awkward embrace with a Shah they had opposed in the first place; they also concluded that a Carter who would drop the Shah so hastily might abandon them. BLUNDER NO. 2: The Saudis wanted Carter to send a task force into the Persian Gulf as a visible warning to the Soviets and Iranians that the United States was prepared to defend its vital oil states. At first, Carter showed a carrier force into the Persian Gulf. Then he had a change of heart and canceled the order — perhaps because he felt it was incompatible with his self-proclaimed role as the Israeli-Egyptian peacekeeper. Intelligence reports suggest that the Soviets

Dade Voters Decide On Smoking Ban

MIAMI (UPI) — The prediction is that about 225,000 voters, 38 percent, will decide in a special election Tuesday whether to ban smoking in most public buildings in Dade County. A spirited campaign boiled the issues down to the non-smokers' claims that smokers are dangerous to their health, and the smokers' counter-claims that the ban would be a restriction on the right of freedom.

BUSINESS AWARD

Dorothy Della Valle, business manager at Jim's Mobile TV, was named Business Person of the Month for April by the Longwood Area Chamber of Commerce. The plaque was presented to her at the April 30 meeting in Longwood.

The special election will cost taxpayers $400,000. The anti-smoking proposal is the only issue on the county-wide ballot. If adopted, the ordinance would prohibit smoking in enclosed public places, places of employment, educational facilities and health facilities. There are exemptions: bars, pool halls, gambling halls, tobacco shops, and hotel rooms. And several establishments, including restaurants, would be required to set off smoking and no smoking areas.

The tobacco industry, which sells an estimated 5 billion cigarettes a year in the Greater Miami area, jumped quickly into the campaign after anti-smokers, under the banner of the GASP (Group Against Smokers Pollution), gathered the 10,000 signatures needed to force the issue on the ballot. Dade Voters for a Free Choice, the tobacco industry-supported group, raised nearly $600,000 — more than has ever been spent on a county election issue. With non-smoker Edmond Markel calling the shots, the group staged an advertising blitz on television, radio and billboards and in newspapers.

In contrast, the GASP campaign has been struggling out of a small woman's clothing shop and raised only about $6,000. But it got help from local media with free advertising time and from a prominent local physician and well known entertainers.

"What we want is our right to breathe clean indoor air," says GASP President Charles Freefield. "We're not asking for anything more than what we already have."

The pro-smokers group has hammered at the theme that the ordinance would be just another infringement on people's rights by government. "Two months ago most people were for it because it's kind of an apple pie issue," Markel said. "But as people know more about it, they tend to turn away from it."

Freefield says that's just so much "haley," the 56-year-old reformed smoker says, "Americans love an underdog." Markel's group said the ban would cost Dade County's economy $8 million. The figure included the cost of no smoking signs, setting up separate no smoking sections in restaurants, liquor shops and other establishments and management time. It said $3 million would come from the public sector and $5 million would be in private costs.

More balanced, Freefield countered. "An example of how ridiculous the monetary reports are is that it says one sign would cost $40," he said. Both sides are predicting victory Tuesday.

The Battle Of The Budget

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The battle of the budget will be joined in the Legislature this week with the Senate and House going in different directions on how to spend $14 billion over the next two years. Up to this point, subcommittees of both houses have been working on the spending bill. Now it is up to the Senate Ways and Means Committee and the House Appropriations Committee to put the finishing touches on the measures. They are expected to vote the budgets to the floors of each chamber Thursday or Friday and full scale debate could start next week.

Floor debate in the House today will center on whether Florida should permit the manufacture of laetrile, the disputed substance that some people claim works as a cancer treatment. The Senate already has passed a bill legalizing laetrile manufacture in Florida. The state has a law permitting prescription sale of laetrile but the federal government has interstate shipment and importation of laetrile.

Meanwhile, the House Natural Resources subcommittee considers legislation today to prevent the indiscriminate dumping of hazardous materials. The measure seeks to prevent Georgia and Mississippi from using Florida as a chemical dump ground now that those states both have strict anti-dumping laws.

Women's Wills: Is Your House In Order?

By JOAN MADISON Herald Correspondent. "Is your house in order?" This was the question explored by attorney Lauren Y. Detzel at the quarterly meeting of the Women's Guild of St. Mary Magdalen Parish in Altamonte Springs.

Today, over half the country's wealth is owned by women, and the laws of intestacy operate without regard to sex records indicate. A person is said to die testate if they have left a will; intestate if they have not.

"Any person 18 or more years of age who is of sound mind may make a will. Testamentary capacity is basically being able to know and understand the natural objects of one's bounty, the nature and extent of his property and the actual disposition which the testator is making of his property by the will," she advised.

Florida law does require that the will be in writing and signed at the end by the testator in the presence of at least two attesting witnesses, who must sign in the presence of each other and in the presence of the testator. The attorney advised that the signatures be notarized at the time of execution as this "self-proves" the will, and no further affidavit of witness is necessary to admit the will to probate or proof.

Homestead—defined as property occupied as a home or dwelling, by two or more persons living together in a family relationship. Homestead is usually created when a husband and wife buy a house and live in it. There are constitutional restrictions on the devise of this property; however, these provisions don't apply if owned jointly.

Piano Haters Say: Don't Force Children To Play

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing a Dear Abby letter, but I must speak out in defense of PIANO LESSON HATER, to whom you said, "I've had thousands of people tell me they were sorry they quit piano, but not one ever said he was GLAD he quit."

DEAR ABBY: I had piano lessons shoved down my throat for three miserable years. Practicing was punishment and recitals were torture. When I was 11, even my teacher told me to quit piano and take guitar lessons.

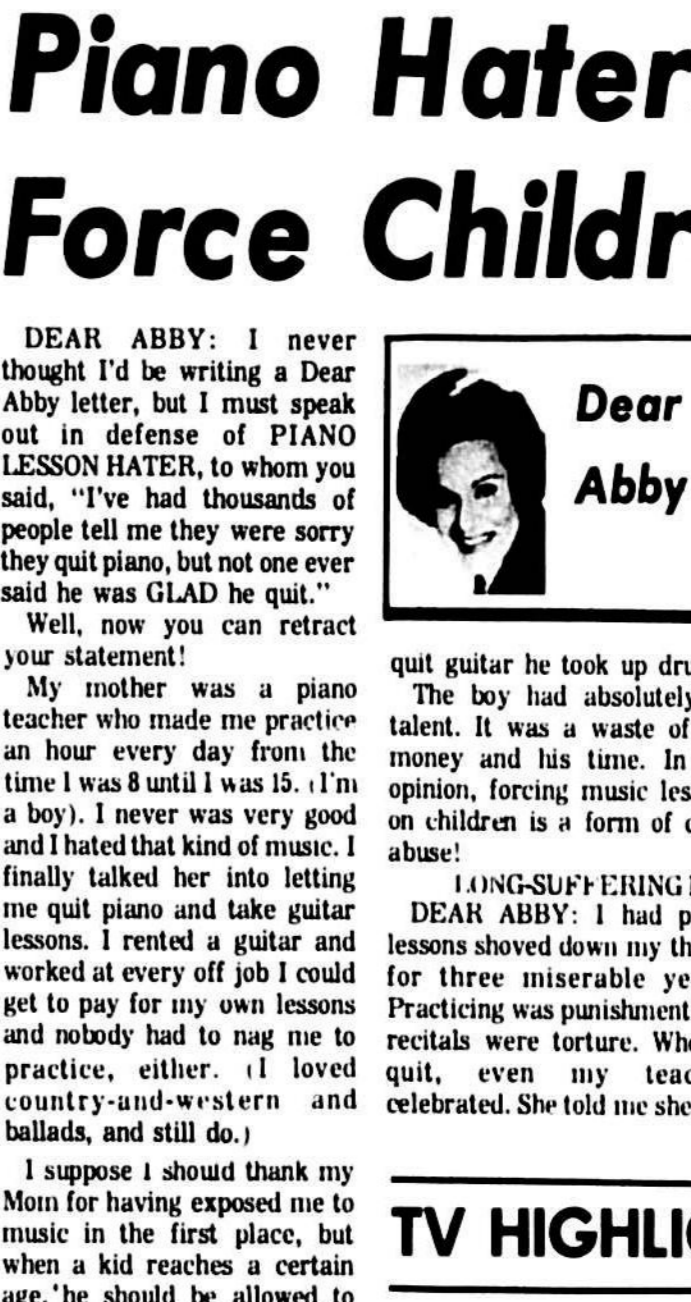

DEAR ABBY: Please don't encourage parents to force music lessons on their children. My wife and I decided that our son should take piano lessons when he was 9. He liked it at first, then lost interest, but we forced him to take lessons and practice an hour-a-day for three years.

Rain, Tornadoes Pound Florida

A tornado touched down just south of Daytona today causing heavy damage to a mobile home park and several persons received minor injuries. Volusia County was placed on a tornado warning as severe weather pounded parts of Central Florida on the east and west coasts. Meanwhile, a tornado watch was issued for Seminole and every county in north and central Florida from noon to 3 p.m. today. The watch indicates a possible tornado, or large hail and damaging winds.

Severe thunderstorms pounded the Tampa Bay area today, spawning a number of small tornadoes, one of which struck a mobile home park east of the University of South Florida.

Extensive damage was reported from the winds and heavy rains, but there were no reported injuries. One twister struck the Lamplighter Trailer Park northeast of Tampa, damaging 30 to 40 mobile homes and an auto repair shop and gun shop across the road were heavily damaged.

Several tornadoes were reported north of Tampa International Airport and in north Tampa, but there were no immediate reports of damage, and the Pinellas County sheriff's office reported some damage due to high winds south of Clearwater.

Another tornado hit the tiny town of Port Orange south of Daytona Beach, striking several mobile home parks and a new housing subdivision.

"So far, no one's hurt, but the damage looks awful bad," said a Port Orange police spokesman.

Tampa International Airport recorded 5.69 inches of rain between midnight and 10 a.m., and clocked winds up to 86 knots.

At one point the control tower at the airport was evacuated for 10 minutes because of the high winds and the spotting of the tornado just north of the airport.

"But nothing was really operating at the time and it was just precautionary," a spokesman said.

The line of thunderstorms stretched from near Daytona Beach on the east coast to off Fort Myers on the lower west coast, but a weather bureau spokesman said most of the storm was concentrated in the Tampa area.

"The heavy stuff has been concentrated in the Tampa area," a weatherman said. "We've had numerous tornadoes reported. The thunderstorms are coming in from the Gulf and are not moving very fast."

Airport And Seminole OK Space Lease

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford Airport Authority has approved the leasing of building space to the Seminole County Commission, clearing the way for construction of a new terminal building at the airport.

The 43,000 square feet of space in buildings 310 and 311 at the airport, which cost the commission $300,000 for the first year, $42,000 for the second year, $40,000 for the third year and $54,000 for the fourth year. The rate for each year after that will be negotiated, according to the contract approved by the Authority. The vote to approve the contract was unanimous.

In April, county commissioners voted to approve the leasing of building space at the airport and authorized Chairman Bob French to execute an agreement with the Authority. Formal approval of the lease negotiated was expected to come during today's regular commission meeting.

The commission's decision to seek space at the airport came after the advice and recommendations of Sheriff Polk. Polk wants to use the second and third floors of the three-story structure at building 310 to consolidate the administrative offices and communications center which are now housed in four separate facilities. The communication center is located at the courthouse and the department has offices at the old jail, the Sanford Masonic Building and building 1 at the airport.

The move will free up 10,545 feet of space at the old jail for other county purposes, leaving only an 18-cell block for housing of prisoners. The cell-block will remain as reserve space when the new jail at Five Points is completed, according to Polk.

Jeff Eichberger, director of the county's Office of Management, Analysis and Evaluation, said the rent reduction during the first four years will enable the county to make all but about $10,000 of improvements to the building. He said the reduction in the first four years amount to $42,000. He estimated the cost of the elevator construction and other improvements to come to $52,000.

At the first year rental fee of $30,000, the cost per square foot comes to $2.86, he said. By the fourth year of the lease when the rent jumps to $54,000, the rent per square foot comes to about $5.15.

The going rate for office space in the area averages more than $5.25 per square foot, he said.

One Block To Accident: Longest Walk Of Life

All the pain and agony a mother can know returned to Mrs. Paul Chaplin during a frightening one-block walk Monday.

At 3 p.m. she received word her son, Edward, 8, had been struck by a car and injured on Park Avenue just south of 9th Street. It was just two weeks ago that she was told her other son, Scott, 16, had been hit by a car and injured. The accident killed Scott.

"It was the longest block I ever walked," Mrs. Chaplin said of the trip from her home to the scene of the accident at about 3 p.m. after being told Edward had been hit by a car.

"Thank God," she said.

That's all Mrs. Chaplin could think to say upon learning Edward was going to be all right.

"It's at home," she said this morning, "he suffered a slight concussion and is going to be all right."

Sanford police said Edward was running south on Park Avenue when he veered into the path of a car driven by Louis Clyde Alexander, 56, whose address is listed as P.O. Box 624, Sanford. The car struck the boy and threw him to the pavement. He was taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital by ambulance where he was treated and released.

Police said Alexander stopped immediately after hitting the youth. No citation was issued.

On April 28 Mark Scott Chaplin, 16, left his home at 2809 Magnolia by bicycle to visit a friend. But before he reached his destination, a blue Pontiac struck him on Old Lake Mary Road about a mile south of Airport Boulevard. Four days later he died in an Orlando hospital.

The driver of that car fled the scene at a high rate of speed. The Florida Highway Patrol said it suspects has yet been apprehended in connection with the hit and run. Mrs. Chaplin said she did not know whether or not anyone had been arrested for the accident that claimed her son's life. But she said:

"I prayed for the driver again this morning."

After learning her other son was not seriously injured, she prayed again.—GEOFFREY POUNDS

Sheriff's Department In 'Air Pool'

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

In about a month's time, Seminole County will be ready to join the hundreds of sheriff's departments across the nation in a so-called air pool to save time and money in the transportation of prisoners.

The sheriff's department is currently renovating its $15.5 million, two-engine propeller aircraft confiscated in a recent drug raid, said Sgt. Jerry Capshaw, chief pilot of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

When the aircraft's facilities is complete in about a month, its average of $225 and 2.1 man-hours each time, Triggs said.

Capshaw said Seminole County's twin-engine plane which can seat six operators on about seven cents per passenger mile at full capacity. It gets about five to six miles per gallon and can travel 300 miles per hour, Capshaw said.

"On a one-to-one basis, the cost of flying commercial and then another aircraft is about the same," Capshaw said.

But when more than one person is being transported, the cost saving of the plane far exceeds the increased time saved in flying instead of driving.

The rising price of gas plus the cost of flying commercial and then another aircraft is about the same," Capshaw said.

But when more than one person is being transported, the cost saving of the plane far exceeds the increased time saved in flying instead of driving.

The sheriff's department plans to participate in an air pool with other law enforcement agencies known as CAPTIS (Computer Assisted Prisoner Transportation Index Service). The project under the National Sheriff's Association is based in Washington, D.C. and would allow law enforcement agencies to cooperate with each other throughout the country in transporting prisoners in groups, saving time and money.

"CAPTIS is designed to create a nationwide data base of all personnel awaiting custody in jails and prisons throughout the U.S. accessible to all law enforcement agencies," said Ron Triggs, senior sergeant in charge of the CAPTIS program.

Approximately 50,000 prisoners are made each year by city, county and state agencies, Triggs explained.

"I do know within a thousand mile radius, it is more economical and safe for us to fly our own plane," Polk said.

Only 7 Years Old, Already Has Acne

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—My son is only 7 years old and already he is developing signs of acne. His face along the jaw line and also his upper arms are covered with tiny bumps that look distinctly like pimples. Several have already come to a head. I'm very concerned because I developed this problem in early childhood and am still coping with it at age 28. Added to the general acne problem I also developed and still have large clusters of blackheads. I have them on my neck and on my breastbone. It's unsightly as well as embarrassing. Is there anything that can be done to prevent the pimples? Should I have him see a dermatologist. You're perfectly right in saying these conditions can undermine a person's confidence. It can certainly affect his appearance on a long-term basis if severe acne develops and causes scarring.

Since your son is only 7 years old and this is a little unusual, I think you probably should have him see a dermatologist. You're perfectly right in saying these conditions can undermine a person's confidence. It can certainly affect his appearance on a long-term basis if severe acne develops and causes scarring.

Home remedies for most other people really are directed toward keeping the skin clean by washing all the areas involved with warm water and mild soap two or three times a day. The skin can also be dried by wiping it off frequently with simple alcohol sponges.

It's often not mentioned but sunlight is remarkably helpful in some people in clearing acne conditions. It won't work in all cases but it shouldn't be forgotten as an aid.

I'm sure your doctor will be able to determine whether your son really has acne or if he has a little skin infection that needs treatment. He will also be able to give you guidance and help you in managing your son's skin condition so he will have the best opportunity to avoid inflammatory reaction caused by a breakdown of the fatty sebum.

The pimple is an inflammatory reaction caused by a breakdown of the fatty sebum.
