SHIP IN PERU STIFLES REVOLT NEWS

However, Government Admits That Rebels Control Arequipa Following Disorder

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The rebels were in control of Arequipa after a clash with loyalist troops, the government yesterday instituted a censorship, making it impossible to confirm reports that all Southern Peru was in control of revolutionary forces.

The official version was that the rebels had been called in to service.

The official version was that the rebels had been called in to service. The government admitted that the rebels were in control of Arequipa after a clash with loyalist troops, the government yesterday instituted a censorship, making it impossible to confirm reports that all Southern Peru was in control of revolutionary forces.

Reports to the newspaper Mercurio in Santiago, Chile, were that the whole of Southern Peru was in the hands of revolutionary forces. These could not be confirmed or contradicted as censorship was in force all along the Peruvian frontier. Tena and other border regions were reported quiet.

The decree calling out 1600 volunteers reserves between the ages of 21 and 30 for a period of 60 days said that this action was taken to maintain public order in the reserves called to the attention of the government.

Meanwhile, the government was preparing for the trial of 300 prisoners arrested after Friday's abortive revolutionary attempt at Callao, in which about 60 persons were killed. The purpose of this revolt was to return to power Augusto B. Leguia, the deposed president, now in prison.

Mental Delinquent Sets Fire To Cell Causing One Death

JACKSONVILLE, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Henry W. Hayden, self-styled candidate for president of the United States, set fire to his padded cell in the county jail here early yesterday, causing death to one woman prisoner, serious injury to another, and made it necessary to send 23 other prisoners to a hospital for treatment.

Hayden had been lodged in the cell before he had been placed in the city jail for holding a public meeting without permit and had set his mattress afire. The damage there, however, was negligible.

Miss Taylor, negro woman, charged with murder, died from suffocation in the county jail fire. Another negro woman was not expected to live.

The fire was discovered early yesterday after it had gained considerable headway.

Hayden had pulled the stuffing from the pads on the walls of his cell, set it afire and the smoke had penetrated to the third floor, where the women prisoners are housed, before it was noticed.

Hayden was rescued and again lodged in the city jail under constant guard.

SALVATION SEEN FOR FARMERS IN CROP LIMITATION

Legge Avers Drastic Restriction Is Only Hope For Situation

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(AP)—The farmer's only salvation, in the opinion of Alexander Legge, whose pending retirement from the chairmanship of the farm board has been announced, is "drastic restriction of production."

The government, Legge will say in the issue of "The Country Home" to be published Tuesday, "has banded the farm board with a fund of half a billion dollars, and the question is, what has the farm board done with that money, and what does it hope to do for the farmer."

In order that every resident of Seminole County may have the opportunity of seeing and hearing the Paramount Sound News film which shows celery cutting operations on the farm of H. G. Hickson, Celery Avenue, officials of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce (this morning) prevailed upon the management of the Millane Theater to hold it over today and tomorrow.

Local trade body officials are elated over the tremendous five advertisement which Sanford will receive as a result of the film's being included in the weekly feature, and they are being congratulated on all sides for their efforts in securing the cooperation of Paramount Sound News.

MIAMI WOMEN JOIN HANDS IN DRIVE ON VICE

Militant Organization Seeks To Rid City Of Crime And Lawlessness, Said Rampant

MIAMI, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Organizing the standards of Militant Crusaders have organized to rid metropolitan Miami of vice, crime, and lawlessness at the height of the winter season, Walt Holcomb, local minister said yesterday.

Meantime, members of the Greater Miami Ministerial Association, in executive session adopted a resolution deploring conditions that make up the Miami area. They called upon law enforcement officials to improve conditions.

The committee of 100 women, which stated its drive on crime by declaring for a war on alleged gambling places in the city, is not associated with the committee of 100, organization of wealthy and executive residents of Miami Beach.

Members of the latter group recently threw moral strength to the side of law enforcement at Miami Beach, by demanding that the gambling "bid" be clamped down permanently in order to rid the resort community of undesirable.

Holcomb said the women, led by Mrs. D. E. Richards, Miami, made public protest last week to county officials regarding an alleged gambling hall in Miami's business center.

Officials, however, said they found no evidences of gambling when they visited the place with the women.

The resolution of the ministers charged officials with the duty of "gambling, bootlegging and prostitution" and "to rectify the conditions" must "necessarily be referred to those authorities."

"There has been voiced a real desire to clean up the city," he said.

Cost Of Publishing Newspaper Trebles In Past Ten Years

MIAMI, Feb. 23.—The cost of publishing a newspaper today trebles that of 10 years ago, says A. C. Deuel, president of The Niagara Falls Gazette, a guest at the Nautilus Hotel, Miami Beach.

Increasing advertising makes possible the publication of a newspaper under the present high cost of production, he continued.

"Advertisers realize the value of advertising. They are demanding better advertising and receiving it. Advertisements today are better planned and more attractive than formerly."

He pointed out that privately-owned newspapers have a more independent policy than chain-owned newspapers.

"In general, privately-owned newspapers who are vitally concerned with the best interests of the community. They are more active in building up a community than chain papers, which are conducted on a general policy for several cities.

It is considered a superior likeness to the Stuart portraits. The Peale portrait will hang in Mount Vernon de Paris at the International Exposition.

MRS. SCHROEDER LEROY IS WINNER PAYS WITH LIFE SUNDAY TO ENTER FOR KILLING MAN SEMI-FINAL PLAY

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 23.—(AP)—Irene Schroeder and Walter Dague went calmly to their death in the electric chair yesterday at the Sanford County Club, the 1930 city Golf Champion, Leon Leroy, will enter the final and title deciding match a favorite over his youthful adversary Lawrence Landquist, who defeated G. W. Spencer in semi-final play last Wednesday. The final match is to be played during the week, and will be over 36 holes.

By his sweeping six and five defeat of his semi-final opponent Joe Masters yesterday afternoon at the Sanford County Club, the 1930 city Golf Champion, Leon Leroy, will enter the final and title deciding match a favorite over his youthful adversary Lawrence Landquist, who defeated G. W. Spencer in semi-final play last Wednesday. The final match is to be played during the week, and will be over 36 holes.

Mr. Masters, after playing several fancy rounds of golf during the past two weeks to enter semi-final play, was unable to get started at any time, and he proved unable to withstand the slashing attack of the 1930 champion. During the entire match, he won only two holes. Mr. Leroy practically settled the match by winning the first six holes in a manner which left little doubt as to the final outcome. His drives were straight and true, his approach shots were accurate.

She is expected to arrive at the Cuban naval base late this afternoon.

The Patoka started through the Panama Canal, heading for Saint Joseph Bay, Fla., where the Los Angeles will join her about March 1. Then the digible will make a flight over Havana and head northward for her own haegar at Lakehurst.

ELECTION EVE VIOLENCE HITS CHICAGO AREA

Two Sluggings, 2 Kidnapings, And Try On Life Of Alderman Reported To Police

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(AP)—Pre-election violence "ran rampant in Chicago" last night. Two sluggings, two kidnapings and an attempt upon the life of an alderman candidate were reported to officials as they rallied an army of 70,000 persons for a guard against fraud and disorder in Tuesday's city primaries.

Rumor placed Alphonse Capone in Chicago last night. He was believed to have returned for the Tuesday primary. Rather, they thought, he was preparing for appearance in federal court Wednesday.

The disturbances last night were centered in the eighth and thirteenth wards, both outlying. In the eighth, Theodore Clifford, candidate for alderman, told police that two shots had been fired at him from another automobile. One of the bullets broke the windshield of his car and he was cut by glass.

In the thirteenth ward, Bernard Sheehan, 21, and John C. Grady, 30, said they were seized by hoodlums and beaten as they handed out cards advertising the election of John O'Shay over Alderman John S. Clark. Two other unnamed men were reported by O'Shay headquarters to have been taken away in curtained automobiles, slugged and then set free on the edge of the city.

Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, as supervisor of the election, said credentials as poll watchers have been issued to 45,000 persons. In addition, the usual 15,500 judges, and clerks of election, and 5,000 policemen, equipped with a special force of 1,000 men.

THOMAS HAWKINS DIES SUDDENLY IN RESIDENCE HERE

Pioneer Citizen Was Long Recognized As Successful Farmer

Funeral services for Thomas I. Hawkins, pioneer Sanford resident who died suddenly yesterday morning at his Celery Avenue home, will be held tomorrow at 11 o'clock, in Commerce, Ga., where his body was sent yesterday afternoon.

Mr. Hawkins, born in Oglethorpe County, Ga., nearly 60 years ago, came to Sanford in 1893, and began shortly after, to follow the career which brought him considerable fortune and the reputation of being one of the most successful farmers in this district.

His early agricultural career in Florida began on the DeBarry Estate a short distance beyond the Monroe bridge, in Volusia County. Mr. Hawkins, together with Mr. A. T. Rossetter, was employed as a day laborer at a salary which barely provided ordinary living expenses. Three years of continued application to the best farming methods gave Mr. Hawkins, a keen insight into the problems of soil cultivation, and provided him with the opportunity of establishing a firm basis upon which to later build the success he attained as one of the leading celery growers in this area.

COUNTY TRADE BODY WILL BE FORMED SOON

Sanford Chamber Of Commerce Decides On Expansion Plan At Meeting Today

Inspirational talks from leading residents of the city and county, as well as out-of-state guests, the members of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce today at their luncheon at the Valdez Hotel voted to begin at once the work of their new trade body.

The chamber of commerce which would be built around the present trade body. Not a dissenting voice was raised by any of the speakers, whose almost unanimous theme was the value of co-operation and prompt action. Details in connection with the new county-wide trade body will be developed during the next few days.

While the brief talks of local residents were all directed to the one idea that a county chamber of commerce is a necessity at this time, and one of the most constructive developments contemplated in some months, it remained for the remarks of two non-residents to bring the issue to the voting point. Will Finch, of Cincinnati, a chamber-of-commerce organizer of many years' standing, clearly and briefly stated his reasons for believing that the organization of such a group in this section would be highly beneficial. He stressed the value of co-operation, and particularly the value of advertising, and urged that the members assembled take advantage of the opportunity for organization which was offered.

A. A. Cassata, mayor of Bayville, Mass., a former Massachusetts state senator, and for five years past president of his local trade body, gave a short talk which was listened to with close attention and was received with much applause. He outlined conditions as they are in his home community, pointed out the power of proper advertising, pleaded for a continued spirit of optimism in every activity and at all times, and urged his listeners to quick action, with the idea of bringing to this section the fulfillment of many of the possibilities which were outlined by the other speakers.

Shortly after Mr. Cassata's talk, F. W. Hender, acting as chairman of the meeting, asked that a motion be made authorizing the establishment of the new trade body, Judge James G. Sharon quickly made the motion. It was carried without a dissenting vote. Others who were heard in support of the new county organization were: B. F. Haines, Altamonte Springs; C. W. Entzinger, Longwood; F. E. Russell, John Melch, chairman of the county commissioners; Harry M. Papworth, president of the trade body; E. J. Dumas, mayor of Sanford; Judge James G. Sharon, and Representative George W. Murray.

A report on the success of the Ocala road body committee; a report that action on the construction of a drainage canal from Salt Lake to the Indian River is progressing slowly toward a successful conclusion; the authorization of an official letter of thanks to Joe L. Marquette, Leon Leroy, and S. D. Highleyman, for their efforts in filming of celery cutting in Sanford last week; the reading of a letter of thanks from Mayor Earl W. Brown, DeLand, for the co-operation given by the local body and Seminole County residents in making the Volusia County Fair a success; the reading of a letter of thanks from the publicity director of the recent Indiana farmers' tour of Florida for the kindness shown by the local trade body during their stay here, and the appointment of a committee which would look into bread prices in this section, were the only other matters of business brought before the group.

HICKS WINS WHEN VAN WIE KNOCKS HER BALL IN HOLE

Attempt To Negotiate Stymie Ends Badly For Chicago Golfer

PALM BEACH, Feb. 21.—(AP)—After it seemed she had tossed away her chances with a badly topped brassie shot, Helen Hicks of Hewlett, N. I., stood idly by on the 19th hole Friday and watched her way as her opponent, Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, knocked Helen's ball into the cup in a futile attempt to negotiate a dead stymie.

This freakish finish was the climax to a sensational close and keenly fought final round contest, over the links of the Palm Beach Country club, furnishing an unlooked for thrill to a fashionable gallery of nearly 2000 spectators.

It brought triumph to the sturdy New York girl by the slender margin of 1 up, marking Miss Hicks' first victory in the tournament at the same time costing Miss Van Wie the third win and permanent possession of the championship cup.

All square at the ninth after an erratic start, still all even at the 18th, as they halved 16 of the 18 holes and covered the regulation round in 18 strokes each, there was nothing to choose between them as they set off on the first extra hole. Miss Van Wie's putter had saved her from a deficit on the first nine. Miss Hicks' chip shots were her salvation on the inward journey where on three occasions she ran her ball dead to the pin from well off the green.

The Long Island girl had a great chance to settle the match when she fired a fine pitch to 10 feet of the cup on the 18th hole. Only to have Virginia run her ball dead to the pin from off the edge of the green and prolong the match as Helen missed the bid for triumph.

Both had good drives from the 19th tee. Virginia hit a spoon to the edge of the green. Helen took her brassie but missed the shot and the ball rolled barely 75 yards. Her pitch was on the green but just short of the cup and Helen also let her approach putt thud.

Miss Van Wie then putted a fool putt and a half put the cup but still seemed sure of at least a half. Miss Hicks' putt rolled around the very lip of the cup, failed to drop but left her rival a dead stymie. Virginia had the alternative of playing safe for a half in six or of making the dangerous try for a win. She took the chance but her putt knocked in Helen's ball for an automatic five.

SMITH AND WOOD TAKE 1ST HONORS ON LINKS

2 Professionals Take 68s Despite Strong Wind in Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Feb. 21.—(AP)—Two blonde professional campaigners from the east, Horton Smith and Craig Wood, with their amateur partners, yesterday conquered a stiff wind and a long course to tie for the first honors in Pensacola's 18-hole pro-amateur golf tournament. Both had 68s.

The low scores, three under par, were the more remarkable in the face of a brisk blow coming in from nearby Pensacola bay. Smith and Wood divided first and second money, each taking $75, while the amateurs received trophies.

Smith received great help all the way from J. F. McDonough, a lieutenant at the naval air station...

An Age-Old Problem

The matter of control is one of the biggest problems with which human beings have to contend. Any bookkeeper can tell you that when the control account is out of balance, there is bound to be trouble. One horse under control is worth two out of control any time. Hundreds of automobiles are wrecked every year because the steering wheel which controls the direction in which the car travels jams or breaks. Many a strong and otherwise healthy man has gone to the insane asylum because his nervous system, which is his control account, has snapped.

Fighting over control is sometimes as dangerous as incompetent control. We have the illustration of the Wing Commander in England who tried to wrest the control stick from his subordinate, Lieutenant Ely, the pilot of a large passenger-carrying flying boat. The Lieutenant had been selected to pilot the craft in which eight passengers rode. About to alight on the waters of Plymouth harbor, the Wing Commander suddenly lost confidence in his subordinate, and attempted to take control of the ship. The two men fought for the stick.

Nine men were killed in the resulting smash-up. Nine men and more have been killed innumerable times before in the battle for control. The ability to determine in whom it is best to place control and the will to abide by that decision, made until such time as a change can be safely made, is an all-time rare quality. The Wing Commander, having entrusted his life to the hands of the Lieutenant, should have left him alone to run the ship to the best of his ability until a safe landing had been effected or until after the wreck.

Such battles for control are not by any means confined to airplanes and their pilots. Particularly in government does the fight go on continuously. Whether in times of war or peace, no matter how great the national emergency, Democrats battle with Republicans for control of the federal government. The fight goes on at all times, even to the detriment of the people, between this faction and that faction for the control of the government. In business, and society, as well as in politics, ambitious citizens struggle for control.

Sometimes these struggles are necessary; sometimes they are harmful and wasteful of human energy; sometimes they are as dangerous as the struggle between the Wing Commander and the pilot proved to be. It is like changing horses in the middle of a stream; sometimes such a procedure is wise; sometimes very foolish. Which it is, is a problem people are continually being called upon to solve.

Remembering Washington

Yesterday was the twenty-second of February, a date which in America connotes but one thing. Any American schoolboy can tell you that 198 years ago on that day was born George Washington destined to set the American colonies free from English domination. Since yesterday was Sunday, appropriate exercises are being held throughout this country today in honor of the birth of the man who was first president of this nation.

The fact that Washington's birth occurred 198 years ago reminds us that the Washington bicentennial will be observed next year when celebrations will be staged in numerous large cities of this country. The celebration, nation-wide in scope, will extend from February 22 to Thanksgiving day on November 24, and will include local and national exercises everywhere on all holidays which can in any way be connected with the life of Washington. The planting of "George Washington trees" throughout the country will be one of the features.

There are thousands of lessons which have been preached on the life of Washington from the berry days of the hatchet and the cherry tree to his courage at Valley Forge and his magnanimity at Yorktown. Together they tend to make him some supernatural sort of person replete with virtues, and devoid of faults. In the final analysis, however, Washington was but a human being like the rest of us, who always did the best he could, sometimes, only to err, try again, finally to succeed.

It would pay us all to stop awhile these days and consider the life of George Washington.

TELLING THE WORLD

By NEAL O'HARA

(Counteracting a well-heeled rumor that Edgar Lee Masters, having exposed Abraham Lincoln, would tackle J. Herman Selditt next, Mr. Selditt now bars his door to the public press and police. There is no myth connected with J. Herman Selditt. He can account for every single moment of his life, with time out for ten nights in a week. His entire career is an open book, with only the appendix extracted, and he has a scar to show for that. To forestall vicious attacks that may be forthcoming from the pen of Edgar Lee Masters or other detractors of the great and good, J. Herman Selditt today gives his own authentic autobiography to the people at reduced prices. You should have these articles in your hat to get the best results.)

MY LIFE AND LOVE

By J. Herman Selditt

As related in a previous installment, I was born in 1878, Eastern Standard time. I still live in the same house in my town. I was the only child of my father and mother, and was named after my father's name, which was Selditt.

horizontal. We could have patched that quarrel up if it hadn't been for sewing on the stars.

Betsy hemstitched only thirteen stars on a blue field. I pointed out that thirteen was not only an unlucky number, but the United States showed promise of expansion and she should have room for forty-eight. History has borne me out. But it was too late to smooth over our quarrel. By the time Arizona and New Mexico entered the Union Betsy was 111 years old and I was paying attention to Lydia Pinkham.

There is also a vicious legend that I was out with Mrs. O'Leary the night the cow started the Chicago fire. I can prove an alibi on that. The night of the Chicago fire I was having my wife manicured in Peoria. I didn't even leave Chicago had caught fire till a week later. I dropped into the same barber shop for another manicure and a haircut and I got the headlines in the Peoria Courier. I have this copy at the Peoria Public Library. It says: "The Peoria Courier and the Twenty-Four Hours of the Chicago Fire. A. H. O'Leary, Peoria, Ill., Feb. 18, 1889."

WORLD'S WIN

By PHILIP VAN PA...

The film based on the book "An Officer and a Gentleman" is tanned in the black cause says the reviewer. It is "damaging to the dignity of Germany." It is difficult to see what particular scene could possibly cause this damage. The German soldiers portrayed are decent, loyal and gentlemanly characters. We don't better yet, they are incorporeal, living testimonials against the old charges of cowardly. When one of the Germans flings himself across the path into the transport of No. 10's. Later in an attempt to bring in a wounded fellow who is "hanging on the wire," and others were "left off and he replied, "but he is my friend." The film becomes a hymn to humanity and to the finest spirit of comradeship.

Technically, there may be some things to be said for this film. It is not unimpressive to the eye. Had as this may be, it remains hard to see in what respect the soldier characters offend against Germany's good name. True, and this also is listed as an objective, some of the eighteen-year-old recruits, who are suddenly thrown into the hall of bursting shell, look frightened. But it remains a surprise, especially when this film again, that the whole boobies on both sides didn't turn into a bedlam of panic and insanity.

Is this unnatural? We know from the avalanche of foreign war books that life on the other side of the fence was very much the same as with us among polios and tomboys and doughboys. There is no doubt no longer that we were all in the same pickle; the same fears, the same misery, the same despair, the same death. We realize now more than ever that we were brothers in misfortune.

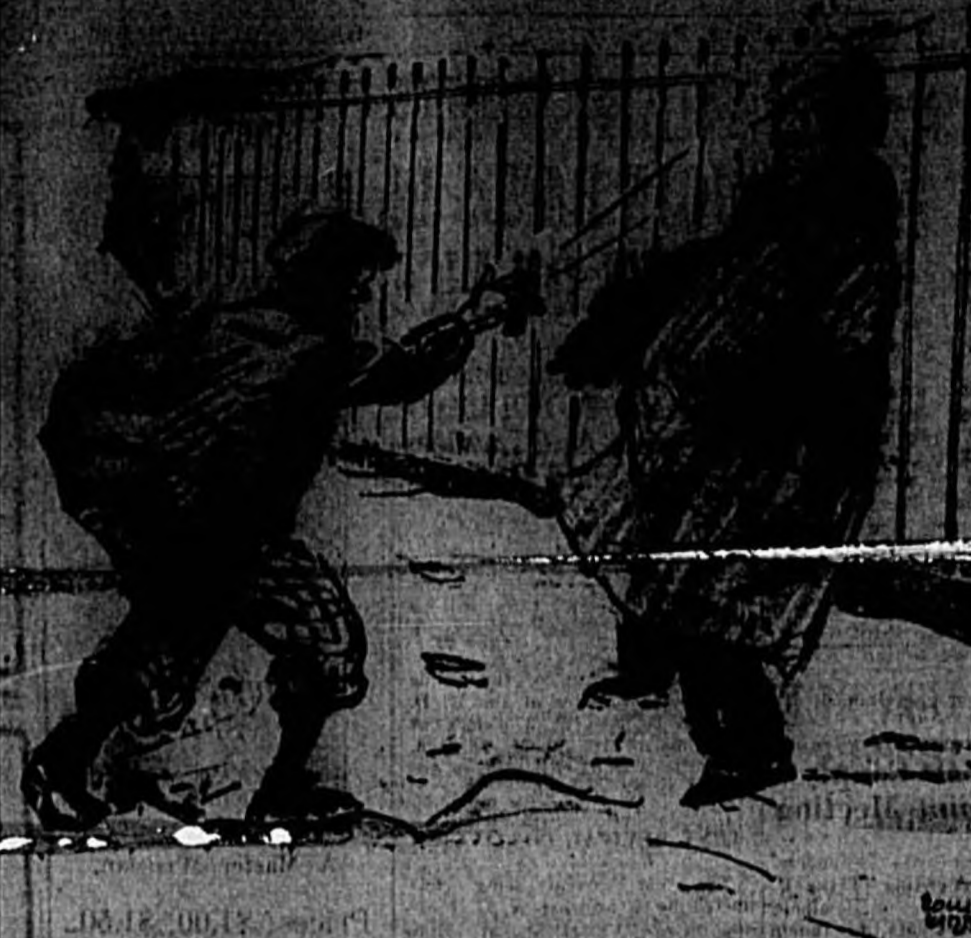

Once I accompanied a brigadier general on a tour of inspection of a trench. There was a new battalion in the line. The general stopped by a sentinel and looked through the boy's periscope. He espied the German sentry opposite. "What's that over there, my boy?" he asked. "That, general," replied the soldier, "is the other damn fool!" Victims of the same misfortune and fellow damn souls. Nobody in the line underestimated the valor of the German soldier. That's what they did at home in some editorial offices.

It's no slur on Germany to picture schoolboys in their teens as upset by an oncoming barrage. Ours did the same, and our veterans often speak as much as the young ones. I never saw a single act of heroism on our side as the Remarque film depicts. I never put much stock in half the stories of heroism I ever heard. I simply don't believe they happened.

Bismarck may have said: "We Germans fear nobody but God." But that was the big talk of a chauvinist diplomat. People don't talk that way when they have to cross a meadow with a battery of machine guns blazing away from the other end. At such moments they don't talk at all. They either stream on or are dumb with fright, no matter what army they belong to.

The powerful Soviet icebreaker Malin, which took part in the search for Gen. Noble and his stranded party in the summer of 1916, will carry a group of from thirty to fifty passengers next year on what will probably be the first pleasure cruise ever organized in the Arctic Ocean. Leaving Archangel probably in the latter part of June, the Malin will touch at Franz Josef Land, where the northernmost radio station in the world has been established, and visit the largest Arctic area of Novaya Zemlya, returning after a cruise of six weeks or two months.

Sweden's crown prince and his wife will carry northern mail to the Arctic Ocean. They will visit these possessions, which may well be the last of the old world, and other animals which may be sighted from the ship. Facilities will be provided for the prince and his wife to hunt and fish. The prince and his wife will be received with a decoy and a short wave radio station. "NOW We Are Three"

KATHERINE AND BILL—what fun it is to know them! They seem to get so much out of living. You met them just a little over a year ago—the week before they were married. Ten days later it gave you a pleasant glow of anticipation to receive the trim card telling you when they'd be "at home."

And today you got another card, headed "Now we are three!" Bill's signature comes first, then Katherine's, and then—the guided, chubby scrawl of the newcomer, Jeremy.

You happen to know that although he is in line for an important promotion, Bill's present salary isn't large. Most other young couples would consider themselves "up against it" if they had to manage on so little. Yet Katherine and Bill maintain a standard of living that is the admiration of all their friends.

You know how they do it, for Katherine has told you. They budget all expenditures and when they decide a purchase is to be made, whether it is a new dress, a new reading lamp, or a suit for Bill, or about the Katherine, they budget their expenditures until they find just what they want for the price they can pay. Careful, judicious buying of merchandise advertised merchandise enables them to get the most out of their dollars.

It's a wise way to live. You can't afford to miss it.
