

It's always interesting to hear of other people's troubles. In nearby Haverhill today, the residents are experiencing the most serious infestation of mosquitoes since 1949. It all came about, as Alvin Higginbotham, director of the Mosquito Control Unit of Haverhill explained, because the mean little creatures are leaving their lives in the water and changing into flying creatures. Mr. Higginbotham said at the time mosquitoes make the shift from waterborne to airborne insects, they actually "slink" on the surface of the water where they hatch. There is no "stand" there is indelible, but if a heavy rain were to hit the body of water at that time it would "drown" them by the millions. Well, Mr. Higginbotham doesn't know if you had the rain in Haverhill we had here last night, but if you did your worries would be over. Bud Moughlin told we had 1.65 inches of rain last night bringing the month's total to 10.65—well over the average.

Mrs. Nina Dean, Hollis College English professor, is speaking in St. Petersburg today on "Folklore Found in Shakespeare's Plays Still Found in Southern Rural Areas." The event is the pre-school meeting of the Pinellas County Council of Teachers of English. Mrs. Dean is nationally known for her Southern folkore study and has spoken to state and national educational groups on the subject. Each year she directs "Shakespearean" dramatic celebration of Shakespeare's production given at Hollis. She is the wife of Holland L. Dean, publisher for many years of the Herald.

And while chatting about Haverhill, we note that seven Korean War veterans have been admitted to that college under a program launched in April. The students include John G. Rich said today that response to the program, which offers scholarships to qualified veterans, has been "very satisfactory." Without doubt, the influx of veterans into colleges throughout the nation during the past year will equal the total to institutions of higher education which are being sent to the close of the World War. Many servicemen, like the writer, took advantage of the GI Bill of Rights to return to colleges for graduate study. Yes, that's the real benefit, through the program and heartily endorse the plan.

Charles Morrison, the Herald's sore-fisted advertising man, has a problem. And when Charles has a problem—big or small—it's all announced in the major newspaper. When Charles went to Groveland several weeks ago with a group of Kiwanians to present a program at the Groveland club he resolved to give the Kiwanians a program. Somewhere, while making his rounds recently, Charlie left his pencil. If the one who found it will give the office a ring with the good news, C. will be his own smiling self again. Incidentally, Mr. Morrison was formerly an honorary member of Kiwanis, and is currently a member in good standing in Rotary.

D. K. McNab, manager of the Sanborn County Bureau, retains his sense of humor, even while heads of sweat trickle down his brow. We're all seen signs with little and almost no more, because of the fact that cooling the door is shut, the breeze is open. Air conditioning, don't you know. The sign outside the Credit Bureau office on the fourth floor of the Sanford Atlantic National Bank Building states: "Come in—no air conditioning by Carrier or Polder."

A landstool as big around as a white is a feature attraction at the Elliott Ave. and Fourth St. theatre. A lady told us about it today. We'll have to take a ride out that way some afternoon to see for ourselves. Incidentally, can anyone tell us how to tell if a landstool is a mushroom? We do know that a steak smothered in mushrooms is one of our favorite dishes, but only because the wrapper on the rib says so, and we sure were eating the right thing. When we were a kid and quite fond of swimming a golf club, we'd go out in a open field and practice swing at landstools—or were they mushrooms?

Escape Artist

SALT LAKE CITY 16 — Jimmy Christman, 29, a trusty at the Davis County Jail in nearby Farmington, made his escape artist yesterday.

Tippled by two Farmington women, police found him in a theater box. The "Moulin" story of the great escape artist. Advice of the press: Christman begged, "Can't you let me go with the picture in over."

Blindfolded by the FBI, a Negro man was taken to the jail here yesterday. He was charged with the murder of J. J. Gray, in Miami.

The Velvet Hand

By HELEN REILLY

SYNOPSIS
Returning to his home in Denning, Philip found a white note on his table. He knew it was from the young woman who had been staying in the hotel. He had been hoping to see her again.

CHAPTER TWO
IN THE preceding October, a distant cousin had left Philip a large sum of money he didn't particularly need. Kwoig, Campbell, Strait and Frohman had handled the legal proceedings. He was a proud member of the firm. On his first date with Kit he had asked her how it felt to be a heiress. That had made her laugh. Not a chance, she had told him. "Philip will get through that money like a knife through cheese. It makes plenty from his books to live comfortably on. Besides, on the rare occasions when he worries, it's Libby he worries about. He says I can take care of myself."

"I think Libby and Hugo Cavanaugh."

Philip laughed on a short, high note. "Are you mad?"

He was no longer looking at her. A car had come up outside. Book steps crossed the terrace. The front door was still open. Someone came through it. Kit turned. It was Hugo.

Kit hadn't seen him in more than two months. He looked exactly as usual, with that rakish carriage to his brown hair, careless and cocky. There was no one with him. He said easily, "Hello, Kit. Have you seen my mystery? Do you know where Libby is?"

For a moment Kit stood staring blankly at Hugo. He couldn't believe her eyes. "I told you you were out of your mind. Kit, I've never seen you since you left. I don't know where Libby is."

Hugo was studying her face thoughtfully with his bright hazel eyes. She had been black with anger when they last met. Shouting over to the little yellow love seat sideways to the fireplace he sat down and lit a cigar.

Libby wasn't with Hugo, why was she? "Miriam VanKreel came along the hall. She nodded to Hugo. "Oh, Catherine, you're here."

Hugo asked questions. The last Hugo Miriam had been Libby was around 7 o'clock the night before. "She came in to see whether I wanted anything. I had one of my attacks—my heart."

How she played that heart of hers.

"What about the maid, what's Copyright 1950 by Helen Reilly, by arrangement with RANDOM HOUSE.

her name—Anna? Kit? I even write the note to me. What's been going on around here?"

Hugo said to Kit: "Look in the closet. Maybe you can tell what clothes of Libby's are gone, what she took with her."

Kit went to the wardrobe. She hadn't seen Libby except fleetingly in the last three months and Libby might have bought any number of new things. Her blue tweed suit is gone—and that lace robe you gave her for Christmas, Philip."

Kit looked to the wastebasket under the desk. There was a crumple of gray paper there that, smoothed out, showed the same slithering scrawl. "Darling Philip, Kit and Aunt Miriam—" That was all.

Hugo came over and looked at it. His elbow brushed Kit's and she stepped back. They both saw the snapshot at the bottom of the basket at the same time. A miniature Hugo looked up at them, deep in thought. The man in the picture was more interesting than any one he had ever seen.

The picture woke Kit like a pat of ice water flung over a sunbather. She had begun to tell herself that she had been wrong, that Hugo might have been attracted to Libby, but now she was sure. She had broken with Hugo in early February, and he had gone on seeing Libby, and loving her. The only real snow of the year had come in March, which was when the snapshot had been taken.

The room was stifling. Kit crossed to the window and threw it up. The June night outside was soft and warm. Kit stared into the darkness, her hands pressed hard on the sill. She started to sigh—and saw it.

Her exclamation brought her uncle and Hugo. She pointed to the snapshot. "That's the man in the picture. He was a single girl in the ash tray, King size. He said, 'This is a nut, Libby. He doesn't smoke much, and when she does it's the million-dollar cigarette.'"

They all stared at the long cigarette from which no more than a few puffs had been taken. It wasn't a woman's.

"It's Libby and a man." Philip said harshly: "You mean that there was a man up here with Libby, helping her to pack, that she left the house last night with a man?"

Kit nodded. "Yes, on and off. Not much, I should say. He came down to the living room, and Kit said to Hugo, 'You've been seeing Libby, haven't you?'"

Hugo nodded. "Yes, on and off. Not much, I should say. He came down to the living room, and Kit said to Hugo, 'You've been seeing Libby, haven't you?'"

"Wilder, Wilder... You want his address? My dear, I don't know. By the way, Parady's thinking of asking to have you sent to Paris to do the fall collections.

"A business matter," Kit said quickly. "It's about a contract. If I could get hold of him for 10 minutes..."

"All right, the address is..."

I didn't know who you were coming in and thought I'd better check on Wilder, so it he was new...

"He smokes king-sized ones, all right," Hugo pulled out the drawer of a table under the window and showed her a pack. "But it doesn't mean too much... a lot of other people smoke them. Come on."

They were on their way to the door when it opened and the superintendent came in. He was a thin, weedy man. He looked curiously at Kit. Hugo said to him: "I don't think I'll wait, after all."

"We're very anxious to get in touch with Mr. Wilder. What about the other tenants in the building? Wasn't it friendly with any of them? Perhaps they'd be able to tell us something."

"The superintendent shook his head. 'No, miss, never saw him speak to me or to any one speak to me.' He thought for a moment. 'Tell you what, though, a cousin of my wife's cleans for Mr. Wilder and she's doing the Blessings Wampole's today. They're in the annex, up the stairs and to the right, 3K.'

WITH THE 25TH INFANTRY DIV. IN KOREA (Special)—Major Frank S. Ray, whose wife, Madie, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Ray, live at 200 Maple Ave., Sanford, is now undergoing post-truce training with the 25th Infantry Division in Korea.

Major Ray, battalion commander in the 14th Infantry Regiment, has been in Korea since March. The 25th (Tropic) Lightning Division is constantly working to maintain and improve the high level of combat readiness which it displayed throughout the Korean conflict.

Veteran of more months of combat than any other American division in Korea, the 25th landed on the peninsula in July, shortly after the Communist crossed the 38th parallel. Since that time it has never left the combat zone.

Whitey Lockman of the New York Giants hit a home run his first time at bat in the majors on July 5, 1915.

Do Kicks Or Kindness Help Most?

Which pays better, kicks or kindness? A mixture of both was once said to sum up the British policy in Ireland. Its success was only moderate.

Now the French have to choose which

Golf Versus Tennis

A tennis coach of many years experience is a bit put out with President Eisenhower. The coach believes that the President's interest in golf has been responsible for a decrease of public interest in tennis. He maintains that the President's attempts to break ninety have received so much publicity that there has been a wholesale desertion of the tennis courts for the fairways.

Col. James Bishop, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, disagrees. He admits that many people may have turned to golf because of the President's interest in the game. But he says that interest in tennis remains high. To prove his statement he cites the reports of increased sales of tennis equipment this year.

If there is any truth in the belief that Ike's interest in golf is winning people away from tennis there could be serious political consequences. The time may come when a political election will be fought not on the basis of the foreign and domestic policies of the candidates but rather on how each of them feels toward golf or tennis. The die-hard golfers have a leader in President Eisenhower. The tennis advocates, fearful of losing ground, may have nothing to do but rally behind Adlai Stevenson who swings a fairly skilled racket.

Miracle Fibers Add To Squawks

NEW YORK (AP)—Miracle fibers are adding to the squawks the laundries and dry cleaners get.

Makers of test tube fibers, people who blend them into apparel and retailers who sell them to you have joined the sturdy little band of folk who complain about what the laundry sometimes does to their clothes.

All hands are going to get together here next week to see what can be done about it.

To some laundries these new mystery fibers are the last straw. They already have to deal with the terrible tempered citizen whose collar comes back starched, who misses strategic buttons, who finds a tear that shows only after the shirt is put on, or shrinkage that binds or maybe just can't find the shirt in the returned bundle at all.

The new fibers are another hazard. The American Institute of Laundering of Joliet, Ill., and the National Institute of Dry Cleaners of Silver Spring, Md., are trying to get manufacturers to label each garment with the exact percentage of each fiber it contains. They want the label stamped or sewed in—not just tied on, to be discarded by the customer.

Some manufacturers, however, complain that some laundries pay little attention to such labels anyway, and that garments containing the man-made fibers often return to the customer in much less than a miracle condition. If this goes on, they fear synthetic fibers will get a permanently bad name with the public.

The National Assn. of Shirt, Pants & Sportwear Manufacturers has called a meeting Sept. 1 of laundry and dry cleaners representatives and manufacturers and retailers to air complaints and seek solutions.

Laundry firms say that various fiber types need different cleaning treatment—and they've got to know what's in the fabric before they can do a good job. This year has seen a big spurt in blending man-made and natural fibers, which leaves many laundries, and most of their customers in a state of utter confusion.

The laundries already have been taking a beating from the booming sales of home washers, and from self-service units sprouting like mushrooms in apartment house basements and empty stores down the block.

TV commercials showing glamorous blondes tilling in front of automatic washers are hard on the laundry business.

The sport shirt has taken its toll. It's a lot easier for a wife to iron a sport shirt.

Contour sheets were a problem until laundries developed machinery to iron the added thickness at the fold and get all the moisture out.

Despite these troubles, the laundries have shown a growing gross revenue. The American Institute of Laundering, which has some 4,000 members doing about 80 per cent of the total business, estimates that in 1952 the industry took in 387 million dollars. By 1946 this was up to 724 million dollars and last year the institute's members grossed 867 million dollars. Higher prices played some part but the institute says growth of urban centers was more important.

Since 1946, the institute says, laundry operating costs (mostly labor and materials) have increased 27 per cent.

But the laundries have been losing some old customers in recent years, they admit—about 17 per cent of those in the east between 1949 and 1951, the institute reports. The most noticeable losses were among the highest and lowest income groups.

Brightest prospects: The growing population and the increasing number of working wives.

According to Commander James Wright, a large attendance of Legionnaires is expected at the Campbell-Lossing Post No. 83 meeting and chicken supper which will be at the Legion Hut.

Adults Learn With Children

NEW YORK (AP)—When you try to educate a child it is hard to say who learns most—you or the child.

"Little Jughead" a tiny miss who came to our house recently for what we hope is a permanent visit is right at the formative stage—too old to be kept in the nursery, but too young for college.

As a matter of fact she is only two months old. But, operating on the theory that a girl can't start learning too soon, I have begun her formal education already.

The first things I am teaching her are music and international affairs. I do this by playing the phonograph for her and reading her the newspaper.

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

But they chose a sorry leader. They picked a man who was a head taller than the common run. He had a strong body but a weak mind. We should select men because of their minds and morals. Nay but we will have a king over us.—1 Samuel 8:19.

We both like the sports page, but she gets restless when I try to read the comics. I like them, but they bore her to angry squalls.

—so I read them real fast.

On the other hand nothing contents her more than the editorial page, which I sometimes find heavy going. The longer and duller the editorial the better she likes it. She lies there smiling, gnawing her hand with her gums, and nodding thoughtfully.

She is also keenly interested in foreign affairs, and really knows more about them than I do. For example, some time ago I read her a piece about the Shah of Iran flying to Rome.

"How do you like that, Kid?" I said. "I guess the Shah's had it. Old Mossadegh kicked him out to stay, eh?"

I looked over at little Jughead, and she shook her head violently in the negative. She didn't agree.

Sure enough, a few days later old Mossadegh got bounced—and the Shah started back home. When I read that to little Jughead, she leered up triumphantly, smug as any woman whom time has proved right.

One thing worries me about our mutual cultural and enlightenment program. The last couple of days she hasn't been listening to the phonograph or my newspaper reading. Just lies there on the floor flexing her leg muscles and doing pushups.

Oh well, maybe it's time for me to buy her a glove and a bat. What if little Jughead doesn't want to become an intellectual.

"You are positively crazy, Boyer," said my wife, Frances. She has the feminine idea that just because a baby can't walk or talk it can't appreciate the finer things of life—like culture, and all that stuff.

But I know better. Take music for example. Little Jughead and I are having a wonderful time exploring the world of music. She likes Beethoven, but he puts me to sleep. When I play a record by Hayden, we both fall asleep. But Mozart we both love. The other day Jughead started a strange crooning, and I yelled for my wife.

"Now what's wrong," she said. "Can't you hear what the baby is doing?" I asked excitedly.

"Certainly," said Frances. "She is making happy noises."

"Happy noises nothing. Listen again. She is humming Mozart."

"You are positively nuts," said Frances, going back to the kitchen. Well, that just goes to show you how much more fathers appreciate daughters than mothers do. A musical genius in the family—and her own mother won't even admit it.

Reading the newspaper to little Jughead is something of a prob-

Tax Boss Is Troubled

WASHINGTON (AP)—T. Coleman Andrews, boss of the income tax collectors, is running into criticism as he tries to practice two of President Eisenhower's precepts: more economy and less government centered in Washington.

Andrews, picked by Eisenhower as commissioner of internal revenue, has been cutting out jobs by the hundreds, pulling in most ends of the revenue service together and letting field offices make decisions previously made here.

About 55,000 people work for the revenue service around the country. 3,000 of them in the main Washington office, which has been hardest hit by layoffs: 500 jobs abolished in far here, another 500 to be abolished, more to go elsewhere.

Some members of Congress complain Andrews is not keeping them sufficiently informed on what he is doing and that in most ends of the revenue service decentralization he may be overdoing it.

One member of the House, Dewitt S. Hyde, Maryland Republican, raised the question of uniformity in tax decisions by saying the federal tax system could be wrecked if there is not sufficient coordination between the field offices and a central point like the main office here. As an example of what was meant:

Before that, almost all of the service's declined any explanation of what is being done. He said the top revenue people wanted to say nothing publicly until they could sit down, perhaps in mid-September, with their congressional critics and give them an explanation.

Actually, Andrews is intensifying and broadening a decentralization begun in the last days of the Truman administration after tax bureau investigations showed a need for some kind of revenue service reorganization.

Before that, almost all of the service's declined any explanation of what is being done. He said the top revenue people wanted to say nothing publicly until they could sit down, perhaps in mid-September, with their congressional critics and give them an explanation.

Suppose a New Yorker and a California had identical tax duties with the government and each went to his local office for a final ruling. If there was a difference—that is, unless the main office here could make sure the rulings were the same—one of the two men would lose or gain more than the other.

Arguments of this side of the like this: People outside Washington ought to be able to get answers close to home without the delay—and the expense, if they had to hire Washington tax lawyers—involved in coming here for a final decision which might take as long as two years.

In his decentralization program Andrews is letting local offices make decisions which used to come here for final review and approval. In some cases the main Washington office will still give the final answer.

O. Gordon Delk, Andrews' chief deputy, declined any explanation of what is being done. He said the top revenue people wanted to say nothing publicly until they could sit down, perhaps in mid-September, with their congressional critics and give them an explanation.

Telephone Co. And Union Reach Wage Agreement

Concluding negotiations which began May 11, Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Company and Communications Workers of America today announced agreement on modifications of their contract which covers approximately 5,500 employees in the time states served by the Telephone Company.

Wage increases ranging from $1.00 to $2.00 a week are provided for a majority of the employees. In addition, agreement was reached on the reclassification of a number of cities and towns in higher wage levels and on the upgrading of certain craft jobs. A number of changes was also made in working practices.

Modifications became effective as of Aug. 23, and the agreement will run for one year.

President Fred J. Turner of Southern Bell issued the following statement:

"We are pleased that a settlement has been reached that is fair to all concerned. We are particularly gratified that it came with interruption of service to the public. In the agreement, full consideration was given to the interests of the three elements vitally concerned in the operation of our company—the customers, the employees, and the owners of the enterprise.

"The agreement makes adjustments in the wages of our employees necessary to bring them to a level comparable to that prevailing in the cities and towns where they work and live. This is in accordance with long established company policy that is necessary in order for us to attract and retain the competent employees essential to good service.

"Wages continue to be the largest single cost of operating our business, amounting to about half of every expense dollar.

"The company acknowledged the assistance of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service at arranging this agreement. It is a desirable agreement for the company, and it is a fair agreement for the employees and the public."

Reminders For School Travelers

If you've been keeping track of the days on the calendar or noting the sun as it rises a little earlier each evening, you will know that the "old man" has been pushing the clock on the good old summertime. You suddenly remember the string you tied on your finger last week was to remind you to help the students of the school get their gear ready and decide what and how much they are going to take back to the campus. If this is your plan and you're first trip to school you will want to make sure whatever they need will be there when they arrive on the other hand, if the scholars are making the return trip to school, you'll want to make sure their bags, boxes, and baggage are packed properly.

In any event, whether you've got a quarterback in a cheerleader or in your house to get off to school, here are a few very important reminders when sending their baggage aboard:

1. Be sure to remove all tags and labels that have old addresses.
2. Put a label with full name and address, and school or college address, made each trunk, suitcase and package.
3. Attach all fragile articles to trunks.
4. Put two address tags on the outside of each piece of baggage.
5. Find complete street and old home address and declared value on each tag.
6. Be sure each trunk and bag is carefully locked, straps buckled and all contents tight.

The Velvet Hand by HELEN REILLY

Returning to his home in Denfield, Calif., after a brief absence in Mexico, Hugo had a letter from his cousin, Kit, who was in New York. The letter was dated August 15th and was a long one. It told Hugo that Kit had just returned from a trip to the States and that he was in a bit of a fix. Kit had been in the States for a few days and had had a very interesting time. He had met a girl named Eleanor Oaks and she was a very nice girl. Kit had fallen for her and was in a bit of a fix. He had written to Hugo for advice and Hugo had written back to him. Hugo had told Kit that he should get on with it and that he should get on with it. Kit had written back to Hugo and had told him that he had decided to get on with it. Kit had written back to Hugo and had told him that he had decided to get on with it.

Barkley May Return To Capital

The Veep may return to Washington. Former Vice President Alben W. Barkley is reported to be casting longing eyes at the senatorship now held by Republican John S. Cooper, who comes up for re-election next fall. As a senator for 22 years before his elevation to the vice presidency, Barkley knows what the job means, and feels that his experience qualifies him for another term. He will, however, have to overcome the rival candidacy of Gov. Lawrence

Inheriting The Earth

In his "Food of the Gods" the British novelist H. G. Wells ruminated about a marvellous food which, fed to babies, made them grow to 60 or 70 feet tall. When picked up by other animals it produced similar results, often disarming, as when it created a super-rat as large as a wolf and as formidable.

This was pure fiction, yet like other Wells' speculations, it contained more than a grain of truth. Bigger and stronger insects are being created by insecticides like D.D.T., says Prof. L. B. Norton of Cornell University. This kills off the weaklings, but some individuals survive and reproduce their kind with immunity to ordinary insecticides. Conceivably this process might continue, with ultimately disturbing results. Some scientists have foreseen that man might ultimately be exterminated by insect pests. If the Norton theory holds and measures taken against insects merely strengthen their powers of resistance, the scientists' gloomy prediction may contain some truth.

Inflation Pushes Prices Up

NEW YORK (AP)—Like a delayed-action bomb inflation keeps pushing the cost of living higher here and there. When the battle to save the paycheck from erosion appears won on one front, a little rise in the cost of something else confronts the keeper of the family budget. Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey says that inflation has been halted by the administration's hard money policy, despite the fact that the cost of living index has just hit a new record high after rising for the last five months.

But it's the delayed action of the bomb planted in the days when inflation was very real that keeps tearing new holes in today's paycheck. Rents go up here and there. For a long time they were braked by law. Now landlords feel they have a right to try to catch up with the rest of the economy, inflated some time back.

Prices of most commodities and raw materials are below their inflation peaks. But it's just now that the retail prices of the end products of some of these raw materials are showing the increased costs.

The same kind of delayed action from such things as rising labor costs and higher freight rates is also showing up now in retail prices—especially in the service industries.

Gas companies who have to pay more now for pipe, and for the labor of laying and repairing it, are asking higher rates. Electric utilities would like to pass on the higher price of copper. Gasoline prices go up—"increased costs," say the oil producers.

Professional men who have to pay more for the materials and tools they may use and for the rent of their offices would like to charge higher rates for their services.

Inflation started at the primary level—with the prices of commodities and raw materials—and then with the labor that produces them and the products made from them. This kind of inflation has been pretty well stopped, as Secretary Humphrey says. In many instances, a deflation has set in. In others, like most foods, the price pattern is back to the normal one, rising and falling seasonally, or as supplies increase or shrink.

At its present record high of 117.7 (1947-48 average prices equal 100) the index is 1.1 points higher than last February and 12.7 points higher than June 1952 when the Korean War started. But the cost of living is 90 per cent higher than it was in the summer of 1947. This is the average for the pre-war years.

Some economists expect the index to stay as high as even going

Case Of Odd Ignorance

If ever all mysteries are revealed, one which many would like to have settled is, how can so many presumably intelligent and educated persons manage to escape learning the most ordinary facts? The blunders of school children, who often do not know the name of the President or his predecessor, have often been publicized; and it is dismaying to find that this ignorance sometimes extends to college students.

Now it appears that the English have the same problem. When students at the Leeds University Institute of Education were questioned on recent historical occurrences, a quarter of the number had forgotten that Neville Chamberlain was the British Premier at the 1939 Munich capitulation to Hitler. More than 200 blamed Churchill, who of all men was most opposed to the Chamberlain settlement. Others gave equally absurd answers.

Still more startling is that many did not know what events were commemorated by either Good Friday or Christmas. Where can they have been all their lives?

'Coffee' Thoughts On Russia

WASHINGTON (AP)—In idle moments over their coffee men here in Washington have wondered what kind of celebration there would be in this country if the Russian people suddenly overthrew their Communist masters. There was dancing in the streets after World Wars I and II. There might be again, after a Russian revolution.

So it is natural Americans should hope for the day, even though they have no assurance that in the foreseeable future the Russian and satellite peoples will destroy their Red overlords.

George Kennan, former American ambassador in Moscow and one of this country's top authorities on Russia, predicts a revolution there. But when? The most he can do for that question is say: "Eventually."

"Finally," he said this month, "the office of Soviet power is faced today with severe strains and crisis."

That there are deep disappointments within the Soviet orbit was shown this summer by the riots in the satellites and could be perceived in Premier Malenkov's attempt to soothe the Russian people with promises of better living standards. Further indication of this stress has just been supplied by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in a 92-page study, prepared by Russian experts at the Library of Congress, called "Tensions Within the Soviet Union."

What kind of encouragement? At this point the study stops. It offers no solutions of its own, since that was not the purpose of the study. As a foreword, the committee chairman, Sen. Wiley, Wisconsin Republican, added his own word of caution against hope in this country that a revolution is ready to engulf Russia.

"Because these tensions exist," he said, "does not mean that the Russian people are ready to spring to arms in revolt."

But while the study talked of giving "well-thought-out guidance and encouragement" to the "discontented elements from outside," Kennan said the United States should pursue a hands-off policy toward Russia's internal problems.

The library experts did a research job to put the study together, examining Russian newspapers and various sources, such as books and reports on Russia by people who have been there or have specialized in a study of Russia.

They covered 10 areas of Russian life: youth, intelligentsia, religious groups, minorities, Red army, women, workers, collective farmers, and forced labor.

C. R. DAWSON County Agent's Column

Farmers of this area are now feeding livestock a new high-energy ingredient which is said to speed animal growth as much as one-third, reduces production costs, and promises substantial savings for consumers.

It is claimed heifer calves receiving the new ingredient in milk replacer during the 8 weeks nursing period gained weight 33 per cent faster than their "sisters."

The latter were on a standard whole-milk diet, but otherwise raised under identical conditions. Calves on the quick-growth ingredient also required one-third less feed for every pound of gain in weight, sharply reducing farmers' production costs.

Such results point to more meat at less cost for consumers. Large savings of whole milk for human consumption also would result, since veal calves could be produced less expensively without feeding them whole milk.

Results with pigs and poultry are said to be equally dramatic and scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and some of the State Experiment Stations at agricultural colleges are test feeding the new ingredient known by the product name of Hydrex. It is an extra sweet and palatable milk sugar that has been "unlocked" from why a natural milk product is converted into "predigested" form by a special process of hydrolyzation. This permits the milk sugar to be quickly utilized by young tissues with minimum waste.

Hydrex is now available in local feed stores in Kaff-A milk replacer.

Florida packers can now process meat from healthy hogs even though they were from herds contaminated by vesicular exanthema VE.

The Florida Livestock Board voted to allow this only after hearing from federal authorities that the case has ever been recorded of a human catching the disease. Meat from these hogs will have to be processed under a special high heat treatment and be subject to strict examination.

In relaxing a previous order for destruction of all hogs in contaminated herds, the board said it wanted to reduce the cost to the owning owners by slaughtering infected animals.

It also wanted to prevent pork from getting so scarce that prices to the consumer would skyrocket.

Dr. T. H. Applewhite of the U. S. Bureau of Animal Industry told the board several states are now processing meat from healthy hogs taken from infected herds.

"I wouldn't doubt but that many states are shipping such processed meat into Florida and that it is being used daily," he said.

Dr. Applewhite said no case is known of the virus, similar to hoof and mouth disease in cattle, being transmitted to humans, although VE has been found in 12 states.

To help control the disease the board passed two emergency measures here Thursday:

1. Requiring livestock markets and private dealers to keep complete records of all hog sales so state agents can trace diseased hogs.

2. Providing that all hogs added to present herds be isolated for 30 days to give symptoms to the disease time to appear.

The board said herds with 5,000 hogs have been contaminated. In the current outbreak, and herds with 3,500 more hogs are suspected.

Irene Greene Weds. John Gunning Jr.

Miss Irene Durt Greene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Greene, and John Joseph Gunning Jr., of Wilmington, Del., son of Mrs. W. J. Coffer of Kingston, N. Y., were united in an impressive ceremony last evening in the chapel at the Hampton Dulles Academy in Zellowood, with Dr. P. W. D'Arcy officiating.

A program of musical music was rendered by Miss Fayz Ester organist and Mrs. Charles Ginn, pianist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a floor-length gown of white organza over tulle, trimmed with an over-shoulder of imported lace. The fitted bodice was fastened with lace-covered buttons and featured a high neckline finished with a petal pointed collar. Her fingertip veil was of white nylon and she carried a white tulle and a shower bouquet of white orchids.

Her only attendant was Miss John Foster of Monticello, cousin of the bride. Her gown was a floor-length dress of white lace and organza over pink tulle, and she carried a bouquet of Edith McFarlan roses.

George Maffett served as best man and Allen Maffett and Wesley Hamil were ushers.

Mrs. Greene chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length dress of sage green silk shantung over tulle with accessories of tulle and gold and a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mrs. D. C. Howard and centered with a four tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

The guests were received at the door by Mrs. C. Howard and Mrs. Charles Hamil. Mrs. George Maffett presided over the bride's side and the white orchid from the bride's bouquet as her corsage.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Charles Roberts of Atlanta, Ga., Miss Mammie Roberts Talladega, Ala., Miss Lina Cunningham, Apopka, and Alfred Foster and daughter, Miss Johnnie Foster of Monticello.

Blues In The News

Johnny Moore, a 16-year-old negro, had died Wednesday a victim of cancer, but his last days were made much happier through the generosity of the men in Photographic Squadron 82 aboard NAAS, Sanford, when a Sanford resident, Mrs. Jean Peterson, brought him to the attention of the Training Union.

The Training Union began taking ice cream, books and soft drinks to cheer up the young boy. N. F. Booth, ACE of 82 and all as a member of the Training Union related the fate of the youngster to his fellow shipmates in the squadron, who immediately donated a total of $88.20 for Johnny's care.

A large size Hollywood bed, mattress and foam rubber pillow were purchased for the lad, who had been sleeping on a straw mattress with a box frame. With the remaining money, a radio was purchased and placed next to the bed. As if this weren't enough, the men then proceeded to donate their own blood to be deposited in the blood bank in Orlando in case it would be needed to help save Johnny's life, although they are sure at the time that the doctor gave no hope for the boy to regain his health.

Now Johnny has died, but this reporter believes that the men of Photographic Squadron 82 who gave so willingly of their money, blood and time deserve recognition for their efforts. These men were not publicly seekers for they would rather their names not be mentioned. Nor did they expect any material reward for their actions. They acted as their hearts guided them to act. We all are sorry to hear of Johnny's death but to those men who did so much to make his last days happier, we can only say we are proud of the example they have set!

The men in the NAAS Administration Department are still talking about the fun they had at their department's picnic which was held Wednesday at New Smyrna Beach. The liquid Florida sunshine, which was definitely not invited, tried its best to dampen the spirits of the crowd but to no avail. The picnic went on as scheduled with hot dogs roasted over a charcoal fire and eaten along with potato salad and all the usual trimmings which accompany a day at the beach. The ocean was "just right" for swimming and after a refreshing dip, the center of attraction became a softball game which provided thrills and excitement for the short time it lasted. When the last man left New Smyrna and headed for "home", there was no

NAAS is going to be exceptionally well represented this year in the sport of bowling. An all-Navy league has been formed and rolled their first game Monday at the Sanford Bowling Alleys. Another league consisting of men from Photographic Squadron 82 has been formed and rolled their first game last night. Monday night's Navy league includes six teams. After their first night of bowling the men are in firm place with the Hellcats and Stragglers tied for the second spot. VC's and Tough Ion's are tied for the next position while the Stars have claimed the honor of being in the cellar. The VC's league is composed entirely of men from the squadron from teams entered from the Photographic Maintenance, First Lieutenant's, Electronic, Ordnance and Supply departments. They will roll their games each Thursday evening.

Most of the men at NAAS will be spending their weekend fishing, swimming or picnicking but remember, the rain we've been having makes the highways slippery and more dangerous than usual. If you have to drive this weekend, be careful! Don't be a fender bender and have a safe and enjoyable weekend. And don't forget that a pleasant weekend can be made more pleasant by attending the church of your choice on Sunday. Set you there!

As Steve Meilinger Goes, So Goes Kentucky In 1953 Grid Season

Opening Plans For Lyman School Are Announced

Plans for the opening of the 1954-1955 term at Lyman School have been announced by Principal F. S. Douglas.

The pre-school registration day has been set for Sept. 2nd at 9:00 a.m. The buses will run over all routes and the children will leave for home at 11:00 a.m. The first full day of school will be Sept. 8. The faculty will report for full duty on Aug. 24.

The Lyman district includes Longwood, Altamonte Springs, Casselberry, Fern Park, Forest City, Bear Lake, and the new community of Sandhills.

Several new members will join the faculty this year. Miss Madeleine Chapman of Sanford will teach one of the first grades. Miss Chapman is a graduate of Florida Southern College at Lakeland, and has had experience in both primary and kindergarten work.

Miss Frances Cobb, also of Sanford, will teach a second grade. She is a graduate of Florida State University. Miss Betty D. Snow of Bear Lake will teach a third grade. She is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and has had experience at the Southside Primary School in Sanford.

Mrs. Dorothy Webster, of Sanford, a graduate of Boston University, will teach one of the fifth grades.

Mrs. Alda Milwer, who was formerly in charge of the Glee Club, will head the English Department, replacing Mrs. June Thumando, who has taken a leave of absence of one year.

The returning faculty members for the elementary grades are as follows: Mrs. Eleanor Winkle, Mrs. Pauline Winney, Mrs. Kathleen Bucher, Mrs. Eudora Grantman, Mrs. Esther Radabaugh, Mrs. Lucille Wells, Mrs. Hettie McNamara, Mrs. Margaret Benson, and Mrs. Lucille Snyder.

The Junior-Senior High faculty will include Mrs. Esther Williams, Mrs. Hazel Flynn, Mrs. Rosewood North, Mrs. Mary Hartley, Miss Lucy Phelan, Mrs. Mary Rogers, Mr. William Wharton, and Coach Jim Payne. Mrs. Elizabeth Bauman is the school secretary.

"We have a very strong faculty lined up for the coming term," Principal Douglas stated. "We have a brand new building for the primary grades and have purchased a great deal of new equipment for the entire school. I feel confident that we can look forward to the best year in the history of Lyman."

City Near All-Time Heavy Rainfall Mark

If half an inch of rain falls between now and midnight tonight an all time record for rainfall in any one month will be set, E. J. Moughton Jr., local weather observer, revealed today.

Up until 2:00 p. m. today, 14.61 inches had fallen. The record for one month was set back in July 1941 when 18.20 inches came down.

The record was almost broken in Sanford during July when 14.71 inches fell. That mark was run up during the first 29 days of the month with only slight precipitation reported during the last three days of July.

Moughton stated that 46 inches were marked up yesterday, 17 on Saturday, and 54 Friday. Rain has fallen on Sanford for 18 consecutive days.

City Manager Tom Lemon issued a word of warning today. The heavy rains with a resultant collection of water in low areas have forced rattlesnakes onto higher ground. Mr. Lemon urged all parents to keep a watchful eye on their children while the reptile menace exists.

Some temporary repairs are being made throughout the city and County Commissioner John Meisch said that some of the county clay roads are in very bad condition, but the ground has been too soft in many sections to send heavy road equipment in to do work.

Many residents of outlying areas have found it almost impossible to get in and out of their driveways. Where attempts are made to drive out to main highways, cars and trucks have sunk down into mud necessitating tow-truck assistance.

Statewide, the flood threat in the Lake Okechobee farming region did not increase over the second day of rain in varying degrees continued to blanket the peninsula.

The low pressure area was still hanging around, but any threat of severe winds appeared to be lessening as a weak low over the east coast moved further out into the Atlantic.

In the revised lineup, the first team will play the fourth, and the second team will play the third. The original setup was one vs. three and two vs. four.

Revised FIL Playoffs Set

WEST PALM BEACH (AP) — A revised schedule for the Florida International League playoffs was announced today by Phil O'Connell, league president.

Apopka Resident New Sportsman's Club President

Mallory Welch of Apopka was elected president of the Fifth District Sportsman's Association succeeding Sanford's Porter Lansing during the Association's meeting yesterday at City Hall.

Hal Davis of Ocala was named vice-president and Jim Little of Orlando secretary-treasurer in the annual Fifth District elections.

Over 50 sportsmen jammed the Commission Chamber room for the election and to hear C. W. Pace, Tallahassee, director of the State Fresh Water Fish and Game Commission, sound a warning to all sportsmen to strengthen its conservation.

From where I see it in Tallahassee you need a very strong organization. Pace declared. You need some wonderful work but there's a lot more to do, striving every day to do a better job to produce more fish and more game. You can't do that over night.

"Some increase has been shown, but you're going to need organization to bring about some of the things we have to do. You've got to do and lots of it if good conservation is to be successful," Pace added.

Porter Lansing, Sanford, president of the Association for its cooperation during his one year term and stated, "We have a good director, a friendly governor, and a friendly Legislature and Senate."

Mr. Lansing then sounded a warning to the Sportsman's Club. "If you think the commercial interests are going to take this thing down, you're wrong. They are going to take the money from the sale of scale fish to try to defeat the sportsmen's interests."

Pace related how the game commission is taking wildlife officers out of uniform for special duty. "You can't catch violators with officers going down the street looking like a Christmas tree," he continued. "We are after the big boys and breaking them up will take care of the little fellows."

"We've got to work like the FBI even though we don't have enough men."

Pace cited the need of greater hydraulic graduation and control of rough fish. "Last year we cleared about 7,000 acres of hyacinths and this year we expect to clear about 20,000 acres, but we need help from some outside source."

He pointed out that the Sportsman's Club should begin work on legislation for the next four or five years. "We need to get some good bills presented to the Legislature this year, only about a half dozen get through. We haven't been going down the street looking like a Christmas tree, but that's as far as we can go."

In discussing the dove season, Link Jacobs of Delton said, "I've talked and practiced the worst conservatism. Some people think it's just because the season is open so early. I don't think it's right to open the season early."

Auction Plans Big Fish Fry

Arrangements are being made for a record crowd Friday night at a fish fry at the Sanford Farmers Auction, which will precede the regular weekly sale, Wednesday, secretary-treasurer of the group, reported today.

Serving will start at 5:30 p. m. and will continue until all have been served. Mr. Harvey said, at the annual meeting of the group, he had planned to acquire the public with the planned cattle auction which will start early next month, and to secure funds which will be used to improve this auction.

The cattle auction will be the first to be conducted in Seminole County. Mr. Harvey said.

Schoolchildren Report Tomorrow

All children from the first grade through the eighth grade will report to school tomorrow. The school year will begin with lunch tickets for the four school days of the following week. A change is being made and first grade students will be kept at school until 1:00 p. m. instead of being dismissed before lunch as they were last year. Mrs. Velma Mitchell, principal, announced today.
