Foul Play Ruled Out In Skeleton Finds

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

An Oviedo police detective today pondered a Wednesday morning human bone find on church property in his city and said the remains, portions of three skeletons, were apparently buried at an organized site. Foul play was ruled out, he said.

However, detective Lou Mars said, officials are theorizing the burial site was never part of an official cemetery associated with the First Baptist Church of Oviedo of 45 W. Broadway St., which owns the site, but were apparently buried between the rows of an orange grove.

Bones found in Oviedo — may have been of migrants.

Mars said that apparently was a rather common burial practice for migrant workers who died in the 1930s or '40s, the estimated time these bodies were buried.

"We're just guessing at this point," he added. Three graves were unearthed after workmen digging a trench to lay electrical conduit for the church started uncovering bones about 100 feet from a site that at one time had been an official church graveyard. The bodies had been moved from that official graveyard, Mars said, to make room for church construction. They had been reburied at another location.

Mars said the spacing of the graves and orange tree roots found growing between the separate graves, found at about 9 a.m. Wednesday, indicates they were located in an orange grove, not an official part of a cemetery.

Two of the graves were seven feet apart and the other was 12 feet away. He said authorities will not explore the area to try to locate more graves, but more may be found as construction continues.

Health department officials and the county medical examiner visited the site Wednesday, Mars said, and found no problems with how the find is being handled. A portion of a set of dentures found with the bones helped to date the find.

The bones: a skull, leg bones, vertebrae and possibly rib bones, Mars said, were turned over to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

Drug Test County Principals Propose Program For Local Athletes

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Darvin Boothe, principal at Lake Brantley High School and president of the Seminole Athletic Conference (SAC), said Wednesday that the SAC has begun preliminary work into adopting a drug-testing program for its athletes and expects it to be implemented for the 1986-87 school year.

Boothe said he and the other principals of the first-year conference — Seminole's Wayne Epps, Lake Mary's Don Reynolds, Lyman's Carlton Henley, Oviedo's Charlie Webb and Lake Howell's Dick Evans — have formed a committee to set up guidelines.

"Our intent is good but we haven't thrown out the first ball yet," Boothe said. "We're in a very preliminary stage. If our program is something worthwhile, we'd like to go do it for a year and then introduce it as a state project."

Boothe said another step toward that objective will be realized Friday when Lake Brantley will hold an inservice day for all county coaches from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. The inservice workshop will deal with drug and alcohol problems at the high school level.

Reynolds said the importance of Friday's meeting could not be emphasized enough. "Friday's meeting is very important," Reynolds said. "Hopefully, we'll get the backing of our coaches and then we'll be the first conference in the nation to implement an honest-to-goodness effective drug-deterrent program."

Reynolds, a Florida delegate, said he came upon the idea at the National Activities Association meeting in Lexington, Ky. last summer. "Two schools from Wisconsin or Minnesota were talking about it and I thought, 'Boy, that's a great idea,'" he said. "We're really excited about it."

Reynolds said he already has the support of the National Coaches Association. He and Tom Roll, drug education resource person for the Seminole County School Board, met with the NCA's national director, Carey McDonald, last month and Reynolds said McDonald gave his complete support. "If we are successful, there could be programs all across the country like this," Reynolds said.

Testing of athletes, however, is just part of the program, Boothe said. "We're studying a total drug education counseling and enforcement program for our conference," Boothe said. "We are going to study for possible usage of random drug testing. We believe we will have something intact for that by next year."

Boothe said although the project is in the preliminary stage, it has already gotten the backing of the county's principals and athletic directors. He stressed, however, that an undertaking of this magnitude would need the support of everyone involved.

"There's a lot of work to be done," he said. "We need the backing of the school board if we do something as drastic as

Sanford Firm Officials To Meet Bush In China Today

Sanford businessmen were to meet today with Vice President George Bush and Chinese officials in Guangzhou, China, to finalize plans to build a helicopter plant in that city.

The official signing of the joint-venture multi-million dollar contract between Orlando Helicopter Airways and the Guangzhou Tool Manufacturing Company is scheduled for Oct. 28, said Lisa Simpson, office manager for the company based at the Sanford Airport.

Ms. Simpson said today that company chairman, Fred Clark, its vice president, Bradley Clark, and Troy Simmons, vice president in charge of sales, arrived in the Chinese city Tuesday after leaving Sanford Friday. Ms. Simpson is in daily contact with the Americans through a wire service.

The Sanford company's helicopter know-how drew the interest of the Chinese for two reasons: It "remanufactures" helicopters from surplus and salvaged parts thus cutting its purchase price 76 percent; and, it makes the only helicopter on the market that runs on regular gasoline, according to Simmons.

Bush was to meet with the Sanford men and the Chinese officials in Guangzhou as part of his 5-day tour of the country. Bush had been scheduled to meet with the delegation Wednesday but the get-together was apparently postponed, perhaps for security reasons, Ms. Simpson said.

Guangzhou is China's tenth largest city.

The 20-year contract creating Guangzhou Orlando Helicopter Ltd. calls for the construction of a 25,000 square-foot factory.

Police Kill Blacks Near Cape Town

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (UPI) — Police killed as many as six people in renewed racial rioting in segregated townships near Cape Town, raising the death toll in two days of violence to at least 10.

Police said today they shot two blacks — one in the Athlone township near Cape Town and another in Soweto near Port Elizabeth — in battles with rioters overnight. Police wounded three other blacks in Athlone and arrested at least 40 others.

The government Wednesday withdrew the passports of eight white Afrikaans students from the University of Stellenbosch near Cape Town who were planning to meet with the African National Congress in Zambia.

President Pieter Botha is chancellor of Stellenbosch, a staunchly conservative and pro-government university. He denounced the proposed talks between the students and youth wing officials of the ANC.

The Ministry of Home Affairs in Pretoria said the meeting between the students and the Star Of Sanford Asked To Pay $30,000 For Dumping

The state Department of Environmental Regulation has asked the Star of Sanford to pay $30,000 for allegedly dumping sewage three times into the St. Johns River.

The payment is not only to punish the Star of Sanford cruise line for the reported dumping, but to serve as a warning to other users of the St.

Johns that the DER considers the issue an important one, said George Glonis, manager of the DER's enforcement section in Orlando.

Glonis said he expects Star of Sanford officials to contest the $30,000 figure. Graham Norman, general manager of Star Line Corp., which owns the 364-passenger Star of Sanford, could not be reached for comment today. Earlier, however, he said if something was dumped into the river from the ship it was not sewage but gray water which contains kitchen and bar water, and treated sewage.

If ship officials balk at paying the amount the case could go to court where a judge would decide the amount of liability.

"They have indicated they don't think it is worth that amount and the department is trying to establish a precedent," Glonis said.

The cruise company had faced up to a $70,000 liability settlement.

Doctor To Stop Giving Brain Tissue Of Executed Prisoners To Researcher

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — A Gainesville medical examiner will no longer donate brain parts of executed inmates to a researcher without consent of next of kin, the chairman of a regulatory body says.

Dr. William Hamilton, medical examiner of Alachua County, removed brain tissue of 11 of 13 men who have died in Florida's electric chair since 1979. He gave the matter to Dr. Christina Leonard, a professor of neuroscience at the University of Florida, for research.

"Dr. Hamilton will do autopsies on prisoners, will retain brain tissues, but is not going to send slides over to Dr. Leonard, and Dr. Leonard is not going to look at slides," said Dr. Wallace Graves Jr., head of the state Medical Examiners Commission.

But Graves said Hamilton will not be disciplined.

"Dr. Hamilton followed the letter of the law and the guidelines of the medical examiner's office," he said. "I had no problems with what he did."

In her study, Leonard was looking for evidence whether childhood trauma was linked to adult violent behavior.

Florida law says those who die in prisons must undergo an autopsy to find cause of death. But Hamilton's donation to Leonard of the brain tissue has come under fire.

"To me, medical research does not include whether child behavior led to violent behavior, which led to execution," said Susan Cary, a lawyer who had helped defend the death row inmates.

She said neither the families nor attorneys of the executed were told brain matter would be used for such research.

Studies of the brains of those with a history of criminal violence "may not lead to any immediately conclusive results, but may suggest further avenues of investigation which ultimately prove to be of considerable public benefit."

"It is my belief that such study is both medically and ethically sound," Hamilton said. "The possibility of traumatic injury, toxic exposure or natural disease providing an organic basis for violent behavior is not a novel suggestion."

Florida Attorney General Jim Smith said last week the research appeared to be legal.

"However, there remains certain moral and ethical questions which are legitimately raised and which need to be resolved ...," he said in an Oct. 11 opinion.

The commission voted to appoint an Advisory Committee on Ethics for Medical Examiners that Graves said would discuss the issue.

Autopsy Shows Klinghoffer Was Shot In Head, Chest

ROME (UPI) — Prime Minister Bettino Craxi resigned and dissolved his Italian government over his handling of the Achille Lauro hijacking today and doctors confirmed the presence of bullet wounds in the head and chest of American hostage Leon Klinghoffer.

Craxi's resignation was forced when the Republican Party withdrew from the five-party governing coalition Wednesday because party leader and Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini was outraged at last week's release of PLO official and suspected hijacking mastermind Mohammed Abbas.

In Genoa, the Achille Lauro pulled into harbor to thunderous applause Wednesday night, Italian officials boarded the luxury liner earlier this week to investigate the hijacking and said they "cleared up every detail" of Klinghoffer's killing.

But U.S. officials said five FBI agents would board the ship today to begin their own investigation and would remain aboard, if necessary, during the ship's next cruise, scheduled to begin later in the day.

Klinghoffer's body washed ashore in Syria Sunday. It was identified by U.S. forensic experts in Damascus Wednesday and shipped aboard a commercial flight to Rome, where it was taken to

Not Disconnected

Fears that the Golden Age Games might be behind the 8-ball — as far as the billiards events are concerned — are apparently unfounded.

Ernie Butler, chairman of the competition, got a shock when he tried Tuesday to check with Woogie's Pub, 3863 U.S. Highway 17-92, where the event is scheduled to be held, and found it closed. Butler said he also tried the company's four other pubs in Seminole County as well and got a recording saying the phones had been disconnected.

For the past few years the popular Golden Age Games billiards tournament has been held at the pub because it has six pool tables — more than any other place in Sanford.

With the annual senior citizen games scheduled to begin Nov. 4 a frantic Butler asked the Games Executive Committee Wednesday to suggest alternative sites.

But Woogie's owner Donald L. Baglier, when contacted at his home later Wednesday, explained the telephones at the pubs have all been disconnected and pay phones installed because too many people were using them. He said the pubs are not closed. The Sanford Woogie's was closed temporarily Tuesday night because of a power problem there and it will, he said, be available for use during the Games.

IN BRIEF

Suspect In Fatal Bombings Identified; Charges Pending

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Authorities plan to file weapons charges against a man critically wounded by a bomb that exploded in his car and say they consider him to be a suspect in booby-trap bombings that killed two other people.

The suspect, Mark Hofman, 30, was critically injured Wednesday when a bomb exploded in his car in downtown Salt Lake City. Officials said they searched Hofman's car and home and uncovered "incriminating evidence" against him.

Hofman sold a controversial document raising questions about the origins of the Mormon Church to one victim of Tuesday's booby-trap bombings, Steven Christensen, 31, a businessman and Mormon bishop. The other bombing killed Katherine Sheets, 50, the wife of Christensen's partner in a failing business.

Police Chief Bud Willoughby and Jerry Miller, an agent for the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, said Wednesday Hofman was a suspect in the bombings, that at least three other victims may have been targeted, and that other people may have been conspirators in the bombings.

"We're seeking a complaint charging Mark Hofman with violations of federal firearms and explosives laws," Miller said. "We have (other) possible victims. There are some people named ... three more possible targets."

Hofman was in critical condition today at LDS Hospital. Miller said agents believed revenge was a possible motive for the attacks but would not elaborate. He said there were "possibly other people we will be looking at, maybe co-conspirators."

Unfair Trade Probe Ordered

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan has avoided tougher measures in ordering unfair-trade investigations of European wheat exports and Korean patent laws but his move still puts teeth in U.S. trade policy, officials say.

But members of Congress, particularly from areas hard hit by the flood of imports into the American market, say Reagan's action is too little and too late.

Today, House Democratic leaders planned to unveil their comprehensive trade package — the results of a task force formed last spring to counter what they then called "the Reagan administration's inaction on trade."

Like the Republican trade package unveiled last week, the Democratic plan is expected to include steps to counter the overvalued U.S. dollar, curb unfair foreign trade practices and improve U.S. export promotion and financing.

It also would provide assistance to workers and industries displaced by imports.

Estrogen Risk Said Serious

BOSTON (UPI) — Women who undergo estrogen therapy for menopause are 3 1/2 times more likely to develop uterine cancer, and the risk does not decline after the treatments stop, medical researchers warned today.

The team of Boston University doctors said a study of more than 1,200 menopausal women showed the use of estrogen also greatly increases the danger of cancer spreading beyond the uterus to other organs. They said the risk arises in women who have taken estrogen for a year or more.

"The risk remains elevated for many years after cessation of use," said the report, published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The doctors did not recommend banning the treatments, but said women who have not had hysterectomies and who have used estrogen for a year or more should be considered for long-term gynecologic surveillance, regardless of when the hormone was last used.

Scientists have known since the late 1970s the risk of cancer increased with the use of the hormones to counter adverse effects of menopause. But it was generally believed the danger was confined to cancer of the uterus and that the risk subsided once the treatments stopped.

Balanced Budget Questioned

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democrats, while embracing the idea of balancing the budget, used the first day of talks with the Senate to debate the specifics of a Senate-passed measure that would bring federal finances into the black.

Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., leader of the House conferees, said Wednesday he wants to reduce the deficit "as much as any of the other men and women in this room." But he cautioned that he hoped "in our sincere search for fiscal self-discipline we don't lose our sense of fairness and balance."

He also said the primary concern of the conference is to lift the federal debt ceiling from $1.8 trillion to $2 trillion "to keep the government solvent."

The balanced budget proposal is tied to the debt ceiling increase, likely to be needed by the end of the month.

New budget director James Miller, making his first trip to Capitol Hill since replacing David Stockman, said Wednesday the balanced budget idea, backed by the White House, would force Congress and the president to work together.

Study Shows Causes Of Depression For Housewives

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Housewives who have no social life outside the home, low incomes or poor family relationships are more likely to be depressed than other housewives, a University of Florida sociologist said Wednesday.

"The fewer social contacts a housewife has and the more isolated she is, the more likely she is to become depressed," Connie Shehan, a professor of sociology at the school said.

"Reliable friends outside the immediate family are important to the mental health of housewives, since they provide valuable help and emotional support."

It's healthy for all women to have support outside the family, Shehan said, but it's especially important for younger wives and those who have no children at home.

"Most Americans enter marriage with little preparation for marriage and parenthood. They

Frenchman Wins Nobel Literature Prize For First Time Since 1964

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Avant-garde author Claude Simon today won the 1985 Nobel Prize in Literature, the first French writer to be awarded the finest distinction in letters since 1964.

The Swedish Academy said Simon, 72, in his novels "combines the poet's and the painter's creativity with a deepened awareness of time in the depiction of the human condition."

The announcement was made in four languages by Academy Permanent Secretary Lars Gyllenstein in the 18th century stone building housing the Academy and the Stock Exchange.

"He was happy and said he will be coming in December," Gyllenstein said in describing Simon's reaction to learning of the prize, which will be awarded in Stockholm Dec. 10.

No French author has won the literature prize, worth $225,000 this year, since Jean-Paul Sartre declined it in 1964. He argued that crowning a world champion in literature corrupts the recipient.

Simon, the 13th laureate from France since the prize was first awarded in 1901, is a novelist, playwright and essayist.

Best known for his stream of consciousness, Simon's two most important novels are "Le Vent" (1957) and "La Routes de Flandres" (1960), which depicts minds in a wild flux of turmoil fueled by the forces of nature.

Gyllenstein, spokesman of the 18-member Academy, said, "It takes hard work to read Simon and it requires a good memory. You have to read him several times."

Simon was a favorite of Artur Lundkvist, 79, the powerful Academy member who has kept British novelist Graham Greene from winning the prestigious prize.

Simon, born in 1913 in Madagascar to French parents, began to be noticed at the end of the 1950s in connection with the great interest in the so-called "new novel" in France.

Gyllenstein cited Simon in particular for his 1981 novel "Les Geometriques".

Simon's sentences, like those of 1950 laureate William Faulkner, are virtually without punctuation and often lyrical. He employs Faulkner's jumbled chronology and abrupt transitions.

Simon combines the traditions of fellow Frenchman Marcel Proust and Irish James Joyce, two authors who never won a Nobel, with practitioners of New Novelists such as Alain Robbe-Grillet.

Simon originally wanted to be a painter and he idolizes the work of Paul Cezanne.

Simon, in an article in 1966 discussing the role of writers in a changing world, said art and literature answer "to human need as basic as hunger, thirst, even the need to breathe."

To suppress literature, Simon wrote, would be to "literally doom mankind to suffocation and despair."

The Academy is known for occasionally selecting little-known authors like last year's winner, Jaroslav Seifert of Czechoslovakia.

Earlier in the week, American Franco Modigliani won the Nobel Memorial Prize for Economic Science for pioneering theories on savings and for fathering corporate finance. Americans Michael S. Brown and Joseph L. Goldstein shared the prize for medicine for discoveries about cholesterol that could help prevent heart attacks.

The Peace Prize, awarded in Oslo, Norway, went to the Boston-based group International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War.

All the Nobel winners will receive their awards Dec. 10. The Nobel prizes were established by the 1895 will of Swedish chemist Alfred Nobel, inventor of dynamite.

Public Hearing Set On Annexation

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commission has given preliminary approval to annexation of 16.5 acres south of Charlotte Street, west of Miller Road. A public hearing and final action are scheduled for Nov. 18.

The property, industrially zoned by the county, is being annexed at the request of the owners, Robert and Talley Hattaway of Altamonte Springs, in order to get water service from the city.

They had previously been denied water by Longwood because the property was outside the city limits.

Commissioner Ed Myers expressed concern at Monday night's commission meeting that the proposed industrial park might be used as for storage of hazardous waste, but Wanda Guest, planner for Hattaway Investment Corp., assured him that this is not the case.

She said although the area had been designated as suitable for hazardous waste storage and transfer, at a preliminary hearing it was decided not a good location because of the high water table, the rough railroad crossing and its proximity to schools and hospitals.

Ms. Guest said the property is in the last stages of platting with Seminole County and has received preliminary approval.

The commission voted unanimously to declare 3.78 acres of city property located outside the city limits on Longwood-Lake Mary Road surplus and put it up for sale. After the property is appraised, the city will accept closed bids from prospective buyers. City administrator Greg Manning said proceeds from the sale will go into an interest-bearing escrow account earmarked for the future acquisition of property suitable for parks and recreation.

Appointed to serve on a charter review committee were Alice M. Lewis, 1064 Second Place; Lynette Dennis, 263 W. Palmetto Ave.; Edward Kanaski, 1010 Alameda Drive; Rick Bullington, and James Kleinmann, 700 Mendez Way.

The Commission voted to accept a site plan for the S&W Building located on the north side of State Road 434, west of Grant Street, but tabled action on the site plan for Sanlando Shopping Center, located at the southeast corner of State Road 434 and Savage Court until City Engineer Charles Hassler has a chance to check out the drainage situation behind the property. The city's consulting engineer Dyer, Riddle, Mills, and Precourt has determined there is sand in the drainage system and it should be cleaned out and grading in the retention area corrected.

A proposed resolution that would have established policies and procedures for issuing permits to park buses, pole trailers, semi-trailers, trailers, trucks, and/or truck tractor for a period exceeding one hour during a 24-hour period on residential streets and property as authorized in the comprehensive zoning ordinance was unanimously voted down on Manning's recommendation. Manning said it would set a bad precedent to allow the parking of this type of vehicles in residential neighborhoods. "We are making progress in cleaning up the city," Manning said, "and this would be a setback and open the door to anyone wishing to park their school bus or truck. I think we should amend the ordinance to eliminate any reference to permits."

The matter first came up when a Longwood woman, whose trucker husband has an expensive tractor rig, asked how you go about getting a permit as required in the ordinance and it was discovered the city had no set procedure.

The commissioners were also concerned that the ordinance not be so restrictive that it bans moving vans from unloading or companies doing repairs which must have their truck parked at the customer's residence.

The problem is being tossed to the city's Land Planning Agency to look into.

In other business the city commission:

- Adopted a five-year capital program through the 1989-90 fiscal year in a non-binding resolution referred to as a "wish list."

- Honored Anthony Taddeo and Walter Fleck for their service on the Code Enforcement Board. The men had asked not to be reappointed.

Churches Sued To Clarify Tax Law

ORLANDO (UPI) — Orange County's property appraiser is suing two Baptist churches in a test case to clarify the tax exempt status of church land not used for religious purposes, the appraiser's attorney said Thursday.

Appraiser Ford Hausman contends 45 acres owned by First Baptist Church of Orlando and about 10 acres owned by First Baptist Church of Pine Hills should be taxed, because the land is vacant.

"The property appraiser is trying to be consistent in his approach to exempt properties," said the property appraiser's attorney, Steven Bechtel.

"There are other instances in the county where he has always applied the principle that there has to be actual use on the assessment date of Jan. 1 in order for the exemption to be granted."

Bechtel said the suits, filed Monday in circuit court, may move through the 5th District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach and the Florida Supreme Court before the issue is settled.

The disputed land lies on a vacant area Hausman valued at $525,062 in the Orlando congregation's 156-acre sanctuary complex and on orange grove property assessed at $561,240 belonging to the Pine Hills group.

"It's acknowledged that the future intended site of a Christian school," Bechtel said of the Pine Hills property. "It's not there now."

The churches contend the lots, though vacant, are being used for religious purposes.

"That land has been prayed on since the day after we bought it," said Jim Spoonhour, attorney for the Orlando congregation. He named other religious uses, such as overnight camping by a church youth group.

State law provides tax exemption for "Only those portions of property used predominantly for charitable, religious, scientific or literary purposes."

Hausman said, "The question here is whether praying over property or putting a tent on it for a picnic justifies a tax exemption."

Florida Homecoming Coming Together

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Appearances by the Smothers Brothers comedy team, U.S. Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Dole and rock star Sting highlight homecoming activities this week at the University of Florida.

The school's homecoming features something for Gators of all ages, from political gatherings to athletic events. Topping things off is the "Gator Growl" — billed as the world's largest student-produced show and pep rally which traditionally includes big name entertainment, a laser show and fireworks.

The week's homecoming activities kick off Thursday at noon, with Gator Expo, an exhibit of university research, clubs, student activities and academic departments.

But the meat of the fiesta for University of Florida alumni begins Friday at noon with the annual homecoming parade, for which all of Gainesville essentially closes.

The parade this year features the Gator Marching Band as well as 11 other high school and college bands, 37 floats and special marching units and the Budweiser Clydesdales. Steve Spurrier, coach of the USFL Tampa Bay Bandits, and the Gators' only Heisman Trophy winner, is grand marshal of the parade.

Florida Blue Key, the student leadership organization responsible for most homecoming activities, will hold its annual invitation-only Blue Key Banquet in the Stephen C. O'Connell Center Friday night.

The banquet annually attracts prominent political and business figures from around the state, who this year will hear Dole as the keynote speaker.

The Smothers Brothers will be the featured entertainers for Gator Growl, which gets under way immediately following the Blue Key Banquet. Billed as the largest student-produced show and pep rally on Earth, the Growl has featured acts such as Bob Hope, Robin Williams and last year's entertainer, Bill Cosby.

At 12:30 p.m. Saturday, the Florida Gators will host the 3-4 Southwest Louisiana Ragin' Cajuns at Florida Field.

Athletic Department officials said they were expecting a capacity crowd of more than 72,000 for the annual fall classic. The 4-0-1 Gators beat the Cincinnati Bearcats 48-17 last year in the homecoming contest.

Movie and rock star Sting will appear at the O'Connell Center Saturday night in a concert, following the game.

The Orange and Blue Golf Classic will wrap up the weekend Sunday at 8 a.m. on the University Golf Course.

Week's 3rd Burglary In Subdivision Reported

Action Reports

- ★ Courts
- ★ Police

A Lake Mary couple were victims of the burglary of thousands of dollars worth of jewelry and rare coins last week after their's was the third residence in the Keeneland Downs subdivision to be burglarized in a week. Mr. and Mrs. James S. Sutton, 747 Keeneland Pike, Lake Mary, reported the break-in to Lake Mary police early last week.

Police reports stated the suspect(s) entered the house, between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m., by cutting a pool screen and breaking a bathroom window at the rear of the house. The house next door to the Sutton's was similarly broken into a few days before this incident and jewelry was taken in that theft. No suspects have been arrested in that theft either, according to police reports.

"I had just left the house to go to my part-time job and I made sure everything in the house was locked tight because of the break-in next door. I had a strange feeling something was going to happen," Kathleen Sutton said. She said the robber(s) ransacked a strongbox in her closet containing priceless handmade gold jewelry and then went through her dresser drawers. The robber(s) then went to the Sutton's refrigerator and had some lunch before leaving a half-empty soft drink can on her husband's dresser, according to Mrs. Sutton.

"Most of the gold jewelry was handmade by my cousin in New York and can't be replaced at any price. That's why it is so hard to estimate prices on all this," Mrs. Sutton said. "We travel a lot and just recently moved here and we never thought to put all this in safe deposit box, you just can't believe how this feels. We do have insurance under our homeowner's policy, so we may get something back from this but, it is such a shame. It's hard to say how I feel about the robbery. I never would have thought someone could come into my home and do this to me. I double-checked everything before I left. It makes you feel so violated."

Among the items the Sutton's reported missing were:

- a new 35mm Pentax camera with flash;
- five gold rings, including a ladies gold topaz ring that was square-cut and surrounded by clear stones, a one-fourth karat ladies diamond ring with one pearl in the center and a quarter karat diamond on each side, a ladies white gold ring with two diamonds and two pearls, a ladies Union Endicott High School ring with a black stone in the center and the initials K.E.K. on the inside and a man's gold 1964 Fordham University class ring with a red stone in the middle;

—seven gold and silver chains including a Donemore 12 inch gold colored chain with a little "D" hanging from it, a gold colored chain with a small, round locket and painted flowers on the front, a gold colored chain with three "lovers knots" on it, a silver chain with a small silver heart, two gold colored plain chains of different lengths, a gold colored chain with a black onyx diamond in the center;

—Michael J. Lawrence, 22, of 120 S. Lake St., Lake Mary, reported to Lake Mary police on Sunday that a 25 horsepower, 1983 Mercury outboard motor, valued at $1,400, was stolen from his home between Friday and Sunday. Police reports stated that the motor, with a serial number of #6424907, was taken off a boat in the Lawrence driveway.

THEFTS AND BURGLARIES

An Altamonte Springs woman told sheriff's deputies someone broke into her apartment and took $60 from her purse.

Mary Beth Maloney, of 375 Wymore Road, said the incident occurred between 7 and 8:30 p.m. Monday. The thief entered her home after removing a screen from a bedroom window.

A $260 dish washer was taken from a construction site on Goldstone Place in Lake Mary. William Makuskie, manager for General Homes of Lake Mary, said the theft occurred between 7 a.m. Oct. 11 and 9:41 a.m. Tuesday.

A New York woman reported $200 worth of traveler cheques were removed from her purse probably while she was at a moving party. Jane Redmond, 23, who was in the area visiting a brother, said she was at a party at 5129 Lake Howell Road, for a few minutes and someone took her purse and contents including driver license, car registration and credit cards.

A microwave oven was removed from a model home in Longwood after a Realtor left the building unlocked. Kenneth Russell, 49, a builder from Lake Monroe, said the Realtor was showing the house at 1345 South Ridge Lake Circle and didn't lock up. The incident occurred between Oct. 11 at 3 p.m. and Tuesday at 10:34 a.m.

A roto tiller valued at $850 was removed from the fenced yard of Robert King, 71, of 9972 Carolina St., Oviedo. King said the theft occurred between 8 p.m. Oct. 10 and 5 p.m. Friday.

Robert Rodriguez, 33, of 403 Oakwood Court, Altamonte Springs, reported someone removed a $250 propeller from a boat motor on his boat. The boat was at his home in the carport at the time, he said. The incident occurred between 7 a.m. and 3 p.m. Tuesday.

FONDLING INCIDENT

A 16-year-old girl told a sheriff's deputy a man has fondled her five or six times since August 1985.

The South Seminole County girl, 15 at the time of the latest incident, said he fondles her when she visits a friend who lives in the same apartment complex.

The man, a 47-year-old business manager, has denied the girl's accusations and said he only walked with his arm around the girl.

The allegations are under investigation.

SODA BOTTLE ROBBERY

A man robbed a Fern Park 7-Eleven Store after smacking the clerk in the side of the face with a soda bottle.

Bengamin Fields, 26, clerk at the store located at 190 Oxford Road, said a man entered the store around 12:45 a.m. Wednesday and got a 16-ounce bottle of Sprite. Fields said that when he opened the cash drawer to take the man's money the man struck on the left side of the face with the bottle. He then grabbed the cash drawer, took money from the drawer, and fled. The amount of money taken was not reported.

Fields described the suspect as a black male, 5-foot-9 weighing 150 pounds. He had a short afro and was wearing a fish net shirt.

black pants and tennis shoes. He also told Fields not to cause trouble.

POT IN PURSE

A deputy curious about a car leaving a cemetery learned the car had the wrong license plates on it and subsequently arrested the driver for possession of marijuana.

According to a sheriff's deputy's report, the officer saw an El Camino, a truck-like car, leave the Oaklawn Cemetery in Lake Mary though a computer check said the plates belonged on a four-door car. After the officer stopped the car the driver told him she didn't have a driver license and the marijuana in her purse was not hers.

Being held in lieu of $5,000 bond Wednesday on charges of possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana, driving without a license and driving with wrong tags was Debra Elaine Watson, 20, of 215 Route 4, Longwood.

BALKED IN BAR

A woman who was told by an officer to leave a bar after she was issued a warning to leave was arrested at Fern Park Station for trespass after warning.

According to a sheriff's deputy report, the 28-year-old woman was an "unwanted guest" at the Fern Park bar. The officer issued the warning and the woman still refused to leave.

Arrested and charged was Kacey Avery, of 2090 Miracle Lane, Chuluota. She was released without bond.

BEER BUST

A husband and wife, reportedly caught in the act of stuffing a six pack of beer into a purse, have been arrested on charges of retail theft.

The manager of Publix, 1080 W. State St., Sanford said he saw a man helping a woman put the beer in her purse.

Arrested and held in lieu of $100 bond each in the Seminole County jail were Andrew Schriver, 42, and Cheryl Shriver, 38, of Plant City, Ohio.

Pedestrian Rescues Two

A possible tragedy was avoided Tuesday when a pedestrian rescued a unconscious girl from a burning car and rescued a woman who fainted while trying to get the girl out.

Tony Short, 28, of Fern Park, was walking along County Road 427 around 7:30 a.m. when he saw two cars crash in traffic at Marvin Avenue, according to a Longwood police report.

Robin Dean, 17, of Longwood, was on her way to Lyman High School when her Datsun ran into the rear of a 1968 Mustang driven by Teresa Carson, 65, of Longwood. Ms. Carson's Mustang then hit a 1978 Plymouth driven by Jeffery Suskind, a counselor at Lyman High School. Gas spilled from the Mustang onto the Datsun's hot motor starting a fire. Suskind then drove to get police and fire help while Ms. Carson started to rescue Miss Dean, said Longwood officer Tom Jackson.

Ms. Carson tried to rescue Miss Dean who was slumped against the steering wheel but fainted. Short then rescued the women.

Emergency personnel arrived and put out the fire within 5 minutes, according to a report.

The women were treated for cuts and bruises. Neither Suskind nor Short were injured.

The Mustang was reported as a total loss in the accident which tied up traffic for about 40 minutes, Jackson said. Suskind's car received about $300 worth of damage and Miss Dean's car $4,000. Miss Dean was charged with failure to use due care.

Talks Resume Today

Chrysler Strike Enters Second Day

DETROIT (UPI) — A strike by some 80,000 Chrysler Corp. workers in the United States and Canada entered its second day today and United Auto Workers President Owen Bieber said major obstacles blocked the road to a settlement.

"The pace has picked up a little bit," Bieber said Wednesday of contract talks, which were to resume early today. "There are some tough friction points — more than friction points. There are some boulders."

The strikes at 43 U.S. plants in 15 states and six plants in Canada, which began midnight Tuesday, will cost Chrysler an estimated $60 million this week and $90 million next week, analysts said. The company earned a record $4 billion in profits for 1984 and the first six months of 1985.

Job security and wage parity for workers — who earn $13.23 an hour, six cents an hour less than their counterparts at Ford Motor Co. and General Motors Corp. — have been the major stumbling blocks in the talks, Bieber said.

He said outsourcing — the practice of using non-union plants to make parts — also has been a key issue.

Chrysler's chief U.S. bargainer, Thomas Miner, said soon after the strike began the two sides were near an agreement on parity but Bieber disagreed, saying: "There is no parity offer on the table here."

The UAW represents about 70,000 Chrysler workers in the United States. In Toronto, talks were expected to resume for 10,400 members of the Independent Canadian UAW. Union officials in Canada reported little progress Wednesday.

Some 3,750 Chrysler workers at five U.S. plants that produce Chrysler parts and parts for other automakers have remained on the job. If workers at those plants went on strike it could force other car companies to lay off UAW members.

Chrysler workers appeared committed to the strike in hopes of winning a larger share of the company's record profits.

"We gave up a lot four years ago. Now it's time for us to get the gravy," said Joe Gagliardi of UAW Local 136 in St. Louis. "We got back some (in the last contract), but we didn't get it all back."

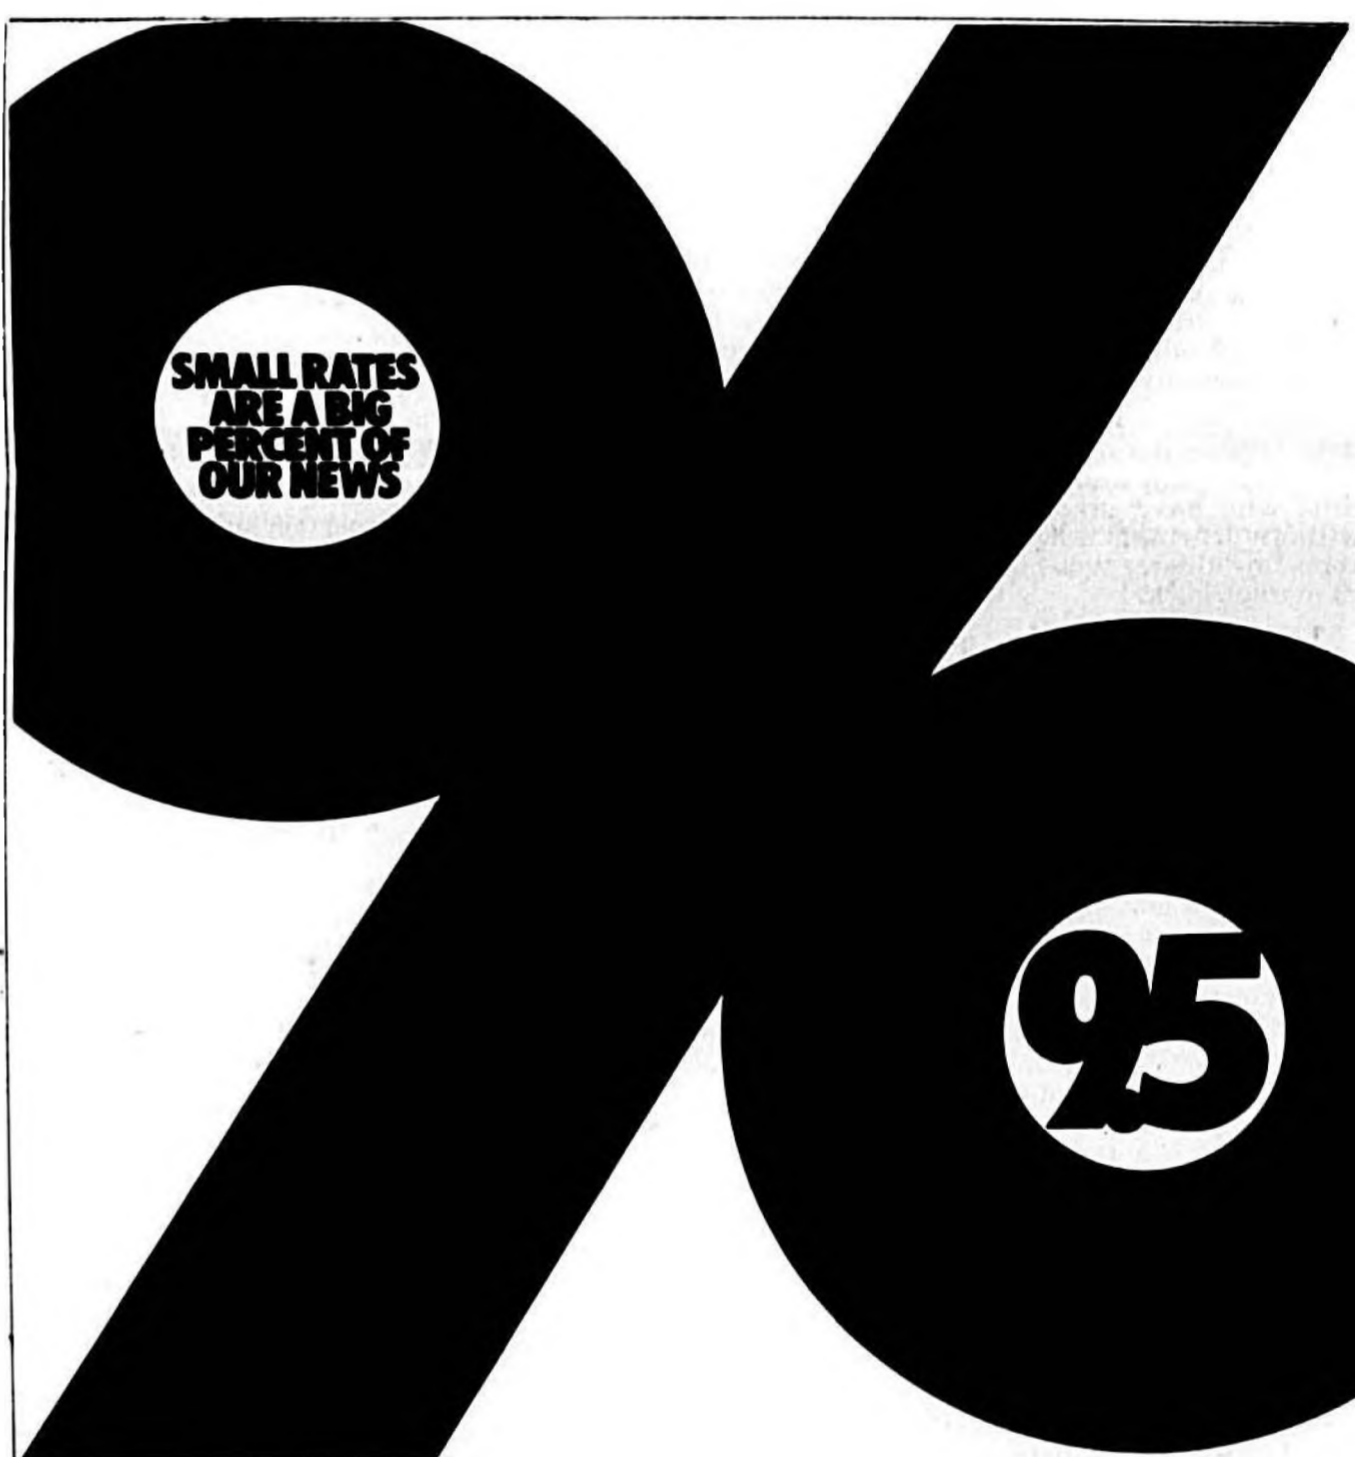

In Toronto, union sources and officials speculated Chrysler officials ordered a virtual halt in Canadian negotiations Tuesday when it became clear a U.S. walkout could not be averted. A U.S. strike would have halted production in Canada because of parts shortages.

Bilingual Education

Bilingual education should make students fluent in English. That should be its sole purpose. Education Secretary William J. Bennett is right when he says federal policies toward bilingual education have in the last 20 years become "confused as to purpose and overbearing as to means."

He said in a recent speech in New York that the Reagan administration is drafting new regulations and will ask Congress to give local school districts more autonomy in deciding how to teach students who are not fluent in English.

There should be such flexibility and home rule. Just last year a Southwestern Elementary School District decided to give all instruction in English, after a pupil is classified as proficient in English. In other words, no more maintenance of the Spanish language, no more teaching arithmetic or social studies or any other subject in Spanish. Students will be immersed in English as soon as possible.

The school district is on the Mexican border. More than 70 percent of its 2,700 students are native Spanish speakers with a limited ability to speak English. That is one of the highest percentages of any school district in the nation. The decision by the school board and the district superintendent reflects the real concerns of the parents of Spanish-speaking children about their children's language disability and the importance of correcting it.

Let there be no misunderstanding. The inability to speak English is a great handicap for any American. It will always be so. It is not prejudice or discrimination to say that those who grow up without an ability to speak, understand, write and read our common language suffer a severe lifelong disability in their capacity to participate as citizens in our system of self-government and in our economy.

Those who are closest to the problem know how serious it is. For them, it is a matter of survival. They know the tragedy of Americans who have graduated from high school without learning how to speak English and then find themselves condemned to a lifetime of mental work.

They remember the pathetic stories of children in our public schools who were put in classes for the mentally retarded simply because they could not understand English. The main purpose of the bilingual program is to prevent such tragedies, either when entering the public schools or when leaving them.

We have lost sight of the individual in the argument over bilingual education. The interests of the teachers and school administrators, intent on promoting bilingual education for their own selfish interests, have been allowed to overshadow the interests of the students. Politicians have appealed to group loyalties and prejudices. They confuse the question with irrelevant issues, involving the role of the Hispanic minority in the American community. Such issues may be legitimate in a broader context and yet may be harmful when it comes to the problem of teaching this child the best English he or she can learn.

Yes, Secretary Bennett, let us keep the purpose of bilingual education clearly before us. Let us not be distracted by irrelevancies. And let the local school boards, like the one on the Mexican border, have full independence in achieving this purpose.

BERRY'S WORLD

GEORGE McGOVERN

Is There A Democratic Alternative?

The announcement by Democratic Rep. Parren Mitchell, 63, of Maryland that he will quit Congress after 16 years' service comes as a disappointment to me and to many others acquainted with Mitchell's record. Since being elected to Congress in 1970, Mitchell has been an eloquent voice of conviction and intelligence for traditional Democratic liberal values. As much as anyone in Congress, he waged the battle to shift excessive military spending into greater investment in jobs, education, health care and social services. In short, he is my kind of Democrat.

In leaving Congress, Mitchell says he is "not at all happy" about the conservative drift of the Democratic Party. "The Democrats should stop trying to out-Republican the Republicans. It's a serious mistake for the party and a serious mistake for the nation."

To this I say, amen. Congress is a dispirited place these days, with few effective voices being raised against the Reagan policies. The defeat of a number of articulate, liberal congressmen and senators in 1978 and 1980, plus the overwhelming presidential election wins of Ronald Reagan in 1980 and 1984 have apparently demoralized the liberal center of the Democratic Party. Beyond this, the enormous federal deficit stemming from the Reagan formula of higher military spending and lower taxes has made it much harder for congressmen to support adequate funding for social services and such concerns as the environment, transportation and housing.

In domestic policies, budget priorities and foreign affairs, most Democrats — after feeble resistance — have largely gone along with the popular president. Mr. Reagan has succeeded in convincing many Americans that selfishness is not only respectable but is, in fact, their American birthright. He has also appealed to the macho jingoistic streak in our national character, so that even the self-defeating and bankrupting arms race with the Soviet Union is sold as a highly patriotic priority.

These are the reasons why the voluntary departure of a courageous, common-sense Democrat such as Mitchell is bad news for those who yearn for an alternative to Reaganism. Likewise, the retirement decision of another Maryland politician — thoughtful, moderate Republican Sen. Mathias — is bad news for those concerned with where Mr. Reagan is taking the nation.

Mr. Reagan is said to be the "Great Communicator" and apparently he is, judging by the election results and his obvious popularity with the national press corps. Certainly he is communicating effectively with the economically comfortable, the white majority and the macho crowd. Doubtless these elements represent at least a temporary majority. But I cannot believe — despite Mr. Reagan's penchant for optimism and good cheer — that the present political trends deserve Democratic acceptance, nor do I believe that they are in the interest of the nation.

No one can say for certain what it will take for the Democrats to recapture the Senate in 1986 and the White House in 1988. But the basic function of a political party is to organize a group of voters around a program that offers a meaningful contrast to the opposition party or parties. If the voters do not perceive a significant contrast and the hope of a better life with Democratic leadership, why change the present leadership?

A New China Hand

FUZHOU, China (NEA) — Tom Manton, who holds the world record for the longest journey by motorcycle — 25,000 kilometers from Singapore to London — is a man of unusual accomplishments and background.

But not primarily for that reason. He comes from a family that has had a long and continuing association with China. The story of that association says something about China yesterday and today.

It begins with his grandmother, Elizabeth Fisher Brewster, originally of London, Ohio, who arrived in this city — then known as Foochow — in 1884 as a 22-year-old woman with a mission. That was to educate the women of China, which she set about doing by learning Chinese and founding schools.

She married Manton's grandfather, whom she had met on a visit to Ohio, here in 1890. The honeymoon trip was to Putian, a city some 100 miles southwest of here. They were the first foreign residents there and remained for 26 years, continuing her work together until his death.

Manton's mother, the oldest of their seven children, all born in Putian, taught in China for four years. She then returned to Ohio to marry Manton's father and continue the family's work in her own way by recruiting missionaries for China.

Elizabeth Fisher Brewster stayed on in China, through the years of revolutionary turmoil, war and civil war. She finally left in 1951 at the age of 89, not because of the political situation but because she felt her work was done. She was by then responsible for the existence of more than 150 schools, as well as a college, clinics, churches, printing presses and an agricultural institute.

Tom Manton, as a 12-year-old, remembers her as "about 4 feet 8 inches and diminishing, but a woman of spirit and already a living legend."

Despite the long family association, Manton is not himself an old China hand. He did not see the country until 1972, and then as a result of a very different mission. Some years earlier he had become convinced that American policy toward China was wrong and damaging to the interests of both countries. The question he asked himself was whether China was really an implacable enemy or whether he had painted her as such in our minds.

Sudan Embassy Security Questioned

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The frightening increase in terrorist actions against Americans overseas in recent years doesn't seem to have jarred the State Department out of its bureaucratic lethargy.

Four months ago, we reported the department's inexplicable indifference to the Beirut embassy's plea for a modest $130,000 to beef up protection for beleaguered U.S. personnel there. The bureaucrats' response was a stern lecture on budget restraint, a piteous complaint about the problems in Washington, and an admonition to go through the proper paperwork process when asking for security money.

Now we've learned that the Beirut embassy is not alone in its security problems. Foreign Service duty in Khartoum, the capital of Sudan, is

ROBERT WALTERS

Radical Solution For Farms

MINNEAPOLIS (NEA) — During the 1930s, in the midst of the Great Depression, the federal government sought to aid the nation's desperate farmers by establishing what were supposed to be modest and temporary agricultural assistance programs.

They initially cost the country's taxpayers only one cent for every dollar of profit earned by the average farmer. Today, however, the federal treasury spends 43 cents to enable the typical farmer to make that same dollar.

Despite the soaring cost of the vast array of direct and indirect agricultural subsidies now in place, they have failed to achieve their principal goal — to "save the family farm."

Indeed, as federal farm programs have become more elaborate and expensive during the past half-century, the number of family farms has relentlessly declined — from 6.3 million in 1930 to 2.3 million today.

Earlier this year, the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, the largest daily newspaper serving the nation's North Central agricultural region, assigned a team of reporters to examine that paradox of escalating subsidies and farm failures.

After six months of study, including more than 100 interviews, the paper recently published its findings in an impressive and comprehensive series. Its principal conclusion:

"Eliminating price supports — allowing the forces of the marketplace to set food prices — would not only save the taxpayers that enormous investment but would also slow the rise of food prices, thus saving America's food-buying public billions more dollars without endangering the food supply."

Acknowledging that "this is controversial stuff," the Star and Tribune presents a compelling case for serious evaluation of programs that have cost the nation's taxpayers $130 billion during the past 50 years and will require an additional $200 billion in government spending by the end of this century.

During the past five years, federal agricultural subsidies totaling $52 billion have not prevented 100,000 farm failures. During the next five years, estimated outlays totaling $81 billion probably will not halt a trend that now produces an average of 66 farm abandonments every day.

SCIENCE WORLD

In Doubt, Toss It

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Food poisoning appears to be on the increase in the United States as more of us indulge in lightly cooked meats, raw fish and exotic imported foods.

"It's not an epidemic, but a slow, steady increase," said Douglas L. Archer, deputy director of the Food and Drug Administration's division of microbiology. "Many people think of food poisoning as a mild nuisance but some types can have serious consequences."

Archer said no exact figures are available because food poisoning is not closely monitored by the government. But he said enough doctors have reported an increase in incidents that the FDA's Food and Safety Division has launched an information campaign against food poisoning.

A salmonella outbreak traced to a dairy in the Chicago area earlier this year affected 16,000 people and killed at least six. Another deadly rash of food poisonings in California was traced to listeria bacteria found in imported cheeses. Both focused new attention on the seriousness of food poisoning.

Most cases of food poisoning are caused by staphylococcus, a common bacteria found on human hands. The bacteria can be easily transferred from cook to food, where it grows unchecked if the temperature is above 45 degrees Fahrenheit but below 145 degrees.

Staphylococcus causes gastrointestinal illness in people about six hours after it is ingested. Sufferers will feel nauseated and sometimes experience stomach cramps.

This type of food poisoning is so common some doctors estimate an average American may experience it as often as two times a year. But it is rarely serious and few cases are reported, according to Dr. Patricia Griffin, who receives reports on food poisoning cases for the Centers For Disease Control in Atlanta.

Most of the remaining cases of food poisoning are caused by enteric bacteria or viruses, which usually result in mild bouts of diarrhea but can cause a host of other maladies from diarrheal dehydration to kidney failure. Archer estimates some 80 million Americans will suffer from this more serious form of food poisoning this year. He estimates 80 of those will die.

Salmonella is an enteric bacteria. Campylobacter is another, and although it is lesser known than salmonella it is much more common, said Archer.

Enteric bacteria are found in many raw meats and fish and the feces of some animals, including cats, and can be easily transferred to foods ingested by humans.

"Most bacteria spread because food is prepared improperly," said Archer. "You use a knife to cut a raw chicken, rinse it for a second then use it to cut lettuce for the salad."

every bit as nerve-racking — and apparently is evoking just as little sympathy from Washington.

Sudan, we might note, is close to the top of the list of lousy assignments for our diplomats abroad. The climate is grim in the best of times, and recent years have hardly been the best. Drought, famine, economic collapse, refugees from neighboring nations — all this would be bad enough. But Sudanese politics has been chaotic for nearly two decades, culminating in a coup last April. The adoption of a strict Islamic code two years ago made life even grimmer for Americans stationed in Khartoum.

Under the circumstances, you might think the State Department would take diligent care of the security of Americans based there. But an expert hired by a U.S. government contractor told our associate Donald Goldberg that the security arrangements in Khartoum are outrageous. We've confirmed the details of his story through State Department sources.

As in other embassies, the main job of protecting the compound is entrusted to U.S. Marines. There are nine on duty in Khartoum.

To make up for the lack of Marines, the State Department has hired Service and Supply International, a small firm with headquarters in Athens. For roughly $1.4 million, some 700 Sudanese guards were hired as "watchmen" to protect the embassy and American personnel's private residences.

The expert discovered that the guards were untrained in security operations. But some of them had received other training — at a terrorist camp in Libya. At least one of these terrorism-school graduates was on duty at the embassy itself.

State Department officials pointed out that the Sudanese guards carry no weapons — which was evidently supposed to be reassuring. An official of the security service told us, "I think we are doing an excellent job."

But the expert is still concerned about security in Khartoum. While he was there, he learned that several individuals known to be Libyan soldiers arrived at the Khartoum airport carrying Soviet-made AK-47 automatic rifles and ammunition. The weapons and ammo were confiscated by Sudanese officials, but the Libyans were allowed to enter.

The security expert learned also that unidentified individuals had stopped to chat with the hired guards at various locations in Khartoum, asking suspicious questions.

The expert reported his misgivings to Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H. The senator is looking into the situation.

Brothers Plead Guilty To Cruelty To Alligator

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Two brothers accused of snaring and butchering an alligator in Lake Jesup have pleaded guilty Monday to cruelty to an animal. They were two of 11 people whose cases were heard recently.

Victor Earl McKinnon, 27, and Carl McKinnon, 24, both of 183 Lorlann Lane, Winter Springs, entered the pleas before Circuit Judge Robert McGregor who set Dec. 3 for sentencing. They could receive up to a $1,000 fine and a year in the county jail each. The brothers were originally charged with poaching an alligator but pleaded guilty to the lesser included charge of cruelty to an animal. The poaching charge against the brother's father, Craten Edward McKinnon, 53, of 1962 Boat Club Road, Oviedo, was not prosecuted.

According to court records, a witness told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that on April 27 he saw two men capture an alligator in the lake southeast of Sanford, haul it to shore and butcher it by taking its tail. He gave the deputies a description of the men and their boat. The witness later identified two men in a photo lineup.

Officer arrested the brothers July 15 on a warrant issued by the State Attorney's office. The elder McKinnon surrendered to authorities on July 19.

In other court action: —Betty Knight, 28, of 408 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, arrested March 22 on charges of possession of cocaine and marijuana, was sentenced to 5 years probation with the stipulation that she serve 90 days in the Seminole County jail. She was also ordered by McGregor to pay the Public Defender's office $200 and pay court costs of $200.

—James Harper, 32, also of 408 Palmetto Ave., Sanford, arrested March 22 on charges of possession of cocaine and marijuana, was sentenced by McGregor to 5 years probation with the condition that he serve 4 months in the county jail. He, too, was ordered to pay $200 to the Public Defender's office and $200 court costs.

—Harold Collins, 23, of 3631 Lincoln St., Sanford, arrested March 12 on charges of false imprisonment and aggravated assault after he forced a 28-year-old woman from her home at knifepoint. He was sentenced by McGregor to 30 months probation and ordered not to go near the victim. He was also ordered to pay $200 court costs.

—Freddie Lee Davis, 22, of Holly Avenue, Sanford, arrested June 18 after a burglary in Sanford. He pleaded guilty to burglary in August and was sentenced by McGregor to 5 years probation and 40 days in the Seminole County jail. The jail time is to be served on weekends. He was also ordered to pay the Public Defender's office $350 and pay $200 in court costs.

—Karla Marah Daniels, 19, of 100 Castle Brewer Court, arrested May when she tried to cash a stolen check, was sentenced by McGregor to 3 years probation with the stipulation that she serve 30 days in the county jail and pay $190 in restitution. McGregor also ordered her to pay $200 in court costs and $350 to the Public Defender's office. Miss Daniels pleaded guilty in August to uttering the forgery.

—George Laduce, 22, of 21 Eastbrook Apartments, Winter Park, arrested July 26, has pleaded guilty to uttering forgery. He could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Dec. 3 by McGregor.

—John Homer McCaw, 19, of Altamonte Springs, arrested July 30 after he greeted a former school chum with a punch in the mouth, pleaded guilty to battery and agreed to make restitution to the victim in the amount of $1,000. He could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Nov. 13 by McGregor.

—John Edward Shirley, 48, of 1500 Gladiolas Drive, of South Seminole County, arrested July 11 after reportedly pinning his wife to the floor with his foot then sticking a gun in her face. He pleaded guilty to aggravated assault and could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced by McGregor Nov. 13. Shirley was arrested Oct. 10 and charged with aggravated assault and battery after he reportedly held a knife to his wife's throat during a dispute.

—David Carlos Bateman, 28, of Melbourne, arrested April 27 after leaving the scene of an accident with injuries, pleaded no contest to the same and DUI. The incident occurred when he pulled his motor home into the path of two Ohio motorcyclists. They received minor injuries. Bateman could receive up to a year in the county jail when sentenced Dec. 3 by McGregor.

Joseph A. "Joe" Oritt

Sanford Honors Late Civic Leader

Sanford City Commissioners unanimously adopted a resolution of appreciation and commendation to the late Joseph A. "Joe" Oritt and expressions of sympathy to his widow and family.

Oritt was cited for his years of community service and specifically for his three years service as chairman of the Board of Bond Trustees.

The citation also called attention to Oritt and his wife, Stella, as being instrumental in having the historic Sanford Downtown clock restored and placed in the Magnolia Mall.

Mayor Bettye Smith read a letter from Mrs. Oritt acknowledging the tribute to her late husband and expressing her gratitude to the board for its action.

S&L Robbed

A casually dressed man wearing sunglasses entered the People's First Savings and Loan at Lochmann's Plaza, on west State Road 434 in Altamonte Springs, and robbed a teller of an undetermined amount of cash late Tuesday afternoon, according to Altamonte Police.

The man, entered the savings and loan building at 2:41 p.m. and gave a teller a note demanding money. According to Altamonte Police Officer Jim Viners the man did not produce a weapon and no one was hurt during the incident. Viners said the man fled on foot from the building and police used tracking dogs to try and locate his escape route.

People's Savings and Loan President Tom Burrell declined comment on the robbery saying only that he was not free to discuss the matter. Overman said little information was available because the robbery happened late in the day.

IN BRIEF

Kidnapped President's Daughter May Be Freed Soon

SANTA TECLA, El Salvador (UPI) — Archbishop Arturo Rivera y Damas said he received a taped message from the kidnapped daughter of President Jose Napoleon Duarte and indicated she might be released in "a few hours or days."

The head of El Salvador's Catholic Church said Wednesday he met in Suchitoto Tuesday with leftist rebels, who gave him the tape and told him Ines Guadalupe Duarte Duran, 35, and her friend, Ana Cecilia Villeda, 23, were safe.

Rivera y Damas said he did not see the women, who were abducted in a hail of gunfire Sept. 10 in front of a private university in the capital. A bodyguard was killed.

"I think there is something more important than seeing her, and perhaps in a few hours or days you will know about the efforts made, and that they have yielded a positive result," Rivera y Damas said.

A branch of the rebel Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front, or FMLN, claimed responsibility, demanding the authorities free 22 political prisoners and account for nine missing insurgents.

The government had demanded 23 mayors held by the rebels be included in the deal.

The archbishop was selected by the government and rebels to act as a mediator when talks between the two sides broke down.

Closed Seaway Strands Vessels

MONTREAL (UPI) — Canadian authorities, under fire from Great Lakes port officials and facing at least one lawsuit over the shutdown of the St. Lawrence Seaway, said it will be weeks before a broken lock can be repaired.

Marine sources estimated repairs could take three to eight weeks and that some vessels could be left stranded in the Seaway when the system closes for winter on Dec. 15.

Bill O'Neil, president of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, told reporters in Ottawa Wednesday he could not say how long it will take to reopen the seaway — closed earlier this week when a 150-foot section of a lock collapsed in the Welland Canal, which bypasses Niagara Falls and connects Lake Ontario to Lake Erie.

"There are just too many elements of the repair program that are indefinite at this stage. It is going to be a matter of weeks, not a matter of days," O'Neil said.

He said he had received notice of at least one lawsuit against the authority because of the breakdown that has paralyzed the 2,342-mile Seaway system.

Port officials in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, and Minnesota, meanwhile, said closure of the Seaway could cost their cities hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Cabinet Meets; Fighting Goes On

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — The Lebanese Cabinet met today for the first time in two months and fighting broke out along the Green Line despite an agreement between Christian and Moslem warlords to end a decade of civil war.

The Cabinet meeting — called to discuss the peace agreement and create a new blueprint for Lebanese political life — was the first in two months. Absent were Shible Amal militia leader Nabih Berri and Druze militia chief Walid Jumblatt, who have boycotted most of this year's meetings because of differences with President Amin Gemayel.

Sporadic factional clashes continued along the Green Line despite the Syrian-mediated tentative accord reached between the Christian Lebanese Forces, the Shiite Moslem Amal and Druze Moslem Progressive Socialist Party militias. No casualties were reported.

Militia sources said they dispatched field commanders to trouble spots on the Green Line, which separates Beirut into Moslem and Christian sectors, in a bid to avoid an escalation in the fighting.

Prime Minister Rashid Karami, a Sunni Moslem, called today's Cabinet session after meeting with Gemayel for the first time since fierce fighting between rival Moslem militias erupted in Tripoli in September, state-run Beirut television said.

Fashion: 'Sea, Sun And Sex'

PARIS (UPI) — Wallpaper tight was the rule as the Paris 1986 spring-summer ready-to-wear shows got under way.

Forty-nine designers are showing their wares through Oct. 23 under tents in the Tuileries Gardens near the Louvre museum and another 50 are unveiling in hotels and salons around Paris.

The opening of the Tuileries shows Wednesday followed the reportedly general trend to mold the body and forget the baggy look that reigned for years until the July shows of hand-made, costly high fashion swept it into oblivion.

Designer Chantal Thomass, catering largely to the young and trendy, paraded sequined-edged knit short dresses that clung to every pore fore and aft.

Some tight, bare-midriff mini outfits had tiny ruffles in the back of the skirts and at the necklines. The rear end of one swim suit consisted of one small ruffle to match the Thomass slogan, "sea, sun and sex."

One model who reportedly applied to work in the Thomass show was not hired because she was an eighth-of-an-inch too big in the hips and could not manage the tight skirts.

More wearable for most women was Thomass' full-skirted belted coat dress, a beauty both in tangerine linen and in blue denim stitched in white.

The blue denim series also included long, buttock-hugging skirts.

Four Charged In Gandhi Plot

LONDON (UPI) — Four Sikhs accused of plotting to assassinate Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi were ordered held without bail when they appeared in court in the town of Leicester today.

One of them was also charged during the 15-minute hearing before Leicester magistrates with possessing a revolver without a firearms certificate.

The four were earlier charged with plotting to murder Gandhi during a two-day visit to Britain this week. Gandhi left London Tuesday for the Commonwealth Heads of Government Conference in Bahamas.

The four were remanded into custody without bail for seven days.

Some 150 Sikh supporters demonstrated outside the court. Many wore orange turbans signifying they were prepared to die for the cause of an independent Sikh homeland in India.

Police held a dozen people under the Prevention of Terrorism Act in the days leading up to Gandhi's visit but refused comment on reports they had foiled a plan to assassinate the Indian premier. All but the four charged were released Monday.

Gandhi and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher agreed on new moves to curb international terrorism during their London talks.

the Legal Medical Institute for an autopsy.

Medical experts determined in a preliminary examination late Wednesday that the 69-year-old New Yorker had been shot in the head and chest. They also said his left leg was mutilated and his right forearm torn off, possibly by fish after the hijackers threw his body into the Mediterranean Sea Oct. 8.

The full autopsy, which will be "long and laborious," was to begin today as soon as an American anatomical expert arrived from a NATO base in West Germany. Officials said the autopsy would establish the cause and approximate time of Klinghoffer's death.

Four Palestinians seized the Achille Lauro off Egypt Oct. 7 with 511 people aboard and demanded the release of Palestinian prisoners in Israel. They surrendered two days later and were promised safe passage out of Egypt.

But U.S. jets intercepted the Egyptian airliner carrying the four hijackers and two PLO officials to freedom and forced it to land at a NATO base in Sicily last Friday.

In Cairo, the pilot of the Egyptian Boeing 737 said Wednesday the American pilots had threatened to shoot him down unless he landed in Sicily. The White House denied the allegation.

Italy jailed the four hijackers but released Abbas and his associate despite U.S. and Israeli claims they could prove Abbas masterminded the hijacking.

Abbas' release triggered a political uproar that intensified Wednesday when Spadolini's Republican Party quit the governing coalition and removed its three Cabinet ministers.

Craxi still commanded a slight majority but chose to resign rather than face a divisive parliamentary debate over his handling of the hijacking aftermath. He announced his decision to the parliament today.

Political observers said the resignation could satisfy Spadolini and permit Craxi to bring the same five parties together again in a new coalition, avoiding new elections.

GNP Climbs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's gross national product climbed to a healthy 3.3 percent during the third quarter, fueled by stronger spending by consumers and government, the Commerce Department reported Thursday.

The figure rose above the 2.8 percent flash estimate issued last month by government economists.

The percentage advance in the first quarter and a slight rebound of 1.7 percent in the second quarter means that the January-to-September period expanded by only 1.8 percent over the same period in 1984.

To reach the Reagan administration's forecast for a 3 percent growth rate for 1985, the fourth quarter would have to soar at a blistering 6.7 percent rate, a Commerce Department economist said.

The gross national product — the measure of the nation's goods and services — totaled $13.5 billion for the third quarter. Personal spending climbed 4.8 percent with a substantial 20.5 percent rise in spending on durable goods such as cars and home appliances.

Previously economic reports for the third quarter showed large increases in spending in auto sales as dealers tried to clear 1985 inventories.

Government spending also increased beyond expectations showing a 16.1 percent rise overall with federal spending climbing 33.4 percent and state and local governments increasing their spending by 5 percent.

which is not a fine, Glonis said. He said the DER has evidence the ship dumped sewage for seven days with the knowledge of ship officials while it was docked at the Port of Sanford earlier this year. The $30,000 figure was for three days of dumping sewage into the river from the ship's holding tanks, he said.

Notice of the consent order was sent by registered mail to the company early this week, Glonis said. The company has 20 days from receipt to reply.

Glonis said the consent order also included provisions that the ship will not dump anything in the river or Lake Monroe, and if it did so would not only notify the DER but local news media as well to warn people of possible hazards.

Glonis said the DER is very interested in the case.

"We are trying to protect the environment, and it seems the only way to do it is through disincentives," he said referring to the $30,000 liability payment.

"People understand the dollar a little better," he said.

The alleged incidents were investigated after ship workers provided photographs and sworn statements about the purging of the ship's holding tank to fish and game Warden Jesse Baker of the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission.

Baker said in May the ship was visited four times at its Port of Sanford berth by a truck to remove sewage since a sewage line did not extend to its pier until June. However, ship employees said the ship would have needed to be pumped out more often than that to keep its tank empty during that month, indicating the sewage was dumped into the lake. An investigation into the valve on the ship's holding tank showed it was set to allow the tank's content to flow out when the tank was half full, Baker said.

Contacted when the incident was first publicized, Norman denied the cruise ship was dumping sewage into the river or lake.

"We most emphatically are not polluting the river," he said. "If we did it, it was an accident and we apologize sincerely."

"They say we are dumping out toilets overboard and that's a crock ... " Norman said the material the ship is accused of purging into the river was gray water, not sewage. He said the ship's gray water contains water from the kitchen, bar and treated sewage.

urinalysis."

Boothe did, nevertheless, emphasize that the program is definitely needed. "We think there could be some very positive uses for drug testing," he said. "We're involved in the welfare of these young people. If your athletes aren't the people who are leading the healthy lifestyles, then you have problems. We also think that some leadership values can be strengthened."

Epps said he heartily endorses the program. "The time has come for something like this," he said. "I think our athletes keep themselves in good shape physically and mentally. This will verify it."

Epps also said the program can be a good deterrent and strengthen the athlete as a role model on the campus. "Hopefully, it will discourage anyone from experimenting with drugs," he said. "It will allow the athletes to be good examples for the student body. That's the basic principle behind it. It's better to lead by example than words."

Boothe said Lake Brantley athletic director Bob Peterson, SAC executive secretary Russ McGonegal and Roll are all involved with the project.

All three attended a drug awareness program in Ocala last month, which was coordinated by former Minnesota Viking Carl Eller. The ex-NFL All-Pro admitted to cocaine addiction during the final years of his playing career and is considered one of the foremost authorities on substance abuse.

Boothe said Eller will be the featured speaker at Friday's in-service day.

Fred Rozelle, executive director of the Florida High School Activities Association, said the program had been discussed before at national meetings. "I'd have to see the results of it," Rozelle said Wednesday. "I'm interested to see how it works out."

While no poll or sampling was taken, there have been several reports of widespread use of drugs and alcohol among students, although no study has been made to show how much that might spill over to athletics in the school system.

Said one principal who asked not to be identified: "We think the biggest problem is drinking. There have been repeated instances at some schools where athletes have gotten in trouble over drinking. The main reason is to relieve the peer pressure. This test gives them an excuse to say no. It will give them an out."

There are an estimated 2,500 to 3,000 students involved in athletic programs throughout the school district.

ANC youth group was "unacceptable."

"It is the declared policy of the ANC to bring about changes in the Republic of South Africa through violence," the ministry said. "In the process, deeds of terrorism are perpetrated, including murdering civilians."

The government has said it will not talk to the ANC until the guerrillas renounce violence as a means of political reform in South Africa.

Five prominent white businessmen and the leader of the liberal white parliamentary opposition party, the Progressive Federal Party, have met with the ANC in the past month.

The meetings reportedly focused on ending the racial violence and developing a power-sharing formula suitable to all race groups. Botha denounced the talks.

In another development Wednesday, the controlling body of South Africa's medical profession expelled a white doctor for failing to treat Steve Biko, a black political detainee who died of brain damage after six days in police custody in 1977.

The 34-member South African Medical and Dental Council announced in Pretoria Wednesday it had expelled Dr. Benjamin Tucker, the district surgeon in Port Elizabeth during Biko's September 1977 detention.

Police shot and killed two people near Cape Town Wednesday and wounded three — including a 2-year-old child — in a clash with black rioters who threw stones and gasoline bombs at old Crossroads, a squatter camp on the eastern border of the city.

Residents of the city's black and mixed-race townships said a 14-year-old black girl was killed in another clash at the Nyanga railway station and a mixed-race youth was killed near the Hewitt teachers training college in Athlone.

More than 60 people have died in two months of racial violence around Cape Town, the worst unrest in the city's history.

Police confirmed the shooting of the two black men at Crossroads, but declined to confirm the other reports. At least 11 people were wounded by police Wednesday and eight were known to have been arrested.

Officers fired shotguns at mixed-race youths who gathered at the place where police ambushed rioters Tuesday, killing three people — including a 12-year-old boy.

The witnesses said trouble erupted when youths protested the police refusal to release the body of one person killed Tuesday so his parents could honor Moslem religious law requiring him to be buried before sunset the day after his death.

WEATHER

AREA FORECAST: Today...partly cloudy and warm with widely scattered showers and a few thunderstorms. High near 90. Northeast wind 10 to 15 mph. Rain chance 20 percent. Tonight...partly cloudy. Low in the low to mid 70s. Northeast wind 5 to 10 mph. Friday...partly cloudy and warm. A slight chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High near 90. Wind northeast around 15 mph. Rain chance 20 percent.

NATIONAL REPORT: Showers and thunderstorms doused the southern Rockies and southern high Plains early today, prompting a flash flood watch for parts of New Mexico, while temperatures dropped sharply in the Great Lakes region and the northeastern part of the country. In southern California, ocean breezes helped firefighters extinguish all but seven of the area's 19 fires Wednesday, and a forecast of fog today increased chances for an end to the blazes that have charred 80,000 acres and destroyed two dozen homes. Fair skies in the Great Lakes region and the northeastern part of the nation allowed temperatures to drop rapidly following afternoon highs in the 40s and 50s. Early today, the mercury had fallen to the 30s over much of the area, while northern lower Michigan had wintry temperatures in the upper 20s. In Alpena, Mich., the mercury hit 26 degrees shortly after midnight, tying the record low for that date set in 1977. Some of the thunderstorms that hit the southern Rockies and the southern high Plains early today produced heavy rain. Alamogordo, N.M., was drenched with an inch and a quarter of rain, while El Paso, Texas, got nearly an inch. A flash flood watch was posted for southeastern New Mexico. Ocean breezes in southern California Wednesday boosted the humidity level, which had hovered near zero since the series of brushfires began Monday, and provided a break from the up to 50 mph Santa Ana desert winds that had fanned the flames. Officials said favorable weather predicted for today would help firefighters control the blazes. Elsewhere, cloudy skies covered much of the south half of the Great Plains region, and clouds and fog were prevalent in the southeastern part of the nation. Dense fog cut visibilities to near zero in central North Carolina and southeastern Georgia. Strong, gusty winds swept across Montana and Wyoming Wednesday evening, gusting to 58 mph at Sheridan, Wyo., and to 61 mph at Billings, Mont. The high temperature for the nation Wednesday was 94 degrees at the Cecil Naval Air Station in Jacksonville, Fla.

EXTENDED FORECAST: Florida except northwest — Partly cloudy with warm afternoons. A chance of showers or thunderstorms mainly south Sunday and Monday. Lows in the 60s north and 70s south. Highs mid 80s to near 90.

BOATING FORECAST: Jupiter Inlet to Key Largo out to the Bahama Bank — Small craft should exercise caution. Wind northeast to east 15 to 20 knots through Friday. Sea 4 to 6 feet and higher in the Gulf Stream. Widely scattered showers and thunderstorms.

Boyle Adds Professional Touch To DeLand Invitational

Most of the top contenders for the state cross country (1A through 4A) titles will be on hand for Saturday's DeLand Invitational at the DeLand Airport.

By the end of last week, there were 99 teams entered, according to John Boyle, DeLand Invitational meet director.

Boyle isn't worried about the meet coming off well. He said it will be better than last year's meet.

"Last year's meet went real well," Boyle said. "But I'm trying to make it a lot better this year. A few things we didn't do last year were hand out ribbons at the chute and have printed out results. This year we will do both."

Boyle, who also was meet director at last year's state meet and will do the same again this season, is a professional at running off meets — literally.

"I put on races professionally and they've never had anybody like that do it before," Boyle said. "It's what I do."

This year's DeLand Invitational starts at 10 a.m. with the 1A-2A junior varsity girls. Following will be the 1A-2A JV boys, 1A-2A varsity girls, 1A-2 varsity boys, 3A JV girls, 3A JV boys, 3A varsity girls, 3A varsity boys, 4A JV girls, 4A JV boys, 4A varsity girls and 4A varsity boys. The final race is scheduled to start at 4:20 p.m.

Boyle said the course is in fair condition and that it has been changed a bit.

"The course is looking fair compared to where it was exactly at this time last year," he said. "There are a couple of spots that a real muddy because of the bad rain we had last week."

"And we've altered it somewhat."

added Boyle. "Where it used to go inside the fence, now goes outside the fence on the first loop so the runners are running on good, solid ground. It should be a faster course."

Boyle said almost all of the state contenders have entered with one of the few exceptions being Clearwater Countryside, the top ranked boys (4A) team.

1985 Road Racing Calendar:

● On Saturday at 8 a.m., Central Florida Masters will hold a three mile cross country meet at the DeLand Airport prior to the high school DeLand Invitational. For more information, contact Boyle at (904) 736-0002.

Other upcoming events on the Central Florida Masters schedule include a three mile prediction run on Dec. 31 at Daytona Beach and a half marathon-5K road race on Jan. 19 at DeLeon Springs.

● On Sunday, Walt Disney World will host the finals of a unique triathlon program for children — the Colonial Ironkids National Championship.

The event caps off a new series of short-distance triathlons which consist of swimming, cycling and running for boys and girls ages 7 to 14. Participants in the Ironkids Nationals will include winners advancing from preliminary competitions.

A limited number of children who could not compete at Clermont will be permitted to register directly for the national competition by contacting the Ironkids national headquarters at (619) 756-2413. These participants will be required to obtain a letter from a lifeguard or swim instructor demonstrating swimming ability.

Youngsters compete in two age divisions: Juniors (7 to 10) who must swim 100 meters, bike five kilometers (3.1 miles) and run one kilometer (.6 of a mile). For the Senior age group (11-14), the distances are doubled.

At Walt Disney World, the top boy and girl finisher at each age level will win $1,000 in U.S. savings bonds.

Verne's Precision Serves Cut Tribe — Lyman Falters

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

The way she serves with such efficiency, you might think Kim Verne carries a slide rule in her back pocket so she can find out the precise spot to stand and the exact number of inches to hit the ball over the net.

The Oviedo High senior knows that it doesn't take a math wizard to be a consistent server. It takes experience and plenty of practice.

Verne, also an outstanding setter, served 10 points in the second game Wednesday night to lift the Lady Lions to a 15-11 15-6 victory over Seminole High in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Oviedo High.

Oviedo, coming off a disappointing loss to Kissimmee Osceola on Tuesday, now stands at 13-3 overall and 5-2 in the SAC. The Lady Lions can clinch the Orange Belt Conference (8-1 record) tonight at home against Leesburg.

"The teamwork was much better tonight than against Osceola," Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said. "But we're still not where I want us to be."

Meanwhile, it was serving that and a breakdown in communication that kept the Lady Seminoles out of the match. The Tribe now stands at 5-4 overall and 2-4 in the conference. Seminole takes on Lake Howell (2-2 in SAC) tonight at 7 in an SAC match at Lake Howell.

"You can't play like six individuals and expect to win," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "Serving killed us, too. There are no excuses for the serves that went out (of play) and the lack of team play."

Seminole High played well in the very beginning of the match as it built a 5-0 lead. Sheri Peterson served a pair of points and Liz Long served three. Jackie Farr's block and an ace by Long led the way.

After the teams traded serves, Stephanie Nelson came on for the Lions and served six straight points as Oviedo erased Seminole's lead. Three of the senior standout's serves were aces included the one that put the Lions ahead, 6-5.

Oviedo went on to take a 9-6 lead as Verne served three points but Seminole came back with four straight on Peterson's serve for a 10-9 lead.

Cindy Wood served three points for Lady Lions for a 12-10 lead and, after Allison Smith's spike returned it to Oviedo, Nelson served to more points for a 14-10 lead.

Seminole made it 14-11 on Farr's serve and, after an Oviedo missed serve, Seminole got it back. But Kelly Price got in a spike to return serve to the Lions and Lisa Knapp served the final point of the opening game.

To start the second game, Seminole's Peterson hit her serve into the net. Verne then served three points, two of them aces, for a 3-0 lead. The teams then went through an entire rotation with only three points scored as Oviedo had a 4-2 lead.

Verne then put the Lady Lions in control. The smooth senior served seven straight (say that three times fast) points, only one of which was returned, for an 11-2 Oviedo lead. Verne's ace provided the fifth point and Nelson's spike accounted for the 11th.

"Kim (Verne) is getting more consistent every match," Carlson said. "She served really well today. She set well and played the back row well, too."

Oviedo went on to take a 14-4 lead before Seminole made it 14-6 on Yolanda Robinson's serve. Oviedo got it back and closed out the match on Jill Knutson's serve.

Seminole missed seven serves in game two, 11 for the match.

'Noles Confront No. 8 Sandcrabs

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Bolstered by their first win of the season, Seminole's Fighting Seminoles journey to Daytona Beach tonight to battle the Seabreeze Sandcrabs in District 4A-5 football at 7:30. The kickoff is one-half hour earlier than usual.

After losing the first four games of the season, Seminole knocked off Lake Brantley last week, 17-0. It was the first victory for Dave Mosure as the Seminoles' new coach. The Tribe is 0-1 in 4A-5 while Seabreeze is 1-0.

The Sandcrabs, 4-0, had last week off and are currently resting comfortably in the No. 8 slot of the Florida Sports Writers Association prep football poll. The Sandcrabs have whipped Spruce Creek, Oviedo, Titusville Astronaut and Daytona Beach Father Lopez.

Seabreeze slipped past Oviedo on a muddy field, 14-6. The 'Crabs took care of Astronaut, 12-0. Seminole lost to Astronaut in the season opener, 24-0, but Mosure said his Tribe has improved immensely since then.

Dave Rape, Seminole's flashy wide receiver, said the Tribe is ready despite the one less day to prepare. "We really worked those weeks after we lost the first four games and coach Mosure hasn't changed the schedule any just because we won," Rape said. "We know if we play our game, no turnovers or mistakes, we'll come out with a win."

Rape said Seabreeze ranks with Lake Mary and Astronaut as the 'Noles toughest foes but he pointed out one difference. "We've played big and slow teams and we've played small and quick teams," he said. "But Seabreeze is big and quick. They can give it to you with both ends of the barrel."

The Sand Crabs have been tough defensively but they haven't scored much. Two touchdowns have been the max. A fact that disturbs Mosure.

"They are just doing what is necessary to win, they're that good," Mosure said. "They've been off a week and this is their homecoming. They're just like a powder keg waiting to explode."

"We'll have our hands full."

Mosure said he hopes Rape, tight ends Sonny Osborn and Eddie Banks along with running backs Dwayne Willis, Willie Willis and Curtis Rudolph will have their hands full, too, — of passes from quarterback Jeff Blake.

"We're going to try and throw the ball," Mosure, who spotted a weakness in Seabreeze's flat coverage, said.

Seminole came out throwing against Lake Brantley but the first three tosses from Blake were dropped. Then, Blake overthrew several receivers. The strong-armed sophomore finished the first half with just 2 of 9 in the first half.

In the second half, though, he really put it together, hitting 6 of 8 attempts and one TD to Hillery for 14 yards. Hillery also dropped another easy toss in the end zone. Blake, the county's leading passer with 573 yards, was protected well and had his first game without an interception.

Defensively, Seminole came up with four interceptions — three by Daryl Taylor and one by Dennis Lawrence — to hold off the Patriots. "They moved the ball on us, though," Mosure said. "That's something we have to do a better job of against Seabreeze."

Missouri Match: Cardinals, K.C. Advance

Clark's Homer Dumps Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — To pitch or not to pitch to Jack Clark — that was the ninth-inning question. Fortunately for the Cardinals, Tommy Lasorda arrived at the wrong answer.

With Los Angeles leading 5-4, the Dodgers manager allowed reliever Tom Niedenfuer to face the St. Louis first baseman with two out, runners on second and third, and Andy Van Slyke on deck.

It took Clark one pitch and about 380 feet to destroy the strategy.

He pounded a waist-high fastball deep into the left-field bleachers, and the startling blow gave the Cardinals a 7-5 triumph in Game 6 of the National League playoffs, and the pennant.

"I thought they would get the count to 2-0 and try to make me hit a bad pitch, or go ahead and put me on," Clark said amid the sweet smell of champagne. "But they came right after me; they wanted me to make the out. They went for it and for some reason, the percentages came out in my favor."

N.L. Playoffs

ages in pitching to Clark. Los Angeles had issued nine intentional walks in the series — and gotten the next batter out every time. Slyke was batting .100 for the series; Clark was a .350 hitter.

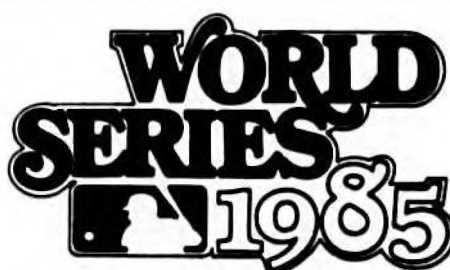

"It's the easiest thing in the world to say I should have walked him," Lasorda said. "But if he hit a deep fly to center field and they caught it for the third out, not one guy would say I should have walked him."

"Anyone can second-guess. I have to make the first guess."

After losing the first two games of the series, St. Louis meets the Royals in Kansas City Saturday for the start of the first all-Missouri World Series. It's the Cardinals' second pennant in four years and their 14th overall, a league record.

Show-Me State Rejoices Twice

On opposite edges of the Show-Me State, baseball fans rejoiced at the prospect of the first all-Missouri World Series since the St. Louis Browns and Cardinals faced off in 1944, and the first ever between Missouri's two largest cities.

Sundberg Knocks Out Toronto

TORONTO (UPI) — The Kansas City Royals entered the American League playoffs believing their left-handed starters could carry them past the Toronto Blue Jays.

They were right. Unexpectedly, though, those lefties who normally start excelled in relief roles.

Using a left-handed starter out of the bullpen for the second straight night, Kansas City capped a remarkable series comeback with a 6-2 victory over Toronto, creating an all-Missouri World Series against the St. Louis Cardinals beginning Saturday at Kansas City, 8:35 EDT.

The Royals became the fifth team in baseball history to erase a 3-1 deficit, and now will need to travel only the 250 miles along I-70 instead of the proverbial road home.

Left-hander Charlie Leibrandt's 5 1-3 innings of five-hit, two-run relief, along with the hitting of Pat Sheridan and Jim Sundberg, reversed Kansas City's tradition of playoff failure.

A.L. Playoffs

"If you pitch, and if you don't get blown out of ballgames," said Royals manager Dick Howser after the AL West champion beat the East winner for the first time in five years, "you've got a chance."

"I'm disappointed, I'm frustrated," Toronto manager Bob Cox said after ace Dave Stieb gave up a solo home run to Sheridan, who scored three times, and a bases-loaded triple to Sundberg, who also had an RBI single.

"We didn't have the luck," Cox said. "Luck and Willie Wilson. We'd hit a bullet up the alley and Wilson would run it down. He made a lot of good catches."

The difference, though, was pitching. Kansas City's left-handers, and eventually its right-handers as well, choked off Toronto.

See SUNDBERG, Page 9A

...Sundberg

Howser entered the series knowing the Blue Jays, who fell one victory short of 100, went only 30-28 with left-handed starters. With Charlie Leibrandt, Bud Black, Danny Jackson, he had three starters to shoot at Toronto along with righty Bret Saberhagen.

Jackson revived a team that was one game from elimination with an eight-hit shutout, and Howser revised his plans. He reinserted Mark Gubicza into the rotation and decided to use his lefties as the first men out of the bullpen.

That made Cox remove the left-handed hitting starters he platoons, and left the Blue Jays bare of left-handed hitters in the late innings.

"He criss-crossed them," one baseball man said. "He stripped them bare. Toronto didn't do a thing the last three games. And Kansas City won it with four innings of offense a game."

Howser's strategy worked. "because I had the players," he was careful to point out.

After Leibrandt was waxed in the opening game, Kansas City's left-handers held Toronto to 1.49 earned runs per game. They allowed six runs and 31 hits in 36 1-3 innings after compiling a 1.97 regular-season ERA against the Blue Jays.

It's that kind of pitching Kansas City will unleash on the St. Louis Cardinals, a much better hitting club against right-handers despite the presence of five switch-hitters.

"We could have scored a few more runs," Cox said. "All we had to do was win one of two games at home. I thought that coming home would be an advantage. But Wilson and Lonnie Smith ran down a lot of balls."

What Toronto needed was for someone to remove the right field fence. That would have given its outfielders a chance to run down some of the Kansas City hits.

"That ball Sundberg hit," Cox said of the sixth-inning ball that hit off the top of the fence and bounced back onto the warning track. "was a routine pop-up. The wind was very strong. It blew it out there. "And Sheridan's home run, that was wind-blown, too."

nesday night. Although the St. Louis County Police had dispatched an extra 150 officers to the airport, they and Cardinals officials were asking any other fans to stay home.

The Royals were expected to arrive in Kansas City at 2:30 p.m. today.

People began lining up downtown to buy tickets for bleachers and standing-room only positions at Busch Stadium for the series.

In Kansas City, fans were honking horns, waving banners out of car and building windows and screaming from sidewalks — even more than an hour after the game. Firecrackers were heard throughout the city following the final out for Kansas City's 6-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

The dream-come-true for Missouri baseball fans across the state, the "1-70 Series" was just what one follower of the sport has ordered for years.

relying on its most potent weapon. The club that swiped the NL East crown with 314 steals at a 77 percent success rate was just 6-for-12 stealing against the Dodgers.

"We did it without the stolen base, and that's a tribute to us," said second baseman Tommy Herr, who hit .333 for the series. "People thought we were a one-dimensional ballclub. We showed 'em we're more than that."

Mike Marshall had given the Dodgers the 5-4 edge in the eighth when he homed off eventual winner Todd Worrell. The drive looked like a routine fly to right center but kept carrying until it sailed just beyond the reach of a leaping Van Slyke, much to the delight of the 55,208 fans at Dodger Stadium.

Game 7 was two outs away when Niedenfuer fanned pinch-hitter Cesar Cedeno to open the ninth. But Willie McGee singled and dared to steal second, beating catcher Mike Setosela's one-bounce throw.

Niedenfuer then walked nemesis Ozzie Smith — selected the series Most Valuable Player after hitting .435 — and got Herr to ground out as the runners moved up. That set the stage for Clark.

"They said before the series that as Tom Niedenfuer goes, so goes the Dodgers," said the reliever, who served up Smith's game-winning homer in Game Five. "I didn't have a good series and we lost. It hurts; it hurts real bad."

The Cardinals appeared to be the ones in trouble, trailing 4-1 in the seventh against starter Orel Hershiser, who entered the game 12-0 with a 1.14 ERA at Dodger Stadium this year.

But Darrell Porter and Tito Landrum led off with singles and one out later McGee grounded a two-run single to center. Niedenfuer came on and Smith greeted the familiar face with a run-scoring triple into the right-field corner to tie the score.

In the bottom of the inning, Mariano Duncan — who had three hits — smacked a triple into the right-field corner. But with the infield in, Herr battled the sun and caught Ken Landeaux's pop on the edge of the outfield grass.

And after intentionally walking Pedro Guerrero, the Cardinals came up with the key defensive play of the game — turning a 6-4-3 double play on Bill Madlock, the Dodgers' top run producer in the series who had homered in the fifth.

Owners: No To TV Replay

NEW YORK (UPI) — Proponents of using television replays to aid certain calls by NFL officials may be just a bit ahead of their time.

While owners Wednesday voted down the idea for this year's playoffs, the vote was close enough to indicate such a plan may be adopted in the near future.

"A lot of 'em didn't give the reasons they voted no," said Tex Schramm, Dallas Cowboys president and leader of the pro-replay pack. "If they don't want it, they don't want it. I think it was a step forward. Other people disagree with me. And a lot of people voted for it. It failed narrowly."

With 25 of 28 clubs present, 19 favorable votes were needed to pass the proposal. There were 16 in favor, eight against and one abstention. Minnesota, Seattle and Tampa Bay were not present for the vote.

The proposal had endorsement of the Competition Committee, which Schramm heads.

Under the plan, replays would be used to aid calls on possession-type plays, such as receptions and fumbles. The league experimented with replay system in pre-season. NFL officials reviewed 28 exhibition season plays, and overturned one. Of the rest, officials' calls were confirmed 17 times, four were inconclusive, and there were no replays available on six.

Under the plan proposed Wednesday, the league would have its own video-cassette recording system to ensure availability of replays on all reviews.

However, the replay system has flaws. While viewing replays, officials might spot other officiating mistakes (missed penalties, etc.) which they would not be able to change. Also, other angles might be made available later in the week from NFL films or club films that show officials were originally correct on calls that were changed.

"A lot of people were concerned about changing a call and then another replay shows something else — double jeopardy," said New Orleans president Eddie Jones.

"When you talk about some things for so long, the negatives come up," said Washington general manager Bobby Beathard, who voted for use of replays.

Garden Show Features Plant Clinic

The Harry P. Leu Botanical Gardens in Orlando, will be the setting for the third Annual Central Florida Lawn and Garden Show, one of the largest such shows in the Southeast.

Featured will be exhibits by local plant societies and lawn-and-garden-care businesses; plant sales; a plant clinic; a fern-featured flower show; a bromelaid show; and talks by local horticultural experts; America's "master gardener," television personality and writer Jerry Baker; and Mel Bartholomew, author of "Square Foot Gardening".

Visitors are encouraged to bring examples of ailing flowers, vegetables, turf, shrubs and trees for diagnosis at a free plant clinic that will be set up just inside the entrance to the show. Gardening experts will analyze plant samples, test garden soil, identify plants and answer questions about gardening in Central Florida.

For the best diagnosis, gather a good sample of the problem — a plant limb with good and bad portions present, a jar containing several examples of offending insects or a square foot of sod that includes both good and bad portions of the lawn. Soil tests can be performed with just a pint of soil brought in a jar, box or bag.

In addition to admiring the indoor and outdoor plants being exhibited, gardening enthusiasts will be able to purchase specimens to take home and rear.

In conjunction with the Central Florida Lawn and Garden Show there will be a Horticulture Symposium on Friday, Oct. 18, beginning at 7 p.m. The symposium will feature prominent horticulturists who will make presentations and answer questions. The Horticulture Symposium is free and will be held at the Agriculture Center, 2350 East Michigan St. Orlando.

The historic Leu House Museum, which is furnished with turn-of-the-century antiques, has taken on a fern atmosphere for the show. "Echoes From The Past" is the theme of the standard flower show being held in the Leu House by District VII of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs. The house is open at no additional charge.

The Bromelaid Society of Central Florida will hold its annual show in conjunction with the lawn and garden show. There are more than 300 entries from around the southeast United States including Florida, Alabama, Georgia and Louisiana. Experts from the society will be available to answer questions about bromelaid culture.

The Gardens are at 1730 N. Forest Ave. Show hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Friday, Oct. 18; Saturday, Oct. 19 and Sunday, Oct. 20. Complimentary shuttle service will be running on Saturday and Sunday between Koger Office Complex (behind Orlando Fashion Square) and Leu Gardens. Gate admission to the show is $2 adults; children under 12 free.

BSP Chapter Slates Grocery Give-A-Way

Gamma Lambda, a local chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, will sell tickets Friday and Saturday, Oct. 18 and 19, from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m., in front of Publix, Sanford Plaza, for the Second Annual Grocery Give-A-Way.

According to Brenda Elswick, the grand prize will be $100 worth of groceries from Publix plus a variety of other prizes from local merchants to be given away. The sorority members will also be selling home-baked goods, candy, ceramics, other crafts and photographs. A 10 x 13 family portrait with choice of frame is available for a minimum price and will be delivered in time for Christmas.

Proceeds from the event will benefit several needy families with children during the Holiday Season.

Dad Wears Glasses, But Won't Admit To A Hearing Problem

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my dad, who is 65. He's not ashamed to wear bifocals, but he refuses to admit he can't hear.

Yesterday, the telephone rang and it was only 10 feet away, and he didn't even hear it! Worse yet, he drives a car and he can't hear the siren of an ambulance or fire engine until it's practically on top of him.

When my brothers and I try to talk to him about this, he gets belligerent and insists there is nothing wrong with his hearing and we should mind our own business! Our mother has given up. She just repeats everything two and three times and yells at him.

If older people aren't ashamed to wear glasses, why are they ashamed to wear a hearing aid?
A LOVING DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: That's a good question, especially since some of the newer-model hearing aids are practically invisible.

Nagging will only make your father more defensive and irritable, but don't give up trying to help him. Ask his physician to insist on a hearing test as part of his next physical. My mail tells me that a surprising number of people who suffer a hearing loss turn a deaf ear to those who try to help them. Vanity? Insanity!

DEAR ABBY: I have been in love with this man for five years. I'm 40 and he's 42. Three years ago he moved in with me. I've always been a good Christian, and it bothers me to know that I am living in sin. He's divorced. His wife left him for another man, which really tore him up. I was a 35-year-old virgin when we met. I never knew what love was until he came along.

He is a good and faithful man, but he refuses to marry me until he is sure he loves me. Abby, I am not dumb. I realize he may not be sure for another five years and I should send him packing, but keep hoping he will marry me. He has a good job and no responsibilities, so I can't understand why he won't marry me now.

It was his idea for me to write to you about this problem. What do you say?
HAD ENOUGH IN INDIANA

DEAR HAD ENOUGH: I say you've had more than enough. Give him three months to make up his mind, and if he still isn't sure, send him packing and get on with your life.

DEAR ABBY: A rather new friend of mine has asked me to be the godmother of her son. My question: Exactly what are my obligations as a godmother? I have heard that I have to pay for the child's christening outfit, as well as the church fees for the christening.

Also, what obligations will I have to this child throughout the lifetime?

Hurry your answer. I may not be able to afford this honor.
NEEDS INFO

DEAR NEEDS: The broad

Dear Abby

definition of a "godmother" is one who sponsors a child at its baptism. You would be wise to ask your friend what she perceives your responsibilities to be. If she is vague, ask her to please consult her clergyperson and then let you know.

Handling Depression Among The Elderly

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 85-year-old mother tried to commit suicide last year by taking a whole bottle of sleeping pills. She said she was lonely. She now lies in a nursing home and is very happy, but I still feel guilty about it. How common is suicide among the elderly? What could I have done to prevent this?

ach. Sometimes she is sick to her stomach, and she also has a sour burning in her throat. She's had upper G.I., gallbladder, gastric and other tests. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — Your mother may have a sensitive stomach that is readily affected by anxiety or stress. This

DEAR READER — Many people, as they age, become overwhelmingly lonely and depressed. The reasons are obvious: loss of health and abilities and a spouse, children who grow up and leave home to lead their own lives, and so forth. What your mother apparently needed — and has now been supplied — is companionship. I doubt that there was very much you could have done to prevent her suicide attempt, short of living with her and providing constant support. This option may not have been a realistic one for either of you.

I think it is time for you to let go of your guilt. Such feelings may contaminate your relation to your mother during the remaining years of her life. Rather than dwelling on the past, you will feel more comfortable looking to the future and living in today. Make an effort to visit your mother on a regular basis, if possible. Include her in holidays and celebrations. Write her. Telephone her. Let her know that she is still an important part of your life. With support from you, your family and the nursing home, your mother may be able to find new enjoyment in life; her depression may become an unpleasant memory.

Unfortunately, suicide in the elderly is a disturbingly common event, but it can be avoided if families anticipate a parent's needs and seek professional help when aging mothers and fathers seem to lose hope and appear to retreat into the quiet loneliness of old age.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Mother is 62, 145 pounds and in pretty good shape, except for stomach problems. She says it feels like she has butterflies in her stom-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

What a complicated game bridge is! So many rules — so much to think about. I know that you, dear reader, are a good player. Have you given much thought to how you can keep your partner from making a mistake?

North-South played a simple system. Three spades was natural and forcing after the two no-trump opening. North's four-club bid showed a maximum opener with good spade support and the club ace, but South had no interest in accepting a slam invitation.

The opening lead of the nine of hearts was by East's king, declarer playing low from dummy. East did not think it possible that West had a singleton heart, but certainly West could hold the diamond ace. Having figured that out, he led his lone diamond. Now I'll give you something to figure out. How in the world did declarer make his contract?

Easy. West decided that his partner had two diamonds plus the ace of spades. He ducked the diamond seven, hoping that when East won the spade ace, he would return his other diamond to West's ace and get a ruff. He was half-right — East did have the spade ace, but the other low diamond was in declarer's hand. Who made the mistake?

Strangely enough, East deserves most of the blame because he can eliminate any brainstorming by West. All he has to do is cash his spade ace before returning his singleton diamond. Now West has no alternative: He must take the first diamond and give his partner a ruff for the setting trick.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

OCTOBER 17, 1985
 Unique opportunities will come your way in the year ahead through channels you'd least expect. Be ready to move swiftly. Promising proposals may be made by people you know only casually.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You are well endowed with politeness, charm and tact. Don't let these important virtues desert you when dealing with friends today. Major changes are ahead for Libras in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take no actions today that are not in accord with your highest ideals and standards. If you do something of which you aren't proud, it'll be revealed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you give too much time today to non-essential interests, it will severely lessen your momentum for the truly important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your chances for getting what you go after today look rather good. However, be careful not to use others to gratify your desires.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Social situations will be managed correctly today, but in career matters you might be all thumbs. Do your best in both.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Confusion is a probability in a situation that calls for teamwork today. Each party might wrongly expect things from the other.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In your mind's eye, you will have bright ideas on how to handle what needs to be done today, but self-doubts could cause you to be indecisive and ineffective.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Circumstances will force you later to take care of tasks you neglect today. Unfortunately, they'll be even more unpleasant at this time.

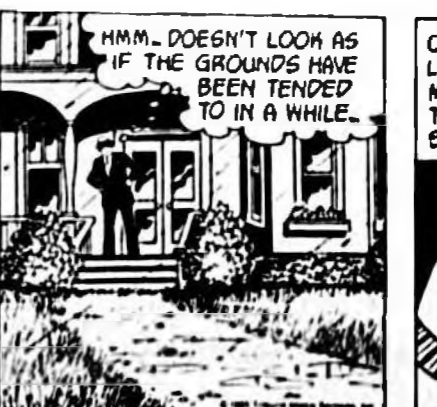

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be on guard today because Cupid might place forbidden temptations in your path. If there is someone with whom you shouldn't get involved, steer clear.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Go slowly at work today. If you experiment with shortcuts or labor-saving devices, they might turn out to be anything but that.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Do not be indifferent or too complacent about a serious matter today. If you play things too loosely, you may be inviting problems.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This could turn out to be a rather expensive day because you are financially impractical. Be budget-minded.

Payne-Wilson Vows Spoken

Jeannine K. Payne and Leslie R. Wilson Jr. were married Aug. 10, at 7 p.m., in the Church of the Nazarene, Sanford. The Rev. J.J. Hinton performed the double ring and candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Suzanne Payne, 1601 Forest Drive, Sanford, and James A. Payne Sr. of Central City, Ky. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L.R. Wilson Sr. of St. Augustine.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a Belgium lace gown embellished with embroidered organza flowers. Lace ruffles bordered the controlled skirt and sweeping cathedral train. Her veil of silk lace was attached to a halo of roses interspersed with seed pearls.

Jill Hunt attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a dusty rose gown, fashioned along the empire silhouette.

Bridesmaids were Ruth Daughtery and Jeanette Shepherd. Their gowns were identical to the honor attendant's.

Jimmy Hall served the bridegroom as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie R. Wilson Jr.

Usher-groomsman were Paul Payne and John Wilson.

Rachel Martin was the flower girl and Justin Payne was the ring bearer.

The reception was held at the Sanford Garden Club.

Assistants were Lennie Jimenez, Kelly Payne and Liz Payne.

The newlyweds are making their home in Orange City where the bridegroom is employed by Hall's Stucco.

EKU Alumni, Friends Invited To Reception

Eastern Kentucky University alumni and friends living in Florida are invited to attend a reception Saturday, Oct. 19.

The reception will be held from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Court of Flags Hotel, Orlando, prior to the ECU-University of Central Florida football game, at 7 p.m., in the Orlando Stadium (Citrus Bowl), Orlando.

EKU President and Mrs. Hanly Funderburk, members of the ECU Alumni Association and ECU Colonel Club (athletics boosters) and other university representatives will greet alumni and other friends during the afternoon poolside reception, according to Dr. Ron Wolfe, ECU director of alumni affairs.

For additional information, call the ECU Alumni Office at (606) 622-1260.

Woodruff Campaigns For Indigent Health-Care Bill

ORLANDO (UPI) — The campaign for indigent health care reform in Florida reached about midpoint Wednesday with Rep. Tom Woodruff stumping at Orlando Regional Medical Center and, as his practice, with newspaper editors.

Woodruff, a St. Petersburg Republican, has prefiled legislation that would raise up to $520 million for an indigent health-care program by adding one-half of 1 percent to the state's 5 percent sales tax.

He is not shy about selling the bill he says would save citizens millions of dollars in insurance premiums and out-of-pocket expense now passed on by doctors and hospitals uncompensated for indigent care.

"When you go in and look at your hospital bill when your wife has a baby and say to yourself, 'My God, why does it cost $5,000 to have a baby?' — maybe $1,000 of that bill is because a hospital ... has had to write off $10 million to $20 million in overhead expense because of indigent care," Woodruff said.

To apply what he calls "a little political pressure from the folks back home," Woodruff has taken his case to newspaper opinion writers in Tampa, St. Petersburg, Clearwater and Orlando. Still on the itinerary are stops in Jacksonville, Miami, Pensacola, Tallahassee and "points in between." The proposed bill would be administered through existing bureaucracy in the Department of Administration, costing about 1 percent of the money raised through the additional tax.

Qualified members of Florida's estimated 1.6 million uninsured indigent population would be issued insurance cards and use them at health-care facilities just as people insured at work do.

"If you're going to set up a program to take care of the indigent, it ought to be set up in a business-like way rather than the traditional government way," Woodruff said.

"We've always said on our side of the aisle that government does have some obligation to help its population. It's just that we've always been faced with plans that are typical government approaches and we've had to vote no."

EAL Eyes Pacific Skies

MIAMI (UPI) — Eastern Airlines filed an application with the Department of Transportation Tuesday to enter the lucrative Pacific market with flights from Seattle and Portland to Tokyo.

A Department of Transportation spokesman in Washington said it would be several months before a hearing would be held on the application and other airlines also would be invited to apply for the route.

Miami-based Eastern has no flights in the Pacific, but began ferrying passengers across the Atlantic for the first time in July when it took over bankrupt Air Florida's old Miami-to-London route.

Eastern has had its eye on the Tokyo route, as well as possible Atlanta-to-Tokyo flights and Los Angeles-to-Hawaii flights since last year.

"We think it will be a profitable route that will help out with our traffic between Miami and the Northwest," said Eastern spokesman Glenn Parsons.

Three airlines now fly from Seattle and Portland to Japan. They are Pan American World Airways, United and Northwest Airlines. DOT has said if United is successful in its plan to acquire Pan American's Pacific Division, it could conduct hearings to determine whether another carrier should be admitted to that market to replace Pan Am.

DOT has tentatively approved United's takeover of Pan Am's Pacific routes, but is not scheduled to make a final decision until the end of October. At that point, President Reagan will have 60 days to approve or reject the takeover, the DOT spokesman said.

"If Eastern has already filed an application, we might not require that they file another one," the spokesman said. "This one might suffice."

Eastern said it would fly widebody DC-10-30s to Tokyo, and noted that it has been flying to Seattle and Portland for 20 years from its hubs at Atlanta, Kansas City and Miami.

Eastern also hopes to expand its trans-Atlantic network. Parsons said the carrier filed preliminary documents with DOT seeking to fly from Miami to Madrid, and also hopes to eventually fly to Frankfurt.

New Threat To Citrus

MIAMI (UPI) — Nearly a dozen Florida Department of Agriculture inspectors pressed a search through the city's Little Haiti section Wednesday looking for shiny black insects that deform oranges and dry out citrus branches.

The search for black parlatoria scale insects is intended to determine how widespread the infestation is and what will have to be done to eradicate it.

Florida's $1-billion-a-year citrus industry has been endangered in recent years by citrus canker, Mediterranean fruit flies and freezes. Now, the scale insect has been found several times this week on citrus trees in Miami.

Dr. Avas Hamon of the agriculture department's inspection headquarters in Gainesville, Fla., said the extent of the problem probably won't be known until at least Friday.

"We're hoping to know something by the end of week but we're not certain," Hamon said Wednesday. "We just kept going outward until we don't find it any more."

He said any control measures will not include aerial spraying, which has been used for the Mediterranean fruit fly.

"It will be strictly ground control, but we don't know yet if it will be chemical or biological," he said.

The insect sucks the nutrients and water from citrus fruits and leaf cells, causing the leaves to yellow and the fruit to drop from trees before it is ripe.

"It is certainly not as serious as citrus canker because it is an insect and you can see it, so we can survey very effectively for it," said Ed Burns, chief inspector for the agriculture department in Miami.

He said officials suspect that it got to Dade County in fresh fruit, possibly from the Caribbean, that was contaminated by the insect.

The shiny, rectangular insects that look round to the naked eye have never been found, before in the continental United States, said Burns.

"We're seeing how far it is from the original location," he said. "Then we can make a decision" about an eradication program.

The insect was first discovered Oct. 7 during a routine canker inspection on a sour orange tree in northeast Miami's Haitian neighborhoods. Inspectors have since found them in 20 of 25 blocks surveyed around the original site, said survey team supervisor George Gwin.

He said they have been found on several kinds of fruit trees, including sweet and sour oranges, grapefruits and kumquats.

Burns said the extent of the infestation should be determined by the end of the week.

"I don't even expect it to get out of the Little Haiti area," said Gwin.

The adult parlatoria scale insect is about a tenth of an inch and is covered by a waxy shell, making it difficult to control with insecticides because the shell protects it from contact poisons.
