Length Of Life

Men of achievement lived, on an average, to a ripe old age 2000 or 3000 years ago as do the outstanding men of modern times, even though for the general population the average length-of life is by many years greater today than it was in antiquity.

The 62 famous men of old lived an average of 64.7 years, which, the statisticians point out, is not much different from the average age at death of a sample of 82 noted mathematicians of modern times, namely 64.4 years, and of a sample of 76 poets, namely 64.1 years.

The list of the men of antiquity includes three nonagenarians and eleven octogenarians. But on it are the names of Alexander the Great, Pericles and Terence, three men who died under or just over 30 years of age.

Some of the famous men of ancient times and their age at death were: Aeschylus, 69; Anacreon, 85; Aristotle, 62; Cato, the Elder, 85; Democritus, 90; Demosthenes, 62; Diogenes, 89; Dionysius, 65; Epicurus, 71; Euripides, 77; Herodotus, 89; Hippocrates, 85; Horace, 57; Isocrates, 98; Juvenal, 89; Livy, 76; Nepos, 75; Plutarch, 79; Plautus, 78; Plato, 80; Ptolemy, 70; Pythagoras, 74; Protagoras, 70; Pythagoras, 82; Seneca, 69; Solon, 80; Sophocles, 89; Themistocles, 66; Theophrastus, 84; and Xenophon, 73.

Florida annually spends millions of dollars unnecessarily in the importation of food products that might be grown within the state's boundaries, according to W. B. Bishop, speaker of the 1935 Florida House of Representatives, in Orlando recently.

Mr. Bishop, who in addition to being a legislator is also a successful farmer in north Florida, made this statement in an address before the Orlando Junior Chamber of Commerce. The address was broadcast over radio, and was delivered as part of a tour he is making of Florida in the interest of greater production and improved quality of Florida-produced goods.

Not only do Floridians buy millions of dollars of foodstuffs for importation, but generally they pay much higher prices for the same quality of products. Mr. Bishop said, citing comparative figures, based on government reports for the year 1934, to illustrate his point. The state, he said, produced 162,800,000 pounds of beef in the year, with market value of only $8,302,500, but imported 68,500,000 additional pounds at the much higher total cost of $10,500,000.

Florida's 81,000,000 pounds of pork had a market value of $5,022,000, he went on, "but the 58,000,000 imported pounds had a far greater cash value. As for poultry, the state produced only little more than half the amount imported—8,124,000 pounds against 14,500,000 pounds from the outside, but the native product had a value of only $1,723,000 as compared with $2,800,000 for the imports."

Mr. Bishop concluded with a plea for increased production and improved quality of Florida commodities.

No Reports Of Frost Damage; Warmer Friday

Mercury Down To 38 For Fourth Night; Great Lakes Snow Storm Sweeps East

Temperatures dropped to 38 degrees last night for the fourth consecutive night, and there was a heavy white frost, but no reports of damage to crops.

The weather man predicts that it will be "not quite so cold" tomorrow, the official prediction reading as follows:

"Fair to partly cloudy tonight and Friday, not quite so cold as last night, but with a chance of clear in interior to multitudes of extreme south portion; clear in extreme north Florida tomorrow.

Associated Press dispatches to The Herald this afternoon report that a blinding snow storm swept eastward from the Great Lakes region today after falling the middle of the night.

Air traffic was unaffected by the snow. Two transport ships were reported to be in the Gulf of Mexico, but heavy seas were reported to be in the Gulf of Mexico.

This Isn't 4th So Firecrackers Are Taboo, Says Chief

Chief of Police Ray Williams said today he had heard some exploding fireworks and there were many to issue the warning that a City ordinance prohibits setting off fireworks in the Sanford business area.

"While this isn't the Fourth of July, still many people like to shoot off fireworks during the holidays," said the chief. "That's all right, if they confine them to city regulations and cause no damage."

The first WPA class in attendance will be conducted by the Junior High School tomorrow evening at 7:30.

The Men's Club of the Episcopal Church is planning a dinner meeting early in January when it will honor the late Mr. J. M. Williams, a former member of the club.

Judge Raleigh W. Pittman of Tampa was in the city today, interviewing friends in connection with his announced candidacy for governor of Florida.

Five hundred dollars will be spent in remodeling the P. N. Whitehurst residence on Park Avenue at Seventh Street, according to a building permit issued yesterday.

High tides tomorrow will be at 10:30 A. M. and 4:10 P. M., and Sunday, Mrs. W. H. Taylor, 1015 P. M., the first time in months that the low tides have been exactly 12 hours apart.

Thefts Delay Construction Of Greenhouse

Many Window Frames And Much Sheeting To Be Used Again Stolen Last Night

More than two dozen window frames of varying sizes and some sheeting were stolen from the old greenhouse last night and unless they are recovered the construction of the new greenhouse and the establishment of the agricultural station in Sanford will be indefinitely delayed, it was reported by Dr. E. R. Purvis, director of the experiment station.

Dr. Purvis is of the opinion that the person who took the material some time during the night might be under the impression that it was old and worthless and would be discarded, and said he hoped that the person who took the material would be identified as a thief and the material returned to the station.

Plans for the new greenhouse on the six acre tract on Agriculture Avenue the City owns the acreage which disappeared cannot be started until the material is recovered, it was reported by Dr. Purvis.
