P&Z Berates Sanford Mayor, Manager For License Gaffe

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Angry Planning and Zoning commissioners for the city of Sanford passed a resolution recommending a business' occupational license be pulled and the city manager and mayor appear at their next meeting to explain how a business that has not met the requirements of its site plan managed to get a license to conduct business.

The commission, meeting Thursday at 7 p.m. in Sanford City Hall, passed the recommendation 8-0 with one member absent. Present were Chairman John Morris, Brent Carli, Sheila Roberts, Gary L. Davidson, Eddie Keith, John LeRoy, Dr. Hortense Evans and Jay Malone. Absent was Lon Howell.

The business that irked the commission was Beda Marine, at 2220 French Avenue, seller of marine items.

According to comments made during the other business portion of the meeting, the Beda Marine has not met site plan requirements the commission set for the business. That included removal of some trailers, blocking the view of some of the business' equipment and property from the street and putting concrete slabs under boats that were being offered for sale.

Commissioner Jay Malone initially made the motion to have the business license pulled and took issue with the city's staff for giving the business a license.

"Between the city commission's and the staff's capricious ways it makes this job very thankless," he said.

Bill Simmons, engineering and planning director for the city, agreed "in hindsight" that the business should not have been given a license until the conditions were met but he said the staff believed everything was done in good faith and expected the business to live up to its alleged agreements.

Mike Stubblefield, manager of Beda Marine, said he was surprised by the action of the P&Z board. He said the company received a letter from the city saying it had until the eighth of April to meet the site plan requirements. He said work was slowed last week because of rain.

Planning and Zoning members, however, were also miffed that the letter was sent to the company. Some members felt the sending of the letter took the issue out of the realm of their commission and placed it into the area of the Code Enforcement Board which, they said, usually takes months by law to resolve a noncompliance problem.

In other business, the commission approved the preliminary plat for the Brynhaven subdivision to be built near Sanora South near Sanford Avenue. The plan was approved, however, with the exclusion of one street right-of-way.

The incomplete street, Matthew Drive, would connect the Sanora development with Brynhaven if it were completed. Commissioner Carli said that many residents of Sanora do not want the street put through as it would increase traffic through the area. Further, the street would go through near recreational facilities and there was concern about over-taxing them, he said.

About 18 people attended the meeting to hear that issue, most of them against opening of the street.

Bundy Hearing Ordered

ATLANTA (UPI) — The 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ordered a federal court in Florida to hold a hearing on whether Ted Bundy was mentally competent to stand trial when he was convicted of killing two sorority sisters and a schoolgirl.

The appeals court emphasized Thursday that it did not mean to "suggest in any way that Bundy was incompetent to stand trial" and said the case was returned for the limited purpose of determining Bundy's competency.

"We hold simply that the district court's findings that Bundy failed to present evidence sufficient to warrant an evidentiary hearing on his competency to stand trial is clearly erroneous," the court said in an

Bundy, 40, was convicted of killing Florida State University students Lisa Levy and Margaret Bowman in a bloody rampage through the Chi Omega house Jan. 15, 1978, and of killing 12-year-old Lake City schoolgirl Kimberly Diane Leach the next month.

Bundy, a Utah law school dropout, is also suspected of killing more than three dozen young women in a cross-country rampage during the middle and late 1970s.

Since there was a "significant overlap in evidence" on Bundy's competence in the Chi Omega and Leach murder trials, the Florida district court was ordered to conduct a consolidated hearing.

Three death warrants have been signed for Bundy since March 1986 — two for the Chi Omega slayings and one for the Leach murder — but courts have intervened and stayed his execution.

Defense lawyer James Coleman claimed last month the lower court's failure to hold a hearing on Bundy's competency "deprived him of his due process right to a fair trial."

Mark Menser, assistant Florida attorney general, said the defense's claim was "utterly without merit" and one of Bundy's trial judges agreed.

"I have never seen a defendant or litigant more competent than Mr. Bundy," said Circuit Judge Wallace Jopling, who presided at the Leach trial.

"He was very articulate, well-educated and well-acquainted with the law. At times, he even knew more about the law than his attorneys."

Builder Fined For Tree Chopping

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission made an example of Energy Builders, Inc. of Lake Mary Thursday by fining the company $7,100 for six trees that were cut down by a surveyor or at one of the company's proposed subdivision sites in the city.

However, the commission agreed to set aside the fine and accept, in lieu of cash, an offer by the builder to leave several trees at the proposed development which were scheduled to be cut down.

The removal of the trees for which the company was fined was in violation of the city's arbor ordinance which says if a tree is not authorized for removal or is altered or damaged subjecting it to a premature death, the general contractor shall pay the city $100 per diameter inch of the tree measured at three feet above the ground.

Although the contractor claims he did not know the surveyor was removing the trees and tried to appeal the fine, the commission said that fining Energy Builders would give notice of their seriousness to enforce the arbor ordinance and prevent others, particularly surveyors, from cutting down trees without permission.

The surveying crew of C.A. Meyer Paving and Construction Co. cut the trees down at the company's proposed Eagle Creek Subdivision site one mile south of Lake Mary Boulevard on Longwood/Lake Mary Road, directly across from Lake Mary High School, a company official said.

Energy Builders' representatives, in their appeal of the fine, offered to not remove 143 inches of trunk diameter trees that are scheduled to be removed as part of the proposed right of way at the subdivision

Wife Jailed In Husband's Murder

A south Seminole County woman was booked into the county jail today on a charge of murder after being indicted by a grand jury Thursday.

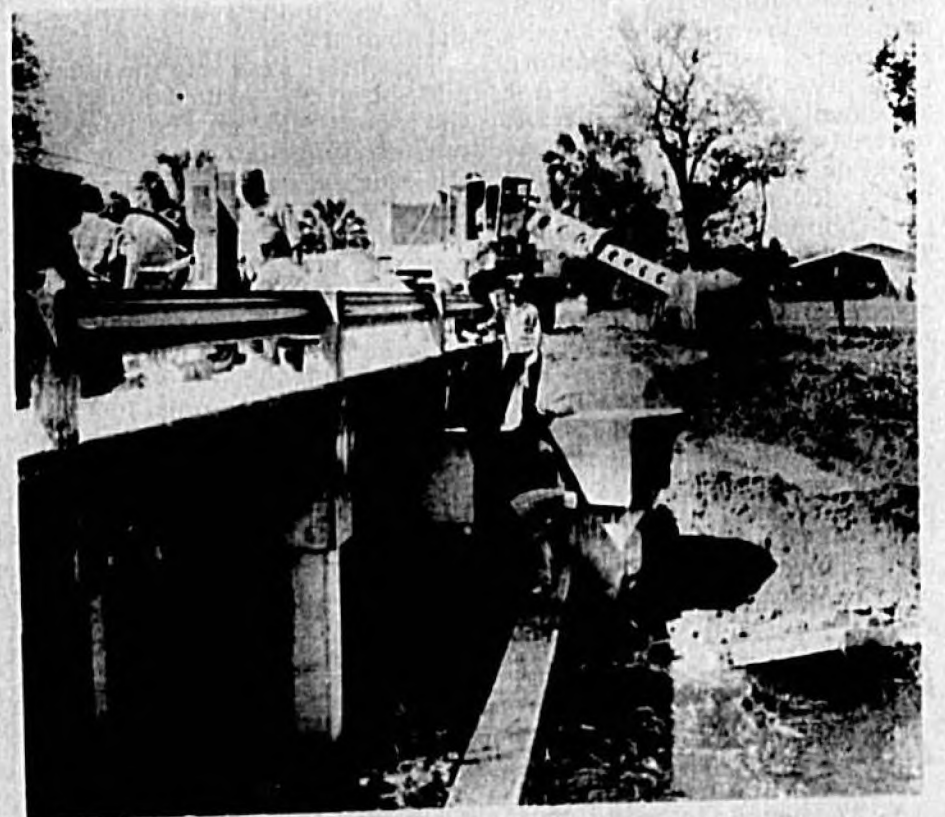

Being held without bond at 9 a.m. was Kimberly Bliss Soubielle, 21, of 2618 Tierra Circle. She is charged with the shooting death of her husband Pierre Soubielle, 25, of the same address.

Soubielle, a baker and a native of France, was shot in the chest while in the bedroom of the couple's home March 14, according to investigators. When a deputy arrived, Soubielle's body was found in the garage of the home and investigators said it appeared as if someone tried to put the wounded or dying man into the trunk of a car. The crime scene also had been cleaned, they say.

Mrs. Soubielle was arrested shortly after deputies arrived and was free on $5,000 bond until the indictment.

Bridge Work

Seminole County workers attempt to repair erosion under west side approach to bridge at Orange Boulevard, west of Interstate 4. County Roads Superintendent Jim Wilson said Thursday the bridge won't reopen before Tuesday.

Spring Forward

It's time to "spring forward" again, so don't forget to set your clock ahead an hour before you go to bed Saturday night. Daylight Saving Time will begin Sunday at 2 a.m.

On July 8, 1986, President Ronald Reagan signed legislation moving up the start of Daylight Saving Time, which used to start the last Sunday in April, to the first Sunday in April. Daylight Saving Time will still run until the last Sunday in October.

Petsos Takes Leave Of Absence

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

Lake Mary Mayor Dick Fess said Thursday at a city commission meeting that Commissioner Arthur "Buzz" Petsos informed the city by letter that he was taking a leave of absence from his commission duties effective immediately.

Petsos, 35, is free without bail, after being charged with the March 16 burglary of the Pic-a-Deli restaurant he once owned in Driftwood Plaza, 549 W. Lake Mary Boulevard, and for petty theft of bread, coffee, coffee filters and plastic trash bags.

Petsos told his lawyer, Jack Bridges of Sanford, that the charges, publicity and comments from Lake Mary citizens indicated to him that "it would be in the best interest of all concerned that I take this temporary leave of absence pending further action relating to the charges."

Petsos said he used his own key to get into the business after-hours to check receipts and see if the business was having trouble because a check to him from the owner had bounced. He said the owner later paid him the money.

Petsos, who had owned the restaurant until around February 1986, sold it to a woman in early 1986 and held a promissory note on it for about $25,000. The woman sold the business to Leo Cloos in October 1986 and Cloos apparently assumed all indebtedness, including the promissory note, according to police records.

A tentative trial date is scheduled to be set at a hearing Monday.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Reported Drug Sale To Agents Brings Delayed Arrest

A man who allegedly sold $20 worth of crack cocaine to a Sanford police agent at about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday wasn't found by police who immediately after the sale looked for him in the area where the sale occurred on west 13th Street in Sanford.

However, the suspect was spotted by police at a playground at William Clark Court at about 8 p.m. and the man was charged with sale and delivery and possession of cocaine.

Police reported the man had $70, including one of two $10 bills police had used in the earlier cocaine buy.

Kenneth Myles, 19, of 47 Lake Monroe Terrace, Sanford, has been charged in the case and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Driving Under Influence Arrests

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Donald Richard Mullen, 30, of 244 Ruth Blvd., Longwood, was arrested at 8:30 p.m. Thursday after his car was clocked traveling 52 mph in a 25 mph zone on County Road 15, Lake Mary. He was also charged with speeding.

—Richard Lee Tiefert, 33, K-198 Lake Shore Drive, Casselberry, after his car made a turn against a red arrow traffic light on State Road 438, Altamonte Springs.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Ann Boggs, 39, of 7414 Blue Jacket St., Winter Park, reported to sheriff's deputies Wednesday that $13,510 worth of jewelry including a $2,000 watch was stolen from her home.

Two televisions, a video recorder, a cassette player and other items with a total value of about $2,700 were stolen from the home of Charles L. Sentic, 57, of 3784 Okeechobee Circle, Casselberry, Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Son Arrested For Extortion Of Mother

A 38-year-old Sanford man who allegedly threatened to burn the home of his legally blind, 79-year-old mother and his 45-year-old sister, has been released on $1,500 bond after being arrested on a warrant by Seminole County sheriff's deputies Monday.

Seminole County sheriff's investigator Barry Brady said the charges of two counts of extortion stem from a November, 1986 incident during which the suspect poured gasoline inside his mother's home at 2188 Sipes Ave., Sanford, where she lives with his sister. He allegedly put a lit match in through a window. The suspect allegedly at that time demanded cash or else said he would set the home afire. The women feared for their lives and gave the suspect $40.

Brady said the same suspect had reportedly been involved in a similar incident in May, 1986, but his mother and sister at that time asked that he not be charged.

The threats continued. And during a time when the mother, Rosa Stewart, and her daughter, Henri Stewart, were staying in Miami, Brady said Ward Curtis Stewart, the suspect who lives behind his mother on the same property, allegedly rented out her home without permission and sold some kitchen appliances.

The State Attorney's Office issued the warrant for Stewart on the extortion charges, which brought his arrest Monday. The Seminole County sheriff's records division said they have no record of a court date having been set for Stewart in the case.

Woman Stabbed, Man Jailed

A Sanford woman was in stable condition early Friday in intensive care at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford with a stab wound to her abdomen. A man a police report referred to as her husband was jailed on a charge of aggravated battery following the stabbing at their home at about 8:45 p.m. Thursday.

Although a Sanford police report referred to the victim, Anna Arnold, 53, as the "wife" of the suspect, Grady Stringer, 68, both of 1011 Olive Ave., Police Chief Steve Harriett said Friday, because of the difference in their last names he isn't sure of their marital status.

A policeman who arrived at the suspect's home reported meeting Stringer on the porch.

Stringer reportedly told him his "wife was injured and lying on the kitchen floor."

The officer went into the home and found Ms. Arnold lying on the floor. She showed him a one-inch long stab wound on the left side of her abdomen. She pointed to a 15-inch long knife on top of the refrigerator and said she had been stabbed with it.

Stringer allegedly told police he took the knife from Ms. Arnold and stabbed her during a fight over him seeing another woman.

Ms. Arnold was transported to the hospital via ambulance.

Stringer was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond in the Seminole County jail.

Man Charged With Burglary At Home Of Ex-Girlfriend

A 32-year-old Winter Park man who had been staying with his ex-girlfriend at her home at 601 Seward Drive, Altamonte Springs, for a few days while his car was being repaired, reportedly resisted her request to leave and at about 8:40 p.m. Tuesday, allegedly tried to force entry to the home.

The victim, Betty Lou

Sangiorgi, 43, told police that she and the suspect had lived together at her home, but had broken off their relationship and he had moved out. The suspect had returned to stay at her home and to borrow a car from her for a few days while his car was being repaired, a police report said.

The work on his car was completed and the victim reportedly asked the man to leave her home at about 5 p.m. Tuesday. He refused to leave, so she left her home and returned at about 7:15 p.m. to find him gone. She locked the doors. At 8:35 p.m. Ms. Sangiorgi called Altamonte Springs police to her home to report an attempted break-in in progress. Police arrived to find the suspect outside the home and found signs of attempted forced entry to a patio door, the report said.

Rodney Jerome DeBoe, of 223 Sorrento Circle, was charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Prosecutor's EPA Inquiry Curbed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A special federal court ruling restricts an independent prosecutor from investigating two former top Justice Department officials in a probe of the administration's withholding of 1983 EPA files from Congress.

A special three-judge panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals rejected Thursday the bid of independent counsel Alexia Morrison to reverse Attorney General Edwin Meese, who refused her request to expand her year-old probe.

Within its ruling, however, the panel endorsed the 1978 law under which it appoints independent counsels as a constitutional way to "guard against the evils of massive conflicts of interest" in probes of top federal officials.

The court is the highest yet to support the law's constitutionality, which has been the focus of recent challenges in prominent cases: the Iran-Contra scandal and the perjury charges against ex-White House aide Michael Deaver.

Morrison had argued Meese's decisions last year to close investigations of former Deputy Attorney General Edward Schmults and former Assistant Attorney General Carol Dinkins were "more than wrong."

In court papers released with the ruling, she wrote, "They are also decisions which the attorney general should not have made because of an appearance of conflict of interest" stemming from his support for a presidential pardon for former Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Anne Gorsuch Burford.

Morrison noted Meese overrode recommendations from the Justice Department's Public Integrity Section that allegations against Schmults and Dinkins should be referred to a special prosecutor for further investigation.

To include the two former officials, Morrison asked the court for authority to broaden her probe of former Assistant Attorney General Theodore Olson's role in the 1983 withholding from Congress of files from the EPA's Superfund toxic waste cleanup program.

In a 41-page filing with the special court,

Morrison asked to expand the inquiry because the allegations "against Schmults and Dinkins, standing alone, warrant further investigation."

In agreeing with Meese, who opposed Morrison's petition, the court said the 1978 law by which she was appointed does not allow it "to refer allegations to the independent counsel when the attorney general has specifically determined ... that those allegations should not be pursued."

At the same time, the judges also said they have transferred to Morrison's authority an investigation of perjury allegations against Robert Perry, Perry, who had been under investigation by the Justice Department, was among 22 EPA officials who resigned in the furor that swept the agency four years ago.

Thursday's ruling appeared to limit any new investigation of Schmults and Dinkins to evidence that they conspired with Olson in misleading the House Judiciary Committee regarding the withholding of Superfund files.

If there is evidence Schmults or Dinkins broke the law, the judges wrote, Morrison must turn it over to the Justice Department, which "has expressed its willingness to consider such new evidence."

Still, Morrison's petition left open the possibility she would investigate Schmults and Dinkins despite the court ruling.

"(There is) the possibility that the actions of Schmults, Dinkins and Olson were taken pursuant to a concert of action involving some or all of them and designed to obstruct the committee's inquiry," she wrote. "If reliable conclusions are to be reached, analysis of any one allegation compels consideration of the others."

Asked about the ruling, Morrison refused comment except to say, "We obviously are going to analyze the court's decision and decide how to proceed."

Reached in Houston, where she practices law, Dinkins maintained her innocence but said she could not comment further until she sees the court papers.

Schmults, now working in Connecticut, could not be reached for comment.

Hostage Alann Steen Reported Near Death

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Hostage Jesse Turner, in a videotape released by his kidnapers, said fellow American hostage Alann Steen is near death and pleaded that their captors' demands for the release of Arab prisoners be met quickly.

"We hope that this will not be the last message we send before the death of our fellow Steen," Turner said in the three-minute color videotape delivered to the An-Nahar newspaper Thursday. "We feel that his life will be over in a few hours."

"We urge all those in Israel and in America who are interested in us to push as fast as possible on our administration and on the Israeli government to respond to the main measures (demands) that the Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine has set for a happy ending for the issue of Steen and for us also," Turner said, reading from a prepared statement possibly written by the kidnapers.

Turner said Steen's condition has been worsening despite treatment. He accused Washington of neglecting the hostages and said the Reagan administration must bear responsibility for their life or death.

Islamic Jihad for the Liberation of Palestine claims to hold Turner, 39, Steen, 47, fellow American Robert Polhill, 52, and Indian-born U.S. resident Mithleshwar Singh, The four — teachers at Beirut University College — were kidnapped from the school's campus Jan. 24.

The kidnapers have demanded the release of 400 Arab prisoners held in Israel but have said that because of Steen's serious condition they will free him separately — for 100 Arab prisoners.

The pro-Iranian Moslem fundamentalist group has demanded that the Reagan administration pressure Israel to meet its demands.

Republican '13' Put States First

ANALYSIS

By Joseph Mianowany

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 13 Republican senators who abandoned President Reagan to a bitter defeat on the highway bill agonized differently yet agreed in the end that their stake in the popular measure was worth more to them than his.

If Reagan had picked a different fight, several of them indicated after the Thursday showdown vote, the outcome very likely would have been different.

But his choice of the $88 billion measure offering jobs and the state-option 65 mph speed limit as his battleground for a bruising fight with Congress was simply a losing proposition from the start, they said.

"The political stupidity of this was just astounding," declared one of the 13 GOP rebels who asked not to be identified.

The fight over whether to override Reagan's veto of the popular highway bill was more than just a struggle over legislation. In the last week, it escalated publicly into a test of his leadership in the wake of the Iran-Contra scandal.

To differing degrees, the 13 Republicans had to make an excruciating decision — whether to change their earlier votes and kill a measure their states badly wanted simply to support the president who helped revitalize their party.

In the end, home state benefits that can translate into reelection support won out over party loyalty to a president who cannot run for office again.

"I saw this as a wrong area by which to test political will," said Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., "and I simply do not view this matter as the so-called budget buster" — the concern Reagan had in vetoing the costly bill.

Sen. Larry Pressler, R-S.D., called his vote "very painful" but said he just could not agree that an override would permanently harm the president.

The renegade Republicans ranged from liberal Sen. Lowell Weicker of Connecticut, who often opposes the president, to Sen. Steve Symms of Idaho, one of Reagan's staunchest conservative allies in Congress.

Weicker said many citizens think "everybody has a price" but Thursday's vote proved, "They don't."

Asked why he opposed the president, Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., said simply: "Because I disagree with him."

Reagan added immeasurably to the pressure Thursday with a rare, last-minute trip to Capitol Hill to lobby personally against the bill — meeting first with all but one of the 46 Senate Republicans and then separately with the renegade 13, some of whom were first swept into the Senate in Reagan's 1980 landslide.

If any one of the 13 had sided with Reagan, the president would have won. But they stood firm against him and joined all 54 Senate Democrats to provide just enough votes to override the veto 67-33.

By most accounts, Reagan made no threats in the private meeting but merely a straightforward appeal. Nonetheless, some lawmakers said the pressure was intense and at least one said administration officials indicated they were ready to address other concerns the senators had in exchange for their votes.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater told reporters the president literally begged for support.

Asked what he felt during the meeting, Sen. Thad Cochran, R-Miss., said, "I was wishing the president hadn't vetoed the bill. A lot of his friends had urged him not to veto the bill."

At one point, several senators said, someone suggested they could switch as a block and support Reagan. Only about half backed the idea and it collapsed.

Sen. Mitch McConnell, R-Ky., was one of those opposed to that notion, saying it "was like choosing between an individual suicide and a mass suicide."

McConnell said administration officials tried to find out "if there were any things, any problems that they could address" in Kentucky in exchange for his vote. For example, he said he had been trying without luck for several years to get action on several administrative problems in his state. Thursday, he said, those problems "all of a sudden could be handled" on an expedited basis.

McConnell said he wondered, "Where were you guys the last few years?" and decided, "It's just too damn late for that."

The other renegade Republicans were Sens. Christopher Bond and John Danforth of Missouri, John Heinz and Arlen Specter of Pennsylvania, Chic Hecht of Nevada and David Durenberger of Minnesota.

El Rukns Met With Gadhafi

CHICAGO (UPI) — Federal authorities charged members of the powerful El Rukn street gang met with Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi in 1986 and promised to commit terrorist acts around the United States in exchange for $2 million.

Two indictments Thursday against Reico Cranshaw, 56, and Leon McAnderson, 36, charged them with weapons violations and conspiring to act as paid terrorists for the government of Libya.

FBI Special Agent Ronald Reddy testified that Cranshaw, McAnderson and gang member Charles Knox met personally with Gadhafi in Tripoli in March 1986.

Defense lawyer Rick Halprin said his clients were in Libya at the time the FBI alleges and said Cranshaw "probably" met with Gadhafi. But Halprin called the conspiracy charges "very vague."

Cranshaw and McAnderson pleaded innocent during an arraignment before a detention hearing Thursday to the charges including attempting to receive a M-72 light anti-tank gun.

Nation Needs Volker Encore

As a dry, arcane discipline, economics has not generated much in the way of exciting folklore. But it does have one legendary knight, Paul A. Volcker, the economist who slew the inflationary dragon.

Mr. Volcker's term as chairman of the Federal Reserve expires Aug. 6, at which time he could choose to reenter the private sector and no doubt improve his government salary of $89,500 by astronomical proportions. We hope that doesn't happen. It would be in the nation's best interests for President Reagan to prevail upon him to stay for a third four-year term.

The duties of the Federal Reserve Board are a mystery to most citizens. The board is little understood and viewed largely as a dull entity having something to do with finance. Actually, the Federal Reserve System has a decisive impact on the economic civilization that 20th century man inhabits. One of its primary functions is to determine monetary policy for America's $4.2 trillion economy while taking into consideration such factors as the Third World debt crisis, inflation, recession, the oil question, the U.S. trade imbalance, domestic productivity and the government's pressing deficit. Obviously the Fed is a formidable juggling act.

It is important to note that fiscal decisions on taxing and spending are made by Congress and the president, not the Federal Reserve, whose job it is to deal with the results of those decisions. The outcome is supposed to be an economy that is not sabotaged by the gyrations of its own money supply. Under Mr. Volcker's direction, the results have been remarkably successful.

When he assumed office in 1979 the economy was in a critical state of stagnation, which is to say the economy was being simultaneously chilled by recession and heated by inflation. Wisely, Mr. Volcker attacked double-digit inflation first, and he courageously endured great criticism and pressure as he squeezed inflation out of the economy with tight-money policies. This helped to produce the most severe recession since the Great Depression. To President Reagan's great credit, the administration attack by Mr. Volcker's policies and inflation was defeated.

When the cigar-chomping Mr. Volcker first assumed his post, the ravaging inflation rate stood at 13.3 percent and interest rates were almost 16 percent. By 1982, inflation was at 3.9 percent, and last year it was down to 1.1 percent. And interest rates are down to 7.75 percent. Mr. Volcker these days is overseeing an expansion of the money supply to maintain a surprisingly prolonged economic boom, now in its fifth year.

Chairman Volcker has the respect of the U.S. economic community, some of whose members call him history's most successful central banker. He also is highly regarded by the central banking directors of America's major trading partners. Mr. Volcker, a Democrat, has some critics in both major parties, but there is a prevailing suspicion around Washington that he is, in fact, indispensable in his present position.

Because of retirements and resignations during the last six years, President Reagan has been able to name five of the seven members of the board. One seat remains to be filled. The other members are generally regarded as able, but their relative lack of experience is a compelling reason to retain Mr. Volcker, the legendary knight on horseback amidst the dragons.

CHUCK STONE

A Prayer For All TV Evangelist Dudes

My Harlem friend, Booker Lerol Jackson — that's Booker as in Washington, Lerol as in Jones, and Jackson as in Jesse — called me last night in a state of great distress.

He had written a prayer and wanted it shared with my newspaper readers:

"Yo, Lord.
"This be Booker, your main man.
"I'm comin' at you, Lord, because of the hymn we sang in church on Sunday — 'It's me, it's me, O Lord, standin' in the need of prayer,' and I do be standin' in the worst way.
"But so is a lotta preachers — Jim Bakker, Oral Roberts, Jimmy Swaggart, Pat Robertson, and Bill Gray.
"Don't get me wrong, Lord.
"I ain't puttin' Jim Bakker down.
"Shucks, did you check out that foxy lady who be openin' his nose?
"I'd a left Tammy, too, for Jessica Hahn. Ooh-wee, she fine.
"The good book says, 'The spirit is indeed willing, but the flesh is weak.'
"I ain't so sure Brother Bakker's flesh was weak when he messed with Jess. His flesh was strong!

"Besides, Lord, Brother Bakker figure he could get away with it 'cause one of your greatest kings, David, freaked out over Bathsheba, murdered her husband, Uriah, made her pregnant, and you ain't never punished him.

"I figure you forgave David 'cause Bathsheba's red hair was so pretty. I know she was a redhead 'cause Susan Hayward had red hair in the motion picture.

"But I'm a little shook up about Brother Bakker sayin' as how he been preachin' forgiveness and redemption and if it mean anythin', everybody goin' forgive him.

"Oh, I done forgive him already, Lord.

"I forgave Jessica Hahn, too. (I could forgive her better if I had her home phone number).

"I just can't forgive the $129 million Brother Bakker ripped off the people, buyin' Rolls Royces, expensive Palm Springs homes, diamonds and wearing them expensive imported shoes. Instead of homemade sandals like Jesus wore.

"The papers say Jimmy Swaggart tol' on Brother Bakker.

"I ain't surprised. Anybody who bad-mouths Catholics and Jews would tell on his momma.

"And, Lord, it be time to call that Jive Oral Roberts 'home.'

"He claim he be followin' the way of your son, J.C., but he really be livin' the way of J.R.

"Oral Roberts so good at bein' oral he conned a race track owner out of a $1.3 million check.

"That kind of hustlin' cured me of goin' to the race track. From now on, I just play the numbers. I figure if I win, it be just between me and you, Lord, and no middleman has to get his cut.

"Another dude who be hustlin' on television in your name, Pat Robertson, say he welcome 'the house cleanin'.

"I do, too. The voters goin' clean his house right out of the presidency 'cause any dude who believe he can pray a hurricane away ain't playin' with a full deck.

"But one thing I dig 'bout you, Lord, is you be an equal-opportunity God.

Southern Primaries Sans Son

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With Sen. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas permanently wed to his role as spectator and Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia stepping away, the Democratic primaries in the South will almost certainly go off without a native son in the field.

With the exception, of course, of Jesse Jackson, a son of South Carolina who made his mark in Chicago and now roams the country and the world in pursuit of his goals.

Arkansas Gov. Bill Clinton may still become a candidate for the White House, first waiting patiently for Bumpers to end his personal agonizing and now on hold until the Arkansas Legislature completes its business.

Bumpers, the highly admired and eloquent razorback, firmly took himself out of the contest for the Democratic nomination, ending the speculation that blazes around him every four years.

And Nunn, although not formally out of it, concedes that his self-imposed delay in making a decision works against his candidacy. The time to get in, Nunn is frank to say, was six months ago.

The confluence of the Southern primaries, which take in every state south of the Mason-Dixon line and some on the outskirts, was designed primarily to give the South a bigger voice in the selection of the Republican and Democratic nominees. Just about a fourth of the delegates will be chosen the week of March 8.

The absence of a Southerner in the field of Democrats does not detract from that regional goal. What it probably does, however, is increase the possibility of splintered results.

Nor was there ever any assurance that a Southerner could sweep the Southern states and emerge from that area of the nation with a monolithic bloc of delegates before the primaries head to the Midwest and Western states.

In fact, a Roper poll published by the Atlanta Constitution argues against that kind of outcome.

For instance, that poll, conducted in 12 Southern and border states, showed that in a field of five — Gary Hart, Richard Gephardt, Nunn, Jackson and Bumpers — Hart would win easily with 35 percent of the vote.

Hart is followed by Jackson with 21 percent, Nunn 11 percent, Bumpers 6 percent and Gephardt 4 percent. Another 18 percent of the

Malaysian Students Flock To America

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Here's a bizarre twist on America's trade war with friendly nations: The United States has actually benefited from one rival government's exclusionary policy.

The modest but potentially far-reaching victory in the battle to trim the U.S. trade deficit came when British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher stopped foreign students with a prohibitive increase in the fees they pay to study at British universities. As a result, students from the former British colony of Malaysia, who for generations had gone to Britain for their higher education, have come to the United States instead.

There are now an estimated 25,000 Malaysian students in this country, the largest contingent of students from any foreign country. The money they spend on their American education amounts to some $300 million a year — not a

ROBERT WAGMAN

Contra's Ready?

MEXICO CITY (NEA) — Sources close to the contra leadership report that several thousand Nicaraguan rebel soldiers have been trained by the Pentagon and CIA over the past few months in preparation for the largest offensive yet against the Sandinista government.

But there is a bitter argument within the contra leadership as to what tactics this offensive should employ.

From late 1985 until October 1986 the CIA was barred by law from training the contras or giving them logistical support (though recent events suggest that, in some instances, this prohibition was ignored).

But since the law was reversed last October, the CIA has become heavily involved in training and in planning tactics for the coming offensive.

In short, the CIA is trying to bring about a major reordering of contra military priorities.

For the past several years the contras have been satisfied with attacking small, remote villages — usually weakly defended by ill-trained and poorly equipped Sandinista reservists — and destroying small medical or co-op farming installations.

Now, however, in light of increased U.S. aid and training, U.S. advisers are demanding that the contras begin taking the fight to the regular Sandinista army and concentrate on destruction of strategically important targets — power stations, main roads and bridges.

They have also been giving the contra soldiers intensive instruction in the respect of human rights and in not inflicting harm on the civilian population or essentially civilian targets. But U.S. advisers have reportedly met some resistance.

It is much easier to attack lightly defended targets, and some contra commanders fear taking on Sandinista regulars given the numerical superiority of the army.

Still, the contras and their supporters know they must soon prove their effectiveness or else all hope of future U.S. aid may be lost.

Sources close to the anti-Sandinista leadership report that almost a thousand contras have been trained as unit field commanders. Each will lead from six to a dozen soldiers, instructors and combat medics.

In addition, reportedly more than 200 fighters have been readied as demolition specialists, trained to infiltrate Nicaragua and blow up bridges, power facilities, dams and other strategic targets.

Since the United States has taken over the supervision of the contras' training, both the number of contras involved and the sophistication of the training appear higher.

Much of the training has taken place in Honduras. But some, especially of higher-level field commanders, has taken place in the United States.

In early December, several hundred middle-level contra officers "graduated" from a six-week training program conducted by Spanish-speaking U.S. Army special forces instructors at a military base in northern Florida, possibly Eglin Air Force Base.

The contras and their supporters in Washington are under intense pressure to prove they can be effective against the 60,000-member Sandinista army.

Infrared Clues To Galaxy

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

BOSTON (UPI) — From seemingly vacant black voids in the nighttime sky comes invisible infrared radiation that may help astronomers find new stars and possibly even planets and understand more about the galaxy.

Scientists at Tufts University are using the latest technology in digital imagery to try to refine a map of infrared energy in the sky.

"The energy in the celestial sphere could be considered a map," said Robert A. Gonsalves, director of Tufts' Electro-Optics Technology Laboratory who is heading a three-year project sponsored by the Air Force. "When you look at the star you see stars, but there's also infrared energy."

The researchers are working with data gathered in 1983 by the Infrared Astronomical Satellite, which was launched by the Netherlands, Britain and the United States.

The satellite collected information about celestial sources of infrared energy, which has long wavelengths invisible to the eye.

"We want to see if there are things visible in the infrared that are not visible in the visible," said Gonsalves.

Many celestial bodies are surrounded by thick dust clouds that absorb visible energy. So the only way to "see" them is through the infrared energy they produce.

"Areas where stars are being born and where stars are in the death throes are surrounded by large amounts of dust which obscures what we would see in the visual," said Stephan Price, an astronomer with the Air Force Geophysics Laboratory. "Our understanding of the whole process, where these stars are and the structure of our galaxy would be tremendously increased."

The data gathered by the satellite was originally used to produce images. But those images were fuzzy and contained large inexact blobs wherever infrared energy was detected, making it impossible to define the exact location of the source.

"The analogy is a near-sighted person traveling to a new place. Everything is fuzzy," said Price.

The researchers are concentrating on several small sections of the sky to refine the mathematical formulas and procedures they are using, said Gonsalves. Once a process is developed that appears effective, it will be applied to all the data, he said.

ities exports gave the country a healthy 8 percent annual growth rate. But the world demand has dropped drastically for Malaysia's products: rubber, tin, oil and other raw materials. The rise in synthetics and the drop in petroleum prices have dealt a drastic blow to the Malaysian economy, which grew only 1 percent last year.

Mahathir's solution to the problem has been to push his country into labor-intensive manufacturing.

"We want to go into certain areas that we think are no longer economical in developed countries ... because of the high cost of labor," Mahathir explained. "That is why our electronics industry has picked up tremendously. Malaysia is the third biggest exporter of microchips in the world, after the United States and Japan."

Malaysians have another venture that they hope will put their country on the world trade map: a car called the Proton Saga, planned for introduction soon in the U.S. market.

Embassy Security Checked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With a new report today that President Reagan was warned two years ago of security risks at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, the embassy security chief is being recalled for questioning in a widening spy scandal.

Frederick Mecke, an 11-year State Department veteran who has supervised the embassy's 28-man Marine guard contingent since 1985, is "temporarily returning to Washington" to consult with investigators, according to a spokesman.

"He is a key person in the chain of command and as a consequence he's in a position to know how things developed there," spokesman Charles Redman said Thursday at the State Department.

As probes widened into the sex-for-secrets crisis that has led to the jailing of three Marine suspects, the House Foreign Affairs Committee arranged to hear testimony today from Arthur Hartman, ambassador to Moscow during the period in question, and Assistant Secretary of State Robert Lamb, director of the State Department's security bureau.

And in a new development, The New York Times reported today that a secret report sent to Reagan two years ago by an advisory intelligence panel warned the embassy in Moscow was vulnerable to Soviet espionage.

Quoting government officials, some of whom have been critical of the State Department, the newspaper said that report helped persuade Reagan to approve a plan to reduce the number of Soviet employees in the embassy but prompted few appreciable changes in security procedures.

The report was prepared by the president's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, a group of private citizens who conduct independent reviews of such issues. One source familiar with the board's work told The Times that Perot resigned from the panel in disgust in early 1985 because the government had failed to heed the advice about the Moscow embassy.

The source said that at one of the board's hearings, a State Department official said it would be too expensive to replace 200 Soviet employees of the embassy with Americans.

Webster Will Face Iran-Contra Questions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Questions on the Iran-Contra scandal await William Webster at hearings on his nomination to become CIA director, but Senate Intelligence Committee leaders see nothing that would prevent his confirmation.

The chairman and vice chairman of the panel that will conduct the hearings said Thursday the FBI director's apparent limited involvement in the affair will be among the broad issues he will face at the hearing expected next week.

"In saying he'll be asked about these questions, I want to make it clear ... I have no reason to believe at this point that his answers will not be satisfactory," said Chairman David Boren, D-Okla.

Asked if he knew of anything that would imperil the nomination, the senator replied, "I do not at this point."

Asked the same question, Vice Chairman William Cohen, R-Maine, said, "Who knows? But I'm not aware of anything."

A congressional source, speaking on the condition of anonymity, cautioned that Webster faces "a lot of hard questions" and that the panel will not be a "rubber stamp," but said he generally agreed the nomination looks safe heading into the hearing.

However, the source added, "I also thought that in the Gates case."

The committee held two days of hearings in February on the nomination of acting CIA Director Robert Gates to succeed the ailing William Casey as the nation's top spy. But Gates, who was Casey's deputy during part of the crisis, was seen as too close to the scandal and withdrew his nomination March 2.

President Reagan asked Gates to stay on as deputy director and then nominated Webster, a respected former federal judge praised for his reform and operation of the FBI since 1978.

Webster's nomination was seen widely as an administration attempt to free the appointment from the continuing turmoil that surrounds the sale of arms to Iran and the scheme to divert profits to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

But Intelligence Committee officials said Webster will face questioning about his actions in at least two aspects of the scandal:

—Agreeing in October to a request from Attorney General Edwin Meese to delay in the FBI probe of Southern Air Transport Inc., a Miami air cargo firm once owned by the CIA and now linked to Contra supply efforts.

—Agreeing with Meese's decision in November not to bring the FBI into the Justice Department's initial inquiry of the Iran affair.

Cured: 9-Run Inning Lifts Lady Patriots

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots found an instant cure for their hitting slump Thursday afternoon with a nine-run, nine-hit fifth-inning explosion that paved the way for a big 12-6 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Lake Mary's Lady Rams before 101 fans at Lake Mary High.

"We turned things around against a strong team today," Lake Brantley coach Renny Betris said. "This was the game we needed to break through and come out of our hitting slump and that's what we did."

The triumph put the Lady Patriots right back in the thick of things in the SAC. Brantley, 9-5 overall, now stands at 4-2 in the league and remains one game behind league-leading Oviedo.

Lake Mary now stands at 3-2 in the SAC and 7-6 overall. The Lady Rams have another crucial league game today at home against Lake Howell.

"There's not much you can do when the other team hits the ball like that," Lake Mary coach Karen Nolen said. "We did the same thing to Mainland yesterday. It's always an emotional game when we play Lake Brantley but now we have to come back and get up again for Lake Howell tomorrow."

Lake Mary came out swinging Thursday and built a 4-0 lead after one inning and the Lady Rams held a 4-1 lead going into the top of the fifth.

Chris Calabrese and Chris Rabaja both reached on errors to open the fifth and Heather Meyer followed with the first of her two hits in the inning, a single that drove in Calabrese. With runners on second and third and no outs, Tracy Brandenburg stepped up and drilled a single to right center that scored Rabaja and Meyer to tie the score at 4-4.

Brantley continued its awesome hitting display as Mandy Mathiesen and Michelle Weston stroked singles to load the bases and Tina Wilson, who was 4 for 4 for the game, singled past a drawn in infield to score Brandenburg for 5-4 Brantley lead. Kim Robinson followed with the sixth consecutive hit of the inning as she singled to left to drive in Mathiesen for a 6-4 lead.

Lake Mary got the first out of the frame when Wendy Vickery hit into a force play but Stacy Brandenburg kept the rally going with a base hit that scored Wilson. Calabrese followed with a single to left to drive in Robinson and, with two outs, Meyer ripped a single to right center to chase home Stacy Brandenburg and Calabrese for a 10-4 Brantley lead.

"Lake Mary is our main rival and we always get psyched for them," Meyer, who was 3 for 3 in the game, said. "This game is what we really needed and I think it will be a turning point in our season."

Lake Brantley, which had 17 hits in the game, added two more runs in the top of the sixth when Weston singled and Wilson followed with an RBI triple to the gap in right center. Weston then scored on Robinson's groundout for a 12-4 Lady Patriot lead. For the game, Wilson had two singles, a double, a triple, two RBIs and scored three times.

Lake Mary scored twice in the bottom of the sixth on Brooke Taylor's RBI single and Paula Songer's RBI groundout. In the first, Taylor drilled a two-run double and Sharon Bonaventure and Teri Peters also had run-scoring singles. Bonaventure was 3 for 3 for the game and has eight consecutive hits over the last two games.

Vickery, playing second base, put a quick end to any Lake Mary rally hopes in the bottom of the seventh when she made a diving catch of a line drive to rob Laurie Leiffer of a base hit.

OVIEDO RIPS LYMAN, KEEPS SAC LEAD
After being held to one run over the first four frames, Oviedo exploded for 15 runs in the last three innings en route to a 16-1 victory over Lyman Thursday afternoon at Lyman High.

The victory was the fourth in a row for the Lady Lions who improved to 15-5 overall and 5-1 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. Oviedo remains in sole possession of first place in the SAC. The improving Lyman team now stands at 0-15 overall and 0-6 in the league.

Lyman took a 1-0 lead in the third inning and Oviedo tied it in the bottom of the fourth.

"After the fourth, we had a little pep talk and the girls scored six runs the next inning on some good hits," Oviedo coach Jackie Miller said. "We hit the ball much better today and the defense played really well to hold Lyman to only one run on nine hits."

Teri Coe led the 15-hit Oviedo attack as she was 2 for 4 with five RBIs. Corrie Lawson, Jodie Switzer and Jessica Bradley had two hits and two RBIs each. Jill Knutson was 1 for 4 and drove in three runs while Anna Hollis and Kelli Gaines also contributed two hits each.

Oviedo returns to SAC action Tuesday against Lake Howell.

'No-Hitter's Day' Pitch Is Saturday

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Wes Rinker, an old pitcher, and Susan Brandenburg, a new pitcher, will combine forces Saturday to throw out "No-Hitter's Day" at Sanford Memorial Stadium. The "Day," sponsored by the Seminole County Child Abuse Prevention Task Force and Rinker, will run from noon to 9 p.m.

Rinker, a left-hander, and Brandenburg, a right-hander, have one thing in common despite hurling from opposite sides: Each wants to stamp out child abuse in America.

"Child abuse is everyone's problem," Brandenburg said. "Since April is Child Abuse Prevention Month, we hope to involve hundreds of local families in 'No-Hitter's Day.'"

Rinker and Brandenburg, who will serve co-masters of ceremony, will introduce the celebrities at noon.

Yvonne Young is up next with her Clubhouse Kids, Just Say No Kids and Teen Rap Kids who will form a circle of love in the center of the field. Brandenburg will then introduce the Just Say No Kid who will lead the group in the pledge.

The first exhibition game will take place at 1 p.m. between Seminole and Oviedo high junior varsities. At 4:30 p.m., two teams from the Altamonte Little League Major Division will play. At 6 p.m., a girls softball game between teams from the Seminole Softball Club will take place.

A co-ed celebrity softball game between the Task Force and the Media will conclude the exhibition activities at 7:15 p.m.

"We're Rosie's Hot Air Balloon, my balloon (High Fly), Cruise Air Balloon (Kimmissee) and Rise and Float Balloon (Orlando)," Rinker said. "Most Valuable Players will receive a free champagne flight."

Disaster II: Lady Hawks Rout Tribe, 19-1

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

CASSELBERRY — Seminole girls' softball coach Lance Abney probably thought that disaster could not strike twice in one week.

After Seminole was embarrassed, 18-0, against DeLand on Wednesday, Abney was looking for his squad to come back strong against Lake Howell.

What he got instead, was another disastrous performance as Lake Howell bombarded Seminole, 19-1, in Seminole Athletic Conference girls' softball action before 55 fans at Lake Howell at Lake Howell High.

"They just beat our tails all over the field," Abney said. "I really don't know what the problem is."

The victory ups Lake Howell to 9-6 overall and 3-2 in the SAC. The setback drops the Tribe to 6-6 and

2-4. Lake Howell will travel to Lake Mary today at 4:30 in another key SAC contest.

Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said that she was pleased with her team's performance. "We didn't touch a ball for 13 days before our first practice on Tuesday," Luciano said. "The girls really hit the ball, and played sound defense."

Seminole upset Lake Howell, 21-11, earlier in the season. Luciano said that revenge was a key inspirational factor. "We had something to prove to them," Luciano said. "And the kids did."

Lake Howell pitcher Stormi Littrell went three innings and tossed a one-hitter for the Lady Silver Hawks.

Littrell is now 9-6. Debbie McDonough relieved Littrell in the fourth and gave up three hits. Seminole pitcher Lori Bird went the distance for Seminole. Bird's record fell to 2-2.

Lake Howell pounded the ball as the Hawks had 18 hits. Seminole was held to four hits. Abney said that the Tribe misses regular pitcher Jackie Suggs. Suggs was declared academically ineligible for not maintaining a 1.5 grade point average.

"Losing Jackie really hurt us," Abney said. "Lori is doing a heck of a job out there, but its tough to lose your regular pitcher in the middle of the season."

Seminole has had its defensive problems in the last two games as the Noles committed 14 errors against DeLand, and eight against Lake Howell. "We were averaging only three errors a game," Abney said. "I guess Spring Break may have hurt our defense. We will work on our defense a lot in practice."

Howell had a balanced hitting attack as every starter recorded a hit. Erin Hankins, Leslie Barton, and Julie Barton all led the way for Howell with three hits apiece. Tammy Lewis, Alicia Dinkelacker, and Littrell all had two.

The contest gave some of the Howell hitters, who are some of the best in the county, a chance to boost their averages. Julie Barton is second in the SAC with a .500 average and lifted her average by a few points. Leslie Barton is fifth with a .478 mark, and Hankins is 11th with a .398 average.

Tammy Bailey, Sheri Peterson, and Shelly Sanders all had hits for Seminole.

Tuttle: White Flag Won't Wash

By Sam Cook
Special to the Herald

Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle, who has been at the forefront of the Seminole Athletic Conference baseball standings for two years now, wants to know why the SAC coaches are waving white flags with one hand and penciling in their best pitcher with the other.

"All I hear is that they're out of the race," Tuttle said Thursday night about the rest of the SAC coaches. "But when it comes time to play Lake Mary, here comes their No. 1 pitcher."

Fifth-ranked (4A) Lake Mary, 16-2 overall 5-0 in the SAC, has a one and one-half game lead over Lake Howell (4-2). Oviedo (3-3), Seminole (2-3), Lyman (1-4) and Brantley (1-4) have been reduced to spoilers.

Tuttle said despite his team's one and one-half game lead halfway through the SAC schedule, the race is far from finished. "I don't think that anything isiced yet," Tuttle said. "I'll call it off when we're three up with two to go."

Tuttle, whose Rams used five runs batted in from Ryan Lisle to flatten DeLand, 12-7, in nonconference play Thursday, said tonight's opponent Lake Brantley is a perfect example. First pitch is 7 p.m. at Lake Brantley High School.

Tuttle said Brantley coach Mike Smith's pitching strategy Wednesday is an example of how badly he wants to beat the Rams tonight. "He loses game to Oviedo and has his two best pitchers (Greg Ebbert and Ed Dickmyer) sitting on bench waiting for Lake Mary High School," Tuttle said. "If these guys think they're out of it, let them concede right now, we'll take it."

Smith, nevertheless, said Tuttle is wrong. "We've got a three-man rotation and we try to win every game. It was Randy Green's turn to pitch," he said. "We'll pitch Ed Dickmyer. We may not get them (Lake Mary) tomorrow night but we're going to get them at the district tournament." He added he is saving Ebbert for Apopka Saturday.

Tuttle said he does not believe his Rams can get through the SAC slate unbeaten. The first Mary-Brantley game had much to do with his thinking. The Pats were within one pitch off an upset before the Rams rallied to force the game into extra innings and won in the ninth.

"You can't get any closer without getting the 'W,'" Smith said about the heartbreaker. "We'll be gunning for them Friday."

Elsewhere today, Lake Howell treks to Seminole for a 3:30 clash and Lyman journeys to Oviedo for a 3:30 encounter.

One of the prime reasons the Rams are running ahead of the pack this year has senior catcher Lisle. A four-year varsity starter, the red-haired senior swings one of the most potent sticks in Florida.

DeLand found out how potent Thursday as Lisle crashed a single, double and homer for five ribbles. The 3 for 4 day raised his average to .397. Lisle has three homers, five doubles and 20 RBIs.

Tuttle said Lisle, who along with Anthony Laszate, received feelers from Brevard and Valencia community colleges Thursday, has hit the ball hard all season.

"Recently, his hits have started to fall," Tuttle said. "No one around hits the ball any harder." Fellow four-year starter Shane Letterio started the first-inning fireworks with a long homer over the scoreboard in left. One batter later, Lisle connected near the same spot. It was also Letterio's third later.

Hagler: Leonard Breathes Life Into Boring Profession

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — By coming out of retirement, Ray Leonard might have saved Marvin Hagler from quitting the ring.

Hagler admits he was having a tough time getting motivated to continue his career before Leonard publically challenged him last May. Hagler needed 109 days to accept the challenge, which will take place Monday night at Caesars Palace with his World Boxing Council middleweight title at stake.

"I needed a new breath of fresh air like this," Hagler said. "This really motivated me."

Leonard said he decided to return to the ring after hearing Hagler talk of retirement, but he won't take credit for re-motivating Hagler.

"I'm just concerned about my motivation. I'm not concerned about Hagler's," said Leonard, a former welterweight and junior middleweight champ who has not fought in nearly three years.

Bob Arum, who has promoted all of Hagler's title fights and will promote Monday night's bout, said he thought Hagler would have retired if Leonard was not in the picture. Now, Arum says he believes Hagler will try to break Carlos Monzon's record of 14 middleweight title defenses. Hagler must defeat Leonard and one more opponent to tie the record.

"Leonard saved the day," Arum said. "Were it not for him, Hagler would've almost definitely retired. There was no one out there for him."

While Hagler waited, he risked growing rusty. He has not fought in 13 months, since stopping John Mugabi in a tough 11-round bout March 9, 1986. His previous fight was a three-round knockout of Thomas Hearnis April 15, 1985.

That makes Leonard feel better about his own inactivity. His last fight was an unimpressive ninth-round knockout of Kevin Howard May 11, 1984. Before that, he was off for 18 months.

"Wouldn't ring rust affect him, too," Leonard said. "He's old and been through wars."

Hagler says he is 32 although the Leonard camp claims he is much older. On Thursday, Hagler's managers Pat and Goody Petronelli produced a birth certificate from the champion's home town of Newark, N.J., dated May 23, 1954.

"I had to show this to (Leonard's trainer) Angie Dundee," Pat Petronelli said. "Angelo was saying Marvin is 39 and has a daughter in her 20s. That's why I brought the birth certificate around."

"I'm not an old man, believe me," Hagler said. "I still feel very young. Age is just a number. I feel good at age 32. I feel a lot stronger and I think I have the tools to put him away."

"I believe what he says," Leonard said of Hagler's age. "Why would the man lie about his age? I'm glad he's still a young man. I don't want people to say I beat an old man."

Hagler appears rested and loose in the days leading up to the fight.

Hagler won a close 15-round decision against Roberto Duran in 1983.

"I listen to what Hagler says," Leonard, who is 30, said. "He's had a chance to rest. I had two years off, that should make me better. Fights like Hagler-Duran take a lot out of you, what he's saying is he needs the rest."

Hagler denies he is worn out. "A lot of people said Mugabi was my toughest fight. It wasn't," he said. "I took a lot of punches because I realized I had to take something to get something back."

Hagler, from Brockton, Mass., is 62-2-2 with 52 knockouts. Leonard, of Potomac, Md., is 33-1 with 24 knockouts.

NBA: 1. Charlotte, 2. Minneapolis, 3. Tabled

NEW YORK (UPI) — The NBA's expansion committee recommended Thursday the league add franchisees over the next three seasons in North Carolina, Minneapolis and Florida.

After considering applications from seven cities, the committee recommended to the NBA Board of Governors that teams be added in Charlotte, N.C., in 1988-89; Minneapolis in 1989-90; and Miami or Orlando, Fla., in 1988-89 or 1989-90, the league said in a statement.

The franchise price is $32.5 million, the NBA said.

The board will meet April 22 in New York and consider the recommendations. A three-quarters vote of the board, consisting of one owner from each of the existing 23 franchises is required for the approval of an expansion team.

The committee said it would recommend action on the Charlotte and Minneapolis franchisees at the April meeting, but further deliberation would be needed to decide whether a Florida team should be based in Miami or Orlando. It recommended deferring action on the third franchise until the annual board meeting in October.

"I would say we're disappointed at this point, but we're still hoping," said former NBA player and coach Billy

Basketball

Cunningham, a member of the group trying to bring a team to Miami. "We're not sure what more the league is looking for from us in regard to getting a team, and we're still a good possibility. But we're just waiting to hear more."

Groups from Anaheim, Calif.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; and Toronto also applied for expansion teams.

The league last expanded in the 1980-81 season, adding the Dallas Mavericks.

WILLIAMS: DISAPPOINTMENT

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The general manager of the proposed Orlando Magic franchise said Thursday night the NBA expansion committee has left his city and Miami to fight it out over which would join the league.

"We were disappointed that there was not a definitive recommendation," said Pat Williams. "They left it in a state of abeyance."

The committee recommended Thursday that Charlotte, N.C., and Minneapolis join the league within the next three years. It also recommended that the NBA Board of Governors settle on either Orlando or Miami as a third additional franchise in either 1988-89 or 1989-90.

The league owners will vote on April 22 in New York on accepting the Charlotte and Minneapolis franchisees.

Williams, who served a dozen years as general manager of the Philadelphia 76ers, said his Orlando group met all of the qualifications to get a franchise, including having the $32.5 million required to buy into the league.

"That's why we're confused with this decision," he said. "What it comes down to is a Miami-Orlando altercation. They are saying in effect, 'Fight it out for six months, we'll pick the survivor in October.'"

Hersey, Seward: The Best Hurdles Are Yet To Come

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Not once last season were the names Arthur Hersey and Alan Seward even mentioned in the Seminole County Honor Roll in the hurdles. Yet, when you talk hurdles in '87, Hersey and Seward are at the top of the list.

And coach Ken Brauman didn't have to do some heavy hall searching or recruiting to land the two hurdles' standouts.

Hersey, a junior, was a promising hurdler as a freshman but sat out last season while Seward, also a junior, just started seriously running the hurdles this season.

Both juniors will be on display tonight when the Seminole High Invitational, sponsored by the Optimist Club of Sanford, gets underway at the high school. Field events begin at 4 p.m., running preliminaries at 5 p.m. and running finals at 7:30 p.m.

And, although the two are the most dominant hurdlers in Seminole County this season, they have yet to realize their full potential.

"I can be better if I put more into it," Hersey said. "I have to improve my speed and work a little on my technique."

Hersey is tied with Seward for the county's second best time in the 120 high hurdles at 14.5 and is third in the 330 intermediate hurdles at 40.0. Seward has a 39.9 in the 330s for second place. Oviedo's Karl Wright, who became eligible this week, took over the county lead in both events in the Bishop Moore Classic Thursday night.

"Arthur (Hersey) has pretty good speed and great flexibility," Brauman said. "And they are two musts a hurdler needs. It made it easy for him to pick up the technique."

Hersey started running the hurdles almost as soon as he went out for the team as a freshman. He said former Seminole great Frank Barnett, now running at the University of Arizona, was a major influence.

"Frank (Barnett) talked to me about running the hurdles and he inspired me to stick with it," Hersey said. "I'd like to follow in his footsteps and hope to be as good as he is someday."

Hersey also said having Brauman as a coach has made a big difference in bringing out his ability.

"He (Brauman) is really a great coach," Hersey said. "He comes straight out and tells us what to do to win and gets us to put all our effort into it. And he keeps on us to keep up our grades."

Brauman said Hersey has been doing mostly conditioning along with the rest of the team this season and is just starting to get into technique work which will improve him for the big meets.

"He still needs some work on his technique," Brauman said. "But he mostly needs to work on quickness over the hurdle and speed between the hurdles."

Seward was a middle distance runner specializing in the 800, for most of his two previous years a Seminole but he ran the 330 hurdles at last year's SAC Freshman-Sophomore Meet and did well without any training.

"I like running hurdles a lot," Seward said. "It is a hard change from running the half mile to hurdles because you have to have the technique. But running the half mile has helped me a lot in with my endurance in the hurdles, especially the 330s."

Brauman said Seward's middle distance background has helped him adjust to running the 330 hurdles but since he's new to the hurdles he still has a lot of technique work to do.

"Alan is inconsistent at times but that's because he's new to the hurdles," Brauman said. "His best race right now is the 330s because he sustains his strength and speed well over that distance."

Having the two top hurdlers

on the same team hasn't caused any animosity between Seward and Hersey. In fact, they like running against each other and say it makes them better.

"Alan is my best competition around here," Hersey said. "He pushes me and I push him and I like it because it gives me a challenge. We always laugh back and forth about beating each other."

"The last time we ran, he (Seward) beat me by a tenth of a second in the 330s," Hersey added. "So I told him to practice up because I'm going to try to beat him Friday night."

Seward, who took a fall at the Florida Relays this past Saturday, said he is hoping to make up for the spill at Friday's meet.

"I had taken the lead at the Florida Relays but I had no strength for the last hurdle and I fell over it," Seward said. "I have to work on my technique, and my ability to get over the hurdles. And I'm hoping to show it this Friday by winning the 330s."

Wright Breaks Cage, Wins 3 Blue Ribbons

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

After hitting the books hard the last three months, Karl Wright hit the track Thursday night for the first time this season and blazed to three first places at the Bishop Moore Classic at Orlando.

Wright, running his first meet since becoming academically eligible, shattered the school record in the 120 high hurdles with a county-leading time of 14.1 and he won the 330 intermediate hurdles with a county-leading time of 39.2. Wright, a junior, also took first in the long jump with a leap of 21-3 that put him in second on the county honor roll.

"He has been like a caged tiger the past few months," Oviedo coach Ken Kroog said of Wright. "We've been keeping him locked up with his books and tonight we let him loose and he came out in style."

Wright's performance was the highlight for the Lions in the boys division Thursday night. In the team standings, St. Cloud was first at 84 followed by Bishop Moore at 60, Oviedo at 53 and Eustis at 50.

Wright also ran the anchor leg on the second place mile relay which finished with a season's best time of 3:37.3. Sandy Potts, Pete Lingard and Robb Hughes also ran on the relay.

Other second places for the Lions went to Lingard in the 440 (54.8), Hughes in the discus (134-9), Brian Wilson in the high jump (6-0) and Doug Cook in the pole vault (11-0).

The 440 relay team of Dwight Everett, Willie Pauldo, Robb Powers and Hector Diaz finished third with a season's best time of 45.9. Lingard also took fourth in the triple jump at 36-10 while fifth places went to Lingard in the long jump (19-2½) and Diaz in the 220 (23.4).

HUGHES BETS JUMP MARK

In the girls division Thursday night, both Suzanne Hughes and Kelly Price broke the school record in the high jump as Hughes, a sophomore, took first place by clearing 5-4 and Price, a senior, finished second at 5-3. Hughes held the record of 5-2.

"They both jumped really well," Kroog said of Hughes and Price. "They were tied at 5-3 and Suzanne had to forfeit one of her jumps at 5-4 because some Eustis girls were yelling at her. But she got to the side for a while and got her composure back and went over 5-4 on her next jump."

In the girls team standings Thursday, St. Cloud was first at 77 followed by Bishop Moore at 59, Oviedo at 53 and Eustis at 36.

Price had her usual outstanding night as she won three events and took a pair of seconds for a total of 29 of Oviedo's 53 points.

Price won the 110 high hurdles with a season's best time of 15.7, took first in the 330 hurdles at 47.9, won the long jump at 16-9, was second in the high jump and second in the discus at 80-7.

Hughes also took a second in the 220 dash with a time of 28.1. Shannon Wilcoxson scored in three events as she was third in the 440 at 66.7, fourth in the high jump at 4-8 and ran a leg on the third-place mile relay team which finished with a season's best 4:41. Also on the team were Michelle Wynn, Lisa Itoga and Heidi Steiner.

Gooden Enters Rehab; Umpires Near Strike?

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dwight Gooden's cocaine problem could raise more legal problems for the New York Mets ace right-hander.

Gooden, hustled by bodyguards past youngsters calling his name, entered the Smithers Alcoholism and Drug Treatment center in Manhattan at 1:15 a.m. EST Thursday morning to begin to receive care for cocaine use.

PHILLIPS IS PESSIMISTIC

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Major-league baseball umpires could walk off the job for the fourth time in the last 10 years if negotiators fail to reach a new contract by the start of the season Monday.

Richard Phillips, attorney for the umpires, and Robert Kiecl, representing the National and American leagues, were to resume contract talks in New York today in hopes of reaching an agreement.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Gilmour Reaches Milestone, Blues Secure Home-Ice Edge

United Press International

Doug Gilmour achieved a personal milestone Thursday night while helping the St. Louis Blues secure home-ice advantage in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs.

Gilmour reached the coveted 100-point mark, assisting on Greg Pasiawski's first-period goal in the Blues 5-3 victory over the Buffalo Sabres. The victory clinched second place for the Blues in the Norris Division, assuring the St. Louis of the home-ice advantage in the first round of the playoffs.

The Blues trail the first-place Detroit Red Wings by three points with two games left. The teams meet in the season finale Sunday night at Detroit.

"It's nice to get 100 points," said Gilmour, who added another assist. "But finishing second was more important."

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh ripped New Jersey 6-2 and Calgary and Edmonton played to a 4-4 tie.

Chen, Maltbie Lead Greensboro

GREENSBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Mother Nature became the 145th entrant into the $600,000 Greater Greensboro Open, and threatened to make the tournament her first PGA tour victory.

The weather was the primary player in Thursday's opening round, as T.C. Chen and Roger Maltbie overcame a howling 25 mph wind to tie for the lead at 4-under-par 68, good enough for a two-shot advantage entering today's second round.

Chen and Maltbie lead a group of seven golfers at 70, led by two-time GGO champion Danny Edwards, and another six at 71.

Maltbie, who has played just two tournaments in the past nine weeks because of his wife giving birth to their first child, is 112th on the money list. He escaped with no bogeys and birdies on Nos. 1, 11, 13 and 14, while saving par on four other holes.

Bergman Gets Gators For 400

Oviedo's Jay Bergman collected his 400th coaching victory Thursday and he could not have picked a better setting.

Bergman, who was dismissed by the University of Florida in 1981 after six successful seasons, watched as his Central Florida Knights beat lumps on the Gators, 12-6, in college baseball at Perry Field in Gainesville.

"I'd be lying if I told you it didn't mean anything to win my 400th game here," an excited Bergman said after the game. Bergman stands 3-4 against the Gators.

Former Lake Mary slugger Scott Underwood keyed a five-run sixth inning with a two-run double as UCF pulled away. Earlier this year, Underwood beat a Grand slam against Florida.

Allen Platt turned in 4-plus innings of two-hit relief to pick up the victory. UCF improved to 24-16 and the Gators dropped to 16-13.

Blondi Breaks 50-Free Record

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — World record-holder Matt Blondi's favorite pool is at the University of Texas, and the Olympic hopeful showed why by setting two American records in one day at the NCAA swimming and diving championships.

Blondi of the University of California, Thursday night broke his own American record for the 50-yard freestyle that he set in preliminaries earlier in the day.

Southern California, on the strength of a 1-2-3 finish in the 500-yard freestyle, took an early lead of 103 points after five events in the three-day championship. Two-time defending champion Stanford was in second place with 99.

In the preliminaries, Blondi cut his American and meet record from a time of 19.22 set in 1985 to 19.16. In the final, he trimmed that mark to 19.15 with a tremendous start and finish in the two-lap event.

FCC Hands SCC 20th Loss, 6-1

Despite outitting Florida Community College, 8-6, Seminole Community College could not put together its offense, dropping a 6-1 Mid-Florida Conference baseball encounter Thursday afternoon at SCC.

The setback drops the Raiders to 12-20 overall and 6-9 in the conference. SCC will travel to Orlando today to take on arch-rival Valencia in a makeup game.

Seminole pitcher Tony Ferebee (2-3) went eight innings for the Raiders as Ferebee gave up six hits, while striking out four and walking three. Longwood's Kevin Hill pitched the ninth inning for Seminole.

Seminole scored its only run in the bottom of the third. After Danny Moore doubled, Hill singled to right, scoring Moore. Moore went 3 for 5 with a pair of doubles. Jimmy Merrick went 2 for 4. Hill was 1 for 4.

British Invasion At Dinah Shore

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — Most of the players in the $500,000 Nabisco Dinah Shore LPGA tournament were poised for an attack from someone like Pat Bradley, Nancy Lopez or Jane Geddes.

What they got instead was an unexpected British invasion from Laura Davies.

Davies, a star in Europe but a virtual unknown this side of the Atlantic, fired a surprising 6-under-par 68 to grab a two-stroke lead after one round of the LPGA's first major tournament of the year.

Davies led by two strokes over Betsy King and Amy Alcott, who shrugged off a number of dizzy spells. Val Skinner, the runnerup here last year, was third with a bogey-free 69.

Senechek Keys Seminole JV

Seminole High's junior varsity baseball team has its best luck with Mike Senechek on the mound and Thursday was no different as he scattered seven hits in going the distance in the Tribe's 8-6 victory over the Lake Brantley JV.

Coach Mike Powers' Seminoles improved to 4-6 for the season and Senechek ran his personal record to 4-1. Senechek struck out three and walked four.

Bubba Corsi, James Cox and Jeff Derr drove in one run apiece for the JV. Noles while Tony Smith added a double.

Seminole has a game Saturday afternoon at 1 at Sanford Memorial Stadium against the Oviedo JV as part of Seminole Child Abuse Awareness Day at the stadium.

SOK Young Final Runs Tonight

All Tan, who leads the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club with 14 victories, will be the favorite tonight as the Young Champion Stakes draws to a close in the 12th race. Post time for the evening performance is 7:30.

The Marjorie Oreg greyhound will run from the No. 6 position. Smokin Feet (1), Working Boy (2), Perky Mike (3), Big's Omega Mutt (4), Steve Taylor (5), Mh Prince (7) and Flash Me A Smile (8) complete the field.

Sponsors Spend Big Bucks For Racers

When the starting field of 40 Winston Cup cars start a race, over half of them are sponsored by grocery store products. Most of these sponsors put close to a million dollars or more into the teams that run these cars.

While taking a stroll down the aisles of Publix and Winn-Dixie in Sanford, it was interesting to note the sponsors' products.

Benny Parsons has Folgers coffee, Rusty Wallace and Kodiac tobacco, Terry Labonte with Budweiser beer, Davey Allison with Havoline oil and Darrell Waltrip has Tide detergent.

Going down another aisle, there was Neil Bonnett's Valvoline oil, Morgan Shepherd and Quaker State oil, Rick Wilson pushing a beautiful display of Kodak film, Ron Bouchard with two flavors of Bull's Eye BBQ sauce, Richard Petty and STP oil additive along with Geoff Bodine plugging Levi Garrett chewing tobacco.

At the next display was life-sized posters of Bobby Allison and Bobby Hillon with a few cases of Miller High Life beer. A.J. Foyt and Phil Parsons are represented by Copenhagen smokeless tobacco while Harry Gant is the Skoal Bandit man. Coors beer has one of the top drivers on the circuit. Bill Elliott, pushing sales for them.

Dave Marcia is the Lifebuoy soap driver while Jimmy Means uses Turtle Wax on his car. Last year's rookie of the year, Alan Kulwicki, is represented by Zerez Anti-Freeze, while Lake Speed has Wynn's many lines of car products on the store shelves.

Greg Sacks, like Bonnett, endorses Valvoline oil and Buddy Baker has made Crisco a Southern household name again.

All of these drivers were entered in last week's NASCAR race. Count them: there are 23. Sponsors are much needed to keep the close and exciting races we have seen so far this year, so support them.

It is very easy by supplying yourself with just the essential needs. It does not hurt to write a sponsor and let it you buy its product because it backs a certain race driver.

Try it. It will make you feel good knowing you helped one of the drivers.

In this area, Hardees is a sponsor for Cale Yarborough, 7-11 and Cligo back Kyle Petty, K-Mart helps Lake Speed and Domino's Pizza helps Mike Waltrip.

Rain halted the opening of Volusia County Speedway's 1987 season as more than three inches made track conditions impossible.

The first race of the new season will now be held Saturday night. Gates will open at 6 p.m. with racing at 7:45 p.m.

Again this year VCS will operate under NASCAR sanction. Late Models, Street Stocks, Cyclones, Mini-Stocks and Lady Bombers will be joined by a Rookies class.

Gardening

Caladiums Add Color, Dimension To Garden

There are many kinds of bulbs and tubers that produce beautiful flowers during the season in our area, and one of the most popular is the caladium. These attractive tropical foliage plants will add both color and dimension to your flower garden, if you are selective in both color and foliage types. Caladiums are most effective visually when planted in mass, either in a large or small bed.

Caladiums originally came from the Amazon basin in Brazil. There are two types generally available. These include the "fancy" and the "lance-leaved" types. The most popular is the fancy-leaved caladium. These have rather large, somewhat rounded leaves. The distinguishing characteristic of the lance-leaved types is a narrow, elongated leaf. The length of the leaves is similar to the fancy-leaved, but the plants tend to be more dwarf in stature.

Cool-look caladiums are easy to grow. If you follow a few simple gardening rules. First, plant the tubers in moderately rich, well-prepared soil in a shaded or partly shaded location. The soil should be porous and contain a generous quantity of organic material. This type of soil provides good aeration, drainage, and yet holds a good amount of moisture to keep the plants growing. If your soil is quite sandy, add a generous amount of composted cow manure or peat moss, or better yet, well-rotted leaf mold or woody humus.

The caladium is a rugged plant, but will not tolerate the full, hot summer sun. For best results, select a semi-shaded spot. The ideal location would provide about 40 to 60 percent shade. The fancy-leaved varieties can be used in areas exposed to full sun for one to two hours a day, preferably during the morning hours. Longer exposure will wipe them out.

A moist, but not soggy soil is preferred. Overwatering a poorly drained soil will cause decay of the fleshy tubers or roots. Mulching will certainly benefit the plants by maintaining a high relative humidity around the plants. If soils are allowed to dry, wilting occurs very rapidly. If plants remain wilted for an extended period, you'll lose the beautiful foliage.

All plants respond to a little care, especially fertilizer in our poor soils. You should mix in a minimum of two pounds of a complete garden fertilizer, such as 6-6-6 or 8-8-8, per 100 square feet of garden area or two teaspoons per square foot at planting time. Each month during the growing season, apply one pound of the same fertilizer per 100 square feet of garden area or one teaspoon per square foot.

Caladium tubers should be planted two inches deep and about 18 inches apart in the garden. Be sure to pack the soil firmly around the tubers. If you purchased started plants in pots, they should be hardened gradually to outdoor conditions by gradually exposing them to outdoor light and heat. If a bloom shoots up, pinch it off or the plant will be robbed of food needed for continuous leaf production.

Caladiums are very easy to grow in pots or tubs for a shaded spot on your patio or in the entrance area. When you grow them in containers, you'll have to pay closer attention to watering, as these thirsty plants will need it due to rapid drying of the soil in the pots.

You do have a wide choice of colors from which to select. The popular candidum and White Christmas varieties are white with strongly contrasting green veins. These kinds will brighten shaded areas and are particularly handsome when interspersed with white geraniums, white petunias, variegated vinca or hydrangeas.

Popular pink or rose colored leaves appear on such varieties as Lord Derby, Pink Cloud, Kathleen, Rose Bud, Carolyn Wharton and many others. Crimson Wave has a showy crimson crinkled center. Red is found in the Blaze, John Peed, Red Flair and Freida Hempel varieties. Dark green veins and borders give added accent to the red leaves. Spangled Banner has red glowing leaves with pink spots.

Whether you grow your caladiums in containers, in masses or as a border plant, you find this popular summer perennial will provide color accent to your home all season long for very little investment and upkeep. In fact, you better be careful — you may get hooked on caladiums!

Happy gardening!

Church Honors Mayor Smith At Service

Mayor Bettye Smith's Day was declared last Sunday at the 11 a.m. worship service at Allen Chapel African Methodist Episcopal Church when Mayor Smith was recognized for her leadership, love and humanitarian devotion to the citizens and community of Sanford.

Although it was raining outside, the atmosphere inside had a sunny atmosphere as the Mass Choir of Allen Chapel marched into the choir stand singing "We Will Stand."

Sylvester Wynn was the officiating minister. The order of service of appreciation to Mayor Smith was one of love and Christian fellowship exemplified by the members of Allen and the citizens of Sanford.

The invocation was given by Bettye R. Washington with the scripture was read by Elaine Crumly. The visitors were acknowledged by Charlotte Offer. The welcome and occasion were given by Lindie Stewart who presented Mayor Smith with a lovely white orchid and a boutonniere was pinned on Dr. Robert Smith, Mayor Smith's husband.

Expression of love and appreciation were given by co-workers, City Commissioner Bob Thomas, friend and community worker Shirley Schilke, Dr. Lurelene Sweeting for the Citizens Relations and Martin Luther King Committee, Jackie Tucker for the Martin Luther King Choir, and Alfred DeLattre, citizen of the community. The solo was presented by Patricia M. Hitchmon who sang "He Looked Beyond My Faults and Saw My Needs."

Susie Blacksheare made the presentation from the Rev. J.H. Woodard and the Allen Chapel Church family, a plaque, to Mayor Smith who then thanked Allen Chapel, pastor Woodard and all the citizens of Sanford. She said that God deserves the honor, not her, for the Lord is truly her leader in leading this great city of Sanford to higher heights, and as the mayor leads with her wisdom, Sanford will be a better place to live for all citizens.

'Law And Religion' Topic Of ESO Talk

The Epsilon Sigma Omicron Chapter of the Woman's Club of Sanford held the March meeting at the home of Emy Sokol with Florence Monforton and Kay Hall serving as co-hostesses.

After a social hour, vice-chairman Hazel Cash presided over the short business session.

Bunnie Logan reported that she had finished a poetry course and had received the appropriate certificate. She read a letter from Ms. Sarah Kirby, State E.S.O. Chairman, telling Bunnie that hers was the first completed poetry course reported.

Doris Harriman, book chairman, read a list of books on hand and available. The library in the club board room has not been finished as of this date.

Hazel Cash introduced her son, Jack Cash, speaker for the meeting. Cash is a sergeant with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department as well as an ordained deacon of Holy Cross Episcopal Church. Rev. Cash's subject was "Law and Religion". Some of the interesting facts he pointed out concerning the parallel between law and religion were: Moses gave us 10 laws handed down from God; we now have more than 6,000 man-made laws; the original sin was committed by Adam and Eve when they tried to be as smart as God, which is a common sin of today's population; discussed the original 10 laws and pointed out how these commandments have been interpreted and changed through the ages; and how trivial disagreements concerning interpretation have caused much grief.

Cash told the group that approximately 30% of Seminole County's budget is spent on law enforcement. Mayor Bettye Smith, club president, confirmed that this is true of the city of Sanford also. It is the largest single expenditure.

Members were invited to comment on the topic, and many interesting viewpoints were discussed, according to Bill Gielow.

Cash ministers to his fellow police officers — many of whom are unchurched. He also works extensively with the inmates of the state prisons.

Those present other than the hostesses and speaker were: Carolyn Cornelius, Tempa Parks, Doris Harriman, Derry Harris, Estelle Davis, Melba Cooper, Edythe George, Louise Hayes, Charlotte M. Smith, Bunnie Logan, President Bettye Smith, Hazel Cash, Marty Colegrove, Jean Marcel and Bill Gielow.

Husband Warned Against Adultery

DEAR ABBY: My wife is the best friend I've ever had. I love her and wouldn't hurt her for the world, but she's a dud in bed. We would never have sex if I didn't ask for it. She "accommodates" me without much enthusiasm — as though she's doing me a favor.

I recently had an affair with a lovely woman. We had a wonderful time, doing everything a man and a woman can do together, and she absolutely loved it! I finally experienced something I've wanted all my life — to be touched sexually by someone who knew how.

This leaves me with a difficult choice: continue having affairs with women who enjoy sex, or remain frustrated and bitter toward my wife.

I'm not interested in your opinion of me. I would like to know how I can influence my wife to become a Cleopatra so I can share these feelings with her instead of someone else.

For the sake of thousands of dissatisfied men who really love their wives and would rather stay home, please publish your answer.

WASHINGTONIAN

DEAR WASHINGTONIAN: Tell your wife you love her dearly, but her lack of enthusiasm in the bedroom has left you feeling frustrated and deprived.

Dear Abby

A mutually satisfying sexual relationship is the result of a joint effort, and professional help is available. In addition to marriage counseling, there are certified sex therapists who work in teams. Check with your local hospital or the medical college of your nearest university for referrals in your area. Forget "affairs." Adultery is not only immoral and illegal — these days it can be fatal.

DEAR ABBY: Since my grandmother's death, family members have made me feel guilty because I asked for a return of gifts I had given her through the years. They say those things now belong to my mother, who may dispose of them as she sees fit. (My mother took care of Grandma in her declining years.)

I disagree. Many times in the last five years, my grandmother

TOLD me that she wanted me to have the gifts I had given to her. Nothing was very expensive, but several things had sentimental value.

My question: Was I wrong to ask for the things I wanted returned to me? I was offered nothing of hers even after I offered to pay for certain items. In case you can't read between the lines, I'm the black sheep of the family.

BLACK SHEEP

DEAR BLACK SHEEP: You were not "wrong" to have asked that the gifts you had given to your grandmother be returned to you because of their sentimental value. But unless your grandmother made specific provisions in writing for you to have them, your chances for getting them are small.

DEAR ABBY: I am 75 years old. Yesterday I went to the eye doctor for an eye examination.

For the first time in my life I had drops put in my eyes to dilate the pupils, then I had a devil of a time driving home. (I turned the wrong way on a one-way street!) No one warned me in advance that I wouldn't be able to see well enough to drive home.

I believe that people who make an appointment with an eye doctor ought to be told on the phone if they will not be able to drive home, so they can have someone go along to drive them. I could have had a serious accident and killed myself — or somebody else. Please print this.

B.E.H. IN PORTLAND, ORE.

DEAR B.E.H.: Most nurse-secretaries warn the patients when they make their appointments. And now that you were kind enough to write to tell your story, those who don't, will (I hope.)

Tracking Down Tropical Illness

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — During her recent four-year stint in Colombia (South America), my sister experienced loss of weight and appetite, insomnia, dizziness, rash, intermittent fevers, pronounced fatigue and diarrhea, and she became very pale and depressed. These symptoms have continued. She's had blood tests and stool tests to look for parasites, but all have been inconclusive. Could she be helped by a place that specializes in tropical medicine? Where can she find such a place?

DEAR DR. GOTT — I assume that you do not have a tumor, an abscess or a spinal abnormality. Therefore, you may have a condition called coccygodynia, an unexplained pain in the tailbone (coccyx). Your best bet is to treat the symptoms by using mild analgesics and to avoid sitting on hard, uncomfortable surfaces. You also might consider visiting a pain clinic. These clinics help patients manage chronic pain by means of physical therapy, exercise, relaxation, biofeedback and other methods. Pain clinics are found in larger hospitals; they also may be independently run or may be part of sports-medicine programs.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My ophthalmologist does not perform lens implants for cataracts. He says they are very dangerous if a problem occurs after surgery. Yet everyone in my senior-citizens' complex is spending your money on such questionable devices, see a cosmetologist to determine if more traditional methods of hair removal might be more suitable. I am unaware of any scientifically proven way to remove unwanted hair by using radio waves.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I want to remove the hair from my lip and chin. There is a product that sends "radio-frequency energy" into the hair follicles to remove them. Is this device safe?

having the operation. What do you think? (I am also diabetic.)
DEAR READER — Many ophthalmologists are performing lens implants during cataract surgery. In capable hands, the technique is safe and effective. If your ophthalmologist believes the surgery would be too dangerous for you, ask for a referral to an ophthalmologist who is more familiar with lens implants and who will give you a second opinion.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
South might have bid a little too much when he went right to four spades. But the contract was a good one. It would always make if the heart honors split and might make otherwise with a defensive error. Still, the opening lead of the heart eight was not a good omen. Declarer ducked in dummy and East won the queen. Back came a club to dummy's ace. Now a spade was led to South's king and West's ace, and West played a second heart. Declarer went up with dummy's ace, playing the jack from his hand. There was really no effective play left to make the contract. When the defenders eventually win a heart trick, they will take the diamond ace for the setting trick. But a good rule in bridge is to never give up. Maybe an opponent will pull a wrong card or make an incredibly bad play, but it can't happen if you give up. So what did declarer do? He came to his hand with a second spade and led a low diamond toward dummy's king. West had every reason to play low on this diamond. But poor West was mesmerized by South's false-card of the heart jack on the second heart lead. He fantasized some card combination that would allow declarer to win the diamond king, ruff out East's heart king and get back to dummy to take a pitch. So he rose with the diamond ace and led a club. South won the king, cashed his diamond queen, ruffed a club in dummy and pitched his remaining heart on dummy's diamond king.

Pope: Assume Responsibilities

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — Pope John Paul II, speaking to 100,000 young people at a stadium where scores of people were tortured and killed during the coup that brought President Augusto Pinochet to power, implored them not to be "seduced by violence."

"Now, in this place of competitions, but which was also a place of suffering and pain in past epochs, I say to the Chilean young: 'Assume your responsibilities.'" John Paul told the young crowd at Santiago's National Stadium Thursday night.

"Do not let yourselves be seduced by violence. He who believes peace can be achieved through (violence) is wrong," he said.

The pontiff was to meet today with opposition leaders who seek an early end to Pinochet's military government and a return to democratic rule. A Vatican source said the pope's speech to them will be made public to prevent his message from being misrepresented.

John Paul also planned to visit a nursing home to meet a girl allegedly set afire by troops putting down an anti-government protest last year.

The pontiff met with Pinochet Thursday and later, in an address to members of the clergy, urged that Pinochet's military government speed up promised reforms and restore a more open and democratic system.

Troops Thursday opened fire on homeless families that tried to erect a squatters camp on the wasteland at Santiago's northern outskirts.

A Chilean Human Rights Commission lawyer said one man was killed by police. Twenty were injured and 150 arrested as troops dislodged the 315 families from the ramshackle settlement — which the squatters dubbed "John Paul II Camp," apparently hoping that invoking the pope's name might somehow get them title to the land.

Celebrating mass Thursday before some 800,000 people in the sprawling La Bandera slum on Santiago's south, John Paul pledged the church to "solidarity with those who suffer from hunger, cold and abandonment."

Angry youths stoned police vehicles and looted shops after the mass. Riot police moved in and futilely attempted to disperse the crowd with tear gas. Troops were called in to restore order but there were no reports of shooting or arrests.

Police said 42 officers have been injured in violent protests that have erupted since the pope arrived Wednesday.

Some 100,000 young people packed National Stadium Thursday night for the speech and one group unfurled a large banner proclaiming: "Pinochet assassinate."

The stadium was used to detain suspected opponents during the 1973 coup in which Gen. Pinochet seized power from socialist President Salvador Allende. Prisoners held at the stadium were tortured and some were killed.

Human rights groups say 78 people were killed at the stadium, some executed and others dying under torture.

American Charles Horman was among those killed. Horman's father's long search for his son — grabbed by police and taken to the stadium during the early days of Pinochet's reign — was dramatized in the 1982 Oscar-winning movie "Missing."

Market Shows Caution

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed Friday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which rose 4.40 Thursday, was off .071 to 2319.74 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 471-455 among the 1,404 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 16,400,000 shares.

Stock prices finished higher Thursday in active trading as investors resisted pressures on market-leader IBM and financial giant American Express and sought to consolidate gains made earlier in the week.

IBM was under pressure all day from investors who were disappointed by news that its new line of products introduced Thursday will not be shipped until 1988.

"It kind of put a little cramp in the investment community, in terms of when they will be shipping the new line," said Jack Baker, head of equity block trading at Shearson Lehman Brothers. "Everybody thought it would be sooner rather than later. A lot can happen between now (and the spring of 1988)."

IBM also was the subject of a negative assessment by a Morgan Stanley & Co. analyst.

IBM was the third-most active issue on the Big Board, falling 3 1/2 to 148.

Dollar And Gold Both Turn Mixed

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar opened mixed in light trading on major world money markets Friday. The price of gold was mixed, but silver continued to rise.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed out the week at 146.05 yen, down 1.00 yen from Thursday's close of 147.05, forcing the Bank of Japan to continue intervention to shore up the faltering dollar.

In European trading, the dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.8135 German marks, down from Thursday's close of 1.827.

The dollar opened at 1.5153 Swiss francs in Zurich, down from 1.5255 and 6.0345 French francs in Paris, down from 6.075.

In Amsterdam the dollar opened at 2.049 Dutch guilders, down from 2.063 on Thursday.

Sterling firmed in London, opening at $1.6045, up from Thursday's close of $1.5985.

In Brussels, the dollar opened at 37.72 Belgian francs, down from 37.925 and opened at 1,292.625 lire in Milan, down from 1,302.

In early New York trading, the dollar was slightly higher against key foreign currencies in moderate trading following the Labor Department's report that the nation's civilian unemployment rate for March fell to 6.6 percent, the best showing in seven years.

Gold gained 50 cents an ounce in Zurich to $420 an ounce but dropped $1 an ounce in London to $419.75 an ounce.

The London morning gold fixing was $418.65, off $2.10 from Thursday's close and by the afternoon, gold was fixed at $418.70, off $2.05 an ounce.

Silver rose 10 cents an ounce in Zurich to $6.40 an ounce and lost one-half cent in London to $6.375 an ounce.

Jobless Rate Down 6.6 Percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Increases in the number of service and health jobs helped push America's civilian unemployment rate for March down to 6.6 percent, the best showing in seven years, the Labor Department said Friday.

The civilian jobless rate held steady at 6.7 percent from December through February. The drop in March to 6.6 percent leaves the rate at its lowest level since January through March 1980, when it stood at 6.3 percent.

The number of non-farm workers on the nation's payrolls grew a seasonally adjusted 165,000 in March, all of it from employment increases in the service-producing rather than goods-producing part of the economy.

An estimated 111.4 million civilians held jobs in March, 14,000 fewer than in February, while the number of unemployed dipped 113,000 to 7.9 million, the Labor Department said.

Average overtime at manufacturing plants grew 0.1 hours to total 3.7 hours a week.

The city staff however, favored the opening of the street because it would give residents in Sanora two ways to enter or leave the subdivision rather than the only one way now existing. The developer, putting in 160 homes, said it did not matter whether he had to finish the road and connect the housing areas or not. The plat still has to have final approval and a public hearing at which time the Matthew Drive can be discussed and addressed by the public, said chairman Morris. The preliminary plat was approved without the street on a 4-3 vote with Morris abstaining to avoid a tie.

In another item discussed, Commissioner Sheila Roberts said she had received 10 phone calls from people upset about the city commission's approval of a conditional use the Planning and Zoning Commission had denied. It involved the approval granted to Joe Gazil of Sanford to sell new and used automobiles at 301 Sanford Ave. and 417 E. 3rd St.

"There will be more (complaints) coming. They are not happy. I understand they are hiring a lawyer and will sue the city," she said.

She also said it seemed to her that the city commission always approves what the Planning and Zoning Commission denies. Commissioner LeRoy agreed that many citizens were upset with the city commission approval of the use that the Planning and Zoning Commission denial. In other action, the commission:

- Approved a site plan for expansion of Winn-Dixie at 3818 Orlando Drive. The approval was given after plans showed the company was going to resurface and stripe the parking lot and add more plants than originally planned.

- Approved the site plan of LON Research to build a office assembly building at 700 Bever Road.

- Approved the site plan for additions to Kentucky Fried Chicken, 2939 Orlando Drive. The fast-food business plans to increase its seating from 26 to 40 and add a solarium.

- Approved a site plan for remodeling of Handy Way, 301 E. 25th Street. The remodeling includes a new floor plan and the addition of gas pumps.

- Voted to recommend to the city commission that the phrase "consumer service establishment" be removed from the city code because it has no definition by code, statute or Florida case law. Its lack of meaning has hindered the Planning and Zoning commission in determining what type of commercial category a particular business is in and where it can operate. At issue is whether a bingo establishment would be allowed in a restricted industrial district which features retail sales and consumer service businesses.

In a related matter Commissioner Malone suggested the city begin to think about forming codes to regulate gambling activities such as bingo.

site. Instead, they offered to re-route the roadway so that it will curve around the trees. They also offered to replace 100 trunk diameter inches of tree for trees that will have to be removed by planting the trees elsewhere on the subdivision site. "This will amount to a tripling of the 71 inches of tree diameter we were fined for," a company representative said.

City officials said the calculations of the tree diameters amounts to six trees illegally removed that will be replaced by 18 trees, or triple.

The commission approved a motion initiated by Commissioner John Percy to turn down Energy Builders' appeal of the fine. Instead, for the record, the commission accepted the company's offer to replace the tree diameter in lieu of cash. The motion was unanimously adopted.

Commissioner Ken King, whose property is next to the proposed subdivision site, first discovered the trees being cut down last month when his son came to him and said "Dad, the trees are falling down."

King then brought the violation to the attention of the commission. He said Thursday that there was no excuse for surveyors or builders to say they did not know about the arbor ordinance. "I worked on the arbor ordinance and we made it clear that people get permits," he said.

Percy said that people who come in for building permits "need to be put on notice there is an arbor ordinance" and asked City Manager Bob Norris to be sure to emphasize that to anyone who requests permits from the city.

"Too much has been labeled 'pork,'" he said.

Paulucci said the program has merit and that no money is going into anyone's pocket, although some critics of the highway bill implied that was the case. Paulucci said "if the project were slated for Orange County, it wouldn't be pork. It would be caviar." He said the interchange is going to be a boon to Seminole County as well as Heathrow because growth is going to increase in the area and transportation is a major concern.

To that end, Paulucci said he is now concentrating his efforts on expansion of services at Sanford Regional Airport and construction of the proposed expressway through Seminole County.

The final battle in the Senate capped two tense days of confrontation in which Reagan eked out victory for a moment but ultimately was forced to literally beg for one more vote and wound up with a painful defeat. He had been warned by his own party of the probable outcome, and many Republicans felt the loss unnecessary.

"The political stupidity of this was just astounding," one of the 13 rebels said Thursday, referring to Reagan's high-stakes gamble on a popular bill that offered jobs and construction projects too politically valuable to pass up.

"Would you stake the presidency on a highway bill?" asked Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., the floor leader in the fight to pass the measure.

The stakes, though, were set largely by the lawmakers themselves. Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas warned his colleagues before the vote that the outcome would "determine the strength of his presidency for the next 21 months." Afterward, Dole and others quickly backed away from such words.

"This will not have any impact on (Reagan's) ability to deal with Congress," said Sen. Pete Wilson of California, one of the 13 Republicans to vote against the president. "If the Democrats are celebrating his demise, they are doing so prematurely and will be in for a rude awakening."

But Democrats were not gloating; they were joining the effort.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, whose parliamentary play brought the bill up for reconsideration after the president had won on a vote Wednesday, said Reagan "fought valiantly."

"This isn't going to make or break the president of the United States," Byrd said. "All does not end here today."

Quite a few things began, however.

The Federal Highway Administration immediately released more than $11 billion in fiscal 1987 highway money to the states, allowing them to sign construction contracts in time for the summer construction season. Moynihan announced. The money could not be released until the bill was enacted.

In New Mexico, where the Legislature already had approved a change in the speed limit as soon as the federal limit was changed, Gov. Garrey Carruthers was on the road almost immediately to change the highway speed limit sign south of Santa Fe from 55 mph to 65 mph. Nevada will follow suit next week.

The new law allows states to raise the limit to 65 mph on rural sections of interstate highways — about 70 percent of the country's 42,500-mile system.

With the $88 billion being spent over five years, the law also authorizes money for myriad road and bridge projects, from major interstates running through the heart of big cities to tiny two-lane and short access roads.

Reagan vetoed the bill a week ago on grounds that it was a budget-buster stuffed with pork barrel projects. The Democratic-led House promptly overrode him Tuesday, 350-73, and the White House went to work in the Senate.

Buddy Rich Dead At 69

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Buddy Rich, called by many jazz musicians the greatest drummer who ever lived, suffered a seizure at his home and died following a radiation treatment at the hospital where he had a malignant tumor removed from his brain two weeks ago. He was 69.

Rich died Thursday afternoon "from sudden, unexpected respiratory and cardiac failure," after being taken to UCLA Medical Center, hospital spokesman Paul Elbaum said. He had just returned home after receiving a radiation treatment, but doctors said they did not know if the seizure was related to the tumor or to Rich's long history of heart trouble.

The tumor was found earlier this year after Rich sought medical tests before going on a world tour.

Jackie Green, Rich's agent, said he had spoken to the drummer on the telephone Wednesday and he was in good spirits. "He told me to get the band ready to go back on the road," Green said by telephone from New York.

Singer-composer Mel Torme, who is writing a biography of Rich that he calls a "labor of love," said he burst into tears when he learned of his best friend's death.

Rich is survived by his wife, Marie, and daughter, Cathy. Funeral services were pending.

AREA DEATHS

REGINA MAE CONDER

Mrs. Regina Mae Conder, 64, of 605 Casa Park Court K, Winter Springs, died Monday at South Seminole Community Hospital, Longwood. Born Dec. 16, 1922 in Butler, Pa., she moved to Winter Springs, from Eastlake, Ohio, in 1984. She was a homemaker and a member of St. Stephen's Catholic Church.

Nakasone Compromises On Sales Tax Proposal

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone, facing a major political test over an unpopular sales tax proposal, has decided to compromise in hope of ending a deadlock on the national budget, news reports said today.

Japanese newspapers said Nakasone would agree to postponing the effective date of the proposed 5 percent national sales tax if opposition parties would end a boycott of the Diet, or parliament, that has stalled budget deliberations.

Government leaders hope to use the budget to stimulate the domestic economy, a move that could ease current trade friction with the United States.

Nakasone had earlier vowed to implement the sales tax "at all costs" as part of an overall tax reform package designed to overhaul the nation's outdated taxation system.

Opposition parties have paralyzed parliament, however, with the boycott in protest of the plan, which has also generated widespread public protest.

The government and spokesmen for Nakasone's ruling Liberal Democratic Party did not comment on the reports.

U.S. Tourists In Vietnam

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI) — Three hundred Vietnam veterans will spend the 20th anniversary of the 1968 Tet attacks touring the former war zone under an arrangement announced between Hanoi officials and a former U.S. Marine.

Greg Kane, who served in the Marine Corps in the late 1960s but did not see Vietnam service himself, said Hanoi had also tentatively agreed to more tours of Vietnam and that 800 Americans, at least half of them veterans, have already expressed an interest.

"I got an agreement to bring in as many tourists as I can on a regular basis," Kane said Thursday.

Kane arranged the tours after visiting Vietnam with 15 other Americans the past two weeks as head of the New York Indochina Consultant Group.

"The purpose of the tours is not to be a 'war re-visit' but to introduce a Vietnam they (U.S. veterans) never knew," he said. "Most veterans know very little about Vietnam since many spent time in a very defined area."

Soviet-Israel Exchange Queried

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The Soviet Union's denial that it plans an exchange of consular delegations with Israel is more like "a disorganized smile rather than an organized 'nyet,'" Foreign Minister Shimon Peres said.

Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennadi Gerasimov said a Soviet team of "modest consular officials" will visit Israel to check on Soviet property but that no exchange Israeli trip to Moscow will be allowed.

"We told them, 'We will receive your delegation, and we assume that you will receive ours,'" Peres said.

A Hook-Billed Bird In A Gilded Cage

Life With A Feathered Conversationalist

Story And Photos
By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

If the alliance is closing in on you... If you're a lonely heart in need of affection, some say there's no need to resort to the personal classified ads.

You just need a hook-bill bird in a gilded cage.

The cage doesn't really have to be gilded, but if you do get a parakeet, a parrot, an Amazon parrot, a cockatiel or a cockatoo, it's a 50-50 chance that you're getting a bird that may be trained not only to show affection, but one which can also mimic your every word. The mimicking can develop to such a degree that some, such as bird fancier John Halecki, say the bird really comprehends what it's saying.

Others, like Sanford's Nancy Engebretsen, whose son Marshall Diamond has owned cockatiel "Jo Jo" since 1961, said some of these birds don't know when to shut up. They can usually be "gagged" with a cover over the cage.

But, there's no telling when Jo Jo might start singing along with a television commercial.

"He's real smart. Males are the ones that talk. I've never heard a female talk," Mrs. Engebretsen said.

Halecki said, "Any hook-bill bird is capable of talking, but you have to take the time to work with them."

When Jo Jo does talk he's likely to express that "Jo Jo's pretty." "He's very conceited," Mrs. Engebretsen said. He's also likely to declare he's "Marshall's Jo Jo," or "My Jo Jo."

White-feathered Jo Jo is a sloppy eater, who's likely to throw seeds from his cage. Other than that, he's no trouble and kind of nice to have around, Mrs. Engebretsen said.

...Bird

Halecki said he once had a bird with a 20 phrase vocabulary. "He'd pretty much tell me what he thought, except I never taught him profanity."

Linda Donahay said her four-month-old umbrella cockatoo, Gi Gi, is very nice to have around. "She's a real affectionate bird. She's not like some of the other parrots. She's known more for affection than for talking. She's a great pet," Mrs. Donahay said of her feathered friend, which can fan out its snowy white feathers to create an umbrella-like effect over its head.

"She's very, very tame. She's very quiet, not like a lot of parrots," Mrs. Donahay said.

These hook-bill talkers are parrots of various feather, and the ones called "parrots or Amazon parrots," look the part of the green squawkers favored by pirates of old.

Parakeets are small and slender with long graduated tails. They generally cost about $10 and are recommended by bird breeder Halecki as a good first bird. Cockatiels, which are small, crested and white or gray with a yellow head, also make good pets for the novice birdhandler.

The biggest mistake bird buyers make? "They try to buy too big of a bird the first time. You should start out with a small bird. A lot of people go out and buy a big macaw (among the largest and showiest of parrots, imported from South and Central America). They spend $1,500 and keep it a month and they're ready to get rid of it because it makes too much noise and too big a mess," Halecki said.

People who make that mistake, he said, usually sell the bird back to a dealer and suffer a great financial loss.

Mrs. Donahay had smaller birds before she made the commitment to Gi Gi, who is a $600 bird. When the family is at home, Gi Gi flies free in the home and then spends the night in a cage. She travels with the family, riding on the back of a seat of their van. And when it's time for a clean up, Mrs. Donahay said, "We take a little bit of baby shampoo and rub it down on her wings and then we spray her with a water bottle and she cleans herself up. She really likes that."

Gi Gi is a picky eater who likes to stick to vitamin fortified bird food. "We offer her fresh fruit and vegetables, but she doesn't eat too much," Mrs. Donahay said.

Instead of lining his birds' cages with newspaper, Halecki said he puts crushed corncobs in the cages, which, depending on the size of the bird, have to be cleaned maybe once or twice a week. "It's more absorbent and easy to change," he said.

Halecki, who imports many birds from their native lands of Australia, South and Central America and Africa, also rears the hatchlings of his own birds. He has to hand-feed those babies.

The imported birds are held in U.S. Customs quarantine for a least 30 days to help weed out sick birds which might suffer from parasites or from a digestive ailment or an eye infection, which can be transmitted to humans, he said.

But for the most part, birds are healthy, hardy animals with long life spans.

If you have a macaw, which can live up to 125 years, "you'd better expect to put it in your will," Halecki said.

These birds are susceptible to pneumonia and should be kept out of drafts as well as out of direct sunlight. Other than those precautions, Halecki said, birds are easy to care for and he thinks they are "the best pets."

"You don't have to get up with them in the night. You don't have to take them out for a walk." Besides that many can talk, and except of a few that need additional training and attention, most in the parrot family are friendly birds, he said.

His five-month-old Amazon parrot, which is valued at about $600, might live about 55 years, he said. He pointed out that that bird, which sits outside its cage but doesn't fly away, has light gray eyes, which will turn a bright orange at about age one year. The eye color, he said, is one way you can distinguish a baby bird from an adult, but it is sometimes difficult to determine the age of an adult bird, unless you know its history, he said.

The bottom line in determining if a feathered friend is for you, Halecki said, is a basic love of animals. But his advice is, "Start out small to make sure you enjoy it. It's like having a dog, you have to be able to take care of it and you have to want to take care of it."

And if you decide that's the case and start out with a small parakeet, you will have a pet that you might keep though out its expected 12 year lifespan. Or you might decide to trade up for a bigger bird, he said.

'St. Elsewhere's' Stephen Furst Plays Well-Rounded Roles

By Frank Sanello

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — By his own description, Stephen Furst, the much abused Dr. Elliot Axelrod on NBC-TV's "St. Elsewhere," is used to being chubby.

"I've been chubby all my life — well, at least since my father owned an ice cream store, and I became the official taster," says Furst, who was born and raised in a small town in Virginia.

Ice cream may have been his first love, but theater became his passion. As a young man, Furst didn't round out his social life by dating and never contemplated marriage. The actor says "I wanted to devote my life to the theater. Marriage wasn't in my game plan."

Ironically, he met his wife, Lorraine, while working on a play 11 years ago. Furst was directing a regional production of "Equus," when his future wife auditioned. Furst recalls, "It was the role of a girl who took off her clothes. As soon as she took her clothes off, I knew I wanted to spend the rest of my life with this woman." Deviously, although other women auditioned, he only asked Lorraine to remove her clothes.

They have two sons, Nathan, 8, and Griffith, 5. The children keep their father on his toes "intellectually."

"You know, you can read all the books you want on parenting, but they don't prepare you for some of the questions they ask," Furst says.

His 8-year-old asked him if flies know the Furst family's names. Dad replied, "If they've been in the house long enough, maybe they've heard our names." But he was stumped when his son asked, "Is fire hard or soft?"

Furst, who describes his "St. Elsewhere" character, Dr. Axelrod, as "a soft kind of a guy," admits that his co-stars also keep him on his toes. It's hard to stay one step ahead of his good friend Howie Mandell, a notorious practical joker. Once while Furst and his family were on vacation, Mandell put his friend's house up for sale. "When I came home, there was a Century 21 sign outside," sighs Furst. "Fortunately, he had priced the house too high for the neighborhood, and it didn't sell."

Another time, Mandell smeared a foul-smelling chemical on Furst's doctors gown, and then told the rest of the cast to "get a whiff of Stephen!" And after Furst appeared on "The Tonight Show," Mandell arranged for his co-star to receive a phone call from a celebrity impersonator pretending to be Johnny Carson with an invitation for Furst to play in a celebrity shuffleboard tournament. Furst confesses he fell for the impostor.

The 31-year-old actor can laugh off the practical jokes, but he has had some practical concerns on the set of the critically acclaimed show about eccentric doctors at St. Eligius, a dilapidated Boston hospital. In too many scripts, Dr. Axelrod's colleagues would make nasty cracks about the physician's weight problem.

Dad Is Obvious But Who's Doug Jr.'s Mother

Dear Dick: Your items with nostalgic value appeal to me, I guess because I'm 77 years old. Who was Douglas Fairbanks Jr.'s mother? Mary Pickford was only 16 when he was born, so chances are it was someone else, but I've never heard her name mentioned. Could you tell me something about this woman and her relationship with D.F. Sr.? — N.A.K., Amarillo, Texas.

Dear N.A.K.: Her name was Anna Beth Sully. She was the daughter of a wealthy cotton executive, who made Doug Sr. give up acting for the business world when he married his daughter. Neither the marriage nor the business career lasted very long.

Dear Dick: Could you please tell me if Roy Orbison, the country singer, is blind. My brother-in-law says he is but I don't think so. I have a large bet on this. — J.R., Seneca, Mo.

Dear J.R.: I now declare you wealthy beyond reason. You win, because Orbison is not blind. He does wear sunglasses as part of his stage image, which has given rise to rumors of blindness. But he sees as well as you or I.

Dear Dick: My friend and I would like to know if you have to be experienced to be on TV. How old do you have to be? My friend and I are both 12 and we would like to be on TV or we would like to be singers. — L.D., Oakwood, Texas.

Dear L.D.: If a TV show has a part for a 12-year-old, they probably will hire somebody who is 12. So there is room for people of all ages. As for experience, naturally they want somebody who can do the job. Generally, that means somebody who has done some acting before. The best advice is always to start locally — in your school plays, little theater groups, church plays, on your local radio or TV station — and get experience that way.

Dear Dick: I say that Christie Brinkley's father is Telly Savalas. It seems to me I read that a few years ago. Am I right or wrong? — P.L., Houston, Texas.

Dear P.L.: Very wrong. She is the daughter of producer Don Brinkley.

Dear Dick: There's a $50 bet riding on this one. Can you please tell me where James Garner of "Maverick" and "The Rockford Files" went to high school? — M.N., Amarillo, Texas.

Dear M.N.: Garner grew up and went through school — grade and high — in Norman, Okla.

Dear Dick: A little while back, my mother and I watched the TV movie, "Blood Vows: The Story Of a Mafia Wife," with Joe Penny and Melissa Gilbert. We both loved the music played throughout the movie. The theme was a duet. Can you please tell us the name of the song, who sang it and the publisher? — M.C., Portage, Mich.

Dear M.C.: I got a curious story from NBC about that. They were able to tell me that the song was sung by Vesta Williams and Gary Taylor. But apparently there is some kind of controversy over who is publishing it. And they say the song has no title, which seems odd.
